GLES AT CANYON ON FRIDAY The Hereford High football eleven battle is over.

Splendid rains fell over the Plains country last Friday morning and during the day Friday which amounted to a total of about one inch and was of a slow, soaking character that meant thousands of dollars to the owners of the big wheat acreage now in. Slightly over a half inch fell during the early morning hours Friday and the remainder came in a slow drizzle during the day succeeding.

The rain could hardly have been placed better had it been ordered and will simply make the wheat with one more rain in the spring. Since Friday the weather has reverted back to the crisp, sunshiny, snappy brand that puts California to shame, and there was little indication at time of going to press that there would ever be any other kind in this vicinity.

wuth a dern,—O, there ain't no honest money that is any keener missed, than the dollar that it costs a man to head the sucker

When a feller gets to dreamin' of the life on easy street, he'll buck the game that promises to put him on his feet. . . The "dotted lime" in front of him—the pencil in his fist,—the bait is easy swallered, so, he heads the sucker list!

I've done a heap of prayin' that the time would come to pass, when brains would stop the idiot from blowin' out the gas.—But I've wondered more here lately—if a well-directed fist to the point of ansesthesis—wouldn't end the sucker list?

They lay it on the good old stork—there may be nothin' in it—but they say the old bird brings around a sucker every minnit! I ain't believin' all I hear—I don't pretend to know, but jedgin' from the suckers caught, I half believe it's so!

worth while to establish a definition of government.

According to Aristotle, it is "first, to see that men shall live; second, to see that they shall live well."

That abbreviation of Aristotle's theory in A. E. Zimmern's admirable essay on Greek politics is as good a definition as any.

To see, first, that men live, they are supplied with what they need, and are not killed by their enemies; and, second, to see that they live well, in comfort, free from worry:

Mr. Rea, because he reaches the age of seventy, retires from the presidency of the Pennsylvania Railroad to make room for a younger man. At seventy a man should be at his best, and Mr. Rea undoubtedly is at his best mentally, and therefore at the most efficient period of his life. For men that live wisely and think as they live, the most efficient years of life should come between seventy and eighty.

Alvin Owsley, former National Comnander of the American Legion, was he guest of honor and the principal roator at the Austin Armistice Day celebration. When the parade was formed to march up Congress Avenue to be seen by some fifteen thousand citizens, Owsley did not put on a silk hat and ride in an open carriage as he might have done, but took his place on foot at the head of the long parade and marched proudly with the rest of the boys who had seen service. To this writer, Owsley's democratic simplicity as merely one of the great number of marchers, when he might have used the occasion for his self-aggrandizement was the outstanding feature of the parade. RECORD DISASTER YEAR KEPT RED CROSS BUSY

In 192 Places in United States Its Relief Operations Cost $737,603.

One hundred and ninety-two disas-ters resulting in 735 deaths and injury to 1,933 persons, rendering nearly 44,000 homeless and causing property losses estimated at more than $44,750, United States in the year ended last June 30, according to reports of the American Red Cross. In all of these disasters immediately relief activity was applied by the Red Cross, which expended $737,603.37 through the na tional organization and the local Chapters in assisting stricken com-

As the nation's chief relief agency, whose service covers over 43 years, the Red Cross is expected to be of duty almost as soon as disaster strikes any locality. This trust and confidence is amply justified by the increasing equipment of the Red Gross, which recently organized a mobile disaster unit of experienced workers ready in all parts of the country to respond on the instant to a call for active duty. This unit is capable of operating in several disaster areas under one general direction, and reties in five states at the same time.

Ability, alertness and increasing skill of volunteer workers in more than 3,500 Chapters are reasons for the preparedness of Red Cross for disaster operations, be the call for a disturbance in a restricted local area or for millions in relief funds for a staggering catastrophe such as the earthquake in Japan. The Red Cross, however, is from being self-satisfied, for the organisation is giving the most serious consideration to measures for preventing disasters. Its relief adminishave won for it nation-wide That this important work can always measure up to every demand needs the continued support of the Amer-ican people through Red Cross membership. something about Wisconsin. We were also glad to get the products. Now our teacher wants us to write you a letter about Texas. Now there are so many things to say about our State that I scarcely know where to begin. I know that you will be interested in learning something about the great ranches with thousands of sheep, goats and cattle, and also about the great wheat and cotton farms. We plant the wheat in the fall and the cotton in the spring. Then we take it to the gin in wagons. They gin it and make great bales of cotton. When the cotton is ginned the seeds are taken out, and they are all most as large as a grain of corn and dark gray color. The seeds are ground in a mill, and are made into cotton eed meal, and the juice made into cotton seed oil. The cotton seed meal s of great value as a cattle food.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT CCLDS AND THE FLU

To break up a cold over night short an attack of grippe, influenza or sore throat, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the nauscaless Calomel tablet, that is purified from dangerous and sickening effects. Those who have tried it say that it acts like magic, by far more effective and certain than the old style calomel, heretofore recommended by physicians.

One or two Calotabs at bed time with a swallow of water,-that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with eating, work or pleasures. Next morning your cold has vanished and your system feels refreshed and purified. Calotabare sold only in original sealed packages, price ten cents for the vest-nocket size; thirty-five cents for the large family package. Recommended and guaranteed by druggists. Your money back if you are not delighted.—adv.
