MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we eat, sleep, stress and strain, our muscles, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backaches, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting the right kind of vitamins may result in minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions. If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often subside on their own, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

CHEMICAL INJECTIONS AID MICE

Navy Experiments Point Way To Atom Radiation Protection

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Navy has high hopes that research with a colony of pink-eyed mice may point the way to giving man some protection against atomic radiation. Navy scientists report they already have achieved some such protection in mice by injecting a complex chemical into the animals before exposing them to radiation. But they emphasized that it is "very, very doubtful" that this particular chemical would be applicable to man. The immediate importance of the research, they said, is that it suggests that protection may be possible in men as well as mice. The big job now is to determine exactly how the chemical used on the mice produced its beneficial effect. Once that is determined, it may then be possible to utilize other substances that would be applicable to man, or to modify the mouse-protector in such a way that it could be used in man. The chemical is called "glutathione." It is made up of three of the amino acids which help build protein. The substance occurs naturally in a mouse's or a man's tissues. But the Navy scientists injected much more than is normally present in a mouse's tissues. The need for extremely high doses is one reason why the scientists do not believe this chemical would be applicable to man. Besides the protective effect noted, the researchers at the Naval Medical Research Institute found that: 1. Survivors among the animals pre-treated with the chemical lost less weight and recovered weight more rapidly than did mice who had received none of the chemical prior to exposure to radiation. 2. Glutathione-treated survivors, when later exposed to mechanical injury, stood up under it better than did non-treated "control" animals. These latter two findings, the scientists said, suggest that the chemical may have a favorable influence on the recovery of mice suffering from "radiation illness." But they added that tests must be made on large numbers of animals, before definite conclusions can be drawn. The mice used in the experiments are Swiss albinos. They have pink eyes, but that has nothing to do with sensitivity to radiation, or the lack of it. Swiss albinos just happen to be good laboratory mice. The mice were exposed to radiation in this way: They were placed in cages around a giant X-ray machine at the Navy's ordnance laboratory which is co-operating with the Medical Research Institute. The machine produces rays having 2 million volts. The system is such that the scientists can expose up to 1,000 mice at a time to X-ray doses lasting anywhere from 30 to 60 minutes. In one study involving 800 mice, 400 were pre-treated with the chemical; 400 others were either given no pre-treatment or just received injections of salt solution. Among those treated with glutathione, 63.8 per cent survived potentially lethal doses of X-ray, whereas only 43 per cent of the others survived. In another study, 60 per cent of a glutathione-treated colony survived a dosage which ordinarily only 20 per cent of them would have survived. In still another, the chemical afforded protection to some mice even though the X-ray intensity was such that mice had never previously survived it. L. M. Kruse, whom authorities stated was involved in a domestic scrap, was fined $1 and costs on a charge of disturbance by Justice of Peace Oren Leonard Tuesday.

Garrison To Send Rangers to Laredo

AUSTIN, March 29. (AP)—Company D of the Texas Rangers will be sent to Laredo Friday, Public Safety Director Homer Garrison Jr., announced Wednesday. The Ranger company is headed by Capt. Alfred Allee of Carrizo Springs. The Rangers were requested by both sides in a political ferment in the border city Garrison said. He said the Rangers would remain in the city until it appeared they were no longer needed. State said had been asked in keeping order in the April 4 city election. Garrison announced assignment of Company D after a conference today with Capt. Allee, who spent yesterday in Laredo. The number of Rangers assigned was not revealed.

BUTTE, Mont., (AP)—A dog's life is going to get complicated here soon if Mayor Thomas R. Morgan can find another dogcatcher. Butte has only one now. He works at night—and is badly outnumbered by the pooches even when he's on duty. But when he's home asleep in the daytime, says Morgan, many householders who keep their pets shut up at night allow them to run loose in the daytime hours.

Sharks Interfere With Fisherman

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Local fishermen have had one of the poorest seasons in years. And recently their troubles have been doubled by huge basking sharks which move in close to shore and interfere with dragnet operations. William Adler, president of Farallone Fisheries reports that some of the big fellows six to seven ton whoppers as long as 25 feet have ripped holes in and sea bass nets. Adler says, "but they are no earthly use."

Drouth Making New Inroads In Texas

AUSTIN, March 30. (AP)—Drouth dug its dry fingers deeper in the farm and ranch lands of Texas last week. Fair progress was made on corn and sorghum planting, but soil moisture was insufficient for germination in most central and northern counties. Some corn was up to a stand in South Texas, but lack of moisture was retarding growth. East Texas and the upper coastal country east of Houston were exceptions to the gloomy crop picture. Corn and cotton planting made good progress there, with soil moisture sufficient for germination. Development of green feed was at a standstill in all areas excepting East Texas. Rain was needed urgently in High Plains, Trans-Pecos and extreme southern counties to start new feed. Dry range feed was getting short in some of those areas. Settling dust in high and low plains further retarded tastiness of dry feed for livestock. Rust in irrigated oat pastures in southwestern counties was cutting the grazing season short. Livestock, with some feeding, were just above holding their own in the critically dry areas, the USDA said.

Children Saved By Baby-Sitter

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (AP)—A teen-age baby sitter was acclaimed a heroine by firemen last night for saving four small children as fire quickly destroyed their home. Norma Lee Cook, 13, a seventh grader, listed tears as she told about how four-year old Leland Ray Tate started the blaze in another room while playing with matches. The flames leveled the four-room frame house of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tate, causing $2,000 damage. "I got them all out but they don't have any clothes or furniture left," Norma choked out. "I can't face their mother or father. I did all I could do." Norma tended Anna Paulette, 6, Leland Ray, Loretta, 3, and Paul Jr., 12 months while their parents were attending a movie. "Suddenly Leland Ray rushed in and said the house was on fire," she continued. "I didn't pay much attention. He grabbed me again and said again 'the house is on fire.'" She put the baby in a chair, walked into the adjoining room and saw a clothes closet blazing. She made two trips to get the children to safety as the flames shot through the roof. Firemen could do little to save the structure. Leland Ray said he picked up the matches left on the table walked into the closet and struck one while Norma Lee was reading.

The pension and time on your hands aren't all there is to your problem. You'd better make sure: 1. That the dollar income you're counting on will be enough, if further inflation should whittle more value off the purchasing power of your savings, and 2. That your days won't be cut short by what doctors call "retirement sock," the inability of LOS ANGELES. (AP)—What is the key problem facing the private enterprise system? "There are no clear channels for workers' opinions to reach the top bosses. For each dribble of genuine worker opinion that reaches the top there is a cataract which does not." This is the conclusion of Dr. Robert N. McMurray, Chicago industrial psychologist, after studying a national survey of 180,000 employees and 19,000 employers. # Soviet Aim In Building Navy Is Control Of Mediterranean.

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—Why are the Russians building up a big Navy, as many reliable reports show they are doing? To invade the United States? No, say some extremely well informed officials.

A landing on the U. S. Coast has a low priority in the Russian military scheme, these men say, although it's probably featured in the final chapter of their military book.

Foremost in the Soviets' strategic plan, they say, is control of the Mediterranean and all the shores of that sea. With that they could protect the southern flank of a Red Army sweeping west across Europe. They could supply that Army.

They could nullify or greatly diminish the effect of present plans of the western democracies to build up a defense core centered in Africa.

Another reason Russia wants a strong navy, say the officials, is that it has learned a lot from the experiences of the Germans.

The Germans learned that any nation that means to seize Europe and hold it also must take Great Britain, lest it once again become the stepping stone for American forces sweeping to Europe's rescue. This calls for a strong fleet to conquer or starve out the British.

The Germans never attempted the invasion of Britain because their navy wasn't adequate to protect their transports. Both Marshal Rundstedt and Gen. Jodl revealed this after the war.

There's one other great lesson the Germans taught: That even a numerically inferior navy can exert great strategic influence. The British and Americans had to maintain strong elements of sea power in the North Sea area for years lest the tough little German navy some day sail out and pounce on their vital transport lines.

The Russians are said to have doubled their shipbuilding capacity since 1940.

Adm. Forrest Sherman, chief of naval operations, declared in a recent speech that within the past year they have added to their fleet new high-speed, heavily armed cruisers and many destroyers. He said they are "good ships." Russia now has 14 battle cruisers, compared to our 12.

Jane's "Fighting Ships," authoritative manual of the world's navies, reported in December that the Russians were building three ultra-modern battleships, equipped to fire radio-controlled rockets and aerial torpedoes. Two more may now be in the yards.

The Russians plan to complete 750 to 1,000 submarines by 1951 according to Jane's, which says they now have 300, many with long range and high underwater speed. Latest types were developed from the German super-submarines which were ready in the last days of the war.

Meanwhile, other significant developments have occurred:

1. In January one of the foremost engineers and organizers in Soviet industry, Vlaschslav A. Malsher, was appointed minister of shipbuilding, both naval and merchant marine.

2. In February the Russians demilitarized their armed forces, creating a separate ministry of the navy. Moscow observers guessed this might have been a reward to the navy for completing its 1946-1950 five-year plan.

3. Last October the Soviet government announced the opening of a two-year naval officer academy in Leningrad.

What kind of navy do the Russians now have? A weak one, compared even to our active fleet. Although stronger in submarines they have fewer vessels in nearly all other categories.

If you add the U. S. reserve fleet, this country has several times the naval strength of the Russians. Furthermore, there seems no indication that the Russians have any aircraft-carriers unless they recently have converted other ships. American naval men consider carriers the backbone of a fleet. So far as they are concerned the Russian Navy, except for its submarines, is not a present threat—only something to be guarded against.

Can the Soviets build a navy to compare with that of the U.S.? One competent observer says it is not unlikely that as long as the Russians maintain their present controlled economy, including conscripted labor, they some day might very well surpass the U. S. in all elements of their armed forces.

The Russians seem to be good sailors. When they returned 27 lend-lease frigates naval officers found them filthy but were astonished at their excellent mechanical condition.

What are Russia's strategic naval areas?

The Turkish straits will become increasingly important, giving its big Black Sea fleet access to the Mediterranean. It will be eyeing jealously the control of the straits of Tushima, between Korea and Japan, where U. S. forces are stationed. It needs these straits in winter for the passage of its Pa-ctic fleet, blocked from the north by ice.

A vital and vulnerable route is the new canal connecting the Baltic and White Seas. It used Lakes Ladoga and Onega and follows natural waterways in between. It enables Russia to send vessels from the Baltic over a new route through the Arctic Ocean to the Pacific during the three months when the Northern Sea is not ice-locked. But it is within bombing range of air bases in the Scandinavian countries.

Russia's naval bases are on the Black Sea, White Sea, Barents Sea, Arctic Ocean, Pacific Ocean and Yellow Sea. It acquired the base at Port Arthur, in Manchuria, from the Chinese.

Army intelligence sources say it is building bases at German ports along the Baltic. It got a base on the Finnish coast after the war with Finland. Refugees from Albania say it is building a powerful submarine base on the rocky island of Sasevo, off Albania, in the Adriatic Sea.

Broiled Steak, Thick And Juicy, Is Both Delicious And Appropriate

How about a steak—a thick one marbled with fat, succulent brown on the outside, red to pink on the inside and as tender as a young girl's heart. It is agreed there is nothing more delicious or more appropriate for a special party.

Broil the steak tonight. Just light your broiler at least 10 minutes before you plan to use it. Grease the rack with a little fat so the meat won't stick and place the steak three inches from the flame. Turn it only once when half done. If you are not certain just how things are going, make a little slit and peek. That's against the law of course, but it saves a lot of disappointment.

When broiled to your heart's desire, swing to a hot platter. Carve around the bone, lift out the bone, press meat together and slice across the grain from edge to edge. This method gives everyone some of the tenderness.

For a inch and a half thick steak, allow about nine minutes per side if you want it rare, 10 minutes for medium and 12 for well done. For a two-inch steak allow about 16 minutes on each side for rare, 18 minutes for medium and 20 minutes for well done.

The steak may be seasoned before broiling—at least an hour before time the steak is taken from the refrigerator. Meat should be at room temperature for broiling. Freshly ground black pepper and garlic salt is one form of benediction. Another is black pepper and hickory salt or just plain pepper and salt.

How much steak for each person? There are many answers, depending on the amount of bone, the degree of the appetite and need to admit the family purse. However, for an all-out steak party allow a pound per person and have two inches thick. Porterhouse and T-bone are the top-hat members of the beefsteak set, but sirloin is way out in front, too. In fact, many steakmaniacs prefer it.

Be sure your steak knives are razor-edged. Have a large bowl of green salad waiting for its dressing and French bread. Exhibit your steak, well seasoned, on a small table. When your guests arrive, let them ogle it. Nothing starts a party off so well.

Your sauce can be just plain butter, or chopped fresh chives and butter, or you might try this: rub the platter well with a cut clove of garlic, sprinkle with a little dry mustard, a dash of cayenne, salt and freshly ground pepper. Dot platter liberally with butter, then place platter in oven a few minutes until butter melts. Plunk your broiled steak right on top of this nectar.

Swiss Steak
Delicious, but not as costly as a T-bone, is richly broiled, tender Swiss steak touched with a tangy tomato sauce.

Many persons automatically ask for a round steak for preparing a Swiss steak; however, the arm steak from the beef chuck is often a less demanded cut and a more thrifty buy. Both cuts of meat produce the same savory results.

When purchasing either steak, have it cut from 1 to 1 1/4 inches thick for plenty of good eating. Also ask your meat dealer to pound the steak to make it more tender. Then when you are ready to cook the meat all you need do is pound it ready for the frying pan.

Slow broiling is one of the most important steps in cooking Swiss steak or any braised meat. When slowly broiled the rich color not only stays on, but the flavor of the meat is best brought out.

After the meat is broiled, add liquid in the form of tomato juice, tomato pulp or water. At this same time, add sliced onions or the tiny pearl onions. Spanish steak varies from Swiss steak in that green pepper rings are combined with the tomatoes and onions.

With the liquid and vegetables inside, the pan is tightly covered and the meat allowed to cook slowly with the liquid just simmering. For 1 to 1 1/4 inch steaks, cook the meat around 1 1/2 hours.

Swiss steak calls for fluffy mashed potatoes and a vegetable such as a buttered broccoli. Crisp shredded cabbage dotted with slivers of pineapple makes a tempting salad. The delicious steak gravy intermingled with onion is especially delightful when served with rye bread.

Swiss Steak
2 pounds chuck steak cut 1 inch thick
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Lard or bacon drippings
3 onions, sliced
2 cups tomatoes
Pound seasoned flour into steak. Brown in hot lard or drippings. Place onions on meat and add tomatoes. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until tender.

Or, for a real budget dish using steak, serve with spaghetti. A little meat and a lot of spaghetti, put together with tomato sauce are an old-time favorite as popular as a hamburger. The blandness of spaghetti makes it a natural partner for rich flavored protein foods as well as highly-seasoned sauces.

Savory Steak and Spaghetti
1 pound round steak, 1 1/4 inches thick
1/2 cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons fat
1 cup canned tomatoes
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/4 cups condensed tomato soup
1 1/4 cups water
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
4 ounces spaghetti
French fried onion rings, if desired.

Cut steak in strips 1 inch wide. Mix flour, salt and pepper. Thoroughly pound into steak. Melt fat in skillet, add meat and brown on all sides. Add tomatoes, tomato soup and water. Cover and simmer until tender, about 32 minutes. Drain and rinse. Arrange spaghetti on hot platter. Arrange steak slices on top of spaghetti. Pour steak sauce over spaghetti. Garnish with onion rings, if desired.

Finger steaks in wine sauce are so delicious that they taste like a chef's prize specialty.

Finger Steaks in Wine Sauce
1 pound flank or round steak
1 cup burgundy or claret wine
1 clove garlic
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons fat
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Cut steak into thin slivers or strips. Place in bowl with wine, garlic, salt, sugar and pepper.

Cover and let stand in cold place several hours or overnight. Drain meat, reserving liquid. Remove garlic. Melt fat in frying pan over moderate heat. Add meat and brown. Add onion and continue cooking five minutes, stirring occasionally. Add tomato sauce and kitchen bouquet. Combine and add cornstarch and liquid drained from meat. Cook, stirring constantly, until the sauce thickens and boils. Serve with hot cooked egg noodles.

Country Fried
That popular, old-time dish known as "Country fried steak" is actually a braised round steak as it is usually cooked. It is cut about 1/4-inch thick and is floured, seasoned and browned on both sides in a small amount of fat; then covered and cooked slowly until tender. Then the cover may be removed from the pan and the cooking continued until the steak is crisp on the outside.

It is easy to remove the small round bone from a round steak, if it is present. Then the steak lends itself perfectly for shaping into one small roll; or it may be cut in individual servings and made into small rolls.

For rolled stuffed round steak, a savory bread dressing is spread on the steak and it is rolled like a jelly roll and tied with string or fastened with skewers. Another suggestion is to cut four grooves across the steak and fill them with a special seasoning mixture (salt and pepper, celery salt, spices). Then the steak is rolled and tied in the same way. A rolled steak is braised by exactly the same method as a steak that has not been rolled.

When the steak is cut in individual servings and each piece is rolled around a spoonful of stuffing the dish is known as beef birds. For a variation, instead of the stuffing, the rolls may be filled with diced bacon and chopped onions which have been lightly browned. These individual rolls make attractive meat servings with a wonderful flavor.

Easiest way to make soft bread cubes is to stack two or three slices of bread on a board and with a sharp knife, using a sawing motion, cut the sliced bread into strips of desired width. Cut again in opposite direction to form cubes of even size.

When you deep-fat fry foods allow the hot fat to cool before straining and storing it. This way it will be easier and safer to handle. A good way to strain the fat is to put a few folds of cheesecloth in a sieve and pour the fat through it into a container that can be covered tightly.

Texans Come To Aid Of Lockhart Farmer Stripped Of Bank Account

DALLAS, March 30, (AP)—Three hundred dollars already have been subscribed for William Hagedorn, Lockhart farmer, whose bank account was taken to settle a damage suit, the Dallas News said today.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Alexander of Austin got judgment against the 77-year-old farmer who cannot read or write English because of damages they suffered when they had to swerve their car off the highway and into a ditch one night to avoid a mule.

Hagedorn proved it was not his mule, the News said, but the Supreme Court ruled he must pay because he didn't use due diligence in protecting his legal rights.

At Lockhart, Hagedorn's bank account of $2,532.50 was paid out yesterday in settlement of the damages.

The Dallas News said after it ran a series of articles Texans all

It's Possible To Survive A-Bomb Attack

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON, March 30, (AP)—Your chances of living through an atomic bomb attack could be a lot better than you think.

You might come through it alive and unharmed—if there are shelters and if you get a warning in time to dive into one.

The Atomic Energy Commission says this:

"Safety will, in large measure, depend upon adequate warning of an attack, warning which it must be assumed will come from the radar system of the national military establishment. Such warning when combined with shelters for those who must stay in threatened areas, will minimize, or even eliminate casualties."

But before you start bubbling with optimism, there is this to consider:

The Defense Department is working on that radar network, plus a system of volunteer spotters to fill in the gaps. But only a start has been made. Furthermore, nobody has done much about shelters.

And there is no use trying to hide the fact that if you are caught in an unprotected spot anywhere near an atomic explosion your chances of surviving are just about zero. You would be killed by the blast, terrific heat, collapsing buildings, or maybe radiation.

Yet any sort of protection, even clothing, is better than none. The best spot is an airtight shelter covered by plenty of earth, steel or concrete.

You ought to stay out of buildings, unless they have built-in shelters. The AEC says if building isn't safe within three miles of a likely target.

But the basement of your home would give you reasonable protection against a distant explosion, provided you had a way to get out if the house caught fire.

Maybe you have an idea that the rays from an atomic blast are what do most of the killing and injury. That seems to be wrong. Japan, only 15 out of 100 deaths apparently were due to radiation. Blasts and burns were the big killers.

That is because the effects of blast and heat reach out much farther than those of radiation.

The Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombs spread destruction and ser-

MANY JUNKS SUNK Nationalists Rout Chinese Red Fleets

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 30, (AP)—Chinese Nationalists said Wed their warships routed two fleets of nearly 100 well-armed Communist junk boats south of Shanghai, sinking most of them.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek issued a fiery denunciation of international communism. In his second speech in two days, the Nationalist president called upon China's youth "to assume a holy mission of crushing the Communist traitors, driving out the Russian aggressors, restoring the Chinese republic and resuming our compatriots on the mainland."

Nationalist warplanes hunted down remnants of the crack Red troops who invaded Hainan Island Monday. The Nationalists said Tuesday they shattered an invasion force of more than 4,000.

Semi-official dispatches said Nationalist warships engaged more than 70 heavily armed Red junk boats at Nanhai, 22 miles southeast of Shanghai. Nationalist gunfire reportedly silenced several batteries and sank most of the junks.

Later in the day the warships sighted more than 30 Communist junks farther south and in a running battle sank 17, the dispatches said.

Air headquarters said Nationalist planes spotted two groups of more than 200 men each who had fought inland from the Hainan Island beaches. The planes attacked. A third and smaller group fought back with anti-aircraft fire.

Remnants of the Red invading force could be seeking to join Communist guerrillas.

The Nationalists said their landing one week ago at Chientao, 150 miles south of Shanghai in Chekiang Province, was made to deliver ammunition, medical supplies and communications equipment to guerrillas.

Officials Helping Israeli Tourists

TEL AVIV, Israel, (AP)—The Israeli government is trying something new to make things easier for tourists. Customs officials are being dispatched to various ports abroad to board all big liners bound for Israeli ports with hundreds of tourists.

They check over the passports during a Mediterranean cruise. They tell passengers just what they can bring into the country, assess any necessary customs duties and hand over Israeli pounds in exchange for American or other foreign currency. The Israelis have found this system of making part of the voyage with incoming tourists relieves congestion.

90-Year-Old Veteran Knows His Rights

DENVER, (AP)—Ex-Navy man Ambrose Ramsey, who this year turned a spry 90, decided to take advantage of privilege extended former servicemen and go into business for himself. He showed up at the federal land office here to ask about a certain parcel of land near Alkali and Colo.

"Plan to build me a filling station over there," said Ramsey. Then he dug into a travel-worn suitcase and hauled out a document stating that the Navy issued an honorable discharge in 1917 to "Third Class Boy Ramsey." It also produced a tintype picture of himself as a youngster in uniform.

But the land board had disappointing news—the parcel he has an eye on is reserved by the reclamation bureau. Ramsey said he's try something else.

The authority for Hollywood's preeminence as the home of the best-known people in the land is a nation-wide survey conducted by Schenley Distributors, Inc. Invents Pump That Catches Sardines

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP)—H. J. Kimerle invented a machine that pumps sardines from the sea. The fish are normally caught in nets. The Los Angeles inventor says he tested the device aboard a purse seiner and that it picked up sardines at the rate of from 5 to 200 tons an hour.

Kimerle's unit consists of a vacuum pump hooked to an eight inch hose with a 10-inch tunnel entrance. The tunnel is dropped into a closed packed school. The fish are sucked up and discharge in a conveyor belt which carries them to the hold. The inventor hopes his system will be adopted by the local sardine fleet.

New Colorado City Church Building Occupied Sunday

COLORADO CITY, March 30—In spite of what old-timers here termed "The worst sand storm in ten years," 450 members of the First Methodist Sunday school were present when the church formally marched into and occupied its new $90,000 educational building.

In the afternoon of the all-day celebration a 50-mile-an-hour wind and choking dust all over the horizon, 250 guests attended an open house party when the new building, filled with flowers, was shown to visitors.

Receiving the guests were the pastor, the Rev. J. E. Shewbert, members of the building committee, George Witten, Jess Craddock, McCall Merritt, and Roy Davis Coles; chairman of the board of stewards, J. W. Randle; chairman of the board of trustees John A. Worrell, Sr.; church school superintendent, J. D. Norman; church school secretary Miss Nelda Garrett; president of the Woman's Society for Christian Service, Mrs. J. G. Merritt; Wesleyan Guild officer Mrs. J. W. Hill; church secretary, Mrs. R. E. HALEY IS THRILLED BY TRIP

New York's Bronxville Is Big Contrast To Texas' Palo Duro

By J. EVETTS HALEY
BRONXVILLE, N. Y. It is a long drive of some 2,150 miles by the southern route from the head of the Palo Duro in Texas to the wooded hills of Bronxville in New York. Yet, for the panorama of vast space and the suggestion of the almost infinite variety of land and life of this country, the trip is worth the time and trouble even for those who, like the writer, have little hankering for travel.

From the rich but parched wheatlands of the High Plains, our road cut directly across Oklahoma by its longest axis to enter Arkansas at Fort Smith. A hundred years ago this interesting outpost was a noted point of departure for emigrants and expeditions into Texas and was later distinguished by a rugged frontier judge who liberally hung the culprits who came his way, and thereby cultivated a commendable respect for law and order among those who were left.

Our route looped a little south to join the main flow of travel from Texas at Little Rock and then cut on the bias through the rich but water-logged lowlands of eastern Arkansas inundated fields and houses sitting like dead ducks in vast expanses of flood water. The impression that the familiar drouth of West Texas may not be altogether an unmixed disaster. In their inordinate haste to cover the world in hours Texans grow weary of the contortions of concrete that compose the highways of Tennessee. But every region must reckon with its own terrain, and the twisted hills that fashioned the warriors of this state into such sturdy battlers for the freedom of Texas were not designed for the far-sweep of the eye and the furious flow of traffic like the open plains.

In its impression of stability, grace and serenity the State of Virginia is the cream of the crop. Obviously, the people who carved out beautiful but usually modest estates out of these hills stopped here to stay, rather than to sell out and move with the first boom. Settled ways, cultivated taste and strong tradition—those qualities so disparaged by the liberal fringe in league with the Communists—have, in spite of the colossal changes of this industrial age, branded these people as a breed apart. It shows in their friendly faces, in implicit in their well-poised ways, and, in spite of continued assaults from without, is still solidly reflected in their politics.

Those who are bound to hurry keep to the road in the valley, through rolling pastures of growing grain covered with herds of cattle—for southern Virginia is notable for the production of fine beef. Two institutions in Lexington compel any American appreciative of the vast influence they have exerted on the South to turn aside in homage.

Upon a long hill the tall chaste columns of Washington and Lee are constant reminders to those clean-cut, cultivated young men—walking bareheaded through their old but unmarred portals—of the sterling character of the two honored and accomplished men who served their state and country with unlimited devotion when they were needed most. On this campus, there is still emphasis on honor, restraint and decorum as concomitants of civilized living.

Farther along this ridge by the same road one comes to the wide, sloping, grass-grown parade, flanked by the severe, fortress-like structures of the Virginia Military Institute. For generations her brisk young men have left their marks of tactical training and selfless devotion upon our armies in time of war, while after the civil conflict, especially in Texas, her engineers surveyed and mapped much of our unoccupied lands. As we passed here precise corps dressed in sober gray and scarlet capes, were moving in competitive maneuver through a cutting wind suggestive of that war-like vigilance upon which our lives and freedom so often depend.

The road continued up the striking Shenandoah Valley before turning east at Winchester, home of a student of the economy of nature, Senator Byrd—to carry the confused citizen into the one hand some capital city upon the banks of the Potomac. The rare genius displayed in design by L'Enfant, the great French architect in laying out this city has been desecrated by the raft of mausoleum-like structures with which we have littered its once gracious expanses to house our cancerous growth of political bureaus.

The feeling of pride with which every sensitive American should visit this center of national life is now seared by the sober realization that this is mushrooming pile of marble is steadily spreading at the expense of the life-blood of our free economy. But for a reverent change, nothing can profane the atmosphere of well-ordered living of innate good taste, and of great character that impresses and absorbs him as he walks through the grounds and the home of George Washington, and at last catches his breath at the marvelous frontal expanse of Mount Vernon upon the wide Potomac. In the heart of a fervent American there is absolutely nothing to match it.

The tremendous traffic of Washington radiates from its bureaucratic center by well-planned thoroughfares, and the traveler northeast soon finds himself threading his way through the sober-sided streets that characterize the city of Baltimore. He ferries the Delaware in order to by-pass the heavy flow of people in Philadelphia, and by the wide drives of the Pulaski Highway rushes with the tide past Wilmington—the industrial phenomenon built by the able DuPont dynasty—and at last approaches the Hudson through Newark.

Here the converging waves of traffic sucked us into the maw of the Holland Tunnel, and belched us forth on Manhattan's west side. With what little gumption we had left we circled with the herd that split off from the stampede to the left, and pointed upstream with the leaders, hemmed in on one side by the appalling city and on the other by the mighty Hudson. The early, unseasonable warmth of the current winter had given way to bitter cold, and the magnificent breadth of the stream was choked with great cakes of floating ice.

At the stop gates we paid the toll that supports the course for hard position" but that his answer would be yes.

Dougherty told the court that Texas, in good faith, had by legislative act extended her boundaries over many miles and had taken jurisdiction over drilling operations in the absence of any federal action.

The two states want a jury or a special master to hear the case. The government wants the Supreme Court to decide the issue on the basis of brief filed with the court.

The possibility that Texas might win a jury trial was so strongly indicated in questioning by the Supreme Court justices that U. S. Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman shouted:

"It is not necessary to take testimony. You just don't do that. It would not only give Texas unequal footing with other states. It would adopt a new rule of procedure for this court."

The justices seemed particularly interested in Texas' historical claim to the land off its shores. Texas contends that when it joined the union, Congress let it keep all its public lands and that these lands include the offshore areas. These now have been proved rich in oil.

Texas was represented Tuesday by Attorney General Price Daniel and his assistant, J. Chrys Dougherty.

They pointed out that Texas' position is different from that of California. The Supreme Court some time ago ruled that the federal government had paramount rights to California's tidelands.

Justice Black asked Daniel if, in the effect the court applies the California decision generally, Texas would contend that she stands alone in retaining title to submerged lands.

Daniel said "that puts us in a this roaring, rip-tide of traffic, and without ever leaving the sprawling growth that makes one continuous city, passed fifteen miles northwest and came to stop in the borough of Bronxville. Less than a month before we had gotten acquainted with this unusual place when, as a part of a delegation from Hereford, Texas, we flew into LaGuardia Field with a bull yearling, bottled water and ebullient spirits to help dedicate New York's finest steak restaurant—the Hereford House—the new addition to Bronxville's old, fashionable and friendly Hotel Gramatan.

Bronxville is a square mile city adjoined by other municipalities of Westchester County, and tied into New York by continuous towns served by fast-and-frequent suburban trains that disgorge swarms of commuters at Grand Central Station every few minutes. As perhaps the wealthiest community in the United States, its wooded hills are covered with the fine but unostentatious homes of seven thousand people—many of which are more modest than those recently built by West Texas ranchmen and Panhandle wheat farmers. Likewise it is a place of professional distinction, as some 175 of its citizens, so it claims with moderate pride, are listed in Who's Who in America.

Rambling about in casual mission style on the crest of its highest hill is the Hotel Gramatan, and in a space chiseled out of the solid rock and connected by elevators with the street level six floors below, is the small but handsome dining room built at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars and dedicated to the best in beef—the Hereford House.

It may seem strange that this should be my stopping place. But on our previous visit we learned that proper exposure to decorum and dignity is not altogether detrimental to Texans. Besides, in its spacious, quiet and unhurried environs, it is suggestive of the old Menger in San Antonio. It is the sort of place where you meet people who make you glad that you have traveled, and, more important still, make you want to stay. And at last in the name and the quality of its dining room, it faintly suggests the ranges of Texas, and pre-eminently proper breeding in the way of cows.

TEXAS PLEADS CASE
Tidelands Wrangle May Get Jury Trial

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Texas and Louisiana may get the chance to present their tidelands cases to a jury or a special master.

This was indicated Tuesday as Texas pleaded its case before the Supreme Court. Louisiana had presented its case the previous day. The court did not hand down a decision immediately.

The two states want a jury or a special master to hear the case. The government wants the Supreme Court to decide the issue on the basis of brief filed with the court.

The possibility that Texas might win a jury trial was so strongly indicated in questioning by the Supreme Court justices that U. S. Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman shouted:

All Top Wreckers Obligated To Utilize Gluteal Muscles

By SAUL PETT AP Writer

NEW YORK, March 30 — You don't get ahead in the wrecking business, or live long, without strategic use of the gluteal muscles.

Let's say you're up on a bare, narrow wall, 10 stories from the ground. You've got your back to the street and you're hammering away at the bricks under you.

At the moment of the impact you thrust back the barriers. That keeps your balance.

Since nothing is simple in New York, wrecking here has become a highly complicated business. Also dangerous. There's little elbow room, rarely a next-door lot to dump a building.

"The man with the most dangerous job is the bar man, the fellow who loosens the bricks under him with a bar or air gun or hammer.

Several years ago Walsh's boys were wrecking a 10-story job in Brooklyn. What they didn't know was that the floors had been weakened by a remodeling job.

One day Walsh's men were on the top wall dropping debris onto the 10th floor. Suddenly the floor collapsed.

Walsh's firm has handled some of the biggest wrecking jobs in New York. Among them the demolition work for the Tudor City apartments and half of the site of Rockefeller Center in 1931.

Rites were in charge of the Rev. A. Wade, assisted by the Rev. A. C. Durrant and the Rev. R. L. Bowman.

The big jobs, Walsh says, are the easiest. There's more room. His most difficult assignment was the recent demolition of the 77-year-old Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas.

Generally, there are two ways of wrecking a building. In one, you knock down big sections by swinging a huge iron ball weighing up to two tons.

Some of the big stones were in the steeple and the steeple was 30 stories high. "Everything in the steeple," Walsh recalls, "seemed to be leaning out over Fifth Avenue, over all those people and cars."

Most of the nave was torn down first. That took one and a half months. It took six weeks to get the scaffolding up around the steeple.

Walsh's firm has had "many small accidents" but only one fatality. That occurred in the wrecking of the old New York Athletic Club in 1929.

Although he personally supervises Alden Rites held at Garden City

GARDEN CITY, March 30—Services were conducted here Monday afternoon for Ben Alden, 75.

Alden came to Garden City first in 1909 when he joined the Baptist church. He worked in and around Big Spring for several years and around Big Spring, returning to his home with the Ronnel McDaniels family.

Incumbents who are not candidates are H. A. Haynes, Henry Hilliger, P. R. Stroud, W. E. Hughes. Members of the board whose terms do not expire are John Bedner, Glenn Riley.

es at his job, Walsh himself was hurt only once. It wasn't much, he insists.

"A derrick tipped over and crashed into a temporary wooden bridge about a foot from where I was standing. Crushed a couple of fingers, that's all."

Wreckers are commonly supposed to find many interesting items in the buildings they wreck. Walsh has had only one such case but that was a lulu.

There were a sitting room, bedroom and bath. The sitting room was a reproduction of a room in a Chinese Imperial Palace, all done in sandalwood. It even had a false window with rain drops painted on it.

Boxes will be open at Garden City and Lees until 7 p.m. Mrs. V. Roberts will be judge at Garden City and Mrs. W. R. Hobbs at Lees.

Candidates are A. W. White and Lynn Gandy of Lees, E. L. Powell west Galscock, and D. J. Cotter, north Galscock.

A Bible Thought For Today -

Only a bad conscience can make death fearful. Death is normally a kind release from a lower to a higher state. It is painless tho it may be preceded by great pain. "The terrors of death are fallen upon me."—Pa. 55:4.

Justice Is A Lot More Important Than The Sanctity Of Regulations

People who have been following a series of articles in the Dallas News concerning the case of "Old Man" Hagedorn have noted how rules can prevail over equity. The series has been developed frankly with a slanted angle to convey to the public the danger of such a condition. William Hagedorn was being deprived of his life's savings in order to satisfy in part a court judgment that was unjustly imposed.

mule and damages of $3,100 imposed. At a subsequent trial, it was developed, under oath, that the mule did not belong to Hagedorn. But the case went up to the court of appeals and finally to the Supreme Court with the result that a majority of the court held that the original trial judgment should stand. Two justices dissented, holding that equity (fairness) was more important than rules. The majority, admitting Hagedorn was being unjustly injured, held that the rules must be followed. In short, the high court held to a technicality which unfairly cost the old man his life's savings.

Don't Sweep Too Cleanly, It May Get Worse Before It Gets Better

A wide area of the country had dust-storm troubles over the week-end, notably in the Midwest and in the Panhandle-Plains region of Texas. No relief from this sort of thing can be expected until wide and copious rains visit the drought-parched regions involved. As usual, Texas furnished the temperature extremes. It was 106 in Cotulla, La Salle county, Sunday. About 700 miles away to the northwest, at Dalhart, it was a sub-freezing 27 above early Monday—a spread of 79 degrees. But this is not so extraordinary, considering the distance involved; roughly, it is as far from Dalhart to Cotulla as from Chicago to Birmingham, Ala. And there are straight-line distances in Texas at least 300 miles greater than that.

area involved. But the fact remains that the current wartime needs brought into cultivation great areas of submarginal lands that never should have been broken by the plow. High-priced wheat, in particular, served to bring this sub-marginal land into cultivation. Whenever conditions are ripe, it is doubtful if all the ingenuity and patience of man can abate the dust nuisance. He may be able to minimize the damage, but not eliminate it. The lack of cover crops (drought) can have dire consequences.

McCarthy Delivers His Charges From Behind Immunity Shield

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Senator McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, has pinned the label "Communist" or "pro-Communist" on a number of people. Some of them already have bitterly denied his accusations. And some have told of threats against their lives by angry people who believed McCarthy's charges. This question may have occurred to you: "If McCarthy's charges turn out to be untrue, can't these accused people sue him for damages? Or can a member of Congress say anything he pleases about anyone and get away with it?"

"I will not say anything on the Senate floor which I will not say off the Senate floor. On the day when I take advantage of the security we have on the Senate floor, on that day I will resign from the Senate." McCarthy has made no charges—with one notable exception to be explained in a moment—where he was not clearly protected by congressional immunity.

That's Because He's Protected

by a thing called "congressional immunity." Every member of Congress is protected by that immunity. Which means: No member of Congress can be jailed or sued for anything he says about anyone so long as he says it on the floor of either House or Senate or before a committee of Congress. This immunity from suit or punishment of members of Congress is written into the Constitution. The idea behind that is this: To give members of Congress the greatest possible freedom in debating public questions or taking part in congressional hearings or investigations.

AND TUESDAY HALDOR HANSON of the State Department—McCarthy said Hanson wants to "communize the world"—challenged McCarthy to make the same accusation in some place where he can't protect himself from a damage suit by congressional immunity. Now it remains to be seen whether McCarthy will accept Hanson's challenge. The one notable exception mentioned above—that is, the one instance where there's a question whether McCarthy was protected by congressional immunity—came about this way:

Senator Lucas of Illinois, Leader of the Senate Democrats, got up and urged McCarthy, since he was protected by congressional immunity, to name names.

"That's all I want the senator to do," Lucas said, challenging McCarthy to lay before the Senate all the information he claimed he had. McCarthy answered:

Mule, Camel Steaks On Israeli Market

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—The Israeli diet is skimpy and monotonously features frozen fish as the main entrée—but even that's better than horse, mule or camel steaks. Zvi Lehman, an official of the inspection department of the ministry of supply and rationing, says that's what Israelis often get when they buy "meat" in the black market. Israel law permits meat to be sold in rationed and strictly limited quantities three days weekly. But for many Israelis, even though a black marketeer is hard to find in this country, they still prefer trying to get some of the "meat" he offers for sale.

Johnson Fails To Give A merican People Clear Picture Of Air Force's Condition

WASHINGTON — The U. S. defense picture is so complicated that it's difficult even for congressmen who sit on Army-Navy appropriations committees to understand whether the United States is in danger of slicing its defenses too thin. However, here are some facts which senators may want to study in connection with Gen. Eisenhower's views on national defense. 1. Secretary Louis Johnson has done a good job of cutting civilian personnel, political shipyarders, old Indian forts, and other military "fat." Congressmen squawk loudly when local shipyards and military posts are curtailed, but Johnson has had the courage to cut anyway.

each group has been authorized 20 tankers, though they have only 15. Moreover, the B-29s are fast becoming obsolete and are supposed to be replaced with B-50s. However, only one of the nine groups has actually been replaced with B-50's so far. In addition to the B-29s, the Finletter report recommended 700 "very heavy" bombers. This referred to the prospective B-36, which at that time had not been tried and tested. "Only by using the very best equipment and the latest techniques will so small a force be able to carry effective war to the enemy," said the Finletter report, referring to the "very heavy" bombers. Yet today the Air Force has only two groups of B-36's or slightly more than 60. One hundred and sixty more have been ordered. This, however, is a long way from the 700 "very heavy" bombers recommended in the Finletter report.

Deceptive Figures

It should be recalled of course, that it was President Truman, not Secretary Johnson, who flouted the congressional vote that the Air Force should be 70-group strong. Johnson wanted 44 groups, but Truman cut to 48. But perhaps because of super-loyalty to his chief, Johnson has not been frank with the nation regarding the real status of our air strength. Here is a case in point. One of Johnson's most important statements on U. S. air strength was given to the press on Feb. 24 for release. Johnson explained to newsmen — at 7 p. m., Feb. 25, in order to give his friend, Arthur Krock, time to break the story in the New York Times. In this statement, the secretary of defense claimed that Air Force personnel had now surpassed the figure of 401,000 men set for it in the Finletter report—the study made by Tom Finletter and other experts as to what our air strength should be. When you scrutinize Johnson's statement carefully, however, you arrive at somewhat different facts. While it is true that Air Force personnel now totals 415,000 men, the Finletter figure of 401,000 men provided that ground services—repairs, upkeep of airfields, hangars, etc.—be done by the Army. Now the Air Force must furnish its own ground services, hence it needs more manpower. TOO FEW B-36's Johnson also told newsmen that the B-29 bomb groups had been doubled, thus giving the impression that the Air Force now has as many planes with 48 groups as it would have with 70 of the smaller groups. In other words, B-29 groups used to have 30 planes. Now, Johnson said, they have 60. But the Secretary of Defense didn't give the whole story. He didn't explain, for instance, that 15 of the extra planes with each group of 60 are tankers. They fly along for refueling purposes, have no combat value. Furthermore

Public Needs Facts

Johnson also claims that under his economy program the Air Force will have 8,800 planes; with 1,252 more new planes in the fiscal year 1950, and another 1,383 new planes in the following year. But what the secretary of defense didn't explain was that these figures include trainers, transports and all other types. Actually the Air Force today has only 3,400 first-line planes. This is the hard, inescapable fact. Under the 70-group Air Force, on the other hand, as recommended by the Finletter report, it should have 8,869 first-

'Truth Or Consequences' Man Is Doing It Again

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Ralph Edwards is celebrating 10 years of squirting seltzer water in the nation's face. Just a decade ago, a bright young radio announcer went on the air in New York with a show called "Truth or Consequences." The gimmick was that the contestant suffered dire results if he failed to answer a question correctly. The truth element "went by the window eight years ago," Edwards admits. But the consequences have kept the show in the top ratings and its operator in a top income bracket. The professional prank-puller had to think up a whopper for his 10th anniversary. So this Saturday Edwards takes his show to the resort town of Hot Springs, N. Mex. Sounds fantastic, but this guy is capable of anything. Among the "T. Or C." stunts: Sending a seal as a contestant for the honor of swimming The English Channel. Filling New York's Town Hall to hear the violin concert of Yiffuff, who turned out to be a housewife contestant who had never touched a violin. Racing a man on a pogo stick from the Los Angeles international airport to city hall against another person who had to fly around the world first. (The pogo stick man won.)

Old Settlers Picnic Of Boyhood Always Was Memorable Affair

Among the most cherished of my childhood memories are the Old Settlers picnics which were held in Grayson county on the Red River, back in the pre-atomic age when life had not yet grown complicated. I myself was an Oklahoman, but my grandmother and uncle were Grayson county pioneers, and we visited back and forth across the river until I came to look upon Texas as another home state. Even today, I have a host of relatives in Texas, and I long since gave up trying to keep track of them. I know all my first cousins by name, but when it comes to second and third cousins, I leave the field to the genealogists. Nowadays, it is only rarely that I see one of my Texas relatives, but when I was a small boy and attended an Old Settlers picnic near Denison or Sherman, I was pretty sure to meet a hundred people who were related to me by blood or marriage. Such a gathering really was several huge family reunions grouped together, and it was a peculiarly Southern institution, the direct descendant of the plantation house party in the halcyon days before the War Between the States. An Old Settlers picnic gripped my imagination as powerfully as did the circus. It was a lengthy affair, beginning at the peep of day and lasting until midnight or later, depending on the weather. For the comparatively isolated farm and ranch people who attended, it was easily the big social event of the year, and it meant almost as much to their more sophisticated kinfolk from the city. Dinner was spread upon long, sweet-smelling pine tables under the trees. Barbecued beef and pork formed the piece de resistance, and along with the savory meat you might have found any dish you desired in a region famous for its cookery. The feasting went on for hours, and left everyone in a more or less torpid condition, especially the children. It was not until late afternoon that the picnic showed signs of returning life, but then a dozen games, including baseball, were started, and the clearing rang with shouts, glees and screams. The older men and women, disdaining the frivolity of the younger generation, stood and sat about in groups, gossiping or discussing crops and politics. The district Congressman, very smartly attired and conscious of his own importance, bustled about from knot to knot mending his political fences, and kissing every pretty girl who came within arms' reach. No sooner was it dusk than oil lanterns were lighted and hung from the limbs of trees. A wooden stand had been erected at one end of the clearing, and decorated with American flags and gay bunting. The notables took their places in cane chairs upon this stand, and the Congressman made a speech. He was a true son of the South, with a burning hatred for the Republican party, and in the fountain of his oratorical fireworks the great dead of the Lost Cause rose from their graves and stalked spectrally among the spellbound listeners. Following the Congressman, a handful of Confederate veterans came forward one by one and told stories of the War Between the States, or sang old battle songs. I remember in particular an aged man who gave us "Old Joe Hooker, Won't You Come Out of the Wilderness?" in a high, thin, quavering voice which reached only those in the immediate vicinity. There was more on the program, but at this point I generally fell asleep, to be awakened hours later by my uncle shaking me vigorously and telling me it was time to go home. Ah! those were the days.—R. G. MAC-READY.

Political Strife Shaping Up Over Sen. McCarthy's Charges

WASHINGTON—At the very end of his testimony before the Tydings committee, J. Edgar Hoover strongly intimated that FBI files contain no proof of Senator McCarthy's spy charges against Owen Lattimore. External evidence that this is so had appeared over the weekend in the Democrats' belated attacks on Senator McCarthy and their championship of Secretary of State Acheson. Senators now confide that a general Democratic offensive along these lines can be expected. Contributory to the closing of administration ranks is the fact that Mrs. Lattimore was able to obtain the services of the law firm of Arnold, Fortas and Porter. Thurman Arnold is a former New Deal assistant attorney general, Abe Fortas was solicitor of the Interior Department under Harold Ickes, and Paul Porter has held many government posts and was publicity director of the Democratic National Committee in the 1948 campaign. The chance exists to the end that Senator McCarthy may bring in a long shot which will blanket his errors. Right now, the affair is headed strictly toward the political arena. Senator McCarthy either thinks so too or possibly has not read his Emily Post lately. He arranged to have Senator Hickenlooper read a letter apologizing to the FBI director for failing to attend the McGrath-Hoover hearing but conspicuously omitted to mention that he regretted also the impoliteness to the attorney general. For the purpose of protecting the FBI files, the Truman attorney general and the fair-haired boy of Truman's adversaries in Congress, Mr. Hoover, were a closed corporation. Both argued strongly from precedent and conviction that the great principle of a citizen's right to a confidential relation with his government is involved. Senator Hickenlooper tried hard to make it appear that their refusal to open the files reflected upon senators. The wifeness ducked. Actually, as Thomas Jefferson said of judges, senators are as honest as most men and not more so. What they cannot be trusted to do because it is to their interest not to do it is to keep political secrets. Fortunately for the public they are in the habit of revealing these. Those who cover the present hearings, as of now, place the McCarthy case in the political category. The attorney general is the President's lawyer. The President can, of course, overrule him. All that McGrath will now say is that he told the President his intention to testify as he did and got the green light. McGrath did not surprise anyone; his present attitudes reflect precisely the high level of his career as a senator. It is unusual, however, for Hoover to deny Congress anything—and vice versa. (Congress has just raised his pay to $20,000 a year, putting him in the cabinet and Supreme Court brackets.) But Hoover has just hung up a record of 25 years of service during which time he has won a shining place in public esteem for the FBI. It is a tremendous achievement for what is essentially a secret police. The FBI director must be aware that the country is sensitive to the FBI's great powers. He testified, in fact, that some citizens now are refusing to help lest their comments be made public. If Hoover is concerned for his agency's reputation and his own place in history, he could hardly be criticized for it.

Enforced Bachelor Doesn't Run Home, He Only Runs It Down

NEW YORK, (AP)—HOW DO YOU TURN off a milkman? There must be a way, but in 13 days, two hours and 12 minutes I haven't figured out how to do it. It has been exactly that long since my wife left me on a three-week visit to relatives in Texas. "It's the first time you've had the apartment all to yourself in 10 years," said Frances. "Have fun, you poor thing." The last thing I remember her saying was, "you don't have to worry about the milkman. Just tell him to stop delivery." I have — about 12 times, including once when I took some checkers and spelled out in the doorway: "No Milk." "It hasn't worked. Nothing's worked. I even started delivering it back to him each night, but each morning there were just two bottles instead of one. I SUPPOSE HE FINDS IT IMPOSSIBLE to turn off his cows and is just passing his problem on to me. I've been relaying it to the refrigerator, but it's full now. So am I—Grade A and pasteurized up to my ears. It's a funny thing about milk. You can't even give it away. If you go up to a strange mother with two bottles in your hands and say, "Please, lady, take this milk," she starts backing off. She thinks you have a delusion you're Napoleon playing supermarket. The worst thing about my ever-flowing milkman is that when Frances comes home and looks in the refrigerator, she'll say, "Well, Rover, couldn't you at least tell the man to stop delivering milk?" And she'll tell him once to stop, and he'll stop. He'll probably even settle by taking four bottles back. SUCH IS THE AUTHORITY OF WIVES, and the futility of husbands. As a matter of fact everything about my periodic enforced bachelorhood has convinced me that a man can't really run a home by himself. He can only run it down. As soon as a wife leaves, the place starts falling apart at the seams. Pants get out of press, shirts won't go to the laundry, light bulbs go out while you're reading the evening newspaper, rain comes in the window and runs onto the rug, you run out of razor blades, your shoestrings break and suspender buttons pop off like mad. And of the 14 million men in the last war I suppose I was the only one who never learned to sew on a button. I always thought that was for first lieutenants. THE MOST SHATTERING BLOW TO my pride has been my experience in the kitchen. If there was one thing I could do as a boy scout it was to whip up a batch of bacon and eggs. But what has happened to eggs over the year? Every one I put in the pan ended up looking like an oyster on top and a mess of clinders on the bottom. Of course, I could hard boil them, but there's a water shortage on and I don't want the neighbors going around whispering I'm un-patriotic. Wives are habit forming, but there's no better habit for a fellow with 10 thumbs. I'll be glad when mine gets back.

OPEN HOUSE IS HELD

Throngs Visit Big Spring C-C Offices To 'Get Acquainted'

Several hundred persons were expected to have visited the chamber of commerce office today during the open-house program being held in connection with "Get Acquainted Week."

More than 100 had been shown through the chamber at noon, seeing the organization in action as well as receiving refreshments which were being served by women members and wives of directors.

A. Swartz, new chamber president, and members of the board of directors were on hand to welcome visitors and escort them through the office. They explained the organization's 1950 program of work and carried out the "get-acquainted" theme of the open-house by introducing guests to one another and to chamber officers.

More than a score of women assisted in serving coffee and cake to visitors. Five tables, decorated by the Big Spring Garden club under the direction of Mrs. Obie Bristow, were set up in the office for dispensing refreshments. All guests were registered and given copies of the 1950 work program.

Directors pointed out water, housing, roads and highways, office and business space, and aid to industry as the principal objectives of the organization for the next year. They also explained the chamber's program for participating in all civic affairs.

The open-house program at the chamber of commerce is to be followed tonight by a street dance and get-together to be held at 7 p. m.

A portion of Main street just east of the courthouse was to be roped off for the square dance program. The public is invited to attend and take part in the dance and "get-acquainted" program, which is being sponsored by the chamber of commerce.

Music for the square dancers is to be furnished by H. M. Hubbard and his band. A number of callers are to be present.

Among those assisting in serving visitors at the chamber office today were Mrs. H. P. Wooton, Mrs. Roy Cornelison, Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, Mrs. Omer Elliott, Mrs. G. H. Hayward, Mrs. Otis Grifa, Mrs. J. Y. Robb, Mrs. Jim Zack, Mrs. Truman Jones, Mrs. George Mims, Mrs. E. C. Dodd, Mrs. W. T. Alexander, Mrs. Fritz Wehner, Mrs. Ted Phillips, Mrs. Matt Harrington, Mrs. Bill Cox, Mrs. Jack Cook, Mrs. Morris Patterson, Mrs. Doug Orme, Mrs. Joe Pickle, Mrs. D. W. Lewter, Mrs. H. W. High Schoolers Of Area Invited To Attend Dance At HCJC Friday

Students in all high schools within a 50-mile radius of Big Spring have been invited to attend the Western dance to be held at Howard county junior college Friday night, feature of Pioneer Week which started on the HCJC campus today.

The dance is to be held at the college gym starting at 8 p. m.

It will follow two days of Pioneer Week activity on the HCJC campus.

The annual Pioneer Week program is to start tonight with square dance and box supper to be held in the school cafeteria. The top Cowboy and Cowgirl are to be named at the affair.

Friday's program includes, in addition to the western dance, a presentation by the HCJC speech department under the direction of J. V. Bishop. A hayride, starting at 7:30 p. m. is to highlight the Saturday portion of the program.

Free refreshments will be served at all three evening programs.

A few changes were made in the rules governing the Pioneer Week program this year. Beard growing and make-up are optional, but students are required to wear western dress during school and Pioneer Week functions. No one will be allowed to smoke "tailored" cigarettes.

Kangaroo court sessions are to be held during the daily assembly period of the week and fines have been fixed at 50 cents for violating any of the regulations.

Jimmie Jennings is serving as Pioneer Week sheriff while Bill Sewell is prosecuting attorney. Judge is Gordon Madison.

Music for the Western dance tomorrow night is to be furnished by the Sons of the Desert. The affair has been publicized by Dan Conley and members of the HCJC Barbershop quartet which has visited a number of high schools in this area during the week, extending invitations to attend.

A. J. Cain, president of the student body, accompanied the group. Members of the quartet are L. B. Lees, Carl McDonald, Louis Lovelass, and Howard Swanson.

Federal Aid For Myny Is Slated

The House of Representatives committee on appropriations has approved a bill carrying provisions for Federal aid in rehabilitation of the airport control tower at Municipal airport, according to information received here from Rep. George Mahon, a member of the committee.

The bill provides a total expenditure of $10,000 at the Big Spring airport, Mahon said. Of the total, $5,000 would be contributed by the Federal government and the remainder by the city.

City officials knew nothing of the proposed appropriation. City Manager H. W. Whitney said this morning. He indicated the city had made no request for aid and had not been notified that the grant was under study.

Mahon said he expects the bill to pass the House of Representatives within the next week. He thought there would be little doubt that the House and Senate would take "favorable" action on the measure.

If given final approval, the work could be done during the fiscal year beginning July 1, he said.

N. Y. C. Price War Raging On Electrical Appliances

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—The electric toaster I like," said the woman shopper. "The price I don't."
With finality she added: "At a discount house I can get it cheaper down the street."
"Now wait, lady," said the salesman. "For you I'll make a special price on the electric toaster."
"How much you get off down the street? Twenty per cent you say? All right, lady, I'll tell you what I'll do. To you the price is twenty per cent off. Take it away. We meet all competition."
That's what is happening in New York right now. There's a price war raging on electrical appliances.
They call it a price war in a test tube. It was started with deliberateness. And it has been kept on a small scale.
Everybody in the entire retail business is watching it closely.
It is generally realized in the trade that the outcome of the test in New York City might have a resounding effect in the 45 states with fair trade laws on their books. Only Missouri, Vermont, Texas and the District of Columbia are without state fair trade laws.
In the main these laws permit a manufacturer to set the retail sales price and force retailers to sell at that price.
The theory behind the law is that a manufacturer's good-will and trade-mark are damaged by price cutting.
Infractions are frequent and repeated in large shopping centers such as New York. Here the so-called discount houses sell nationally advertised products at substantial discounts below fair trade prices. They do it by enrolling customers as members of buying clubs and through other devices.

That makes it tough for the big department stores. Their little competitors undersell them. That hurts. But they are particularly vulnerable because of their size and reputation if they themselves cut fair trade prices.
R. H. Macy & Co., the nation's largest department store, a few weeks ago suddenly lowered fair trade prices on a long list of electrical appliances. They so informed the manufacturers. Other major department stores immediately followed suit.
Macy's stock statement is, "no comment."
But Macy's long has been a foe of fair trade, and Macy officials are outspoken against it.
Those in the retail business say department stores got tired losing business to the discount houses. Consequently they met the competition and in effect told manufacturers to force the discount houses into line or abandon fair trade altogether.
None of the department stores advertised the price cuts. Some didn't even change the price tag but would cut when the customer demanded it. Some cut and then restored the fair trade price only to cut some other item. So far only small electrical appliances have been cut.

General Electric Co.'s appliance and merchandise department in Bridgeport, Conn., this week notified all of its New York metropolitan dealers in hand-delivered letters that "we intend to enforce the maintenance of the minimum retail prices established under the fair trade agreements."
The Rival Manufacturing Co. of Kansas City, Mo., halted shipments of its electric irons to New York until it can "work out a definite legal course of action."
The National Retail Dry Goods Association in a bulletin to its members called the Macy action "a dramatic challenge to a situation grown intolerable." The association added: "Macy's item bomb was an explosion of which the full consequences will only gradually become apparent."

Borger Seeking Juvenile Officer As 'Non-Virgin' Club Is Reported

BORGER, March 30. (AP)—Reports of a "non-virgin" club among Borger's teen-agers have parents and residents looking for a juvenile officer.
More than 100 aroused citizens met last night and named businessman Roy Kauch with eight others as a committee to investigate hiring a city-county juvenile officer. Borger has not had a juvenile officer in about two years.
Attorney Walter Allen presided at the meeting. He said he believed reports of the club—described as requiring its members to have sexual intercourse at least once a week—are only rumors.
In a series of stories about the club last week the Borger News-Herald said its information did not consist of proved facts. But the paper said it has enough evidence to give some credence to reports of the club.
Yauch said there was no general discussion of a "non-virgin" club—but that was the basis of the meeting, and everybody knew it.
"It was in no sense a mass meeting of indignation or one attended by hysteria," Yauch said. "It was aimed to correct the situation."
Yauch said the committee wants to find out if a juvenile officer can be paid more than $200 a month. "We don't believe a competent officer can be hired for any $200 a month," he said. "And that's what the law now limits us to."

However, Yauch said a new law passed in 1949 by the state legislature gives officials of counties of certain population discretion in naming the juvenile officer's salary. "What we don't know is whether Hutchinson County has enough people to come under the law."
In its stories, the News-Herald said some officials believe the "non-virgin" club is masterminded by an adult. The paper said it believes the club consists of 20 to 25 high school boys and girls who have taken an oath to have intercourse at least once a week, and to be on call at any time. Members pair off at club meetings by drawing numbers. All members of the club are recruited by girls, some of them as young as 14.

Bank Snack Bar Turns Out To Be Going Concern

By The Associated Press
Here's a bank with a snack bar. Free coffee for customers and low-cost lunches for employees.
"We've had it 9 days," said George Harrison Turner, president of the Grand Prairie, State Bank. "It's working out fine."
Two entrances from the bank's lobby lead off to the snack bar, a gay room with rose and chartreuse walls and red, green, blue and yellow floors—with tables colored to match.
Every morning the bank's 30 employees decide what they want for lunch. Then Mary Lee Williams, Negro cook, goes out and buys the groceries. The employees and bank officials make up a daily "kitty" to pay only the actual cost of the food. Lunches run from 20 to 35 cents.
Sample 35-cent lunch: Baked ham, new potatoes, fresh green beans, lettuce and tomato salad, sweet relish, hot corn bread muffins and up-side-down cake.
Harrison, a stocky man with grey eyes and greying hair, installed the snack bar "because I think better understanding between employers and employees is the most essential thing in the business world today."
He added: "Good personnel relations is good business, for personnel turnovers cost money. Our rate of personnel turnover is very low—most of our employees have been with the bank many years. We want to keep them."
One night each month, the bank gives a dinner for employees in the snack bar—an informal affair but a mutual airing of suggestions and criticisms about the bank's business.
"When an employe has a suggestion or criticism," Turner told us, "I want to be the first to hear it."
During the day, employees are urged to have coffee and chat informally with customers and bank officials in the friendly snack bar.
"The bar is costing the bank about $300 per month," said Turner. "I can't think of a better investment. The other day I heard one of our young lady employes was planning to leave us to get married. I asked her if this were true."
"I was planning to get married," she admitted. "But I have changed my mind. I wouldn't trade our snack bar for any man on earth."

Just wash—wring out—hang up!

WOMEN EVERYWHERE say it's the best washday news ever! They love the time and trouble and water they save by skipping the rinsing! But most of all they love the way their clothes come dazzling clean. You already know how clean Tide gets clothes with rinsing—cleaner than any other washing product known. Now try the same wonderful Tide without rinsing, and compare the results. You'll be amazed to see how bright and clean your wash comes right from the wringer. Get Procter & Gamble's Tide today. Every package of Tide on your dealer's shelf right now will give you a dazzling clean wash without rinsing!

HERE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT WASHING WITHOUT RINSING

1. How can Tide get clothes clean without rinsing? Tide keeps the dirt suspended in the sudsy water. When you wring out the clothes, the dirt runs out with the washwater—clothes come from the wringer CLEAN, and dry as bacteria-free as rinsed clothes.
  2. Will clothes come white? Yes, clothes come dazzling white! Just see if you can possibly tell the difference between a rinsed, and an unrinsed Tide-washed shirt!
  3. How about ironing unrinsed clothes? When you use Tide without rinsing, clothes dry soft and fluffy... iron easily.
1. Is this method safe for fabrics? Yes, it is safe... skipping the rinsing and extra wringings actually saves wear and tear on clothes.

"I'M THROUGH WITH RINSING—THANKS TO TIDE!"
SAYS MRS. GLORIA GUY, DETROIT, MICH.

Negro Facing Assault Count

LANETT, Ala., March 30. (AP) — A Lanett Negro will be charged with assault with intent to murder, Sheriff J. M. Abney said, in the brutal mauling of two white women at their home near here.

The Negro, 26-year-old Jack Tucker, was taken into custody early yesterday after a 10-hour manhunt by 800 heavily armed white men.

Tucker insisted he had nothing to do with the beatings. "I ain't been in that white lady's house," he told police.

The maximum penalty for assault with intent to murder in Alabama is 20 years imprisonment.

The two women, Mrs. Ella Bardon, 66, and her daughter, Sara, 35, were beaten on the head with an electric iron. Both suffered fractured skulls. Police said the motive apparently was robbery.

The Barrows are members of a wealthy and prominent family here.

Armed Forces Day To Be Observed In City May 20

Veterans organizations, the local National Guard unit, Reserve Officers' organizations, and other military groups are being contacted in connection with the observance of Armed Forces Day here May 20.

Capt. Walter J. Alois, public relations officer for the Big Spring Army and Air Force Recruiting Main station, is asking various groups to participate in a unified program which will replace separate Army, Navy and Air Force Day celebrations. Local civic organizations and individuals will also be invited to take part in the day's program, he said.

May 20 was designated as Armed Forces Day by President Truman in a proclamation issued Feb. 22.

Details of the program to be held here have not been worked out, but will probably include a memorial service, display of flags, and other appropriate activities.

Neely Optimistic Over Grid Team

HOUSTON, March 30. (AP) — Coach Jess Neely of Rice is unusually optimistic over his team's chances in the 1950 football campaign.

The senior team that won the Southwest conference championship and won in the Cotton Bowl last season was swept virtually out by graduations but Neely says, after surveying his spring training, that the 1950 team will be "a lot better than expected."

"We've come along very nicely. We've had some pleasant surprises from boys we had not counted on very much, and I think we'll have a pretty good football team by September."

Rice will have a first string offense to compare with any team in the country. The first string defense will be better than average. The big problem is reserves, especially in the line. Of the 12 lettermen returning, seven are linemen. Of the five backs, two were regular starters last year.

JURY GETS CASE FRIDAY

Bridges Trial Goes Into Its Last Day

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30. (AP) — This is the final day for arguments in the Harry Bridges perjury trial.

By agreement between attorneys and the judge, the fate of the CIO Longshore leader and his two co-defendants is to go to the jury tomorrow, 86th day of the trial. Federal Judge George B. Harris will instruct the jury after the chief government prosecutor, F. Joseph Donohue, completes his summation today.

Donohue tossed aside his usual calm yesterday to unleash a bitter, angry denunciation of Bridges' attorney, Vincent Hallinan. He also took an occasional sarcastic side-swipe at Hallinan's associate, James Martin MacInnis, whom he called "junior."

Donohue said Hallinan had "put into the record calumny, hate, scurrility and vulgarisms such as have never before shocked the ears of an American jury."

Bridges' attorney, the prosecutor declared, is "not bound by any rule of decency." He accused the defense lawyers of trying to "goad and bait me into an indiscretion to bring about a mistrial and withdraw this case from the jury."

Bridges, whom the prosecution has declared flatly is a Communist, is accused of committing perjury when he swore at his 1949 citizenship hearing that he had never been a Communist. J. R. Robertson and Henry Schmidt, two union aides of Bridges, are charged with conspiracy. They are his supporting witnesses at the naturalization hearing.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 30. (AP) — It is becoming doubtful whether old reliable Tommy Henrich will be at first base for the New York Yankees when the season opens.

The rugged veteran proved last season that he recuperates quickly from ailments, but many of his teammates are wondering how long Henrich will be out this time with a bad left knee. It is taking plenty of time to respond to treatment.

Veto Demanded as Natural Gas Measure Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP) — A controversial natural gas bill, passed by the Senate after a stiff fight, today ran into a demand by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) for a presidential veto.

The measure was approved by the Senate late yesterday by a 44 to 38 vote. It would ban the federal government from regulating prices charged for natural gas by so-called independent producers.

Douglas apparently agreed with Senator Kerr (D-Okl) and other sponsors of the bill that there would be little difficulty getting House agreement on the measure. The House passed a similar bill last year.

Douglas argued, and Kerr denied, that the bill would be a blow to consumers.

Chairman Edwin C. Johnson of the Senate Commerce Committee told a reporter: "There is a good chance that the House will take our bill without even asking a conference" to iron out discrepancies between the two measures.

Douglas commented in a separate interview that the only remaining hope of the bill's opponents is President Truman.

Administration leaders have reported, however, that Mr. Truman approved the Kerr bill in advance. Kerr, like Douglas, a freshman Democratic senator, handed out a victory statement as soon as the Senate acted, saying:

"The American housewife is the real victor in this great legislative battle to preserve a gas production system which has brought to American homes the cheapest, cleanest and best fuel in history."

Kerr is a former governor of Oklahoma and a wealthy man with earnings from oil and gas interests. He said:

"In all my long experience in politics and business—and I have been through some rugged times in the pioneer west—I have never seen such a campaign of misrepresentation and vilification."

Douglas said any further action to block the measure is up to the president.

"I urge him to veto this very bad bill," Douglas said. "This is a complete violation of the spirit and letter of the Democratic platform on which we were elected."

Mine Mules Lauded By Former Cowboy

MORLEY, Colo., (AP) — Morley mine has 134 on its work list which eat heartily every day whether the mine operates or not. But when they do work these 134 mules earn their 16 pounds of oats daily plus all the hay they can shove down. This is one of the few coal mines in the country where mules are used to haul coal cars, because of gaseous condition underground.

$1 Billion May Be Tied Up To Buy Farm Surpluses

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—Republicans lined up today for new attacks on the administration's foreign aid program, already kicked around by various forces including the "Irish bloc."

A tentative vote in the House late yesterday, in effect a call on Great Britain to end the partition of Ireland, didn't give the administration much concern.

An amendment aimed at barring Britain from economic aid while Ireland remained part independent and part in the British commonwealth was approved 99 to 66. But it was generally expected to be tossed out in a final roll call.

Worrying President Truman's party lieutenants was a vote more likely to stick: To tie up $1 billion of Marshall Plan funds for the purchase of U. S. farm surpluses.

A GOP-led drive was primed meanwhile to lop another $150 million from European recovery funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1 and to try for a death blow to President Truman's "point four" program of technical assistance to undeveloped areas.

Successful earlier in slashing $250 million from Marshall Plan money. House critics of government spending took aim on $150 million more in the form of carry-over funds from this year's unexpended aid money.

Rep. Taft (R-NY), top financial adviser to House Republicans, led the attack. He said the Economic Cooperation Administration had over-estimated its recovery spending needs for the fiscal year ending this June 30, and that it had not figured on its needs in the new year either "properly or intelligently."

Confined Victims Are Unable To Save Themselves

PHILADELPHIA, March 30. (AP)—Nine male patients—some strapped to concrete bunks and others trapped in barred and bolted rooms—perished last night in a fire which raged through one wing of a suburban private sanatorium.

Two firemen, a nurse and at least 80 other patients, men and women, were injured or overcome by the fire which blazed from the basement to upper rooms of a section of the 47-year-old Belle Vista Sanatorium.

Walter Rohrbach, one of the firemen, said he rescued 12 women patients, carrying them down ladders one at a time.

"It was sickening," he said, "some were screaming. Some were standing around with passive, blank looks—not understanding what was going on—or so scared they had no emotions."

Patients, choking and gasping for air as smoke filled the rooms and corridors, shouted and screamed for help while they sought to throw off their shackles. Some raced to windows only to find them heavily screened. Others thumped on massive doors—locked on the outside.

The three-story sanatorium, located in suburban Springfield Township, is for convalescent senile, nervous and mental patients.

Fire Marshall Edward H. Chew said the blaze apparently started in the basement laundry from an unknown cause. It spread to the first floor, where the men patients were housed, but was brought under control quickly as seven Philadelphia fire units and four volunteer companies from nearby communities responded to the alarm.

Those who suffocated were all in quarters on the first floor. Women patients on the second floor were removed through windows down ladders.

The dead: Holden Williams, 36, Wellesley Hills, Mass.; Thomas Robinson, Philadelphia; John Higgins, 70; A. Romano, 26; Barry Foss, 19; Nicholas Terimino, 26; Irving Halpern, 42; Frank Costenbader; William Stepp.

Supt. Roland L. Randall said the wing with wire-covered windows housed about 43 men and 31 women. Many of the men patients were in their beds by restraining straps, Chew said.
