Consider the factors which would cause you to do more shopping locally. Remember that building a better retail sector will take a community-wide effort by retailers and consumers.

Candidate not sure of names of Congressional opponents

ABILENE, Texas (AP) -Richard Caro doesn't know much about the 17th Congressional District. He has trouble naming the incumbent and his main rival. And he admits he's not all that familiar with the issues here.

But none of that is going to stop the Austin resident from trying to represent West Texas in the U.S. House.

"This was one of the only districts open, and I really wanted to run," Caro told the Abilene Reporter-News. "Even though I didn't have a connection there I wanted to be on the ballot.'

Caro is among a number of Natural Law Party members who have made ballots across the country. The party, founded by Harvard professor and presidential candidate John Hagelin, believes the road to conflict-free, problem solving government lies in science and transcendental meditation.

Caro, 27, is a senior office assistant in the student and alumni office of the LBJ School of Public Affairs in Austin, his home. He is a graduate of the Maharishi International University in Fairfield, Iowa.

His practice of transcendental meditation "enlivens creativity," something Caro believes gives him an edge over incumbent Democrat Charles Stenholm and Republican challenger Rudy Izzard. But Caro called Stenholm

"William" at one point during an interview and could only come up with "Izzie" when pressed to name his GOP opponent.

Both mainstream candidates admitted not knowing of Caro's presence on the ballot until last week. Neither appears worried.

"I'll just continue to focus on my campaign and getting our message across regardless of how many people are in the race," Izzard said.

Stenholm joked, "One thing's for sure. Texans from outside the 17th District have figured out it's a great place or they wouldn't want to represent us in Washington." In other developments Thurs-

But despite several opinion polls showing the race in Texas neck-and- neck, the party leader said, "We cannot get complacent. The polls are just infatuating at this point.

"A man whose writings are listed in a neo-Nazi directory should not walk the halls of Congress," said Morris, an attorney from San Marcos. "Ron Paul speaks their language."

Michael Sullivan, spokesman for Republican nominee Paul, said the Surfside physician had tried repeatedly to get his name and his political newsletter off the listing by the Heritage Front.

"The very thought of (Nazi leader Adolf) Hitler runs so contrary to Ron Paul's positions," Sullivan said. "Lefty is just stupid."

City sued over pool accident

The family of a local boy who nearly drowned at the Hereford Aquatic Center in late July filed a negligence lawsuit against the city this week.

Papers filed in the 222nd District Court by the family's lawyer, John Lesly of Amarillo, claim a lifeguard was made aware of 5-year-old Danny failed to react."

The lifeguard was negligent for failing to provide the boy with a life jacket, failing to supervise the boy adequately and failing to respond when alerted to the boy's situation, according to court papers.

The lawsuit, filed in district court on Tuesday and served on City Manager Chester Nolen late Wednesday, also alleges Coronado suffered "severe bodily injuries (that) had a serious effect on his health and well being."

Battle Over Church Razing May Be Decided By Supreme Court BOERNE, Texas (AP) - The U.S. Supreme Court could decide as early as today whether to get involved in the proposed razing of a historic Roman. Catholic church to make room for a bigger structure.

The Archdiocese of San Antonio sued the city of Boerne after town officials refused to issue a permit to raze most of St. Peter's Church to make room for a larger structure.

The case has potentially nationwide implications for government regulation

The city refused to grant the permit on grounds that a portion of the existing church lies within the city's historical district.

Church officials planned to replace the 73-year-old stone church, which holds 250 people, with a modern sanctuary that would seat 700.

Innocent Man Spends Nine Months In Jail Because of DNA Test Backlog HOUSTON (AP) - An innocent man spent nine months in the Harris County Jail on a rape charge because of a backlog in getting DNA test results, authorities say. Lynn Jones, 38 - a carpet layer accused by a 14-year-old of raping her - walked out of the jail Thursday a free man after the city's police crime lab produced the test results. The DNA test proved he was not the rapist.

"I still think about that girl," Jones said. "It took nine months of my life. How can I fill in that space?" He was sleeping in his apartment Jan. 27 when police broke down his door and arrested him for sexual assault. They told him that a teen-age girl who lives in the same apartment complex had said he raped her earlier that night.

Jones said he eagerly submitted a sample for the DNA test, sure that it would prove his innocence, then wondered day after day what was taking so long for the results to come back. He was unable to post his bail, which was lowered from $40,000 to $5,000.

German POW Comes Back To Texas On 70th Birthday

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Erwin Rother's recollections of Texas are cotton fields around Orange, rice farms west of Beaumont, the pine trees of Woodville and a camp just outside Huntsville.

That was more than 50 years ago.

The United States was at war and Rother was an enemy soldier - a private from the German army - in an American prisoner of war camp. Rother, who turned 70 on Monday, returns from Germany to Texas this weekend for the first time since he celebrated his 20th birthday here.

The trip, a birthday gift from his children, is to allow him to get a look at what remains of the wood and tarpaper structures that served as his Texas home during World War II.

Herd netters host Canyon

The Hereford tennis team will host Canyon for its final District 1-4A team match of the season at p.m. Saturday.

The season won't be over, thought, because the district's coaches decided to hold a district tournament Oct. 18-19. The Herd volleyball team will play at Borger, with a junior varsity match starting at 2 p.m. The Herd cross country teams will run in a meet Saturday in Sundown.

Nazarene teams sweep All-Saints

The volleyball and flag football teams from Nazarene Christian Academy swept All-Saints Episcopal School of Lubbock Thursday in Lubbock.

NCA won the football game, 20-0, as Chayse Rives threw a touchdown pass, ran for a TD and caught a pass for a two-point conversion.

Rives' TD pass to Tyler Keeling started the scoring, and Jeremy Williams passes to Rives for the extra points, giving NCA an 8-0 lead at halftime.

Williams hit Jacob Power for a TD in the third quarter, but the extra point try failed. Then, in the fourth quarter, Rives ran for a score.

Derek Mendoza intercepted an All-Saints pass in the end zone in the second quarter.

In the volleyball match, Lyndzie Torbert served up six aces to lead NCA to a 15-6, 15-4 victory. Torbert served for nine points in all, Kristin Huffaker served for seven and Sloane Merrick added five.

The NCA volleyball team improved its record to 8-4.

Both NCA teams will conclude their seasons Tuesday against teams of home-schooled children from Amarillo. The games will start at 4:30 p.m. in Hereford.

OU fans on hand despite 0-4 mark

DALLAS (AP) - Oklahoma fans may be fearing the worst in Saturday's annual Texas-OU grudge match, but they aren't letting the Sooners' 0-4 record keep them behind closed doors for this weekend's revelry.

"Despite Oklahoma's very poor, poor football record, we have a crowd. coming," to Big D, said Jack Williams, who has been organizing the OU Club of Dallas' annual festivities for 26 years.

The 68-year-old Oklahoma alumnus has chartered nine buses to carry Sooner fans to the Cotton Bowl for the 91st meeting of the Red River rivals, and at least 1,200 are expected to feast on pregame barbecue.

"We've got a tremendous number of people who come south each year, and I don't see an appreciable falloff this year. That's the surprising thing," said Williams, who isn't harboring any notions about his team's chances for victory.

"I'm afraid Texas is going to beat us like a drum. I have no reservations here in saying it's going to be a long afternoon for us. We certainly hope for the best, but I don't want to appear naive."

Herd JV squad holds off Longhorns

A stingy Hereford junior varsity defense turned back several threats by the Caprock JV football team, allowing the Herd to win 24-8

Thursday at Whiteface Stadium.

Neither team could get in the end zone in the first half. The only points came when Hereford's Cory Marsh booted a 25-yard field goal late in the half. It was set up by a 30-yard pass from Chris Torres to Fidencio Ruiz. "As usual, it took us a little while to get our motor running (on offense)," coach Joe Cabezuela said, "but after we did that, we pulled away from them.

Ruiz and Torres hooked up again in the second half for a 25-yard touchdown pass, and Marsh kicked for a 10-0 lead.

Caprock answered with a good drive down to the one-yard line, but the Horns fumbled.

"Jory McKibbon made a good push," coach Tim Anuszkiewicz said. "He mowed over that guy (the Caprock quarterback) and made him

Marsh recovered it, but soon after Caprock picked Torres off at the 15yard line. The Caprock quarterback then broke a couple of tackles on a nine-yard TD run. The pass for two cut Hereford's lead to 10-8.

It was all Hereford defense and special teams after that. Jeremy Miller returned the ensuing kickoff 80 yards for a TD, and Marsh kicked for a 17-8 lead.

In the fourth quarter, the Herd defense stopped Caprock on downs inside the Herd 20-yard line. On Caprock's next possession, Ruiz picked off a pass and returned it 73 yards for another score. Marsh kicked Brent Bullard intercepted another Caprock pass with 2:22 left in the game, sealing the victory.

"Hats off to the defense, because they did come after 'em," Cabezuela said. "They did a great job."

In Amarillo, the Hereford ninth grade A team continued to terrorize the freshmen of the Panhandle, beating Caprock 55-0 Thursday.

Greg Ewing scored the Herd's first two touchowns on runs of 22 and 8 yards. After both, Julian Garcia caught passes from Matt Lusk for two-point conversions.

Nick Whatley had a 10-yard TD run, and George Castillo caught a pass from Lusk for the conversion and a 24-0 lead after one quarter.

In the second, Kurtis Flood blocked a Caprock punt and Perfecto Mancha returned it for a touchdown, and again Lusk hit Garcia for two Ewing added another TD before the half on a 50-yard run which was set up by a 30-yard punt return by John Paul Cardenas. Morris Penalber kicke the extra point after that score as well as after both TDs in the second half. Alex Celaya caught a three-yard pass TD from Andrew Ramirez, and Seth Urbanczyk ran two yards for another score. Also, Mancha scored a safety by tackling the Caprock quarterback in end zone.

There was a sophomore game scheduled against Borger in Hereford, but it was canceled. The Herd sophomore team lost 10 of its 27 players to no-pass, no-play, head coach Craig Yenzer said.

The sophomore team took the biggest hit of any Herd team, Yenzer said. The varsity didn't lose any players, he said, and the junior varsity lost three.

Next week's sophomore game against Plainview also was canceled. There are two more games scheduled after next week, and their fate has not been decided.

The Hereford eighth grade B football team got two touchdowns from Tony Escamilla and beat Dumas, 16-6, in Dumas.

Escamilla scored on a 60-yard pass from Eddie Lacey and on an 80-yard run. Lacey ran for one of the twopoint conversions, and threw to Brandon Brethour for the other.

No seventh grade scores from this week have been reported.

Tech's Hanspard faces off against Kansas RB Henley

Henley is short and powerfully built. Byron Hanspard is about an inch or so taller, 20 pounds lighter and a maybe a shade quicker.

Henley is No. 3 in the nation in rushing and tied for No. 1 in scoring. Hanspard is No. 2 in rushing, averaging 7.7 yards per carry.

Both are also skilled receivers. And both will be on display in Lawrence Saturday. Kansas fans' 44-day wait between home games may have been worth it.

Henley and the Jayhawks (3-1 overall, 1-0 Big 12) host Texas Tech (3-2, 2-1) and Hanspard Saturday in a 1 p.m. kickoff showcasing two of the nation's finest running backs.

"When Byron steps on the field, there are no limits," said Tech quarterback Zebbie Lethridge. "We know there is no telling what he can do. I know he makes my job easier."

Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes compares Henley, a rugged 5-foot-11, 215-pounder, with Earl Campbell and former Tech star Byron "Bam"

"He's got great vision. I guess that's why he is one of the top rushers in the nation," Dykes said. "He's got a lot of raw talent."

Great backs, of course, are not exactly a rare commodity in the Big Iowa State's Troy Davis, also resides.

"It may seem like a big deal because they are No. 2 and No. 3 in rushing," said Kansas coach Glen Mason. "But we play good backs each and every week here on out. Everybody has a good running back. I think those individual statistics get blown way out of proportion sometimes.

Nevertheless, rarely does one football game offer two talents as bountiful as Henley and Hanspard.

Henley is averaging 166.8 yards per game and had been over 200 until Oklahoma held him to 63 yards last week in the Jayhawks' 52-24 win. But he's also caught 12 passes and is tied for first in the nation with 18 points

"He's pretty big," said Tech cornerback Tony Darden. "We've got to go in hard and try to make the 100 yards in 11 straight games and over 200 in six of his last seven. In a 45-24 victory over Baylor last week, he broke his own school record with 287 yards.

As a team, the Red Raiders are No. field goal try.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - June 12, where the nation's No. 1 rusher, 2 in the nation with 336.2 yards per

"When you are No. 2 in the country in rushing the football, two things are apparent," Mason said. "One is that you have a good offensive line. No. 2, you have a pretty darn good running back. They have both of those things.
"They are a high-powered offense, and we are sure going to have to play a lot better defensively than we have the last two weeks to put ourselves in position to win. We have to play better all-around, both offensively and defensively.

Although they'll draw most of the attention, Henley and Hanspard are not the only weapons opponents these teams wield. Lethridge compiled the most prolific sophomore campaign in school history last year with 1,885 passing yards. But he's also averaging more than three yards on 57 rushes.

Kansas' Matt Johner is hitting 60 Hanspard is averaging 222.4 yards percent of his passes for 669 yards per game and seems to be getting and seven touchdowns and ranks better every week. He's gone over second in the Big 12 in passing efficiency. But it was the special teams that dominated the Oklahoma game last week, supplying touchdowns with a kickoff return, a punt return, and the return of a blocked

Three TCU players suspended

By CHRIS NEWTON Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -Four Texas Christian University football players have been suspended, three of them for an incident in which a student was assaulted on the Southern Methodist University campus.

Derek Canine, a sophomore backup quarterback from Birmingham, Mich., was charged with Class C misdemeanor assault for an incident at SMU's McGinnis Dormitory around 2 a.m. Thursday, said SMU campus police Capt. Michael Snellgrove.

Canine, who dropped out of SMU last year, was accompanied by fellow TCU players Kevin Colon and Jeff Dover. Both are also quarterbacks. Snellgrove said he didn't know why the players were on the Dallas campus.

(Canine) was apparently kicking people's doors and making a lot of noise in the hallway," Snellgrove said, citing a police report. "An SMU student was awakened and went to see what was happening in the Canine was issued a citation, which carries a $200 fine, and told to leave the campus. The other players were not cited, police said.

The SMU student, freshman Andy Abramovits, suffered minor facial injuries, Snellgrove said. Abramovits told The Daily

Campus, SMU's student newspaper, that he was trying to sleep early

"They were kicking the doors so I got (mad) because of the noise," the student said. "We asked them why ... they were doing that and one of the men asked me if I had a problem. Then he pounced on me.'

All three players, as well as Gaylon Hyder, were suspended Thursday by TCU head coach Pat Sullivan.

Hyder, a senior defensive lineman from Longview, and Dover, a redshirt freshman from Grand Prairie, have served as starters through TCU's first four games of the season.

Gaetti's grand slam off Maddux lifts Cards

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
ATLANTA (AP) - One big swing
by Gary Gaetti and all of a sudden the NL championship series has a whole

The St. Louis Cardinals showed they belonged in this thing, too, becoming the first team to beat the Atlanta Braves this October with an 8-3 win Thursday night that tied the best-of-7 series at 1-all.

Gaetti hit a grand slam off Greg Maddux in the seventh inning, capping a five-run burst that sent many fans in the sellout crowd of 52,067 heading to the exits.

"It's tough to come in here and beat the Braves," Gaetti said. "I'd heard they hadu't lost a game here in. ... Whatever it is, it's sweet."

The defending World Series champions had won eight straight postseason games in Atlanta. Now, the Braves head to Busch Stadium, where they were 6-0 this season, for

Donovan Osborne will start for St. Louis against Tom Glavine on Saturday. "It's a five-game series now," he said. "I don't think anybody expected to win them all."

No, but with the way the Braves were pitching in the playoffs, it seemed like this series might be over soon.

Instead, the Cardinals became the latest team to cause trouble for Maddux in the postseason, tagging him for a career high-tying eight runs - albeit all five in the seventh were unearned because of third baseman Chipper Jones' throwing error.

Maddux is a four-time Cy Young winner, yet is just 5-4 with a 4.14 ERA in 11 postseason starts. And of the five slams hit in the NL playoffs, two have come off Maddux, odd because he's allowed only one in 2,365 2-3 innings in regular season

"You don't really have that many innings in the postseason, so maybe the numbers look inflated," Maddux

Maddux had been 6-0 with an 0:79 ERA in his last eight starts against the Cardinals. But this time St. Louis came in with a plan that worked.

The Cardinals, starting their runners often and trying to take Maddux to the opposite field, scratched out an early 3-0 lead. After Atlanta came back to tie it, helped by Marquis Grissom's fourth homer this year off winner Todd Stottlemyre, Gaetti broke it open with the Cardinals' first home run of the

"A lot of people have seen Atlanta play in the postseason. Not as many people have seen us play," Cardinals manager Tony La Russa said. "A lot of people don't know we're legitimate competitors."

The fans at Atlanta-Fulton County

Stadium found out. The seats were almost all full, compared to the 3,000 empty ones for the opener.

Stottlemyre gave up an RBI single in the sixth to Ryan Klesko that made it 3-all, but escaped further trouble when he retired Jermaine Dye on a pop-up with the bases loaded and struck out pinch-hitter Terry Pendleton with his last pitch of the evening.

"When Todd limited all that potential damage to just one, it was one of the biggest lifts of the ballgame," La Russa said.

With the score 3-all, Mike Gallego led off the seventh with a single that nearly hit Maddux in the head, the ball deflecting off the glove of the seven-time Gold Glove winner for a single.

La Russa, criticized for not ordering a bunt in the seventh inning of a tie game Wednesday night, asked pinch-hitter Mark Sweeney to Sweeney popped up his bunt, which Jones trapped with a dive. Jones threw over second baseman Mark Lemke covering first, putting runners at second and third and setting up the big inning.

In Game 1, the Cardinals botched a bunt by Jones, costing them a 4-2 loss, Jones, by the way, later left Game 2 with a bruised left ankle, hurt when he fouled a ball off his foot.

Ray Lankford put St. Louis ahead 4-3 with a sacrifice fly. With two outs, Maddux intentionally walked Brian Jordan to load the bases.

Gaetti wasted no time, lining the first pitch over the left-field fence. Maddux shouted, La Russa put his hand over his heart and the Cardinals celebrated.

"I needed to make one more pitch to Gaetti," Maddux said. "First pitch slider. Real good, huh? Must have hung a lot." Gaetti, confirming the scouting report on him, was ready to swing right away, especially against Maddux.

"I just know you can't take a lot of pitches off that guy," he said. "You can't get too deep in the count or he'll make you look silly."

NEW YORK (AP) - This time, no little kids stole the game. This time, the record-setting power was enough. This time, the New York Yankees didn't manage a movie-script comeback.

'We should be going home 2-0," Rafael Palmeiro said after his two-run homer in the seventh led Bob Wells and the Orioles to a 5-3 victory Thursday that tied the AL champion-

"We'll take a split," he said, echoing the thoughts of many relieved Orioles. "That was the goal coming in. We're going home for three days."

When the series resumes tonight at Camden Yards, Mike Mussina will pitch for Baltimore against Jimmy Key, Roberto Alomar will finally get some cheers and the Yankees won't be able to count on a glove in the stands.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - What a difference a tee time makes.

John Huston and Mike Heinen played early and shot 6-under-par 66s to tie for the first-round lead of the Texas Open, then predicted golfers later in the day would have more difficulty as the greens at La Cantera Golf Club got drier and firmer.

They were right. "The greens were a little tricky," said Tiger Woods, who teed off in the afternoon and finished with a 69.

David Frost and Hugh Royer III were one stroke behind the leaders, while John Morse, Mark Calcavecchia, Kelly Gibson, Mike Hulbert and Woody Austin were at 68 following Thursday's round.

Much Accomplished - But Much to Do

hen the 104th Congress convened in January of 1995, we had a rare opportunity to put govern ment back in contact with what the country wants: less government, lower taxes and less federal meddling. I am pleased to report that we have filled the glass slightly more than half full.

At the top of Congress' agenda was a balanced budget. Congress passed a seven-year balanced budget with significant tax cuts for the middle class. Although the President vetoed that bill, Congress has stayed within the limits. So if we can get entitlement reforms, we still will be able to reach a balanced budget by 2002.

Another important reform enacted was the Congressional Accountability Act, a measure requiring the Senate. and the House of Representatives to comply with the same rules imposed on the rest of the country. This is now the law of the land.

And that was only the beginning. The 104th Congress has enacted sweeping welfare reform and gone one step toward moderating regulatory overkill. Unfunded mandates, those unreasonable decrees from the federal government forcing states and municipalities to establish programs which end up raising local taxes, have been banished.

When you read this, the 104th Congress will have met for the last time. But this country still has, as the poet Robert Frost wrote, "...promises to keep, and miles to go before I sleep." Much remains to be accomplished.

The first priority on my personal legislative agenda is the Balanced Budget Amendment. Our federal budget deficits and daunting debt continue to inflict an enormous amount of harm on the American people and the American economy. It has become a cancer on the country that we are passing on to our children. I want to amend the Constitution to require future Congresses to pass and hold to a balanced Government borrows and spends money that would otherwise serve as capital needed for economic growth and job creation. We must curb this tendency to spend so far beyond our means.

Yet at the same time, Americans continue to pay unreasonably high taxes. The average two-parent working family of four now pays 38 percent of its income in direct taxes to the government — more than a dollar of every $3

Economic history shows we can enact tax cuts without devastating deficit-reduction efforts. We did it in the 1960s under President Kennedy and in the '80s under President

On taxes, my agenda remains the same: an across-theboard 15 percent tax cut, a $500 per child tax credit and repeal of the 1993 Social Security tax increases on seniors. The enactment this year of my Homemakers IRA, which allows one-income couples to save for retirement at the same rate as two-income couples, goes a long way toward providing equity. Our next high priority item should be to do away with the "marriage penalty," which forces two-income married couples to pay higher taxes than if each were single. In addition to being patently unfair, this quirk in the tax law weakens one of the basic institutions of our society.

Finally, we need to finish the work begun this year on dealing with the problem of illegal immigration. Eleventhhour changes forced on the Congress by the President (who threatened another government shutdown) weakened a key section of the illegal immigration bill enacted September 30. Among the enforcement provisions dropped from the final bill were items designed to ensure that illegal immigrants cannot come here and become dependent on our welfare and Medicaid programs. The President also insisted on a provision that allows illegal aliens to remain in public housing.

Despite some setbacks, critical reform has begun: We have started to move from promises to reality.

Bishop and exiled activist receive Nobel Peace Prize

By DOUG MELLGREN Associated Press Writer

OSLO, Norway (AP) - A Roman Catholic bishop and an exiled activist won the Nobel Peace Prize today for their work to end the conflict in East Timor, a former Portuguese colony that was annexed by Indonesia in Indonesia expressed "regret" at the decision to honor Bishop Carlos' Filipe Ximenes Belo and said Jose Ramos-Horta "had been clearly involved in inciting and manipulating the people of East Timor."

The Nobel committee, for its part, accused Indonesia of persecuting the people of East Timor and said the prize was given in hopes it would 'spur efforts to find a diplomatic solution to the conflict in East Timor based on the people's right to self-determination.

"This was about to become a forgotten conflict, and we wanted to contribute to maintaining momentum," committee chairman Francis Sejersted told reporters.

He said the committee was aware of that the prize award could trigger a crackdown by the Indonesian government, a fear echoed by Amnesty International, a human rights group that won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1977.

"We're concerned about what happens next," Amnesty spokesman Rory Mungoven said in London. "There will be an outpouring, a celebration, on the ground. Our worry is that it will be met with repression.'

The Vatican welcomed the news with "deepest satisfaction."

"It is my wish that this may contribute ... to concrete results that respect the rights of peoples," said Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro-Valls. He said the prize was recognition of Bishop Belo's work as a "man of the Church characterized by an untiring search for dialogue always directed at peaceful solutions.

Outdoor burning is an idea that can spread like wildfire.

A Little Preparation Can Make A Safe Difference

Check with the local fire authorities before you burn. If burning is permissible, make sure your fire is properly contained and supervised.

Some simple and safe guidelines are:

- Never leave the fire unattended.
- Never burn on a windy day.
- Use a metal barrel in good condition.
- Add a hinged and weighted mesh screen to prevent debris from escaping from the barrel.
- Punch air holes about one inch in diameter near the bottom of barrel.
- Clear a recommended safe area around the barrel.

If your fire escapes, you may be liable for the firefighting costs and damages. For information before burning, contact the fire department.

"We Reach Thousands Every Day."

'Baby blues' real, can be serious condition

By LYNN BULMAHN Waco Tribune-Herald

WACO, Texas - The first months of a baby's life is supposed to be a joyous time for its parents.

But it's not always. Sometimes mothers can get in the doldrums after giving birth. Often it's a temporary, minor thing - a case of the "baby blues."

In some cases, however, it can be more serious.

While about half of all mothers experience baby blues, postpartum depression affects an estimated 10. percent of new mothers. The latter condition occurs long after the baby's birth - usually three to six months after delivery - and is more severe than baby blues. In contrast, the common baby blues hit within three to five days of giving birth.

Psychiatrist Dr. Gayle Rowell says baby blues usually go away within a week and are thought to be biological, she said.

Yet, Rowell explained, baby blues are not considered to be an illness. No treatment is needed other than the mother's getting good support from her family.

The mystery of why women get the baby blues is just now being discovered, Rowell says. New medical research is finding links between the hormone oxytocin and maternal depression.

Oxytocin is the hormone responsible for uterine contractions during labor and for milk production, she said. Scientists have found receptors for oxytocin in areas of the brain that regulate one's emotions.

It is believed that mothers who breast-feed may not have as many problems with the baby blues as those who use formula.

A possible biological link between oxytocin and depression is further evidenced by some laboratory experiments, Rowell said.

Lab rats injected with oxytocin displayed maternal behavior even if they hadn't given birth. Mother rats given chemicals to suppress the oxytocin in their systems rejected their babies, she said.

Rowell says there are differences between simple baby blues and more serious psychiatric conditions.

Both the baby blues and postpartum depression have symptoms in common: feelings of guilt or inadequacy, feeling overwhelmed by the responsibility of caring for a baby, mood swings and crying. These postpartum depression, considered an illness.

With postpartum depression, a woman may experience obsessive worries about the baby, suicidal thoughts, panic attacks, low energy and an inability to experience pleasure. Sometimes intrusive thoughts about harming the child may be experienced - although mothers rarely follow through on them.

It is important to treat postpartum depression, Rowell said, because the mother's inability to provide emotional nurturing or to interact with the child could adversely affect the baby's development.

One way to prevent postpartum depression is to alter the risk factors. Rowell prescribes having a stable life and being financially sound before attempting to start a family.

Ideally, she said, a new mother needs to have a solid relationship in place with her partner so marital conflict won't add to the stress of having a baby.

A pregnant woman also needs easy access to caring professionals, such as her obstetrician. If there is history of mental illness present in her or her biological relatives, the woman should also have a psychiatrist to turn to, Rowell said.

Antidepressants can be prescribed. although it is not a good idea to take them and breast-feed. A choice may have to be made between the medications and nursing the infant.

"While breast-feeding is important in enhancing the bonding between mother and child ... the mental health of the mother is an even more important factor to consider in the health of the baby," Rowell said.

An even more severe mental illness is postpartum psychosis. This rare condition is considered a psychiatric emergency, Rowell said.

This kind of problem ends up in symptoms are more severe in the the newspaper, when the mother severely abuses or murders her baby," she said.

All the symptoms of postpartum depression are present in postpartum psychosis. In addition, the mother may have hallucinations or be delusional.

In cases of postpartum psychosis. the mother needs to be identified and hospitalized before she can cause harm to her infant, Rowell said.

Maternal mental health problems are more likely to occur with the first baby, because of the adjustments a first time mother must make.

Also, younger mothers, such as teen-agers, may be especially prone to depression because they are more vulnerable and have to deal with more stress.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints: -- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

-- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

-- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the word, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

-- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Buy beautiful antiques. If you enjoy taking antiques from garage-sale buffs who like clean basements, then read through the Hereford Brand classifieds. That's where you can find priceless items that some misguided creatures think are junk. Remember, one person's junk is another person's treasure. The Hereford Brand Classifieds 364-2030

Classifieds Well-traveled families offer insights on ways to make moving go easier

By ALYSON WARD

Abilene Reporter-News ABILENE, Texas - Kenneth Bock and his wife have moved, um. . .

about 17 times in the past 18 years. It takes a minute or two for him to count this up, straining to remember another direction.

Bock is at Dyess Air Force Base now, working with the B-1 as an instructor and navigator. The family has lived in Abilene for about two years, which is longer than they've been stationed in other places.

After moving time and time again. the Bocks have gotten pretty good at it. But the little things are what still make moving difficult, Bock said.

"There're parts of it you never seem to master," he said. "You realize you left the mop behind, or you don't have a flyswatter now."

The Bocks don't usually pack on their own when they leave, thanks to the Air Force. The packing process is generally over and done with in a little more than a day, and a truck shows up to take the piles of boxes to the new location. Once they arrive, they usually unpack their own belongings, Bock said.

Moving so frequently means there's little room for the trivial items that accumulate in every home. Bock said he and his wife try to get rid of non-necessities every time they move, but it's difficult because it always builds up again.

"Each time you move, it seems like you have more of that stuff," he

Moving isn't one of the nation's best-loved summer activities - in fact, it's considered the third most stressful life event. It is one of the most common summer activities, though, with almost 21 million Americans moving between May 1 and Labor every time their possessions have Day - roughly half the number of been loaded onto a truck and sent in Americans who move within an entire

Dr. Darrel Baergen and his wife, Judy, moved back to Abilene not during the summer, but just last November. They started out here she was a student at Hardin-Simmons University, he was a professor, and they married. Over the past 30 years they have moved five times, but Judy Baergen doesn't seem to mind. Except for that first move to San Marcos from Abilene, the Baergens haven't packed on their own, she

"We have a lot of antique pieces and heavy pieces," she said. "The moving company made it very nice."

Baergen said they, too, couldn't get away from the extra items that collect on shelves and coffee tables over the years, even though they had a chance to reorganize every time they moved.

You accumulate more," she said, through the years and the moves.

Bacrgen isn't as overwhelmed by the idea of starting over in a new house as many people are, though she's a decorator. "I like decorating, so I like changing things around," she said. "I do that even when we don't move."

Moving is a big industry, and Mayflower Transit:

many movers publish checklists and guides, tips and countdown-tomoving-day job lists to make the upheaval a little easier to handle.

"Most of the time your moving company will give you a list," Baergen said, so that those relocating will perhaps remember everything that needs to be taken care of.

Almost all of the major local movers provide some kind of checklist, and most of them offer free estimates and give advice to assist people who need help moving.

Danny Tollison, sales manager at Andy Anderson Van Lines, said he tries to help customers as he goes through their houses to make a cost estimatc.

"(We) give them some packing tips: what they can leave in drawers, what they should leave in drawers,' and how to fill every inch of extra packing space, he said.

Even the do-it-yourself moving industry doesn't leave customers completely on their own. U-Haul provides a moving guide booklet and a free video called "Moving Made Easier."

With a video, a tip sheet and a checklist, people who've never moved before might think there's no way to mess this up - not true, but a nice idea. Moving is difficult, but careful planning makes it possible to move successfully.

Moving companies provide dozens usually forget about when they're moving.

Some tips and reminders from

- Once you start preparing to move, be sure to always have your new address handy. This will be important in forwarding bills and subscriptions, and it will help you keep in touch with old

- Remember to get children's school records and copies of all medical records before you leave.

- Even though you think you'll always remember the phone numbers you dial frequently now, it's wise to pack telephone directories from your old town for future reference.

- Many people forget all about their garage door opener and leave it in their cars when they move. Be sure to remove it and leave it for the next resident.

- Moving companies usually can't transport animals or plants, so plan to take care of them when you move.

- Establish a checking account in your new city before your move so that you will have access to your new account immediately. Also remember to remove items from safe deposit

- Spare house keys should be gathered up before you move, so retrieve them from housekeepers, from neighbors or from under the rock next to the front door.

Millions of people will move before school starts again, and millions more will relocate by year's end. All of them will have to invest money, work and, most of all, time in order to make the move successful. Anything that involves of reminders based on the things people packing a whole life into a pile of cardboard boxes deserves to be done

Cowboy preacher brings Jesus to rodeos

By MARLA PIERSON

Waco Tribune-Herald HAMILTON, Texas - Bobby Davis is the cowboy preacher.

On Sunday morning before a Region 10 Texas High School Rodeo competition in Hamilton, Davis stood in blue jeans and a hat before the day's congregation - more than 50 rodeo parents and teens, some already astride horses.
