Hereford Vol. No. 121, Deaf Smith County, 96th Year, Texas Gingrich woes continue with ethics probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House speaker's statements to investigators, ethics panel investigating Speaker Newt Gingrich met in an unusual weekend session today, fueling speculation that the politically charged probe was nearing a negotiated conclusion.

Rep. Porter Goss, R-Fla., chairman of the House cthics subcommittee, Blankley, declined comment. He said said the panel would have a statement later today. Subcommittee members then met with members of the full House ethics committee.

The four-member subcommittee has been investigating the tax-exempt financing for Gingrich's college course and the accuracy of the Republican sources said Friday.

It was unclear what admission to violations Gingrich, R-Ga., might be prepared to make, or whether the full House might be called on to vote a formal reprimand against him.

Gingrich's press secretary, Tony he had followed a "longstanding practice of not commenting on the procedures of the ethics committee, and I'm going to honor that."

The ethics charges have hung over Gingrich for more than two years.

"I got out there one Sunday afternoon and put the Santa Claus on the bale and put the spotlight on him and the Ho, Ho, Ho on the bale and the lights in one little tree," she said.

Then Richard decided to put lights in a larger tree, Betty said.

"So in the dark, I was in the bucket An antique sleigh adorned with and he was driving the tractor, we decorated that big tree. And that's one big tree when you get up there in a bucket," she said.

work, but it's worth it," Betty said. It started with her father's wagon and running lights on the wheels, Betty said.

"Then we went to hay bales and have taken it from there," she said. And they have taken it even further than Christmas decorations. The Hagers also put up displays for Thanksgiving and Halloween.

The round bale of hay serves as the centerpiece for these holidays.

The Thanksgiving display was a turkey. It was created with one round bale of hay. The turkey's head and feathers were painted on pieces of plywood and placed on front of the bale.

The Halloween display was a black cat. It was created with two round bales of hay stacked on top of each other. The cat's face and tail were painted on pieces of plywood and placed on the front of the bale.

Although it's a family affair, several friends have participated in putting up the displays.

The wooden turkey and Santa were created by Don Walser, who is now deceased. Her co-workers at Big T Pump also have helped with the displays, she said.

The Hagers have received many comments from people on the different displays, Betty said.

"It does catch people's eyes. A lot of people wait anxiously to see it. They asked two weeks before I even put it up, 'Where's Christmas,'" she said.

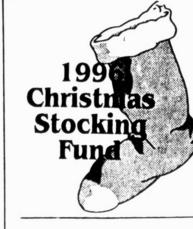

And travelers can't wait til they get to the Hager's house -- even if they cannot tell what the decoration is, Betty said.

"One lady told us she enjoyed our little rat and it was a cat," she said. Betty already has an idea for next Christmas that will be different from past displays.

"All I'll say is -- it's going to be tall. It's up to my brother to help me make it tall," she said.

Couple seeks help to pay medical expenses

Good health is one of life's great gifts. With numerous health maladies and their associated medical expenses besetting them, a man and wife are seeking help from the Christmas Stocking Fund this holiday season in hopes of defraying some of these expenses.

The man has undergone two spinal fusions, brain tumor surgery, and is in need of a knee replacement due to a degenerative bone disease.

The women suffered a shoulder injury and has been unable to work for almost a year.

This couple draws only a small amount in food stamps, and receives no other public assistance, so they're having an extremely difficult time. They have asked for help with utility and medical expenses.

Such compelling instances of need are a primary reason that the Christmas Stocking Fund strives to provide hope for the lessfortunate during the Yule season.

Through the donations of generous individuals, this local charity -- not affiliated with any other agency or organization, provides help such as vouchers for clothing, medical, and utility expenses, and delivers boxes of food items to qualified applicants who have requested that assistance.

Recipients of help from CSF are selected by an anonymous committee of volunteers who administer the program and make the necessary and sometimes difficult decisions.

CSF assistance is financed through donations by local residents. Contributions of CSF may be made in person at the offices of The Hereford Brand, or they may be mailed to CSF in care of The Brand at Box 673, Hereford.

Holiday closings

A holiday as nearly universal as there is will be observed Wednesday in Hereford, Deaf Smith County, and the rest of country.

Most retail businesses will be closed for the day. Government office-closings are a mixed bag, but financial institutions will be closed.

The Brand will close at noon Tuesday, until 8 a.m. Thursday, so employees may spend a holiday with their families. Classified and display advertising for the Thursday edition should be turned in by noon Tuesday. A combined Dec. 24-25 edition will be published Tuesday.

Most state offices will be closed Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Only Wednesday is a federal holiday.

Deaf Smith County will close at noon Tuesday and reopen Thursday morning.

The City of Hereford will take off Wednesday and Thursday. Emergency services and law enforcement agencies will be on duty throughout the holiday period.

In The Brand today, readers are invited to pay special attention to the Christmas Greeting sections, published each year at this time to allow businesses an opportunity to express their appreciation to their customers.

Warmer temperatures, wind

Following a high temperature Friday of 50 degrees and a low of 12 degrees, the outlook is expected to be warmer, but very windy. Saturday night should be mostly cloudy with a south to southwest wind decreasing to 10 to 20 mph and gusty after midnight with a low in the lower 30s. For Sunday, the winds will continue at 20 to 30 mph and temperatures should reach 65 to 70 degrees under partly sunny skies.

President earmarks study programs for literacy goal

WASHINGTON (AP) - Advancing toward his goal of literacy for all, President Clinton said today that thousands of college students enrolled in work-study programs next year will focus their energies on teaching children to read.

Revisiting a theme of his re-election campaign, Clinton said 20 leading college presidents have pledged to dedicate half of their federally funded work-study slots to those students willing to work as reading tutors for 8-year-olds.

"Right away this should give us thousands of new tutors, a down payment toward our goal of enlisting 100,000 work-study students to help America read," the president said in his weekly radio address.

"To chieve our full potential as a nation ve must make sure everyone can read - "dults as well as children," he said. "Without literacy, the history books and job manuals are closed, the Internet is turned off and the promise of America is much harder to reach." Congress created 200,000 work-study slots last fall. Changing the rules of the program to encourage results, Clinton said he will eliminate the requirement that colleges pay 25 percent of the work-study costs for each student who chooses to become a literacy tutor.

DPS adds new U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry, an requirement for license renewal

A new requirement for renewing driver's licenses will be implemented after Jan. 1, the Department of Public Safety has announced.

Drivers seeking renewals will be required to furnish their social security numbers and must provide some document that verifies the number.

DPS Trooper Wayne Beighle said a law has been in effect since 1993 requiring the number but it has been enforced only on a voluntary basis

Beginning with the new year, however, the DPS will require compliance.

A Social Security card, payroll record or income tax document may be offered to verify the number.

"With today's actions by these college presidents, and with the steps we are taking to help them, college students can now work their way through school by teaching our children to read," he said.

'These students will create a whole new culture of service, working alongside our AmeriCorps volunteers who will be doing the same, inspiring hundreds of thousands of Americans to tutor not just children, but adult learners as well."

In an era of budget limits, Clinton's initiative echoed but did not appear to equal the steps he proposed last August as his campaign train stopped in Wyandotte, Mich., on its way to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Speaking to a crowd gathered outside the Wyandotte public library, he unfurled an ambitious $2.5 billion plan to combat illiteracy.

The five-year plan he proposed then included $1.25 billion to hire reading specialists for after-school tutoring, $1 billion to pay young people in his AmeriCorps program to help, as well as money for a program to coach parents with low reading skills how to teach their children to read

Clinton drew instant criticism from the campaign of Republican challenger Bob Dole, which called the idea an admission that public schools have failed and a boon for teachers' unions.

On Friday, Clinton named Carol Rasco, now his domestic policy adviser, to direct the "America Reads" literacy program in the Department of Education.

He said she will head the effort he outlined at Wyandotte to use 30,000 reading specialists and volunteer coordinators "to mobilize a million volunteer reading tutors all across America."

Within the full House, they have served as a political flash point for Democrats seeking to discredit the speaker and the Republicans, who gained power in 1994 for the first time in 40 years.

The new Congress convenes on Jan. 7, and the first-day agenda includes election of a speaker. Gingrich has been nominated by his GOP caucus, but associates say he's eager to put the ethics controversy behind him before then to head off any potential revolt by the Republican rank-and-file.

An aide to Gingrich, Allan Lipsett, said the speaker was spending the weekend at home in Georgia and planned no public appearances.

A House ethics subcommittee consisting of two members from each party has been investigating the tax-exempt financing of Gingrich's college course. Last September, the panel expanded the probe to include whether the speaker had given accurate statements to investigators.

Several sources said Gingrich has been represented in recent discussions with the ethics committee by his new lawyer, Atlanta attorney J. Randolph Evans; a former Republican House colleague from Arkansas, Ed Bethune: and the speaker's longtime counsel, Jan Baran.

Rep. Ben Cardin of Maryland, point man for Democrats on the investigative subcommittee, contacted Democrats on the full ethics panel during the day, a congressional official said.

The sources said attorneys for Gingrich and the subcommittee have been negotiating since the panel ended a week of intensive deliberations last Friday.

Disclosure of the talks capped a week of bizarre developments, including an admission Thursday by a key Gingrich ally, Rep. John Linder, R-Ga., that the speaker had filed erroneous information with the committee. Linder blamed Baran for the error.

A day earlier, Baran confirmed he had withdrawn from the case, but he said that any statements he submitted to the panel had been approved in advance by the speaker. Within 24 hours, Baran and Blankley issued a statement saying the lawyer was still part of the defense team.

149 In the meantime, the customary political jockeying continued despite the current congressional recess.

'On behalf of Newt, I am asking all members to please defer comment on this matter until there is an official statement from the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct (the ethics panel's formal name) and until you have heard Newt's response to any information issued by the committee," Rep. John Boehner, R-Ohio, wrote all House Republicans.

The letter by Boehner, who ranks fourth in the House GOP leadership, said that when the committee releases information, Gingrich "will immediately contact you with any additional information we can provide."

Gingrich's main antagonist in the House, Minority Whip David Bonior, D-Mich., demanded the speaker "come clean" about the case with the House and the nation.

The subcommittee began its probe on Dec. 6, 1995, and hired an outside counsel, former Justice Department prosecutor James Cole.

BIBLE BAPTIST CHURCH

Why does this God who is "love" 1 John 4:8, let people suffer? A father who does not whip and chasten you doesn't love you, so why should God be any different (Heb. 12:4-12) Many Humanist think that whippings, spankings, are marks of a psychotic parent who is cruel and hates his child. But not all clowns are in the circus. See a loving Father can and does cause suffering (Prov 2:1, 4:1, 5:1, 6:1). No child in the world understands spankings as an act of love, because they cannot see the out come like you can. God's motives have to be right, even when his actions are an expression of his vengeance (Rom 3:5, 8:28-34, Heb 10:27-33, 1 These 1:8). The God of the Bible loves righteousness and Hates iniquity.

Bah! Humbug!

Isn't it wonderful that we've always had the Scrooge created by Charles Dickens as a model for Christmas cynicism!

I enjoy Christmas more. After my own children were grown, it just didn't seem worth the effort to go through the commercialism of the season.

From the vantage point of the "real" meaning of Christmas, though, I've never felt betrayed. For many years, the tradition of going to church on Christmas Eve has softened the fatigue that goes with the season. To sit in church, sing hymns and carols, listen to Scripture and remember the reason for it all brings on a sense of peace. As we hear, "peace on earth to men of goodwill," the problems seem to slide away.

Although I've often wondered if my grandchildren don't have -- and get -- more than they need, the excitement that goes with raising the tree (as soon after Thanksgiving as possible) and supervising installation of outdoor lighting is contagious.

The three-year-old granddaughter is having a real struggle. Every day, several times a day, she asks if it's time to open presents. She becomes indignant when told "no."

And, she's learned most of the words of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," apparently from her mother and brother. The trouble is, she doesn't take seriously the words, "you better not pout," yet. If you recall, she's the one who wants a life-size Barbie -- not one, but two -- and I don't know if I want to be around when she discovers only one

Her brother, almost six, has high expectations this year. He's at the age when all the Power Ranger gear is too inviting. Nintendo games also are high on his list. And, a big bike!

Both these two believe Santa will about Santa, but the six-year-old boy has not. He dictated his letter to his mother and she promptly sent it off, to wherever you send such letters.

Two days later, he wanted to One of the things I've noticed revise the list and was pretty bent out since I've had grandchildren is that of shape, I'm told, when his mother told him the letter already was mailed.

He decided to call on Santa himself to make changes in his list. He couldn't find his shoes and walked out of the house in his sock feet. He trudged to the nearest intersection where he was spotted by a parent.

The boy was thwarted in his attempt to go to the North Pole because he didn't know which way to go from the intersection. His mother offered to take him to the nearest mall Santa, but he refused. That's not the real Santa, he told his mother.

What happened after that I don't know.

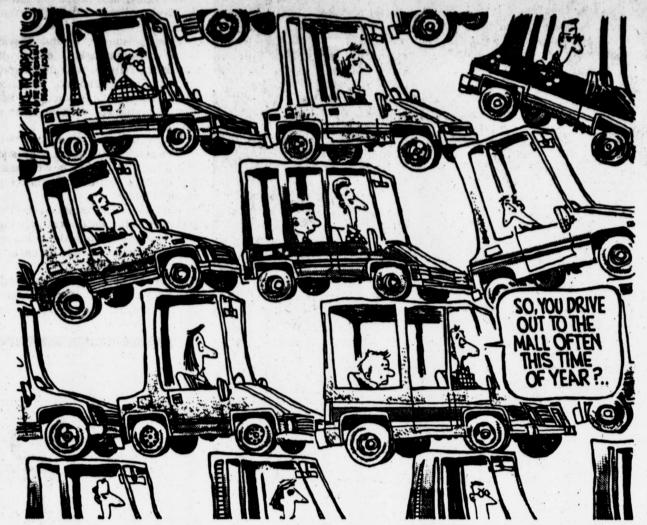

Now, to finish my tale about taking the three-year-old to "The Nutcracker" ballet . .

First of all, she didn't go to sleep as we feared. She sat on her mother's lap through the whole performance (about two hours) and made little noise.

The man in the seat in front may have black and blue marks on his back from her kicking the seat, although her mother tried to keep that to a minimum.

She picked out souvenirs for herself and her brother before the performance and then dropped hers, causing it to break into two pieces. A trip back to the concession counter was necessary at intermission.

From the opening curtain until the end, it was all her mother could do to keep her from going to the stage to join in the fun. When Clara was seated on a "throne" watching all acts, my granddaughter repeatedly wanted to join her.

Editorials from around the Nation

The Washington Post, on Israeli-Palestinian negotiations: Israel's Likud government has announced its plans to spur major new settlement in the occupied West Bank. All along it had its political and ideological reasons, and now it has taken the occasion of an ambush slaying of two Jewish settlers to translate those into policy. This is a terrible error.

As always and necessarily, the question of security for Israel is paramount. ... But security is not a new story. The previous Labor governments ... had an answer - Israeli-Palestinian accommodation. It was imperfect ... but it still is better than anything Likud has shown. Likud's policy is to substitute unilateral Israeli power for mutual accommodation. It does not trust peace with the Palestinians.

The Clinton administration says the new settlements are troubling and unhelpful. They always were, but there is a crucial difference. Labor planted and "thickened" settlements but offered Palestinians half a political loaf. Likud now threatens to expand settlement and to shrink that half-loaf. This is what the Clinton administration has refused to acknowledge. The heart of American policy in the Middle East has been a commitment to a negotiated peace that would be guaranteed by the United States. Binyamin Netanyahu's government ... is moving toward an ever more explicit repudiation of that goal. ...

The (Schenectady, N.Y.) Daily Gazette, on the national TV ratings system:

The television industry's long-awaited ratings system, due to take effect next month, probably isn't perfect, but so what? It's better than the existing system, which is essentially nothing.

The new system will somewhat resemble the Motion Picture Association of America's movie ratings: Kids' programs will be designated TV-K or TV-K7, indicating appropriateness either for all kids or just those over age 7. TV-G will mean a show is OK for all family members (not just kids); TV-PG will indicate parental guidance is suggested; TV-14 will mean a show is unsuitable for kids under 14; and TV-M will suggest the material is appropriate for adults only (presumably such shows will be shown only late at night or on pay TV).

Salvage Santa spending long hours in workshop recycling bicycles, toys

By BILL KACZOR Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Fla. (AP) - He's never been to the North Pole. He's a bit too slim, much too tall and his beard is still dark.

Just like his namesake, though, "Salvage Santa" is putting in long hours in his Christmas workshop.

A part-time job and exposure to the dark side of life as a homicide and child abuse investigator for the Panama City Police Department led Jones to the Salvage Santa program 13 years ago.

"You saw the children and the babies that didn't have anything, and Jones repairs, paints and polishes I'm talking about nothing, for toys.

aren't new, but they're just fine with They played with sticks and rocks. one," he said. It'll burst your heart. I just had to find a way to do something about it," Jones said.

Jones helped run the Fuzz Bowl, a football game between Panama City police and Bay County sheriff's deputies, that raised money to buy toys for several years.

"We kept getting broken arms and broken hands and broken legs,' Jones said. "So they made us quit playing."

About the same time, Jones was working security for Sears in his off-duty hours. He saw workers crushing new toys that were broken or had parts missing because it was cheaper than shipping them back to manufacturers.

"Hold the mail, let me talk to your manager," Jones told the workers.

The manager gave him the toys after he agreed to mark them so they couldn't be returned. A tinkerer and antique car buff, Jones went into to his wood-and-metal shop beside his home in this Panama City suburb, and began fixing and patching.

'If you get five or six Monopoly games, dump them all out on the floor and you can put together one good

The first few years, he got enough toys for about 50 kids. Then the local news media publicized his efforts and dubbed him Salvage Santa.

"It was like a hurricane," the 43-year-old Jones said. "People started coming to my house, dropping off bicycles, throwing stuff over the fence.

Other stores also contributed toys, manufacturers sent him free parts.

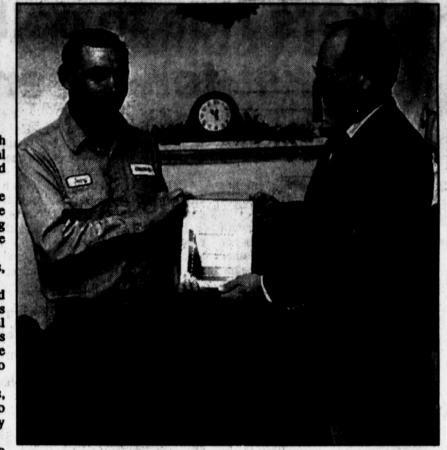

The Panama City and Springfield police departments gave Jones unclaimed bicycles and local businesses. Other organizations contributed money to pay for bike parts and purchase some new toys to go along with the old ones.

Now the program distributes gifts, including at least 100 bicycles, to about 900 kids every year in Bay County.

Friends and family pitch in to help Jones do repairs. His 5-year-old son, Christopher, is in charge of "quality control.'

"Nothing goes out of Salvage Santa's shop that he doesn't play with, check out, bang on, beat up, throw and make dang sure that it works," Jones said.

HOUSTON (AP) - It's the Sunshine Showdown. In one corner -Minute Maid Premium frozen concentrated orange juice. In the other - Tropicana Pure Premium ready-to-serve, chilled OJ.

Houston-based Minute Maid threw the first punch by running TV and print ads announcing taste tests show consumers like its product nearly 2-to-1 over its rival's.

Tropicana hit back, saying Minute Maid's claims are false and misleading. The company files a complaint with a branch of the Better Business Bureau and pulp splatters.

This week, the BBB's National Advertising Division said Minute Maid's ads must be modified.

"This is just kind of the war of the words," Mark Gutsche, spokesman for Bradenton, Fla.-based Tropicana, says. "The war in the store is what counts, and that's where Tropicana Pure Premium continues to grow every day and the competition doesn't.

Regulators found two problems with the ad, which was part of Houston-based Minute Maid's "Sunshine Showdown" series and appeared during the first half of the year.

For one thing, Minute Maid, a division of Coca-Cola, used bottled spring water instead of tap water to make its OJ for the taste test. For another, Minute Maid failed to take into account the seasonal variations 'inherent in "not-from-concentrate" orange juice like Tropicana's.

"We would have to do taste tests quarterly, monthly, weekly," Minute Maid spokesman Dan Schafer said. "It would make doing comparison commercials all but impossible."

Minute Maid has appealed the ruling to the National Advertising Review Board.

Frozen concentrated orange juice was the most popular seller for decades, but ready-to-serve OJ took the lead in the 1980s.

Gutsche says that's not going to change.

"It's not easy to fool consumers, even with what some people think might be clever advertising," he said. They vote every time they shop. They've tried all forms of orange juice. They're not going back to frozen. It doesn't taste as good and it's inconvenient."

Evaluating Fund Management Can Be a Challenge You wouldn't choose an attorney, CPA or broker without carefully investigating his or her experience and background. You should do the same with mutual funds.

When you invest in a mutual fund, you're entrusting someone else to make decisions about your money; therefore, you should carefully evaluate the manager of any fund you're considering. In fact, most published evaluations of mutual funds weigh heavily on the reputations of the managers.

For example, in its annual mutual fund ratings, Forbes magazine once disqualified an entire mutual fund management

Estate worth far less than estimated

NEW YORK (AP) - Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis' estate was worth far less than originally thought, forcing the executors of her will to scrap plans for a charitable trust named for her children, The New York Times reported Saturday. "Given the administrative expenses and the taxes and the consequences of the choices of the children, there will not be a residuary to create the C & J Foundation," said Jennifer Farina, a spokeswoman for Attorney General Dennis Vacco.

The "C & J Foundation" was to have been named for the former First Lady's children, Caroline Kennedy Schlossberg and John F. Kennedy Jr.

Court documents show that Mrs. Onassis' executors valued her estate at $43.7 million, far less than the $100 million or more that was reported in many news reports after her death in 1994, the newspaper said.

Meanwhile, reports that an auction of Onassis' property last year at Sotheby's yielded $34.5 million have prompted the Internal Revenue Service to begin an audit to determine the estate's true value, the Times said.

Mrs. Onassis' will left her two children valuable properties, including a Martha's Vineyard retreat and stocks. But it also gave them the option of letting some or all of the properties pass to a charitable trust, which was to have made donations to charities for 24 years and then be dissolved. At that time, the money would be passed on to her grandchildren.

Fortune magazine had called her will "a model of smart estate planning.'

Mrs. Onassis' executors have told the state that after paying administra-. tive expenses and distributing her assets and possessions, the estate has $18 million left. But it owes $23 million in taxes, the newspaper said.

teams rather than an individual for each fund. That ment that regardless of how outstanding or consistent the performance of any fund, if the spotlight was shared by more than one manager, that fund could not win a trophy. The editors of Forbes admitted that they had excluded an entire group of excellent funds because each fund was not managed by a single star. They also admitted that their highestrated fund probably would lose its luster if the manager left - and he did.

While this may be extreme, it illustrates how important the connection is between a fund's manager and its performance. Unfortunately, major managemarce. Onortunately, major manage-ment changes happen regularly at mutual fund companies. This makes it difficult when you're reviewing a fund's past per-formance. Did the fund have different managers during good times and bad times? Was the person who manages the fund today responsible for its outstanding performance in the past?

Even if you find a fund that has had continuous management, there are no guarantees about its future. According to USA Today, one fund company fired a manager of an asset allocation fund after he achieved a three-year return of 34 percent. The $11.2 billion he managed failed to meet the 36.8 percent average gain of similar funds. The fund company replaced him with a team of managers, one of them a top performer whose previ-ous fund more than doubled the average stock fund over the past 10 years.

Asset allocation funds move money among stocks, bonds and the money market in response to economic and market trends. People who invest in these funds are typically conservative, preferring reasonable returns and not too much risk. Their objective is not only to grow but also to protect. How do you think the shareholders of this fund reacted to the assignment of a new stock picker who could be a high roller?

There's not much you can do about management changes at mutual funds. However, keep in mind that when you examine mutual fund ratings, you may be looking through a reat-view mirror. The two fundamental tests in selecting a fund are consistency of results and continuity of the people managing the fund. Simply put, the same managers must be consistent in making money.

Blindly buying a mutual fund without knowing about its management history could be an invitation to big surprises. Before you invest, learn the fund's stated objectives, its risk parameters and as much as you can about its management history

Bikers ride to collect toys, not just for sheer delight

Nearly 1,000 area motorcycle enthusiasts have gathered in different parts of the Houston area on this brilliant December day to ride, not for the sheer delight of it, but for a cause. For three years now, these biker groups have united every other week through the holiday season to collect toys for a U.S. Marine Corps program which distributes gifts to needy children.

For some, like Paula Rose and her man Bill Socie who organized this year's toy run, having fun while they help others has become a way of life.

"It's kind of a hobby of ours," Rose said. Our kids are grown, so we might as well take on others."

"You can have one of mine," interjects friend Janice Harris jokingly.

At last year's benefit, Rose and Socie were able to gather seven truckloads of toys and $600 in cash to give to the Corps program.

'Bikers like a reason to party," Rose said. "This gives us a reason to.'

The biker motorcade blazes down State Highway 3 in a roar of screaming engines. Wind streaks through the hair of the riders, coursing around their bodies and pausing to invigorate their souls.

At the head of the pack, in a position of honor, rides the red-clad, jolly old elf himself - "Moby Claus" and his favorite elf, waving from atop their customized Harley-Davidson.

Mesmerized, passing motorists wave to the bikers, some of whom sport the traditional black leathers and biker club logos along with Santa hats, jingle bells aplenty and an assortment of red and green holiday wear. A jumble of brightly wrapped presents rode shotgun on most of the sleek cycles, lashed to customized chrome and leather racks.

Wendy's founder recovering from heart surgery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Dave Thomas, founder and pitchman of Wendy's fast-food hamburger chain, was recovering Friday from quadruple bypass surgery, a company spokesman said.

Thomas' surgery was "routine" and doctors expect him to make a full recovery, spokesman Denny Lynch said.

Lynch said Friday night he was not certain when Thomas would be released from the hospital, which has not been identified.

Thomas, 64, was admitted Dec. 14 after suffering chest pains. Bypass surgery reroutes blood around blocked heart arteries. Thomas had not previously suffered heart problems, Lynch said.

His folksy manner and self-deprecating humor in the Wendy's radio and television ads in the United States and Canada have been credited with helping the fast-food chain prosper.

In the latest commercial, which began airing at the end of November, Thomas touts a smoky bacon cheeseburger.

The chain plans to run its current series of ads featuring Thomas into spring

Usual motivation not key in Washington, Dallas clash

WASHINGTON (AP) - The NFL's ast game at RFK Stadium will be an event sure to stir the emotions of fans, dignitaries and the throng of former Redskins players and coaches expected to attend.

As for the game itself, well, that's another matter. For opposite reasons, the Redskins and Dallas Cowboys just don't have the usual motivation.

'Honestly, it's going to be hard," Redskins linebacker Marvcus Patton said. "Once the whistle blows and the game starts, the ball's kicked, we'll probably be into it, but it's going to be difficult."

The Redskins are dealing with the humiliation of one of the worst collapses in recent sports history. Knocked out of playoff contention last week, they have a chance to become the first team since the NFL went to a 16-game regular season in 1979 to finish 8-8 after starting 7-1.

The Cowboys, meanwhile, went in the opposite direction, winning nine of their last 11 to clinch their fifth consecutive NFC East title. With no realistic chance of improving their playoff seeding, the Cowboys will rest several of their injured starters and coast into the postseason.

"I think it's wonderful; I'm glad we don't have to come there and win," coach Barry Switzer said. "We got that accomplished last week, and excellent in regard that there are certain players that are happy because they won't have to be extended this week, because they can take that opportunity to get ready to play the playoffs.'

That includes tackle Mark Tuinei, defensive end Tony Tolbert and tight end Eric Bjornson, and probably running back Emmitt Smith and safety Bill Bates. Quarterback Troy Aikman could have a short night as well.

Switzer even called this a "bye" week for the Cowboys. Though he later called that a "poor choice of words," the comment didn't seem to that was our goal. Our attitude is rile the Redskins. Most of the team's don't have much to play for, but usual tough-talkers, including Patton, Tre Johnson and Rich Owens, offered little or no reaction.

> "They've got to do what's best for them," was coach Norv Turner's shoulder-shrugging response.

While the line between victory and defeat may be blurred Sunday, it's also true that an NFL game is never meaningless. For the Redskins, there are a number of players who have one last chance to prove they shouldn't be put on the chopping block for their performances in the second half of the season.

"A lot of guys may not think they you've got a job you want to keep next year," return specialist Brian Mitchell said. "People whose contracts are up, you want to be able to come back to this team or have another team look at you. We don't have a chance to go to the playoffs, but a lot more is at stake. Your career is at stake."

For the Cowboys, it's not next year, but next week they have to worry about. The offense hasn't scored a touchdown in three of the past five games, a trend that doesn't bode well for the playoffs. Even Smith, who wasn't exactly enthusiastic over the prospect of playing, admitted the offense probably should use Sunday's game to rediscover its rhythm. "Personally, I think we need to go out there and establish some good things, work on the running game, work on the passing game, try to get the ball in the end zone when we're in the red zone. That's the key," Smith said. "Not only that, but also try to maintain some guys' health also."

Utah rallies to beat Magic; Mavericks lose

By The Associated Press John Stockton did it all against Orlando.

Stockton had 22 points, 15 assists, five rebounds, four steals and a blocked shot Friday night as Utah rallied to beat the Magic 98-93.

"The guy's unbelievable," said Orlando's Rony Seikaly. "I think he's got 16 eyes around his head. He just sees everybody and gets the ball in perfect position for people to convert.'

Utah trailed most of the night before Stockton led a fourth-quarter rally with 16 points, including a 3-pointer during an 8-0 run and an off-balance jumper that gave the Jazz a 93-87 lead with just under a minute left.

"We're a team that plays 48 minutes of basketball," said Karl Malone, who had 20 points and six rebounds. "Even though we don't start off or look good in the beginning, we feel if we just keep things going like we're capable, we've got chance against anybody."

having 12 days to get ready for No. 6 Penn State and being slightly favored to win the Fiesta Bowl, Texas coach John Mackovic is far from complacent.

When you get to a bowl game, there are so many things to do," Mackovic said before beginning twice-daily workouts today.

The No. 20 Longhorns (8-4) arrived Friday, one day after Penn State (10-2).

"Last year we arrived in New Orleans after Christmas and never got into game week the way we should have," he said of the 28-10 loss to Virginia Tech.

The Longhorns' trip to the Sugar Bowl last year was marred by the controversy over a reserve defensive back who turned out to be a 30-year-old imposter.

Joel Ron McKelvey was revealed to be Ron Weaver, whose eligibility had been exhausted in 1989 at Weaver and McKelvey left the team unannounced after the revelation, and the Longhorns went on to lose.

This time, Mackovic said, the Longhorns plan to maximize their pre-bowl opportunities.

"It was more convenient for us to come to Arizona early so we could get some good quality practices in and also allow our team the chance to enjoy themselves.

We have our work cut out for us," said Mackovic. "I got a chance to watch some film of Penn State this week and I think they were playing as well as anybody in the country at the end of the season.'

Texas, which knocked off Nebraska in the Big 12 championship to earn its first Fiesta appearance, enters the game on a roll.

The Longhorns lost four of their first seven games but finished with five straight wins, including the 37-27 victory over Nebraska.

"We turned the page over in mid year," said Mackovic. "One of our goals was the Big 12 title and we accomplished that. I think we just wanted to play better each week and we played our best game against Nebraska.

"But the kids realize that to beat Penn State we will have to play even better."

"It's one of those things," Economedes said. "These space heaters and Christmas lights cause along with his seven-year-old sister, problems. If you have a space heater, ou've got to keep things away from them."

This was the first time the Rodriguez family had Christmas lights or electricity at their home since moving to their colonia home about three years ago. The house had still lacked running water, and its half-destroyed outhouse sat to one side of the destroyed residence.

"Poor Sylvia she now has absolutely nothing," Socorro Gonzales, a neighbor and relative, said. "She had built her home with so much sacrifice, to again be left with nothing."

Prisoners to screen CrimeStoppers video

DALLAS (AP) - After a fruitless, 11-month search for suspects, authorities are trying something new in the hope of finding the person who kidnapped and killed a 9-year-old Arlington girl.

Police have received thousands of tips regarding the abduction and murder of Amber Hagerman, who was dragged screaming from her bicycle while riding in an abandoned parking lot Jan. 13. Her body was found days later in a creek bed, her throat slashed.

Still, they have made no arrests. Police plan to show a Crime-Stoppers video - with pictures of the crime scene and a description of the killer's behavior - not only on television but in more than 90 prisons across the state.

"I've got a daughter myself, and I wouldn't want nothing like that to happen to her," inmate Charles Wilson, a non-violent offender at the Hutchins Unit, told Dallas television station WFAA.

The killer could already be behind bars, but the police may not know it.

'Sometimes people commit offenses, will intentionally get themselves arrested at a later date simply to take them out of the general population and, in their mind at least, take them away from the police presence on the outside," said Arlington Sgt. Mark Simpson.

"Santa is a little bit..."

Susan Hicks explains the origin of Santa Claus to her sixth grade class at St. Anthony's School. Hicks stitched the needlepoint figure of the contemporary Santa as part of a series of legendary "gift givers." She has completed 14 figures and plans to add at least four more to the series. Some of the designs are from patterns and some she designed herself.

Local teacher shares history of 'gift givers' with figures she has created in needlepoint

Susan Hicks sits in the floor of her sixth grade classroom at St. Anthony's School with the students in a circle around her.

They listen intently as she talks about the delicate needlepoint figure she holds in her hand.

"This is St. Nicholas. He is the basis for most of the legendary gift givers and the only one that evolved from a real person," she says.

There is a collection of these needlepoint figures beside her and each one is a "gift giver." Hicks began making the figures about five years ago and has completed 14.

"I was at a volleyball tournament in Austin and finished the needlepoint I was working on, so I stopped at a craft store to see what I could find," Hicks said.

What she found was a pattern for Tomten, an elf-like figure from Sweden that, according to legend, lives in the barn and brings good luck to those who leave him treats.

"I was hooked," she said. "I began to wonder why there were so many different Santa-type figures and where they came from."

The series now includes, in addition to St. Nicholas and Tomten, a figure of Father Christmas from England and our own Santa Claus.

the early gift bearers. As people came to America from different countries with different legends, these legends began to blend and the result was Santa Claus as we know him today," Hicks said.

The look that we associate with Santa Claus actually came from a picture drawn by Thomas Nast which appeared in Harper's Weekly in the mid-1800s. The basis for his picture was the poem "The Night Before Christmas" by Clements C. Moore, according to the story that Hicks relates to her class.

The next figure she shows is a "frontier" Santa dressed in buckskin carrying practical gifts, like a saw and a knife, that would be useful on the American frontier.

"We tend to adapt Santa to the situation we are in," Hicks said. "Another type of Santa that became popular during the Civil War was the Stars and Stripes Santa. And Santas in similar red, white and blue costumes are popular anytime our country is involved in a war during the Christmas season."

Each gift bearer takes about two months to complete, Hicks says. She sometimes spends more time looking for the material and fibers she needs to get a particular look than she actually spends doing the needlepoint. Although the first gift bearer she made was from a store pattern, she has designed several of the figures from information she gathered while researching each legend.

"I enjoy needlepoint. It helps me gear down, sit still," Hicks said. As the wife of a farmer, the mother of four and a teacher, Hicks has many demands on her time.

But she also enjoys sharing the figures with others and relating the

Extension News

By BEVERLY HARDER County Extension Agent/FCS Last year during the Christmas eason, I read a poem written by a child's father. It talked about him holding his daughter in the warmth of the Christmas lights wondering if he had left her with a legacy for Christmas.

It made me reflect on what we leave our children with ... and what they carry to their children.

Do or did we help them realize that gifts were better to give than to receive? Did we really help them see that people were less fortunate than they were? Sharing our holiday day serving meals in a homeless facility is a sure way to help children see this concept; however, do we just invite another person that may be alone into our home to share our holiday?

Do we help our children have a perspective about gift giving that is one of "reasonability." This is a word my own child made up but it seems to put a title to what we need to help children learn. How expensive is that gift they are requesting?

As parents, have we set a precedence for giving expensive gifts? Have we really taught "it's the thought that counts" concept? It's not too late.

Making little give-away bags that go by the front door, of our favorite candies or other homemade creations, can be given to visiting guests. Let children help you make these. For older youth, have a family conference and express your concerns and ask for family suggestoins to have a "different kind of Christmas," letting them know your concerns about reasonable gift-giving.

Perhaps the greatest Christmas legacy that we can instill in our children is the legacy of friendship Michael is employed by Lightfoot, in time spent with family and friends, Guest and Wagner, accounting firm, the gift of inspiration and joy in the music of the season, the gift of love Hereford Claim Service in Lubbock. in preparations of food, decorations,

OUR EYES —

What Kind Of Glaucoma

Glaucoma affects millions of Americans. What makes the condition most dangerous is that symptoms may not be obvious until the damage is quite far gone. That's why your optometrist's yearly test for glaucoma is so important.

Most common is primary open-angle glaucoma, in which pressure in the eye gradually destroys the optic nerve. There is rarely any pain or noticeable loss of vision. Treatment may include medication or surgery. Primary closed-angle glaucoma develops quickly and can be verypainful, and loss of vision will be noticeable. It must be treated quickly to prevent blindness.

Secondary glaucoma can result from injury, disease or medical treatment. It may follow eye surgery or advanced cataracts. Certain drugs can trigger it. Neovascular glaucoma is linked to diabetes. Congenital glaucoma is rare and usually can be relieved surgically.

Dear Ann Landers: I couldn't few of them, this child's young life hold back the tears when I read the news story in the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel about a local 12-year--old boy who hanged himself in his parents' backyard.

It seems the boy was overweight and didn't want to go to school because his classmates continually teased him about being fat. He just couldn't take it anymore. He got up in the middle of the night, found a rope, went to the backyard and ended his life. When his younger brothers, 8 and 10, were getting ready for school in the morning, they looked outside and saw their brother hanging from the limb of a tree. There was a step stool and a flashlight beside the body.

The police pronounced the boy dead at the scene. The boy's mother collapsed. His father immediately chopped down the tree.

Ann, it is hard to imagine a worse nightmare. The boy was 5 feet 4 and weighed 174 pounds. His parents had taken him to physicians and counselors, hoping to build his self-esteem.

Most parents try to teach their children right from wrong, good manners and respect, but they overlook teaching compassion. I always told my kids to put themselves in the other person's shoes and to stand up for the underdog.

I am asking you to please print this letter, Ann. Children need to know that ridicule can be a cruel weapon. This young boy's life was cut short because of it. -- So Sorry in Florida Dear Florida: Every now and

Dear Heloise: We put some window film on our kitchen windows some time ago and would like to remove it but haven't been able to peel it off. Is there a way to get it off? - A Texas Reader

Sometimes that film can be really stubborn! Try this home-style method first to see if it will help.

Mix a solution of a few squirts of liquid dishwashing detergent and water, pour into a spray bottle, spritz the window on the film side and allow it to sit a few minutes.

Next, using a scraper blade with a razor (sold at hardware and homeimprovement stores), begin scraping off the film. Be very careful because the razor is sharp!

If the film is just too stubborn, you will probably need to call a windowtinting company to come out and professionally clean the window. Call around for the best price. Good luck! Heloise

Amazing Grace, How Sweet the Sound That Saved a Wretch Like Me I Once Was Lost, But Now I'm Found T'was Blind, But Now I See

Mother was a ray of sunshine on an overcast day. A warm bug when you needed it most. A beacon of light during The Depression's darkest bour. A pillar of strength in a loving family. A solid rock in an uncertain world.

She lived like the gospel song ... with amazing grace. Family and friends never took Mother for granted, but to do so would have been understandable. Her generosity was unmatchable, ber love unwavering. Her spirit undying.

In many ways, Mother never died. She'll live on forever in the bearts of those she touched so deeply. Embedded in childbood memories are simple pleasures such as a bag of bomemade candy or an enchanting tale. Etched in family love are the bigger tasks she performed just as skillfully. And what a wonderful role model she was for ber children and grandchildren.

It is indeed appropriate that Mother often bummed the words to that moving bymn. Because on Sept. 10, 1906, God created a woman that would become truly amazing. And for 90 years, she warmed bearts and enlightened lives with unfailing grace.

Extension Agent's Notes

By DENNIS NEWTON

County Extension Agent-AG I wish that I had not even mentioned the beautiful warm weather that we had last week, or that I hoped and prayed that we did not have to pay for the warm weather later in the winter with some Arctic bucks.

I believe that we have paid our fair share of Arctic bucks for that short week of warm weather. It never ceases to amaze me how quickly our weather can change.

Speaking of the weather, the sixtyfour thousand dollar question this past week has been -- How much is our wheat crop damaged from the cold?

I did brave the elements Wednesday and Thursday to check a few fields. Some look like they did receive some damage. I especially noticed the damage on the later planted wheat that was extremely dry. Some larger irrigated wheat, appears to have some leaf burn, but I feel that most of it will be all right.

Before any of you wheat producers panic, remember that winter wheat is one of the most winter hardy plants that we produce, and never, never right it off until the season is over. In my 25 years of service with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, I have seen wheat that I would not have given a chance, come on and make a very respectable yield. Remember, soil testing is a very small expense where the cost of fertilizer is concerned. This time of year is a very good time to get those samples no matter which crop is to be grown.

In the case of sugar beets, the Holly Sugar agriculturist will be glad to help you with your testing. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has a soil testing laboratory in samples beginning at $10 per sample.

first wrote about "Unlucky Jimmy" in December, 1990. Because the true meaning of Christmas is a timeless message, I will share it again.

Unlucky Jimmy is a sad little story my mother read to me when I was small. It's about a little boy named Jimmy whose family was very poor. His little sister was an invalid and spent most of her days in bed. Christmas held no hope or joy for either of the children.

As he trudged home from school each day, Jimmy would stop to look at the toys in the bright store windows. More than anything, he wanted a little red fire engine. Jimmy knew he would never be lucky enough to get one. In fact, his only marble had rolled down a storm drain the previous week. He felt that he was the unluckiest boy alive. He even called himself Unlucky Jimmy.

Then, one night just before Christmas, Jimmy received an invitation to a Christmas party for the poor children in the neighborhood. A nice lady from a nearby church mission promised Jimmy a special gift. Jimmy grew excited as he drew near the mission. He couldn't believe his eyes when he saw the Christmas tree. It was covered with lights and surrounded by toys. Jimmy saw a bright red fire engine just like the one in the store window.

When it came time for each child to pick out a gift, Jimmy's heart nearly stopped. He was afraid that someone else would pick the fire engine. Fortunately, when his turn came, the little red truck was still under the tree. As Jimmy reached for the engine, he thought of his frail little sister at home in bed. He stopped and turned to the mission lady. He asked softly if he might pick two gifts, one for himself and one for his sister at home. The lady shook her head sadly and told Jimmy there were only enough presents for one per child.

Jimmy looked longingly at the little fire engine. Then he picked out the prettiest doll under the tree. It had blue eyes and curly blond hair just like his little sister. As he returned to his seat with the doll, the other children began to laugh and make fun of him. Unlucky Jimmy clutched the little doll and ran from the mission. He stopped crying by the time he reached home.

Jimmy began to feel better when he saw the look of surprise and delight on his sister's face. As she hugged the doll and cried with joy, Jimmy didn't feel so unlucky after all.

Later, as Jimmy sat by his little sister's bed watching her play with her doll, someone knocked on the door. When he opened it, the mission lady was there. She gave him the red fire engine and explained to Jimmy that the children were sorry they had laughed at him. They had not known about his sick little sister. Aftershe told them why Jimmy had chosen the doll, the children asked her to bring the fire engine to Jimmy. The True Meaning

I often think of Jimmy at Christmas time and usually feel a little selfish. Shall we start a "Jimmy" tradition this Christmas season? We can make the coming year a joyous occasion for all people by giving more of ourselves.

Volunteer time to your favorite church or charity. Make or bake something for someone less fortunate. Take time to listen to someone who needs you. Let's make this year a year of giving.

Remember the real reason we celebrate Christmas is Christ's birth. Whether or not you are a Christian by faith, Christ's life of giving, sharing and caring is a good example for all of us.

Compact Fluorescent Bulbs: Save Money, the Environment

prefer to leave a light on if you think you'll arrive home late --- it's an effective deterrent to crime and provides peace of mind. But what about the cost of leaving lights burning for hours on end!

Americans spend more money for household utilities than they spend for legal service, higher education and heath insurance combined, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Keeping a light burning also has a direct impact on the environment because local power plants have to burn coal, oil and gas to generate extra electricity. Burning fossil fuels produces air pollutants like carbon dioxide, sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides, which can contribute to global warming, acid rain and smog.

Ordinary light bulbs use from 24 to 30 cents worth of electricity per

ÊR

(NU) - Eike most people, you - day, compared with compact fluorescents, which use only a penny's worth per day. And compact fluorescents provide the same amount of light, but use 75 percent less electricity and last 13 times longer. An average household can save $300 a year by using compact fluorescent lights.

> From both an economic and environmental perspective, such compactfluorescent bulbs could have a major impact if --- in addition to homeowners - schools, hospitals, the military and businesses begin to use them. According to the Center for Renewable Energy and Sustainable Technology, if 1 percent of American households switched from incandescent lights to compact fluorescent lights for one year, the energy saved could power every household in the City of Baltimore for another full year.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/ products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

--Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

-- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

-- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

-- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Today in History

Today is Sunday, Dec. 22, the 357th day of 1996. There are nine days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: On Dec. 22, 1864, during the Civil War, Union General William T. Sherman sent a message to President Lincoln from Georgia, saying, "I beg to present you as a Christmas gift the city of Savannah."

On this date:

In 1963, an official 30-day mourning period following the assassination of President John F.

Kennedy came to an end.

In 1989, Romania's hard-line Communist ruler, Nicolae Ceausescu, was toppled in a popular uprising.

In 1989, playwright Samuel Beckett died in Paris at age 83. In 1990, Lech Walesa took the oath of office as Poland's first popularly elected president.

Ten years ago: The experimental airplane Voyager, piloted by Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager, neared the end of its nonstop, round-the-world flight as it flew along Mexico's Pacific coast toward Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Five years ago: The body of Lt. Col. William R. Higgins, an American hostage murdered by his captors, was found dumped along a highway in Lebanon.

One year ago: The Senate approved a wide-ranging Republican plan to overhaul the nation's welfare system, 52-47, but without enough votes to override President Clinton's promised veto. Actress Butterfly McQueen, who played the scatter-brained slave Prissy in "Gone With the Wind," died at age 84. Today's Birthdays: Lady Bird Johnson is 84. Former House Speaker Jim Wright is 74. Actress Barbara Billingsley is 74. Actor Hector Elizondo is 60. Retired baseball player Steve Carlton is 52. ABC News correspondent Diane Sawyer is 51. Rock singer-musician Rick Nielsen (Cheap Trick) is 48. Retired baseball player Steve Garvey is 48.

Chocolate makes way into house before holidays

By CARROLL WILSON Thanksgiving, things chocolate were

It came in the form of a German chocolate cake, which is to chocolate what Sanka is to espresso or light beer is to Pete's Wicked Ale. German chocolate cake is more about sugar than it is about chocolate, but it is chocolate just the same, even though a mere tease.

It also came in the form of those small slivers of dark chocolate that seem to magically appear on your pillow at dusk in some of your better hotels. These are the tasty equivalents of the nine or 11 peanuts that are so solicitously doled out by airline stewardesses.

I had occasion to collect a small number of these prize confections, and I say "collect" because it borders on sin to just come into your hotel room and find a chocolate sliver on your pillow and pop it into your mouth while you click on the TV and prepare to retire for the evening.

Fine chocolate is to be savored.

It also came in the form of a rather large box of Baci, which are individually wrapped chocolates with chopped hazelnut filing and a whole hazelnut on top, manufactured in Italy by the Perugina company.

One of my daughters introduced me to these delightful morsels she brought back from Rome several years ago. While in Italy in October, I made a point to track down a purveyor of Baci, and I bought the largest box and then a smaller box, and I am embarrassed to say that I kept the large box for myself and sent the smaller box to my daughter, who shares my taste for these finest of goodies.

I am very careful about the consumption of these chocolates that have made their way into the house. They are too wonderful to be the subject of a binge. Each individual piece must be cherished like fine brandy. And the timing must be right, a moment of deserving of private celebration.

Such moments are rare, and so I can make one box of Godivas last for months, sometimes forgetting they are on the cupboard shelf and then discovering them anew, which is itself a cause for celebration and a piece or two if no one's looking.

Forgetting such treasure is not a good idea. One Christmas years ago I received a box of Godiva chocolates, and I made the mistake of stashing it amongst the pickles and making their way into our house. Some months later, a suitable This I could take as a positive sign. celebratory moment occurred, and i remembered the Godivas and the memory alone warmed me to my toenails. I rushed to the kitchen, found the box amid the growing collection of half-eaten substances, removed it, opened the box-and found it empty.

The celebratory moment took a sullen turn.

This was at a time when my three daughters were small and still at home, and I rounded them up and confronted them with the empty box and demanded a confession.

They collectively stuttered and stammered and studied the carpet, and finally the big one squealed: The culprit, she said, was the baby sitter.

And so this young man, son of a trusted family, was Xed off the list of sitters. If you can't trust someone with a box of Godivas, how can you possibly trust them with your kids?

gathering of the family at some holiday or another, the girls brought up the purloined Godivas.

We were having one of those conversations parents dread, in which the child or children, now grown, feel they must unload youthful transgressions.

And they confessed: It was not the baby sitter who had secreted the chocolates out of the box in the refrigerator; it was them.

Just another shard of guilt to add to the pile that surrounds the Many years later, during a rare enjoyment of a bit of fine chocolate.

Where, I wonder, does the guilt at home. come from?

I have absolutely no problem gobbling down a Hershey bar after lunch or popping Junior Mints at the picture show.

So, why should the guiltless consumption of a substance in one form elicit such pangs of conscience when consumes in another?

Perhaps, I am thinking, it is not guilt at all. Perhaps I am just stingy.

But, they, who drink light beer and down plates full of German chocolate cake, really would not appreciate such treasure, now would they?

Besides, it is almost Christmas. Christmas, the time for giving.

And I would not want them to think I already have too much of a very, very good thing.

ANSWER: You'd be surprised at the amount of mail I get from heartsurgery patients, even those who have had transplants.

Yes, heart-transplant patients can exercise, and golf is not out of the question. However, your husband should realize that he is in the same category of a person very much out of condition. The enforced rest imposed by the surgery alone gives cause for great caution.

It probably will be months at least before he can safely manage a full 18 holes at a time. Much also depends on whether he is using a golf cart, using a caddy or carrying his own clubs

I suggest he play it safe and learn where he stands on the conditioning scale. He should consult his doctor.

Your husband probably can join a structured exercise program to learn just where his limitations lie and how to monitor his own recovery.

Such a program progresses from simple walking and use of stationary biking, for example.

I know of one heart-transplant patient who ran the Boston Marathon.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I've been taking a couple of aspirins just before exercise to prevent muscle soreness. It seems to be working. Is it a good idea? — V.G.

ANSWER: It's not a good idea. Aspirin and other anti-inflammatory drugs irritate stomach linings. already facing the immediate disadvantage of diverted blood supply to exercising muscles. So you are imposing a double burden on the stomach.

Forgo use of aspirin as a prophylactic drug. Reserve it only for normal use.

HEALING AT CHRISTMAS It's funny how I can't remember much about last Christmas but I can remember specific details about Christmases over thrity years ago. The details are a little scattered but nonetheless vivid. A few thoughts meandered across my mind like a little boy going back to the house to report to his folks that he'd broken a window in the garage. I recall as a little boy of about five that my grandparents had built and moved into a new home. The memory is vivid (and my mom will tell me if it's correct) of the first minutes away and for years we would often go to their home after Sunday School, thus skipping church, for Sunday lunch. This we did about once a month. We also gathered at Christmas to celebrate my cousin's and my birhtday's. After lunch Pop said to us grandkids that we needed to go and get a Christmas tree. I didn't know if we were going to the grocery store or some Christmas tree stand to buy a new one. Pop put on his boots and went to the garage and grabbed a saw and we were off through the pastures to cut one down. We really didn't know what we were doing but this was family and this was fun and so it didn't matter.

These trees we went after weren't the greatest of Christmas trees. To some they may be the ugliest. But if nothing else would grow in that part of Hill County, cedar trees would. It is highly understated to say that these Red Cedars dotting the countryside weren't as stately as some pines, as full as some spruce, or as graceful as some firs. They were, however, greenish, they were somewhat pyramidal in form, and very fragrant. The best thing to Pop however was that they were free and it was a little adventure with the grandkids. Prior to that adventure I guess I thought all Christmas trees came from the Lions club. So cedar trees weren't the best kind of Christmas trees but this was family and this was fun so it really didn't matter.

Picking one tree out of the

Another one was shaped nicely but was rather thin. Another was full and triangular but was too short. Finally one was selected, cut, trimmed a little and made ready for the trip home. We had brought nothing to wrap it in so it was half dragged and half carried back to the house. It was cut to fit the stand. Trimmed a little more, and set up in the picture window of the living room. Odd how a tree you took an hour to seek out and select in the field because it was "just right" looks so do remember laughing with my

For one time in history He had His Son put on His earthly suit of humanity at a time we call Christmas. He went out into the world to pick a family because humanity wasn't much of one, sin wasn't as much fun as we thought, and we really didn't know what mattered. But He did. Yet, unlike our trips to pick trees, Jesus picked the tall ones, short and the misshaped ones

I think God must teach us that, too. to be a part of His family. One day He will display His scarred-hand-picked family at the picture window of heaven and the joy a few of us knew from Christmases long ago will be multiplied ten-thousand times because it's all the family, it's all joy and it really does matter.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TERRY COSBY 1996

What We Do on Christmas

We have tradtisions at our house. I sleep until I can't sleep and then we get my parents up. My dad reads the Bible Story. Then we pick a Santa. The Santa will get the presents and give them to my parents and my brothers and me. Then we will go to one of my parents parent and open presents. Thats Christmas at my house.

Amanda Wall

Christmas time is a time of happiness

A time of sharing, a time of caring A time to be with your loved ones The snow is falling outside the window

Now it is time, the laughter stops Johnny opens his presents first Pop! It's a jack-in-the-box! Next is Judy, her turn has come Her face is all red, she knows what it is! It's a doll named Liz! Now Christmas has past We wish it would last. We'll have to wait 'til next year, So don't shed a tear!

Christmas

There was once a lady, Who had a baby He grew up And his name was Jesus

I believe there is Jesus And that he died for us Three days later he rose And soon will come for us.

I wish I knew where He lives I want to give Him thanks For what He has done for me.

I wish to thank Him For what He gave me,

He gave me my mom and dad He also gave me a brother and two sisters and a home.

Thank you. Urial Mendoza Grade 7 HJH

On a Snowy Day On a snowy day in a snowy season I went out to play without any reason I went into the woods, not knowing what I'd find. But then I heard a squeak. And I knew the noise wasn't mine. I started in further until it got dim And then I heard the squeak again and again I followed the sound

To a hole in the ground

Then I fell with a leap and a bound As I went down, it got brighter and brighter As I went down, it got tighter and tighter

I fell into a workshop filled with elves With all of them working there making toys and shelves

The says went squeak, squeak And I knew this was the place For there was a jolly, fat old fellow standing in an open space. Will McGowan

Christmas Time Christmas in my family means getting together and playing games On Christmas, it's hard to say all the names

Although there's lots of commotion, we still have lots of devotion Even though the children run and we can't catch them, it's still fun We open our presents and laugh

a lot While we cook the turkey in a big

Then we try to find a seat so we can

Then Christmas is over in my family. Brandy Gallardo HJH Grade 7

My Christmas Traditions Every Christmas Eve my mom and I go to my great grandparents house. My grandparents and my aunt and uncle will be there for the holidays to.

We open our presents on Christmas Eve. I always pass out the presents to each person. After we open our presents I take out all my new toys and games. Then I play the new games with my mom and aunt. This year I hope I will be playing with a Nintendo 64. All I want for Christmas is a Nintendo 64. We go to bed at about midnight.

When I get up the next morning Santa has come. We stay till lunch is over and then we go back home. And that's the way my tradition goes.

For laughter, tears, hugs and kisses, Year after year, it never misses. And so, our friends, we wish for you, And everyone in your family, too, A magical holiday filled with mirth, As we celebrate His wondrous birth

Bluebonnet Kindergarten Dear Santa Claus, How are you doing? My name is

Dear Santa,

I'm typing some of the letters you are reading now and I thought I'd drop in a letter of my own just to see if you were paying attention -checking it twice, as it is widely reported.

My eyes are tired.

You know I'm telling the truth Tearing wrappings from our gifts is because you've been there. It's late on a cold, winter night. Mrs. Claus has called a couple of times to ask if you and the elves were going to work straight through to Christmas future. The central heat just kickedin because it's seven below out there, and your eyes are tired after reading (what seems like millions) these lists -- meticulously written, erased, corrected and re-written several times with loving care in No. 2 pencils.

Don't get me wrong Santa. I'm glad to do it for you, for them, for

We happily reprint the most famous editorial ever written on the suject-and wish you a Merry Christmas

"Is There a Santa Claus?" is the question Virginia, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philip F. O'Hanlon, put to the Editor of THE SUN in September 1897. Her letter was turned over to Francis Pharcellus Church to answer. The product of his fine nature, mellow wisdom and sound craftsmanship was the editorial "Is There a Santa Claus?"

Christmas is a time of you... Christmas is a time of joy and happiness

When friends and family join together in Christmas cheer

To trim the tree and hang the mistletoe

To open presents on Christmas morn

A time to celebrate the Birth of Christ

A time to give with a joyful heart. Christmas means something a little bit different to everyone!

No, no, I'm not crying, or pouting. I'm happy. Really! I'm very happy, and maybe my eyes aren't that tired. It probably was an exageration, or dirty contacts. I can see that now, even if it's a little blurry.

I guess I just wanted to remind you that in some small microscopic way, I am trying to repay you for your demonstrative kindness to me -despite those occasions when the scales of justice tilted precariously toward naughty.

I would never imply any indebtedness you might have to this newspaper, or any small but meaningful part my employment here might have had for making your job any easier.

Actually, I had only a very minor role in recognizing the clear need to enlarge our type, thus making reading lists like these easier on older eyes. I can't quite recall when we made the change, but I'm sure I would have been here to help make it.

And I don't think I'd feel comfortable in accepting any credit for getting your picture plastered all over our front page every week since the Pilgrims left town.

Some of our readers might say our focus on your visits were nothing less than pandering to commercial interests, but I feel they have greatly underestimated your ability as a professional speaker.

Now, before you start reading between the lines of this more legible copy and jumping to any hasty conclusions about the complete sincerity of this letter, I ask you to also consider that we are still offering you a senior citizen discount on your current subscription to the Hereford Brand.

Hey Kris! This is me, your old pal remember. Trust me! Where's your sense of humor. Ho! Ho! Bury your doubts FOR GOODNESS SAKE! This is Christmas present and it's going to be a Dickens of a Christmas, of that much I'm sure. I know this because we're almost finished typing these lists for you and they will soon be shipped.

I also know what these other authors know, Santa. As long as we believe. there's hope for all us -- even for a weary-eyed newspaper man. Of course a little incentive like milk and cookies, or say ... the promise of a front page 3 column close-up of yourself next year couldn't do any harm. Could it?

Still a believer, Mauri Montgomery truth, is there a Santa Claus? Virginia O'Hanlon 115 West 95th Street"

Virginia your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intel-boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life it's highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if Papa says, 'If you see would be as dreary as if there were no Virginia's. There Please tell me the would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

> Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might ing. get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but the heart of childhood.

We take pleasure in lect, as compared with the that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

> You tear apart the there was no Santa Claus! It baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest men that ever lived. could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abid-

My favorite Christmas was when I was five years old when my parents gave me a little puppy. I remember the little puppy waking me up Christmas morning by licking my face it was a little weenie dog with a red bow around her neck. And then I ran into the living room and I saw a bike it had traing wheels and streamers out of the handle bars. On back to my puppy I ended up naming her Candy and I would put little bows on her ears and wrap her up in a blanket and say she was my baby girl. Those were the day. But she died three years later and all I did was cry. Brenda Duran 10th grade

Maybe a watch, a necklace, a ring, maybe a toy, or millions of things.

There are many things, for this day, snacks and gifts, are on it's way.

This is a time for loving, a time for caring. a time for family, a time for sharing.

So go to bed, and don't get up, until the next day. get out of bed and jump.

For Christmas is here, the presents too, away and far, Santa has flew.

MOVIES • SOAPS • PUZZLES * AND MUCH MORE!! James Earl Jones brings his own special gift to Timepiece

By Jocelyn Beard

OTVData Foatures Syndicate A venerable veteran of stage and screen, the commanding James Earl Jones makes an occasional visit to the small screen.

On Sunday, Dec. 22, he stars in the CBS holiday drama Timepiece. a prequel to last year's award-winning The Christmas Box.

Timepiece, which also stars Ellen Burstyn (Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore. How to Make an American Quilt) and Kevin Kilner (Atmost Perfect), is based on the best-selling book by Richard Paul Evans. It tells the story behind an old watch bequeathed as a special wedding gift in The Christ-. mas Box.

Richard Thomas (The Waltons). makes a special appearance in Timepiece, reprising the role he created in The Christmas Box, helping to link the two stories

In The Christmas Box, Thomas' character is transformed by the discovery of a box containing old love letters that help him learn the importance of love family and the true meaning of Christmas.

Set in 1940s Utah, Timepiece infroduces us to the people in the love letters, revisiting a time when life's complications were fewer but just as difficult to manage.

Jones plays Lawrence, a man who served his country in World War I but never received the Medal of Honor he earned. Lawrence accompanied his captain home to Utah, where he learned the craft of clock repair.

"Fascination with time as an essential thing to observe is central to Lawrence's character." Jones says. The story had special appeal for Jones to draw a star of his magnitude to the small screen.

"I really liked the work," says Jones, referring to the script. "Unlike The Christmas Box, which was a fantasy, Timepiece is grounded in the reality of World War II."

Another appealing factor was the ensemble nature of the story.

"This fit into the mode of a starless movie," Jones explains. "I like stories that don't require a star so much as a good group of character actors."

Lawrence lives by choice in a segregated society in Utah, where racial tension sometimes explodes.

"I don't like to promote racism as a dramatic factor, because it's not." Jones says. "The issue in the film is much simpler than racism. The conflict is personal."

Dealing with issues such as forgiveness and reconciliation following the death of an only child, Timepiece filters many social conflicts down to a poignant, personal level.

Ellen Burstyn plays Maud, a wealthy woman who befriends Lawrence although convention dictates otherwise. "She's wonderful." says Jones of Burstyn. "The best part of making this film was the very good company - cast and crew." He even manages a few compliments for Wilmington, N.C., where Timepiece was shot on location.

Wilmington has the look necessary to recreate the era's simplicity, and provides a compelling backdrop for the story's bittersweet conflicts.

"Wilmington is a very gentle town," Jones recalls. "You can walk the streets at night."

It's a safe wager that Timepiece is special if it lured Jones to the role of Lawrence. The audience is fortunate to have the chance to watch one of our finest actors do what he does best: warm our hearts and minds with his gentle grace.

ARIES – March 21/April 20 A family disappointment may hurt, but will come as no surprise. Try to curb your cynical nature if others are involved. Not everyone has such a thick protective outer shield as you. If romance is the source of stress, it may be time to take a look at the big picture. What do you really want? TAURUS – April 21/May 21

While others may think of you as a rock, you know there's a very soft side that can be easily hurt. It's not so bad to show this part of you from time to time — especially to loved ones. Quiet times towards the end of the week give you a chance to clear your mind. Give meditation a try.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21 If your budget crisis is getting close to the U.S. national debt, it may be time to reassess the situation. Go ahead, and make a new financial plan for 1997. You really don't have to skimp: you just have to be smarter with your spending. A family gathering goes more smoothly than expected.

CANCER – June 22/July 22 Change is on the way, and now's the time to start planning for the new. If there's a chance you could be moving, this would be a good time to start laying out the groundwork. Don't be afraid to share your feelings with your partner. An upcoming trip gives you a lot to look forward to.

LEO – July 23/August 23 A simple misunderstanding with a family member could turn out to be a full-fledged battle if you let your temper take hold early this week. Be patient. Try to talk things out. Explain your side, but listen to the other, too. A creative outlet, like writing or painting, helps you get through. VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22 It will be an emotionally draining week. A love relationship in need of change will reach a turning point. Even if it hurts, you will feel the decision was the right one. Spending time with family helps ease pain. Kids are an e-pecially good diversion. You'll realize what's really important this week. ★ ★ surge makes you the in later in the week. Sing not be for long. A sex an eye on you. A pac been waiting for finally if you want to indulge. A dream early in the week will provide clues into a current problem. Think about it. An upcoming social event will require some extra effort. Be sure to dress your best if you're looking for new romance. A family event offers more than you may have expected. SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22

Although you usually thrive on pressure, leaving too much to the last minute could work against you. An organized approach is what you need. Children and younger family members play a big role this week especially if you're a parent yourself. Patience will be needed on Thursday. SAGITTARIUS – Nov 23/Dec 21 Teamwork will be much more effective than going solo this week. Don't be afraid to delegate responsibility and ask for a helping hand. A lucky break later in the week probably will have you counting your blessings. An event you were dreading turns out to be not so bad. Scorpio is involved.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20 Don't announce bold plans unless you're sure you definitely will pursue them. You're good at talking the talk, but when it comes to walking the walk, it's a whole other story. Think about it. Be prepared to help out a friend in need later in the week. New romance looks promising. AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18 Saying exactly what's on your mind could prove offensive this week especially to sensitive family members. Do yourself a favor: Think before you speak. A compromise will have to be made with your partner in order to solve an ongoing battle. Give without giving too much. PISCES – Feb 19/March 20 Avoid arguments and conflict early in the week, especially if you are feeling particularly edgy. A creative surge makes you the hit of the party later in the week. Single? You may not be for long. A sexy Scorpio has an eye on you. A package you've been waiting for finally arrives.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I was shocked to see Dr. Susan Lewis (Sherry Stringfield) disappear from ER. Is it true that she left the show to spend more time with her boyfriend? -Ellen K. via e-mail.

A: Although the rumor you mention has been widely reported. Stringfield's reason for leaving America's highestrated T-Y show was a little bigger. Filming any hourlong series is bruising, but it isn't unusual for the ER cast to work 15 hours a day

Figure in the amount of time it takes to learn that jargon-heavy dialogue for future scenes, and you pretty much have no time left for life in general. Stringfield says her boyfriend, who lives on the East Coast, was a big factor, but in general she just didn't want to sacrifice her life to a TV series. In order to get out of her five-year contract, the actives had to acree that contract, the actress had to agree that she will not do any other television during the time remaining on her contract, and she must get permission to accept any movie roles unless they film while ER is on hiatus.

Q: My husband insists that the character George on Seinfeld is played by the same person who used to play Radar on M*A*S*H. I say they are not. If I am right, please give us the real names of each actor. -Helen Bailey, Lady Lake, Fla.

A: You're right, of course. Gary Burghoff, who is now 56, created the role of Cpl. Walter "Radar" O'Reilly in Robert Altman's hit movie and repeated that character in the long-running CBS comedy series. Jason Alexander, who is only 38, plays George Costanza on Seinfeld.

Q: What happened to the man who played the main lawyer on Murder One last season? Also, was The Client canceled because of its ratings? –Joan Baker, Nampa, Idaho.

Sherry Stringfield

A: When Murder failed to click with viewers last season, some felt that Daniel Benzali's complex but pokerfaced attorney. Ted Hoffman, had been a factor. As part of the heavy retooling for a second season, a more conventional leading man. Anthony LaPaglia, was given the lead role. (It doesn't seem to have helped.)

While CBS gave The Client a full season last year, the show, which earned good reviews, never attracted enough viewers to earn a renewal.

Q: I told my father that there was a third North and South TV miniseries starring original cast members James Read, Lesley-Anne Down and Terri Garber. My father says the series stopped with Part 2. -Thomas E. Last, Seneca, Pa.

A: I thought you were right, but a check of our movie and miniseries database indicates that 1986's North and South, Book II ended the story – a fact that is supported by recent ads for the Book II video as "the conclusion."

Playwright Edward Albee left an affluent home at age 20 to live and work in Greenwich Village. Jazz musician Benny Carter began playing Harlem clubs at 15. Actor Jack Lemmon is the Harvard-educated son of a well-to-do Massachusetts couple. Prima ballerina Maria Tallchief was born on an American Indian reservation in Oklahoma and founded the Chicago City Ballet. Singer and composer Johnny Cash's country music has inspired generations of artists

Neil Simon was honored by Steve Mortin, Christine Baranski, Sid Caesar a. d Nathan Lane. Joe Wilhams, Nathan Cavaleri, Bonnie Raitt, Etta James and Ed Bradley honored B.B. King.
