Chapter One
A Riviera Blonde
"Archib," said Hugo Stern...

I sighed. "Do you mind," I asked patiently, "being a trifle more explicit? This place is a 'blonde'..."

The blonde in question was sitting alone, at a small table in the shadow of a clipped bay tree...

"I don't know her," I assured him, but he shook his head mournfully.

"You shouldn't have looked her way. There you are, she's coming over now and you'll find yourself...

"Hard-Hearted"
I felt that he was being unnecessarily hard-hearted, but I knew well, at the same time, that he had plenty of excuse...

edly, conscious of Hugo's eye upon me, and I suppose it's you, if you say so, but the question is—who are you?"

But at that Hugo broke in. "My dear young lady," he said, "it is our misfortune, but we neither of us know you, and I can assure you that it's not a case of defective memory, for you're much too pretty to forget."

"Childhood Friends"
"No, no," said he. He leaned his brawny, sun-tanned arms on the table, and the good-natured smile was fading, hardening into something cold and implacable.

"The Little Eve"
The cartoonist shrugged. "It is not, but for me, alas, there is no choice. These people are my material, and every so often I must sit here, alone at my little table...

"An Unpleasant Celebrity"
I felt a queer little chill run down my spine. I swung around in my chair, staring at the surrounding tables, but no one seemed to be taking the slightest interest in our movements or those of our late guest...

"Who knows?" said I, not at all averse to pulling his leg. "I am glad that she is blonde. How I hate dark women!"

you haven't got your gun! I've struck a lot of peculiar specimens in my time, but none as peculiar as that."

Hugo's glance followed mine and as it came to rest on the strange figure his nose wrinkled as if he saw something distasteful. "Peculiar," he said, "is not a word, but it is a feeling, and you see that gentleman the more peculiar you'll find him, but he's a celebrity all the same. That, my country cousin, is a very famous man, no less than the great Rene Geles himself."

"Never heard of him," I retorted. "You wouldn't—under his own name; but if you haven't heard of Geles, the cartoonist, you're more of an ignoramus than I took you for."

"It's all my fault," I said hurriedly, answering Hugo's mute appeal. "I got picked up, as a matter of fact, by one of your local blondes, and only Hugo's presence of mind extricated me intact, and then, as soon as she had removed herself, along came a dark woman..."

"The trail had literally run out in sand drift when we pulled up before a high iron gateway through which showed a small, gravelled court bordered with old-fashioned iron gates...

"At the same instant I felt a hand on my shoulder, shaking me, and became conscious that all around me was a confused babel of sound, people crowding in, staring, horrified faces ringing me round, and on my knees beside me a plump, young man that I recognized as the assistant maitre d'hotel."

of us, but finding no response in our expression, shrugged resignedly and stumped into the house.

That night, as we packed ourselves into the black Hispano, Hugo cool and immaculate in his shantung dinner suit, I thought again with a shudder of the man with his dark, Spaniard's face, more striking than ever above the white of his coat, but he was undoubtedly putting on weight. When I told him so, he snorted.

"He snorted again. 'Think it over,' he said, 'and let me know in the morning, and as we drove on, I knew that, as far as personal inclinations went, I was all for staying, though whether it was the queer, exotic charm of the Chalet d'Amour, the pleasure of Hugo's company, or the thought of seeing a bit more of the girl in red and white I couldn't tell; and, as the car swept round the 'vase,' light-speed crescent of the Croisette, out to the distant point where a thicker cluster of spangles showed that Palm Beach lay, I found myself strangely unwilling to try and find out."

"The manager," said Hugo. "In one stride he was beside the orchestra and had snatched up the leader's megaphone. 'Messieurs, mesdames!' he called. 'I regret to say there has been an accident, and until the affair is straightened out, we must ask none of you to leave the building. You will oblige me by returning to your tables.' He turned to his pallid assistant. 'Order the doors to be closed at once,' he said sharply. 'When that is done, telephone to the commissaire of police from my office, informing him what has happened. I will have the girl taken care of at once.'"

"The fat man turned to me inquiringly. 'Yes,' I said, and felt a strong sunder run through me. 'She died at my feet.'"

"I held back a moment and looked round me. The door through which we had passed was guarded by two impassive liveried attendants. Outside the baccarat room stood a couple of croupiers, sturmine and expressionless. Across the entrance three vast commissaires were posted like statues. It was abundantly clear that from now on no one could enter or leave the building without permission."

"I don't know," I said again, but his words had brought me to my senses. "Something must be done—there's bound to be a doctor here."

or, falling that suicide, if they've got the ghost of an excuse. They don't want the publicity just when this place is stealing half the thunder from Monte Carlo."

"Well," I said obstinately, "if they try that game, I'll give them a run for their money. I'm not going to have that poor little soul murdered in cold blood under my nose without making sure that the fellow responsible swings for it."

"The other wrong his hands. 'The scandal!' he moaned, and then sank to silence as a third man pushed through the crowd. 'The manager,' said Hugo. 'In one stride he was beside the orchestra and had snatched up the leader's megaphone. 'Messieurs, mesdames!' he called. 'I regret to say there has been an accident, and until the affair is straightened out, we must ask none of you to leave the building. You will oblige me by returning to your tables.' and my back." "And that is all, Monsieur?" "No," I said bluntly, "it isn't. As my friend has told you, I called for a doctor, and while I was doing so, I saw two men leave the room hurriedly, one after the other. In fact, we added thoughtfully, "It looked to me as if it was pursuing the other."

"That is most interesting," said the fat man, but with a certain lack of enthusiasm. "These men—how were they dressed?" "I shrugged. 'In black trousers and white mess-jackets. They might have been waiters or guests, for all I could tell.' " "But their faces?" he insisted. "You could identify them again?" "No," I said, "I couldn't. They had their backs to me, and beyond the fact that one was medium-sized and black-haired, and the other shorter and ginger-colored, I saw nothing to spot them by."

"Well, we can discover if anyone left the building before orders were given to shut the doors. But meantime, we have Madams in." He opened the outer door, and next moment a tall, handsome, middle-aged woman, a trifle mannish-looking in her tall, black satin suit, entered the room. She was pale and her mouth was grimly set, but otherwise she showed no sign of emotion. "This woman," he said, "is Madame Lill Stefan." He inquired if the woman inclined her head slightly, and she gave Madams in. "The little doctor halted in the act of another check, when Hugo's interjection gave me an uncommonly shrewd and searching look. Satisfied apparently, he advanced and solemnly offered me his hand. 'Any friend of my dear Hugo is a friend to me,' he assured me. 'I am only sad that I meet you on so tragic an occasion. We must re-encounter ourselves later at my hotel and see if the Pol Roger is so good as it then was. It is but this morning that I arrived in Cannes, and I have not yet discovered.'"

"No True Blonde"
"Who's the verdict on the girl?" asked Hugo. "The little man hesitated, looked this way and that, and spoke finally in a lowered voice. 'She was shot,' he said, 'by a bullet at close range. From the size of the wound, it would be a small automatic, no longer than a pocket watch. He spread out his hands. 'Nothing, except that like so many modern women, no true blonde. The hair was dyed.'"

"I looked at Hugo, thinking of Geles's queer superstition about dark women, but even as I opened my mouth to speak, the door opened and a small and solemn procession entered the room. First came a large individual in a frock coat, with a purple rosette in the button-hole, whose round and chubby face seemed unnaturally compressed into an expression of official solemnity. At his heels trotted a scrubby little fellow carrying a small black Gladstone bag, and following him came a uniformed gendarme."

"I should rather say the murderer escaping, finding himself pursued, and making short work of his pursuer," suggested Hugo mildly. "Archib," he turned to me, "that must have been the ginger-haired bloke you spotted."

"And that is all, Monsieur?" "No," I said bluntly, "it isn't. As my friend has told you, I called for a doctor, and while I was doing so, I saw two men leave the room hurriedly, one after the other. In fact, we added thoughtfully, "It looked to me as if it was pursuing the other."

Tax Hearings Are Completed By Board Of Equalization

School District Figures Up To $8,500,000

New Construction Accounts For Gain In City's Total

Holding firm to a blanket 10 per cent increase on school valuations and steady on city assessments, the board of equalization sitting for the city and Big Spring Independent school district finished its work Saturday after three days of interviews with taxpayers.

While there was no actual compilation of total tax assessments, it was estimated that the city's total might run near $8,500,000 and the school to $8,500,000 or above. The current tax year's figures were $8,080,000 for the city and $7,732,250 for the school.

New Construction
New construction, approximately $200,000 of it taxable property, accounted for the increase in city valuations. The blanket increase in school valuations, made necessary to raise additional revenues since the rate against the constitutional limit of $1, was calculated to raise assessments nearly three-quarters of a million dollars, plus new construction gains.

During the three days the board was in session, 120 persons appeared before it. Approximately 60 per cent of the number called concerning the 10 per cent increase, while the remainder were seeking other adjustments. A good portion of these were owners of new property.

The board held firm to figures established by the tax equalization survey by George H. Ehrenborg, and adjourned with the recommendation that a similar survey be made again next year due to the amount of new construction.

Neither the city or the school rate will be changed on the 1938 roll. The city rate of $1.20 may give a potential current tax revenue of $6,600 while the school rate of $1 would give promise of yielding around $85,000. The school, however, figures on about $5 per cent collection and the city on hardly that percentage.

County Board Ends Session

School Questions Are Decided By Trustees

The county board of trustees adjourned Tuesday after as lively a meeting as that unit has experienced here in years.

Before ending its session, prolonged from one called originally two weeks ago, the board left the R-Bar school classified as a nine grade unit with three teachers. It will run "until the money gives out" under the ruling.

Chalk's previous eight grade classification was allowed to stand despite protests from some of the district's patrons.

Out of the R-Bar controversy came the announcement that the Stephens school bus would not be allowed to pick up students in the R-Bar district confines this year.

Routing on the Gay Hill bus was altered also to be as follows: Leave Biaco school house, go three miles east, two miles north, one mile east, two miles north, four miles south, west to Gay Hill and to Big Spring over the same route as last year.

By the approval of all transfers, the Morris district was left with three scholars, with the possibility two might be brought in from Garden county.

Rotary And Kiwanis Clubs To Clash In Softball Contest

It's not for the honor of anybody, and even for sweet charity's sake, that the Rotarians and Kiwanians are going to get together in a softball combat here soon, it was announced by leaders of the two clubs Wednesday.

Proceeds from the game will be used to finance the high school softball training camp, starting August 22.

Dr. M. H. Bennett, chairman of the Rotary forces, said the game likely would be called for August 25. He also had stirring remarks to make about the quality of ball players among the Kiwanians. Dr. Bennett predicted a lop-sided victory for his club members, to whom the Kiwanis club referred as "those old fellows."

Dr. Hardy said his club would be ready to trim the opposition when the umpire (God rest his) calls "play ball."

LIFE SAVING AWARDS BOUGHT BY SIX

At least six persons were expected to either renew or qualify for their citizenship rank under Roger E. Flatted, national Red Cross representative, here for the week Wednesday and Thursday.

Walter Morrison, chairman of the life saving committee of the local Red Cross chapter, said that Jack Hodges, Jack Kellogg, Marie Morrison and himself were due to renew their rank, while Neal Black and George Thomas were to qualify for the life saving award.

Flatted will administer the tests of the swimmers swimming pool.

Hole-In-One Is Garnered By George Neel

Using a No. six iron, George Neel contributed something new to his golfing scrapbook when he fired a hole-in-one on the county club's 165-yard second hole Friday afternoon.

Bob Satterwhite and Noel Cardwell, Neel's drive remained in the air until it struck the green, then neatly curved into the hole.

Neel's unexpected feat proved little better than did his opponents. Cardwell's tee shot stopped a putter's length from the pin and he held out for a birdie while Satterwhite had to be content with a par three. It was George's first hole-in-one.

Opening Date For Schools Is Fixed

Trustees Accept Resignations, OK Camp

Opening date of the Big Spring public school system was set for September 6 by the board of trustees in session Monday evening.

Supt. W. C. Blankenship called his faculty to meet on September 6 in anticipation of the opening of the school doors to what promises to be the largest enrollment on record.

Four resignations and one appointment were approved by the board. Resignations accepted from the teaching staff included those of Mayme Ruth Harris, fifth grade teacher at West Ward; Mrs. George E. Long, third grade teacher at East Ward; Joy Fender, fifth grade teacher at South Ward; and Fred- dia Opal Adkins, home economics teacher. Lois Ethel Smith was approved as physical education instructor for girls.

Fixing of a date for public hearing on the budget was delayed until after the board is notified officially of the state apportionment figure. President C. W. Cunningham will then call the meeting for six days after that time.

The board approved a training camp for the football squad but ruled that the money should be raised from outside sources and apart from regular football receipts. An offer of 100 feet square off the school tract in the northern part of town was made to the city for a water tower location.

Snyder Rodeo Next Weekend

Booster Group To Visit Big Spring On Monday

SNYDER, Aug. 15—Second annual Snyder County Rodeo Friday and Saturday of next week, August 19-20, promises to be the rip-roaringest ever seen in Snyder. Performances will begin at 2 and 8:30 p. m. daily. Spectacular parades will precede each afternoon's show.

Cowhands from all over will be on hand to win their share of the $750 in cash prizes and the $150 in merchandise prizes offered by Snyder merchants.

Extra spills and thrills are guaranteed at each performance, since the ever-popular bulldogging event has been added as an exhibition event. Steers for this contest and riding come from Curley Daugherty's herd at Oton. Some brand of horses that cut up so much last year will again be in the arena August 19-20. Red Lyons of Byers is bringing them.

Added attractions, besides the regular cow milking, bronc riding, calf roping and steer events, will include: Silver King, educated horse owned by L. L. Stewart of Big Spring; John Lindsey, rodeo clown, and his trick mule; and D. M. Cogdell, the young trick roper, who was featured here last year and at a recent Big Spring rodeo.

Two booster trips to advertise the rodeo are being arranged Monday and Tuesday of next week by Ollie Stinson and Bud Miller. On the trip entertainment will feature string music by the Rainwater boys of Ennis Creek. Local business men and ranchers will compose the group.

Monday's trip will follow the north and west route with major stopping points as follows: Post, Slaton, Lubbock, Brownfield, Tahoka, Lamesa, Big Spring and Colorado. The onward trip Tuesday will first hit Roby, Rotan, Hamalia and Stamford, returning by way of Anson, Abilene, Merkel, Sweetwater and Roscoe.

ACHIEVEMENT! and a Goal ATTAINED!

In a branch of the engineering profession the great achievement is to harness the uncontrolled waters of the turbulent river, to make them do man's bidding as he wills.

In radio the great achievement toward which any ambitious station struggles is SHOWMANSHIP. There lies the key to success. Without Showmanship you have just another radio station.

Five months ago KBST keyed itself to the tempo of Showmanship, intent upon giving its listeners programs that were DIFFERENT. Just a few of those programs are listed here—programs that were far from the ordinary run of entertainment:

- 1)—As a tribute to all Mothers on MOTHER'S DAY, KBST microphones went into the homes of the oldest and youngest mothers in Big Spring—Mrs. Mary E. (Mother) Zinn and Mrs. Fred Simpson—to carry a full hour program to listeners.
- 2)—In promotion of National Air Mail Week, KBST announcers went aloft to broadcast by shortwave to their station for re-broadcast to KBST listeners, fifteen programs as the plane piloted by R. F. Schermerhorn zoomed over as many West Texas communities and towns.
- 3)—To unite the Blue and the Grey, KBST microphones on Memorial Day went into the homes of Cann Powell, GAR veteran, and W. C. Brooks, veteran of the Confederacy, to pay tribute for an hour to these survivors of the Strife of the '60s.
- 4)—Given permission to join the Columbia Broadcasting System August 3rd, thanks to the efforts of J. Y. Robb of the R. & E. Theaters, to bring to KBST listeners the full hour program, "Alexander's Ragtime Band", presented on the nationwide CBS network. KBST was one of few non-CBS stations ever to obtain permission to join that network for a special program.

There have been many more such programs—and there will be many more in the future. KBST believes that its listeners always are entitled to the best in entertainment. It has lived up to its name of being the SHOWMANSHIP Station. In addition it has, in recent months, given thorough consideration to the question of how it can better serve its listeners. It has reached a decision——and Now KBST Goes NETWORK!

Because network stations do not reach into the Big Spring area satisfactorily, particularly during daytime, it has not been possible for radio listeners in this area to have the coverage of outstanding national events as well as great nationally presented radio shows that they should have.

But that time soon will be no more. Soon, when the president delivers a message of vital importance, when a great sporting event is being enacted, this will be brought straight into your home by means of your radio.

For weeks KBST has been negotiating for network facilities — the crowning achievement in this station's brief life of less than two years. We are happy to say that that crowning achievement has been attained, that greatly improved service will be provided to our listeners.

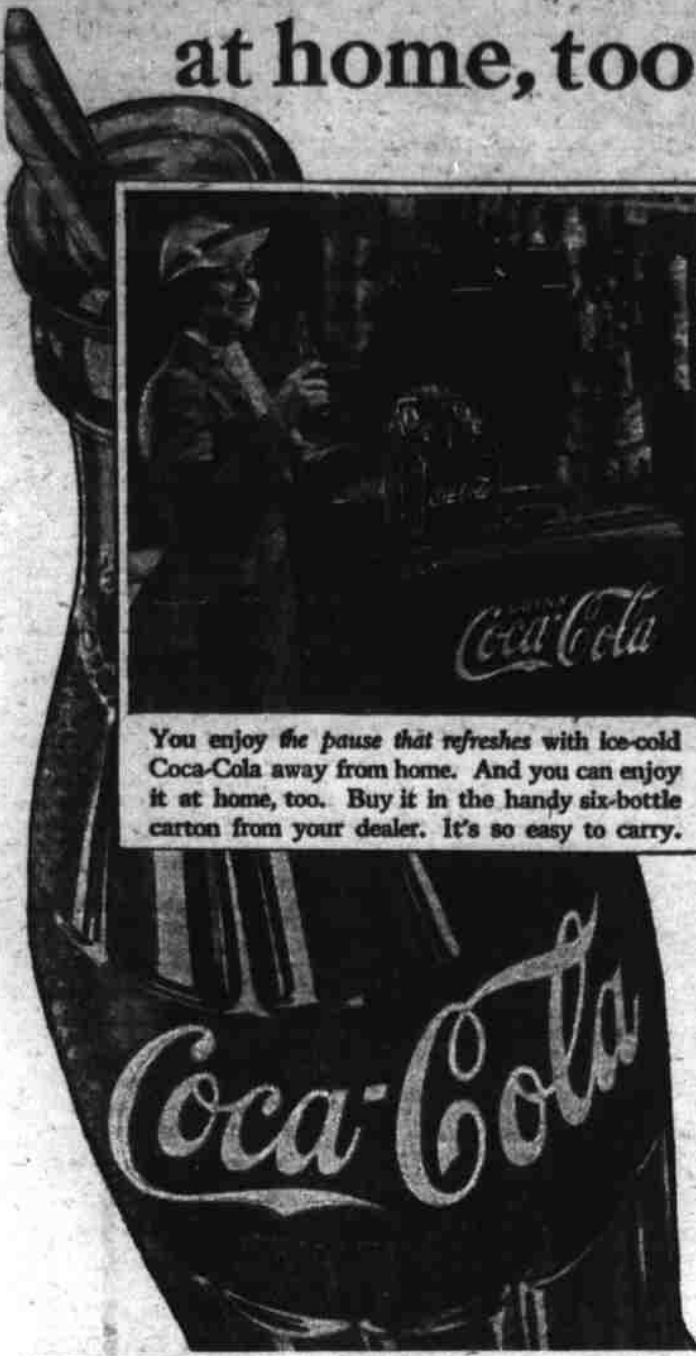

On September 15 KBST Will Join Mutual Broadcasting System and Texas State Network

It is our sincere hope that you will like this new affiliation. We believe that you will. But far from being content, KBST pledges anew that it will strive always to give you even better locally-produced programs than in the past, keeping always before us the fact that we must be a SHOWMANSHIP station. You are entitled to that. In the meantime

TESTIFIES OF BRUTALITY IN TVA PROBE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 16 (AP)—Negro workers on the TVA's Chickamauga dam have been kicked, cursed and treated "brutally" by their foremen and walking bosses, a witness charged today before a congressional committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority.

methodical tactics. A house to house canvass of all farms in the area was launched.

The report from Sheriff Joe Hough of Broken Bow of the appearance of the two men came after a six-day search in the DeQueen, Ark., district.

Hamilton and Walters were shot out of their car, 10 miles north of DeQueen, last Saturday.

That area was carefully searched, roads blockaded and bloodhounds called from the Oklahoma prison at McAlester to mark down the trail of the fugitives.

Federal agents joined in the search. The main body of officers came through here early today. The group split to begin its methodical searching of the district. They planned to keep in constant radio contact through a mobile unit of the Oklahoma state highway patrol.

fight for was just "a haubler—a band of dirty, rotten crooks."

The justice department, meanwhile, sent to Dies' committee a voluminous report on activities of the Amerika-Deutscher Volksbund and its affiliated organizations.

The 1,000-page report was made by Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to Attorney General Cummings last December following a five-month investigation of German-American activities in this country.

Contents of the report were not made public. Earlier, Miss Margaret Kerr, patriotic society worker, identified for the committee photostatic copies of an affidavit declaring that "Harry Bridges, West Coast labor leader, attended meetings of the communist party as 'Harry Dorgan.'"

Headway Being Made Against Heavy Infestation Of Cotton Leaf Worms

Slight headway against the cotton leaf and bollworm infestation in the county was being reported Thursday as farmers carried on their battle with poisoning apparatus.

More showing appeared to be made against the leaf worms, although there was a diminution among the bollworms. Gains against the worm horde gave rise to hopes that perhaps the peak damage had been passed.

E. H. Heffington, who farms four miles northwest of town, reported a new procedure had resulted in an almost perfect kill in one of his cotton patches. Instead of following the row, he ran crosswise with his poisoning equipment, the furrows causing the carriage to bump and thus slosh the contents of the poison barrel. This gave a constant stirring and uniform poison over the field and scarcely any worms were left.

In other areas, farmers who kept their poison barrels stirred constantly were reporting greater success than those who only stirred the compound into suspension.

It was estimated that the calcium arsenate compound, used almost universally, had cost the county farmers $15,000 already due to the severity of infestation and the prolonged fight which promises to go on for days yet since worms are still hatching.

Farm Program Is Explained

Agents, Assistants Here For Informational Meet

County Agents, assistants, clerks and a number of county committeemen from a wide territory surrounding Howard county were here Thursday for an informational meeting concerning the current farm program.

J. W. Doak, field representative of the AAA, was in charge of the meeting, discussing details concerning the many forms involved in the work.

One phase of the meeting concerned the CAP or subsidy payments, now being started over a large portion of the state. The CAP matter will be one of the major subsidies for the farmers who are cooperating in the program and will amount to 65 per cent of the base acreage yield for 1937.

The meeting was one of three held in district No. 6. Agents and others have their choice of which of the three meetings to attend.

GILT-EDGE debutante, Lesley Hyde Ripley will have a coming-out party that society reporters estimate will net the Ripley patent medicine fortune for close to $50,000. The supper dance is planned for swank Newport, R. I.

R-BAR SCHOOL OPENS—R-Bar school opened for the 1938-39 term Wednesday, Anne Martin, county superintendent, said Thursday. Teachers at R-Bar this year are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lauderdale and Mrs. Louise Rogers Hair.

FRANKLIN COUNTY REUNION IS SET

FD Pleads For River Treaty

Says U. S., Canada Ought To Get Together

THOUSAND ISLAND BRIDGE, Canada-U. S. Border, Aug. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt made a vigorous plea for the long-debated St. Lawrence waterway treaty today and said that unless the United States and Canada take joint governmental action a "group of American interests" may gain a monopoly in developing the river.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke at dedication ceremonies for the winding bridge across the St. Lawrence connecting Ivy Lea, Ontario, and Collins Landing, N. Y.

The president, in his prepared address here, outlined the possibilities of navigation and power development in the boundary-line river and then added:

"To put it bluntly, a group of American interests is here gradually putting itself into a position where, unless caution is exercised, they may in time be able to determine the economic fate of a large area, both in Canada and the United States."

Daughter Of Early Publisher Visits Here Thursday

Mrs. W. A. Montgomery, who as a girl helped get out the first newspaper ever published in Big Spring, the Pantagraph, was here Thursday for a brief visit.

With her were her husband and daughter, Betty, and T. R. Henry, all of Edwards, Miss. Mrs. Montgomery left here in 1900 and this is her first visit to Big Spring since then. She had no trouble in finding the "old home place" in the 800 block of Scurry street.

As a girl Mrs. Montgomery assisted her father, Maj. C. N. Harris, Pantagraph publisher, get out the paper. The work, she recalls was accomplished by hand setting type, turning the printed issue off a Washington hand press, and then folding the papers by hand. She had the folding job.

Told that the old press was still in use at Sterling City, she said she would stop there en route to a visit in San Angelo.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crow

WASHINGTON—This department gathers that the Supreme Court would like Mr. Roosevelt to appoint a member who knows western irrigation and mining law...

And the western men most often mentioned hereabouts for the job are William Denman of San Francisco and Sam G. Bratton of Albuquerque, New Mexico...

Senator Norris of Nebraska, who himself could easily be called a westerner, already has recommended Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law professor.

Lacking on the Supreme Court bench the new is a specialist in irrigation and mining law as it is known in the west...

Justice Van Devanter of Wyoming handled the bulk of such cases when he was on the court but he retired a year ago.

Water...Not Everywhere: Just now a really serious test of the whole basic law of irrigation rights is arising in Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado.

At present Justice Butler is "farthest west" member of the court, and he is from Minnesota. That may sound "far west" to a Broadway habitué but to the Rocky mountains and Pacific coast states Minnesota is about as far east as Rhode Island.

Both Justices Bratton and Denman were suggested for the high court at the time of the Black and Reed appointments.

Of late, however, friends have insisted that he proposed only that part having to do with increasing membership on the district and circuit courts.

New Dealers point out that in any event the President is under no compulsion to hurry an appointment, and may save it until after election time.

Man About Manhattan: NEW ORLEANS—As state director of the Federal Writers' Project, Lyle Saxon isn't making as much money as he would be if he were sitting at a desk...

Lyle is writing four books, the first of which is already on the market, and under his hand are some 55 assistants doing research, compiling data on early Louisiana history and in general accumulating a fund of material that has never before been available to the public.

Saxon's first book is "New Orleans City Guide," a magnificent piece of work that begins with the days of LaSalle and ends with present New Orleans.

His second, well underway, is a guide to Louisiana, doing for the state as a whole what the first has done for this city.

As for his private work, now interrupted by the writers' project, he has on hand a half-completed novel which deals with the career of a Southern family from the days of reconstruction to the present.

His most recent book was "Children of Strangers," based on the rather delicate subject of people who believe they are white—but aren't.

As for pleasant surprises, there have been few within the past few days that pleased him very much.

But when Lyle was writing that book, "Children of Strangers," he was in New Orleans, and "Children of Strangers" is now in New Orleans.

READING AND WRITING

"PRAY TO THE EARTH," by Evelyn Eaton; (Houghton Mifflin; $2.50). There is a strange, quite inescapable quality about Evelyn Eaton's "Pray to the Earth."

The story is very simple. We meet Lyla Jaeger, Lyla being a nickname for Louis-Jean, as he is calling to a bakery to get more bread for his elderly parents, on credit. He is a child, a shepherd by night and a drudge for his father by day.

These are a few of the things that happen to Lyla, some of them felt, rather than understood, for the boy was not brilliant: First his parents are forced to run away, and Lyla in his turn leaves them. That he does not much mind; he minds leaving Lilla, his sister.

For years Lyla wanders. He finds first an odd sort of monastery. He finds later a gypsy boy, and when he returns his find to the caravan, he finds there his mother and sister. He becomes a smuggler, and is caught up in the Spanish war, most ungloriously. Later he returns to his homeland, and just how that is managed the author had better be left to explain.

The story is not so much. It is told with a certain delicacy and at times with real art. But it is not told. Much is merely suggested—the reader, if he continues a reader, must fill in for himself. Really to do his duty he must fill in with beautiful things, and that is not simple.

It would be remarkable if the novel found a large audience. This reader liked it very much because it made him work so hard.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Julius Garfield—now John—will never be a movie star. He will never be rich. He will never have a Beverly Hills shack with a swimming pool and four butlers.

His studio, since it saw him on the screen in "Four Daughters," is sure it has a new star. The Hollywood already loosed. But John will never be a movie star. He won't let himself be. He says the play's the thing, and very few acting names should go above his title.

Hollywood, for three years, has been offering him good money to come out and see it some time, for keeps. He's taking less money for the kind of contract he wants. On 60 days' notice he can go back to the stage any time. He doesn't want to be rich. He has a mission in life.

John Garfield is 28. He is shorter than the average movie actor, but well proportioned. His hair is black, his skin olive, his teeth flash white. His manner and speech are cultured. He talks seriously of "Great Things"—as he sees them—just as if he'd learned it all at the finest universities.

In a sense, he did. He was born on New York's lower East Side. He was a problem child, community menace, a Dead End kid. He says he's sure he could have been a gangster if it hadn't been for Angelo Patri, the child psychologist.

Patri impressed him through kindness where others had failed with force. Patri suggested the theatre as his vocation—and Garfield was an actor from that time on. In the Patri school, later in high school, he studied and practiced dramatics. He financed himself through the Heckscher Foundation on the $5 a week he made selling papers, plus a $5 weekly loan from Patri.

He carried a spear for Eva Le Gallienne, Fritz Leiber and many others. He took time off for a cross-country hitch-hike in the U.S.A. He worked in California fruit orchards, in Nebraska wheat fields.

Franchot Tone left the rebellious Group Theater for Hollywood six months before Garfield joined it. The only play outside the Group that Garfield has done since was "Having Wonderful Time." He thinks Hollywood ruined the play.

Like others of the Group, Garfield learned to eat scantily—of the sake of putting on plays with "ideas."

"My chief purpose," he says, "is to become constantly a better actor. But at the same time I want to do all I can for the advancement of liberal ideas. I was told Hollywood would be deadly dull—I find more exciting talk here than in New York."

He speaks of organizations—pro-democracy, anti-fascism—with enthusiasm. And of pictures like "Zola" and "They Won't Forget" and "Blockade" as the kind he wants to be in, the kind the screen is coming to. He is sure of that. The public—forsaking its old idea that great wealth is the ideal—settling down to live, to read, to think. It will demand thought from the screen. It will tire of boy-meets-girl stuff.

Such talk—from an actor! "Nothing can keep me from speaking my mind on the things I believe in," he says. "If money's the club, it won't work because I don't care about it. I can leave any time."

And the lad, believe me, is sincere. He'll never be a movie star. He talks too much.

Cop "Seeing Things," It Escaped Zoo Lion: CLEVELAND (UP)—Police Chief Charles Linert of Geauga Lake Park, was not "seeing things" when he saw a lion while he was patrolling the park grounds.

The lion was Napoleon, purchased from the Canton, O., zoo as a park attraction.

Chief Linert called for aid to capture Napoleon. Soon 50 persons, armed with shotguns, revolvers, sub-machine guns and ordinary pitchforks assembled for the chase.

Napoleon snarled and made three or four advances on the crowd. A succulent piece of meat finally turned the beast back into its cage.

3 COMPLETIONS IN S' EASTERN AREA NEAR

Drilling Resumed On Powell No. 1 Gular; Martin Test Abandoned

Oil developments here centered on three wells nearing completion in the southeastern part of Howard county and resumption of drilling on a wildcat test 32 miles northwest of Big Spring during the past week.

Shot with 500 quarts from 2,683 to 2,824 feet. Location No. 1 O'Daniel, on the northeast edge of the Snyder aer pool, was cleaning out Friday after making a good show following the shot. Location is 900 feet from the north and 230 feet from the east line of section 34-30-12, T&P, a direct north offset to the Couden-Kahn No. 1 O'Daniel which gave the pool a half mile eastern extension.

Lockhart Petroleum Corporation No. 3 Scott, in the territory between the Snyder and Chalk pools, carried a hole full of oil at 2,810 feet and was preparing to shoot. Located 900 feet from the east and 350 feet from the north lines of section 36-29, W&NW, the well is on the western edge of production.

Salt Water Shut Off: Northwest of Big Spring in the area started on exploration by the now abandoned Texas Co. No. 1 Wilkinson, the W. B. Powell No. 1 Gular estate, in section 17-A, E&C, straightened creaked hole that developed after salt water had been shut off. It drilled to 2,675 feet Friday.

Northwest of Big Spring in the area started on exploration by the now abandoned Texas Co. No. 1 Wilkinson, the W. B. Powell No. 1 Gular estate, in section 17-A, E&C, straightened creaked hole that developed after salt water had been shut off. It drilled to 2,675 feet Friday.

Prospects for Martin county production were dealt a severe blow with abandonment of the Anderson No. 1, J. R. Vance, two miles north-west of Stanton in section 5-28-12, T&P. It struck sulphur water at 4,056 feet and was plugged, 245 feet short of contract depth. It had nothing but slight gas shows. Other hope of the county for a commercial producer lay in the R. G. Shaw, Trustee No. 1 H. Wilkinson, on the eastern edge of the county in section 35-A, E&C. It was reported below 455 feet in blue shale.

Attention also was focused on the Anderson-Frithard No. 1 Scott, 2,310 feet from the north and west lines of section 55-29, W&NW, which was plugged and drilled to 950 feet. It is a mile and a half west of the Lockhart No. 3 Scott, nearest well in the Snyder pool the Magnolia No. 3 O'Daniel, in the northwest quarter of section 34-30-12, T&P, was preparing to shoot at 2,814 feet after swabbing down 1,000 feet of oil in the hole. Magnolia No. 7 O'Daniel drilled past 2,475 feet and Magnolia No. 9 O'Daniel, on a 60-acre lease out of the south half of the northeast quarter of section 34, neared pay horizon at 2,750 feet.

Moore Bros. No. 3-B O'Daniel, spudded with rotary and Moore Bros. No. 4-B O'Daniel rigged for rotary.

In section 33, Moore Bros. No. 5-A TXL was still cleaning out from a shot. Shell No. 3-TXL finished a fishing job and was slipping seven inch string at 2,505 feet. Eastland No. 2-A TXL was below 3,125 feet.

Moore Bros. No. 9-A Snyder, in the southwest quarter of section 28-30-12, T&P, set eight and a quarter inch casing at 1,625 feet. Sun No. 5 Snyder drilled to 2,085 feet, and Eastland No. 2-A Snyder, west offset to the Moore Bros. 6-A Snyder, waited on cement to set around seven inch string at 2,490 feet.

Lockhart No. 2 Scott, in the southeast corner of section 36-29, W&NW, continued to clean out following a shot. Ajax drilled the Continental No. 4-A Chalk, a deepening test from 1,550 feet, to 2,652 feet. Oil string for Continental No. 25-A Bettles, section 134-29, W&NW, at 1,175 feet.

Youth Happy in Jail; He Feared Temptation

BAY CITY, Mich. (UP)—Because a desk sergeant at police headquarters refused to put him in jail, a youthful parolee here tore the wooden railing off the stationhouse desk.

The youth got 30 days in the county jail. That made him happy because, he explained to the court, he was afraid he would violate his parole for an auto theft and wanted to be in jail where he wouldn't be tempted.

The sergeant is not so happy because it was his desk.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—A swastika, traditional emblem of the national guard division comprising Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Oklahoma, will not be discarded because of its identification with Nazi Germany.

Officers reiterated today that the badge is derived from Indian sources, antedates fascism, and will not be replaced by a symbolic thunderbird as has been suggested.

Injury Upon Injury Dogs Family Within Few Hours

PLAINVIEW (UP)—The J. H. Savage family spent a harrowing afternoon. The mishaps were as follows:

Jesse Savage, a son, suffered a broken arm when a tractor backfired as he tried to crank it.

His father, J. H. Savage, looked into the gasoline tank of their automobile to make certain there was enough gasoline to carry them to town from their farm. Savage used a match. The tank exploded, and members of the family smothered the flames just in time to save his life.

In a borrowed car, Mrs. Savage started to take her son and husband to the Plainview hospital. The automobile overturned.

ITEMS FROM MOORE

Word was received this week that Miss Louise Douglas was married to Buck Groff of Plainview on August 2. Mrs. Groff whose home is also in Plainview has been employed in the Moore school as teacher of the fifth and sixth grades for the past two years. Her many friends here wish for the happy couple success and happiness. Mrs. Groff will continue her teaching duties here in September.

The Rev. Joe Hull closed a week's meeting at Moore on Sunday night, August 14, and left for Coleman county where he will be in another meeting. Wayne Nance of Big Spring was in charge of the song service. Good crowds were present for all services. On Sunday morning the Sunday school was re-organized with every one present expressing a desire to keep the religious work in the community going. The following officers were elected: D. W. Hayworth, superintendent; M. L. Rowland, assistant; Madison Smith, song leader; Mrs. Mack Thomas, adult teacher; Miss Arab Phillips, young people's teacher; Mrs. W. H. Ward, junior teacher and Mrs. Doyle Turney, secretary and treasurer.

The hour for Sunday school is 10 o'clock and the superintendent as well as all other officials extend to those of the community a cordial invitation to come and help carry on this work.

A splendid song service was enjoyed by a large crowd Sunday evening. Although regular song services have been omitted here for some time new enthusiasm was shown Sunday afternoon and song services will be held each second Sunday to which all lovers of religious hymns are invited. Visiting singers included people from Centerpoint, Knott, Coahoma, Foran and Big Spring.

Further improvement of the school ground includes the sodding of a strip of ground on the north side of the building in Bermuda grass.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hill attended the Courthouse Singing convention at Lamesa last Sunday.

W. F. Cook visited his daughter, Marie, who is in school at Lubbock.

Rosalyn Hayworth is visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Rowland this week.

Edgar Phillips had the misfortune of losing a horse last week because of sleeping sickness.

Miss Callie Wheeler is on the sick list.

Farmers in this community have been working almost day and night in this community to keep under control leaf worms. Their efforts have been quite successful but now they are facing a much worse disaster—that of the boll-worms. Farmers report that cotton is putting on forms as fast as could be expected. If insects are brought under control good cotton crops should be made in this vicinity. Much of the feed crop is already made.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Crabtree and children of Big Spring spent Sunday with Mr. John Curtis and daughter, Lola.

Mrs. Howard Newton and children of Midland are spending this week with her mother, Mrs. J. G. Hammack.

G. C. Broughton and family, and J. W. Patton and family went fishing at the Powell lake last week and report splendid luck.

Miss Twila Lomax will leave the latter part of the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Lomax, on a brief vacation trip to the Lomax ranch located near Lampasas. They will spend a few days at Austin and San Antonio.

Miss Arab Phillips has bought an interest in a tire store and service station with Earl Phillips in Big Spring. Miss Phillips is keeping books, but will only do so until September the first when she will resume her teaching duties in the local school.

Mick Rooney Starred In Ritz Film

Family Series Gets Top Billing Of The Week

Judge Hardy's family embarks on another amusing adventure in "Love Finds Andy Hardy," which opens Saturday night at the Ritz and continues through Sunday and Monday, receiving top billing of the week.

The entire family participates in the fourth of a series of pictures which has rapidly won a place in the hearts of film audiences.

Lewis Stone is seen as Judge Hardy, Mickey Rooney is his son, Andy, Cecilia Parker is the daughter, Fay Holden the mother and Betty Ross Clarke the aunt.

In addition, Judy Garland makes her debut in the series in this picture, singing three songs and playing a crowd-pleasing role. Lana Turner makes her appearance as one of Mickey's three girl friends. Ann Rutherford is back again as his "steady" girl.

Director George Seitz has placed the action of the picture against a background of youthful life in a mid-western city.

The story, most entertaining of the series so far, describes Andy's purchase of a small, second-hand car, without his father's knowledge. He is only able to pay twelve dollars on a twenty dollar account. In order to obtain the additional eight dollars he agrees to take care of his best friend's girl, while that young man is on vacation.

Complications ensue when Andy finds himself with three girls on his hands, all invited to the big dance of the year. With the aid of Judy Garland he manages to extricate himself from the difficulties, but not until a bright page has been added to motion picture comedy history.

Scout Camp Is Terminated

Leaders Declare It One Of Best For The Council

Boys Scouts of Big Spring and the Buffalo Trail council were back at their homes today after two weeks at camp near Birkdale, Texas.

Camp leaders were exuberant over the success of the camp, declaring it "the best camp period we have had." There were 297 boys and leaders in camp for the two weeks, 199 of the number staying for the first week.

Advancement was at a peak for the two weeks, Ed McCurtain, field executive reported. At the court of honor held August 2 there were 200 awards. The number dropped only slightly for the August 15 court when 150 awards were presented.

Organization of chapter of the Order of the Arrow was another feature. Wofford Hardy, Jr., was the only Big Spring boy made a charter member of the national sampling fraternity. Leaders from Big Spring, however, were included. Eighteen senior scouts were taken on a two-day pack trip to Camp Ends, in the rough canyon country, during the second week. All boys made exploration hikes to caves.

On the return trip, the scouts' truck was grazed slightly near Sowers. Earl Vandervort, Sweetwater, who had his arm on the truck's siding, sustained a small fracture. Others were hardly as much as shaken.

McCurtain said Wednesday that emphasis was being placed on the council water meet Tuesday at Midland. He expected the 64 boys in camp from Big Spring would increase their number for the water meet.

Guilty Pleas Are Heard

Criminal Docket Is Opened In County Court

Four pleas of guilty were heard in county court Monday morning when County Judge Charlie Sullivan opened the criminal docket for the current term.

Elmas Gamboa and Elondro Valls entered pleas of guilty to receiving and concealing stolen property in connection with disposition of loot taken from the Burr store in a recent burglary. They received fines and costs of $28.85 and one day in jail. Aurora Rodriguez was assessed similar fine and costs for simple larceny, while Juan Cortello, charged with aggravated assault, was given fine and costs amounting to $48.85.

Cases dismissed included those of Loy Phillips, theft; Charles Parker, aggravated assault; and two counts of losing money with which to pay a poll tax against V. A. Gomez.

Other criminal cases were to be heard during the afternoon. Civil docket is set for Wednesday.

Charges Of Cattle Theft Are Prepared

Charges of cattle theft were filed in Howard county Monday against S. L. McDaniell, Lamesa, for cattle theft.

The count was the outgrowth of arrest of four persons in connection with operation of an alleged cattle theft ring operating in this territory.

One now allegedly taken by the ring from Big Spring was returned to the Lamesa, McDaniell, being held in the Howard county jail.

WAR ERA PICTURE STARS

James Stewart and Margaret Sullavan achieve signal success in the revival of a one-time hit, "Shopworn Angel," showing at the Ritz Friday and Saturday. The story is of the war time era and places Stewart opposite Miss Sullavan in a sequence of dramatic scenes. Admirers of Stewart and Miss Sullavan will find the film to their liking.

"Goldwyn Follies" Bring Talent In Quantities To The Lyric

Samuel Goldwyn's forces assemble some of the greatest entertainers of the stage, screen, radio, dance and grand opera to put on the extravaganza "Goldwyn Follies," showing at the Lyric theatre Sunday and Monday.

Offering a cast headed by Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, radio's No. 1 stars, Adolphe Menjou, the Ritz screen Friday and Saturday, the Ritz Brothers, Zorina, the beautiful young premiere ballerina of the Ballet Russe, who is a splendid actress as well as a great dancer; Kenny Baker, Helen Jepson, the lovely Metropolitan Opera star who makes a brilliant film debut; Andrea Leeds, Phil Baker, Ella Logan, Bobby Clark, Jerome Cowan, The American Ballet of the Metropolitan Opera and the gorgeous Goldwyn Girls, "The Goldwyn Follies" is a movie fan's dream, combining every element of great entertainment in magnificent measure.

Built around a grand yarn about Hollywood from the pen of Ben Hecht, the musical casts Adolphe Menjou as a film producer who and hires Andrea Leeds as "Miss Humanity," to tell him what the great American movie fan wants.

Levi walks in in the person of Kenny Baker, the popular radio tenor. The daffy Ritz brothers have some good spots. The last music of the late George Gershwin, finds a fitting setting in this glorious picture.

The breath-takingly beautiful ballet numbers which introduce a welcome new form of entertainment to the screen, were conceived and staged by George Balanchine, the impressive sets are the work of Richard Day, the costumes by Omar Klam, and the technicolor is the most effective the films have achieved to date.

Chalk Test Given Shot

Showing May Throw Light On North Pool Limits

Possible defining of northern limits of the Chalk extension area depended Monday on the showing of the Lloyd Noble No. 2-B Chalk. The test, located 1,600 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west lines of section 94-29, W&NW, was cleaning out from a 620 quart shot at 3,096, plugged back depth from 3,115 feet.

One location south and west in section 95, the Merrick and Lamb No. 1-B Chalk drilled to 2,984 feet with 250 feet in the hole as it prepared to swab. Magnolia No. 7 Hyman-Chalk, 990 feet from the east and 2,810 feet from the south lines of section 96 was rigging up cable tools. Noble No. 7 Chalk, in the southwest quarter of section 94 twisted drill pipe at 2,800 feet and Gulf No. 7 Chalk, in the southwest quarter of section 125-29, W&NW, set seven inch string at 2,790 feet.

Continental No. 4-A Settles, a deepening test in section 95, was below 2,750 feet.

600 Take Part In "Free Swim" Day

Approximately six hundred Howard county youths enjoyed a free swim in the Munny pool Monday afternoon. More than 200 were counted at one time.

Swimming contests, races across the pool by sub-juniors, and diving contests were conducted by the recreation department. First, second and third place awards were presented to winners in four divisions.

Miss Jean Edwards was selected as the most attractive swimmer, and Miss Kathleen Williams won second honors, season swimming tickets were awarded as prizes. Meedames Marvin K. House, E. D. McDowell, and Horace Woolen served as judges.

START WORK ON A WAREHOUSE FOR NEW COMPRESS

Work was started on a small warehouse Saturday by the Big Spring Compress company. The structure is apart and comparatively negligible in cost compared to the larger storing units of the company.

Sullivan And Stewart In Hit Show

Dramatic Performance In shopworn angel at the ritz

With a background which shows the first draft of the World war soldiers as they marched away in 1917, the "shopworn Angel" comes to the Ritz screen Friday and Saturday with James Stewart and Margaret Sullavan in the title roles.

While the new film has a war theme it does not go into the battle scenes but attacks the problem from the inside, showing the loves of three people in various walks of life.

Margaret Sullavan does her finest emotional acting as the girl with a hard-boiled past who married a naive soldier boy on the eve of his departure for France.

James Stewart is seen as the bewildered young Westerner who falls in love with the gold-digging show-girl, unaware that she has an admirer in the person of Walter Pidgeon, rich man-about-town. Both actors play their roles expertly, adding ingratiating comedy to a drama of realism.

Nat Pendleton, Alan Curtis and Sam Lovens present a revealing picture of three soldiers, nameless so as to depict the average American who fought in the last war. Others in uniformly good performances are Hattie McDaniel, Eleanor Lynn and Charlie D. Brown.

Musical numbers are pleasing and authentic of the 1917 period. Director H. C. Potter kept the picture moving at a fine tempo.

BOB POWELL MAKING JOHNSON GRASS PAY

Bob Powell, Coahoma rancher, is going to turn his Johnson grass field to good use again this year.

Reasonable weather has turned up a heavy yield of a 75 acre tract infested with Johnson grass. Although Thursday rains caught him with half the field cut, clear skies Friday promised to dry out the vegetation, giving promise of good hay. Another crop is due before frost.

Powell believes he will reap 50 tons of Johnson grass hay this year. His 40 acre meadow grass patch has a luxuriant growth and also will be cut for hay. If it were not for underbrush, the same would be true of tobacco grass on the flats of his ranch, for the native grass is knee high in look growth.

KEN FINDS A GAL

Ken Maynard, right, goes into a rough country seeking a pal; he gets right into the middle of a bad situation and comes out not only with his pal, but a "gal," lovely Joan Barclay. The show is at the Queen Friday and Saturday.

DANIELMEN TRAMPLE PAMPANS TWICE

Burrus Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game

Ben Daniel's Devils clinched a berth in the national junior softball playoff here Saturday night by trouncing the Knights of Columbus ten, Pampa, under the lights at Baron park, 17-0, for their second straight victory. They had opened Friday night with a 24-1 win over the invaders from the Panhandle.

The Danielmen had a harder time in showing the Pampans around in the finale but there was never much doubt as to the outcome since H. C. Burrus twirled a no-hit no-run game.

The locals counted four runs in the first frame, were held in check thereafter until the sixth when they sent fourteen men to bat and tallied ten times.

Burrus struck out nine men and permitted seven walks. Howard Hart, cleanup hitter, blasted out a lick in the sixth that hit the wall in Baron park on a score by innings:

Worm Damage Shows No Sign Of Abating

Worst Infestation Centers On Three Communities

Farmers and worms continued their war Tuesday with the cotton crop at stake. Although the acute infestation appeared to be centered around Coahoma, Vincent and Lomax, it was nevertheless general over the county. In no quarter did the menace appear to be abating.

Reports that worm eggs were hatching continuously reduced hopes for an end of the fight against the insect hazard. Hatching of the worms also added proof to the belief that worm infestation this year is not closely following the usual generation cycle.

This condition makes it more difficult for farmers to combat damage, since poisoning must be done repeatedly.

County Agent O. P. Griffin Tuesday said that most poison applications now were holding good for about five days. Unless the hatching period is virtually concluded by that time, a reapplication of calcium arsenate spray will be necessary.

Many farms in the county have been subjected to three and four sprays already. It was estimated that approximately 100 tons of calcium arsenate have been used thus far in the campaign against the worms.

Discouraging to farmers was the continued havoc by bollworms, an item usually of no concern in this county. Although some predicted they largely would run their course by the end of this week, there was no indication of a let up Tuesday.

STEEL CHIP TAKEN FROM WORKERS EYE

Clinton Ferrell, Kernall oil field worker, was given a chance for partial vision in his right eye following removal of a steel from the back of his eyeball here Monday.

The piece of steel which pierced his eyeball just at the edge and above the pupil measured 3-8x1-4 of an inch. It was removed at a local eye, ear and nose clinic by means of an electro-magnet.

His chances for vision depend upon how seriously the steel injured the retina when it lodged against the back of the eye.
