Board names new HHS principal Educator from Hurst-Eules-Bedford selected Monday night

An educator with several years experience as a public school administrator has been named principal at Hereford High School.

Steven Nash was appointed to the local position by unanimous vote of the Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees at a regular meeting Monday night.

Nash comes to Hereford from a one year teaching assignment in the Hurst-Eules-Bedford school district near Fort Worth.

Jack Patton, incoming superintendent for H.I.S.D., said Nash has prior principal's experience in schools at Gilmer, Shelbyville, Red Oak and Shultz.

Patton, who officially takes the superintendent's job July 1, was involved in the selection process. Nash is expected to begin work in Hereford on or about July 1 Patton said.

Nash received the positive board vote following a lengthy executive session of the board to discuss candidates for the position.

Nash fills a position which was vacated earlier this year when Terry Russell was elevated to an assistant superintendent's position.

Appointment of the principal was one of four action items considered by the board.

A bid of $433,240 was also approved for purchase of data communications equipment from Micro-Media Solutions Inc.

The bid was the lowest of three received by the district according to information provided by Dianna Drew, technology director for the school district.

Other bids were from CTA, $739,435 and NEC, $780,106.

The system will provide hardware for a computer system which will utilize the hub system of connection and management.

Additional prices will be sought on upgrading the electrical systems in the various schools to accommodate the new computer system.

Compensation schedules for employees were also presented to the board by Patton and were approved by another unanimous vote.

Several resignations of personnel were also accepted and three new teachers were hired following a second executive session of the board.

New teachers are Michelle Beltran, high school; Susan Sublett, Northwest; and Nicole Kleman, Aikman.

Resignations were accepted from Billie Birdwell, Northwest; Susan Bodkin, Shirley; Barbara Greenawalt, Diagnostician; Amanda Hendrix, high school; and Carolyn Robbins, junior high.

Board members present for the meeting included Charlie Arellano, Lloyd Ames, David Charest, Jeff Tarbert and Tracy Straughn. Absent were Karen Sherrod and Mark Landrum.

New Miss Hereford

Stephanie Bixler, 18-year-old daughter of Stacey and Holly Bixler, was crowned Miss Hereford 1997 during pageant festivities Saturday in Hereford High School auditorium. Miss Bixler topped a field of eight contestants to win the event. (See related photos, Page 3).

Stephanie Bixler, a May graduate of Hereford High School, was crowned Miss Hereford 1997 Saturday night as she out-scored seven other beautiful and talented contestants to take the crown.

Lisa Chavez was chosen as first-runner-up in the 23rd annual Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant, and Aimee Alley was second runner-up. The special "Miss Congeniality" award went to Wendy Brisendine.

Miss Bixler was crowned by Lexi Sciombato, Miss Hereford 1994. The 18-year-old daughter of Stacey and Holly Bixler, she plans to attend Texas Tech University where she hopes to earn a degree in mass communication. She performed a dance routine in the talent competition. Her sponsor was Custom Cleaners.

Miss Bixler receives a $500 college scholarship from the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the pageant. College scholarships of $300 and $200 were presented to the runners-up.

Miss Chavez, 18, is the daughter of Lupe and Janie Chavez. She will attend McMurry University and study secondary education. She performed a comedy skit in the talent division. Her sponsors were Western Ford and Janie's Hair Salon.

Miss Alley, 19, attends Texas A&M University where she is majoring in finance with emphasis on international business. She is the daughter of Larry and Eileen Alley. She performed a twirling routine in the talent division. Her sponsor was Hereford State Bank.

The other contestants, in alphabetical order and their sponsors: Wendy Brisendine (Stevens Chevrolet), Monica Caperton (Hubert D's Dirt and Paving), Michele Denning (Marquez Trucking), Jessica Mondragon (Villarreal and Sons Bakery and Lupe Crox), and Roxanne Pena (West Park Drug).

Chris Leonard, a member of the Kiwanis Club and presently on the hospital board, Chamber of Commerce board, St. Anthony's School board and Hereford Day Care board, was master of ceremonies. He is a CPA and associated with McGinty and Associates.

Fund requests are $200,000 more than projected income County starts new budget study

BY JACK STEIN
Brand Editor

Early figures in the budgeting process for Deaf Smith County for the next fiscal year show there won't be enough income to cover all expenses if all monetary requests are honored.

Auditor Alex Schroeter told commissioners court Monday morning that preliminary figures estimate income at $3,488,500 while general fund requests are $3,682,000 or almost $200,000 more than projected revenue.

The budget figures presented are only preliminary and county officials still must examine each item individually before setting a budget.

Some original requests in the early budget process are usually eliminated from the final figures before it receives court approval and this is expected to bring those final dollar amounts into a balanced situation.

Commissioners were presented with several additional things to consider in the new budget, including salary increases, per diem increase when on county business, and a larger mileage allotment among other items.

The commissioners also rejected all bids in the McMorries Building north of town which had been purchased in lieu of tax payment.

The highest bid was $8,250, about $1,000 less than the county has invested in the property. Upon the recommendation of Commissioner Wayne Betzen, the court voted to reject all bids.

The commissioner then made a motion to seek new bids on the property while establishing a minimum bid. The new bids will be opened in two weeks.

Treasurer Nan Rogers also presented commissioners with cost estimates for paying employees through a direct deposit plan.

This would allow the county to electronically transfer employee salaries into their checking accounts.

Computer software would cost the county $100 and another $1,000 would be needed to adapt this software into the county's computer system. An additional $300 would be needed for a modem which would electronically send the required data to the bank.

The only other expense would be a $10 fee mandated by federal statute.

She recommended sending a notice to employees to find out how they feel about such a service and County Judge Tom Simons agreed to write and distribute the notice.

Rogers said a direct deposit plan would require placing personal information about employees into the files and some of them might not like that, however she pointed out that the system has "built in safeguards" to prevent unauthorized persons from getting that information.

Presently the county spends $2,500 to $3,000 to purchase and print envelopes for distribution of checks and payment of bills and much of this cost could be eliminated.

Rogers said it was possible that this system later could be expanded to take care of bill payments as well.

"I feel it would be a real time saver," Rogers said, "but I don't feel we can force our employees to take this." Commissioners agreed and decided to poll the employees.

Schroeter agreed, saying he, too (See COUNTY, Page 2)

Youth home here moves another step closer on expansion plan

The Deaf Smith County Youth Home moved another step closer to expansion Monday morning when county commissioners agreed to fund the project on a matching grant basis with the Amarillo Area Foundation.

Commissioners agreed to pay $27,217 for the project if a matching grant is approved by the foundation. Total cost of the project is estimated at $54,434.

Lou Serrano, juvenile probation officer, showed commissioners plans for expansion of the facility which will not only enhance available space but provide more adult supervision at the facility.

The youth home, at East 5th Street and Sampson, will be expanded by 2,220 square feet, some of the new construction going west from the existing building and the remainder north.

With much of the new area allotted to classroom space there will also be an area set aside for new offices allowing all of the department's employees to be under one roof.

"This will put all staff in one place and eliminate $3,000 in yearly rent on the current (office) location," Serrano said. "This will make it safer for students and teachers as well."

The increased space will not expand capacity of the facility which on an average day will house eight to 10 students but recently has handled as many as 13.

Normal population is 12 with the facility being authorized to handle 18 but there are not enough beds in the youth home to meet that figure.

In asking commissioners to approve the plans and agree to the matching funding, Serrano said he felt comfortable that funding from Amarillo Area Foundation would be forthcoming if it received county approval.

He said the application for a matching grant would need to be filed by July 11 and an answer could be expected in September.

Commissioner Johnny Latham said "It (the plan) makes sense to me and I think we ought to do it."

He made that a motion for approval with a second from Lupe Chavez and the entire court voted approval.

By STEVEN K. PAULSON
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) - Timothy McVeigh was a lanky class clown dubbed "chicken" by his high school classmates. He was a top-notch soldier who helped save a comrade's life and was saddened by begging Iraqi children.

McVeigh was all of those things before he blew up the Oklahoma City federal building, according to friends and Army colleagues. He was charming at times, a young man who admired fairness. He loved strawberry Pop-Tarts.

Attorneys for the 29-year-old Gulf War veteran hope glimpses of McVeigh's less ominous past will spare him from execution for murder and conspiracy. He faces death or life in prison for the April 19, 1995, bombing that killed 168 people, the deadliest act of domestic terrorism in U.S. history.

Testimony in the penalty phase was to resume today. Jurors could begin deliberations as early as Wednesday.

Throughout the trial that ended last week in McVeigh's conviction, prosecutors argued that McVeigh bombed the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building exactly two years after the deadly siege on the Branch Davidian compound near Waco, Texas, as revenge and to spark a second American Revolution.

While the defense has indicated it will attempt to address the Waco siege, much of its penalty case has relied on McVeigh's friends and neighbors. Some had trouble believing McVeigh's transformation from a happy-go-lucky boy into a disillusioned veteran fixated on the disaster at Waco.

Richard Drzyzga, who lived four doors from the McVeighs in Pendleton, N.Y., testified Monday that after McVeigh served in the Gulf War he disappeared for about a year, and then one day in 1993 sent Drzyzga a videotape critical of the FBI's deadly raid at Waco.

"I'm torn, confused," Drzyzga said in a choked voice. "There is a part of me that still remembers him from a little kid. And then there's a part that sees what everybody else sees on TV and gets angry. And I can't put the two together."

"It scared me," he said. "It scared me to the point that I turned to my wife and said, 'What the hell has he gotten into.'"

There were other signs of McVeigh's transformation.

Gulf War gunner William Dilly testified that McVeigh was always urging him to read "The Turner Diaries," a racist novel that begins with the bombing of a federal building by revolutionaries. He also described how McVeigh had a habit of taking battlefield pictures of dead Iraqis.

GOP vows to replace vetoed bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional Republicans pledge prompt action on legislation to replace a vetoed disaster-aid bill, but aren't ready to say whether they're willing to meet President Clinton's conditions.

Within a few hours of Monday's veto, House Speaker Newt Gingrich issued a statement attacking the president, but saying Republicans "will work quickly to get relief to those in need."

Beyond those broad pledges, though, Republicans have yet to say whether they're willing to drop items the White House found objectionable. Among these are a provision to bar a government shutdown next fall, but at spending levels beneath what is contemplated in a balanced-budget agreement recently agreed to, and a proposal to bar the Census Bureau from using sampling techniques.

House aides, speaking on condition of anonymity, said it's likely to be Wednesday at the earliest before another measure is ready for a vote on the floor. And in the meantime, Senate Democrats plan an all-night session - in a Capitol corridor if the Senate formally votes to adjourn - to dramatize the need for relief.

Acting with remarkable speed, Clinton vetoed the $8.6 billion bill Monday and issued a written statement that it was time to "stop playing politics with the lives of Americans in need." It took only 28 minutes from the time the measure reached the White House until it was vetoed and dispatched back to the Capitol.

Cohen seeks candidate after Ralston withdraws

WASHINGTON (AP) - Having lost the leading candidate for Joint Chiefs chairman to a furor over admitted adultery, Defense Secretary William Cohen is broadening his search for a potential nominee for the top military position.

After an agonizing week in which his illustrious Air Force career seemed in jeopardy, Gen. Joseph Ralston took himself out of the running to be the next Joint Chiefs chairman Monday, but said he would continue as the vice chairman.

In a statement, President Clinton said he respected Ralston's decision and was pleased he would remain as vice chairman. "or 32 years, in war and in peace, Gen. Ralston has served our nation with uncommon distinction," the president said.

A Cohen aide, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that with Ralston out of the running Cohen would have to widen his search for candidates. Gen. John Shalikashvili, the current Joint Chiefs chairman, had recommended Ralston succeed him, and Cohen was believed to be just days away from picking him for what would have been the high point of his career.

Under existing congressional directives, Cohen must choose the next chairman from a limited list of senior officers, primarily the chiefs of staff of each service and the warfighting generals and admirals posted around the world.

Without alluding directly to his adultery, Ralston said in a brief written statement that the public has "blurred the facts" and created the false impression that the military applies a double standard in matters of sexual conduct. He was referring to comparisons many have made in recent days between his case and that of B-52 pilot 1st Lt. Kelly Flinn.

President Clinton is highlighting the results as part of his push for national testing standards to measure what U.S. students know.

BRAZZAVILLE, Republic of Congo - French officials say their forces are ready to enter Brazzaville areas besieged by fierce fighting between government troops and rebels loyal to a former dictator to evacuate foreigners blocked from reaching the airport. Bodies litter the streets of downtown Brazzaville, say foreigners who fled the urban warfare - now in its sixth day.

Democrats try to derail GOP health care money

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Democrats, fearing the money won't go where intended, are trying to derail a Republican plan for providing $16 billion through 2002 to expand health-care coverage for low-income children.

And Clinton administration officials say another part of the package abandons the budget-balancing deal they struck with congressional leaders because it does not provide all of the $1.5 billion promised over five years to help some elderly people pay their Medicare premiums.

The House Commerce Committee's health subcommittee planned votes today on the package. The measure, which also extracts $16 billion in savings from Medicaid, is one of several beginning to move through Congress that implements the budget accord between President Clinton and legislative leaders.

Republicans described the measure to reporters on Monday and highlighted its proposal to cover up to 5 million poor children who currently have no health insurance. White House negotiators insisted on such coverage during the weeks of talks that produced the budget pact.

Republicans would provide $13 billion of the money through block grants to states, which would have broad authority to use the money. But many Democrats, joined by some Republicans, say states might use the money for other purposes, and said they would offer a plan that ensures the funds would go to children's health care.

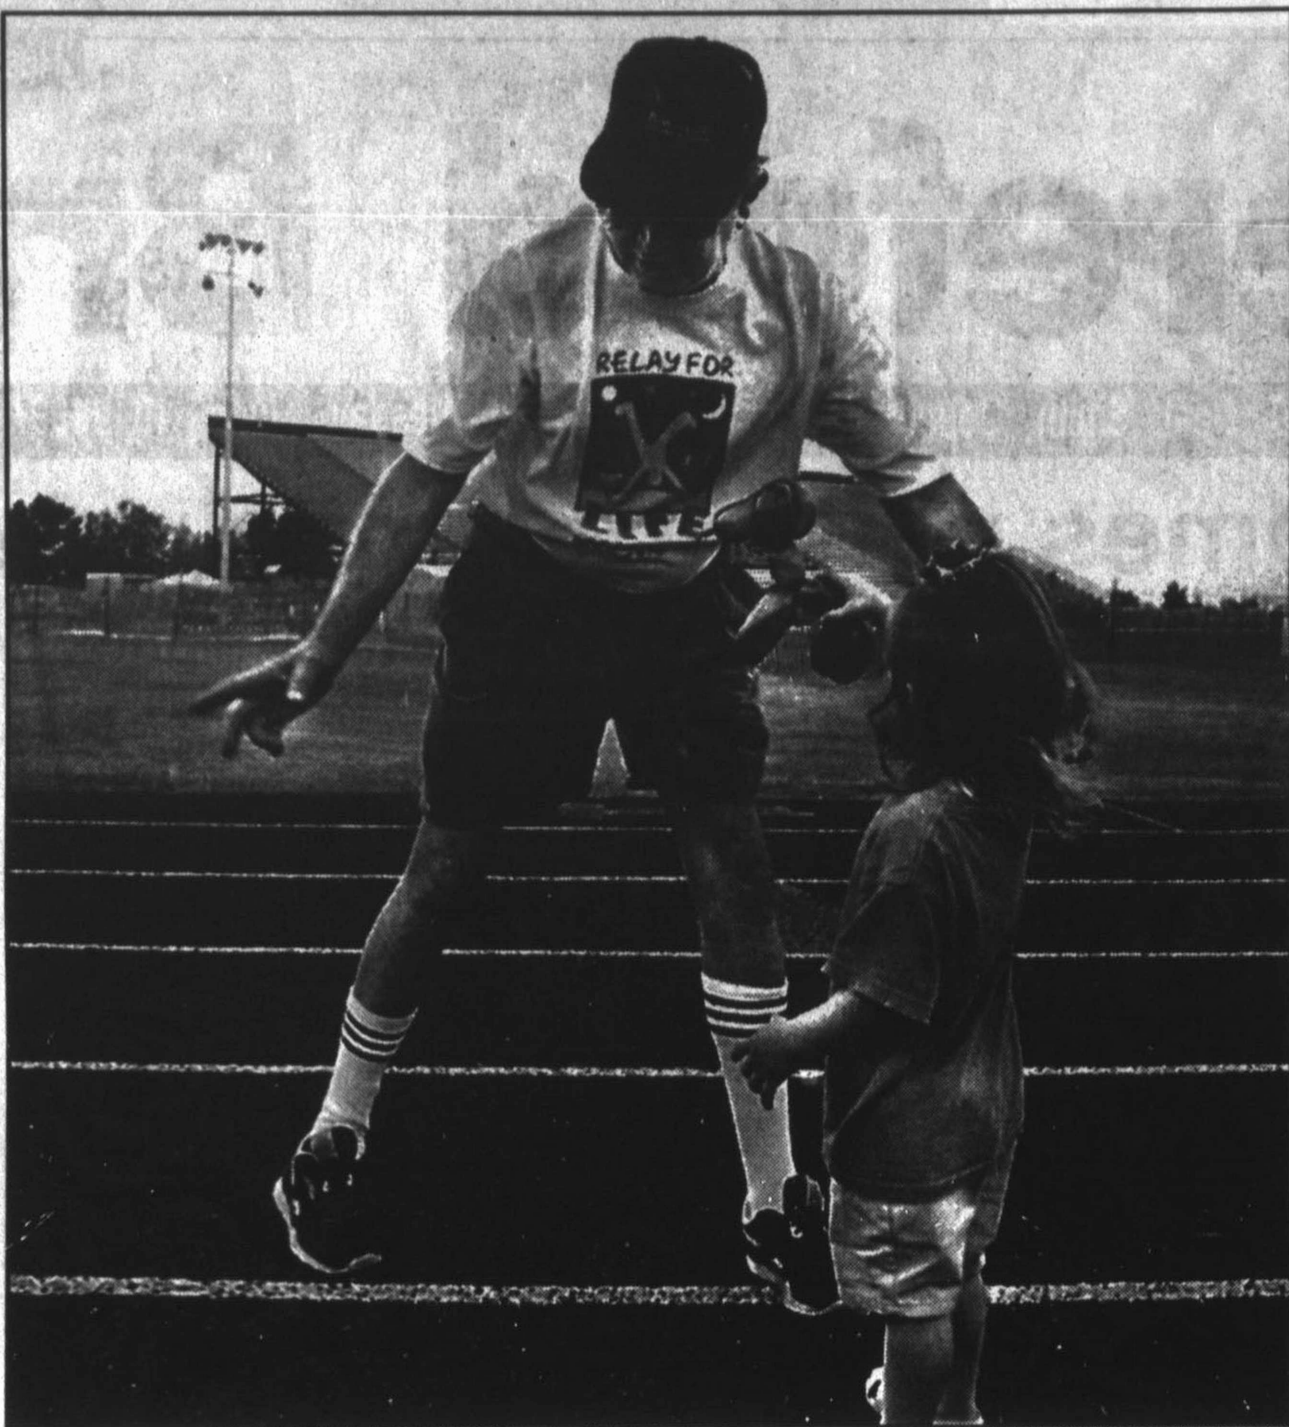

"We need a clear benefit package, not a chance of health insurance if the states use the money appropriately," said Rep. Henry Waxman of California, the top Democrat on the health subcommittee.

The rest of the health-insurance money for children would go through Medicaid, the existing health-insurance program for the poor.

The GOP measure would make children eligible for federal assistance if they're under age 19 and their family incomes are below 300 percent of the official poverty line - that is, less than $48,150 for a family of four. Currently, Medicaid covers children younger than 6 and whose family incomes are below $21,347 for a family of four.

Also controversial is the GOP plan to help many elderly people pay higher Medicare monthly premiums for doctors' coverage.

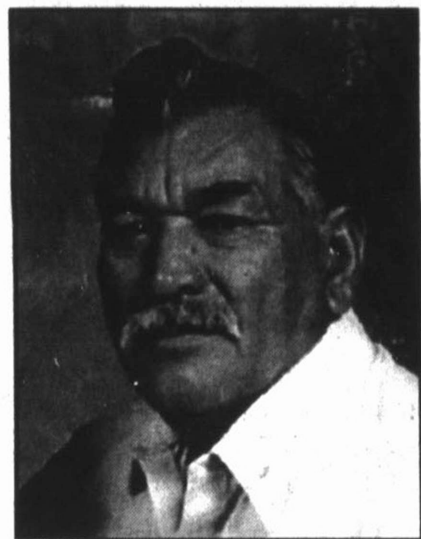

During budget negotiations, both sides discussed providing federal aid to pay the full monthly premium for people whose incomes are up to 150 percent of poverty - that is, up to $11,835 for individuals and $15,915 for couples. That premium is now $43.80, but it is projected to grow to $66.30 in 2002.

- authorized K&N Energy, represented by Steve Archer, to conduct maintenance in county rights-of-way for cathodic protection of pipelines.

- decided to seek bids on five to 10 miles of seal coating for county roads.

- approved minutes from the last meeting and paid bills.

Majority using their seat belts in Hereford

Hereford Police Department implemented STEP, or Selected Traffic Enforcement Program, over the Memorial Day weekend.

The program, which is funded by a grant from the Texas Department of Transportation, is designed to encourage the use of seat belts and child safety seats.

Cpl. Terry Brown reported that city-wide there was 70 percent compliance with the use of seat belts and 64 percent compliance with child safety seats.

This represents a nine percent increase in the use of child safety seats, according to Brown.

The police department will again implement the STEP program over the Fourth of July weekend, July 4-7, he said.

For more information on the program, contact HPD at 363-7120.

College students from Hereford provide news of local interest

Justin McWethy, a Hereford student at South Plains College in Levelland, has been named to the Dean's Honor List for the spring 1997 semester.

Students named to the Dean's Honor List must earn a grade point average of at least 3.25 while enrolled in at least 12 semester hours of college-level work.

Five students from Hereford have been named honor students for the 1997 spring semester at Texas A&M University.

Named to the Dean's Honor Roll were Aimee Rachelle Alley, a business administration major; Cady Marie Auckerman, an agricultural development major; and Brent Marcus Marnell, a business administration major.

Distinguished Student honorees were Jeb S. Skiles, a biomedical sciences major and Shelia Dee Teel, an agribusiness major.

The Dean's Honor Roll recognized students taking at least 15 semester hours who have maintained at least a 3.75 grade point ratio out of a possible 4.0 during the most recent grading period.

The second designation, Distinguished Student, recognizes students who earned a 3.25 to 3.75 GPR while taking at least 15 hours.

Scott Shaw of Hereford was one of 27 members of the Hardin-Simmons University Concert Choir, directed by Dr. Loyd F. Hawthorne, who has returned from a choral music tour to Italy. The choir sang in Rome, Florence and Venice.

On May 16, the HSU musicians were presented in full concert at 9 p.m. with the newly formed local gospel and spiritual choir at St. James' American Church, Florence.

On May 18, the group performed at the 6:45 p.m. holy mass at St. Mark's Basilica in Venice.

Winners in pageant

Lisa Chavez, left, daughter of Lupe and Janie Chavez, was first-runner-up in the Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant held Saturday. Second-runner-up was Aimee Alley, center, daughter of Larry and Eileen Alley. Winning the special "Miss Congeniality" award was Wendy Brisendine, daughter of Mickey and Michelle Brisendine. Judges for the event were Eddie Earl of Amarillo, assistant vice-president of the Miss Amarillo Area Scholarship organization; Faye Bates of Arkansas, a member of the advisory board for the Miss Southern Arkansas University Pageant; and Destiny Gustafson of Amarillo, a professional makeup artist and member of the Miss Amarillo Area Scholarship Pageant committee. Judging for the event is based on a personal interview with the judges, and sportswear, evening gown and talent competition. Each is important in the scoring, but the audience does not witness the interview, which is held prior to the public event.

Providing special entertainment were Cynthia Jimenez and Annie Keenan, who each sang between events.

Betty Drake and Betty Taylor were co-chairmen of the pageant steering committee, which also included Linda Daniel, Peggie Fox, Julia Laing, Kim Leonard and Elvira Enriquez, Women's Division president.

Pageant helpers who assisted backstage and with decorations were Janie Alejandre, Rita Bell, Linda Cumpton, Melinda Whitfill, Marsha Winget, Leslie Easley, Emily Christie, Sandy Josseland, Colleen Meyer, Heather Wilson, Lacy Mueggenborg, Gail Richardson and Poppi Cape.

Cardinals win 9-1 behind Benes' pitching

Astros fall to Dodgers 8-3 as Zeile hits two homers

CHICAGO (AP) - Mike Mussina, nearly perfect two weeks ago against Cleveland, showed off his near-flawless control in a dominating performance against the Chicago White Sox.

"I'm getting the ball where I want," said Mussina, who won his eighth consecutive decision Monday night as the Baltimore Orioles routed the White Sox 10-2 for their ninth victory in 11 games.

"I changed speeds, threw strikes and had great defense behind me. I gave up a couple home runs, but as long as they are solo, I can live with that."

Mussina (8-1), who worked 8 1-3 perfect innings in an eventual one-hitter against the Indians on May 30, allowed five hits and struck out six in his second complete game of the year. The right-hander lost his shutout in the seventh on the solo homers by Albert Belle and Lyle Mouton.

"He's very consistent, using all his pitches," Baltimore manager Davey Johnson said. "He's keeping the ball down. He's pitching out front in the count and has really been in total command."

Mussina, coming off two consecutive 19-victory seasons, has 74 strikeouts and 16 walks in 87 2-3 innings this year.

"The bottom line for us has been our pitching," Orioles first baseman Rafael Palmeiro said. "It sets up everything we do offensively, and it sets up how we approach each game. Last year, we got into a home run-hitting mentality and felt that we had to slug it out in order to win."

In the only other American League game Monday night, California routed Kansas City 12-5.

Baltimore, which stretched its AL East lead over New York to eight games, took a 5-0 lead with a four-run fifth, capped by Jeffrey Hammonds' two-run homer off James Baldwin (3-8). B.J. Surhoff was 4-for-5 to raise his average to .350, while Mike Bordick and Brady Anderson each had three hits.

In the fifth, Roberto Alomar reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and moved to third on a passed ball. Rafael Palmeiro doubled in a run, Surhoff added an RBI single and Hammonds followed with his sixth homer.

Hammonds, hitting .291 with 18 RBIs, homered soon after the Orioles announced that fellow outfielder Eric Davis is scheduled to undergo surgery Friday to remove an abscess from his abdomen.

Hammonds downplayed his role with Davis missing.

"With the loss of Eric, Jeffrey really needs to play well," said Johnson, who will be without Davis for at least eight weeks. "It's a devastating blow because Eric is a big part of this club. But we have a group of guys who can pick up the slack. We're going to need everybody."

later, Mouton connected for his third homer.

"We had our opportunities early but didn't take advantage," Mouton said. "We were able to scratch out a couple of home runs, but they were solo shots, so no harm done."

Baltimore made it 9-2 in the eighth on Bordick's two-run double, Anderson's RBI single and a throwing error by catcher Jorge Fabregas. Bordick singled in the final run in the ninth.

Angels 12, Royals 5
At Kansas City, Mo., Darin Erstad drove in a career-high four runs and scored three runs as Anaheim roughed up Kansas City rookie Glendon Rusch for the third time this season.

Erstad's three-run homer capped a five-run ninth inning for California, which had 18 hits. Jim Edmonds was 3-for-5 with two RBIs and Jim Leyritz also drove in two runs for the Angels.

Allen Watson (5-3), who beat Rusch 7-3 last Wednesday, earned his fourth straight victory, allowing five runs and seven hits in five innings. Rusch (3-4) was tagged for 11 hits and seven runs in 5 2-3 innings.

Jay Bell and Chili Davis hit two-run homers for Kansas City in the sixth.

Mussina dominates Chicago

Pitcher leads Indians to 9th win in 11 games

By The Associated Press
Since leaving San Diego in 1995, Andy Benes added a pitch to his arsenal.

Monday night, he showed it to the Padres.

Benes dominated his former team for eight innings and John Mabry extended the NL's longest hitting streak to 20 games as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Padres 9-1.

Benes, making his first start in San Diego since the Padres traded him to Seattle on July 31, 1995, allowed four hits, struck out seven and walked two.

"I had a good changeup tonight, and that's something they haven't really seen in the past, so it's to my advantage," said Benes, who hadn't quite mastered the change while he was with the Padres.

"He's using his changeup real well," said San Diego manager Bruce Bochy, whose club has only one run and 10 hits in two games. "This was another great pitching performance we've faced in two days."

Houston's Darryl Kile pitched a five-hitter against San Diego on Sunday.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was: Los Angeles 8, Houston 3; San Francisco 7, Florida 4; Montreal 6, Chicago 5; Colorado 8, Atlanta 3; and the New York Mets 4, Cincinnati 2.

The Cardinals were the latest team to benefit from ineffective Padres' starting pitching as Ray Lankford hit a two-run homer in the first off rookie Will Cunnane (4-2), and Mike Difelice and Dmitri Young connected on back-to-back shots to open the fifth.

San Diego lost for the fourth time in five games and for the eighth time in nine home games.

Tony Gwynn singled in the sixth and eighth innings and now has the second-longest hitting streak in his career, 19 games. He hit in 25 straight games in 1983.

Dodgers 8, Astros 3
At Los Angeles, Todd Zeile hit a pair of two-run homers and Los Angeles capitalized on second baseman Craig Biggio's error in the fourth to score the tying and go-ahead runs.

Ramon Martinez (6-3) allowed nine hits in seven innings to win his sixth straight decision against Houston. The right-hander walked two and tied a season-high with nine strikeouts.

Zeile, whose previous seven homers were solo shots, connected in the first and seventh innings off Chris Holt (6-5).

At San Francisco, Barry Bonds homered and drove in four runs to help rookie Keith Foulke (1-1) get his first major league win.

The Giants have won nine straight home games over the Marlins.

Bonds hit a three-run homer, his third in two games, to help the Giants open a 6-0 lead in the fifth off Pat Rapp (4-3).

Foulke allowed one run and three hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Expos 6, Cubs 5

At Montreal, Jeff Juden (6-2) pitched into the seventh and Henry Rodriguez hit a three-run triple as Montreal completed a four-game sweep.

Juden, who gave up two runs and five hits in six-plus innings, did not allow a hit until Scott Servais singled leading off the fifth.

The four-game sweep was Montreal's first over Chicago since Sept. 11-13, 1979.

F.P. Santangelo went 3-for-4 with an RBI double as the Expos won their seventh straight at home against Chicago.

The Cubs have lost five straight, their longest losing skid since opening the season with an NL-record 14-game streak.

Frank Castillo (3-8) took the loss.

Rockies 8, Braves 3

At Denver, Vinny Castilla hit a three-run home run - the 100th of his career - and Ellis Burks had a solo shot in a game delayed nearly 2 1/2 hours by rain.

For the fourth straight day, the Rockies were disrupted by rain at Coors Field. Following a rainy weekend series of postponements, delays and tornado warnings against Florida, the opener of a three-game series with Atlanta was delayed for 2 hours, 26 minutes in the second inning.

Roger Bailey (6-5) allowed nine hits in 5 1-3 innings for the win.

Tom Glavine (6-4) was reached for eight hits and five runs in eight innings. Colorado's Larry Walker went 3-for-4 to raise his major league-leading average to .422.

Former UT baseball star now in 8th AAA season

FORT WORTH, Texas - Rick Parker is a real-life version of Crash Davis, the career minor-league baseball player portrayed by Kevin Costner in the movie "Bull Durham."

Parker, who played on the University of Texas baseball team that finished second in the 1985 College World Series, is now a 34-year-old in his eighth Triple-A season.

"I play for the love of the game," Parker said. "There have been plenty of times when I've thought about shucking it all and just quitting. It has been a long, hard road. And it hasn't been easy. But it has been worth it."

He has batted .300 or better in five of the past seven Triple-A seasons, and has been called up to the major leagues six of those years, playing for the Los Angeles Dodgers, New York Mets, Houston Astros and San Francisco Giants.

This year, he has played every position except catcher and pitcher for the Albuquerque Dukes, the Dodgers' top farm team. Through 36 games, the utility infielder was batting .261 with five doubles and four homers. He also has been hit by pitches five times and has five stolen bases in five attempts.

"Rick's a guy who refuses to give up on a dream," Dukes manager Glenn Hoffman said. "He's like a coach on the field for us because he has been through it all over the years."

Parker left UT in 1985 after being drafted by the Philadelphia Phillies. He played five years in the Phillies' minor-league system, then made his major-league debut with the Giants in 1990. He played 54 games with the Giants that year and 45 with the Astros in '93, but has never recorded more at-bats in the majors than in the minors in any season.

The Dodgers picked him up as a free agent in 1995, but it's unlikely Parker will get a call-up from the parent team this year. When they had a couple of recent injuries, the Dodgers called up Roger Cedeno to fill one spot and signed veteran Eric Anthony for another opening.

"All I can do is keep playing hard and keep on putting up good numbers," said Parker, whose best position is third base. "Everything else is out of my control. I've been to the show at some point in each of the last six, seven years. One of these times, I'm going to get in the right situation and stick around for a while. That's about all I can hope for at this point."

Parker's best chance is that some organization plagued by injuries might be able to use his versatility.

"Rick knows that time is not on his side, but the window of opportunity is still open," Hoffman said. "Teams can always use a player with his kind of versatility. In the right situation, he just might stick around up there for a while."

Perry, Vaughn garner Big 12 athletic honors

DALLAS (AP) - Texas sprinter Nanceen Perry and Kansas point guard Jacque Vaughn on Monday were named the first Big 12 female and male Athletes of the Year.

Perry and Vaughn were chosen by a panel of athletic administrators, media and members of the Greater Kansas City Sports Commission and Foundation based on athletic performance and academic achievement, with citizenship a tie-breaker.

Perry, a sophomore, is a six-time NCAA All-American and four-time member of the Commissioner's Honor Roll. She won the first Big 12 indoor women's 200-meter dash in 23.57 and won the NCAA indoor title in 23.09.

At last month's Big 12 outdoor meet, Perry won the 200 in 22.73 and was part of the winning 400-meter relay team. She was third in the 200 at the NCAA outdoor meet and was part of the second-place 400-meter relay squad.

Vaughn, a senior, was named a second-team All-American after averaging 10.2 points and 6.1 assists per game last season. He also posted a 3.7 cumulative grade-point average while majoring in business administration.

Vaughn missed the first 10 games with a wrist injury, then helped Kansas maintain the No. 1 ranking through the year. The Jayhawks won the first Big 12 regular-season and post-season titles, then fell in the NCAA regional semifinals to eventual national champion Arizona.

This was the first year of the Big 12 conference. It is made up of the former members of the Big Eight and former Southwest Conference schools Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Baylor.

Jazz fans cut loose on Bulls after victory

Another victory would give Utah 3-2 lead in NBA finals

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - The NBA Finals have allowed Utah to reveal a boisterous soul that belies its image.

Outside the Delta Center, rowdy crowds were cheering the Jazz and jeering the Bulls. Cars, pickups and freight trucks paraded past for hours, blaring their horns.

And on a Sunday, for heaven's sake.

"For Mormons, if they are Mormons, they were acting very un-Christian out there," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said.

The meek, these fans know, do not inherit the NBA title.

On Wednesday night, just a few blocks from the Mormon Tabernacle, the Utah Jazz play Game 5 of the NBA Finals against the Chicago Bulls. A victory would put the Jazz up 3-2 and send the best-of-7 series back to Chicago for Game 6 Friday night and, maybe, Game 7 on Sunday.

Utah fans certainly expect a victory. The Jazz have won 23 in a row at the noisy Delta Center, boosting their home record this season to 48-3. They are 10-0 at home in the playoffs.

"It's a time now for the whole state," Utah's Karl Malone said.

"We've taken our knocks over the years. I'm from Louisiana, but I consider Utah my home now. We've taken a lot of bad raps. Now for the spotlight to be on us here, I think, it's great to get rid of some of those myths you guys think about Salt Lake."

Much of the giddy enthusiasm comes from years of frustration. The Jazz were always good, but not good enough to make it to the finals. Just pulling even with the mighty Bulls 2-2 was cause for jubilation.

"It's been a long time coming," Malone said. "These guys have waited 12 or 13 years for something to celebrate."

When Malone rode his Harley home after Sunday night's come-from-behind 78-73 thriller, he found a crowd around his house.

"Most of them were neighbors," he said. "I've been here for 10 years and I didn't even know half of them live up there."

The Bulls enter Wednesday night's game weary but determined.

"This is all new to the Jazz," Jackson said. "We've been here before. This is what I call slugfest time."

Jackson, although he has earplugs to help him deal with the Delta din, insists the homecourt advantage in Salt Lake City is no bigger than other places the Bulls have played in the finals.

"We played Phoenix when they had a great homecourt run. We played Portland when they had a great homecourt run. We played last year against Seattle when they had a great homecourt run," Jackson said. "Every team that's been in the finals against us out West has had a great homecourt advantage and a great homecourt record. We overcame that; we'll overcome this one."

Jackson believes the Jazz have gotten an unfair edge in the two games in Salt Lake. Utah's defense, which has successfully thwarted Chicago's inside game, has been a thinly disguised zone ignored by the officials, Jackson intimated.

"We just wonder does the color of the uniform make a difference or the color of the court," Jackson said. "They really haven't made the Jazz be legal in this homestand, so they've had success in closing down lanes and compacting the court and hurrying the offense a little bit."

Then there's the fouls, or lack of them.

"We didn't shoot a free throw in the fourth quarter and they won the game at the foul line," Jackson said.

The Bulls are accepting some of the blame themselves, especially on offense, where Chicago has sputtered, particularly in its attempts to take advantage of the Scottie Pippen-Jeff Hornacek matchup.

When Utah coach Jerry Sloan switched Bryon Russell from Pippen to Michael Jordan, the Bulls salivated at the prospect of Pippen overpowering the much smaller Hornacek. It hasn't happened.

"We crowded him. We didn't give him space. We didn't read it. We didn't organize ourselves," Jackson said.

And, as always, what about Dennis? Rodman, with Jackson's permission, flew off to Las Vegas for a night of revelry Sunday, then rejoined the team Monday. Some of the Bulls grumbled but no one protested too much.

"Dennis is uncontrollable, so don't even try," Ron Harper said. "Hopefully, he'll bring his game back with him."

Rodman has been ineffective

Vernon tennis tournament June 28-29

The Vernon Open Tennis Tournament will be held June 27-28 for juniors and June 28-29 for adults, according to tournament director Ruben Vargas.

There will be five divisions for junior boys and girls, starting with 10-and-under and progressing by two years up to 18-and-under. A mixed doubles division will be open to all ages.

For adults, there will be a men's single and doubles in A and B divisions, women's singles and doubles in A and B divisions, and mixed doubles, A and B divisions.

Entry fees are $10 for singles and $20 for doubles teams. Trophies will be awarded to first and second places in the junior tourney. Tee shirts will be awarded to adults winning first or second.

Mail entry forms to Ruben Vargas, 1803 Loma Linda, Vernon, Tx. 76384, or call 940-55207780 for more information.

Sports Briefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Kansas City signed free agent safety Kevin Ross, 35, who spent 10 years in the Chiefs secondary from 1984-93.

Kansas City also signed wide receiver Brett Perriman and offensive lineman Ralph Tamm.

Perriman, 32, was a free agent from Detroit and the leading receiver in Lions' history with 428 catches.

In addition, the Chiefs released starting safety Brian Washington.

BALTIMORE (AP) - Orioles outfielder Eric Davis will have a mass removed from his abdomen later this week and will be sidelined for eight weeks.

Davis, who was placed on the 15-day disabled list on May 31, will undergo a laparotomy Friday at Johns Hopkins Hospital. The 35-year-old outfielder, who last played at Cleveland on May 25, was batting .302 with seven homers.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Mary Slaney and Sandra Farmer-Patrick, both suspended by track and field's international governing body for alleged drug use, decided to compete in this week's USA Track and Field Championships.

Slaney, the nation's premier distance runner, and Farmer-Patrick, a star hurdler, contested the ruling by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

PHOENIX (AP) - Arizona rookie quarterback Jake Plummer must enter pleas today to four felony counts of sexual abuse and one of misdemeanor assault.

If the former Arizona State star pleads innocent, Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Gregory Martin will determine at a preliminary hearing on June 27 whether there is enough evidence to try him.

Four women singled out Plummer as the man who fondled them on the dance floor of a Tempe nightclub, where Plummer and friends had gone for a bachelor party on March 22. He faces up to eight years in prison if convicted.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - Tampa Bay defensive tackle Warren Sapp apologized for a weekend incident in which a small amount of marijuana was found in his car. He also expressed hope that fans and the media understand why he couldn't discuss the case in detail.

Police, acting on an anonymous tip, stopped Sapp's Mercedes in an east Tampa neighborhood Saturday and found 12.7 grams of marijuana in the car's console and in a backpack that a passenger told police did not belong to the player.

other fisherman at the tournament also schemed to claim prizes for bogus fish.

More fisherman could be arrested this week, he said.

Bell and Barnes were arrested Sunday afternoon while weighing in their fish at the Speegleville III marina on Lake Waco as part of the tournament sponsored by the Hewitt Bass Club.

Rawls said the men turned in fish that tournament officials knew had not been caught during tournament hours.

"The evidence we have is marked fish," Rawls said.

The men, who comprised one of 36 two-man teams in the tournament, finished second in the contest and would have received about $425 if their catches had not been contested.

First prize was about $850, said Robert Schange, president of the Hewitt Bass Club.

Bass fishermen charged with cheating in tourney

WACO, Texas (AP) - Two men who would've finished second in a fishing tournament instead are facing Class A misdemeanor charges for cheating.

Avery Wayne Bell Jr., 22, and Leif Ericson Barnes, 20, are facing criminal charges of freshwater fishing tournament fraud, which has been on the books for 12 years but has never been used before in Central Texas, police said.

Bell and Barnes were released from McLennan County Jail Sunday after they each posted $2,000 bond. If convicted they could be sentenced to a year in prison and given a $2,000 fine.

Neither could be reached for comment Monday by The Associated Press.

Capt. W.J. Rawls, a game warden with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, says police are still investigating because of reports that

Funeral services Thursday for Pioneering Texas boxer

DALLAS (AP) - When I.H. "Sporty" Harvey became the first black boxer to legally oppose a white fighter in Texas more than four decades ago, he had already battled for years in courtrooms just for the right to be there.

The pioneering pugilist will be buried in San Antonio this week, 42 years after winning a Texas appeals court fight that paved the way for his 10-round main event against Buddy Turman.

Harvey lost the bout, but later told his wife that he fought bravely and that his legacy would be breaking the state's racial barrier.

"He was wonderful. He did a lot for his race," his widow, Hazel Lee Harvey, said Monday. "We have kids who used to write about their father.

My kids wrote that he knocked out

But Harvey, who sparred with such boxing luminaries as Joe Frazier and Sonny Liston during his career, was disappointed that he didn't beat Turman at the Dallas Sportatorium on Feb. 24, 1955.

Harvey went down for the count when Turman threw a hefty punch to his chin, said Jim Woodruff.

Harvey, 71, died last Thursday in Los Angeles, where he had lived for 40 years. Relatives said he suffered from heart disease and had worn a pacemaker for several weeks.

Funeral services are set for 11:30 a.m. Thursday at Bethel United Methodist Church in San Antonio, with burial to follow at Meadowlawn Cemetery, said a sister, Lottie M. Wimbish.

American Legion Auxiliary has election, hears special program

Officers for the coming year were elected at the recent meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Elected were Patricia Robinson, president; Beverly Jesko, first vice president; Troyce Hanna, second vice president; Clara Trowbridge, secretary/treasurer; Ella Caudle, chaplain; Ruth King, sergeant-at-arms; Anita Wilhelm, assistant sergeant-at-arms; and Betty Jo Carlson, parliamentarian.

Prior to the business meeting and election, the auxiliary met with the American Legion to hear a presentation on Turkey given by Jean Beene, who has completed a tour of that country.

Troyce Hanna gave a report of Poppy Day distribution, stating there were 14 workers. She also reported that flags were placed in local cemeteries for Memorial Day weekend.

Delegates and alternates were elected to attend the Department Convention in Lubbock July 18-20. Delegates are Robinson, Hanna, Jesko and King. Alternates are Carlson, Trowbridge, Caudle and Alta Mae Hudson.

Viola Wagner, cheer chairman, reported sending eight birthday cards, two get well cards and one sympathy card for the month of May.

The July meeting will be an ice cream and cake social at 7 p.m. July 8. Representatives to Boys State, Girls State, scholarship recipients and their families will be guests.

Collection on display

Kylee Veazey, 10, has just about every kind of animal from armadillos and bats to flamingos and zebras, including a pelican named Scoop. Of the 74 Beany Babies in her collection, her favorite is a husky named Nanook. Kylee also likes to search the Beany Baby web page for information on the animals which have been retired from production. This outstanding menagerie is now on display at the Deaf Smith County Library, 211 E. 4th in Hereford.

Displays work

Rhonda Romero enjoys painting with water colors because "I can make it do what I want it to do, or let it do its own thing," Rhonda, who has taken classes from Suzy Wall, paints mostly with an Indian or Southwest theme, but also does beautiful paintings of various kinds of flowers. Her work is on display at the Deaf Smith County Library this month.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I want to tell you about an experience I had recently.

I purchased an inexpensive hair dryer which had an on-off switch that operated very smoothly and easily. At about 6 a.m. as I lay awake in bed I heard a strange noise that I could not identify at first. After about five seconds I sat up and saw that the hair dryer had been knocked off the dresser. Several feline and canine suspects are being questioned.

By the time I got to it I could see the coils burning red-hot. The switch had been turned on when the dryer hit the floor. It also fell with the air-intake side down. All of this took no more than about 10 seconds.

If it had happened while I was at work, my house would have probably burned down. Now I make absolutely sure that I unplug any small appliances that could be accidentally turned on when no one is present. — Joyce, San Antonio

I am so glad you were alert and able to prevent the fire. Did you know that in 1995, 3,600 deaths occurred due to fires and burns associated with home injuries, according to the National Safety Council. Unplugging small appliances that are not being used is a smart thing to do to help prevent becoming a statistic. — Heloise

FAX TELEPHONE BOOK

Dear Heloise: I keep a small pocket-size telephone book just for fax numbers next to the fax machine. It sure saves a lot of trips to my main telephone directory at the other end of the house.

Thank you for your wonderful columns and books! — Cathy Nelson, San Juan Capistrano, Calif.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: When I read the letter in your column about parental abandonment, I knew I had to write. I'm one of six children. We were all abandoned. At 11, I was the second oldest. The youngest was my sister who was 4 months old. I did not miss my parents, but I did miss my siblings when we were placed in separate foster homes. One brother still denies that he was abandoned, and another won't speak to his wife and children about it because it is still so painful.

Interestingly, all six of us grew up to be hopeless drunks, as though we had set out to deliberately destroy ourselves. Every time I disagreed with a husband, I left him, rather than risk him abandoning me. I went through seven husbands before I realized what I was doing to myself.

In the home where I spent my last four years in foster care, I was forced to switch from left- to right-handed, had my birthday changed, had my first name spelled differently and was given a new last name. I thought it was wonderful at the time, but I now realize the intention was to obliterate my past and transform me into a totally different person.

What I miss today more than anything is the family closeness that I never had. I long for grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins. I feel that I don't know who I really am, and I blame the system, social services and child protective agencies for splitting up my family. — Porterville, Calif.

Dear Porterville: Please don't be too hard on the social services and child protective agencies. It is not easy to find people who are willing to take several children into their homes. Most want only one child or, at the most, two.

It is natural for foster children and adoptees to wonder, "Who am I?" but it is unhealthy and counter-productive to dwell on such questions. If you haven't had counseling to work through your feelings, please go.

Dear Ann Landers: Attached is a column of yours that I have been saving for umpteen years. I don't know who wrote it, but please run it again. — J.K., Monterey, Calif.

Dear Monterey: That column appeared at least seven years ago, and I remember it well. I still laugh whenever I think of it. Thank you for asking. Here it is: Mystery Solved

It seems that when the Good Lord was making the world, he called Man aside and bestowed upon him 20 years of normal sex life. Man was horrified, but the Creator refused to budge.

Then the Lord called the monkey and gave him 20 years. "But I don't need 20 years," said the monkey. "Ten years is plenty." Man spoke up and said: "May I have the other 10 years?" The monkey agreed.

The Lord called on the lion and also gave him 20 years. The lion, too, wanted only 10. Again, Man spoke up. "May I have the other 10 years?" "Of course," said the lion.

Then came the donkey, who was also given 20 years. Like the others, 10 years was enough for him. Man again asked for the spare 10 years, and he got them.

This explains why Man has 20 years of normal sex life, 10 years of monkeying around, 10 years of lion about it and 10 years of making a jackass out of himself.

Forget to save some of your favorite Ann Landers columns? "Nuggets and Doozies" is the answer. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5.25 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $6.25.)

Local high school student attends leadership seminar

Carey Lynn Lyles, a student at Hereford High School and son of Evelyn Lyles, recently attended the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Texas Panhandle Leadership Seminar in Amarillo.

HOBY Leadership Seminars bring together a select group of high school sophomores so they can interact with groups of distinguished leaders in business, government, education and the professions to discuss present and future issues.

The goal is to provide the youths a stimulating forum for learning about the American incentive system and democratic process and for broadening their understanding of their leadership potential and quest for self development.

"The seminar challenged me to think about the world around me and what we, as the future leaders, have to do to positively influence business, government and society," Lyles said.

"I also better understand that my goals and dreams are important and that the leaders have extreme responsibilities in whatever walk of life they pursue."

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

COBRO DE SOSTENIMIENTO PARA NIÑOS DEPENDIENTES ES MÁS QUE SOLAMENTE DINERO.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm at my wit's end. My dad, who lives with us, is showing early signs of Alzheimer's disease. He is terribly forgetful. He wanders from home and quite often cannot find his way back.
I read that vitamin E can stop Alzheimer's. Is this for real? — M.J.

ANSWER: Large doses of vitamin E can slow down the brain-cell damage that comes with Alzheimer's disease. But don't let your hopes soar. Vitamin E is not a cure for the disease. Even though vitamin E is safe, a person should not take large doses of it, or any vitamin, unless monitored by a doctor. Don't attempt to treat your dad on your own.

In the same study that demonstrated vitamin E delayed the time for nursing home care and prolonged the patient's ability for life's simple tasks, selegiline, a Parkinson's disease drug, was shown to be effective in slowing Alzheimer's progress.

Using vitamin E and selegiline together added no advantage to the use of either alone, however. There are now four drugs that demonstrate a beneficial effect for Alzheimer's patients. In addition to vitamin E and selegiline, Aricept and Cognex can delay its devastating progression when used in the disease's early stages.

None of the four is a cure. However, they indicate that a cure can ultimately be found. I'm sending you a copy of my report on Alzheimer's disease. Readers can order the report by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 47, Box 5539, River- ton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents) No. 10 envelope and $3.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Is there a shred of truth to the idea that tomatoes protect against prostate cancer? Or is this just one more cockamamie idea that promises but doesn't deliver? — G.D.

ANSWER: There's more than a shred of truth to the salubrious effects of tomatoes. Evidence strongly suggests that they protect against prostate cancer and cancers of the digestive tract.

Tomatoes contain a substance called "lycopene." It's the pigment that imparts a red color to tomatoes and other red fruits and berries, and it's the reputed cancer-fighter.

Researchers continue to study lycopene's effects.

It's my turn to ask a question: Why can't I grow tomatoes? Mine get about knee-high and then suddenly droop and die. What am I doing wrong?

IN RESPONSE to reader requests, Dr. Donohue has a complete listing of his pamphlets on various medical problems. Readers who want one should send their request to Dr. Donohue — List, Box 5539, River- ton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, River- ton, NJ 08077-5539.

Home ownership week declared by Governor

AUSTIN--The Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs announced Monday that Gov. George W. Bush has declared June 7-14 as "Home Ownership Week" in Texas. The recognition coincides with National Home Ownership Week - a campaign organized to emphasize both state and national efforts to "Make the American Dream of Owning a Home a Reality."

Morales wants 3rd term

Cites unfinished business in announcing for re-election

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Attorney General Dan Morales says he plans to seek another term. Morales, a Democrat first elected attorney general in 1992, said he has unfinished business he would like to tend to in a third term. "It certainly is my intention at this point to seek re-election," Morales said, responding to questions from reporters after speaking at a trucking conference in San Antonio on Monday. Morales said he isn't ready yet to make a formal public announcement. But he said several issues are a priority for his office heading into the next four years.

"I would say border trucking would fit in that category," Morales said. "Our tobacco lawsuit, in all likelihood will not be consummated by the end of this term."

Morales told the National Retailers Federation Loss Prevention Conference on Monday that a provision of the North American Free Trade Agreement allowing Mexican trucks open access to Texas highways would increase drug trafficking and "put the people of Texas at risk."

Morales called for a coordinated federal policy to inspect and search incoming Mexican trucks at a limited number of pre-determined checkpoints. He said that would be the only way to insure the trucking provisions will work.

Morales also is one of 24 state attorneys general who have sued the tobacco industry for health care costs paid by the state because of tobacco-related illnesses.

Settlement talks continue, but no formal resolution has been reached. Morales said his office is preparing to go to trial over the matter in September.

Morales said he would "expect to have to fight" for re-election. He said a "vigorous, aggressive competition" is good for the people.

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Judge Morris Overstreet, a Democrat, has indicated that he is considering a run for attorney general.

State Republican Party Chairman Tom Pauken also is said to be considering a run for the post.

Poles bid farewell to Pope as he ends homeland visit

KROSNO, Poland (AP) - Chanting "stay with us, stay with us," half a million Poles turned out today for an emotional farewell on the final day of Pope John Paul II's pilgrimage to his homeland.

"My years in Rome have not extinguished my love for this land," the pope responded as he lingered at the end of his last Mass, held at an airport in the mountain town of Krosno. "God bless you."

One devotee, Barbara Chronowska, said she hoped Poland's favorite son would return soon. "The pope left lots of joy and hope in our hearts," she said.

The crowd broke into a birthday song, "Plurimos annos" or "Many years," and the pope, who turned 77 last month, joked: "I will tell them in Rome how the Latin is flourishing here."

During his visit, the pope has recurrently urged Poland to prevent its Roman Catholic traditions from being replaced by secularism and materialism as it makes the transition from communism to capitalism and democracy.

John Paul issued a final warning today to his compatriots: Don't allow the mass media to erode Poland's cultural roots and "Christian dignity."

"The world is full of dangers," the pope said, preaching from an altar beneath a 100-foot-tall cross. "Through the means of communication certain messages are reaching the Polish countryside too."

John Paul proclaimed a 15th-century monk, John of Dukla, a saint, and said the friar had faced the same "difficulties" then of people "turning away from listening to the truth and wandering into myths."

Worried that traditional greetings of "God bless you" and "Praised be Jesus Christ" are falling out of favor even in rural Poland, he exhorted farmers to "remain faithful to the traditions of your ancestors."

"These words express your Christian dignity," he said. "Do not let them be taken away from you - some people are trying to do so!"

The Mass in Krosno, a favorite hiking spot from his youth, was the last of an 11-day visit that included stops in western Poland, the Tatra Mountains in the south and his old hometown of Krakow.

The pope was to consecrate a mountain church before returning to Krakow for his flight back to Rome. Poland's president, prime minister and other government and church officials were to see him off at an airport ceremony.
