ROKs Throw Back Red Try To Retake Hill

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SEOUL, Sunday, Nov. 16 (U-P)—Dug-in South Korean infantrymen on Pinpoint Hill, crest of Sniper Ridge, threw back a sharp Red attack in fog and sub-freezing cold a dawn today.

Allied fighter-bombers pounded it yesterday. A forward observer reported direct bomb hits. ROK troops have tried repeatedly to force the Chinese out of the Yoke. While the Yoke is in Red hands, Allied control of Pinpoint is shaky.

Army Builds Up Own Specialized Force Of Planes

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (U-P)—The Army, under a new agreement with the Air Force, is beginning to build up its own specialized aviation unit to a total strength of about 2,200 helicopters and light planes.

IT'S GOTTA BE DRY WHEN DUCKS WON'T WAIT FOR FINISHED WELL

Truman Seeking To Inform Ike About Affairs

It's really dry when ducks go to invading water wells. Moreover, when they won't even wait for the well to be completed before using it as a pond, things are drier than dry.

Aaron Dameron last week was drilling a well on the Jim Badgett place five miles southwest of Tarzan. Wednesday evening he had carried the hole to 150 feet and the water level was within about 35 feet of the top. So he covered the hole with some heavy timbers and tools and called it a day.

Truman Seeking To Inform Ike About Affairs

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (U-P)—Officials said today President Truman's primary purpose in his historic meeting with President-elect Eisenhower next Tuesday will be to make certain that Eisenhower is informed on major world problems and how the present administration intends to deal with them.

"Cat That Ate The Canary"

No wonder this nameless cat won't look you in the eye. He is guilty as only a cat can be. He just ate not only one, but five canaries. The sad story began when the stray cat was locked accidentally in a department store overnight in Keene, N. H. The next morning store officials found the cat had knocked over a cage of canaries, springing the cage doors. Only the bird in the cage above the cat survived. (AP Wirephoto).

Flying Boxcar Crash Kills 44

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 15 (U-P)—A big Air Force Flying Boxcar carrying U. S. troops and a load of Christmas presents from Japan crashed into a mountain near Seoul yesterday, killing all 44 persons aboard.

The plane smashed into a "V" shaped point about 2,200 feet high where two mountain ridges joined some 18 miles east of Seoul. The terrain was so rugged helicopters could not land.

A reporter who accompanied the ground party to the scene said four of the victims were in parachute harness with their chutes open. No one could say whether they had cleared the plane before it crashed.

Korean peasants using sign language told the search party they had seen five chutes stream from the plane.

The reporter, Patricia Scott of the English language Nippon Times in Tokyo wrote: "The wreckage was in two sections, about 100 yards apart. Personal effects including pictures of loved ones and Christmas presents bought in Japan, were strewn on the hillside. "It was a pitiful sight. As I walked through the wreckage, I found many Christmas presents that the fellows had bought while on R. and R. (rest and recreation) in Japan. "There were many gifts for women and children. One of them was a little pair of pink pajamas for a child. It was partly burned. "One duffie bag contained a lady's wrist watch and a small record player. I also saw several pairs of embroidered satin ladies slippers of Japanese make." Helicopters dropped stretchers and supplies to the search party for the evacuation of the dead. Most of the bodies were horribly mangled or charred. The Air Force made no identification of the victims pending notification of relatives. However, a Far East Air Force spokesman announced the highest ranking soldier aboard was a warrant officer and the highest ranking flier was a captain. "It was not clear whether the transport caught fire before or after it crashed.

Entire Family Wiped Out In U. S. 80 Crash

For the second time within six months, five persons were killed in a head-on highway crash on U. S. 80 west of here Saturday night. And for the second time, an entire family was wiped out. This brought the year's traffic toll to 18 deaths within the county.

The dead are: Ishmeal Stout Donaldson, 28, Odessa. His wife, Mrs. Ruby Fay Donaldson, 28, Odessa. Their two daughters, Wanda Sue, 6, and a three-year-old whose name could not be ascertained immediately.

Glendon Farrell Wallace, 21, Odessa, brother of Mrs. Donaldson. All the victims were passengers in an eastbound 1951 Chevrolet pick-up truck which collided with a westbound heavy duty Ford truck five miles west of here. The collision occurred on high level ground approximately half a mile east of the railroad overpass at 9 p.m.

Norman Ledford, 30, of 310 Bruck, Odessa, driver for J. & J. Trucking Company, driver of the larger truck, was shaken but unhurt. "I don't know what happened," he said. "All of a sudden the pick-up was right in front of me."

Jack Taylor, state highway patrolman, said that there were no marks on the highway to indicate that brakes had grabbed. For no apparent reason, the pick-up appeared to veer sharply—almost broadside—in front of the approaching truck, he said. Four of the five were rushed to Cooper hospital in Valley ambulances, but they were dead on arrival. The crash equaled one on May 18 as the "worst" in the history of Howard County. On that date Mr. and Mrs. Fidel Ceballos, Stanton, and their three children were killed instantly when their car cut directly and head-on into an approaching van. Mitchell County Sheriff Dick Gregory, who had just passed the truck, was not more than about 150 yards on east when he heard a loud crash. Glancing in his rear view mirror, he saw the truck swerve to the north side into the Charlie Creston pasture. The pick-up spun in a wide arc and back off the south side. Its occupants were scattered as though exploded from the cab. Gregory grabbed the microphone of his two-way radio and called Big Spring instantly for help. Highway Patrolmen Taylor and Amos Johnson, Sheriff Jake Bruton and his staff were on the scene in minutes. Scores of curious and fast-driving transients clogged the highway. "I didn't know what had happened or what to think until I got out See CRASH, Pg. 8, Col. 1

BEGINNING ON SUNDAY

More Blood Donors Are Needed Here

With donors still needed, the Red Cross Bloodmobile will come here Monday for four days. Assignments of time pretty well take care of Monday and Tuesday, but not so much but what walks in donors (those who have not sent in cards) can be accommodated at the First Presbyterian basement.

The Howard-Glasscock chapter, sponsoring the visit of the Bloodmobile here, once more urged others to send in cards or to telephone the Red Cross office (256) Monday and even Tuesday to volunteer a pin of blood for our fighting men. You may also call Mrs. Sawille today at No. 670. "There are only enough donors on Wednesday to keep the technicians busy for an hour and a half," said Mrs. Moore Sawille, executive secretary, "and only enough for about an hour on Thursday."

That means that about 100 donors must be secured in some manner each of these two days. Cards for the Monday donors were being delivered Saturday, and those for Tuesday appearance went in the mail Saturday. Hours for operation Monday and Tuesday are 12 noon to 6 p.m. with 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. set aside for Webb Air Force personnel. The Wednesday-Thursday hours will be 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with Air Force hours from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Walk-in donors will be handled at any hour except those reserved for the military. Physicians from the four hospital-clinics in Big Spring plus

Red Tide Kills By Poisoning

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 15 (U-P)—The red tide, which has slaughtered millions of salt water fish off the southwest Florida coast, kills by poisoning, a sea life expert said today. John F. Howell, microbiologist of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, accused the often-expressed theory that the tiny organism responsible for the red tide kills by getting in the gills and choking the fish. "It is definitely a poison," Howell said. "Clogging of the gills and depletion of the oxygen in the water are definitely out." After taking samples of the water in a 400-square-mile area streaked with patches of dead fish, Howell identified the killer as a byssodinium brevis, a microscopic form of animal life.

Now... A 3-Way Look At Washington...

Beginning Monday, The Herald is adding the column of MARGUIE CHILDS, who has had a quarter-century experience as a fact-finding correspondent and student of economics and politics. He will give his findings an authentic and distinctive background. This is in addition to the commentary of GEORGE SOKOLSKY, another of the top-rated analysts whose opinions carry the weight of mature judgment and sound study. There is also the column of JAMES MARLOW, who has great ability to simplify the meaning of complex developments on the national scene. This THREE-WAY look at Washington means that Herald readers, more than ever before, will have for their consideration well-founded comments that help in interpretation of the national news of the day.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle
A lot of people profess to be disturbed about the Korean War. Apparently they aren't too disturbed. With the Red Cross Bloodmobile due here Monday, only about 250 donors have been signed. There's still time, however, for those who want to give something that may save some lad's life. Volunteer by calling the Red Cross office (No. 256) Monday or Tuesday, or by walking in at the First Presbyterian Church Monday through Thursday and say: "I want to give."

ALL ARE RENTED

All Defense Rental Units Are Finished

Last of the 300 defense rental housing units was completed in the Monticello Addition Friday and all probably will be occupied within all or next day or two. All of the houses have been rented, Larry Blackmon, an official of Mutual Construction Company, builders, reported. He indicated tenants would start moving into the last group of houses Saturday afternoon. Meanwhile, work was being pushed on another defense rental housing project—a 42-unit development for Negroes in the Banks Addition in northwest Big Spring. Developers expect to have that project completed by Jan. 1, although it is doubtful they will be ready for occupancy at that time. Delaying factor in completion of the Banks project is the fact that a sewage lift station must be installed in order to provide the area with sewage disposal service. A lift pump being made for the station isn't scheduled for delivery until about Feb. 1, city officials said Saturday. Only work remaining to be done in the Monticello rental area is construction of a few blocks of paving along South Monticello Street. All structures are in and have been spread and compacted. All construction work on the houses, with the exception of plumbing, was completed on the last group of rental units about three

Plane Wreckage Is Identified As Missing C-119

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 15 (U-P)—Plane wreckage near the tip of lofty Mt. Silverthorne was identified positively yesterday as a C-119 Flying Boxcar which carried 19 airmen and soldiers to their death eight days ago. Heavy clouds which normally shroud the 13,170-foot peak 135 miles north of here lifted during the day, enabling Air Force reconnaissance planes to fly low over the scattered debris. It was the first day weather permitted close scrutiny of the wreckage since it was discovered last Monday, three days after the C-119 of the 435th Group Carrier Wing, Miami, Fla., disappeared midway between Anchorage and Fairbanks.

Alaskan air command authorities here said today that pilots and observers reported sighting a boom and horizontal stabilizer—distinguishing features of the big C-119 transports. Wreckage was strewn over a 300-yard area below the flame scorched point of impact at the 12,000-foot level. Capt. William D. Hackett, veteran Army mountain climber stationed at Ft. Richardson, remarked: "No one viewing the scene of the crash could have any doubt that all aboard were killed instantly when the plane exploded as it hit."

Hackett, who accompanied one of the search planes as an observer, said the explosion of the C-119 appeared to have started an avalanche that swept pieces of the wings and fuselage far down the mountainside. Other fragments were buried in deep crevasses.

13 Dead In Plane Crash

TOKYO, Sunday, Nov. 16 (U-P)—A U. S. Air Force transport plane plunged into the sea off the Korean coast last night, killing 13 of 20 men aboard. An Air Force announcement said seven survivors were picked up by fishing boats shortly after the crash. It said the plane plunged into the sea 500 yards off the coast just after it had taken off from an unannounced base on a courier flight to another base in Korea. The twin-engine plane carried 15 passengers and a crew of four. A U. S. Navy destroyer came in to assist planes in the hunt for survivors.

Chest Drive Is Short Of Goal For '52

Community Chest directors and leaders of the annual campaign organization will meet next Friday afternoon to map plans for winding up the 1952 fund drive, it was announced Saturday. Campaign Chairman Elmo Wasson said the drive still is some $3,000 short of its goal, and that every effort will be made to reach the quota. Objective is $49,952. The money will be used for the support of Salvation Army, YMCA, Boy and Girl Scout work, and for establishment of a Big Spring servicemen's center for Webb Air Force Base personnel. Donations still are trickling in with each day's mail. Wasson said. He invited everyone who wishes to do so to contribute by mail. It has been impossible for Chest solicitors to contact every possible donor, he stated. The Friday meeting is set for 4:30 p. m. in Room 207 of the Petroleum Building.

taken by the Truman administration." Close friends think Dodge's appointment as Eisenhower's representative at the budget meetings may be a preliminary step to his appointment as director of the Budget Bureau.

But the short, bespectacled 61-year-old Detroit bank president has already left his personal imprint on national and international monetary affairs while following a philosophy of getting "things done through organization."

Dodge became the bank's operating officer. Dodge was the U. S. minister on the Four Power Commission that negotiated the Austrian Peace Treaty.

STANTON, (SC)—More than 150 Future Farmers of America representing chapters of the high schools in this district participated in contests and demonstrations at the Stanton High School Saturday.

Howard County Cotton Crop Is 90 Pct. Open

By FRANKLIN REYNOLDS
Its final report on cotton harvesting and ginning was made Friday by the Texas Employment Commission representing the U. S. Department of Labor in field surveys.

According to this report the Howard County crop is 90 per cent open; 58 per cent harvested, with 620 bales out of an estimated 1,400 ginned to date.

Over the area, composed of Lamb, Castro, Cottle, Motley, Donley, Hall, Bailey, Farmer, Gaines, Deaf Smith, Gray, Wheeler, Swisher, Briaco, Hale, Floyd, Crosby and Lubbock Counties, the crop is estimated to be generally 97 per cent open; 65 per cent harvested and with 623,437 bales out of an estimated 1,167,000 ginned to date.

A temporary board structure has been built to hold up the cement. Limestone blocks have been laid over the boards, and steel strips over the blocks. When the cement is poured, the board structure will be removed.

Teams over the 48-county West Texas area comprising District Two of the FFA will also participate, according to E. L. Tiner, Big Spring, area supervisor. Among the contests here yesterday was one to test the parliamentary skill of the boys. The schools represented each entered teams of 10 boys in these events, which simulated regular chapter meetings with the instructors offering surprise problems in parliamentary procedure.

All contests were divided into junior and senior divisions, the juniors being for boys in their first year of vocational agriculture training, and the senior division being for the more advanced boys.

In the contest of farm skills, junior division, the Big Spring team composed of Jarrel Shortes, Carl Thurmond and James Miller was first with a demonstration of canning. The Stanton team was second with leather craftsmanship and the Coahoma team was third with a demonstration of treating a dairy cow for mastitis.

In the farm skills, senior division, contest the Coahoma team composed of David Hodnett, Douglas Warren and Jack Sheedy, was first with another demonstration of proper mastitis treatment, and the Stanton team was second with another demonstration of leather working.

In the FFA quiz, an oral examination of the boys on the FFA organization, its policies, programs and objectives the Stanton team with Dayton Madison, Corky Blocker and John Boone as members, placed first, with the Odessa team second, the Big Spring team third and the Garden City team fourth.

Concluding the 35th annual session in Abilene Friday, the Northwest Texas Hospital Administrators chose Big Spring as the 1953 meeting place.

William Burton, assistant administrator of Southwestern General Hospital in El Paso, was named president-elect and will take over in 1954. The new president, who last year became president-elect, is F. S. Walters Jr., Amarillo.

Mrs. Luella Huffman, Crane, was named vice president; C. H. Hollinsworth, Lubbock, Bill Hudgins, Cleburne, and Howard Salisbury, Fort Stockton and formerly of Big Spring, were named trustees.

The 1953 meeting will be the second time the association has met in Big Spring.

Twelve year old letters are like 12-year-old eggs—slightly stale, thinks Mrs. J. G. Merritt of Colorado City. The letter was from Mrs. Walter Thurston of Denver, who had been visiting in the Lubbock area in 1940. Mrs. Merritt hasn't heard from her since—she's probably waiting for a reply. There was no clue as to the resting place of the letter during its prolonged trek from Sudan—but Mrs. Merritt knows the postman wasn't that far behind in his deliveries, since Colorado City didn't have postmen in 1940!

AP Group Seeking Revocation Of Truman's Information Order

By CHARLES T. BURNS
BOSTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Managing editors of the nation said today that secrecy is the "refuge of corrupt, wicked and reactionary government" and urged complete freedom of information concerning government agencies.

Specifically, the concluding session of the annual meeting of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association recommended revocation of President Truman's order of Sept. 25, 1951 restricting information on activities of federal bodies.

Congress and state legislatures were urged, in a resolution on freedom of information, "to give the most careful scrutiny to all enactments to see to it that provision is made for the full disclosure to the public of those transactions of government that are the just and proper concern of the public."

The resolution continued: "And be it further resolved that the officers of the government of the United States, the officials of the several states, and those of the counties and cities of the United States, be and hereby are urged to conduct publicly the public business, to make continuously that full disclosure of all public transactions that is the foundation of our freedom and the surest safeguard against corruption and malfeasance, tyranny and oppression."

The editors also proposed that authority to classify documents into categories of "top" and "restricted," be limited to military security agencies.

Continuous review of such classifications by an "authority" other than the classifying authority was recommended by the group.

A pledge of assistance was given to James A. Pope of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal in "his sustained fight for freedom of information." Pope, retiring APME director, is chairman of the Committee on Freedom of Information of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Another resolution appealed to the federal government to "press for the release" of AP Correspondent William N. Oatis, serving a 10-year prison term in Czechoslovakia on espionage charges brought by the Communist regime.

Norman E. Isaacs of the Louisville (Ky.) Times, newly elected APME president, urged more attention be given to development of supervisory personnel, both by individual newspapers and the AP.

Isaacs stated that good personnel handling in the newspaper business "is largely non-existent." He criticized current methods of selecting supervisors, charging that many persons not qualified for the positions were promoted without sufficient consideration to their abilities in that direction.

FORT WORTH LADY LOST 25 POUNDS

Just ask your druggist for four ounces of liquid Barcortrate. Pour into pint bottle. Add 12 ounces of grapefruit juice. Then take just 1 tablespoonful twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to reduce, return the empty bottle for your money back. Year after year this amazing product increases in popularity. Over four million bottles sold in Texas in eight years. After you have tried the starvation way with vitamins to fortify you against weakness, why not try the safe, sure, Barcortrate way? You won't know a hungry moment reducing with Barcortrate.

"I have lost 25 pounds taking Barcortrate," writes Bertha Taylor, 823 Glendale Ave., Fort Worth, Texas. "I feel like a different person now." And Mrs. Don L. Bockingham, Route 2, Box 113, Arlington, Texas, tells this interesting story: "Before taking Barcortrate none of my clothes would fit me. After taking the first bottle, I no longer had such a ravenous appetite, yet I ate all I wanted. I have lost 15 pounds and feel wonderful."

AF Is Fighting Bad Feeling In British Isles

By PHIL CLARKE
LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force is taking direct action to combat reported bad feeling between some British civilians and American airmen in Britain.

Maj. Gen. Francis H. Griswold has scheduled a series of flying visits to all nine major American air bases in England, beginning Monday, to lecture on the importance of good behavior. He is commander of the U. S. Third Air Force in Britain.

A indoctrination campaign is under way to drive home to fliers and ground staffs alike—a total of 45,000 men—the desirability of maintaining friendly relations with their British allies.

The Air Force also has started on-the-spot checks of conditions in cities, near American bases, publicized by some British newspapers as trouble zones.

Officers said today the investigation so far has showed little evidence of serious trouble between the airmen and civilians, though they did not deny some antagonism. They blamed Communists and sensationalized reports of occasional trouble for stirring up much of the bad feeling.

Griswold told a reporter that incidents are relatively few and often are considerably exaggerated.

"We have every reason to believe that the behavior of our forces generally is good," the general said. "We aim to make sure it stays that way."

The Air Force's counteraction followed publication last week of a report by a private 14-member British and American group saying "the situation is serious" and calling for joint British and American action to correct it.

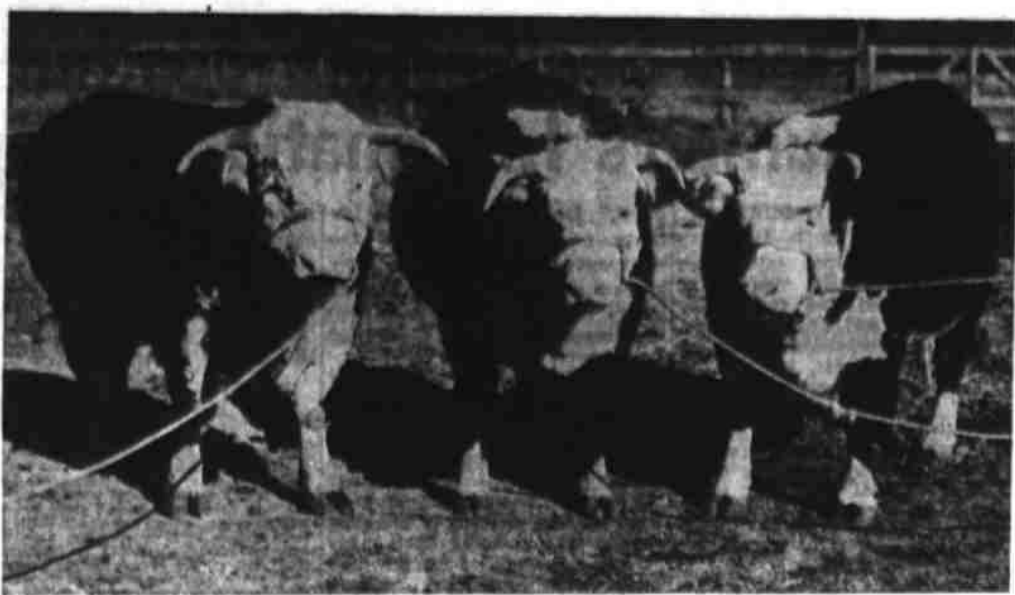

The Communists are exploiting the situation by an organized "Yanks go home" campaign, this group said, and the campaign "is being echoed by certain extreme nationalist elements here."

Two Persons Hurt In Auto Collision

Two persons were injured, apparently not seriously, in a collision at Second and Gollard Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Nora Bernard, of Edinburg, and Mrs. C. E. Prather, Gall Route, Big Spring, were taken to Big Spring Hospital as a result of injuries suffered in the wreck. Mrs. Bernard received an arm fracture and Mrs. Prather a head injury, police said.

Police Sgt. M. L. Kirby said Mrs. Prather's car was in collision with one driven by Arnold W. Schluter, of Webb Air Force Base. Both machines were extensively damaged. Nalley and Eberley ambulances removed the injured to the hospital. Both automobiles had to be towed from the scene.

Three For Sweetwater Sale

Among the registered Herefords consigned to the Sweetwater Area Hereford Association Sale at Sweetwater, Dec. 1, are this bull and these two heifers from the herd of Cecil A. Walker, Big Spring Hereford breeder, druggist and secretary of the Howard County-South Plains Hereford Association, which will hold its own sale here Jan. 8. The trio was sired by Walker's herd bull, a son of HG Real Proud Mixer, Judge Tom Garrard's herd sire at Tahoka. These animals are, therefore, a great-grandson and great-granddaughters of the famous WHR Proud Mixer 21st. The bull's mother is of Harrisdale Farms bloodlines. One of the heifers is a granddaughter of Husky Domino Return and the other a granddaughter of Prince Domino 2nd. They are being prepared for the sale by A. R. Groves, herdsman and manager of the Walker Hereford Farms (WHF).

THEY USUALLY BRING RAINS

Maybe We Should Moan Now That Hurricane Season Ends

By The Associated Press
Hurricane season is officially over, darn it, or maybe hoary. Fortunately, there were no vicious winds whirling out of the Gulf of Mexico this year, slapping across the Texas Coastal Plains, flattening crops, battering cities, perhaps killing people.

Fortunately or unfortunately, as you choose, newspapermen didn't get to indulge in fine writing about oleander petals flecking rain-lashed streets.

And distinctly on the unfortunate side, there were no hurricane rains.

There would have been rains—bound to have been—if a hurricane had come even as close as Tampico, Mex. A giant tropical twister striking closer or hitting the Texas coast probably would break the three-year drought.

But hurricane season ended officially at midnight Saturday—as quietly as it began for Texas June 15. There was "an area of suspicion" off the Florida coast late Saturday—but it was still about.

600 miles away and not yet a hurricane. These tropical storms hardly ever develop out of season. So the weather bureau ended the 24-hour watch it began June 15 on a tele-type circuit from Miami to Brownsville.

Look What's Cooking At Cafeterias

There's going to be a lot cooking at local school cafeterias this week. The menus indicate a wide variety of well-planned and well-balanced meals. So if your child likes to join his chums in eating the noon meal at school you can look at the menus and avoid serving the same thing for supper.

MONDAY: Irish stew, potato, beans, cabbage and apple salad, oatmeal cookies.

TUESDAY: Meat loaf, macaroni and cheese, green beans, coconut cake.

WEDNESDAY: Chicken croquettes, buttered peas, cucumber, onions and lettuce, peanut butter honey rolls.

THURSDAY: Barbecue beef, potato salad, sliced tomatoes, fruit jello.

FRIDAY: Fried fish, French fried potatoes, cabbage and green pepper salad, lemon pudding.

Wage Hike Is Granted

HOUSTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Union officials said today 1,100 employees of Hughes Gun Co. have received a nine-cent hourly wage hike, subject to approval of the WSB.

The Texas drought didn't end. Scattered showers were forecast for Sunday and again for Wednesday, but they weren't expected to amount to much. And the Texas Forest Service was worried for fear deer and turkey hunters would start fires in the piney woods.

The last time a hurricane had any effect at all on Texas was Aug. 22, 1851. The storm hit Tampico and carried rain as far north as Brownsville.

The last time a hurricane actually hit Texas was Oct. 3-4, 1949. It moved inland at Freeport and tore across Brazoria, Fort Bend, Galveston and Harris Counties. It did an estimated six and a half million dollars in damage. It killed two persons.

It also produced rain over most of Texas, heaviest in the eastern third of the state. Splendor had 1.70 inches in 24 hours. Houston had 1.7 inches during the hurricane's two-day spree in Texas.

"That's what we need, all right—a hurricane," a weatherman said Saturday. "We don't wish anybody any hard luck, you understand. But we sure need the rain."

Now if a hurricane would just build up, move in, stop 50 miles or so off shore and spread four or five inches of slow, steady rain from Brownsville to Dalhart and Texarkana to El Paso, well...

But hurricanes don't work that way. And besides, hurricane season officially is over.

UNLESS LAW IS RESCINDED

Another Auto Inspection Period Is Coming Around

The dawn of a new automobile inspection period in Texas is on the horizon. Car owners will be having their vehicles checked for the second time unless the forthcoming Legislature rescinds the recently passed law.

And H. C. (Jim) Hankla, local Motor Vehicle Inspector working out of the Department of Public Safety, does not believe the law will be rescinded.

"I think that there will be a few changes, but the inspections will go right on," he said. "A lot of people were against the law in the beginning, but now most realize it's a good law."

In fact Hankla said that most complaints being received now are that the inspection stations are not strict enough with their checking.

Definite date of the new inspection period is not yet known. The date will be decided by the commissioners of the Department of Public Safety. The law simply calls for an inspection once a year.

Hankla is one of 50 inspectors with the Motor Vehicle Division. His office is in Big Spring. Hankla is responsible for a seven county area—Howard, Glasscock, Martin, Midland, Ector, Andrews and Dawson.

In the seven counties, there are 73 inspection stations. Hankla says there are 11 inspection stations in Big Spring. Although Big Spring stations are a little lax at times, Hankla says they are doing a good inspection job.

The inspector noted that the average cost per owner for having his car checked and put in shape is $4. He also said that approximately 250 lives will be saved per year through the inspections.

Driver faults, road faults and vehicle defects are the only three causes of automobile accidents, Hankla said. Of these, road faults cause the least number.

It is estimated that the corrections will cut down traffic deaths by 10 per cent.

The national average of deaths in automobiles is 7.5 persons every million miles traveled. In states without safety responsibility laws, the average is 7.9 persons per million miles. In states with laws the average is 6.4, Hankla said.

The inspector also stated that in 1950 Texas had 7.9 deaths per million miles traveled. In September of this year, there were only 6.4 deaths in automobiles for every million miles, he said.

Hankla makes it clear that he doesn't claim the reduction is due to the inspection. However, if the trend continues it will mean that the law has affected the reduction, he said.

In other states with similar laws, the death rate has been cut by 10 per cent, he said. Texas' law was modeled after those in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Hankla claims that if 250 lives are saved per year, and the inspection costs an average of $4 per owner, then each car owner is giving less than two cents for each life saved.

By a like token, the $4 per head means that the total cost of inspections per year would be $12 million, figuring on the basis of three million automobiles. (Actually there are more than that in Texas).

Enforcement of the law is twofold. Hankla checks on the inspection stations, and the Highway Patrol checks on the drivers.

So far, Hankla has had to close

Haley History Book Wins Roberts Award

J. Evetts Haley's "Fort Concho And The Texas Frontier" has been declared winner of the annual $1,000 Summerfield G. Roberts award one of the largest of the state's literary prizes. The announcement was made at a Friday night dinner of the Texas Institute of Letters at Dallas.

This historical work, the announcement said, is the best book reflecting the character and attitudes of the men and women who won and maintained the independence of Texas.

"Fort Concho And The Texas Frontier" has been warmly received in Big Spring. Haley was recently here at an autograph party at the Book Stall in the Crawford Hotel, and Miss Marie McDonald, proprietor of the Stall, reports that this book has enjoyed a large and steady sale since. Similar reports have been received from other points over Texas.

The Roberts Award is given through the Sons of the Republic Texas for the best book published before Oct. 1 of each year on a subject "reflecting the character and attitudes of the men and women who won and maintained the independence of Texas."

"Fort Concho And The Texas Frontier," a history of West Texas encompassing the time of the raiding Comanches, Apaches and other of the plains tribes, early civilization, later colonization and the events leading up to the present state, has only been on the book store shelves a little more than a month, and its sales currently in the state are topping all other non-fiction.

Haley and Carl Hertzog of El Paso, typographer who designed and printed the volume which was originally planned and sponsored by Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, were on hand to receive the award. Haley, director of the Institute of Americanism at Texas Tech, Lubbock, is one of Texas' leading historians and a renowned author of national reputation. Hertzog is considered Texas' best typographer.

"Fort Concho And The Texas Frontier" was published by the San Angelo Standard-Times. Judges in the Roberts Award contest were E. C. Barker of Austin, L. W. Kemp of Houston and Herbert Gambrell of Dallas.

'IN A GENERAL WAY' Ike Talks Cabinet With Seattle Man

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 15 (AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower conferred today with Walter Williams, Seattle businessman, and Williams said afterward they discussed "in a general way" the possibility of his taking a Cabinet post. Williams, who headed the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee during the campaign, said in response to questions at a news conference that he feels his background might qualify him to serve either as secretary of commerce or secretary of the interior. He declined to say whether Eisenhower actually had offered him a Cabinet assignment in the new Republican administration. Williams, 57, heads Continental Inc., an insurance, banking and mortgage firm. He said he came to Eisenhower's vacation retreat primarily to discuss the future of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee, generally credited with having played a major role in helping to win the presidential nomination and the election for the general. The organization's efforts were directed mainly toward winning the support of independent voters and disgruntled Democrats. After meeting with Williams for two hours at the Augusta National Golf Club, Eisenhower issued a statement saying that the self-styled political amateurs of the citizens committee and those whose support they won must "maintain an active interest in politics and government."

But there was no final decision as to what the mechanics of maintaining such interest will be.

Prince Charles Can Even Talk Back To Royalty

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Prince Charles, heir apparent to the British throne, proved today that even royal kids sometimes talk back to their elders. The young prince, who celebrated his fourth birthday yesterday, was taken to a children's concert by his grandmother, the Queen Mother Elizabeth, at the Royal Festival Hall. He sat enraptured at the beginning. But about half way through, he began to fidget and lose interest. His grandmother decided he had had enough and it was time for him to go home to Buckingham Palace. His nurse tried to lead him out. Charles refused. His grandmother had to take him by the hand and shepherd him out of the royal box. Then she returned to listen to the rest of the concert. Later, Lady Mayer, wife of Sir Robert Mayer, who sponsors the concerts, said: "His grandmother decided that he should leave about half way through the concert. When she told him, 'Now you are going,' he said, 'No, I don't want to,' and he would not go until she went with him."

CRASH

of my truck and started back on the highway," said Ledford. "It was awful. People seemed to be all over the highway and cars were whizzing past." Gregory tried to give aid and stop traffic pending arrival of help. In the pickup were two suitcases, one neatly packed with little girls' clothes, indicating that the parents may have been taking the children somewhere. Nearby lay the body of their little puppy. Contacts with Donaldson's relatives were made through the Woolley Tool Company, for whom he was working. Identification was established positively by J. J. Durgin, shop foreman for the Woolley Tool Company. He said that he last saw Donaldson at 1 p. m. and he had not mentioned going anywhere. In Odessa, acquaintances said that the family had left to go to Abilene to visit with Mrs. Donaldson and Wallace's parents. Wanda Sue had just started to school this year.

184-Lb. Tumor Said Removed From Woman

GALVESTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A tumor weighing 184 pounds had been removed from a 44-year-old mother at John Sealy Hospital here. The woman was getting along "fine," her doctor said today. Dr. Dan Eanes, who performed the three-hour operation Thursday, said the tumor is the largest ever removed at the hospital. He said it was also the biggest he's seen and probably among the largest in the history of medicine. Dr. Eanes said the woman was sitting up in bed today "feeling fine." He estimated the woman's normal weight at about 130 pounds and quoted the woman as saying the tumor, an ovarian cyst, had developed within the past year. The woman is of Latin-American descent and has several children. Dr. Eanes said her case became known when a teacher visited the home to see why the children were not attending school regularly. The surgeon said he was told it was necessary to break down the front door of the woman's modest home to get her out and she needed the help of four persons to arise from a sitting position. Dr. Eanes reported attendants had to bring an auxiliary table alongside the regular operating table to rest the woman's abdomen. He said an incision between three and four feet was made on the right side but this proved too small an opening to remove the tumor and another incision was made. After removal, the tumor was rolled onto a surgical carriage for examination.

Children Lost In Fire

These are seven of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Aladdin Audette, lost with their mother when a fire swept the kitchen of their home at Westport, Mass. The father and a son were working on a night shift in a Fall River, Mass., spinning mill. The nine were suffocated by smoke carried to their upstairs bedrooms through floor ventilators over the kitchen. Left to right (front) Eleanor, 9; Geraldine, 3; Francis, 5; Madeline, 16; (back) Natalie, 14; Shirley, 12 and Genevieve, 17. Veronica, 7, also lost, is not shown in this year-old photo. ## Violent Death Toll In State Is At 30

By The Associated Press
Five persons died in a highway crash near Big Spring Saturday night, raising the total of violent deaths to 30 in Texas Friday and Saturday.

Traffic took the most lives, but fires and shootings added to the list. A man and a woman were shot to death near Abilene Saturday. The worst crash occurred near a curve on Highway 80 about four miles west of Big Spring when two men, one woman and two small children in a pickup truck were killed. Their pickup collided head-on with a big truck, whose driver was uninjured. The men were identified tentatively as Ishmeel Donaldson, 29, and Glendon Wallace, 21, both of Odessa. Two traffic deaths in Port Arthur resulted from two separate Friday night collisions. The victims were Wilfred Romero, 34, and Mrs. Lucy Gaspard, 29. Hugh Freeze of Point was killed when his car collided with a bus 20 miles southeast of Greenville Saturday evening. The bus driver and nine passengers were uninjured.

A Liberty boy, John Camden Gilliland, 9, was found crushed to death underneath a tombstone in a Liberty cemetery. A farmer near Lufkin, Forest Paul McNeil, 38, was shot to death Saturday in Arlington. Police held a 35-year-old man. Wayman White, 47, Dallas, was stabbed to death in a Dallas tavern Friday night.

A man and a woman were shot to death on a country road outside Abilene Saturday afternoon. The victims were Mrs. Fred Ohlenbusch, about 40, Sweetwater, and James Henley, 44, Abilene. A farmer near Troup, Jim Cates, 61, shot himself to death Saturday after he had wounded his wife critically. The shooting followed an argument as the couple rode to town in a wagon with their 15-year-old daughter. The daughter saw the shooting.

An accidental shooting Saturday took the life of Leonard Phillips, 11, as he played with an old rifle at his home near Lufkin. Earl Shattuck, 29, Lubbock, and Miss Pauline Fisher were killed in a head-on automobile collision near Hale Center in West Texas. In South Texas Saturday Donald Cox, 27, Iowa City, Iowa, was killed in an accident involving two trucks near Victoria. In Dallas, Mrs. Lewis R. Ferguson, 68, was killed in an automobile collision Saturday. The body of Mrs. Effie Hankamer, 42, Beaumont, missing on a fishing trip, was found Saturday in Galveston's east bay. Arno M. Conway, 33, of Armo died several hours after he was burned in an early morning explosion and fire at the Kimbell Oil Mill in Victoria.

Most Of The $64 Problem Settled

A Friday night burglary apparently was cleared up Saturday with the arrest of a local man and recovery of most of the $64 stolen. Police Lt. C. C. Aaron reported. The man is being held in city jail and will be charged Monday with burglary. Aaron said all but about $4 of the money taken from the E. L. Williams residence was recovered. The burglary occurred Friday night or early Saturday.

Ike Gets Membership

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower has accepted membership in the Honorary National Committee of the Negro Athletic Hall of Fame Association, the association announced today. The association is planning a hall of fame in Harlem.

THE WEEK

The State Parent-Teacher's Association state parley. The Park Hill unit, which she heads, has 238 members. Considering that there are only 117 families represented in the 138 children in the school, that's better than 200 per cent. Lest anyone think the world tension is easing or that the U. S. defense preparations are slackening, take a look at the December draft quota. It numbers 39, the largest so far. And that is despite an increasingly large number of volunteers. The lot at Second and Seury is due to be cleared by Monday to make way for beginning of construction for the new office building. The Cooley interests are asking sub-contract bids for the six-story structure on the site furnished by the Chamber of Commerce. A minor miracle brought a quarter-inch precipitation at the start of the week, and with a split of weather, it was clear and balmy. The driest October on record (exactly nothing) left the year's total at 6 inches of moisture, only two inches of which fell in sufficient volume to do any good. The 24-month total is 14.88, less than half the 36.74 normal for that span. The community once more felt the effects of Korean battle. Cpl. Louis B. Denton, Marine, died Nov. 5 on a hospital ship of wounds received in the fierce fighting. No one can give more than Cpl. Denton gave. City fathers put a time limit on their "five-year plan" last week. In setting a year and a half deadline on getting started on pending projects, the commission wanted to make sure this offer of reimbursement to developers did not bob up 10 years or so down the road. Jaycees are going into the reflector business. The club has announced plans to Scotchlight bumpers as a safety measure. Public vehicles will be serviced free, and then the club will open the public sale. Dates have not been fixed. At approximately quarter-century intervals the First Methodist Church has come forward with a new or enlarged plant. Such is the case today with the formal opening of its new sanctuary—a large and beautiful plant.

Ike's Internationalist Views Not Exactly Like Truman's

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Soon after he takes over the White House, Dwight D. Eisenhower will have to begin to decide in detail how he wants to use the nation's military power to bring about the kind of world the United States desires.

The decisions he makes may be among the most fateful of his presidential career. They involve questions of risks, and ultimately questions of war or peace ranking with the gravest decisions of the Truman administration.

President Truman faced the same question of the use of American power against the forces of communism but under different circumstances. For Eisenhower is slated to take over the government at a time when American strength is approaching its planned peak. Tanks, guns and planes will be produced at a rate of two million a year, a production line in numbers unprecedented for a time when there is no great war.

The impending meeting between Eisenhower and Truman, and sessions between their aides, are expected to provide the general with the best information at the government's disposal of the kind of world he will have to deal with.

While people may not know until secret documents are released to future historians all the facts on which Eisenhower will have to make his major decisions, the main ideas of how American forces may be theoretically disposed and the chief purposes which may be served have been debated for a long time.

In highly simplified form here are the four main ideas: Former President Hoover about two years ago advocated the development of an American Gibraltar on the Western Hemisphere. This apparently would mean a pulling back of United States forces from some of the far flung regions where they now operate and concentration of land, sea and air power in this hemisphere, the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and their principal islands. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), when he was seeking his party's presidential nomination, advocated concentration on building up the defenses of the United States and friendly island nations such as Britain, Japan and the Philippines. In discussing specific problems that this theory would not solve, however, he indicated that he favored continued close co-operation with the Western European powers on the continent.

President Truman has both advocated and put into practice a policy that consisted (1) of global alliances and (2) commitment of United States forces or military resources to any nation threatened by Russia which was willing to defend itself. Under this policy American forces went to fight in Korea and American arms are being supplied to many lands from Britain to Formosa.

During the election campaign Eisenhower spoke out in favor of a world-wide system of Allies, including close consultation with the United States. While his foreign policy was thus basically what those who call themselves internationalists consider truly international, Eisenhower's statements on all points have not coincided with equal exactness with the policies of the Truman administration.

For example in the case of Korea he pledged himself to do "everything possible and at once to get Looking further into the future, Eisenhower believed this country would avoid a depression as long as it did two things: 1. Continued a make-work policy to cushion sudden declines in employment, provided it is done "in exceedingly careful fashion so as not to devalue our money." 2. Remove all unnecessary controls so that business can move quickly to meet changing situations.

Livestock Market Steady To Strong

The market was steady to strong at the Big Spring Livestock Auction Company's sale the past week, at which time 600 to 700 cattle and about 40 hogs were traded through the ring. Butcher cows were up about $1, along with fat calves. Bulls brought up to 17.00, fat cows to 16.00, butcher cows from 12.00 to 14.00 and canners from 8.00 to 11.00. Fat butcher calves went for 19.00 to 24.50, stocker steer calves up to 22.00, heifer calves from 20.00 to 21.00, cows beside calves from 11.00 to 14.00 and hogs for 19.00.

Mrs. Earl Gunn Due To Be Observed At Galveston Hospital

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Earl Gunn, who has been charged with murder by poisoning in connection with the death of her 11-month-old son, will be transferred to Galveston this week. District Attorney Eldon Mahon said that she would be taken to John Sealy hospital for observation. Since she made a statement to officers concerning the case, she has been held in the Sweetwater jail due to lack of facilities for women in the Mitchell County jail. Date for her transfer has not been set.

United States forces out of the front lines and to let Asians primarily defend the freedom of Asia. This could mean not only a speed-up in the training and employment of South Korean forces to replace U. N. units; it could also mean the employment of some Chinese Nationalist divisions from Formosa.

On another point Eisenhower committed himself to do all he can—specified "by peaceful means"—to bring about the liberation of the satellite nations of the Soviet Union. Strong measures to that end would involve a certain amount of risk of strong reaction from the Russian side.

In Korea Eisenhower, according to his campaign speeches, would have United States forces assume a reserve role as rapidly as possible. The American "first team" would no longer be pitted against, or tied down by, the enemy's so-called second team.

The liberation policy which Eisenhower advocated is linked to the basic question of the use of force in another way because such a policy would hardly be possible unless the United States was willing to take whatever risks might be involved in stirring up trouble, even by propaganda means, in Iron Curtain territory.

Any nation's foreign policy must be based upon its real power—military, economic, moral and other. Insofar as the United States is concerned there are three overall problems which this principle applies to directly: 1. Military dispositions for defense—United States forces have been deployed since the end of World War II in Japan and other Far Pacific islands, in Korea and in Western and Central Europe. United States weapons have gone to many additional places to strengthen friendly or Allied forces.

Two of the criticisms directed against this disposition has been that it spread American power too thin and that this country was attempting to hold too much territory "must be committed to security of United States forces. In a speech at New York last August Eisenhower said this country "must be committed to security of such mobility and offensive impact that their retaliatory readiness and the massive potential of their blows will haunt the Kremlin with nightmares of the punishment to be visited upon Russia should it violate the peace."

Truman administration officials have held a somewhat similar concept. Eisenhower's idea of the "mobility" of American forces would not necessarily mean a change in present policy but it could be a basis for such a change where the light of statements by other Republicans.

2. Force as a base for diplomatic strategy—In general, in dealing with a country like Russia, any American or Allied maneuver is likely to be effective to the extent that it can be backed up with adequate force of some kind, military, economic or political. Republican foreign policy adviser John Foster Dulles, while still a bipartisan consultant in the State Department, last spring, advocated that the United States should rely less on trying to protect many countries by committing its forces to them and should try instead a warning to Russia not to start any more Korea. There has been speculation Eisenhower may have leaned toward this ultimatum device when he talked about the concept of a mobile reserve to be supplied the Free World by the United States.

Washington—Add Ike foreign policy. What Dulles proposed was that Washington should tell Moscow flatly and officially that if any other free nation was attacked by Communist forces the United States would feel free to strike back at Russia itself. That would only work if the United States had the force available to strike instantly and powerfully.

3. The concept of preventive war—This has usually come up publicly in a negative way. Some people have advocated privately that the United States should pick the time and place for the conflict with Russia which the advocates consider inevitable. But they have seldom carried their case to the country. Instead President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson have given currency to the idea by denouncing it. They apparently felt it had too much appeal to ignore.

Some officials and observers of foreign policy developments believe that this may be in the long run the most explosive issue which Eisenhower will have to deal with. He will be President at a time when the United States and Allied powers, whatever their continuing problems, will have shaken off many of the weaknesses which the Truman administration has been primarily concerned to eliminate.

In a speech at San Francisco Oct. 6 Eisenhower seemed to reject the idea of using force as a desirable means of resolving the conflict with Communism. He said appeasement "is a proven folly" and declared that a second course would be to adopt an "aggressive attitude and so markedly increase the risk of global war." He indicated his preference for the third of his three courses which he said "is to prosecute the cold war in which we now find ourselves with vigor and wisdom" session, the President will seek to emphasize to the President-elect that he is deeply anxious to do whatever he can to arrange for a smooth transfer of administration taking advantage of any uncertainty in American policies during the transition period.

From the private session the plan is for the two men to go immediately to the Cabinet Room and join a second and larger session with their advisors. In this meeting are scheduled to be Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Lovett, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, and W. Averell Harriman, foreign aid director. On Eisenhower's side are expected to be Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, his representative to executive departments of the government, and Joseph M. Dodge, his special representative to the Budget Bureau.

Eisenhower's headquarters at Augusta, Ga., indicated a week ago that the general would not assume responsibility for government decisions prior to Jan. 20 because he has no authority for making such decisions. Eisenhower's familiar with President Truman's views say that he is fully prepared to make all his own decisions and has no thought of asking Eisenhower to assume responsibility for them.

The practical responsibility which the administration would like the general to take is that of a voice in the shaping of foreign policy decisions to the extent that Truman may avoid taking any step which would later be reversed or radically changed by the new administration.

The President's State and Defense Department advisors and presumably Truman himself feel that the best way to accomplish this is to get Eisenhower's future into those departments by the end of this month so that they can look over the shoulders of Acheson and Lovett as policies are being formulated. It is felt there that competent executives would be able informally if authorized by Eisenhower — to indicate lines of desirable action or limitations on policy without formally committing the Eisenhower administration for the future.

enhower advocated is linked to the basic question of the use of force in another way because such a policy would hardly be possible unless the United States was willing to take whatever risks might be involved in stirring up trouble, even by propaganda means, in Iron Curtain territory.

Price At Bull Sale

MINERAL WELLS, (SC)—The 55 bulls and females consigned to the sixth annual Palo Pinto Hereford Association sale here Friday afternoon made an average of $231. The 14 females sold for an average of $253 with a top of $400 paid for each of two animals, and the 41 bulls made an average of $223 with a top of $590.

AIBR Bull Domino 61st was the champion bull selected by Walter Rice of the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company, who judged the cattle. This bull was consigned by Lee Atkinson of Throckmorton and was bought, at $405, by A. B. Edsall of Elbert.

Cattlemen attending the sale said the averages did not reflect the true value of the cattle at all but rather a lack of demand for any kind of cattle because of the drought and high feed prices. A big percentage of the cattle sold went to Palo Pinto County ranchers.

Corporation Court Cases Are Down

About half the usual number of cases were entered on the Corporation Court docket during the past week, and the aggregate of fines assessed reflected the slump.

Fines—37 of them—were levied for $422. Average for previous weeks this year has been about $500.

Drunkness accounted for about half of the total, or $213 worth. Biggest fines, one for $50 and one for $45, were levied for reckless driving. The fines were levied for minor traffic violations. Transferred from Corporation to other courts were two persons, one charged with driving while intoxicated and the other charged with a stabbing.

Lie Is Willing To Stay On For Another Year

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—Diplomatic sources said today Trygve Lie has stated he is willing to remain another year as U. N. secretary general if the Russians and the West cannot agree on his successor.

There is no indication so far that a deadlock will develop finally on the question of Lie's successor. There are reports that a move is being developed to ask Lie to stay on but at the same time the U. N. halls are full of talk and speculation about various possibilities.

A quiet diplomat from Iran, Nasrollah Entezam, who is a former president of the Assembly, was said to have the inside track in the spirited contest for Lie's post. Entezam has said he is not a candidate but his backers are booming him at every opportunity and are quoting the Russians and British as having no objection to Entezam.

The United States is playing this problem slowly and cautiously. A spokesman said today that it is not urgent and immediate. He said American energies are tied to things like Korea. He said, however, if a great number of states want to discuss the issue in the next couple of weeks the U. S. would get its ideas in order.

There was speculation in U. N. quarters that the Americans would not want to act until President-elect Eisenhower has had an opportunity to make up his mind, since the Eisenhower administration must deal with whoever heads the U. N. Secretariat.

The Russians are known to be in a hurry for the U. N. to snap up Lie's resignation, made dramatically before the whole Assembly last Monday. They want Lie out of office as speedily as possible.

Membership In ROTC Is Up

Membership in the senior ROTC, in Fourth Army colleges and universities, has increased by 5,790 over the 16,057 of 1951. Some of the increase is attributed to the addition of schools and to increased enrollment in already established units.

Oklahoma A & M, Stillwater, Okla., has taken the lead in the number of cadets with 2,619 as compared to 2,096 in 1951 and Texas A & M, College Station, is second with 2,423 as compared to 2,351 in 1951.

The addition of seven new schools this year with senior units accounts for 1,999 of the 5,790 in the 1952 increase. The new schools, five of which are Texas colleges, average about 285 per unit. They are: Sam Houston State Teachers College, Huntsville, Texas; Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, Texas; Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, Texas; Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas; West Texas State College, Canyon, Texas; Arkansas Polytechnic College, Russellville, Ark.; and Centenary College, Shreveport, La.

ON KOREAN POLICY

Acheson Will Seek Support From Ike

By STANLEY JOHNSON
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—In an effort to take the lame duck tag of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, Secretary of State Acheson will seek assurances from President-elect Eisenhower next week that he supports present American diplomatic policy in Korea.

A spokesman said the secretary will sit in on Eisenhower's conferences with President Truman to get an "indication of Ike's approach" to the question of forcibly sending home Red prisoners who they don't want to go as well as to other questions facing the U. N.

The spokesman said Acheson is well aware that Eisenhower neither could nor would take responsibility for decisions reached before inauguration day next Jan. 20, but hopes for an expression of his "general views."

The U. S. delegation has repeatedly told representatives of other countries here that the refusal to send home North Korean and Chi-

COMPARED TO ROOSEVELT-HOOVER MEET IN 1932

Prospects For Closer Tie Is Seen When Truman And Eisenhower Meet Tuesday

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Herbert Hoover sat gravely on a long red divan, Franklin D. Roosevelt in a chair beside him; they smoked nervously, drank orange juice and talked for hours.

Light from a later afternoon winter sun shone dimly through heavy draperies on the portraits of past presidents in the Red Room of the White House.

The air was filled with tension, an overpowering strain, a mental tug of war—and some distrust and hostility.

That was the setting the last time an outgoing President faced his successor, the triumphant leader of an opposing political party, to try to smooth some of the bumps in the transfer of power.

Things didn't go well that long afternoon of Nov. 22, 1932, nor in the weeks that followed. While the nation sank into a pit of bank panic and general despair, Roosevelt and Hoover could not agree on their roles in the crisis; each pointed to the other with the finger of blame.

Almost 20 years to the day later, President Harry S. Truman and President-elect Eisenhower meet Tuesday against a backdrop that in some ways is similar.

Again, tremendous problems press down on them—war in Korea, threats of a bigger war, a persistent crisis in Iran, inflation at home.

Again, the outgoing President apparently feels urgently that decisions of long-range significance, on matters that demand attention now, must reflect the views of the man who has no office but will assume power soon.

The exact nature and extent of their co-operation remains to be worked out, probably at the White House meeting.

But unlike the tragic era 20 years ago, prospects for closer ties seem bright. Already, in the naming of Eisenhower liaison representatives to key agencies, an unprecedented step has been taken.

Amid a look at the past reveals that, despite the troubled relations between Hoover and Roosevelt, there has been more co-operation than bitterness between the political foes involved in shifts of power in the White House.

Of the 14 such transitions in U. S. history, only four have been shrouded in unpleasantness ranging from coolness to downright scorn and bitterness. Some changes have been causes for celebration even by outgoing presidents.

The most tragic transition period of all was between James Buchanan and Abraham Lincoln in 1860-61. After Lincoln's election Buchanan felt powerless; Lincoln was a silent spectator, scrupulously avoiding any statement of policy, while the Union was dissolved and America headed into civil war.

Until this year, the problem has been complicated by a longer period between the election of a president and his installation. Presidents formerly took over in March after their election in November, four months back. Now they take office Jan. 20, a little over two months after the election.

"You have turned me out; you have turned me out!" was the bitter greeting John Adams, Federalist, gave Thomas Jefferson, his Republican successor in 1801. That was the first transition period between opposing political powers.

Adams and Jefferson set the precedent of face-to-face meetings to try to iron out difficulties. But Adams failed in an effort to get commitments from Jefferson on the size of the Navy or the national debt. Adams responded with a series of "midnight" appointments to office in the last minutes of his administration—an act that stirred up a storm. The appointments were repudiated by Jefferson.

Twenty-eight years later, the Republican under John Quincy Adams surrendered the White House to Democrat Andrew Jackson, and the air was so full of controversy and bitterness that Jackson vowed never to go near the retiring President's house or to attend his customary courtesy call at the executive mansion and Adams told friends he would refuse to attend the inauguration ball even if invited.

The next change in power, from Democrat Martin Van Buren to Whig William Henry Harrison in 1841, set the pattern of amiability. The debonaire Van Buren invited Harrison to his exclusive Saturday night social hours and even offered to vacate the White House ahead of time.

The transition period was relatively quiet in 1849 and 1853. After the troubled Buchanan-Lincoln period, the energetic Democrat, Grover Cleveland, wrested the White House from the Republicans and Chester Alan Arthur in 1885. Cleveland was involved in four transitions and each of them was noted for pleasantness.

Cleveland welcomed Republican Benjamin Harrison in 1889, attended inauguration ceremonies and praised Harrison's speech. Their wives especially expressed admiration for each other. Harrison was equally gracious when Cleveland in turn ousted him in 1893.

Republican William Howard Taft is described by historians as one of the most cheerful observers at the inauguration of Democrat Woodrow Wilson in 1913. He promised Wilson, "We will all be behind you."

Wilson later came up with a bold suggestion on the problems of the period of transition. When it appeared he had been defeated for re-election, Wilson wrote his secretary of state proposing that the secretary and vice president resign. Wilson planned to appoint Charles Evans Hughes, his Republican opponent, as secretary of state. Then Wilson would resign and under the law then, Hughes would have taken over the presidency without waiting until March.

But Wilson won a surprise victory at the polls and the plan was quickly discarded.

The period between the election of FDR and his assumption of office was stirred by storms.

Repeatedly, in telegrams and letters (one written by Hoover in longhand), in three face-to-face meetings, in a telephone call in the middle of the night before Roosevelt's March 4 inauguration, Hoover argued that he alone was powerless to meet crises at home and abroad and pleaded desperately for Roosevelt's co-operation.

"The Democratic controlled Congress would take no action without his (Roosevelt's) approval," Hoover wrote in his memoirs. "On the foreign front, my positive influence was ended as no foreign government would come to an agreement with me unless they knew that Mr. Roosevelt approved it."

"With all the fanning of fear, the country was off in a full cry of a general panic of bank depositors... Yet there was little that an outgoing administration could do while handcuffed by a hostile Congress and an unco-operative President-elect... A statement from Roosevelt even at this date could probably have stopped the panic. In any event, I could have stopped it if I had had his support... (But) Roosevelt declined all our suggestions."

Hoover implies Roosevelt's lack of collaboration was due to a partisan desire to build Roosevelt's own prestige.

Hoover had urged Roosevelt's approval of immediate negotiations with foreign countries on economic problems, including joint appointment of U. S. spokesmen; a statement by Roosevelt denying rumors he planned to devalue the currency, and building confidence in banks; Roosevelt approval of an executive order stopping payments to depositors except for necessities; appointment by Roosevelt of personal representatives to key government joint action. A note in Roosevelt's private papers sums up his attitude thus:

"I was a private citizen wholly without authority, express or implied... For me to have taken part in the daily relations between the executive and the Congress would have been not only improper, but wholly useless. For the President-elect to dabble with superficial remedies would have been to impair or destroy the efficacy of the drastic, far-reaching actions which were put into effect in the 'one hundred days' immediately following March 4. To attack one symptom by weak methods would have impaired the broad attack on a score of fronts which came later. No participation by me as a private citizen would have prevented the crisis; such participation in details would have hampered thoroughgoing action under my own responsibility as President."

HC Launches Season Dec. 2

The Howard County Junior College Jayh wks will open their 1952-53 basketball season in the local gymnasium Tuesday, Dec. 2. Coach Harold Davis has announced.

Guest team will be Decatur Baptist College. The two teams tangle again in Decatur on Friday, Dec. 5. HCJC is the defending Western Zone champion and a co-favorite, along with Amarillo, to end up first again. Fact is the Hawks have won the crown the past two seasons in 1950, they also were Texas Junior College Conference champions.

The Hawks scrimmaged ACC's varsity troops in Abilene the past week and Coach Davis said his charges played three quarters of good ball.

Casey Jones of Odessa, co-captain of the Hawks, suffered an injury above his eye in the workout and the wound required three stitches to close. He is almost certain to play the season's opener, however, in fact is due to return to workouts on Monday.

Four teams have accepted invitations to the HCJC Tournament, which will be staged Jan. 1-2-3.

The teams already entered are Odessa JC, Kilgore, San Angelo and, of course, the host team.

The field will consist of eight teams.

Tyler had to turn down an invitation due to previous commitments. Schreiner comes here to play the following week so Davis thought it inadvisable to invite the Mountaineers.

Invitations have been mailed to Wharton, the defending national champion, Paris, Ranger and several other outstanding junior colleges in Texas.

The tournament is due to be the best of its kind held in the Southwest and will become an annual event.

Sooners Boom Past Mizzou Tigers, 47-7

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 15 (AP)—Oklahoma chopped up Missouri's hopes for the Big Seven Conference football crown today, mixing together wide-awake defensive play with a driving ground game for a 47-7 decision.

Missouri, a two-touchdown underdog, was out to unseat Oklahoma from its Big Seven dominance but the Sooners drove to two easy touchdowns in the first quarter and were never in danger.

Oklahoma can win its fifth straight title by beating Nebraska next Saturday.

Missouri's Tigers resorted to passing off the spread formation in an effort to overtake the nation's leading rushing and scoring team, but only once did it pay off.

Oklahoma intercepted seven Missouri passes and turned them into three TDs. Merrill Green made three touchdowns for Oklahoma while Eddie Crowder, Jack Ging, Buck McPhail and Jack Van Poag each chipped in one.

Missouri was able to open up only once, scoring its lone touchdown halfway through the second quarter when Jim Hook took command of the Tigers and passed and ran his team 61 yards in nine plays.

He cashed in from the one-yard line and Paul Fuchs converted.

The remainder of the time Oklahoma, snapping back from a 27-21 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, couldn't be held.

IN THE RAIN

Troy Throttles Huskies, 33-0

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15 (AP)—Unbeaten Southern California drove through rain, mud and the University of Washington football team today for a 33-0 victory to set the stage for next week's Rose Bowl-deciding battle in the Coast Conference with undefeated UCLA.

Held to a 7-0 lead for two quarters by a surprisingly stubborn foe, the Trojans broke lose for two touchdowns in the third and two more in the final quarter to turn the contest into a rout.

Enroute to their eighth triumph, the Trojans handed the Huskies' All-America quarterback candidate, Don Heinrich, the worst afternoon since UCLA wrecked Washington earlier in the season.

Heinrich, the nation's leading passer who was playing perhaps his final game before going into the Army, had five passes intercepted—two for touchdowns—and completed only two throws out of 18 tries. They gained only 14 yards.

It was the first time Washington had been shut out in 44 games, dating back to 1949.

Sitting in the rain-reduced crowd of 35,852 were Coach Red Sanders and the UCLA varsity. They flew out—amid a smattering of boos from Trojan rooters when the score began to mount in the fourth period.

Colorado Rips Kansas State
BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 15 (AP)—Don Branby, a fiery defensive end all season, switched over to the offensive today and delivered the spark that sent Colorado winging to a 34-14 victory over Kansas State after the Kansans had taken a 14-0 lead.

Heavily favored Colorado's offensive attack misfired for the first 20 minutes during which Kansas State counted on Veryl Switzer's 63-yard punt return and a 73-yard sustained march.

Branby was sent in to play with the offensive unit in the second quarter. His inspired play sent the Buffaloes rolling for two touchdowns in the last two and a half minutes of the half. In the third quarter, Branby recovered a fumble to set up one score.

Colorado scored twice in the third quarter on a 55-yard march and on a seven-yard drive resulting from end Carl Fisher's recovery of a K-State fumble on the seven.

The Buffaloes added a fifth touchdown in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter with a 31-yard scoring march.

California Bears Regain Form, Trounce Cougars

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 15 (AP)—Paced by Bob Brooks, who scored touchdowns from nine and four yards out, the California Bears finally broke their three-game losing streak today with a 28-11 victory over Washington State.

A crowd of 28,000 sat in the cold winter stadium to see the Bears cross the Cougar goal line in the first period, push over two more in the second, and clinch it with a touchdown in the fourth.

The Cougars, after being outplayed almost all the way, put together an aerial attack that netted two touchdowns in the last five minutes.

Quarterback Jerry Campbell

Syracuse Defeats Colgate, 20-14
SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—A hard-driving Syracuse football team, sparked by Pat Stark and Bill Wetzel, beat Colgate, 20-14, today to boost its chances in the bowl bid sweepstakes.

Wetzel drove over from the one-foot line in the third quarter with the winning touchdown. It came six plays after Jim George recovered a Colgate fumble on the 13.

Stark also hit from the one-foot line in the second and threw a touchdown pass to Mark Hoffman good for 17 yards and in the opening quarter.

Gary Chandler, fleet Colgate end, grabbed passes for both Red Ralder touchdowns.

Gophers Humble Huskers, 13-7

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 15 (AP)—Smart and rugged Paul Giel tossed a 74-yard scoring pass and ran and passed to 57 yards of a 60-yard drive to the goal line here today as Minnesota defeated Nebraska 13 to 7.

A Nebraska homecoming crowd of nearly 40,000 gasped as Giel threw the ball nearly 50 yards in the second quarter to Jimmy Soltus, who was in the clear at about the Nebraska 35 and ran over.

Fordham Triumphs
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15 (AP)—A Fordham football team that has floundered all season found muddy Temple Stadium to its liking today and ran over, around and through the Temple Owls for a 23-6 upset victory.

RICE FASHIONS 16-6 VICTORY

By WILBUR MARTIN
COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 15 (AP)—Leroy Fenestemaker won another football game for Rice today, but this time he got a chance to use his considerable passing ability as well as deadly kicking and Texas A&M took a 16-6 licking.

The gawky junior from the Hill Country of Llano was shoved into the breach when quarterback Dan Drake hurt a knee early in the first period. He found it a perfect fit, promptly guiding the Owls to a touchdown. Before the Southwest Conference game was over, he'd quarterbacked another touchdown march, kicked an extra point and booted a 21-yard field goal for good measure.

A&M, frustrated on all but one occasion by a rugged Rice defense, drove 76 yards for a second period touchdown, but spent most of the game stopping resurgent Rice, which today won only its third game but rode a two-game winning streak.

Fenestemaker, whose five extra points last week beat Arkansas, showed perfect poise. In humbling A & M he showed up awfully good as a passer, too, completing eight of 14 attempts for 78 yards. His aerials kept both Rice touchdown drives rolling and moved the Owls deep into A&M territory on two other occasions.

Wreck Cracks Up Alabama

ATLANTA, Nov. 15 (AP)—Two second-string backs, Pepper Rodgers and Dick Oretz, paired with regulars Billy Teas and Glenn Turner and an impregnable defense today to give Georgia Tech a squeaky 7-3 victory over a fierce, unexpectedly strong Alabama.

With a sellout crowd of 40,000 in the stands and millions watching on a national television hookup, the nation's No. 2 team found Alabama to be the toughest team it has played this season. Not in 15 games had Tech been held to one touchdown.

Tech's valiant defense, spearheaded by All-American linebacker candidate George Morris, three times halted Alabama drives which could have changed the outcome and brought a repeat of 1947 when "Bama knocked Tech from the perfect-record ranks.

Warriors Stunned
ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—Two lightning strikes in five minutes—a 60-yard run by fullback Guy Bedrossian and a 55-yard dash with an intercepted pass by Russ MacLeod—gave downtrodden Cornell a 13-7 upset victory over Dartmouth today.

Towel Loses Title
JOHANNESBURG, S. AFRICA, Nov. 15 (AP)—Hard-hitting Jimmy Carruthers of Australia knocked out Vic Towel of South Africa in the first round tonight to win the world bantamweight championship.

Stollenwerck Leads SMU To Win Over Arkansas

By CARL BELL. FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 15 (AP)—Sam Stollenwerck, a half-pint back, who had done virtually nothing for SMU but kick extra points, headed the Mustangs to a comeback victory over Arkansas today.

IN LAST GAME

Coahoma Routs Ira, 79-0

IRA — Coahoma wound up its 1952 football schedule by scoring an avalanche of touchdowns at the expense of Ira here Friday night, winning, 79-0.

The hapless Ira club moved into Coahoma territory only once during the evening. Coach Fred Sailing of Coahoma used every available player in an attempt to keep the score down.

Billy Joe Cramer scored four touchdowns for Coahoma, all on passes from Bill Read. Gary Hoover counted three six-pointers, one on a pass and two on runs of 30 and 20 yards.

Jimmy Spears counted twice for Coahoma, once on a pitchout and another time on a thrust through the line. Jerry Springfield counted a TD on a delayed back and Darrell Robinson added another.

Coahoma led, 39-0, after two periods of play. Three of the Bulldogs' touchdowns came in the opening period.

Read made good on six extra point tries while Robinson ran one across.

The victory left Coahoma's record for the season at nine wins and one loss. The Bulldogs were defeated by Hermleigh, the District 5-B, titlist.

Ole Miss Ends Terrapin Streak; Takes Bowl Bid

By KEITH FULLER. OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 15 (AP)—Mississippi quarterback Jimmy Lear pitched a magnificent 42-yard fourth period pass to upset mighty Maryland 21 to 14 and boost the Ole Miss Rebels into the national football limelight.

Lear's storybook heave to end Bud Slay on the Maryland 4-yard line set up the winning touchdown that halfback Wilson Dillard ramed over two plays later from the 3-yard line.

Lear's passing and the ferocious work of the Mississippi line stunned the nation's number three football team into submission, the Terps' first loss since Oct. 4, 1950. They had gone undefeated in 21 games.

For the entire second half, Mississippi's keyed up offense dominated the play and knocked on the goal line three times before the last payoff punch carried over.

The game was a crushing battle for the full 60-minute but the hero of the day was the Mississippi line that bottled up All-America candidate Jack Scarbath and held that pass-master to only two completed throws.

After the lines of both Maryland and Mississippi clogged the backs most of the first period, the Terps got moving on the bruising running of halfbacks Chet Hanulak and sophomore Leland Liehold.

Scarbath doing his best job behind center, failed to find his passing range. Hanulak bounced over the last 4 yards for Maryland's first score on the first play of the second period after a scoreless first quarter.

Mississippi stormed 83 yards on mixed running by Dick Westerman and Harold Lofton and Lear's clocking passes.

The payoff came on a 31-yard pass to end Ray Howell in the end zone. Lear converted. Lightning struck Mississippi on their kickoff to Maryland. Defensive Maryland halfback Dick Noon took the kickoff on his own 10 and streaked straight down the middle 90 yards to a touchdown.

Not a Mississippi hand touched him, and Decker converted to give Maryland a 4-7 lead at the half.

In the scoreless third period Mississippi twice threatened in the shadow of the Maryland goal post. George Harris, sophomore end, grabbed up a fumble on the Terps 13 and Lear worked the ball to the Terps 4 where he fumbled and Paul Nester of Maryland, recovered.

A few minutes later, Mississippi was on Maryland's 1-foot line but Lear was stopped on fourth down when tackle Bob Morgan refused to budge.

The score that upset one of the nation's greatest teams came midway in the final period when Lear kicked a lightning 48-yard throw downfield. Slay clutched it to his chest as he was thrown to the ground on the 4. Two plays later Dillard went over and that was Mississippi's victory. Lear added the final extra point.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Mississippi's team climaxed its stunning upset victory over unbeaten Maryland today by accepting a bid to meet unbeaten Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day.

The game will mark the first meeting of two Southeastern Conference teams in the bowl since it was inaugurated in 1935.

Mississippi's 21-14 victory over Maryland was its seventh triumph. The Rebels have been held to ties by Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

Georgia Tech earned its ninth straight victory today by tumbling a stubborn Alabama team 7-3.

PRIDGEMAN SHINES

Baylor Bears Bamboozled By Houston Cougars, 28-6

By MAX B. SKELTON. HOUSTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Halfback Ken Pridgeon scored two touchdowns and set up a third with his running and passing today as Houston throttled Baylor's high powered offense for a 28 to 6 upset over the Southwest Conference team.

Pridgeon, 180-pound senior from Bryan, scored twice from the 9-yard line and tossed a 37-yard pass to Halfback S. M. Meeks to move the Cougars to the Baylor 14 in a drive that netted the final Houston tally.

The powerful Houston defense, ninth ranked in the nation, was permitting Baylor to pass midway only three times. The lone Baylor touchdown came as Halfback Don Carpenter climaxed a 55-yard second quarter drive by skirting right end from the Houston 4.

Fullback Jack Patterson plunged over right guard from the 2 to score five plays after Pridgeon had hit Meeks on the 14. The other Houston touchdown came in the second quarter as Tackle Buddy Gillioz recovered a blocked punt in the Baylor end zone.

The victory kept alive the hopes of Houston, the Missouri Valley Conference leader, for a post-season bowl game invitation. It was Houston's sixth victory against losses only to Texas A&M and powerful Mississippi.

Baylor played without two of its top ground gainers, Halfback L. G. Dupre and Alan Jones, both were sidelined with leg injuries.

Pridgeon was the day's leading ground gainer, netting 68 yards in 17 carries. His long toss to Meeks was his only pass attempt.

Houston had a two-touchdown lead before Baylor could get beyond its own 42-yard line.

The Bears had turned back one threat before Houston launched its 48-yard, first touchdown drive that ended early in the second quarter. The first threat drove to the Baylor 11 where it was stopped by a fumble.

Quarterback Bobby Clatterback kept Houston on the ground all the way for the first score. Pridgeon's first touchdown came as tackle John Carroll opened a big hole in the middle of the Baylor line.

A 15-yard penalty had pushed Baylor back to its 5 from where guard Wayne Shoemaker broke through to block quarterback Francis Davidson's punt midway in the second quarter. Gillioz also had been moving in on Davidson.

Sophomore Billy Hooper then took over the Baylor quarterback spot and needed only nine plays to engineer Baylor's lone touchdown. He connected with passes for 16, 9 and 9 yards to halfbacks Jerry Coody, Charles Smith, and Carpenter to carry to the 7. Carpenter took a pitch three plays later for the score.

Houston's other touchdowns were set up on a pass interception returned by end George Hynes to the Baylor 31 and on a punt return by back Billy Polson to the Baylor 36. Baylor 0 6 0 0 6 Houston 0 14 14 0-28

Houston scoring: Touchdowns, Pridgeon 2, Gillioz, Patterson; conversions, Houton 4. Baylor scoring: Touchdown, Carpenter.

HARDIN-SIMMONS, TECH PLAY 14-14 DEADLOCK

ABILENE, Nov. 15 (AP)—A fired-up bunch of Texas Tech Red Raiders tried a field goal on the final play of the game, missed and wound up with a 14-14 tie with Hardin Simmons in the Border Conference game today.

Jimmy Williams, who tried the 23-yard field goal, threw himself to the ground and beat his fists. Tech jumped into a 7-0 lead early when Jerry Johnson passed 28 yards to Lewis Crossley on the goal line after Hardin Simmons had fumbled on its own 25.

The Cowboys tied it up 7 minutes later as quarterback Jimmy Riddle tossed a 7-yard pass to End D. C. Andrews on the goal line.

Tech took a 14-7 halftime lead when John Thompson intercepted a pass on the Cowboy 20 and returned it to 12. Jimmy Turner plunged 6 yards for the touchdown. Quarterback Zee Windsor passed 23-yard field goal, threw himself in the open on the goal line on the fourth down for the tying Hardin-Simmons tally just 28 seconds before the end of the third period.

Tech's great defense, led by linebacker Joe Moore, held the Cowboy halfback Rodney Williams, the nation's leading ball player until today, to a net of 13 yards on 14 carries.

Badgers Bruise Past Indiana

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 15 (AP)—Wisconsin rode into a tie for the Big Ten lead today on the broad back of fullback Alan Ameche, who scored three touchdowns in a 37-14 victory over Indiana.

Wisconsin matched the 4-1 conference record of Michigan, 21-10 winner over Purdue today.

Ameche started Wisconsin's scoring in the first quarter, and Indiana never caught up.

Ameche plunged one yard for the starter, reached 43 yards for a third quarter touchdown and ran 31 yards for his final six points in the fourth period.

Wisconsin zipped 54 yards in 10 plays for its first touchdown and used only one 4-yard pass in the process. Bill Hutchinson needed less time for the second Badger touchdown. He caught an Indiana punt on his own and twisted and looped 65 yards.

Cadets Nose Out Quakers, 14-13

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15 (AP)—Army's attack, sparked by Bill Purdue, Freddie Atkaya and well-lubricated by mud, scored a touchdown in the final 44 seconds to upset Pennsylvania, 14-13, today.

It was Purdue, a sprinter and a hurdler on the track team, who pulled the game out with a touchdown at 14:16 of the final period, and Rex Shain booted the soggy ball between the goal posts for the winning point.

Penn's Carl Sempler failed to make his second conversion after Penn had racked up two touchdowns in the first quarter when the slippery ball, coming back from center, hit the ground and the holder couldn't set it up for Sempler's kick before Cadet linemen came through to block the try.

Indians Triumph

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Tailback Ken Shackelford passed for two touchdowns and scored one today to lead Midwestern University's Indians to a 28-6 homecoming victory over New Mexico A&M before 8,500 fans.

KATS CLINCH SECOND

Garden City Runs Over Flock, 26-6

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bear Cats gave Sterling City's Eagles a 26-6 wallop before a homecoming crowd here Friday night.

The lopsided win placed Garden

City in second place for District 7 running. The Bear Cats lost only one game this season, and that was against undefeated district champs, Christoval.

At half time during Friday night's game, Miss Betty Dolan was crowned homecoming queen. She was crowned by Wilburn Bednar and Bobby Frizzell, co-captains of the Garden City team.

During the first half of play, the two teams eye-sawed over the goal lines. Garden City scored first when Bednar made a lateral pass to Frizzell, who went 20 yards for pay dirt.

Sterling City's time came in the second quarter when Earl Blair threw a lateral to Marshall Blair, who carried for eight yards and six points. It was their only counter of the game.

The Bear Cats clicked again before the close of the half when another Bednar to Frizzell lateral accounted for the second touchdown. Score at the half was 12-6.

The second half was all Bear Cats. Early in the third quarter a Bednar pass to Tommy Rich plus a 23-yard run racked up another TD. Jim McCorqudale kicked the extra points.

Another Garden City score was called back because of clipping penalties before the final Bednar pass to Bryant Harris accounted for the final touchdown, and a score of 26-6.

Early in the fourth period it looked as if the Eagles might roll up a counter. Billy Blair cut loose for 43 yards but was brought down on the 14-yard strip by Tommy Rich.

Fathers' night had been declared by the Garden City gridsters, and fathers of the players were furnished special seats behind the bench. After the game, Garden City players gave a barbecue for their dads and girls in the pep squad.

KOZAR LEADS WAY

Bowl-Bound Vols Defeated Florida

By ESCAR THOMPSON. KNOXVILLE, Ten., Nov. 15 (AP)—Andy Kozar, a Pennsylvania coal miner's son who doctors once said would never be able to play football, ripped Florida's line to shreds today to lead Cotton Bowl-bound Tennessee to a 26-12 homecoming victory.

The 210-pound senior fullback from St. Michael, Pa., scored twice and reeled off 111 yards in 16 rushes before he was carted off to the hospital early in the third quarter with an injury. It was announced after the game that he was not hurt seriously.

Kozar was stricken with spinal meningitis in 1945 and after a 31-day siege with the dread disease, doctors told him to forget about football. But he was determined to play and today he had one of the greatest days of his star-studded career.

The big fullback scored Tennessee's first two touchdowns, plunging from the 1-yard line in the first period and again smashing over from the same distance in the second.

But Kozar was not the only weapon in Tennessee's single wing arsenal. He got plenty of help from tailbacks Pat Shires and Pat Oleksiak, who scored the Vols' third and fourth six-pointers, respectively.

Florida registered its first score early in the first quarter on a 69-yard gallop by halfback J. Lewis (Pappa) Hall and its second in the waning moments of the game on a 1-yard plunge by fullback Rick Casares.

The game got off to an explosive start. On the second play, Buford Long fumbled and guard Andy Myers, a defensive giant, recovered for Tennessee on Florida's 38.

The Vols capitalized quickly on the break, scoring in seven running plays with Kozar plunging from the 1. Shires' conversion kick was wide.

Florida struck back with lightning speed. On the second play after the kickoff, Hall smashed through center and sped 66 yards down the middle of the field for a touchdown. It was the longest from scrimmage against Tennessee this season. Casares missed the try for extra point.

Late in the first quarter, Tennessee got a drive going and marched 64 yards for its second score, Kozar again plunging from the 1.

Shires counted Tennessee's third touchdown from the 1 to cap a sustained 77-yard drive, featured by a 31-yard gallop by Kozar and a 12-yard pass from Shires to end John Davis. End Vic Kolek kicked the first of two conversions.

Myers blocked Casares' quick kick early in the fourth period to set the stage for the Vols' final tally. Doug Atkins recovered for Tennessee on Florida's 34 and on the sixth running play, Oleksiak scored from the 2.

Late in the quarter Florida opened up with passes and moved the ball down to Tennessee's 1 from where Casares, who shared running honors with Hall for the game, dived over. Casares' kick was wide.

Towry On A Tear

A hard man to get down Friday night, the Big Spring Steers discovered, was Ramon Towry (22), going here for mucho screege. Charles Rose (left), Louis Steep (70) and Carlisle Robison (51) lunge for the tackle. The Vernons won, 38-21.

Pitt Pulverizes Wolfpack, 48-6

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15 (AP)—Bowl-minded Pitt turned loose its hard-running backs today in a swamp North Carolina State 48-6 in the Panthers' most impressive touchdown parade since the days of the late Jock Sutherland.

The Panthers took the opening in the first, second and third periods and once in the final quarter.

Two touchdowns resulted from pass plays and five others came from ground-chewing attacks.

The Panthers took the opening kickoff and went 70 yards for their first score and tapered off the initial period with another 70-yard touchdown drive. Bill Reynolds, Bill Hoffman and Bobby Epps scored two touchdowns apiece and John Jacobs tallied once.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Tulane broke Vanderbilt's back with a fourth quarter field goal and a touchdown to win a 18-7 Southeastern Conference football thriller today.

The score was tied at 7-7 with six minutes remaining when quarterback Pete Clement kicked a 17-yard field goal to nudge Tulane ahead for the first time.

The Vanderbilt's quarterback, Bill Kristemeyer, fumbled on his seven and Tulane tackle Mike Houseplan recovered on the four.

Fullback Max McGee cracked over from the one on Tulane's third try and for the first time in the nerve-ringing contest, Tulane held a comfortable margin.

Local Hunters On Way South

This is a magic season for local and area nimrods.

Deer season opens today 'east of the Pecos' and many of the sportsmen have already headed south. Others have returned from New Mexico, where the season opened earlier.

The hunters are hoping for rain and cold weather but prospects for such an eventuality were bad. A drop in temperatures is needed to keep the deer meat from spoiling. The moisture is essential to keep down the threat of forest and range fires.

Dr. G. T. Hall, as usual, had his lease all packed out in the Mason area. L. Coleman was among those who planned to hunt on the Hall lease.

Cecil McDonald and Jack Y. Smith had their area near Llano all staked out and were to be looking down the barrels of their rifles today.

A party composed of Dr. C. W. Deats, Lester and Pug Newton and Boone Home were to head for the Mason country in quest of game.

J. D. Spears of Coahoma returned from New Mexico recently with a party, each member of which got his 'kill.'

E. B. Hillburn of Big Spring was among those planning on going south in quest of game.

S. C. Williams, H. L. Miller, Skeet Williams and Johnny Bob Turner, all of Coahoma, headed for the Mason area Saturday, hopeful of getting their quota.

Bill Conner and Bob Honeycutt of Forsan planned to hunt 'west of the Pecos' when the law allowed. Chauncey Long and Charles Adams of Forsan were to head for the Mason area.

Many others were planning trips

Marino Defeated In Title Bout

TOKYO, Sunday, Nov. 16 (AP)—The flying fists of world flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai last night drove aging ex-champion Dado Marino into retirement. Japan's first boxing champion won a unanimous 15-round decision in his first title defense.

Marino, 36, a grandfather, said he was through after 17 years in the ring.

Hereafter the little American Philipino said he will stick to his job as auto salesman in Honolulu.

He lost the title to Shirai last May 19.

Grandpa Marino fought aggressively last night but his age was a telling handicap. He was no match for the faster, taller 29-year-old Japanese.

Two judges and the referee all gave the 15-round fight to the champion. The Associated Press score card gave Shirai 12 rounds, two for Marino and one even.

Tradition Shattered When FDR Entered U.S. Scene

By SIGRID ARNE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Late in 1932 a prim woman in a tri-cornered hat picked her way through the photographers in the lobby of an old brownstone house on East 65th Street in New York City.

Roosevelt cohorts hit town frock coats and white gloves went out the window. The tea itself, in fact, gave way to the cocktail party with the repeal of prohibition in the first year of the Roosevelt tenure.

If "defense" era got under way. In 1932 some 11,385,000 were out of jobs. This dropped only to 8,796,000 in 1939. In 1940 it declined another two million.

He started right out: "Frances, I want you to be my secretary of labor." She had written she tried to discourage him because she knew labor leaders wanted the post for one of themselves.

There were really just two phases to New Deal relief work—the emergency period, which lasted roughly until 1936, and the long-pull period which put Miss Perkins' ideas on the books to cushion future crises.

As all this went on, "deserving Democrats" swamped the office of Postmaster General James A. Farley, the political work horse who insured FDR's nomination in '32. Farley became famous for a fabulous memory for names of (Democrats) and for the thousands of amiable notes he sent out, signed in green ink. He finally broke with "the boss" in 1940 over the third term issue.

She would take the job only if Roosevelt would go for a broad program—relief money handed out to states, public works to put people back in jobs, a shorter work week, a minimum wage, insurance against unemployment, and the hazards of old age, abolition of child labor, a federal employment service.

There was a second face to relief—Lecles' public works program. Through this Uncle Sam paid contractors for big projects, schools, highways, hospitals, dams. The contractors hired their own workers. Lecles, too, spent billions and went to his grave recently still known as "Honest Harold."

Lubrication is more IMPORTANT than you think

WASHINGTON dinner tables quivered under the impact of new arrivals after the first Roosevelt inauguration March 4, 1933. (Even the inauguration was changed under FDR. He said March was too long to wait for a new administration. A constitutional amendment shifted the ceremony to Jan. 20 thereafter.)

Washington was still a formal etiquette-ridden city. But when the FDR had already broken one tradition. He had flown to the Chicago Democratic Convention to accept his nomination. Until then most candidates had stayed coyly at home to be notified.

Woods Orders Prices Of Meat To Be Slashed

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Price Stabilizer Tigue Woods said today he has directed his Washington staff to issue an order within 10 days lowering the price of meat "where justified—if it can be legally done."

The statement, issued through an aid in response to a reporter's question, was somewhat modified from one he made to a consumers' clinic Friday. He told the clinic, "If the price of meat at retail does not come down in the next 10 days or two weeks, it's going to be forced down by an order."

Woods said today if meat prices cannot be lowered because of a "flaw" in the law, he "wants the public to know that it will not be accomplished."

Woods told the clinic the Office of Price Stabilization has authority to cut meat prices, adding that, "We won't cut the packers' prices to the farmers."

"Other things being equal, there's quite a few dollars between the farmer and the butcher counter that aren't accounted for," Woods said during the discussion.

He said "our accountants all over the country have been trying for the past three weeks to find out who's hoarding this margin."

"We find this: The industries we have to go to when they want a price increase make their books available very quickly. But when we're trying to figure out a price decrease, we have the darndest time finding their accountants and their ledger sheets. They were lost in the fire, the treasurer took them to Europe—everything else."

Placed on the same level of importance as water conservation was the financing of highway construction and repair.

Higher teacher salaries were rated the fourth most significant matter, well ahead of any other topic on which the legislators voiced an opinion.

Other issues which lawmakers ranked in descending order of importance were the Auto Inspection Law, which most said should be modified or repealed; establishment of a presidential preference

Taxation Top Concern For The Legislature

(EDITOR'S NOTE: What are the most vital issues facing the 53rd session of the Legislature meeting Jan. 13? To find out, Associated Press staffers interviewed scores of lawmakers by mail or in person. This story summarizes their findings. Other stories will develop the issues in detail.)

By BO BYERS and MAC ROY RASOR

AUSTIN, Nov. 15 (AP)—A new tax fight, water conservation, highway financing and a pay raise for teachers are the prime problems facing the 53rd Texas Legislature in January, say the lawmakers who will serve there.

Senators and representatives gave priority to these four issues in response to a survey by The Associated Press.

Taxation drew far more first-place votes than any other legislative problem.

Four of 15 senators and 36 of 99 representatives said avoiding more taxes or determining where to raise new money is the most urgent task they will have. Many others not rating it at the top still listed it high.

The need for water conservation has been emphasized by devastating effects of a three-year drought. Concern over this problem was reflected particularly in the comments of West and South Texas legislators but also was indicated by senators and representatives in all regions.

Placed on the same level of importance as water conservation was the financing of highway construction and repair.

Higher teacher salaries were rated the fourth most significant matter, well ahead of any other topic on which the legislators voiced an opinion.

Other issues which lawmakers ranked in descending order of importance were the Auto Inspection Law, which most said should be modified or repealed; establishment of a presidential preference primary; revision of the new Election Code; the Drivers Financial Responsibility Law; a constitutional amendment to remove the 35-million-dollar annual ceiling on public health appropriation, and truck load limits.

Mail questionnaires were sent to all 31 senators and 150 representatives. Some were interviewed personally. Those who took time to answer included 10 veteran legislators and five newcomers in the Senate and 33 oldtimers and 33 freshmen in the House.

Results of the survey of the House: Taxation was named the No. 1 issue by 36. It was ranked second by four; third by one; fourth by four; fifth by four; sixth by one; and seventh, its lowest rating, by one.

Water conservation loomed first in importance to eight. It received four No. 2 votes, five votes each for No. 3 and No. 4, seven No. 5, and other votes through No. 10.

Highway financing received only three first-place votes, but 17 listed it No. 2, nine No. 3 and No. 4 each, with additional votes for as low as eighth place.

Teacher salaries drew top billing from two members. Six placed this issue No. 2, eleven No. 3, nine No. 4, six No. 5. Its lowest ranking was No. 9.

A House fight over merits of the auto inspection law is indicated. Six representatives picked it as the No. 1 issue, one of the six advocating repeal, one calling for modification or repeal; two for modification and two not indicating their attitude toward the present law.

Among members who rated auto inspection in lower spots from second through eleventh, seven called for repeal, 18 for modification, three for modification or repeal, one for modification or no change, three for no change and three did not indicate their attitude.

Establishment of a presidential preference primary was boomed as the No. 1 problem by one House member. Four placed it No. 2, one No. 3, four No. 4, eight No. 5, and it drew scattered votes all the way to the bottom of the 12-place list.

Revision of the Election Code, changes in the Gilmer-Alkin School Laws, and removal of the 35-million-dollar welfare ceiling were the only other issues that drew single first-place votes among House members.

Possible controversy over the Drivers' Financial Responsibility Law is reflected in the fact two members urged repeal, one sought modification or no change, 10 voted modification or repeal, 15 suggested modification, two recommended for no change, and six did not indicate their attitude. The issue drew three votes for second place.

A majority of the House votes on the importance of a higher public health appropriation placed it no higher than ninth although two ranked it as high as third.

Most representatives apparently feel the question of truck load limits, a hot subject last session, has been settled for the time being. No one proposed lowering the weight limits and the House leader in gaining an increase last year was the only one to suggest another boost. Seventeen said there should be no change.

Survey results in the Senate: Only one senator omitted taxation from his list. Four rated it top issue, six thought it was No. 2

3 votes, two No. 4 votes, one No. 5 vote and six votes generally.

The only other issue getting a first-place Senate vote was the question of a presidential primary. It got one vote each as No. 1, No. 3, No. 5, two votes as No. 8, and five votes generally.

Auto inspections appeared to be in store for some Senate slurrage. Four want to repeal the law, five want it changed, one wants no change and two think it'll create a Legislative flurry but declined to indicate their stand.

Driver responsibility, too, may bring some fireworks. Two want it repealed, four want changes, three want no change, two think it's in for a scrap but took on stand.

Nine senators indicated the election code needs some changes.

Four think Gilmer-Alkin Education Laws need reworking. Six think truck load limits may stir up some fuss but three of them want no change and the others took no stand.

Doors And Frames Balk Construction At Gay Hill School

Construction on the new Gay Hill school building is being held up pending delivery of doors and steel door frames.

County Superintendent of Schools Walker Bailey stated today that outside work on the building had been completed. All that is lacking is inside finishing.

The floor is being built in the gymnasium, he said. Until the steel frames for doorways come in, the bricklayers and plasterworkers cannot finish their work.

The doors and frames were supposed to have arrived three to four months ago, Bailey said. In fact, notification was received that shipment had been made.

Somehow the shipment was sidetracked, Bailey said. The supply company is now tracing the shipment to see what happened.

There is no way of telling when the doors and frames will arrive, so a completion date cannot be set on the school, Bailey added.

work would have been finished by now if the materials had arrived promptly.

Sheriff's Deputy Is Badly Hurt In Mishap

HILLSBORO, Nov. 15 (AP)—Hill County Deputy Sheriff Carey Harrison was reported in critical condition today in a Hillsboro hospital as result of injuries received in a highway accident yesterday.

Sheriff Charlie Garrison was slightly injured. The officers' car crashed into an embankment after it had been swerved to avoid hitting another car.

In an informal, double ring ceremony Friday evening, Nona Faye Campbell became the bride of Belton Atlee Brunson.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Mable Campbell, 1108 W. 6th, and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Brunson, 310 San Antonio.

The Rev. Cecil Rhodes, pastor of the Westside Baptist Church, performed the ceremony in the home of the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hogue.

The bride, who entered alone, was attired in a two-piece eggshell gabardine suit with navy accessories. She carried a pink carnation corsage on a white ribbon.

For the traditional bridal requirements, the bride carried a silk handkerchief as something old, new was her suit, borrowed was the Bible, belonging to Joanna Hickson; blue was garter and she wore a penny in her shoe for luck.

Mrs. Charles Cooper was matron of honor. She chose a maroon suit with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Flower Tynes served as best man. When the couple left on a wedding trip to San Antonio, Mrs. Brunson wore a maroon suit with navy accessories. Upon their return, the Brunsons will make their home at 204 S. Harding.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed at Webb Air Force Base. Her husband attended the Big Spring schools and is employed by Cosden.

At the reception immediately following the ceremony, the refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of fall flowers.

The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink roses of the confection, was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Charles Campbell, sister-in-law of the bride, served and Mrs. R. D. Campbell of Odessa, another sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the guest book.

Housewares Being Dressed Up Today

Housewares are being dressed up and today serve not only as utility items but as decorative appointments.

Matching kitchen sets are being offered in decorator colors. Utensils are getting some fine design treatment.

Step-on cans in square space-saving shapes are being shown in pastel pinks, blues, yellows, and aqua.

There is an abundance of color in pots. Yellow enamelware is probably the biggest news, followed by blue and red.

The old-fashioned garbage can is now available in colors of red, yellow and gray. Dishpans are shown in pink, blue and ivory.

Wandering Waistlines

With equal stress being placed on long torso, Empire, Directorate or midriff waistlines, the American woman can find the very waistline fashion that suits her best from the current fashions.

HI-TALK

By Margie McDougle

It doesn't seem possible but another six weeks has rolled and next week all students will be busy studying for all their exams. The test schedule for next week will be second and fifth period tests on Wednesday, third and sixth period on Thursday, first and fourth period on Friday.

The Student Council held a meeting Monday during fourth period in Room 205. The meeting was called to order by President Steve Kornfeld. Secretary Beverly Vaughn read the minutes of the previous meeting, and chairmen of committees gave reports. They discussed the West Texas Forum held at Kermit Saturday. Council members who attended the meet-were Steve Kornfeld, Shirley Wheat, Monohm Holley, Joyce Anderson, Betty Earley and Mrs. Betty Lou Ratliff. They left at 7 Saturday morning for Kermit.

Friday morning the students were given a very special treat as they enjoyed the Dutch Treat Show, featuring Harry and Chita Maria Van Peit. Harry is a musician, dancer, and impersonator, and Chita is on radio and television. Two local girls were also helping them out with their dances. They were Iva Hampton and Rosemary Lawson.

Some sleepy kids seen at Mary Ellen Hayes' slumber party Saturday night were Beverly Vaughn, Claudette Harper, Ann White, Janice Anderson, Libby Jones, Susie Blankenship, Nina Fryar, Ann a Mae Thorp and Mary Ellen Hayes.

Future Teachers attending the CTA-AAUW banquet were Betty

Miss Sikes' Engagement Is Announced At Party

Mrs. Tom Slaughter, 1305 Gregg, entertained Friday evening at an informal announcement party, honoring her niece, Dorothy Sikes, bride-elect of Edward McConnell.

Parents of the betrothed couple are Mrs. G. W. Sikes, 806 Gregg, and Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hughes of Big Spring.

The bride's chosen colors of yellow and white were carried out in all the decorations.

The refreshment table was centered with white maine double wedding rings surrounded by baby yellow chrysanthemums. White satin butterflies with the words "Dot and Ed, Dec. 10" in gold were attached to either ring. Double crystal candleholders with white tapers flanked the arrangement. In the background was a miniature lighted cathedral flanked with white candles in candelabra. Pink net puffs were at each corner of the table.

White satin bows centered with wedding bells and the names of the betrothed couple written in gold were favors.

Barbara Eye and Betty Reddy served.

The honoree was presented a bride's book and a corsage of split yellow chrysanthemums as gifts.

Guests were members of the immediate families and close friends.

Planters Tables

The problem of the picture window has brought forth cocktail tables with planter decks, and the long planter table. The increasing number of bars, serving wagons, and tea carts reflect entertaining trends.

From the museums' many art works and canvases, too, come the decorator colors in fabrics, wall covering and paint, to highlight the home fashion scene.

Rich reds, viridian greens, chrome yellows, Indian reds, sepia, gamboge, ivory and many others are the bright to toned-down hues in the home decorators' spectrum.

Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Graham, 1005 Wood, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia, to J. D. Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Rt. 2. The wedding will take place Dec. 21 in the home of the bride-elect's parents. The couple will make their home in Wilcox, Ariz. Miss Graham attended Big Spring High School and her husband is a graduate of the school. He also attended Howard County Junior College.

Mrs. Clyde Berry Begins 18th Year As SS Teacher

GARDEN CITY, (Sp) — Mrs. Clyde Berry has a word of advice for would-be Sunday School teachers.

"The first thing each Sunday, listen to what children have to tell. Whether it's about a new dress, suit or socks. Then after they've had a chance to speak, they will listen quietly to what you have to say."

And Mrs. Berry ought to know. She is beginning her 18th year as a teacher of beginners in the Garden City Union Sunday School. She holds the record of having taught longer than any other teaching now at the job in Garden City.

In the beginning, her Sunday School students ranged in age from small tots, just old enough to be left alone in a class, to third grade students.

However, a few years ago she convinced Sunday School officials that the original arrangement resulted in too wide an age range. So now when the children are old enough for school, they are promoted to another department.

Among the members of the first class taught by Mrs. Berry were Frances Cox who is now Mrs. John A. Mills of Midland, Helen Hightower, who married Percy Turner and lives in College Station, and Mrs. Berry's own son, Jackie, who is now a grown assist his father on their ranch.

Children believe in tall tales and Sunday School teachers are not pared. Mrs. Berry believes. For she has heard her share.

"Larry Calverley, now a high school senior, could tell the longest stories," Mrs. Berry laughed.

A petite woman, who is as much at home in one of her students' small chairs as she is in a church pew, Mrs. Berry has seen both the Methodist and Cumberland Presbyterian Churches build new buildings since she began her work.

Her largest class consisted of 20 children and at the present time she has 14 enrolled.

Only twice, since she has been teaching, has the graying woman with the nice smile had to miss conducting the class for any length of time.

Still recuperating from her second major operation that resulted in a four-month absence from Sunday School, Mrs. Berry toyed with the idea of giving the class up.

It is queer, but on the Sundays that I don't meet with my little group my week just doesn't get started right," she said. "I feel that I might feel better if I keep the class and I know, should I give it up, I would miss those tots more than they would me," she added thoughtfully.

Junior Woman's Forum To Conduct Annual TB Christmas Seal Sale

(See Pictures Page 1) The sale of Christmas Seals, strong weapon against one of the nation's most violent public enemies, will be launched here Monday by the Howard County Tuberculosis Association.

Mrs. Gullford L. Jones, chairman, and Mrs. W. E. Gibson Jr., co-chairman. In the 45 years that the Christmas Seal has been fighting tuberculosis in this country, the disease has been forced down from first to sixth place among causes of death.

Mrs. Zolie Mae Rawlins, executive secretary of the Howard County Association, "or that we can relax our efforts against a disease which is still the leading disease killer among our young adults between 15 and 35, TB can be prevented, and the Christmas Seal must carry on until it is eradicated."

Proceeds from the sale of the seals and bonds will continue through Dec. 25 to finance the Association's control program for the coming year.

When Emily Bissell, a Wilmington, Del., welfare worker, promoted the first Seal Sale in 1907 to raise funds for a few needy tuberculosis patients, she could not have known what a great, nationwide effort she was initiating.

Mrs. Jones announced Saturday that 2,000 envelopes containing the seals would be in the mails Sunday. To supplement the seal sale, bonds will be sold, mainly to business firms, at $5, $10, $15 and $25 each, and school children may purchase the bangles for one cent each.

Mrs. Joyce Stanley and Mrs. Clarence Percy Jr. are in charge of bond sales and Mrs. Charles Tompkins and Mrs. Willard Hendrix will be responsible for the bangle phase of the drive.

Mrs. Walter M. Stoutenburg and Mrs. Carl Benson, in charge of publicity, announced that J. F. Horton of the Indoor Sports Club had addressed all the envelopes, and a Girl Scout troop led by Mrs. Ruby McNew and Mrs. Joyce Williamson had stuffed the letters. Boy Scouts and students of Mrs. Rawlins stamped the envelopes.

Other committees working on the drive include Mrs. D. D. Dyer and Mrs. L. B. Mauldin, mailing, and Mrs. Roy Tidwell and Mrs. Elvis McCrary, financial.

The Junior Woman's Forum is being assisted by members of other clubs in the City Federation.

Drill Team Is Honored With Supper

Members of the drill team of the Big Spring Rebekeh Lodge and their husbands were entertained Friday evening with a venison barbecue supper in the IOOF Hall by the team captain, Mrs. Walter Braune and Mr. Braune.

The speaker's table was centered with a large basket of fall fruit and vegetables. The other tables were centered with arrangements of bronze chrysanthemums. The focal point of the room was a small table in front of the speaker's table which held a white cake iced in pink and green and centered with a miniature gold loving cup and a gold horseshoe, symbols of the sward the team has won and their future good luck.

As each member of the team was introduced an appropriate verse was read, a corsage and a demi-tasse cup and saucer were presented each team member. Della Herring and Ruth Wilson made the presentations on behalf of Mrs. Braune.

The Student Council met Tuesday to set the date for the cheer leader try-outs. Bobby Read brought before the Council a business report of the annual Lou Ann Nail gave the report on the student center remodeling project.

The German Club hayride scheduled for Friday night was called off due to conflict with the faculty dinner, which was held the same night. It was a spaghetti dinner in honor of the board members. Fall leaves were used in the centerpiece for the table. After eating, the group played "42" games and ping-pong.

The Lasso Club held a meeting Thursday morning during activity period to select yell to be learned by the girls for the cheer leader try-outs Tuesday.

Louisiana Trinket

Dr. and Mrs. John N. Straub examine the wooden figure of a long-horned goat which they picked up in Louisiana. The figure, which resembles a little mountain goat, has been whittled and highly polished by hand.

Unusual Parties Fete Bride From Louisiana

"Get up, dress and cook breakfast every morning, then you can coast the rest of the day," a well-meaning friend told Mrs. John N. Straub before her marriage. But Mrs. Straub, a bride of a month, has found she can't coast through the day.

"In fact, I can't even coast through the rest of the morning," she laughed. Dr. and Mrs. Straub came to Big Spring about a week ago following their wedding in Lafayette, La., and a honeymoon in California. The pre-nuptial parties given for Mrs. Straub in Lafayette were unusual to say the least. Among them was a "Jambalaya on the Jayou". Members of the house party arrived on the scene wearing colorful costumes dating many years back. Some came by pirogue, a canoe-like boat, others by mule-drawn vehicles and others in Model T automobiles.

All guests brought gifts to the honoree including a live pig, baskets of snap beans and new potatoes, a pot of jambalaya and a live rooster which was made into gumbo. Highlights of the affair was a mock shotgun wedding. "From Louisiana to Texas" was the theme of a pre-nuptial tea honoring Mrs. Straub.

Sewing Club Makes Plans For Banquet

Plans for the Thanksgiving banquet were completed at the meeting Friday afternoon of the Eager Beavers in the home of Mrs. D. E. Burton, Rt. 2. The banquet will be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the Girl Scout Little House. In charge of decorations will be a committee composed of Mrs. R. I. Findley, Mrs. Dick Hooper, Mrs. Neal Bryant, Mrs. Phil Grotzer, Mrs. Denver Yates and Mrs. W. L. Clayton. The next meeting will be with Mrs. W. L. Clayton, 700 Douglas.

Guests were received in part of the entertaining suite which was decorated formally, representing Louisiana. The opposite side of the room was decorated to resemble a Texas ranchhouse living room scene. Fall colors were used in the flowers and table arrangement.

The table was covered with a grass-green cloth with the initials of the hostesses worked into the linen in the form of brands. Centering the table was a miniature spring depicting Big Spring. Back of the table was a wishing well built of red Texas brick into which the guests dropped their good wishes for the couple. At one side of the wall was a painting of the honoree and her fiance on a background of a Texas landscape.

The bride's book was a humorous account of Big Spring. Mrs. Straub, a graduate of Sophie College in New Orleans, met her husband while he was interning at Charity Hospital there. In Big Spring he is associated with Malone & Hogan Clinic-Hospital. They are making their home at 311 Edwards Blvd.

Vera Maxwell
WINTER SUIT

Features All That's New
In Season's Silhouette

Fashionable, smart, elegant, comfortable... These and a host of other adjectives describe the clothes Vera Maxwell designs for the style conscious women inside U. S. A. She handles fabrics and trimmings in the deft manner of a couturier and the effect is both startling and pleasing.

Her new winter suit incorporates all that is new in the season's silhouette and a lot that is tried and proven from the winters gone by.

A straight, slim skirt goes well under the longer than hip-length jacket. An easy fullness swings to the back and raglan sleeves with a turn back cuff give the active woman a free and easy motion.

That extra Maxwell touch is once more brought forth by the impact of her ingenuity - silk braid trim on heathery tweed or velvet banding on silk faille. Or why not make the suit in black, black velvet? Size 12 requires 3-5-8 yds. of 54-inch material. Pattern is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. To order

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mrs. C. W. Mahoney directed the show and Al Dillon was master of ceremonies. In addition to food concession stands, there were trained dog acts, a monkey act, acrobatic and tumbling teams, hula dancers, clowns and many other features associated with a professional circus.

New Sanctuary To Be Declared Open For Worship And Service Here In 1883

Bishop William C. Martin at 11 a. m. today will declare the First Methodist new sanctuary open to the worship of God and the service of men.

His declaration will follow the organ prelude "Carillon," and the processional hymn, "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord."

The congregation then will join in the responsive prayer and settle back for the first formal worship in this newest and largest of religious plants in the city.

Before the morning is out Bishop Martin will have heard in a sermon, and before the evening worship is concluded, Dr. C. C. Sealeman, Dallas, will have spoken.

During the afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, there will be an open house with an invitation to all people to inspect the new units, erected at a cost of more than $300,000.

Members of the building committee will welcome guests and there will be an music during

Lead Methodist Services

Two bishops of the Methodist church, William C. Martin, left, and C. C. Sealeman, both of Dallas, will be speakers in services today which formally open the new First Methodist Church sanctuary as a place of worship. Big Spring, as a part of the Northwest Texas conference, is among the charges of Bishop Martin. Dr. Sealeman was for many years president of SMU and long has been a revered figure in Methodism.

The two hour inspection of the sanctuary and the classroom section.

In the morning worship, the choir will sing a Fred Waring arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" with Arnold Marshall as the soloist. The responsive reading will be followed by "Gloria Patri," reading of the Scriptures, the pastoral prayer, choral response, and offertory. Mrs. Don Newsom is to be soloist for the offertory, "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion."

In the evening the organ prelude will be "Andant. Religioso" and the opening "Now on Land and Sea Descending." Then there will be another hymn, "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing," followed by the responsive reading, "Gloria Patri," reading of the Scriptures, the prayer and choral response. The anthem, "The Heavens Are Telling," will feature a trio composed of Mrs. Don Newsom, Mrs. John McFarren and Russell Logan. For the offertory, a quartet composed of Mrs. Newsom, Margy

Beth Keaton, H. G. Keaton and Arnold Marshall will sing "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked." Bishop Sealeman, who was for many years president of Southern Methodist University, will climax the evening worship.

Mrs. G. H. Wood is director of the choir, and Mrs. C. H. Rainwater will be at the organ. Other ministers participating in the ceremonies will be the pastor, Dr. A. L. H. Carleton; Dr. Orion W. Carter, district superintendent; the Rev. C. N. Morton, minister of visitation; and the Rev. Walter G. White, associate pastor.

Thanksgiving Work Projects Occupy Hi-Y Groups

Junior Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y groups are pointing for Thanksgiving projects with emphasis upon HTOF. HTOF, incidentally, means "help the other fellow." That's what the Junior organizations are planning to do through Thanksgiving baskets, etc.

Boys formally adopted their constitution, and following the meeting, they had a basketball game with Wendell Stacey, sponsor, in charge.

John Freeman was speaker Thursday for the Tri-Hi-Y club No. 2. Grover Good addressed the No. 1 club and commended Janet Hogan as having an exemplary spirit. Though convalescing from surgery, she has maintained active interest in the club from her bed, said Good. Both clubs made plans for their Go-to-Church program.

The boys group began to plan ahead for the district conference Dec. 6 at San Angelo. Benny Compton is district president.

First Methodist Church Set Up

Almost three score and 10 years have gone into the history of the First Methodist Church, the first religious institution in Big Spring to complete formal organization.

Next July 16 will make the 70th anniversary of the establishment of this church here with five members, the Rev. J. B. H. Thomas, its organizer and first pastor; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Peevey, David Black and Dr. D. W. MacIntyre.

The First Christiana, was the first congregation to assemble together regularly, having started services informally in homes in 1882. In the same year the Methodists set up their church, the Catholics were holding mission services in private homes.

Wisdom of the bold step in completing organization of a church was reflected in the attraction of members from the ranks of the rugged and wicked frontier town. Dr. MacIntyre himself was a Presbyterian, but he was willing to forego doctrinal differences for the greater principle of Christian fellowship. Similarly, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Zinn, he a Presbyterian and she a Baptist, quickly joined the city's only constituted church. Others took similar steps.

With vision and faith, the congregation erected its original frame place of home at its present site in 1884, abandoning the school building on the courthouse square as a place of worship. This sufficed until 1897 when it became necessary to replace it with larger facilities. Steady growth called for an addition to its plant in 1907. This structure served well until an oil boom, in its incipency, convinced members — and there were only 474 then — that the time for a permanent type home was at hand. By 1925 they had completed the brick plant which has served as sanctuary and educational building until now. It seems incredible that the structure, which will become an educational unit exclusively in due time, was raised at a cost of only $55,000.

The new sanctuary, with its educational wing, being opened formally today, is the product of the love and labor of a congregation now numbering 1,533 members. Its total cost has been $317,000.

Matriarch of the church is Mrs. Cliff Talbot, who became one of the first young people's league presidents when she moved to Big Spring in 1898. Mrs. Mary Zinn was revered in that role until she died at the age of 102. The great personalities of the church are too numerous to mention, but there were some such as the late Mr. Talbot who was on the board of stewards for more than two score years and was for a long time its chairman; the late Mrs. Charles Morris, for a quarter of a century the pianist and choir leader; Mrs. Clyde Thomas Sr. who has taught a Sunday School class for 46 years.

Pastors who have served the church are the Rev. Thomas, T. H. Wallace, J. T. L. Annis, G. A. Green, Rev. Varden, L. M. Moody, Nat Reed, C. L. Browning, W. H. Crawford, W. L. Harris, C. D. West, Bonaparte Bennett, C. W. Irvin, C. A. Evans, Rev. McCullough, Rev. Nick, C. W. Herron, C. A. Moore, D. B. Doak, M. Phelan, W. C. Hinds, W. G. Bailey, J. Richard Spann, C. A. Binkley, Will C. House, J. O. Haymes, Clyde Smith, C. A. Long and A. L. Carleton, the present pastor. Carleton is a graduate of McMurry and of S. M. U.; did work in the University of Chicago and Boston, Theological Seminary; served in pastorates at Trent, Clyde, Baird and Lubbock before coming here in 1948. In May of this year Texas Wesleyan College honored him with a doctor of divinity degree.

New Sanctuary
This new plant, which will accommodate 1,000 people in its sanctuary and which also will house six large classrooms, will be formally opened by the First Methodist Church today. In addition to morning and evening worship services, there will be an open house from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. to which everyone is invited.

New Methodist Church Is Largest City Sanctuary

Members and visitors at the formal opening of the First Methodist Church new sanctuary today will find the structure beautiful in its simplicity.

They will find in it, too, the culmination of dreams which were first translated into action two and a half years ago.

The sanctuary within itself becomes the largest in the city, for it seats a total of 1,107, including the 833 in the main floor of the nave, 235 in the balcony and 39 in the choir. It is constructed at ground level and a slight ramp eliminates even a single step for the old and infirm.

Throughout the building, the colonial design has been carried out. Stately white columns support the vaulted ceiling and shield the outside aisles. The altar is flanked by places for the organ console and piano. Back of these are the choir seats, and in the center rear is a picture window of stained glass with 14-foot cross superimposed in simple strength. Provision has been made above the choir loft for ultimate installation of a pipe organ.

At the front of the building in the tower portion, there is a bride's room, connected with the ladies' lounge. On the second floor is the pastor's study and auxiliary storage.

Above this, at the point of circular openings in the masonry, is space for chimes if the church should some day desire them. Above this, in the belfry, will be a church bell if one can be located. From above the copper louvers will rise the steeple and the cross.

The sanctuary rises to a gable height of 47 feet. It is 62 x 128 feet over all, not counting the porch gable, which is supported on four stately colonial columns of 28 feet height. Maximum height is 104 feet to the tip of the cross at the crest of the steeple. Main body of the tower is 55 feet and the tower masonry goes up 76 feet.

The educational unit is 34 x 60 and contains three large classrooms, the lower three at ground level for elderly people, and the upper three for teen-age pupils. Under the altar and choir loft is a 22 x 26 basement to house the central air conditioning and heating units and to furnish storage.

Foyer of the church has the Creator's Star inlaid in the center, with the R. on a cross inlaid on either side. Ceiling of the sanctuary is finished in acoustical tile and acoustical plaster. The sound system has been engineered into the building so that there is amplification at natural volume. Hearing aids, which may be plugged in at the pews, are available in the foyer. Projection equipment may be set up on the balcony rail, and sound may be plugged into the central system. It is possible for the pastor to turn switches which will bring in activities that might be going on in various parts of the building.

All lights may be automatically controlled for intensity. The building is carpeted with plush broadloom. The pews have a 36-inch spacing, permitting easy passage of people to inside seats. The furniture is mahogany.

Contractor for the plant is J. D. Jones Construction Company. Hughes and Oles of Abilene are architects. Total contracts amounted to $317,695.75. The building committee is composed of Lorin McDowell, K. H. McGibbon, chairman and co-chairman, H. G. Keaton, O. G. T. Hall, J. D. Jones, Robert Stripling, secretary, Cecil McDonald, John Davis, Dave Duncan, C. Y. Clinkscales, and Marvin Saunders. Within the period of about 10 days, the church accomplished one of the most remarkable financial campaigns on record here by raising and pledging $308,000. With the exception of about 10 per cent, this has all materialized.

ABClub Hears Dr. W. A. Hunt At Lunch Meet

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College, was guest speaker at the meeting of the ABClub Friday noon at the Settles Hotel.

Dr. Hunt chose as his topic, "Education for What — To What?" "What America needs is a great faith," Dr. Hunt contended. Schools, homes and churches must accomplish three definite things, he believes. These are belief in the timeliness of the stream of life, belief in improbability of human stock ever God has made can be improved.

"There is a threat of greatness in any child," he said. "And the greatest thing in any community is the individual as such. Peoples of the world are demanding greater things, namely their rights as individuals," he added.

Mrs. Adele Cole, representing the Business and Professional Women's Club, spoke briefly concerning the opera, "La Boheme," which will be presented here by the North Texas State College opera workshop, under the auspices of the B&PW, Dec. 2.

Announcement was made concerning the three-day fly control course which begins Nov. 18 at the City Auditorium.

Three guests, Bill Green, of Chicago, Ill., Ken Sawyer and Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls, attended. The Rev. Walter White, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation. Johnny Hill served as program chairman and introduced the speaker.

Orme Is Interviewed On Don McNeill Show

Doug Orme of Big Spring was a guest on Don McNeill's Breakfast Club while in Chicago last week. Orme was interviewed over the air by McNeill during a discussion on the good and bad points of women's clubs. Orme upheld them against another Texan, J. P. Finn of Longview, who claimed that the clubs took up too much of the women's time.

After the broadcast, Orme received a certificate of membership in McNeill's "Gaber Club" and autographs of the Breakfast Club cast.

Fly-Control School Starts On Tuesday

Several score representatives of health agencies, county and city governments, and other interested persons are expected in Big Spring Tuesday for start of a three-day fly-control school.

The school, for benefit of persons living in a radius of 100 miles of Big Spring, will be aimed at reducing the number of flies throughout the area. It is being staged by the State Health Department, Texas Water and Sanitation Foundation, and the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit.

No charge will be made for the training, said Dr. Charles A. Pigford, director of the local health unit. He invited the public as well as city officials, county officials, street, garbage, sewage disposal and other workers from throughout the area.

Enrollment is expected to include representatives of cities as far away as Lubbock, San Angelo, Sweetwater and Odessa.

Principal lecturer will be R. D. Vaughan, training officer for the phases of the instruction will be illustrated with sound motion pictures and color slides. Appropriate study bulletins and note material will be furnished, and those who successfully complete the course will receive certificates, said Dr. Pigford.

Instruction will cover pesticides, chemical formulations, spray equipment, sanitation, organization of a fly-control program, evaluation of effectiveness of such a program, and the biology and habits of the common fly.

Students will make several field trips to study breeding and disease-spreading habits of the pest in its natural habitat — filth and waste. Flies, which Sanitarian Lige Fox is trapping this week and will be used in a part of the study designed to acquaint students with the manner in which the insect spreads disease germs, possibly including polio.

The State Health Department currently is engaged in a campaign to reduce the state's fly population as a means of cutting down on the incidence of polio and dysentery this fall and next spring and summer. State Health Officer George W. Cox is urging that fly-eradication campaigns be made a year-round community activity.

Shoo Fly Pie?

Well, maybe not, and there's probably no apple pie dowsy inside either, but Sanitarian Lige Fox allows it'll catch him some flies. Fox set out several of the fly traps Friday and Saturday in preparation for the three-day fly-control school that'll get underway here Tuesday. Both flies and fly traps will be used to illustrate some of the points to be made by health personnel during the school.

Two Are Sent To State Institutions

An 11-year-old boy and a Negro man were transferred to state institutions Friday by county officials.

The boy was taken to the State School for Boys at Gatesville; the Negro man was taken to the State Hospital at Austin.

The boy was recently arrested after entering a barber shop and shoe shop for the second time. He was under parole to his parents at the time of arrest. He was also arrested recently after a burglary at the Permian Mud Service.

The Negro, Willie Sherman, was arrested recently after a car theft. He was held in county jail until transfer to the hospital for mental treatment.

Juvenile Officer A. E. Long and Deputy Hoyt Hallford transferred the prisoners. The boy will be kept in custody until he is 21-years-old.

Eagles Contribute To Milk-Ice Fund

Another $15 has been contributed to the Howard County Milk and Ice Fund, Jewel Barton, city-county health nurse, reported Saturday.

The auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles donated the latest $15 to the fund, Miss Barton said. The fund is used to provide milk and ice for the care and feeding of underprivileged youngsters.

THREE STAGE PLAYS DUE

Season Ticket Sale To Open For Drama Festival Series

The Big Spring Kiwanis Club will begin the sale of season tickets Monday for the Civic Drama Festival, which the club is sponsoring here this winter for the third time.

Once again the series will be composed of three outstanding stage plays which have enjoyed tremendous success on Broadway. And once again all-professional casts from New York will play all roles.

The series opener is scheduled for Dec. 10 in the Municipal Auditorium. The comedy success, "Glad Tidings," is booked for that date.

"The Fledermaus" is booked for a March 4 engagement here, while "Jenny Kiss Me," another comedy hit, will conclude this season's series on May 6.

The season tickets to be sold during the next few days by members of the Kiwanis Club will be good for reserved seats for all three performances.

Receipts will be issued to purchasers during the sales campaign. These may be exchanged for reserved seats at the Chamber of Commerce Office on Dec. 8-9-10. Each purchaser may select his reserved seat for all performances at that time.

The sale of tickets for the series last year fell below expectations, but club members felt that the plays would receive better response this year. They have called attention to the fact that none of the booking dates this year falls on Saturday. The fact that all of the plays last season were presented on Saturday nights caused some conflicts and probably resulted in a reduction in ticket sales, club officials noted.

Dual Season tickets sell for $13 each, including all taxes. Included in that figure is the regular $10 admission fee for two persons, plus $2 in Federal Tax and $1 in State Tax. Single season tickets are $6.50 each.

"Many people pay more than twice that amount to see one play in New York," Kiwanis President Jack Roden reminded. "We feel that people interested in stage plays will get their money's worth in this year's Civic Drama series, and we hope that response to the season ticket sale this year will be sufficient to justify the club to continue sponsoring the plays each year."

"Glad Tidings" is light-hearted, humorous play of a modern generation family built around the story of a father who finds that he has an attractive ready-made young daughter of whose existence he has been unaware for 20 years. The fact that the daughter is an offspring of his wife's first husband merely tends to heighten the humorous aspects of the situation.

"The Fledermaus" is a musical comedy version of the opera that was restaged by Elia Kazan for New York's famous Metropolitan Opera House in 1949. The entire musical is permeated with the flavor of old Vienna and the famous Johann Strauss waltzes.

"Jenny Kissed Me" was produced in New York in 1949 and served as a Summer Theatre vehicle for Helen Hayes and her daughter, Mary.

All members of the Kiwanis Club will have season tickets for sale during the coming week.

A Bible Thought For Today—

We lay our plans that way, but our plans sometimes fail. Only one business venture in twenty escapes final failure. The only treasure that is not vulnerable is character and a good memory. "I shall never be in adversity." — Ps. 10:6.

It's A Long Time To Budget, But We Plead For The Case Of Parks

It's a long time to budget making days for the city, and what we have to say may be forgotten or 2) be forgotten. Nevertheless, we want to put in a plug for greater emphasis upon a city park program.

Contrary to what one of our late readers recently said about the City Park (and a couple of years of severe drought haven't done it any good), it fundamentally is a good recreational place. Its record over the years will bear this out. Because of the dry weather and loss of turf, trees and shrubs, the park likely will be in need of more support to rehabilitate as quickly as possible. Experience has indicated that we may expect this support.

Birdwell Park, on 10th Street, has the foundation for an effective recreational area. It will take a lot of work and considerable expense to put it in condition for maximum utility. The basins behind detention dams on Main and Gregg Streets also offer possibilities.

In the northwest quarter of the city, a park has been started. Real development in this will require much time, expense and energy.

Beyond this, however, we can see a need to earmark other areas in the city for new park development. Commissioners are right in their thinking. It occurs to us, that any substantial addition to the city should include space dedicated for playground or park purposes.

Bachelors: Don't Forget Dowry Uncle Sam Gives Bride At Altar

In the old days a woman's worth in the marriage market depended on the well-being of her family. How much of a dowry could she bring to her husband? But in the United States, grand old Uncle Sam has come to the bachelors' rescue. He's the dowry giver—through tax exemptions. And the better off the husband, the greater is the dowry.

This has been brought out nicely by Ludwig S. Hellborn, an economist at General Motors Corp. He points out that, taxwise, a bride is worth the equivalent of $11,720, at 2 1/2 per cent, to a bridegroom who earns about $5,000 a year. Her cash value rises to $41,000 if the bridegroom is a $10,000-a-year man, to $116,000 for a man in the better-than-$15,000 bracket, and to $417,500 to a husband with a $25,000 income.

Therefore, let not the woman who manages a highly-mechanized household in well-to-do suburbia feel useless and inferior.

She's not taking a thing. Her wedding ring's her financial contribution to marriage. To fully understand the Hellborn table of comparative values of American womanhood in and out of wedlock, it's necessary to go through the tax statistics of married and single men. Suppose a single man earns about $11,000 a year. He deducts, say, $1,000 for state and local taxes, contributions, and miscellany. That leaves him $10,000 before his personal exemption of $600. He must pay a tax, then, on $9,400, which at current rates comes to $2,728.

Now take a married man in the same economic fix. He, too, earns about $11,000. He has the same deductions, leaving $10,000 before personal exemptions. In his case, he gets two exemptions, or $1,200, leaving a taxable income of $8,800. But because he is married, he can split his income—$4,400 for himself and $4,400 for his wife. That pulls him down into lower tax brackets. His aggregate tax will amount to $2,104.

The married man has $7,896 left, the single man only $7,272, a difference in favor of marriage of $624.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Published 2 Gotham Papers

Four years before Joseph Pulitzer reached the United States, as an immigrant from Hungary, a new daily paper was started in New York. This paper was called "The World." and its founder was Alexander Cummings of Philadelphia. Some years before, Cummings had launched the Philadelphia "Evening Bulletin," which was to become one of the great successes of American journalism.

"The World," also, was to become famous, but there were times during its early career when it wobbled at the edge of failure. It was 23 years old, and had been the property of several short-time owners when Pulitzer visited New York in the course of one of his many trips to Europe.

At that time "The World" was losing money at the rate of $40,000 per year. Jay Gould, its owner, was far from being a good newspaperman, but he was a shrewd fellow. When Pulitzer called, he sold the paper to him for slightly more than one third of a million dollars.

to do if he wanted to come out with $7,896 spendable income—the same as the married man? Well, he could find a bride—and that would be that. Or, he could work harder. But, he'd have to earn $1,034 because of the taxes on his increased earnings.

But now suppose a misogynist said, "Don't get married. Don't work any harder, either. I'll make up the difference. I'll set up a trust fund for you." To bring him in $1,034 (taxable income, of course), that trust fund would have to amount to $41,360 if invested at 2 per cent.

Uncle Sam's dowry is biggest where it's needed least. The split-income provision only becomes financially worth while when income hits the $5,000 level. Below $5,000, the wife's financial contribution to a marriage is primarily her $600 exemption. And even that isn't too meaningful. Chances are the bride was working before she was married. If she continues working, she brings to the marriage, then, not Uncle Sam's dowry, but her own pay check. She gets no special indulgence from the good uncle.

That's why Congress soon will consider whether to allow "home-making" deductions for working wives. Let them treat as occupational expenses the cost of hiring somebody to maintain their households or mind the youngsters. Aren't expenses incurred in maintaining a home so that a wife can work as legitimate, say, as the salary a man pays his secretary?

So far, the courts have held "no." A Laurenton, L. I., school teacher with two children, aged 11 and 2, claimed a deduction of $1,000—the cost of maintaining a housekeeper. It was disallowed by the Collector of Internal Revenue, and the collector was upheld in court. But that was in 1946 before the income-splitting provision.

Now that nonworking wives are such a great asset taxwise, Congress may feel differently toward the expenses incurred by wives who add to the family income by working.

Note to prospective brides and bridegrooms: A November or December trip to the altar is good for full-year marital deductions. So hurry, if you'd have the dowry this year!

skill as a buyer of newspapers? Hardly so! The down payment was made from profits of the St. Louis "Post-Dispatch," and the rest of the payments were taken from profits of "The World." The man from St. Louis quickly turned the New York paper into a monetary success.

When his New York paper reached the 100,000-mark in circulation, Pulitzer gave every man on the staff a new silk hat, and arranged to have 100 guns fired in City Hall Park. At the age of 40 he added another New York paper to his list, the "Evening World." This was put out at a loss of about $100,000 in its first year, but soon afterward it started to make money.

Joseph Pulitzer lived to the age of 64. All through his life as a newspaper editor, he worked toward goals which he believed to be for the good of the public. Along with Horace Greeley and a few others, he stands as one of the leading newspaper figures of the past century.

Spotlighting A Week Of News

President And A Friend Of Presidents Die This Week; Fascists Gain In Reich

By FRED GREENE
Two world renowned personalities died this week. One sought to ripen the fruits of the working man. The other was a leading scientist-turned-president of a nation.

Phillip Murray, labor leader and President of the CIO, died of a heart attack at San Francisco. Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Israeli president, also succumbed to a heart ailment.

Murray, an immigrant who rose to great heights as a labor leader, was a powerful figure not only in this field but also in the realm of politics. A friend of Presidents, Murray was often courted in an attempt to swing labor votes which he could easily do because of respect for him on the part of laboring men. Basically, Murray advocated Franklin Roosevelt's "New Deal" and Harry Truman's "Fair Deal" policies and he supported Gov. Adlai Stevenson's bid last Nov. 4th. Speculation on Murray's successor centers around two CIO vice-presidents, Allan S. Haywood and Walter Reuther. The latter is also president of the United Auto Workers and may not want the responsibility of both jobs. Haywood, a good selection, has his age (64) against him.

Weizmann was an English citizen, living in New York, when the founding state of Israel in 1948 elected him its first president. He then resigned his British citizenship.

Weizmann was born in Czarist Russia before becoming a Briton. He won fame as a brilliant scientist and it was through this work that he gained British support for the project of a Jewish national home in Palestine. He discovered and made available to Great Britain a new method of manufacturing acetone, a constituent of T.N.T. A shortage of the explosive had created a great British production bottleneck during World War I.

Declining personal regard, Weizmann instead asked help "for my people." Though it took 31 years from the time of the British Balfour Declaration promising support for a Jewish homeland, Weizmann did see his dream materialize.

Weizmann conducted valuable experiments in America during World War II which speeded up production of synthetic rubber to the allies.

Local elections this week in three West German states saw sharp gains registered by rightist and fascist elements. Chancellor Christian Democrats lost ground in this surge.

Two former Nazi officials were also elected to office in the British zone of Lower Saxony. Communists lost ground while Adenauer's chief opposition, the Socialists, held their own and even gained slightly in some areas. Though the voting was for local offices and the issues largely local, observers sought to find a possible trend for next summer's national elections.

Even though Adenauer lost some ground, reports indicate that his three-party coalition government added strength inasmuch as the right-wing Free Democrat party, second strongest in the cabinet, scored gains.

The former Nazis elected to office were Gen. Wilhelm Scheppman, former chief of Hitler's Storm

Troopers, and Albert Gnade, once Nazi mayor of Gottingen.

Anthony Eden, British foreign minister, rejected Soviet Minister Andrei Vishinsky's proposal of a commission to end the Korean war.

Eden instead proffered his own plan, consisting of four principles for settling the deadlocked prisoner-of-war issue and asked Vishinsky if he would accept them:

- 1. That every prisoner of war has the right, on the conclusion of an armistice, to be released.
- 2. That every prisoner of war has the right to be speedily repatriated.
- 3. That there is a duty on the detaining side to provide facilities for such repatriation.
- 4. That the detaining side has no right to use force in connection with the disposal of prisoners of war. In other words, after an armistice, a prisoner of war may not be either forcibly detained or forcibly repatriated.

Nothing came from Eden's proposal. It is to be presumed that it will be rejected.

Meanwhile, the issue continues to plague the UN and more words against Vishinsky and Russia was echoed, principally by Nationalist China.

President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower's liaison men have begun their work. Joseph Dodge, Detroit banker, and possible Ike nominee for director of the Budget Bureau, sat in on the preparations for submitting the next budget. Since President Truman must present that budget, Dodge merely listened and asked questions as Truman's officials readied the proposals.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, defeated for re-election in Massachusetts, is liaison man with the other federal agencies. He is a possible appointee to a cabinet post, perhaps as secretary of defense.

Meanwhile, he's at work studying secret documents for this and other government departments.

Eisenhower, meanwhile, held a conference with New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey preparatory to flying to Washington Tuesday for a face-to-face meeting with President Truman. Ike later will take his trip to Korea, though no definite date has yet been made public.

OTHER NEWS IN THE SPOTLIGHT:
A Special House committee this week wound up hearings trying to find out whether an official wartime report charging the Russians with the murder of 15,000 Polish officers in Katyn Forest was suppressed. If so, the probes want to know who did the suppressing. The group already has fixed the blame for the atrocities on the Soviets.

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations this week resigned his post. He said he was doing so in an effort to bolster the chances for a Korean peace. It is a well known fact that he is disliked by the Russians and was, in fact, opposed by them for re-election to the post.

In Korea, the war continued along its furious pace. South Koreans even leveled another charge of poison gas use on the Reds. However, it turned out that the "gas" was picric acid which results when old powder is used in a shell. The fight for Sniper Ridge continues to see-saw back and forth.

Swinkful Weather This Winter: Old Farmers Almanac Says So

Around about hog-killing time, there comes the annual edition of the Old Farmers Almanac, and I must report that I am gratified to receive this intriguing piece of literature for my library. This year's is the 161st consecutive year for the Almanac, and it happens to be Atomic Year No. 9, the editor says. Just a grim reminder, I assume, that the world is in a new era, like it or not.

Comforting is the knowledge, however, that the Almanac itself has changed little.

There are the customary planting tables, gyrations for 1953, and the number of eclipses. And did you know that Christmas is going to be on a Saturday in 1954? There are the customary planting tables, the game and fish laws, the gestation, incubation and reproduction tables, and other such matter that is vital around the farm house. I guess anybody's house such things as the postal rates, weights and measures tables and sunrise and sunset tables are a vital. Not to mention the tides.

There are the usual pages of recipes and household hints, too. And anecdotes and pleasantries.

Typical of the latter: "What is the difference between a taxidermist and a tax collector? The taxidermist takes only your skin." That I take it, is a pleasantry.

More appealing are the comments of the editor (who signs as "your old servant") to patrons and correspondents. Let us quote:

"Mrs. D. K. Albany, N. Y.: Request for free copies of this almanac should always be accompanied by 25 cents. Mr. R. D., New York City: You are correct when you say the predictions of Woolly Bear Caterpillars and the noises of Pink Elephants are both by measures of urban alcoholism. Mrs. E. T., Conshohocken, Pa.: We would suggest the best way for you to keep bats from flying into your barn attic through the open window would be to close the window. Mrs. M. M., Houston, Texas: You will find nothing in this almanac or elsewhere which will help you to understand modern painting or why your busband puts on his socks before he dons his undershirt. Mr. A. C., Bangor, Me.: Certainly not! On the other hand, marriages are like oysters in that you never can tell the bad ones until after they have been swallowed."

Well, to get to the meat of the situation, the Old Farmers Almanac always carries the prediction for winter's weather, as prognosticated by Abraham Weather-wise. Abe contends that he has hit it on the nose more years than not, but I have never been able to determine whether his predictions should fit Texas, when the old duffer is writing up in New Hampshire.

At any rate, he says the winter of 1952-53 will be "swinkful and heavy-timed." Swinkful, I find, means laborious, so this is going to be a rugged season, maybe on account of a Republican victory.

The guy has already missed it for the first half of November, which was supposed to have been cold, with snow between the 10th and 15th. However, anybody has to be wrong part of the time, so let's look ahead:

December—The first two weeks of December will bring about as bad weather as you'll ever want to see. But the last two weeks will moderate.

January—Colder the first two weeks than the last with most of the snow falling between the 10th and 22nd. A thaw between the 22nd and the 28th.

February—Groundhog will see his shadow in most places on February 2nd, meaning a long, cold, wet spring. This month will bring plenty of snow and cold weather except possibly from the 20th to the 27th.

March—A rainy and stormy month which will include the winter's many and various average storms perhaps with the one "whopper" falling in the week of the 15th to 22nd. Then it will storm some more.

All I gotta say to Mr. Abraham Weather-wise is that you get us the rains, boy, and we'll do the rest. See you under the blankets.

McCarthy's Stature Now Greater As GOP Organizes New Congress

The effective core of political power in the United States is the Congressional Committees, particularly the Senate Committees. The chairman of such committees, if they choose, exercise vast legislative powers and influence administrative action. Many committees maintain large research staffs which watch dog departments of government.

Although the Republicans do not have a working majority in the Senate, they have a numerical majority which gives them the right to organize the 83rd Senate. The word "organize" in American legislative parlance means that the Republicans will designate the President Pro tempore of the Senate, who presides when the Vice President is absent, the Chaplain, the Secretary, Sergeants-at-arms, etc., also the Chairmen of the Committees.

In both Houses of Congress, seniority rules, but a Senator will not be chairman of two standing committees simultaneously. Thus in the case of Senator Styles Bridges, he may become Chairman of the most powerful Appropriations Committee or of the equally important Armed Services Committee, but not both. Should Bridges choose Appropriations, Senator Leverett Saltonstall will be Chairman of Armed Services; should Bridges choose Armed Services, Senator Homer Ferguson will be Chairman of Appropriations.

Senator Eugene Milliken of Colorado will be Chairman of the Finance Committee, and Senator Homer E. Capehart of Indiana will be Chairman of Banking and Currency. These two Committees control our money and a President or Secretary of the Treasury who cannot function with them or with the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee is up a tree.

One of the most important Committees is Expenditures in the Executive Department which will be headed by Senator Joe McCarthy. This Committee decides how much money each of the executive departments may spend and under what conditions. It may investigate each department of government to determine if it is being run honestly and effectively or if the officials are grafters. For instance, this Committee could hold up funds for the State Department unless all Communists and other subversives were dismissed.

Senator McCarthy's stature is greater now than it was before the 1952 campaign. Only those who willfully avoid the truth will discount the effectiveness of Joe McCarthy's campaigning. Politicians in both parties know that it was McCarthy who knocked off Senator Benton in Connecticut and that he pulled a large number of Democrats into the Eisenhower camp.

The Chairmanship of the Foreign Relations Committee in the Senate has in recent years been regarded as preferred. Senator Arthur Vandenberg became a national figure because he held that post in the 80th Congress. It now goes to Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, a highly respected figure. In accordance with seniority Senator Wiley should also head the Judiciary Committee. However, Senator William Langer is likely to be Chairman of Judiciary. But Senator Langer is also senior member of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Most Republicans would prefer that Senator Homer Ferguson be made Chairman of the Judiciary Committee because he has been the Republican closest to the program designed and carried forward by Senator Pat McCarran.

Senator Robert A. Taft will head the Committee on Labor and Public Welfare. The Republican composition of that important Committee, which is in charge of the "welfare state," will be revised to include a larger representation. Interesting developments are bound to take place concerning this Committee which controls the Taft-Hartley Law.

The powerful Committee on Rules and Administration would have been chaired by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., who has been defeated. This Committee decides what legislation is to have a chance for consideration and when. The Chairman will be Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana. Senator Lodge will probably pass to the executive branch.

The management of the Republican Party in the Senate will be in the hands of the Majority Policy Committee of which Senator Robert A. Taft is Chairman. This is the most powerful of all Committees and with it a Republican President must work. It is not believable that any attempt will be made to unseat Senator Taft from that Chairmanship as such an action would split the Republican Party and leave the new President with no majority of any kind.

President-elect Eisenhower cannot support any effort to interfere with the Senators in their seniority arrangements. The narrowness of the Republican majority makes the President dependent on the conservative Republican-Southern Democrat coalition which alone can provide the votes necessary for the passage of legislation and the confirmation of appointments. It is a tough spot.

Cross-Breeding Improving Bees

SRINAGAR, Kashmir, (U-P)—Government officials say the importation of Italian honey bees has improved the local strain. The development of hybrid types by crossing Kashmir's native bees with queen bees of superior type imported from Italy was so successful that 17 bee colonies including several million insects were bred in one year, officials reported.

Honey production by the new types, bred from the Italian Apis Mellifica species, is said to be far superior to that of the usual Indian types. The Kashmir-Kashmir honey makers will have their first general showing next year when the All-Indian Beekeepers Conference meets here.

Bible Words to Live by

PSALMS 119:11—"Thy word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against Thee."

In 20 years as a university professor and a clergyman I have seen thousands of people who knew how to live creative and effective lives but who do not possess the power to translate their knowledge into human behavior.

There is only one way—that is for God to possess our lives in such a way that His Word is expressed in us. This great passage of Scripture has changed the lives of multitudes. When the Word of God is in the heart, the will of man has power to overcome temptation and to live triumphantly.

Stanton Barber, Gun Dealer One Of Top U. S. Marksmen

By FRANKLIN REYNOLDS
STANTON—Those target pistol experts who have been juggling championships on top of their front sights had better take a tally on themselves, because when the matches start in the spring a man who has brought international fame to Stanton as the home of one of the truly great masters of the target actions, both automatic and sixshooter, is going to be hitting the trail again after an absence of two years.

He is Jess N. Woody, native of Glasscock County, Stanton barber, gun dealer and gunsmith. His son, Jess Jr., 22, has just returned home from Army service in Alaska, "and from now on we're going to be shooting together," says the father.

During the two years Woody hasn't been shooting in contests he has done some practice, but not too much. But, he says, he doesn't think it will take him too long, maybe six weeks, to "get his arm" again, and the younger Woody is ready right now. He has been shooting seriously for about three and a half years, while the father first "busted a cap" in a pistol contest in San Antonio in 1935. Young Woody was a member of an anti-aircraft battery in Alaska, where he organized and coached a pistol team that defeated the team from the Fairbanks Air Base.

Train Robber's Sixshooter?

Jess Woody of Stanton, internationally acclaimed pistol shooter who is returning to the national matches next spring after an absence of two years, has never fired the old Frontier Model Colt's .45 he is holding in the picture above, and he never will. This old Peace-maker, now rusted into one solid mass was picked up near the spot where the Black Jack Ketchum gang is said to have robbed a Texas & Pacific train in Mustang Draw, west of Stanton, more than 50 years ago. Judging by the one stock remaining on then old weapon it was probably originally issued to some soldier, who might have lost it, or a deputy U. S. marshal, or Ranger or wandering cowhand. In the lower picture are a few of the medals and trophies Woody has won in contests all over the country.

West Texas and the best pistol shot in the world."

In the window of Woody's combination barber shop, sporting goods store, gunsmithing shop and trophy room, there are now more than 200 medals and trophies he has won in contests, and these aren't all he has there. In addition he estimates he has returned at least 50 large floating trophies after winning and holding them a year at a time.

Several consecutive years, he has been the Texas state champion with the pistol, and for a number of years has also been the champion of the region comprising the states of Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Southern Kansas, an area over which let it be noted there are a great many good pistol shots to be found. He defeated more than 150 of these to win this regional recognition and once the distinction was won he successfully defended it against hundreds of others who sought his crown.

This West Texas, it might be explained, is a "master" pistol shooter. A "master pistolman" is, in the field of pistol shooting, comparable to the "distinguished rifleman" in the rifle contest and there are very few distinguished riflemen in the nation, which is equally as true of master pistolmen.

To become a "master" in either class the shooter must first qualify as a marksman. He must then improve his shooting until he becomes a sharpshooter, and after this he must shoot the difficult qualifications and become an expert. After becoming an expert there are several qualifications well above that point that he must shoot consistently over a period of consecutive years to become a member of the most exclusive "masters" group.

For most people it would be much easier to win a seat in the United States Senate than to become a master in either the pistol or rifle shooting.

Woody can recall from memory almost every score he has shot in various contests from 1936 to date, and not only these but the scores rolled up by the other top contestants in these matches. He can form a pretty fair idea of how he is doing in competition by remembering how those who are shooting against him are also doing. He has never gone in for trick or exhibition shooting, however, but there have been times when he has seriously considered equipping himself for such exhibitions both indoors with the .22 calibre and outdoors with the .38 and .45 guns.

To become a good pistol shooter, as to become accomplished in anything else, Woody explains, the shooter must take his shooting seriously and he must actually work. Punching the center of the black bull out of a target with wad-cutter bullets may look easy, but what the average spectator doesn't see in such a performance are the long hours of study and practice, day after day, week after week, year after year, that lie behind it. Woody doesn't advise anybody to take up pistol shooting unless they have first made up their minds that they want to do it and that they will do it.

After winning Texas and regional championships, Woody attended the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, for several years. When he arrived at Perry in 1942 he was told that his shooting record had been carefully checked and that he had been selected to teach the police classes composed of peace officers from all over the country. When the matches ended, Woody's police classes had made such splendid progress that the commanding officer presented the Stanton barber and pistol expert with a certificate of commendation. For a number of years Woody successfully defended both the Texas state and the regional championships after he had won them.

When Woody once attended national matches in Louisiana, a newspaper reporter there wrote: "J. N. Woody, Stanton, Texas, entrant who dominated the shoot last year was again the top winner. Shooting in the master class, Woody placed first in 16 events Sunday to boost his championships for 1941 to eight. He had already won two titles before starting his string of victories Sunday."

And another clipping in his old scrap book tells another story: "J. N. Woody still ranks as one of the best pistol shots in the nation. Last week he came within one point of tying for top honors at a meet in San Antonio against the top talent of the country. Must have been his day off."

Again he broke the world's record that had formerly been held by a Detroit policeman by shooting 296 out of a possible 300. At another time he took first place master shooter honors at Camp Perry. One year at Dallas he won 14 out of 16 matches, and so runs the record over the years. Now he's coming back for more honors.

His friends around here say that just as soon as he gets back in the matches again they reckon they'll build another big show window in his place of business to take care of the three or four or five hundred other medals and trophies they expect to see the two Woodys bring home. And when these two fellows walk up to those firing lines there will be something else there with them that nobody can see—this will be the best wishes of all the folks in Stanton as well as their many, many friends elsewhere.

Happy Embrace

Jeff Chandler and Loretta Young look happy enough in this scene from "Because of You," which will show today and Monday at the Ritz Theatre.

LORETTA YOUNG STARS Troubles Of A New Life Told In Film

The troubles and hardships which a girl released from prison encounters while attempting to build a new life are pictured in the movie, "Because of You," which plays at the Ritz Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Loretta Young has the role of a girl who was sent to prison for being an unknowing accomplice in a crime.

Also starred in the picture are Alex Nicol and Frances Dee. "Because of You" was released by Universal-International and was directed by Joseph Pevney.

In the beginning of the movie, Miss Young is committed to prison for unwittingly aiding her fiancé, Nicol, in a crime. While in prison she begins studying nursing, and upon release finds a job in a veterans' hospital.

At the hospital she meets Chandler, an Air Force Major, and they fall in love and are married. They have a baby and are happy.

Nicol finds Miss Young and upon threat of blackmail makes her aid him in another crime. In an automobile chase by police, Nicol is killed and Miss Young is injured. Her husband, Chandler, divorces her and obtains custody of the child because he cannot understand the circumstances.

Miss Young, as the years go by, becomes a magician's assistant and performs magic tricks at children's parties. At one of the parties she finds her daughter.

While Chandler is away from home, Miss Young becomes her daughter's nurse. Upon Chandler's return, things get a little involved, but a happy reunion with husband and child is the ultimate outcome.

Close Quarters

Tony Curtis and Piper Laurie are shown cheek to cheek in the above scene from "No Room for the Groom," which will be screened to-night and Monday night at the Jet Drive-In Theatre.

Setting of the story is in the 1890's. "Ride the Man Down" is based on the popular novel by Luke Short, which was serialized in the Saturday Evening Post.

Donlevy, although he has the leading role in the production, is the villain. He plays the part of Such outstanding mystery actors as Boris Karloff, Basil Rathbone, Lon Chaney and Bela Lugosi are starred in many of the movies. Frankenstein and Dracula pictures lead the list.

Today's pictures are "Bride of Frankenstein" and "Son of Frankenstein." Monday will have "Son of Dracula" and "Dracula's Daughter," showing.

"Mummy's Tomb" and "Mummy's Ghost" will be on Tuesday's twin bill. Coming Wednesday will be "Ghost of Frankenstein" and "Night Monster." The Thursday selections will be "Mad Ghoul" and "Invisible Woman."

"Black Friday" and "Black Cat" will be shown Friday, and Saturday's showings will be "Deadman's Eyes" and "House of Dracula."

Primitive Weapon

African Hunting With Bow And Arrow Told In Movie

An archer who would probably make the famous William Tell blush with envy stars in the picture, "Tembo," which will be screened at the Terrace Drive-In Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

He is Howard Hill, and the movie deals with his recent wild game hunt in Africa. On the hunt, he was armed only with a bow and arrow.

"Tembo" was produced and directed by HIM and was photographed entirely in Africa in Asso color.

The movie is a photographic account of his safari which was organized to find the headquarters of the fabled Leopard Men, who use steel claws while hunting.

One scene shows a wounded and enraged lion, in which an arrow from Hill's bow is embedded, charging the archer who was unable to retreat.

Hill has been billed as the world's greatest archer. He has actually out-tailed the famed William. He once shot an apple off a man's head and later shot a prume from the same spot.

He Wanted It, So Crosby Now Neb. Governor

By JOHN CHAPMAN
LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—The man who as lieutenant governor said his job wasn't worth having—but who wanted some day to be governor—is governor-elect now.
He is Republican Robert B. (Bob) Crosby, 41, of North Platte.
In the early 1940s the young attorney began thinking seriously about being governor. At the time he was the youngest speaker Nebraska's one-house legislature had ever had. His legislative service was interrupted by a stretch in the Navy. When he came home he still had the governor idea.
To get his name before the voters, Crosby ran for lieutenant governor in 1946 and won. While holding that post he had a bill introduced to abolish the office. Not enough work, he said. The bill died in committee.
In 1950 he was winning campaign manager for Gov. Val Peterson. He turned aside many suggestions that he seek a congressional seat.
Crosby was thinking about being governor.
Campaigning recently, he met a former assistant sergeant-at-arms of the Legislature who laughingly recalled often being kept late at his post because Crosby was still working.
Crosby warns that lights will burn late in the governor's office too when he moves in.
"I'd like to introduce some reasonable re-organization of state government," he says.
In his campaign, he used blackboard and chalk to illustrate how some functions could be shifted for more efficiency. For example, he doesn't see why, in a farming state like Nebraska, the Department of Agriculture should be burdened with inspection of hotels and rooming houses.
The new governor, son of a lawyer, attended Hastings (Neb.) College, the University of Minnesota and Harvard Law School. He met his Canadian-born wife while both were students at Cambridge, Mass. They have two children, Robert, 16, and Susan, 12.

Riding THE GRUB LINE With Franklin Reynolds

A total of 31 bulls and eight females have been consigned to the annual Howard County-South Plains Hereford Association sale here January 8.
Howard County breeders consigning cattle are:
Charlie Creighton, two bulls and two females.
Rexie Caub's, two bulls.
R. E. Martin, one bull.
Leland Wallace, two females.
S. F. Buchanan, two bulls and two females.
C. A. Walker, two bulls.
Kyle Miller, two bulls and one female.
Houston Cowden, one bull.
Loy Acuff, two bulls.
Durward Lester, two bulls.
O. H. McAllister, three bulls and one female.
J. L. White, three bulls.
Other breeders consigning are: Judge Tom Garrard, Tahoka, three bulls.
F. A. Youngblood, Lamesa, three bulls.
Holdman Odom, Snyder, one bull.
Harden Joyce, Brownfield, one bull.
The sale will be held in the new barn of the Howard County Fair Association.
Cecil A. Walker, association secretary, says the catalogues should be ready for distribution soon after December 1.

Martin Vavra, SCS work unit conservationist at Stanton, reports that Leslie Hull, who operates the Dr. Clyde Thomas farm in the Courney Community, has four acres of alfalfa up to a good stand.
From another block of alfalfa which was seeded in the fall of 1949 and under flood irrigation and consisting of approximately four and a half acres. Hull got three cuttings and grazed two growths this summer. Hull says that besides getting these five growths of alfalfa, that the irrigation wells were out of order part of the time and that the alfalfa suffered heavily from lack of moisture during the middle of the summer. Vavra says that Hull realizes he did not get full production because of the lack of moisture but that he is well satisfied with the production he did obtain and is, therefore, increasing his alfalfa acreage.
B. J. Daniels, who farms seven miles northeast of Stanton, and George Friby, four miles northwest of Lemora, are building up their old terraces and are building new terraces to conserve moisture and prevent erosion.
Garner McAdams, who farms 11 miles northeast of Stanton, has recently finished the construction of 10 miles of level terraces on his farm. He has the ends of the terraces fully blocked to hold the maximum amount of water on the land. This is his first step toward a complete conservation program on his farm.

Just as one Texan, Roy Largent of Merkel, retires as president of the American Hereford Association, another Texan, John Trenfield of Follett, becomes president of the American Polled Hereford Association.
The Hornless Hereford organization is governed by 12 directors elected one each from that many geographical divisions of the United States. Ordinarily Trenfield, therefore, could be the only Texan on the board. But Texas really has two directors. R. A. Halbert of the famous "Halbert's Hornless Herefords" of Sonora is also a member, elected from his farm in Missouri.
And, it has been a great year for the "Hornless" Whites. Registrations of the polled cattle for the past fiscal year show the greatest increase in the 52-year history of the breed. A total of 71,580 certificates was issued compared with 57,055 for the previous year. This is a greater increase, on percentage, than for any other beef breed.
And Texas, as with the Horned Herefords, leads the list of population figures on the hornless cattle.
Texas breeders will be shooting for their fifth grand champion steer award at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago's Amphitheatre, December 2.

The last Texas animal to win this award was Lloyd Robinson's "Big Spring Special" Hereford in 1950. The previous year it had been won by the Pecos County 4-H Club with their "Judge Roy Bean," also a Hereford.
Aberdeen-Angus steers have been the dominant winners of this international distinction over the 50 years of the Exposition's history.
Pre-Christmas Hereford events: Nov. 17-18—Texas Roundup Hereford Sale at Fort Worth. Nov. 19—Mid-North Texas Hereford Association Sale at Cleburne, Nov. 29—Texas-Oklahoma Hereford Association Sale at Wichita Falls.

Dec. 2—Sweetwater Area Hereford Association Sale at Sweetwater.
Dec. 3—Coleman County Hereford Sale at Coleman.
Dec. 4—Hammon Hereford Ranch Sale at Wichita Falls.
Dec. 5—Clay County Hereford Association Sale at Henrietta.
Dec. 6—Blanco County Hereford Association Sale at Johnson City.
Dec. 8—Anxiety 4th Hereford Breeders Sale at Amarillo.
Dec. 10—Flat Top Ranch Hereford Sale at Walnut Springs.
The Sul Ross State College Range Animal Husbandry Department at Alpine has entered five young registered bulls in the progeny test which is being held at the Experiment Station at Balmorhea. This is the fifth annual test.
There will be between 150 and 200 bulls in the test this time, representing outstanding breeding herds in Southwest Texas. The main purpose of the test is to determine the better sires in the area. Important points to be determined are the rate of gain and consumption per pound of gain and general conformation of the progeny in the test. The program will be concluded next April with an annual barbecue and field day at which time the animals will be exhibited and judged and the results of the test announced.

WHAT IS SHE, FATHER?

CASEY WENT IN EARLY THIS MORNING TO FIND OUT, LILLI—HE'S ON HIS WAY BACK NOW! SHE CAME IN SOMETIME DURING THE NIGHT!

WE CAN STOP WONDERING ABOUT STEVENSON'S NEXT MOVE!

THAT BOAT DOESN'T BELONG TO HIM?

HE'S CAPTAIN, AND SHE'S TAKING THE NAME, APACHE! SHE'S GOT ROOM FOR 800 PASSENGERS AND NEARLY 700 TONS OF CARGO! THEY CLAIM A SPEED OVER 16 KNOTS!

THAT AGREEMENT! THAT ROTTEN AGREEMENT STEVENSON FORGED! HE'S GOING TO HOLD THE MERCHANTS TO IT, AND NOW HE'S GOT THE EQUIPMENT TO DO IT!!

WELL, I'VE GOT SOME EQUIPMENT, TOO... AND IT'S GOOD FOR A BLAMED SIGHT MORE WORKING PRESSURE THAN HIS!!

WAIT A MINUTE!—WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO?

I GUESS THE REASON I'M ATTRACTED TO YOU IS BECAUSE YOU'RE SO YOUNG!...I'M GOING OUT TO SAVE MY BUSINESS!!

LET LILLI HANDLE IT HER OWN WAY! HOW ABOUT A GAME OF CHESS?

TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"THE 'CREATOR' MADE THESE APES INTO THE ENGLISH-SPEAKING CREATURES THEY ARE— SAID IRENE. BUT SUDDENLY—"

TARZAN LOOKED UP AS A GRUESOME FIGURE CACKLED. "QUITE RIGHT, QUITE RIGHT! DON'T ALL SCIENTISTS HAVE A SECRET GERUM?"

THE CREATOR CONTINUED, "MINE WAS THE MOST STRANGE OF ALL. IT TRANSFERRED HUMAN CHARACTERISTICS TO OTHER LIVING THINGS—"

"SOCIETY THOUGHT I WAS CRAZED AND BANISHED ME. BUT, AS YOU CAN SEE FROM THE APES, I HAVE PROOF OF SUCCESS!"

"AND NOW YOU'VE COME JUST IN TIME FOR MY NEW LONGEVITY EXPERIMENT. THROUGH YOU I CAN REGAIN SEMBLANCE OF A HUMAN BEING!"

THE CREATOR LEERED. "BUT BEFORE I USE YOU I MUST ENTERTAIN MY SUBJECTS. THE GIRL WILL BE 'GUEST' AT AN ANCIENT CEREMONY— I BELIEVE THE APES CALL IT THE DUM-DUM DEATH DANCE!"
