Caution urged

Local officials are urging motorists to use extra caution around road construction sites, especially 25 Mile Ave. and Hwy. 60 because severe congestion of traffic in these areas could contribute to fender benders like the one this car was involved in Friday on Park Ave. close to the new construction of 25 Mile Ave.

EQIP funds available to some area farmers

Deaf Smith County farmers will get a chance this week to apply for inclusion in the new Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) authorized in the 1996 Farm Bill.

The program will offer a limited number of producers a chance to receive up to $50,000 to address serious soil, water and other natural resource problems with their property.

The Southern High Plains Region B which includes Hereford and Deaf Smith County, will receive up to 21 contracts valued at $605,738 under this program.

Applications will be accepted beginning Monday, July 14, through Friday, Aug. 1 according to EQIP officials.

"EQIP is not like the former Great Plains Conservation Program or Agriculture Conservation Program," according to John B. Burt, state conservationist for USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service. "This program is extremely limited and is for persons engaged in livestock or agricultural production who would provide the greatest environmental benefits at the last cost to the program.

"Applications will be prioritized after Aug. 1 according to specific criteria.

"After Farm Service Agency (FSA) determines producer eligibility, NRCS conservationists and the producer will make an inventory of the natural resources, identify natural resource problems and concerns, determine treatment needs, and agree upon the land management and structural practices the producer will install.

Burt added that the extent of conservation practice, fields and acres to be treated, and cost-share rate and incentive payment levels the producer will accept, as well as the total program payments, are included in the ranking formula.

A 167 county area is the primary target for more than $8.7 million in funding for this program in Texas.

The Southern High Plains Section A includes 13 counties.

Acceptance into EQIP will require a five to 10 year contract even if only one year is cost-share needed.

Contracts will be $50,000 or less with a maximum 75 percent cost-share. The average allowed per contract is $30,000.

Entire farms are not required to participate in the program however the proposed area must also include that portion of the identified resource concerns which meet the goals and objectives of the GPA or statewide natural resource concerns.

Producers may increase their chances of acceptance into the program by submitting a lower than maximum cost-share rate, enrolling entire operating units in the contract and by agreeing to fully meet treatment needs of all identified natural resources concerns on the farm or ranch.

Additional information may be obtained from the local USDA-NRCS office, Soil and Water Conservation District office or FSA office in the county.

Kelleys get injunction

School records can't be destroyed

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - The parents of a Lamar Academy student who hanged himself have sued Lamar University and academy administrators, contending that psychological abuse by academy employees contributed to the boy's death.

Gabriel Kelley's parents, Mark and Carol, received a temporary restraining order Friday preventing Lamar from destroying, altering or censoring any records dealing with their son.

The hearing for the restraining order was held before District Court Judge James Mehaffy. The lawsuit was filed Thursday.

(The Kelley family formerly lived in Hereford)

Kelley, 17, was found hanging by a lamp cord on April 30 in Brooks-Shivers Hall on the university's Beaumont campus.

Fernando C. Gomez, vice chancellor and general counsel for the Texas State University System, said the suit is unfounded and the university is not responsible for the boy's death.

"I believe this lawsuit is an unfair attempt to blame the university and individuals without basis in fact for a very tragic incident," Gomez said. "It's the sort of thing that the university regrets, but emphatically denies legal liability."

Kelley's parents believe the harassment stems from a World Wide Web Internet site that their son was creating that was critical of the school.

They allege that the school created false disciplinary notices and informed Kelley that he had to show them to his parents.

The suit also contends that Lamar officials knew as early as December 1996 of policy violations and problems with administrators in the academy.

A committee of Lamar professors reported four months before Kelley's death that "extreme changes are indicated if the University is to avoid a lot of bad publicity and perhaps a tragic event," according to the suit.

The Texas Academy for Leadership in the Humanities allows academically talented high school juniors and seniors to complete their final two years of high school while taking college classes at Lamar. Academy administrators Jean LaGrone and Dorothy Sisk are also named in the lawsuit.

Darren Umphrey, an attorney representing Kelley's parents, said his clients' are trying to prevent another tragedy.

"It's about ensuring that certain changes are put in place at Lamar University so something like this doesn't happen again," Umphrey said.

Marijuana imports increase

McALLEN, Texas (AP) - Marijuana shipments across the lower Rio Grande have accelerated in recent months, federal drug enforcement officials say.

The Drug Enforcement Administration said its agents had seized almost 96,000 pounds of marijuana in Hidalgo and Starr counties in the past nine months. That's more than was confiscated the previous two years combined.

"I think we're seeing more because we're increasing our enforcement efforts, but I also think there is an increase in the amount coming through," said Barry Abbott, head of the DEA's McAllen sector. "All of South Texas is growing in significance as far as trafficking."

Agents in McAllen also are encountering an increase in cocaine and heroin trafficking, Abbott said, but not to the degree of increased marijuana smuggling.

The most recent statistics for smuggling released by the El Paso Intelligence Center said that in 1995, South Texas was the site of 48 percent of all marijuana seized on the Mexican border. The center compiles statistics from 13 federal agencies.

Along with an increase in seizures, prosecutors are bringing cases involving a record volume of drugs.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Terry Leonard said Friday that his cases to date have involved a greater quantity of drugs than in all of 1996.

"And that's just a random sample (of one prosecutor)," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Mike McCormick, who supervises the McAllen office. "I assume that's typical of everyone."

The death last week of powerful Mexican drug lord Amado Carrillo Fuentes has left drug agents wondering what will happen in the future.

Carrillo largely controlled smuggling routes into the Rio Grande Valley for the past two years.

"Our speculation is that there is going to be a short-term confusion among (Carrillo's) lieutenants, maybe even a temporary disruption in the flow of major shipments," said Leonard Lindheim, head of U.S.

Customs operations in South Texas.

"But it won't last long."

Lindheim expected smuggling in this area to return to typical levels in just a few weeks, if there is an ebb at all.

"The Valley has always been the bread and butter area for marijuana smuggling," Lindheim said, "and that probably won't change."

Farmers' Market set for business

The annual Farmers' Market, sponsored by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, will be held each Wednesday and continue through the summer. Denise Andrews, C of C chairperson, stands by a sign on the Family Dollar parking lot on W. Park Avenue to remind local residents of the project. Sales will start at 5 p.m. each Wednesday.

Lottery fees may decrease

AUSTIN (AP) - Many Texas lottery retailers soon may be in for a financial break.

The Texas Lottery Commission on Friday proposed cutting the fee retailers pay from $20 per week to $10 per week. The commission will take final action after a public comment period.

The fee reduction would mean a $3.8 million decrease in lottery revenue that now winds up in the state treasury.

The cut would be available to retailers who have sold lotto tickets for three years.

Originally, half of the $20 weekly fee went into a reserve fund to cover ticket sales revenue unpaid by some retailers. However, money stopped flowing into that fund when it hit $20 million. There was only $228,000 in bad debt incurred by the agency last year, said Linda Cloud, lottery deputy executive director.

The panel began looking at the payments last year after the Texas Association of Lottery Retailers organized and asked for the review.

Retailers say the lottery attracts customers who sometimes buy other merchandise. The higher the jackpots, the more customers the retailers attract.

Libraries don't keep up with Latina writers

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Latina writers are gaining in popularity, but their work isn't accessible enough through publishers and most libraries, advocates of the literature say.

"What's happening is the Latina literature, what is being produced, is not making it through the publishing houses that are the big publishing houses," said Dora Guerra, head of special collections at the University of Texas San Antonio.

More librarians should become familiar with the literature, and more Latina writers need to be introduced to inner-city students, said Linda Payne-Button, a Hispanic woman who heads library acquisitions at Our Lady of the Lake University.

"There are so many obstacles to getting Latina and Latino literature into libraries," she said. "There is a tremendous need for this literature because our population is just exploding and the market is growing."

The women spoke Friday at "Hijas del Quinto Sol II, Studies in Latina Identity Through Literature," a conference presented by the Guadalupe Cultural Arts Center and St. Mary's University.

The three-day meeting, which began Thursday night with a reading by author Sandra Cisneros from her upcoming novel, has attracted writers, educators and others from 26 states, said Bryce Milligan, director of the Guadalupe Cultural Arts Center literature program.

Oralia Garza de Cortez, who has worked with the San Antonio Public Library, said the wider distribution of Latina works of literature must be promoted on a national level, not just locally.

Establishing more writing awards for Hispanic women may be one way to generate publicity and attract the attention of big-name publishers, she said.

"When you're talking about recognition," she said, "you're talking about dollars."

Mary Guerrero Milligan said St. Luke's Episcopal School, where she is the librarian, is committed to a multi-cultural curriculum. But she said she would like to see a wider variety of Hispanic literature in the marketplace.

"There's more material (available now), but there are a lot of folk tales," she said. "I would really like to talk to the publishers to see why they make the choices they do."

"Children are open to anything that's interesting. I'm not seeing enough really, really interesting stuff out there."

The librarians urged parents to pique their children's curiosity with storytelling and to take youngsters to the library regularly.

"If you can't find stories about Latinos for your children, talk to the librarian," Ms. Guerra said. "The more requests you give the librarian, the more she realizes she has gaps in her collection."

But, Ms. Guerra said, Hispanic literature shouldn't be pursued to the exclusion of other works. Variety should be the goal, she said.

"Our ethnicity is the icing on the cake," Ms. Guerra said. "We have more than one language, more than one culture."

Tests on rifle inconclusive

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - The first tests on James Earl Ray's rifle in two decades have failed to determine whether it was used to kill the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. A judge says more tests may be needed. The rifle and the bullet that killed King were examined in May as part of Ray's attempt to win a trial. In court Friday, experts said 12 of 18 test bullets fired from the .30-06 hunting rifle had microscopic markings not found on the fatal slug. It was unclear what made the markings.

"They couldn't match it, but they couldn't eliminate it either," said Kelly Fite, a Georgia firearms specialist. "It's inconclusive." Criminal Court Judge Joe Brown, intrigued by the marks, told lawyers to return to court July 18 to discuss procedures for possible new tests on the rifle and the slug. He also told them to find out if test bullets fired by the FBI shortly after the 1968 murder can be re-examined. Ray, 69, avoided a possible death sentence by confessing to the murder and is serving a 99-year prison sentence. He recanted within days, and now hopes the tests will help persuade Brown to order a trial. The test results were good news to Ray, said his brother, Jerry Ray, who spent about an hour Friday night with the inmate at a Nashville prison. "James was really happy with what came out, but he would have been happier" if all 18 bullets contained the marks, Jerry Ray said. The rifle, found near the murder scene with Ray's fingerprints on it, was tested by the FBI in 1968 and by the House committee 10 years later.

The tests were also inconclusive, although it was determined King was killed by the same kind of gun. Ray has said he bought the rifle but gave it to an underworld figure he knew only as Raoul. Ray contends the rifle was dropped near the murder scene at the Lorraine Motel to frame him. Ray, who is dying of liver disease, has won the King family's support for a trial they said might help answer lingering suspicions about a conspiracy. In Pittsburgh, there was a mixed reaction to the hearing at an NAACP convention. Dennis Hayes, general counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he wants to hear more from Ray. "James Earl Ray says he did not pull the trigger, but he has not come forward with what he does know," Hayes said. Bernard Taylor, a Pittsburgh member, said the King family should have the final say about the probe. But he said the case should not be reopened to examine allegations of a conspiracy. "I think it would just reopen old wounds and not lead to anything constructive or productive," Taylor said.

FDA okays eye lasers

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP) - Government advisers cautiously backed the next generation of eye lasers Friday, acknowledging their potential to cure nearsightedness faster and with less pain but requesting more data. The Food and Drug Administration's panel voted unanimously that surgery with the new lasers, called LASIK, should be approved once its developers provide the additional data. The request could keep the surgery off the market until year's end.

"LASIK can be more satisfactory to patients than PRK" today's eye laser surgery, said FDA adviser Dr. Woodford Van Meter of the University of Kentucky. "It clearly is effective." But LASIK is a complicated procedure that depends heavily on the surgeon's skill, the FDA panel decided. The advisers said its developers at Emory University should provide the panel with more data, including proof that patients' vision stabilized properly six to 12 months after surgery and that side effects do not occur more often in eyes retreated to further enhance vision.

"It's not a drive-through procedure," warned Dr. Marian Macsai, director of West Virginia's Medical Eye Bank. "These conditions are not minor," added FDA eye chief Ralph Rosenthal. The FDA is not bound by advisory committee decisions, but usually follows them. Doctors can try curing nearsightedness by reshaping patients' corneas, by cutting tiny incisions into it with a knife or by blasting it with a cold beam of ultraviolet light from an excimer laser. Thousands of Americans with mild to moderate nearsightedness have undergone the popular photorefractive keratectomy, or PRK, since the FDA approved it

Request made for higher postal rates

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Postal Rate Commission's mail room received a massive delivery Thursday, the post office's formal request for higher rates. The shipment of legal papers and supporting documents filled 30 boxes, estimated at about 100,000 pages by Postal Service personnel. The independent rate commission has 10 months to read the request, hold hearings and rule on the proposal. While the 1-cent increase in first class postage - to 33 cents - is the change that will affect most people, most of the papers deal with the complex rates affecting dozens of types of business and advertising mail.

in late 1995. LASIK (pronounced like basic) can treat more severe nearsightedness and, unlike its competitors, does not injure the clear membrane covering the cornea. That promises a faster, less painful healing. "From the patients' point of view, this is a much more user-friendly procedure," said Dr. George Waring of Emory, who helped develop the procedure for Summit Technology's laser and studied it on 1,048 eyes. "The big point is that half the people we treated wouldn't qualify for PRK today because they had too much nearsightedness." Surgeons use a specially designed, $60,000 knife to slice off that membrane, leaving a small hinge of tissue connecting it to the eye and folding it aside. Then, using a specially modified laser program from Massachusetts-based Summit, doctors zap the inner cornea. The flap is folded back, adhering to the eye through suction, not stitches. About 90 percent of the 1,048 eyes treated had 20/40 vision or better without glasses several months after LASIK, Waring said. Seventy-seven percent had 20/60 vision or better within just 24 hours, making them

Orange juice could provide morning jolt

DALLAS (AP) - If you think your java jolt has to come from a cup of coffee, think again. Maybe it's juiced-up OJ you're craving. That's right, you can get Juiced - orange juice with a caffeine kick. The idea was brewed in a coffee shop, where Jim Hines and some friends were having exotic-flavored coffee drinks one morning. Hines, a senior vice president for Diehard Beverage Co., figures they were drinking the fancy stuff because they didn't like the taste of regular Joe. "I really drank it just to wake up," he said. Hitting on the idea of adding caffeine to the other popular breakfast drink, he helped develop Juiced. It hit some markets in March. A 10-ounce bottle has 140 calories and no fat, like most other orange juices. Juiced also has about 60 milligrams of caffeine, the same amount as weak-brewed 6-ounce cup of coffee. Not everyone is pleased about Juiced, especially considering it comes after last year's introduction of Water Joe - spring water with caffeine. "People are ingesting enough caffeine. It's becoming the latest accepted drug of choice," said Dr. Ray Saheliani, a nutritionist in Marina del Rey, Calif. Juiced may not be for everyone. But Hines said it's a good alternative for people who already get their caffeine boost from coffee.

legal to drive in Georgia, but it takes three to six months for vision to stabilize. Because the cornea's outer cover is not damaged, patients usually don't have the hazy vision that PRK patients can suffer. But about 5 percent of the eyes had the tissue flap snapped during surgery or slip out of place during recovery, causing some irritation or even vision impairment. LASIK overcorrected about 1 percent of eyes, meaning patients might need reading glasses; about 5 percent of PRK patients are overcorrected.

Hereford citizens may face Muscular Dystrophy lockup

The Muscular Dystrophy Association will soon be rounding up and issuing warrants for notorious Hereford citizens in preparation for the 1997 Hereford Lock Up to benefit local families served by MDA. The infamous citizens will be arrested on Wednesday, July 23, and taken to the MDA "jail" which will be located at K-Bob's Steak House. Arrests will begin at 10 a.m. and continue to 3 p.m. All participants will receive plenty of bread and water, a framed "mug shot" and an official Lock-Up tee shirt while serving time for their community. Channel 10 of Amarillo is scheduled to capture video of the jailbirds to use during the MDA Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon. The MDA warden has set bail at $500 or one hour of jail time. Hereford residents are encouraged to support the jailbirds with donations or pledges towards the bail amount. All funds raised in the Lock Up will help by providing free comprehensive medical care, support groups,

Judge orders exhumation

CLEVELAND (AP) - A judge has ordered that the body of Dr. Sam Sheppard be exhumed this fall as relatives try to clear his name from the 1954 slaying of his pregnant wife. Cuyahoga County Judge Ron Suster signed an order for the body to be exhumed in September and brought to Cleveland for genetic testing. Sheppard's son, Sam Reese Sheppard of Oakland, Calif., agreed to the exhumation. He wants Suster to declare his father innocent and has sued the state over the elder Sheppard's 10-year incarceration. In the case that inspired the movie and TV series "The Fugitive," Sheppard was convicted of murder in December 1954 and imprisoned for a decade until the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the conviction in a landmark decision that cited the unfair effect of pretrial publicity. In a 1966 retrial, Sheppard was acquitted.

Minority Whip arrested at news offices

DETROIT (AP) - House Minority Whip David Bonior was arrested and charged with trespassing after he and five other protesters refused to leave the offices of The Detroit News. The Michigan Democrat and the others, mostly labor leaders, were charged and released Friday after refusing to leave the paper unless it and the Detroit Free Press agreed to reinstate the employees who went on strike two years ago. Police Inspector John Whitty said the six refused several orders to leave. They left peacefully with the police and face a court appearance July 23. Trespassing carries up to 90 days in jail and a $500 fine. "Put people back to work today so they can take care of their families, and so we can begin to heal the wounds in our community," Bonior said in a statement. He later spoke at a union meeting, telling members "we will continue with your struggle until justice is done." The walkout by 2,500 employees ended in February after 19 months when the strikers offered unconditionally to return to work.

Long tickets lines, full planes are norm this summer

By KATIE FAIRBANK
AP Business Writer
GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) - Full airplanes, long ticket lines, clogged security checkpoints and crowded airports are the norm this summer as airlines squeeze more profit out of each flight by squeezing in more passengers.

The most recent figures by the Air Transport Association show industry load factors, or the percent of total airline seats that are filled with paying passengers, increased to 71 percent in May compared to 69.9 percent the previous year.

American Airlines saw its June figures go up to 73.3 percent, its highest load factors in the '90s. Meanwhile, Delta Air Lines says it loaded 2.3 million passengers in Atlanta this June, the most ever boarded at a single station in the history of commercial aviation.

"Overall it's been a very good summer, both for the airlines and for the travel agencies," said Eric Munro, chief executive of Uniglobe Wide-World Travel of San Diego.

Airplanes packed elbow-to-elbow are providing a challenge for people who want specific flights, but industry insiders say seats are available for folks willing to go at off-times or days.

"The summer traffic has been very, very heavy, but we've been able to get seats for practically everybody as long as they're flexible," Munro said.

Reasons why the planes are so full range from the booming economy to the number of seats available.

"There are a couple of things effecting this," said David Swierenga, chief economist for the ATA. "The most obvious is the capacity is growing slower than demand for air travel. We're not adding airplanes as quickly as passengers."

But other things are also at play. "One is that airline prices have generally held to levels that are about the same as last year and that would tend to stimulate additional demand for air travel, also the economy has been growing very strongly and that is also a driver for air travel," said Swierenga.

Ed Stewart, spokesman for Southwest Airlines, said the Dallas-based airline has been so full that some employees are buying tickets rather than flying standby.

Southwest, which added capacity during the last year, had a load factor for June of 66.5 percent with an increase of 2.8 percent in revenue passengers carried.

"I think that people are pretty confident about the economy and that has gotten them out of the backyard and into the airports," said Stewart.

Fort Worth, Texas-based American agrees that the economy is a big reason for the increase.

"More people are traveling. The economy is obviously part of the story," said Al Comeaux at American. But he adds that another reason is that airlines are marketing better to fill their planes.

"We have gotten better at determining how many lower-fare passengers we can have on our planes. Since we're better at predicting that, we can offer what's known as 'distressed inventory' at a reduced rate," he said.

The company offers internet sales on planes that have fewer passengers and they're also offering lower prices on early morning flights in Chicago and Dallas through Oct. 1.

"The industry jargon for low periods is troughs. We have become consciously aware of marketing to those troughs over the years," said American spokesman Tim Smith. Even though the airline's planes are nearly three-quarters full, "somewhere within the system 25 percent of the seats are empty," Smith said.

Delta, which has load factors in the high-70s to low-80s this summer, has its own special marketing for open flights. With its "Escape" plan passengers can pay a membership fee of $89 and then call each Sunday night to get a listing of about seven trips offered at deeply discounted prices.

Computers are helping airlines target these markets.

"With the systems that carriers have today they can manage loads flight by flight," said Swierenga. "It's a situation that's very delicate."

The risk on a passenger side is that airlines will be so full that they can't find a seat and that's a risk to the airline because that's a passenger that they will never carry."

Kimberly King, a spokeswoman for Atlanta-based Delta, said the airline watches loads closely to avoid those problems.

"We put a lot of energy into studying travel patterns so we make sure we have plenty of seats available," she said.

Although flights are crammed at the height of the summer, many airline watchers expect sales at the end of the season.

Continental Airlines, United and TWA all have announced sales.

"They're noticing traffic is not as heavy at the end of the summer," said Munro.

EVERYONE AGREES ON WHOSE TAXES SHOULD BE CUT...

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

On April 22, 1997, I had the privilege of delivering my 5,000th baby since starting my practice here in Hereford on July 1, 1965. I was recently honored with a plaque from the Hospital Board of Directors, for which I am deeply grateful.

Even though I have been a part of these 5,000 miracles (each birth is a God-given miracle), I would like to thank the many other health professionals who have assisted me during these deliveries, i.e., doctors, nurses, respiratory therapists, anesthesiologists and laboratory technicians, all deserve credit as well.

To them I say, thank you for your help and assistance over the past 32 years and I give the glory to Almighty God because he has been with us through each and every one of these deliveries.

Having done that many deliveries, I feel that I have some authority to say some things about abortion and partial-birth abortions. First of all, I am pro-life 100%. When a living sperm unites with a living egg, life begins as God had planned it. There are no ifs, ands, or buts about this, in spite of what our Supreme Court judicial system may think.

You can't take a dead sperm and a dead egg and have it grow for nine months and call it a job of tissue. Then decide whether to abort this biological issue or let it become a live being. In all of these deliveries, I have never had to press a button on the back of the baby to determine whether the baby will live or die. Therefore, those who say this is not a living organism need to come into our ultrasound department and witness the baby's heart beat at eight weeks gestation.

Over and above these 5,000 deliveries, I have also taken care of other ladies with severe medical complications who required referral to a higher level of care with specialists in Amarillo and Lubbock. I have never had to have one of these complicated pregnancies aborted to save the life of the mother. Granted, some of these babies didn't survive, but at least they were given a chance to live.

If I didn't have to sacrifice one baby in well over 5,000 pregnancies, and you extrapolate this rate to all the doctors who are delivering babies in the United States, the number of abortions would be very low across the nation. Then, it would be indeed a rare and infrequent occurrence.

Are we being lied to by the media, pro-choice and the Planned Parenthood Organizations across this nation? Absolutely, yes! One of the abortion movement's own lobbyists recently admitted on Ted Koppel's NightLine TV that he had lied about the infrequent occurrence of partial-birth abortions being done in the U.S. He has shed light on a dark secret that has been kept from the public by the media and these pro-choice people.

President Bill Clinton has been lying through his teeth as well, saying that partial-birth abortions occur just a few times per year. Congressman Tom Coburn has said that at least 40,000 are performed each year, but who knows for sure when these procedures don't have to be reported.

The pro-choice people are distorting the facts to the public since Roe vs. Wade became law in 1973. Over 35 million babies have been slaughtered for no good reason. You can't tell me that these 35 million unborn babies all had such horrendous defects or the mothers' lives were all in such jeopardy that this procedure was done.

The President of the United States was recently asked what he thought about the Tyson-Hollyfield fight. His comment was that he was horrified with the ear-biting incident. I say to you, Mr. President, why aren't you even more horrified that thousands of babies are being slaughtered every day in abortion clinics across this nation?

I wonder how these people sleep at night. Indeed, President Clinton still pretends he wants abortion to be safe, legal and rare. But he had not opposed a single form of baby-killing during his presidency. Rather, he has fought and obtained additional millions of dollars from Congress to promote abortions around the world.

A nation that slaughters its unborn babies and kills the elderly will surely crumble. You can take that to the bank!

God bless the 35 million-plus babies who have died as a result of this Godless activity. God help us as a nation if this continues to go unchallenged and not reversed in the near future.

Sincerely,
H.R. Johnson, M.D.

Congressman Combest Comments

Bureaucrats distort numbers, call it tax relief for the 'rich'

BY U.S. REP. LARRY COMBEST
Rep., 19th District

Already well-known for turning people into statistics, Washington bureaucrats have come up with a novel way of making it seem like middle-income earners are "rich." The catch, of course, is that you are only rich on paper.

Actually, it might surprise you to know that when the current tax relief debate is being labeled as "tax relief for the rich," they are talking about your tax relief. Although the current tax relief proposal benefits people at each stage of life, the tactic of opponents is to pit people against each other in what amounts to class warfare.

At the U.S. Treasury's Office of Tax Analysis, the statistics on who gets what uses an odd concept of counting the supposed income if someone rented out the house they own, as well as adding in the value of pensions, IRAs, fringe benefits, life and health insurance - even the Social Security benefits you won't collect until retirement.

The distorted numbers make a $49,150 annual income appear to be $93,222. The result is the repeatedly distorted claim that the rich benefit from tax cuts.

The situation of the poor is also distorted in the debate. Starting at $400 in 1998, the full $500 per child tax credit would apply to taxpayers supporting a child. However, parents in the lowest income brackets have been receiving an Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) check from the government. Because those low-income parents are given an exemption from filing federal taxes, there is not a tax credit to give.

How can government provide tax relief to those who are not required to pay any taxes? Opponents of tax relief fail to mention that fine point when claiming the child tax credit excludes the poor.

This tax relief plan does not do as much as I would prefer, but it does offer new tax credits for college, a reduction in death taxes, as well as relief from the financial beating that happens when someone banks the money from the sale of a home, their farm or family business. Income tax rates remain the same. Tax relief is divided proportionally among income earners.

It just makes sense that you should keep more of what you earn - after all, it is your money.

The federal government has its place. Right now, it should step aside and allow mothers and fathers to crawl into bed at the end of a long and tiring day without having their path blocked by a federal government that claims it knows how to spend the family income.

Cockleburrs and Devil's Claws

By Georgia Tyler

So, my grandson Nathan has become a celebrity, thanks to the Cockleburrs writer's continuing reports on his activities. And, his smart mouth.

When the heat descended recently, I mentioned that my black car drew his criticism. As it turns out, several readers have said I should have paid attention to him.

He, and they, are right.

A couple weeks ago, after spending my week away from home, I collapsed in my recliner, turned on the ceiling fan and dropped the thermostat to a livable level.

Hearing a noise at my door, I turned and saw this face plastered against the storm door glass. Who's that urchin at my door? I wondered.

More noise ensued and I took a better look. There he was, with a flattop haircut. This after six years of wearing a chili bowl cut. Maamaw didn't know him.

No one has told me how he should get his head sheared. Both parents had resisted. Maybe nagging does produce the desired effects.

Now, you know that Nathan is not my only grandson. His counterpart is six months older (I think I've written that before but this is to refresh your memory) and is as blond as Nathan is dark-haired.

The two of them make a dynamic duo. Tyler has finished first grade and proved to be an apt student. He also may be a computer whiz by age seven (this month.) When his older sister got a little cash on her birthday, he was indignant because she'd have more to spend on their trip to Florida.

With any luck his feelings were back in shape when he opened his birthday cards.

Erin is nine, and all set to break many, many hearts when she grows up. In the meantime, ballet, tumbling and swimming are her priorities (I think I've gone through this drill before, too) and she is dedicated.

But, don't misunderstand, she's devoted to her doll collection which gives grandma a leg up on birthday and Christmas presents. A new doll never hurt anyone.

Then, there's the littlest grandchild, Kelsey is notorious in the family.

While on a trip, her mother happened to recognize old friends whom she had not seen in 15 years.

On identifying herself to the couple, they readily agreed that she was who she said she was. One look and they said, "of course you are."

Then they looked at her daughter, three and a half, and rubbed her nose in the own early life.

That kid is the spittin' image of her mother, they intoned. They didn't add, but could have, that she was acting the way her mother once did.

As the saying goes, my daughter was paying for her raising with her own daughter.

When Nathan got his flattop haircut, Kelsey went along. She announced that she wanted a haircut, too, but hers should be a big top. No one knew what she meant but she left the hairdresser's chair happy.

Recently the four grandchildren plunged into a motel swimming pool at the same time. Erin and Tyler, with their experience with lessons through the years, were paddling around happily.

Kelsey sat on the edge where she could splash the others and dangle her legs in the water.

Nathan, usually not a daredevil, was excited and drifted too far from the side (he had left his lifejacket at home). His mother just knew he was going down for the second time, if not the third.

She jumped in, fully clothed, and pulled him out.

Full of indignation, Nathan insisted he was in no trouble and his mama didn't need to hurry to him.

My memory went back to the time she was his age and the family would stop in motels while on vacation. Signs always insisted that adults must accompany children under 12.

Being unable to swim, I wondered what good I would be if a child got in trouble.

Finally, I decided I could yell as loudly as a hog-caller. That probably would have brought help in a hurry.

Actors, scholars revive 19th century tradition of traveling lectures; portray historical figures

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP) - Under the white and yellow stripes of a circus tent, an author turns to the crowd gathered on folding lawn chairs and speaks to them of her latest novel, "Death Comes for the Archbishop."

"It was published last fall, in the autumn of 1927," Willa Cather says. Moments later, a spunky conservationist and explorer bounds about the platform under the tent, regaling the townsfolk with his tales of sharing the wilderness with his dear friend,

Garry Mauro blasts Bush

AUSTIN (AP) - A top Democrat is criticizing Gov. George W. Bush after a report that Bush presided over the largest number of automatic, early releases of prison inmates in the state's history.

"After promising to end early release, George Bush has overseen the tripling of early release in Texas," said Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who's considering a run for governor.

In 1994, Republican Bush used TV commercials and speeches to paint Democratic Gov. Ann Richards as soft on criminals. That year, 5,622 inmates were sprung from prison early through a process called mandatory release.

In 1996, two years into Bush's term, 15,726 offenders won mandatory release, The Dallas Morning News reported Friday.

Mauro said the governor knew that but didn't warn local residents of the situation.

"We have to stop this politics-as-usual demagoguery at election time and start addressing the issues that affect the way people live their daily lives," Mauro said in a written statement.

Ray Sullivan, a Bush spokesman, said the governor has kept his campaign promise. Sullivan noted that Bush signed legislation that ends mandatory release for anyone convicted of any crime after Sept. 1, 1996.

Bush also pushed a bill in the recent legislative session that would have banned the process retroactively. The effort died after the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously struck down a similar Florida law.

"Governor Bush did support legislation at the very beginning of last session to retroactively end automatic release, but as the session began, the U.S. Supreme Court shut the door on that action," Sullivan said.

Under the state's mandatory release formula, when "good time" plus actual time served adds up to the full sentence, an inmate is automatically paroled.

During his campaign, Bush said inmates don't have a constitutional right to freedom "based on a mathematical formula."

Weight loss mystery puzzles researcher

WASHINGTON -- A nutritional researcher's plan to end world hunger became side tracked when people eating his "hi-tech" chewable food tablet lost weight. The reason for the weight loss is still somewhat of a mystery, but some results have been significant.

Called Food Source One (FS-1), the low calorie food replacement, developed by National Dietary Research never achieved its original goal of feeding the world's undernourished people, but has instead become a windfall for some overweight people.

So why are some people losing weight with FS-1 --- lots of weight? According to Dr. William Morris, director of research and development at NDR, the Food Source One Plan allows you to lose weight without giving up your favorite foods. "While controlling calorie intake is important to lose weight, with the FS-1 Plan there are no forbidden foods", says Morris.

Dr. Morris says that he has received some incredible success stories from people who have lost 70 pounds or more with the Food Source One Plan. One woman from Niagara Falls, New York lost over 70 pounds without giving up her favorite foods which included chocolate, pizza and chicken wings. Although her results are not typical because individuals are different, the FS-1 Plan is a bona fide natural, drug free way of fighting obesity. According to an article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition you don't even have to reduce the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

*Use only as directed with enclosed plan.

Food Source One is available at the locations below or call 1-800-634-2348.

EDWARD'S PHARMACY
204 W. 4th St. Hereford 364-3211

President Theodore Roosevelt. "I never before had a more interested or hearty companion," said John Muir, founder of the Sierra Club. "He did annoy me around the campfire, though."

There is no time warp. This is not seance. This is Heartland Chautauqua, a reincarnation of the traveling lecture circuit of politicians, ministers, authors and others that was popular nationwide at the turn of the century.

It has returned in a slightly altered version: Actors and scholars now play the roles of the historical figures who would gather under tents to chat about anything from economics and travel to music and democracy.

This is not a play, and the actors were not chosen to read a script. All are experts on the people they portray. They give an hour-long monologue, then the audience is encouraged to pose questions to the actors as if they were the historical figures.

"This is like live PBS," mused Mary McBee of Lamar, whose 91-year-old mother used to attend chautauqua when she was a girl in Iowa.

Chautauqua began in the late 1800s as a summer training program for Sunday school teachers in western New York, near Lake Chautauqua. Within a few years, the conversations grew to include entertainment, politics and other topics.

At its height in 1925, chautauqua was in 12,000 cities nationwide. Teddy Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan were among the speakers.

By the mid-1930s, chautauqua faded, due to the talking motion picture, the automobile and the Great Depression.

The Chautauqua Institution

survives, 60 miles southwest of Buffalo. It offers a nine-week summer program of daily lectures as well as symphony, opera and dance performances.

Chautauqs elsewhere have come and gone and come again. Most new to the old formula - lectures offered for enlightenment and edification. Heartland Chautauqua, with its historical re-creations, takes a different tack.

"It's like a Methodist camp meeting without the Bible and hymn singing," said Michael Bowman, executive director of the Missouri Humanities Council, a sponsor of the program.

This summer, five actors are playing the roles of Cather, Muir, Louisa May Alcott, Buffalo Bill Cody and Henry David Thoreau. They spend five nights in each city, with each figure being featured one night. The Missouri-Illinois tour began in Neosho, with two more stops in Missouri (Kennett and Poplar Bluff) and two in Illinois (Highland and Golconda).

The production costs $18,000 per week, with $3,000 in private contributions and the rest coming from state and national funds, Bowman said.

The actors were selected after organizers put out a national casting call and reviewed videotapes. They include professional actors and a librarian, and each has reasons for wanting to be part of chautauqua.

"I really see all of this as a means of inspiring women to claim their power," said Miriam Reed, an actress and former UCLA professor who plays Alcott.

Lee Stetson has compiled more than six hours of material on Muir, which he uses six months a year doing his act at Yosemite National Park. Nearly all of his lines come directly from Muir's writings.

"I regard myself as a much better thief than writer," said Stetson, 57, who years ago appeared in several episodes of TV's "Hawaii Five-O."

More than 250 people gathered the first night of this summer's chautauqua series on a practice field at Neosho High School to hear Stetson, his voice draped in a Scottish accent, recall Muir's adventures as if they were his own.

"These people are like listening to the real person," said Ron Forgey, of Granby, a member of the Sierra Club. "They have studied the character so well. If it's something you throw at them that wasn't in their time frame, they know."

Reed says the chautauqua is much more than entertainment.

"One of the most important things that could happen in this country is an appreciation of our history, of our social history," she said.

WTAMU seeks football excitement

New coach pledges to recruit athletes from Panhandle

Getting people of the Texas Panhandle excited about Division II collegiate football and giving them entertainment for the entire family is one of the main goals of new West Texas A&M University football coach Stan McGarvey.

Speaking in Hereford Thursday evening during the last stop of the WTAMU Buffalo Blitz, McGarvey admitted the school's football program has a long way to go but he's been in similar situations so this is nothing new for him.

"One of our goals is to introduce people to Division II football," McGarvey said. "I know lots of people look at the past (history of the school) but they can get excited about the level of football played in Division II."

"We will offer a great entertainment package, give the citizens an opportunity to have big entertainment at an economical cost."

One of the ways the new coach plans to attract attention to Buffalo football is by recruiting as many players as possible from the home area.

"We had good luck in the area this year," McGarvey said, "picking up several good players from the area."

Admitting he has already cast an eye on several Hereford players, McGarvey said scouts from WTA&M will visit here as often as allowed by NCAA rules.

To show the school's commitment to the Panhandle, he cited the 1997 Freshmen class of recruits which includes several players from the West Texas/Panhandle area.

Among them are Kyle Duncan, kicker from Amarillo, who was called "a great one" by his new coach. "It's not often you expect a freshman to come in a contribute right from the start," McGarvey said, "but we think Kyle will be one of those players who make a difference for us."

He also cited River Road's Larry Dixon, Corey Tory from White Deer, Kevin Brinkley from Panhandle, Marcus Long of Pampa, Tod Whatley of Randal and two players from the home of the Buffalos, Canyon, Keith Wright and Coby Richardson.

"They are all a big part of our plans," the coach said. "There will be more (players) on our team in the future from this area."

"We want to make it a priority not to let any Panhandle athlete who can play for us escape without at least visiting them."

McGarvey said scouts will obviously go to other areas looking for quality football players but the Panhandle will get the first overall look.

"The region will definitely be represented at West Texas and we won't let them slip away if they can make the grades," McGarvey added.

"We've got work to do rebuilding the program and this year we have picked up a few junior college players who can give us immediate help. We don't want to wait four or five years to win."

Athletic Director Ed Harris, who was also participating in the Buffalo Blitz with several other faculty members, said that the school being a part of the Texas A&M system helps academics but the athletic funding will come from community resources.

This includes purchase of tickets to athletic events, snacks at the games and other areas of public support for the teams fielded by WTA&M.

"We want to build a quality program," Harris added. "Once you have a quality program they (public and athletes) will come to a smaller program like ours instead of the larger schools."

"We can't compete with Texas A&M and the University of Texas but we can build our own program to the quality we want."

Both WTAMU officials said they see a tough start for the Buffalo football program this year because the first three games are out of town, including the season opener at nationally ranked Stephen F. Austin College in Nacogdoches.

To counter this problem the athletic department will sponsor a scholarship weekend Sept. 18-20.

The first weekend there is a home football game, several other athletic teams will also play at home including the volleyball vs Texas A&M-Kingsville, Men's Soccer vs Ca. State-San Bernardino, Women's Soccer vs Texas A&M-Commerce and Football vs East Central.

A promotion during this weekend will provide that all net revenues from ticket sales will be split equally between the academic general scholarship fund and athletic grants.

The football game will be McGarvey's first home contest as coach at WTAMU.

Hereford girls, Texas Tarheels represent Panhandle as host team in AAU tourney

By Cristin Leasure
Staff Reporter

"If you had watched them last fall and winter, you would never have believed that these young ladies would be where they are today. Then, they were fighting each other with all the competitive fire they could muster."

That's the way longtime supporter Jay Roberts describes the Texas Tarheels team coached by Mark Sherrod, a team he says now "competes as one."

The Texas Tarheels will represent the Panhandle as the host team for the 1997 Amateur Athletics Union 14 Year Old Girls Nation Championship that will be determined July 18-26 in Amarillo.

Tori Walker and Valerie Guzman, sophomores at Hereford High School, are key members of the team.

"These young ladies have sacrificed their time at the pool, movies, and other activities to improve their fundamentals and execution on the hard court" Roberts says.

"Their love for the game, the competition, and now each other, is obvious. If you still have doubt, check the National tournament bracket and come out to watch them play. These young ladies are the future of panhandle girls basketball."

"It doesn't matter which local team you support, you will see some outstanding local and national talent. These girls are role models without exception and they will be winners in life as well as on the courts."

The Tarheels' roster also includes: Kimberly Artho and Kyla May from Vega; Kelli Mitchell from Borger; Kimberly Newland from Dimmitt; Shasta Roberts from Canyon; Darcee and Keelie Sherrod from Randall.

"Don't miss a golden opportunity to see some of the area's best young talent perform together, before they go at each other next fall," Roberts exclaims.

The Tarheels are the host team and will be in charge of greeting players from other towns as they arrive at the tournament. They will also be maintaining a hospitality room for coaches and referees. "Being the host team is an honor," Roberts says.

The Tarheels competed in nationals in Orlando, Fla., last year.

The team is expecting to do better this year because they have had more experience, they are doing much better skill wise, they have matured, and they have a lot of varsity experience this year.

Walker is a varsity basketball player for the Herd. She plays JV volleyball and is a tuba player in the Mighty Maroon Band. She also participates in varsity track and maintains superior grades as an honor student.

Guzman is a member of Herd JV basketball and was on the freshman volleyball team for 1996-97. She plays the clarinet in the Mighty Maroon Band and does exceptionally well in school.

"I am nervous, but, I hope that we go farther than we did last year," says Walker. "My teammates are good to play with."

Guzman says "I'm excited and scared. The girls are going to be bigger than us and we are going to be up against teams we have never been up against."

Opening Ceremonies are Friday night at the Civic Center. Games for the Tarheels will be played Saturday at 3:50 p.m. and Sunday at 8:35 a.m. and 3:50 p.m. This is pool play.

Trojans lose in Friday game

The Texas Trojans lost their chance for a national championship Friday when they came up on the short end of the score in their semi-final action.

The Trojans jumped to an early 22-13 first quarter lead but by the end of the contest against Indianapolis the Texans went down in defeat 78-68.

The loss, first for the Trojans in the Florida tournament, placed the team from the Texas Panhandle in a contest for third place which was scheduled for late Saturday morning against the Oklahoma Rebels.

Hereford's Slade Hodges led scoring for the Trojans with a 20 point effort. He also had three assists, three rebounds and one steal.

Jimmy Woodring of Amarillo scored 15 points in the contest followed by Cody Hodges with 11 points, nine assists, 10 rebounds and three steals.

Chayse Rives scored five points, had two assists, four rebounds and a steal.

The Trojans managed to hold a 35-33 lead at the half but were down by three, 54-51, after three quarters.

The Trojans, who were seeded eighth before the tournament began, could finish no worse than fourth and a Saturday win would give them third place.

West Texas Heat wins two contests

The West Texas Heat, playing in the girls 16 and under division of the Whataburger Southwest Shootout in College Station won its first two games Thursday.

The first game saw the Heat beat Team Texas 17's 72-67 with Cami Rea of Vega leading scorer with 18 points. Julie Rampley had 11 points with 10 assists.

In the second game the Heat beat the Austin Lady Knights 68-63.

Geronica Tucker of Amarillo was leading scorer with 14 points and Rampley scored nine points.

Children TV may give way to sports

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal regulators told the big three broadcast networks Friday that for one year they may pre-empt educational children's shows for live sports events as long as the shows are rescheduled.

The Federal Communications Commission's action gives ABC, CBS and NBC the discretion to reschedule the educational children's shows as they best see fit. Each of the networks had asked the commission for guidance.

FCC rules requiring broadcasters to air three hours of "regularly scheduled" educational children's shows a week take effect in September.

Broadcasters weren't sure whether they would comply with the FCC's three-hour rule if they pre-empted a regularly scheduled educational show for a live sports event.

The FCC's action gives them certainty that for this year at least they won't be violating any rules. Two network officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said they welcomed the FCC's action.

The FCC said it will closely watch what the networks do in the 1997-98 TV season. By next spring the FCC's Mass Media Bureau, which oversees TV station policy, will make recommendations to the commission on what regulatory steps, if any, should be taken.

Enron to assist with stadium

HOUSTON (AP) - The chairman of one of the nation's largest energy companies will help Houston Astros owner Drayton McLane Jr. raise up to $5 million in private funds to help cover an expected shortfall in financing for a new downtown ballpark, the Houston Chronicle reported Saturday.

The newspaper quotes unidentified sources as saying Enron Corp.

Chairman Ken Lay already had gotten guarantees from businesses for $33 million. Of that, $15 million would go toward land and site preparation, the rest toward construction.

But Lay has indicated he will try to squeeze more from big business after concerns arose last week that ballpark construction costs could exceed McLane's original $250 million estimate by $23 million, the sources said. Lay could not be reached for comment Saturday. His Houston residential telephone number was not published.

Astros executive president Bob McClaren said he had not heard of Lay's renewed commitment, but he welcomes it.

"It would certainly bring down the contribution the public or the Astros would have to make," McClaren said. "It gives both parties more money to address other issues."

Last summer, Lay persuaded business leaders to contribute to the project as a way to build spur downtown revitalization.

Lay also has said he could raise another $15 million or so to subsidize building a basketball-hockey arena downtown, should Rockets owner Les Alexander and Aeros owner Chuck Watson settle their differences.

The Astros have said they will kick in an extra $8 million to $10 million to cover concession facilities, and McLane says he believes architects and engineers can whittle away another $10 million. That leaves a $3 million to $5 million deficit.

Because of the projected cost overrun, McLane has renewed threats to move the team without a deal that meets his requirements and will not cost him too much of the additional costs.

But he has said he will wait until the architects and engineers return in about two months with a guaranteed maximum price.

In the meantime, McLane is trying to work out a bridge agreement with Mayor Bob Lanier and Harris County Judge Robert Eckels to settle several interim questions.

They face a July 15 deadline, after which the Astros may legally leave Houston if no ballpark financing plan is approved.

Woods competition tough

World's top golfers preparing for annual British Open

TROON, Scotland (AP) - The Royal Troon Golf Course has been good to Americans, producing winners from the west side of the Atlantic the last four times the British Open was played there.

While that sounds good for Tiger Woods and defending champion Tom Lehman, the 126th Open beginning Thursday also comes at a time when many of the top players in the world are at peak form.

Contenders are everywhere and from every corner of the globe.

Three-time British Open winner Nick Faldo of England, the two-time winner from Australia, Greg Norman, and Colin Montgomerie, a hot golfer with the home-course advantage, all come in playing well.

No one has been hotter than U.S. Open champion Ernie Els of South Africa. And Nick Price of Zimbabwe, Bernhard Langer of Germany and Spaniard Jose Maria Olazabal all seem to have their games back.

Throw in Jesper Parnevik of Sweden, New Zealander Frank Nobilo and Costantino Rocca of Italy and the chances of an American winning the world's oldest golf tournament for the third consecutive year seem remote.

Woods, who has won six times on the PGA Tour in only 21 tournaments as a professional - including a stunning 12-stroke victory at the Masters - is at the top of many lists.

"You've got to look at both Tiger and Ernie," Nobilo said. "The one thing that the British Open has always seemed to bring forward is the best player that year seems to have won it on so many occasions."

Besides playing well, Woods and Els also have the length and touch needed to win at Troon, stretched along the west coast of Scotland on the Irish Sea.

"The British Open does suit a stronger hitter of the ball," Nobilo said, speaking about Woods. "So I think with his style of play, the British Open will suit him right down to a tee, as it will Ernie. Probably Greg Norman. Not so much Faldo.

Maybe Tom Lehman and someone like Fred Couples or Davis Love."

One long-hitter and former Open champion who will not contend is John Daly. Still struggling with the aftermath of a relapse into alcoholism, Daly officially withdrew a week before the tournament.

Woods, who has said his 66 in the second round of the British Open at Royal Lytham last year convinced him he was good enough to turn pro, has proven he can handle the hard, fast links where shots can't be fired at the flags but must be delicately encouraged to bound near the hole.

"I thoroughly enjoy links golf," Woods said last week while winning the Western Open, his last tune-up before the Open. "I think that's the ultimate golf just because you get to use your imagination for once."

The first three holes at Royal Troon are par-4 holes measuring less than 400 yards. With the prevailing wind at his back, Woods can drive the holes. But British courses are fraught with dangers not measured in yards.

"Pot bunkers are deep," Woods said about the steep-faced hazards that could keep the driver in his bag. "More importantly, it's where they're placed.

"If they're placed right where my ball is going to land, obviously, that's not very good for me to try and go for it," said Woods, who will see the course for the first time on Tuesday.

Gauging the placement of the pot bunkers is something Woods can control. The weather is something he will have to endure.

"If we have four days of very strong wind, the scores are going to be high," Price said.

"As I understand, the rough is like four or five inches toward the edge of the fairway because they put that new double sprinkler system in," Price said. "It's a real links golf course, the front nine going out with the wind and the back nine coming back into it."

The back side is also the longer of the two nines with all six par-4s measuring over 430 yards and a 223-yard par-3 at No. 17 that plays into the wind.

"The secret to playing well on that course is to post a score going out and hold it together coming back," said Price, who played the last six holes of the 1982 Open at Troon four over par and finished one stroke behind winner Tom Watson.

"That's what everybody who has played well there in the past has done," Price said. "That back nine sorts the men out from the boys."

Mark Calcavecchia won at Troon in 1989, defeating Norman and Wayne Grady in the first playoff using the four-hole format.

Norman started the final round with six consecutive birdies and shot a course-record 64. He lost his chance to win when he drove into a pot bunker more than 300 yards out on No. 18 hit into another bunker then picked up after hitting a ball out of bounds.

Watson won at Troon in 1982 when the 25-year-old Price stumbled. Tom Weiskopf won there in 1973 and Arnold Palmer started the American domination of Troon with a victory in 1962.

South African Bobby Locke won at Troon in 1950 and Briton Arthur Havers won the first Open played there in 1923.

Montgomerie stands with Els as the main obstacles to a second major championship for Woods. The 34-year-old Scotsman will try to win his first major championship at the course where his father, James, is the secretary. And he is coming off his best effort of the year - a closing 62 to win the Irish Open.

"I've been playing well since early May," said Montgomerie, who had another near-miss at the U.S. Open, where he finished second. "I'm obviously very confident in what I am doing. Everything is just right going into a very important part of the year."

"He has great control of his game right now," Faldo said about Montgomerie. "He was on cruise control."

British Opens are not won on cruise control. They are struggles against self, nature and some of the best golfers in the world playing their best golf.

Friendship grows with golf

By RAUL DOMINGUEZ, JR. San Antonio Express-News
 SAN ANTONIO - In an individual sport such as golf, battling for the same honors and titles can strain even the deepest of friendships.

Yet the friendship of Kim Rowton and Randi Meadows has only strengthened as each has improved in the sport.

When both qualified for the U.S. Girls' Junior Championship, they were ecstatic because it meant they get to spend more time talking about boys and shopping together.

"Like there," Robert Rowton says as his daughter Kim and her best friend Randi pose for a picture. "You won't see boys sitting there with their arms around each other. It's just different."

Not since Ben Crenshaw and Tom Kite ruled the fairways in Austin has a city had two teen-agers so close in age, talent and success and yet so dissimilar in their approach to the game.

Like Kite, Meadows is a grinding, mechanical player. She spends hours on the driving range, afraid a day off will set her back a week.

Like Crenshaw, Rowton relies on a natural rhythm to her game. She can stay off the range for a week and return without any problems.

But while Kite and Crenshaw were never close friends, Rowton and Meadows are inseparable.

Kim and Randi. Randi and Kim. Their names meld together like fast and food, grip it and rip it, peas and carrots.

It's a friendship that's helped propel them to national prominence.

Meadows is the seventh-ranked amateur in the nation by GolfWeek; Rowton is 13th.

Rowton helped Meadows "come out of her shell" and introduced her to the joys of country gravy at Dairy Queen. Meadows helped Rowton qualify for the U.S. Girls' Junior by letting her use her lucky coin as a marker.

"(Competing against each other) made the difference between being an average high school golfer and a national talent," Robert Rowton said. "I think it made all the difference in the world. I think it's a combination of her, Christi (Cano), Sal (Mussani) and the others. They have been around to push one another."

"They feed well off each other," said Mary Carriker, Texace San Antonio Shootout tournament director. "They are great competition for each other. It's almost as if they share it evenly: 'I'll win it this week and you win it next week.'"

They set the stage for a banner summer by leading Churchill to its second straight Class 5A state team title.

And they dominated Texas golf in June. Meadows won the Trans-American, South Texas Junior Classic, Texace San Antonio Shootout. Rowton won the Tom Kite

Junior Classic, and Meadows capped the run by taking the Texas-Oklahoma title.

They followed it July 2 by qualifying for the U.S. Girls' Junior in Sugar Land later this month, and made the cut Wednesday in the Rolex Tournament of Champions in Hilton Head, S.C.

They also were both named to the Canon Cup by the American Junior Golf Association.

It makes sense that Rowton made the initial contact in her friendship with Meadows. The two first met at a City Parks and Recreation Department junior tournament at Riverside.

"J.J., who's that new girl?" Rowton remembers asking current Churchill classmate J.J. Wall.

"Who's that chop (a hacker)?" Meadows chimed in.

"Nooo," Rowton said. "I just saw her out there hitting balls and I didn't know who she was and usually I know everyone. There was Christi (Cano), Ofelia (Lopez) and the usual people, and there was this other girl I didn't know. I'm like a socialite so I had to go meet her."

NCRLC regional conference July 18

Persons interested in sustainable agriculture, rural church ministry and the viability of rural communities can find amazing resources in Nazareth, Texas, for two days in mid July.

Nazareth is the site where the National Catholic Rural Life Conference (NCRLC) hosts a regional conference on Friday, July 18 entitled, "Creating Communities of Healing and Creativity in the Southwest." Based in Des Moines, IA, NCRLC has provided nation-wide support for rural life, including leadership and advocacy on key issues for over 70 years.

The following day, Saturday, July 19, The Promised Land Network (PLN) will host its 5th Annual Ag Sustainability Tour and Rural Fair.

Sponsored by the Roman Catholic Diocese of Amarillo, the PLN is an ecumenical rural ministry outreach and a sustainable agriculture organization focusing on the Southern Great Plains region. The events of both days will take place at the Nazareth Community Hall.

The July 18 conference in Nazareth is one of four the NCRLC will conduct around the nation this summer. The purpose of the gatherings is to "strengthen local leadership and resources in order to develop sustainable local and regional communities," according to NCRLC officials.

The event's agenda includes pastoral reflection, workshops identifying ways to support the rural family and sustain rural communities, as well as a sharing of information on regional and national resources for sustaining rural area.

NCRLC staffers on hand will include Brother David Andrews, CSC, Executive Director and Sandra LaBlanc, Communications Director and spiritual director for the gathering, and Joan Allsup, director of the Land, Church, Community Program.

Other featured speakers will be Walt Grazer, manager of the U.S. Catholic Conference (USCC) Environmental Justice Program in Washington, D.C., Dan Mischel, USCC legislative analyst on Capital

Hill, and Mark Freedman, program manager of the Sustainable Rural Development Program at Luna Vocational and Technical Institute in Las Vegas, NM. Local presenters giving workshops during the day include Deacon Dario Rendon, Doris Smith and Lydia Villanueva.

Friday's conference concludes with an evening concert featuring contemporary western lyricist Andy Wilkinson of Lubbock, TX, and folk singer Ann Zimmerman of Lawrence, KS. The concert takes place in the Nazareth Community Hall from 7-8:30 pm, and the public is encouraged to attend (Admission is $5 per person).

On Saturday, July 19, another full day of educational activities resumes with PLN's 5th Annual Ag Sustainability Tour and Rural Fair. Outdoor tours focusing on biological pest control for large-scale farms, implementing planned grazing, value-added small farming and bio-intensive gardening will be conducted in English and Spanish during the morning session.

Presenters will include Professor Miguel Altieri, an entomologist at the University of California-Berkeley; rancher Walt Davis from Bennington, OK; Teresa Maurer, director of ATTRA, a national sustainable agriculture hotline in Fayetteville, AK; and organic gardener Ken Hargeseimer and Allixandria Sherral of Lubbock, TX.

A children's educational tour will also be offered during the morning at a local farm (registration is $3 per child with lunch included).

The afternoon session will feature a benefit auction for PLN as well as a historical dramatization of several early settlers in the Nazareth community and Panhandle region. J. Michael Harter of Amarillo will portray Father Joseph Reisdorff, founder of the Nazareth colony and Bill Stocker of Canyon will play the part of the original Irish settler T.P. McCormick.

The story of Wilhemina Their, a prominent German woman in early Nazareth life will be portrayed by Loralee Cooley of Pampa. Rounding out the historical presentation will be Tony Martinez of Hereford depicting the life of Old Tascosa sheepherder and settler Casimero Romero.

Later in the afternoon, a panel discussion with local educators will be held on the topic: "Making Rural Schools Centers of Sustainability." At 5 pm, the Rural Fair will get underway with an outdoor Farmer's Market, live music, free hamburgers, and homemade refreshments.

At 7:30 p.m. a medley of five speakers will give 3-minute answers to the question, "What does sustainability mean?" the evening will conclude with a community concert and dance featuring performances by Ann Zimmerman, cowboy poet/singer

Buck Ramsey of Amarillo, and the Tejano band, Algo Simple of Hereford.

Registration for the Friday NCRLC conference is $20 per person, while a fee of $5 will be charged for Saturday's Ag Sustainability Tour. Both concerts are $5 per person and $20 for families of five or more.

All proceeds from the concerts will go to assist in the rebuilding of St. Francis Church, a rural Catholic community 12 miles east of Amarillo which lost its church building to a fire in April.

For brochures, registration, lodging arrangements, and additional information, contact Lydia Villanueva at the PLN office, (806) 364-4445 (email: pln@wtrt.net). Registration is required by July 11.

Deaf Smith County implements LIF

By TEDE E. PEABODY, JR.

The Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) is an emergency effort administered by the Farm Service Agency (FSA) to help livestock producers who suffered losses from natural disasters that occurred between Oct. 1, 1996, and June 12, 1997.

Deaf Smith County has been authorized to implement the LIP to provide partial reimbursement to eligible producers for livestock losses that occurred on April 24-26, 1997, as a result of the heavy late season snow storm.

LIP assistance is available to eligible producers only in counties that have been authorized to implement the program as a result of a Presidential Disaster Declaration or a Secretarial Disaster Declaration.

Deaf Smith, Oldham and Parmer Counties have been authorized to implement the LIP. Producers in contiguous counties are not eligible unless that county has been authorized to implement the program.

Applications for the LIP must be filed between June 30, and July 25, 1997. All documentation must be provided by the close of sign up. Incomplete applications will not be approved.

Normal mortality rates have been established for each species of livestock and poultry. Losses in excess of the normal mortality rate will be covered under the LIP. LIP benefits will not be adjusted to account for insurance indemnities received from other sources.

Eligible producers are those that:

1. Own a substantial beneficial interest in the eligible livestock;
2. Have a financial risk in the eligible livestock;
3. Suffered a loss of eligible livestock that is the direct result of the storm described;
4. Are citizens of, or legal resident aliens in, the United States.
5. If a producer suffers losses on multiple operation, they will be required to file a separate application for each operation.

6. Producers whose qualifying annual gross income is greater than $2.5 million, are not eligible for LIP benefits.

Livestock that died during the snow storm are covered by the LIP. Eligible livestock include: beef and dairy cattle, sheep, goats, swine, poultry, horses used for human food or the production of food, buffalo and beefalo when maintained as a cattle herd.

Applications for the LIP must be filed in the county FSA office where the cattle were located when the loss occurred.

Regardless of whether or not a producer has farming interest in Deaf Smith they will file their application for the LIP in the Deaf Smith County office if they suffered losses in Deaf Smith.

If a person suffered losses in multiple counties, they would be required to file an application in each county where losses occurred.

Market values have been established for each type of livestock. Payment rates have been established at 30 percent of the average market value. If the total calculated payments on all approved applications exceed $50 million, all payments will be factored.

Producers may request advance payments equal to 33 percent of the total estimated amount that will be paid within two weeks of application approval.

The remainder will be paid after all applications have been received and it has been determined whether or not a uniform reduction must be applied to all requests. We estimate payment processing to be wrapped up by mid to late August.

All payments will be issued using direct deposit. A deposit slip from your bank account is a good source document to set up for direct deposit.

When you file your applications for the LIP, you will be required to provide verifiable evidence of losses sustained as a direct result of the storm.

Information you provide must be substantiated by: rendering truck receipts, veterinary records, loan records, insurance records, farm records, tax records, or other verifiable evidence that will provide us with an accurate accounting of livestock numbers you will be providing to our office.

This program is limited only to a few counties in a few states. It will be highly visible. For these reasons we will be going the extra mile to insure each request is well documented.

Texas A&M Extension Service offers seminar to assist ranchers

The Texas A&M Extension Service has scheduled a two-day seminar, Aug. 10-11, to assist families with ranch estate planning.

The seminar will be held in conjunction with the annual beef cattle shortcourse offered at Texas A&M University in College Station. "A properly drawn estate plan may save many ranch families over $200,000 in estate taxes," Wayne A. Hayenga, economist and attorney for the extension service said. This is based on a married couple owning a ranch valued at $1 million or more.

The seminar is structured to help ranchers learn how to lower their tax burden and ease administrative burdens that affect passing their estates to their loved ones.

In addition to discussing estate planning systems, tax savings possibilities will be discussed using corporations, partnerships and trusts when family members are involved in the business.

Making gifts to avoid estate taxes will be discussed as well. "There are three problems with making gifts," Hayenga said. "The first is dying poor, the second is the adverse income tax consequences the gift can cause the recipient and the third is when somebody other than your intended beneficiary ultimately gets the gifted property."

He added the families must plan for inflation and growth needs of the business and this will also be discussed along with how to be fair among all children when one child is interested in the ranch and the others are not.

Registration fee for the two day events is $60. Additional information may be obtained by writing Hayenga or Christine Eubank at Agricultural Economics Department, Texas A&M University, College Station 77843 or (409) 845-2226.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: We have a little black poodle named Mandy. When she was young she didn't bark when she wanted to go outside; she would just stand at the back door. Our recreation room is in the basement, so we would never know when she needed to go out.

My husband taught her to hit the doormat, which is like a spring and makes a loud noise. You can hear it all over the house. He also put one on the crossback door on the outside and she hits that when she wants to come in. What a smart dog. — Theresa Ruzicka, Cedar Rapids, Iowa

She certainly is a smart dog. I love your hint. I bet a lot of dog owners will try and teach their pups to do the same.

Owning dogs is great fun and I have compiled a pamphlet full of hints and tips for dog lovers. For anyone who would like one, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (55 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Dogs, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

GROCERY BASKET
Dear Heloise: Here is a hint for new mothers who want to get through the grocery store quickly.

When shopping, put the carry basket (with the handles) inside your shopping cart. Load all your baby-food jars and other small items inside this basket. When you get to the checkout all you have to unload is the basket and not a lot of jars. The cashier will scan the jars out of the basket just as she would off the conveyor. — Karen Norman, Atwater, Ohio

FREEZER STORAGE

Dear Heloise: I have always hated trying to find food stored in the freezer part of my refrigerator. Things in the back are so hard to find and the front items must all be removed before reaching the back.

Then I got the idea to buy two plastic baskets that would fit side by side in my freezer. The ones I use are about 10-by-14 and about 6 inches tall.

Now when I need something from the freezer, I just remove the basket, find what I need and replace the basket! No more searching. It works so well that I now have another on the top shelf next to the ice cube trays. — Mildred Meeker, Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Ballot order set for 14 proposed amendments

AUSTIN (AP) - Secretary of State Tony Garza has set the order for the 14 proposed constitutional amendments that will appear on the Nov. 4 election ballot.

Garza, the state's chief elections officer, conducted a random drawing to determine the order in which the proposals endorsed by this year's Legislature will go before voters.

Another proposed amendment, authorizing a $1 billion property tax rollback, appears alone on the ballot Aug. 9.

Here is how the Nov. 4 amendments will appear:

- Proposition 1: To allow a person who holds the office of municipal court judge to hold, at the same time, more than one civil office for which the person receives compensation.

- Proposition 2:

(If property tax rollback passes Aug. 9): To limit increases in the appraised value of residence homesteads for property taxation and to permit a school district to calculate the property tax freeze for elderly people and authorize the transfer of the freeze to a different homestead. (If property tax rollback fails Aug.

9): To allow the Legislature to limit increases in the appraised value of residence homesteads for property taxation and to permit an elderly person to transfer the school property tax freeze to a different residence homestead.

- Proposition 3: To authorize the Legislature to permit a taxing unit to grant an exemption or other relief on property on which a water conservation initiative has been implemented.

- Proposition 4: To eliminate duplicate numbering and some obsolete provisions of the Texas Constitution.

- Proposition 5: Authorizing the Texas Supreme Court to sit at and transact business at any location in the state.

- Proposition 6: To allow the Texas Growth Fund to continue investing in businesses without requiring them to disclose investments in South Africa or Namibia.

- Proposition 7: Authorizing the Texas Water Development Board to transfer existing bond authorizations to maximize use of existing funds.

- Proposition 8: To expand the types of liens for home equity loans that a lender, with the homeowner's consent, may place against a homestead. This would allow home equity loans.

- Proposition 9: To allow a property tax rate in rural fire prevention districts in Harris County of 5 cents per $100 of taxable value.

- Proposition 10: Designating the purposes for which money in the crime victims compensation fund may be used.

- Proposition 11: Limiting the amount of state debt payable from the General Revenue Fund.

- Proposition 12: Establishing a deadline for Supreme Court action on a motion for rehearing.

- Proposition 13: To extend the state's full faith and credit to protect the Texas Tomorrow Fund program of prepaid college tuition.

- Proposition 14: To allow the Legislature to set qualifications for constables.

Area wheat growers could be compensated for Karnal Bunt

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department will compensate some wheat growers and handlers, storage facility owners and flour millers who suffered losses this year because of the fungus Karnal bunt.

The compensation will be paid only to those in the grain industry who wheat is tested by USDA and found positive for Karnal bunt in the 1996-97 crop year, the agency said Friday.

"The payment of compensation is necessary in order to reduce the economic impact of the Karnal bunt regulations on affected wheat growers and other individuals," said Michael V. Dunn, USDA assistant secretary for marketing and regulatory programs.

When wheat contaminated with Karnal bunt was first found in the United States last year, the department quarantined the crop throughout Arizona and parts of Texas, California and New Mexico, costing growers and handlers there millions of dollars.

The fungus, spread by tiny spores, is harmless to humans but ruins the taste and quality of wheat, as well as its yield. Foreign countries could refuse to import any U.S. wheat if it is believed contamination is present.

The payments will take a variety of forms, depending on the type of loss suffered. Wheat growers in quarantined areas will receive between 60 cents and $1.80 a bushel, depending on when the crop was planted.

Student takes advantage of opportunity

By BECKY CAMP
Lifestyles Editor

Last spring while he was a sophomore at Angelo State University, Shawn Lance saw a poster that caught his eye and he went to see the professor about it.

"I'm glad I went to talk to that professor because that visit resulted in the opportunity of a lifetime," said Lance, son of Ronnie and Connie Lance of Hereford.

That opportunity was the chance to travel to Europe as one of 24 exchange students from ASU.

As an international exchange student, Lance spent the summer semester from June 3 to July 3 at Heriot Watt University in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Courses of study for the exchange program were policy and politics in the United Kingdom and the European Union, and European management.

Actual classes lasted three weeks, then the students had an opportunity to visit London, Brussels and Paris.

"We went from London to Brussels on the Euro Star which goes under the English Channel and travels up to 200 miles per hour," said Lance.

In Brussels, students attended a European Union conference to see how the individual countries which make up the union are learning to function with one Parliament.

"Then we went to Paris where we had time for sightseeing. I spent an entire day in the Louvre and even saw the Mona Lisa," said Lance.

There was time for more sightseeing in London where the group spent four days.

"I went to see one of Shakespeare's plays in the Globe Theatre which has been rebuilt to the original design, even down to using wooden pegs," he said.

The play was performed by an all male cast just as it would have been in Shakespeare's time, according to Lance.

Food was somewhat of a surprise. The English eat a lot of fried food, especially "chips," he said.

"I visited the Soho district, or China town, while I was in London and ate the best Chinese food I've ever had," Lance said.

He was able to travel on weekends while attending classes at the university and took advantage of the time to tour in Scotland.

"I spent one weekend on the Isle of Skye. It was the most beautiful place I saw with the green hills rising directly up from the coastline," said Lance.

And they do still wear kilts in Scotland. There are shops where you can rent kilts like we would rent tuxedos, he said.

"Some of the students even rented kilts to wear to the graduation ball," he said.

This was the first exchange trip to Scotland for Angelo State students but the schools are working to implement a program that will allow exchange of students for one year, according to Lance.

The exchange program counts as a government elective for Lance, who is an English major, but he feels the knowledge and experience he gained cannot be measured in grade points.

Scottish souvenirs

Shawn Lance, a Hereford student attending Angelo State University, traveled to Scotland as an international exchange student this summer. He poses with souvenirs from Scotland, but he also visited London, Brussels and Paris.

'Reina' will be named at Fiesta

Colorful dancers, music, Mariachis, food and the coronation of the "Reina", queen will highlight the events planned for Sept. 16 Fiestas Patrias Celebration.

Three candidates are vying for the title of "Reina". The candidates are Naomi DeLaCerde, Sonya Flores, and Janie Mendez. All the candidates are very active in the community as well as their parish.

DeLaCerde, 17, is the daughter of Imelda and Ramon DeLaCerde. She is a senior in high school and plans to attend Southwest University upon graduation. She plans to major in Pre-Med. She is sponsored by the San Jose Mens Organization.

Flores, 19, is a student at Amarillo College and plans for an associated degree as an Administrative secretary. She is sponsored by the Sociedad Guadalupanas.

Mendez, 17, is the daughter of Delme and Lupe Mendez. A senior in high school, she plans to attend Pan American College and be a lawyer. She is sponsored by the Cursillistas group.

SONYA A. FLORES

JANIE MENDEZ

Each "Reina", candidate will collect money and the candidate with the most amount of money will be elected as the "Reina". The election will be held in August, while the coronation will be held Sept. 12.

Bread Project is introduction to Tri State Better Bake Show

The 4-H Breads Project, which is an introduction project for the Tri State Fair 4-H Better Bake Show, will be held July 23 in the Community Center ballroom from 9:30 a.m. to 11:50 a.m.

Youth should dress comfortably for the hands-on yeast bread workshop. Participants will learn the importance of bread in the diet, the role that wheat plays in the economy of their community, and will receive the rules for the Tri State Fair 4-H Better Bake Show.

PRE-REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED. Youth must pre-register for the workshop by calling the Deaf Smith County Extension Office no later than 4:30 p.m. Friday.

FOOD GUIDE PYRAMID
By LAWRENCE HEADLEY

Texas Department of Health
Some tips on how to get the nutrition you need.

Everyone knows that feeling good has a lot to do with eating right. But knowing what to eat and how much can be confusing. A simple way to understand nutrition is to use the Food Guide Pyramid--a visual guide that shows the number of servings we should have each day from the five basic food groups. One group contains foods high in carbohydrates and fiber--like bread, cereal and pasta...while another consists of calcium-rich foods, like milk and cheese. There's a group for vegetables and one for fruit...and a group for meat, eggs, dry beans and nuts. Food from all five groups are needed for a well-balanced diet. The food guide pyramid is published by United States Department of Agriculture.

This information comes from WIC--the Women, Infants, and Children Nutrition Program at the Texas Department of Health. For a free magazine on nutrition, call 1-800-WIC-3678.

Becky's Camp Site

By Becky Camp

Do you take pictures of special -- and not so special -- events in your life?

It's one of those things that most of us do. But it creates a problem for me. I don't know what to do with the photos!!

I consider myself a fairly organized person and I like to have a place for things, but I have never found a satisfactory way to keep pictures.

Maybe part of the problem is that I don't have, or take, the time to label each picture and put it in an album. That's undoubtedly the best way to keep up with them.

But this creates another problem. If you put them in albums, should they be categorized by event, by subject, in chronological order, in order of importance...?

How do you decide? Then if the album is full and you find another picture that relates to this event, person or time, what do you do with it?

Start a new album, rearrange the old one (who has time for that?), or do the Becky thing -- put it in a box.

So now you know my secret. I have boxes of pictures in no particular order. Okay, in no order at all.

The question "Where is that picture of...?" sends me into a panic.

"It's in a box," is the only possible answer I can give which leads to the inevitable, "Which box?"

Now that's a question I can't answer without spending untold hours searching. But the real kicker here is that I enjoy the search.

It's fun to look at the pictures and remember who or what they were about, to see the change or lack of change since a picture was made, and sometimes just to try and remember when or why a picture was taken.

Maybe that's why it takes me so long to find the picture in question. And maybe that's why I've never really worried about organizing all those pictures.

Otherwise when would I take the time to look at them all and reminisce?

Thank You

The family of Norman Lytal wishes to express its sincere thanks to everyone who so graciously shared in our loss of a most special husband, father, grandfather & great-grandfather. Thanks for the kind expression of sympathy you extended, including the food, flowers, cards, phone calls & memorials.

A special thank you goes out to Parkside Chapel and its employees for their special care.

MRS. MICHAEL LORANCE WHITE
...nee Trisha Ann Teel

Couple united in backyard ceremony

Trisha Ann Teel and Michael Lorance White, both of Bryan, were united in marriage in an evening ceremony July 5 in the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Teel of Hereford, parents of the bride.

The groom is the son of Sandy White of Bryan and the late Gailord White.

Rev. Terry Cosby of First Baptist Church of Hereford officiated.

Decorations were centered around a mural backdrop. The yard, with a pond in the background, was lined with evergreen trees and rose bushes. The fence was draped with tulle and the trees were decorated with lights.

Maid of honor was Shelia Teel, sister of the bride. Best man was Brady White, nephew of the groom. Bridesmaid was Susan Emmons.

Groomsman was Bill White, brother of the groom.

Guests were seated by D.J. Wagner.

Jan Walser provided the music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a bridal gown in white bridal satin with tulle, schiffli lace, sequins, and pearl beading. A jewel neckline accented the sleeveless fitted bodice and low back. The bodice was further accented by beaded schiffli lace and pearl piping. Below the bodice, the basque waistline flowed into a full skirt and cathedral length train of tulle. The skirt and train were completed with satin piping, schiffli lace appliques, and a couture hem line.

The bride's veil was short and of satin trimmed tulle flowing from a bridal satin bow.

She carried a hand tied bouquet of blue delphinium, irises, sunflowers, star gazer lilies, and baby's breath accented with French chiffon ribbon.

The bridesmaids wore full length dresses in periwinkle chiffon with an empire waist and a button back tied with a bow.

The couple was honored with a reception at Hereford Country Club.

Gayle Teel and Lydia Delventhal, aunts of the bride, Kristi Teel, cousin of the bride, and Sandy Turner served the guests.

Lauren Buske, cousin of the bride, assisted with the registry, distributed bird seed and appreciation gifts.

The bride had a four-tiered cake, separately staggered, and decorated with fresh flowers.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas and Fort Worth, the couple will be at home in Bryan.

The bride is a graduate of Hereford High School and has an Animal Science degree from Texas A&M University. She is currently attending TAMU's School of Veterinary Medicine.

The groom is a graduate of Bryan High School and the TEEX Police Academy.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

Courage is the essence of the creative spirit, the vital force of the human heart. - Flint River Review, 1994.

With summer at mid-point, principals and building leadership teams are busy with interviews to fill the teaching positions due to across the district moves and to several people moving from the district. HJH will have few changes this year. We will miss those who transfer to other positions and do wish them well. We also welcome any "new faces" to our campus.

Diedra Drake and I are planning a presentation for the Texas Council for the Social Studies annual meeting in Corpus Christi in September. We will share our geography-history unit on researching our county as well as share Junior Historian, History Fair and Geography Bee experiences. This meeting includes a tour of the King Ranch and since that is near Kingsville, we hope to visit with the Greenawalts during the trip.

Thank you again to all who have continued to keep us in your thoughts and prayers. I feel that my sojourn in Oklahoma will soon be ended as we have Joan and the boys moved to a new location. This area, too, is filled with wonderful, caring people who have been very helpful and concerned.

A number of HJH teachers have attended workshops this summer in preparation for the new year. At the beginning of the school year, all teachers in the district will learn about the new updated appraisal system for all employees. This is an improvement over the former system.

"Courage is a special sort of stubbornness!"

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am sending you a message to the high school graduating class in Mount Pleasant, Iowa, by the publisher of the Mount Pleasant News. His name is Emery Styron.

I hope you will agree that there is a lot of wisdom here and that you will print it. -- Dennis Fitzpatrick in Iowa
Dear Dennis: The wisdom in Emery Styron's editorial is timeless and just as useful in July as it was when the Mount Pleasant News published it in May. Thanks for sending it on. Here it is:

Attention Graduates: There is the kind of education you get in school and the kind you get afterward. Both are important. Put them together, and you have wisdom. The trouble is, life is generally half over before you figure out what is going on. Graduating seniors can save 25 years of trial, error and hard knocks by memorizing the lessons of life listed below.

On the average, you learn about one big lesson per year after you leave high school. In really tough years, you learn two or three. Some years, you don't learn anything. After 40, you forget things and have to learn them again.

Some of this information is borrowed. Some is stolen. Some may even be original, but that's doubtful. It's pretty hard to be original in a world as old as this one. 25 Things You'll Need to Know After High School

1. Don't sweat the small stuff, and remember, most stuff is small.
2. The most boring word in any language is "L."
3. Nobody is indispensable, especially you.
4. Life is full of surprises. Just say "never" and you'll see.
5. People are more important than things.
6. Persistence will get you almost anything eventually.
7. Nobody can make you happy. Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be.
8. There's so much bad in the best of us and so much good in the worst of us that it doesn't behoove any of us to talk about the rest of us.

9. Live by what you trust, not by what you fear.

10. Character counts. Family matters.

11. Eating out with small children isn't worth it, even if someone else is buying.

12. If you want to have kids until you can afford them, you probably never will.

13. Baby kittens don't begin to open their eyes for six weeks after birth. Men generally take about 26 years.

14. The world would run a lot smoother if more men knew how to dance.

15. Television ruins more minds than drugs.

16. Sometimes there is more to gain in being wrong than right.

17. Life is so much simpler when you tell the truth.

18. People who do the world's real work don't usually wear neckties.

19. A good joke beats a pill for a lot of ailments.

20. There are no substitutes for fresh air, sunshine and exercise.

21. A smile is the cheapest way to improve your looks, even if your teeth are crooked.

22. May you live life so there is standing room only at your funeral.

23. Mothers always know best, but sometimes fathers know, too.

24. Forgive yourself, your friends and your enemies. You're all only human.

25. If you don't do anything else in life, love someone and let someone love you.

4-H to focus on photos

Recording memories and activities on film will be the focus of the Summer Photography Project for 4-Hers. Youth that will be in the 3rd grade in the fall may join the project. This will be a learning project for youth of all ages.

The project group will meet on July 21 and July 28 at the Community Center Banquet room. The project will begin promptly at 7 and end at 9 p.m. both evenings.

Jim Steiert, who works in public relations for the West Texas Rural Telephone will be the instructor for the course.

Youth will be instructed in cameras and how they work, basic film information, special filming needs, consumer ideas in purchasing cameras and film for various activities. Youth will gain information in staging pictures, capturing that special "moment" on film and will gain information useful to them in submitting photographs for competitive events.

Youth must pre-register for the project by calling the Deaf Smith County Extension Office at 364-3573. Pre-registration will end on Wednesday, July 16. There is no charge. Youth should bring a camera with them but if they do not have one they will still gain useful information for their future use.

4-H youth will be encouraged to display a photograph at the 4-H Achievement Banquet scheduled for Sept. 8 and senior level 4-Hers will be encouraged to enter the State Photography Contest.

For more information and to pre-register call 364-3573.

Red Cross Update

The upcoming clothes give away will be in front of the Red Cross building at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, weather permitting.

A child infant CPR class is scheduled for 7 p.m. July 22, at the Red Cross building. Class will begin promptly at 7. The cost is $10. If you would like a book, it also costs $10. If there are fewer than five persons in attendance the class will be canceled.

Austin Chapter of American Red Cross has faced multiple disasters this season. Not only the Jarrell tornado disaster and two others, but now they are dealing with a level three flood. We would like to thank all of you who have contributed and are contributing to the relief efforts. We are still taking cash donations for those disaster operations.

National Red Cross will be coxing the media, all this summer, to run programming which is designed to remind and inform us of the hazards that go with family outings. Boating safety will be one of the topics.

- * Make sure to have floatation devices for everyone in the boat and wear them.
- * Don't drink alcohol while operating a boat.
- * Watch out for other watercraft and for swimmers.
- * Swim in designated areas.
- * Don't forget the sun block!

Red Cross just released a new "Start Sailing Right" text book. While Tri County Chapter is not at present offering sailing classes, we can order the book for you.

The recent benefit banquet, hosted by American Red Cross president Elizabeth Dole and Diana Princess of Wales, was held in Washington, D.C., on June 17. The benefit was to express Red Cross wishes to see the use of anti-personnel landmines banned in the future and to raise money for the victims who suffer because of their use. The $500,000 which was raised will go for providing prosthesis and rehabilitation for victims of landmines.

Disaster fund-raising is ongoing. Thanks again for the organization and exertion of faithful and vigilant volunteers and community service workers who helped with our Garage Sale and fund-raising efforts.

All Red Cross disaster assistance is free, made possible by voluntary gifts of time and money from the American people. The Red Cross is not a government agency. To help victims of these and other disasters, call 806-364-3761, or 1-800-Help Now (800-435-7669), or 800-257-7575 (Spanish).

You may also contribute to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund by sending a check to your local Red Cross chapter, Box 1372, Hereford, Texas 79045, or to the American Red Cross, PO Box 37243, Washington, DC 20013. Internet users can get more information about Red Cross disaster activities and make a secure online contribution by visiting the American Red Cross World Wide Web site at <http://www.redcross.org>

Tension Headache

If you're bothered by headache that seems to have its origin at the base of your skull, you may be suffering from tension headache. Tension headaches can be caused by an irritation of the nerves in the area of the spine immediately under the skull. These are called the suboccipital nerves. They pass through small openings in the spinal column to muscles in the surrounding area. Any abnormal pressure or dysfunction of the neck and muscles can irritate the nerves, causing tension.

The tension doesn't cause the headache. To treat this form of headache, attention should be paid to the bone and muscle structures. They should be returned to normal balance so they can function properly again. Medication is not the answer to tension headaches. Aspirin and other pain-killers may give you temporary relief -- but they won't solve the problem. Once the source of the problem is found and treated, THEN you can get the relief you need.

We accept assignments on Medicare & Medicaid & most insurance carriers.

...celebrate 50th anniversary

Wedding anniversary celebration planned

Henry and Jo Solomon will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with a public reception July 20 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center ballroom in Hereford.

Solomon married the former Betty Jo Mitchell on July 20, 1947, in the First Methodist Church in Memphis, officiated by Rev. Wilford Jones, lifelong friend of the groom.

The couple lived in Memphis, Andrews, and moved to Hereford in 1961.

Solomon flew 41 combat missions as a tail-gunner with the U.S. 13th Air Force in the South Pacific during World War II. He is a retired farmer.

Mrs. Solomon is a R.N. having graduated from Lubbock Memorial Hospital's School of Nursing in Lubbock. She has worked as an inservice training and LVN instructor at Deaf Smith General Hospital and with the Hereford Public Schools.

The reception will be hosted by their children and spouses, Mike and Anna Solomon and Cheryl and Tommy Betzen of Hereford, Suzanne and Pat Kennedy of Yoakum, and Craig and Judy Solomon of Ford. Also assisting with the reception will be the Solomon's 10 grandchildren.

New Arrivals

Anthony and Kari Montelongo are the proud parents of a son, Shawn Patrick, born July 8 in Hereford Regional Medical Center.

He weighed 9 pounds, 15 ounces and was 22-1/2 inches long.

He was welcomed home by a sister, Jordan, 6.

Grandparents are Carolee Smith of Hereford, Pat and Deborah Smith of Dawn, Manuela Montelongo and Raymond Ayala of Hereford, and Chon and Gloria Montelongo of Rockdale. Great-grandfather is Juan Gonzales of Hereford.

By BEVERLY HARDER

Packing wedding gowns or textile heirlooms for storage is an important part of their preservation. Proper storage of these items can prolong their longevity and keep them a part of family tradition for many years.

Please remember no special treatments or storage procedures guarantee against textile deterioration or damage. However, a few precautions can help limit deterioration and maintain the textile.

There are several things to consider before storing your heirloom. After the item has been properly cleaned, you will need to decide if commercial or at home packaging is appropriate. A decision about horizontal or vertical storage will also need to be made. All of these decisions will need to be made depending on the type of item you are preserving.

Commercial Packaging - Most drycleaners offer a special package to clean and box wedding gowns. This could be requested for other heirloom textiles.

The service usually involves a large box of acid-free cardboard in which the gown is packed with acid-free tissue between folds of the garment and as padding in the bodice and sleeves. Over time, the acid produced by standard tissue paper and cardboard can deteriorate textiles, especially cellulosic fibers such as cotton, linen, and rayon.

The initial box is usually placed in a larger protective box. Sometimes slits are present in the box to allow air circulation.

Some drycleaners offer an optional vacuum seal. However, the International Fabricare Institute (IFI) indicates that this process isn't necessary. No seal is permanent. Also, heirloom textiles should be checked yearly for general condition, at which time the seal should be broken.

IFI also suggests that clear plastic or cellophane "windows" on boxes be removed or punctured to allow air movement. Moisture could condense on the clear window and support growth of mildew.

At Home Packaging - Packaging heirloom garments can be done at home. Before doing so, check garments carefully in sunlight for soils and stains, even if they have been professionally cleaned.

Look for soil, stains, or the presence of wrinkles that have been pressed in. Both stains and wrinkles may be impossible to remove at a later date.

To package garments at home, use a large, deep box to avoid excessive fold. If possible, the box and tissue should be acid-free. Cardboard boxes should be avoided since they produce an acidic environment which weakens textiles over time.

White tissue is recommended. Blue or other colors can bleed onto fabric if they become wet. Use of non-acid-free tissue is acceptable if it is replaced yearly. Washed and thoroughly rinsed white cotton sheets can also be used to line the box. Acid builds up over time in cellulosic materials such as cotton, linen, and rayon.

Wash and thoroughly rinse storage materials made from these fibers every year or two to remove acid build-up and limit potential for deterioration.

To pack a large garment, such as a wedding gown, line the box with tissue or cotton sheeting. Place the garment in the box so as to limit folds. Place crumpled tissue at folds and in the bodice and sleeves for shaping.

If possible, remove fabric-covered metal buttons, rubberized dress shields, or foam padding. These items can oxidize, rust, or deteriorate and result in damage to fabric over time. If not possible, use crumpled tissue as a buffer between these items and the garment.

Place tissue over the garment and add the lid. Do not seal. In fact, slits to allow air circulation could be added.

Avoid wrapping in plastic unless water damage is possible. Plastic bags are unstable. Plastic bags can give off damaging fumes, trap moisture, and provide an environment for mildew to grow.

Horizontal versus Vertical Storage - Box, or horizontal storage has been discussed above. This is desirable for heavy garments with beading or wedding gowns with heavy trains or sheer bodices. Knitted garments should be stored flat to avoid stretching over time. Also, small garments, such as christening gowns, are easily stored flat.

In some instances, vertical or storage on a hanger is acceptable. Vertical storage reduces wrinkling, but can weaken shoulders or bodice since the full weight of the garment hangs from these areas. If vertical storage is possible without undue damage to the garment, generously pad and wrap a sturdy hanger with cotton batting and cotton sheeting.

Sew cotton twill straps or a bodice shell slightly shorter than the bodice to the waistline. The weight of the garment will fall primarily on the twill straps or shell, and distribute the stress on the fabric. Stuff the bodice and sleeves with crumpled tissue or cotton sheeting.

Make a clean cotton sheeting cover. Avoid synthetic materials, as they develop static and attract dust. Wash the cotton cover and other cotton storage supplies yearly. Also, do not use plastic bags for long term storage.

Occasionally, small textile or accessory items can be stored flat or rolled on tubes. When using tubes, they should be acid-free or wrapped in clean cotton sheeting.

If the textile is subject to dye fading, contains metallic threads, or is unusually fragile, interleaf acid-free tissue as you roll the item. Roll without tension and be careful to prevent wrinkles or folds from forming. Wrap the tube in cotton sheeting and tie loosely with cotton twill tape for storage. If possible, avoid rolling textiles that are painted, as cracking may occur over time.

Storage - Store heirloom textiles, either hanging or boxed, in cool, dry areas, free from drastic temperature changes. Basements, attics or exterior wall closets are generally unsatisfac-

ry. High attic temperatures cause oxidation of stains, finishes or trims. Basement areas are subject to moisture, mildew and flooding. Exterior closets have less stable temperatures.

Select an area with adequate air circulation, but away from light. Each year, remove the item to check its condition. This is especially important the first year. If stains are noticeable, the potential for removal is greater than if left for longer periods.

Replace non-acid-free tissue or wash cotton sheeting wrappings. Repack the textile so folds are in different locations.

If garments are kept in drawers rather than boxes, do not place heavy items on top of them which may cause crushing and folds. Also, certain fibers, such as cotton, linen or rayon, should not be stored in cedar chests. The acid given off by the wood in the cedar chest can weaken the textile over time.

Caring for textiles and garments worn for special occasions can prolong their beauty and reduce deterioration over time. With proper treatment, items bought or made new today can be the family heirlooms of future generations. A little extra effort now can enrich the lives of family members to come.

Class of '37 gathers for reunion

The Hereford High School Class of 1937 observed its 60th graduation reunion at K-Bob's Steak House on July 5th.

The group claim to be a "hardy" bunch, surviving both the Great Depression and World War II.

Of a graduating class of 49, there are 34 surviving classmates, with 15 members and their spouses attending.

A brief memorial service for deceased members was conducted by Charles Wilson.

Gladys Willoughby and Dorothy Mercer, both still residents of Hereford, and Bill Stanford, of Plainview, were in charge of the reunion arrangements.

Following the luncheon at K-Bob's, Stanford, whose grandparents owned the E.B. Black house, and where he was often a guest, conducted a tour of the historical house and grounds.

In-state members and spouses in attendance were: Gladys and Irving Willoughby and Dorothy and Jimmy Mercer, all of Hereford, Ray and June Neel of Amarillo, Ernest and Leona Scheihagen of Huntsville, L.A. and Helen Ricketts of Arlington.

Also, Edgar and Dess Russell of Levelland, Edna and Arlon Ewing of Dimmitt, Imogene and Russell Pogue of Valley Mills, Sybil and Robert Perry of Hamlin, Bill and Betty Stanford of Plainview, Erma Pepper of Katy, Mary Lee Singer of Tuliá, Mrs. Earl (Louise) Oldham and Gloria Schneider of Grand Prairie and Katie Akers and Joyce Williams of Arlington.

Wilson of Carlsbad, N.M., Shirley Johnson of Clovis, N.M., Gertrude Millard of Rapid City, S.D., and Susan Taylor of Tucumcari, N.M.

A dolphin can reach speeds of up to 25 miles an hour.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, July 13, the 194th day of 1997. There are 171 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On July 13, 1793, French revolutionary writer Jean Paul Marat was stabbed to death in his bath by Charlotte Corday, who was executed four days later.

On this date:
In 1787, Congress enacted an ordinance governing the Northwest Territory.

In 1821, Confederate cavalry commander Nathan Bedford Forrest was born in Tennessee's Bedford County.

In 1863, rioting against the Civil War military draft erupted in New York City; about 1,000 people died over three days.

In 1878, the Treaty of Berlin amended the terms of the Treaty of San Stefano, which had ended the Russo-Turkish War of 1877-78.

In 1960, Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy won the Democratic presidential nomination at his party's convention in Los Angeles.

In 1967, race-related rioting broke out in Newark, N.J.; by the time the violence ended four days later, 27 people had been killed.

In 1977, a 25-hour blackout hit the New York City area after lightning struck upstate power lines.

In 1978, Lee Iacocca was fired as president of Ford Motor Co. by chairman Henry Ford II.

In 1979, a 45-hour siege began at the Egyptian Embassy in Ankara, Turkey, as four Palestinian guerrillas killed two security men and seized 20 hostages.

In 1985, "Live Aid," an international rock concert in London, Philadelphia, Moscow and Sydney, Australia, took place to raise money for Africa's starving people.

Ten years ago: Jury selection began in Washington for the perjury trial of President Reagan's former aide and longtime confidant, Michael K. Deaver. Deaver was later convicted of lying under oath about his lobbying business; he was fined $100,000 and ordered to perform community service.

Five years ago: Democrats opened their 41st national convention at New York's Madison Square Garden with speakers who taunted George Bush as a failed president ripe for defeat in November.

One year ago: After battering the Carolinas, the weakened remnants of Hurricane Bertha moved north, spawning tornadoes and dumping rain from Maryland to Massachusetts.

Today's Birthdays: Former Housing Secretary Jack Kemp is 62. Actor Patrick Stewart is 57. Actor Robert Forster is 56. Actor Harrison Ford is 55. Singer-guitarist Roger McGuinn (The Byrds) is 55. Actor-comedian Cheech Marin is 51. Singer Louise Mandrell is 43. Tennis player Anders Jarryd is 36.

Build your Word Skills- tips for powering-up your vocabulary

Words fascinate me. They always have. For me, browsing in a dictionary is like being turned loose in a bank. -Eddie Cantor

I also have always had a fascination with words. There are so many I don't know. Experts estimate that there are more than one million words in the English language. Most adults know only a few thousand well enough to use them correctly.

I remember an old story about a fifth grade teacher who was teaching words and definitions to her class. She asked one little boy to use deduct, defeat, detail and defense in a sentence. He wrote: Defeat of deduct went over defense before detail. I'm not certain of the little boy's grade, but I think he went on to become a writer.

Knowing words, and how and when to use them is important. Every day someone judges us by the words we use or misuse. Do those around you think you are a dolt?

Improving your vocabulary

Increasing the number of words you recognize and can use correctly is easy and profitable. However, as with anything worthwhile, it does take some effort and time on your part. Here are some tips for growing your vocabulary.

- Read the Readers Digest. It contains a section called "It pays to Enrich your Word Power." It's a 20-word quiz that will help you learn new words and their meanings. Add the ones you are unsure of to a list to work on later.

- Spend some time every week with your dictionary. Read all the words on two or three pages. When you find new words that you can use, write them down along with their meanings. Add these to your list.

- When you read or hear an unfamiliar word, look it up. If you hear an unknown word used in conversation, ask the user what it means and how to spell it. Write it down and add it to your list of new words.

- Make a "word builder" tape. After you've gathered words for a few weeks, record your new words on a tape. Listen to the tape as you're walking, exercising or driving. Try to add several words every month.

- Spend some time with your friendly thesaurus. Sometimes the exact word you're searching for just won't come to you. Other times you may find what you've used a word several times in you writing. A thesaurus can help you find a new or better word to use. Add new words you find here to your "word builder" tape.

Read all the definitions of familiar words. For example, the simple word "jack." You'll find a jack is a common fella as well as a lifting device. It also is: a male donkey, and electrical or phone receptacle, a playing card, a type of rabbit, slang for money, a type of vest and a male salmon. Did you know all that?

Just for practice

Here is a list of words to practice on. The longest word on this list contains only 6 letters. How many do you know? Are you sure?

Apt, bay (There are at least 7 different meanings for bay. Can you name 3 or 4?), conge, dory, eke, fend, gasbag, hinny, indue, jeer, knack, larrup, mooch, nigh, opt, piker, quag, rife, skulk, law, usurp, vaunt, xyloid, yammer and zany.

If you would like to receive my "word builder" list of more than 150 short words with definitions, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Word Builder, PO Box 67, Amarillo, TX 79105. I'm sorry, but we can only send the list if you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How has your summer been so far? The Summer Reading Club activity programs are over, but we will continue to give the awards for reading through July. So don't throw those reading logs away just yet.

There are many castles that have their four windows and the children need to come in and take those home. We had a great time this summer and I hope the participants did as well.

The Teen-Read group will be having a make-up day Wednesday, July 16, to finish the ceramic projects they started but were unable to finish. Last week's parfait party was a great success. I think they all went home with full stomachs and a smile on their faces.

This was the first year for the Teen-Read program and we are already making plans for next year. If you have any suggestions on how to improve this program I would love to hear them. Send me a letter, give me a call or stop by for a visit.

I also want to thank the junior high students for allowing us to use their Medieval Fair projects as part of our decorations. If you haven't seen them, come in and take a look. If you have a project you would like to have back, you are welcome to come in and get them at anytime. We will take it all down in August.

Please remember the Family Film that is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday. The film featured this month is Fly Away Home. Admission is free and popcorn is 25 cents.

Now for the serious and not so serious readers the new book selection begins with Esau by Philip Kerr. Esau is the name given to a perfectly preserved skull found in an ice cave high in the Himalayas. It is a fossil of a creature that is neither ape nor man. Could it be the missing link, Yeti?

In the paleoanthropology lab on the Berkeley campus the young scientist realizes she has found the discovery of a lifetime. It is the proof of an alternative growing turbulence in mother nature as well as mankind. Punjabi, Pakistan and India rattle their Nuclear arsenals and catastrophe seems eminent. The Pentagon officers debate their options and the end to peace as we know it is ever closer.

Jan Burke has another Irene Kelly mystery called Hocus. Irene Kelly, sleuth/reporter, is put to the test when her detective husband disappears.

Husband Frank Harriman, is missing. A bloodstain found in the trunk of his car and a note left on the rearview mirror are the only clues to his condition and his whereabouts. This is just the beginning. As the story continues the suspense and tension build to a rolling boil.

Heart of War by Lucian K. Truscott IV presents a thriller featuring a hot topic of our day. Life in the U.S. Military has its own rules and codes of honor and conduct. But the brutal murder of Lieutenant Sheila Worthy has sent a shock wave that has reached Washington.

The task of finding the killer has fallen to Major Kara Guidry as the top lawyer in the Judge Advocate General's office. General William Beckwith, the commanding officer of Fort Benning, Ga., is breathing down Kara's neck demanding a fast solution. The General can't afford a scandal if he hopes to become the new Chief of Staff.

As Kara continues her investigation she realizes this case involves much more than one murder and the General isn't going to like the secrets she has uncovered.

Obsession by Catherine Cookson tells the story of Beatrice Steel. The eldest daughter of Simon Steel, the owner of Pine Hurst, Beatrice has always been exceedingly possessive of the family home.

At the time of her mother's death Beatrice becomes intolerably domineering, ruling over her three sisters as well as the servants. Rosie, the youngest sister resents Beatrice's authority and her father's austerity.

Beatrice fears that her father may someday remarry and the new wife would then have Pine Hurst. The family hopes that Beatrice might marry and find a home and life of her own, but no gentleman seems the least bit interested in Beatrice.

Then unexpectedly, father dies. During the reading of the will the Steel daughters are shocked by the family history, and Beatrice realizes how fragile her security really is. She must begin now to plan and plot to protect her family home and position.

Founder of the national organization "Mother Matters", Kay Willis has written the book, Are We Having Fun Yet? Kay gives the secrets of happy parenting in an attempt to show how parents should enjoy parenting and not merely endure it. The mother of 10 -- all healthy and happy grownups -- Kay draws on her own experiences and shares many of her secrets.

Kay thinks it is crucial to know when to join the "What the Hell Club" and when fun is more important than a completed to-do-list. Kay knows that happy memories being created right now can fill the families "emotional bank account" with joy and strength.

She urges parents to keep romance alive in a marriage and to achieve a balance between career and family life. This book is a must for new and old parents.

Hereford woman scheduled to appear in Amarillo dinner theater melodrama

AMY GILILLAND

Amy Gililland of Hereford is a member of the cast performing in the current dinner theatre melodrama production "Blazing Guns at Roaring Gulch - or - The Perfumed Badge" at the Big Texan Steak House in Amarillo.

The melodrama is presented by Quickdraw Productions, a semi-professional theatre group, under the direction of Brent McFarland.

Gililland portrays Widow Black, the melodrama's villainess and proprietor of the Roaring Gulch Hotel.

The cast of characters also includes the heroine, Willie Lovelace, daughter of the sheriff who died with fever and who has now assumed her father's badge; twin brothers, Harry Heartstone and Snipe Vermin, hero and villain, respectively; Barney

Black, Bill Filbert, Martha Muldoon, Col. Crabtree, and showgirls Flora and Dora.

"This melodrama was presented by the Hereford Community Players at the Music Stand in the 70's. I played the heroine as a member of that cast," Gililland said.

According to Gililland, the production encourages audience participation.

"You can boo the villain, throw popcorn, cheer the hero and swoon for the heroine," she said.

The melodrama, which started this weekend, will be performed Fridays and Saturdays through Aug. 23. Dinner is served at 6:30 and the production begins at 8, preceded by the olio at 7:30.

For additional information, call 806-372-6000.

CHILD ABUSE AND NEGLECT

According to a recent report on child maltreatment by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, for every 1,000 children in America, eight suffer from neglect, four are physically abused, two are sexually abused, and less than one suffer emotional abuse or medical neglect. Victims range from infants to adolescents, with children under the age of 3 most at risk.

In 1995, more than 3 million U.S. children were reported abused and neglected. Child fatalities remained high. An estimated 1,215 children were killed last year in our nation as a result of child abuse and neglect. Over 5,400 children in our nation died as a result of this tragedy during the five-year period between 1990 and 1994.

In Texas, 99,780 reports of child abuse and neglect were made to Texas' child protective service agencies. More than 45,000 Texas children were confirmed victims of child abuse and neglect.

In a survey by the National Committee, for the Prevention of Child Abuse, responding states named SUBSTANCE ABUSE and POVERTY as the top two problems of families reported for maltreatment. LACK OF SPECIFIC PARENTING SKILLS, including poor understanding of child development, and DOMESTIC VIOLENCE were also cited as common stresses for families receiving services.

The Children's Trust Fund of Texas has given our school district a grant to help with the child abuse problem in Deaf Smith County. THE SUCCESSFUL FAMILY program is the result of that funding. If your family needs growth or development of better understandings between the family, call Tilli Boozer, facilitator and therapist for the program at 364-HELP or 363-7668 for information that could help. Mark your calendars for October 7 as the beginning date for our next Nurturing Family sessions to be held at the Hereford Independent School District building.

It's clean-up, fix-up time in our community.

— YOUR EYES —

CROSS-EYES

An eyeglass is more than just a magnifying lens. An individualized lens prescription lens. This corrects an eye coordination problem by "tricking" one eye to see the same object as the other. If the two eyes do not point in the same direction at the same time, the prism can change the direction of the light entering an eye so that the image from the prism-aided eye reaches a corresponding point on the retina as that reached by the eye without the prism. That way, though each eye retains the muscle posture most comfortable for it, the two eyes can see—and the brain perceives the image—as if they were pointing in the same direction. This correction prevents double vision. Prisms are a particularly effective method of correction when one eye tends to turn up or down in relation to the other.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

SUN DRENCHED SUN ROOM

Kitchen Perfect For Casual Entertaining

Plentiful windows abound in this plan by W. D. Farmer. Entrance to the home is from a wide porch.

The large activity room with corner fireplace and rear sun deck access, flows comfortably into the oversized kitchen with unique angular shaped counters and bay window. Laundry facilities and a pantry are nearby.

Directly adjacent is the enormous sun room which could have a multitude of uses for your family. This room includes outdoor access from both ends, providing an extra entrance for guests.

The master suite is located to the rear of the home and includes an octagonal tray ceiling and is shown with a large walk in closet. The garden bath is a feature of the home, having both a separate shower, and garden tub surrounded by windows.

The two family bedrooms are on the opposite side of the home, giving the master suite a peaceful retreat. These bed rooms have generous proportions and ample closet space.

The exterior of the home is simple with a comfortable informal look. An appealing roof design is complimented by horizontal siding and shuttered windows.

The house contains 1,550 square feet of space, with an additional 272 square feet in the beautiful sun room. A basement foundation is provided. For further information on plan number Z-517, write W. D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc., P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 31145.

Curtin rises to the occasion on NBC's 3rd Rock

By Luaine Lee

©TVData Features Syndicate

When Jane Curtin was just starting out in New York as an actress-comic, her pal Henry Winkler warned her she was not ambitious enough to succeed in show business.

She listened attentively — the way she'd been taught at boarding school — and proceeded to ignore his advice.

Despite two Emmys, a five-year stint with Saturday Night Live, a first-class berth on Kate & Allie for six years, and a variety of movies and specials, Curtin still lacks ambition.

She hates looking for a job, she explains, leaning back on the velvet cushion in her small dressing room.

"I'd rather wait for the telephone to ring," she says with a shrug.

That's how she snagged her latest gig as straight woman to the mixed-up aliens on NBC's 3rd Rock from the Sun, which airs Sundays.

She was at home in rural Connecticut when she got a phone call from an old friend, television producer Bonnie Turner.

"I thought it was going to be one of those long conversations where I sit with my feet up on the counter with a glass of wine and talk to Bonnie for two hours," she says.

"At the end of the conversation, she said, 'What're you doing in March?' I said, 'I don't know, probably shoveling snow.'"

The original 3rd Rock pilot had misfired, and the producers asked Curtin if she was willing to fill in on a new pilot. She agreed as long as she didn't have to commit to anything.

It's just another example of Curtin taking the road less traveled.

On Saturday Night Live, she was the odd one out: a former debutante who originally planned to be a diplomat in the foreign service.

"I was the conventional-looking one," she says. "I looked like a young mother, not threatening. I was what people were used to seeing on television — this enormous face that was young and dewy."

"The network (executives) wanted to sit next to me at dinner because they knew I wouldn't hurt them."

Curtin got her start in commercials. "I knew I was glib and knew I could make a living in some way through my wits," she says.

"There was always something I could do. I did a lot of Lysol (commercials), I think because I was one of the cleanest people at the audition."

She's kidding about that. But Curtin does come across as clean-cut, from her cultured upper-middle-class demeanor to her Connecticut Yankee approach to life.

When she watched John Belushi, her co-star on Saturday Night Live, wallowing in drugs, she was not amused. "It's devastating to lose a friend to anything," she says, "but when somebody is hellbent on doing it, there's no way you can stop them."

"All of John's heroes died young and died from indulgence. He kind of liked that idea: Live fast, die young, have a good-looking corpse. But when you're doing speedballs (the heroin-cocaine combination that killed Belushi), your corpse isn't very good-looking."

Curtin has been married to writer-producer Patrick Lynch for 25 years. They have a 14-year-old daughter, and the family is living in Los Angeles temporarily until 3rd Rock has run its course.

When it has, "and all television shows have a shelf life," Curtin says, the family will return to Connecticut.

And there, Curtin once again will take up her position next to the phone.

Jane Curtin plays an earthling academic surrounded by aliens in NBC's surprise hit 3rd Rock from the Sun, airing Sundays. Curtin's comic pedigree, dating from the successful '70s run of Saturday Night Live, makes her a perfect straight-woman foil for alien antics.

HOROSCOPES

★ July 13-19 ★

ARIES - March 21/April 20
You have big dreams this week as everything at work goes rather well. You begin to realize how far you can advance in the workplace if you just put in the extra effort. Your romantic life blossoms when you meet someone who sweeps you off your feet. Libra plays a key role.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21
Don't give up the fight too easily in an emotional roller coaster the past few weeks, everything goes smoothly now. Your days pass without any problems at work and at home. While this would have been boring just a few days ago, it's a welcome change now. Pisces plays an important role later in the week.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
While you feel like you've been on an emotional roller coaster the past few weeks, everything goes smoothly now. Your days pass without any problems at work and at home. While this would have been boring just a few days ago, it's a welcome change now. Pisces plays an important role later in the week.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Your sense of humor wins the approval of superiors at work and gets you noticed by important people. You'll be smiling all the way to the bank. Unfortunately, your personal life isn't as rosy. You have a spat with a loved one, which gets you down. Don't get discouraged; things will be back to normal soon.

LEO - July 23/August 23
You are in control this week. Co-workers look to you for advice and help, and you set the pace of a new project. As for your personal life, once again, you're in charge. You finally ask that interesting person out. Don't get nervous; he or she will say yes.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Your perfectionist nature stands out early in the week. While your efforts delay the completion of a job at work, you ensure that the job is done properly. Superiors are pleased with your efforts. As for your love life, an on-again-off-again relationship moves full speed ahead, and you are happy with the results.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Even though you can be indecisive, this week, you're in the driver's seat. You know exactly what you want and how to get it. Don't let anything stand in your way. Work for that promotion; ask that special someone out. This is your chance to shine. Don't let yourself down. Cancer plays a key role.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Don't let your ego get the best of you when it comes to work early in the week. You are not the only person who knows what he or she is doing. Don't forget that. As for a family matter, you will be told repeatedly what you need to do to prepare for a family event. Try to remain calm.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Someone you haven't seen in a very long time comes back into your life. You think about what could have been back then and what will be in the future. Stay determined, and work toward your dream. Taurus and Virgo play important roles early in the week.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Don't get distracted at work this week. You have a lot to do, and you need to stay focused in order to get it all done. Co-workers try to get you involved in an internal dispute; stay out of it. As for your family life, you'll be relaxed. Loved ones help you with a problem that you're concerned about.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
A business proposition offers you almost unbelievable benefits. However, before you make a move, think about it. Be realistic, and consider if all of the perks really are possible. Loved ones are there to give you advice if you need it. Don't make a hasty decision. Scorpio plays a key role.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20
You see life through rose-colored glasses during the middle of the week when everything goes well. You advance at work, and your personal life is moving along well. Someone you've been interested in shows that he or she also is interested in you. Now's your chance to make a move. Don't be nervous; it will work out in your favor.

Morgan J. Freeman, director of Hurricane, is one of four independent filmmakers profiled in Discovered at Sundance, airing Wednesday on PBS (check local listings).

Portrait of the artist as an indie filmmaker

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

"I have to make films, because it allows me to express myself," says Vondie Curtis-Hall, director of Gridlock'd. Curtis-Hall, who hasn't quit his day job playing Dr. Dennis Hancock in Chicago Hope, is one of four first-time filmmakers profiled in Discovered at Sundance, a half-hour special airing Wednesday, July 16, on PBS (check local listings).

Also featured are Morgan J. Freeman (Hurricane), Mark Schwahn (35 Miles From Normal) and Los Angeles schoolteacher Laura Angelica Simon (Fear and Learning at Hoover Elementary).

Filmmaker Dalton Delan catches up with these independent filmmakers at the Sundance Film Festival in Park City, Utah, where Hurricane and Fear won awards in January.

The idea of capturing the behind-the-scenes experiences of newcomers to this Cannes-in-the-Rockies certainly is an interesting one, and Delan is nothing if not sincere in the attempt.

"By sharing this emotional journey with us, they endowed us with an opportunity to portray the struggles of the artists within the indie film community with the candor and empathy they deserve," he says.

Freeman, who now has a manager and an agent, calls Sundance "the launching pad" for independent filmmakers. Schwahn views the festival in even more practical terms: "Now at least I have my foot in the door."

Unfortunately, Discovered at Sundance makes Freeman, Curtis-Hall and Schwahn look like dilettantes.

But the self-congratulatory mist burns away in Delan's portrait of Simon.

Simon made her film out of deep concerns that illegal immigrant students might be forced out of schools by California's Proposition 187.

Simon is shown returning from Sundance to racist threats and anonymous letters of criticism - as well as offers for movie and TV deals.

Delan is trying to tell a story, not fill a scrapbook - and because of Simon's concern for others, Discovered at Sundance ends on an inspiring note.

Chasing the Dragon (1996) Markie Post, Dennis Boutsikaris. A working mother becomes addicted to heroin after using the drug to cope with the pressures of her life. (CC) 2:00. July 15 8pm.

Cheerleader Camp (1988) Betsy Russell, Laila Garrett. A mentally unstable cheerleader becomes a murder suspect when her teammates take a bloody tumble. (In Stereo) 2:00. July 19 2am.

TV PIPELINE

Q: Please help me remember what other series the actress who plays Terry in Fired Up has been in. -Wondering in North Dakota.

A: You may remember Leah Remini Terry in Fired Up as Carla's (Rhea Perlman) rebellious daughter Sarafina in Cheers or in the recurring role of in Evening Shade.

Remini also had a recurring role in Saved by the Bell, as well as regular roles in Living Dolls, First Time Out and The Man in the Family, the last two of which the actress doesn't even mention in her NBC biography.

Q: My favorite character on The X-Files is agent Pendrell, played by Brendan Beiser. Do you have any information on him? -S.W. Fraser via e-mail.

A: Not much beyond the fact that he is a native of Boston, made a guest appearance in an episode of The Sentinel and has a role in the upcoming film Excess Baggage, which has its U.S. release in August.

He also co-starred with Harry Anderson (Dave's World) in a TV movie remake of Harvey, which was filmed last year in Canada but apparently never has aired.

Q: Can you please tell me why Kirstie Alley replaced the actress who played Rose Marie in the early scenes of The Last Don? -J. Master-son, Spring Hill, Fla.

A: Alley played the same character at an older age.

Q: I remember watching the great show Naked City, which I believe starred George C. Scott. Am I right about the star? -J. Ward O'Brien via e-mail.

A: Sorry, no. James Franciscus and John McIntire (whose character was killed off during the first season) were the Naked stars when the series premiered on ABC in 1958. Paul Burke joined Franciscus in 1960, and both continued through the rest of the run, which ended in 1963.

Scott also starred in East Side/West Side, which aired on CBS during the 1963-64 season.

Q: I say that a Russian ballet dancer named Alexander Godunov co-starred in Witness with Harrison Ford and Kelly McGillis. My wife says I'm wrong. -John Dowling, New Smyrna Beach, Fla.

A: Alexander Godunov received raves for his performance in that 1985 thriller. He also appeared in Die Hard.

His fans were shocked when the former ballet star died unexpectedly at age 45 on May 18, 1995. His doctor attributed Godunov's demise to natural causes, but several obituaries reported he died of heart failure brought on by alcoholism.

He had been undergoing treatment for alcohol abuse for two years prior to his death.

THE BUCK STARTS HERE.

Newspaper is usually the first place people go when considering a purchase. It's their primary source of advertising information.

Newspaper helps spark the local economy by putting dollars into circulation. And that's good for everyone, not just the retailer.

Because a strong local economy means lower property taxes, more jobs, tax support for community services and a better place to live.

Newspaper is more than just a smart place to advertise.

It's an integral part of our lives.

Newspaper. It delivers.
