The most effective projects in relieving congestion tended to be most expensive. As it is, DOT spokeswoman Penny Mason said the state is funding only 38 percent of its planned road projects.

No additional funding has been promised to West Texas for the proposed improvements.

'I can't say how pleased we are about the priorities," former San Angelo mayor Dick Funk said of the projects that would affect his area. 'However, we're not so pleased about the time frames.'

Following Thursday's meeting and a final 10-day public comment period, HDR will deliver a final study to the Texas Transportation Commission next month. If approved, DOT district offices will add the projects to their to-do lists.

From there, projects could take years to materialize. The lowest priority improvements of the 142 that HDR studied might never come

Two routes from Amarillo to the Oklahoma border and three from Lubbock to Interstate 10 were slated for piecemeal improvements in May 95, when HDR determined that traffic densities didn't justify expanding Interstate 27.

Ag producers would like tax abolished

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) While death and taxes remain life's surest bets, farmers, ranchers and small business owners hope Washington's new budget deal means taxes after death aren't quite as automatic.

The federal estate tax, known disdainfully as the "death tax" in agricultural circles, should be ab lished, Comanche rancher

John Dudley says. Congress isn't eliminating the tax. But a compromise budget deal worked out by Republicans and the White House includes the first meaningful estate tax changes in more than a decade. Lawmakers are rushing to ratify the tax bill by weck's end.

"It's a step in the right direction," Dudley said Thursday.

The individual exemption from federal estate taxes for heirs would increase from $600,000 to $1.3 million for family agricultural producers and small business owners. The exemption increases to $1 million over the next 10 years for everyone else.

Farmers say the tax is unfair because most of their assets are tied up in land and equipment rather than ready cash. That sometimes forces heirs to sell land parcels to meet the tax, which starts at 37 percent.

"It doesn't take many acres of a dryland cotton farm to get up to where the government really starts breathing down your neck," said U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry, R-Clarendon, a rancher and ardent supporter of estate tax relief.

"This really helps us, where you don't get punished as much for having an asset you try to pass on to your kids, so they can keep the business if they want to, Thornberry said.

Another component of the tax bill would allow farmers to average their income over the prior three years when paying taxes in 1998, 1999 and possibly 2000. The idea is to average the income variances they face. including weather, insects and markets

While conservatives and rural lawmakers hailed the resulting reductions, some criticized them as just another benefit for the rich.

Mike Ettlinger, tax policy director for the liberal Citizens for Tax Justice, said rich urbanites are hiding behind farmers to avoid paying estate taxes in excess of 37 percent.

"They're using farmers as a sympathetic face to make an unsympathetic argument," he said. "The estate tax only applies to the most valuable 1{ percent of estates. For most people, it's hard to swallow that kind of tax cut, so they bring out the farmers and put them out front.'

Estate taxes do appear to affect rural Americans more than their city-dwelling counterparts. Only 1.5 percent of all Americans are subject to estate taxes. Of farmers, 6 percent are affected, the U.S. Agriculture Department figures.

The farmers and businesses who will see the greatest impact will be those now just over the $600,000 limit, said Douglas L. Maxwell, a USDA researcher.

'It (the tax relief) is not going to affect really huge farms that much, because it only chops off a certain amount," Maxwell said.

Other supporters of estate tax relief are conservationists fighting to prevent large rural spreads from being parcaled out to developers.

"Really, one of the biggest threats to conservation is the fragmentation of large ranches," said Robert J. Potts, Texas director for The Nature Conservancy, which just recently agreed to buy a huge remote spread to keep it

"The estate tax is one of the things that is driving people into selling their ranches," Potts said. However, Maxwell wrote in a June study that while tax relief should make inheritance of farms and ranches easier, "only about a third of the heirs in each generation choose to operate inherited family farms."

Dudley said he plans to keep his North Central Texas ranch in the family for awhile, even after paying out two six-figure estate tax bills in the past 21 years.

Dudley said that although he still doesn't understand why the government demands so much after death when landowners have paid so much during life, he's at least glad to see lawmakers address the issue.

"It's a good start," he said.

Along with increases in pay and pensions, the Teamsters have pressed UPS to limit subcontracting, strengthen safety and health provisions and create more full-time obs. About two-thirds of the Teamsters-represented employees are part-time workers.

A key sticking point was the company's insistence on ending its participation in the union's multi-employer pension and health funds to establish a separate UPS benefits pool.

The company said that in addition to a modest wage increase, its offer included a $3,060 bonus for full-time employees and $1,530 for part-timers. If profit goals are met, the bonuses would be repeated in two years. Full-time UPS drivers earn $19.95 an hour on average.

UPS also said it had created 1,000 new full-time jobs and given part-timers a leg up in applying for full-time posts when they became open. The Teamsters want more full-time jobs.

"They're tired of part-time America. They want full-time jobs. They want full benefits," Stephenson said today as he waited with other workers in Atlanta.

Ruchell White, 22, said he has been a part-time worker loading packages for drivers for five years.

"I want a full-time job," White said. "For the past few years I've been putting in 45 to 50 hours a week, but I'm still considered part time.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Enclosed is a copy of a poem I cut from a newspaper many years ago. It seemed it had been placed there just for me because at that time of my life, I was very sad and lonely. I have carried it in my wallet since then, and whenever I feel morose, I get it out and read it. I have no idea who wrote it and would really like to know the author. I felt that should you print it in your column, someone else might carry it around as I have for inspiration when there is a need. --Blue Springs, Mo.

Dear Blue Springs: This poem is one of the most requested pieces I have run in my column, and I am pleased to print it again for those who may have missed it.

After a While by Veronica A. Shoffstall After a while, you learn the subtle

And you learn that love doesn't mean leaning

And company doesn't mean security,

And you begin to learn that kisses aren't contracts

With your head up and your eyes

With the grace of a woman, not the grief of a child,

And learn to build all your roads

Because tomorrow's ground is too uncertain for plans,

And futures have a way of falling down in midflight. And after a while, you learn

That even sunshine burns if you get too much.

So you plant your own garden and decorate your own soul,

Instead of waiting for someone to bring you flowers.

And you learn that you really can

That you really are strong And you really do have worth And you learn and learn ...

With every goodbye, you learn. Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I feel doubly blessed. After many years of infertility, we decided to adopt a baby. We ended up adopting two babies who are just a few weeks apart in age. The problem arises when strangers approach our stroller and ask, "Are they twins?" We don't feel our private life needs to be an open book, but how, should we respond? If we say "yes," they will ask all kinds of questions. If we say "no," they're sure to wonder why we have two children so close in age. I could say, "No, they're not twins, but they are brother and sister," but I don't think that's a good response, either.

8-foot cross on prayer walk will travel past 190-foot Groom cross on a trek across the United States and will be carried through the Texas Panhandle in late August.

It is called "Prayer Walk Across America," but it will actually be more of a relay involving hundreds of Christians across the United States, according to Jeff Messer, pastor of Amarillo's Southlawn Baptist Church.

The walk will begin Sunday in Los Angeles and will end in Washington, D.C., on Oct. 4 at the Promise Keepers Solemn Assembly.

Volunteers will take turns walking an eight-foot cross along a route that will include I-40 across the Texas Panhandle.

Messer has an extra passion for the Cross Walk because his brother Randy, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Oak Grove, Mo., is cofounder of the event with Clarence Lance. Randy and Lance have been involved in two prayer walks in Kansas City.

'We carry the symbol of the cross to graphically demonstrate to the Panhandle, America and the world that the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ is the light of the world," said Randy Messer.

During the coming walk, the eightfoot cross will travel past the 190-foot cross constructed along I-40 near

At 6 p.m. Aug. 25, the procession will stop for a prayer, praise and worship service at the base of the Groom cross. Jeff Messer hopes it will attract a large gathering of believers.

He said the event has sparked interest with lots of groups, and he's expecting a big turnout.

As I was reading the scripture about how Christ fed the 5,000, I thought 'this is kind of like that," said Messer. He said he won't be surprised if there are as many as 10,000 at the gathering, which will include a praise band made up of Steve and Pam Hutsell of Groom.

We realize there are a lot of logistical problems (to accommodate this many). We're asking folks to bring lawn chairs, blankets and even a picnic lunch if they like."

Messer said that the cross walk and the Groom event will give many of the area Promise Keepers a chance to participate in the Sacred Assembly in Washington, D.C.

Estimates are that 1.8 million men have already made plans to attend the Oct. 4 day of prayer and repentance in Washington

'Many people wont' be able to go to Washington, but this will give them an opportunity to have participated in a Promise Keepers prayer rally," Messer said.

He emphasized that the cross walk and Groom rally are not just for men, but for all believers of ever age, gender and denomination.

Saunders leads Marlins to a win over Atlai

By ADAM NAZIMOWITZ Associated Press Writer

Tony Saunders occasionally pitches like Greg Maddux. Unfortunately for Maddux and the Atlanta Braves, those occasions only come when the four-time Cy Young Award winner is in the opposing dugout. Saunders, a rookie left-hander, improved to 3-0 against Atlanta with a 1.35 ERA after pitching seven shutout innings in Florida's 1-0 victory Thursday night.

Darren Daulton drove in the only run with a fourth-inning single.

"This was special," Saunders said. "We had a lot of fans, and everyone seemed to be into every pitch."

The game, delayed by rain for 54 minutes at the start, drew a crowd of 30,559.

"I always say that when you invite four people to a party, it's not much fun," Daulton said. "When you invite 30,000, it's a lot of fun."

Florida pulled within 6 games of first-place Atlanta in the AL East.

"It was just a great, exciting game, and very tense," Marlins manager Jim Leyland said. "It doesn't get much better than that."

Saunders, 0-3 against other teams, had just two runs of support from the Marlins in his last four starts.

Sometimes when you go through tough times like that, it makes you better," Leyland said.

Jay Powell and Dennis Cook each retired one batter in the eighth for Florida, Robb Nen followed with 1 1-3 perfect innings for his 27th save of the season, the 100th of his career. Expos 9, Padres 2

At Montreal, Rondell White drove in four runs, hitting one of three Expos' home runs, and Dustin Hermanson (5-5) pitched six solid

Henry Rodriguez and Chris

White gave Montreal a 1-0 lead in the first with his 17th homer, off Sterling Hitchcock (7-6), and made it 6-0 in the second with a three-run

White went 3-for-4 and is 17-for-34 with two doubles, a triple, three homers and 12 RBIs in eight games. He is 6-for-6 with three homers lifetime off Hitchcock.

Rodriguez hit a two-run shot in Montreal's three-run first, and Widger added a three-run homer in the third.

Phillies 2, Cardinals 1

Midre Cummings' bases-loaded single with two outs in the bottom of the 10th scored Gregg Jefferies gave Philadelphia its third straight victory.

Cummings, who entered in the ninth as a pinch-runner, hit a ball to deep right-center off Tony Fossas Ricky Bottalico (2-3) pitched a hitless 10th for the win.

Philadelphia's Curt Schilling allowed four hits and one run in nine innings, retiring 18 straight at one

The Dodgers improved to a season-best 10 games over .500 to tie (1-3), just out of the reach of Willie San Francisco, while the Cubs lost their eighth straight.

Park (10-5) won his fifth consecutive start, retiring 19 straight before Sammy Sosa walked to lead off the ninth. He struck out seven and walked two. Todd Worrell gave up one hit and got three outs for his 27th save.

Raul Mondesi hit his 23rd homer in the sixth, drove in a run with a first-inning grounder and scored in the fourth after singling.

The Pirates, who had lost 10 of 15, have outscored the Rockies 47-25 while going 5-0 against them this season.

Rockies starter Roger Bailey (9-8) was working on a two-hit shutout until pinch-hitter Turner Ward singled and scored on Jermaine Allensworth's

Sox have hard time after trade-offs

By The Associated Press

The Chicago White Sox's garage sale of their pitching staff has left them a little short-handed in that department. There's nothing wrong with their hitting, however.

The White Sox blew a nine-run lead to the Anaheim Angels, but still managed to pull out a 14-12 victory

Thursday night. The White Sox were down to two pitchers by the end of the game, having traded Wilson Alvarez, Roberto Hernandez and Danny Darwin to San Francisco for six minor leaguers earlier in the day.

'We had the trades and had a chance for a little distraction," said Chicago manager Terry Bevington, whose team also traded Harold Baines on Tuesday in an effort to get rid of some of their high-priced players. "But that shows the character on this club. Nobody laid down and we scored a ton of runs."

The seesaw game in Anaheim saw the White Sox get off to a 9-0 lead before the Angels rallied to tie it at

At Milwaukee, Dave Nilsson's two-out RBI single in the ninth led the surging Brewers over Seattle.

Nilsson's broken-bat, bloop hit to right field brought home Fernando Vina from third to give the Brewers their season-high eighth straight victory.

Vina led off the Brewers' ninth with a single off Jamie Moyer (11-4). After Mark Loretta sacrificed Vina to second, Jeff Cirillo flied to center, sending Vina to third.

The Red Sox took a 2-1 lead in the top of the 10th when Nomar Garciaparra doubled with two outs and came around on two wild pitches by Hector Carrasco (1-1).

Heathcliff Slocumb (0-5) started the bottom of the 10th and loaded the bases with a hit batter, a fielder's-choice grounder, a single and a walk.

Mike Sweeney scored the tying run on Slocumb's wild pitch, and the Red Sox intentionally walked Jay Bell. Davis then punched a single barely in front of center fielder Darren Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/ products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

-- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.
