Hospital board gets annual audit report, told of discrepancies

BY RICK LANNING
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Hospital Board of Directors should "strengthen internal controls and operating efficiency" in order to present a more accurate picture of their financial operations, an auditor told them Tuesday.

While stating Hereford Regional Medical Center's financial condition was sound, Donna West, a shareholder and CPA for Brown, Graham & Co. of Hereford, told the directors her audit uncovered the following discrepancies:

-- In accounts payable, checks were being prepared without proper documentation, "being authorized by management with no support obtained for travel voucher money for conferences and other hospital-related activities."

-- During her audit of cash in the bank, West noted that accounting personnel were "overriding the computer and forcing the checkbook balance to match with the general ledger balance." She said these errors should be corrected in a more timely manner and recommended stronger supervision over accounting personnel.

-- The hospital's computer "lost" data in the October and November 1992 month end close, she said, adding, "In examining the detail accounting records supporting financial statements, we could not always locate the documentation." She recommended improving the system for storage and retrieval of information "both for the benefit of Center personnel, the auditors, and other officials who need to look at accounting detail records."

Overall, said Ms. West, the medical center is improving its financial condition and cash flow. While current assets are down from 1992 because of higher salaries and other fixed expenses, patient accounts receivable are up sharply, she noted.

She said the medical center had increased its payroll by adding more employees, which boosted current liabilities. The audit recommended that the center improve its consistency of keeping records and noted that patients were "not always entered into the system in a consistent manner...ICU or nursery patients, for example, were entered as semi-private."

The hospital's current assets total $2,632,819 compared to $2,106,674 at the same time last year. Current liabilities are also up -- $1,221,733 compared to $1,010,325 last year.

In other action, Ron Rives, chief executive officer, said he has given Southwest Medical Inc. notice that the center is canceling Southwest's contract to provide the center with its emergency room services.

Last year the medical center paid Southwest Medical $345,000 to furnish physicians and other medical assistance to staff the emergency room 12 hours a day Monday through Friday and 24 hours on weekends.

Rives complained that the firm "doesn't communicate effectively with us" and noted that the only communications Southwest Medical made was to twice increase its hourly rates and once to collect money owed the firm.

One company under consideration to replace Southwest Medical is Staff-Mark Inc. of Corpus Christi, said Rives. No decision has been made, however, and a number of other companies are in the running for the contract.

Rives said Southwest Medical has been doing all of the center's emergency room work, including patient billing.

Candidate forum set Thursday

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Legislative Affairs Committee and the Hereford Educators Association will co-sponsor a special legislative forum for county candidates on Thursday here.

The forum will be held at 7 p.m. in the Community Center. It will give local residents the opportunity to meet all of the county primary election candidates and to hear answers from questions posed by voters.

The public is urged to attend this event. The forum will allow candidates time for opening remarks followed by a question-and-answer period. Then, each candidate will be allowed time for closing remarks.

The forum will be videotaped and will be replayed on Hereford Cablevision prior to the March 8 Republican and Democratic primaries.

The public is invited to submit questions for the candidates to the Chamber offices, 701 N. Main. For more information, call Larry Canada, chairman of the Legislative Affairs Committee, at 364-6801, or Carolyn Waters, HEA president, at 364-0596.

Togas garb of choice for Fun Breakfast

Imagine this -- Charlie Bell and John Stagner, strutting around in their best togas.

On Thursday, you can bring this mental image to life at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast, which will be held at 6:30 a.m. in the Community Center.

The first Fun Breakfast of 1994 will be sponsored by Hereford Travel Center and everyone is invited to come dressed in a toga to celebrate.

Bell and Stagner, co-emcees of the breakfast, will again be in command of the breakfast, which helps Hereford Travel celebrate National Cruise Vacation Month.

Judges will select the best togas at a "Toga Contest," and will present some exciting gifts that Bell said will be "well worth the effort."

The breakfast also will include drawings for door prizes, special community announcements, games and presentation of the Bull Chip award.

Cost of the breakfast is $5 reservations must be made by 5 p.m. today by calling the chamber at 364-3333.

The meal will be catered by Lois Lemons and Mary Herring of Something Special.

'Arkansas-ology' back as by-product of probe

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - The Whitewater investigation has spurred a new round of what one native calls "Arkansas-ology," the national study of a small, poor southern state that happens to be the home of America's president, and some are unsettled by the scrutiny.

A little more than a year ago, Arkansas took a battering in the presidential campaign when George Bush called the state "the lowest of the low" and Marilyn Quayle asked rhetorically, "Do we want our country to look like Arkansas?"

Historically, the state was bashed as the backward refuge of hillbillies and hogs.

Its image took another hit in 1957, when Gov. Orval Faubus called out the National Guard to keep black schoolchildren out of Little Rock's Central High.

Most recently, the focus has been Whitewater: possible ethical conflicts stemming from the interlocking legal, financial and political relationships at the heart of a land venture that Bill and Hillary Rodham Clinton owned along with the head of a failed savings and loan.

Some Arkansans chafe at the implication that their state is dominated by an inbred network of good ol' boys.

"Unhand Us, You Brutes," headlined a recent article in the weekly Arkansas Times, examining the latest flurry of media coverage.

"A recurring theme ... is that the smallness of Arkansas makes conflicts of interest and other ethical lapses proportionately more numerous than in large states. Especially if big-city journalists aren't around to assist natives whose own ethical standards, or IQs, are too low to protect the public interest," the Times said.

In fact, Arkansas looks a lot better than a lot of other places, said state Sen. Jim Keet, who has lived in six other states.

"I think the good ol' boy network is alive and well in politics in every state and in our nation's capital. But I find that Arkansas in the last decade has made some dramatic steps into the future and has left other states in their wake in (cleaning up) the seedier side of politics."

Hopes were high here that electing an Arkansan to the White House would boost the state's image.

But the Whitewater probe has meant a new spate of what Sam

Heuer, lawyer for former Clinton associate James McDougal, calls "Arkansas-ology."

McDougal, who owned the property with the Clintons, also ran Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan. Mrs. Clinton's law firm represented the thrift, then later helped federal regulators sue an accounting company that audited the failed S&L.

Lamar Pettus, president of the Arkansas Bar Association, sees no ethics problem there and argues that the state's size is more likely to guarantee integrity.

"In a small state, people take pride in their reputation ... and word gets around quick," Pettus said.

Reputation aside, Arkansas has produced its share of successes.

These include Jack and the late Witt Stephens, whose brokerage company became a major force on Wall Street; Sam Walton and his Wal-Mart chain; Tyson Foods and TCBY Yogurt; hit TV producer Harry Thomason; actress Mary Steenburgen; and Jerry Jones, owner of the back-to-back Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys.

Meanwhile, McDougal took a look on the bright side of the news coverage.

Hutchison, Richards disagree on special legislative session

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) - U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison is suggesting a special legislative session to change the way state government ethics laws are enforced.

Mrs. Hutchison, a Republican who was found innocent last week after an eight-month investigation by the Travis County district attorney, said she believes ethics rules and their enforcement should be handled by a bipartisan commission.

Democratic Gov. Ann Richards says she won't call lawmakers back to Austin before their regular session begins in January "over anything but a major crisis."

However, she told reporters in Austin that a bipartisan panel to look into the ethics issue is a possibility.

"I think it's time just to let the dust settle. I think that we don't want to rush into any action," Richards said. "What we really want to do is to allow everyone to have a little time to absorb what's taken place here in the past six months or so."

Richards, whose office has been embroiled in a controversy over destroyed long-distance phone records, predicted there will be "a tremendous amount of discussion between now and the next legislative session on how we can clearly define (ethics requirements), so that there is no room for misunderstanding or misinterpretation."

Mrs. Hutchison, in a telephone interview during a Tuesday campaign swing through East Texas, said, "The Legislature should really change the laws for enforcement of ethics laws."

"The Legislature makes the laws, they're very vague, and they have delegated the responsibility to the district attorney of Travis County for the enforcement of those laws," she said.

Under state law, the Travis County district attorney's public integrity unit investigates alleged wrongdoing by state officials.

Mrs. Hutchison has said she believes the investigation of her was a Democratic plot sparked by her landslide special election victory last June.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Hutchison told Austin radio station KLBJ that she would urge Richards to call a special session to consider such changes.

"She could call a special session and the Legislature could handle it right now," the senator said.

Leadership team meeting

Nena Veazey, standing, executive assistant to the HISD superintendent, shares a laugh with some district personnel during a meeting Tuesday of the District Leadership Team. The team -- comprised of teachers, administrators, maintenance staff, custodians, para-professionals, parents and community representatives -- worked Tuesday to refine long-range plans and short-term objectives implemented by them over the past three years. The day-long meeting included discussions on "where we are now and where do we want to be" in relation to the district mission statement, Mrs. Veazey said. The suggestions made by the team will be collected by Mrs. Veazey, returned to the team for further comments, then forwarded to the School board for its consideration, hopefully for the March meeting.

Local Roundup

Cloudy, warm on Thursday

Hereford recorded a high temperature of 57 degrees on Tuesday, according to KPAN Radio, with an overnight low Wednesday of 25 degrees. For tonight, look for increasing high clouds and a low in the upper 30s, with south winds at 10-20 mph. For Thursday, forecasters are calling for partly cloudy skies and windy, with a high around 70 degrees. Southwesterly winds will increase to 20-30 mph and will be gusty. Caution is advised on area lakes.

City invites pool review

A public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at City Hall to give residents an opportunity to look at plans for a new swimming pool complex. Members of the planning committee, the architect and the City Commission will be present to answer questions and discuss the plans.

Commodity distribution set

Panhandle Community Services will distribute commodities on Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Bull Barn. Seniors citizens will need to use the east door. All clients must provide proof of residency and identification. New applications will be taken on everyone.

Lions auction, supper scheduled

The Hereford Lions Club will host its annual fundraising auction on Saturday from 10 a.m. until everything is gone. The auction is being held separately from the Pancake Supper, which is Feb. 24. The auction will be held in the Community Center. Food will be available for purchase during the day. There will be more than 200 lots on the block for sale. The Pancake Supper will be held from 5:15 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the Hereford High School cafeteria. Tickets are $3.50 each and are available from Lions Club members or at the door. Proceeds from the auction and supper will go toward a variety of Lions Club charitable activities.

World/Nation

TOKYO - U.S. accusations that Tokyo has broken promises to open up its cellular phone market - the first volley in what could be a series of punitive actions against Tokyo on trade - drew a mild response today from Japanese officials, who say they are studying their apparently limited options.

WASHINGTON - President and Mrs. Clinton are beginning a two-week push to try to convince senior citizens that the White House strategy is the best medicine for the nation's health care ills.

WASHINGTON - Adm. Frank B. Kelso II hopes his hastened retirement will mark "the end of Tailhook." But questions about the Navy's handling of the sex scandal are likely to dog the service, Congress and Kelso for months to come.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti - It is the stench that assaults you first when you enter Cite Soleil, the huge slum in Port-au-Prince. Burning garbage mixes with smoke from charcoal fires. The smell burns your nostrils. Then the sheer volume of humanity stuns you.

MOSCOW - Five years after the last Soviet armored personnel carrier rolled across a bridge over the Amu Darya River, Russia is still struggling with the physical and emotional repercussions of its bitter experiences in Afghanistan.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - The Whitewater investigation has spurred a new round of what one native calls "Arkansas-ology," the national study of a small, mostly poor southern state that's the home of the president. Some Arkansians are chafing at depiction of their state as dominated by inbred, "good ol' boy" networks.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - When astronauts Norman Thagard and Bonnie Dunbar leave next week for a year of cosmonaut training in Russia, they'll be taking along some of the comforts of home, including a VCR, a stereo and, oh yes, instant oatmeal.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

In answer to Garry Wesner's question about the origin of "25 Mile Avenue," I would like to offer my explanation of why it is so named, and where it began and ended. It was a straight road extending 25 miles. I was born on 25 Mile Avenue some 70 years ago and was curious about the name, so I asked my father about it and he told me that the south end was at Easter and ran straight north through Hereford for 25 miles, ending some 13 miles north of town.

At this time, roads jogged from town to town. Up until about 1935, you travelled to Dimmitt by going 12 miles straight south (on a dirt road) to the Carl Frye place (Easter) and then jogged east and south until you arrived in Dimmitt.

In fact, our local (cow pasture) airport was where the "curve" on U.S. 385 is now, so the "curve" had nothing to do with the naming of "25 Mile Avenue."

I don't know for sure why the road ended some 13 miles north of town unless it either jogged at this point or simply ended there or continued as a trail.

I can remember travelling to Friona as a small boy and we jogged many times, crossing the railroad every few miles. You can still see portions of this road around Summerfield on the south side of the RR tracks and it still serves as an access road.

I hope this sheds more light on this name. I enjoyed Joe Weaver's explanation of our city streets and he deserves our thanks for a job well done.

GOP whip hopes use to be made of collider

DALLAS (AP) - House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich says too much money and effort has been invested in the doomed superconducting super collider to let the project go to waste.

"If there are research assets and medical assets that already exist, let's not tear them down and destroy them. Let's find a way to use them in a practical common sense way," Gingrich said Tuesday at a news conference before departing for a tour of the Waxahachie site.

"In a time of tight budgets, I'd like to make sure we use common sense as much as possible," said Gingrich, who has supported the SCC.

Rep. Joe Barton, whose Ennis district encompasses the collider, escorted the Georgia Republican to "show Congressman Gingrich what $2 billion worth of federal and state money has created."

In 1993, Congress approved $640 million for the program's shutdown and the Clinton administration has requested $180 million more for 1995.

Last week, the Energy Department issued the first of its SSC termination reports, estimating the shutdown costs at $695 million.

Gingrich and Barton, also a Republican, said they hope the federal government would reimburse Texas for the $440 million-plus already spent on the giant atom smasher.

The Energy Department last week reaffirmed Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary's commitment to reimburse Texas. Gov. Ann Richards has been pressing the administration for a settlement.

But Republicans said the money's not coming soon enough. Barton says the DOE's statement is just talk.

"So far, the Clinton Administration has not honored its commitment to make that loss good to Governor Richards and the people of Texas," he said.

It's imperative that the administration swiftly decides what to do with the project, Barton says. If no action is "taken" soon, there may not be enough employees or equipment to carry out whatever solutions are decided upon, he said.

Richards' collider advisory task force, The National Academy of Sciences and others have urged that a core group of scientists be kept at the collider to plot a reduced future for the project.

Alternate uses for the SSC suggested by Gingrich include cancer treatment and research.

"That's a lot smarter way to use them since they're already built rather than tearing them down and just destroying them," he said.

'Origin of Words' subject of program

Terry's Florals and Designs provided the setting of the recent meeting of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Hostess, Connie Matthews, spoke on "The Origin of Words" as she focused on common phrases and tested members' knowledge of how those phrases began.

Members participating were Linda Arellano, Charla Edwards, Deann Harris, Melinda Henson, Peggy Hyer, Ruby Lee, Brenda Ramey, Gaye Reilly, Susan Shaw, Kay Williams, and Melinda Whitfill.

To begin the formal business meeting, President Arellano led the opening ritual. After roll call was taken and minutes read and approved, Arellano displayed the Open Circle Certificate received from International since at-large members, Whitfill and Edwards, returned to the chapter. She mentioned International's Disaster Fund and how it might be used to help victims of the recent Los Angeles earthquake.

Thank-yous were extended to secret sisters by Edwards, Ramey, Reilly and Harris. Reilly also thanked President Arellano for delivering her Christmas gift and Hyer for taking meeting minutes during her absence.

It was announced that City Council will host a fund raiser March 5.

Service committee chairman Shaw asked that used children's videos be brought to the next chapter meeting so they may be donated to the Deaf Smith County Library to be checked-out by the public.

Social committee chairman Williams said the Jan. 18 social featuring a party with Alpha Alpha Chapter was a big success. She noted that members of both chapters dressed up like a song and everyone had to guess the name of the tune.

Williams reminded members that Valentine dance tickets are on sale now and also will be sold at the door. She said there would be no pre-ball party. She reminded everyone of the chapter's anniversary party set in March and asked that names of legacies be submitted by then. She asked everyone to consider which weekend in April would be best for the chapter's New Mexico trip.

According to membership chairman Connie Matthews, many chapter members will be eligible to receive the Preceptor degree. She reminded members they will not be required to move to another chapter. Members eligible for the Preceptor degree include: Arellano, Holly Bixler, Harris, Hyer, Carol Kelley, Reilly, Shaw, Matthews and Williams. She announced that rituals would be held in April. She also spoke of the March 1 progression party for AIM members. It will also serve as a rush party for new members.

The meeting was adjourned and closing ritual and Mizpah were repeated. Matthews and co-hostess, Ruby Lee, served cake, candy and flavored tea to members based on a Valentine's Day motif.

Chili supper Saturday

The public is invited to attend a chili supper from 5-8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19, at the I.O.O.F. Hall, 205 E. Sixth St. The event is sponsored by the Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228. Tickets are priced at $3 for adults and $1.50 for children and can be purchased from lodge members or at the door.

The menu will consist of chili, beans, pie, coffee and tea.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband of 15 years recently ended a five-year affair with a woman in his office. I was suspicious of their relationship but never knew the extent of it until he told me. We are both seeing a marriage counselor and hope we can put the past behind us and have a good life together.

The problem is my mother-in-law. Over the years, she developed a friendship with my husband's girlfriend. I now know that she was aware of their relationship for some time and joined them for dinners and out-of-town trips. Even now, she continues to have contact with this woman.

I have never had a cross word with my mother-in-law and thought we were close. Needless to say, I am very hurt. My therapist says I should confront her with my feelings. My husband says he will support whatever I choose to do.

I don't feel that I have the right to choose my mother-in-law's friends, but since I've learned she is still seeing this woman, I don't want to be around her. There are grandchildren involved, so I can't avoid her forever. Any advice?—Betrayed Twice in Mississippi

DEAR MISSISSIPPI: Confront your mother-in-law promptly. She must have known when she chose to be an accomplice in your husband's illicit assignations that she was undermining your marriage.

There is no reason to keep your children away from their grandmother, nor should you fake a friendship with her. Be civil and pleasant, and go about your business.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I took a very overweight friend (at least 300 pounds) for a long trip in my almost-new car. Afterward, the shocks and struts needed repairs. The bill was $300. Don't you think my friend should share the cost of the repairs? Our salaries are the same.

Other people I know have had car seats broken and furniture damaged by overweight friends and feel that the heavy person should help pay for repairs. One family refuses to transport a very heavy relative anywhere because their car will not carry her.

Don't these overweight people care about the damage they are doing?

Family Film Night set

The public is invited to view the film "Heartland" at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Deaf Smith County Library basement. Admission is free during the Family Film Night and popcorn will be sold for 25 cents a bag.

"Heartland" is based on the true story of Elinore Pruitt Stewart, a widowed laundress who claimed a Wyoming homestead in 1910. The movie stars Rap Torn, Conchata Ferrell and Barry Primus and is rated PG due to graphic scenes of animal life and death.

Ann Landers

How should I handle this?—Alice in Ohio

DEAR ALICE: According to a spokesman at General Motors, a 350-pound person should not cause damage to the struts and shocks of a car. If, however, a heavy person breaks a chair or sofa, he or she should offer to pay for repairs. If no offer is made, it is OK to bring up the subject in as tactful a way as possible.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I missed your first article on Roger Daub, who fell from the Garrison Dam, but I saw the second letter, and it brought back memories.

When I was a 20-year-old engineering student at the University of North Dakota, I got a summer job on the Garrison Dam. I worked as an inspector on the surge tanks, and one of my primary responsibilities was to see that the contractors followed safety standards such as wearing safety belts on the scaffolds.

I had been on the job only about a week when Roger Daub came tumbling down, followed by scaffolds and lights. The next thing that happened was that I changed my major from engineering to math. Nobody tries to fall 150 feet in math.—J.C.H., Dallas

DEAR DALLAS: I've had lots of comments on that incredible fall, but yours was the funniest.

Ann Landers' latest booklet, "Nuggets and Doozies," has everything from the outrageously funny to the poignantly insightful. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Herd falls to Raiders in season finale

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Randall Raiders played like a team that needed to win as they closed Hereford's basketball season with a 72-52 win over the Herd Tuesday in Whiteface Gym.

Randall needed a win in the regular-season finale to pull into a second place tie with Borger, which lost to first-place Pampa 73-56 Tuesday. Randall and Borger will meet for a one-game district playoff Friday, at a time and place to be announced.

The Herd stayed with Randall in the first quarter, trailing only 20-17 at the buzzer. The Raiders went on a 13-2 run to open the second quarter and went to halftime with a 38-27 lead. Hereford was able to hit only two field goals during the second period.

"They changed defenses," Herd coach Randy Dean said. "They moved their pressure out a little bit higher and we didn't execute what we were supposed to do in that situation. We were supposed to be getting the ball in the high post area."

Randall added a 9-0 run in the third quarter, pushing the lead out to 57-36.

Dean finished his first season in Hereford with an 8-22 record. The Whitefaces finished fifth in District 1-4A at 2-8--thanks to two wins over Dumas.

"Obviously we all wanted to win more games, but I think all in all we made a lot of strides in the right direction this year," Dean said. "We had some seniors that did a good job for us all year, and we have a lot to look forward to in the future."

Jay Kendall, Jason Colston, Elijah Walker and Stacey Sanders were the seniors who played their last games Tuesday.

Benton Buckley led the Herd with 14 points, Cody Marion scored 10 and Sanders added eight.

Hereford got a split in the two sub-varsity games played Tuesday.

Hereford won the junior varsity game played here, coming back from a 37-25 halftime deficit to beat the Randall JV 67-59. Michael Power led the Herd with 13 points. Brian Torres and Todd Dudley scored 11 each, and Michael Marquez and Ronald Torres added eight each.

Hereford's sophomore boys lost to Tascosa's sophomores, 62-31, in Amarillo. Josh Bullard scored nine for Hereford, and Michael High added eight.

The Hereford JV ended the season with a 14-15 record. The soph finished at 5-12.

Sasser is safe from suspension

DALLAS (AP) - The Southwest Conference has decided not to suspend Texas Tech's Jason Sasser for one game following a weekend fight with a Houston player during the Cougars' 76-64 victory.

Sasser and Houston's Jesse Drain struggled for a loose ball with 29 seconds left in Saturday's game.

With Drain on the ground, Sasser began kicking him in the chest while referees tried to separate them. Sasser was ejected from the game.

After reviewing game videotape, SWC Commissioner Steve Hatchell, associate commissioner Bill Foster and Dale Kelly, supervisor of officials, concluded Tuesday that Sasser deserved a flagrant technical foul.

Norwegians add two to their gold medal total

By DAVE CARPENTER
Associated Press Writer
LILLEHAMMER, Norway (AP) - Norwegians thrilled wildly cheering home crowds today by capturing gold medals in their premier Olympic sport - men's speedskating - and one they're new at - and women's freestyle moguls.

Johann Olav Koss, star of the Winter Games so far, smashed his second world record in four days and outskated previous record-holder Rintje Ritsma of the rival Dutch in a frenzied Viking Ship arena. Ritsma took the silver, seven-tenths of a second behind Koss' 1:51.29, and countryman Falco Zandstra got the bronze.

Stine Lise Hattestad won the women's moguls gold, a first for Norway in the relatively new event, ending the Americans' surprising early dominance on the ski slopes.

But Liz McIntyre of Winter Park, Colo., followed Alpine champions Tommy Moe and Diann Roffe-Steinrotter to the medals stand with the silver, picking up the slack from favorite Donna Weinbrecht who was a disappointing seventh.

A Canadian, Jean-Luc Brassard, took the gold in the men's moguls. Defending champion Edgar Grospon of France was third.

Russia, after extending its reign in figure skating pairs with a sensational 1-2 finish the night before, got two moguls medals today - a silver from Sergei Shoupletsov and a bronze from Elizaveta Kojevnikova. The Russians lead the medals race with 10.

Meanwhile, in a preview of coming distractions, Tonya Harding arrived in Norway. "I'm very excited to be here," the embattled skater said.

Hattestad pumped her fists and turned slowly in a circle to salute the 12,000 roaring spectators ringing the Kanhaugen moguls course after the final result was announced. She blinked away tears as the crowd celebrated another Norwegian gold medal; the hosts have four golds and seven overall.

The "Star-Spangled Banner" had a chance for its own third airing today. But McIntyre, the leader after Tuesday's qualifying and the final skier down the course today, couldn't match Hattestad's point total.

Weinbrecht, the defending champion from West Milford, N.J., who was coming back from a crippling knee injury, had won six straight World Cup races. But she was more than a second slower than Hattestad, and the final five skiers to run the course eclipsed her on style points in the event scored on speed, style and jumps.

"It's just one of those things, you're off," she said. "But I'm still very happy. I've been in the lead for the whole year for the (World Cup) title."

Gerda Weissensteiner of Italy won the women's luge today ahead of Susi Erdmann of Germany and Andrea Tagwerker of Austria. Cammy Myler of Lake Placid, N.Y., finished a disappointing 11th, leaving the United States still without ever having won a medal in luge. But the "Star-Spangled Banner" did have a chance for a third airing in Olympic Park today following the one Tuesday for unexpected super-G gold medalist Diann Roffe-Steinrotter of Potsdam, N.Y.

Freestyle skier Donna Weinbrecht of West Milford, N.J., was set to defend her Olympic title, and teammate Liz McIntyre of Winter Park, Colo., was the surprise leader in Tuesday's qualifying.

Other athletes to beat in today's competition: defending champion Edgar Grospon of France in men's freestyle skiing and Dutch world record-holder Rintje Ritsma in men's 1,500-meter speedskating.

The U.S. hockey team, winless in its first two games for the first time since 1984, had the day off to prepare for Canada on Thursday.

And in a preview of coming distractions, Tonya Harding arrived in Norway. "It feels really good," the embattled skater said aboard her flight from the United States.

with their second straight bronze medal.

"If the pros aren't here, we're Olympic champions," Eisler said. "In our minds, this is a gold-medal performance."

On the ice, though, there was nothing but harmony. Gordeeva and Grinkov, dressed in black, skated with elegance, fluidity and precision. Mishkutienok and Dmitriev skated powerfully, passionately.

Even Eisler couldn't deny that the Russians were magnificent.

"It was really a very hard gold medal," Gordeeva said after she and her husband earned eight 5.9s for artistic impression and a 6.0 - from the Russian judge. "Everyone has been pushing on us, saying, 'You will have no problems, you will win the gold medal.' But tonight, everyone skated so well."

Egorova, 27, won five medals in 1992 competing for the Unified Team, an awkward byproduct of the Soviet collapse. Under Russia's blue, white and red flag this time, she has a silver in 15-kilometer cross-country to go with her gold in the 5-kilometer classical-style race.

National pride aside, though, the shy education student from St. Petersburg has a confession to make: The dreaded hammer and sickle gave her a competitive edge.

"It's still not the same as competing for the old Soviet Union," she said. "The excitement standing at the starting line was even greater then."

Hatchell: Merger with Big 8 not close

By JOHN McFARLAND
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Southwest Conference commissioner Steve Hatchell says his league won't be merging with the Big Eight anytime soon.

In fact, he says there won't even be a television contract between the two conferences anytime soon - and that's what started the merger speculation in the first place.

"It won't be this week, I guarantee that," Hatchell said Tuesday of the TV contract currently being negotiated by the conferences.

The Big Eight and SWC have been offered a $60 million television deal by ABC Sports that could jump to $70 million if the leagues merge. The package could be worth as much as $80 million if a deal is worked out with ESPN.

"Just because we're working on television together, people assume there's something more, and that's just not the case," said Hatchell, emphasizing that ABC's proposal wasn't a hint about an impending merger.

"That was just the network saying: 'If you should ever do that (merge), we'd like the rights to it.' Realistically, we're just considering the television."

Hatchell said he'd "rather not get into" discussions of a merger, which he said has not been a part of the TV negotiations.

Even if there were a merger of some sort, Texas A&M athletic director Wally Groff said there's no guarantee the Aggies would come along.

Groff said A&M, which has one of the top athletic programs in the conference, has options to join the Pac-10, Big Ten or Southeastern Conference.

"I think we do have an allegiance to the conference, but yet we have to also look at what's best for Texas A&M. All of those matters will be considered when a decision is made," he said.

Groff said all talk of doing away with some SWC teams has been by Big Eight schools, who are concerned about the "respect of some of the teams in our conference."

But the three smallest SWC schools say they aren't concerned about speculation that some schools could be left behind in a merger.

"I feel TCU will be a major player regardless," said Texas Christian athletic director Frank Windeger. "There's lots of rumors, but I know our commitment is to being a major program, so I'm not worried."

Bobby May is the athletic director at the smallest school in the conference, Rice. He said television is the only thing being discussed, and that he's not afraid of being squeezed out of any future mergers.

"We're not sure what's going to happen, but I don't fear an effort on the part of anyone to do something to somebody else," May said. "There will be a lot of thought and consideration that goes into whatever happens. I'm sure everybody will do it with the right attitude."

Forrest Gregg says SMU isn't too worried, either.

"We will not address every scenario that comes up," he said, reiterating a statement released Monday by SMU president Kenneth Pyc.

Any merger would have to be approved by university presidents in both conferences. Several SWC presidents didn't return calls Tuesday from The Associated Press.

The conferences have been rumored to be working toward a merger or scheduling alliance since Arkansas left the SWC for the SEC in 1991.

The SEC's new television deal with CBS sent other conferences scrambling for contracts of their own rather than allowing the College Football Association to continue negotiations as a group.

Jordan gives weak hitting exhibition

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) - No one, especially Michael Jordan, ever said this business of hitting a baseball would be easy.

It sure looked hard when Jordan tried Tuesday. Using a right-handed swing that looked more manufactured than natural, he hit nearly 100 balls, and only one managed to roll across the crushed-seashell warning track and reach the fence at Ed Smith Stadium.

Mostly he hit popups, routine flies and grounders. Rarely did the sharp crack of the bat echo through the ballpark; instead, there were many dull thuds.

This was Jordan's first outdoor workout that outsiders were allowed to observe. After a two-hour practice that included baserunning and fielding drills - he looked good in those - the rookie outfielder for the Chicago White Sox said spring training was going fine.

"You have to be patient. I think it's going to be gradual improvement for me," he said. "The last thing I want to be is a sideshow."

"I have to work on my hitting every day. I know there are things I need to do - keeping my butt in, keeping my head on the ball, quickening my bat," he said.

The White Sox are planning on having Jordan around for awhile. Manager Gene Lamont said he expects Jordan, who has signed a Triple-A contract, to play in an intrasquad game March 3. Chicago starts its exhibition season the next day.

For a week, the world's best basketball player has worked out behind guarded gates. The White Sox didn't want his presence to disrupt camp when pitchers and catchers report Wednesday, so they opened Jordan's two-hour session for 250 reporters.

Starting Thursday, any fan can walk in and watch. Next Wednesday, after the rest of the squad arrives, Jordan will face Jack McDowell and the other talented Chicago pitchers during batting practice.

"He won't be getting 90 mph fastballs, but he won't get 75 mph ones, either," Lamont said.

For now, Jordan faced batting practice pitcher Mike Maziarka and bullpen coach Roly DeArmas. Jordan showed a typical White Sox swing, chopping down and letting go with the top hand on a pronounced follow-through. That's the style - liked by some, loathed by others - taught by batting coach Walt Hrinak.

"That's the first time I've seen him hit," Hrinak said. "There are a lot of good things. His swing could be a little shorter. That would give him the bat speed he needs."

University of Miami coach Ron Fraser, one of the game's great teachers, was on hand and offered other observations.

"He's not very explosive. The ball doesn't jump off his bat. He swings the bat instead of throwing the bat," Fraser said. "He has a canned swing, an organizational swing."

Jordan, who turns 31 on Thursday and hasn't played baseball since his senior year of high school, is working hard every day. No one denies that, but there are plenty of doubts about whether he can hit. "I'm not out there to deteriorate the game. I'm out there to try to play the game," he said.

The U.S. hockey team has more to worry about than top-rated Russia. Its medal hopes were nearly buried in a cave in the Norwegian countryside Tuesday night.

As George Steinbrenner looked on at Gjovik Olympic Cavern Hall - the Olympic booster and New York Yankees owner alternately scowling and banging a cowbell - the Americans scored twice in the last six minutes to salvage a 3-3 tie against Slovakia.

It was their second straight tie against a lower-seeded team, not a good sign looking ahead to next week's medal round - if they make it.

"I'm very proud of the way we've come back from two-goal deficits in two games. It shows we have a lot of heart," said coach Tim Taylor. But he said their youthful enthusiasm "has to be right there from the start of the game, not something we call on in reserve late in the game."

Spurs' win over Pacers gives them 10 straight

By The Associated Press
Add San Antonio to the lengthening list of NBA teams with 10-game winning streaks this season.

The Spurs joined Houston, Atlanta, Seattle and Chicago among the teams with double-digit streaks with a 109-100 victory over Indiana Tuesday night. The outcome ended the Pacers' team-record seven-game streak.

David Robinson just missed his fifth triple-double of the season with 34 points, 10 rebounds and nine assists as San Antonio tied its franchise-record winning streak and also won its 12th straight game at the Alamodome.

"It's nice to say 10 in a row," Robinson said. "But it's really nice to see our confidence building. It's nice to see us grow. We're executing 10 times better than at the start of the season. We just want to grow and continue to gain ground."

San Antonio, 21-3 since Dec. 26, ran off nine straight points during a 17-6 first-quarter run to take the lead for good.

Reggie Miller scored 23 points for the Pacers. Dale Ellis scored 32 points and Vinny Del Negro and J.R. Reid added 20 each for San Antonio.

SuperSonics 133, 76ers 105

Seattle got its highest point total of the season, routing Philadelphia as Shawn Kemp had 24 points and 13 rebounds in just 22 minutes. Shawn Bradley, the 76ers' 7-foot-6 rookie, had 19 points and four blocked shots, but just three rebounds. Philadelphia's Orlando Woolridge came off the bench to score 20 points.

Clippers 100, Lakers 89

The Clippers won at the Forum in Inglewood for just the third time in 27 meetings, beating the Lakers although leading scorers Danny Manning and Ron Harper sat on the bench for missing practice on Monday.

Mark Jackson and John Williams scored 21 points each for the Clippers, while Tom Tolbert, starting in place of Manning, finished with nine points and 16 rebounds.

James Worthy scored 15 points for the Lakers.

Warriors 123, Kings 113

Billy Owens scored a season-high 29 points as Golden State, after losing nearly all of a 19-point lead, recovered to hand Sacramento its 21st loss in 25 road games.

The Kings trailed 30-11 in the first period, then closed to a 61-60 deficit on Mitch Richmond's 3-pointer with 8:16 remaining in the third quarter.

Then the Warriors pulled away with an 18-2 spree over the next 3:32. Richmond, who scored 16 points in the third quarter and finished with 18, sat out the fourth quarter with back spasms. Wait Williams topped the Kings with 22 points.

Rockets 103, Hawks 99

Hakeem Olajuwon scored eight of his 28 points in the deciding final minutes, leading Houston over visiting Atlanta.

The Rockets trailed 53-48 at the half, but an 18-8 run to start the third quarter gave them a 66-61 lead, and they never trailed again.

Dominique Wilkins led the Hawks with 26 points.

Magic 102, Celtics 92

Shaquille O'Neal grabbed 24 rebounds and scored 10 of his 36 points in the final 3:41, leading Orlando over Boston.

Dee Brown, Kevin Gamble and Dino Radja led Boston with 14 points each.

Trail Blazers 106, Mavericks 103

Portland snapped a four-game road losing streak and beat Dallas for the 13th consecutive time as Clyde Drexler scored 26 points and Clifford Robinson 24.

Robinson's off-balance 12-footer as the shot clock wore down gave the Trail Blazers a 103-100 lead with 26 seconds left. Rod Strickland, who had 22 points for Portland, sank one free throw with 9.1 seconds left, but Tim Legler's 3-pointer with 3.5 seconds remaining pulled the Mavs to 104-103. Drexler's two free throws with 2.8 seconds left prevented the Mavericks from completing their first three-game winning streak since 1991.

Nets 103, Knicks 83

Kenny Anderson scored 29 points and Derrick Coleman had 23 points and 16 rebounds, leading New Jersey to a 60-42 rebounding advantage and an easy victory over New York.

Patrick Ewing, who did not score until late in the first half because of foul trouble, joined John Starks with 18 points for the Knicks.

Cavaliers 111, Nuggets 99

Cleveland beat Denver for the fourth straight time at Richfield Coliseum after Gerald Wilkins scored 15 of his 27 points in the first quarter.

LaPhonso Ellis and Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf scored 21 points each for Denver.

Pistons 100, Bullets 93

Joe Dumars, despite a sore left hamstring, scored 25 points as Detroit defeated Washington for its seventh victory in 27 home games.

Dumars left the game limping with 9:29 remaining and the score tied 78-78. But he returned with 5:10 left and hit a short jumper and a 3-pointer down the stretch, sealing the win.

Michael Adams scored 21 points and Tom Gugliotta had 18 points and 10 rebounds for the Bullets.

Timberwolves 97, Bucks 90

Christian Laettner had 23 points and 13 rebounds as Minnesota snapped a seven-game losing streak by defeating Milwaukee.

The Timberwolves survived a 20-1 third-quarter run by the visiting Bucks that erased a 14-point Minnesota lead. Then the Wolves outscored Milwaukee 22-8 in the first nine minutes of the fourth quarter as the Bucks missed 17 of their last 23 shots.

Isaiah Rider scored 22 points for Minnesota. Eric Murdock led the Bucks with 22 points and Vin Baker had 21.

Philly teams upset UConn, UMass

By The Associated Press
It was not a good night to be a top 10 team visiting Philadelphia.

Third-ranked Connecticut was beaten by Villanova Tuesday night while No. 10 Massachusetts was knocked off across town by St. Joseph's.

Both games came down to the final seconds. Villanova won on a 3-pointer with two seconds left and St. Joseph's prevailed on a free throw with .2 seconds to play.

Hey, where's the brotherly love? Eric Eberz's 3-pointer with Villanova down two was the winner for the Wildcats, who have won five in a row. It was the highest-ranked team they have beaten in 9-year-old duPont Pavilion.

St. Joseph's winning point came on a free throw by Kevin Connor, a 55 percent free throw shooter. He missed the second on purpose and fans stormed the court, just as they did on the other side of town.

No. 11 Kentucky 99, LSU 95

The Wildcats (19-5, 8-3 Southeastern Conference) pulled off the greatest comeback in college basketball history, wiping out a 31-point deficit with 15 minutes to play. The old record was held by Duke, which trailed 56-27 at halftime in a 74-72 victory over Tulane on Dec. 30, 1950.

Club discusses upcoming Appreciation Luncheon

The Annual Appreciation Luncheon, planned Feb. 28, was discussed when members of the Cultural Family Community Education Club met recently at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Also, during the business meeting with President Nell Pope presiding, minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, and roll call was answered by "the food items I buy most."

Perry Keyes gave the council report. It was announced that the district meeting will be held April 19 and members discussed a homemaker college. Also, recommendations of the council committee were read and approved.

Deaf Smith County Extension Agent Beverly Harder presented a program on "Food Labeling." New food labels, which is a government program, are scheduled to be in stores in May. Harder stressed the new labeling would be a tremendous help to the consumer to make healthier food choices.

Those present were Byrdie Fellers, Wilma Goetsch, Naomi Hare, Jewell Hargrave, Perry Keyes, Edith Marnell, Vernis Parsons, Nell Pope, Jewell Rogers, Daisy Steele, Fannie Townsend and S.T. Walton.

Group seeks spiritual observance of holidays

By DAVID BRIGGS
Associated Press Writer
Remember when giving up candy or comic books for Lent was considered a spiritual discipline?

Such sacrifices have largely fallen the way of new Easter hats as outdated traditions. But with few spiritual disciplines to replace them, religious leaders are concerned about a less benign trend - the trivialization of the Easter period into a secular holiday limited to imaginary bunnies and chocolate eggs.

As one way of recapturing the spirituality of Lent, a group opposed to the secularization of religious holidays is proposing reviving the Lenten practice of renouncing a part of one's secular life.

Only this time, it is with a twist: giving up nonreligious behavior for actions that serve the faith. This might mean forgoing television and spending time volunteering at the community soup kitchen, or giving up 14-hour workdays to spend more time with the family.

"Lent becomes that renewal period where it changes your life," said Karl Lehman, outreach coordinator for Alternatives.

Started in 1975 as a protest against the commercialization of Christmas, Alternatives is a nonprofit organization based in Ellenwood, Ga., that offers study guides and other resources to restore perspective to religious celebrations.

The idea is to help people break away from the "consumer calendar" of greeting card holidays and "to use the liturgical calendar to help us make contact with our faith, and to help us lead responsible lives in the culture we live in," Lehman said.

That does not necessarily mean depriving children of stuffed bunnies and decorated eggs at Eastertime.

"It's only when our lives become so ordered by the consumer calendar ... that Easter becomes nothing more than chocolate bunnies, Easter egg hunts," he said.

Some of the materials Alternatives is sending to churches this time of year include a 40-day Lenten calendar titled "The Joy of Discipleship" and a study guide with suggested household activities called "Learning the Cost of Discipleship."

In the study guide, church members are encouraged to reflect on the biblical texts about Jesus' ordeal in the wilderness before his public ministry, and to choose an individual discipline to follow during Lent. Suggested practices include both giving up a habit that does not serve God and adding something else to their lives such as a daily period of meditation.

In the Lenten calendar, the passage in Luke 14 in which disciples are encouraged to give up all their possessions is held up to encourage people to reflect on the material goods that have power over them.

Then they are asked to choose their own Lenten discipline.

"Is there a practice you can give up or take on that would help you break free of what keeps you from God? Volunteer weekly at a local soup kitchen. Pray or meditate daily. Fast once a week," the calendar suggests.

Unlike some past practices, where the discipline sometimes became an end in itself and it was fine to resume eating chocolate or going to the movies at the end of Lent, the Alternatives approach helps people make more lasting changes in their lives, said Catherine Gonzalez, a professor of church history at Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Ga.

In practice, she said, the idea of just giving up the behavior for Lent is less daunting than committing oneself right away to a permanent change.

"It's much easier to try to change for a limited period of time," she said. "At the end of that, you can re-evaluate what can be done permanently."

Garden club continues series

The conservation series, "Remember Our Feathered Friends," was presented by Patricia Robinson when the Bud to Blossom Garden Club met in her home recently.

Mildred Fuhrmann was in charge of the program which included viewing a video, "Birds of the Backyard."

Roll call was answered with "my favorite bird" and members told humorous stories of feathered friends they had befriended over the years.

Club members, Ursaloe Jacobsen, Patricia Robinson and Phyllis Brown, will be delegates to the District I Spring Convention in Lubbock.

Those present included Brown, Robinson, Jacobsen, Wilma Bryan, Lou Hall and Naomi Hare.

Independent Executor of the Estate of ROY G. MANNING, Deceased, No. PR 4087 in the County Court of Deaf Smith County, Texas

LEGAL NOTICE TEXAS CORN PRODUCERS BOARD VOTING REGION TWO

The Texas Corn Producers Board (TCPB) will conduct elections in four of its eight voting regions for the purpose of electing four new TCPB board members whose current members' seats have expired. There are a total of fifteen TCPB voting board members. These elections, to be conducted in 111 Texas counties, are being held pursuant to the Texas Commodity Referendum Law, Texas Agriculture Code, Title 3, Chapter 41, Subchapter A, Section 41.032. Voting Region Two consists of the counties of Hartley, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Farmer, and Bailey, and there is One Seat open for election of TCPB board members in Voting Region Two.

In 1990, Texas Corn Producers voted to expand the research and promotion program for corn, funded by a uniform corn checkoff, to every county in the State of Texas. This election is the biennial election required by the Texas Commodity Referendum Law.

A person is eligible to vote in the board election if he or she is, or for at least one production period during the three years preceding the date of the board election has been, a producer of, or caused to be produced, corn for commercial purposes. This includes owners of farms and their tenants or sharecroppers, if the person would be required to pay the assessment. For a producer to vote in this voting region and for this TCPB seat, such producer must reside within the counties stated above. Only voters residing within the above counties may vote for candidate(s) representing this voting region.

Any eligible voter-producer as defined above may place his or her name in nomination to serve as a director on the TCPB. Nomination applications must be submitted to the TCPB signed by the applicant and ten other eligible voters. Nomination forms will be available in all 111 counties where elections are to be held this year, including the specific counties within this voting region, as listed above.

Nomination forms can also be obtained by writing the TCPB, 218 E. Bedford, Dimmitt, Texas, 79027. Please state your county of residence if you request nomination forms in writing from the TCPB office. All nominations must be filed with the TCPB not later than 30 days before the date set for the elections, and the date for the deadline for receipt of valid nomination forms by TCPB is therefore a postmark date of March 29, 1994. Nomination forms will be available after February 21, 1994.

The election in each of the four voting regions where elections are called for will be held by mail ballot. Ballots containing the nominations of all persons who have validly filed petitions under Section 41.025 of the above stated code will be available after April 4, 1994, at either elevators or other points of check-off collection in each of the appropriate voting regions, at county agent offices in each of the 111 counties where elections are to occur, or by writing the TCPB at the address stated above. For a ballot to be counted, such ballot must be postmarked no later than May 5, 1994. There are four voting regions conducting elections in 1994. A voter must reside within a county contained within the voting region that the voter is casting his or her vote, and a voter must meet the definition set forth above as to a qualified voter. Voters may also vote for board members by "writing in" the name of any eligible persons. Pursuant to Section 41.023 of the Texas Commodity Referendum Law, this notice for a TCPB election within this voting region is being published in all appropriate newspapers with the voting region, such notice being published at least once a week for three consecutive weeks beginning at least 60 days before the date of the election.

The Texas Corn Producers Board is certified under Section 41.011 and Section 41.012 of the Texas Commodity Referendum Law to conduct this election, and has obtained all approvals and determinations required by law from the Commissioner of Agriculture, Texas Department of Agriculture.

Weather expected nice on Thursday

By the Associated Press
Pleasant weather is in store for all of Texas tonight and Thursday.

Some fog is possible early Thursday in southeastern areas of West Texas and in South Texas.

Lows tonight will be in the 30s and 40s except in South Texas where readings will be mostly in the 40s, ranging from the 30s in the Hill Country to the 50s along the immediate coast.

Highs Thursday will be in the 70s over most of West Texas, ranging from the 60s in the Panhandle to the lower 80s in the Big Bend area and in the 60s and 70s elsewhere.

Senior citizens to be target of administration's campaign

By RON FOURNIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - President and Mrs. Clinton are beginning a two-week push to try to convince senior citizens that the White House strategy is the best medicine for the nation's health care ills.

The president's speech today to an elderly crowd at Edison, N.J., marks the latest attempt by the White House to focus its health care campaign on a specific audience or issue. In the previous two weeks, Clinton and his aides pounded home the same theme: The nation's health care system is in crisis.

"We think one of the really strong parts of the president's health care plan is how we treat seniors - things we do with drugs and long-term care," White House spokesman Jeff Eller said. "We also know we're better when we concentrate on one thing."

Mrs. Clinton renewed her attacks on the health insurance industry Tuesday. "We have to change the insurance market and the way it operates," she told the American Legion.

Mrs. Clinton also renewed her

TDHS employee accused of using computer to run prostitution ring

AUSTIN (AP) - A longtime Texas Department of Human Services employee was suspected of running a prostitution service on state time - even using an office computer - for at least two years, police say.

James Bunch was jailed today at Travis County's central booking facility in lieu of bail bond.

Police have records and computer disks that contain lists of escort service employees and customers who used the service, according to a search and arrest warrant affidavit.

Bunch, 45, was fired earlier Tuesday from his job with the state agency, which had furnished authorities with results of its investigation into suspicious telephone calls.

A municipal judge set bond at $5,000 for Bunch on a charge of aggravated promotion of prostitution, said sheriff's officer Susan Bonilla.

Mike Jones, a Department of Human Services spokesman, told the Austin American-Statesman that Bunch is a 23-year DHS employee who had held a $32,000-a-year job as a Medicaid program evaluator.

The DHS two weeks ago gave police a computer printout listing customer information and names of female employees of Aimes Escorts, said Senior Sgt. Jack Kelly of the Austin Police Department's vice detail.

Court documents show that police suspected Bunch of running the escort service at least two years. The state agency began suspecting some of Bunch's telephone calls about two months ago, said Jones.

Kelly said charges could be filed against escort service employees and customers discovered through the investigation. But authorities may ask them to testify against Bunch in exchange for not being charged.

The DHS officials also provided police with correspondence between Bunch and the woman he is believed to have bought the escort service from two years ago, said Kelly.

The correspondence was taken from DHS's mainframe computer, he said.

Two men recounted in a police affidavit how they paid $50 to Aimes Escorts and $120 and $150 to prostitutes for sex arranged through the escort service.

Another man told police he had paid for sex through the escort service between 50 and 100 times.

attack on the Health Insurance Association of America's television ads that criticize the Clinton plan and its mandatory insurance purchasing alliances.

"You know these television advertisements that they've spent about $20 million on saying that we're going to take away your choice? Well, that's just flat untrue," Mrs. Clinton said.

The one-day trip comes amid pressure to drop or scale back Clinton's proposal that the government assume companies' cost of health care coverage for early retirees. Eliminating that provision - a favorite of Mrs. Clinton and some major companies - could save more than half of the increase in the deficit that the Congressional Budget Office predicted would come from Clinton's health care plan.

Under Clinton's plan, doctors would not be able to charge senior citizens more than Medicare's reimbursement rate. It also would expand access to long-term care and provide partial prescription drug coverage, White House spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers said.

Since opening his health care campaign a year ago - and relaunching it last fall - Clinton has struggled to retain momentum, in part because of the failure to remain focused on the issue. Aides hope to solidify their sales job by picking a topic and sending the president, his wife and his Cabinet across the country to promote it.

Later this week, Clinton will meet with leaders of elderly groups and corporate chiefs to discuss his health care plan.

"In order to give it some sort of coherent state, we've tried to do some things on the positive side of the issue," Eller said.

Without providing specifics, Eller said the White House has other topics in mind for future two-week splashes. The site of the address was Middlesex County College in Edison, in an area that Eller said includes 11,000 senior citizens. The American Association of Retired Persons is co-sponsoring the event.

Clinton focused on crime Tuesday, surrounding himself in a field of uniforms at the Ohio Peace Officers Training Academy to prod Congress for a quick and tough crime bill. "The American people have waited on this bill long enough," he said.

The Newspaper BIBLE

GOD WILL NEVER LET YOU DOWN

We are saved by trusting. And trusting means looking forward to getting something we don't yet have--for a man who already has something doesn't need to hope and trust that he will get it. But if we must keep trusting God for something that hasn't happened yet, it teaches us to wait patiently and confidently.

And in the same way--by our faith--the Holy Spirit helps us with our daily problems and in our praying. For we don't even know what we should pray for, nor how to pray as we should; but the Holy Spirit prays for us with such feeling that it cannot be expressed in words. And the Father who knows all hearts knows, of course, what the Spirit is saying as He pleads for us in harmony with God's own will.

And we know that all that happens to us is working for our good if we love God and are fitting into His plans. For from the very beginning God decided that those who came to Him--and all along He knew who would--should become like His son, so that His Son would be the First, with many brothers. And having chosen us, He called us to come to Him; and when we came, He declared us "not guilty," filled us with Christ's goodness, gave us right standing with Himself, and promised us His glory.

What can we ever say to such wonderful things as these? If God is on our side, who can ever be against us? Since He did not spare even His own Son for us but gave Him up for us all, won't He also surely give us everything else?

Romans 8:24-32

Springlike weather chases away winter

Little precipitation expected in West Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Springlike conditions for the rest of this month should make Texans forget last week's ice storm, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

The hard freeze and ice storm which hit much of Texas exacerbated some problems with keeping cattle well-fed, but caused few other problems beyond slowing field work.

A break in the winter weather should allow agricultural producers to get out and work in their fields, said Jon Zeitler, meteorologist at the Southwest Agricultural Weather Service in College Station.

"People may want to really take advantage of this weather, particularly given the poor conditions we've had over the past few weeks," Zeitler said.

He said an upper-level disturbance moving through South Texas by Wednesday would bring light, scattered showers to the Coastal Plains and East Texas. By the weekend, however, it should be fair and clear.

"High pressure will be settling in over Texas for the remainder of the week, and by the weekend that's going to bring fair skies and temperatures across the state that are from 10 to 15 degrees above normal," Zeitler said.

That would mean highs in the 60s for more northern reaches of the state and 80s in the lower portions, with most of the rest of the state enjoying temperatures in the 70s. Lows would range from the mid-40s in the High Plains and West Texas to the mid-60s in the Rio Grande Valley, Zeitler predicted.

Texans can look for warm and dry conditions to continue next week, with temperatures above normal and possibly much above normal in South Texas, Zeitler said.

Little precipitation can be expected in the western half of the state, he said, meaning problems with dryness could continue.

However, much of the eastern portion of the state can expect early-spring rains to begin within the next month, Zeitler said.

Extension district directors in that area reported widespread difficulties with short moisture.

"The wheat crop perked up some where snow fell a week ago, but moisture is still short," said Paul Gross, district director for the High Plains. "Wheat fields are providing little if any grazing at this time."

The South Plains and Rolling Plains districts also reported inadequate soil moisture and heavy supplemental feeding of cattle, as did West Central Texas and Far West Texas.

The Coastal Bend reported that hard frosts and short precipitation have kept pastures dormant and hay supplies tight. Still, cattle remain in good condition, district director Lin Wilson said.

In Southwest Texas, recent rains have helped the progress of pastures and ranges. Cattle, sheep and goats are in relatively good condition considering the sparse forage that resulted from the extended dry spell of the summer and fall of 1993, the district reported.

Melon planting started in South Texas this week, and citrus and sugarcane harvests continue. Onions are progressing well there, the district reported.

Dry weather this weekend and next week should help eastern portions of the state, where some areas have been too wet for field preparations, according to Extension directors in the North Texas, East Texas and Southeast Texas districts.

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture short. Extreme cold early last week; warmed toward weekend. Cattle good condition; some stressed by cold. Supplemental feeding continues. Wheat perked up by snowfall. Land preparation continues as weather permits.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture short to very short. Extreme cold last week, but very little moisture. Supplemental feeding of livestock continues due to extreme dry conditions. Wheat in need of moisture. Land preparation and some pre-irrigation continues.

ROLLING PLAINS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Heavy supplemental feeding continues with limited wheat and declining range quality. Some counties reporting limited or no wheat grazing. Snow and showers improved conditions. Wheat growth slowed because of cold.

NORTH TEXAS: Soil moisture surplus to short. Livestock fair; some supplemental feeding. Pastures good to poor. Hay short. Ryegrass, grain growth slow. Onions planted. Too wet for much activity. Peach pruning continues; some budding.

EAST TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Livestock good. Native pastures poor. Heavy supplemental feedings; hay short. Wheat fair. Land preparation and early spring vegetable planting continue. Spraying and pruning peach trees; some budding.

FAR WEST TEXAS: Soil moisture very short. Livestock good to poor; supplemental feeding continues due to weather and poor forage quality. Moisture needed in many areas; pastures, ranges fair to poor. Onions making progress.

WEST CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Livestock good to fair; supplemental feeding continues. Wheat slowed by cold, dryness. Numerous greenbugs. Small grain growth inhibited. Spring calving in progress. Pruning, dormant oil applications continue.

CENTRAL TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Weight loss in cattle due to cold, wet weather; hay feeding continues. Cold weather slows garden activity. Spring vegetables being planted. No diseases reported.

SOUTHEAST TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Cattle feeding, equipment repairs and field cultivation are main activities. Pasture growth improving. Winter storm brings some much-needed moisture, but limits garden activity and stops blooming.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS: Soil moisture adequate. Escaped adverse weather. Pasture, ranges making excellent progress. Vegetables and grains take advantage of moisture.

COASTAL BEND: Soil moisture short to adequate. Livestock good. Feeding continues; hay short. Cattle sales down. Some pastures dormant. Preparing fields, home gardens for planting. Corn planted. Peach trees blooming. Freeze may hurt peaches, vegetables.

SOUTH TEXAS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Livestock prices low but improving. Corn and grain planting under way. Melon planting began. Onions progressing well. Sugarcane, citrus and fall vegetable harvests continue. Pastures better with recent rain.

U.S. astronauts making packing lists

Year in Russia requires careful consideration of needs

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - They're pros at traveling light. But for this trip - a space program first - they want to be prepared.

When astronauts Norman Thagard and Bonnie Dunbar leave next week for a year of cosmonaut training in Russia, they'll be taking along some of the comforts of home.

For Thagard, 50, a physician who designs amplifiers in his spare time, that means a stereo, TV and VCR.

For Dunbar, 44, a biomedical engineer, that means a tool kit, batteries, film, and - oh yes - instant oatmeal.

"There are no 7-Eleven stores over there," Dunbar explained Tuesday.

Thagard and Dunbar are the first Americans assigned to Russia's cosmonaut training program. It's part of the same agreement that had Russian cosmonaut Sergei Krikalev flying last week on space shuttle Discovery.

Under the astronaut-cosmonaut exchange program, Thagard will be rocketed into orbit aboard a Russian Soyuz in March 1995 and will spend three months on Russia's space station Mir, conducting mostly medical experiments. Dunbar is his backup.

Neither volunteered to go. NASA asked them, and they happily obliged.

"Being the first American to fly in the Russian program offsets any disadvantages," Thagard said Tuesday.

"Since I'll have my family there, the thing I would miss most won't be missing," he added.

Only about a dozen or so of the 100 astronauts expressed a strong desire to go to Russia; many were reluctant for family reasons. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced its final selection on Feb. 3.

The Russian Space Agency is handling all the arrangements, just as NASA did for Krikalev and his backup, Russian cosmonaut Vladimir Titov, when the two arrived at Johnson Space Center in Houston in 1992.

Thagard and Dunbar, who plan to leave Monday, will have their own furnished apartments at the cosmonaut quarters in Star City just outside Moscow. That's quite a change from the early 1970s when the Soviet Union built a high-security hotel in Star City for occasional visits by the three American astronauts assigned to the 1975 Apollo-Soyuz docking mission and their NASA entourage.

Thagard will be joined by his wife, Rex, a teacher, and their youngest son, Daniel, 14, as soon as school is out. Dunbar's husband, astronaut Ronald Sega, who's just back from space, will visit as often as he can; they have no children.

Dunbar anticipates there will be "a lot of rough edges to smooth out just because it's a new program." Identifying those rough edges will be an important part of their job - four American astronauts are to follow Thagard to Mir and up to 10 shuttle-Mir dockings are planned before the two countries start building a joint space station in 1997.

Thagard and Dunbar expect language to be their biggest challenge, even though they have been studying Russian since 1992.

Living in a country with political and economic instability doesn't worry them. Neither does spending three months in space.

Thagard, a four-time shuttle flier, has never spent more than eight days in space at a time. Dunbar's longest space trip, her third, lasted 13 days.

"Three months is not so terribly long," Thagard said. "If we were talking a year, I'd probably have different thoughts about it."

SELL IT IN THE CLASSIFIEDS

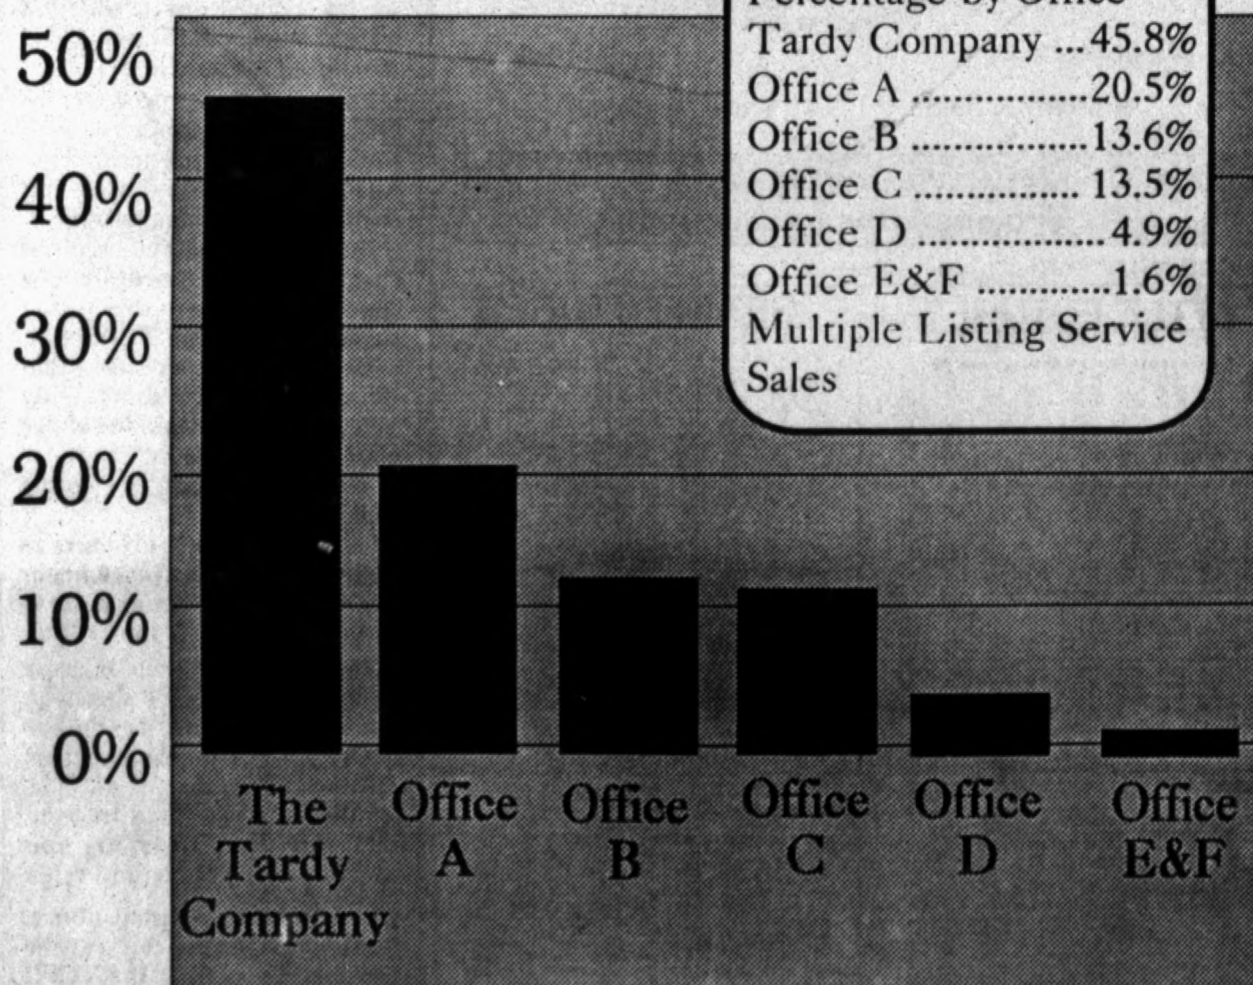

For the last year, workers in Hereford have been healthier, smarter, and safer! Why?

WorkSmart
IS ONE YEAR OLD!

Hereford Regional Medical Center's industrial medicine program, WorkSmart, has brought health education, safety checks, safety training, and wellness screenings to the men and women in business and industry in Hereford.

Happy Birthday to WorkSmart and Happy Healthier Days to Business and Industry in the Hereford Area!
