Commissioner hails Shirley innovations

Meno cites life skills teaching

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

For more than an hour this morning, Texas Education Commissioner Skip Meno toured the classrooms of Shirley Intermediate School.

He observed students in action, discussed their lessons with them and heard special presentations in his honor.

When it was all over, he told teachers, administrators and other district personnel, and area media representatives that he was "extremely impressed with what I've seen today."

Meno was in Hereford for the specific purpose of visiting Shirley, which is part of the Partnership Schools Initiative Program, which has taken more than 80 schools around Texas and encouraged them to develop programs and curricula to meet their unique needs.

Meno flew into Hereford Municipal Airport at 8:30 a.m. He was scheduled to fly to Amarillo later today. This was the only school he scheduled a visit with today.

Meno was joined on his tour by State Board of Education member Montie Hasie, who lives in Lubbock and represents this part of the state, as well as officials from the education commissioner's office and the Region XVI Education Services Center in Amarillo.

"This school is doing something very significant about (school violence)," Meno said, by teaching life skills such as responsibility, integrity and caring.

The first stop on Meno's school tour was in Vickie Barnes fifth grade class, where he found the class singing a song about the life skills they were learning.

Then, Meno witnessed the first of several skits written and put on by the students that illustrated those life skills.

Meno specifically mentioned the skit, which showed kids caring for one another, in his address to a large crowd that gathered for a news conference in the media center following the tour.

By teaching the life skills, Meno said, Shirley is reinforcing good citizenship and creating "a positive school atmosphere."

"This is a very carefully-thought-out program," he said, that gets to the basics of life skills, "so the kids know it's OK to be good, not that it's neat to be bad."

Meno's tour was scheduled to last one hour, but he spent almost 30 minutes more than that moving through the classes.

In Clint Seward's class, Meno talked with Mandy Lange, who showed off a new Shirley School T-shirt she and other students were wearing. Later, principal David Fanning presented Meno with one of the shirts, which arrived just last week.

In Kim Potts' class, Brandy Jesko was the focus of Meno's attention, as she told him about a book she was getting ready to write for her fourth-grade class.

Throughout the school, the same picture could be seen -- Meno folding himself into children's chairs and listening to the teacher talk about science, or bending with a child to look at a class project.

In Cynthia Risner's class, Meno listened intently as students told him what makes Shirley special for them.

Behind the school, Meno stooped his head and walked through Mel Holubec's Ozmobile, watching the children as they studied pulleys and gears.

Later, Meno singled out the Ozmobile and Mr. Oz for praise.

"A very ingenious use of an old school bus," Meno said, adding, "I

Mr. Oz and board member

State Board of Education member Montie Hasie of Lubbock, left, visits with "Mr. Oz" Mel Holubec during a visit to Shirley School today. Hasie accompanied State Education Commissioner Skip Meno, who expressed his pleasure at Holubec's program of taking science to the intermediate schools in his remodeled school bus.

Meeting with students

State Education Commissioner Skip Meno talks with students in Clint Seward's class at Shirley Intermediate School this morning during a visit to the school. Meno was in town specifically to visit Shirley, which is a Partnership Schools Initiative campus. He talked to students in several classes, then spoke to school and district representatives about what he saw on the campus.

State witness may be clouding case against Branch Davidians

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - She was the wild card. The smoking gun.

Kathryn Schroeder was one of 12 Branch Davidians indicted last year on charges of murdering four federal agents. After cutting a deal with the government, she was assigned by prosecutors to deliver the knockout punch in the federal trial of 11 former members of her religious "family."

But defense attorneys say she may have helped their case by clouding whether the Davidians meant to kill agents or were partaking in a ritual that would lead to their own deaths.

And her attorney said Thursday that Ms. Schroeder hopes the defendants are acquitted.

Over two days, Ms. Schroeder, a diminutive brunette and former "wife" of the polygamist prophet David Koresh, took jurors inside the radical mind of the 33-year-old rock singer-turned-messiah who died with 85 followers amidst a fire last April 19.

As the government's snitch and a former resident inside the sprawling Mount Carmel compound, she recounted that eight of 11 defendants were armed last Feb. 28 as two trailers full of federal agents approached.

They were devoted warriors of Koresh's command that, "If you can't kill for God, you can't die for God," she said.

The 31-year-old former Air Force sergeant and mother of four didn't provide any eyewitness testimony of defendants pulling the trigger during a bloody gunbattle with agents of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Prosecutors have acknowledged that the federal murder trial may never show who fired the actual shots that killed four ATF agents.

But the government's case doesn't hinge on proving who killed whom. Prosecutors can win life sentences without parole for the defendants if they can show the Davidians were engaged in a well-planned conspiracy to kill agents.

Ms. Schroeder told an eight-woman, four-man jury that high-powered weapons were stockpiled for two years and Davidians were ordered by Koresh to practice marksmanship and manufacture machine guns.

The climax was to be a fight with "the beast" - a term Koresh eventually used to describe the government - that would bring about the world's end, cause the Davidians' deaths and "translate" them to heaven, Ms. Schroeder said.

"We were waiting to die," she said.

She said she helped assign weapons to "able-bodied females," "all of the men" and to children 12 years old and older, who were deemed adults in Koresh's ministry.

Her testimony Thursday about the Davidians' alleged intention to kill agents went to the heart of Koresh's bizarre doomsday preachings and may have raised more questions than answers.

She acknowledged Thursday that she lied to authorities immediately after leaving the Branch Davidian compound last March 12. She said she cut deals with prosecutors and later movie-makers in hopes of winning her freedom from prison sooner and reuniting with her four children.

economic pressures also were noted.

Clinton cited considerable progress in recent months in accounting for 2,238 American MIAs in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

But veterans and MIA family organizations criticized Clinton's decision. They had lobbied heavily in favor of maintaining the embargo as a pressure tactic to get a full accounting of all the missing.

"I think it's a mistake. ... We have 2,000 people over there who are unaccounted for. The Vietnamese will not send us any remains now," said Roy Jessee, who was selling T-shirts and buttons to raise money for veterans' causes at the Vietnam War Memorial.

"The embargo was the only leverage that we had," said John Summer, executive director of the American Legion.

Ann Mills Griffith, head of a Vietnam MIA-POW group, said the president has "clearly broken" his promise from last summer that he would maintain the embargo until Vietnam provided a full accounting of the missing Americans. "I fault the bureaucracy ... for misinforming the president and giving him advice that doesn't hold water."

But Clinton said ending the embargo was "the best way to ensure cooperation from Vietnam."

He said the United States will not fully normalize relations with Vietnam until there is "more progress, more cooperation and more answers."

Jobless rate rises again

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment was 6.7 percent in January, up 0.3 percent from a month earlier, the government reported today. However, the increase was due mainly to a change in the way the job markets are surveyed.

The Labor Department said the unemployment rate was up from 6.4 percent in December, which was a three-year low. But applying the standards used in the new calculations, the December rate would have been closer to 7 percent, officials said.

Clinton drops Vietnam trade embargo, draws some protests

WASHINGTON (AP) - Families of missing Vietnam-era servicemen say President Clinton's decision to resume trade with Vietnam breaks a promise he made to keep the pressure on Hanoi to fully account for MIAs. But U.S. businesses are reveling at the prospect of a new multibillion-dollar marketplace.

By dropping the 19-year trade embargo, Clinton has assured U.S. companies a sizeable share of business expected to be generated as Vietnam modernizes its fallen-down infrastructure, updates its telecommunications system and develops new consumer markets.

"The bottom line is it allows us an equal footing to compete for the business in Vietnam," said Robert Driscoll, president of the U.S.-ASEAN Council, an association of about 100 U.S. companies.

Mark Rosenker, vice president of the Electronic Industries Association, said the trade sanctions "outlived their usefulness" and renewing trade would be key to "insuring competitiveness over the long term."

In announcing his long-anticipated and controversial decision, Clinton on Thursday insisted it was based solely on securing further Vietnamese cooperation to account for U.S. servicemen missing in action from the Vietnam War.

"I wanted to make sure that the trade questions did not enter into this decision. So ... we never had a discussion about it," he said.

One administration official said, however, that while the POW-MIA issue was the overriding concern,

Perry gets quick approval as 19th defense secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) - The view new Defense Secretary William Perry gets today from his Pentagon office takes in a shrinking military force and an array of regional threats simmering on three continents.

With almost unprecedented speed, the Senate on Thursday unanimously confirmed Perry as the nation's 19th defense secretary, a job that dates back to the early Cold War years after World War II. Shortly after the Senate vote, Perry took the oath at the Pentagon.

Although the Soviet threat is gone, the swift elevation of Perry from his No. 2 position at the Pentagon reflected apprehension among lawmakers about leaving the Pentagon rudderless for too long.

Former Defense Secretary Les Aspin announced his departure two months ago, and Clinton's first choice to succeed Aspin, Adm. Bobby Inman, dropped out of the running last month saying he was the victim of unfair press attacks.

"It's essential and in the interest of national defense to fill this position quickly," Sen. John Warner, R-Va., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said prior to the 97-0 vote.

Despite concerns about the administration's new regulations on gays in the military, Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind., said Republicans "came to the unanimous conclusion that it's too important a position to be held up."

And while the bookish engineering professor comes to the job with a reputation as an expert in high-tech weapons and management efficiency, much of Perry's three-hour confirmation hearing was taken up with foreign threats. They include North Korea, a country suspected of developing nuclear weapons; Somalia, where U.S. forces are set to withdraw by March 31; and Bosnia, scene of daily airdrops and possible air strikes.

At least twice since World War II, Perry said his predecessors have overseen rapid defense spending cuts only to find the nation unprepared for a foreign threat.

"This time," he said, "we must get it right, or we will pay the cost later in blood or treasure or both."

The 66-year-old Stanford University engineering professor helped forge defense policy for the past year under Aspin and directed defense research under President Carter. He made his reputation in defense circles as the leading promoter of radar-evading stealth technology. He also became a millionaire as the founder of and consultant to defense contractors.

In his first official act Perry flies to Munich tonight to attend a conference on security policy. On Monday he unveils the Clinton administration's $264 billion defense spending plan, a slight increase over this year's budget but, in real terms, the 10th consecutive decline in defense spending since 1985.

But U.S. businesses are reveling at the prospect of a new multibillion-dollar marketplace.

TOKYO - Acting to salvage his fragile coalition, Prime Minister Morihiro Hosokawa today backed away from plans for a divisive tax revision that was intended to help pull Japan out of recession. His troubles, however, appear far from over.

PORTLAND, Ore. - About the only person who used his head in the scheme to attack Nancy Kerrigan was the hit man, Shane Stant. Trapped by a chained exit door at the ice arena where he had just whacked Kerrigan above the knee, he escaped by butting his way through a plexiglass window. For a conspiracy that succeeded in rattling the firmament of international sports, the plotters turned out to be a remarkably hapless and inept band of amateurs.

WASHINGTON - Texas will gain 146 front-line Border Patrol agents this year under a new Justice Department initiative to deter illegal immigration along the nation's southern border. The plan unveiled Thursday by Attorney General Janet Reno and Immigration and Naturalization Service Commissioner Doris Meissner will add 1,010 agents to the U.S.-Mexico border by late 1995.

Sarpalius gets subcommittee chairmanship

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Congressman Bill Sarpalius has been named chairman of a House agriculture subcommittee that oversees farm commodities.

The Amarillo Democrat was elected Thursday to the chairmanship by a unanimous vote of the full House Agriculture Committee.

His panel deals with issues concerning commodities such as cotton, wheat, corn, feed grains, rice and soybeans. His ascension to a chairmanship resulted from a shuffle on the full committee prompted by the retirement in December of Oklahoma Democrat Glenn English.

Sarpalius becomes the fourth Texan with a leadership position on the committee, which is chaired by South Texas Democrat Kika de la Garza. Stamford Democrat Charles Stenholm chairs the subcommittee that oversees operations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture; and Lubbock Rep. Larry Combest is ranking Republican on a subcommittee overseeing credit, environmental and rural development matters.

Law enforcement seeking answers

Missing baby is subject of Texas investigation

AUSTIN (AP) - Local law officers are eager to talk to Cathy Lynn Henderson, who is accused of kidnapping a missing 3 1/2-month-old boy. But they say that so far they've had no luck.

"We cannot question her without approval from the attorney. We've been seeking that and have been denied. ... As soon as she's ready to talk, we're ready to listen," Travis County Sheriff's Office spokesman Andy Saenz said Thursday.

"If she wants to cooperate, we can solve this pretty quick," he said.

Mrs. Henderson, 37, appeared before a U.S. magistrate Thursday at a closed-door hearing in which a court clerk said a lawyer was appointed to represent her.

Shackled and wearing a gray sweatshirt over her orange jail togs, Mrs. Henderson smiled and kissed the air in the direction of her waiting husband as she was led to the hearing. Warren Henderson stayed out in the hall.

Officials said they still were searching for Brandon Baugh, the infant who disappeared with Mrs. Henderson on Jan. 21.

Mrs. Henderson, who had been baby-sitting Brandon and his

2 1/2-year-old sister, left the girl and her own daughter with an in-law's daughter.

After the case was publicized on a national television show, Mrs. Henderson was arrested Tuesday in Independence, Mo. She was returned to Texas late Wednesday.

On Thursday morning, sheriff's deputies from Travis County, police officers from Independence and FBI agents from Kansas City obtained a search warrant to enter Mrs. Henderson's apartment there. She rented the apartment a week before her arrest using a false name and with no mention of a baby.

Maj. Dave Emmons of the Independence police said the only things found in the search were Mrs. Henderson's clothes. They were being shipped to Texas for further examination, he said.

Saenz said the clothes could be important.

"They may have baby hairs or baby fibers," Saenz said, "and that can tie her to Brandon."

Saenz also said a forensic examination was performed Thursday on the 1992 Mazda Protege that Henderson drove from Texas to Independence. The last person to see Henderson in Texas, an 11-year-old girl, said the rear trunk lid was ajar. Authorities have speculated that Brandon was hidden inside.

Federal prosecutor Ron Sievert said after Thursday's hearing that the government made a motion to detain Mrs. Henderson without bond. There will be another hearing next week, he said, declining to comment further.

Rosemary Lehmsberg, Travis County assistant district attorney, would not comment.

The district attorney's office is handling the state kidnapping charge against Mrs. Henderson. She also faces a federal charge of kidnapping, Saenz said.

U.S. Magistrate Alan Albright closed Thursday's hearing and has sealed federal court records in the case at the government's request, said court clerk Linda Clevenger.

At the hearing, Albright appointed Austin lawyer Charles Burton to represent Mrs. Henderson, Ms. Clevenger said. Saenz said he believed another lawyer who met earlier with Mrs. Henderson, Nona Byington, wasn't certified to practice in federal court and so co-counsel was required.

Neither Burton nor Ms. Byington immediately returned telephone calls from The Associated Press.

Saenz said the FBI earlier had a chance to interrogate Mrs. Henderson, but that Travis County sheriff's officials have not.

Saenz said officials have received tips that the baby was taken to Missouri. But he also said they have received reports that the child never left Texas.

"There's no evidence to support either one," he said. "We're going to exhaust all the leads we have."

Saenz - who wore a white ribbon in remembrance of the baby - said the child's parents, Eryn and Melissa Baugh, are staying in a hotel and are in contact with victim's services staffers from the sheriff's office. They live near the Austin suburb of Pflugerville, blocks away from Mrs. Henderson's house.

The FBI has said Mrs. Henderson has a history of drug use and had lost custody of two of her own children.

She worked as an unregistered child-care provider in her home. Texas law requires child-care providers to be registered if they care for four or more children.

Regulators seeking $425,000 Allstate fine

AUSTIN (AP) - State insurance regulators have recommended a $425,000 fine against Allstate Insurance Group for allegedly discriminating against unmarried drivers and violating other consumer protections.

Texas Department of Insurance attorney Patricia Fuller said Thursday the insurance group has 20 days to request a hearing or accept the penalties. She has submitted a report to Insurance Commissioner J. Robert Hunter.

Allstate denied any wrongdoing. But Joe Scatchell of Dallas, a spokesman for Allstate, said "misunderstandings" may have occurred because of the complexities of insurance rules.

"Whatever investigation they want to undertake, we will cooperate fully with them," Scatchell said.

Ms. Fuller alleged that Allstate: - Discriminated against unmarried drivers by denying them coverage in its preferred company that offers lower rates. The Insurance Department prohibits denial of coverage to consumers because of their marital status.

- Refused to insure drivers with only one car in its preferred or standard company. The department prohibits companies from requiring a certain number of cars to be included on the same policy.

- Declined to cover drivers in its preferred or standard company if they previously were insured by a county mutual or surplus lines insurance company. Department rules prohibit "blacklisting."

- Conditioned the issuance of auto policies on the purchase of homeowners or other kinds of insurance, which is prohibited by "tie-in" sales rules.

Last week, a state judge rejected a lawsuit by Allstate and several other insurance companies and trade associations to block enforcement of the rules against blacklisting and tie-in sales.

Commissioner presentation

David Fanning, left, principal of Shirley Intermediate School, presents a school T-shirt to Skip Meno during the state education commissioner's visit to the school today.

MENO

had at least six students when I was leaning over them asked me if I had seen Mr. Oz."

Meno praised the work of retired high school teacher Holubec, saying the intermediate school students are "getting a great science instruction."

The final stop on Meno's tour was Tonya Stewart's sixth grade, where he stopped to visit with Cynthia Martinez and Tiffany Cabazuela.

In talking to the public later, Meno forced himself to limit his praise of the school.

"I could go on for another half hour about the very interesting and ingenious" programs that have been implemented at Shirley.

And, he stressed, "Not one of these came from Austin."

That, Meno said, is the focus of the PSI program -- taking schools around the state and encouraging them to develop innovating programs to meet the needs of the students at those campuses without directives from the state.

"All I did was got the state out of local operations," he said, adding that he told those campus administrators in PSI that "the rules are off."

But, he said there are no plans to expand PSI beyond the nearly 100 schools currently participating.

"There have to be pioneers. ... These folks are pioneers."

Some of the principles learned through PSI will be expanded statewide, he said, such as allowing extra time for teachers to work together outside the classroom to plan programs.

This year, he said, he will work on revising the state education code, at which time he will try to remove as many restrictive requirements on teachers as possible -- "roll back some of the rules and regulations," he said.

When asked to compare Shirley with other PSI schools, Meno cautioned that all the schools are different and that the programs they are doing are unique.

But, he said, on a scale of one to 100, "We're in the high 90s as far as using the flexibility" offered through PSI.

Meno commended the school board -- of which there were six members present -- for having the flexibility to go along with the changes at Shirley.

In other districts, he said, school boards have been unwilling to move with the changes, slowing the progress of PSI.

And, he continued, PSI is not a destination, but a continuing journey toward improved education.

"It is constantly changing," he said, to keep up with changes in the real world.

Two Shirley sixth-graders, Jessica Pulido and Bobbi Jo Brethour, were selected to represent the campus newspaper, The Shirley Stampede at the news conference.

Following a question-and-answer period with adult reporters, the two fired their questions at Meno.

When the girls asked how PSI is working in Texas, Meno said, "I think it's going very well."

He said the program is "doing exactly what we've wanted it to."

In response to a question if Texas was the only state with PSI, Meno replied that, to the best of his knowledge, it was.

He added that there are some states that are going the other direction, trying to solve education programs with a top-down mentality, mandating programs at the state level, rather than freeing local campuses to work.

"You are truly pioneers, not only in Texas, but around the country," he told the two. "Is it tiring being a pioneer?"

Reagan takes swipe at Democrats at party

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - His voice was a bit creaky and his walk a bit stiff, but his purpose was just-jawed clear. Ronald Reagan flew across the continent to accuse President Clinton of stealing his ideas and trying to rewrite the history of the Reagan Revolution.

The occasion was a nostalgic, love-filled moment in Reagan's long public life, a candlelit, red wine, black-tie and long-gown GOP dinner Thursday night to celebrate the 83rd birthday of a Republican icon and raise $5 million for the war against the Democrats. Twenty-three hundred loyalists attended.

Reagan starred. He blew a kiss to Margaret Thatcher, the former British prime minister and his ideological soulmate, and planted a kiss on the cheek of his wife of 40 years, Nancy.

When the red, white and blue balloons inevitably tumbled down, he couldn't resist. He lifted some and tapped them into the audience. He gave a couple of them a kick.

Hand in hand, Nancy and Ronald Reagan blew out the candles on a birthday cake. He was born on Feb. 6, 1911. William Howard Taft was in the White House.

Reagan kidded about his age, but he showed it, too. His temples have turned unhideable gray. His voice has gone low, husky. It was the old Reagan, but an older Reagan. But he spoke for 25 minutes without a flub.

Under the twinkle lay serious business. Reagan came back to defend his eight-year piece of history.

"Our friends in the other party will never forgive us for our success and are doing everything in their power to rewrite history," he complained.

"Listening to the liberals, you'd think the 1980s were the worst period since the Great Depression, filled with greed and despair."

Then, dead serious, an ad lib not in his written speech: "I don't know about you, but I'm getting awfully tired of the whining voices from the White House these days."

The Republicans stood up and cheered and clapped.

More, too: the Democrats, Reagan said, were hijacking the revolution.

It reminded him of the correlation between imitation and flattery, he said, "only in this case, it's not flattery, but grand larceny - the intellectual theft of ideas that you and I recognize as our own."

But it's fakery, he said. Liberalism has been rejected so "they're trying to dress their liberal agenda in a conservative overcoat."

It is true that Clinton has stolen some Reagan tactics. At his State of the Union address last week, he waved his "veto pen" - a trick out of the Reagan book - and he saluted a New York City police detective in the gallery, another piece of Reagan stagecraft.

AUSTIN (AP) - No tickets matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night in the Texas lottery.

The state lottery commission said Saturday's Lotto Texas jackpot is expected to be $15 million.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night were: 4-16-22-36-46-49.

Officials said 88 tickets matched five of six numbers for a payoff of $2,333 each. Four of six numbers were matched on 5,657 tickets, for a payoff of $130 each. Three of six numbers were matched on 113,353 tickets for a $3 payoff.

Bixler: Young golfers will compete

Leading returnee

Kelly Kelso has extensive golfing experience, but she's the only member of the Hereford girls' golf team who has varsity experience. The 1994 team debuts this weekend in San Angelo.

By JAY PEDEEN
Sports Editor

While coach Stacey Bixler was preparing the girls' golf team for this weekend's San Angelo Girls Golf Classic, he wasn't seeing all the old familiar faces.

He says he'll go on nicely with what he has, thank you.

The girls' golf program was hit hard by graduation last May. Among the HHS Class of 1993 were six girls who were largely responsible for three straight trips to the state tournament.

The only returning girl who played last year at state is Kelly Kelso. The senior ended her junior year on a hot streak, shooting an 80 on the second day of the state tournament in Austin. She finished third on the Hereford team, 20th overall in Class 4A.

"She's going to have to be a leader for us, and I think that she's shown that she will," Bixler said.

No other girl in the program has varsity experience, and only three have what amounts to junior varsity experience. Kristin Calkins and Karen Manchee consistently played on Hereford's "B" team last year in district, and Jennifer Rampley played JV two years ago but missed most of last season because of a knee injury.

Despite the lack of experience, Bixler is not exactly panicking. He pointed out that in his eight years as head golf coach, his girls' teams have reached the regional tournament seven times and the state tourney four times. That wasn't bragging; it was just a fact designed to set up a defense for the new crop of golfers.

"It's a new crew, but we've had new crews before," he said. "It hasn't all been the same kids."

Bixler thinks that this new crew is going to be all right. The fall matches they played convinced him that Hereford can continue to compete with Pampa and Borger in District 1-4A.

"The scores were close enough that I think all three teams'll be competitive," he said.

Other girls out for golf now include Jana Baird, Krista Beville and Jami Bell. Bixler expects a few others after basketball season is over.

He'll try to get his new players in as many tournaments as he can, he said, in hopes he'll know who to play in the district rounds. District starts March 24.

"Golf is one of those things where if you play in tournaments in the summer, which some of these kids have done, and if you play in the fall—anytime you get some competition it's going to help you down the road."

The snow that fell Sunday didn't help the golfers much; Pitman Municipal Course was still unplayable on Wednesday, the team's last practice day before leaving for San Angelo.

It'll be a tough tournament. Hereford will play Friday in a group including San Angelo Central, Abilene Cooper and Midland Lee, the reigning Class 5A state champion. Hereford's division includes those three, Pampa and nine other teams, mostly 5A schools. Borger is in the other division.

Hereford's division plays today at Bentwood Country Club and at Riverside Municipal course on Saturday. Borger's division plays at San Angelo Country Club Friday and Riverside Saturday.

It's a little early for golf in the Panhandle—the Hereford boys don't start until March—but there's a reason the girls are playing so soon.

"The only reason we're playing in a tournament this early is because San Angelo is where regionals are," Bixler said.

He must have confidence in the new crew.

NC ousts No. 1 Duke

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina gave Duke the old 1-2.

The second-ranked Tar Heels beat No. 1 Duke 89-78 Thursday night, and all the pregame indications of a double-digit victory for North Carolina were right on the money.

The Blue Devils became the fifth consecutive No. 1 team to lose a game this season. Duke was the last top-ranked team to visit the Smith Center, and it lost that game too.

The previous four meetings of these rivals were all won by the home team by at least 10 points.

"I liked it," North Carolina freshman Rasheed Wallace said of his first Duke-Carolina game, which was also the first time these schools met while holding the top two rankings. "I'll be here four more years to play a lot of Duke games."

His first was close until the Tar Heels (18-3, 6-2 Atlantic Coast Conference) broke it open with a 15-3 run in the second half to take a 59-48 lead with 12:35 to play. Duke (15-2, 6-2) never got closer than six points the rest of the way as North Carolina played a near flawless floor game led by point guards Derrick Phelps and Jeff McInnis.

Phelps, the senior starter, had 18 points, while McInnis, his freshman backup, had eight. Each had six assists and neither was charged with a turnover.

"Phelps was just sensational and McInnis did a very good job," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said. "I thought our defense was very sharp at the beginning of the second half, which was the turning point for us. Our backcourt did a marvelous job. They had assists, they handled the ball and they didn't turn it over."

Phelps also was responsible for covering Duke's Grant Hill, who

Girls to play home closer

The Hereford girls' basketball team will be looking to knock Dumas out of the playoff race tonight in the girls' last home game of the season. That's at 6 p.m. in Whiteface Gym. At 7:30, the Hereford boys will try to break a four-game losing streak.

Dumas' girls (15-11) seem headed for at least a district playoff. The Demonettes split wins with Borger, and both are tied for second place in District 1-4A with 6-2 records. Randall leads at 8-0 and hosts Borger tonight.

Dumas came out on top 58-39 in the last meeting with Hereford (10-16, 3-5 in district).

The Herd boys' last win was a 67-49 romp over Dumas on Jan. 18. Hereford comes in 1-5 in district, 7-19 overall. Dumas is 0-6 and 3-21. Junior varsity games will be played Friday in the HJH Gym: boys at 6, girls at 7:30.

The sophomore boys' team will visit Caprock for a game at 4:30 Friday.

Cardinals choose 'Buddyball'

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - By definition, "Buddyball" should be an improvement on what Phoenix Cardinals fans have been watching since 1988.

"He's a winner," Phoenix owner Bill Bidwill said Thursday after hiring Buddy Ryan as the team's new general manager and coach.

Bidwill said he never discussed Ryan's scrapes with Philadelphia Eagles owner Norman Braman or Ryan's punch at Houston offensive coordinator Kevin Gilbride on the sidelines of last season's New York Jets-Oilers game.

"I'm more concerned with winning football games, and that's what Buddy Ryan can do for us," Bidwill said.

Ryan, who last month completed his 24th year of NFL coaching as Houston's defensive coordinator, was given a dual role because of the NFL's new collective-bargaining system, which includes a salary cap. The Cardinals have been without a general manager since Larry Wilson resigned Dec. 14.

A side benefit might be to prevent friction.

"I think Buddy the coach thinks Buddy the general manager is a pretty good fellow," Bidwill said.

The owner, who set a nine-victory goal for coach Joe Bugel a year ago and then fired him Jan. 24 after a 7-9 finish, said Ryan imposes his own ultimatums.

Ryan said he hopes to pick up with Bugel's season-ending, three-game win streak and lead the Cardinals into the playoffs, where they haven't been in a non-strike season since 1975.

"We won the toughest division in football in three years," said Ryan, who coached the Eagles from 1986-90. "And we started with a team that wasn't anywhere near as gifted as this group right here. This is twice as many or three times as many good football players as we had when I took over in Philly."

The outspoken Ryan, who turns 60 on Feb. 17, received a four-year contract, but terms were not disclosed.

Until he was joined the Oilers last season, Ryan had been out of football for two years after being fired by Braman.

Houston hired him to rebuild a shaky defense, which collapsed in the 1993 AFC championship game and allowed a 35-3 third-quarter lead to turn into a 41-38 overtime loss to Buffalo. The Oilers signed several key players and the defense became the league's best against the run, allowing 79.6 yards per game. Houston also had league highs in interceptions (26) and sacks (52).

Asked his offensive philosophy, Ryan said teams with multiple looks are hard to stop.

"The easiest guys to beat are the guys that want to do that straight vanilla stuff, so we're going to have a variety," Ryan said.

Rockets, Pistons to trade Horry, Elliott

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets will send Robert Horry and Matt Bullard to the Detroit Pistons in exchange for small forward Sean Elliott, according to newspaper reports.

The two clubs were close to a deal Thursday night and will finalize the trade today, the Houston Chronicle reported in today's editions.

Two sources told the newspaper that Detroit coach Don Chaney is excited about Horry's promise as a budding young star. Bullard is being included so the deal will work under terms of the NBA salary cap.

Elliott's agent, Bert Kinerk, told The Houston Post that "loose ends" were all that remained.

"Basically, the Rockets expressed they want to make the deal," Kinerk said Thursday. "The Pistons have given their blessing for us to talk contract with Houston."

"The interest is definitely there. The personnel has been defined. Both sides want to do this, but there are some loose (financial) ends to be tied down."

Kinerk said he spoke Thursday with Rockets owner Leslie Alexander, who expressed interest in trading for Elliott if he could be signed to a long-term contract.

Alexander and Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich have refused to comment on the trade talks.

Elliott, 26, averages 17 points per game and was an All-Star last season for the San Antonio Spurs. He was sent to Detroit in an off-season trade for Dennis Rodman.

Despite their 32-11 record, the Rockets have had trouble scoring this season when opponents are able to stifle Hakeem Olajuwon. Houston coaches believe they need another scoring threat to relieve that pressure.

Many believe Horry, 23, has the potential to be explosive on offense and defense. He has played an average of 28 minutes per game this season, scoring 8.6 points and grabbing 5.3 rebounds.

Bullard, a 6-10 forward, is averaging 3.9 pounds and 1.3 rebounds per game this season.

Rangers give Gonzalez $45 million deal

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The Texas Rangers today signed outfielder Juan Gonzalez to a $45.45 million dollar contract that they hope will keep the home run hitting champ with the team through the year 2000.

The deal, one of the largest in baseball history, gives Gonzalez a guaranteed $30.7 million over the first five years, with an option of $7.25 million and $7.5 million in the final two years, respectively.

"We think it is really the beginning of a great championship era for the Texas Rangers," club president Tom Schieffer said at a morning news conference announcing the deal.

Gonzalez, a Puerto Rican native who first joined a Rangers farm club in Sarasota at age 17, gave a brief statement, saying, "I'm excited about this contract ... I'll play hard every day."

The deal rivals first baseman Frank Thomas' arrangement with the Chicago White Sox, which gives him $45.5 million over seven years if he exercises options to play through 2000.

Club general manager Tom Grieve said, "Contracts like this don't come around very often and neither do players like Juan Gonzalez."

Grieve said the club is "ecstatic about being able to look seven years down the road and know Juan Gonzalez will be batting fourth in our lineup. ... From a baseball standpoint this historic contract is something that we feel great about."

Gonzalez will get $3 million in salary this year, plus a $1 million signing bonus.

Jim Bronner, Gonzalez' agent, flew in from Chicago and Gonzalez came in from Puerto Rico yesterday to meet with Rangers President Tom Schieffer.

Gonzalez hit 45 homers last season to win the league home-run title for the second straight year.

Cowboys hire Zampese as offensive coordinator

IRVING, Texas (AP) - After losing offensive coordinator Norv Turner, the Dallas Cowboys have replaced him with his mentor, who designed the offense Turner used to help win two Super Bowls.

Ernie Zampese, 57, agreed to a three-year contract with Dallas Thursday, the day after Turner was named coach of the Washington Redskins. Turner was an assistant under Zampese in Los Angeles before taking over the Cowboys offense in 1991.

"Certainly he's the one we wanted for the job, he's a natural - we think he'll fit right in, he obviously knows the offense well," Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said by conference call from the Cowboys practice facility.

"He knows the importance of the running game in our offense, so he was our guy from the word go."

Zampese has been the Rams' offensive coordinator the past seven seasons. Last year, he coached the league's fifth-best running offense, which featured 1993 rookie of the year Jerome Bettis. Bettis finished second to Emmitt Smith in the NFL rushing race.

Smith said Zampese's arrival will ensure that the offense of the Super Bowl champions will continue to improve.

"I feel like the guy that taught Norv everything he knows ... is going to come in and do the same things that Norv Turner did with the Cowboys, which is good," Smith said. "It's very good. Now we don't have to take 20 steps backward, we can just keep going forward."

Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson also welcomed Zampese's hiring. "Ernie comes to us after developing a solid offensive philosophy with the Rams," Johnson said in a statement.

"He was responsible for teaching Norv Turner the basic offensive schemes we have used here with great success the past three seasons, and because of his familiarity with our offense, Ernie will be able to provide us continuity during this coaching change."

It had been speculated Zampese wouldn't leave California, but he said the opportunity to coach Dallas' high-powered offense was sufficient lure.

"I think first of all, it's the possibility of going to a Super Bowl," Zampese said. "I think that's what we all aspire to do in this profession, and there's no question with that team having won two Super Bowls in a row has the capability of doing it again."

He added that talk of the Rams possibly moving from Los Angeles also affected his decision.

Before joining the Rams' staff in 1987, Zampese was in charge of the "Air Coryell" offense of the San Diego Chargers under Don Coryell. He was the Chargers' offensive coordinator from 1983-86, and receivers coach from 1979 to 1982.

He was the Chargers' defensive backs coach in 1976, but left to scout for the New York Jets from 1977-78.

Pitcher off hook in rape

CINCINNATI (AP) - A grand jury has declined to indict former Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Mitch Williams after hearing allegations that he raped a woman in a Cincinnati hotel.

Police had acknowledged they were investigating the allegation by a northern Kentucky woman who said Williams raped her after meeting her at a night spot near Riverfront Stadium. Williams was never charged and no warrants were issued.

The Phillies were in Cincinnati for a series with the Reds Sept. 3-5. The woman, who has not been identified by authorities, told police in December that she met Williams at a Covington, Ky., restaurant. She said she went with him to a Cincinnati hotel and he raped her.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

A MAIN CAUSE OF STRIFE

AMONG THE EARLY HEBREWS (INCLUDING ABRAHAM AND HIS DESCENDANTS) A PRIME CAUSE FOR QUARRELS WAS THE IMPORTANCE OF ABUNDANT GRAZING AREAS. AND THESE QUARRELS COULD EVENTUALLY EXPLODE INTO A FULL-FLEDGED TRIBAL WAR! THE HERDSMEN WERE KNOWN FOR THEIR QUICK AND VOLATILE TEMPER! AND THERE WAS NO REASONING WITH THEM WHEN IT CAME TO PROPER PASTURES FOR THEIR SHEEP--BECAUSE THEIR MAIN SOURCE OF WEALTH AND FOOD CAME FROM THE WELL-BEING OF THEIR HERDS. ABRAHAM KNEW FULL WELL THAT THIS WAS SO, AND TO PUT A STOP TO THE QUARRELING OF HIS HERDSMEN WITH HIS NEPHEW LOT'S HERDSMEN HE PARTED WAYS WITH HIS FAVORITE NEPHEW RATHER THAN RISK A SERIOUS CONFLICT. (GEN. 13:6-8) AND EVEN MORE IMPORTANT THAN PASTURE WERE GOOD WATERING PLACES. IF THE HORNY-HANDED KEEPERS OF THE SHEEP FOUGHT OVER PASTURE LAND, EVEN MORE SO WERE THEY READY TO GO TO BATTLE FOR PLENTIFUL WATER. IT DIDN'T TAKE MUCH TO INCITE THEM TO THE POINT WHERE ROCKS WOULD FLY AND THEIR STURDY STAFFS BE RAISED IN ANGER! WE FIND A MENTION OF THIS WHEN ISAAC'S HERDSMEN PROCLAIM TO THE HERDSMEN OF GERAR, "THE WATER IS OURS!" (GEN. 26:20) AND JUST INSTANCES LIKE THIS WOULD BRING ON WARS THAT LASTED FOR GENERATIONS!

The Newspaper BIBLE

HAD ME FOOLED, BUT NOT FOR LONG

Well then, am I suggesting that these laws of God are evil? Of course not! No, the law is not sinful but it was the law that showed me my sin. I would never have known the sin in my heart—the evil desires that are hidden there—if the law had not said. "You must not have evil desires in your heart." But sin used this law against evil desires by reminding me that such desires are wrong and arousing all kinds of forbidden desires within me! Only if there were no such laws to break would there be no sinning.

That is why I felt fine so long as I did not understand what the law really demanded. But when I learned the truth, I realized that I had broken the law and was a sinner, doomed to die. So far as I was concerned, the good law which was supposed to show me the way of life resulted instead in my being given the death penalty. Sin fooled me by taking the good laws of God and using them to make me guilty of death.

But still, you see, the law itself was wholly right and good. But how can that be? Didn't the law cause my doom? How then can it be good? No, it was sin, devilish stuff that it is, that used what was good to bring about my condemnation. So you can see how cunning and deadly and damnable it is. For it uses God's good laws for its own evil purposes. Romans 7:7-13

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I am writing to confirm if I read this hint in your column. It concerns storing garlic in olive oil. I thought I read that it can cause bacterial growth. — Jeri Foster, Houston, Texas

Yes, you read it here, and yes, there is a possibility of bacterial growth. The International Olive Oil Institute (800-232-6548) recommends storing jars of garlic and oil in the refrigerator for no more than 24 hours. When garlic is kept in oil, bacteria that may be on the garlic grows due to the lack of oxygen. The longer the garlic stays in the oil, the higher the risk of food poisoning, so don't take a chance. — Heloise

BACON SUBSTITUTE
Dear Heloise: As I am on a lowsodium diet, one of the things I miss the most is bacon with an egg. I have found a pretty good substitute.

When I break the egg in the cup to steam, I sprinkle a few imitation bacon bits on the top. Try it; you'll like it! — Marie DaHarb, Roswell, N.M.

Thanks for writing, but the bad news is that imitation bacon bits are high in sodium too! You might want to check your diet guidelines for another breakfast idea. There are a lot of delicious options.

If you want to share some of my favorite recipes, order my pamphlet, Heloise's All-Time Favorite Recipes. Just send $2 and a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, long envelope to Heloise/Recipes, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

REMOVING CORN SILK
Dear Heloise: Recently a woman suggested using a toothbrush to remove corn silk when preparing an ear of corn.

For many years, I have used a vegetable brush under a faucet stream, working downward from the narrower top of the ear. It is much quicker and easier than using a small toothbrush. — Don Easterburg, Kirkland, Wash.

BROWN SUGAR I
Dear Heloise: I found a really quick way to soften hard brown sugar. Just put it in the microwave, in the plastic bag, for a minute and it softens it immediately. — Goldie Powell, Kerrville, Texas

Here is another point of view. — Heloise

BROWN SUGAR II
Dear Heloise: Regarding your hint in today's paper, a much simpler and super way is when the brown sugar is as hard as a brick, without breaking it up, just put a piece of bread in the package or air-tight container. The sugar will become soft and stay that way. — Rosene, San Antonio, Texas

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I thought your readers might be interested in something different. Here's what life was like in 1930.
Five gallons of gasoline--85 cents.
One gallon of kerosene--18 cents.

One quart of oil--15 cents.
A haircut--25 cents.
A roll of toilet paper--25 cents.
My telephone bill--$2.25 a month.
Three pounds of rice--18 cents.
A gallon of milk--12 cents.

One dozen eggs--22 cents.
A bakery-type apple pie--10 cents.
Two loaves of bread--10 cents.
Two pounds of butter--25 cents.
Three pounds of brown sugar--21 cents.

I used kerosene lamps, and the stove was kerosene-run as well. We had no electricity. My average income from 1930 through 1933 was $3 a week. Our first child was born at home. We called the doctor at 7 p.m., and he stayed until the birth, which was 9 a.m. the next morning. His bill was $10. Hard to believe how much things have changed.--Z.W. Smoker, Muncie, Ind.

DEAR Z.W.: Thank you for those fascinating figures, but please keep in mind that was 64 years ago and the depth of the depression to boot. Would you want those days back again? I wouldn't.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm writing regarding the letter form "Vancouver Mother," who decided to take a one-year trial separation from her adult children after they refused to contribute $10 a month toward an emergency fund for her, if needed.

I share her views. My three daughters have nice homes. I am waiting for one of them to say, "Come for supper tonight, Mom." Or, "You've had everyone at your place on all the holidays for 40 years. This year I want everyone to come to MY house." Or even, "It's your birthday, let ME take you out for dinner, or let me fix dinner at my home for you."

As a divorced mother who never received a cent from my ex, I have paid for two small weddings (on my credit card) and bought clothes for four grandchildren to start each school year.

I am not looking for anything but a weekly phone call (local) and the pleasure of their company. I send small gifts as I come upon them and would love to receive thank-you note, if only so I'd know they were received.

I, too, was told our family is dysfunctional, and it probably was, but I did all I could to keep my children close to me and to each other. Obviously this was not enough. Perhaps "Vancouver Mother" will let me know where she is going so I, and many other mothers of our generation, might join her.--Sign me Unhappy and Lonely in Somerville, N.J.

DEAR N.J.: Letters like yours are heartbreaking. I realize there are two sides to every story--sometimes three or four, but surely whatever went wrong can be fixed. If it can't, there is bound to be a load of guilt later--when it's too late. I hope your letter is a wake-up call.

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Aerodynamics give football unique quality

A scientist with an ingenious idea has developed a new foam football with aerodynamic tail-fins that make it so easy to throw that even a five-year-old can throw an accurate spiral pass.

The football spins at over 1,000 RPM, yet its final glide is slower and easier to catch than that of other footballs.

The ball was developed by Stanford University Engineering Lecturer, Alan Adler. Adler achieved worldwide recognition in 1985 when his Aerobie flying ring invention set the Guinness World Record for the World's Farthest Thrown Object (1,275 feet). He is also the inventor of the Aerobie Orbiter which is currently the world's best-selling boomerang. His new invention is called the Aerobie football.

As is usual for Adler, he applied the latest aerodynamic theories and computer simulations to perfect the design. He also designed a grip with deep finger pockets into the ball to help throwers release the ball with maximum spiral action and with consistently accurate passes.

Those who have used the Aerobie football report that both children and grown-ups get a tremendous sense of accomplishment when they see their throws fly straight and true. It also adds an extra element of fun to a game of touch football in the park.

If a man takes no thought about what is distant, he will find sorrow near at hand.--Confucius
