Without the bipartisan budget agreement, deficits would continue unabated for at least a decade, the report by the Congressional Budget Office estimated, That contradicted critics who had said the budget would be balanced faster without the measure because the economy is pouring extra revenue into government coffers.

Bush tops poll

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) - An early poll in the nation's first presidential primary state puts Texas Gov. George W. Bush on top of the Republican ticket.

In a phone poll of 400 registered Republicans, 16 percent said if the New Hampshire primary were held today, they would vote for the son of former President George Bush.

Karen Hughes, a spokeswoman for the Texas governor, said Bush isn't commenting on any specific plans for the future.

Photog offered aid

PARIS (AP) - A photographer who reached into the wreckage of Princess Diana's car to take her pulse is trained in CPR and was just trying to help, his boss said today.

Trying to deflect criticism that paparazzi snapped away instead of aiding the bleeding victims, Gamma agency chief editor Didier Contant said photographer Romuald Rat is certified in first aid and CPR.

Supermarket chains will pull tabloids

CINCINNATI (AP) - Two of the nation's four largest supermarket chains say they will not sell tabloid papers that publish pictures of the car crash that killed Princess Diana.

Kroger Co., the nation's largest grocery chain, and Winn-Dixie Stores Inc., the fourth largest, announced their decisions Tuesday.

"All Winn-Dixic and Thriftway stores will pull from sale any publication that contains the photos of the auto accident in which Princess Di was killed," said Nelson Rodenmayer, spokesman for Winn-Dixic, which also owns Thriftway.

Editors of The National Enquirer and the Globe have already said they will not publish photos of the crash.

The poll, conducted by RKM Research and Communications for WMUR-TV. found Jack Kemp would receive 12 percent of the vote, and Lamar Alexander and Steve Forbes would each get 11 percent.

Patrick Buchanan, the 1996 primary winner, would receive 9 percent. and Senator Bob Smith of New Hampshire would receive 8 percent, the survey said.

Former Vice President Dan Quayle and Sen. Fred Thompson, R-Tenn. each received 3 percent.

None of the people mentioned in the poll has formally announced his candidacy in the 2000 primary.

The survey, conducted Aug. 27-30, has a margin of error of plus or minus percent.

Media are concerned

WASHINGTON (AP) - The public is often angry at the media and a group of prominent journalists is stepping forward to say "we agree and share your concerns.'

Tom Rosenstiel, vice chairman of the Committee of Concerned Journalists, said Tuesday that the public tendency to link mainstream journalism with the photographers who pursued Princess Diana is 'absolutely at the forefront, at the core" of the issues the forums must address.

Chaired by Bill Kovach, curator of the Nieman Foundation, the committee announced plans to hold a series of forums on issues it hopes will "clarify the purpose, values and standards of journalism for a new age.

"If you were going to say what prompts an effort like this, it's not only that the public is increasingly angry that we have a breach of faith with the public, but in a sense this is a group of very prominent journalists saying, 'We agree, we share many of the concerns of the public about what we're doing," said Rosenstiel, director of the Project for Excellence in Journalism.

Members of the committee include reporters, editors, authors and academics.

Its statement of concern listed 37 members of the committee and Rosenstiel said the number was growing rapidly.

'Too often, the principles in our work are hard to discern or lost in the din," said the statement being circulated to members of the media.

Public disaffection with the media was reflected in a survey conducted last December for the Center for Media and Public Affairs, a nonprofit research organization.

Officials, residents complain about lax bounty-hunter laws

PHOENIX (AP) - To some residents and officials, the scene was a replay of one of the worst Wild West scenarios: Armed bounty hunters break down the door of a home and prevail in a deadly gun battle with the innocent people inside.

One of the armed bounty hunters who is now being held on $1 million bail on two counts of second-degree murder was convicted earlier on felony charges in Lampasas and Ector counties in Texas.

When it happened in Phoenix this weekend, the incident drew condemnation from local lawmen and calls for greater regulation of the shadowy world of bounty hunters.

"Any fool can be a bounty hunter. You don't have to have any training or anything," said Adonia Nowaczewski, who showed up Tuesday at the scene of the shootout to sign an anti-bounty-hunter petition. "We pay the police to protect us, but these SOBs can kick in doors. ... The laws have to be changed.'

Many who make their living tracking down bail jumpers agree.

"We knew that something like this was going to happen, because there's no standards or regulations across the country," said Bill J. Bryant, president of the National Association of Bail Enforcement Agents.

Added Bob Burton, who runs the National Institute of Bail Enforcement, a training center in Tucson: "This is our Rodney King.

Police said five bounty hunters wearing black military-style clothing, ski masks and body armor broke down the front door of Foote's house early Sunday in search of a California bail jumper.

They tied up several people inside the home including three children - and a gun battle broke out when the bounty hunters tried to force their way into Foote's bedroom.

Foote, 23, and his girlfriend, Spring Wright, 20, were killed.

Authorities arrested three men, including the two wounded, on suspicion of second-degree murder. One of the wounded, 40-year-old Michael Martin Sanders, was charged Tuesday with two counts of second-degree murder and was ordered held on $1, million bail.

The other wounded man, David Brackney, 45, and his son, Matthew Brackney, 20, were being held on suspicion of second-degree murder. Brian Robbins and an unidentified man were being sought.

Sanders worked for various police organizations as an informer and reportedly had been involved in a 1994 bounty-hunting shooting that ended in the death of a man.

He was convicted in Lampasas County, Texas, in 1978 of unlawfully carrying a weapon and in 1982 in Ector County, Texas, of "retaliation against a witness, for which he was sentenced two to years in prison.

AUDIT LOOKS AT DPS SPENDING

AUSTIN (AP) - Not enough state troopers patrol Texas highways because the Department of Public Safety spent money earmarked for hiring new officers on other things, a state audit has revealed.

The audit issued Tuesday said the state's main law enforcement agency used the money to pay for salary increases, building repairs, improved computer and radio technology and other expenses.

Higher speed limits have combined with the state's rapidly growing population to make roadways more dangerous at a time when the state has a trooper shortage. In 1996, for example, there were about 450 more fatal car accidents than in 1995.

The report by State Auditor Lawrence Alwin says that by redirecting the money, the agency has given the impression that "the number of commissioned officers protecting the public was greater than the actual number of officers employed."

"In fiscal year 1997, the monies from approximately 140 of the 237 Traffic Law Enforcement commissioned officer vacancies were being used to fund other expenses than hiring additional troopers," the report said.

CONVICTED BANKER SEEKS REDUCED RESTITUTION AUSTIN (AP) - Convicted banker Ruben Johnson asked a federal judge Tuesday to drastically reduce the $4.6 million he was ordered to pay the federal government for looting the financial institution he controlled.

Johnson's entered a motion claiming he owes $109,741, at most, but has asked U.S. District Judge James Nowlin to reduce the restitution to the amount he already has paid.

Road construction workers give a new meaning to an old term as they continue to break up the old foundation of 25 Mile Avenue. The big equipment makes the task easier and faster than the manual methods, but drivers along the route can't help wonder how much longer.

Drug dealer turns prosecutor

BRIGHTON, Colo. (AP) - Less four years probation after pleading than a decade after she pleaded guilty to selling cocaine to an undercover police officer, Cynthia Ciancio is Adams County's newest prosecutor.

Ms. Ciancio, 29, says the arrest turned her life around and that the experience will make her a better prosecutor. But the president of the Colorado Fraternal Order of Police calls her hiring "morally repugnant," and some critics say she landed the job only because her father, local attorney Gene Ciancio, is a political ally of Bob Grant, district attorney of this county north of Denver.

Grant, who hired Ms. Ciancio as an Adams County deputy district attorney in May, bristles at the criticism.

"It shouldn't disqualify you from a government job that your parents are in politics," he said. "Cindy Ciancio was evaluated and hired on her own merit."

Ms. Ciancio, 29, was sentenced to she said.

guilty in 1990 to selling $250 worth of cocaine.

In a letter to the 3,500 members of the Colorado Fraternal Order of Police, Michael Bliss said Ms. Ciancio's hiring will erode public faith in the criminal justice system.

"Law enforcement has taken enough black eyes over the last couple years. This is one more black eye we don't need," Bliss said Ms Ciancio understands the criticism, but is determined to prove naysayers wrong. "I'm not going to quit," she said.

After graduating from high school in 1986, she got a job selling cars and was more interested in partying - and what she called "very casual" drug use - than going to college. But after her arrest, she got motivated.

"If that had not happened, I don't know if I would have left for college and I don't know where I'd be now,'

Ms. Ciancio graduated from Lyndon State College in Vermont and then earned her law degree from the University of Denver. She worked as an intern at the Adams County District Attorney's office before being hired full time.

Grant says Ms. Ciancio's brush new beef. with the law is a positive.

"People with a background that includes coming through adversity make damn good prosecutors, because they understand both sides of the system," he said.

Bliss remains unconvinced by such arguments, pointing out that a felony conviction would legally bar a person from becoming a police officer.

'It's not about Cindy Ciancio the person at all," he said. "The fact that she's rehabilitated her life, she should be commended. But as a person who's a convicted felon she should not be a law officer, and that's what a prosecutor is."

Experts still doubtful of imported beef

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J. (AP) This steak is so healthful, it could almost pass itself off as a vegetable: low fat, hormone free, 100 percent organic.

Argentine strip loin, rib eye, filet mignon and tips were served Tuesday night at DeAngelo's Restaurant, the first in the country to bring in the beef since an export ban was lifted earlier, this year. "I didn't believe it when they told me this was so much better," said Joe Oliveira, the head chef at DeAngelo's. "But when you put a piece in your mouth, it tastes like a real meat.'

"I can't stop eating it," raved Gail Gerson, who both reviews and does publicity for restaurants. "It's like a purist kind of flavor."

Because Argentine cows graze on grass, not grain, and art not injected with hormones, the meat has half the fat of American beef, Argentine meat suppliers and importers say.

Argentina was banned from exporting fresh, uncooked beef to the United States because of an outbreak of hoof-and-mouth disease, which the country was declared free of in May. Shipments last month were the first in 67 years.

Still, an annual 20,000-ton quota for Argentina's 27 meat suppliers does not translate into a new cash cow. For example, Argentine meat supplier Frigorifico Rioplatense's only U.S. client is DeAngelo's.

And not everyone is lapping up the

Peter Luger in New York City, one of the country's most famous steak houses, has no plans to buy it. Co-owner Jodi Storch asked: "Why start with something that's new and unknown?"

Critics also say grain-fed, fatty American beef will always be superior to the grass-fed variety. Julia Child herself says without enough fat, or marbling, Argentine cattle won't produce tasty steaks.

"If it doesn't have proper marbling and proper feed, it won't have he proper flavor," she said. "This is very lean for those diet-conscious people. It's not going to taste good."

The U.S. Probation Office has declined to release his payment records Court documents show Johnson, who left prison in July 1994, paid $1,684 as of November 1995.

Johnson, former chairman of the failed United Bank of Texas, now gets $61,242 a year as an aide to Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, a politician to whom Johnson had made contributions and loans before Johnson's 1989 conviction.

Attorney Denise Tomlinson has said Johnson paid $100 a month after his release from prison and increased the amount to $200 a month after he was hired by the General Land Office this year.

DIOCESE TRIES TO NULLIFY PRIEST'S ORDINATION

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Catholic diocese has asked the Vatican to revoke the ordination of a priest whose sexual abuse of young men prompted a jury to award $119.6 million to 11 plaintiffs in a civil suit.

Monsignor John Bell, No. 3 official in the diocese, said Tuesday if the request for "nullification" is granted, it would mean that Rudolph "Rudy" Kos was never really an ordained priest.

The diocese is asking for the unusual step on grounds that Kos deceived church officials about his background and sexual orientation.

"It is one of a series of moves that attempt to isolate Father Kos from the Catholic community," Monsignor Bell said. "It is aimed at bringing about some closure, if possible, regarding Rudy Kos.

The jury ordered the award in the civil suit on July 24, finding unanimously that the diocese was grossly negligent and concealed information in its handling of Kos.

PRIVATE PRISON LAYS OFF MORE EMPLOYEES

WACO (AP) - Almost one-fifth of the employees of a private prison at Groesbeck have been laid off because of a dwindling inmate population caused by the cancellations of contracts with the state of Missouri.

Officials of Capital Correctional Resources Inc. announced plans Tuesday to lay off 27 of its roughly 150 employees at the Limestone County Detention Center in Groesbeck.

CCRI, a private company that contracts to manage jails, has already handed out pink slips to most of its workers at lockups in Gregg and Brazoria counties.

The cutbacks are necessary because the state of Missouri has pulled out hundreds of inmates, including 165 at the Groesbeck prison, from private prisons in Texas, according to Bob Prince, vice president of CCRI.

Missouri state officials began recalling their inmates two weeks ago after a videotape showing alleged abuse at the Brazoria County jail was made public.

ADS LINKING LOTTERY, EDUCATION HALTED

AUSTIN (AP) - Plans for an ad campaign depicting schoolchildren as the beneficiaries of the Texas lottery stalled after an inquiry from a lawmaker questioning the campaign's validity.

A Texas Lottery Commission effort to use the ad campaign to highlight the earmarking of lottery money for education was progressing until House Appropriations Committee Chairman Robert Junell heard about it.

'Dedicating the lottery didn't mean one nickel-more for public education,' Junell, D-San Angelo, said Tuesday, urging the commissioners to make sure there is "truth in advertising.

Lawmakers this year voted to set aside lottery money for public education, something many Texans erroneously thought had been done when the lottery began in 1992.

Under the plan that went into effect Monday, lottery revenue flows to education. But some lawmakers believe Texas, like other states, will find that dedicating the money does not necessarily mean more for schools.

POLICEMAN CLEARED OF SEXUAL ASSAUL CHARGES

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Tempers erupted in court after a jury acquitted a San Antonio police officer of sexually abusing two teen-age boys who spent the night at his house.

A jury deliberated about 90 minutes Tuesday before clearing officer Raul Baerga, 37, of all charges.

Baerga's two alleged victims shook angrily and held back tears as the verdict was read, and several of their friends sobbed loudly.

Bailiffs ushered one of the alleged victims from the courtroom after they got into a shouting match with Baerga's two adopted sons, with whom they had been friends since middle school.

"I praise the Lord. It's been hell," said Baerga, a seven-year member of the police force. "I want to thank my family and friends who stood byme and believed in me."

The women were in critical condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital early today following surgery, but a hospital spokeswoman said both were expected to live. Each had been shot once in the abdomen.

SEATTLE (AP) - Ken Griffey Jr. absolutely refuses to talk about home runs and Roger Maris.

"Why do you want to ask me questions about something I don't want to talk about?" the Seattle Mariners' slugger said. "You know my answers."

Sorry, Junior, you could be on the firing line this month.

Griffey, who says he doesn't try to hit home runs, has a funny way of showing it at the plate.

With two homers in his first two at-bats in September, the eight-time All-Star center fielder is back chasing Maris' home run record again.

He's a longshot, to be sure. But with a major league-leading 46 pace for 56, and that leaves him with a chance, however slim, at Maris' record of 61.

Baseball executives to discuss realignment of major leagues

NEW YORK (AP) - Bascball's executive council is meeting once again in an attempt to figure out a realignment plan that won't be blocked.

A radical realignment plan, in which 15 teams would switch leagues, is dead or close to it, several officials said Tuesday on the condition they not be identified. That plan would have placed the New York. Mets and Yankees in the same division, and also would have placed the Chicago Cubs and White Sox in the same division.

However, there still is sentiment for realignment in order to keep Tampa Bay from winding up in the AL West, to reduce the number of early evening and late night televised games in many markets and to avoid having 15 teams in each league.

But there still doesn't appear to be consensus on whether each league should have three divisions or two.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - New York Yankees ace David Cone felt pain during a simulated game and was sent back to New York to receive a cortisone shot in his sore shoulder.

Cone had hoped to start Sunday against Baltimore, but was unable to finish his three-inning workout.

BOSTON (AP) - The players' association is investigating whether Boston Red Sox pitcher Steve Avery was demoted to the bullpen so the team could avoid a $3.9 million contract option for 1998.

Players can be demoted due to performance, but not to prevent them from earning contract incentives. Signed over the winter to replace Roger Clemens, Avery is making $4.85 million this year, with an option for '98 that he could exercise if he made 18 starts.

Avery, 6-6 with a 6.57 ERA in 17 starts, has lost his last four with an 18.47 ERA over 12 2-3 innings.

Gore to be focus of hearings

President Al Gore will be the focus this week as a Senate committee continues its investigation of political fund-raising abuses.

When hearings resume Thursday, three Buddhist nuns are scheduled to testify about donations they made to the Democratic Party after Gore attended an event at their Southern California temple.

The nuns were given immunity from prosecution by the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee to enable them to describe their participation in a scheme by fund-raiser John Huang to conceal a $60,000 donation by the Hsi Lai Temple to the Democratic Party.

The nuns were expected to describe how they and other Buddhist monastics each gave around $5.000

WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice to the Democratic National Commit- cited lack of evidence that high-level tee in their own names and later were reimbursed by the temple, located in Hacienda Heights near Los Angeles.

White House officials concerned that Senate examination of the Buddhist temple fund-raiser will be political grist for Republicans, summoned reporters to a background briefing Tuesday to reiterate Gore's argument that he didn't know the April 29, 1996, event was a fund-raiser when he attended.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post reported in today's editions that more than $120,000 in campaign contributions the vice president solicited in 1995-96 for a "soft money" account not covered by federal law went into a "hard money" account subject to federal election limits.

Attorney General Janet Reno has government officials solicited hard money donations as a key reason she has not recommended appointment of an independent counsel to investigate fund raising in last year's elections. The Justice Department already is investigating. The Post said the money came from eight of 46 donors Gore telephoned from his White House office to ask for contributions to the Democratic National Committee. The newspaper cited records released by Gore's office.

DNC spokeswoman Amy Weiss Tobe told the newspaper "the vice president was not aware that money was being designated for the federal (hard money) account." She added that it was "routine procedure" to assign the first $20,000 of a large donation to a hard money account and to put the rest in the soft money account. She suggested that had inadvertently happened with the money Gore raised.

The resumption of hearings also comes as a broad coalition of interest groups from the right and left prepared to fight Senate subpoenas for documents about their legislative and political strategies.

The Senate committee wants information about whether the groups illegally coordinated their activities with political parties.

The groups, including the Teamsters, the National Right to Life Committee and the Christian Coalition, scheduled a news conference for today to announce their efforts to refuse the subpoenas.

BAPTIST LEADER GETS BACKING, NEW CHALLENGE DENVER (AP) - The leader of the nation's largest black church received another vote of confidence even as a prominent group of pastors promised to fight for his removal at the denomination's annual meeting.

Hours after the Rev. Henry Lyons opened the annual meeting of the National Baptist Convention U.S.A. Inc. with a plea for forgiveness, delegates approved a resolution urging an end to an internal church investigation into his financial dealings.

However, it was the timing of the vote - three days before a scheduled business meeting and at the end of a lengthy opening session when more than half the delegates had already left - that was the final motivation for the coalition of dissenting pastors, who said it was an orchestrated effort by Lyons to bypass the membership and keep his job.

As more than 150 supporters looked on from the steps of the Colorado Convention Center, the pastors, including all four candidates who opposed Lyons in the 1994 election, demanded that Lyons resign immediately or be expelled from office for allegedly mishandling church funds.

CHEROKEE LEADER REHIRES FIRED MARSHALS

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - Principal Chief Joe Byrd has rehired two marshals he fired in a storm of controversy, saying he is willing to go beyond a peace pact reached to settle months of turmoil in the Cherokee government.

Byrd also agreed Tuesday to reinstate two clerks serving the Judicial Appeals Tribunal of the 182,000-member tribe, the nation's second-largest.

Neither action was specifically called for in the accord signed last week by Byrd, four Tribal Council members and Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt. "I believe it's important for me to go beyond the actual terms of the agreement," Byrd said. The dispute began in February when Byrd fired marshals who executed a search warrant for financial documents tied to a criminal investigation of his office. His supporters on the council later impeached the three tribunal justices, and lawsuits and federal probes followed.

The dispute escalated three weeks ago with a scuffle outside the tribe's courthouse in Tahlequah. Several people were injured and others arrested. Babbitt eventually met with tribal leaders in Washington.

News, which said it obtained it from an advance copy of the upcoming issue of Vanity Fair magazine.

The Denver Post, which published excerpts, said it had learned Vanity Fair and the New Yorker were planning major articles on the murder case and may have obtained copies of the text. Six-year-old JonBenet's body was discovered in the basement of her family's home the day after Christmas, eight hours after her mother, Patricia, said she found the note. The little beauty pageant champion, whose father, John, is a millionaire businessman, had been beaten and strangled. Police have made no arrests and no suspects have been identified.

"It's one of a number of programs that will define the way the Air Force operates in the next century," said Mike Matthews, a spokesman for Boeing's Space and Missile Systems Sector in Seal Beach, Calif.

The prototype to be unveiled today was developed under a $5.3 million contract by Boeing and the Air Force's Phillips Laboratory in Albuquerque, N.M. The cigar-shaped craft with stubby wings is made of graphite, epoxy and aluminum. It is 22 feet long and weighs 2,500 pounds.

CIGARETTE PRICES JUMP ABOUT 7 CENTS A PACK

NEW YORK (AP) - Leading tobacco companies increased wholesale cigarette prices for the second time this year as they moved to start raising the billions of dollars needed for smoking lawsuit settlements.

The increase of 7 cents a pack, about 7.5 percent, should translate into a 4 percent retail boost for smokers. The rise, effective Tuesday, followed an increase of about 5 cents a pack in March.

Analysts said the move should cover the first-year costs of legal settlements reached with Mississippi and Florida over the states' claims to recover Medicaid payments to treat sick smokers.

They said the industry's quick move to match Philip Morris USA in raising prices may be intended to encourage Congress to approve a broader national legal settlement reached in June.

The White House is reviewing the proposed $368.5 billion settlement reached with a majority of state attorneys general and various anti-smoking activists.

BRITAIN ANNOUNCES PLAN FOR MONTSERRAT

OLVESTON, Montserrat (AP) - Britain has announced a five-year plan to develop an underused part of Montserrat so that residents squished into a small swatch of the island by recent volcanic eruptions can carve out new lives.

The plan announced Tuesday includes fast-track housing and infrastructure projects for residents displaced by the Soufriere Hills volcano, which has rendered the southern two-thirds of the island uninhabitable.

"Essential facilities including health care, education, utilities and internal and external communications will be available for Montserratians who wish to remain on the island," said a joint statement from the governments of Britain and Montserrat.

About 5,000 people are squeezed into homes and shelters in a northern e zone on Montserrat, a British Caribbean dependency about the size of Washington, D.C. About 11,000 people lived on the island before the volcano burst in 1995.

PROTOTYPE OF REUSABLE SPACE CRAFT UNVEILED

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It's made of the same stuff as golf clubs, shaped like a cigar and reusable. It's the Space Maneuver Vchicle - the future of Air Force reconnaissance.

The Air Force and the Boeing Co. designed the crewless craft to perform reconnaissance and put small satellites into orbit. The military says it will give it more flexibility in gathering intelligence.

DAVID SOUL PAUL MICHAEL GLAZER NEW YORK (AP) - Don't look for a "Starsky and Hutch" reunion any time soon.

David Soul (Hutch) and Paul Michael Glaser (Starsky) have moved on. Glaser directed the '70s buddy-cop show and then moved on to similar work on "Miami Vice" before making feature films such as 'The Running Man" and "Kazaam.

Soul, meanwhile, was fed up with Hollywood.

VIETNAM AIRLINES JET CRASHES, KILLS 64

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) - A Vietnam Airlines jetliner crashed in a ball of flames today on a landing approach to Phnom Penh's international airport, killing 64 people. Only two young boys, a Korean and a Thai, survived.

The Soviet-built Tupolev 134 plane, arriving from Ho Chi Minh City, went down in a rice paddy about a half-mile south of the runway during a downpour, clipping palm trees and exploding into flames on impact, witnesses said.

Four people initially survived, but two men died at the capital's Calmette Hospital, doctors said. A Korean boy, Sung Hach, 4, whose parents were killed, clung to life with serious burns. A 1-year-old Thai boy, Phai Bun, had a broken leg. *

GEORGE CLOONEY

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Likening tabloid journalists to crack cocaine dealers, George Clooney reacted to Princess Diana's death by vowing to try to weaken laws protecting the media from libel lawsuits.

The star of NBC's "ER" and the latest "Batman" movie singled out National Enquirer editor Steve Coz after the weekend car accident that killed the princess, her boyfriend and the driver, who was drunk.

The car was being chased by paparazzi, and a French judge has declared seven photographers as manslaughter suspects.

"I wonder how you sleep at night," Clooney/said at a news conference of more than 200 media "You representatives Tuesday. should be ashamed."

Coz said Clooney has "misquoted, misstated, and misrepresented the facts for his own press purposes."

"Let's allow the facts of this tragedy to speak for themselves rather than have celebrities twist it to fit their own publicity agenda," he said.

Clooney said tabloids hide behind the legal requirement that people accusing media organizations of libel must prove stories were motivated by "malicious intent." He called that a nearly impossible hurdle to overcome.

"They are the two words that every ethical journalist says is the loophole tabloids hide behind," Clooney said. "They are two words in the law that I will spend every free moment trying to change."

WALTER CRONKITE

NEW YORK (AP) - Now that Walter Cronkite and his wife have settled into their new apartment, he's had some time to reflect on the way it 'was

The 80-year-old Cronkite, a legendary newsman for CBS for 47 years, had quadruple bypass heart surgery in March, a year after having a knee replaced. His wife of 57 years, Betsy, also 80, decided last spring that they should leave their four-story townhouse in New York City for a one-floor apartment.

"We hated moving," Cronkite says in the Sept. 1 issue of People magazine. "I don't know what was worse, all the sentimental stuff - that we had raised a family there, that we loved the neighborhood and the neighbors - or just the thought of cleaning out closets that hadn't been touched in 40 years.'

He says he's not sure what will happen at Christmas, when the relatives all used to gather at the old townhouse.

"There are probably enough sofa beds to take care of everybody if they want to come, but I have a feeling they're going to use this as an excuse to get their own family traditions going," he said.

Lunden getting ready to leave

NEW YORK (AP) - Joan Lunden has only a couple of mornings to go after 17 years co-anchoring "Good Morning America." That being the case, her viewers might ponder just what is the secret of her tenure unrivaled, as it is, in network morning TV

I did.°My conclusion: Her eyes. There's something about her eyes.

Upstaged they may be by Lunden's signature sunny smile. But when it isn't the time to smile, it's her eyes that say why, and maybe better than words or pictures could.

Joan Lunden's eyes, when you connect with them, can break your heart.

she co-anchored "GMA's" coverage after the death of Princess Diana. Lunden's eyes captured the sadness her viewers felt.

When Lunden sat for an interview a couple of weeks ago to discuss her getting-nearer-by-the-moment departure. The Smile was a fixture on her face.

"I will admit to you that I took my appointment book and found Sept. 5 and wrote NO MORE WAKEUPS!, and I've been counting down," she said.

That unmerciful morning wakcup has come at 3:30 a.m. since before her three daughters were born - and

Which they did again this week as her eldest, Jamie, is 17 years old. "They know no other way of life," Lunden said with a smile. "I think they're going to enjoy me not being tired all the time."

Earlier this year, NBC morning show "Today" said good day to Bryant Gumbel after 15 years in a seamless handover of his anchor duties to news reader Matt Lauer.

The transition of power became an opportunity for "Today" to celebrate its own success as the No. 1 morning show in the ratings. ABC's "Good Morning America," which has trailed "Today" for almost two years, faces mostly uncertainty with the debut next Monday of Lunden's successor. Television WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 3 6 PM 6:30 7 PM 7:30 8 PM 8:30 9 PM 9:30 10 PM 10:30 11 PM

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: For a 64year-old man I am in good shape. I am not overweight, my blood pressure is fine, I do not smoke and I am careful not to eat fatty foods.

I mentioned to my doctor that I don't eat salt. The doctor said that since I do not have a heart condition or high blood pressure, I can eat all the salt I want.

I always thought salt triggers high blood pressure. What's the scoop? -P.K.

ANSWER: There are two opposing amps at war with each other over the salt issue.

The salt users say there is no proof that reducing salt for healthy people prevents high blood pressure. They also point to one study that surprisingly found heart attacks might be slightly greater in salt abstainers.

The salt abstainers point out that high blood pressure is a rarity in places where salt is used sparingly. They further cite the fact that 20 percent of the population is "saltsensitive" - that is, they do develop high blood pressure unless they cut back on their salt use.

Salt abstainers point to another important fact: Salt promotes calcium loss in the urine. Salt users, therefore, are at risk for osteoporosis.

Neither side argues about the value of limiting salt for those with high blood pressure or for heart patients. I'm staying with the conservative point of view until information proves the liberal salt users are correct. We need only 1 teaspoon of salt a day, and most of us get far more than that from the salt in processed foods.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please explain the differences between invitro fertilization and artificial insemination. - M.L.

ANSWER: With artificial insemination, spermatozoa are deposited into a woman's vagina with a syringe or with a cup placed over the cervix. If a man were to undergo chemothe apy that altered sperm production, prior to treatment he could have sperm frozen for artificial insemina-tion later. With in-vitro fertilization, eggs are taken from a woman's ovary and put in a shallow container filled with a nourishing fluid. Then sperm are added. When an egg is penetrated by a sperm cell, the fertilized egg is implanted in the woman' uterus. In-vitro fertilization can be used for women whose tubes are blocked. preventing the natural passage of an egg into the uterus.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible.

What Others are Saying

By The Associated Press

Here are excerpts from recent editorials in newspapers in the United States

The Philadelphia Inquirer, on new election for Teamsters:

The halo over Teamsters president Ron Carey, the reformer who led the successful strike against UPS, was quickly tarnished_and with it some of the labor movement's momentum from the UPS settlement.

A federal official has just thrown out the union's 1996 election _ which Mr. Carey had apparently won by fewer than 16,000 votes out of nearly half a million _ because of the Carey camp's illegal fund-raising.

The ruling seeks to give members of the corruption-plagued union the fair election they deserve _ for example, by preventing Mr. Carey from promoting himself right before the election in Teamster publications.

But to serve his members, his union's image and that of unions in general, Mr. Carey ought to go the extra mile. He should step aside until a fair election can determine the Teamsters' rightful leader. k.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, on AMA and product endorsements:

The American Medical Association, the nation's largest physicians' group, restored some of its credibility by admitting an error in judgment and backing away from an exclusive product endorsement deal.

After stinging public criticism for conflict of interest and commercialism. AMA asked Sunbeam Corp. to release it from a contract to put the AMA logo on health care products in exchange for a cut of sales, estimated to be millions of dollars.

All organizations sometimes make bad decisions. It's refreshing when they swallow their pride and change course. The public outcry hopefully reminded the AMA it has a higher calling.

The News & Observer, Raleigh, N.C., on tobacco companies and tax credit;

Talk about smoke and mirrors. The nation's tobacco companies showed some dazzling sleight of hand in slipping a $50 billion credit for themselves into the tax-cut bill Congress passed. ... They got the sure-handed assistance of House Speaker Newt Gingrich and Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott in coming off with their prize. What this back-room deal does for the big cigarette manufacturers is to give them a $50 billion tax credit against the $368 billion they've pledged to settle anti-tobacco litigation. Over the 25 years of the proposed payments, the provision sneaked into the bill would credit to Big Tobacco an estimated $50 billion from a higher tax levied on cigarettes.

How could such a tax break come about? Immaculate conception appears the best explanation. Certainly no one in Congress admits to being its parent, although Gingrich and Lott gave it all the foster care it needed. And on this, as on other controversial provisions, the Clinton administration's negotiators reluctantly backed off in order to get the bill passed.

Yet it's clear that the break was first proposed by 20 House Republicans from tobacco states. .

This is not surprising in view of the $1.6 million in "soft money" that tobacco manufacturers gave to the Republicans Party in the first half of this year. ... Indeed, tacking on $324,461 given the Democratic Party through June, the big tobacco firms had contributed four times what they gave in the same period in 1993, after the previous presidential election. ...

Roswell (N.M.) Daily Record, on President Clinton and the line-item veto:

The first exercise of presidential authority to turn whole congressional cloth into cheap lace was more notable for what remains than for what was cut out.

The president's first use of his new power to kill portions of bills and keep the rest will cut $600 million from some $9 trillion in projected federal spending over the next five years. For every $100,000 taxpayers spend, they'll save 66 cents. Not much.

The Hereford Brand, Wednesday, September 3, 1997--Page 9

But the line-item veto always has been oversold as a means of wiping p the nation's red ink. Any veto authority that exempts Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, federal pensions, interest on the national debt and tax breaks that affect more than 100 people is limited in its effectiveness, for it cannot reach where the money is.

What it has the potential to do is expose those tax-and-spend bills designed not to advance the nation's interest but to protect special interests, particularly those with money and clout. Tax breaks for Bill Gates? Come on! Federal authorization of them does more damage to the nation's faith in Washington than it does to the federal treasury ...

The Register-Guard, Eugene, Ore., on proposed realignment of major league baseball:

The folks who run major league baseball are about to vote on one of their worst ideas yet: realignment. ... The concept of realignment arises from the notion that coupling teams by time zones rather than traditional league ties would mean less travel and lower costs. And the owners pushing realignment also _ naively _ predict that new fan loyalties and team rivalries in specific geographic regions of the country would produce increased fan interest and, thus, increased revenues. ..

But realignment also might drive away fans who would tire of an unbalanced schedule that pits the same teams in the same region against each other time and again. ...

Geography is a good organizing principle for many things, but not baseball. The owners should begin work on some other idea such as choosing, at long last, a new, permanent commissioner with the authority to put the game's _ not the banks' _ interest first. The Times-Picayune, New Orleans, on peace process in Middle East:

Events in the Middle East are crashing from provocation to provocation again, and again it is anybody's guess what it might mean for the tenacious but tattered peace process.

The latest turn is outrageous to those outside of the Palestinian camp who are trying to make Palestinian Authority President Yasser Arafat convincingly metamorphose from terrorist to statesman. It is a photograph of Mr. Arafat planting a kiss on the lips of the leader of Hamas, the peace-opposing bomb-throwers organization that proudly claims responsibility for grisly atrocities against Israelis. ...

The kiss _ actually kisses all round as greetings _ was dismissed as customary by Palestinians, but there was little doubt that the whole event was designed to be as confrontational as it could be. ...

The Hawk Eye, Burlington, Iowa, on Louisiana law on carjackings: The public's fear of carjackings ... has turned to paranoia in Louisiana. With only three dissenting votes, the Louisiana legislature recently passed, and the governor signed, what residents are calling the "shoot the carjacker

It allows motorists who believe they are being carjacked to use deadly force to protect themselves and their property. ..

The message to lawbreakers is clear and simple, in the language of violence they so well understand.

The law came about after three citizens who shot carjackers initially were charged with crimes while police sorted out the details.

The shootings were ruled self defense and the charges were dropped, but the detentions outraged politicians and citizen groups, who forced the law's passage.

The lawmakers have effectively taken the police and prosecutors out of the equation and made gunplay more likely because motorists now have a green light to become vigilantes. ...

Florida youngsters crammed into portable classrooms that devoured playground space, while Minneapolis teen-agers got some extra winks when schools reopened for most of the nation's school children.

And all around the country Tuesday, school cafeterias were looking more like theme restaurants as school food service managers searched for ways to make that lunch break a little more appetizing.

In Florida, where a population boom has strained school capacity, some children were having lunch as early as 10:40 a.m. so everyone could get a meal.

"You mean our brunch," said Carolyn Spooner, a first-grade teacher at Spingwood Elementary School in Tallahassee. The 10-year-old school was built for 764 students but now has 1,000, with the overflow housed in 12 portable classrooms set on playground space.

CONTESTANTS BARRED FROM CASINOS

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.- Miss America officials, who have said "No dice" to contestants for 19 years, are gambling with the pageant's girl-next-door image this year.

For the first time since casinos opened here in 1978, contestants who are 21 of older can enter them and gamble. They still can't smoke in public or drink alcohol, but they can shoot craps, play black jack or try their hand at poker and dozens of other games.

'These are young women. They're not babies. And we are not their parents," said Leonard C. Horn, the pageant's chief executive officer. "What they do in their private lives is their business."

The contestants arrived in Atlantic City on Monday to begin preparing for the televised pageant on Sept. 13.

FORMER HEAD OF METROPOLITAN OPERA DIES

NEW YORK- At his retirement from the Metropolitan Opera, Sir Rudolph Bing wrote that someone once said his job was the third most difficult after president of the United States and mayor of New York - and they "don't have to deal with prima donnas."

The autocratic impresario managed well enough, taming prima donnas and brushing off critics' complaints while bringing the company to new heights in artistic achievement and popularity during his 22 years as general manager.

Bing died Tuesday at St. Joseph's Hospital in Yonkers. He was 95 and had been suffering from Alzheimer's disease.

TRADITIONAL AFRICAN DANCERS WEAR KILTS

BROEDERSTROOM, South Africa - The traditional dancers stride into the thatched-roof hut and start strutting their stuff to a cacophony of drums and whistles.

But these Africans are wearing red tartan kilts. What's that all about? No one knows for sure. And maybe that's the way it should be.

The Pedi people, citing their oral history, say the use of kilts dates back to 1879. They say that's when the tribe lost a battle because its warriors thought kilted Scots leading a British army were women and held their fire until realizing the mistake too late.
