Voter certificates mailed

New voter registration certificates, required for voting in next year's elections, were mailed Thursday by the Deaf Smith County voter registrar and county clerk, David Ruland. Looking over a few of the 8,500 cards is Connie Urbanczyk, deputy clerk. Ruland reminded that no registration cards will be forwarded by the U.S. Postal Service. To be eligible to vote, persons who have moved or are new in the county must register at least 30 days prior to the March 8 primary elections.

Counselor given $1,000 state contract

Whitehead offers psychologist for upset state Treasury staffers

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Treasury employees were offered a psychologist's services in case they were upset about Treasurer Martha Whitehead's recommendation to abolish the agency.

"We want our employees not to get off track and depressed, although a certain amount of that is to be expected," Mrs. Whitehead said.

She said the psychologist, hired under a $1,000 state contract, was brought in to ensure that employee productivity doesn't suffer because of her recommendation, according to the Austin American-Statesman.

Over a two-day period, the psychologist had seven sessions with workers and has planned follow-ups as necessary.

A Democrat, Mrs. Whitehead faces election in November. She was appointed treasurer last summer by Gov. Ann Richards after Kay Bailey Hutchison left the post to become U.S. senator.

Mrs. Whitehead said that, if elected, she would push for lawmakers to present a constitutional amendment to voters to do away with the Treasury and transfer major functions to the state comptroller's office. That would mean a job loss or transfer for workers at the Treasury, which employs 250 people and has an $11 million annual budget.

But Republicans attacked the hiring of a psychologist as evidence that the Treasury is "in chaos."

"Probably she should pay for this counseling out of her campaign funds, since her decision was made for purely political reasons," Karen Hughes, state GOP executive director, said.

While Ms. Hughes didn't directly criticize Mrs. Whitehead's decision to hire a psychologist, she questioned her leadership and decision to recommend an agency merger.

Mrs. Whitehead "can't change that bad decision by bringing somebody in to try to make everybody feel better about it," said Ms. Hughes.

"I think the solution may not be a psychologist. It may be a different state treasurer," she said.

But Mrs. Whitehead said it is in the state's best interest to have happy, productive employees, and that people at the Treasury do a "great job."

"I'm amazed that anyone would be that insensitive to not understand the shock that our employees faced here when they heard my plan," she said.

Witnesses tell of Reid family life, child's medical problems

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A parade of witnesses telling about the health problems of Morgan Reid continued Friday in 222nd District Court.

During three days of prosecution testimony and cross examination, two physicians and a neighbor described their experiences with Tanya Thaxton Reid, accused of murder in the death of Morgan Reid, who was eight months old when she died in February 1984.

Testimony by Lynn Jachimek, a neighbor of the Reid family in a Chicago suburb in 1983, was interrupted Friday morning when the defense objected to the prosecution's intention to show a videotape made in the Jachimek home at Thanksgiving in 1983. Morgan Reid was six months old at the time.

Judge David Wesley Gulley removed the jury from the courtroom while excerpts of the tape showing Morgan and the entire tape were viewed by attorneys and the judge. Shortly before noon, Judge Gulley had not ruled on admissibility of the tape.

Under questioning, the witness told the jury that during the fall, Reid had been upset because her husband, Raymond, was to be out of town for a period.

"The first day Ray was gone, there was an apnea episode with Morgan," said Jachimek. In further questioning, the witness testified that, to her knowledge, there was never anyone in the Reid home, except for the mother, when the apnea spells were experienced.

"A couple times, Ray was home but was in the yard or at our house when it happened," she continued. Jachimek said she "never saw Tanya cry" when the baby was stricken.

She also told about an occasion when she agreed to babysit for the Reids while they went out.

"Tanya brought Morgan over without the monitor or anything but a diaper bag," she testified. "I was so worried, I sat and held Morgan the whole four hours they were gone."

A physician from Chicago, Dr. Jerome Skurka, testified Thursday about his concerns about Morgan when she was under his care in a hospital.

At one point, Dr. Skurka said, he suggested that Tanya Reid seek psychiatric counseling to deal with the problems.

"It was agonizing trying to figure out what to do," he said. "I decided to work with the mother."

"I stated my concerns that the apnea episodes occurred only when Morgan was with the mother. I was concerned about the pattern."

Dr. Skurka, asked how the mother responded, said he couldn't "remember anything specific."

On cross examination, Dr. Skurka was asked if Morgan had a "large head" and if it was noticeable. The said there was slight enlargement of the head and a specialist suggested that measurements be taken weekly of her head.

The last time he saw Morgan was in December 1983, he testified, because the family moved.

A physician who treated Morgan and, later, Robert, testified about their medical problems for two days. Dr. Shashikant Kudchaker, said no reasons were ever detected.

Tanya Reid was indicted last March by a Deaf Smith County grand jury for murder and injury to a child. Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul earlier announced he is not pursuing the injury to a child count.

The Reid family lived in Hereford in early 1984. Morgan Reid was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital on Feb. 7, after she stopped breathing at the home. She was transferred to an Amarillo hospital where she died the next day.

The family moved back to the Chicago area where they were living when a son, Robert Reid, was born.

They were living in Urbandale, Iowa, when child protective authorities removed Robert from the home. He reportedly had suffered 20, or more, spells of apnea.

A charge of endangering a child was brought against the mother. She was convicted in an Iowa court in 1989 and sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Reid was extradited to Texas last summer to stand trial on the murder charge. If convicted here, she still must finish her Iowa sentence before serving the Texas sentence.

Nolen selected as permanent United Way executive director

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

It took less than a minute for the United Way of Deaf Smith County to decide on a new executive director Thursday night.

As soon as board president Mike Hatley asked if interim director Sally Nolen should be kept on as permanent director, or if applications should be solicited, board vice president Ron Rives made a motion that Mrs. Nolen be retained.

It was seconded and voted on with no discussion.

Mrs. Nolen had been a board member and secretary of the board earlier this year when former director Donna Brooks resigned.

Mrs. Nolen stepped in on an interim basis to carry the United Way through its annual fundraising drive.

Following the action on Mrs. Nolen's status, the board voted to give secretary Karen Sherrod the title of executive assistant to the director and approved a pay increase of 50 cents an hour.

The actions were taken during the first United Way board meeting since the fund campaign ended this month.

As of Thursday, the United Way had raised $118,272.50, which represents 78.85 percent of its goal of $150,000.

However, Hatley said, this year's campaign is ahead of where last year's was as of mid-November, adding that the United Way last year did not reach its final income figure until January.

In other board action, directors authorized Mrs. Nolen to sign checks for the United Way, provided they are not payroll checks and are for $300 or less.

This, Hatley said, will allow her to better conduct business without having to track down authorized board members to sign routine checks.

In anticipation of the beginning of a new year for the United Way, Hatley appointed two committees, one to address replacement of seven board members -- four through resignation and three through expiration of terms -- and one to begin work on a possible golf tournament next year.

Rodney Ruthart, Rives and Alice Eades were named to the nominating committee, which will present the names of new directors at the United Way's Jan. 6, 1994, meeting.

Regarding the golf tournament, Hatley said the first chore of the committee will be to decide if the United Way wants to pursue one again.

Then, he continued, the committee must seek major corporate sponsorship early and work to lower the registration fee and raise the prizes while making sure the United Way makes money.

Tabbed for that committee were Ruthart, Jeff Torbert and County Judge Tom Simons.

In debate on the officers for next year, Hatley and Rives were tabbed to keep their same positions. Hatley's term on the board is to expire on Dec. 31, so he will be reappointed for the next year.

Ruthart was elected treasurer, replacing Mrs. Nolen.

The board also debated resuming payment of dues to the national United Way organization and the state association.

Those dues were suspended three years ago due to a scandal at the national level.

Cost to participate at both levels will be about $1,600, but Hatley said it could get to the point where local organizers would be prohibited from using the United Way name if those dues are not paid.

Hatley said most United Way organizations that had previously suspended national dues payments have now resumed sending them in because of a change in leadership at the national level.

The board approved a tentative budget for 1994, with the contingency that they might decide not to appropriate the dues money at a later date.

Hubble telescope prepared for vision-fixing operation

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - The Hubble Space Telescope was put down for a nap today as shuttle astronauts closed in to restore the observatory's 20-20 sight.

The $1.6 billion Hubble made its last science observation overnight. Ground controllers then switched the telescope to low power in preparation for Saturday's rendezvous and capture, and closed the protective door over the lens.

Once Hubble is secured in Endeavour's cargo bay, spacewalking astronauts will attempt to install 11 new parts, including corrective optics. Hubble was launched in 1990 with an improperly polished mirror that left the telescope nearsighted.

The problem made this $629 million repair mission necessary.

"It's sad and a tragedy that there was a flaw that might have been caught by additional testing that wasn't done at the time," shuttle commander Richard Covey said this morning in an interview with The Associated Press.

"I think it's past the time of pointing fingers. We've just got to go up and fix this thing now and get it working the way it was intended to."

Endeavour was trailing Hubble by fewer than 2,000 miles early today, less than a third the distance at which the shuttle started out after Thursday's launch. The spaceship and its seven astronauts gained 250 miles on the telescope with every orbit.

The key to the Hubble repair mission - the capture - depends on Claude Nicollier's sensitive fingers.

United We Stand members visit with Perot at state convention

AUSTIN (AP) - A face-to-face meeting with Ross Perot was a major drawing card for members of United We Stand on the first day of the party's three-day state convention.

With organizations in half the state's counties as well as all 30 congressional districts, the goal this weekend is to elect Texas officers, adopt bylaws and ultimately receive a charter from the national office.

Five states have completed the process and more than a dozen others will hold conventions this weekend. United We Stand officials say most state organizations will be up and running by the first of the year.

While they are essentially building a political party apparatus, United We Stand officials stress that it's a bottom-up construction, not top-down. Officials insist that each group can tailor its goals to suit members and note that bylaws will vary from state to state.

"It's truly a grassroots effort," said Bill Walker, the state director in Texas.

The Dallas headquarters has hired a paid director like Walker in every state and has a staff of about 50 full-time workers at the main office. But United We Stand officials say that's really a skeleton crew.

"It's a pretty small staff to conduct the kind of national operation we're doing," spokeswoman Sharon Holman said Thursday.

The organization's request for tax-exempt status from the Internal Revenue Service, which has been pending for months, prevents it from taking direct political action, such as endorsing candidates.

But officials acknowledge that their purpose is to influence next year's congressional elections by "educating" members about the candidates' views.

We can do that here!

Is there a shortage of immediate cash on hand to pay for Christmas gifts this year? Well don't go running out of town to put stuff on layaway -- Gibson's, 1115 W. Clinton tries to ease North Korea tension

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton is trying to defuse tensions with North Korea over its nuclear program, saying there is no cause for alarm about a military confrontation.

"I still think there's a chance that we can put (North Korea) in a position where they can crawl back off this ledge they are on, and I certainly hope they will," Clinton said.

Still, Clinton said Pentagon planners were considering all possible options, "thinking about every conceivable thing that could happen, bad and good." They include a military buildup of U.S. troops in the area.

He added: "There is no cause for any great alarm on the part of the American people or the North Koreans, for that matter."

The president made his remarks in interviews with U.S. News & World Report magazine and NBC News.

A senior Pentagon official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said preparing a list of possible steps to strengthen U.S. troops in the area is part of "prudent planning" being undertaken by the military.

The crisis with North Korea stems from the Pyongyang government's insistence to Western demands to respect its nuclear facilities. The CIA believes North Korea could have enough nuclear material for one or two weapons, although the North Koreans deny having any nuclear weapons program.

The Washington Post reported today that a new U.S. intelligence analysis has forecast that the administration will fail to get North Korea's approval for inspections of its most sensitive nuclear-related facilities and thus may never determine how much bomb-grade plutonium North Korea has made.

An administration official acknowledged to The Associated Press that the United States "will never know how much plutonium they've got." Yet, the administration is pursuing an inspection regime to get North Korea to stop its nuclear weapons program and sign on to a non-nuclear future, the official said, speaking only on condition of anonymity.

Clinton is concerned that the highly unpredictable North Korean regime would be even more dangerous with a nuclear weapon. He also fears that if North Korea gets the bomb, South Korea and possibly Japan could follow suit.

The United States is trying to persuade North Korea to allow limited inspections in return for talks that could lead to cancellation of a major military exercises in South Korea, financial assistance and eventual diplomatic recognition.

So far, North Korea has not responded except to warn that Western pressure "will produce a very dangerous consequence." It said North Korea was ready for war or sanctions.

Clinton, in one interview, said, "I'm doing what I can now to defuse this crisis and to give the North Koreans a way to join the community of nations and to enter a dialogue with the South. It's what's best for them and let's just see what happens. But I wouldn't rule (a military buildup) out."

Advocates say costs prove insurance need

WASHINGTON (AP) - Mental depression costs $43.7 billion a year in treatment and lost productivity - a toll advocates say proves mental health insurance is needed to get people treated early.

Such insurance is not "a luxury, a frill, an unnecessary expense," Tipper Gore told the National Mental Health Association on Thursday. "I want Americans to think about depression and diabetes the same way."

They might do better thinking about depression and heart disease the same way, according to a new study that found the economic cost of depression is slightly higher than the nation's $43 billion tab for heart disease.

Corporate America bears the brunt of the depression bill, according to the study by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and The Analysis Group, a consulting firm.

The study found clinical depression generates $12.4 billion in medical bills a year. Depression-induced suicides cost $7.5 billion in lost earnings.

But the biggest bill - $23.8 billion - came from absenteeism and lost productivity, the study said. Workers lost 88 million working days in 1990 because of depression, mostly among employees ages 30 to 44, it said.

About 15 million Americans suffer clinical depression at some point in their lives. The potentially disabling illness causes fatigue, loss of memory and concentration, weight loss and, in severe cases, suicide.

Medication and psychotherapy can cure 80 percent of depression, yet fewer than a third of depressed people seek help.

With prodding by Mrs. Gore, the vice president's wife, the Clinton administration included mental health benefits in its health reform package.

But the plan generated furious debate, and the National Association of Manufacturers asked the White House not to include mental health benefits in the initial package because it was too expensive.

Mrs. Gore criticized the association Thursday, saying, "Maybe they think it's fine to operate without the brain, but I disagree.... It makes good business sense to invest in an employee's mental health."

Depression currently costs employers $180 per worker whether they ever suffer depression or not, the study said. Employers spend more than $3,000 on every depressed worker, it found.

Colombians hope death of drug king will relieve terror

By STEVEN GUTKIN
Associated Press Writer
MEDELLIN, Colombia (AP) - The death of Pablo Escobar, ruler of a global cocaine empire blamed for bombings and assassinations that killed hundreds of people, has given Colombians hope that an age of terror has ended.

Tipped off by a traced phone call, police and soldiers raided the drug lord's two-story hideout on Thursday. They shot and killed the portly, bearded Escobar and his bodyguard as they tried to escape over the roof.

"Colombia's worst nightmare has been slain," President Cesar Gaviria declared.

The death of the 44-year-old leader of the Medellin drug cartel was not expected to seriously cut into the flow of cocaine from Colombia to the United States and other countries. But for many Colombians, it was a sign of hope.

Escobar was accused of ordering the assassinations of presidential candidates, judges, journalists and police. Hundreds of ordinary Colombians died in bombings of shopping centers, neighborhoods, and a passenger airplane.

"It's the triumph of law over crime," Andres Pastrana, a presidential candidate, said Thursday. "Now the country can begin to live more peacefully."

"As a Christian his death does not make me happy, but now I feel more at ease," said Gen. Miguel Maza, who escaped three assassination attempts by the Medellin cartel.

Authorities tracked Escobar down through a phone call he made to a radio station Monday to complain about his family's treatment by the German government, army commander Gen. Hernan Guzman said. Escobar's wife and two children had been refused asylum by Germany earlier in the week.

Escobar had apparently been living at the Medellin hideout for several weeks, authorities said.

On Thursday, at least 200 members of a cliche force that had hunted Escobar since his escape from prison in July 1992 cordoned off blocks around the hideout, then stormed in, investigators at the scene said.

A barefoot Escobar and his bodyguard leaped out a window onto a roof three feet below. Escobar was killed instantly, shot in the head and arm. The bodyguard jumped down to the sidewalk, where he was killed, investigators said.

"They offered resistance and died on the spot," Prosecutor General Gustavo de Greiff said.

Investigators said two 9mm pistols were found near Escobar's body with shells scattered around, indicating Escobar had opened fire.

A witness told RCN radio that the raiders fired into the air in jubilation after killing Escobar and yelled "We won!"

Escobar's mother, Mermilda Gaviria, identified her son's body an hour after the shooting, authorities said.

President Clinton sent a congratulatory telegram to the Colombian president.

"Hundreds of Colombians - brave police officers and innocent people - lost their lives as a result of Escobar's terrorism," he said. "Your work honors the memory of all of these victims."

Not all Colombians were happy about the drug lord's slaying.

Escobar, who grew up in poverty and began his criminal career as a car thief, had financed urban renewal projects for the impoverished neighborhoods of his native Medellin.

More than a thousand people gathered at the scene of the shooting, and some whistled derisively as the troops, heavily armed and clad in camouflage fatigues, marched by.

"I think it's horrible," said Maria Sonia Villarios, a phone company worker. "He did a lot for the people, especially the poor."

Escobar was ranked 62nd in Forbes magazine's 1991 list of the world's richest people, with an estimated net worth of more than $2.5 billion.

He had been hunted not only by the army and police, but by a vigilante squad called People Persecuted By Pablo Escobar (PEPES), which murdered several of his associates and threatened his family.

Escobar's wife and two children sought political asylum in Germany after Colombia's government threatened to stop protecting them from PEPES. They were turned away Monday and were staying in a luxury Bogota hotel under army protection.

The vigilante squad is believed to be composed of members of the rival Cali cartel, former Medellin cartel members, and police avenging the deaths of officers slain by the cartel.

At one time, Escobar's drug cartel was the world's biggest cocaine exporter. But after his prison escape, his empire was splintered by bloody internal rivalries and attacks by vigilantes and security forces, and the rival Cali cartel became the world's main supplier of the drug.

Lady Whitefaces advance in tourney

The Hereford girls' basketball team used a red-hot second quarter to get past Odessa Permian 65-60 Thursday. The Lady Whitefaces advanced to the second round of the Brownfield Noon Lions Club Tournament.

Hereford's boys were trimmed by the hosts 58-55 at the Denver City Invitational Thursday.

The Lady Whitefaces got 21 points from senior guard Stephanie Wilcox, including 11 in the second quarter. Hereford outscored Permian 26-11 in the second quarter to take a 44-32 halftime lead. Permian had scored the first 11 points of the game and led 21-18 after the first period.

Assistant Loy Triana, speaking for Eddie Fortenberry, said that Wilcox hit on 100 percent of her first-half field goal attempts, including five three-point attempts. Her shooting opened up the middle for the Herd posts, helping Mindi Davis and Misty Dudley score 14 and 9 points for the game, respectively.

"They just got comfortable, got in the flow of things," Triana said of the offensive success.

The Lady Whitefaces, now 2-3, were to take on Midland Lee at 11:30 a.m. today in the second round.

In Denver City, the host team was able to take a 38-30 halftime lead and hold off a 17-11 surge by the Herd in the third quarter. Michael Brown led Hereford with 12 points, and Cody Marion added 11.

Hereford dropped to 1-5, while Denver City improved to 3-2.

The Herd was to meet Snyder at 5:30 today in the consolation bracket.

The Hereford girls' junior varsity, also playing in Brownfield, advanced to the second round of the JV division with a 54-53 win over Meadow. Beth Weatherly led Hereford with 10 points, including two late free throws to put Hereford on top for good, Triana said.

Julie Cole and Sarah Perrin added nine points each for Hereford, and Kit Jones scored eight. They were to face New Deal at 2:30 today.

The Hereford boys' JV is to play in a tournament in Amarillo starting tonight. They meet Amarillo High's JV at 9 p.m. in the Tascosa Activity Center.

Ruiz to fight former Olympian

Boxer Jaime Ruiz of Hereford will fight former Olympian Sergio Reyes Monday in Chicago, Ill.

Ruiz, a bantamweight, is 3-2 in his professional career. Reyes, of Fort Worth, is 5-0. He was a member of the 1992 U.S. Olympic, winning a couple of bouts in Barcelona but no medal, Ruiz said. He's ranked in the top 20 in the world by one boxing publication, Ruiz said.

"The only thing I know about Sergio is that he goes right at you, he keeps going forward," Ruiz said. "Basically, he's the same type fighter I am."

"This is the biggest fight (of Ruiz' career) up to now," he said. "I know I'm a longshot, but so was Buster Douglas when he beat Mike Tyson."

Astros' trade for 'Wild Thing'

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Mitch Williams doesn't like the reason Philadelphia traded him to Houston but he is glad to be in Texas.

Williams believes the Phillies sent him to Houston in exchange for closer Doug Jones and former No. 1 draft pick Jeff Juden because management thinks he couldn't handle the heat from his World Series nightmare.

"They thought the fans would get to me and be hard and they figured it would be best for me to go elsewhere," Williams said Thursday. "Fans can be rough anywhere if you let them get to you."

Williams had a 2-0 record and 1.69 ERA in the NLCS against Atlanta but he was 0-2 and a 20.25 ERA in the World Series, including the final game when he gave up a Series-winning homer to Joe Carter.

He also helped the Phillies get to the World Series with 43 saves, but his erratic pitching style kept fans on edge.

How long does Williams think it will take for fans to remember his 43 saves and not the last game of the World Series?

"I don't know and I don't particularly care," Williams said. "That was just the last game. I was upset in the clubhouse, I was upset after I got back to my room and the next morning it was over when I flew out of Toronto. That was it. I can't get it back."

Williams received death threats during the postseason and his house in New Jersey was vandalized.

"I think this was done probably for the best interests of Mitch Williams and the Phillies," Philadelphia general manager Lee Thomas said. "He did a good job for us and I hate to see him go. I think it will be better for him in the long run and probably for everybody."

Thomas denied that Phillies players forced his hand.

"I know some players were talking, but their job is playing, and ours is doing this," Thomas said. "We don't put a gag on anybody."

Williams was 3-7 with a 3.34 ERA and 43 saves during the season.

"The bottom line is he had 43 saves," Astros general manager Bob

Robinson's wife has miscarriage

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - San Antonio Spurs center David Robinson flew home Thursday to be with his wife, Valerie, who had suffered a miscarriage.

Club officials said Robinson learned of the miscarriage after the Spurs' game against the Charlotte Hornets Wednesday night. Robinson left Charlotte, N.C., at 2 a.m. Thursday by private charter, officials said.

Robinson spent the rest of the day with his wife, who was reported in good condition. She was about three months pregnant with the couple's second child.

Rockets strangle Knicks, extend streak to 15 wins

By The Associated Press

The Knicks couldn't do it, and neither could 14 teams before them. Will the Hawks do it tonight?

The job is beating the Houston Rockets, preventing them from setting an NBA record with a 16-0 start. That would be one more win than Red Auerbach's Washington Capitols had at the start of the 1948-49 season.

The Hawks have never been among the league's elite, but this season they are playing better than in the past. Atlanta hasn't lost a game at home this season, winning by an average margin of 14.1 points. The Hawks' winning streak has reached nine.

But at the Omni, they'll go against a team playing perfect basketball.

Led by Hakeem Olajuwon's season-high 37 points, the Rockets beat New York 94-85 Thursday night.

Olajuwon didn't just score, he completely dominated rival center Patrick Ewing in every facet of the game. It got so one-sided that Ewing was booed by the home crowd after throwing up one too many off-balance 22-footers.

Ewing finished with only 12 points and missed his last 12 shots. Olajuwon outrebounded him 13-8 and had three blocked shots to Ewing's one. Olajuwon also had more assists (5-1).

"Patrick is my toughest opponent," Olajuwon said. "You have to be prepared to play him. I just played my game and I guess I was lucky. When he comes back to Houston, he'll be coming after me."

That rematch won't take place until Feb. 24 - when the Rockets will have already played 50 games.

For now, the Rockets have to worry about game No. 16.

Coach Rudy Tomjanovich said the team is taking things day by day.

In other games Thursday, Phoenix outlasted Detroit 102-101, Utah defeated Indiana 103-87, Seattle beat Washington 105-95 and Minnesota beat Golden State 103-91.

The Houston-New York game was tied 28-28 after the first quarter, but New York missed 10 of its first 11 shots in the second period and the Rockets capitalized with an 16-2 spurt.

"In the first seven minutes of the second quarter, we couldn't buy a shot. Every shot we took was almost frantic. They took the game away from us," Knicks coach Pat Riley said.

The Rockets eventually led by 21 in the third quarter, and New York got no closer than 10 after that.

Kids forgive Cowboys' Lett

MESQUITE, Texas (AP) - Dallas Cowboys defensive lineman Leon Lett, whose mistake cost his team an NFL victory, has received several hundreds of letters of support from elementary students in a Dallas suburb.

"Dear Mr. Lett, I watched the game the other day and I understand that you made a teeny, weeny, little, bitty mistake. Well, you know what ... WE ALL DO!!!" wrote Chelsea Krueger, a fifth-grader at John L. Hanby school.

Cowboys' Haley may miss game

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys say pass rusher Charles Haley's playing status is uncertain for the Philadelphia Eagles game after he missed practice because of a ruptured disc.

Haley was examined by a neurologist Thursday, and lower back surgery is a possibility. He is listed as questionable in the Cowboys' official injury report.

Coach Jimmy Johnson said Haley would likely be limited to a situational role if he plays in Monday night's game with the Eagles.

"I would think, realistically, he has a 50-50 shot," said team trainer Kevin O'Neill. "We have not received the report from the neurologist. They could say he needs immediate surgery. They could say to rest him."

Notre Dame OL wins Lombardi

HOUSTON (AP) - Mardi Taylor already had her dream and now her son Aaron has his.

Notre Dame offensive tackle Aaron Taylor beat out three defensive rivals Thursday night to earn the 24th Lombardi Award as the nation's top college lineman.

"My dream was fulfilled when he went to Notre Dame, his dream was fulfilled by winning the Lombardi," the proud mother said, beaming at her 6-4, 299-pound son.

Taylor won the award over Florida State linebacker Derrick Brooks and nose guards Sam Adams of Texas A&M and Rob Waldrop of Arizona.

The Cowboys were leading the Miami Dolphins 14-13 Thanksgiving Day when in the closing seconds of the game, the Dolphins attempted a game-winning field goal.

The kick was blocked, and the ball was about to roll dead inside the Dallas 10, where the Cowboys would be able to run out the remaining seconds.

Instead, Lett tried to fall on the ball. Light snow covered the field, and the ball squirted loose when Lett was hit by Miami players; the Dolphins recovered on the Dallas 1 with three seconds remaining in the game.

Miami's Pete Stoyanovich was good on his second-chance field goal for a 16-14 victory, making Lett a goat for the second time this year. Lett's premature celebration after a fumble recovery in the Super Bowl cost him a sure touchdown and the Cowboys a Super Bowl scoring record.

After his Super Bowl blunder, in which Don Beebe caught him from behind and knocked the ball away, Lett received a lot of hate mail, much of it racist.

Lett's latest gaffe has been the talk of the town since Thanksgiving, and the children at Hanby wanted him to know they're on his side.

Cathy Rideout, Hanby principal, said the letter-writing idea came from a student who told his teacher that it was wrong for people to criticize Lett. The student was told to send a note of encouragement to the defensive lineman.

The effort soon snowballed into the letter-writing campaign involving all Hanby students.

In all, 886 letters of support to Lett went out from Hanby students on Wednesday.

"I told him what our teachers tell us, that tomorrow's a new beginning," fifth-grader K.C. Ramsey said.

The outside of each card reads: "Dear Mr. Lett, Everybody makes mistakes ... that's why pencils have erasers! We believe in ourselves. ... We want you to believe in yourself, too!"

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

Thanks to deer expert and outdoor writer Jerry Peterson of Franklin, Tenn., for inventing a new deer call that attracts trophy bucks. Jerry, who is also president of the Woods Wise Products Company, shipped me an assortment of his patented inhale/exhale deer calls and challenged me to give them a field test. He thoughtfully included a terrific video called "Racking Up the Bucks" and an audio tape with detailed instructions on the proper use of his new Doe Breeding Bellow plus Buck Bawl Model No. 164 that retails for less than $20.

Although more field testing will definitely be required (in fact, this test might last several years), it is not too early to share the results of the first hunt.

Danny Hill, 47th District Attorney, extended an invitation for a post-Thanksgiving hunt on his family's deer lease south of Throckmorton in Shackelford County. Joining us on this hunt would be Amarillo businessman Hal Miner with his 12-year-old son Sean.

After finishing off the best parts of a 20-pound bird and watching the Cowboys invent a new way to lose a football game, I escaped the leftovers by heading south.

Both Danny and Hal viewed my new deer call with more than a little skepticism. During more than three decades of deer hunting, each man had unsuccessfully tried to call or rattle up trophy bucks. Their efforts shared a common ending: the flash of the white-tailed danger signal as the intended buck bolted at first grunt and/or antler rattle.

Persuaded by their experiences, I waited a day before using my new hunting toy. While I am certainly not an expert caller, the results of using the Breeding Bellow were dramatic. A trophy buck with a thick, wide rack and ten matched points responded to my primitive efforts to sound like a lonesome doe.

It's a perfect hunting trip when your buddies say things like "That's the biggest buck that has been shot on this ranch since we took over the lease." Or "I've hunted here for years and you shot a trophy on your second day."

Oh yeah, the answer to the most frequently asked question is: "I don't know if the Breeding Bellow actually called that big buck, but it sure didn't scare him off."

For additional information on some of the newest hunting strategies and innovative deer calls, write Woods Wise; P.O. Box 681552; Franklin, Tenn. 37068; or call Jerry Peterson at (615) 726-1090.

Pheasant season in the Panhandle opens Dec. 11 and ends Dec. 26. The limit is two cocks per day. The hunting should be outstanding.

Mel Phillips is an avid hunter, tournament angler and host of a Wednesday evening outdoors show on KGNC Talk Radio 71. He is an active member of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association.

TRADE

Watson said. "We wanted a closer that could get the job done. We wanted a left-hander that could be a winner and Mitch fit the bill. His character showed tremendously in the final game of the World Series when he didn't run from you guys (reporters) but stood and faced all the critics. I'd have thought much less of him if he'd hidden in the equipment room."

Williams will get $2.5 million next year and can be a free agent after the World Series. Jones is guaranteed $2.75 million for 1994 with a $3.25 million club option in 1995.

Williams started his major league career with the Texas Rangers and pitched for the Chicago Cubs before he was traded to Philadelphia in 1991. He has 186 career saves, 19th on the career list.

Jones had 26 saves and a 4.54 ERA with the Astros last season in 85 1-3 innings. He was the Astros MVP in 1992 with 36 saves, an 11-8 record and 1.85 ERA.

Juden, 22, is a 6-foot-7 right-hander. He was 11-6 at Class AAA Tucson last season and made two appearances with the Astros late in the season. He was second in the Pacific Coast League with 156 strikeouts.

The Cleveland Indians, meanwhile, made a pair of moves, signing free agents Eddie Murray and Dennis Martinez. The Indians are preparing to move into a new stadium next season and hope the addition of the two veterans can help them reach the postseason for the first time since 1954.

In other moves, the Baltimore Orioles signed two of their players who had become free agents, Harold Baines and Tim Lincecum. But Mike Pagliarulo, who played for the Orioles last season, signed with the Seibu Lions of Japan's Pacific League.

Also, the Florida Marlins re-signed pitcher Charlie Hough, who will be 46 next season.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE TRAGEDY OF AHIMELECH
FROM THE FIRST, IT WAS JUDGED THAT THE KING'S WORD, IN BIBLICAL TIMES, WAS ABSOLUTE LAW. HIS SLIGHTEST NOD HAD THE POWER OF LIFE OR DEATH OVER ANY OF HIS SUBJECTS. ONE WOULD THINK THAT A HIGH PRIEST WOULD HAVE BEEN EXEMPT FROM THIS RULE BUT SUCH WAS NOT THE CASE! AHIMELECH, THE CHIEF PRIEST OF THE TEMPLE AT NOD, CAME UNDER KING SAUL'S WRATH (1 SAM. 22:16) BECAUSE HE INADVERTENTLY HELPED DAVID WHEN DAVID WAS ESCAPING FROM SAUL. AHIMELECH DID NOT KNOW, AT THE TIME, THAT DAVID WAS OUTLAWED BY KING SAUL AND GAVE HIM THE HOLY BREAD FROM THE TEMPLE TO FEED HIM AND HIS FOLLOWERS. SO OUTRAGED WAS SAUL AT THIS TREACHEROUS DISOBEDIENCE THAT NOT ONLY WAS AHIMELECH SLAIN BUT ALL THE OTHER PRIESTS IN HIS FAMILY WERE SUBSEQUENTLY SLAUGHTERED ALSO--ALL EIGHTY FIVE OF THEM!

THOU SHALT SURELY DIE, AHIMELECH, THOU AND ALL THY FATHER'S HOUSE!

The Newspaper BIBLE

INSANITY OR ENLIGHTENMENT, WHICH?

"The Jews arrested me in the Temple for preaching (the Gospel), and tried to kill me (Paul continued), but God protected me so that I am still alive today to tell these facts to everyone, both great and small. I teach nothing except what the prophets and Moses said—that the Messiah would suffer, and be the First to rise from the dead, to bring light to Jews and Gentiles alike."

Suddenly Festus shouted, "Paul, you are insane. Your long studying has broken your mind!" But Paul replied, "I am not insane, Most Excellent Festus. I speak words of sober truth. And King Agrippa knows these things. I speak frankly for I am sure these events are all familiar to him, for they were not done in a corner! King Agrippa, do you believe the prophets? But I know you do—"

Agrippa interrupted him. "With trivial proofs like these, you expect me to become a Christian?" And Paul replied, "Would to God that whether my arguments are trivial or strong, both you and everyone here in this audience might become the same as I am, except for these chains."

Then the king, the governor, Bernice, and all the others stood and left. As they talked it over afterwards they agreed, "This man hasn't done anything worthy of death or imprisonment." And Agrippa said to Festus, "He could be set free if he hadn't appealed to Caesar!" Acts 26:21-32

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Over 50 years ago, my ex-husband was stationed overseas, and when he returned he infected me with syphilis. In 1945 I had 10 days of around-the-clock penicillin shots, which were said to have cured me. I had four beautiful healthy children by my second husband. Now when I have a blood test, something still shows up in the blood. Why is this happening? Is there anyway to get a completely negative test? I'm 69 years old.

DEAR READER: While it is disturbing, your doctors should be able to tell that it is not now a sign of persistent infection. The commonly used VDRL (Venereal Disease Research Laboratories) test may be mildly positive thereafter. But the mild reaction is compatible with a cure. Additional tests can be, and are, used if there is any doubt. Also there are false positive results. The VDRL test is falsely positive in 1 percent of patients who are 70 years of age and in 10 percent of those 80 years of age. Some diseases also cause false-positive tests.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

If We Ran This Ad On Radio, You'd Only Have 30 Seconds To Hear It.

Now you'd only have 25 seconds, and you wouldn't be able to go back and look at the opening line or pause (19...18...17...) to consider its significance. You wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with this advertisement and it wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with you. In fact, if we tried to say just this much in a 30-second radio advertisement, throwing in only a brief mention that newspapers offer coupons, give you great flexibility of size, and can leave a lasting impression on your customers, we'd run out of...

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Dysfunctional Mother in Vancouver," who decided on a year's "vacation" from her children, is sure to strike some sympathetic chords.

"Dysfunctional" was angry because her youngest son refused to join the others in putting money aside for an emergency medical fund in the event she became disabled or seriously ill.

I have seven children and was widowed when the youngest was 2 and the oldest was 17. I kept things going financially and held myself together emotionally. It was not easy. Today, the children are all healthy and happily married and have good jobs. Do they appreciate the sacrifices I made for them? Of course not. The only time I hear from any of them is when they want something.

I never remarried and dated only a half dozen times in the past 30 years, but that was my choice. I'm alone now and could use some moral support or an invitation to dinner once in a while.

Perhaps I made my life look too easy, or maybe I've been too self-sufficient. In any event, "Vancouver" is right about the "Me Generation." Our children won't have a clue about what we are going through until they get a lot older and have to cope with the "Now Generation" themselves.--Voice of Experience in Setauket, N.Y.

DEAR SET: There's a great deal of truth in what you've written, but sweeping generalizations are always dangerous.

Not all grown children are self-absorbed and inattentive unless they want something. Some are very thoughtful and loving. My mail bears this out, as well as my own personal observation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently printed a letter asking businesses to give ex-convicts a break. Well, Ann, ex-cons are not the only people that employers routinely discriminate against. Welfare mothers can't get a job either. I've been told by interviewers, "We don't hire welfare mothers."

I am a single mother with four years of college and 10 years of computer, secretarial and bookkeeping experience. I am on welfare. One of the first questions I am asked in an interview is, "How are you supporting yourself now?" When I admit that I am a single mother on welfare, the interview is quickly terminated. Often I am subjected to insulting remarks about lazy, good-for-nothing welfare leeches who are bleeding this country to death and what a tax burden they are to honest, hardworking people.

President Clinton's welfare reform program will require that welfare mothers go to work. Great! I'd love to have a job, but so far, no one will hire me. So what do I do now?--Casper, Wyo.

DEAR WYOMING: Now you make an effort to find out WHY a college graduate with 10 years' experience can't land a job.

When you apply, do you look your very best? Are you pleasant and courteous to the interviewer? Do you come across as self-assured and competent? Do you give the impression that you can get along with co-workers and be an asset to the company? Do you have a good references? Go back to your most recent

Celebrate holidays with extra care

Everyone looks forward to the annual round of holiday parties with friends and family--complete with twinkling lights, special family dinners and the joy of sharing fits.

If alcohol is normally a party of your holiday celebration, you are encouraged to drink responsibly and most importantly--don't ever drive if you've had too much to drink.

Here are some points to keep in mind this holiday season:

-If you're hosting a holiday celebration, follow good-sense tips like serving food with alcoholic beverages and offering non-alcoholic drinks. If you're a guest, be careful not to overdo the spirits of the season.

-Whether you're going to a fancy work party, casual open house or the traditional family get-together, it's important to plan ahead and designate a driver for the event. There are plenty of alternative beverages for the designated driver, including non-alcoholic brews. -Don't be embarrassed to call friends or family members for a ride home, even if it is the middle of night. No doubt, they would rather hear from you instead of the authorities if an accident were to occur. If you're a host, be prepared to call a cab for friends and family members who have had too much to drink. Remember, friends don't let friends drive drunk. -Often, party planners will make arrangements to provide buses or limos to escort guests to and from the festivities. These accommodations are made to ensure your safety, so use them and thank your hosts for providing the service. Alcohol-related traffic fatalities have been declining for more than a decade but even one drunk driver is too many.

Protect your pets from needless antifreeze deaths

Little puddles of antifreeze look innocent enough to humans, but they can be fatal to cats and dogs. A new survey of veterinarians concludes that conventional antifreeze causes thousands of needless pet deaths. After rodent killer, antifreeze was the most frequently cited cause of accidental pet poisoning in the nationwide study.

Dogs and cats appear to be attracted to antifreeze because of its taste. Conventional antifreeze, however, contains ethylene glycol (EG), a toxic ingredient that can be fatal if swallowed. One teaspoon can cause a cat's death and less than two ounces is enough to kill a dog.

Two-thirds (66 percent) of the 310 veterinarians surveyed said EG antifreeze was the suspected cause of at least one pet poisoning that they had encountered in the past year. Virtually all of the veterinarians (99 percent) cited antifreeze as a cause of pet poisoning and 95 percent of them said they have alerted clients to the dangers of antifreeze.

Symptoms of conventional antifreeze poisoning may include a stumbling gait, appetite loss, and unquenchable thirst. If you know that your pet has swallowed EG antifreeze, experts recommend that you contact a veterinarian immediately for a type of treatment. Do not wait for symptoms to appear because immediate treatment is necessary. Prevention, however, is the most effective antidote.

If changing your car's antifreeze at home, wipe up and wash away spills from the garage floor or driveway and keep your pet indoors. Label and keep EG antifreeze out of pets' reach. And keep the telephone numbers of your veterinarian and poison control center near your phone.

Safe Brands Corporation of Omaha, NE, sponsored the survey to educate consumers about the dangers of EG antifreeze. Safe Brands is the producer of SIERRA, a safer new antifreeze made from propylene glycol, instead of EG. The company is dedicated to developing environmentally safer alternatives to automotive chemicals being used today.

Many people are unaware of the dangers of EG antifreeze. Help others protect their pets from conventional antifreeze poisoning by handling and disposing of it carefully and by using a PG-based antifreeze.
