Ringing in the new year

The year 1993 is almost history and 1994 is waiting at the door with new people, new places and new things. Waiting with the new year is Hereford's own "1994 Guy," Ryan Leonard, 1, son of Chris and Kim Leonard.

Deadline Monday for 1994 primary

The filing period for prospective candidates in 1994 political party primary elections is running down. The deadline is 6 p.m. Monday. Applications for places on the March 8 ballots must be turned in to the party chairmen, Roddy Allred, Democrat, and Fran Tooley, Republican. Through Thursday afternoon, three contested races in the Democratic primary had been assured. Seeking the Precinct 2 commissioner post are Lupe Chavez, incumbent, and challengers, Bernie Griego and Armando Alaniz. The primary winner will have at least one Republican opponent in the November general election. Conny Whitehorn has filed on the GOP ticket. County Clerk David Ruland is contested by Elizabeth Rodriguez in the Democratic primary. And, three candidates are seeking election to the county treasurer's office which is being vacated next year by Vesta Mae Nunley. Running for the job are Lois Jones, Nan Rogers and Joyce Candidates who do not have primary opponents are Johnny Latham, Precinct 4 commissioner, District Judge David Wesley Gulley, County Judge Tom Simons, District Clerk Lola Faye Veazey, Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul and Justice of the Peace Johnny Turrentine. A Republican, Dan Hall, also has filed for the justice of the peace position.

CALL 24 Hours-A-Day

Creek says we hope your Christmas was merry, and we wish the New Year might be one of the best of your life.

000 'Twas the week after Christmas and in each house in the county, The clean-up continued of all the Yule bounty.

Gift wrappings were stripped and scattered about,

Most will be saved and we'll throw the rest out.

We'll save all the bows, save ribbons that aren't messy, Seems like we save everything but the turkey and dressing.

Once the wrappings and gifts are dispatched with a frown, Now we have only a week to get the decorations down.

But, if you climb on the rooftop, be careful, I pray, Just get them all down by Valentine's Day.

We'll pack them away, label each box in bold black, For in just 11 months we will put them all back.

And thus life goes on from each year to each year, Some trying, but most happy and all with good cheer.

But really now, this Santa tradition we must keep it going, For what else is such fun when you're huffing and blowing.

Remember, be grateful for family and friends, County your blessings each day and keep yourself on the mends. Happy New Year

from the Hereford Bull

It's time to start another new year. As we move into 1994, let's forget for the moment all those big problems in the world which we can't do anything about. Let's remember some of the little everyday things which we can do something about.

If we remember the little things and take care of them, then we will be in a better frame of mind to think constructively about what part we might play in helping solve the bigger problems of the day. Most things start in the mind, so let's begin to think that everything can be better, and let's have enough faith in ourselves and in the work we are doing to expect them to become

Let's talk about the good times-when something made us happy, and the times we feel healthy and well. Let's talk about how fortunate we are and have a smile for everyone we meet. Let's appreciate our friends by letting them know how important and able we think they are. Let's hope for their success and be as enthusiastic about their good fortune as we are about our own.

Let's close the door on mistakes of the past and be concerned with

That feller on Tierra Blanca criticism toward our own faults, rather than waste our grumbling on those who may not need it and certainly don't want it.

If we do these things, we will develop a strength of character that does not recognize doubt or fear, that is more of a match for any trouble, that insures the peace of mind which fosters brighter thoughts and nobler

If we open the door on the possibilities in the days ahead, it will be a Happy New Year!

Our best wishes for a speedy recovery go to Floyd Neill, longtime Hereford resident and owner of A Alignment Shop. Floyd has battled a lengthy illness and is now recovering at Bivins Rehab Center, reports his wife, Phyllis. A fund to help with medical expenses has been set up by friends at Hereford State Bank.

Have you made your New Year's resolution? Some folks don't make resolutions because they are easily broken, but we do need goals and that's what the New Year resolutions are all about.

We have a resolution here on the newspaper staff that we repeat at the beginning of each new year. It is our plan to make this a better newspaper and we hope to provide our readers and advertisers the best service possible with the staff and resources at our command.

A paper has never gone to press with which we were perfectly satisfied, and we don't expect it to happen this year. We've made some mistakes this past year and we have room for improvement, but we believe we've helped keep our readers informed about their community and the world about them.

It is our policy to present eh news in a fair and accurate manner. Being human, we make errors. Sometimes in the rush to meet deadlines and handling highly technical equipment, something goes wrong--words might misplaced.

We are not making excuses--only pointing out that the margin of error that have happened this past year -is great in this business and we ask your patience and understanding. We try to be diligent in meeting the demands of our profession, but when we fail we want you to let us know. We believe in freedom of the press and will do our utmost to protect that freedom. We feel a responsibility in providing the public with its right to know. We pledge that we will never knowingly mislead you, and we will never refuse to make correction if any error in fact is called to our attention.

We will always strive to base our reporting of the news on fact, and to confine our personal opinions and comments to our editorial columns. At the same time, we offer space to readers for expression of their views on questions of public interest.

The Brand is a private company, operated for profit. But it is a public news medium and, as such, we hope that it continues to merit your trust and confidence. Most of all, we remain free of obligation to any interest other than the public's right know the making ourselves better. Let's direct truth...for the truth will keep us free.

don't look for the nation's courts to continue their decisions supporting pro-family, pro-life and pro-Christian values causes. Instead, I fear we will see a further

I also think we'll see more instability in Clinton's cabinet, as his secretaries get in trouble with one scandal after another (remember Ron Brown and the Vietnamese bribe money and Joycelyn Elders and the legalized drugs?) that will cause them to resign in disgrace. Or worse, Clinton will keep them on, only to have scandal render them totally ineffective:

With allegations resurfacing about Clinton's supposed marital infidelities, payoffs to loyal state troopers and involvement in an S&L scandal, I doubt we'll see the presidency get any stronger or gain respect across the nation, either.

All in all, I think Republicans, conservatives, Christians, pro-lifers, heterosexuals and drug-free people are going to have a rough year ... That is, unless something happens.

Several months ago in Sunday School, we got discussing politics and the place of Christians in the political

I think many of our political problems (at the national and state levels) of today came about because so many moral people (not just Christians) quit getting involved 20 the left-wing forces that are running things today.

We desperately need to get the conservative majority in this country back into politics -- voting and running for office.

We need to push for impeachment of corrupt officials and demand that appointed officials who are not representing our best interests be removed from office.

And if that doesn't work? Keep trying.

This is not a fight that can be won in a day and it is not a fight that can be won easily.

If we don't do something, then I worry about what our country will be like next December 31 when I write about the coming of 1995.

Now, before you think things are totally lost, I think 1994 will be a great year here in Hereford. We have seen economic growth

I look forward to my second year in Hereford and hope that 1994 will be as good a year here as 1993 was. I wish you and your family a good New Year and a politically, socially and morally active 1994.

An AP news analysis

It's payback time for Republicans

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - When rankled Republicans blocked renewal of the law for court-chosen special prosecutors, they were warned they'd rue the day.
Now it's told-you-so time.

Without the law, the House

Republicans who want an independent counsel to investigate a case involving President Clinton and a failed Arkansas land deal can't get it done. And so far, they haven't been able to make much of an issue of it. The Justice Department already is investigating, and the attorney general says politics won't influence

Nor is there staying power in another controversy that reflects what came to be called the character issue when Clinton was seeking the White House: the allegations of two Arkansas state troopers that they facilitated extramarital sexual affairs for him when he was governor.

Either could flare with fresh disclosures. Otherwise, they will be old business in the new year. Clinton has dealt with those questions before, in more trying circumstances - when he was running, with rival Democrats raising them. Voters opted for him anyhow, first in 29 presidential primary elections, then with the 43 percent vote that made him president. "What's the point of slashing up the president with three years to go in an administration, when the American people voted for him knowing that he was not a perfect person," Henry Cisneros, the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, said in challenging media coverage of the troopers' allegations.

Cisneros said in a television interview Sunday that the media went too far too fast on the word of two men with questionable credibility.

In a graphic but gossipy account published by the conservative American Spectator, the troopers also claimed Clinton had offered jobs to keep them quiet. The allegations gained mainstream media coverage after the two men appeared in a CNN television interview.

Clinton called their assertions outrageous: "We did not do anything wrong."

As a candidate, Clinton acknowledged that he hadn't been a perfect husband, this after Gennifer Flowers claimed they'd had a 12-year affair, which he denied. "I have acknowledged wrongdoing ... causing pain in my marriage," he said on CBS "60 Minutes" program right after the 1992 Super Bowl.

He said he thought people would get the drift and that the voters would ave to decide what to do about it. What they decided was to nominate and elect him.

The land deal came up early in the ampaign too. It involves Clinton investments in an Ozark development eginning in 1978; it failed and they lost the money. Their partner in that deal later bought a state savings and loan; it failed in 1989 and became part of the federal savings and loan-ailout.

The inquiry involves state banking regulation while Clinton was governor and campaign contributions by the S&L operator. But as the relewhite House has noted, there has been no suggestion of improper conduct by Clinton or his wife, nex

That investigation had been proceeding quietly until it was disclosed that after the summer suicide of a deputy White House counsel, Vincent Foster, documents on the deal were taken from Foster's office and given to the Clintons' personal lawyer. When that stirred controversy, the president ordered them released to the investigators.

But Rep. Jim Leach, the ranking Republican on the House Banking Committee, demanded the appointment of a special counsel so that Clinton's Justice Department wouldn't be investigating a matter linked to Clinton.

Attorney General Janet Reno said

The old special counsel law lapsed a year ago after 15 years on the books. Under that law, an attorney general would have risked political trouble by refusing to turn to an outsider in circumstances like these.

It expired because Senate Republicans, angry at the seven-year Iran-Contra arms and money investigation, blocked it with a filibuster

Ironically, they did so with a Democratic administration taking over. Of 13 special prosecutor cases under the post-Watergate law, only two had involved Democrats, simply because Republican administrations had been in charge.

Is there a health care crisis?

By JILL LAWRENCE AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some Republicans are testing the appeal of a novel political argument: There is no health care crisis and therefore no worse," said Bill Kristol, formerly need for President Clinton's massive plan to revamp the system.

The conventional wisdom is that voters are on a rampage over health care. If that's true, this advance guard is heading in a dangerous direction. But they see more political risk in going along with Clinton: the prospect that he will win full credit,

Under the Clinton plan, people would choose among health-insurance plans offered by huge regional purchasing alliances. All employers would have to participate. There would be a standard minimum benefits package, government controls on premium increases and coverage for all by 1998.

Clinton is counting on popular lissatisfaction with the status quo to et his reform package passed. herefore, goes the new GOP hinking, it's imperative for Republicans to defuse the crisis mentality underlying the debate.

'That notion is politically inspired and designed to intimidate Republicans from standing up and saying that Dan Quayle's chief of staff and now head of an enterprise called the Project for the Republican Future.

Kristol recently circulated a memo laying out his prescription for Republicans: Remind Americans they have the best medical system in world history. Dwell on the Clinton plan's impact on doctor choices, treatment and re-election in 1996, for reforms options and costs. Then recommend they contend will ultimately prove small but significant changes that already have broad support, such as prohibiting insurance exclusions for

At the Norris home, Ms. Kirby was found on a bed with a gunshot through the neck and shoulder. She was taken by ambulance to Spur, where a helicopter from a Lubbock hospital picked her up. She died en route, Rider said.

While she was being treated, officers were trying to find Norris and Kelly. They spent half an hour searching the area around the house, then gave up, Rider said.

The first answer came by chance around 3 a.m. from Stonewall County Sheriff Bill Mullen, who was driving through back roads toward Jayton to help with the case.

He came across a stopped pickup and investigated. Kelly's body was found inside; he had been shot in the temple and was holding a Colt .45-caliber revolver, Rider said. With no blood on the passenger house, in the barn and everywhere. Then some more people went back up there and finally looked in the front yard," Rider said, adding that the area went unchecked because "they used the back the because "they used the back to be a said to be a used the back door all the time."

Norris was dead with a gunshot wound to the forehead, Rider said. All three bodies were sent to Lubbock for autopsies.

"Nobody knows why it hap ened because there weren't any witnesses," Rider said. "The Texas Rangers are investigating, trying to find a motive."

The last shooting in Jayton was about three years ago, Rider said. "But that was not exactly like this," he said. "We've had a shooting that wounded three people. That centered around cocaine, marijuana and whiskey.'

Rider said he was especially surprised that Kelly may be to blame.
"I've known him since he was 5 years old," Rider said. "He was always real polite. He was a computer operator. It's got everybody in this county puzzled why he'd do that."

"We think we know what happened but we don't know why. Kelly has never been in trouble. He was not on alcohol or drugs. I guess he just went off his rocker and went to shooting."

Lotto climbs to $8 million

No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The ticket would have been worth $3 million.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 47, 34, there were 78 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $2,005. There were 3,862 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $147. And there were 84,208 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Saturday night's game will be $8 million.

Oklahoma and Kansas.

How long does it take to become accustomed to new eyeglasses? You may be surprised to learn that there may be no adjustment period at all. It's an individual situation. A youngster with his or her first pair of glasses may be delighted immediately to discover a whole new world not seen previously, and adjustment may be instantaneous. Regular eye exams, with prescription is a large one; it may take longer for the eyes -- and the brain -- to get used to it.

It also may take a while to adjust to the first pair of reading glasses, or the first bifocals. Your eye professional will help you learn to use them effectively. Even a new frame may require a period of adjustment. Perhaps it's larger than your old frame, or a different color or shape. If there is any discomfort, of course, your optometrist can adjust the fit.

Lotto Texas pays winners $720 million

AUSTIN (AP) - Lotto Texas players won 18 million prizes in 1993 worth a total of nearly $720 million, a Lottery official said Thursday.

Nora Linares, acting executive director of the Texas Lottery Commission, outlined some other Lotto highlights for the year:

- A total of 87 players won a jackpot for matching all six of the winning numbers selected during the twice-weekly drawings. Their prizes totaled nearly $551 million, for an average of $6.3 million apiece.

- The largest prize went to Rebecca Brown of Irving on Sept. 8. She won $38.6 million.

The estimated jackpot reached $50 million twice, including the May 1 drawing when a record 14 players split the prize.

- Since the May 29 advent of Quick Pick, in which the Lotto computer randomly selects the player's six numbers, 15 of 42 ackpot winners have been Quick Pick tickets.

- More than 17,200 people just missed winning the big jackpot. The average prize for picking five of six numbers correctly was $1,481.

First worn mostly by women, wristwatches did not become popular for men, who thought them too decorative, until World War I, when soldiers found it hard to reach inside bulky coats to check the time.

UNDERSTANDING THE BUYERS PERSPECTIVE

Buyers who make low offers on property can have a number of reasons. Perhaps the property in question requires a substantial investment to make needed repairs. The low offer would permit the buyer to make the repairs from retained funds. Or, the low offer is all the buyer can afford. It is not unusual for people to fall in love with a property out of their price range. When the real estate market is slow, the buyer may be testing sellers to see who are willing to accept a lower price. If the property has been for sale for a long time, the buyer may feel the property is overpriced compared with the selling price of similar homes in the area. Buyers making low offers should understand the seller may be insulted and further negotiations on the property may be turned down even if the counter offer is more in line with the asking price. You can count on us, we are professionals and can negotiate through the personal situations.

proved to be a busy year for the Herd

By JAY PEDEN Sports Editor

It's a good thing Hereford had some memorable moments in local

On the national sports scene, 1993. was a year many fans would rather forget. It was marked by deaths, retirements and dumb mistakes by Chris Webber and Leon Lett. America's role model, Nolan Ryan, got in a juvenite fistfight which was shown on national television 8,243

In Hereford, though, there were plenty of highlights. The Hereford High School girls' golf and volleyball teams continued to be among the best in the state during 1993. Individually, seniors Steven Blea, Greg Coplen and Kara Sandoval earned that distinction, too.

Hereford sent a large contingent of athletes to Austin for state competitions in the spring. The girls' golf team, shotputter Blea and tennis player Coplen all won their regional competitions, and Blea and the golfers went on to claim third-place medals in the state competitions on

In the fall, the Lady Whitefaces volleyball team made it to a fourth consecutive regional finals match in '93, but a three-game loss to Justin Northwest Nov. 13 in Vernon kept Hereford from returning to the state tournament. The team finished with a 26-7 record, and setter Kara Sandoval was named to the second team of one All-State squad.

The success of the boys' golf team was overshadowed somewhat by the girls, but the boys advanced to the regional tournament for the first time in several years.

The track teams had individuals besides Blea who were successful. Petey Colvin and Krista West each won district championships in the 200-meter dash and narrowly missed ioining Blea in Austin; at regionals, Colvin was third by 0.15 seconds and West was third by 0.45.

The District 1-4A track meet was held in Hereford April 16-17, and other Whitefaces excelled. Blea set a school record in shot put and easily won district. Jeannie Barrientez won in the 300 hurdles. Colvin also won the 100 dash, and helped Quincy Curtis, Shawn Fogo and Brandon Gearn win the 400 relay.

That same weekend, Hereford also hosted the district tennis tournament. Coplen won boys' singles, beating

In fall team tennis, the Herd finished second in district. The team lost in the second round of the Region I-4A tournament, falling to No. 2 seed Big Spring.

Also in the fall, the girls' cross country team finished third at the district meet, and freshman Bethany Townsend was sixth individually. Both were one place away from advancing to the regional meet.

Not all Hereford sports teams found great success in 1993. The football team opened the season Sept. 3 with a one-point loss to Tascosa, and Hereford didn't win a game until Oct. 15 (the seventh game), when Hereford beat Randall 29-27: in thriller. Later wins over Caprock and Dumas gave the Herd a 3-2 record in District 1-4A, good for third, but the overall record was 4-6 (Tascosa was later forced to forfeit its win).

The revolving doors for Hereford basketball and tennis coaches kept spinning in 1993. Ed Coplen took the tennis job after Natalie Sims resigned ust days after bringing Greg Coplen (Ed's son) back from the state tournament. Sims had coached the team for a year and a half, winning a district team title in 1992. Coplen took over in June.

Joe Main finished his first season as boys' basketball coach in February with a 7-21 record, 1-9 in district. He resigned in May because of family concerns. Randy Dean, formerly coach at Childress, was hired June 22.

Loy Triana was given charge of the girls' basketball program in November, 1992, when Carol Garrison resigned abruptly before ever coaching a game in Hereford. The Lady Whitefaces went

Buckeyes stop BYU comeback in Holiday Bowl

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Because Brigham Young lived up to its Holiday Bowl reputation, Ohio State coach John Cooper still has a reputation.

The 11th-ranked Buckeyes backed up Cooper's pre-game victory guarantee, beating BYU 28-21 Thursday night as senior Raymont Harris rushed 39 times for 235 yards both Holiday Bowl records - and three touchdowns.

With just more than two minutes left, BYU moved to the Ohio State 22, where Buckeye All-America tackle Dan Wilkinson deflected John Walsh's third-down pass. .

The Cougars got one last chance when Walsh connected with Eric Drage on a 52-yard pass play that carried to the Ohio State 6 with 32 seconds left.

> The Herd basketball programs may be ending 1993 on a trend of improvement, though. The girls current record is 6-11, and those six wins are already double the total of the previous season. The current boys, 5-11, are close to the previous season's seven

In the last home games of '93, the Herd swept Friona on Dec. 17: the girls won 60-46, the boys won 87-66.

Hereford also lost one long-time coach when head baseball man T.R. Sartor resigned after the '93 season. Sartor took teams to the state. quarterfinals in the late 1980s, but fell on hard times with losing records the last four seasons, including 9-16 in-1993. At 4-6 in district, though, the baseball team was in the playoff hunt until the final game of the season.

The HHS Rodeo Club had individuals succeed, especially Chasity Rickman. She took all-around cowgirl honors at numerous Tri-State High School Rodeo Association events, and was eventually named the year-end all-around cowgirl in the the region

Hereford High School dominated the Hereford sports scene, but it wasn't all that made news in 1993.

Hereford was represented in three national competions during the summer. Former HHS volleyball star Shantel Cornelius competed the in the U.S. Olympic Festival July 23-Aug. 1 in San Antonio.

Future Hereford basketball stars competed in the national AAU 11-under -boys basketball tournament, held Aug. 1-7 in Cocoa, Fla. The West Texas Sharks included mostly Hereford boys: Craig Campbell, Kurtis Flood, Cody Hodges, Slade Hodges, Roy McCracken, Eric McNutt and James Miller. Coaches were Burl Miller and Steve Hodges.

That team of Hereford boys won its division in the second Cuby Kitchens Classic youth basketball tournament, held May 1-2.

Hereford's Julie Rampley hooked on with a New Mexico team for the national AAU 12-under girls basketball tournament.

A former Hereford woman competed in a world event: the World Hoop-it-Up championships in October in Dallas. Stacey High and three others won the world women's title in 1992, but failed to repeat in Jaime Ruiz continued his pro boxing career and fought in such exotic venues as Chicago and a floating casino outside of New Orleans. He lost those fights, but he 'Pitman won the Hereford Country said promoters are noticing him.

Two famous football figures spoke in Hereford: Dick Todd, a halfback for Crowell High, Texas A&M and the Washington Redskins, spoke to the Golden K-Kiwanis Club Jan. 26, and Texas Tech football coach Spike Dykes made his annual visit for Hereford's Red Raider Day April 14.

Pitman Municipal Golf Course continued to improve in '93 under pro Dave Kaesheimer and his staff. The course hosted several tournaments during the year.

-- Paul Hubbard was declared City Champion after defeating Craig Nieman on Aug. 16 to win the City Match-Play Tournament.

-- Don Herbert won the Spring Match Play tournament, completed May 16.

-Brothers Keith Kitchens and Kelly Kitchens won the United Way/Hereford Golf Partnership on

-- Father and son Speedy Nieman and Craig Nieman won the first Under 50/Over 50 Golf Tournament on July 18.

-- The Oldsmobile Scramble was played July 27. Gross winners were Hubbard, Dave Workman, Dwayne Cassels and Wayde Boren. Net winners with Pat McGinty, John Stagner, John Sherrod and Bob Sims.

-- Temple Abney and Duane Club Member/Guest Tournament.

Others found plenty of things to do during the summer. Scores of Hereford boys and girl's participated in Kids Inc. baseball and softball.

The Town and Country Jubilee ncluded a softball tournament, won by Hereford's West Diesel, and the Greg Black Memorial 10-K, won by Ryan Gauna of Amarillo and Marjory Stewart of Lubbock.

In late September, Hereford's Milan Soccer Club hosted and won the Championship Cup of the Northwest Soccer League.

Two Hereford men received ports-related honors in 1993. L.B. Scat' Russell was inducted into the Hardin-Simmons University sports hall of fame, and Garth Merrick threw out the ceremonial first pitch at a Texas Rangers baseball game on Finally, 1993 was a year in which a shocking number of athletes and sports figures died. The Panhandle was not spared.

Stocky Lamberson, head football coach at Borger and formerly of Randall, was found in his home March 18, dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Death overshadows sports world in 1993

AP Sports Writer

A brutal year of goodbyes. Shock and tears. Always the question: Why? Arthur Ashe thought about that question as he lay dying last winter.

"Quite often, people who mean well will inquire of me whether I ever ask myself, in the face of my diseases, 'Why me?' I never do,'' Ashe wrote in his aptly titled memoir,

"Days of Grace."
"If I ask 'Why me?' as I am assaulted by heart disease and AIDS, I must ask 'Why me?' about my blessings, and question my right to enjoy them. The morning after I won Wimbledon in 1975 I should have asked 'Why me?' and doubted that I deserved the victory. If I don't ask 'Why me?' after my victories, I cannot ask 'Why me?' after my setbacks and disasters."

And so it is useless to ask "Why them?" for all the others.

Death seems so unfair when it claims the young, one moment vibrant, the next gone. Victims of bizarre accidents, terminal diseases, sudden attacks. Every month a new

Monica Seles stabbed on court in Germany, lucky she wasn't killed. James Jordan slain and dumped in a Carolina creek, his son Michael abandoning basketball two months

Sports were always an escape. Joy was winning, heartache was losing. Nothing too serious, right? Not in this year of sorrow. This year even the vivacious spirit of Jim Valvano succumbed to cancer.

Voices, memories, Jimmy Vee wisecracking to the end, broadcasting a basketball game one second, cursing his cancer the next. Nearly every sentence he ever spoke took

Yet he came to wonder why he ever cared, whether he'd wasted his life coaching, why he bothered going to games anymore, why he studied all those stats, meaningless little numbers and minutiae about kids he didn't know.

One day it hit him when he read in a book by a British writer: "That is why athletics are important. They demonstrate the scope of human possibility, which is unlimited. The inconceivable is conceived, and then it is accomplished."

"That's it!" Vee cried. "That's why we strive! That's the value of sports! All those games, they mean nothing - and they mean everything!"

Take any of the great moments of the year. Maybe Dallas romping in the Super Bowl. North Carolina beating Michigan in the harried closing seconds at the Final Four. The Chicago Bulls celebrating a third straight NBA title. Greg Norman shaking off past failures to grab the British Open. Joe Carter bounding around the bases like a kid after his bottom-of-the-ninth World Series winning homer for Toronto.

Linger over the last games of Nolan Ryan, George Brett and, perhaps, Michael Jordan. Look at all the grand events on the fields and courts, race tracks and boxing rings.

In the context of the year's catastrophes, they meant nothing and they meant everything.

An 18-foot bass boat slammed into a dock in the darkness of Little Lake Nellie near Orlando, Fla., March 22, killing Cleveland Indians pitchers Tim Crews and Steve Olin, and very nearly killing Bobby Ojeda.

A picnic, fishing, a day away from spring training. A few beers. Darkness and disaster. Widows, children, teammates left behind to

Ten days later, in Tennessee, stock car driver Alan Kulwicki, 1992 Winston Cup driving champion, died with four others in the crash of a private plane. All the risks he had taken on tracks, all the dangers he had accepted in his job, and then this.

Remember how Kulwicki celebrated his championship? The fun he had, driving backward around the oval at Atlanta Motor Speedway for what he called a "Polish victory lap."

"I hope it doesn't offend anybody," exclamation points. "It's hoops time, he said, grinning. "But you've got to his former Croatia teammate Dino baby!" he said, grinning. "But you've got to his former Croatia teammate Dino do something different to celebrate Radja, now with the Boston Celtics. an important occasion."

So happy, so proud, so deserving. And usually so serious. The ultimate underdog, running his own team on a shoestring budget. Mighty Mouse on his uniform. Ford Thunderbirds he called "Underbirds."

He finally had everything, only all too briefly.

And still the dying wouldn't stop.

Davey Allison, Kulwicki's rival throughout that championship campaign, crashed in July while trying to land a helicopter in a parking lot in the infield at Talladega Speedway in Alabama - his beloved "home"

Davey. The easy smile and warm personality, his career on the cusp of greatness. Davey. Bobby's second son to die, 11 months after young Clifford. Bobby took it hard, and he recovering, himself, from a near-fatal, career-ending brain injury suffered in a crash at Pocono International Raceway in 1988.

"If I get killed in a race car," Davey had said calmly and thoughtfully two years ago, "I'm gonna die with a smile on my face."

That was before his car flipped 11 times at Pocono in July of 1992 and he escaped with a broken right arm and collarbone and a fractured and dislocated wrist. And it was before Clifford died in a stock car crash during practice at the Michigan International

Now the Allisons, what was left of them, gathered for Davey's funeral with friends and prayers. And again the question no one could answer. Why?

It is beyond my comprehension, said Mario Andretti, patriarch of another racing clan. "If ever there was goodness in anyone, it is in that family. The whole family. They are the example of goodness.'

If goodness exempted people from death, they all would be alive.

Drazen Petrovic was a national hero in Croatia, a leader of its Olympic silver medal team, a budding star for the New Jersey Nets when he died as a passenger in a car crash on a rain-slicked German highway June

"I can only remember him as a happy kid smiling, wanting to win and playing the game he loved," coach Chuck Daly said.

The Nets retired Petrovic's number last month in a ceremony attended by his former Croatia teammate Dino

"I worked out in Zagreb (last summer) and ended up at his grave every day," said Radja, who was with Petrovic in Frankfurt an hour before the accident. "I would go out at night, and I would run into his friends. Everywhere I turned, there was no forgetting him.

"It stays with you for a very long time. I can still see him at the airport, waving goodbye. We told him we would see him tomorrow at a team meeting, but we never saw him again.'

And as Croatia mourned for Petrovic, so too did Boston after Celtics captain Reggie Lewis' fatal heart attack seven weeks later while he casually shot baskets at the Brandeis University gym.

Boston had been torn by racial incidents for years, but the death of Lewis united millions in grief.

"Isn't it amazing," Celtic CEO Dave Gavitt said in his eulogy, "that, here in conservative, staid New England, this soft-spoken, gentle young man from Baltimore had to leave us before we could feel it was OK to say that we love each other and care for each other?"

The sense of unfairness, of life taken too soon, touched everyone. Some wanted to fix blame on doctors or on Lewis, himself, as if that would make it easier to accept. Hadn't he collapsed in a first-round playoff game against the Charlotte Hornets three months earlier? Hadn't doctors warned him to stay away from basketball? Hadn't one of the doctors given him bad advice with an overly optimistic diagnosis?

"It's not like Reggie was in a car accident," Kevin McHale said. "The real tragedy is that right now we should be sitting around saying, 'Reggie has a pacemaker and can't play basketball, and that's really sad.' Instead, we have to sit and mourn him.'

Blame doesn't help. Life and games go on. And this year so did the casualties. Cliff Young, another Cleveland

The truck swerved off the road, struck a tree, and Young was thrown halfway through the sunroof. Just that quickly he died. A passenger wearing a seat belt survived with minor cuts.

And once again the Indians had to deal with the pain of losing a member of the family.

"I had that same heart-wrenching feeling of sorrow and helplessness," general manager John Hart said, thinking back to Little Lake Nellie in spring training. "We are looking forward to calendar year 1993 going away. You just shake your head and you wonder, 'Why is this happening?"

The haunting, unanswerable question.

Why did the plane go down with nearly the entire Zambian national soccer team, leaving that poor nation to grieve for its only sports stars?

Why did golfer Heather Farr, a young woman of grace and spiritual strength, have to die of cancer a

"You go through life, especially as an athlete, thinking you're doing all the right things with your body, Farr said after she was diagnosed with breast cancer in 1989. Rockets' owner is American success story

JOHN P. LOPEZ Houston Chronicle

HOUSTON (AP) - Leslie Alexander arrives at his courtside seat only moments before tip-off.

This is the time of day when the market bell has rung, the necktie is loosened and the business of making money is over.

In Alexander's mind, his is the time of day when the market bell seems to ring much more like a school bell - with Alexander the wide-eyed kid leading a pack of 10-year-olds in a race to the playground.

'It's always a business during the daytime," Alexander says. "But it becomes fun at night. It lights up at night. That's when I'm like a kid in fantasyland."

Less than five months after Alexander sprinted into town like a kid on recess, or a carnival barker on a roll - talking fast, promising great things and leaving people wondering what he had up his sleeve - the Rockets and their new owner are on the ride of their lives.

The new guy in town says he wants to get to know you, Houston. He just hasn't had the chance.

He says he's not the scary, meddling owner who struck a nerve in town when some of the first words out of his mouth were, "very, very, very hands-on."

Alexander admits maybe the first impression was not a good one.

"I'm a little bit too short to say some things," Alexander says. "I say things so directly, people take it the wrong way. You always make a lot of mistakes in life.

But when you own the Rockets, every time you make a mistake it's like World War III. People think I'm short-tempered, but normally I'm just stating facts.'

He does it often. Some of Alexander's opinions might not be what Houston sports fans want to hear, particularly when he discusses attendance at Rockets games. But as Alexander darts from subject to subject, starting a new sentence before the last one is finished, the prevailing theme is that he will not stop until he gets to the

His style and his way of doing things have been talked about often over the past five months. But Alexander says he is not the weirdo. radical owner with a cause some have described him as being.

Yes, Alexander is concerned about the environment and animal rights. Yes, he is a vegetarian. Yes, he did order marketing personnel to stop using pinatas formed in the images of animals for certain Rockets game promotions.

Alexander supports his activist wife, Nanci, who founded the Animal Rights Federation of Florida (ARFF), mostly by writing checks - not by picketing greased hog races, as Nanci has done. Alexander also tells a convincing story of how "spending wisely" is vastly different from penny-pinching, which is what others believed Alexander was doing when he questioned preseason per diem for the Rockets and hired a controller to oversee all club expenses.

"I didn't think money was controlled properly here," Alexander said. "Money went out like it wasn't supposed to. But I'm spending when it's proper to spend.

(Club president) Tod Leiweke makes a lot of money. I hired John Thomas (vice President of marketing who makes a lot of money. I signed (coach) Rudy Tomjanovich long-term. I hired a fourth coach, which makes us one of the few teams in the league with four assistant coaches. I brought in (guard) Mario Elie. I signed the rookies early, when I could have bargained some more and not spent as much.

"All those things cost a lot of money. Cost-cutting? There is none." Alexander says he loves the Rockets and would do nothing to hurt the club or turning it into a mere commodity.

This is, Alexander says, merely the fantasyland he has chased since his days of playing stickball and hustling craps games in New Jersey.

Just sit back and enjoy it, Alexander says.

I hope the people of Houston know that I'm going to try and improve the team always," Alexander said. "I want to make good decisions and I want to help prepare the Rockets to go for the championship every year.

Alexander's fantasyland is a championship contender and arguably the greatest player in the NBA in Hakeem Olajuwon.

I always wanted a basketball team," Alexander said. "The right team came along at the right time. I love this. No matter anything else, I could go to a basketball game very night of my life.

The carnival barker says to hurry, hurry, hurry. Step right up.

Those are words that could describe the life and philosophy of the new man in charge of it all.

Alexander busily bolted his way from bored middle-class kid, to high school underachiever, to college card shark, to American success story.

Alexander's friends call him a quick study, a nice guy and incredibly intelligent, with a memory so exact that Alexander passed the California bar exam almost without cracking a book or attending a lecture.

Business associates who know how Alexander rose from a mere brokerage house trainee to one of the most successful corporate bond traders in the nation call him tough, astute and impressive in every way.

Detractors describe Alexander, 50, as cool, quirky and in over his head, with one NBA front-office man predicting Alexander's basketball decisions with the Rockets will be 'asinine."

But no matter the opinion, observers agree this Jersey kid's climb to the first seat on the first row at The Summit has been nothing short of remarkable.

"There are some industries where a guy can be a little lucky and just sort of float to the top," said Bill Esping, a Dallas multimillionaire who helped finance the $87 million Rockets deal for Alexander last summer. "But Leslie is in a business where you have to be tough and keep hammering or you get killed."

Alexander came to Houston last summer a virtual unknown from Boca Raton, Fla. And except for Rockets games, where Alexander can be seen alternately folding his arms, crumpling himself into his midcourt seat, chatting with fans and pacing the floor, he mostly has kept himself out of the public eye.

Despite the ownership change from Charlie Thomas to Alexander, the only mention of Alexander in the 1993 Rockets media guide is one line under a photograph. Aside from a news conference after Alexander purchased the club, he has spent little time quoted in print or seen on television and radio, although he makes it a point to talk with fans at Rockets games.

Rockets public relations personnel have refused interview requests for Alexander. Yet Alexander himself obliges when asked, explaining that he hasn't avoided publicity but also hasn't gone out of his way to seek it.

Now notoriety for the man with a quick Jersey wit and engaging, cackling laugh is impossible to avoid.

Who is the man with an impeccable reputation for dealing stocks and bonds, and the touch of a precious metal gold.

Why has he said some of the things he's said? Why has he done some of the things he's done?

"I think he was branded initially," said Leiweke, the man who will run them. He has no intention of moving the Rockets' organization for Alexander. "People saw him as someone who was going to do everything from answer the phones to make all the decisions.

> Says NBA vice president for broadcasting John Kosner, who served as an intermediary between Alexander and the league office during the Rockets' purchase; "Leslie can get that reputation because there's just no preamble with him. He starts talking and he's right into the tough questions and the meat of a talk.'

Hurry, hurry, hurry. Step right up.

Shortly after being born the only child of Jack and Everlyn Alexander, the self-described "bad athlete" developed a keen sense for numbers, sports and making deals.

Alexander, bored with school throughout childhood, read newspapers cover to cover every day. Even now, Alexander has five papers delivered to his home in Florida, several more to the apartment he rents in Houston and others at the Rockets' offices.

As much as Alexander can explain the intricacies of the market, he also can quote scoring averages of nearly every player in the league, discuss local, state and national issues and astound aficionados with his depth of knowledge of wines.

Despite "never going to school" as a kid, Alexander managed to gain admission to New York University because his father was friends with

But college never was Alexander's thing either. He missed more classes than he made. He didn't open a book. But with a memory he refined in all night poker games, Alexander passed every course and earned a degree.

"I just played cards, hung out and stuff," Alexander said. "I was a good (card) player. I made a lot of money playing cards. In fact, I stopped taking my father's allowance at college because I was doing so well playing cards. It was just a lot of Once Alexander's father died, it was time to get serious.

At 22, Alexander said he sat in his mother's house after his father's death and thought about how school would be a waste of time.

'We had very little money after he died," Alexander said. "I went to law school for one week because my dad always wanted me to get a law degree. But I told myself, 'I didn't study in college. I'm not going to study here. I'm just going to throw away the small amount of money my mother has.

"I knew it was stupid. Why should I waste her money? I looked around and realized there was only two ways to make money in this world when you don't have any capital.

One way was on Wall Street and the other was in real estate. I just decided to choose Wall Street. It's as simple as that. I just picked Wall Street.'

Deals and negotiations seemed to be in Alexander's blood.

Starting out as a trainee at a brokerage house, Alexander wowed clients with his knowledge and sense of managing money. He quickly sprinted up the corporate ladder-and he did it without stepping on a lot of Even today, Alexander's business associates say he cut no one's throat on the way to the top of his field.

'When you're building a business relationship," Esping said, "you do a lot of background checks. There was no one I found who could say a bad thing about the way Leslic handles himself in the business world."

By 1972, after roughly six years of trading stocks, Alexander was managing his own money. He did everything fast. Once, Alexander even took courses from professional race car drivers.

He even married with a quick decisive nature. After three months of dating Nanci, who was a broker when Alexander was a trader on Wall Street, they were married. Then, in 1974 Alexander moved to the West Coast and decided to enter law school with Nanci to fulfill the promise he had made to his father.

Alexander rarely went to class and hardly read a law book.

"It used to make me so mad, because I would sign him into class the whole time we were in law school, Nanci Alexander said. "But he would remember everything we talked about. Whenever he did go to class, he would just sit there and listen. He didn't write down notes.

'Then he goes and passes the California bar on the first try and I don't. If you know anything about law, you know the California bar is probably the toughest in the country. He never even read the condensed notes. He just always has had a sense of knowing things."

Such as when the time is right to buy, and when it's right to sell.

When many people were playing the market and losing during the mid-1970s, Alexander was investing smartly and conservatively while earning his law degree. But when the market began to soar in the 1980s, Alexander moved to Florida deciding on the move simply because he felt he would be sharper waking up at 7 a.m. in Florida than he would at 4 a.m. on the West Coast.

"I always knew I would make it in this business, I just knew," Alexander said. "Every year I've done this, I've made money. And as you get on, you get older and wiser and bigger and you make more money.

Then you start thinking about childhood fantasies.

Alexander approached Esping about acquiring an NBA franchise late in 1992, when Alexander tried to buy the San Antonio Spurs from Red McCombs.

That deal was all but finished, with Esping helping Alexander's financial package. But after meeting Alexander, San Antonio city officials scurried to find another group to buy

"To say he (Alexander) made a bad impression would be an understatement," said one person close to the Spurs negotiations. "They thought he (Alexander) was a strange man who would move the team just as soon as he bought it. He scared the new (local) group into buying the team But Alexander didn't go back to Florida after the Spurs deal soured. He came to Houston.

Ever since, Houston has been mostly a bull market for Alexander. But there have been some bears, too.

On every subject, Alexander will speak his mind. The one thing bothering Alexander is apparent local apathy for one of the best teams in the

"I'm disappointed in fan turnout," Alexander said. "It's just not right. In almost any other city in the country not even cities this size - scalpers would be making a fortune. This place would be stuffed full of people.

"I'm very disappointed in that. Very, very disappointed. It's shocking. The players are angry," Alexander said. "They're like, Don't they want to come and see us play?' You turn the talk shows on and here we are (23-4), and everybody's talking about football and the third-string end or something. That really bugs me."

But Alexander plans to attack the attendance problems as he has attacked everything else in his life, and everything else about the Rockets.

He wants a new stadium built downtown, saying, "We have a nice place, but it's not up to snuff as far s what we're competing against.

He says he is most proud of hiring many minorities and women since arriving, even if it led to a reverse discrimination suit being filed against

He calls the Rockets a "high-risk" investment, but not the biggest risk of his life.

He wants Houston to understand him. Because sometimes fantasy can become reality.

"I know when I know," Alexander said. "I know when I know something and I know when I don't know something.

"And I know this is right. This is going to be a great deal for all of us."

Health and Safety Consciousness

- Consumption of red meat declined as Americans' concerns about fat and cholesterol increased. Sales of foods associated with good health, such as fresh fruits and vegetables, have increased markedly.
- New Food and Drug Administration regulations on nutritional labeling and health claims went into effect in 1992. The rules include standards for food products that are claimed to be "low-calorie" or "light."
- While sales of low-fat food products have increased, so have sales of super-premium ice creams. Sophisticated and sometimes contradictory consumer product markets call for new market development

Consumers must consider, also, whether they are willing to lose extra vitamins, iron and taste by draining high-fat meat instead of purchasing lean meat, said Rhee.

Fuel ethanol proposal would be beneficial to Texas agriculture

AUSTIN - A U.S. Environmental Protection Agency proposal to require ethanol in clean-burning reformulated gasoline will not only improve the nation's air quality, it will earn more money for corn producers and Texas agriculture, said Rick Perry, Texas agriculture commissioner.

"Ethanol is an important cleanburning, renewable energy resource with the potential to provide a tremendous boost to Texas agriculture and the state's economy," said

A fermented fuel alcohol, ethanol is derived primarily from corn but also can be distilled from grain sorghum, wheat, potatoes, crop debris or, basically, anything containing starch or sugar.

The proposal is a pollutionfighting measure to meet requirements of the Clean Air Act of 1990, which calls for cleaner burning gasoline in nine cities with major smog problems. It would require 30 percent or more of the smog-reducing gasoline to contain ethanol.

USDA appoints Clark to Bushland position

agriculture researcher, Dr. R. Nolan Clark, assumed duties in mid-December as director of the USDA-Conservation and Production Research Laboratory at Bushland.

Appointment of Dr. Clark was announced by Dr. Charles Onstad, associate area director for the Southern Plains Area of the USDA-Agricultural Research Service.

Dr. Clark, an agricultural engineer, has been at the research laboratory since 1971. He has conducted studies on collection and safe disposal of runoff from beef cattle feedyards, evaporation from sprinkler irrigation systems, furrow dikes for dryland crop production and wind energy.

He is a graduate of Texas Tech University, earning a bachelor's degree in 1964. His master of science degree in agricultural engineering was awarded by Mississippi State University in 1967. He served as an instructor at MSU from 1964 to 1967.

He received his Ph.D. degree from Texas A&M University in 1970.

Established in 1938 to develop technology to eliminate severe wind erosion that created the Dust Bowl

BUSHLAND - A veteran during the drought of the 1930s, the research laboratory at Bushland consists of three units -- water management. wind, soil and crop resource management, and bovine respiratory disease.

Perry said the proposal enhances the possibility of building a High Plains ethanol plant near Dimmitt, Hereford or other towns in the heart of the state's corn-growing and cattlefeeding areas. Besides providing clean-burning fuel, ethanol produces valuable by-products, including high-protein cattle feed components.

"Since becoming agriculture commissioner, I have worked to find new agricultural markets and increase ag processing inside the state. One ethanol plant alone would open another market for farmers and create jobs and economic opportunities for Texans," said Perry.

"Ethanol also has the potential to raise the price corn farmers receive by 16 to 20 cents a bushel," he continued. "I am excited about its potential for the Texas economy, and I strongly support its increased use and production in the Lone Star

Conference designed for farm/ranch women

COLLEGE STATION - A program designed for women involved in agriculture will be conducted early in 1994, in Austin and Lubbock.

Women in Agriculture: Management Development Seminars" will be held Jan. 14-15 in Austin and Feb. 22-23, in Lubbock, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Information about registration may be obtained by contacting Beverly Harder in the Deaf Smith County extension office, 364-3573.

The conferences are aimed not only at farm and ranch wives, but at women landowners and those who run the business on their own, said Danny Klinefelter, TAES economist and management specialist.

During each of the two-day events, workshops will focus on a wide variety of topics, including influence on decision-making, Farmers Home Administration programs, marketing basics, hedging and options, laws affecting agriculture, estate planning, cattle pricing decisions, oil and gas leasing, cropland and ranchland leases and government program provisions.

Each conference will begin with breakfast on the first day and conclude after lunch on the second

became the bride of Dr. Garret Edward Oyler of Clinton, Ok. during a candlelight wedding ceremony conducted early this afternoon, Friday, at the Community Church. Officiating at the ceremony was the bridegroom's grandfather, the Rev.

Philip Daniels of Amarillo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe James of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Oyler of Amarillo.

The church altar was decorated with two brass spiral candelabra which were accented with greenery and red poinsettias. Pews were marked by red velvet bows.

Joe James presented his daughter in marriage.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Garre Lowrance Jr. of Hereford and best man was Todd Park of Dallas.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother, Corey James of Hereford, and the bridegroom's brother, Shane Oyler of Amarillo.

Mrs. Richard Schlabs and Shannon

Shelly Dawn James of Hereford Wilburn sang "Together," "Love of came the bride of Dr. Garret a Lifetime" and "I'll Still Be Loving

The bride wore a designer gown of white regal satin featuring a Sabrina neckline and Edwardian sleeves which fell gently to her wrists. The fitted bodice was crowned with clusters of jeweled flowers and molded medallions enhanced with pearls. The low plunging back was adorned with strands of pearls and a bow centered with a rosette. The full, flowing satin skirt, detailed with Venice lace medallions and crystallized handbeaded designs, fell gracefully to the floor and extended into a full-length traffn made of satin and accented with European lace cut-outs studded with pearls and jewels. A border of European lace finished the hemline of both the gown and train.

The full-length bridal illusion veil-formed a pouf at the back of the matching designer headpiece which consisted of satin rosebuds, lily-ofthe-valley and pearl sprays.

The bride carried a traditional cascading bouquet of white roses accented with greenery, baby's breath and white satin streamers.

Her jewelry consisted of pearl and diamond earrings which were given to her by the groom's parents.

The matron of honor wore a two-piece emerald, moire taffeta ensemble featuring a long fitted skirt and an off-the-shoulder top with a peplum fastened by pearl buttons. She carried a long stem red rose accented with greenery, baby's breath and satin

Health and Safety Consciousness

- Consumption of red meat declined as Americans' concerns about fat and cholesterol increased. Sales of foods associated with good health, such as fresh fruits and vegetables, have increased markedly.
- New Food and Drug Administration regulations on nutritional labeling and health claims went into effect in 1992. The rules include standards for food products that are claimed to be "low-calorie" or "light."
- While sales of low-fat food products have increased, so have sales of super-premium ice creams. Sophisticated and sometimes contradictory consumer product markets call for new market development
- Beginning in October 1993 meat must carry labels with cooking and handling instructions to help consumers avoid food-borne illness.

Each ground meat sample was then 'homogenized" in a food processor to enable the scientists to get consistently accurate nutritional readings from each type of meat.

The bottom line for consumers is that to get similar protein value for the dollar, high-fat ground meat should cost at least 10 percent less than lean meat when the meat is to be browned in a skillet and drained, researchers concluded. Consumers then would be paying approximately the same per-pound price for the protein remaining after cooking.

Consumers must consider, also, whether they are willing to lose extra vitamins, iron and taste by draining high-fat meat instead of purchasing lean meat, said Rhee.

Fuel ethanol proposal would be beneficial to Texas agriculture

AUSTIN - A U.S. Environmental Protection Agency proposal to require ethanol in clean-burning reformulated gasoline will not only improve the nation's air quality, it will earn more money for corn producers and Texas agriculture, said Rick Perry, Texas agriculture commissioner.

"Ethanol is an important cleanburning, renewable energy resource with the potential to provide a tremendous boost to Texas agriculture and the state's economy," said

A fermented fuel alcohol, ethanol is derived primarily from corn but also can be distilled from grain sorghum, wheat, potatoes, crop debris or, basically, anything containing starch or sugar.

The proposal is a pollutionfighting measure to meet requirements of the Clean Air Act of 1990, which calls for cleaner burning gasoline in nine cities with major smog problems. It would require 30 percent or more of the smog-reducing gasoline to contain ethanol.

USDA appoints Clark to Bushland position

agriculture researcher, Dr. R. Nolan Clark, assumed duties in mid-December as director of the USDA-Conservation and Production Research Laboratory at Bushland.

Appointment of Dr. Clark was announced by Dr. Charles Onstad. associate area director for the Southern Plains Area of the USDA-Agricultural Research Service.

Dr. Clark, an agricultural engineer, has been at the research laboratory since 1971. He has conducted studies on collection and safe disposal of runoff from beef cattle feedyards, evaporation from sprinkler irrigation systems, furrow dikes for dryland crop production and wind energy. He is a graduate of Texas Tech University, earning a bachelor's degree in 1964. His master of science degree in agricultural engineering was awarded by Mississippi State University in 1967. He served as an instructor at MSU from 1964 to 1967.

He received his Ph.D. degree from Texas A&M University in 1970.

Established in 1938 to develop technology to eliminate severe wind erosion that created the Dust Bowl

BUSHLAND - A veteran during the drought of the 1930s, the research laboratory at Bushland consists of three units -- water management, wind, soil and crop resource management, and bovine respiratory disease.

Perry said the proposal enhances the possibility of building a High Plains ethanol plant near Dimmitt, Hereford or other towns in the heart of the state's corn-growing and cattlefeeding areas. Besides providing clean-burning fuel, ethanol produces valuable by-products, including high-protein cattle feed components.

"Since becoming agriculture commissioner, I have worked to find new agricultural markets and increase ag processing inside the state. One ethanol plant alone would open another market for farmers and create jobs and economic opportunities for Texans," said Perry.

"Ethanol also has the potential to raise the price corn farmers receive by 16 to 20 cents a bushel," he continued. "I am excited about its potential for the Texas economy, and I strongly support its increased use and production in the Lone Star State."

Conference designed for farm/ranch women

COLLEGE STATION - A program designed for women involved in agriculture will be conducted early in 1994, in Austin and Lubbock.

"Women in Agriculture: Management Development Seminars" will be held Jan. 14-15 in Austin and Feb. 22-23, in Lubbock, sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Information about registration may be obtained by contacting Beverly Harder in the Deaf Smith County extension office, 364-3573.

The conferences are aimed not only at farm and ranch wives, but at women landowners and those who run the business on their own, said Danny Klinefelter, TAES economist and management specialist.

During each of the two-day events, workshops will focus on a wide variety of topics, including influence on decision-making, Farmers Home o Administration programs, marketing basics, hedging and options, laws affecting agriculture, estate planning, cattle pricing decisions, oil and gas leasing, cropland and ranchland leases and government program provisions.

Each conference will begin with breakfast on the first day and conclude after lunch on the second

The conference fee of $95 covers two meals and all materials. The Austin seminar will be held at the Red Lion Hotel/Austin Airport. In Lubbock, the event is scheduled at the Lubbock Plaza Hotel.

Officiating at the ceremony was the bridegroom's grandfather, the Rev. Philip Daniels of Amarillo.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe James of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Oyler of Amarillo.

The church altar, was decorated with two brass spiral candelabra which were accented with greenery and red poinsettias. Pews were marked by red velvet bows.

Joe James presented his daughter in marriage.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Garre Lowrance Jr. of Hereford and best man was Todd Park of Dallas.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother, Corey James of Hereford, and the bridegroom's brother, Shane Oyler of Amarillo. Mrs. Richard Schlabs and Shannon

The bride wore a designer gown of white regal satin featuring a Sabrina neckline and Edwardian sleeves which fell gently to her wrists. The fitted bodice was crowned with clusters of jeweled flowers and molded medallions enhanced with pearls. The low plunging back was adorned with strands of pearls and a bow centered with a rosette. The full, flowing satin skirt, detailed with Venice lace medallions and crystallized handbeaded designs, fell gracefully to the floor and extended into a full-length train made of satin and accented with European lace cut-outs studded with pearls and jewels, A border of European lace finished the hemline of both the gown and train.

The full-length bridal illusion veil formed a pouf at the back of the matching designer headpiece which consisted of satin rosebuds, lily-ofthe-valley and pearl sprays.

The bride carried a traditional cascading bouquet of white roses accented with greenery, baby's breath and white satin streamers. Her jewelry consisted of pearl and diamond earrings which were given to her by the groom's parents.

The matron of honor wore a twopiece emerald, moire taffeta ensemble featuring a long fitted skirt and an off-the-shoulder top with a peplum fastened by pearl buttons. She carried a long stem red rose accented with greenery, baby's breath and satin

The bride's sister, Mrs. Jim Layman of Oklahoma City, Ok., invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Kenneth Oldham of Temple, served cake, and punch and coffee were poured by the bride's aunt, Mrs. John Hardt of

The main refreshment table was covered with a floor-length white cloth accented with emerald bows on each corner. The three-tiered white bride's cake was decorated with red roses. Also, enhancing the table were candelabra accented with greenery and red roses.

The couple will make their home in Clinton, Ok.

The bride is a 1987 graduate of Hereford High School. She is a December graduate of West Texas A&M University where she received her B.S. degree in elementary education.

The bridegroom is a 1987 graduate of Amanillo High School. He attended WTA&M and is an August graduate of Parker College of Chiropractic, Doctor of Chiropractic in Clinton, Ok.

Out of town guests represented Amarilio, Oklahoma City, Ok., Liberal, Ks., Temple, Belton, Dimmitt, Brownwood, Dallas, Elk City, Ok., Troy and Dallas.

Helpful health hints Robin Downing suggested

You can see your way clear to better vision and greater safety by seeing your eye care professional on a regular basis. However, the only way the glasses your doctor prescribes for you can help your eyes is if you wear them. Fortunately, today's light lenses make glasses more comfortable to wear then ever before.

What may be the lightest of light lenses are made with polycarbonate. Polycarbonate material has an extremely low specific gravity, which makes it light in weight than other plastic lenses.

In addition, because they are so tough, polycarbonate lenses can be made thinner than any other lens materials--a cosmetic plus.

When inserted in one of the new lightweight fashion frames, polycarbonate lenses provide the ultimate in wearing comfort and make you look great, too.

Other assets of polycarbonate lenses include maximum ultraviolet protection, superior scratch resistance and top impact resistance. Experts say they're the safest lenses around-and the cost is wonderfully affordable.

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) - Tommy Lee Jones, who got his man in "The Fugitive," will play rough-and-tumble baseball legend Ty Cobb in his next movie.

"Cobb" will also star Robert Wuhl as a reporter writing a biography of the ballplayer.

Film crews are expected in town in February, said Rob Harris, publicist for producer Ron Shelton.

Cobb, known as the Georgia Peach, held the mark for most career hits with 4,191 until Pete Rose broke the record.

... was a banner year for your community hospital. We began it with a new set of goals and a commitment to seeing those accomplished. The board of directors, medical staff, administration and employees all took on new challenges and responsibilities, with the result that the hospital grew, the community was better served, and the future was more clearly secured.

It was a year of accomplishments:

- Added three new doctors to our fine medical staff: Drs. Haysom, Walker, Martinez.
- Open the Hereford Health Clinic & Hereford Medical Clinic
- Purchased New Ultrasound Equipment
- ☑ Completed the modernization of the patient rooms and hallways
- M Hosted the 2nd Annual Health Fair
- ✓ Increased Home Health Visits by over 100% as compared to the previous year
- Delivered almost 300 babies
- Purchased new beds for the Hospital ICU
- Recertified as a Joint Commission Accredited Health Care facility
- Completed a strategic plan for the hospital district
- Began an area Health Care Alliance
- ☑ Launched the Deaf Smith Health Care Foundation Employees contributed almost $9,000 to the United Way Fund
- ☑ Began the WorkSmart Occupational and Health Services Program
- ☑ Started the Jr. Volunteer program
- ☑ Expanded the Hospital Auxiliary by joining the RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program)
- Organized the 1st Health Care Career Day at the High School
- ☑ Upgraded the HRMC computer system
- ☑ Launched the Smoke Stoppers program Started the HISD/HRMC Health Occupations Educations Program
- Participated in the Muscular Dystrophy
- Secured land for the future physicians clinic ☑ Employees of HRMC adopted a family at
- Thanksgiving and Christmas ☑ Hosted Hospital tours for area students
- & Hosted The Great American Smoke-out ☑ Purchased a new facility for the Hereford EMS

I Hope this New Year finds everyone well, rested, and ready to meet the new challenges ahead. Remember the library has a number of books and videos to help you improve your techniques, so those new golf clubs will really look great when you get out on the course. Now that there is no rush, you even have time to do those crafts that looked so appealing at the beginning of the holiday season.

Or maybe you are ready to just sit and relax for a day or two with a good book. Nancy Taylor Rosenberg's Interest of Justice is just the thing to keep your mind occupied. Thirty eight year old Lara Sanderstone is a brilliant and brave judge who must deal with her sisters tragic death. The death of her younger sister and brother-in-law leaves Lara to care for their brutalized teenage son Josh. Lara seeks the help of a tough homicide detective to discover the identity of the murderer. On top of everything else Lara is being stalked and terrorized by someone that is clever enough to keep his identity hidden. Could the stalker possible be someone she knows?

Stephen Solomita;s A Good Day To Die brings the reader to contemporary New York City and a rough NYPD Detective, Roland Means who plays only by his own code and set of rules. On the street he is known as "Mean Mr. Means" because of his brutality. Means finds himself behind a desk piled with mind numbing paperwork in ballistics, because of his method of handling the last "collar." Trapped there until Vanessa Bouton, a black captain determined to be the city's first female police Commissioner, offers Means a way out. The price Means must pay includes working for "by-the-book Bouton" on a series of male prostitute murders. The highprofile news coverage has turned the case into a public humiliation for the force. Bouton needs this case as another mark of success on her resume, but knows she does not have the street connections to make it work, that is where Means comes in. At first things go as planned, Means establishes the connections on the street and then Bouton brings in a psychologist to develop the background of the killer. Based on the evidence Means has provided and the crime scenes the psychologist develops a background that dangerously mirrors Mean's own tormented past. Means comes face to face with his own demons and must use them to triumph over the coldblooded psychopath.

mammography guidelines Despite a recent change in guidelines by the National Cancer Institute (NCI), the Texas Cancer Council (TCC) continues to encourage women between the ages of 40-49 to receive mammography screenings every two years. The NCI changed its formal breast cancer screening guidelines Dec. 3, dropping its earlier recommendation that women between the ages of 40-

49 have regular mammograms. Previously, the organization urged these women to receive a mammogram every two years, a policy that mirrored the recommendations of the American Cancer Society.

According to TCC Executive Director Emily Untermeyer, the NCI decision could have a detrimental impact on the last 10 years of public Experts at the Department of Transportation point out that many allergy medications make you drowsy. If you are taking one that does, don't drive.

"The Council's greatest concern is that, as a result of this decision, many women will now disregard the need for regular screening," she said. Women must understand that this change in the NCI's guidelines is not based on any new evidence, and, in fact, a clear majority of medical organizations are united in their disagreement with the new policy. There is no sound scientific basis for concluding that mammography is not beneficial for women ages 40-49."

The TCC joins numerous other health-related organizations, including the American Cancer Society (ACS), the American Medical Association and the American College of Obstetrics and gynecology, in disputing this change in NCI's policy.

"We are extremely concerned about the NCI's new screening hold on to the land she calls hers. guidelines and the confusion this decision could cause," Untermeyer said. continue to promote the use of mammography as an important cancer detection tool for women under 50.

The TCC is the state agency dedicated to developing cancer prevention, screening and treatment services called for in the state's cancer plan. In that role, we support a number of breast cancer screening programs around the state. The council believes that the lives of many women in the 40-49 age group have been saved as a result of detecting breast cancer early through mammography," she said.
The TCC also funds a number of professional education programs, including the Physician Oncology Education Program and the Nurse Oncology Education Program, which keep health care professionals updated on recent developments in cancer screening, diagnosis and treatment. These programs stress the importance of mammography in the fight against cancer and promote screenings for women in the 40-49 age range.

According to the Texas Cancer Data Center, in 1992, 15 percent of all disease-related deaths for Texas women between the ages of 40-49 were a result of breast cancer.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few months ago, my husband, "Roy," and I went to a family gathering at his sister's house. As we were standing at the door saying goodbye to his sister, her husband gently grabbed my behind. I say "gently" because although I was startled, I didn't jump or make any noise. No one was aware of what had happened. Some weeks later, Roy told me he dreamed that his brother-in-law had made a pass at me. I was dumbfounded and asked what prompted the dream. he said, "I have no idea." I asked if he thought his brother-in-law was a womanizer. He replied, "Nothing would surprise me."

I then told Roy what his brotherin-law had done to me. He was furious. but I persuaded him not to say a word to anyone for his sister's sake.

I do not regret having spared Roy's sister, but now I have to deal with ROY. He is angry with his brother-in-law and avoids him whenever possible. This has made me tense and apprehensive whenever these two men are in the same room.

I'm wondering if I did the right thing by telling Roy. It seems I have accomplished nothing but make him despise his brother-in-law and set up a barrier when we are in his presence. What do you say, Ann?--Second Guess

DEAR N.Y.: Too bad you didn't yell "OUCH!" when you felt his hand on your behind and give the wretch the publicity he deserved. Now the best thing to do is tell Roy you've forgiven the horny idiot and plead with him to do likewise so you can once again enjoy the family get-togethers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are having a problem with our son and his in-laws. We need an objective opinion and have agreed to take your advice.

"Bill" met "Mary" when he was 16. They were together constantly. Mary's mother even moved her family so Mary could be closer to Bill. Two years later, when a job change made it necessary for us to move 1,000 miles away, Mary's mother invited Bill to live with them and go to college. We were against it, but he was 18, and we could no longer tell him what to do. Bill and Mary were married a year later, and they live with her parents, Mary's mother has become very hostile to us and thinks we should be sending Bill and Mary money on a regular basis. They are both college students. Bill has a job.

Since they live with Mary's parents,

Bill no longer qualifies for a grant and must pay tuition. Bill and Mary also bought a new truck and must make payments on it. (Mary's mother cosigned the loan.)

My husband and I aren't rich, but we both have good jobs and have some savings. Are we morally obligated to send these kids money? We feel they should learn to live within their means. Please give us your opinion .-- Walnut Country in California

Pablo Picasso ranks as the most prolific painter of all time. In a career that lasted 78 years, it has been estimated, Picasso produced about 13,500 paintings or designs, 100,000 printings or engravings, 34,000 book illustrations and 300 sculptures or ceramics.

DEAR WALNUT COUNTRY: It sounds as if Mary's mother was awfully anxious for her daughter to marry Bill. If my figures are correct, they were both teenagers. What was the big, fat hurry?

No, you are under no obligation to help these two. You're right. They should learn to live within their means. But with Mary's mother standing by with her ever-ready checkbook, looks as if they won't have to. She'll provide the safety net. Too bad.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, businesssize envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

DEAR READERS: If some lines in today's column sound vaguely familiar, you have a good memory. They appeared in this space last year. Not much about New Year's Day has changed so thank you for allowing me to loaf a little.

Let this coming year be better than all the others. Vow to do some of the things you've always wanted to do but couldn't find the time.

Call up a forgotten friend. Drop an old grudge, and replace it with some pleasant memories. Share a funny story with someone whose spirits are dragging. A good laugh can be good Vow not to make a promise you don't think you can keep. Pay a debt. Give a soft answer. Free yourself of envy and malice.

Encourage some young person to do his or her best. Share your experience, and offer support. Young people need role models.

Make a genuine effort to stay in closer touch with family and good friends. Resolve to stop magnifying small problems and shooting from the lip. Words that you have to eat can be hard to digest.

Find the time to be kind and thoughtful. All of us have the same allotment--24 hours a day. Pay a compliment. It might give someone a badly needed lift. Think things through. Forgive an injustice. Listen more. Be kind. Apologize when you discover you are truly blessed.

were wrong. An apology never diminishes a person. It elevates him. Don't blow your own horn. If you've done something praiseworthy, someone will notice eventually.

Try to understand a point of view that is different from your own. Few things are 100 percent one way or another. Examine the demands you make on others.

Lighten up. When you feel like blowing your top, ask yourself, "Will it matter a week from today?" Laugh the loudest when the joke is on you.

The sure way to have a friend is to be one. We are all connected by our humanity, and we need each other. Avoid malcontents and pessimists. They drag you down and contribute nothing.

Don't discourage a beginner from trying something risky. Nothing ventured means nothing gained. Be optimistic. The can-do spirit is the fuel that makes things go.

Declare war against gossip. It makes trouble. Express gratitude. Give credit when it's due. People long to be appreciated.

Read something uplifting. Deepsix the trash. You wouldn't eat garbage. Why put it in your head? Don't abandon your old-fashioned principles. They never go out of style. When courage is needed, ask yourself, "If not me, who? If not now, when?"

Take better care of yourself. Remember, you're all you've got. Pass up that second helping. You don't need it. Vow to eat more sensibly. You'll feel better and look better, too.

Don't put up with secondhand smoke. Nobody has the right to pollute your air or give you cancer. If someone says, "This is a free country," remind him or her that the country may be free, but no person is free if he has a habit he can't control.

Return those books you borrowed. Re-schedule that missed dental appointment. Clean out your closet. Take those photos out of the drawer, and put them in an album. If you see litter on the sidewalk, pick it up instead of walking over it. Give yourself a reality check. Phoniness is transparent. It is also tiresome. Take pleasure in the wonders of nature. A flower is God's miracle. Walk tall and smile more. You'll look 10 years younger. Don't be afraid to say, "I Love You." Say it again. They are the sweetest words in the

Make family fun inexpensive

Now that the anticipation of the holidays is over and your kids have extra time on their hands, you may be looking for some family fun that comes without a price tag.

Here are some free or next-tonothing activities to enrich your time together.

-Spend an afternoon browsing through family pictures or home videos taken during 1993. Reminisce over vacations, school trips, birthday parties unexpected events. Make a list of things you want to do as a family again in the new year.

-Gather a group of your kids' friends for a baking party and deliver simple packages of yummies to people in the neighborhood.

-Browse through your newspaper and locate exhibits, concerts, plays and holiday events with little or no charge offered by parks, museums and retailers. Many art museums have a free day and offer special tours for families.

-Take along a snack and a camera and enjoy walking or cross-country skiing at a nature trail outside of town, perhaps at a place you visited last summer. Compare the landscape and take note of any changes you observe in the winter. If you spot empty nests in a tree or find a beaver pond, encourage your kids to draw a picture of your discoveries when you return home.

-Visit the zoo. Invite a neighborhood child to come along, a nice gesture especially if his/her parents are working this week.

-Shop and "graze" through a large supermarket on a day when vendors offer samples. Kids love to plot "courses" beginning with a tiny cup of soup near the deli and topping the sample tasting off with a mini ice cream cone in the frozen food section.

-Rent or borrow a holiday video, stir up hot chocolate and curl around the TV to watch one of the season's

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I read with interest our time-saving tips for the morn-

Although I usually keep the refrigerator at work stocked with English muffins and bagels, it's nice to be able to eat before I leave the house.

I put my slow cooker to work! The night before (before I go to bed), I put in two servings of oatmeal—according to directions— with a little brown sugar and raisins. When I get up the next morning, I have a hot, nutritious, healthy breakfast just waiting for a bowl and spoon. — Judy Stromsted, Houston, Texas

Dear Heloise: Whenever I am preparing a rolled flank steak or some other meat dish that needs to be tied together, I use unwaxed dental floss.

It works great and I figure it's sanitary enough for your mouth, so it's sanitary enough to put around the meat. — Verla Hartzler, Colorado Springs, Colo.

CHERRY TOMATOES Dear Heloise: We had many dozens of cherry tomatoes that didn't ripen due to very cold night and day

My husband broke off stems from the vines with tomatoes attached and placed them on a board in our basement. Result: they ripened! We had tomatoes three weeks longer, when cherry-tomato prices soared at the supermarkets, — Mrs. Eleanor Trombley, Center Line, Mich.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS Don Taylor

he sat in my office close to tears. "I'm a failure," she said softly. "I really wanted this business to work. I wanted to prove to everyone that I could make it work. Now, for the rest of my life, I'll look back and know I'm a failure."

There are times when I feel very inadequate as a business consultant. This was one of those times. I was setting across the desk from a bright, young entrepreneur who was coming to grips with the fact that her business wasn't going to

The Lord did not bless me with divine inspiration at that point. Instead, I said something about having failed in a single business venture did not make one a failure and that it was important to learn from that failure and go on. I reminded her that many successful people experienced early failures before going on to great success.

I've thought a lot about that meeting and others like it over the past few months. You see, this meeting was not an isolated incident. I've tried to help hundreds of men and women recover from sinking business situations. Sometimes we're called on in time, but all too frequently we can only assist in cutting the losses.

I believe experiencing failure in life is inevitable. If you earnestly aspire to achieve anything of value, you will experience some set backs - temporary failures.

Therefore, I dedicate this column to all who failed at something in 1993. Whatever you do, don't stop reading at this point. Please finish this column. It might be your fresh start for 1994.

Don't look back

I can only guess at your failures. To list my own would take several, columns. However, it doesn't matter what our failures were - a business loss, a broken relationship, a lost job or the resumption of a defeated habit - life goes on and so must we. There is little to gain by looking back. Don't dwell on the past and don't sink into the mire of reliving last year's mistakes. Don't look back.

Satchel Paige, a professional baseball player, reportedly said, "Never look back, something might be gaining on you." As a young man I ran track in high school. I learned that winning runners seldom looked back over their shoulders - you can see a lot from the back of the pack. Instead, they stayed focused on the finish line and gave their best to arrive there first. They did not dwell on past mistakes and failures.

The only great failure, the only true failure, the only lasting failure is failing to try. There is no dishonor in failure, only in failing to try again. A Clean Slate

This new year, 1994, offers us a clean slate. A new beginning and another chance. We have an opportunity to learn from past errors, and to apply what we've learned to new challenges this year.

As we enter this new year, let's leave our failures behind us. Learn from them, yes. Live with them, no. Move on and look ahead. Today is the first day of the rest of our lives Here's my wish for you in the new year: May the happiest days of your life to this point, be the saddest of your future.

To get you started on the right foot, we'd like to offer you a free copy of our new "1994 ABC's of Success." Just send a large, self-addressed envelope, with 29 cents postage on it. and we'll send you an autographed copy. We will honor multiple requests only if you enclose a pre-addressed envelope with postage for each extra copy.

May God bless you in 1994 as you turn past failures into victories. Don't look back, but focus on your future.

You may write to Don Taylor in care of "Minding Your Own Business," Box 67, Amarillo, Texas 79105.

Top '93 religion story was siege of Branch Davidians

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

DAVID'S DILEMMA!

WHEN DAVID WAS A REFUGEE FROM KING SAUL, AT ONE POINT, HE BROUGHT HIS LITTLE ARMY TO KING ACHISH, A PHILISTINE KING, AND ASKED FOR SHELTER, ACHISH GAVE DAVID THE TOWN OF ZIKLAG TO LIVE IN AND DAVID, IN RETURN, PROMISED TO PROTECT KING ACHISH'S LANDS. (I SAM. 27:5,6) OF COURSE, DAVID DID NOT INTEND FIGHTING HIS OWN PEOPLE ON BEHALF OF THE PHILISTINE KING ACHISH BUT HE MADE A GREAT PRETENSE OF DOING SO! FOR MORE THAN A YEAR, DAVID REMAINED IN HIS REFUGEE HAVEN, FIGHTING OFF PARTIES OF BANDITS AND BRIGANDS. KING ACHISH WAS MORE THAN PLEASED WITH EVERYTHING THAT DAVID DID! HOWEVER, DAVID'S SUBTEDELIGE SINALLY TRIDDED LIMIT IN THAT THE KING SUMMONED DAVID WITH HIS SUBTERFUGE FINALLY TRIPPED HIM UP, IN THAT THE KING SUMMONED DAVID, WITH HIS ARMY, TO JOIN WITH THE ARMIES OF THREE OTHER PHILISTINE KINGS TO GO TO WAR WITH KING SAUL AND THE ISRAELITES! DAVID KNEW THAT HE COULD NOT FIGHT

AGAINST HIS OWN PEOPLE .. BUT WHAT TO DO?! HOWEVER, DAVID'S DILEMMA WAS SOLVED BY THE PHILISTINES THEMSELVES! WHEN THE PHILISTINE KINGS SAW DAV-ID'S BATTLE-TESTED AND HARDEN-ED TROOPS MARCHING AT THE REAR OF THE PHILISTINE TROOPS, WHEN THEY PASSED IN REVIEW. THE KINGS WERE DISMAYED AT THE THOUGHT THAT DAVID'S TROOPS MIGHT TURN ON THEM IN BATTLE TO AID THE ISRAEL-ITES ... DAVID AND HIS MEN WERE IMMEDIATELY EXCUSED

TRIVIA QUIZ

Hunk-a, hunk-a burnin' trivia

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

Saturday, Jan. 8, would have been Elvis Presley's 51st birthday. Time, then, to tear into some trivia – Presley style.

Questions:

- 1. What was Elvis' job at the time he
- made his first record?

 2. Name Elvis' favorite soft drink.

HIGHLIGHTS

The Emmy Award-winning and critically acclaimed drama "Homicide: Life on the Street" returns to NBC on Thursday, Jan. 6. Robin Williams guest stars in the first episode, titled "Bop Gun," as a man whose family is tragically victimized while vacationing in Baltimore.

Ned Beatty, Yaphet Kotto, Richard Belzer and Daniel Baldwin are just some of the actors who portray Baltimore homicide detectives. Their complex lives are surrounded by the unpredictability of police work.

TRIVIA

Artists Kirk Douglas, Beverly Sills, John Wayne and Tennessee Williams received Presidential Medals of Freedom from Jimmy Carter.

When he played Minnesota Fats in 1961's "The Hustler," Jackie Gleason did all his own pool stunts, learned in his Brooklyn youth

New network movies in honor of the new year; Presley's birthday remembered by TNT, Disney

BY SARA BENNETT

Elvis Presley is king on Saturday, Jan. 8, as cable channels remember his birthday, while new movies are set to debut on NBC and CBS.

TNT and the Disney Channel offer a Presley block on Saturday. TNT presents "Speedway," also starring Nancy Sinatra and Bill Bixby. "Elvis: The Early Years," following in two parts, is a re-edited version of the 1989-90 TV series that re-created the fledgling days of the King's career.

Disney airs "Elvis '56," featuring clips from his appearances on national talk shows. "Change of Habit," costarring Mary Tyler Moore as a nun, marks Presley's last screen role. "Elvis Presley: Comeback" offers some of the performer's most famous songs.

Sunday, Jan. 2, CBS presents "Jane's House," starring Anne Archer and James Woods. Woods, a widower with two children, falls in love with a businesswoman (Archer) and struggles to unite his new family in the home he shared with his first wife. The film is based on the novel by Robert Kimmel Judith Light ("Who's the Boss") portrays a woman whose doctor, played by Judd Hirsch, takes advantage of their patient-doctor relationship in NBC's "Betrayal of Trust," airing Monday, Jan. 3.

The story chronicles a woman's experiences with a prominent psychiatrist who drugged her for 10 years under the guise of uncovering the roots of her depression. While she was under the addictive drug's influence, the psychiatrist allegedly sexually abused her. The film follows the story from discovery of the crime through prosecution.

NBC's Friday Night Mystery series continues Jan. 7 with "Bermuda Grace," starring William Sadler ("Die Hard II"), who portrays a Philadelphia cop investigating a murder on the island of Bermuda. Serena Scott Thomas and David Harewood also

Jan. 2 - Jan. 8 HOROSCOPE

tance.

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 19)

If you are setting up some rules on the home front, you better make sure these are restrictions you can live with. Seize an opportunity to better yourself.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)

Be practical when outlining your ideas. There is a good chance other people are not seeing things as clearly as you think they are.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Your cheerful disposition could be just the thing an ailing friend or family member needs. Do not try to be the martyr, it will only make people mad. Cancer (June 21 - July 20) solved by an outside influence. You had care before it is too late.

A problem or argument may be easily

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21) It will not be easy for you, but it would be best if you let hurtful comments roll off your back. Forcing the issue will only cause more chaos. Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

There will be a need to focus on matters at home. Your creative powers will once again get you out of a seemingly impossible situation.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

A short trip or just a car ride around the block will give you time to clear your head and calm your temper. Take things slowly for a while.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

You should not take your responsibilities lightly. There are a great many people depending on you. A book or movie could change your perspective. Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

You may be fed up with loved ones, but it is important that you keep your feelings to yourself for now. A time to ven your anger is coming.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19) You should not take loved ones for granted because they might just surprise better show a loved one how much you you the next time you need their assis-

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) You are on the verge of a major emotional breakthrough that will set you free. Give yourself time to adjust to your new sense of well-being.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20) A minor mistake could cause big prob-lems at work. Check details carefully and get other people to look things over

LET'S TALK

Where did teen heartthrobs Gosselaar and Brandis get their start?

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I'm a big fan of "Saved By the Bell." Can you please tell me anything about Mark-Paul Gosselaar? Also, could you give me an address where I could write to him? -C.M. Olney, Ill.

A: Gosselaar, who claims to have very little in common with his onscreen character, Zack Morris, began his career as a model at age 5. He made his television debut in a gueststarring role on "Highway to Heaven," followed by appearances on "Stingray," "The Twilight Zone," "Charles in Charge," "Punky Brewster" and "Murphy Brown." His first starring role was in the TV movie "Necessary Parties," which led to the series "Good Morning, Miss Bliss," in which he costarred with "Saved" comrade Dustin Diamond.

The son of Dutch parents, Gosselaar was born and raised in Los Angeles in a bilingual household with two sisters and one brother.

You can write to him C/O "Saved by the Bell: The College Years," Sunset-Gower Studios, 1438 North Gower, Box 27, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Q: In 1943 or 1944 a movie came out titled "Woman of the Town." It starred Claire Trevor, Albert Dekker and Barry Sullivan. I have never seen it on any of the cable networks. Do you know if it is available on home video? -George B. Andrews, Scotland Neck, N.C.

A: "Woman of the Town" was produced in 1943. The Western starred Dekker as Bat Masterson and Trevor as his dance-hall girl love interest. The movie is currently available on home

Q: I am a big fan of Jonathan Brandis, who plays Lucas on "seaQuest DSV." Can you please give me some information on him? Where is he from? How did he make nis break? What other roles has he ayed? Where can I write to him? A.D. Peru, N.Y.

A: Brandis began working as a print model in New York City at age 2. Modeling and commercial jobs helped him land a recurring role on the daytime drama "One Life to Live" when he was 6. After moving to Los Angeles at age 9 in 1986, Brandis won his first serious dramatic role in the 1987 mini-series "Poor Little Rich Girl" with Farrah Fawcett. He later became widely recognized for his work as the chronic stutterer in the mini-series "Stephen King's It."

Mark-Paul Gosselaar

Brandis recently starred opposite Chuck Norris in the feature film "Sidekicks" and has had lead roles in 'The NeverEnding Story II" and "Ladybugs." He also appeared in Wrong Guys" and "Stepfather II." Additional television credits include guest-starring appearances on NBC's "L.A. Law" and "Blossom," as well as "Murder, She Wrote," "Gabriel's Fire," "Who's the Boss," "Webster," "Alien Nation," "Full House," "The Flash," "Pros and Cons" and "The Munsters Today."

Brandis is involved in charity work with the Spina Bifida Foundation, Superstar Kids Challenge for cystic fibrosis and the Inner-City Games for Youths. An only child, Brandis recently graduated from high school. He lives in Los Angeles with his parents, Greg and Mary, and enjoys playing billiards in his spare time.

You can write to him C/O the show, 100 University City Plaza, Building 998, University City, Calif. 91608

Q: My wife and I have a $20 bet regarding Melissa and Sara Gilbert. I say they are sisters and my wife claims they are mother and daugher. -J.C., Gresham, Ore.

A: You are correct, the two actresses are indeed sisters. Your wife must pay

PolyGram's 'Great Moments' series offers timeless music, performances

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

Stores around the nation should now be carrying PolyGram Video's "Great Moments," a collection of classical performances by some of this century's greatest artists.

Here's a brief rundown of what the series offers. Each title retails for around $12.95.

Vol. 1: Beethoven's Fifth Leonard Bernstein leads the Vienna Philharmonic in this complete version of what is arguably the best-known classical work in the world.

Vol. 2: "Ode to Joy" Beethoven salutes man's unquenchable spirit in this, the choral movement of his ninth symphony. Leonard Bernstein conducts the Vienna Philharmonic and Vienna State Opera Chorus

Vienna State Opera Chorus.

Vol. 3: "Messiah" The Academy &
Chorus of St. Martin-in-the-Fields marks the 200th anniversary of Handel's work. Sir Neville Mariner

Vol. 4: "The Magic Flute" Kurt Moll joins the Bavarian State Opera in highlights from Mozart's comic opera.

Vol. 5: "Carmina Burana" Seiji
Ozawa leads Kathleen Battle and the Berlin Philharmonic in this 1989 performance of the mysterious Orff mas-

Vol. 6: "Madame Butterfly" Placido Domingo and Mirella Freni sing highlights from Puccini's tragic tale of an American naval officer's love for a geisha girl.

Vol. 7: "The Sleeping Beauty"
These thrilling highlights are performed by the Kirov Ballet.

Vol. 8: "Rigoletto" Luciano Pavarotti interprets Verdi's Duke of Mantua.

Vol. 9: Kiri Live! The great Kiri te Kanawa fills London's Royal Albert Hall with arias, as well as selections from "My Fair Lady."

Other selections include the acclaimed "Horowitz in Vienna" (Vol. 10), highlights from "La Boheme" directed by Franco Zeffirelli (Vol. 11) and excerpts from 1991's electrifying "Pavarotti in Hyde Park" in Vol. 12.

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS

Wallace to spend 660 minutes on A&E; Disney drafts Pauly Shore for 'Army'

Mike Wallace and the CBS News department are doing a little moonlighting for A&E. The CBS team is writing the coda to the network's 156-part series "The Twentieth Century," anchored by Walter Cronkite, which first aired on CBS in the 1950s and '60s, and has been seen more recently on A&E. Wallace will anchor 22 new segments, which are due to premiere on A&E in September. Topics include the Bay of Pigs incident, the space shuttle Challenger disaster and the AIDS epidemic.

Comedy capers: After buying rights to a movie about an au pair in service to a duke for its star Pauly Shore, Walt Disney Pictures has instead cast Doug E. Doug, star of ABC's "Where I Live," in the lead of "London Calling." Shore will don fatigues to make "In the Army" for Disney.

Should the new head of PBS be a novelist, an FCC commissioner, a former director of the Smithsonian museum, a veteran Washington Post reporter or a former adviser to two U.S. senators? Don't bother choosing; he's all these and more. Ervin S. Duggan, who helped the Johnson White House pass the Public Broadcasting Act of 1967, will take the helm of his own creation on Feb. 1 after four years on the FCC. The 54-year-old Atlanta native holds an Army Commendation Medal and is an elder in the Presbyterian church. He succeeds Bruce Christensen, who is now the dean of the College of Fine Arts and Communications at Brigham Young University.

The Prodigy computer service, which now offers listings for two dozen cable networks, has done two subscriber polls. In one, subscribers ranked their favorite shows of the new season. Sunday night rivals "Lois & Clark" (ABC) and "seaQuest DSV" (NBC) came out on top. CBS's "South of Sunset," famous for having been canceled after just one airing, ranked just 24th out of 36. Dead last was Fox's "Daddy Dearest." In the other poll, respondents agreed that television portrays too much violence and wanted more network advisories on program content.
