Newsom honored as 'Woman of the Year'

Praised for "giving her time and energy whole-heartedly and for going great lengths to make sure the job is done well," Ruth Newsom was recognized Thursday night as "Woman of the Year" by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division.

Peggie Fox was installed as the Women's Division 1994 president during the annual installation banquet, which began at 7 p.m. in Hereford Community Center.

With a "Greatest Show on Earth" circus theme, the banquet highlights also included the installation of officers by "ringmaster" Kim Buckley and a presentation of plaques by 1993 president Linda Daniel to retiring board members.

Other new officers are Lacy Mueggendorf, president-elect; Christi Hollingsworth, secretary-treasurer; Melinda Whitfill, first vice president; directors Sandy Josseland and Sonya Torbet, and parliamentarian Linda Daniel.

The retiring board members are Rita Bell, Kim Buckley and Mildred Fuhrmann. Buckley, who will be moving to Childress, was last year's Woman of the Year honoree. She received a standing ovation when accepting her plaque.

Dusty Saul, Miss Hereford, was a special guest and expressed her appreciation to the Women's Division for their sponsorship of the pageant and the great support of the steering committee. Wes Fisher, incoming president of the chamber, worded the invocation and the dinner was catered by Something Special.

On accepting the gavel from Mrs. Daniel, Mrs. Fox said her two main goals for the year were "gaining and retaining members, and all working together to accomplish all that we can. Let's do more in '94!"

Daniel expressed appreciation to all committee members and directors for their support during her year as president. She was presented a plaque by Fox.

As she announced the Woman of the Year award, Buckley cited Newsom for all her work in Women's Division and for involvement in many other areas of community life.

Born in San Benito, she moved to Deaf Smith County 50 years ago from Elsa. After graduating from Hereford High School, she went to San Antonio to attend Draughon's Business College. She returned to Hereford to work at the chamber office and First Baptist Church.

In 1950 she married a local boy, Carroll Newsom, who was in pilot training in San Angelo. Their first child, a daughter, was born in Hawaii where he was stationed. The Newsoms returned to Hereford in 1953 to settle on her husband's family farm southeast of town. A son was born in 1954 and another daughter was born in 1955.

As a young mother, she was active in the Wyche Home Demonstration Club, taught Sunday School and helped in Cub Scouts and Camp Fire. The family moved to town in 1967 and, supporting her husband's interests in cattle feeding, she became a charter member of the Hereford Cowbelles, now the Cattlewomen.

She has also been active in the county's Republican Party, involved in the Genealogical Society, served as regent of the Los Ciboleros Chapter of DAR, served on the board of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, and served on the Circle of Friends board of the Harrington Cancer

Sex ed. books must push abstinence, board rules

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - The State Board of Education has given preliminary approval to requiring state-developed sex education materials that stress abstinence and the failure rate of condoms.

The move headed off an attempt Thursday to halt work on the materials.

"I think it (the requirements) will tone down a lot of the rhetoric" about the materials, said board member Will Davis of Austin, whose proposed guidelines were endorsed 12-3 by the board. A final vote was scheduled Friday on the issue.

The materials - including a section on AIDS prevention - became the subject of controversy last year. That's when a 7th-grade teacher in the Houston area mistakenly distributed to students explicit information intended only for teachers.

A review of the materials prompted Education Commissioner

Lionel "Skip" Meno to advise school districts to stop using them. He said he wanted Texas Education Agency staff to revise them and get board approval before making them available to schools.

The board didn't get a chance to approve the materials before they originally were sent out to elementary schools, for use at their discretion.

Versions of the curriculum also were developed for optional use by middle schools and high schools, but not distributed, Meno said. He said some schools had draft copies.

Board member Monte Hasie of Lubbock wanted to do away with the supplemental curriculum, calling it inappropriate.

But despite voting against Davis' guidelines, Hasie thanked the board for taking some action. "I think the people of Texas will appreciate us making these corrections," he said.

The board directed Meno to combine materials addressing prevention of pregnancy and acquired immune deficiency syndrome - and to ensure that they are optional to school districts, age-appropriate, and stress abstinence and the condom failure rate.

It said the curriculum also should include instruction on "refusal skills," be based on medical facts submitted by the Texas Medical Association, include a description of how to involve the community, and allow parents to excuse their children if they believe the material is inappropriate.

Meno said the guidelines are consistent with the direction he was already taking.

Besides Hasie, board members Robert Offutt of San Antonio and Geraldine Miller of Dallas voted against Davis' motion.

Hasie, Miller, Offutt and member Bill Hudson of Wichita Falls also voted against supplemental school materials on drug abuse prevention and nutrition education. Hasie said he wanted more time to look over the materials.

Jobless rate drops from Nov.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate fell to its lowest level in three years, the government reported today, further testimony of a slow but firm economic recovery.

The Labor Department said the rate was 6.4 percent, down from a revised 6.5 percent in November. The November figure initially was reported at 6.4 percent, but was changed to reflect seasonal factors.

The government also reported that non-farm payrolls increased by a seasonally adjusted 183,000, to 111 million, with a gain of 68,000 jobs in the service sector leading the way.

Most economists had expected the December rate to be 6.5 percent or 6.6 percent. But they had expected a larger gain of about 220,000 in non-farm payrolls.

Labor Secretary Robert Reich speculated Thursday that job gains would be about 160,000 to 200,000.

Surprisingly, the number of jobs in the construction industry fell by 1,000. Economists had expected improvement in that sector, resulting from a combination of increased housing starts and low interest rates.

Manufacturing showed an increase of just 2,000 jobs, less than the 10,000 economists had expected. Most analysts had predicted that manufacturing job gains would be lower than the 30,000 in November.

In line with the expectations of analysts were the 32,000 new jobs in retail trade after a decline in November. Government employment grew by 36,000 jobs. Economists had predicted little change in that area.

The biggest area of growth was in services, with 36,000 of that sector's 68,000 new jobs filled by temporary workers.

The number of Americans still without jobs last month was 8.23 million, down 93,000 from November.

Durable goods producers were the only manufacturers increasing their payrolls in December. The government said 11,000 jobs were added in the automobile industry and 7,000 in electronics manufacturing.

As expected, there were further losses in defense-related industries and aircraft manufacturing. The finance industry added jobs for the fourth consecutive month, for a total of 51,000 since August.

Americans continued to work long hours with the average work week unchanged at 34.6 hours. Economists had expected that figure to begin edging down in December.

Reno may seek counsel if Congress passes law

WASHINGTON (AP) - Attorney General Janet Reno has indicated to aides she is likely to seek court appointment of an independent counsel to investigate President Clinton's role in an Arkansas real estate venture as soon as Congress passes a new ethics law, an administration official said.

However, White House counselor David Gergen said today "she's undecided on that." Interviewed on NBC, he said, "but if it comes to a special prosecutor, of course the Clintons will cooperate."

The New York Times today quoted unidentified senior Justice Department officials as saying Reno and her top aides had concluded that seeking an independent prosecutor would be unavoidable if Congress acts.

Reno didn't go that far in a public statement Thursday, telling a news conference that "depending on the language" of a new ethics law "and the evidence at the time, there might be the possibility for me to petition" a federal appeals court "for the appointment of an independent counsel."

The old law providing for independent counsels to investigate high administration officials expired a year ago. Congress is expected to renew it early this year.

A court-appointed counsel would mean removing from the Justice Department the investigation of a failed Arkansas savings and loan and of Whitewater Development Co.

Whitewater was owned by the Clintons and the operator of the collapsed S&L, James McDougal, and McDougals' wife, Susan McDougal.

Milk cartons face challenge at school from new bags

Same milk, new container

Randilyn Loyd, a student in the HISD K4 program at Stanton Educational Services Center, sips her chocolate milk from a plastic bag - marketed under the name "Mini-Sip" - that was introduced here on Thursday. The bags are being tested as a possible replacement for the traditional miniature milk cartons that have been used in schools for decades.

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

For decades, school children have picked up their miniature milk cartons filled with white, skim or chocolate milk and enjoyed them with their lunch.

Now, however, that half-pint milk carton may be an endangered species, about to go the way of the Burma Shave sign, the Dodo bird, the 5-cent cup of coffee and the milkman making home deliveries.

A pilot program was begun here on Thursday that replaces the milk cartons with a plastic pouch marketed by manufacturer DuPont as the Mini-Sip.

Christine Evans, director of food services for the Hereford Independent School District, said the district was contacted by Borden Dairies, which holds the contract with the district to supply milk, about testing the new pouches.

"I guess DuPont just contacted Borden" about manufacturing the items to be filled at Borden, she said.

Borden contacted several districts around the area about trying the Mini-Sip containers.

Jim Fleming, a supervisor with Borden who was here Thursday to help with the first day of the new pouches, would not comment on the program as a whole, but said they had been introduced previously in Tulia.

Mrs. Evans said she and assistant superintendent Don Cumpston decided to introduce the pouches at three programs -- the high school and K4 program, both of which eat in the high school cafeteria, and West Central Intermediate School.

Originally, the schools were to have begun dispensing the pouches on Monday, but shipping delays postponed the start until Thursday.

Teachers and principals at all three schools were given handouts describing the Mini-Sip containers and explaining how to open them.

The pouches come with a plastic-wrapped straw that has a sharp end.

The student holds the bag (or leaves it in the milk section of the lunch tray) and pokes the straw through the front of the bag, which is decorated with pictures of Borden "spokescow" Elsie.

Mrs. Evans said the bag seals around the straw, preventing leaks.

She said the only problem she saw at the high school on Thursday was when a kindergartner took the straw out, causing milk to spill until a teacher could find the hole again and replace it.

The change in milk containers is being proposed because of a new state law that orders schools to reduce their waste that is taken to landfills.

Mrs. Evans said the milk bags reduce waste space by 70 percent and weight by 80 percent from the traditional milk cartons.

There also is consideration in Houston, she said, of recycling the bags into garbage sacks.

Another savings noted with the use of the bags is in storage space.

Mrs. Evans said a case of regular half-pint milk cartons holds 50 containers or 70 milk bags. As a result, refrigerators will be less full, which means less energy is required to cool the items stored there.

Also, she said, students said the first day that the milk felt colder, although that could be because they are able to feel the product through the bag better than through the carton.

As far as cost is concerned, Mrs. Evans said, the district is locked into a contract with Borden, which bid the district milk service at a set price for the year, so no increases will be noted this year.

However, she said, "they say it will be no more expensive" than milk cartons.

Mrs. Evans said there is no strict timetable for deciding the fate of the traditional milk carton in Hereford, although the ease with which students adapted to the bags on Thursday may make it easier to decide (See MILK, Page 2)

The old and the new

Christine Evans, food services coordinator for the HISD, shows off the standard half-pint milk carton that has been served in school cafeterias for decades and the new plastic milk bag that was introduced here on Thursday. If the trials at the high school, K4 and West Central Intermediate School prove successful, the bags will be used district-wide. The bags create less waste than milk cartons.

DA amends charges against Hutchison

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD, Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - A pre-trial hearing for U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, who faces accusations of official misconduct, was set to resume today after a judge ruled four of five charges against her were too vague.

On Dec. 28, visiting Judge John Onion Jr. gave prosecutors 10 days to fix faulty indictments against Mrs. Hutchison. He also has yet to rule on Mrs. Hutchison's claim that she cannot get a fair trial in Austin.

On Thursday, a Travis County grand jury re-indicted Mrs. Hutchison on one of the charges - felony official misconduct.

Travis County First Assistant District Attorney Steve McCleery said the remaining charges either would be amended by prosecutors or returned to the grand jury, which could issue new indictments on those counts.

Mrs. Hutchison, a Republican, has been charged with using her previous office as state Treasurer for personal

With tax season ahead, the American Association of Retired Persons is beginning training of Tax-Aide volunteers to help residents with their taxes.

Volunteers will receive free training from the Internal Revenue Service and will then serve four hours a week from Feb. 1 through April 15. All program-related expenses will be reimbursed.

In this area, Joyce Ann Kearns of Amarillo can provide information about becoming a volunteer, by writing her at Route 8, Box 1209, 12200 Circle C. Trail, Amarillo, Texas 79118, or by calling (806) 622-1164, or (806) 622-1966.

and political purposes and destroying records as part of a coverup.

She has denied the charges, saying the allegations against her are a Democratic-driven plot to hinder her re-election chances. She is seeking election this year to a full, six-year term.

The grand jury's re-indictment alleged that Mrs. Hutchison misused state employees and computer equipment and covered up evidence.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

David Beckwith, a spokesman for Mrs. Hutchison, stated, "The prosecutor's difficulty in obtaining indictments that pass muster is not a technical matter of finding the right wording, as he claims. His problem is that no crime has been committed."

"At some point, the public should demand an end to this open-ended, taxpayer-funded, political persecution."

Mrs. Hutchison was originally indicted in September, but those charges were dismissed after her attorneys discovered that one of the grand jurors was ineligible to serve because of a pending theft charge against him.

Another grand jury indicted her Dec. 8 on virtually the same charges. They include two felony and one misdemeanor count of official misconduct, and felony counts of tampering with physical evidence and tampering with governmental records.

on using them throughout the district.

"I'm sure in another month we'll decide -- maybe sooner, because I think it's gone real well today (Thursday)," she said.

Mrs. Evans noted that some teachers -- and Cumpton himself -- were a little leery of the bags because of fears that children would make messes with them.

But she said many of those fears were allayed the first day.

Judge denies clothes money

WACO, Texas (AP) - Most of the attorneys representing 11 Branch Davidians in an upcoming murder trial are not being paid.

And now it appears they may literally be giving the shirts off their backs for the defendants.

Attorney John Carroll, who is assisting in the defense of Branch Davidian Renos Avraam, filed a motion requesting $1,000 for three suits, shirts, and ties for his client to wear during the trial.

But U.S. District Judge Walter Smith denied the request Thursday.

"There are some 16 male attorneys representing defendants in this case, all of various sizes and shapes. It is probable that all of them have spare clothing in their closets that could be lent to the defendants," Smith said during a hearing Thursday.

The actual trial has been moved from Waco to San Antonio due to publicity. It begins Monday and is expected to last two months.

The clothes of most of the defendants were lost in a fire that consumed the compound of religious leader David Koresh. Koresh and more than 80 of his followers died during that blaze, which ended a 51-day standoff with authorities early last year.

"I've raided my closet," Carroll said Thursday. "I guess my client will be wearing what I can dig out. Everyone will see my throwaways."

Some charity organizations also have indicated they will assist with clothing requests so the defendants - 10 male and one female - meet the court's dress code.

The 11 Branch Davidians are accused of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in connection with the deaths of four federal agents during a raid at Koresh's compound outside Waco last Feb. 28.

Mattox idea for border protection draws fire from rivals

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP)
 Jim Mattox's idea to use troops to fight crime along the Mexican border is drawing fire from his Democratic rivals in the U.S. Senate race.

"It's a cheap way to pander for votes," says U.S. Rep. Mike Andrews of Houston.

Andrews came to the border Thursday to campaign against the Mattox proposal. He said the United States is trying to develop closer trade and tourism links to Mexico under the North American Free Trade Agreement, which went into effect Saturday.

"We can't accomplish that if local politicians and state elected leaders are championing putting military forces along the border to keep Mexicans out of Texas," he said.

Another Democratic candidate, Richard Fisher of Dallas, also campaigned in the Rio Grande Valley on Thursday and criticized the Mattox proposal.

Evelyn K. Lantz of Houston is the fourth Democrat seeking the party's nomination to run against Republican Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison or one of six other GOP candidates.

The Mattox campaign said military cutbacks abroad opened an opportunity to "deputize" U.S. troops to help fight crime and illegal immigration on the border.

"It's a heck of a lot cheaper to bring them here and use them here, and of course you would train them for it," Mattox's press secretary, Elna Christopher, said.

"As long as the federal government does not beef up the Border Patrol, the DEA (Drug Enforcement Administration) and those agencies, it makes perfectly good sense to use our military under civilian authority," Ms. Christopher said.

"The most irresponsible thing we could do right now - right at the moment of trying to create more trade, more tourism - is to put our American military forces on the border," Andrews told reporters at Gateway International Bridge linking Brownsville to Matamoros, Mexico.

Andrews said the solution was giving more resources to local police, the U.S. Customs Service and the U.S. Border Patrol.

Brownsville Police Chief Victor Rodriguez also disliked Mattox's proposal, arguing that border crime was a police, not a military, issue.

He suggested the government should provide more Border Patrol agents and give local police officers limited authority to transport illegal immigrants to immigration facilities.

Rodriguez said the Border Patrol is critically understaffed to handle the problem of undocumented immigrants who cross into Brownsville.

Rodriguez said his officers lose policing time because they have to wait for overworked Border Patrol agents to pick up undocumented immigrants.

Two tickets were bought in the Houston area, one in San Antonio and one in Corpus Christi, Lotto officials said.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 4, 12, 24, 28, 38 and 42.

In addition to the jackpot winner, there were 188 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $848. There were 8,047 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $71. And there were 24,219 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Saturday night's game will be $3 million.

Jami Bell, a HHS yearbook staffer, left, hands a voting ballot to sophomore Katerina Malouf during Koobraey voting Thursday at the high school. The yearbook has changed the voting procedure for Koobraey this year, moving the balloting from the second period classroom to the auditorium foyer. The change was made to ensure only those students interested in the process take part and select school honors. Voting is patterned after the adult voting process: Students must get a voting permit from their counselor, show their student identification and receive a formal ballot which is filled out in a county voting booth.

Herd JV starts tourney with win

Gymnastics

Michael Power of the Hereford junior varsity team has to bend over backwards to get a shot off against a taller Dimmitt opponent. Hereford won 58-40 Thursday in Whiteface Gym.

The Hereford boys' junior varsity basketball team started its own tournament with a win, blowing by the Dimmitt JV 58-40 Thursday in Whiteface Gym.

Hereford's sophomore team lost though, 49-26 to the Dalhart JV.

The Herd JV used defensive pressure to turn an 11-10 Dimmitt lead in the first quarter to a 27-20 Hereford lead at halftime. In the second half, Hereford quickly stretched the lead to 10 points and kept it in double figures the rest of the way.

"Defensive intensity; we turned it up a notch and kept it up throughout the game," coach Key Harrison said. "We used a half-court trap. The half-court trap seemed to work against them."

Todd Dudley scored 17 points to lead Hereford. Michael Power had 11 points, Johnathan Keenan had 10 and Brian Torres added nine.

It was a bad day for the Herd sophomores, who scored only two points in the first quarter to the Dalhart JV's 11. Dalhart extended the lead to 28-9 at halftime.

Brian Betzen scored 10 points for Hereford. The game was played at Hereford High School.

In the other first-round sophomore games played Thursday, Borger blew out Palo Duro 63-46 and Tascosa blasted Caprock 63-49. In the other JV games, Estacado defeated Pampa 57-47 and Frenship dispatched Borger 74-41. First-round byes went to Randall's JV and Amarillo High's sophomores.

The tournament skips today, as Whiteface Gym will be occupied by the Randall-Hereford girls' matchup. The JV game starts at 6, the varsity at 7:30.

The tournament will resume Saturday. All JV games will be played in Whiteface Gym, with the exception of the third place game, which will be played across the hall in the junior high gym. All sophomore games will be played in the junior high gym.

The Hereford sophomores take on Caprock in the first game of the day, at 8:30 a.m. The winner takes on Palo Duro in the consolation game at 1 p.m.

In the sophomore winners' bracket, Amarillo High meets Borger at 10 a.m., and the Dalhart JV takes on Tascosa at 11:30. The third place game is at 2:30, the championship game at 4.

The Herd JV's next game will be against Frenship, at 1 in Whiteface Gym. The other JV semifinal, between Randall and Estacado, will be played at 11:30. The winners meet for the championship at 5:30, while the third place game will be at 5:30 in the junior high gym.

In the JV consolation bracket, Dimmitt plays Borger at 10 a.m. The winner meets Pampa at 2:30 in the consolation game.

Tech's Morris turns pro

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - With a word of thanks but regret to Texas Tech, junior tailback Byron "Bam" Morris made himself available for the NFL draft.

Morris' announcement Thursday wasn't unexpected.

He was the nation's leading scorer and ranked second nationally in rushing last season with 298 carries for 1,752 yards and 22 touchdowns. He broke Earl Campbell's single-season Southwest Conference rushing record of 1,744 yards, set in 1977, and won the Doak Walker Award honoring the nation's best running back.

"If you can do that in one season and accomplish all that, then I don't think there's any other thing you have to prove," he said. "I'm definitely ready."

The 6-foot-2, 240-pound Morris said he had not talked to any teams and had no preference where he played.

"Certainly this is Bam's decision and something he needs to do, and boy, we concur 100 percent," coach Spike Dykes said. "This business is for him."

Morris said he decided Monday after talking with Dykes, his parents and his brother, former Chicago Bear Ron Morris.

"My brother talked to some people and they said some good things," he said.

Skater Kerrigan attacked

DETROIT (AP) - Nancy Kerrigan was doing what she had done a thousand times, going through her program in practice on the eve of an important competition.

Stepping off the ice, she stopped to talk to a reporter. A stranger approached and, in a flash, the secure world of figure skating was shattered and Kerrigan crumpled to the ground, screaming, "God, why me? Why me?"

Kerrigan, the 1993 U.S. champion and a gold-medal favorite at next month's Olympics at Lillehammer, Norway, was attacked Thursday by a man who hit her on the leg with a club or metal bar, then fled the building.

Kerrigan was to begin her quest for a spot on the Olympic team today at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships, but a bruised and swollen knee left her participation in doubt and

Packers want redemption in playoff game with Lions

By The Associated Press

Redemption is a big word around Green Bay this week as the Packers prepare for Saturday's first-round playoff game against Detroit.

After four interceptions and a fumble in a 30-20 loss to Detroit last Sunday - a loss that cost Green Bay the NFC Central Division championship and home-field advantage, setting up Saturday's rematch in the Pontiac Silverdome - the Packers say they are ready for another shot at the Lions.

"I think the good thing about playing that game (last Sunday) was we get another chance at them for redemption. But I think I learned a lot from that game," said Green Bay quarterback Brett Favre, who threw the interceptions and wound up leading the NFL during the regular season with 24 pickoffs.

"Brett tries to do so much. He takes so much on his shoulders," said Green Bay coach Mike Holmgren. "But he's not the Lone Ranger out there. He's got to let other people help. He made some bad decisions in the last game. He knows that."

Favre also threw 19 touchdown passes, third in the NFC, this season, and is counting on bouncing back on Saturday.

On the other hand, the Lions (10-6) figure what worked last week probably won't work again. So they're planning some new twists to their overall defense.

"That's what you do with any good quarterback," Lions' linebacker Pat Swilling said. "You have to change looks, make him work hard to beat you."

This will be the third meeting this season between these two longtime rivals. On Nov. 11, in Milwaukee, the Packers (9-7) ended a four-game Detroit winning streak with a 26-17 victory.

In that game, Favre completed 24-of-33 for 259 yards. But he also threw two interceptions.

Barry Sanders, who finished with 1,115 yards rushing despite not playing since suffering a knee injury on Thanksgiving Day, might see action for the Lions, who are returning to the playoffs for the first time since 1991.

ABC talking to Madden

NEW YORK (AP) - John Madden might switch channels, going to ABC on "Monday Night Football."

Madden will have no NFL games to comment on when CBS Sports' contract with the NFL expires at the end of the playoffs, and he will be free to make his own deal.

He and his agent are considering a deal from ABC Sports, according to published reports.

"Madden's arrival at ABC is a mere formality," the New York Post said, quoting an industry source it did not identify.

"We're in a negotiation and we have no comment," Barry Frank, Madden's agent, told The New York Times.

USA Today said Madden agreed last month - but had not yet signed - a guaranteed four-year deal with ABC, averaging about $2.5 million per year, slightly more than his CBS salary.

USA Today also said that the Fox Network, which will telecast NFC games next season, offered Madden more than $4 million annually, but to no avail.

Madden would replace Dan Dierdorf on the Monday night telecasts, the newspapers said, adding that Dierdorf might shift to college football commentary on CBS or join Fox, which outbid CBS for rights to NFC games on a four-year deal.

Madden downplayed the report, the Post said.

"Am I in a position to comment on it?" Madden said. "The only position I'm in right now is sitting."

"After the season, we'll get it all figured out."

Reeves is AP coach of year

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - In Dan Reeves' world, there are two ways of doing things.

Either you do it right or you do it exactly right. And you better do the latter.

"Dan was never the most talented player, so he always had to do the little things," said New York Giants wide receiver Mark Jackson, who has played eight NFL seasons under Reeves. "That's what he expects from you."

It's a disciplined style of play. It eventually led to friction between Reeves and quarterback John Elway in Denver, and his firing following the 1992 season.

That same style also resurrected the dissension-torn Giants in 1993 and helped Reeves earn The Associated Press Coach of the Year award Thursday.

Mavericks finally send Harper to New York

By LINDA LEAVELL
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Mavericks guard Derek Harper was obsessed with parlaying his experience and talent into a championship.

But his trade to the New York Knicks brings some regrets.

"I'll just miss being a part of this. It's been good for me. The Mavericks gave me my start, so I can't knock them," he said Thursday. "Part of me will always be a Maverick."

The Dallas Mavericks sent the 11-year veteran to New York in exchange for Tony Campbell and a first-round draft choice in 1997.

Harper and Mavericks owner Don Carter choked up repeatedly at a news conference here.

Carter said Harper was "like a son" to him and that loyalty compelled him to help his veteran player find satisfaction. "My wife and I are going to kick his you know what if he doesn't make us proud," Carter said.

Harper said the high point in his career was the team's return from the 1988 Western Conference finals against the Lakers. He said it was thrilling to see the more than 2,000 fans who met the team at the airport.

"I think in any competition sport, that's what it's all about. It's about going, doing your best and the fans coming out and showing their appreciation," he said. "That was a feeling that I want again. That's a feeling that I miss more than anything."

The Knicks, leading the Atlantic

Division with a 19-8 record, were hoping to quickly find backcourt help after losing Doc Rivers for the season with a knee injury and Hubert Davis for several weeks with a fractured bone in his right hand.

"(Harper) is a proven veteran who brings leadership and savvy, and he is an outstanding outside shooter. With the injury to Doc Rivers, the addition of Derek again gives us great depth in the backcourt," said Ernie Grunfeld, the Knicks' vice president and general manager.

Harper, 32, was the Mavericks' first-round draft choice out of Illinois in 1983. He is the Mavericks' all-time leader in assists (4,790), steals (1,457) and three-point field goals (645).

This season has been a struggle for Harper, who openly feuded with rookie head coach Quinn Buckner. The 6-foot-4 Harper built a reputation as being the ultimate team player but was threatening to become a divisive force in Dallas because of his verbal spats with Buckner.

On the court, Harper's numbers have slipped as well. This season, he's averaging 11.6 points per game on .380 shooting with 3.5 assists. His career average is 15 points and 6.1 assists per game.

Buckner dismissed the notion that Harper's trade had anything to do with their differences. Harper "did a very good job of making sure" that his dissatisfaction didn't rub off on the other players, Buckner said.

The move also means that Harper will be reunited with his longtime backcourt mate, Rolando Blackman, who was traded to the Knicks before the start of the 1992-'93 season.

The trade gives the Mavericks seven first-round choices in the next four drafts, including four selections the next two years.

The draft pick is conditional. If the Knicks' 1997 first-round pick is in the first five positions in the draft, then Dallas will receive New York's 1998 first-round selection, unconditionally.

Campbell, a 6-7 swingman, will become an unrestricted free agent after this season. He averaged 7.1 points on .490 shooting with 1.4 assists in 22 games this season.

Mavericks officials say their team, whose 2-27 record is the worst in the NBA, will be different without Harper.

"The young guys, they've got to step up a little bit more. That's just something we've got to do sooner or later so we might as well get it done now," Buckner said. "You need everybody to step up and try to make up for what (Harper) brings - besides his shooting, his experience and just the threat that he brought to the game."

Blazers come back on Hornets to win battle of starless teams

By The Associated Press

The Portland Trail Blazers came to town with their backcourt tandem of Clyde Drexler and Terry Porter sidelined with sprained ankles.

But the playing field - or the court in this case - was leveled by the absence of Hornets stars Larry Johnson, out with a sore back, and Alonzo Mourning, out with a sprained ankle.

In a matchup of the remaining healthy players, Portland came back from a 21-point deficit to beat Charlotte 116-110 Thursday night.

The Hornets entered the game with a 12-2 record at Charlotte Coliseum, but they were playing as team that had never lost there - and still hasn't.

"They came out with a lot of confidence and were ready to put us away," Portland forward Tracy Murray said. "But we had a lot of fight left in us."

Down by 20 at the half, Trail Blazers coach Rick Adelman screamed at his team in the locker room.

"Rick hit it to us hard at halftime," said Portland forward Cliff Robinson, who got the message. He scored 21 of his 29 points in the second half. "We came out the second half a changed team. We knew they were going to shoot it up tonight, so if the percentages fell, we had a chance to come back."

"It was just like we were freezing up in the first half," Adelman said. "We were very impatient. We simply weren't playing as a team. We reversed that process in the second half."

Portland outscored Charlotte 35-18 in the third period, with Robinson scoring 12 points, to take control of the game.

"We've given up 83 points in the third quarter of the last two games (including 48 against Atlanta on Tuesday night)," Charlotte coach Allan Bristow said. "Some teams have trouble scoring 83 points in a game."

The Hornets did make one final 7-1 run after the Trail Blazers took a 15-point lead on a jumper by Jaren Jackson with 2:48 left to play. Charlotte closed to 114-110 on Hersey Hawkins' 3-pointer with 32 seconds to play.

Two free throws by Rod Strickland, who finished with 25 for the Blazers, ended the scoring.

Knicks 92, Bucks 86
At Milwaukee, the Knicks seemed to stop playing with 5 1/2 minutes left, and the Bucks, who once trailed by 21 points, actually made a game of it.

Milwaukee went on a 17-2 run to get within 85-80, but John Starks made five straight free throws to keep New York ahead.

Warriors 102, Spurs 98

At Oakland, Calif., the Spurs had 71 rebounds - the most in the NBA this season - and the Warriors missed 22 of 43 free throws. So how, exactly, did Golden State manage to win?

"The thing that won the game for us was the turnovers," Golden State coach Don Nelson explained.

San Antonio had 26 turnovers to Golden State's eight. And the Warriors survived despite blowing nearly all of a 15-point lead with 2:58 to play.

NFL

It will be the first playoff game for Green Bay since 1982.

The Packers and Lions have met 127 times since 1930. But this will be the first time they've ever met in post-season play.

In an AFC playoff game Saturday, the wild-card Pittsburgh Steelers play at the West champion Kansas City Chiefs.

Sunday's games will have the Minnesota Vikings at the New York Giants in the NFC and the Denver Broncos at the Los Angeles Raiders in the AFC. All four are wild-card teams.

Drawing bytes this weekend will be East champion Buffalo and Central champion Houston in the AFC and East champion Dallas and West champion San Francisco in the NFC.

Steelers at Chiefs

The Steelers (9-7) will be seeking their seventh straight victory at Arrowhead Stadium when they take on the Chiefs (11-5).

Of course, the Steelers have not played in Kansas City against Joe Montana, the AFC's second-rated quarterback this season - his third with the Chiefs - who has the highest playoff rating for a quarterback in NFL history.

Montana will be facing a Pittsburgh club that depends on a defense that ranks first overall in the AFC with an average per-game yield of 283.2 yards and third in the AFC against the rush with an 85.5-yard average.

Vikings at Giants

The Giants, coming off two straight season-ending losses, including a 16-13 overtime defeat Sunday by Dallas that cost New York the NFC East title and home-field advantage, will try to bounce back against the Vikings.

Both low-scoring clubs are hoping their veteran quarterbacks take charge.

Jim McMahon, 8-3 as a starter this year for the Vikings (9-7), won the Super Bowl with the Chicago Bears in 1986. In one of the playoff games enroute to that title, McMahon led the Bears past the Giants 21-0. Giants quarterback Phil Simms guided New York to victory in the 1987 Super Bowl.

Broncos at Raiders

It's another rematch of a game last Sunday, when the Raiders (10-6) rallied from a 30-13 deficit in the regular-season finale to beat the Broncos 33-30 in overtime at Los Angeles. They also beat the Broncos earlier in the season.

The Broncos (9-7) will be counting on John Elway, the AFC's top-rated passer, to keep them from being the 14th NFL team to be swept in three games in a single regular season-playoff year.

jeopardized her chances of Olympic gold.

The attack also raised concerns about security at the upcoming Games.

"How do you get out there after someone's done that to you?" wondered skating coach Frank Carroll, who unknowingly pointed out Kerrigan to the assailant minutes before the attack. "How do you concentrate on the triple lutz-double toe loop when you don't know what kind of madman's out there?"

Dr. Steven Plomaritis, who examined Kerrigan, said there was no fracture, but "the discomfort could preclude her from participating at her capacity."

"She sustained quite a blow, not only physically but mentally," said her agent, Jerry Solomon.

Police were searching for a 6-foot man wearing a black leather jacket. The attacker's motive was unknown.

but Plomaritis said the man clearly intended to debilitate the 24-year-old skater.

"I just don't want to lose faith in all people, or anything like that," Kerrigan told ABC on Thursday night from her hotel room. "It was one bad guy, and I'm sure there are others, because this kind of thing has happened before in other sports, but not everybody is like that."

The attack recalled the stabbing of tennis star Monica Seles by a spectator during a tournament in Germany on April 30. In that case, a supporter of Steffi Graf attacked the world's No. 1 player so Graf could move up in the rankings.

"I was hoping we would not have one of these Monica Seles-type attacks on athletes, so this is horrifying. We are very concerned about it," said LeRoy Walker, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee. "Athletes are such obvious prey for any deranged person who has something like this in mind.

"Here we are in one of our own cities. What do we do when we are one of 60-70 countries represented?" Before the attack, Kerrigan, the 1992 Olympic bronze medalist, was the favorite to retain her national title.

U.S. figure skating rules bar a competitor from making the Olympic team if the athlete doesn't participate in the national championships and did not win a medal in the previous world championships.

But Dr. Ralph Hale, a USOC vice president, said if the U.S. Figure Skating Association petitioned to put Kerrigan on the team because of extraordinary circumstances, "We would be hard-pressed not to listen earnestly."

The pitcher's rubber on the mound measures 24 inches by 6 inches.

THE TAR PITS OF SIDDIM

EARLY IN THE BIBLE THE MENTION OF SLIME AS A MATERIAL FOR CEMENTING BRICKS IS NOTED IN THE STORY OF THE TOWER OF BABEL. (GEN.11:3) THIS MATERIAL IS WHAT WE CALL TODAY BITUMEN OR ASPHALT WHICH SINKS IN WATER, IS EASILY MELTED AND IS VERY INFLAMMABLE. IT HAS BEEN DESCRIBED AS PETROLEUM HARDENED BY EVAPORATION AND OXYDATION, AND IT MAY VARY FROM A SOLID TO A SEMI-LIQUID CONDITION. THERE ARE MANY PLACES WHERE BITUMEN, OR ASPHALT, EXISTS AT OR NEAR THE DEAD SEA. IN FACT, THE GREEKS AND ROMANS CALLED THE DEAD SEA LAKE ASPHALTITES, BUT OF ALL THE ACCOUNTS OF THIS TAR, OR ASPHALT, THE MOST OUTSTANDING SEEMS TO BE THE STORY OF THE BATTLE OF THE KINGS OF SODOM AND GOMORRAH IN WHICH THE KING LOST AN IMPORTANT BATTLE, THEIR ARMIES AND THEIR VERY LIVES! THE KINGS HAD DECIDED TO RETREAT WITH THEIR TROOPS INTO THE VALE OF SIDDIM, WHICH HAD MANY PITS OF TAR, OR SLIME, AND THERE WERE SO ENTRAPPED BY THIS STICKY SUBSTANCE THAT THEY LOST THEIR MOST IMPORTANT BATTLE, THEIR THRONES AND THEIR LIVES!

The Newspaper BIBLE

GOD HAS NO 'TEACHER'S PETS'

"Well," you may be saying, "what terrible people you have been talking about!" But wait a minute! You are just as bad. When you say they are wicked and should be punished, you are talking about yourselves, for you do these very same things. And we know that God, in justice, will punish anyone who does such things as these.

eternal life to those who patiently do the will of God, seeking for the unseen glory and honor and eternal life that He offers. But He will terribly punish those who fight against the truth of God and walk in evil ways—God's anger will be poured out upon them. There will be sorrow and suffering for Jews and Gentiles alike who keep on sinning. But there will be glory and honor and peace from God for all who obey Him, whether they are Jews or Gentiles. For God treats everyone the same.

Do you think that God will judge and condemn others for doing them and overlook you when you do them, too? Don't you realize how patient He is being with you? Or don't you care? Can't you see that He has been waiting all this time without punishing you, to give you time to turn from your sin? His kindness is meant to lead you to repentance.

He will punish sin wherever it is found. He will punish the heathen when they sin, even though they never had God's written laws, for down in their hearts they know right from wrong. God's laws are written within them; their own conscience accuses them, or sometimes excuses them. And God will punish the Jews for sinning because they have His written laws but don't obey them. They know what is right but don't do it. After all, salvation is not given to those who know what to do, unless they do it.
Romans 2:1-15

But no, you won't listen; and so you are saving up terrible punishment for yourselves because of your stubbornness in refusing to turn from your sin; for there is going to come a day of wrath when God will be the just Judge of all the world. He will give each one whatever his deeds deserve. He will give said Wednesday that there were "no findings of misconduct on Mr. Avedon's part" and that neither side will pay the other.

NEW YORK (AP) - Fashion photographer Richard Avedon has settled a $5 million lawsuit filed by his former daughter-in-law by agreeing to relinquish pictures he took of his naked grandsons.

The settlement calls for the photos to be kept in a sealed court file until the boys are 18, at which time they can take possession of the pictures if they want.

Elizabeth Paul Avedon, who divorced Avedon's son John in 1987, claimed the photographer was a drug abuser who had behaved in sexually inappropriate ways with the boys, now 10 and 13.

The settlement also provides that all photos, negatives and prints of Elizabeth Avedon be destroyed except for a photo in a show at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and in a book published years ago.

Avedon said Elizabeth Avedon was just trying to get money out of him.

Avedon's lawyer, Martin Garbus,

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had mixed emotions after reading the letter from the parents of a rebellious 17-year-old girl. They finally regained control of their home and marriage after letting their daughter know she was not going to break them up.

My husband and I have been there. In fact, we are still there, fighting for and with our son, who is also 17. He is in high school and, therefore, our legal responsibility.

The reason I'm writing is because so many people confuse the words "tough Love" with the organization toughlove. Toughlove is an organization with chapters all over the world. It is a non-profit educational organization offering self-help materials to parents, kids in trouble and professionals who work with them.

Toughlove is an effective self-help program for the parents of unruly young people. It is a combination of philosophy and action, which together can help parents change and get control of their families again.

Toughlove is a network of parents helping other parents bring change into the lives of their young people who are incorrigible, uncontrollable, addicted, physically or verbally abusive, in trouble at school, in trouble with the law and/or destroying the family.

Toughlove does NOT advocate or support physical or verbal abuse, nor does it advocate kicking kids out. We give them options that will protect their safety and help us live up to our responsibilities. The reality is that they may not choose our options.

We are NOT professional counselors. We do not tell people what to do. We can make suggestions and share experiences. Each group can recommend helpful professionals from its own resource lists.

We have no affiliation with any religious or political group.

We are not a therapy group. We are a support group.

We cannot give anyone immediate solutions for their problems. Those problems do not show up overnight, and no one should expect overnight solutions. What we can do is how these troubled individuals that they are not alone and that they do have rights and worth and deserve to be treated with respect.

We have a "process for change" that can be used as a guide for those who want it. We offer supportive confrontation and selective support to help people make changes in their lives, first for parents who seek it and second for teen-agers who will cooperate.

Please tell your readers that if they want further information, they can send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope to Toughlove, P.O. Box 1069, Doylestown, Pa. 18901 or call 1-800-333-1069. Thanks, Ann--Warren, Ohio Chapter of Toughlove

DEAR WARREN: Thank you for laying it out in clear, concise language that everyone can understand.

I was one of the first supporters when Toughlove was started by Phyllis and David York in 1979. They have done a marvelous job and have earned the everlasting gratitude of thousands of parents and their children.

Gem of the Day: A good neighbor is one who smiles at you over the fence but doesn't try to climb over it.

DEAR READERS: I asked those of you who took my advice to let me know how it turned out. The responses have been fascinating. Take a look:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Twenty-seven years ago, I wrote to you for advice. I was an 18-year-old bride who married to escape an alcoholic home.

I asked you if it was normal for a bride to have continuing nightmares of her husband being killed violently. You replied, "It is NOT normal," and urged me to get counseling. I had no idea my mother's alcoholism and the sexual abuse I experienced as a child would have such far-reaching effects.

With the help of counseling and the tenacity I developed as a survivor, I was able to put myself through college and am now a licensed professional counselor in private practice. When people ask what led me to get counseling, I say, "Ann Landers." Now, 27 years later, I'm able to help others because of the help you gave me.--Corpus Christi

DEAR READERS: Heartwarming? You'd better believe it! Keep reading for more:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It has been 15 years since I wrote to you for the first time. I was 36. My husband had left me and our two small children for a younger woman. I could never have predicted the pain and heartache that followed.

He had borrowed money from several banks, and when his business failed, I discovered I was liable, too. I wrote to you out of desperation. You told me to let the grief work itself out--that I could not hurry the process--and meanwhile, to do something positive for myself and my kids. So I went back to college at age 37, determined to make a new life.

I wrote again with a new problem. I had met a man who seemed absolutely wonderful. I was concerned because he was a mill worker. You told me if he treated me well and I was sure of my feelings, to go ahead and marry him.

We've been married for eight years, and he has been a terrific dad to my kids. I could live in a phone booth with this man and feel like the luckiest woman in the world. I'm now working on my Ph.D., and he's working on his GED. He thinks I'm smart, beautiful and talented. I tell him every night that he's the best friend/companion/husband in the world. I just wish I hadn't grieved so long over a liar and a cheat.

Thanks for sending me in the right direction.--Happy in Chippewa Falls, Wis.

DEAR CHIP: I'm glad I helped. The next letter is from a woman who has a different opinion of my "assistance."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wrote to you when I was 19, madly in love with "an older man." He was 22. I wanted more than anything in the world to marry "Jack."

Sorry to say, I had quite a history, having started to date when I was 14 and a bit on the wild side. There were at least six guys before Jack whose names I remembered. I wrote and asked you if I should tell Jack about the others because I knew he would soon ask. You said, "Play it straight. Tell him."

We've been married for 14 years, and Jack never misses an opportunity to remind me that I was a tramp and how lucky I am to have him. Your advice was terrible.--Louisville

DEAR LOUISVILLE: My long-standing advice is this: Never try to fake virginity, but you don't owe a man the names and numbers of all the players.

Gem of the Day: A good reputation is much easier to maintain than rebuild.
