"When I got out of high school, I wanted to be a nurse, but Elmer came along and we got married."
- Irene Reinart, volunteer HRMC Auxiliary

VOLUNTEER Reinart realizing her dream

By DONALD M. COOPER
Brand Editor

Irene Artho hoped to become a nurse when she graduated from high school, but Elmer Reinart changed her plans.

Now, Irene Reinart realizes that dream as a volunteer at Hereford Regional Medical Center and as a charter member of the HRMC Auxiliary.

Mrs. Reinart has lifelong ties to the hospital. "I was born in this hospital," she said.

She was one of 12 children fathered by Paul Artho, a Swiss native who settled at Dawn, with two wives. He had five children by Mrs. Reinart's mother, who died two days after she was born, and seven more children by his second wife.

The family lived in Dawn, went to church and school in Umbarger, and did the shopping in Hereford, she said.

"When I got out of high school, I wanted to be a nurse, but Elmer (Reinart) came along and we got married," she said.

The Reinarts operated a farm southeast of Hereford, where they raised seven children.

On the farm, they raised wheat, maize and cotton, which Mrs. Reinart and children chopped every year.

"When my youngest left to go to school, I said that was it and we quit raising (cotton)," she said with a laugh.

In May 1974, she attended the first-ever meeting of what then was named the Deaf Smith County Hospital Auxiliary, which is affiliated with the National and Texas Association of Hospital Auxiliaries Inc.

"I went to the first meeting and I joined immediately," she said. Since then, she has been a faithful member of the auxiliary, which changed its name when the hospital was restructured as Hereford Regional Medical Center, and full-time volunteer.

In December 1978, the auxiliary opened its hospital gift shop, which would become a major source of income for the organization.

"It's not just for patients, it's for everybody. Everything we raise in the gift shop is put back into the hospital or community," she said, noting the auxiliary last year used funds from the gift shop to provide two $500 scholarships to local students as well as purchasing two computerized baby dolls for Hereford High School. The dolls have a computer chip and are as close to having a real baby as is possible without actually having an infant.

Some of the funds raised by the auxiliary also were used to purchase furnishings and accessories for the emergency room and day-surgery clinic.

"The nurses were thrilled; they grinned from ear to ear," she said. Funds also are raised by a jewelry sale in the fall.

"Most of our customers (at the jewelry sale) are people who work here.

Irene Reinart is a charter member of the Hereford Regional Medical Center Auxiliary. She has been a volunteer at the hospital for more than 20 years.

The employees really support us," she said. Although most of the customers are from the hospital, she pointed out the jewelry sale is for the public.

Mrs. Reinart, like the other auxiliary volunteers, delivers The Brand and the radiogram around the hospital, staff envelopes for the various offices, deliver juice to patients, make coffee for the waiting rooms, and provide friendly faces to the patients.

"I've run errands for patients - and others have, too - like going to the post office," she said.

The auxiliary also will have a special Valentine's Day treat, beginning Feb. 13, for the hospital staff.

"We will prepare food for the day and night people, even the ambulance crews. We just want to show them how we appreciate them," Mrs. Reinart said.

The hospital staff, who have someone to take over some chores that could take them away providing patient care, and the patients, who have a cheerful visitor coming in to see about them, aren't the only ones who benefit from the auxiliary volunteers.

"To me, coming every Tuesday morning and doing my job and visiting with the patients, especially those who've been here for several days is so rewarding. It just makes me feel good," she said.

"Volunteers come and go. We try to train them, but some just find that it's not quite what they want. But I still enjoy it," she said.

SPELLING BEE

Annual spelling contest to be March at library

The 1998 Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee will be conducted March 5-6 in the Heritage Room at Deaf Smith County Library, according to Mauri Montgomery, general manager of The Hereford Brand.

The Deaf Smith County Bee is sponsored by the newspaper, and Montgomery recently was named Bee director, succeeding longtime director, Brand Publisher O.G. Nieman.

Each school participating in the Bee will hold its own elimination process to determine entrants for the county Bee. The Junior Bee, for grades 4-5, will be conducted March 5. The Senior Bee (grades 6-8) will be March 6, when the champion will be determined.

Spellers must not have completed the 8th grade must be 15 years old or younger at the time of the National Spelling Bee, which is conducted in May in Washington, D.C.

Local businesses will sponsor awards for the champion and runner-up in each division. The county champion will advance to the Regional Bee, scheduled for April 5 at West Texas A&M University in Canyon.

The 50th Annual Regional Bee is sponsored by the Amarillo Globe-News and WTAMU.

Awards will be presented to each county finalist, with special awards for the top six contestants. First prize will be an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, D.C., for the national finals.

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce

Governor will be banquet speaker

Texas Gov. George W. Bush will be the keynote speaker next month at the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. Feb. 20 at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, southeast of Hereford.

Don Cumpton, executive director of the chamber, has been working for several months to get the governor to be the banquet speaker.

Bush, eldest son of former President Bush, was elected governor in 1994, defeating incumbent Ann Richards.

In this year's bid for reelection, Bush is facing a challenge from Land Commissioner Garry Mauro. If he defeats Mauro in November, Bush will become the first Texas governor ever elected to consecutive four-year terms.

Tickets for the banquet are $16 and will be available beginning Feb. 1. Tickets may be purchased at:

TEXAS vs. TOBACCO

MINNESOTA Will Humphrey settle lawsuit?

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) - A Texas tobacco settlement is hardly softening the stance of state Attorney General Hubert Humphrey III.

"I do not intend to compromise," Humphrey said Friday at a news conference.

That stance, along with Humphrey's political ambitions, has analysts saying a prompt Minnesota settlement is unlikely. His comments came after announcement of a staggering $14 billion Texas settlement.

Humphrey outlined what he wants in a settlement: release of damaging documents, protection for children from smoking and full payment of damages. Most analysts say the state could not expect to receive as much money as Texas, which is more populous.

Accord waits for judge to sign

AUSTIN (AP) - The judge overseeing the largest settlement in the history of U.S. litigation has yet to sign the deal, but is expected to formally approve it on Tuesday, the state says.

U.S. District Judge David Folsom oversaw the multibillion-dollar settlement between the state of Texas and the tobacco industry, but still must determine how much to pay private attorneys who helped the state with its case.

Texas announced Friday it will get $15.32 billion over 25 years from the tobacco industry to settle its lawsuit over smoking-related health care costs, with most of this year's money set aside to benefit children.

The money tops the combined amount Big Tobacco has paid to settle two other state cases. Florida and Mississippi received a total of $14.4 billion last year.

"Our lawsuit asserts that the history of this industry has been rooted in a concerted, decades-long conspiracy to conceal the truth about tobacco," Texas Attorney General Dan Morales said.

"As a direct result, millions of Americans - fathers, sons, daughters, mothers - have died horrible, preventable, premature deaths. This must stop," he said. "Nothing less than the promise and the potential of America hangs in the balance."

Texas will receive $725 million up front and more than $1.2 billion this year. The 1998 money will go toward a variety of health care services for all Texans, children's health care, anti-smoking education and enforcement.

Over the next 24 years, the state will receive the remaining $14 billion, which the Legislature will decide how to spend.

The deal pays Texas more than $1 billion more than the state would've received as part of a proposed national settlement negotiated with a coalition of states last June.

REACTION Washington pols laud Texas deal

WASHINGTON (AP) - The record $15.32 billion settlement Texas has struck with the tobacco industry is being welcomed by some on Capitol Hill.

"We've come a long way since the heads of the tobacco companies told me in a (1994) hearing that nicotine isn't addictive," Sen. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., said Friday after word of the deal emerged. "Today's settlement brings us one page closer to closing the book on marketing cigarettes to children."

Others, however, predict the settlement could further complicate congressional passage of a national pact.

"What's good for one state financially is by no means the model for Congress to follow in protecting the public health," said Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., a leading critic of the tobacco industry. "With every

More and more Texas vegetable producers are going out of business because of financial stress. The financial problems also are causing declining acreage and reduced profits for both producers and shippers.

In his address, Hall is expected to discuss steps to combat the situation.

The conference offers four continuing education units (CEUs) for pesticide applicators, certified crop consultants and the Master Gardener vegetable specialty. The $25 registration fee includes lunch.

The tour was conducted before a ribbon-cutting ceremony sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Hustlers. The new enterprise, which was recruited by the Hereford Economic Development Corp. and began operations here earlier this month, plans to market metal storage buildings throughout the Panhandle. Nelson and Debbie Canode (shown near center, below), along with company owner Jimmy Fields and his wife, Muriel, cut the ribbon on the new operation among company employees and a large crowd of Hereford boosters. AZTX Cattle Co. of Hereford purchased the first storage building (background) that came off the new assembly line.

REBEL PIGS BACK IN CAPTIVITY

LONDON (AP) - After a great escape that captivated Britain, a pair of fugitive pigs were back in custody today - but they won a lifetime reprieve from the slaughterhouse.

Faced with offers of sanctuary from across the country, the oinkers' owner agreed to spare the escapees and sell them to someone who can give them a good home.

The two 5-month-old Tamworth pigs broke away from slaughterhouse workers last week in Malmesbury, 90 miles west of London, squeezing under a fence and swimming across a river to freedom.

Newspapers enthusiastically took up the story of the fugitives - nicknamed Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Pig.

Authorities said the second pig's flight for freedom ended today with a shot from a tranquilizer dart.

"It managed to break out of the thicket, double-backed on itself and went across a field," said Phil Bussey, an inspector with the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. "We saw by its fresh tracks where it had gone - and managed to corner it."

Police constable Roger Bull said the pig was recovering from the sedative and under a veterinarian's care.

Daily Mail reporter Barbara Davies said she and her team captured the first pig Thursday morning.

CLINTON MARKS KING DAY WITH COMMUNITY SERVICE

WASHINGTON (AP) - Community service is the theme for President Clinton, his vice president, his wife and a dozen members of his Cabinet as they mark Martin Luther King Day on Monday.

The intent is "to make the holiday a day of service that brings people together, promotes racial cooperation, and allows people to solve problems through citizen action," Thurgood Marshall Jr., assistant to the president for Cabinet affairs, told reporters Friday.

The activities, which Clinton hopes will help many people regard the King holiday not as a day off but as a day for community service, stem from his 1994 signing of the King Holiday and Service Act.

Clinton's job for the day: helping 65 members of AmeriCorps and 300 community volunteers repair and paint classrooms in the District of Columbia's Cardoza High School. White House staff members will also pitch in.

First lady Hillary Rodham Clinton and Education Secretary Dick Riley will aid a local literacy effort at the MCI Center, Washington's new sports arena.

Vice President Al Gore will deliver remarks at the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta, where King served as pastor.

Six Cabinet members will be take part in other service-oriented events in Washington and six others will travel to public service events across the country.

TEXAS

By breaking out on its own, Texas is guaranteed to be paid; there are no guarantees with the national deal because it is pending in Washington.

"We thank Attorney General Morales for his hard work on behalf of the state and the taxpayers of Texas," Gov. George W. Bush, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney said in a joint statement.

"At first glance, the tobacco settlement appears to be a windfall for Texas. However, we must closely examine the details and find out what strings are attached to the settlement money."

Aside from the money, the settlement also requires the tobacco industry to remove all billboards in Texas - including those in sports stadiums - within four months. Advertising also must be removed from buses, taxis, airports and trains.

The deal was reached Thursday, but required more than six hours of work on Friday before the judge.

Defendants in the Texas lawsuit were the American Tobacco Co. Inc.; R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; B.A.T. Industries; Philip Morris Inc.; Liggett Group Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co. Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; Hill & Knowlton Inc.; the Council for Tobacco Research-USA; and the Tobacco Institute Inc.

REACTION

settlement like this, the secret documents and information that Congress needs do not come to light."

Some viewed the Texas pact in more beneficial terms. White House spokesman Mike McCurry said the Texas settlement provided "another indicator that tobacco companies will be held accountable and another reason why there should be federal legislation to pursue these issues on behalf of all Americans." Tobacco companies are "clearly on the run and they're on the run for good reason," he added.

The proposed national settlement, which was negotiated by the industry and a coalition of states last year, foundered in Congress in 1997 and awaits further debate.

The proposed deal calls for the industry to pay $368.5 billion over 25 years and comply with new nicotine and marketing restrictions. In return, the industry would be shielded from most pending class-action lawsuits and would earn some protection from future lawsuits.

The industry absorbed its latest public relations blow this week with the release of secret documents that show R.J. Reynolds in the 1970s developed a direct advertising appeal targeted at smokers as young as 13.

Citing those revelations, President Clinton said it is "absolutely imperative" for Congress to swiftly enact legislation for a national tobacco settlement.

Jail prohibits subscriptions

AMARILLO (AP) - Newspapers and magazines are hazardous to the Potter County jail's health, the sheriff's department has decided.

Citing safety problems caused by paper jammed into toilets and vents, authorities for the last week have been instructing inmates to cancel their subscriptions to newspapers and magazines, Lt. Joe Morris said.

"Basically, we didn't have anything against the newspaper," Morris said. "It was the paper itself."

The ban was prompted by a recent state inspector's report criticizing Potter County for paper clutter.

Ron Dusek, a spokesman for Attorney General Dan Morales, said sheriffs have the right to ban materials from county jails for safety reasons.

SADDAM THREATENS TO BLOCK WEAPONS INSPECTIONS

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) - Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein threatened today to suspend cooperation with U.N. weapons inspectors unless tough U.N. economic sanctions against Iraq are lifted.

In a speech marking the seventh anniversary of the Persian Gulf War, Saddam said that unless sanctions imposed after Iraq invaded Kuwait in 1990 are lifted, he would follow recommendations of the National Assembly. The assembly has recommended that Saddam suspend all cooperation with U.N. weapons inspectors if they don't finish their disarmament activities in Iraq within six months of Nov. 20.

REPUBLICANS REJECT LITMUS TEST ON ABORTION

INDIAN WELLS, Calif. (AP) - Finessing a divisive issue, Republicans are firmly on record against certain late-term abortions but unwilling to deny campaign aid to any GOP candidate who differs from the party line.

"A great national party must be in the position of communication, not excommunication," Chairman Jim Nicholson said Friday shortly before the Republican National Committee rejected a call to make campaign support contingent on a candidate's willingness to endorse a ban on "partial-birth" abortions.

Trying to salvage some political gain from their internal debate, Republicans instead adopted a resolution praising the GOP-controlled Congress for twice approving legislation to ban the procedure.

The outcome, on a vote of 114-43, was a triumph for Nicholson and other party elders who told RNC members that imposing a litmus test on the issue might wind up costing the party its majorities in the House and Senate.

SPEEDY NIEMAN

Hereford Bull

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says the green light is the signal for the driver behind you to start honking his horn.

Don Cumpton was on cloud 9 Friday afternoon. Readers will notice on our front page that Gov. George W. Bush will be the guest speaker at the Chamber Banquet Feb. 20. Cumpton brought us the news release just in time to get a short notice in the paper. He has been working almost a year on signing the governor for this appearance. With the anticipated audience, the chamber has already started making plans to hold the event in the Bull Barn.

Heck of a job, Cumpton!

The newspaper business is not as much fun as it used to be. It seems to me our society is changing. Readers are more easily offended. Some of them seem to be just sitting back, looking for an excuse to cry about their "rights" being violated.

In my first editor's job in Lamesa, I wrote a story about an election-day contest for kids up to 13 years of age. Merchants in town were offering prizes, among them "a box lunch and free pass" to the local drive-in theater. In the printed article, the word "pass" was missing the "p"! I caught a lot of flak, but it was all good natured, and many of my "friends" called to see if the age limit could be changed.

Even the theater manager took the boo-boo in stride, although he was worried that some of the girls working in his concession stand might quit their jobs. When I called to apologize and ask if he wanted a correction printed, he said he would think it over and call back. He bought a donkey and gave it away at the show that night! He was a wise promoter; several weeks later he called to say the typo resulted in a record attendance. He also jokingly posed the question: could you come up with another typo?

In today's society, such an error might be cause for a damage suit. Of course, the changes I'm talking about are not unique with newspapers. The reactions over the Oprah Winfrey trial coming up in Amarillo serves as an example. In recent days, the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and the NCAAP have got involved in the pre-trial publicity. We think it was a dumb decision by some well-intended people. Neither group is involved in the suit.

The Amarillo chamber president issued a memo to the chamber staff that effectively banned any welcome to Oprah or attendance at her show. The flak he caught quickly brought an apology. The chamber is in essence the paid public relations firm for Amarillo. Its mission is to improve business and industry, attract commerce, welcome new people to the community and be a positive force.

And what was the NCAAP thinking about when it jumped into the fray? In all of the controversy about the suit, we've never seen or heard anything mentioned about this being a racial issue. It's a shame for an organization that is supposed to work for less racism is using one man's statement - quickly withdrawn - to suggest that a "Black" chamber of commerce be started. The result would be more division of races, not less.

And, while we criticize these groups for jumping to the wrong decisions, we have been very careful not to write anything that the cattle feeding industry would perceive as being anti-beef. We've always tried to report both sides of a controversy. Frankly, we think Oprah should have freedom of expression, but that expression should be clearly labeled as fact or one person's opinion. However, we didn't see the show in question, and we don't know how the sound bytes were presented. HOW the information was presented may be what the jury has to decide.

At times, we are challenged in this business by some readers who claim "the newspaper got this wrong," when in fact what they mean is that the person who is quoted "got it wrong."

Don't kill the messenger. It makes other messengers wonder if all the hassle is worth taking a chance. It shouldn't be that way, because too much fence-straddling will hurt your credibility.

Without credibility, it doesn't make much difference what you report.

All the jokes going around about "rednecks" may soon surpass those about Aggies.

A reader recently sent us an article on "Redneck Etiquette" that he picked up on E-mail. Since Jeff Foxworthy, the comedian who tells jokes about "You may be a redneck if..." was in Amarillo for a show Friday night, it might be a good time to reprint the jokes. Don't know if they're Foxworthy's or someone else's writing:

- Redneck driving etiquette:
- Never tow another car using panty hose and duct tape.
  - Do not remove seats from a car so that all your kids can fit in.
  - Never lay rubber while traveling in a funeral procession.
- Redneck personal hygiene:
- A toothbrush should never be a hand-me-down item.
  - If you have to vacuum the bed, it's time to change the sheets.
  - While ears need to be cleaned, this is a job that should be done in private, using one's own truck key.
- Entertaining at home:
- A centerpiece for the table should never be anything prepared by a taxidermist.
  - Do not allow the dog to eat at the table, no matter how good his manners.
- Redneck dating:
- Always offer to bait your date's hook, especially on the first date.
- Redneck weddings:
- Livestock is usually a poor choice for a wedding gift.
  - It is not polite for the groom to bring a date to the wedding.

'OPRAH TRIAL'

Case involves more than just beef

I have a beef with the "Oprah" trial. While the attention in the case has been focused on the charge by Amarillo area cattle feeders that television talk show host Oprah Winfrey defamed the cattle industry, I believe an important aspect of what's going on has been largely ignored.

This case is chilling, especially for those who believe in the First Amendment's guarantees of free speech. Our First Amendment rights have been severely eroded in recent years, and this case - and the statute on which it is based - could result in further erosion.

People in the Panhandle have been choosing sides, either pro- or anti-Oprah. Much has been made about the importance of the cattle industry, from ranching to the feedlots to the processing facilities, to the area's economy. That the cattle industry has major impact on the area economy is undisputed, but it should not be above public criticism, as the plaintiffs and their supporters would seem to be implying.

Ms. Winfrey hasn't denied saying vegetarian activist Howard Lyman's statements about "mad cow" disease had "stopped (her) cold from eating another burger." That statement, along with statements by Lyman, a guest on the April 16, 1996 "Dangerous Foods" edition of her talk show, led Amarillo feedlot owner Paul Engler and others to file the suit under a 1995 Texas law that holds people liable for falsely disparaging food products.

The plaintiffs are charging that Winfrey's show caused more than $12 million in losses when cattle prices, which already were falling, plummeted to 10-year lows.

The thing that concerns me is not what Ms. Winfrey said and how it affected the cattle industry. What concerns me is that she expressed her personal opinion and was sued because of it. Under the First Amendment, we all, talk show hosts included, are entitled to our opinions and to express them.

The First Amendment guarantees the freedom of speech even when it is unpopular. That Ms. Winfrey's statement about burgers was unpopular with the cattle industry and its supporters was expected, but she still is entitled to hold that opinion and voice it. I also venture to guess you would find considerable support for her opinion across the nation, even in the Texas Panhandle.

The thing that concerns me most about this lawsuit it what it might encourage. In the last six years, 13 states have enacted these so-called food disparagement laws, and eight more state legislatures have bills pending. While all of the laws vary, they all give food producers an avenue to penalize their critics.

Reflections

Bruce E.H. Johnson, a Seattle media lawyer, has described the laws as "agribusiness political correctness run amok." He also has said the laws blatantly violate the constitutional free speech guarantees.

If this law had been on the books 25-30 years ago, the people trying to warn the public about the dangers of DDT likely would have been hauled into court because at the time the pesticide was considered to be safe. Fortunately, there was no food disparagement law on the books, the dangers of DDT were exposed, and use of this dangerous pesticide was banned.

If the plaintiffs in the Amarillo case prevail, you can be assured that other cases will be filed by other industries who are trying to prevent public debate about their products. I can imagine that Bo Pilgrim of Pilgrim's Pride Corp., whose plans for construction of a new chicken processing plant and expansion of others have been blocked by residents, environmentalists and municipal water district, is watching the Amarillo case closely. It also wouldn't surprise me if Pilgrim, who gained notoriety a few years ago by walking onto the floor of the Legislature to give campaign contributions to some lawmakers he wanted to influence, won't be the next to seek to use the courts to achieve his goals.

This is not a case of being pro- or anti-Oprah, it is a case where the First Amendment is under attack. I believe the cattle industry would have been better served had the feedlot operators taken the attitude of Voltaire:

"I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

Inside Politics

Long break gives edge to Clinton, Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republicans, scattered around the country during the long congressional recess, are laboring over a unified agenda for 1998. Most cite tax reform as their No. 1 priority, but have strong disagreements over what form it should take.

Furthermore, they're in the midst of an intra-party quarrel over abortion restrictions.

And they're without a dominant national spokesman. House Speaker Newt Gingrich continues to battle low public-approval ratings and recover from last year's ethics penalties and challenges to his leadership.

At the same time, the 21/2-month congressional hiatus that ends Jan. 27 has given Democrats and President Clinton a rare chance to mend fences and orchestrate a show of election-year unity.

Over the past few weeks, Clinton has announced one new initiative after another, from expanded child and health care to enlarging the Peace Corps and providing for tougher food inspections.

"He's sort of sitting there minding the store with a remarkably high degree of competency and low-grade activism," said Fred Greenstein, a political scientist at Princeton University. "Republicans are sitting on their hands."

Republicans have countered that Clinton is reverting to "old Democrat" ways, advocating liberal causes and more big government.

"This is simply a case that they're jealous," White House spokesman Mike McCurry countered on Tuesday.

A president normally gets more attention than usual in advance of the annual State of the Union address, scheduled for the day Congress returns. Clinton has further capitalized on this by issuing previews in installments.

He's stressed issues on which Democrats can agree, after last year's contentious battles in which he supported GOP-written tax breaks and an expanded trade agreement opposed by most House Democrats.

That often put him at odds with House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., a 2000 Democratic presidential hopeful. But Clinton and Gephardt have been reading from the same page so far this year.

"There is basic agreement between the president and congressional Democrats," said Democratic pollster Mark Mellman, a Gephardt adviser. "Republicans have no agenda. They have fundamental disagreement on what are supposed to be their core issues."

Gingrich last week sought to define a GOP agenda with a forward-looking speech in Georgia, calling for a budget that stays balanced and yearly tax cuts. But his

The Real World

Chalk one more up for all the anti-fat people and organizations in the world.

I read last week the mother of a 13-year-old, 680-pound girl had been convicted of child abuse and neglect after officials reported the condition of the child's body when she died.

Supposedly the officials weren't distraught over the size of the child or that the child no longer attended school, they were just upset about the neglected, open bedsores, the filth and the food containers. That in itself is bad enough, but why was no one concerned enough to do something about the child's size? Why had this child been allowed to stop attending school?

Surely, someone had known the child had a severe weight problem for years. Why was this child ever allowed to get to such a state that she couldn't even move about under her own power?

I'm sure the reason (though I think officials, lawyers, doctors, and insurance companies would have to be put on the rack to make them admit it) is because she was the "F" word. That's right, the child was fat, and therefore not worth bothering with.

That may sound ridiculous, but think about it for a few minutes. Insurance companies will pay big bucks to help someone kick the habit of alcohol, drugs and tobacco. They'll pay for the aftereffects of heart and kidney disease, as well as the ongoing problems related to diabetes and high blood-pressure.

But, the insurance companies won't even consider paying for someone with a true weight problem to seek medical help before these conditions arise. Why is that?

A skinny person will never know how it feels to have an earache and go to a doctor and be given a copy of the food pyramid and instructions for its use before the doctor even begins to examine the painful ear.

Schools notice when students show signs of substance abuse and make great efforts to prevent such problems, providing trained counselors, prevention programs and on-campus police.

The overweight student, on the other hand, is laughed at in gym class, made to squeeze into sub-tiny desks, and told by the school nurse that a little more exercise and a few less french fries would work wonders.

A few years ago, I had the privilege of interviewing a gentleman who actually wanted to help truly obese people. He understood that overweight people are not comfortable working out with skinny-minnies.

He purchased special oversize equipment, slenderizing mirrors and hired nutritionists and technicians who were trained to work with the truly overweight. He converted an old warehouse into a workout center specifically for the overweight.

Quite a few obese people took advantage of the opportunity. Then one day a young woman (about a size 3) wanted to use the facility. The owner greeted her and explained the special needs of the clients and asked her not to use the facility.

Making a long story short, the skinny minnie filed a discrimination suit and won. The owner of the facility had to close the doors or open it to the public. He chose to close his doors.

I wonder if a fat person would win a lawsuit against a company with public restrooms that are so narrow that a fat person can't turn around in them?

When will the public realize that being fat is more than just not being able to push away from the table? It's more than just not getting enough exercise.

Alcoholism and drug addiction are treated as a disease. Didn't the drunk or the drug-user choose to take that first drink or snort?

It's a bit different with food. It's pretty much a necessity. As a member of the "F-Word Club," I know all the stereotypes, jokes and laughs at our expense. After all, I grew up with a sister who was usually a size 6-8. The few boys I ever went out with would take one look at her and ask, "Does she ever go out with younger guys?"

I grew up knowing that I could do the splits and a backbend that many cheerleaders could never do, but I was still fat.

I also grew up watching my sister eat pans of biscuit and gravy, piles of sausage and pancakes and never gain an ounce, while I lived off Special-K and skimmed milk and gained weight just watching her.

Today, I know all the low-fat guidelines. I feed my family lots of fresh vegetables. I discourage the use of excess fats and sugars. The only snack foods we keep on hand are fruits and vegetables that satisfy the need to crunch. I seldom ever fry anything and I eat only lean beef. (Sorry, Oprah, beef is still what's for supper.)

I've accepted the situation. If I ever lose weight, then so be it, but I still question scientists and researchers: "If you can find genetic reasons for someone to become an alcoholic or a drug addict, when will you look for and find a real answer, with real solutions, for the overweight people of the world?"

SURVEY

Political interest among college freshmen falls to an all-time low

WASHINGTON (AP) - It is not easy peddling politics on a college campus nowadays. Even talking about the issues is a turnoff, according to a nationwide survey of freshmen.

An annual study by the University of California, Los Angeles, for the Washington-based American Council on Education found a record low number of college freshmen showing much interest in politics.

Just 27 percent of the nation's 1.6 million freshmen believed that keeping up with political affairs is a very important life goal, less than half the percentage recorded in 1966. Just 14 percent said they frequently discussed politics, down from 30 percent in 1968.

The researchers also found what they called a disengagement from studies, with a record 36 percent of freshmen saying they had been frequently bored during their senior year in high school. A record number had overslept or missed class or an appointment during that year. The amount of time devoted to homework also fell.

Because the annual survey began in 1966, the benchmark is a period of political ferment. Except for a few blips, the political disengagement has been fairly steady.

Matt Pruitt knows the problem first hand. Pruitt, who is active in the Campus Republicans at the University of Washington in Seattle, said the response was disappointing when the group set up a table at the student union last week.

Pruitt had expected at least 30 people to sign up for information, but scarcely 10 did so. "Hundreds walked by," he said. "I figured they would just sign up and want some information, whether they wanted to be a Republican or not."

"Students are wary of choosing sides," said Dana Gaylin Mathes, president of the Cal Berkeley College Democrats, a group whose phone number nostalgically ends with the digits 1964, the year of free speech sit-ins on campus.

Freshmen and frustrated activists alike point to several reasons: a sense of powerlessness, a lack of burning issues and a desire to shun political labels or even a reluctance to antagonize acquaintances in a new social setting.

RAUM

speech contained few specific legislative proposals or price tags.

Republicans disagree over what form new tax cuts should take, and whether a hoped-for budget surplus should pay for more of them or reduce the national debt - or go to more spending on programs like defense and transportation.

There also is fundamental disagreement over whether to replace the current income tax with either a flat tax or a national sales tax.

Republicans also have been arguing over a proposed party resolution that would deny money to GOP candidates who do not support a ban on a certain type of late-term abortion - the so-called partial-birth abortions. Many congressional Republicans complain it goes too far and could undermine efforts to keep Congress Republican.

Republicans of course have been able to respond to Clinton initiatives via news conferences, prepared statements and various TV appearances. But with Congress out of session, they're without their primary vehicle for addressing presidential initiatives: legislative activity.

Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., reaffirmed on Tuesday that Republicans would push for a tax cut, although he didn't say whether they should

"At the age I am now, it doesn't seem that important," said Jessica Grace Evans, 18, a freshman at the University of Nebraska. "I don't think our opinion matters in the grand scale of things."

Mathes says some of the complacency reflects contentment in the larger society. After all, fewer than half the eligible voters cast ballots in the 1996 presidential election, the lowest percentage since 1924.

But cynicism and a lack of younger politicians has alienated many as well. Even President Clinton, who made direct appeals to the MTV crowd, is the father of a freshman. Chelsea Clinton's peers around the country don't like political pigeonholes.

"I think sometimes people are afraid of the label," said Pruitt, who describes himself as a moderate with libertarian leanings. "It's either the liberal Democratic Party or the conservative Republican Party, and students aren't really interested in one or the other."

The survey of 252,082 new students at 464 schools, in fact, found 55 percent identifying themselves as middle of the road - the highest in a decade.

UCLA freshman Corinne LeToumeau, 18, has another view. She said the campus is a melting pot of people with different backgrounds and cultures, requiring extreme sensitivity, and that may be why people submerge their views.

Politics "is a touchy subject," she said. "You don't want to touch on someone's nerves when you've just met these people."

Freshmen also are adjusting to a new life and are cut off from their usual sources of information. "You are isolated from a lot more news media," LeToumeau said. "You're not going home clicking on the TV by yourself as much. You're not by yourself as much to just sit and concentrate on what occurred."

As for apathy about high school studies, the freshmen offered plenty of reasons, mostly falling into the category of "senioritis."

"It was hard to focus, because you're so excited to be going to college," said Evans, the Nebraska freshman.

Brian W. Thompson, a 19-year-old in his first year at the University of North Carolina, said high school courses ceased to be challenging.

"I think high schools don't keep up with most of the students that go to college," said the history and political science major.

also try to balance the budget this year - as Clinton has proposed.

"I think we need to get here and talk to each other and find out what the numbers are going to be," he said.

Lott, in an interview, also said Clinton's recent actions were "undermining the prospects" for legislation to ratify a proposed national tobacco settlement. Clinton wants to use revenue from the settlement to help pay for some of his politically appealing initiatives.

Clinton's ability to grab attention is a built-in liability for Republicans, claims veteran GOP strategist Charles Black.

"If you don't have the White House, the president no matter who he is or what party always has the forum to make news and dictate the agenda," Black said. He predicted that would change once Congress returns. "Clinton can drive the agenda by talk; Republicans can drive it by action."

Still, this recess, which began in mid-November, has been one of the longest in years.

And until it ends, "the president is dictating the debate and the Republicans are not in the game," said Stuart Rothenberg, an analyst who publishes a political newsletter.

Tom Raum covers politics and national affairs for The Associated Press.

What is an expert?

NEW YORK (AP) - This is what some of the "experts" have been up (down) to:

- Most mutual fund managers failed to beat the popular averages last year.

- After worrying all year long about inflation that never came, Alan Greenspan, the Federal Reserve chairman and the nation's most powerful monetary official, has been expressing concern about deflation, which is the precise opposite.

- The Congressional Budget Office, which overestimated last year's deficit by more than $100 billion, has extended its line of sight to the year 2001 when, it says, we could very well have a budget in balance.

- The big-name doomsayers of the market changed their tune again last year. Nothing new in that; "experts" do it all the time. But some of these switches were particularly noteworthy.

- Elaine Garzarelli said to sell all stocks and several months later forecast 8900 on the Dow Jones industrial average. After more than a decade as a bear, Joseph Granville became a bull and said the Dow would soar to more than 12,000 points.

- Bob Prechter could not be lured by the bull market. He remained a bear, as he has been since 1987. During this time the greatest bull market of all occurred.

- For the second time in a row, Wall Street Journal staffers throwing darts beat a team of four investment professionals in choosing stocks for performance during the latter half of 1997.

So, what is an expert and who qualifies as such, at least in money matters, where a premium is placed on insight into the future? The question has significance, because small investors increasingly rely on "experts" rather than doing their own thinking.

The dictionary is of no help whatever, since it adheres to a strict academic view that an expert is a person having special skill or knowledge derived from training or experience. But fitting the description doesn't make one a prudent forecaster.

And such people hardly qualify as expert under Nicholas Murray Butler's oft-cited definition of an expert as one who knows more and more about less and less.

Perhaps an expert is one in whom a large bank entrusts responsibility for an eight-figure loan or investment portfolio. For sure, no bank would ever do that without checking out not only the individual's past and present but potential as well.

But just a minute. Aren't these the people who made those terrible third-world loans that forced up domestic interest rates in the 1970s? And who gave us the great savings and loan fiasco? And who stand to lose their shirts in the Far East?

And who send out 2 billion credit-card solicitations a year. And who see no danger in $600 billion or so of outstanding credit-card debt while some of them write off 8 percent of all their credit-card loans. That hardly sounds like expertise.

And yet, even as they prove the opposite, the tag is applied to those who deal in money more so than to people in almost any other area of endeavor, and they are honored, acclaimed and paid five-figure lecture sums to disclose their insights.

Money expertise, like money itself, is earned over the years. Take Warren Buffet. Now there's an expert.

"Donny did not believe the costumes in that scene would fly with Utah audiences," an unidentified source told the newspaper.

When the show opened here Monday at the University of Utah, the costumes used in performances elsewhere were replaced with black vests.

Ali arrived in Morocco earlier this week for Ramadan, the Muslim holy month.

IN BRIEF

Three names on list
IRVING (AP) -- After searching high and low for a new head coach, Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones has narrowed it down to three candidates. But Jones won't reveal the names on his short list.

He has said he won't find a replacement for Barry Switzer until after the Super Bowl Jan. 25.

The perceived front-runners are Denver Broncos offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak, former San Francisco 49ers head coach George Seifert and Louisiana State coach Gerry DiNardo.

Charges postponed
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) -- Charles Barkley won't have to face trial on charges that he threw a man through a bar window until after the basketball season.

Orange County Judge C. Jeffrey Arnold on Friday delayed Barkley's misdemeanor trial until July to accommodate the athlete's playing schedule. The Orlando Sentinel reported.

The Houston Rockets player is accused of throwing Jorge Lugo into a mirror during an October confrontation at a bar.

Barkley, 34, faces charges of disorderly conduct, battery, criminal mischief and resisting arrest without violence.

Lugo, 20, is charged with misdemeanor disorderly conduct.

Esiason to join MNF
CINCINNATI (AP) -- Boomer Esiason will be talking football instead of playing it.

Esiason informed the Cincinnati Bengals on Friday that he will accept an offer to join the Monday Night Football broadcast crew, ending his playing career. Esiason evidently will replace Frank Gifford, who is being shifted to a pregame show.

The 36-year-old quarterback replaced Jeff Blake two months ago and led Cincinnati to a 4-1 finish. The Bengals wanted him back as their starter, but he chose to start his broadcasting career rather than prolong his football career.

Herd fends off Canyon, 53-49

By BOB VARMETTE
Sports Writer
CANYON -- Friday night showed why two halves of basketball are played.

After the first half of the District 1-4A matchup between Hereford and Canyon, it looked like the Whitefaces were on a roll, having come off a 20-point rout of Canyon Randall three nights previous.

But that's why they play the second half.

The Eagles made a game of it in the final two quarters, pushing Hereford till the end, before the Whitefaces held on for a 53-49 win in front of 1,400 at Canyon High School Gymnasium.

"The game got real physical the second half," Hereford head coach

Randy Dean said. "It turned into a real hard game to play. . . . They (Canyon) really got aggressive. For the most part, I thought we did a nice job of keeping our composure. We made enough free throws, to keep them at arms length anyway."

Free throws have been a sore spot of late for the Whitefaces. For the game, the Whitefaces went 13-for-22 from the line. And down the stretch Hereford missed opportunities to end the Eagles' rally.

"We could've buried them and went ahead and put the game away," Dean said. "It's hard to get that emotionally charged and that intense and then step to the free throw line and totally compose yourself to make a 15-footer."

But getting back to the Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde performances of both teams, Dean credited the Eagles for making the second half a much more physical half of basketball.

Lady Eagles soar, 56-35

By BOB VARMETTE
Sports Writer
CANYON -- It was supposed to be a battle for District 1-4A supremacy.

As it turned out, it wasn't much of a battle at all.

The No. 1 Canyon Lady Eagles showed just how much of a gulf there is between the top-ranked and third-ranked teams in Class 4A, thumping the Hereford Lady Whitefaces 56-35 Friday night in front of 800 at Canyon High School Gymnasium.

"Our kids played really well tonight," Canyon head coach Joe Lombard said. "Hereford had a situation where they had two tough ballgames the same week, and it takes a lot out of kids."

The Lady Eagles sprinted to an 8-0 lead on Hereford and never really looked back on the cold-shooting Lady Whitefaces. Hereford shot only 13-for-39 from the field for the game.

"I think we panicked," Hereford head coach Eddie Fortenberry said. "We shot a lot of 3s we shouldn't have been."

Hereford (21-3 overall, 5-2 District 1-4A) got only one player in double figures -- Julie Rampley with 13 points. Catie Betzen added six points, but was almost ice-cold from the field, going 3-for-10 from the field and 0-for-3 from beyond the 3-point line.

Jolee Ayers, a 6-1 sophomore, led Canyon (19-1, 6-1) with 18 points, hitting 8-for-10 from the field. And most of those points came on the inside.

(HEREFORD 21-3, 5-2): Baker 0-0 0-0 0, Guzman 2-2 0-0 4, Betzen 3-10 0-0 6, Rampley 4-10 5-13, Davis 1-7 0-2 3, Fives 2-6 0-0 5, Walker 1-4 2-2 4, Fangman 0-0 0-0. Totals 13-39 7-10 35.

(CANYON 19-1, 6-1): White 4-8 1-3 9, Moore 0-1 0-1 0, Sherrod 1-4 2-3 5, Lombard 6-11 0-0 13, Trosper 0-0 0-0, Weatherly 0-1 0-1 0, Ayers 8-10 2-2 18, Thiel 3-5 0-0 6, Morris 0-0 0-0 0, Moore 2-2 0-0 5. Totals 24-42 6-8 56.

Halftime--Canyon 29, Hereford 18. 3-Point goals--Hereford 2-12 (Davis 1-4, Fives 1-3, Betzen 0-3, Rampley 0-2), Canyon 3-5 (Sherrod 1-1, Lombard 1-1, Moore 1-1, Moore 0-1, Weatherly 0-1). Fouled out--None. Rebounds--Hereford 18 (Rampley 8), Canyon 28 (Thiel 6). Total fouls--Hereford 12, Canyon 11. Turnovers--Hereford 12, Canyon 13. A--800 est.

"She's come a long way," Lombard said. "She played well offensively and did a good job on the boards, too. We're starting to expect that from Jolee."

Lindy Lombard added 13 points for the Lady Eagles.

All night long, the Lady Eagles used their size advantage over the Lady Whitefaces, continually hurting Hereford inside.

"We definitely like to go inside," Lombard said. "We don't always dominate. We have a couple of young post players, and I think we're still getting better because they continue to improve."

And the Lady Whitefaces seemed powerless to stop the inside onslaught.

"We can't physically, sometimes, match up with Canyon," Fortenberry said. "That's pretty obvious by watching what they can do to us inside. We can't grow a 6-1 post

Green Bay's Bennett watches as Levens has big year

By ARNIE STAPLETON
AP Sports Writer
GREEN BAY, Wis. -- Edgar Bennett shared the Green Bay Packers' rushing job with Dorsey Levens last year. Now, he's living vicariously through him.

"I'm sharing what he's accomplishing," said Bennett, who tore an Achilles' tendon during the preseason and watched helplessly as Levens had a big year and led the Packers back to the Super Bowl.

After starting all 95 games for the Packers since being drafted in 1992, Bennett was known as "Mr. Durability."

But on a simple handoff from quarterback Brett Favre in the exhibition opener against Miami July 26, Bennett romped 18 yards off right tackle before being dragged down.

He couldn't get up, and suddenly, his season was over.

Sometime during that run, Bennett felt like somebody had kicked the back of his left ankle. When trainer Pepper Burruss heard that, "he started giving me that dead man walking look," Bennett said.

"E.B., I think you tore your Achilles," Burruss told Bennett, the Packers' leading rusher for the previous three seasons.

"OK," Bennett replied. "How many weeks am I going to be out?"

"Weeks? You're going to miss the entire year."

Suddenly, the tailback tandem that had led the Packers to their first Super Bowl title in 29 seasons was a one-man show.

Coach Mike Holmgren told Levens to train harder than ever because he was going to get a bunch of carries.

Levens went up to Bennett and told him "You're putting a lot of pressure on me. I wasn't prepared for this."

"I just told him, 'It's all you now,'" Bennett said. "You got to carry the load. You got to get us back into the Super Bowl."

T'Wolves edge past Houston, 116-115

HOUSTON (AP) -- A little eavesdropping helped the Minnesota Timberwolves go four games over .500 for the first time in club history.

Tom Gugliotta scored 33 points, including a five-footer off an alley-oop inbounds pass with less than a second left in overtime, as the Timberwolves beat the Houston Rockets 116-115 Friday night.

"It was supposed to be a baseline screen, but we heard them talking about switching," Gugliotta said.

"Coach (Flip) Saunders said to just throw it up at the rim. We just changed the play after we heard them talking about switching."

The victory extended Minnesota's winning streak to four games, tying a club record, and put the Timberwolves (20-16) four games over .500 for the first time ever.

They were well-rehearsed for the game-winning play.

"We worked on that play yesterday," Saunders said. "Right before we went out, I told Kevin (Garnett) if it looks like they're going to switch, just throw it up over the top."

That's what happened and Gugliotta was there to make the play.

Technicals--Minnesota illegal defense, Houston illegal defense. A--16,285 (16,285).

"A lot of people talk about Gugliotta and how he's playing," Saunders said. "He had 33 points, 13 rebounds and no turnovers. It was an All-Star performance."

The Timberwolves called a timeout with 1.7 seconds left in overtime after Charles Barkley rebounded a miss by Eddie Johnson and put it back in for a 115-114 Houston lead.

Spurs sting Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) -- Rookie Tim Duncan celebrated his return to North Carolina with a 21-point, 13-rebound performance that propelled the San Antonio Spurs to a 76-71 victory over the Charlotte Hornets Friday night.

An All-American at Wake Forest -- 70 miles up the road in Winston-Salem -- Duncan led the Spurs (26-12) to their fourth straight victory and 16th in their last 18 games.

Charlotte fans greeted Duncan with a rousing ovation during player introductions.

"It was a lot of fun being back here, just having a lot of people I knew, a lot of friends out here," said Duncan, who finished his four-year career at Wake in 1997. "To go out and have a response like that in the beginning, and knowing that I have people here that I want to play well in front of, it was real special."

Avery Johnson added 16 points, and Jaren Jackson and Will Perdue had 13 each for the Spurs (26-12), who won their fourth straight and 16th in their last 18.

NBA ROUNDUP

Trail Blazers 96, Jazz 96
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) -- Isaiah Rider, pulled from Portland's starting lineup for being late to practice, scored 22 points in the second half Friday night as the Trail Blazers snapped a five-game losing streak by beating Utah 96-86.

Utah, which has lost all three of its games with Portland this season, had its seven-game winning streak snapped. The Jazz hadn't lost since the Blazers beat them in Salt Lake City 102-91 on Dec. 27.

Rider finished with 28 points, shooting 8-for-11 in the second half. Rasheed Wallace and Arvydas Sabonis scored 14 apiece and Gary Trent had 12 points and 11 rebounds for Portland.

Karl Malone had 23 points and 15 rebounds for the Jazz. Jeff Hornacek added 16 points, while Antonio Carr scored 12 and Bryon Russell 11.

Cavaliers 99, Nuggets 74
DENVER (AP) -- Wesley Person scored 20 points and Shawn Kemp had 19 points and 11 rebounds Friday night as the Cleveland Cavaliers coasted to a 99-74 victory over Denver, handing the Nuggets their 19th straight loss.

Cedric Henderson added 15 points and Zydrunas Ilgauskas had 10 points and 11 rebounds for Cleveland.

After leading by five at halftime, the Cavs built an 18-point lead, 70-52, by the end of the third quarter.

Denver, which shot only 35 percent from the field, never drew any closer in the fourth period as the Cavs were going ahead by as many as 27.

Rookie Bobby Jackson scored a career-high 28 points and LaPhonso Ellis added 16 for the Nuggets.

Bulls 96, Bucks 86
MILWAUKEE (AP) -- Michael Jordan scored 27 points and Scottie Pippen added 21 Friday night to lead the Chicago Bulls to their 11th straight victory over the Milwaukee Bucks, 96-86.

Jordan had 10 points in the fourth, including eight down the stretch to keep the Bulls comfortably ahead.

Ray Allen led the Bucks with 27 points, including a club record seven 3-pointers. Terrell Brandon had 21 and Glenn Robinson added 20, although only eight came in the second half.

Suns 111, Magic 86
PHOENIX (AP) -- Danny Manning had 23 points and Steve Nash came off the bench to score 12 of his 16 in the decisive second period as the Phoenix Suns rolled to a 111-86 win over the Orlando Magic on Friday night.

Cliff Robinson finished with 17 points and three of his team's 11 steals as the Suns ended a two-game losing streak.

Rony Seikaly scored 20 points to pace Orlando, which lost its second straight game and seventh in the last 10. Horace Grant added 14 points for the Magic.

Orlando led 17-11 before the Suns closed out the first quarter with an 18-8 run. Manning scored six straight points in the spurt on tap-in and two jumpers. Phoenix, ahead 60-43 at halftime and 85-58 after the third period, led by as many as 37 in the final quarter en route to its most lopsided win of the season.

Hawks 102, Warriors 89
ATLANTA (AP) -- Christian Laettner scored 23 points and Steve Smith added 20 Friday night to help Atlanta to a 102-89 victory over Golden State, the Hawks' sixth consecutive victory.

Laettner added seven rebounds and was 11-for-11 from the free throw line. Smith had his eighth straight game with at least 20 points. He has averaged 25.6 points during that period.

Erick Dampier scored a career-high 20 points for the Warriors.

Golden State has failed to score 100 points in 14 consecutive games.

After the Warriors tied the score at 17, Smith followed with a tip-in for a 19-17 lead and the Hawks never trailed from that point.

Atlanta's Alan Henderson and Chucky Brown each scored eight points off the bench in the second period as the Hawks outscored the Warriors 29-15 for a 50-34 halftime lead.

Golden State never got closer than 13 points in the second half.

Pacers 117, Kings 92
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -- The Indiana Pacers didn't even need Reggie Miller to record their highest point total of the season.

Reserve Jalen Rose scored a career-high 23 points and Rik Smits had 20 as Indiana defeated Sacramento 117-92 Friday night.

Miller, plagued by fouls early and not needed with his team firmly in command, scored only nine.

Mitch Richmond topped the Kings with 24 and sat out much of the second half with the outcome already determined.

Chris Mullin scored 15 for Indiana and Derek McKey came off the bench to score a season-high 14. The Pacers shot 58 percent for the game.

Corliss Williamson had 15 for Sacramento.

Wizards 112, Grizzlies 110
WASHINGTON (AP) -- Chris Webber blocked Blue Edwards' layup attempt at the buzzer and the Washington Wizards rallied from a 13-point, fourth-quarter deficit to defeat the Vancouver Grizzlies 112-110 Friday night.

Calbert Cheaney hit a running shot with 44 seconds left to put Washington up by two. After Edwards missed on the Grizzlies next possession, he made a steal at the other end and drove the court hesitantly, unsure whether to call a timeout. Eventually, he went into the lane and his shot blocked by Webber.

The Grizzlies lost Friday night even though they set team records for most points in a quarter (40), most field goals in a quarter (18) and most points in a first half (72).

Juan Howard scored 25 points, Webber had 24, and Rod Strickland and Tracy Murray each had 23.

Robinson returns to form

By KELLEY SHANNON
 AP Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO -- David Robinson always said he would overcome his injuries and return to form this season.

Now he's backing up words with action.

After missing all but six games with back and foot problems last season, Robinson once again is compiling standout statistics and leading the San Antonio Spurs to victory.

At a time when several other star centers are sidelined or struggling with injuries, Robinson is shining.

"As far as the game coming to me, you don't sit a year and come back like everything's OK," Robinson said recently. Then he added, "I'm a little bit smoother than I was."

Robinson is averaging 23 points per game and is fourth on the NBA scoring list. He is averaging more than 11 rebounds -- fifth in the league.

"This hasn't been a surprise because I watched David work out for 3 1/2 hours a day all summer long," said Spurs coach Gregg Popovich.

"It is a result of his dedication to hard work. He's getting exactly what he deserves. He's having a fabulous year," said Popovich, whose Spurs have been battling Utah for the lead in the Midwest Division.

It was such a different story last season. San Antonio finished with a franchise-worst 20-62 record as Robinson mostly watched from the bench while suffering with a lower back strain and a fractured left foot.

The foot healed sooner than the back, and skeptics wondered whether Robinson, at age 32, could ever be the player he once was.

"At this point I can say my back is 100 percent. It's been tested," Robinson said after a recent Spurs victory in the Alamodome. "There's been a lot of banging early on and it's held up."

It helps that Robinson's supporting cast has been strengthened by Tim Duncan, the 7-foot top draft pick from Wake Forest who plays forward alongside Robinson at center.

Both players have caught fans' attention in NBA All-Star balloting. As of Thursday, Robinson led Shaquille O'Neal and Hakeem Olajuwon in voting for centers in the Western Conference. Duncan was third behind Karl Malone and Kevin Garnett among forwards.

Last year was the only time in his NBA career that Robinson didn't make the All-Star team.

Robinson entered the league in the 1989-90 season. He was the top draft pick in 1987 but had two years left in his Navy commitment before he could play professional basketball. His first year in the NBA, Robinson led the Spurs to the best single-season turnaround in league history and was the unanimous selection for Rookie of the Year.

He was NBA Defensive Player of the Year in 1991-92 and was Most Valuable Player in 1994-95, the same year San Antonio had the league's best regular-season record and advanced to the Western Conference Finals.

After a rocky start this season, it appears San Antonio is resuming the winning style to which Robinson had become accustomed.

The Spurs curbed an early season losing streak, turning things around after a humiliating blowout loss to Houston on Dec. 9.

A key to the improvement, said Robinson and his teammates, was a renewed emphasis on defense.

So these days Robinson stresses all his skills, not just scoring. And he sounds a lot like the David Robinson who talked up rebounding and shot-blocking when he entered the league nine years and six coaches ago.

"I have been shooting the ball well," he said. "But there's more to it than shooting the ball well."

BERMUDA DUNES, Calif. (AP) -- Andrew Magee, playing virtually mistake-free golf, shot a 64 Friday to open a four-stroke lead in the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic.

Magee's 8-under-par round put him at 21-under, a record for the first three days of the 90-hole tournament.

Stewart Cink, the PGA's 1997 rookie of the year, and Mark O'Meara were tied for second at 17-under.

Matt Geiger tied his season high with 22 points to go along with 13 rebounds for Charlotte (22-16), which lost its third straight. David Wesley added 15 points and Glen Rice 11.

Rice, who shot 4-of-17 from the floor, is 12-of-49 in his last three games.

"I just have to go back to the drawing board," said Rice. "My legs are a little tired from the weight room. It's disappointing, because I didn't help the team at all. I definitely have to put up a better performance than the last few games."

Garnett, Gugliotta leaped, grabbed the pass in the air and shot falling away from the basket. The ball went through the basket with five-tenths of a second remaining.

"I wasn't surprised that I was open," Gugliotta said. "When we heard them say switch, I knew my man wasn't going to be on me. He was waiting for someone to pick me up."

Gugliotta also had three-point play that gave the Timberwolves a 114-113 lead with 27 seconds left.

The victory prevented Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich from getting 300th career victory.

Barkley led the Rockets with 29 points and Willis finished with 27 points and 13 rebounds.

ness," he said. "I thought that really turned things around. They were really able to attack the offensive board, and of course they're bigger than we are. Whenever they were able to go crash like that it took away a little bit of what we were able to do in the first half."

"You've got to give Canyon a lot of credit for battling back and not going quietly in the second half," Dean added. "They really came back at us and they played a lot of good defense in the second half, too."

Cody Hodges led Hereford (10-11 overall, 4-1 District 1-4A) with a game-high 26 points. Hodges got 14 points in the first half, hitting 6-for-8 from the field, including 2-for-3 from 3-point range.

The Eagles didn't shut down Hodges in the second half, but they didn't allow him the number of shots he had in the first half. In the final two quarters, Hodges was 3-for-4 from the field, picking up another four points on nine attempts at the free throw line.

"They put a chaser on him, and really tried to make him work to even put the ball in his hands," Dean said. "That took away some of the outside looks he got in the first half."

Hodges, picking up more than half the Whitefaces' points was the only Hereford player to score in double figures. Hodges also led Hereford with six rebounds.

Kyle Joy led Canyon (8-14, 2-3) with 15 points.

player overnight."

After scoring the first eight points of the game, Canyon cruised to a 17-10 margin at the end of the first quarter, helped in part by Hereford going 0-for-5 from 3-point range in the opening quarter. The Lady Whitefaces shot only 2-for-12 from beyond the arc for the entire game.

Hereford was able to slow the onslaught somewhat in the second quarter, but was still being hurt inside by Ayers and freshman T'nae Thiel. By half, Ayers already had 12 points and four rebounds, Thiel four points and seven rebounds.

The third quarter saw the Canyon lead only expand by one as they outscored Hereford 10-9 in the third. Fortenberry thought the Lady Whitefaces settled down a little in the middle quarters.

"We told them to settle down and take better shots," he said. "I think that was the key there."

But the final quarter may have been a more true indication how the game was actually played. Canyon again went to the inside, and at one

Bennett

Not only did Levens do that, but he emerged as one of the premiere rushers in the NFL, one who is expected to command a more than $3 million salary for next season.

Levens' agent, Hadley Engelhard, told the Packers they wouldn't negotiate until after free agency begins in February because they want to see what the market will offer. The Packers insist re-signing Levens is their top offseason priority.

Which leaves Bennett's future cloudy. He also becomes an unrestricted free agent next month.

He still wants to be a featured back, but realizes that there might not be room for him and Levens anymore. "That would be one expensive backfield," he said.

Right now, he's trying to get through the pain of having to watch his teammates play in the Super Bowl without him.

He insists he was glad to see Levens become the NFC's second-leading rusher with 1,435 yards and a Pro Bowl selection.

The Eagles slowly worked their way back into the game in the third quarter. They cut the Hereford lead to seven with less than two minutes to play in the third quarter at 45-38 after a 7-4 run.

The Hereford margin remained at risk until late in the fourth quarter when the Eagles were forced to foul. Joy hit a 3-pointer from the right wing just before the horn to make the final margin four points.

"We just kind of got out of synch a little bit," Dean admitted. "We started trying to force some things off the dribble. We started the game that way -- trying to do too much off the dribble."

"We got into a good groove," Dean continued, "and we executed on offense and got some great looks at the basket and stretched the lead. In the second half, when things got a little heated, we kind of fell back in that mode of putting it on the floor and trying to do everything individually..."

With the Whitefaces' win, and Randall in non-district action Friday night, Hereford now owns a share of the district lead at 4-1.

Dean said, however, it's too early to be thinking about the tiebreaker, which the Whitefaces own over Randall by virtue of their 64-44 pasting of the Raiders Tuesday night.

"We cannot afford to let our guard down," he said. "One loss and all of sudden there's a whole bunch of people right back on our heels."

point took a 23-point lead at 50-27 with 3:26 left in the game.

Canyon has now beaten Hereford twice decisively. But Lombard said too much shouldn't be read into that fact.

"Maybe we just match up with Hereford just like Hereford seems to match up with Randall," Lombard said. "We definitely played better against Hereford than we did against Randall, and whether that's the way the teams match up, or whether that's just the way the ball fell in the hole for us that night, I don't know."

"Our kids played well," Lombard said. "But this is just another game in this crazy district. ... It's good in this district that we've got good teams that can really challenge each other night in and night out."

Lombard won't get any argument from Fortenberry on that point.

"We're going to be OK," Fortenberry said. "This is still a good basketball team. This is not any indication of how good we are or how bad we are. ... We still have a lot to play for."

After Levens ran roughshod over the Dallas Cowboys for a team record 190 yards Nov. 23, he and Bennett embraced in the locker room.

Bennett was surprised to hear observers say they were taken aback by the gesture.

"Nothing against you, but the media tried to create the situation where we were arch rivals," Bennett said. "It's like everything has to be negative. It can't be two guys rooting for each other."

But wasn't it cut-throat competition?

"Yeah, but that's good," Bennett said. "Competition is good. We got to have competition. It makes you better."

Without Bennett, the Packers went to an 1-formation to take advantage of Levens' strength and he responded by getting within 39 yards of Jim Taylor's season rushing record, then twice broke the Packers' playoff record with 112 and 114 rushing yards.

Shurmur enjoys solving problems

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) -- Fritz Shurmur, a coach for 43 of his 65 years, thinks of new ways to stop the men with the football every single day.

That's a lot of brain power. "Some of the greatest joys in my life are thinking through things and solving problems," the Green Bay Packers defensive coordinator said.

"It's intriguing to take the group of men you coach and try to find ways to put them in the best possible position to be successful. Sometimes, that involves combinations of personnel and defenses that have probably never been played before."

Shurmur, who unleashed his latest wizardry in San Francisco last Sunday when the Packers used a variety of schemes, formations and blitz packages to strangle the 49ers, learned the necessity of innovation as a young boy.

Leonard Fritz Shurmur grew up in a small frame home in Wyandotte, Mich., a hard-hit industrial suburb of Detroit where his father worked in a factory for 49 years.

Shurmur's parents twice refinanced the family home so their two sons could go to Albion College, where Fritz earned conference MVP honors at center his senior year.

Growing up in the throes of the Great Depression, young Shurmur learned his first big lesson in life: "Make do with what you have."

Shurmur started out as an assistant coach at his alma mater in 1954. In 1962, Shurmur and his wife, Peggy, moved to the University of Wyoming, where he would serve as an assistant until 1971 and as head coach for three years after that.

But he really drew attention for his work with five NFL teams, marking him as one of the most innovative minds the league has known.

Last summer, Shurmur became a senior citizen and he celebrated his birthday -- where else? -- on the football field, preparing for his 18th season as a defensive coordinator.

"I've had one of those interesting careers where I at one time was too young for a head coaching job and then I was too old," Shurmur said. "And I don't know what the hell happened to those years that were just right."

He spent them making do with what he had.

When his Rams were beset by injuries in 1989, Shurmur used linebackers as down linemen and the team reached the NFC title game.

In 1990 in Phoenix, Shurmur lost two linebackers and developed his "Big Nickel" alignment with five defensive backs.

When he arrived in Green Bay in 1994, he left Ray Rhodes' scheme intact, but tinkered with it until he had the stingiest defense in the league.

Shurmur, who helped raise two daughters and a son -- a teacher, a cardiologist and a writer -- has written four books on football. But the philosophy he's molded as a career assistant is simple: "Eliminate the big play completely: runs over 10 yards and throws over 25. Play the percentages and you should get turnovers."

Thanks to Shurmur's innovations, the Packers are the first team in the league to allow fewer than 100 yards rushing and 300 yards overall in five consecutive playoff games.

"I would like to think I've spent my life having a really positive effect on humankind," Shurmur said. "I haven't."

"My son fixes hearts. My God, how much more important can that be?"

Ryan may buy TL franchise

AUSTIN (AP) -- Major-league strikeout king Nolan Ryan may be headed for a new job in baseball -- team owner.

A private group headed by Ryan and his son Reid are trying to acquire the rights to a Texas League franchise that would be moved to Central Texas, the Austin American-Statesman reported Friday.

The Ryans would not say Thursday whether they are negotiating with any particular team in the eight-team league, but the Class AA franchises in Jackson, Miss., and Wichita, Kan., have had attendance problems, and their leases expire in the next two years. Jackson is affiliated with the Houston Astros, one of Ryan's former teams. Wichita is part of the Kansas City Royals organization.

The Ryans say any purchase of a minor-league team would be contingent upon relocating the team in Central Texas, likely Austin or suburban Round Rock, and playing in a publicly financed stadium. They hope to make the move by 2000.

The Ryans said they would not be interested in playing at a temporary ballpark such as UT's Disch-Falk Field.

Science, statistics, politics: volatile mix

WASHINGTON (AP) - When science and statistics collide with politics, the safe bet is on the politicians.

Republicans aren't going to relent in their opposition to the use of statistical sampling techniques to count otherwise missing Americans in the 2000 census.

President Clinton will challenge them on it in his State of the Union address a week from Tuesday, as he did before with a veto.

But he has a two-front struggle now: An opening is coming at the head of the Census Bureau, where he'll need confirmation in the GOP Senate for a new director.

His nominee is sure to be someone who supports the use of sampling along with old-fashioned head counting in the census, and that will stir Republican opposition to confirmation.

At issue is a system endorsed in a study of the last census by the National Academy of Sciences, to use statistical sampling to account for up to 10 percent of the population. Statisticians, academics, the Census Bureau and the president all favor that course, as a way to get a more accurate count than in 1990.

That census missed an estimated 4 million Americans, mostly lower-income city dwellers and minorities. All are likely Democratic voters.

The decennial census is the basis for congressional reapportionment and for allocation of about $150 billion in federal aid. The one in 1990 prompted court challenges that weren't settled until the Supreme Court upheld the count six years later.

That led to the sampling plan now under the Republican gun. Opponents contend the use of sampling risks rigging of the numbers and say the census should be in strict keeping with the Constitution, which specifies enumeration of the population every 10th year.

Republican congressional leaders urged last spring that the sampling plan be scrapped and tried to enforce their position by tying a provision against it to a disaster relief bill. Clinton vetoed it. They had to back down then but kept trying. The issue finally was temporarily shelved with a compromise that cleared appropriations for the census and authorized two test runs, one with sampling and one without. There's also to be a new monitoring board and an expedited Supreme Court review of the dispute.

Census Director Martha Farnsworth Riche was in the middle of it all, advocating sampling as the way to produce an accurate and economical count in 2000.

She's resigned, effective at the end of the month, yielding to her deputy until Clinton chooses a successor. It's prompted even GOP critics of her census blueprint to worry about the impact on preparations for the millennial count.

The White House said finding a new director will be a high priority and praised Riche's design for 2000. "They've incorporated many modern technologies ... to capture aspects of a society that is increasingly dynamic and mobile and sometimes hard to count," press secretary Mike McCurry said.

One of them is sampling, in which the census would conduct the traditional head count, then use statistical techniques to determine the number and characteristics of people it can't reach directly, based on those it can count personally.

Given the polling that guides political campaigns now, that is hardly uncharted territory. The Census Bureau uses sampling techniques to produce the mountain of between-count estimates and findings about the population, but that data doesn't affect Congress or federal dollars.

Sampling could give Democrats an advantage because the people most likely missed are most likely their constituents.

At the same time, the 2000 census will shift some of the 435 House seats from the Northeast and industrial Midwest toward the South and West, Republican territory.

It's the next step that could cost the GOP, as states redistrict their House seats to reflect population shifts. With sampling factored in, this could create more Democratic-leaning districts.

In dealing with appropriations, in court and in confirmation of a new census boss, the Republicans will press their case against sampling. Since preparing for the census is a long-term exercise, the longer it takes to settle the dispute, the more likely that they'll get it done their way.

Agents arrest 10 in credit card ring

ATLANTA (AP) - Federal agents have arrested 10 members of a ring suspected of stealing credit card numbers and using them to make hundreds of thousands of dollars in purchases.

Warrants have been issued for three others, including a Georgia prison inmate who continued to get stolen numbers by telephone from behind bars, said Jeffrey Lear, an investigator with the U.S. Federal Protective Services.

The suspected ringleader, Claude Benjamin Jenkins, 32, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was arrested last week in the Dunwoody area north of Atlanta, Lear said Friday.

McDougal's conviction upheld

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - A federal appeals court on Friday upheld the Whitewater conviction of James McDougal, saying President Clinton's ex-business partner failed to show that a nine-year delay in his prosecution hampered his defense.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis also rejected McDougal's claim that he was the victim of double jeopardy. Charges of which he was acquitted in 1990 were substantially different from those raised at his 1996 trial, a three-judge panel said.

McDougal, a partner in the Whitewater land development with the president and Hillary Rodham Clinton, is serving a three-year sentence in a Fort Worth, Texas, federal prison. He won a reduced sentence - he faced more than 84 years in prison - after pledging to cooperate with prosecutors.

Appeals by his co-defendants are still before the 8th Circuit. McDougal's ex-wife, Susan, was sentenced to two years in prison, but has been jailed on a contempt citation after refusing to testify before a special grand jury. Ex-Gov. Jim Guy Tucker was sentenced to 18 months' home detention.

If you've been treated for lower back problem and the pain and discomfort are still there, you may be able to benefit from chiropractic treatment.

If your spine is out of alignment, this may be causing other problems in addition to lower back pain. Because the body's nervous system is closely integrated with the spine, any misalignment can cause painful irritation. Abnormal nerve function may affect whatever organs, glands, or tissues that are supplied by that nerve.

The nerves of the lower back, for example, are connected to certain organs and other structures in that area. If lower back spinal misalignment is putting undue pressure on the nerves, you may be suffering from more than lower back pain. It may be having a direct effect on other areas of your body.

A thorough examination can disclose exactly where the problem is and how it can be corrected.

Texas grape varieties found glory in land renowned for its wine

By KEVIN FITCHARD
Killeen Daily Herald

KILLEEN, Texas - The scrawny acrid grapes that grow from the wild vines dotting Central Texas have a surprisingly bizarre history. Those grapes saved France's wine industry - or at least the roots from which they sprang did.

In the late 19th century, the French began importing grapevine specimens from the new world. What they didn't know was they were also importing a microscopic root louse called phylloxera with the cuttings. While American vines had long since developed an immunity to the disease, it played havoc on the vineyards of eastern France and northern Spain, practically destroying the grape industries of both countries.

The French sent out delegations to look for root stock resistant to the pest. What they found was a horticulturist and former University of Kentucky professor named T.V. Munson. Through Munson, they found their savior in the grapevines of Bell County and other areas of Central Texas.

Jim Bowmer, a Temple attorney and amateur historian, chronicled Munson's adventures in Bell County in his book "The Unknown Bell County." Apparently Munson, an avid grape and wine enthusiast, searched Texas for interesting vines through the latter part of his life, and it was in the lime-soiled region between Hillsboro and San Antonio that he found his most promising specimens.

In Bell County he found three varieties - the champini, known as dogridge for the area of its discovery below Belton, the Berlandieri, which was discovered near Youngsfort, and the Monticola, discovered West of Belton.

Munson didn't know it at the time but he had discovered the perfect roots that could easily adapt to grafting and the harsh French soil.

It was the limestone-laden soils of Central Texas that made the grapes particularly attractive to the French, since the soils of France's old world vineyards had a similar makeup.

The roots were transported to France by way of the port of Galveston. The native French grapevines were grafted onto the Bell County and other Central Texas roots. The whole process took several decades of crossbreeding, but within 30 to 40 years the French grape industry had returned to its former grandeur - all thanks to Central Texas.

Munson received the title of Chevalier in the French Legion of Honor, the highest national accolade in France. It may not appear that Bell County received much credit, but Bowmer said that tucked away in the agricultural colleges and institutes of France there are still specimens of a certain root known as the Big Bell.

But where are Bell County's famous grapes now?

John Asbury, a Scott & White Hospital pediatrician and wine enthusiast, said the Bell County wine industry never took off - mainly because the native grapes make really awful wine.

"They are tart, have a lot of acid and don't have a tremendous amount of sugar," explained Asbury, who has tried fermenting the grapes with little success.

The old roots have gone through generations of crossbreeding and it's difficult to tell what species Munson originally found.

Oddly enough, the adapted roots that now grow in France can't grow in Texas, even though they are descended from Texas stock. Asbury said the years of crossbreeding took away their resistance to America's other interesting agricultural diseases, such as Pierce's Disease and Cotton Root Rot. All attempts to grow French vines in Central Texas have been utter failures, he said.

Meanwhile, Bowmer hasn't given up on Bell County's famous grapes. He has isolated some of the older vines in Bell County and brought clippings to his ranch near Youngsfort. There he created an arbor for the specimens and plans to preserve them.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: What is this world coming to? If I sound like some really old person, let me tell you I am a 17-year-old high school student who lives in Tampa, Fla. When I heard on the radio that an 80-year-old woman was kicked off a Greyhound bus at an Ocala, Fla., truck stop at 3:00 in the morning -- carrying her puppy under her arm -- I got so mad, I couldn't see straight.

This elderly lady, with failing hearing and poor eyesight, leaning on a crutch, said she wasn't aware that Greyhound did not allow pets on the bus. She was told to get off and was left stranded in the middle of nowhere.

Please, Ann, check into this, and let me know what happened. I was up half the night worrying about her. -- A Concerned Teenager

Dear Concerned Teen: How thoughtful of you to inquire. All's well that ends well, and this incident certainly did end on a high note. This is what happened:

A security guard at the truck stop in Ocala called the Marion County sheriff, and deputies from five surrounding counties took charge. They were appalled and embarrassed at the way that elderly woman had been treated.

The deputies calmed her and gave her a sandwich and something to drink. The woman rode in five different police cars, switching in various cities as they transported her from one county to another -- and finally home. When the last deputy walked her to her own front door, she said, "Thank you. I didn't know there were so many wonderful people in the world." The next day, she received a bouquet of roses from the Hillsborough County sheriff's communications squad in Tampa that helped coordinate her trip home.

The bus driver who left her at the truck stop has been relieved of his duty pending an investigation. When the woman heard this, she said, "I hope that bus driver doesn't lose his job on account of me."

Meanwhile, you will be pleased to know that the woman is going to receive an apology from Greyhound and a coupon for future travel. I hope it's a lifetime pass. She deserves no less.

Dear Ann Landers: "Nick" and I are middle-aged and have been in an enjoyable relationship for three years. We spend a lot of time together, and both of us love to dance. He is a fabulous dancer. I am just so-so, but he makes me look good.

Nick and I have developed a rather unique dance style, and we are considered one of the best couples on the floor. Not surprisingly, some of the single women who frequent the ballroom like to dance with Nick. Often, a woman will approach our table and say to Nick, "I would love to dance with you. How about it?"

Nick and I have different opinions about how to respond to these women. I say they are rude and intrusive and their behavior is socially unacceptable. Nick feels that if he refuses to dance with them, he is being impolite. What do you say, Ann? -- Sitting It Out in Little Rock

Dear Little Rock: While Nick is dancing with these women, what are you doing? Sitting alone, twiddling your thumbs?

If a woman wants to trade partners for a single dance, I see nothing wrong with that. But for Nick to leave you sitting alone while he dances with whoever comes up to him is, in my opinion, very bad manners. You should let him know in no uncertain terms that you will not tolerate it.

Food and Family

A little imagination helps solve the problem of picky eaters. Getting children to eat healthy foods is a challenge for most parents.

But even picky eaters have a hard time resisting foods that are fun and imaginative. Here are a few nutritious snacks that your children might enjoy.

*Serve mini pizzas! -- tomato sauce and grated cheese on a tortilla or English muffin.

*Keep raw veggies and lowfat dips in the frig -- and sprinkle taco seasoning on popcorn instead of butter.

*And few kids can resist a blander shake made with yogurt, fruit and ice. Eating healthy can be fun! And nutritious foods taste even better when spiced with a little imagination.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

"A faithful friend is the medicine of life." Justin Kerr took the written test for the Geography Bee on Thursday. While waiting for the results and to see if he will qualify for the state meet, Justin will continue to study and prepare for the competition.

Science Fair participants will set up projects Monday at the Administration Building. The projects will be judged on Wednesday and available for viewing until Friday evening.

A change has been made in the date for History Fair. Students will set up history projects on Thursday at the HJH library and judging will take place on Friday. Many students were involved in both science and history projects and this change will make it easier for all who are involved.

Mrs. Sims' English classes have begun the unit on American Nostalgia. Each team of students will study a decade in American History, then write biographies and research papers about famous people. Creative projects including poems, videos and songs will be displayed during the Living Timeline Festival to be held in February.

EPS classes baked bread Friday as part of their study of measuring skills. The students did enjoy their hot bread and homemade jam!

Mr. Farr showed slides about Mount Vernon, George Washington's country estate and of Philadelphia for enrichment during the study of the American Revolutionary era.

Preparations are being made for TB testing. Permission forms are being sent out this week for all seventh graders and for eighth graders who were not tested while in the seventh grade. This is a very important test and parents should be concerned with returning signed forms as quickly as possible.

And speaking of returned forms...many students have not returned their report cards. This always leads us to believe that some have never reached home or, and this is hard to believe, that the students forgot to bring them back. Do return these report cards.

Spelling Bee participants will begin preparation for the county bee to be held in March. Students will prepare on a daily basis until that time.

A reminder to all parents of science and history fair participants -- students are graded on these projects and papers. Much class time has been used and much more home time should be used as the students complete their work. Too many of our students are becoming masters of excuses for not completing work, not just in these areas, and we are trying to correct this habit. Parents, help us!

"Health and intellect are two of the best blessings of life."

BLINK!

Computers are hard on the eyes. Vision professionals know this, but the general public often forgets. A recent study by the National Institute of Occupational Health and Safety (NIOSH) indicates that almost 90 percent of computer users, those who work at a terminal more than three hours a day, report some kind of eyestrain.

Nature may not have planned for us to sit at computers all day, but it did provide help for the computer-weary: tears! Most computer users stare at the screen and forget to blink as often as they should. Result: without frequent bathing with tears, the eyes get dry; they itch and burn. There may be double vision or blurriness.

It's also important to avoid glare: don't work by a big window or let a bright light shine on the screen. But avoid the sharp contrast between a bright screen and a dark room. Take frequent breaks. And if eyes are still strained, see the eye doctor.

of Hereford as the big winner in the 1st Annual Hereford Whiteface Cow Potty. Also known as cow patty bingo. Gayland Ward Seed Company is owned and operated by Gayland & Beverly Ward and has been in business in Hereford for several years. They're located approximately 6 miles east on Hwy. 60.

The Cow Potty event was organized by the Hereford High School Anchor Club and sponsored by 30 area businesses in which each business purchased a square on the bingo grid for $100 or $50 for a half. A Hereford Whiteface steer in this case, owned by Nelson Beville, was turned loose to roam inside the bingo grid. Sunday's event proved to be a speedy one as the steer took care of business in less than 2 minutes of entering the perimeter. Entertainment was provided by Travis Gilliam, Steve Lyons, Brent Smith, Annie Keenan, Jana Huston, and Dianna Kimmel. Emcee for the event was Coach Jack Fox.

After a huge success the Anchor Club plan on hosting another Cow Patty Bingo in the future with a dance to follow.

Anchor Club members include Brandi Armstrong, Amanda Andrews, Staci Britzen, Monica Caperton, Jennifer Carrillo, April Cruz, Miriam Casarez, Nancy De-La-Cruz, Rebecca Drager, Jessica Garfan, Heath Henderson, Amy Killingsworth, Amanda Knight, Jussir Audrey Lopez, Virginia Martinez, Edith Montoya, Lisa Reyna, Luinda Rich, Chris Stark, Lindsay Ward, Peyton Ward, and Holly Weishaar.

The Anchor Club chartered last year under their sponsor, the Pilot Club of Hereford and is directed by HHS Faculty Advisors, Dianna Kimmel, Melissa Gault, & Dawn Smith.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
 Today is Sunday, Jan. 18, the 18th day of 1998. There are 347 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History:
 On Jan. 18, 1912, English explorer Robert F. Scott and his expedition reached the South Pole, only to discover that Roald Amundsen had gotten there first. (Scott and his party died during the return trip.)
On this date:
 In 1778, English navigator Captain James Cook discovered the Hawaiian Islands, which he dubbed the "Sandwich Islands."
 In 1782, lawyer and statesman Daniel Webster was born in Salisbury, N.H.
 In 1788, the first English settlers arrived in Australia's Botany Bay to establish a penal colony.

In 1862, the 10th president of the United States, John Tyler, died in Richmond, Va., at age 71.
 In 1911, the first landing of an aircraft on a ship took place as pilot Eugene B. Ely flew onto the deck of the USS Pennsylvania in San Francisco harbor.
 In 1919, the World War I Peace Congress opened in Versailles, France.
 In 1943, during World War II, the Soviets announced they'd broken the long Nazi siege of Leningrad.
 In 1943, a wartime ban on the sale of pre-sliced bread in the United States aimed at reducing bakeries' demand for metal replacement parts went into effect.
 In 1967, Albert DeSalvo, who claimed to be the "Boston Strangler," was convicted in Cambridge,

Mass., of armed robbery, assault and sex offenses. (Sentenced to life, DeSalvo was killed by a fellow inmate in 1973.)
 In 1991, financially strapped Eastern Airlines shut down after 62 years in business.
 In 1996, Lisa Marie Presley-Jackson filed for divorce from Michael Jackson.
 Ten years ago: An airliner crashed in southwestern China, killing all 108 people on board, according to the official Xinhua news agency.
 Five years ago: Allied warplanes attacked targets in "no fly" zones in southern and northern Iraq. The Martin Luther King Jr. holiday was observed in all 50 states for the first time.
 One year ago: Former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas, who rebounded from cancer to briefly become the Democratic front-runner for president in 1992, died in Boston of pneumonia at age 55.

Today's Birthdays: Movie director John Boorman is 65. Singer-songwriter Bobby Goldsboro is 57. Comedian-singer-musician Brett Hudson is 45. Actor-director Kevin Costner is 43. Country singer Mark Collie is 42. Rapper DJ Quik is 28.
Thought for Today: "The compensation of growing old was simply this: that the passions remain as strong as ever, but one has gained - at last! - the power which adds the supreme flavor to existence, the power of taking hold of experience, of turning it round, slowly, in the light." - Virginia Woolf, English author (1882-1941).

The Successful Family

Learn Healthy Ways to Discipline
 When parents spank, hit or slap, children learn:
 *People who love you can hurt you.
 *Lessons in victimization which, in turn, lead to perpetrating violence towards others.
 *Violence is a necessary part of parenting.
 *Violence towards others can easily be justified.
 The negative consequences of hitting, spanking or slapping:
 *Lowered self-esteem and self-concept for children.
 *Teaching children to hit other children.
 *What to do instead of spanking, hitting or slapping:

 *Setting up discipline rules in the home.
 *Establishing family morals, values and rules.
 *Learn alternatives in discipline for toddlers to teens.
 *Use rewards and non-violent forms of punishment.
 Dealing with sibling rivalry can be challenging. It is natural for brothers and sisters to tease and disagree with each other and to compete for their parents' attention. This builds stress and anger in the family and especially with the parents.
 Stress and anger are thieves that rob parents of the energy necessary to handle the every day challenges of parenting. It is also difficult to enjoy children at family functions, like picnics, when parents are uptight. Learning to handle stress and anger appropriately and not take it out on your kids is necessary to be a successful family and healthy person.

 The challenges and demands presented by children entering puberty can strain the best parent-child relationships, often leading to verbal and physical confrontations. Raising middle school-aged children is difficult enough task for most parents. Parents can reduce power struggles by communicating, establishing family rules, and holding regular family meetings to discuss issues both parents and pre-teens need to air.
THE SUCCESSFUL FAMILY program at the HISD building will be held Jan. 27 through March 10 from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. every Tuesday. This is a place the entire family can come, enjoy a meal together, and learn how to be a nurturing family. For more information call Debbie Canode at 364-0279.

D.R.E.S.S. YOUR FAMILY FOR SUCCESS programs meets at San Jose Community Center every Thursday from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. This program will help your family deal with crisis, stress, solutions to anger, aggression, treatment, courage to cope, and recovery. These are skills for life. A sandwich supper will be provided. For information call Tilli Boozer at 364-4357 or 364-6111.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor insists my stomach pains are due to my gallbladder. An ultrasound of the gallbladder showed no stones. Is it possible to have gallbladder pain without having stones? — M.A.D.
ANSWER: The gallbladder can kick up a storm without stones. The condition is called "acalculous cholecystitis."
 Up to 10 percent of gallbladder woes are of the acalculous cholecystitis variety, whose pain is much the same as stone-induced gallbladder pain.
 The drainage duct from the gallbladder to the small intestine can twist, producing the pain of a gall-stone attack. Blockage of blood flow in the artery that supplies the gallbladder is another cause of stoneless gallbladder pain.

 If your doctor suggests surgery, don't hesitate to agree.
DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My doctor has me on lithium. I got diarrhea so bad that he cut down on the dose.
 Can you tell me what this pill is made of and if it's safe to take? — M.D.
ANSWER: Lithium is a chemical element, a distant cousin of sodium and potassium.
 Thousands of patients use it to smooth roller-coaster mood swings from frenzied elation and hyperactivity to the deep depression that often follows the euphoric state.

 It's a safe drug. Side effects are few and far between. Some patients develop diarrhea, hand tremors or muscle weakness.
 A dosage adjustment usually can abolish any side effect that pops up. For that matter, some patients see side effects fade with continued use, even without any dosage change.
 Don't fear lithium. It is to mood swings what penicillin is to infections.
 Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible.

We Can Explain Why You Need An IRA In Two Words:

Social Security.

If you're going up the hump, not over the hill, then you've probably realized by now that Social Security isn't going to be quite as secure as you once believed.

An Individual Retirement Account at Hereford State Bank is a very smart investment toward your future because it's a personal savings plan that provides a substantial retirement fund, and also allows you to defer taxes on the principal as well as the accrued interest each year.

Because your earnings on an IRA investment are tax-deferred, they build much faster than many comparable investments. Of course, the sooner you start the better off you'll be. After all, you're getting close enough to see the top of the hill. Which leads us to our final two words.

 Don't delay.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Do you have what it takes to be a leader?

Your success in life often depends on your leadership skills. Leadership is the ability to show the way and direct the course. Leadership is a way of thinking. It is a set of behaviors and a group of skills that cause others to want to sail on your ship.

Talented leaders are both rare and valuable. They not only receive monetary rewards, but also respect, cooperation and a high level of self-accomplishment.

Leaders must have the courage to create change, the wisdom to discover the best paths to improvement and the tools to motivate others to become part of the mission. No one is born a great leader. You must develop and cultivate the skills and habits required.

If you wish to check your leadership skill level, take the quick quiz below. Answer each question yes or no.

The Leadership Quiz

1. Do you listen carefully to the ideas of your associates without interrupting them?
2. Do you spend most of your time away from customers and key employees?
3. Do you often request help from others just so they can gain experience?
4. Do you often find yourself immersed in details you shouldn't have to deal with?
5. Do you read at least four different business publications each month to learn about new trends and get new ideas?
6. Have you ever taken credit for others' ideas or work?
7. Do you review and revise your mission statement and goals annually?
8. Are you the only one in your business who fully understands its operation?
9. Do you always include others in the goal setting process when it impacts their work?
10. Do you often have meetings with others where you have no written agenda?
11. Would you be completely comfortable if all of your recent business decisions were reported in your local newspaper?
12. Do you wait for problems to come to you?
13. Are you the one driving change in your business?
14. Do you often make quick judgements without all the facts?
15. Do others look to you as the team leader?
16. Are you frequently the last one to work or the first one to leave?
17. If you left your business for six months - without prior warning - would your team be able to carry on?
18. Do you talk to your co-workers and employees about your fears and failures?
19. Do you want to do business with other firms that have your company's integrity and values?

20. Do you correct inappropriate behavior right on the spot even if others are present?

Scoring the quiz

Give yourself one point for each "yes" answer on odd numbered questions. Score one point for each "no" answer on even numbered questions. Compare your total to the ranges below.

If you scored:

- 18 or more correct answers - you're a Sir Winston Churchill in the making. Don't be too proud of yourself, good leaders are also humble.
- 14 to 17 correct answers - you're out in front and most folks are happy to follow you.
- 10 to 13 correct answers - you need to add to your leadership inventory. You can improve and increase your value to others.
- 9 or fewer correct answers - if you are in a leadership position you may wish to read "Mutiny on the Bounty." Take every opportunity to increase your leadership skill level.

Between the Covers

By MARTHA RUSSELL
The annual Friends of the Library Book Sale was an apparent success. If you missed it, you still have a chance at a ton of books. The books will remain displayed in the Heritage Room of the library through the month of January. Almost everything is 10 to 25 cents, so even if you buy and book and discover that you don't like it, you haven't lost much.

If you are interested in Reader's Digest Condensed Books for decorating, or for reading, there are still boxes and boxes of them. You can have your pick of color and design to match your decor. All of these books are available during regular library hours. Drop by and take a look.

Lately, on the four or five days a week that the weather is cold and nasty, a good book and a cup of hot chocolate sound good. But, how about the two or three days a week that the air is beginning to smell like spring? Are you yearning to get your hands in the dirt? Are you planning your garden yet? If so, you may want to check out 1,001 Old-Time Garden Tips from the publisher's of Organic Gardening magazine.

As you would expect from this Organic Gardening periodical, the book gives bits of wisdom on how to grow everything organically from the good old days when everybody did. It begins with the planning of your garden and takes you through the various kinds of plants, as well as pest, disease and weed control, garden projects, and tools and gadgets. It is also full of recipes to use with your bountiful harvest. This is the stuff that dreams are made of in mid-January.

Bitter Harvest by Ann Rule is the true account of a tragedy in the heartland of America, Prairie Village, Kan. The fire that destroyed Michael and Debora Farrar's home and killed two of their three children, was the climax of their lives. Until that summer they seemed to have it all -- a happy marriage, successful medical practice, and three bright and beautiful children.

Then they went on a trip to Peru with their son, where they met attractive, blond Celeste Walker, whose husband, John was also a successful doctor. Nothing was the same for either couple after that.

A son's rebellion and physical violence against his father, Michael's mysterious illness, and John Walker dead in the Farrar's garage, were only parts of the puzzle. Perhaps most inexplicable was Debora herself, whose personality, and even appearance, underwent dramatic change that summer.

Ann Rule writes a vivid re-creation of an unthinkable crime and a depiction of the unimagined depths of darkness within the human spirit.

Other new nonfiction this week: 1998 Natural Healing Remedies, edited by Doug Dollemore of Prevention Health Books

Light and Easy Cookbook: The Classic American Quilt Collection: Schoolhouse What Darwin Really Said by Benjamin Farrington

The Cambridge Illustrated History of The Middle Ages: 950-1250, edited by Robert Fossier

Texas Ranger Tales: Stories That Need Telling by Mike Cox.

Two World War II Era novels top the new fiction list.

Five Past Midnight by James Thayer takes place in the midst of World War II. America's OSS has assigned Jack Cray, an American Army commando with a terrifying combat reputation, the task of immediate assassination of Adolph Hitler. SS leader Heinrich Himmler has assigned Otto Dietrich the task of stopping Cray. Dietrich's life depends on the success of his mission.

As Cray moves closer and closer to his final confrontation in Hitler's Berlin bunker, and Dietrich tracks him as he would a master criminal, a strange sympathy and understanding develop between them. One wants to kill Hitler the other to save him -- but if the death of Hitler means the end of the war, motives and goals may become tangled.

In Time on My Hands: A Novel with Photographs by Peter Delacorte, a discouraged, jilted travel writer runs into a man who offers him travel on a time machine. The catch? Gabriel Prince must go back to California in its big-studio heyday immediately before World War II and find a young actor named Ronald "Dutch" Reagan. When he finds him, Gabriel must do whatever is necessary to push Reagan off the path that leads him, 40 years later, to the oval office.

When he agreed to the adventure, he did not guess that he and "Dutch" Reagan would become friends, or that he would fall in love with a starlet, or that his time machine had a past of its own. If it were taken away from him while he is still in the past, where would that leave him?

Gary Krist's Bad Chemistry poses the unsettling question: How much do we really know about the people we love -- or about ourselves?

Former Chicago cop Kate Theodoros, to escape the ugliness and violence, moved to Washington, D.C., to start a new life as a social worker. There she married Joel Baker, a successful entrepreneur, who three years later, went out for some groceries and never returned. Kate embarks on a search for her husband and the parts of his life that he has hidden from her.

When the police uncover evidence of Joel's involvement in drug trafficking and a murdered biochemist, Kate finds herself back in the familiar world of clues, surveillance, and guns that she thought she had left behind. But this time she is operating outside the law she was once sworn to enforce.

Lifestyles Policies

The Hereford Brand welcomes news articles of interest from local readers, clubs and organizations. Because this is a daily newspaper, we must have guidelines on timely submission of news items.

*General news items for the Lifestyles section must be submitted by 1 p.m. the day before publication and by 9 a.m. Friday for the Sunday edition. Club reports should be submitted the day following the meeting, and no later than three days. Late contributions are subject to considerable editing.

*Listings for club meetings and special events in the "Calendar of Events" should be submitted by Wednesday of each week.

*Photos of new club officers, donation presentations, etc., can be made by appointment at The Brand office Monday through Friday after 2 p.m. We do not take photos for engagements, weddings, anniversaries or showers; however, loaner cameras are available and should be reserved 24 hours in advance. The Brand has forms available, upon request, for preparing engagement announcements, wedding stories, anniversary celebrations and bridal showers. These are usually too lengthy to take over the phone.

*Engagements should be announced at least a month before the wedding, if both an engagement and wedding photo are desired. Photos should be in black and white; some color photos may be approved if contrast is suitable for reproduction. Wedding and anniversary writeups should be submitted at least five days before publication.

*The Brand will take on-location photos for special events. Call at least two days before the event to see if arrangements can be made.

*Notices of birthday celebrations will be written for Hereford residents 80 years of age and up. The Brand advertising department will quote prices and prepare all other birthday greetings or announcements, including Quinceaneras.

*Notices of new arrivals born in Hereford Regional Medical Center, information on local babies born elsewhere, or with grandparents in Hereford, should be reported to The Brand within two weeks. Brief items of interest about college students, or former residents, are welcome concerning degrees, academic honors, career promotions, etc. Please submit as soon as possible to ensure timeliness.

To submit an article or obtain more information, call Becky Camp at 364-2030 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. After 5 p.m., information may be placed in the night drop at our front door.

Association refunds $2.7 mil to borrowers

Most of the 4,800 plus members of the newly merged First Texas Federal Land Bank Association are to receive a generous refund on the 1997 interest paid on their loans.

At a meeting held Dec. 11, 1997, the Board of Directors declared that all borrowers whose loan payment contributed to the Association's 1997 earnings would receive a patronage refund totaling $2.7 million during the month of January.

According to John Morris, CEO of the First Texas Federal Land Bank Association, the patronage amounts to approximately half of the Association's net earnings for 1997.

The patronage will be issued in two different forms, depending on whether it is a current borrower or a borrower whose loan paid off during 1997.

"The Association will be refunding back to the borrower a portion of the net interest paid on each loan. On average, this patronage is approximately 11.11 percent of that amount," said Morris.

Ed Crawford, President of the Hereford, Dimmitt, and Tulia credit offices, attributes the financial success realized by his offices to the stockholders who live and operate in Deaf Smith, Castro, and Swisher Counties who experienced a good crop year in 1997.

"Without the hard work of each individual member, First Texas would not be able to provide this type of return to our borrowers," said Crawford.

First Texas Federal Land Bank

Association strives to maintain a cooperative long term mortgage lending system that benefits the farmers, ranchers, and rural homeowners of this area.

Kieth Vandivere, Chairman of the Board of Directors for First Texas, explained that the patronage will effect approximately $4,800 loans across a total of forty South Plains and Panhandle counties.

"We want to give some benefit back to our borrowers for the successful year we had in 1997. The exceptional financial strength of the First Texas Federal Land Bank Association can be attributed to our members and their support throughout the years," said Vandivere.

"As Chairman of the Board of Directors, I was anxious to learn the earning potential of the merged association, and I am pleased to say that it exceeded everyone's expectations. For this, I would like to say thank you to the stockholders, board, and management of the new Association."

First Texas currently has a loan volume of $343 million, with a projected annual gross income of approximately $9 million.

First Texas Federal Land Bank Association just completed its first year as the merged entity of nine area associations.

It is a stockholder owned cooperative that specializes in long term real estate financing. There are full service Land Bank Credit Offices located in Childress, Dalhart, Lamesa, Lubbock, Levelland, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Spur, Crosbyton, Dimmitt, Hereford, and Tulia.

Officials change EIA regulations

Texas livestock health officials have fortified equine health regulations intended to protect the horses, mules, donkeys, asses and other members of the horse family from the incurable viral disease, Equine Infectious Anemia.

Currently, equine are required to have a negative blood test for the disease within 12 months before entering trail rides, shows, exhibitions, and other competitive events.

Commissioners for the Texas Animal Health Commission adopted regulations that will be in effect in late spring. Testing requirements will also include equine being moved to boarding stables and pastures, breeding farms and training stables.

TAHC commissioners have proposed a regulation to require a negative EIA test within 12 months prior to selling equine at livestock auctions or horse markets, sites which were previously exempt from testing regulations.

For nearly a year, animals sold through private sale have been under the 12-month testing requirement. The commissioners will review the proposal and possibly adopt it for public sales at their meeting March 31.

"The 12-member TAHC commission received overwhelming support from equine owners to broaden the testing regulations to control the spread of EIA," said Dr. Terry Beals, Texas's state veterinarian and TAHC executive commissioner.

"There is no vaccine, effective treatment or cure," he said. "It is very important that equine be tested prior to entering community stables or pastures."

EIA is a blood-borne disease that can debilitate equine by breaking down red blood cells, causing anemia, weight loss, depression, fever and swelling of the chest.

Although some equine will develop acute clinical signs, other infected equine will suffer only occasionally from the disease when they are overworked or overheated. Often, infected animals are "inapparent carriers," with no symptoms.

The disease is spread by way of biting flies moving from one animal to another.

"Of the nearly 190,000 Texas equine tested in 1997, 750 were confirmed as infected," said Dr. Beals. "For the next several years, as more animals are tested, we'll likely see the number of infected animals climb, but the rate of infection has stayed about the same at less than one percent of animals tested."

Beals continued to say that once infected animals are taken out of circulation, the threat of exposure to clean animals is gone.

Other states with similar regulations have had good success in controlling the spread of EIA through widespread testing and disposal of infected animals.

"Unless owners can keep an infected equine permanently quarantined, regulations require that they have the animal euthanized, sent to a research facility, or sold for slaughter," said Beals. "To assist owners in disposing of infected equine, TAHC commissioners have proposed strict conditions under which these animals could be sold for slaughter through a livestock market."

Under the proposal, a TAHC or private veterinarian, accredited by the United States Department of Agriculture, would inspect infected animals within 24 hours prior to entering the sale. The animals would be allowed entry only if their temperature was normal and they displayed no clinical signs of disease.

At the market, the infected equine could be sold for slaughter only, would be isolated and stalled under a roof, and could remain on the premise no longer than 24 hours.

Owners are encouraged to add their input on rules and regulations. Comments should be made in writing to Tiffany Norvell, TAHC, P.O. Box 12966, Austin, Tx 78711.

Featured Farmer

Kenneth Fry

Agriculture is a big part of the economy and life of the people in the Hereford area. Producers like Kenneth Fry make agriculture work for everyone.

Fry is a long time area resident utilizing 4,300 acres for farmland and 2,000 acres of grassland-wheat pasture.

He started farming locally in 1960 and has raised a variety of crops including sugarbeets, corn, cotton, vegetables, grain sorghum and wheat.

Along with the planted crops, Fry is involved in raising beef cattle. Currently he has a 250-head cow herd and is raising 800-1,000 head of wheat cattle.

He has been instrumental in bringing the sugarbeet crop to the notice of area producers and economic planners. Fry serves as president of the Texas-New Mexico Sugarbeet Growers Association and stays involved with a number of the agriculture associations.

He said his favorite crop is food corn and if he could pass on any of his wisdom to future generations it would be to watch their debt load, look more than one year ahead and set some goals for five and 10 years ahead.

The Featured Farmer is a new weekly feature of the Hereford Brand. Each week the paper will recognize one area producer who has contributed to the local ag-industry. Information on area producers will be accepted by the farm writer.

Matter of Fact

When it comes to competition for Texas agriculture, it's not the other 49 states that we should worry about most. It's the more than 100 countries of the world that will be our competitors, our partners and consumers. Very soon, it will be up to our children to ensure we remain economically competitive on a global level.

1995 Chevrolet Lumina Test drive, 31K miles, nice unit, financing available. $9,950

To accomplish this, our kids will not only have to learn to communicate in other languages but also have an understanding of other cultures.

That's why I was pleased to learn about an innovative teacher exchange program initiated here in Texas. This school year, teachers from Spain will come to the Lone Star State to teach Spanish. At the same time, some Texas teachers will head to Spain to teach English.

This exchange not only helps alleviate our state's chronic shortage of Spanish teachers, but also offers our children a chance to learn a little bit more about Spain than simply the language. In addition to studying the language, selected students from Texas will attend school in Spain for four weeks while Spanish students attend school here.

Such cultural exchanges provide a wonderful opportunity for our children as they prepare for the future, for global competition and for new opportunities to excel.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
 For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:
 --Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
 --Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
 --Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
 --Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

The House of the Week

A Soaring Design

DRAMATIC WINDOWS soar to the peak of this prowed chalet, offering unobstructed views of the landscape.

By BRUCE A. NATHAN
AP Newsfeatures
Plan G-56, by HomeStyles Designers Network, makes a bold statement with its spectacular window wall and versatile outdoor spaces. The home, in all, has 2,525 square feet of living area.

The large living room features a fireplace, a soaring 26-foot vaulted ceiling, a striking window wall and sliding glass doors to a wrap-around deck that lends itself to a variety of uses.

The sunny, L-shaped kitchen is spacious and easily accessible from anywhere on the first floor.

The secluded main-floor master bedroom is across the hall from a full bath, a linen closet, a good-sized laundry room and rear entrance.

A central, open-railed staircase leads to the upper floor, which has two large bedrooms with ample closet space and a full bath.

Sweeping outdoor vistas can be enjoyed from the skylighted balcony, which also offers a railed overlook into the living room.

The daylight basement provides another fireplace in a recreation room, a two-car tuck-under garage and a service room with additional storage space.

G-56 STATISTICS

Design G-56 has a living room, kitchen, three bedrooms, two full baths and a laundry room, totaling 2,525 square feet of living space in the daylight basement version. This plan also offers a crawlspace foundation version, which provides 1,920 square feet of living area. Both versions feature 2x6 exterior wall framing.

(For a more detailed, scaled plan of this house, including guides to estimating costs and financing, send $4 to House of the Week, P.O. Box 1562, New York, N.Y. 10116-1562. Be sure to include the plan number.

Globes honor MacLaine in 55th annual ceremony

By John Crook

©TVData Features Syndicate

In her long career, Shirley MacLaine has played a cranky piano teacher, an infuriating but loving mother, a former ballerina and, on occasion, even a prostitute.

Now the actress plays "legend" as she accepts this year's Cecil B. DeMille Award for outstanding contribution to the entertainment field during the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's 55th annual Golden Globe Awards. The event airs Sunday, Jan. 18, on NBC.

MacLaine's honor comes more than 40 years after she received a Golden Globe as 1955's new star of the year in a motion picture. She also holds Globes for her performances in Terms of Endearment, The Apartment, Irma La Douce and Madame Sousatzka.

The Globes, which honor work in both films and television, are the first major awards of any calendar year, and many consider them a good indicator for the Academy Awards, which follow in the spring.

But that notion is misleading. True, a Globe nomination does throw a spotlight on a movie or performance that otherwise may have been overlooked, thus upping the odds for Oscar nominations later. But the Golden Globes split the major movie awards into two categories: one for drama and one for comedy or musical.

In other words, the Hollywood Foreign Press Association nominates (and gives awards to) twice as many actors and films as do the Oscars in these categories. You'd be hard-pressed not to find a correlation, although in recent years such Globe winners as John Travolta (Get Shorty) and Madonna (Evita) were not even nominated for Oscars.

The foreign press group also has had its share of controversies over the years, including occasional charges that members' voting has been swayed by lavish parties as well as the more recent revelation that some voters were members of the press in name only.

This year's movie nominations are a creditable group, with Amistad, The Boxer, Good Will Hunting, L.A. Confidential and Titanic vying for best dramatic film. As Good As It Gets and Wag the Dog compete with the box-office hits The Full Monty, Men in Black and My Best Friend's Wedding for best comedy or musical.

There are some glaring omissions. Director Ang Lee's stunning drama The Ice Storm was overlooked, as was Joan Allen's shattering performance in the film (only supporting actress Sigourney Weaver drew a nomination). Kevin Spacey's dazzling work in L.A. Confidential also went unnoticed.

Among the TV categories, the same shows (Seinfeld, ER, etc.) that have dominated Emmy competition for the past several years are up for best series in both categories. Two other shows, Spin City and newcomer Ally McBeal, did manage to slide onto the six-nominee best comedy-musical series roster.

The performance categories, as always, contain their share of loopiness. In a moment of insanity, the Globe voters gave Brooke Shields (Suddenly Susan) and the nonacting Jerry Seinfeld (Seinfeld) comedy acting nominations that should have gone, perhaps, to Patricia Heaton and Ray Romano of the critical favorite Everybody Loves Raymond.

In the supporting actor category, which lumps together performances from all series, miniseries and movies, David Hyde Pierce (Frasier) and Jason Alexander (Seinfeld) are pitted against ER co-stars Eriq La Salle and Noah Wyle, as well as movie titans Michael Caine (Mandela and de Klerk) and George C. Scott (12 Angry Men).

Cat Facts

For many people, the cat is the most popular animal companion they could have. When selecting a cat as a pet, there are many things to consider. In addition to how a cat looks, people need to consider its personality, gender, breeding, and preference for indoors or outdoors.

The following overview gives general information about several popular breeds.

PERSIAN

This breed, which generally prefers the indoors, is described as a relaxed observer. According to many veterinarian surveys, it is cited to be the quietest and least active of all cat breeds. Its coat needs daily care.

RAGDOLL

This big, heavy cat is known for its calm disposition. Even though it has a medium-long coat, it doesn't mat as easily as a Persian's coat does. Born white, this cat slowly develops color and pattern over two years. It is open to training with rewards.

CHANTILLY

A rare breed, this cat has a moderate disposition. It announces its happiness with a "chirp" that sounds like a pigeon cooing. It comes in a range of Oriental colors, as well as tabby patterns. Its coat isn't fully mature until the cat is 2 or 3 years old.

CHARTREUX

A tolerant breed, this cat is a keen observer and less "talkative" than most breeds. Its short coat masks its true size. It is short, stocky and dense, and it is a powerful cat.

SIAMESE

This has been said to be the world's most instantly recognizable cat breeds. It has a svelte body, long, slim legs, and a long head with slanting eyes and a fine muzzle. It is a very vocal breed and is extremely energetic.

BENGAL

Increasing in popularity, this breed is still rather rare. It has a thick, luxurious coat and is considered an attractive cat by many. Because of its wildcat origins, a dependable temperament is a vital feature of breeding programs.

ARIES - March 21/April 20

An argument with a business associate has you upset early in the week. Try to stay focused. There's a lot you have to get done this week. A loved one needs your input on a family situation. Don't avoid giving him or her an answer. He or she is not going to stop asking. Virgo plays a key role.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

Keep your temper under control. Taurus. Getting angry only will cause a lot of problems with family and friends — and it won't make you feel any better either. Instead of yelling, calmly discuss difficulties with those involved. It's the only way to get things done. A friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Don't be alarmed.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

You can't seem to make up your mind about anything this week. Gemini. You have so many options that you just can't decide which is best for you. Take a break, and try to relax. This will give you the time to set your priorities in order. A loved one needs your advice. Try to help as much as you can.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

You've got a relaxing week ahead of you. Enjoy it — splurge a little; go shopping; spend time with friends. That special someone you've been seeing doesn't call a lot. Don't be alarmed. He or she is just busy. Pisces plays a key role late in the week.

LEO - July 23/August 23

Be sympathetic to a friend in need this week, Leo. He or she has made a huge blunder and really needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her. The person you've been seeing has a question to ask you. Don't get nervous! However, think about what you truly want before you answer.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Be punctual for an appointment early in the week. You will miss out on a rewarding opportunity if you are late. Don't let a family event distract you from completing a personal project; you've been working on it for too long to just let it go. A friend needs your help with a personal problem.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Your good nature is exactly what's needed in your professional life. Co-workers are feeling down, and your upbeat personality helps them get back on track — and makes you look good with your superiors. A romantic situation comes to a halt late in the week. Try not to let it get you down. He or she didn't make you truly happy. Gemini and Cancer play important roles.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Trouble between some friends causes you to choose sides. While you hate to do it, you really have to make a choice. Think about what you believe in and what you know is right before you make your decision. A loved one reveals a family secret. Keep it to yourself; it's not your place to tell anyone.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

You really say the wrong thing at the wrong time when it comes to your career this week, Sagittarius. Don't try to cover up the blunder. Admit your mistake, explain yourself, and work from there. It's the only way to save face. An acquaintance wants to get to know you better. Say yes. What have you got to lose?

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Let your admiration for a loved one guide you as you make an important financial decision during the middle of the week. Don't make any rash judgments. A friendly relationship intensifies — much to your chagrin. Don't let it get too far before you say something. Be true to yourself.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Your calm nature serves you well this week, Aquarius. There are a lot of things going on around you and a lot of people who want your help. Don't get in over your head — you know what you can handle. A loved one has a present for you. Let him or her know how much you appreciate it.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Don't be impetuous this week, Pisces.

Look before you leap when it comes to a financial matter. A quick decision could cost you a lot of money. A close friend wants you to join him or her in a business venture. Don't do it — there are too many unknowns.

HIGHLIGHTS

Malik Yoba, Marisa Ryan, Tommy Ford, Lauren Velez and Josh Hopkins (from left) star in Dick Wolf's crime drama New York Undercover, airing Thursdays on Fox.

New York Undercover stakes out new turf

Executive producer Dick Wolf has long ignored the adage "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

His Emmy-winning Law & Order has endured more cast changes in seven years than any other show in recent memory. But despite all the personnel issues, the show has remained entertaining and intelligent.

Now Wolf has struck again, shaking things up drastically for another of his award-winning shows. This time around, the cast changes have vastly affected the series - and for the better.

Now in its fourth season, Fox's Thursday crime drama New York Undercover is back with a vengeance.

JC and Nina (Malik Yoba, Lauren Velez) are the only two major characters to have survived the tumultuous events of last season.

For those unfamiliar with last season's finale, McNamara (Jonathan LaPaglia) died while breaking up a bank robbery ring. Nina and Eddie (Michael DeLorenzo) finally got married, but their happiness was cut short when Eddie was killed in a car explosion.

When that bomb went off last season, many fans thought the series was about to go up in flames as well.

But the deaths of McNamara and Eddie turned out to be brilliant moves. JC and Nina are now very different characters since the last time they were seen.

Gone is the confident, in-charge JC. Still haunted by the death of his partner, the detective is placed in an unfamiliar situation with people he barely knows. And Eddie's killer still is out there, terrorizing JC and his son.

Grief-stricken over the death of Eddie, Nina now is walking an emotional tightrope and vows to avenge his death.

Both JC and Nina are forced into a new unit. This team is led by Lt. Malcolm Barker (Tommy Ford), a tough boss who believes the ends justify the means. Nell DeLaney (Marisa Ryan) is a young police officer not afraid of a challenge, and Alec Stone (Josh Hopkins) is the team's technological whiz.

The new cast members bring a lot to the table and create a brand-new dynamic for an already interesting series. Give it a shot.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: I enjoy the Bob Newhart-Judd Hirsch sitcom George & Leo, but can't help wondering why the actress who played George's daughter-in-law, Casey, was replaced. Will the original actress be back? —Pam Stewart via e-mail.

A: Bess Meyer, the original Casey, was cast in the pilot episode opposite an actor who was replaced by Jason Bateman prior to the series' premiere. The producers wanted to see how the Meyer-Bateman chemistry worked, but decided to replace Meyer with Robyn Lively (Savannah).

Meyer will not be back. For what it's worth, the mail I have been receiving concerning the change is running easily 5-1 in favor of Lively.

Q: I remember an episode of David Letterman's show on which Crispin Glover got completely out of hand. They quickly went to a commercial and never really explained what happened. Was this staged or real? —David in Mississippi.

A: Glover, certainly one of the most eccentric actors in Hollywood, later said he was simply "performing" when he went into those martial arts kicks. He failed to let his host in on the joke, however, and Letterman, who does not like surprises such as this on his show, reportedly was not amused.

Q: While watching American Movie Classics, I saw Since You Went Away, in which I recognized Claudette Colbert and other cast members, but was that Jennifer Jones as the older sister? And who played Bill, the young corporal, and his grandfather, the colonel? —David Magargee, South Padre Island, Texas.

A: Yes, that was Jones playing Jane Hilton. Robert Walker played Bill, and

Robyn Lively

Monty Woolley portrayed the colonel. Colbert, Jones and Woolley earned Oscar nominations for their performances.

Q: My wife and I are enjoying reruns of Empty Nest. Any chance it will be back? Also, we really like the character played by Park Overall. What is she doing now? Seems a shame to let talent like that go unused. —Steven V. Gilmore, Charlotte, N.C.

A: Apart from the very slim chance of a reunion show at some point, Empty Nest is history.

As for Overall, rest assured she doesn't lack for work.

She recently gave a superb performance opposite Kirsten Dunst (Interview With the Vampire) in the Lifetime TV movie Fifteen and Pregnant. Prior to that, she received rave reviews in the New York premiere of Psychopathia Sexualis, a stage comedy by Oscar winner Patrick Shanley (Moonstruck).

SOAP WORLD

Robertson surfs through Terror Island story line

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

Dear Candace: I love the soap opera Sunset Beach and it just keeps getting better every day.

I am worried, though, that Ben (Clive Robertson) is going to turn out to be the serial killer and then will have to leave the show. This makes me sad because I adore Ben and Meg (Susan Ward).

I'd also like to know if there is a fan club for Sunset Beach. I've been trying to find one for a long time. -Sandra in Florida.

Dear Reader: Ben's definitely a bit deranged and deeply involved in the Terror Island story line, but the character is not leaving.

"I have no plans to leave," Robertson says. "I'm not sure what (the writers) are doing with my character. I do know that he is the one who is committing these horrible crimes. I have no idea how it will all turn out for him. I'm as curious as the fans are."

For information on joining the official Sunset Beach Fan Club, write to Fan Club, c/o Sunset Beach-NBC Stage 11, 3000 W. Alameda, Burbank, CA 91523.

Dear Candace: I have a couple of questions about the character Jim on All My Children... Why do they have a new actor playing the role? Also, I'm pretty sure I've seen the new guy on another soap. What else has he been on? -S.O. on the Internet.

Dear Reader: Roscoe Born was replaced by David Forsyth. No word yet as to why or how Born departed.

You may recognize Forsyth from his longtime role as John on Another World.

Dear Candace: Can you tell me the latest about Michael Zaslow, who played Roger Thorpe on Guiding Light? Is he doing any better? And will he be returning to the show? -N., Hibbing, Minn.

Dear Reader: There have been several reports that Zaslow has amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, better known as Lou Gehrig's disease. But those reports are unconfirmed. Zaslow is filing a discrimination suit against GL.
