Death count at 32 in L.A. quake

Early morning accident

Two vehicles collided at Kingwood and Park Avenue at about 8 a.m. this morning, sending this GMC Suburban, driven by Karen Sherrod, 43, careening into West Park Cemetery. According to preliminary reports, Mrs. Sherrod's car was eastbound on Park. The Chevy Lumina in the background was driven by Anastacio Mendez, 18, was westbound on Park, attempting to turn south on Kingwood, when it struck Mrs. Sherrod's car.

A third vehicle, a Ford pickup driven by John Brannon, was at a standstill in the eastbound lane on Park, attempting to turn north on Kingwood, when his truck was struck by debris. Mrs. Sherrod and Mendez were transported to Hereford Regional Medical Center, where they were treated and released. Brannon was uninjured. Police Cpl. Ed Toler said cemetery officials reported no damage to headstones.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Commuters confronted crumbled freeways, detours and frayed nerves today. Thousands of other people struggled to get by with no power, no water and - in some cases - no place to live.

At least 32 people died in Monday's quake, which measured 6.6 on the Richter scale and was centered in the sprawling, densely populated San Fernando Valley, 20 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles.

Giant chunks of the region's vital freeways lay smashed, foretelling months or years of traffic snarls in a city that lives in its cars.

Schools were closed, and Police Chief Willie Williams asked businesses to remain shut to reduce traffic. Motorists still streamed into Los Angeles, turning the valley's Newhall Pass into a jewel-like ribbon of headlights.

"The line starts here and it's a long line. It's a mess," said driver Alan Mendelson in Santa Clarita.

Ann Diamond used the Metrolink commuter train to reach her medical office job from Fontana, about 40 miles to the east.

"I was kind of leery about using the freeway today ... because of the quake," she said after stepping off the train at Union Station downtown.

Hundreds of aftershocks rolled through after the quake hit at 4:31 a.m. Monday, including one at 3:33 p.m. Monday measuring 5.3. The aftershocks were diminishing in intensity today, said Caltech seismologist Reily Geary, with one at 1:40 a.m. measuring 3.6.

The lingering threat kept many people from returning to their homes overnight, especially in Northridge, the neighborhood at the quake's epicenter. "We could sleep in the apartment tonight, but we're not taking the risk," said Juan Magallanes, who drove his van onto the baseball diamond at Reseda Park in Northridge. "This is the worst day of my life."

The state emergency agency sent about 300 search-and-rescue teams to find people - dead or alive - in the rubble. The teams were equipped with high-tech listening devices and cameras that can be lowered into crevices.

Crews today continued searching a Northridge apartment house that yielded 15 bodies on Monday. The two top floors of the three-story, wood-and-stucco building smashed the ground floor flat. There were no reports of anyone from the building missing.

"All the bodies we found were in bed. They didn't have a chance to wake up," city firefighter John Hanson said.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was in effect as police and the National Guard patrolled to prevent looting. About 75 people were arrested in the first 24 hours for earthquake-related crimes, said Officer Don Cox, a police spokesman.

"It was very peaceful," Cox said. "We were prepared for a whole lot, but we didn't get it."

The arrests ranged from curfew violations to robbery, he said.

The California National Guard said by today it mobilized more than 2,000 soldiers, many awaiting orders at armories.

City approves park plans, awards bids, contracts of over $1 million

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN

Hereford City Commissioners Monday night accepted low bids on seven contracts--totaling just over $1 million--for purchase of vehicles and equipment and for construction of a water reservoir, wells and supply lines.

In other action, the commission: --Approved park improvement plans, as well as a concept for a park and recreation department (PARC) in conjunction with the Hereford Independent School District and Deaf Smith County.

--Authorized the mayor to execute a real estate option for the purpose of locating an incinerator in Hereford.

--Authorized the city staff to prepare specifications on a recorder for the police and fire departments.

--Approved a request for extension of water service outside the city, with costs to be paid by the resident.

Largest item in the awarding of contracts was for the construction of a one-million gallon ground storage tank of prestressed concrete. Preload, Inc., of Dallas won the project with a bid of $662,387. Only one other bid was submitted, with Natgun, Inc., of Dallas bidding $683,792.

Big T Pump of Hereford was low bidder on construction of a Santa Rosa well at $132,240.57. Wall & Sons Drilling had a bid of $135,134. Supply lines for the project went to Morton Irrigation of Plainview with a bid of $113,295. The next lowest bid was $124,638.50.

Big T Pump also was awarded the bid for construction of a water well in Dameron Park at a cost of $57,306.88. Wall & Sons bid $59,884, and Layne, Inc., of Wichita, Kan. bid $87,220.

Low bid for four police cars went to Stevens Chevrolet of Hereford at a cost, with trade-in, of $7,653 per vehicle (Caprice Classics). Cost of four cars was $30,612. Western Ford of Hereford and John Chandler Ford of Amarillo had higher bids.

The purchase of four pickups was awarded to low bidder John Chandler Ford at a cost of $11,748 each for two two-wheel drive and $13,992 each for two four-wheel drive vehicles. Other bids were from Stevens, Western Ford, and Hereford Auto Center.

Bids on a fairway mower for the city golf course went to Jacobsen Turf & Commercial of Carrollton at a cost of $24,890 for a demo unit. Three firms bid on new and demo units.

The option of land for an incinerator will be assigned to B&E Environmental when the company is ready to proceed with construction. The motion approved by the commission made the city responsible only for the option and a survey, with no other involvement until the incinerator is completed.

Inman pulls name from defense bid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bobby Ray Inman, a Texas businessman who held top national security jobs in both Republican and Democratic administrations, today abruptly withdrew as President Clinton's defense secretary. He cited "distortions of my record, my character and my reputation."

Inman's withdrawal - which caught Washington by surprise - was accepted by Clinton with regret.

In a two-paragraph letter, Clinton told the retired Navy admiral: "While I understand the personal considerations that have led you to this decision, I am nevertheless saddened that our nation will be denied your service."

Inman scheduled a news conference at noon CST in Austin, Texas, to announce his decision.

The White House released an exchange of letters between Inman and Clinton in advance of the news conference.

In his letter, Inman said the "precipitating event" behind his decision was what he claimed was a partisan attack on him led by Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas.

It was not immediately clear what role Dole was playing in the confirmation process that upset Inman.

Richards says King holiday reminder his work goes on AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards says the holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr. should serve as a reminder that the slain civil rights leader's work lives on.

"We today know that Dr. King's dream continues to sustain and lift us all to higher ground," she told a group of several hundred marchers Monday. "As we march, we want the world to know that Dr. King's dream sustains us yet."

Richards also said Texans today won't stand for racial discrimination.

"We want the world to know that in Texas, we will not tolerate bigotry nor hatred nor discrimination," Richards said.

"In Texas, we live the ideals that this nation was founded on. And that is that all men and women were created equal and shall have equal opportunities."

The Austin march, from the Capitol to Huston-Tillotson College, was one of a number of events held around the state to honor King.

A number of marchers carried signs, including one that read, "No More Viders," a reference to the East Texas city where black residents have been driven out of a public housing project.

Hundreds gathered Monday morning in Dallas at a hotel for the 6th annual Martin Luther King Jr. Commemoration breakfast and scholarship award ceremony. Lerone Bennett Jr., executive editor of Ebony magazine, was the featured speaker.

That was followed by an address by Leonard Jeffries, chairman of the black studies department at New York's City College, at the 2nd annual Martin Luther King Jr. Conference Day at St. John Baptist Church in Oak Cliff.

"The legacy of King needs to be fully understood," Jeffries said. "The birth of King is important, but his death becomes his defining moment. We cannot have MLK Jr. on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial dreaming. You must move him into the struggle. There is no dream without the struggle."

Area towns vote in sales tax for economic program

Voters in Perryton approved a one-cent city sales tax Saturday designed to fund economic development projects and reduce property taxes.

Voters passed the tax by a 549 to 306 vote, according to City Manager David Landis.

A half-cent sales tax for economic development was also approved Saturday in Littlefield and Lamesa. Littlefield voters passed the measure by a 456 to 206 count, while voters in Lamesa backed the tax by a 578 to 379 vote.

The one-cent sales tax in Perryton is expected to generate about $300,000 a year, with half going to economic development and half going toward reducing property taxes by 18.5 cents per $100 valuation--down to 37.9 cents.

City leaders expected the half-cent sales tax to raise about $125,000 a year in Littlefield and about $225,000 annually in Lamesa.

"We're happy about the vote because it will give us the tools to attract new business," said Littlefield Mayor Ray Keeling. The Saturday vote "will level the playing field in West Texas," said Lamesa's assistant city manager.

Many of Lamesa's and Littlefield's neighbors already have an economic development tax, including Big Spring, Sweetwater, Snyder, Brownfield, Muleshoe, Levelland and Dimmitt.

Vegetable conference participants

Joe Teeters, left, and his brother-in-law, Don Montgomery of Israel, visit with exhibitors Jack and Norma Davis of Ropesville before the start of the High Plains Vegetable Conference here this morning. The annual conference was held in the Community Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and featured a variety of sessions dealing with chemicals, agriculture department regulation, marketing and other things. Montgomery, who moved to Israel after living in Levelland and Brownwood, was in the United States for a religious conference and stopped by Levelland in time to attend the one-day conference. He grows fruit trees and artichokes in Israel.

AUSTIN - Gov. Ann Richards says the holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr. should serve as a reminder that the slain civil rights leader's work lives on.

KYLE - U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno said she has not been called to testify but is very interested in the San Antonio trial of followers of cult leader David Koresh.

SAN ANTONIO - They've gone through the guns. Now prosecutors are moving on to the shooting. Government attorneys today prepared to call U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents to the witness stand in the federal murder and conspiracy trial of 11 followers of doomsday prophet David Koresh.

DALLAS - Beginning today, Southwest Airline is inaugurating a new service - passengers on 97 of the carrier's 157 airplanes will be able to transmit faxes or files from a laptop computer.

SAN CRISTOBAL DE LAS CASAS, Mexico - Rebels who staged an uprising in southern Mexico say they are willing to talk peace to the government, but are worried about the army's failure to abide by a cease-fire.

SAN CRISTOBAL DE LAS CASAS, Mexico - For now, the rebels have withdrawn and the shooting has subsided. But the poor people in whose name it all began wonder if their lives will ever really improve.

World/Nation

LOS ANGELES - Thousands of people - pushed into yards, tents and shelters by a devastating earthquake and rolling aftershocks - faced the prospect of days and perhaps weeks with little power, no water and no way to get to work. The death toll reached 27.

LOS ANGELES - John and Josephine Winans owe their lives to one random beam. Alan and Buffy Jo Fitch saved others by turning a firehose into a lifeline. The Northridge Meadows Apartments was the scene of the earthquake's greatest tragedy - as well as some of the most dramatic survival stories of the day.

PORTLAND, Ore. - Investigators are looking into whether money donated to Tonya Harding by U.S. figure skating's governing organization was used to pay for the attack on Nancy Kerrigan.

UNDATED - Another blast of North Pole air rushed in behind a storm that spread snow and ice in the East.

WASHINGTON - Hundreds of times a year, people conducting business in Social Security's field offices assault and abuse employees, fight with others waiting in line, attempt suicide or threaten to bomb the agency, according to federal records.

WASHINGTON - Less than 2 percent of the $2.5 billion Congress approved last fall for the former Soviet states has started flowing there, even though President Clinton and lawmakers described it as urgently needed.

least a dozen units and damaged many more at the North Gate apartments in Mission Hills.

Several cars burned with the homes. "We couldn't get to them," said firefighter Rick Ortiz. "We tried, but it just escalated."

At least 500,000 homes remained without power and at least 200,000 had no water. Phone lines worked on and off. Without power, many gas stations were closed and cash machines didn't work.

Officials said most power should be restored today. But water remained a bigger question because of damage to key pipelines and aqueducts. Residents in some areas were warned to boil water in case of contamination.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was in effect, officers patrolled to prevent looting and National Guardsmen were ordered to assemble at their armories today in case of trouble. In Hollywood, six people were arrested and charged with looting.

Schools were closed, and Police Chief Willie Williams asked businesses to shut down to reduce traffic.

Shelters opened throughout the region to house the homeless and the fearful. Many people bedded down in their cars and in parks. Emergency officials had no immediate estimate of the damage or of how many people were left homeless.

The quake was felt from San Diego 125 miles to the south to Las Vegas 275 miles to the northeast. But it still wasn't the "Big One" expected to strike the San Andreas Fault in the desert to the east. Downtown skyscrapers were barely damaged and busy tourist spots like Disneyland and Universal Studios were untouched.

But in the valley, the ruins of more than 40 houses smoldered from fires started by gas or oil main ruptures. Dozens more houses crumbled after the first jolt.

The freeways alone could cost hundreds of millions to rebuild. And Gov. Pete Wilson said it could take a year to repair some vital roads.

Bill Iwan, chairman of the state Seismic Safety Commission, said the damage was disturbingly similar to that caused by a 1971 quake, despite new earthquake standards and the reinforcement of highway bridges. The 1971 quake in the Sylmar area was centered 8 miles away from Monday's quake and killed 65 people.

Reno praises Texas prison system on tour with Richards

KYLE, Texas (AP) - U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno toured a drug treatment prison unit with Gov. Ann Richards Monday, praising Texas' criminal justice program as an example for the nation.

Reno cited Texas' efforts to put away "the really bad guys, the very violent criminals, the career criminals ... while at the same time providing appropriate treatment opportunities for those suffering from substance abuse."

At her news conference at the facility south of Austin, Reno also was asked about the San Antonio trial of followers of cult leader David Koresh. She said she had not been asked to testify at that trial, and when asked what was at stake for federal law enforcement officials, she said "Justice."

Asked about federal law enforcement's reputation, she said "One doesn't worry about reputation. One worries about what is the right thing to do, and one tries to achieve justice."

Afternoon traffic wreck

Neighborhood residents and family members congregated around a 1988 Mercury Tracer that was involved in a traffic accident at 5:13 p.m. Monday. The car was westbound on Bradley when a 1989 Chevrolet Citation driven by Joe Louis Torres, 16, of 420 Avenue H, entered the intersection at Knight Street headed north and the two vehicles collided. Here, rescue workers strap

Connie Villarreal, 13, of 120 Hereford Calle, onto a stretcher for transport to Hereford Regional Medical Center. Angie Villarreal, 15, also of 120 Hereford Calle, is shown at center with her shoulder bandaged, while another passenger in the car, Yolanda Rodriguez, 17, of 419 Bradley, leans on the hood of the car. All three young ladies were transported by ambulance to the hospital, where they were treated and released.

of B&E, said there would be about a 120-day time frame on permitting for the project. He estimated the cost of the project at $15 to $20 million. He said it would employ approximately 60 persons at first, and perhaps up to 200 or more after operations move forward.

The city has been discussing the project for several months. Action was tabled at the Dec. 20 meeting of the commission. The commission approved the option on a 4-1 vote, with Dennis Hicks casting the opposing vote. He said he approved of the project but was "uncomfortable" in dealing with one of the principals in the firm. Pruitt said ownership will be split between four corporations.

The park improvements plan approved by the commission included work at four parks--Dameron, Jaycee Park, Central Park and the 15th Street Park. An outline of improvements planned at each park was presented for approval. Cost was estimated to be $35,000 or more.

The work includes signs to be installed to identify each park, replacing trash receptacles with more attractive units, more lighting to be installed, picnic tables and barbecue grills in some parks, establishing restrooms and portable aluminum stands at the 15th Street Park, install a screening fence at Central Park, and improve drainage at Dameron Park.

Mayor Bob Josseland said the PARD plan is designed to "save money and to better organize and utilize all park facilities." All three governmental entities will participate, and the Hereford YMCA had indicated a desire to be involved. The commission voted to move ahead with the plan.

An advisory board would be responsible for supervising the department, but it would have no budget or operating duties. All facilities of the three entities would be included in PARD with the exception of Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The board will be composed of one member appointed by each entity, one member appointed by the mayor, and one member from the YMCA board. Should the "Y" framework change, that member would be selected by the other three seated members.

Enrique Garcia, who lives just outside the city limits, north of Higginbotham-Bartlett, appeared at the meeting to request extension of city water service to his home. With his agreement to pay for extending the line and his knowledge the rate outside the city is 1.5 times the customary rate, the commission approved the request.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Josseland, commissioners Roger Eades, Dennis Hicks, Nancy Griego and Carey Black. Absent were commissioners Silvana Juarez and Wayne Winget.

City officer on TV show

Hereford DARE Officers Terry Brown will be one of the featured guests today on Amarillo station KACV-TV's Perspective.

The show will air at 9 p.m. and will feature Brown, Randall County Juvenile Probation Department representative Neal Edins and Pampa Police Liaison Officer Brian Hedrick.

The topic of discussion among the officers and host Cathy Teague will be juvenile crime problems, as well as behavior modification programs under way in Hereford and Amarillo.

Viewers will have the opportunity to call in with their own questions and comments.

Brown said he was invited to be on the show because "I work in secondary schools directly and we're going to be talking about juvenile crime and how it affects the safety of campuses."

Brown said he plans to mention a variety of programs and services aimed at juvenile crime here, including the new county Juvenile Detention Center, the police department's "zero-tolerance" approach to fighting at school, the assessing of fines against fighters in Municipal Court and the fact that there he and Officer Robert Holberg are permanently stationed at the schools.

The show can be seen on Channel 5 for Hereford Cablevision customers or on Channel 2 otherwise.

No Lotto winner on Saturday

By The Associated Press
No tickets purchased in the latest Texas Lotto correctly matched all six numbers drawn for the twice-weekly game, state lottery officials said Sunday.

They said that if sales continue as expected, the jackpot for Wednesday night's drawing will be worth an estimated $8 million.

The jackpot for Saturday night's drawing was worth $3 million. The numbers drawn from a field of 50 were: 11, 15, 16, 24, 46, 48.

The state lottery said that 72 tickets were sold with five of the six winning numbers, with each worth $2,300. There were also 4,333 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $138.

Also, 93,035 tickets were sold with three of six numbers. Each was worth an automatic $3.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the woman who wrote about her husband's relationship with the female half of a recently divorced couple. She was concerned because the woman frequently asked her husband for help and advice. The husband insisted he was just "helping an old friend."

I have been in precisely the same situation, and I hope she will learn from my experience. When my friend "Carla" was going through her divorce, I talked to my husband about my suspicions and anxieties. I felt their friendship was too close, their conversations were too personal and she leaned on him too heavily. She phoned him at least five nights a week, usually during dinner time.

My husband said I was "crazy" and that my imagination was working overtime. When Carla's divorce was final, however, he announced that they had fallen in love and he wanted to marry her. So I gave him a divorce because I couldn't live with a man who loved another woman.

He telephoned me three months later and said he had made a big mistake. I refused to take him back. I was still paying the lawyer and was very bitter. Six months later, he married Carla.

If I had it to do over again, I would have stayed married. My two children were permanently scarred by our divorce. Even though they visited their father twice a month on weekends, they still suffered from not having him around. I hope you will print my letter. It may prevent other women from making the same mistake.--Regrets in South Florida

DEAR REGRETS: Another case of 20-20 hindsight. Thanks for sharing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read the article about calling 911, I had to write. I also work an emergency switchboard and have two additional comments:

Teach everyone to say NINE ONE ONE instead of "nine-eleven." There is no 11 on the telephone. Laugh if you want to, but think about it for a minute. Not everyone is familiar with a phone. When you are in an emergency situation, you don't always think clearly.

Secondly, don't try to "educate" your child about what type of emergency is appropriate for a call to 911. Let US determine if it's an emergency or not. We would rather receive some trivial calls than have you die because your child wasn't sure this was the time to call us and he was too rattled to ask Dad, Mom, Gram or the police.

Many children have saved the lives of their loved ones by calling 911. Even a child as young as 2 years of age can do it.--North Port, Fla.

DEAR N. PORT: You will never know how many lives you may have saved by writing that letter. Neither will I, but I do thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with interest your column about the fancy weekend guests who ran up a big telephone bill and made no attempt to reimburse the host. My own modest income is $30,000 a year. My friends and family have also visited and made calls. It wasn't much, but every one of them insisted that I accept reimbursement.

Can it be that we poor folks have better manners?--Portland, Ore.

DEAR PORTLAND: It certainly can. Money has nothing to do with manners. Some people with lots of money behave like slob while those who have very little can be very classy.

What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' booklet, "Gems," is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Roundtable discussion held by club

A roundtable discussion was held when members of the Hereford Chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees met Jan. 11 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

With Nolan Grady presiding, members discussed the health reform legislation which is pending and the source tax.

Also, during the business meeting, the minutes were read and approved and the treasurer's report was given.

Those attending included Frank Clements, Argen Draper, Ernest Flippo, Mary Alice Frye, Nolan Grady and Jean Jones.

The next meeting is scheduled Feb. 8 at the Senior Citizens Center. All federal retirees are invited to attend.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) - John Mellencamp says MTV did him a favor by censoring portions of his new video, "When Jesus Left Birmingham."

The cable music station put computer generated video blocks over images it considered inappropriate, such as characters in black face and white face and people using needles.

Mellencamp publicist Jody Miller said the video was meant to highlight a deteriorating society and show the temptations that children face.

But the singer said the MTV changes might actually be for the better.

"Their standards and practices edict has brought more attention to the very issue I'm talking about in the song and the video, anyway," Mellencamp said.

Test relationship for honesty

Can you be sure that you have an honest relationship? Can you rely on your feelings? Will you be happy together in the future or will you have to "let them go" because it was all a lie?

The ability to find the right person is important in all your personal relations. Knowing whom to trust, work for and marry, and which groups to join and support can be the difference between successful survival and painful failure in life.

Making the wrong decisions about people can cause hurt. As one's confidence in judgement of character declines, so does the ability to hand people.

L. Ron Hubbard developed an emotion "tone scale" which plots human behavior and shows you how to choose people. It is available in the newly released book, What is Scientology?

Hubbard said, "This tone scale is also valid for groups. A business or nation can be examined as to its various standard reactions and these can be plotted. This chart can also be used employing people or in choosing partners."

Hubbard's discoveries have now been provided in a simple test so you can find out where a person is at on the scale and predict how your relationship will work out or how long your new employee will stay with the company.

It's fun, it's easy and it's free. The results may surprise you! You could find out who is at the root of painful experiences and broken hopes. Get rid of the doubts.

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) - Al Lewis says he can't bear to see himself on the screen.

Lewis, who earned fame as Grandpa on "The Munsters" and as Officer Leo Schnauser in "Car 54, Where are You?," says he never watched either TV show.

"I've done about 400 TV episodes and I never saw a single one of them," the 83-year-old actor says in the Jan. 22 TV Guide.

Lewis says he will attend the premiere of the movie version of "Car 54," where he returns to the Schnauser role, but he won't be there for long.

"The moment you start the picture, I'm gone," said Lewis, who gives a simple explanation for his boycotts: "I just don't want to see me."

Minchew, Griego tie for Toastmasters honor

Linda Minchew and Nancy Griego tied for best speaker when the Hereford Toastmasters Club met Jan. 13 at the Ranch House.

"Be Still and Listen" was the topic presented by Linda Minchew and evaluated by Sharon Cramer, and "Where Have All the Nurses Gone" was the topic given by Griego who was evaluated by Dee Hamilton.

Hamilton was named best evaluator and Joe Don Cummings was selected best topic speaker.

Margaret Del Toro led the pledge and Mike Harris gave the invocation. Rick Jackson presided over the business meeting.

Ralph Barndt served as Toastmaster; Pat Varner, timer; Bob Lohr, "ah" counter; Dave Kimmel, grammarian; Ed Gilbert, wordmaster; and the chosen word was "repartee."

Topic speakers included Dr. M.C. Adams, Joe Don Cummings, Joe

Weaver, Charles Minchew and Sharon Cramer. Jigger Rowland served as general evaluator and Clark Andrews told the joke.

Joe Weaver was introduced as the official visitor as area governor and others attending included T.J. Danley, Chuck Danley and Ricky Backus.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - NBC is giving Jay Leno a vote of confidence.

The network is extending Leno's contract, just a year after it appeared on the verge of dumping him to keep David Letterman from defecting to CBS.

"It's good to see you again," a jovial Leno told reporters at the Television Critics Association annual winter press tour. "The last time I saw you, I was about to be fired."

HJH, 9th grade girls take four-of-six hoops games

Hereford girls won four out of six basketball games played Monday in Hereford.

HJH girls won 3-of-4 against Pampa, including a 68-13 romp by the eighth grade A team. Katie Betzen and Julie Rampley scored 21 and 20 points, respectively, and Misti Davis added 10.

The eighth B team took a 33-15 win on the strength of 10 points from Jacque Bezner and 9 from Monica Castillo. The seventh White also won, 32-12, getting 10 from Kasey Torres and 8 from Kristin Fangman. The only HJH loss was the only close game, as the seventh Maroon team lost 31-26. Tara Mays and Amy Perrin each scored eight for Hereford.

Across the hall in Whiteface Gym, the ninth grade A team shut out Palo Duro in the second quarter en route to a 36-14 win. Cassie Abney led Hereford with 17, and J.J. Hill had 10. The Hereford B team lost to Tascosa, but Christy Haney had six points on two three-pointers.

The HJH boys went to Pampa, where they were ambushed. Hereford got one win there: a 42-33 win by the eighth grade A team in which Jeremy Urbanczyk scored 13 and Jeremy Scott and Bryant McNutt had eight each.

The seventh White team narrowly lost, 44-40, despite Gilbert Martinez' 14 points and Chris Cory's 10. The seventh Maroon lost 52-41, despite Chris Torres' 16 and Brent Berend's 13. The eighth B team fell 40-19; Freddie Escobal scored 6 for Hereford.

On Saturday, the ninth grade boys dropped two games in Hereford. The A team lost 64-31 to Amarillo High and the B lost 60-41 to Dimmitt. Cory Schumacher scored 10 and Trip Robison had 8 for the A team, and Curt Sherrod had 12 and Wes Blackwell 8 for the B team. The ninth grade boys were scheduled to play Monday, but no results were reported.

Herd goes to Dumas tonight

Hereford's basketball teams go to Dumas for District 1-4A games tonight. The girls play at 6, the boys at 7:30.

Both Hereford teams are coming off losses to Borger on Friday. The boys are 0-1 in district, 6-15 overall. The girls are 1-2 and 8-13.

Dumas' girls are 2-1 in district and 11-10 overall. Their one district loss was to Borger by only one point. Dumas' boys are struggling at 3-16. They're coming off a 56-point loss to Pampa on Friday.

Hereford will come back home to face Pampa on Friday. The Harvesters, at 14-8, have their usual strong squad, while the Lady Harvesters have struggled to a 2-16 mark.

There will be no girls' JV game Friday because Pampa has canceled its girls' JV schedule. The sophomore boys will play at 4:30, and the JV boys will play at 6.

Netters scrimmage in Brownfield

The Hereford High School tennis team got its first action of the spring Saturday in Brownfield. Hereford played a scrimmage of sorts against Brownfield and Lubbock High.

Hereford won 17 out of the 26 matches with Brownfield and won 5 of the 18 matches with Lubbock High.

"(They looked) real good for the first one of the spring," coach Ed

Coplen said. "We got some new ones out that look good."

"It was just to give them all some varsity competition," he said. "It was kind of like the first football scrimmage, where we tried to play every kid we could a couple of times."

Hereford will host Canyon after school (about 4 p.m.) Jan. 27.

Y extends youth hoops deadline

The sign-up deadline for the Hereford YMCA's youth basketball leagues has been extended to Friday.

There are separate leagues for boys and girls in three different age groups: 1st and 2nd grades, 3rd and 4th, and 5th and 6th. All games are supervised and refereed, and all players get to play in every game.

The registration fee for each player is $18, but additional children from the same family cost only $15. All players must be members of the YMCA. Youth memberships cost $25 for a year.

Quake hits Big A

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The "Big A" sign inside the stadium is down. The scoreboard and giant replay screen are in ruins.

Anaheim Stadium sustained about $3.4 million in damages Monday from the earthquake that rocked Los Angeles.

The stadium, home of the California Angels and Los Angeles Rams, is farther from the quake's epicenter than most of the Los Angeles area's stadiums and arenas. Yet, it was the only one to incur significant damage.

Bret Colson, an Anaheim city spokesman, said there will be a big bill to foot because the insurance deductible is $6.25 million, meaning the damages will not be covered.

Anaheim is some 30 miles from downtown Los Angeles and about 50 miles from where the quake was centered in Northridge.

The new Anaheim Arena, about a mile from Anaheim Stadium and home of the NHL's Mighty Ducks, had no apparent damage.

"We were able to weather it very well," said John Nicoletti, spokesman for the arena. "The building is built structurally sound. Everything is fine."

Nearer the epicenter of the quake, which measured 6.6 on the Richter scale, were Dodger Stadium, the Los Angeles Coliseum and Sports Arena, all near downtown Los Angeles, the Rose Bowl in Pasadena and the Forum in Inglewood. All apparently had no major damage.

The Sacramento Kings-Los Angeles Lakers game Monday afternoon was postponed because of the mayhem.

"It's the scariest feeling I've ever had," Sacramento forward Wayman Tisdale said.

"Two thoughts came to mind," said Kings coach Garry St. Jean.

"One, is the building going to collapse? Two, what about my family?"

Cowboys to meet 49ers in NFC Championship

By DENNIS GEORGATOS

AP Sports Writer
SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) - All the San Francisco 49ers needed to bury their weak regular-season finish was a reason to play.

And in the playoffs, the incentives just keep piling up.

On Sunday at Dallas, the 49ers have a rematch with the Cowboys for the NFC championship. The Cowboys beat the 49ers 30-20 in last year's title game at Candlestick Park.

A victory would put the 49ers into the Super Bowl for the fifth time, possibly to face Joe Montana, the quarterback who took them to their first four. Montana, who lost his job to Steve Young, was traded in April to Kansas City, which plays at Buffalo on Sunday in the AFC championship.

"Everybody's kind of excited to see him play so well. A lot of us are still Joe Montana fans. We'd like to play him at the end," tackle Steve Wallace said.

"I don't want to get too far ahead of myself, but, boy, it's getting close, isn't it?" tight end Brent Jones said.

"The country would want to see it, the league would want to see it, supposedly Joe and Steve would want to see it. But first things first. We've got such a big game right now."

San Francisco qualified for the conference championship by beating the New York Giants 44-3 Saturday. It was a dramatic form reversal for a

Robinson sits out of Spurs' win over Bullets

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

The San Antonio Spurs should have been thrilled after winning their sixth straight game. They weren't, and the Washington Bullets felt even worse.

Both teams had plenty to fret over after losing their highest-scoring players to injuries Monday at a game won by San Antonio 100-87.

David Robinson, the Spurs center who is second in the league in scoring at 27.8 per game, hurt his knee in warmups and sat out, breaking a string of 119 consecutive games played.

Rex Chapman, leading the Bullets in scoring at 18.9 per game, dislocated his ankle and will be sidelined up to 10 weeks.

"I don't know what I did to it," Robinson said. "In the warmup before the game, I made a quick turn and felt an incredible pain."

"I feel bad about having to sit out the game, but I just want to make sure everything's all right and that there's no risk of damaging something any further."

Chapman was injured when he stepped on Dennis Rodman's foot while driving the lane. Doctors placed the ankle in a splint.

"He was having a great season, probably the best of his career," said Tom Gugliotta, Chapman's teammate. "We need the younger guys to step up now and fill in for him."

Dale Ellis scored 16 of his 20 points before halftime at Landover, Md., as San Antonio took control just before halftime and coasted in the second half.

Terry Cummings led the Spurs with 21 points, Negele Knight added 19 and Willie Anderson 15. Dennis Rodman had two points and 19 rebounds.

Gugliotta led Washington with 17 points, Don MacLean scored 16 and Calbert Cheaney added 14.

The Spurs held Washington to an all-time franchise low of 23 rebounds, three short of an all-time NBA record for fewest in a game.

The Sacramento-L.A. Lakers game was postponed because of the earthquake in Southern California.

Warriors 104, Suns 99

At Oakland, Calif., it came down to the final 12 seconds. Latrell Sprewell made two free throws with 11.8 seconds left to put the Warriors up by three points. Dan Majerle, with a chance to tie it, shot an airball from 3-point range five seconds later. Billy Owens added a dunk at the buzzer for the final margin.

Golden State won its fourth straight and ended a six-game losing streak to the Suns dating to Nov. 28, 1992.

Sprewell led Golden state with 23 points and Owens added 19. Danny Ainge had 18 for Phoenix, which was without Charles Barkley and Kevin Johnson.

Bulls 121, 76ers 91

At Chicago, the Bulls ran their home winning streak to 14 games, and they did it with Horace Grant on the bench with a sore knee.

The Sixers were down by 12 point at the half and Chicago buried them in the third quarter. It was 92-66 entering the fourth. B.J. Armstrong finished with 21 points.

Knicks 106, Timberwolves 94

At New York, the Knicks blew another big lead, but rallied behind Patrick Ewing in the fourth quarter.

Ewing scored 34 points - his fifth time in six games with 30 or more - and had 13 in the final quarter. New York led by 20 points at halftime, but Minnesota cut the lead to four in the fourth quarter. The Knicks regained control with an 11-2 run.

Cavaliers 114, Magic 107

At Richfield, Ohio, the Cavaliers had a 13-point lead with 3:35 left, but Shaquille O'Neal led a 13-0 run that tied it. Mark Price sank a tie-breaking 3-pointer with a minute left and Gerald Wilkins made two foul shots as Cleveland escaped with the victory.

Shaquille O'Neal had 31 points and Anfernee Hardaway added 23 for the Magic.

Jazz 109, Pistons 94

At Auburn Hills, Mich., Detroit lost its 13th straight, one short of the franchise record.

Utah jumped out to leads of 10-0 and 16-2, and it only got worse for the Pistons after that. Karl Malone had 25 points and 11 rebounds and was one assist short of a triple-double.

Hawks 102, Bucks 98

At Atlanta, the Hawks gained a slight edge over Seattle (16-1) for best homecourt record in the NBA (17-1).

Dominique Wilkins matched his season-high with 38 points, including 16 in the third period.

No. 1 Kansas falls to K-State

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - Playing its first game since being voted No. 1, Kansas proceeded to botch things but good.

With its top scorer knocked out and its second-leading scorer in a shooting funk, the Jayhawks lost 68-64 Monday night to Kansas State in one of college basketball's oldest rivalries.

Kansas (16-2, 1-1 Big Eight) had won 12 in a row and was the fourth team this season to take the top spot in the polls.

"I could care less if we were number one or number 5,000," Jayhawks coach Roy Williams said. "There was no extra pressure. When I found out we were number one this morning, I told the team it was just an example of what you've done to this point."

The Jayhawks lost Richard Scott early after he was kneed in the forehead by a teammate. Scott, averaging 15.5 points a game and Kansas' main inside player, was taken to the hospital with a possible concussion.

Steve Woodberry, averaging 15.4

points, made just 2 of 11 shots and finished with eight points. Woodberry did not have a field goal in the first half and could not make a 3-pointer in seven tries.

"We made a big comeback on them and they didn't get rattled," Williams said. "They needed this game. They were more intense than we were. We tied it twice, but we never did get over the hump."

Kansas, which had been outrebounding its opponents by an average of more than seven a game, was outrebounded 44-32. Greg Osterag, the Jayhawks' 7-footer, had a weak game and did not play the last 17 minutes.

"In the past we've given up some leads," Kansas State coach Dana Altman said. "It was different tonight. Our seniors really stepped up and made the plays."

Kansas State (12-3, 1-2) went off on a 13-0 run at the end of the first half and the start of the second, going up 55-42 with 11 minutes left. Kansas clawed back to a 57-57 tie with about five minutes left, and tied it again at 64-64 with 43.6 seconds to go on a 3-pointer by Sean Pearson.

Wildcats point guard Anthony Beane then took the ball and dribbled off as much of the shot clock as he dared before driving to the middle of the lane and making a running shot over Calvin Rayford.

Patrick Richey missed in the lane for Kansas, which then was forced to foul Beane. He made two free throws for the final margin.

Askia Jones scored 26 for Kansas State and Beane had 18. Pearson led Kansas with 15 points.

In the only other game involving a ranked team, No. 10 Connecticut beat Hartford 88-62. Ray Allen scored 18 of his career-high 28 points in the second half to carry the Huskies.

Donyell Marshall finished with 23 points for Connecticut (15-1), which trailed by five points before taking a 47-37 lead at halftime.

Mike Bond finished with 16 points and Huran Ramey had 12 for Hartford (7-5), which came in with a six-game winning streak.

Oilers go through day-after routine

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers are painfully aware of what happens after they're eliminated from the playoffs.

They've been through the routine seven years in a row, the longest current string of any team in the NFL to qualify for the playoffs. And the agony doesn't diminish as the years pass.

"We felt there was no way we'd be in this spot," safety Bo Orlando said. "There's really nothing you can say."

The Oilers returned to their practice facility early Monday, collected their belongings in large plastic bags and left, missing in action as they playoffs continue once again.

This time, Houston was kicked out by the Kansas City Chiefs 28-20 on Sunday in a game the Oilers led 13-7 in the fourth quarter.

On Monday, they faced another day-after experience they preferred to avoid. When pressed, they talked briefly and reluctantly.

All-Pro guard Mike Munchak, who may have played his final season because of chronically injured knees, said what the rest of the team felt.

"We should have been still playing," Munchak said. "It's hard to come over here today. This is when it starts to sink in what has happened."

This was the year they were supposed to be more than just playoff also-rans. The Oilers, after overcoming a 1-4 start, were favorites to reach the big show.

Instead, for the third straight year, they blew an early lead in a playoff game and lost after teasing their fans once again with visions of advancing past the second round of the playoffs.

Coach Jack Pardee, as he's done all season, took the positive side.

"If you don't get into the playoffs, you don't have a chance," Pardee said. "We've blown our chances so far, but if we can get there enough, we will make it."

As it slowly sank in that the Oilers were once again out of the playoffs, the questions returned.

Will feuding coordinators Buddy Ryan and Kevin Gilbride return? Will the run-and-shoot be altered? Will Warren Moon and his $4.2 million salary be back?

As for the staff, Pardee said he expects it to remain intact.

"This was the first year we worked together and the more chances we have to work together the better we'll be," he said. "The key is to get good coaches. I don't see a problem working together and getting the most out of everybody."

The run-and-shoot had another year among the top offenses in the league and it also had its detractors.

"I can't imagine anyone wanting to change an offense that's been as effective as the run-and-shoot," Gilbride said. "There's always room for improvement but I see no reach for wholesale changes."

Moon, who survived the first benching in his 10-year NFL career earlier this season, wasn't trying to figure anything out on Monday.

"A lot of people are asking about my future, even my kids," Moon said. "I'm still under contract. At this point, I'm just going to take a few days off and then get ready for the Pro Bowl."

Ryan, completing a tumultuous first year as defensive coordinator, expects to return, unless a head coaching opportunity arises.

Asked about his future, he replied "Future? I've got a great future."

Ryan's defense was the biggest improvement in the overall team this season but it didn't help in the fourth quarter on Sunday when Monday directed the Chiefs to two touchdowns in a 54-second span.

"Our defense played super," Ryan said. "But that other team is a playoff team and Montana is one of the best quarterbacks in the league. What happened was, they were fortunate and we were unfortunate."

team that lost three of its last four regular-season games, including the final two for the first time since 1980.

"December was always the time we had that extra adrenaline when no one else did, and this year, somehow we lost it," linebacker Mike Walter said.

Just two weeks ago, coach George Seifert described the team as in a "sorry state" and the overall atmosphere as "a little bit chaotic." Then, the 49ers went out and handed the Giants their worst-ever postseason loss.

The players never panicked over the season-ending losses to Houston and Philadelphia because the regulars were coming out early and the games were essentially meaningless, said 49ers center Jesse Sapolu, a veteran of three Super Bowls.

San Francisco already had clinched the NFC West crown and an opening playoff game at home with a 55-17 victory at Detroit on Dec. 19.

"I mean, when Steve Young, Jerry Rice and John Taylor come out of a game in the third quarter with the score tied at 24-24, what does that tell me?" Sapolu said, referring to the 49ers' 37-34 overtime loss to Philadelphia in the regular-season finale.

"What I think happens is there's a desperation to football that you have to have to be at the top of your game," Yotting said.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Two years ago I was told I have fibroids. I started reading and discovered fibroids are tumors. That threw me. When I questioned my doctor further he said the fibroids had been present for at least four years. My confidence in him was shaken.

A saw another doctor for a second opinion and he recommended surgery. The fibroids were not that large — the size of a 10-week pregnancy. My hemoglobin was 11.7, but that was with taking a large dose of iron.

A third doctor noted my uterus was slightly enlarged. He commented that he had just had one patient diagnosed with a cancerous fibroid.

I'm 44 and will soon have another appointment. Meanwhile I worry that the fibroids will grow and I'll have to have a hysterectomy. I am worried about the bad effects of a hysterectomy.

DEAR READER: Fibroids are benign tumors, meaning a plain fibroid does not become a cancer. In rare cases what appears to be a fibroid is really a different type, a malignant tumor. A hysterectomy because of possible malignancy is not usually done. The indications for a hysterectomy for a fibroid include those that are as large as a 12-week pregnancy and those that cause excessive bleeding. When they prevent pregnancy in a woman desiring to become pregnant, and who is still in the child-bearing years, the fibroids alone may be excised leaving a major portion of the uterus. In a high percentage of these cases, a woman can still get pregnant.

Large fibroid tumors can cause pressure on the bowel and bladder.

As improbable as it may seem, a fibroid that weighed 140 pounds has been reported. Fibroids tend to shrink when a woman enters the menopause if she does not receive large doses of estrogen.

The rest of your letter suggests an unreasonable fear about the consequences of a hysterectomy. To help you understand your situation, you should read Special Report 106, Fibroids, Vaginal Hernias and Hysterectomies. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/106, P.O. Box 1589, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537. A lot of confusion exists because the response after a hysterectomy often depends on whether the ovaries were or were not also removed during surgery. Removing the ovaries is not part of a hysterectomy.

DEAR DR. LAMB: We have a friend who uses human waste to fertilize his garden. I heard you can get AIDS this way. We would like an answer before next spring's garden season.

DEAR READER: No, it is completely impossible to get AIDS from eating vegetables that have been fertilized by human waste. You do not get AIDS from anything you eat. That is also why food handlers with AIDS are not a danger.

One reason human waste is not used as fertilizer is the risk that it will contain parasites or infectious organisms. Many diseases are spread by the fecal-oral route — meaning the infectious organism, bacteria, viruses or parasites will be on the food — and when you ingest it, you will get the disease. Many countries do use human waste for fertilizer. But you must be extra careful to have thoroughly cleaned the harvest or only use items you can cook to eliminate the risk.

Actually human waste is an excellent fertilizer if the health hazards can be eliminated. You might think of it as organic gardening.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have Raynaud's syndrome. I have always been a cold person, especially in the winter. One day my middle finger turned white and went numb. After I ran warm water over it, it went back to normal. The doctor looked at my hands, and since they sometimes turn different colors, he said I have Raynaud's syndrome. I'm taking Trental three times a day before meals. It isn't any better. Can anything else be done?

DEAR READER: Spasm of the arteries in response to cold is Raynaud's syndrome. The decreased circulation, commonly to the fingers, causes them to become wax white, they become blue as blood returns after the spasm relaxes and then red — hence the red, white and blue syndrome. It may involve other parts of the body in addition to the fingers. The best treatment is complete avoidance of cold or any cold objects, such as a glass of ice water. If you smoke, don't. That makes the spasms worse.

If you don't do better, your doctor may want to try one of the calcium channel blockers such as Procardia or Adalat which dilate arteries. They help in about 50 percent of cases.

Help young teeth stay healthy, cavity free

Half of American children reach age 17 with cavities in their permanent teeth. Yet with proper oral healthcare, your children can develop primary teeth and then permanent teeth that are healthy and cavity free.

Good oral healthcare should begin in infancy, says the American Dental Hygienists' Association (ADHA), whose members—registered dental hygienists—specialize in preventive care. To get off to a good start, ADHA advises thoroughly cleaning babies' gums after each feeding with a water-soaked washcloth or gauze pad to stimulate them and to remove residue and plaque.

And help prevent early tooth decay by not letting babies routinely fall asleep with a bottle of formula or other sugary liquids in their mouths.

The first visit to the dental hygienist or dentist should occur around age one, according to ADHA experts, to check for cavities in the primary teeth and for any early developmental problems.

Baby teeth are just as important as permanent teeth; young children need strong, healthy primary teeth to chew food properly, to learn to speak well and to help preserve space for permanent teeth.

Use a small, soft-bristled, round-toothbrush to clean baby teeth. At age two or three, begin teaching your child proper brushing techniques. You should continue follow-up brushing and gentle flossing until children reach age seven or eight, when they have the dexterity to brush and floss alone.

Fluoride and sealant applications also should be part of your oral hygiene program for your children.

Fluoride strengthens tooth enamel and supporting bones and helps prevent tooth decay. Depending on specific needs, fluorides can be applied directly to children's teeth. Fluoride also can be found in community drinking water, toothpaste and mouth rinse.

Sealants are thin, clear plastic coatings that fill pits and fissures when dropped or brushed onto the clean biting surfaces of the teeth. Sealants should be applied by your dental hygienist or dentist shortly after the permanent first molars appear—around age six—and again after the permanent second molars come in around age 12. Single sealant applications should last several years and will shield the teeth from cavity-causing plaque.

Beginning in the 1840s, commercial whalers hunted gray whales in their breeding lagoons along the Baja California coast and later in their northern range, reducing the eastern Pacific stock to a nearly fatal level.

A tornado that blasted towns in Ohio and Pennsylvania in May 1985 carried winds estimated at 260 mph or more.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Does parakeet seed go bad? I recently got a parakeet and a friend of mine whose bird died a couple of months ago gave me a few boxes of seed she had.

It looks OK, but I don't know if it is rancid and if it could harm my bird if it is. — Nancy Adams, Ft. Myers, Fla.

According to the American Veterinary Medical Association, old bird seed can become rancid, and feeding it to your bird could make it ill.

Some bird breeders say that baking seeds in the oven on low for a few minutes can reduce bacteria if you want to try this.

Also, you can put the seed in the freezer for 24 hours, just in case there are any little buggies. This should be enough to kill anything.

Seed can also be stored in the refrigerator to keep it fresh. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: I never had a problem getting my children to take a nap. I would tell them it was time for Teddy Bear to take a nap. I would put Teddy Bear in the crib or bed and lay my child beside it. If the child stirred, I would say, "Shhh, Teddy has to sleep."

The child would lie there quietly watching Teddy Bear and in a few minutes would fall asleep. Worked every time! All seven of them! — Grandma in Youngstown, Ohio

Ten tips for losing post-holiday pounds

If you're dieting because you gained weight during the holidays, you have a lot of company. In fact, surveyors at the Calorie Control Council in Atlanta estimated that in January 1993, as many as 5.4 million Americans began diets to lose post-holiday pounds.

The most popular ways to diet, according to more than 90 percent of the consumers surveyed by the Council, are cutting down on high-calorie, high-fat foods; switching to low-fat foods and beverages; and exercising. The least popular method is diet pills.

As more people realize there is no quick fix for losing weight, the nature of dieting is changing. The key is to choose a plan you can realistically follow and to include foods you like. A healthful diet that tastes great is easier to stick with for excellent long-term results.

Here are some weight-loss tips for those who may have overindulged this holiday season:

1. Give away, freeze or toss leftovers. Snacking on those extra cookies or that last box of candy will undermine your best weight loss intentions. Better to keep leftover holiday goodies out of harm's way by delivering them to friends, neighbors or co-workers.

2. Start with a clean kitchen and a clean slate. Most kitchens need a top-to-bottom cleaning after the holidays. Take advantage of this chore by attacking your kitchen cabinets, too. Throw away open packages of potato chips and other calorie-, sodium- and fat-laden foods that can sabotage your weight loss efforts.

3. Pick a safe and sensible meal plan. The ideal meal plan has an average of 1,500 calories per day and no more than 50 grams of fat per day to stay within the 30 percent daily limit recommended by the USDA's Dietary Guidelines.

The plan also should include choices in recommended daily amounts from each of the Food Guide

Pyramid's five food groups: bread, cereal, rice and pasta; vegetables; fruits; milk, yogurt, and cheese; and meat, poultry, fish, dry beans, eggs and nuts.

4. Eat a minimum of three meals every day. Eating meals at regular intervals stimulates your metabolism and maintains blood-sugar levels. Skipping meals lowers metabolism and often leads to overeating.

5. Include snacks if meals are more than five hours apart. Keep an assortment of low-fat snacks handy to curb hunger between meals. Raw carrot sticks, low-fat yogurt, air-popped popcorn, pretzels, rice cakes, gingersnaps and plain graham crackers are all good choices.

6. Remember that time is your best friend. Slow weight loss, from half a pound to two pounds per week, is healthier and more lasting than rapid weight loss. This means that if you have 10 pounds to lose, it may take anywhere from five weeks to five months, depending on your body chemistry. Be patient and you'll be less likely to gain back the weight.

7. Hide the bathroom scale. Weighing yourself every day can not only be disheartening, but also inaccurate, since muscle weighs more than fat. Instead, gauge weight loss by how loosely your clothes fit.

8. Get off the couch! You've heard it before, and it's still true. Regular, moderate exercise is essential to losing weight. Whether you take a walk or scrub the bathroom floor—keep active and moving.

9. Know your trigger foods. Satisfy your craving for favorite foods with occasional treats to fend off a possible binge. Experiment with the variety of reduced-fat and reduced-calorie foods available today. If ice cream is a favorite, for example, try low-fat frozen yogurt.

10. Reward yourself. Set weight-loss milestones. When you reach them, reward yourself with a small indulgence, such as a new magazine or a professional manicure. Whatever reward you choose, enjoy it knowing that you're on your way to a better health and fitness.

THE MOUSE THAT ROARED

FOSTER ELECTRONICS

"COMPUTERS MADE EASY"

COMPUTER LITERACY I
(THE BASICS)

Beginning
January 31st.

TOPICS COVERED IN THIS CLASS

Learn a little about using Windows, Word Processors, Spreadsheets, Personal Accounting, and other software.

Purchasing considerations - what is available and how to know what you want.

Computer Viruses - all about them and how to protect yourself.

Making Backups - the what, how, and why's. introduction to B.A.S.I.C.

Important Notes:

*Basic typing skills and being familiar with the mouse will help you get more out of the class. For this reason, we offer a "fun and games" night starting one week before each scheduled class. The PC's will be available for you to come in and play "Solitaire" in windows and experiment with the PC's. This is highly recommended if you don't have a PC that uses a mouse and/or programs like we will be using in the class (and there is no extra charge).

*All classes emphasize "hands on." There will be enough PC's available in the classroom so that there will be no more than 2 people on each PC. For this reason, class size is limited. You must pay in advance to reserve your space in class, and there are no refunds for cancellation (but you are welcome to send someone in your place).

*All classes are taught using the most recent versions of the software - If you have an older version, the concepts will be the same (the program will just have improvements). Special upgrade offers will be available.

Heroism comes out in earthquake rescue efforts

By JEFF WILSON
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - John and Josephine Winans owe their lives to one random beam. Alan and Buffy Jo Fitch saved their neighbors by turning a fire hose into a lifeline.

At the Northridge Meadows Apartments, in the blue-collar neighborhood at the epicenter of the Southern California earthquake, tragedy gave rise to both terror and heroism Monday.

When the earth rolled, the top two stories of the 164-unit wood-and-stucco complex sank into the ground floor, crushing it. At least 15 people were killed.

Rescue workers using dogs worked into the night, creeping about the ruins of more than 40 apartments, but the busiest person on the scene was the coroner.

The Winans made it. "There was a beam that saved us," Mrs. Winan said. "It made a little cubbyhole just big enough for our bodies."

"It was a miracle," her husband said. "We're laying in that bed, then it sounded like hell opening up. It was rolling and rocking. We were flying everywhere. Then it stopped and I saw light and neighbors pulled us out about four minutes later."

Safe on the street, he realized he was naked. Neighbors gave him shoes and pants and a sweatshirt.

The Fitches woke to the sounds of the wrenched building groaning and trapped neighbors crying.

"What was really hard was when you could hear someone screaming and you couldn't help them," Mrs. Fitch said.

She and her husband, who climbs mountains as a hobby, made their way to the third floor, where they tied fire hoses around the waists of some 15 residents and lowered them to the courtyard.

On the first floor, Fitch found a woman trapped under what had been her bedroom wall. "She was completely helpless," Fitch said. "One of her legs wasn't working."

With her husband pushing from one side and Fitch on the other side pulling her arms, they managed to drag the woman from the rubble.

Apartment manager Pat Mekinski sat in a lawn chair clutching her Pekinese, Nicky, and trying not to cry. "Everyone was outside screaming," Mekinski said. "The babies were screaming, you couldn't see anything."

Erik Pearson, a resident of the complex and an emergency medical technician, said he had pronounced five people dead.

Pearson walked about clutching a fire extinguisher. Finally, someone eased it out of his hands. He said he couldn't understand why the building collapsed when an identical one next door was still standing.

A contingent of the Urban Search and Rescue Team, a national strike team supported by the federal government, pulled in with enough supplies to last them through 72 hours of exploration.

Stocked with their own water, food and sleeping quarters, the team unpacked large air bags to lift rubble and spark-free radios to avert gas fires.

"There's always hope there are people in there," said Gregory Gonzalez, hurrying off to work.

Firefighters searched the building three times before dusk, using dogs trained to detect any humans - alive or dead - and super-sensitive listening devices.

Swinging axes into walls and floors, crews knocked out holes and dropped in the devices, listening hard. They heard only silence.

Earthquake hits Texas businesses

By The Associated Press
Several Texas businesses faced difficulties in the wake of the California earthquake that devastated the Los Angeles-area.

American Airlines canceled about 20 flights into and 20 flights out of Los Angeles International Airport Monday following the early morning earthquake that measured 6.6 on the Richter scale and killed at least two dozen people.

"We canceled some flights and put people on later flights," said John Hotard, a spokesman for Fort Worth-based American. "We haven't had anybody left at the airport who wanted to come out of L.A. It may not have been at the hour they wanted, but at least they got out of there."

The L.A. airport, the country's fourth busiest, was closed for part of the morning, canceling flights while inspectors examined runways.

The shutdown and other problems forced the cancellation of only six Continental Airlines flights.

"We operate over 2,000 flights daily, so six earthquake cancellations didn't have much of an effect on our system," said Ned Walker, a spokesman for Houston-based Continental Airlines.

Many Texans had difficulty trying to reach friends and family in California by telephone as lines were either down or jammed by heavy use.

"Several switching offices are operating on back-up generators due to the loss of commercial power in many locations," said a statement from Irving-based GTE Telephone Operations. "Some communities are unavailable for incoming or outgoing long distance service, but we are working to restore this service as quickly as possible."

Past quakes that have hit California

By The Associated Press

Some major earthquakes in California: June 28, 1992: A 7.5-magnitude earthquake in Landers and a 6.6 aftershock at Big Bear Lake kill one toddler.

Oct. 17, 1989: A 7.1 quake in the San Francisco Bay area kills 63 people.

Oct. 1, 1987: A 5.9 quake in Whittier and a 5.3 aftershock kill eight people.

Jan. 24, 1980: A 5.8 quake in the Livermore area east of San Francisco damages a nuclear weapons laboratory.

Feb. 9, 1971: A 6.5 quake in the Sylmar-San Fernando area leaves 65 people dead.

July 21, 1952: A 7.7 quake in the Tehachapi-Bakersfield area 50 miles north of Los Angeles kills 12 people.

March 10, 1933: A 6.3 quake in Long Beach kills 115 people.

April 18-19, 1906: Earthquake and fires level San Francisco, killing 700 people, a disputed number some historians argue is much higher. Scientists reckoning in retrospect estimate it would have registered 8.3 on the Richter scale, which was adopted in 1935.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) - Arnold Schwarzenegger can come to Newport with a bang. The city said so.

The City Council voted to allow Schwarzenegger's movie company to exceed noise limits for a chase scene with automatic weapons and an explosion.

Omega Sector Inc. is filming the action-comedy, tentatively titled "True Lies." It features Schwarzenegger, Jamie Lee Curtis and Tom Arnold and is scheduled to come out next summer.
