Icy blast zaps water, electricity in East

By MICHAEL WARREN
Associated Press Writer

It was so cold they stopped making beer in Milwaukee. People in Atlanta were asked not to bathe. And a family in New Hampshire opened their refrigerator to chill their food.

Across most of the eastern United States, record low temperatures have closed schools, businesses, roads and airports. Thousands of people have been without electricity or drinking water.

At least 57 deaths have been blamed on the cold snap that began Sunday. Most of the victims were killed on icy roads or had heart attacks shoveling snow. Some froze to death, including a baby born Monday in an unheated house in Dayton, Ohio, where it was a record 25 below zero Tuesday.

"It's the wind. It bites right through your face," Jerry Fitzpatrick, a repairman entering Wisconsin's state Capitol.

Letter carriers just bundled up and suffered.

"It's colder than a boss' heart," said Ron Macke, who delivered mail in snowy, 8-below St. Louis County on Tuesday. "I wore everything I owned, and it was still cold."

Schools and universities canceled classes today in much of the Midwest after deadly wind chills and temperatures well below zero were forecast for this morning.

"We usually try to hold out, but the chill factor here is minus 50 degrees," said Marilyn Ristevich, a high school principal in Bedford, Mich. "It's a little too chancy."

Minnesota Gov. Arne Carlson closed schools on Tuesday rather than let children wait for buses in 40-below temperatures. But he relented today after parents complained. It was supposed to be no colder than minus 14 this morning.

In Kentucky, ice-covered interstates and parkways remained off limits to all but vehicles carrying essential food, fuel and medical supplies.

"We're not patrolling," said Lee Haynes, a police officer in Edgewood, Ky. "We can't get help to you. You're going to freeze to death. People don't understand it's a killer cold and wouldn't take long."

The Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island were also closed today. The docks in Manhattan were too icy for tourists to board the ferries.

In Milwaukee this morning, Miller Brewing Co. canceled its evening and morning work shifts because of the weather for the first time in at least 10 years, rather than make employees come to work in the cold. It was 17 below.

Trade deficit dips slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) - America's monthly trade deficit shrank slightly to $10.17 billion in November, helped by a big drop in foreign oil prices and lower car imports, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said that the merchandise trade deficit declined by 6.7 percent to the lowest level since August. Imports fell by 1.5 percent, reflecting the cheapest oil prices in five years, but exports were down as well, edging down a smaller 0.1 percent.

Even with the improvement, the United States was certain to suffer its worst trade performance since 1988. Through the first 11 months of the year, the country was running an annual deficit of $118.5 percent, 40 percent higher than the $84.5 billion deficit recorded in 1992.

Analysts have said the 1994 figure is likely to worsen further as an improving U.S. economy draws in higher levels of imports while U.S. manufacturers continue to be battered by significant economic weakness in their major overseas markets.

The biggest factor affecting November's figure was a substantial drop in foreign oil prices, which fell by 91 cents a barrel to an average of $13.69 for the month, the lowest monthly average since December 1988.

Vegetable meeting

Participants in the annual West Texas Vegetable Conference watched presentations and took notes on the proceedings on Tuesday during the one-day event. Mike Carr, chamber of commerce executive vice president, said the conference was a great success, with about 200 people in attendance. Carr said attendance was up from last year because of good weather. Participants came from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and other parts of the United States.

HISD signs papers on Smith Building

The Hereford Independent School District has signed the papers giving it title of the Smith Building, finalizing a deal that began last year and that will give the district a new administration building. Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt said the papers were signed this morning and a wire transfer made completing the $500,000 deal.

Also this morning, he said, assistant superintendent Don Cumpston was meeting with three Hereford contractors that have expressed an interest in handling any remodeling necessary on the building. Greenawalt said the contractors will be given a week to prepare estimates on costs required for work on the building.

Those will be taken to the board at its next meeting, set for next month.

Greenawalt said he hopes that work readying the building for occupancy can begin around the first of February, with the district to move in sometime during March.

TSBGA meeting planned Friday here; Hill to be featured speaker at session

Roger Hill, president of Holly Sugar Corporation, will be guest speaker at the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association (TSBGA) annual meeting Friday at the Hereford Community Center. He is expected to discuss the strong future for sugar production and processing in the Hereford area.

The business meeting will be held in conjunction with the annual Sugar Beet Banquet, scheduled Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Bull Barn. Award-winning humorist and columnist

James "Doc" Blakely will be the banquet speaker.

The banquet is open to the public, and tickets are on sale at $7.50 each. The "Man of the Year in Agriculture" will also be presented at the banquet by The Hereford Brand.

A key part of the TSBGA business meeting on Friday will be the election of new directors. Prospects for new beet seed lines and new developments in disease control will also be meeting topics.

Bill Cleavinger, TSBGA president, says Hill's message will be an important one. He will explain the benefits of improving beet quality in the area.

Cleavinger, also chairman of the American Sugarbeet Growers' legislative affairs committee, will review the completed General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

Dennis Printz, Holly Hereford ag manager, will review the ups and downs of the 1993 harvest, which was slowed by unseasonably cold temperatures in October. He will also recognize the most outstanding growers from the area's 11 growing regions.

Another key speaker will be Steve Reynolds of the Holly Seed Division. He will discuss new varieties which are promising for the region.

Two TSBGA directors--Ed Ramaekers of the Nazareth area and Richard Friemel of the Umbarger area--are retiring from the board. Nominated as candidates to fill the two open spots are Floyd Schulte and J.C. Pohlmeier of the Nazareth area, and Randy Wieck and Joe Grotegut for the Umbarger-Dawn area.

Director Kenneth Frye of the Easter area is up for reelection, and Russell Harkins has been nominated.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station beet research projects will be reviewed at the meeting. These projects are made possible by funding from a grower checkoff, says Cleavinger.

The meeting will feature exhibits from various agribusinesses and allied industries which support the regional beef industry. Many will also sponsor door prizes to be given away at the meeting.

For more information, contact the TSBGA office in Hereford at 364-6402.

three-year terms, but said the four-year term proposal will be debated next month.

Under that proposal, however, three and four directors would still rotate off, but elections would be held every other year in even years, rather than annually.

The board, he said, has to have written notification two weeks before a by-laws change is discussed. To change the board terms, the district's by-laws will have to be changed.

In other board activity Tuesday, directors declined to take action on a grievance by a former employee, who approached the board in a two-hour closed session.

Board president John Perrin expelled the public from the meeting at 8:15 a.m. in accordance with the Texas Open Meetings Act, which allows personnel discussions to be held in private.

In reconvening the meeting at 10:32 p.m., Perrin explained that, while discussions could be made in private, any action must be taken in open session.

After calling for a motion on the closed debate and receiving none, Perrin said, "the board chooses to make no action at this time. We feel this personnel action is one that is handled by the administration of this hospital. ... That is one of the functions of the CEO, of the management of the hospital."

He added that, if the board begins taking action in personnel matters, then they are taking over the functions of the administration.

In hospital operations reports, Rives said December was a good month for the hospital for admissions, with a total of 179 for the month, including newborns.

The average daily census for the hospital was 15.7 patients in December, he said, adding that the board budgeted for an average population of 15 patients.

For the year to date through December, the hospital averaged 14.2

patients per day, including newborns, or 11.5 patients per day not counting the newborns.

Rives pointed out that there were 693 radiology procedures for December, bringing to 2,029 for the year, which was 418 over 1992.

There were 1,403 home health visits for the month, with 4,096 for the year.

Chief financial officer Paul Fowler, in walking the board through the financial reports, said there was a $24,295 loss from operations at the end of December, which compares to $97,136 at the end of December 1992.

For the year to date, the report notes an operating loss of $173,902, which is down from the fiscal year 1992-93 loss of $566,760 at the same time.

By adding in non-operating revenue, Fowler noted, the hospital ended December with $81,442 in revenue over expenses, or $783,568 for the year to date, which is above the $437,317 noted at the same time last year.

In comparing the budgeted expenses to actual spending, Fowler noted that in December, the hospital had an actual loss of 20,043, which was less than the budgeted $38,023 loss.

Rives closed the meeting after 10:30 p.m. by presenting directors with a proposed timetable for discussions of a possible bond election for funding hospital construction and renovations.

Rives said the board will hold a preliminary meeting on Jan. 27, then directors will meet with local individuals to assess support for a bond election and determine membership in a citizens committee, which will be held Feb. 15.

The board is scheduled to call a General Obligation Bond election on March 8, with the election to be held May 7.

8-year-old caught with gun at school Tuesday

An 8-year-old boy was removed from school here on Tuesday after his principal discovered the child had brought a firearm to school with him.

Police Capt. Pat Michael said a "concerned unknown parent" reported that the second-grader had taken a .25-caliber automatic handgun with him to Tierra Blanca Elementary School.

Principal Tommy Rosson confiscated the weapon and a pair of play handcuffs from the child and notified DARE officer Robert Holberg. Michael said nobody was threatened and there was no ammunition in the weapon.

In fact, Michael said, the child told authorities he took the items to school to show off, "to pretend he was an undercover police officer or a spy."

Holberg took the weapon and the child to the police department, where the youth was turned over to his parents.

"He is under the age of 10, so he cannot be prosecuted," Michael said, so no charges will be filed.

The incident is still being investigated by officers.

U.S. insists on human rights priority

Administration makes position clear to Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States has kept a low profile publicly on the rebellion in southern Mexico but privately has made clear to President Carlos Salinas de Gortari that human rights should be top priority, Clinton administration officials say.

U.S. officials also demanded that Mexico stop using U.S.-supplied anti-narcotics helicopters for its military activity against the revolt in the state of Chiapas.

That stance was conveyed in one of a series of high-level contacts with Mexican officials in the wake of the Jan. 1 uprising that has highlighted poverty and social inequity among the indigenous people of Chiapas.

U.S. diplomats underscored concerns that the Chiapas uprising be handled judiciously, especially with respect to human rights, according to administration officials speaking Tuesday on condition of anonymity.

After the hard-fought passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement, U.S. officials say Mexico's domestic stability has taken on increased importance. The accord will remove tariffs and other trade barriers among the United States, Mexico and Canada over 15 years.

"As we build this new relationship with Mexico, it's important that we're dealing with a country that respects human rights," one administration official said.

"We now have an interrelationship which means that at a certain level our mistakes are their mistakes and their mistakes are our mistakes," a high-level State Department official said.

The officials, while still watchful, said they were encouraged by Salinas' handling of the rebellion - that his unilateral cease-fire and quick steps to open negotiations with the rebels indicate he is unlikely to follow the route of repression that helped lead to the festering and growth of rebel movements in neighboring countries, including Guatemala and El Salvador.

Nonetheless, allegations that the military had conducted executions and bombed civilians in its early efforts against the insurgent forces in Chiapas set off alarms within the Clinton administration.

Those concerns were "diplomatically but energetically conveyed," including meetings with Salinas himself, within days of the uprising, said the high-level State Department official.

Mexico was found to be using U.S.-provided anti-narcotics helicopters in Chiapas for "logistical, noncombat" purposes, State Department spokesman David Johnson said.

Mexico complied with the U.S. insistence to halt such use, and "ordered the ... helicopters withdrawn from service in Chiapas on Jan. 13," he said. It was unclear how many helicopters were involved. Johnson said the United States has provided fewer than 20 to Mexico over the past decade.

Mindful of Mexican sensitivity to U.S. meddling, the administration has been supportive of Salinas in the few comments officials have made publicly. State Department spokeswoman Christine Shelly told reporters last week, "There are indications that the human rights concerns are being addressed at the highest levels."

She praised Salinas' selection of two skilled and respected officials to negotiate a solution, his offer of amnesty to rebels who would lay down their arms and his unilateral cease-fire.

But NAFTA critic Larry Birns, director of the Council on Hemispheric Affairs, accuses the administration of seeking to sweep the whole Chiapas incident under the rug.

"It's imperative for the Clinton administration to minimize the magnitude of this threat because the administration defended Mexico as a nearly perfected democracy," to get the trade pact through Congress, he said.

U.S. officials concur that Salinas must deal with the poverty and social conditions that allowed the uprising to take hold.

"Chiapas is a long way away from the eyes of many people, and what has happened is what happens when there are great social inequities," one official said.

AFL-CIO expected to endorse Jim Mattox

AUSTIN (AP) - Former state attorney general Jim Mattox says he expects to win organized labor's support in his bid for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate in the March 8 primary.

"The momentum is with us," Mattox said Tuesday after speaking to delegates of the Texas AFL-CIO. "The polling has clearly shown that we've been the choice of the Democratic Party."

Joe Gunn, president of the 200,000-member Texas AFL-CIO, said Mattox probably would win the group's support.

"If I was a betting man I believe I would put the odds on (Mattox winning the endorsement)," he said.

But the other major Democratic primary candidates - Mike Andrews, a congressman from Houston, and Richard Fisher, a Dallas businessman - urged the group to keep its options open should Mattox fail to advance to the general election in November.

All three candidates accused Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison of voting against the interests of working people. And they also verbally jabbed each other.

Fisher said if Mattox is the Democratic nominee, he will lose by a wider margin than Bob Krueger did in last year's special election. Mrs. Hutchison defeated Krueger in a runoff with 67 percent of the vote.

But Mattox said, "Just remember that was coming from a fellow who came in fifth and was beat worse than Bob Krueger was." Fisher received 8 percent of the vote in the 24-candidate special election prior to the runoff.

Both Andrews and Fisher conceded that Mattox, a former state attorney general and longtime labor supporter, would probably win the group's endorsement.

Gunn said if Mattox does not win the Democratic nomination, then the organization will re-evaluate Andrews and Fisher.

Andrews criticized Mrs. Hutchison for voting against President Clinton's budget plan. Andrews, who voted for the proposal, said it would extend tax credits for working families, reduce the deficit and create jobs.

Kiwanis students of the month

The Hereford Kiwanis Club last week honored two Hereford High School seniors as Students of the Month for January. Club president Chris Leonard, left, stands with honorees Dominique Dominguez, second from left, and Hayley Lockmiller, right. Miss Lockmiller's parents, Corky and Alice, joined her for the presentation. They were honored for scholastic achievement and extra-curricular participation.

Attorney general tours projects designed to reduce youth crime

DALLAS (AP) - Before Janet Reno became U.S. Attorney General, she was a Dade County, Fla., prosecutor faced with the "terrible phenomenon (of) youth violence."

Visiting Texas on Tuesday, Reno said she sees the same problem here.

"We have all got to join together to let the youth of America know that there is no excuse whatsoever for hurting other people, for putting a gun up beside somebody's head," she said.

Reno and Gov. Ann Richards spoke at the Greater Dallas Crime Commission's awards luncheon. Reno gave the keynote address and Richards was named 1993 Crime Fighter of the Year for her role in increasing the number of prison beds in Texas and rewriting the state penal code.

Reno stressed the need to address such social ills as teen pregnancy and youth gangs.

One way to control the problem, she suggested, is through rehabilitative programs and job training.

"Unless we make an investment in our children, you will never, ever be able to build enough prisons 10 years and 15 years down the line to cope with all the problems that we face today," she said.

Targeting the same problem, Richards announced that Charles Terrell, the chairman of the crime commission, would head a statewide Youth Summit on Violent Crime and Juvenile Justice.

Before the luncheon, Reno toured a Dallas Police Department mobile storefront outside an elementary school. She praised the business community for donating the crime-fighting vehicle and said such a commitment by the private sector makes a difference.

Reno later toured southeast Fort Worth and its federally funded Weed and Seed area. Fort Worth officials credit the program with helping curb the city's crime problem. Major crimes in Fort Worth fell by 24 percent in 1993 from 1992, officials said.

In accepting her award, Richards reminded the crime commission of her pledge to reduce the state's crime rate.

"In all our major cities, the crime rate is down," Richards said. "In Texas, it is down for the first time in 10 years."

According to the Department of Public Safety crime index, the state crime rate is down almost 10 percent since 1991, a statement from Richards' office said.

A spokeswoman for Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush was critical of Richards receiving the award, "considering that the overall violent crime rate is up 10 percent in the state and violent juvenile crime is up a whopping 33 percent."

Health study to be made in counties

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - A study proposed by state health researchers would examine rates of cancer and other medical problems in 41 counties around the Pantex nuclear weapons plant.

The Carson County facility, located about 17 miles northeast of Amarillo, serves as a disassembly site for nuclear bombs and storage for the bombs' plutonium pits.

Officials say the Texas Department of Health wants to monitor possible increases in illness and diseases in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains.

They say the study would examine hospital discharge data, problem pregnancies, birth defects, cancer and behavioral risk factors such as smoking.

Philip Huang, chief of the health department's bureau of chronic disease prevention and control, said the researchers would collect data by phone or door to door in the 41 counties.

The survey - which still needs approval by the health department and Department of Energy - could cost more than $1 million, Huang said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When Mother's 96th birthday was approaching, we wondered how we could possibly top the previous year's party. My sister came up with an idea that turned out to be fabulous. It was the best birthday Mother ever had. And it didn't cost a nickel.

As our parents downsized their residence from the big family home to a smaller place, then an apartment and finally a retirement home, they gradually distributed most of their belongings to us children. By the time Mother was 96, she was a widow and had given her daughters and daughters-in-law all her household possessions, which included, of course, all the lovely things she used for entertaining.

Imagine Mother's surprise when she came to our home for her birthday dinner and saw the table set with her own tablecloth and napkins, her silver, her stemware and her candlesticks. In the kitchen, she beamed with delight when she saw the vegetables being cooked in her old, familiar steamer and the meat cooking in her chipped enamel roaster. When dessert was served in the sherbet glasses that had been a wedding gift in 1913, she could hardly contain herself.

Mother died last fall at 99. She never stopped reminiscing about her 96th birthday party, which required only a creative idea and the loving cooperation of all her children.—Blessed Family in Spokane

DEAR SPOKANE: You sound like a great group, "blessed," indeed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "out of Sync in Upstate New York," who wrote about her friends entertaining in the garage, really hit home.

My husband and I cannot believe that so many of our neighbors are doing the same thing. These people have lovely homes, decks, terraces and patios, yet they entertain guests in the garage.

To what depths have graciousness and hospitality fallen?—Out of Sync in the Midwest

DEAR OUT OF SYNC: Rock bottom, I guess. What are these people saving their living rooms for? The wake, maybe?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Hi. I've got a problem. I am a 15-year-old male, and I am already losing my hair.

I don't want to sound like the typical teen-ager who moans, "I've got a zit, and my life is over," but watching your hair get thinner and thinner while you're still in high school is pretty darned hard on a guy. Could you please give me some advice? My social life is just beginning, and I see a big problem here.—Young Baldy in Vancouver

DEAR VANCOUVER: I try to avoid using brand names in the column, but the only "hair-grower" approved by the Food and Drug Administration is Rogaine, available by prescription only. Transplantation is another alternative, although it's expensive and time-consuming.

However, I suspect you are going to end up with less hair than you'd like, so you'd better get used to the idea. After all is said and done, what REALLY counts is what you've got IN your head, not on it.

Gem of the Day: Overheard at a wedding reception: They make a wonderful couple. He's a hypochondriac, and she's a pill.

Ann Landers' latest booklet, "Nuggets and Doozies," has everything from the outrageously funny to the poignantly insightful. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

History of brands topic of 4-H study

Members of the United 4-H Club met Jan. 11 at the Hereford Community Center to study the history of brands.

With assistance from the group's leader, Lisa Klett, members made individual brands and carved potatoes to make stamps of them. The brand making was held in connection with the group's theme this year, "Beef Education."

The business meeting was conducted by Cody Marsh.

Those present were Marsh, Nathan Horrell, Landon Noland, Adam Klett, Craig Cothrin, Tyson Yosten, Aaron Landers, Bryan Vasek, Jerad Johnson, Morgan and Morgan and Clay McNeely.

Kingdom Seekers meet

"Thoughts For a Recipe For a Happy New Year" was the devotional given by Velma Carroll when members of the Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class met recently at the home of Juanita Houle. Erma Bain served as co-host.

Wilma Bryan led the opening prayer and President Trudy Gray presided over a brief business session.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 8.

Those present were Maxine Coleman, Velma Carroll, Wilma Bryan, Rosie Wall, Dorothy Sargent, Luella Thomas, Erma Bain, Juanita Houle and Trudy Gray.

Four states are officially called "commonwealths"—Virginia, Kentucky, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

Whitefaces scorch Demons; girls' team falls

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford boys' basketball team came up with the spark it needed in the second quarter and cruised to a 67-49 District 1-4A win at Dumas.

The first varsity game of the night didn't turn out as well for Hereford: the Lady Whitefaces lost to Dumas, 58-39.

In the boys' game, Hereford led 12-9 after one quarter. The Whitefaces found their rhythm in the second quarter, stretching the lead to 31-18 at halftime.

"We started playing better defense, came up with some steals," Herd coach Randy Dean said of the second quarter surge. "We did a lot better job on the boards, limiting their second shots. We held them to nine points in the second quarter while we scored 19."

Dumas got as close as nine points in the third quarter, but the period ended with Hereford holding a 45-30 lead. And, just in case Dumas got any ideas about a late comeback, Hereford's Cody Marion hit four three-pointers in the fourth quarter.

Benton Buckley led the Herd with 18 points. His 8-of-10 shots the free throw line led the whole team in a good free throw performance: 17-of-22.

Marion scored 17 points for the Herd—he totaled five treys—and Isaac Walker chipped in nine points.

Hereford evened its district record to 1-1 and improved to 7-15 overall. Dumas fell to 2-0 and 3-17.

Hereford hosts powerful Pampa Friday.

"This was a big win for us," Dean said. "It was a good road win, and it sets up two big home games Friday and next Tuesday (Randall)."

Girls' coach Eddie Fortenberry said it was an "overall poor performance" by the Lady Whitefaces in the girls' game. He said Hereford suffered from a "poor shooting performance" and from turnovers.

"In the first quarter, that's all we did was turn the ball over," Fortenberry said, agreeing that the performance was similar to a dismal home loss to Randall Jan. 7.

"That's what's scary: we've had three similar performances in three district losses. We've had slow starts and tried to come back, but you can't dig you way out of 20-point deficits that easy."

Hereford fell to 1-3 in district, 8-14 overall, while Dumas improved to 3-1 and 12-10. Misty Dudley led Hereford with 15 points.

Fortenberry said the Lady Whitefaces, who were showing signs of improvement before district play started, are putting too much pressure on themselves.

"I don't think we've played good since district started. We're just not getting the job done," he said. "I think we put added pressure on ourselves when district started; we tried to improve rapidly instead of taking gradual steps."

In the junior varsity games, Hereford won a blowout in the boys' game and lost a close one in the girls' game.

The Hereford boys outscored Dumas in every quarter on the way to a 66-44 win. Ronald Torres led the Hereford effort with 18 points, and Todd Dudley added 12.

The Hereford girls fell 33-31. Julie Cole had 10 points, and Deanna McCracken had nine.

Tuesday's marquis matchup in District 1-4A turned out to be a mismatch. The perennial-power Randall girls blew out upstart Borger from the beginning and won 55-38 at Borger.

Both teams went into the game with 3-0 district mark. Randall is now 4-0, 12-9 overall, and Borger is 3-1, 20-5 overall.

In the other girls' game, Pampa beat Caprock 58-49 in a battle of 0-3 teams. Pampa improves to 3-16; Caprock falls to 1-22.

On the boys' side, Pampa whipped Caprock 84-65, and Borger took care of Randall 68-56.

Pampa and Borger now lead the district at 2-0, while Hereford and Randall are 1-1. Caprock and Dumas are 0-2. Overall, their records are: Borger, 16-7; Pampa, 15-8; Hereford, 7-15; Randall 7-16; Caprock, 7-16; and Dumas, 3-17.

On Friday, the district doubleheaders are Pampa at Hereford, Dumas at Randall and Borger at Caprock.

Emmitt must play despite pain

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Emmitt Smith has no choice. His coach expects the running back to play all day with one arm if he has to in the Dallas Cowboys NFC championship game Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers.

"Emmitt will play and he won't have shoulder problems," coach Jimmy Johnson said Tuesday. "I have pronounced him healthy."

The NFL's leading rusher re-injured his right shoulder in Sunday's 27-17 divisional victory over the Green Bay Packers. Smith is receiving around-the-clock care to reduce the soreness in the shoulder he originally separated in the last game of the season against the New York Giants.

"I don't think Emmitt will be hesitant at all," Johnson said. "He'll be raring to go."

The Cowboys aren't the same team without Smith. They lost their first two games without him during a contract holdout.

"We rely heavily on Emmitt," Johnson said.

Smith hurt his shoulder against the Packers trying to block and Johnson held him out most of the second half.

"If I thought we needed him, he would have been back in there," Johnson said. "His big problem is pass protection."

Smith said he won't hold back against the 49ers.

"I did feel a little out of synch against the Packers," Smith said. "I had some problems holding the ball."

"I won't take any painkillers. I have the fear of hurting my shoulder and not realizing it's hurt," he said. "It's getting better every day. I'll be ready on Sunday."

The Cowboys are 5 1/2-point favorites, and Johnson is acting as though Sunday's game will decide the eventual Super Bowl champion.

"The most significant game we had last year was the win at Candlestick," Johnson said. "Nothing against Buffalo, but we felt if we won that game we would have success in the Super Bowl."

"San Francisco is on par with last year. The 49ers showed against the Giants they can play with anybody."

Johnson held a team meeting to tell his players he wanted to see some selfishness.

"There are a lot of rewards to be gained from this game, and I told the team there will be a lot of people pulling at them," Johnson said. "I told them it would be to their benefit to be as selfish as they can be. It's the best way to get focused."

Johnson said this year's Super Bowl run has been harder than last year's, which ended with a 52-17 Cowboys victory over Buffalo.

"This year has been more difficult and less fun," Johnson said. "We still have the same attitude. We can accomplish something nobody thought we could."

"When we were 0-2 without Emmitt and Troy Aikman had an injury, we kept hearing we had a Super Bowl hangover, that we were going to fall on our face. But we were stubborn."

Parish's anger burns Rockets

By The Associated Press
Embarrassment doesn't begin at 40 for Robert Parish.

The NBA's oldest player, held scoreless by Houston and Hakeem Olajuwon at Boston Garden last week, responded with 19 points and 17 rebounds Tuesday night, helping the Celtics beat the Houston Rockets 95-83.

"Nobody likes to go scoreless, it really made me mad," Parish said.

The win gave the Celtics their first two-game winning streak since Dec. 1-3, when they defeated Washington and Portland. The defeat left Houston with its first three-game losing streak of the season.

"This is the way we played early in the season, with a lot of energy," said coach Chris Ford, who saw Boston go 8-21 after a 6-2 start. "I thought Robert would respond as he has responded to every challenge throughout his career. He had outstanding numbers against a guy who may be the league MVP."

Olajuwon outscored Parish 37-0 in Houston's 94-84 victory last week. On Tuesday, Olajuwon led the Rockets with 28 points and 12 rebounds, and Otis Thorpe added 19 points and 14 rebounds, while Dee Brown paced the Celtics with 23 points.

Houston trailed most of the game and was behind 76-66 at the start of the fourth quarter. The Rockets closed to 84-81 with 3:35 left, but the Celtics outscored Houston 11-2 the rest of the game.

led Detroit by the injured Joe Dumars and led Detroit with 19 points. Suns 113, Mavericks 103

A.C. Green scored nine of his 19 points in a 51-minute span late in the game, including a three-point play with 1:38 left that sealed a victory for Phoenix over visiting Dallas.

Dan Majerle scored 27 points and Oliver Miller had 19 points and 11 rebounds for the Suns.

Sean Rooks scored 21 points and Jamal Mashburn 20 for Dallas. Clippers 126, Heat 124

Los Angeles and Miami combined for an NBA-record 23 3-point baskets, but the Clippers were far more accurate than the Heat.

Mark Aguirre scored 23 points and made six of seven 3-point shots for the visiting Clippers, who made 11 of 15 attempts. Miami was 12-for-26 from 3-point range as the two teams broke the NBA record of 21 by Milwaukee and Portland on Dec. 30, 1990.

Miami led 98-79 late in the third quarter, but Ron Harper hit four free throws in the final minute to boost the Clippers.

Glen Rice scored 32 points and Rony Seikaly 28 for the Heat. Mark Jackson scored 24 points and Harper 23 for Los Angeles.

Trail Blazers 104, Nuggets 103 OT
Clifford Robinson's season-high 32 points and Rod Strickland's two free throws with 29 seconds left in overtime lifted Portland to its fourth straight victory, at Denver.

Buck Williams tied the score at 100-100 on a layup with 1:46 left, but the Nuggets moved ahead 103-100 when LaPhonso Ellis, who led Denver with 28 points, converted a three-point play 22 seconds later.

Winners from Walcott

Both the boys' and girls' basketball teams from the Walcott School won the NCA basketball tournament played Saturday at the Hereford Church of the Nazarene. The boys' team (above) consisted beat St. Anthony's 34-20, while the girls beat Wildorado 24-18. Members of the boys' team were: (front row, left to right) Will McGowan, Chance Wade, J.R. Medina, Kip Kendrick, Marty Wilson, Sammy Gonzales, (back) Brent Coleman, Ian Isaacson, Brady Matysek, Matt Lewis, coach Darla Alford, Brian Hysinger, Rodey Wilson, Jody Satterfield, Vernon Adams and Daniel Walker. The girls team (below) is: (front) Monica McClesky, Kyla Coleman, Brittney Brown, Teresa Zimmerman, Abrea Holmes, (middle) Amanda McClesky, Ivory Isaacson, Carol Walker, Kecia Thomas, Toni Eicke, (back) Vanessa Tijerina, Sehrena Davis, Tanya Adams, Alford, Melissa Reyna, Sindy Pando, Linda Cumpian and Jessica Holmes.

DePaul, Florida win big upsets

By The Associated Press
It may have taken a loss for Massachusetts to be paid its highest compliment.

The sixth-ranked Minutemen, off to one of the best starts in school history and as high as they have ever been in the polls, had beaten then-No.

1 North Carolina and were on a 10-game winning streak that included road victories over Oklahoma and West Virginia.

They lost 78-76 to DePaul on Tuesday night as Tom Kleinschmidt scored a season-high 29 points for the Blue Demons and then heaped the praise never heard before by a Massachusetts team.

"We need a big one and they are no bigger than UMass," said Kleinschmidt, who had 22 points in the second half.

The Minutemen (13-2) weren't alone as Top 10 losers Tuesday night. Florida beat No. 7 Kentucky 59-57 and No. 12 Purdue downed No. 8 Indiana 83-76 in overtime. The only other ranked game had No. 16 Syracuse beating St. John's 92-82.

DePaul (11-3) had lost its last two home games and trailed Massachusetts 63-56 with 7:20 to play. Kleinschmidt had eight points, including two 3-pointers, in a 12-4 run as the Blue Demons took a 68-67 lead with 2:50 left. They took the lead for good when Kleinschmidt found Belefia Parks for the go-ahead 3-pointer with 24 seconds left.

Hughes, Sasser spark Tech

DALLAS (AP) - Lance Hughes scored 27 points and Jason Sasser added 26, spoiling Southern Methodist's long-awaited return home with an 80-73 Texas Tech victory Tuesday night.

The Mustangs (2-11, 0-3 Southwest Conference) returned to Moody Coliseum for the first time since Dec. 4 only to suffer their sixth straight loss.

The Red Raiders (6-7, 2-1) sealed their second victory at Moody since 1985 behind a 9-1 run with just over 13 minutes to play.

Darvin Ham began the burst with a dunk, then an SMU free throw was followed by seven points from Hughes and Sasser to give Tech a 49-39 lead with 11:01 to play.

Tech eventually opened up a 16-point lead before the Mustangs made a late charge. SMU connected on five consecutive 3-point shots but could get no closer than seven points.

Oilers face many questions during offseason

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers' offseason may be as intriguing as their 1993 season.

It will be difficult to match the chaotic season just completed, but with all of the unanswered questions surrounding the franchise, there is plenty of opportunity for unexpected developments.

Will Warren Moon return? Is the run-and-shoot dead? Can Buddy Ryan and Kevin Gilbride coexist as defensive and offensive coordinators? Can owner Bud Adams pay all his millionaires under the new salary cap?

The story of the 1994 Oilers could mean different plays and different players in 1994.

The Oilers have 15 unrestricted free agents, 13 restricted free agents and a reported payroll of $42 million. The salary cap will be at about $38 million.

"I think we'll do a good job of keeping most of our players, but I don't think anybody will keep all their players anymore," coach Jack Pardee said.

"Teams have certain needs and they'll go for the players with what they can spend. That's going to be the way of life and we're going to have to learn to live with it in the NFL."

Moon, who has led the Oilers into the playoffs seven straight years but never past the second round, is under contract at $3.2 million next season. Backup Cody Carlson will make about $3 million.

Key unrestricted free agents include defensive ends William Fuller and Sean Jones, who led the team with 13 sacks; linebacker Al Smith, the leading tackler; cornerback Cris Dishman; linebacker Wilber Marshall; wide receiver Haywood Jeffries; defensive tackle Glenn Montgomery; Greg Montgomery, the NFL's leading punter; and leading receiver Webster Slaughter.

Restricted free agents include running back sensation Gary Brown, who gained 1,002 yards in eight starts after replacing Lorenzo White; All-Pro safety Marcus Robertson; cornerbacks Darryll Lewis and Steve Jackson; guard John Flannery and wide receiver Gary Wellman.

Moon doesn't know his future. "For me not to be here next year, they'll have to release me or I'd get traded," Moon said.

And for the first time, there is a hint of a crack in Pardee's staunch support of the run-and-shoot, which ranked No. 3 in the NFL in total offense.

"I've never been married to any offense," Pardee said. "That's something we're going to have to look at and study to figure out again what we can do best.

"Everybody in Chicago (where he was head coach 1975-77) didn't think we knew how to do anything but hand the ball to Walter Payton. All I want to do is what we can do to move the football and help us win."

Even more important than the type of offense the Oilers use in 1994 will be their ability to erase the memories of 1993, a year Pardee said "had the highest of highs and the lowest of lows."

The highs came with the 11-game winning streak that took the Oilers to a 12-4 record; their AFC Central Division title and a first-round bye in the playoffs; an improved defense under Buddy Ryan and another productive if inconsistent year for the run-and-shoot offense.

The lows were volatile. David Williams chose to remain in Houston for the birth of his first child rather than be with the team at its most crucial point in the season, the start of a turnaround at New England. It sparked a national debate.

On Dec. 14, defensive tackle Jeff Alm committed suicide. He killed himself with a shotgun as he sat beside a freeway following an auto accident in which Alm was the driver and his best friend died. Both victims were legally drunk.

In the final regular-season game, as Houston completed its most successful season, Ryan slugged Gilbride over a turnover near the end of the first half against the New York Jets.

Another national spotlight, another controversy. The Oilers were unaffected - until Joe Montana arrived Sunday.

Within a 54-second span of the fourth quarter, Montana did what he does best by pulling the Kansas City Chiefs to a 28-20 victory, providing more misery for the Oilers.

"This is heartbreak that we aren't going on," Pardee said. "We were starting to feel a little invincible. But we found out that we weren't. We needed a couple more plays and we didn't get them, couldn't get them."

Levy compares Kelly to Montana

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) - There is one Joe Montana, a quarterback on the verge of a fifth trip to the Super Bowl - and perhaps his fifth title.

There are many Joe Montana wannabes, including a quarterback on the verge of his fourth successive appearance in the Super Bowl - and perhaps his first title.

Marv Levy thinks he has someone as close to the real thing as you can get in Jim Kelly. Of course, Kelly won't get anything near the acclaim sent Montana's way until he leads Buffalo to an NFL championship.

"I think both have a lot of mental toughness and self-assurance and inspire belief from their teammates," Levy said as his Bills prepared for Sunday's AFC Championship game against Montana and the Kansas City Chiefs. "They're both guys from Pennsylvania who had some success early. They both think they're never out of it and a bad play doesn't affect them."

"A long time ago, when I was still coaching in college, Bart Starr once told me that he became a good quarterback when he was completely able to forget about the previous bad play and wipe it from his mind. It's not that you don't feel bad for 30 seconds, but then you put it behind you."

Montana has four Super Bowl crowns behind him in San Francisco and is anxious for another one with Kansas City, which traded for him last year. Whether he gets it or not, the Bills are ready to praise him.

"We're playing against the best ever, a great quarterback and competitor," linebacker Darryl Talley said. "Joe does everything that is conducive to being a winner."

He did just that the last two weeks against defenses more formidable than Buffalo's. Despite some poor throws and early mistakes, he responded late in victories over Pittsburgh and Houston, just as he always does.

"He knows that the game is not over if he has the ball in his hands and there's time on the clock," Bills safety Henry Jones said of Montana. "Jim is the same way. He knows he can make something happen."

"Joe knows if there's a chance to move the ball downfield, there's a good opportunity to put his team ahead. He's been doing it for so long."

Garden club views video during regular meeting

Members of the Bud To Blossom Garden Club viewed the video, "It's Arbor Day, Charlie Brown," when they met Thursday in the home of Lou Hall.

President Phyllis Brown called the meeting to order and welcomed back Ursalee Jacobsen following her lengthy absence due to illness. Also, Donna Smith was welcomed as a guest.

Roll call was answered by "the tree best suitable for the Panhandle weather." Also, the conservation series was given by Brown which included a short summary of the six outstanding trees and shrubs named in 1992 by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society. These were Gold Medal Plant Award winners.

In conjunction with the Arbor Day Observance, members voted to plant a tree on the grounds of the Hereford Care Center, located on Kingwood St.

Various recycling projects were discussed and it was reported that the club had paid its 1994 dues to the Hereford Beautification Alliance.

Members present were Natha Carroll, Wilma Bryan, Naomi Hare, Pauline Mandina, Patricia Robinson, Mildred Fuhrmann, Lou Hall, Phyllis Brown and Ursalee Jacobsen.

Girl Scouts selling cookies

Local Girl Scouts are currently participating in the organization's annual cookie selling campaign which will conclude Jan. 31. The cookies will be delivered between Feb. 22-March 8.

Cookies are priced at $2.50 per box and seven varieties are offered: strawberries 'n' creme, shortbread, lemon pastry cremes, peanut-butter patties, peanut-butter sandwich, caramel delites, and thin mints.

Each Girl Scout decides if she wants to participate in the cookie sale and each troop decides how it will spend the money earned. Girl Scouts also earn "cookie currency" for each box sold. This currency can be redeemed in the council shop for uniforms, patches or other items in stock or it can be applied to summer camp fees for council sponsored programs.

For those who have not been contacted during the door-to-door campaign, orders may also be placed by calling 1-356-0096 or 1-687-4475.

QUESTION: Can blood be produced outside the body?

ANSWER: Not hardly! If we could, we would no longer need to donate blood for others to use.

Blood is the life stream of the body. It supplies the cells of the body with food and oxygen, carries waste products to special organs for removal from the body, and fights diseases and infections.

Out body has many regulatory devices which keep the blood components in a certain state. Man has not been able to replicate this component reproductive process.

Blood has four main parts -- plasma, red blood cells, white blood cells and platelets.

Plasma is mostly water. It is the liquid part of the blood that solid parts are suspended in and makes up over half of the volume.

Red Blood Cells carry oxygen from the lungs to the cells and carbon dioxide from the cells to the lungs. The membranes of these cells are the sites of antigens, so important in determining blood types. Mature red blood cells have no nucleus and are produced in bone marrow.

White blood cells help protect the body against diseases and infections. There are several types, each with a special function.

These cells do contain a nucleus, and like the red blood cells, are produced in the bone marrow.

Platelets, produced in bone marrow, help prevent the loss of blood from damaged blood vessels and release a substance to start the blood clotting process.

The body is a biochemical factory with many on and off switches. Though man has discovered how much of the body works, there are still mysteries to be solved.

How to make blood artificially is still one of the mysteries.

What came to be called "The Blitz" began in the fall of 1940, when London underwent the first concentrated night air raids of World War II. In the first three nights, thousands were killed or seriously injured. The RAF prevented invasion during 1940, but the civilian population suffered massive bombing before the tide turned.

Study club members meet for game night

Members of Nouvelle Ami Study Club met recently for a night of festivities which included playing Bunko.

Prizes were awarded for the members who won and lost. Also, refreshments of cookies, vegetables and dip, and Coke were served by the hostesses, Jan Reeves and Krista Farrell.

Proceeds from the club's recent annual pumpkin roll sell were discussed and it was decided to donate $500 to the Kevin Henson Medical Fund. Also, the club discussed donating money to the American Cancer Society.

Members present were Teresa Allen, Emily Christie, Charolette

Collier, Kathleen Collier, Krista Farrell, Amanda Gallagher, Dee Hamilton, Jill Harrison, Twyla Jones, Leah Lee, Kim Leonard, Melanie McNutt, Janet Mercer, Laurie Paczold, Jan Reeve, Kayla Schilling, Kelly Self, De'Aun Spain, Shawna Sparkman, Cookie Taylor, Kamille Urbanczyk, Jan Watts, Ronna Watts, Missy Wilcox and Andrea Schlabs.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

- All 172 pages in full color
- Each page measures a large 15 x 11 inches
- Presents the entire state in stunning detail
- Appendices and specialty maps of many different features

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

What they're saying about "The Roads of Texas"

"When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS... you'll wonder how you ever travelled the state without it."
Texas Highways Magazine
October, 1988

"For details of Texas terrain, oil company maps and the State's Official Highway Map can't match THE ROADS OF TEXAS."

The Newspaper BIBLE

NOBODY'S PERFECT!

Well, then, are we Jews better than others? No, not at all, for we have already shown that all men are sinners, whether Jews or Gentiles. As the Scriptures say, "No one is good--no one in all the world is innocent." No one has ever really followed God's paths, or even truly wanted to. Every one has turned away; all have gone wrong. No one anywhere has kept on doing what is right; not one. Their talk is foul and filthy like the stench from an open grave. Their tongues are loaded with lies. Everything they say has in it the sting and poison of deadly snakes. Their mouths are full of cursing and bitterness. They are quick to kill, hating anyone who disagrees with them. Wherever they go they leave misery and trouble behind them. And they have never known what it is to feel secure or enjoy God's blessing. They care nothing about God no what He thinks of them.

So the judgment of God lies very heavily upon the Jews, for they are responsible to keep God's laws instead of doing all these evil things; not one of them has any excuse; in fact, all the world stands hushed and guilty before Almighty God.

Now do you see it? No one can ever be made right in God's sight by doing what the law commands. For the more we know of God's laws, the clearer it becomes that we aren't obeying them: His laws serve only to make us see that we are sinners.

But now God has shown us a different way to heaven--not by "being good enough" and trying to keep His laws, but by a new way (though not new, really, for the Scriptures told about it long ago). Now God says He will accept and acquit us--declare us "not guilty"--if we trust Jesus Christ to take away our sins. And we all can be saved in this same way, by coming to Christ, no matter who we are or what we have been like.
Romans 3:9-22

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams and Ed Sterling

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Attorneys for U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison say they are prepared to go to trial this week and described as "ridiculous" prosecutors' request for a 45-day delay.

Hutchison and her lawyers had said they wanted to have the trial over by Jan. 25 so she could return to Washington when the Senate reconvenes.

But they said in a letter to visiting Judge John F. Onion Jr. that Hutchison will not claim senatorial privilege to postpone her trial.

Judge Onion, who ordered the case moved to Fort Worth because of excessive publicity in Austin, has not set a trial date.

Prosecutors said starting the trial 45 days after the announcement of the trial site still would ensure a quicker trial than in similar criminal cases.

However, the request drew immediate criticism from Hutchison's lawyers. They repeated their charge that prosecutors are trying to drag out the case through Hutchison's re-election campaign this year.

Juvenile Crime Plan unveiled
Democratic Gov. Ann Richards, whose probable Republican opponent has made juvenile crime a major part of his campaign, unveiled her plan for dealing with young offenders.

Richards called for tougher punishment for juveniles committing adult crimes and urged action that would allow parents, teachers, students and residents to take back schools and neighborhoods.

"This program will give us a comprehensive system of punishments for violent juvenile offenders," the governor said. "It also provides a mechanism to prepare youthful offenders to get out of the cycle of crime before they reach adulthood."

Richards said her staff has been preparing the plan for months, working closely with the Texas Youth Commission, the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission and law enforcement and school officials.

Republican George W. Bush began calling for an overhaul of the juvenile justice system when he announced his gubernatorial candidacy in November.

Bush's campaign manager Brian Berry said Richards has failed to back such measures as tougher sentences for repeat juvenile offenders and felony parole violations, and lowering to 14 the age when juveniles could be tried as adults.

Chuck McDonald, the governor's campaign spokesman, disputed Berry's criticism.

"When Ann Richards took office, the adult system was in crisis. We immediately tackled that problem and put together an unparalleled record," McDonald said.

"Gov. Richards announced last fall we'd have an overall juvenile justice plan, and we have," he said.

26,000 Need to Pass TAAS
More than 26,000 seniors who haven't passed the state's high school graduation test are in jeopardy of not receiving their diploma, the Texas Education Agency reported last week.

The TEA reported that despite multiple tries about 17 percent of the class of 1994 have been unable to get a passing score on the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills.

A majority of the students have had four opportunities to take the reading, writing and math test. Their last chance for graduation will come in April.

Despite the number of failures on the TAAS, state Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno said the percentage is slightly under the failure rate at the same time last year.

Ambassador Bob Krueger?
Former U.S. Sen. Bob Krueger, who served as Texas' senator before being defeated by Sen. Hutchison in a special election last June, is in line to become ambassador to the African nation of Burundi, Washington sources said.

Although the nomination has not been made, Krueger reportedly has won assurances from the White House that President Clinton intends to name him to the African post.

Other Highlights

■ Republican Charles R. Mathews of Garland is a candidate for the Place 1 Railroad Commission seat held by James E. Nugent. Nugent faces state Rep. Jim Earley, D-Portland, in the Democratic primary. Last week's column implied (by omission) that no Republican had filed for the Place 1 Railroad Commission seat.

■ Facing a class-action lawsuit over overcrowding at its jail, Cameron County filed a lawsuit against the state last week. The jail, with a capacity of 546, regularly has more than 700 inmates. Three inmates filed a class-action lawsuit in federal court last month.

■ Crime victims now have a toll-free number to call for help in getting state benefits: 1-800-983-9933. "Our problem is that too many victims still don't know that the state can help them," said Attorney General Dan Morales as he unveiled the hotline last week. The state paid $29.2 million to nearly 7,600 victims of violent crime last year.

■ The Texas Department of Insurance has recommended that Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Texas be ordered to pay more than $400,000 in fines and restitution for denying health care benefits to newborn babies. A department attorney found that Blue Cross improperly denied coverage for a San Antonio baby born with a heart defect and another baby from Houston born prematurely.

NEW YORK (AP) - Who says you can't bring back yesterday? Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr are taking a stab at it.

The three surviving Beatles are planning the closest possible thing to a reunion next month, according to The New Yorker.

They plan to gather at a studio to record new music and some previously unreleased Beatles songs, the magazine reported in the Jan. 24 issue.

The project is part of a video autobiography on the legendary music group. The "Anthology" project is planned as a 1995 TV series.

"Yes, they are going to be working together again, but they haven't begun yet. It is supposed to be ultra secret," an unidentified source from EMI, the Beatles' record label, told the magazine.

Enthusiasm, boldness of principal recognized

By ELLEN BERNSTEIN
Corpus Christi Caller-Times
CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Thirteen-year-old Javier Vasquez is almost too embarrassed to say it. His teachers at South Park Middle School are making learning more fun this year.

"I'm afraid to admit it," the student council president said sheepishly. "The other kids will call me a nerd."

Eighth-grader Vasquez is not alone in his praise for South Park educators. The 1,075 students have noticed a renewed vigor in the classroom since the arrival of Principal Bernadine Cervantes. The enthusiasm and boldness of the 33-year-old principal has of late made her the darling of Corpus Christi school board trustees.

She represents the new school of principal, an instructional leader as opposed to the traditional manager, said Sandra Lanier-Lerma, assistant superintendent for instruction and operations for the Corpus Christi Independent School District.

"She has brought us together," said Eva Morris, a sixth-grade math teacher. "People are recognizing us for the good things we're doing. We are happy teachers now and the kids are enjoying themselves."

Things weren't always that way. Cervantes' first week on the job in August could have portended gloom for the coming school year.

The state handed down a threat to close the school unless student achievement test scores improved within two years. South Park was one of five CCISD campuses classified by the Texas Education Agency as a low-performer. A school is considered low-performing if 20 percent or fewer students passed all sections of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) given last spring. Only 18 percent of South Park eighth-graders passed the mathematics portion of the test.

"My first impression was, 'Oh, quills of a new-born porcupine are soft enough to touch, but they turn into a prickly coat within about four hours."

On average, 850 tornadoes strike the United States each year.

Lord," said Cervantes, who is the youngest principal and first woman to administer the school. She replaced retiring Principal O.B. Garcia. "Then I thought, 'This is great - a new principal, a new start, new programs, a new team.'"

She seized on the state's threat, using it as a rallying cry in a school beleaguered by low teacher morale, student brawling and parental apathy. Her no-one's-gonna-shut-us-down assault has, in the words of teachers, students and parents, generated a new sense of pride in the 37-year-old school.

Teachers and administrators set the spirited tone on the first day of school by meeting parents and students outside, welcoming them to the new South Park Middle School. Since then, enrollment in the PTA has more than tripled to 296, not an easy accomplishment in a low-income neighborhood where single-parent households predominate.

Now parents, in orange fluorescent vests, are patrolling the halls every day. "The kids' attitudes are changing, and parents are more involved," said PTA President Rudy Chavarria, a gauge operator who has two daughters at South Park.

Cervantes has taken CCISD's no-tolerance stance against gangs and drugs to tough as well as humorous extremes. She appropriated the colors of the most dominant local gang for the school colors. She added red to the black and white of South Park's mascot, the black knight.

She also uses the gang's overlapping logo to advertise the message "loving education." "We took their colors so when they wear red and black, we say, 'What school spirit,'" she said. "We're not threatened by it. We incorporate it into something positive."

The refusal to be threatened by gangs seems to be working. Cervantes and her assistants regularly break up suspicious looking groups and threaten to report anyone who breathes gang allegiances to CCISD officials. Students say that gangs are quiet on campus and shoving fights have disappeared altogether.

"Mrs. Cervantes has made it so I feel much more protected," Vasquez said.

"The gangs are subdued. We've taken a bit of their power away," Cervantes said.

Part of improving students' performance lies in taking pride in their surroundings, Cervantes said. To improve the school's public image, Cervantes helped organize a November Saturday of painting, planting and cleaning on campus. Another Saturday of painting and cleaning is planned for the spring.

To bring up TAAS scores, the school has started TAAS Tuesdays, time reserved to better prepare students for the May tests. In February, students will come to school for an additional two hours on Saturdays for training.

Cervantes and assistants plan to go to parents' homes to recruit students for the weekend sessions. Cervantes blames the low math scores of last year on a string of substitute teachers who tried to replace an eighth-grade math teacher on a disability leave.

A Beeville native, Cervantes attended the University of Texas at Austin and then moved to Corpus Christi with her new husband. The mother of two taught history for seven years at Martin Middle School before becoming a teacher and then assistant principal at Kaffie Middle School. She was named Caller-Times South Texas Distinguished Teacher in 1990.

"I loved teaching. I really did. But I always had this desire to reach bigger numbers," Cervantes said.

"More than anything, she has a love for the students and she knows how to motivate people," Kaffie Principal Arnold Saavedra said. And if South Park students think she's not serious about raising test scores, take heed of a legendary event at Kaffie Middle School.

Cervantes, then an assistant principal, dared seventh-grade students to best their peers districtwide in achievement tests.

Saavedra cannot forget the stench and the goo of the successful challenge. "She told students if they outperformed other seventh-graders, we would be slimed and we would have to kiss a pig," Saavedra said.

It took a long while for the school janitor to hose down the three administrators. Students had gleefully doused them with a puree of lunch leftovers whipped up by the cafeteria manager. "After that experience, kissing a pig wasn't so bad," Saavedra said.
