Ballet receives standing ovation

Concerteens presented during intermission

By BECKY CAMP
Lifestyles Editor

Hereford Community Concert Association patrons responded to the music of George and Ira Gershwin and the performances of the cast of the New York Theatre Ballet with a standing ovation at the conclusion of Thursday night's concert.

Concerteens, high school juniors and seniors who serve as hosts and hostesses for the concert association, were presented during the intermission.

The New York Theatre Ballet presented the program, "Legends and Visionaries: A Salute to George and Ira Gershwin," in four ballets.

The final number, "He Loves/She Loves: A Radio Reverie," received the most audience response as the dancers acted out routines to such familiar Gershwin tunes as Strike Up the Band, I've Got a Crush on You, Treat Me Rough, and Half of It Dearie Blues.

Dancers combined strong technical skills, a sense of theater, expression and ease of movement presenting a rare evening's entertainment on Hereford High School stage.

Joe D. Rogers introduced members of the Concerteens as each was escorted by a parent and presented with a red rose.

Following the concert, a reception honoring the students was held at K-Bob's Annex.

NEWS in brief

Iraqi regime readies people for U.S. attack

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) - With the American military presence growing in the Gulf, the Iraqi government today sought to prepare a people suffering under U.N. sanctions and worried about an attack for the possibility of another fight with the United States.

Envoys from Russia and the Palestinian authority, meanwhile, remained in Baghdad another day to press Iraq to compromise on U.N. demands to inspect so-called sensitive sites, including President Saddam Hussein's palaces, to avert a military strike.

The United States and Britain, despite opposition from Russia, France and China and clear unease among Arab allies, have pressed ahead with their threat to attack Iraq if it does not provide unfettered access to U.N. weapons inspectors working in the country.

Pentagon stopping short of plan to oust Saddam

WASHINGTON (AP) - Military strikes against Iraq that Pentagon planners are considering stop short of trying to remove Saddam Hussein from power, even though President Clinton acknowledges the Iraqi people would be better off without him.

There is strong sentiment among some private analysts as well as Republican congressional leaders that the administration's strategy will not resolve the Iraq crisis because Saddam apparently would escape unscathed.

The fear is that after the bombing is finished and the dust settles, the Iraqi president can be expected to resume building weapons the U.N. Security Council says he cannot have.

"We should do everything we can to get this resolved and find a way to have him removed, one way or another," said Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss.

Discussing the issue briefly with reporters Thursday, President Clinton agreed that the Iraqi people would be better off without Saddam. But, he said, the United States has no authority under U.N. Security Council resolutions to oust him.

Archer lowering expectations about size of a tax reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House's top tax writer carefully is lowering expectations about the size of a tax cut this year, citing obstacles in the budget process, uncertainty of the tobacco settlement and disagreement about the size of a budget surplus.

While GOP leadership insists it will pursue a tax cut this year, House Ways and Means Chairman Bill Archer, R-Texas, is warning that the arcane budget rules and other factors spell hard work ahead if the GOP wants a large tax cut.

"I would say to my colleagues that all of us are in for a rude awakening when we learn that the budget law ... will prohibit us from using any of a surplus for a tax reduction," Archer said.

Archer's comments come as House Republicans prepare for a leadership retreat next week in Williamsburg, Va.

TEXAS vs. TOBACCO

Bush gripes about lawyers' fees; Morales gripes about Bush

AUSTIN (AP) - The feud between Gov. George W. Bush and Attorney General Dan Morales - over fees for private lawyers in the state's tobacco lawsuit - has turned into a federal case.

Bush filed a legal challenge to the fees with U.S. District Judge David Folsom in Texarkana, who presided over the case in which the tobacco industry agreed to pay Texas $15.3 billion. The private lawyers are to get $2.3 billion.

Morales called Bush's intervention a "shameful" move that could derail the entire settlement, heatedly accusing Bush of political motives.

"I took the unwelcome step of going to court to protect our taxpayers and to make sure the people of Texas get a full, fair and open accounting," the Republican governor said Thursday.

The Democratic attorney general

GEORGE BUSH

"I took the unwelcome step of going to court to protect our taxpayers and make sure the people ... get a full, fair and open accounting."

said the settlement calls for the tobacco industry to pay the lawyers' fees.

"Today's filing is about one thing and one thing only - a Republican presidential campaign and political contributions from big tobacco," Morales said.

"The governor's pandering to big tobacco is shameful. "By today's actions, our state's historic victory over big tobacco is placed in serious jeopardy. Gov. Bush, shame on you. The children of Texas will never forgive you for this," he said.

Bush has declined to say whether he will run for president in 2000.

"It is a sad day for Texas when the attorney general engages in personal attacks against the governor because the governor's trying to do the right thing for the taxpayers," said Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes.

The governor's action is the latest in a series of court filings over the settlement reached between the state and the tobacco industry. Approved by Folsom last month, the deal calls for the industry to pay billions for the state's costs of treating tobacco-related illnesses.

Several legislators and a Republican attorney general candidate earlier challenged the fee arrangement and $2.3 billion payment, an amount equal to 15 percent of the settlement.

DAN MORALES

"Today's filing is about one thing and one thing only -- a Republican presidential campaign and political contributions from big tobacco."

Bush said that had he not intervened Thursday, that deal would have become final.

The governor said he was worried over both the size of the fees and the constitutionality of obligating the state to pay private lawyers.

"The lawyers who helped settle this case should be paid an appropriate and reasonable fee, but I cannot in good conscience allow the taxpayers of Texas to assume responsibility for $2.3 billion in legal fees until questions about the legality and constitutionality of those fees are answered," Bush said.

Ms. Hughes said Bush's motion is directed only at the attorney fees. Scott Williams, tobacco industry spokesman on national settlement matters, said the industry is not trying to get out of the agreement.

Bush's general counsel, Al Gonzales, said the possible national tobacco settlement could reduce the amount of money Texas receives - yet the state still would be obligated for the $2.3 billion in fees.

"I suspect when all is said and done and you look at the work of the trial lawyers in connection with this case versus the amount of actually received into the Texas Treasury, the percentage is going to well exceed 15 percent," he said.

LOOKING 'WESTERN' Local auto dealer buys Friona dealership

A longtime Friona car and truck dealership is going to look a little bit more "western" next week in wake of an agreement by Roy Riley of Hereford, owner and president of Western Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, Inc. to purchase Friona Motors.

The Friona dealership, located at the corner of Grand Avenue and U.S. Highway 60 in Friona, will operate as Western Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Inc. beginning Monday and is expected to employ five people initially.

Jerry Collier of Hereford will assume the sales manager position for the new operation.

Friona Motors originally offered Ford and Mercury products, in addition to Chevrolet and Oldsmobile lines. The new dealership, however, will not retain the franchise agreement with Ford Motor Co., according to Riley.

There has always seemed to be a line drawn in the sand between those who would always buy a Ford, and those who wouldn't buy anything but a Chevy," Riley said. "We feel the two different dealerships will allow us to bridge that line and offer both groups the inventory and products they are most comfortable with."

The acquisition of Friona Motors comes on the heels of Riley's buyout in April 1997 of a partnership agreement with Fort Worth car and truck dealer, Ken Nichols, for the Western Ford dealership here.

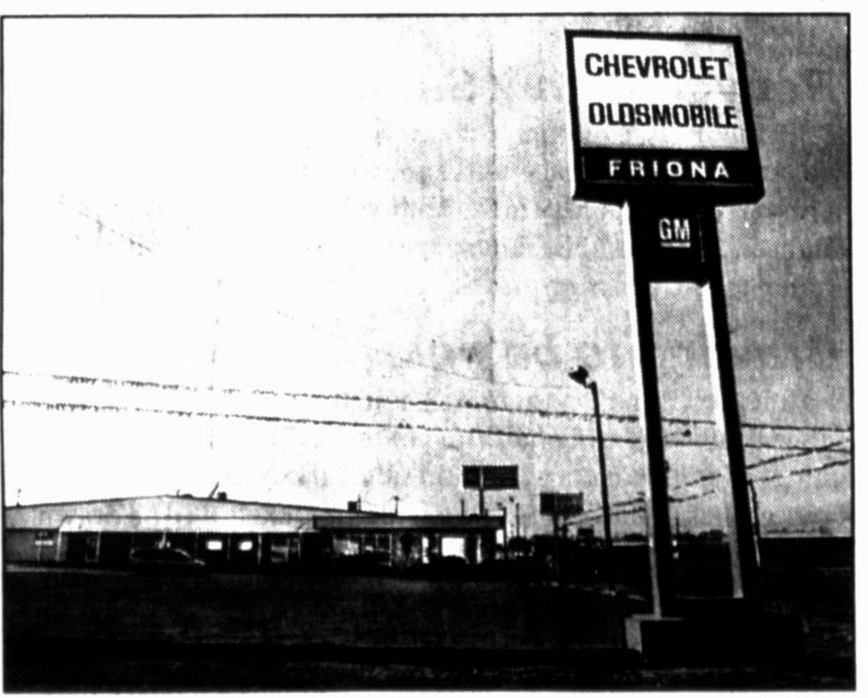

Riley and Nichols had also been partners in Southwest Truck Sales in Amarillo prior to the purchase of Western Ford in 1993.

Riley, 46, and his wife, Helen, are members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints of Hereford. The Rileys have four children and two grandchildren. Their children are Roy Riley Jr. who is serving a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Dianne Roberts, who is serving as office manager at Western Ford; Keith, a 1997 graduate of Hereford High School who is attending West Texas A&M University as a freshman; and Lisa, a junior at HHS.

"We love Hereford and this area," Riley said. "The people are tremendous. The schools are great; it's a

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Well, basketball fans, I thought it was about time for you to be hearing from me again!

Wow! What a season both boys and girls are having! Seems like every game I go to is more exciting than the game before.

The boys are a Cinderella story after pre-season polls picked us to be last or next to last in district. Today they are 13-12 and are 7-2 and in second place in district.

The girls' varsity is ranked third in the state in 4A and their season record is a whopping 25 wins and only 3 losses!

I challenge all you Whiteface fans to come to the game this Friday night. The girls play at 6 p.m. followed by the boys at 7:30. We play Randall and they are crucial games for both teams. It would be great to fill our stands - both sides - and show our kids our support for their hard work and team efforts.

I can promise you that you won't be disappointed. Can't close without a tip of the hat to coaches Randy Dean and Eddie Fortenberry and their staffs. Thanks so much for once again providing the folks of Hereford an exciting basketball season!

We love ya, Herd!
Michael Power

Local Roundup

Road work

Construction will begin next week at the intersection of U.S. Hwys. 385 and 60. The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) is replacing the old intersection with a new concrete intersection, which will last longer with the area's heavy truck traffic.

Gilvin-Terrill Inc. of Amarillo is the contractor for the project. Traffic in each lane will be reduced to one lane in each direction for the duration of the project, which is expected to take about two months.

County commission

Members of the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court will open bids for county insurance, adopt a proposed order of renaming streets in the San Jose community (Precinct 2), advertise for a deputy clerk in the county clerk's office, and conduct a public hearing on a request by Bimbo Foods for a tax abatement.

DSEC scholarship

Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative announces a new $10,000 scholarship program. There will be five $2,000 scholarships awarded in May, 1998. Scholarships will be awarded to eligible applicants of immediate families of active members and active employees of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative.

Applicants may be either traditional high school graduates or student wishing to continue their education after an extended absence. Applicants must be of good character as evidenced by at least three letters of recommendation from teachers, principals, counselors, etc. Selection will be based on the following primary criteria: grade point average, community activities, service work and recommendations. Secondary criteria will include: written essay, SAT/ACT scores and academic honors.

Applications may be obtained from area high schools, extension offices of Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro and Oldham counties, or Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative office in Hereford.

Applications must be received no later than March 13, 1998. Awards will be announced within sixty days of closing date.

Recycling day Saturday

Community Christian School Service Club and Hereford Beautification Alliance will sponsor a recycling day from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Saturday in St. Anthony's parking lot. Acceptable items include bundled newspapers, aluminum, metal and car batteries. No glass or plastic accepted.

Drawing to be held

Hereford Band Boosters will hold their "Scholarship Beef" raffle drawing during half time of the boys varsity basketball game Friday. Tickets will be on sale during both the girls and boys games that evening. Two winning tickets will be drawn.

Textbook presentation

The public is invited to attend a publisher's presentation of elementary textbooks on Feb. 6, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Hereford Independent School District administration building. These books are currently under consideration for adoption by the district.

Tyler desegregation order challenged

AUSTIN (AP) - Students are being thwarted in efforts to leave low-performing public schools by a federal desegregation order, says a group that has filed a court challenge to exempt a transfer program from desegregation requirements.

The challenge was filed in U.S. District Court in Tyler by the Texas Justice Foundation on behalf of a girl it says was assaulted five times at a Tyler middle school.

The girl, who is white, was not allowed to change schools because of a desegregation order limiting transfers. In addition to the statewide desegregation order, Tyler Independent School District is under a separate desegregation order.

The foundation's Allan Parker said because the denial was based solely on the girl's race, her constitutional rights were violated.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler has scheduled a Monday hearing on a temporary restraining order to allow the girl to transfer.

"The court order specifically says you attend the school determined by the attendance boundary in which you live," Tyler ISD Superintendent Donald Gentry said Thursday. "It was our opinion that we could not allow transfers under that."

Regarding the alleged assaults, Gentry said the school's principal still is looking at records. He said he knew of two altercations involving the girl, including one this year in which she and another student were suspended.

"I would not want anyone to think that the school was not providing a safe environment for kids and that this particular school is not providing a quality education, because I believe they are," he said.

The foundation contends school districts and the Texas Education Agency are using desegregation orders as an excuse to deny transfers under the Public Education Grant program.

The PEG program allows transfers from public schools that have been rated low-performing by the state in any of the last three years or that have had at least half of their students fail the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills in two of the last three years.

To transfer, students must find another public school willing to take them.

The lawsuit also includes a Hispanic low-income parent and student in San Antonio who can't afford to move or pay private school tuition and have requested a transfer under the PEG program, the foundation said.

Parker emphasized the lawsuit doesn't seek the lifting of the desegregation order but simply wants an exception for PEG transfers as there are for some other students.

Gentry said the Tyler desegregation order allows students to transfer if their race is in the majority and they are transferring to a school where they'd be in the minority. Exceptions also are allowed for special education students and for students whose schools don't offer particular programs, he said.

The girl in this case wants to transfer from a school with about one-third white, one-third black and one-third Hispanic students, he said. It was rated low-performing two years ago but since has been upgraded to acceptable.

The school the girl wanted to transfer to is about 90 percent white and is crowded, he said.

TEA spokeswoman Debbie Graves Racliffe said the agency must review student transfers between districts. It can halt transfers if they are going to change the racial balance in a district by at least 1 percent, she said.

The statewide desegregation order allows exceptions for deaf students to attend multi-county cooperative programs and for special education students whose home districts lack classes they need, she added.

She said the agency is studying the lawsuit.

Mouth watch

Will Johnson, sixth grade St. Anthony's School student and son of Blake and Robin Johnson of Hereford, explained his recent science fair project at the Hereford Kiwanis Club noon meeting Thursday at the Hereford Community Center. The project, which studied bacteria levels in both human and animal mouths, concluded that a dog's mouth was just as clean as his master's, neither were very clean to begin with, and that Colgate toothpaste was a clear winner over Listerine mouthwash in reducing bacteria.

Slogan creators step away DOT looks for new campaign

AUSTIN (AP) - The advertising agency that created the hugely successful "Don't Mess With Texas" anti-litter campaign is tossing the account.

Austin-based GSD&M, which created the campaign and its well-known slogan in 1985, has decided to give another ad agency a chance at the business, the Austin American-Statesman reported Thursday.

"During the past 12 years, the (Department of Transportation) and GSD&M have become joined at the hip as an awesome team of road warriors battling to keep the bottles out of the bluebonnets," GSD&M president Roy Spence wrote in a letter to the DOT.

"It has been a great adventure and a very, very successful one from our point of view. While it will always have a very special place in our heart, we are passing the torch to allow other agencies the same opportunity we had," Spence said.

The "Don't Mess With Texas" campaign featured many of the state's top musicians and helped reduce the volume of cans, paper and other trash along Texas roads.

For GSD&M, the account for the Transportation Department was relatively small, with annual billings of around $1.5 million.

When the ad agency went after the account in 1985, it was a small regional firm with annual billings of $76 million. Today, it's the 68th largest in the country with a client list that includes Wal-Mart, Southwest Airlines, Southwestern Bell and MasterCard. Billings in 1997 were $525 million.

GSD&M's success with an unglamorous subject like litter - turning it into a catchphrase almost as popular as "Remember the Alamo" to some Texans - bolstered the agency's reputation as a creative powerhouse.

Before 1985, the Transportation Department didn't have its own anti-litter campaign but wanted one.

GSD&M's Tim McClure responded with "Don't Mess With Texas." He wanted to appeal to male pickup truck drivers between 18 and 25 - the most common litterers.

Radio and television promotions, were created with Texas professional athletes and musicians, beginning with Stevie Ray Vaughn.

"What we wanted was attitude," said Eric Webber, GSD&M marketing director. "We wanted to play on the pride people have in this state."

It worked. By 1986, litter had declined 29 percent, and signs bearing the "Don't Mess With Texas" slogan even accompanied the University of Texas women's basketball team to the national championship game.

A 1992 study showed that public awareness of the slogan had reached 96 percent.

The Transportation Department, which will accept bids until Feb. 20, is open to new ideas, said Doris Howdeshell, director of its travel and information division.

The slogan could change if there is a good new approach, she said, adding, "It would have to be a plenty good slogan to replace what we have."

Church unacceptable as community service

DALLAS (AP) - A judge has agreed to stop sentencing defendants to attend church or Sunday school in lieu of fines, an attorney says.

The agreement came in a settlement reached between Dallas County Justice of the Peace Bruce McDougal and the family of 14-year-old Zack J. Smith. The settlement agreement, entered Tuesday, was released Thursday.

Under the agreement, Smith has agreed to perform community service with a secular non-profit organization to satisfy McDougal's sentence.

"I was very pleased to have them do it, and I was very pleased that the county recognized that this wasn't even a gray area, that this was something that needed to stop immediately," said attorney Michael Linz, who filed the lawsuit on behalf of the Smith family.

McDougal insisted the program had been misunderstood, but said he had stopped it as soon as he learned the American Civil Liberties Union intended to go to court over it.

"We simply won't do it anymore," McDougal said. "That's just the bottom line."

McDougal sentenced Zack to attend church and a Sunday school program for eight weeks after the teen-ager pleaded guilty Dec. 3 to disorderly conduct for fighting at school.

But the family objected. Zack said he is an atheist, and his mother, Valerie Smith, does not attend organized religious services.

The boy had requested community service as punishment because he could not pay the $200 fine. No secular options for community service were offered.

"They're very pleased that the matter has been resolved and that Zack can do his community service as he should and not have to engage in religious practices that he doesn't agree with," said Linz.

The attorney said the teen-ager planned to complete his community service with the U.S. Veterans Affairs Department.

McDougal said he had been using the program only to help children who otherwise would have had trouble paying court-imposed fines.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Back in 1991, you printed my letter about iron overload, hereditary hemochromatosis (HH). Since that column appeared, countless lives have been saved. Thank you.

HH is an inherited disorder that causes people to absorb too much iron from a normal diet and is often overlooked by doctors. More than 1.5 million Americans are affected by HH, which can cause a variety of problems, including chronic fatigue, diabetes, cancer, arthritis, cirrhosis of the liver and heart disease.

The Centers for Disease Control have proclaimed hereditary hemochromatosis the most common genetic disease in the United States. Your readers should know that in August 1996, the gene for HH was discovered, and an inexpensive DNA test has been developed.

One in eight children is a single-gene carrier, and one in 200 may develop the disease due to the double gene for HH. Usually considered an adult disease, we now know that children can become ill and even die from HH. But the damage and premature death from iron overload is avoidable and preventable for both children and adults.

I have started the Children Helping Children national screening project to identify and treat children with hereditary hemochromatosis. A simple DNA test can identify most of the children with the gene for HH and alert parents and pediatricians to monitor the child closely to see if high levels of iron are present. The four necessary tests are: serum iron, total iron binding capacity (TIBC), percent saturation and serum ferritin. By diagnosing the child early and treating him or her promptly, the child can have a normal life expectancy.

Readers who want more information should send a long, self-addressed, stamped (64 cents) envelope to: Iron Overload Diseases Association, 433 Westwind Drive, Dept. L, North Palm Beach, Fla. 33408-5123 (www.ironoverload.org).

Thanks, Ann, and bless you. -- Sandra Thomas, national director of public education, Iron Overload

Diseases Association

Dear Sandra: No thanks to me are necessary. That's what I'm here for. I appreciate your sending this valuable information.

Dear Readers: Those of you who find "how we met" letters a crashing bore can stop reading now because here comes another one:

Dear Ann Landers: My husband, "John," and his roommate, "Ray," attended a freshman orientation dance at the University of Chicago. As they were looking over the new crop of freshman girls, John pointed at me and told Ray, "That's the girl I am going to marry." Ray said, "I bet you a buck you don't."

John came over and introduced himself. We danced, and I fell in love, but I wasn't sure how he felt. He never said. We studied together in the library almost every night, but it took a few months before he actually asked me out on a real date.

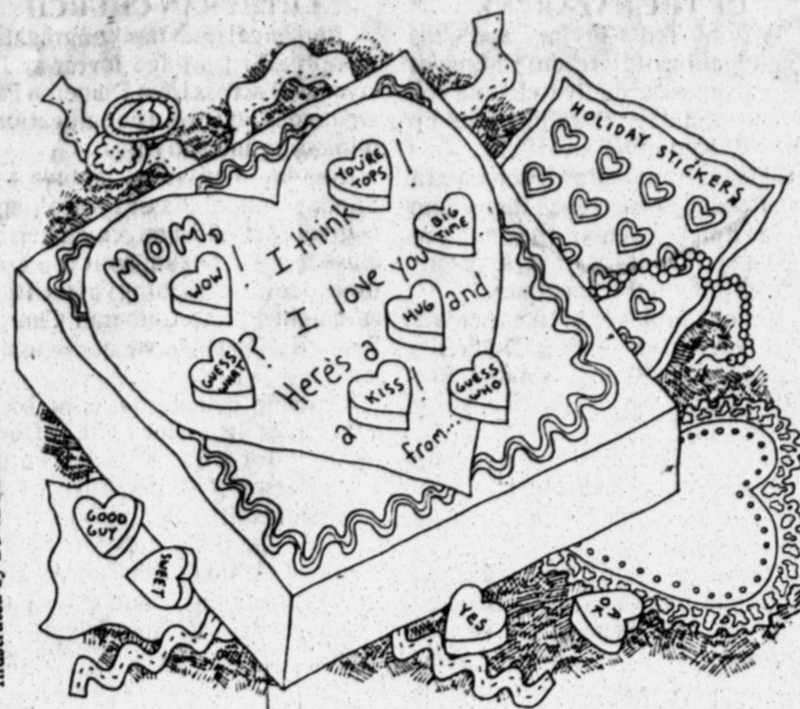

Then came World War II. John enlisted, and we wrote back and forth. His letters were wonderful, and they sealed our relationship. When he came home, we were married. We were just about to have our third child when John received a letter from Ray with a dollar bill and a note. It said, "You win!"

I've always kidded John about that and told him, "Some guys will do anything for a buck." We have had a wonderful life together for the last 50 years. Sign us -- Happy in Lafayette, Calif.

Dear Lafayette: Your letter is a real upper. I am happy to report that, according to a recent census, the divorce rate in the United States is down for the first time in almost 25 years. Let us hope the downward trend continues.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.55.)

Crafts for Valentines to create with heart

Roses are red, violets are blue, here are two sweet valentine crafts for your family and you!

* Make a do-it-yourself valentine kit: Your children can have fun crafting their own valentines over the next weeks using their own "kit" that you assemble for them. If you are a grandparent, you might make these mini kits for each of your school-age grandchildren, send them in the mail and, who knows, you might find a surprise in YOUR mailbox come Feb. 14!

Each kit might contain red or pink construction paper, lace or paper doilies and a small plastic bag filled with valentine stickers, buttons, pieces from old jewelry, sewing trim such as rickrack and ribbon, glitter, etc. Just about anything goes! Kids can supply their own markers, crayons, scissors and glue.

* Make a valentine on a box top:

Some of the best things come in small boxes, especially on Valentine's Day. Announce your sentiments on top of the present with a valentine wish instead of a bow.

First, cut out a piece of colored construction paper to fit the top of the box. Decorate the border with a marker, then glue it on the lid. Cut out a red heart from poster board, glue it on the construction paper, then write a short saying on it. Make it unique. Replace written words with traditional tiny colored heart candies (with words printed on each one). Find words that fit the thought you wish to express and glue them on the heart.

For example, if you find candies with "Dear One," "Forever," "Smile," "Real Pal" and "Love You," you might compose the following: Laticia, my dear one, you forever make me smile. You're a real pal. — Love you, Mom.

Counselors are needed for local MDA camp

The Muscular Dystrophy Association is seeking camp counselors for their local camp for children with muscle diseases. MDA is especially in need of male counselors to assist with the camping program. The MDA camp will be held at Ceta Canyon Camp near Happy from May 31-June 1.

At the MDA camp, counselors work one on one with the campers to provide care, supervision, attention and friendship to children with limited mobility. Young men and women willing to spend a week at camp are needed to fill counselor positions for the camp. Volunteers must be at least 16 years of age and will be trained before camp.

As a summer camp counselor, young people are given the opportunity to perform a valuable community service, develop a great understanding of individuals with disabilities and enjoy a very special week of summer camp.

Donations of supplies are also needed for MDA's summer camp. Arts and crafts items, carnival prizes and awards, life jackets, sporting equipment, snacks, medical supplies, walkie talkies, and the use of a golf cart, are among the donations sought to help provide a memorable camp experience to approximately 60 youngsters.

MDA supports a nationwide network of summer camps offering a wide range of activities designed for youngsters who have limited mobility or use wheelchairs. MDA camp programs, although structured, are conducted in a relaxed atmosphere that gives campers an opportunity to develop lifelong friendships, share interests and build self-confidence.

For more information on becoming a summer camp counselor or to donate supplies for camp, call 1-806-359-3141.

The single ladies of the congregation will be honored with a Valentine dinner and program sponsored by the United Methodist Men to be held in Fellowship Hall at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Worship Committee will meet in the church library on Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

WESTWAY BAPTIST CHURCH

We are continuing week by week to see great and mighty things happening in our midst which have been blessed of God. This past Sunday evening we were privileged to hear the testimony of two of God's chosen who have been taken from deep darkness of worldly sins to a brilliant glowing couple who show forth the redeeming power of a mighty God. Bro. Leon Armstrong brings messages weekly which emulate this transforming power which can take place in one life.

Sunday School for all ages begins at 9:45 a.m. Worship hour with music, praise, prayer and preaching is at 11 a.m.

Sunday evening worship is a time of study and learning together as we grow in knowledge and strength at 6 p.m.

Wednesday evening is prayer and praise hour at 7.

You are invited to come and join us. We have many ways and surely you will find some with which you can be blessed. We are a friendly people reaching out to all to serve and grow in Christ.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

On this, the fifth Sunday after Epiphany, the preacher is musing on the dangerous notion of Jesus' "fishers of men" (Luke 5:1-11). Doesn't the idea of "fishing" for people feed a certain unhealthy religious zealotry sometimes called "evangelism?" Don't fishhooks, nets and the "catching" of people have the feel of manipulation, trickery and entrapment? How does this fishing metaphor square with the gentleness and respectfulness of Jesus? The sermon, "The Surprise of Fishing," will explore these and other questions to find meaning in this text for a community that might better understand being "teachers," "farmers," or "ranchers" of people.

Pastor Nathan L. Stone, Ph.D., and the people of Fellowship of Believers extend a neighborly invitation to anyone who might feel comfortable in an interdenominational, independent and ecumenical church. A church not so much interested in "fishing" for members as providing a place for kindred spirits. A church that knows it is, of course, a part of organized religion but longs to be anything but that. One of the goals of FOB is to never lose the spirit of family that birthed it: an attitude, a trusting, an openness, a tolerance, a love that will always welcome brokenness and always explore the ways of redemption. A church that asks to be prayed for.

The church meets on Sundays - only and her schedule is intentionally simple: 9:15 - morning food, coffee, cold drinks and conversation

9:35 - "Forum": a dialogical Sunday School for all ages, seeking theological/biblical answers to complex, contemporary questions

10:20 - informal singing with Bettye Owen and Cindy Cassels

10:30-11:25 - the worship of God
The church is located at 245 North Kingwood (at Moreman). For transportation to the services phone 364-0359.

A supervised nursery is available for all services.

Administrator: Carolyn Baxter. Secretary: Toni Jones. Ministers: all the people.

Jones revises timeline for new coach

IRVING (AP) -- Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones has apparently scrapped his timetable in his search for the man who will be the fourth head coach in the franchise's history. Jones has been looking for a new head coach since Jan. 9, when Barry Switzer resigned at the end of a 6-10 season. Earlier, Jones said he expected to hire a coach by "mid-week," but that deadline has passed, and it appears he is no closer to hiring one than he was a week ago. Jones has had a total of seven interviews with three candidates.

Jones now says it could be April or later before he finds one he wants--after the NFL scouting combine and perhaps the draft. "I don't need to have this done by this week or before the combine or after the combine or before the draft or after the draft," Jones said. "There's no reason to set a time frame and compromise my decision." The Cowboys will attend the NFL combine in Indianapolis this week without a head coach to judge the college players working out there. Jones' third interview with former UCLA coach Terry Donahue soured just when it appeared they were on the verge of a deal. A perplexed Jones now says "the timing is not a problem of mine. We're still going down a lot of roads." Jones said hiring Donahue remains an option, although he didn't make the him a firm offer. Donahue, a football analyst for CBS the last two years after a 20-year career at UCLA, said he thinks he still might get the job. Donahue told CNN-SI: "I'm confident enough to believe I'm the right guy for the Dallas job if the conditions are right." Donahue would not comment when asked if he received an offer. However, former UCLA coach Pepper Rodgers, a friend of Donahue, told The Dallas Morning News that Jones offered the job on Monday, but talks hit a snag when they got down to details. "Terry was upset about certain conditions," Rodgers said. Donahue had a change of heart in 1987 and turned down the Atlanta head coaching job after he accepted it. He said then he didn't think he would get another chance to coach in the NFL. Pistons pound Rockets, 104-92

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) -- All it took was some old-fashioned defense for the Detroit Pistons to earn their first victory since the firing of Doug Collins. Joe Dumars scored eight of his 16 points down the stretch and Detroit held Houston to only four baskets in the fourth quarter as the Pistons snapped a three-game losing streak with a 104-92 win over the Rockets on Thursday night.

"I think it came down to our defense," said interim coach Alvin Gentry, who is 1-1 since replacing Collins on Monday. "They made that big run in the fourth quarter and we came up with six great stops."

"That's what we had talked about before the game, that if we wanted to turn this around, it was going to have to be with defense."

In their first game under Gentry, the Pistons played their worst defense of the season in a 113-101 loss at Washington. This game was almost a complete turnaround. Detroit held Houston to 44.1 percent shooting (30 of 68). Things might have been even worse for Houston if the Rockets hadn't made 25 of 30 free throws.

"We did a good job of controlling the tempo," Gentry said. "We ran when we got a chance, but we didn't play fast-break basketball with them. We did a good job of keeping a half-court game when we had to."

The Pistons game plan also called for someone other than Grant Hill to bring the ball up the court. As a result, Hill had fresher legs down the stretch and scored six of his 24 points in the fourth quarter.

Charles Barkley had 26 points for the Rockets, who fought back from an 11-point third-quarter deficit to take a one-point lead early in the fourth. Hakeem Olajuwon, in his second game since coming back from arthroscopic surgery on his left knee, scored 19 points in 26 minutes for Houston.

"I'm happy about the way I feel out there," Olajuwon said. "The condition is not there, but I feel great. I'm very excited. I know I've got a little work to do. I'm looking forward to the second half of the season. It's encouraging."

Rick Mahorn's fallaway jumper gave Detroit a 73-62 lead with 3:35 left in the third quarter. But the Rockets, getting six points from Olajuwon, outscored the Pistons 13-6 over the remainder of the third.

ROUND TWO Herd, Randall to face off with District 1-4A lead on line

By BOB VARMETTE Sports Writer

It wasn't a 20-point ballgame. Well, it was if you looked at the scoreboard at the end of the game, but neither the winning coach nor the losing coach expect that to happen for Canyon Randall-Hereford, Round Two.

The Whitefaces stunned the Raiders 64-44 in their House of Doom Jan. 13. "I think it will be a low-scoring game," Randall head coach Leslie Broadhurst said. "It'll go down to the wire. I don't think it'll be a run and gun deal."

Hereford head coach Randy Dean agrees. The first game between the teams was tied at 11-11 after the first quarter; Hereford held a 23-22 lead at half, and only had a seven-point margin -- 44-37 -- after three. "If we go in, and we'll compete hard and make plays," Dean said, "then we'll have an opportunity at the end and that's all we can ask for."

Randall (18-7 overall, 9-1 District 1-4A) will visit Hereford (13-12, 7-2) at Whiteface Gymnasium 7:30 p.m. tonight for the last district showdown between the present District 1-4A rivals. Beginning next season, Randall and Hereford will be in adjacent districts. Hereford head coach Randy Dean doesn't see that as a motivating factor for the Whitefaces.

"I think the thing that should get us the most excited is what we have the opportunity to accomplish," he said. "All that other stuff is on the exterior, things we really don't need to get caught up thinking about..."

Broadhurst said he's not using the subject as a motivational tool for the Raiders, either. "I've got six seniors," he said. "They just want to win. They're focused on what they want to accomplish this year. Now, maybe the younger kids think a little about it."

Both the Randall and Hereford have clinched playoff spots. A win by the Raiders would all but clinch the District 1-4A title. A win by Hereford would put them in the

Mavs lose again

TORONTO (AP) -- Beating the lowly Dallas Mavericks had a special meaning for Oliver Miller.

Miller's distaste for Mavericks' coach Don Nelson, who cut him in the middle of last season, was evident in the dressing room following Toronto's 101-93 victory over Dallas Thursday night.

"I love this game, but I really loved it tonight," Miller said after a 17-point, six-rebound performance.

Miller signed with Dallas in the fall of 1996 for the league minimum after exercising an option in his Raptors' contract and becoming a free agent in a move that cost him millions of dollars. The big center played just 41 games for Dallas, averaging 4.4 points and 5.6 rebounds before being released last February.

He has been re-signed twice by the Raptors since then.

"Congratulations, Don Nelson, on this loss," Miller said of the Mavericks' 20th consecutive road defeat. "I wish we had a seven-game series against you."

Asked about Miller, Nelson smiled, shrugged and said "I'm glad he's feeling good."

After the first half, it looked as though the Raptors could be doomed to another losing night. They played their worst first quarter in franchise history, in which they shot 19.2 percent from the floor and gave up 14 defensive rebounds as Dallas built a 16-point lead late in the period.

Toronto trailed by 16 points in the first half and didn't take its first lead until the third quarter. Walt Williams and Stoudamire each hit two 3-pointers in the period as the Raptors outscored the Mavs 40-21 to take an 11-point lead into the fourth quarter.

Martin-PGA trial

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) -- Three of golf's greatest players testified that granting Casey Martin his request to ride a cart on the pro tour would unfairly take the fatigue factor out of top-flight competition.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Ken Venturi were called by the PGA Tour on Thursday to support the tour's position that walking is a fundamental part of tournament golf at its highest levels, providing a test of stamina and athleticism.

The testimony came after Martin's lawyers rested their case seeking permission for him to ride a cart in professional golf tournaments under the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Martin's doctors say a rare circulatory condition in his right leg not only makes walking painful, but could be dangerous.

Clancy remains confident of buy

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) -- Novelist Tom Clancy said Thursday he is confident that the Minnesota Vikings are his, despite claims to the contrary by team president Roger Headrick.

"Here's the deal. It's signed," he said, holding up a letter of intent during a news conference. "We signed it over lunch, and my name's on it and their names are on it, and that makes it a legal deal."

Clancy, the author of "Clear and Present Danger" and other thrillers, is the lead investor in a group that paid slightly more than $200 million for the team, an NFL record.

After Clancy was announced as the new owner Tuesday, Headrick -- one of the 10 current owners -- said Wednesday night he has a legal right under ownership group bylaws to match any offer from an outside bidder.

Vikings support Clancy bid, ruling may have to be made by NFL/Page 6A

That didn't deter Clancy. "As far as I'm concerned, the problem with Mr. Headrick is in the wake. It's behind us; I'm not concerned," he said.

Headrick was not at Thursday's news conference, leaving instead to attend the NFL scouting combine in Indianapolis.

In his first appearance before Twin Cities media, Clancy was pressed

Frosh girls split games

From staff reports

The Hereford Junior High School freshman girls basketball team split a pair of games Thursday in the District 1-4A freshman girls tournament at Hereford Junior High School.

In the first round, Borger defeated Hereford 53-50. Bethany Williams led the Lady Whitefaces with 19 points. Jessie Artho added nine points for Hereford.

In the consolation-round game Thursday evening, Hereford beat Pampa, 43-28. Holly Schilling and Tessa Baker each had 10 points to lead Hereford.

Hereford will face the loser of the Canyon-Amarillo Caprock game in the third round of the consolation bracket. Tip off will be 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Whiteface Gymnasium.

Vikings owners back Clancy bid

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) -- As glib and self-assured as his novels are gripping, Tom Clancy promised Thursday he would not lose the Minnesota Vikings to Roger Headrick, even though NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue probably will have to settle the nasty, messy sale.

Clancy, the best-selling author of high-tech military thrillers, fired back at Headrick's stunning claim that he has the right to match Clancy's $200 million-plus offer to buy the team.

Clancy and the Vikings owners said their lawyers assured them Headrick's stance was bogus.

"His feelings got hurt. Sorry, it happens," Clancy said. "There's certainly a sour-grapes element involved."

Headrick, the Vikings president and one of the 10 current owners, came up about $20 million short this week in his bid to buy the team. Clancy's offer, an NFL record, was accepted Tuesday.

Then, late Wednesday, Headrick began calling Twin Cities media outlets to announce what he considered his legal right, under ownership group bylaws, to match any offer from an outside bidder.

Both sides now must submit their arguments to Tagliabue, who has the power to settle disputes between owners. A ruling could come as soon as next week and almost certainly within two weeks, although it remains possible the loser could take the matter to court.

"We feel confident that we have gotten good legal advice, and we are looking forward to a ruling from the commissioner," said owner Wheelock Whitney.

Clancy

repeatedly about Headrick's competing proposal, the first of which was reported to be between $180 million and $185 million.

Clancy finally replied: "What appears to have happened is that Mr. Headrick low-balled his opening bid, not knowing that somebody wanted to pay what the team was really worth."

"And now he's going to his partners and saying, 'OK, well I tried to shaft you before, but this time I'm trying to do something better. I guess the board wasn't overly pleased by that approach, and in any case it doesn't matter, because I'd already been approved.'"

Headrick said Wednesday night that if Clancy's bid is not approved, his offer would revert to its original level.

Clancy said his "primary mission

The sale eventually will need final approval from 23 of the NFL's 30 owners, something Clancy's group expects could come as soon as next month's owners meetings in Orlando, Fla.

Confident and entertaining during his first trip to Minnesota since the deal was announced, Clancy said he expected approval to be a formality.

"I have reason to believe the league is going to be predisposed to look favorably on my bid," he said.

Headrick did not immediately return telephone calls. He left town Thursday morning for the scouting combine in Indianapolis and was joined by the Vikings' coaches.

Their presence at a key personnel gathering while the prospective new owner was holding his first news conference at a site other than team headquarters added to the bizarre circumstances surrounding the sale.

Those details begged the question, "Who's in charge here?"

"As of today, Roger Headrick is president of the Minnesota Vikings," owners James Jundt said.

That might not be true Friday. The other nine owners plan to oust Headrick, a vote that is expected to be unanimous.

"It'll be done soon," Whitney said.

Another owner would be chosen to represent the team at the league level, and vice president Jeff Diamond probably would take over the team's daily operations. Headrick would retain his 10 percent share in the team.

"The deal is done, let's move forward," Clancy said, adding that his full ownership group would be revealed next week.

as owner of the Vikings will be to make sure that this team is part of the community."

"The ownership of a professional sports franchise is a public trust, just like being a congressman or a senator or a governor. The team only exists because of the fans," he said.

Clancy's bid still needs approval from the NFL owners, expected to come at meetings next month in Florida.

He declined again to say who is in his ownership group, but said he would disclose other names next week next week.

Still, the novelist isn't completely focused on his new job.

"The most important thing I have on the plate right now is finishing the ... book. It's 'Rainbow Six,' and it'll be about $24.95."

Championship team

district driver's seat, having won both games with the Raiders, with two games left on their schedule.

"We have an opportunity to determine where we finish," Dean said. "There are still a lot of things out there available to us. We have to take it one game at a time and the first one is the big one with Randall."

In the teams' earlier meeting, the shorter, quicker Whitefaces played a nearly flawless 32 minutes. Randall, which used a starting lineup that averaged 6-2 1/2, only 1/2 inch shorter than Hereford's tallest player, outbounded the Whitefaces by only one -- 26-25.

"Hereford really played well," Broadhurst said. "I was real impressed with the way they played. They had a good game plan, they played hard and they played smart."

Dean said not allowing the Raiders to dominate the boards was one of the keys to winning that earlier contest. "We were able to ... hold our own in the rebounding category," he said. "That was critical, not giving them a lot of extra shots."

Offensive and defensive execution were also keys to the Hereford victory, according to Dean. "At the top of the list, we played really good defense the whole night," he said. "We challenged everything they were trying to do. That's where most big wins start."

Bryant McNutt led Hereford with 18 points. His brother, sophomore Eric McNutt, added 16 points.

Senior Brandon Sims led the Raiders with 15 points. He was the only Randall player to reach double figures.

Missing from that game due to an injury was Randall's 6-5 senior post Jimmy Webb. But now he's back.

"Jimmy has definitely helped us play a lot better (since his return)," Broadhurst said. "We haven't lost since he got back in there."

Dean said Randall hasn't changed their offense since Webb's return, but they are a more formidable challenge with him in the starting lineup.

"They're doing the same things," he said. "But you now just have to add in a very, very good basketball player. He's another 6-5 body that's very strong and has an unbelievable knack for being able to rebound the ball. ... He's become a very complete high school post player."

Rockets

3-pointer as the Rockets opened the fourth quarter with an 8-0 burst, completing a 21-6 run and taking an 81-80 lead with 10:13 remaining.

But then the Pistons took over. Hill had a pair of jumpers around a basket by Brian Williams. Dumars hit a jumper from the left side. Grant Long scored on a layup. Dumars made a 3-pointer from the left corner and Mahorn put in a rebound to complete a 16-2 burst that put the game away.

"We played pretty well," Barkley said. "We just didn't have enough stops defensively."

Dumars hit another 3-pointer to give Detroit a 98-85 lead and the Pistons continued to take advantage of Houston's shooting woes.

"Everything we tried against Dumars didn't work," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "He executed everything that we threw at him. They made every play."

Detroit shot 59.5 per cent and also had a 41-28 rebounding edge.

Mavs

"In the first half, we played terrible defense and had no energy," Raptors coach Darrell Walker said. "In the second half, we made some shots and I felt we played with that energy."

Damon Stoudamire led Toronto with 21 points, eight assists and seven rebounds. Marcus Camby had 16 rebounds and 10 points for the Raptors.

Michael Finley led Dallas with 19 points.

The crowd of 14,292 was the second-lowest in franchise history.

Jones

offensive coordinator Sherman Lewis are still on Jones' list, along with a "mystery" candidate, and possibly several college coaches who have yet to be contacted.

Seifert and Lewis have had two visits each with Jones, who also needs to hire an offensive coordinator to replace Eric Zampese, who has gone to New England.

This time is different from Jones' other hirings, when he quickly turned to Jimmy Johnson and Switzer, both friends. In hiring Johnson in 1989, he fired Tom Landry, the only coach the team had in its first 29 seasons.

Harding, Kerrigan meet again for TV interview

By JOSH DUBOW
AP Sports Writer

Would she or wouldn't she? After four years, would Tonya Harding apologize? Would Nancy Kerrigan forgive?

Would there be closure for the whack on Kerrigan's knee that was orchestrated by Harding's ex-husband, looking to give his sweetie the gold medal?

The two met again for the first time since Lillehammer, thanks to a two-hour Fox special that aired Thursday night, and the $100,000-plus the network paid each skater to appear.

When Harding walked into the Fox studio in New York where James Brown conducted the joint interview, Kerrigan, appearing queasy, exchanged a cold hello.

Harding then asked for forgiveness.

"I would like to apologize again for being in the wrong place at the wrong time and with the wrong people," Harding said.

"If I would have known, I would have done anything I could to stop it," she added. "I say that from the bottom of my heart."

Kerrigan looked almost uncomfortable by the apology and Harding's earlier congratulations for Kerrigan's marriage and child.

Fox did not show her response, but when Harding apologized again at the end of the interview, Kerrigan responded:

"I am glad you moved on and I hope that you can find happiness and maybe children can learn from these mistakes," she said to Harding.

But talking about the attack -- that was something neither could have prepared for.

And the nervous looks and guarded answers given by each showed that.

Harding has tried to restore her reputation, with little success. She is banned from skating for her role in covering up the attack.

"It's been really hard because my whole life I had built everything around my skating," said Harding, whose only performances since the Olympics were at intermission of a minor league hockey game and for this special at an outdoor rink.

Starr, Lewinsky's lawyer swap charges, countercharges
WASHINGTON (AP) - In a public jousting, Whitewater prosecutor Kenneth Starr and the lawyer for Monica Lewinsky are trading charges and countercharges as they negotiate over whether she will testify about allegations she had sex with President Clinton.

William Ginsburg, the Los Angeles attorney who represents the former White House intern, contacted The Associated Press on Thursday night to issue a statement saying Starr secretly had granted Ms. Lewinsky full immunity from prosecution in exchange for her testimony but that Starr was continuing to pressure her into making statements "that are not true."

Ginsburg made his declaration in response to a statement issued hours earlier by Starr. In it, Starr said his office could not grant Ms. Lewinsky immunity because his investigators had not been given a face-to-face interview with her. The prosecutor wrote that "there is no substitute for looking a witness in the eye."

In response, Ginsburg said in his statement: "His continued insistence that he cannot have a face-to-face talk with Ms. Lewinsky has no basis in fact." Starr's office declined to make an immediate comment.

The back and forth came as Starr claimed "very significant progress" in his investigation of allegations that Clinton had an 18-month affair with Ms. Lewinsky beginning when she was 21 and then tried to cover it up.

Clinics warned about gifts that could conceal bombs

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - The Justice Department is warning women's clinics to be on the lookout for common gifts that could hide explosives.

Responding to questions, Deputy Attorney General Eric Holder confirmed Thursday that clinics have been told to watch out for items including potted plants, boxed candy and stuffed animals since the nation's first fatal abortion clinic bombing last week.

Agents previously said the homemade bomb that exploded outside the front door of the New Woman All Women Clinic was in a package, but they did not elaborate. Holder said the warning to clinics was "fairly specific."

Lawyer: Jones suit "conduit" for Clinton-bashing

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Paula Jones' sexual harassment lawsuit against President Clinton is "just another conduit for Clinton-bashing," the president's attorney said as he continued to press for an earlier trial date.

The Jones trial is set to begin May 27. But Clinton's lawyers have asked that it be moved to March 23, saying it would be in the best interests of the country and the presidency to resolve the matter quickly.

Robert Bennett, the president's lawyer, said objections filed by Mrs. Jones' lawyers in federal court Thursday are a "diatribe of irresponsible and scurrilous allegations ... (which) confirms that the plaintiff is just another conduit for Clinton-bashing."

Bennett has said a quick trial is necessary to eliminate the sidshow that has developed around Mrs. Jones' lawsuit, as well as from leaks involving former White House intern Monica Lewinsky.

Nationwide medical billing fraud under investigation

NEW YORK (AP) - Companies posing as medical practices or billing agencies have submitted an estimated $1 billion in phony bills to private insurance companies in just a few years, The New York Times reported today.

Investigators said the companies, using post-office boxes as return addresses, list the names of unsuspecting doctors and patients on the submitted claim forms.

Vampire cult leader pleads guilty to killings

TAVARES, Fla. (AP) - When Rod Ferrell was arrested more than a year ago for murdering the parents of one of his followers, the longhaired teen-age vampire cult leader defiantly wagged his tongue at television cameras.

It was a different Ferrell who meekly pleaded guilty Thursday to two first-degree murder charges that could send him to the electric chair.

Ferrell, now bespectacled with close-cropped hair, interrupted opening statements in his murder trial to admit to the gruesome killings of Richard Wendorf and Naoma Ruth Queen in November 1996.

Morton Downey Jr. returns for new talk show

NEW YORK (AP) - Prepare to lower the volume - "The Mouth" is coming back to television.

Confrontational talk show host Morton Downey Jr. is planning to revive his bare-knuckles show that flared briefly as a hit a decade ago before flaming out. It starts this spring.

Downey, known as "The Mouth" for his abrasive personality, was host of television's "The Morton Downey Jr. Show" in syndication during the late 1980s. He said the time is right for a return now that Jerry Springer has drawn big ratings by cornering the market on brawling strippers.

His old show's lowlights included a fistfight between activists Al Sharpton and Roy Innis. Downey said he's already itching to do a new show on the sex life of Linda Tripp, former White House intern Monica Lewinsky's friend.

FBI recovers stolen Mozart sheet music

NEW YORK (AP) - A porter at the New York Public Library allegedly stole a rare sheet of music composed by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and six letters written by Richard Wagner and then sold the items - which are worth more than $100,000 - for $1,000.

The FBI had little trouble finding Helard J. Gonzales OHiggins, also known as Julio Gonzales, because authorities said he had given a copy of his driver's license to the bookstore that bought the items.

Federal judge throws out Keating conviction -- again

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Charles Keating, a symbol of the 1980s savings and loan crisis, has won a second reversal of his state conviction on charges he defrauded thousands of investors who bought unsecured bonds issued by his American Continental Corp.

U.S. District Judge John Davies overturned the conviction Thursday, saying Keating was deprived due process rights when the trial judge, Superior Court Judge Lance Ito, gave jurors flawed instructions in the 1991 trial.

Prison term reinstatement sought for ex-teacher

SEATTLE (AP) - A former teacher who had sex with a 13-year-old student and bore his child was under a suicide watch before a hearing on how to punish her for violating parole by meeting with him.

Mary Kay LeTourneau was returned to the King County Jail pending today's hearing in the heavily publicized case before Superior Court Judge Linda Lau.

Police caught Ms. LeTourneau, 35, in a car with the boy, now 14, near her home Tuesday morning, a month after she was released from jail. Later that day, prosecutor Norm Maleng said he would seek reinstatement of her nearly 7 1/2-year prison term.

Investigators identify mother of abandoned baby

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - When a newborn baby girl was found abandoned in a toilet at Walt Disney World, investigators believed that a scared teen-ager had given birth in a cold bathroom stall and left her baby to die.

But investigators said Thursday it was a 43-year-old Filipino tourist - the married mother of eight other children - who gave birth to the 7-pound baby girl Nov. 8 in a restroom at Disney World. Two tourists found her.

DNA tests confirmed that Madonna Arcelona gave birth in the theme park's restroom, said Matthew Irwin, an investigator for the Orange County Sheriff's Department.

Top Clinton defender admits "relationship" with aide

DENVER (AP) - The chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Gov. Roy Romer, has acknowledged having a "relationship" with a woman who was his top aide in Colorado before working with him at the DNC.

Romer, 69, publicly denied during campaigns in 1990 and 1994 any sort of relationship with Betty Jane Thornberry, 51, who is divorced.

However, he talked with The Denver Post and issued a statement through spokesman Jim Carpenter to the Rocky Mountain News on Thursday, hours after Insight magazine published an Internet story saying it had received videotapes showing Romer hugging and kissing Thornberry in 1995.

Serial killer identified as sniper in '80 deaths

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Joseph Paul Franklin admits to shooting Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt in 1978, though he was never prosecuted. He also says he shot former civil rights leader Vernon Jordan in the back two years later, even though a jury acquitted him.

Now Franklin, a former white supremacist, has admitted to killing two more people, an interracial couple as they walked down a street in 1980.

Religion in brief

Family fights ban on kid's Bible story

MEDFORD, N.J. (AP) - A federal judge's ruling that school officials acted properly in barring a first-grader from reading a Bible story to his classmates is being appealed.

Nearly two years ago, when Zachary Hood was in first grade at the Maurice and Everett Haines School, he and other children were rewarded for good reading performances by being allowed to read a story of their choice. Zachary chose a story about Jacob and Esau from The Beginner's Bible.

He initially selected Dr. Seuss' "The Cat in the Hat," but decided it was too long, his mother, Carol, said. "It was a very innocent thing," she added. "He loves Bible stories."

Because of the subject, teacher Grace Oliva asked Zachary to read the story to her privately, whereupon she decided it was inappropriate for the class. His mother says Zachary was humiliated by the experience.

The family filed suit in June 1996. It named state and local school officials, sought unspecified compensatory damages from the school board and called for a new policy to "protect students who present religious views from discrimination."

Backed by the Virginia-based Rutherford Institute, an appeal has been filed in the Third U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. The Hoods' attorney, F. Michael Daily of Merchantville, N.J., says the case had nothing to do with returning religion to the schools. "This case is really one of trying to obtain some equilibrium in religious rights of students."

Scientology scrutinized by German government

WASHINGTON (AP) - Members of the Church of Scientology have come under increasing scrutiny in Germany by federal and state officials who contend it is not a religion but an economic enterprise, according to a U.S. State Department report.

The information was contained in the government's annual country-by-country report on human rights conditions.

The report noted that German authorities have sometimes sought to withdraw registration of Scientology organizations as nonprofit associations and require them to register as commercial enterprises.

Scientologists, who claims to have 30,000 members in Germany, have long complained of officially sanctioned discrimination there, comparing their treatment to Nazi harassment of Jews in the 1930s.

German officials insist their actions are justified, based on what they see as a totalitarian, profit-oriented sect out to bilk its members and undermine democracy.

The church was founded in the 1950s by the late science fiction writer L. Ron Hubbard, who said people had gathered traumatic memories in past lives that hindered them in the present. Scientologists believe those memories can be cleared through church counseling.

The church was granted tax-exempt status in the United States in 1993, but many nations consider it a for-profit organization.

The State Department report noted that major German political parties do not allow Scientologists as members.

Dancer adjustments

Theatre Ballet who needed adjustments prior to Thursday night's Hereford Community Concert Association presentation.

School district says no to Gideons' Bibles

SUMTER, S.C. (AP) - A 30-year practice allowing school employees to distribute the New Testament to students who requested it has ended amid concerns over separation of church and state.

The practice, sponsored by Gideons International, came under district scrutiny after a parent complained last fall.

Superintendent Andrena Ray said if school officials were involved in handing out religious material, they could be personally liable for violating the Constitution.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.
