TO THE VOTERS OF THE 64TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

On April the 13th through the columns of this paper I announced my candidacy for the nomination to the office of District Attorney subject to the Democratic Primary to be held on July 24th.

I have since found that the duties attendant upon me due to my private practice of the law are of such pressing nature that I cannot devote the needed time to a campaign for this office. For this reason, I have reached the conclusion to withdraw from the race of District Attorney and announce my candidacy for Re-election to the office of County Attorney for Farmer county.

Many of my friends have solicited me to offer myself as a candidate for District Attorney but under the circumstances I have come to the conclusion to do so would be to me a sacrifice which at this time I cannot feel that I ought to make. I wish to thank my friends for their solicitation and for their confidence that they seemed to impose in me.

Respectfully,
J. D. THOMAS.

This neighborhood had several showers Saturday night and a little hail.

The rain would soften the hard crust which formed after the hard rain of the week before and be a big help to the plants coming through the ground.

News is scarce this week as every one is too busy working in the fields or gardens to go any place.

Troy Womble was adjusting the damage done by the hail to the wheat fields one day last week.

Sunday was a fine day after the showers and a good crowd gathered at Dawn for the Children's Day exercises furnished by the Dawn and Askren schools. The program was at 11 o'clock after which a bounteous feast was spread on a long table in the yard, to which every one did justice. After a song service Rev. Morris preached a very practical and helpful sermon. The crowd seemed loath to leave and had another song service, thus dispensing with their regular night song service.

Lightning struck a post in Guy Smith's yard Saturday night. You will know there was a good sized crowd at Dawn Sunday when there were 20 Smiths there by actual count, and we know of some people who expected to attend until it rained and made the roads so muddy.

The three Wimberly brothers attended singing at Progressive Sunday night.

We notice the poles are being set for the high tension line coming from Canyon and the cables are ready to be placed on the poles. We are pleased to see the improvements and wish we all might have the use of the current to lighten our work.

The families of Phil Mote and W. M. Hubble spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mote.

Several from New Hope are attending the meeting at the Baptist church at Bellview.

A. C. Johnston is building a granery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Patterson and family were shopping at Cliche Saturday.

J. D. Cameron has a new Ford truck. Mrs. Yola Johnston was shopping in Clovis Saturday.

Mrs. Aleen Scott returned last week from a visit with relatives at Denton, Texas.

Mrs. Ella Isler called on an old friend at San Jon Friday.

Miss Thelma Cogdill is delivering a Lee's order this week.

The Rev. Mr. Bilberry is conducting a protracted meeting at Wheatland this week.

Those who ate dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Isler were, G. C. Cogdill, W. B. Johnston, A. C. Johnston, each with their families, and Jonie Cecellina, Floyd Mote and Mrs. M. A. Johnston; also Messrs O. E. Easley, and Homer T. Wilson, who are engaged in the Brumley Chevrolet company and the West Texas Feed and Grain company, at Hereford, and Miss Grace Skelton, who is city clerk at Hereford. watch must be continued lest later migrating worms cross this area and continue the damage.

The "careless" worms, like most others are best poisoned when very small. Unfortunately at this time, they feed mostly on the lower leaf surface, leaving the upper epidermis with its covering of poison. Also they protect themselves by spinning a web over themselves as they move about feeding. That prevents applications of poison from reaching the feeding surface. By the time the worms have begun to eat through the leaf, they have attained a size that renders them harder to poison.

Thus it happens that where the entire field becomes infested on account of weedy cotton, the control of the web-worm becomes a difficult matter. One cannot use poisons in such case in heavy concentration. We believe however, that a light dusting or spraying with arsenicals will effect a control that will make such treatment profitable. In dusting lead arsenate is safest but is cost. Calcium arsenate will be best all things considered. Use three pounds of either lead arsenate or calcium arsenate per acre, directing the dust onto the cotton rows, rather than merely allowing it to float. If Paris green is used, mix with an equal amount of hydrated or air slaked lime, and apply three or four pounds of this mixture per acre.

In spraying, use one and one-half pounds of either lead arsenate or calcium arsenate, or one pound of Paris green, per fifty gallons of water. Where Paris green is used, slake one pound of quick lime and add to the water also. Apply sprays to the lower

INSECT PESTS THREATENING

By R. E. Reppert, Entomologist College Station, Texas

Web-Worm

Various sections are reporting the presence of the web-worm, or "careless" worm, and it is evident that damage is now being done, or may soon be expected from this insect, to cotton, in all parts of Texas.

This worm hatches from eggs laid on careless weeds or on alfalfa. Observations we have made in the field lead us to believe that the egg is never laid on cotton itself, but that damage to cotton results only when the worm migrates from alfalfa, fields or from careless weeds. When because of continued rains careless weeds, even though very small, sprout in the fields, and eggs are laid on them, damage to the cotton crop when the worms migrate may become very serious. In this case the cotton over the entire weedy area will likely require treatment. On the other hand, where the field is generally clean, and the worms migrate from weedy margins, heavy spraying of a zone of cotton, even though with a strength that kills this limited area of the crop, will be profitable because it results in the protection of the larger acreage beyond. In such case however, careful
