Commission OKs tax rate

Public hearing called before formal adoption

By DONALD M. COOPER
Brand Editor

Taxpayers may get a break, if the Hereford City Commission's decision Monday night holds up.

The commissioners voted Monday night to accept the city staff's proposal that the Fiscal 1999 ad valorem tax rate be set at 41 cents per $100 assessed valuation, a penny less than the current level.

Because the 41-cent rate is above the effective tax rate, the commissioners will have to conduct a public hearing on the new rate.

The effective tax rate is the rate required to generate the same amount of tax revenue as last year. Because the city's tax base grew during the last year, the effective tax rate is 38.507 cents.

The 42-cent rate generated about $1.024 million in operating taxes last year. The 1997 tax base was $244.1 million.

The 1998 tax base is about $267.1 million. The 41-cent rate would generate about $1.1 million in operating taxes, which is about 7 percent more than the FY 1998 budget.

The commissioners also agreed to conduct a public hearing on the tax rate at 7 p.m. Sept. 14 in the commission chamber at City Hall, 224 N. Lee. The commission will formally set the tax rate at the Sept. 21 meeting.

In other business, the commissioners also approved a request from Panhandle-Plains Higher Education Authority Inc. for the issuance of obligation bonds to finance loans to college-bound students in the Panhandle and West Texas region. PPHEA Executive Director Cliff Baker said the $12.4 million issue will refund a 1993 bond issue that is expiring.

The city will not be liable for repayment of any of the debt issued under the program.

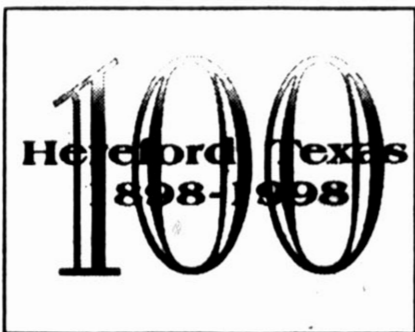

The commissioners also:

- Approved a request from the Hereford Economic Development Corp. to continue the $2,500 monthly subsidy to American Modular Building for the rest of the one-year agreement.

The agreement, which was approved in February, provides the subsidy to the company to pay for the rent of its building.

However, HEDC wanted to amend the agreement to reflect a payment per employee of $250 as opposed to the blanket amount of $2,500 per month.

The request was presented originally to the commission on July 6 but was tabled. It was tabled again July 20 because HEDC executive director Mike Hatley was out of town.

Time capsule to be 'buried' at ceremony

Hereford's official birthday will be observed at 7 p.m. Sept. 1 with the dedication of Dudley Bain Park and the "burial" of a 25-year time capsule.

Hereford Mayor Bob Josserrand said the capsule, unlike those that were raised during the Centennial Celebration/Town & Country Jubilee, will be placed in a raised vault. He said the decision to place the capsule in an above-ground vault was made after the contents of the time capsules raised during the Centennial Celebration were found to have sustained extensive damage during the 25 years and 50 years they were under ground.

Josserrand also said residents of Hereford are asked to provide information about what should be in the time capsule to be "buried" at 8 p.m. Sept. 1.

Josserrand said anyone who has an idea about the contents of the capsule should contact City Manager Chester Nolen, City Secretary Terri Johnson or any member of the Hereford City Commission.

Dr. Cliff Skiles, HEDC board chairman, said the corporation didn't tie the money to a specific number of employees, but rather agreed to pay $2,500 per month to subsidize the rent, although American Modular Building had agreed to have about 10 employees per month.

The number of employees has fluctuated from 20 to seven, but the average has been about 10, Skiles said. He said the company has restructured and has a surplus inventory.

In his report, Hatley reviewed the status of the Texas Natural Resource Commission's proposed regulations governing confined animal feeding operations (CAFO), as well as a prospective dairies locating in Deaf Smith County; and

- Canceled the Sept. 7 commission meeting.

Motorcyclist injured

An accident early Monday at the intersection of 15th Street and U.S. Hwy. 60 involving a late-model pickup and motorcycle sent the cyclist to Hereford Regional Medical Center. The hospital would not release details on the motorcyclist's condition. The cause of the accident was still under investigation at press time today.

U.S. trade deficit narrows slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. trade deficit narrowed slightly to $14.2 billion in June, still near an all-time high, as the deficits with troubled Asian nations continued to soar.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that the June deficit was down 8.9 percent from a record of $15.5 billion set in May, marking the first decline in the deficit since January.

Even with the small improvement, the trade deficit for the April-June quarter in goods and services was the highest in history at $44 billion, underscoring the heavy impact the U.S. economy has sustained from the Asian economic crisis, which has cut sharply into U.S. exports to a region of the world that accounts for one-third of America's foreign sales.

For the first six months of this year, America's trade deficit is running at an annual rate of $158 billion, far surpassing last year's imbalance of $110 billion.

In a second economic report today, the Labor Department said that inflation remained tame in July with the consumer price index edging up just 0.2 percent. So far this year, consumer prices have been rising at an annual rate of just 1.5 percent as the Asian economic crisis has helped to restrain global prices for such commodities as oil.

The rising trade deficit was a main

Inflation tame except for automobiles, food

WASHINGTON (AP) - Inflation remained tame in July, despite hefty price increases for a scattering of products and services ranging from tomatoes to tobacco and from autos to air fares.

The Labor Department said today that its Consumer Price Index rose a seasonally adjusted 0.2 percent last month, as anticipated by analysts. For the year so far, inflation is running at a modest 1.5 percent annual rate, compared with 1.7 percent for all of last year.

Despite robust U.S. economic growth until very recently, inflation has remained contained, in part because the Asian economic crisis has contributed to a decline in world prices for commodities ranging from petroleum to pork.

Economists believe the lack of price pressures will lead Federal Reserve policy-makers, meeting behind closed doors today, to again opt for no change in short-term interest rates. They haven't raised or lowered rates in 17 months.

Fed policy-makers have worried that labor shortages, and the resulting wage increases, would foster inflation. They're waiting to see how severely Asia slows U.S. growth.

It's already sent the trade deficit climbing toward a record high, although in June the gap between exports and imports narrowed slightly to $14.15 billion, the Commerce Department said today.

In July, energy prices were unchanged as declines in fuel oil, gasoline and natural gas offset a small rise in electricity costs. Gasoline prices were 10 percent lower than a year earlier.

Food prices rose 0.2 percent. Fresh vegetables cost 1.3 percent more than the month before, with the seasonally adjusted price of tomatoes shooting up 11.3 percent. Poultry prices jumped 0.7 percent, reflecting a drought and heat wave across the South. Pork and beef costs rose modestly while coffee prices, a problem area last year, fell 0.3 percent.

Excluding the volatile food and energy sectors, prices rose 0.2 percent. For the year, these "core" prices were advancing at a 2.4 percent annual rate, compared with 2.2 percent for all of 1997.

Computer prices fell 6 percent. Clothing costs declined 0.3 percent, reflecting a surge in inexpensive Asian imports.

Because dealers suspended buyer incentive programs, new car and truck prices jumped 0.5 percent, the steepest rise since April 1995. But, these prices had fallen in previous months.

U.S. economy was in no danger of tumbling into a recession.

"The U.S. economy is healthy," Commerce Department chief economist Lee Price told reporters at a briefing on the trade report. "To revive American exports to Asia and assure continued healthy expansion, we need to move forward with measures to restore growth to Asia."

Financial markets took the trade and inflation reports in stride. In early trading, the Dow Jones industrial average was up nearly 52 points.

Some congressional critics weren't satisfied and bridled at Clinton's attacks on Starr. "Wasn't that pathetic? I tell you, what a jerk," Hatch was overheard saying Monday night to his entourage as he left a television studio in Utah where he had given a number of interviews.

Hatch said the president's expression of regret may be enough to persuade lawmakers to stop any possible impeachment inquiry unless prosecutors find evidence of obstruction of justice.

Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said Clinton may have done enough to stave off impeachment. "He owed the people an apology and he gave it," Frank said. "No matter what he said before, I cannot believe that would rise under any definition to perjury or impeachment."

White House communications director Ann Lewis, appearing on ABC's "Good Morning America," would not say whether Clinton had apologized to her, saying such discussions were private.

Mighty Maroon Band fine-tunes fundamentals

The Hereford Band Boosters held an election of officers and participated in the Mighty Maroon Band's annual Parent Night Monday at the Hereford High School band hall and practice field.

Officers elected for the 1998-99 academic year include Kerrie Steiert, president; Melinda Henson, vice-president; Rita Reinart, secretary; and Elizabeth Landers, treasurer.

Chosen as class representatives were Jo Ochs, seventh grade; Lydia Dotson, eighth grade; Amelia Pesina, freshman; Wanda Jesko, sophomore; Dan Higgins, junior; marge Bell, senior; Donna Tice, twirler; and Linda Fitzgerald, drill team.

Bill Nelson, head band director at HHS, addressed the band boosters and reported that 185 students were present for the first day of band class.

Nelson said that after schedules are worked-out, the band should number about 200 students.

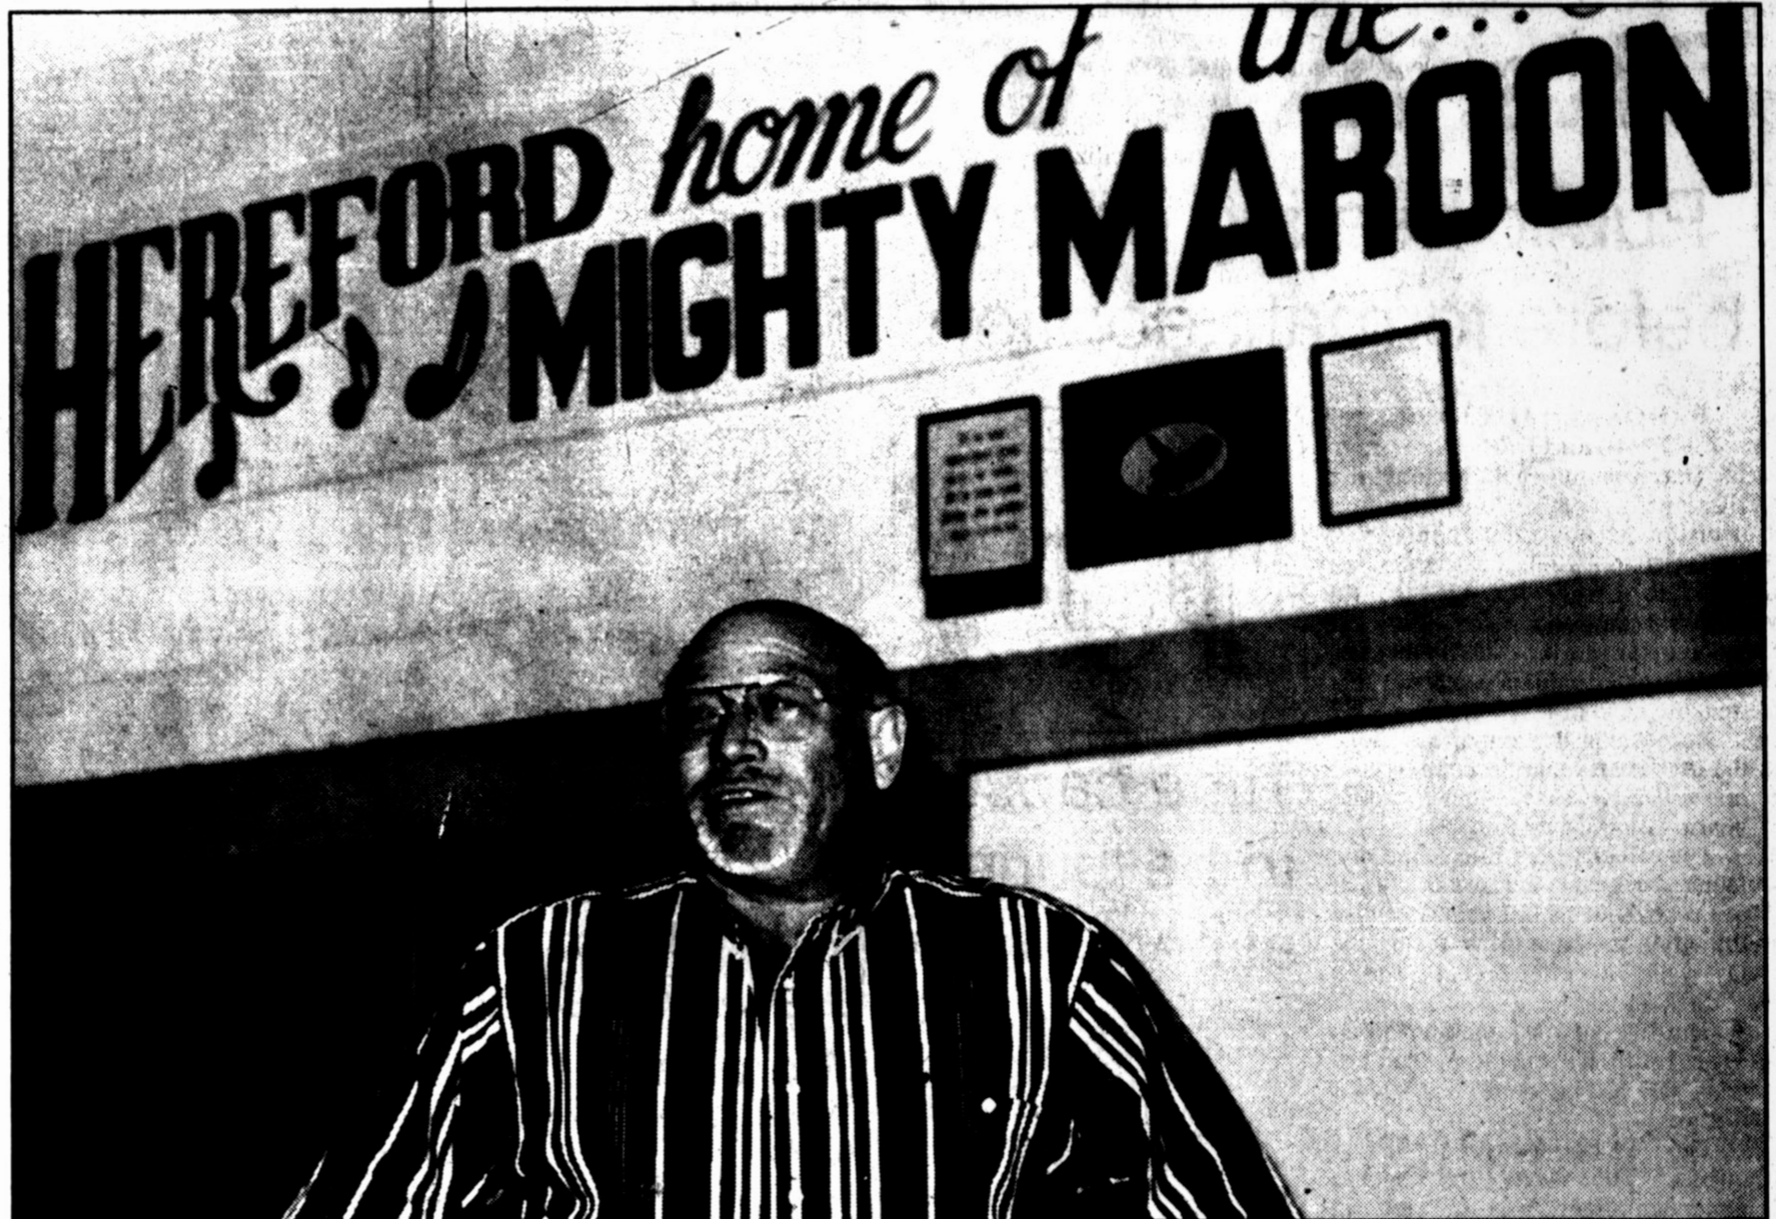

Nelson reported that the Mighty Maroon Band's UIL contest program for this season will feature authentic Civil War period music, and the show will be staged along patriotic themes.

Members discussed several fund raising activities including sale of picture buttons of band and athletic team members, football program sales, and possibly staging a supper.

Band Booster members also had the opportunity to sign up to work on a number of committees including football program sales, UIL contest and band banquet decoration and band scholarship.

A meeting of Band Booster officers and board members will be held 7 p.m. Monday in the band hall for the purpose of further planning fund raising activities. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Wolves find Conroe home

CONROE, Texas (AP) - There's been lots of howling lately in Montgomery County. That's just how Rae Evening Earth Ott likes it.

Ms. Ott, director of the North American Wolf Association, recently created a preserve in east Montgomery County as a home for wolves that can't be reintroduced to the wild.

Most of the 18 wolves now at the preserve once belonged to homeowners who tried - and failed - to domesticate the animals.

Ms. Ott says that, while 'wolves' can't be house-trained, they're inherently gentle.

"They are wild animals who, in the wild, may travel 50 to 100 miles a day," she said. "These are truly shy creatures."

"It's one of the reasons they are so rarely spotted in the wild, unless their habitat is destroyed and they're driven closer to civilization in a search for food."

She added that anyone who tries to housebreak a wolf pup, even a half-breed, generally gives up within weeks.

"It's like having 10 raccoons loose in your home," she said.

Nonetheless, there are plenty of people who try. The wolves living at the new preserve are ample evidence of that.

One, named Waya, had a collar that was "growing into her neck" when rescued by a Drug Enforcement Agency officer after a raid in upstate New York.

Another, Mr. Motomo, once belonged to a family who bought him after seeing an ad in the newspaper. Family members thought twice after discovering the animal was loaded with ticks, worms and earmites.

All the animals at the preserve have lost their ability to survive in the wild because they've lost their fear of humans.

"It is their absolute fear of all things human that protect the species," Ms. Ott said.

The 26-acre preserve has a number of large pens for the rescued wolves. One volunteer, Magnolia resident Joe Warlick, waters and feeds the animals daily.

"I've always been fascinated by wolves but never figured I'd see one," Warlick said, adding that the chance to observe the animals "has been a life-changing experience."

Ms. Ott and other association members plan to use donations to enlarge the pens and build a 12-acre enclosure so the wolves can share time in a natural habitat.

Concerns for health of unborn should be discussed with doctor

Dear Ann Landers: My 23-year-old granddaughter, "Delia," has been living with her male cousin for several months. We thought they were just good pals, but recent developments proved we were wrong. The family has been informed that Delia is pregnant.

Delia has seen an obstetrician, but she hasn't told him about her relationship with the baby's father as yet. Isn't it important that she mention this? Our family is worried that the baby may have genetic problems.

Could you please tell us what kinds of difficulties this child is likely to have and whether or not it's possible for Delia to have a normal baby? Thank you, Ann. -- Worried in California

Dear California: The chances of cousins who are in excellent health having a normal, healthy child are very good. If they were both diabetic or severely asthmatic, or had heart disease or kidney problems, I would be concerned. If there is no history of genetic abnormalities, there's no need to worry.

You have said Delia is under a doctor's care. Suggest that she discuss her concerns with her doctor.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday, while standing at a customer service counter in a department store, a woman had a seizure. Although someone called 911 immediately and help arrived within minutes, nobody standing around approached the helpless woman -- including me. I'm sure most of us simply didn't know what to do. Now, I realize there was something any one of us COULD have done.

Although a person who has a seizure may not be able to communicate, he or she can hear. It didn't occur to me to at least try to comfort her and let her know that help was on the way. She was lying on a cold, hard floor, probably frightened and embarrassed, and I didn't say one word. I am ashamed of myself.

Please, Ann, tell your readers that when someone is in physical distress, something CAN be done while waiting for help to arrive. They can offer their voice. The next best thing to medical attention is reassurance. If I am ever in such a situation again, I'll know what to do. -- North Carolina

Dear N.C.: There is more you can do when someone has a seizure. According to Dr. Richard Rovner, chairman of the advisory board of the Epilepsy Foundation of Greater Chicago, you should turn the person on his or her side, loosen the tie and collar or blouse and call for a doctor at once.

Dear Ann Landers: I've read several letters in your column about families that fight about inheritances and heirlooms. I hope your readers don't think all families are like that. Ours certainly is not.

My grandmother had impeccable taste and was an avid collector. She also could afford to buy the best -- and she did. When Grandma died, we all sat in her living room, exchanged wonderful, warm memories and took turns choosing the objects we wanted from her lovely home.

There were no arguments, and nobody was grabby. It was just a civilized selection of things we had grown up admiring. None of us would dream of desecrating Grandma's memory by fighting over what she had left behind. -- Lisa P. in Minneapolis

Dear Lisa: How classy. Your grandmother would have been proud of all of you. I'm glad you wrote. Your letter is sure to make an impression on those who know that one day they will be in your shoes.

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll by 5.36 percent. Your individual taxes may increase or decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property and the tax rate that is adopted.

The public hearing will be held on August 27, 1998 at Deaf Smith County Courthouse

FOR the proposal: Johnny Latham, Lupe Chavez, Wayne Betzen, Tom Simons AGAINST the proposal: Troy Moore
PRESENT and not voting: None
ABSENT: None

The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

| | Last Year | This Year |
|--|-----------|-----------|
| Average residence homestead value | $ 50,000 | $ 50,000 |
| General exemptions available (amount available on the average homestead, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions) | $ --- | $ --- |
| Average taxable value | $ 50,000 | $ 50,000 |
| Tax rate | .5286 | .5286 |
| Tax | $ 264.30 | $ 264.30 |

Under this proposal, taxes on the average homestead would not change by $.00 or .00 percent compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would not change by $.00 per $100 of taxable value or .00 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Criminal Justice Mandate (for counties):

The Deaf Smith County Auditor certifies that Deaf Smith County has spent $ -0- in the previous 12 months beginning July 1, 1997, for the maintenance and operations cost of keeping inmates sentenced to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Deaf Smith County Sheriff has provided information on these costs, minus the state revenues received for reimbursement of such costs.

Bake show winners announced

Kinsey Reeve, Deaf Smith County junior 4-H'er took top honors at the recently held 4-H Better Bake show.

The entry for this year's contestants was yeast rolls. The recipe and type of roll was the contestant's choice.

Second place was awarded to junior 4-H'er Jaclyn Paschel.

Youth also submitted project record sheets recording learning activities, leadership and community service in the breads project.

Top winner of the records judging included Dawn Auckerman in the intermediate and senior area and Lark

Duncan in the junior age division.

Other youth participating in the bake show and breads project included Kylee Auckerman, Amy Bell, Chelsea Campbell, Kasi Gallagher, Seth Hoelscher, Oletta and Twyla Jackson, Kristen O'Rear, Jessica Shelton and Shayla Wilcox.

Jaime Steiert, County 4-H Council president, led the awards ceremony with Tracy Duncan, 4-H project leader, presenting awards.

Judges for the breads portion included Dean Bradley, member of the Ford FCE Club and Bonnie Duke, member of Westway FCE Club.

The youth participated in a breads project workshop in late July. They learned the principle of yeast bread making with hands on experiments.

Additional projects included learning about variety flours, the enrichment and nutrition of bread and bread products, the process of making flour, amounts of flour needed to make a loaf of bread, and making daily menus to include the six to 11 servings of bread needed in the diet each day.

The District Bake Show will be held in Amarillo at the Tri State Fair on Sept. 19.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Recently I had to have a hysterectomy for endometrial cancer, even though I had been under a doctor's care for 10 years and had complained of spotting between periods. I changed doctors and on my first visit, the new doctor did a biopsy that showed endometrial cancer. If you could warn women of the risks and signs of uterine cancer, you will do women a great service. — H.W.

ANSWER: Endometrial cancer is the most common kind of uterine cancer. The endometrium is the lining of the uterus.

Endometrial cancer strikes around 34,000 women every year in the United States and as many as 6,000 die from it. Risks for endometrial cancer include a delayed menopause, infertility, obesity, diabetes and high blood pressure.

Vaginal discharges or vaginal bleeding between periods are tips that all is not well. Since this cancer usually appears after menopause, any vaginal bleeding in a post-menopausal woman must be viewed with great caution. A biopsy of the endometrial tissue establishes the diagnosis.

Staging and grading of the cancer offer valuable information about predicting the ultimate outcome. "Stage" denotes how far the cancer has spread. A stage 1 cancer is confined to the uterus — a favorable sign. "Grade" indicates how tame or wild the cancer cells appear when viewed microscopically. A grade 1 cancer is another favorable sign. More than 90 percent of women with a Stage 1, Grade 1 endometrial cancer can anticipate cure.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: This is my third try for an answer. The subject is retrograde ejaculation. What are its causes? Can it be corrected? — W.B.

ANSWER: Persistence pays off,

W.B. I can't dodge your question any longer.

With retrograde ejaculation, seminal fluid flows into the urinary bladder instead of its normal course through the urethra, the channel that leads from the bladder to the outside.

Ejaculation is a complex process, involving a coordinated effort between sphincter muscles and nerves supplying those muscles.

Wrapped around the uppermost portion of the urethra is a sphincter muscle that compresses the urethra, keeping seminal fluid out of the bladder. Situated slightly below this upper sphincter muscle is another sphincter. It relaxes during ejaculation, allowing seminal fluid to exit the urethra.

Retrograde ejaculation can occur after prostate gland operations. The sphincter muscles can be damaged. Have you had an operation on your gland? Certain blood pressure medications, called alpha blockers, can lead to the same situation.

If nerves to the sphincter muscles are damaged, that too can be a cause for retrograde ejaculation.

A urologist must evaluate you. Only after an examination can a doctor come to a proper diagnosis and offer treatment when treatment is possible.

I did come across a reference stating that Ornade, a combination antihistamine and decongestant, sometimes alleviates retrograde ejaculation. The mechanism wasn't explained. I was stunned by the suggestion. I can't vouch for its effectiveness. I leave that up to the urologist you're going to consult.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: The last time all my children and grandchildren were at the house, we blew up every pool toy and float we have, which is a bunch. After everyone left, I had a pool deck full of toys, floats, rafts, rings and such.

The valves today have to be pinched to open a small flap inside them. Deflating pool toys this way takes forever and is tiring on the fingers and disposition.

I spotted a small straw and stuck it into the valve to hold the flap inside open. This worked great because the air just rushed out through the small straw. Since I didn't have to hold the floats and pinch them, I was able to get them all deflated at once by using several straws. — Kenneth Ruby, Houston, Texas

POPCORN TIN
Dear Heloise: I have a great organizing idea I'd like to pass along to your readers.

My family loves all kinds of popcorn and usually finishes off one or more decorated tins per holiday. I wash the empty tins and store my holiday decorations in them after the holiday is over. Now I never have a problem locating the next holiday decorations to unpack. — Martha Hallie, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 18, the 230th day of 1998. There are 135 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On Aug. 18, 1587, Virginia Dare became the first child of English parents to be born on American soil, on what is now Roanoke Island, N.C.

On this date:
In 1227, the Mongol conqueror Genghis Khan died.

In 1846, U.S. forces led by Gen. Stephen W. Kearney captured Santa Fe, N.M.

In 1894, Congress established the Bureau of Immigration.

In 1914, President Wilson issued his "Proclamation of Neutrality," aimed at keeping the United States out of World War I.

In 1920, Tennessee became the 36th state to ratify the 19th Amendment to the Constitution, which guaranteed the right of all American women to vote.

In 1938, President Roosevelt dedicated the Thousand Islands Bridge connecting the United States and Canada.

In 1954, Assistant Secretary of Labor James E. Wilkins became the first black to attend a meeting of a president's Cabinet as he sat in for Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell.

In 1958, the novel "Lolita" by Vladimir Nabokov was published.

In 1963, James Meredith became the first black to graduate from the University of Mississippi.

In 1983, Hurricane Alicia slammed into the Texas coast, leaving 22 dead and causing more than $1 billion in damages.

In 1991, Soviet hard-liners launched a coup to topple President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who was vacationing in the Crimea. The coup collapsed three days later.

Ten years ago: Indiana Sen. Dan Quayle was nominated to be George Bush's running mate during the Republican convention in New Orleans; meanwhile, questions were being raised about Quayle's service in the Indiana National Guard during the Vietnam War.

Five years ago: A judge in Sarasota, Fla., ruled that Kimberly Mays, the 14-year-old girl switched at birth with another baby, need never see her biological parents again, in accordance with her stated wishes. However, she later moved in with Ernest and Regina Twigg.

One year ago: United Parcel Service and the Teamsters union reached a tentative agreement to end a 15-day-old strike. Beth Ann Hogan became the first coed in the Virginia Military Institute's 158-year history.

Arthritis Pain Mystery Solved

Horse Liniment is the secret!

OCALA, FL. — An ingredient used to treat inflammation in thoroughbred race-horse legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx* and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Scientists suggest that ARTH-Rx works by intercepting the pain messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain. Although the mechanism is not totally clear, pain is relieved in the affected area because the pain signal actually disappears.

ARTH-Rx is the only product on the market with Neurocaine and is available in a convenient, pleasant scented roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, ARTH-Rx is available in pharmacies, nutrition stores, and even some food stores. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. * 1997 PGC

Singh got winning advice to capture title at Sahalee

By DOUG FERGUSON
AP Golf Writer
REDMOND, Wash. -- The advice came from past winners of major championships and served Vijay Singh well.

A few hours before Singh took a share of the lead into the final round of the PGA Championship, he met Nick Price and sought out the help of someone who had won two PGA titles and the British Open.

"What do you think I should do out there?" Singh said.

"Go out there and play your game," Price replied. "You know what to do. You've played it enough."

With confidence on the greens and the ability to rise to the occasion when his lead over Steve Stricker was slipping away, Singh won his first major championship Sunday with a 2-under 68.

Not until he arrived safely at Sahalee Country Club's treacherous 18th hole, with Stricker two strokes behind and the Wanamaker Trophy in front of him, did Singh begin to appreciate how all the years of relentless work on his game had finally paid off.

"I can't believe that I've won this tournament," said the 35-year-old native of Fiji, who became the 10th winner in 11 years to get his first major at the PGA.

"Once I got the ball on the green, the feeling was... I'm the winner. I'm the champion," he said. "Every year, you see somebody walk up 18 and you wonder if that's ever going to be you."

But Singh prepared for this moment every time he finished a round and headed to the range, where he would stay until twilight. He thought about winning a major every time he checked into a hotel room and moved furniture to clear room for more practice.

And if he ever wondered whether that was the right way to prepare for winning a major, he found the affirmation a few years ago when he met Tom Watson on the driving range -- where else? -- at the Bay Hill Invitational.

"I said, 'How much did you practice when you were playing well?'" Singh said. "He said, 'I'd be out there every single day.' That's a good thing to hear from a player like Tom Watson."

"It makes you wonder. One cannot practice enough. The more you practice, the better you get."

Practice didn't prepare Singh for the pressure of what essentially turned into match play for a major championship. But he could always rely on the swing, tested from long hours of pounding balls on the range.

That was never more true than at the 14th hole, where Singh's drive wound up deep in the trees on the left.

Hereford will begin search for answers to big questions

By BOB VARMETTE
Sports Writer

Danielle Cornelius went off to Oklahoma. Julie Rampley is going to play basketball at Midland College. So what, you ask.

Well, this year's edition is a Hereford Lady Whiteface volleyball team different from several past predecessors, which prominently featured Cornelius and Rampley in the starring role of dominating hitter, in 1996 and 1997, respectively.

As Hereford begins its defense of its Class 4A volleyball title at 7:30 p.m. tonight with a non-district match against Lubbock Coronado at Whiteface Gymnasium, there is no one go-to girl -- no Cornelius nor Rampley.

Welcome to the team of many hitters. Now what exactly does that mean?

"We don't have just one single hitter that we know without a doubt we're going to set on the front row," Hereford coach Brenda Kitten explained. "There's not -- at this point -- a single dominant hitter. And if that's the case, we want all of our hitters to feel the same amount of responsibility to score with the ball."

If Hereford is to win a third consecutive Class 4A volleyball title in Austin come late November, the Lady Whitefaces will have to truly evolve into a squad where the kill could come from anyone -- leaving an opponent's defense off-balance, and therefore often guessing.

Either that or one of the players turns into Cornelius or Rampley.

"We haven't really gotten connected because we haven't played together yet. We're kind of young and kind of learning our roles.... It's just getting to know each other."

-- Lyndi Carlile

Regardless whether the Lady Whitefaces develop a go-to girl or evolve into a team of many hitters, consistency will be important, Kitten said.

After 12 days of practice, it's not quite to mid-season form.

"We (hitters) have got to learn to get up and bang," senior Makesha Rives said. "We've got to learn how to get up and work past the blockers, we've got to read the set, we got to get our feet there... setters have to learn to get their sets consistent. We just have a lot of work to do."

Rives will have more work to do than most; at 5-7 she'll be making a somewhat improbable shift this

AUSTIN -- New Texas coach Mack Brown has Longhorns faithful optimistic about the future.

It's the here-and-now that may be tough.

Brown has convinced many Orangebloods he can take the Longhorns back to their glory days by promising an attack built on speed and having fun.

In return, he has asked fans to fill seats. "Come early, be loud and stay late," is his mantra.

He also has asked them to be patient. After all, he did inherit a team coming off a nightmarish 4-7 season. And there are obstacles to overcome.

Brown will have a defense that was among the nation's worst learning a new scheme, a new starting quarterback learning a new scheme, a new kicker and a schedule that includes road games at UCLA, Kansas State and Nebraska.

Williams, a senior, is just 289 yards from surpassing 1977 Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell as Texas' all-time rushing leader. He's 1,928 yards from replacing Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh as the all-time rushing leader in NCAA Division I history.

Brown has tried to lift some of the pressure off Williams.

"For us to sit here and think that it's a realistic goal for him to gain 2,000 yards this year, I mean, there are teams that don't get 2,000 yards rushing, real good teams," Brown said.

"Ricky just needs to go and enjoy his senior year. We've also challenged our team that if they want Ricky to win the Heisman we have to win all of our games. You never see a player win the award on a team that doesn't perform at the highest level."

Williams will be joined in the backfield by new starting quarterback Richard Walton, a fifth-year senior who struggled in the spring with Brown's West Coast offense.

Patriots stuff misfiring Dallas offense, 21-3

MEXICO CITY (AP) -- With the second-largest crowd in NFL history thundering from the stands, the New England Patriots seemed to solve at least some of their preseason woes Monday night with a 21-3 victory over the frustrated Dallas Cowboys.

Sedrick Shaw ran for 50 yards in 14 tries, scored two touchdowns and had a third called back for a Patriot team struggling to replace the departed former All-Pro tailback Curtis Martin.

Drew Bledsoe seemed to find his rhythm in coordinator Ernie Zampese's new offensive scheme, connecting on 9 of 14 passes for 69 yards without an interception. And he spread the passes out among five receivers.

It could have been worse for Dallas: The Patriots had three spectacular second-quarter touchdowns called back, though they were playing their first unit against Dallas' reserves at the time.

"That was more along the lines of what we would like to be accomplishing in the preseason," Bledsoe said. "We threw the ball well. We ran the ball fairly well."

Despite a noisy, enthusiastic pro-Dallas crowd of 106,424 cheering them on, the Cowboys repeatedly misfired as they dropped their third straight exhibition contest.

"We made too many mistakes offensively to be able to generate any kind of consistency," said quarterback Troy Aikman, who finished 5 of 7 for 34 yards before backup Jason Garrett took over.

Running back Emmitt Smith was held out of the game, apparently due to a thigh bruise.

Mickelson (finally) wins bizarre Pebble Beach event

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) -- His tee shots split the fairway, his putts rolled true to the center of the cup. The only thing that wasn't working exactly right for Phil Mickelson was his sense of timing.

In a shootout that brought the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am to a conclusion seven months after it was halted by El Nino rains, Mickelson birdied two of the last three holes for a 5-under-par 67 that gave him a one-stroke victory over Tom Pernice.

He could have used that at Sahalee, where he shot himself out of contention with a 78 in the third round of the PGA Championship before closing with a 67.

Still, Mickelson salvaged a lost weekend by bringing his Sunday momentum down the coast. "After Saturday's round at the PGA, I was pretty disappointed with the way I was playing," Mickelson said. "But I came back on Sunday with a good round, and built some confidence into today."

Jim Furyk, who had missed his last two cuts after finishing fourth in the British Open, was at 204 along with Paul Azinger and J.P. Hayes.

Tom Watson, the co-leader with Tim Herron at 10 under when the tournament was suspended in February, shot 72 at Poppy Hills and finished at 206. Herron shot 74 at Spyglass Hills.

Mickelson's 202 tied the lowest 54-hole score in a tournament that dates to 1937. Cary Middlecoff also had a 202 in 1955.

Singh

major, had used to within one stroke and was finding his groove off the tee. Singh had 110 yards to the front of the green, about half that distance shrouded by trees.

The ball screamed out of the woods and veered sharply to the left, bouncing onto the green to set up a two-putt from about 40 feet.

"I just hooded my wedge and just hooked the hell out of it," Singh said. "It wasn't as difficult as it looked, although I was in the trees. I've played that so many times before, but I guess the situation was different."

It culminated a stretch of four holes that turned the PGA in Singh's favor. Four holes, four bad shots, three nice recoveries.

His 3-wood through the goal-post trees guarding the par-5 11th green hit the right upright and luckily bounced through, setting up a two-putt birdie. He bogeyed the 12th after hitting into a fairway bunker, saved par at the par-3 13th from a bunker, and walked off with par at the 14th.

When Stricker hit to 3 feet at No. 15, Singh answered with a wedge to 6 feet for a birdie that kept him one stroke ahead.

When Singh holed an 18-foot putt at the par-3 17th to save par out of the bunker, Stricker couldn't make the same putt from about 15 feet.

"I was expecting him to make his," Singh said. "That was a sigh of a relief."

It was a relief because Singh had a two-stroke lead with one hole to play -- the 485-yard par-4 18th, which was played 449 times during the week but gave up only 18 birdies.

"I've practiced so hard for this," Singh said. "It's a dream come true. What I did was unbelievable."

But considering the amount of work he has put into his game, it all made sense.

"It was great," he said. "I hope I can do it again."

Offensive

season. After spending last season on the backline, Kitten has moved Rives to the front.

"It's been pretty tough," Rives said, "having to learn all new footwork, and having to adjust to different things that I'm not used to having done last year. It's a big step up, but I can handle it. I can be tough and do it."

Rives and Kitten both discussed the move. Kitten said it was necessitated when "one or two" hitters that were expected to come out for volleyball elected not to participate.

If there is to be a go-to girl this season, Kitten may find her in 5-10 junior Tori Walker or 5-10 senior Lyndi Carlile. Kitten said the pair have been the strongest among this year's hitting class.

Walker said she's ready for it. "I would love it, I'll take it," Walker smiled. "(But) I need to work on my arm swing -- I'm just not reaching for the ball right now -- and work on placing my hits in good places that will score."

Finding the go-to girl, or developing into a team of many hitters is just one of the questions Kitten said needed answers if the Lady Whitefaces are to make a three-peat a reality. The Lady Whitefaces also need to find team continuity.

"We haven't really gotten connected because we haven't played together yet," Carlile said. "We're kind of young and kind of learning our roles. You read people, you know what they're going to do, and what balls they're going to play and what balls you need to play. It's just getting to know each other."

Once the team becomes more comfortable with each other, they'll become more comfortable with running the offense, Walker said.

"We've got to start running more quick stuff," Walker said. "And the setters and the hitters have to get their chemistry down. And then we'll be fine."

The Lady Whiteface hitters will have to get to know a new setter. Junior Audra Witkowski is slated to fill the position vacated by the graduation of Kendra Wright.

"Audra is going to be our setter, she's going to be our quarterback," Kitten said. "At this point, we just need to see if we can get some sort of rhythm established between her and our hitters."

Right now, Kitten said, that rhythm is not there.

"Both the setters and hitters are extremely tentative with one another. There's not a lot of trust among them right now. That's something that just develops, and it takes hundreds and hundreds of repetitions," Kitten said.

Carlile said she's confident the Lady Whitefaces will develop the trust and communication as the season moves forward.

"We'll be alright in the long run," Carlile said. "It's just going to be frustrating right now while we're learning to work with each other. We're young and everyone's learning a different role."

Brown

opening with New Mexico State and then facing two of the best defenses in the country at UCLA and Kansas State. But I believe he will perform well."

With the exception of center, likely to be filled by senior Russell Gaskamp, the offensive line is stocked with veterans.

Junior fullback Ricky Brown proved he was the real deal by obliterating A&M linebacker Dat Nguyen for four quarters last year so that Williams could run for 183 yards against the Aggies.

And a receiving corps that includes senior Wane McGarity, back from his third knee surgery, and Kwame Cavil, last year's leading pass catcher, could be aided by speedy freshman Montrell Flowers, one of the state's top high school recruits.

Senior Derek Lewis is a dependable tight end who needs to improve his blocking, according to Brown.

The defense, which gave up nearly 400 yards a game last year, including 250 yards on the ground, has been completely reshuffled.

To increase speed, linebackers have been moved to end, safeties have been moved to linebacker and a former running back is now at cornerback.

In Brown's pressure attack aimed at stopping the run, the key is finding two solid corners.

"There are a lot more talented running backs in college football than talented quarterbacks," Brown said. "We'll try to get two corners who can lock up on their receivers and let nine guys go after their backfield."

Brown says he'll attack on defense no matter what.

"If they throw it over our head and score, we'll get the ball back and hand it to Ricky Williams," Brown said.

Brown, coming off consecutive 10-win seasons at North Carolina, refuses to make predictions about his first season at Texas.

"We will be well coached," he said. "We have challenged the guys that they are going to play hard every play. We may not be as good as everyone else, but we are going to play as hard as everyone else."

America's best legitimate advertising buy is still the local newspaper that is involved in your community. Junk mailers don't contribute a dime to the betterment of Hereford. They take and don't give back.

Phillies hand Big Unit first NL loss, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -- Paul Byrd, signed only three days earlier, outshined Randy Johnson with a four-hitter and also hit an RBI single off the Big Unit, leading the Philadelphia Phillies over the Houston Astros 4-0.

Johnson (3-1), coming off two straight shutouts, left after the fifth trailing 3-0.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Reflections

Clinton should resign

All involved in the tawdry mess in Washington have lived down to their critics' expectations.

President Clinton embarrassed the nation by his dalliance with a White House intern and subsequent lying about it; he's humiliated his wife and daughter; he's betrayed his supporters.

Bill Clinton's address to the nation did not include an apology to the nation for allowing this sordid matter to drag on and on for seven months. While his harsh criticism about Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr was correct, the president should not have attacked the special prosecutor during Monday night's speech. What Clinton should have done was apologize to the country and resign.

His resignation would allow the country to turn its full attention on the very real problems confronting it as the 21st century approaches.

Bill Clinton entered his second term concerned about his legacy. Well, his legacy will not be what he hoped. His legacy will be that of the first president to be forced to testify before a grand jury as the target of a criminal investigation. He had hoped to be seen as another Teddy Roosevelt, instead he will be thought of as another Warren G. Harding or Richard Nixon. The good things Clinton did as president -- and there have been many good things -- will be forgotten and he will be remembered as the president who betrayed his family, his friends and supporters, and the nation.

He should step down and go back to Arkansas.

For his part, Starr has run a bitterly partisan investigation, showing himself to be a zealot out to overturn the last two presidential elections.

Starr should shut down his office after four years and nearly $50 million, turn in his report and crawl back under his rock.

And, the national press corps should grow up.

With all of the real stories out there to be reported, the national media, especially television, have been in a frenzy, reporting every titillating detail. The television fixation on Clinton-Lewinsky has been so complete, MSNBC could almost be renamed the Clinton Channel, with "All Bill, all day."

The entire episode has shown the worst in journalism, as reporters in their rush to be first have reported rumors and innuendos, rather than taking the time to verify them. In the rush to be first, the media have allowed themselves to be manipulated by both the Clinton and Starr camps.

This entire matter has been a national embarrassment -- and one which could have been avoided so easily.

CLINTON

adviser James Carville said the president did not have to apologize to him.

"I really don't want one," he said. "The president knows that I love him... When a guy is down, you lend a hand and try to pick him up."

Early polls were solidly in Clinton's favor, with around 60 percent of people in a CBS/New York Times survey taken just after the speech saying they were satisfied with the president's statement and 40 percent not satisfied. About 60 percent said the matter should now be dropped. Sixty-nine percent of those in an ABC News poll said the investigation should end.

A USA Today/CNN/Gallup Poll found Clinton's favorable rating plunged from 60 percent to 40 percent and a 46 plurality said they did not believe Clinton had told the whole truth in testifying. But 72 percent said the country would be better off if he stays in office and his job-approval rating held steady at 62 percent.

Although Starr is in the final stages of his investigation of an alleged presidential affair and cover-up, his grand jury is still at work and was to hear testimony today from former Clinton political adviser Dick Morris.

The president and his family were due to leave this afternoon for a vacation at Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts.

Wearing a dark business suit and standing in the same Map Room where he had testified via video camera hours earlier, Clinton said in his TV address that he disputed the most serious charges against him.

"I told the grand jury today and I say to you now that at no time did I ask anyone to lie, to hide or destroy evidence or to take any other unlawful action," the president said.

Seven months ago in the Paula Jones lawsuit, Clinton denied having sexual relations with Ms. Lewinsky. "My answers were legally accurate," Clinton said in Monday's TV address.

Now he says he "did have a relationship with Ms. Lewinsky that was not appropriate. In fact, it was wrong. It constituted a critical lapse in judgment and a personal failure on my part for which I am solely and completely responsible."

One source familiar with White House thinking, speaking on condition of anonymity, said lawyers both inside and outside the White House advising Clinton worried that Clinton's insistence his earlier testimony was "legally accurate" might become "an invitation to Starr and Republicans to hammer away at every word at the deposition to disprove" it.

Prosecutors reserved the right to call Clinton back for more testimony, sources said. And his dramatic reversal of his earlier denial in the Jones sexual harassment lawsuit left even his own advisers worried about whether he lost credibility that would affect his ability to govern, especially with impeachment proceedings still possible.

"I think we witnessed the effective end of the Clinton presidency," said Sen. John Ashcroft, R-Mo., a potential presidential candidate. "I think his effectiveness as president is over. His moral authority is gone."

Clinton's testimony about his relationship with a White House intern was the top story on news broadcasts around the world, where people from Japan to Austria gathered to watch in amazement.

In Japan, as in many other countries, Clinton's long-awaited testimony on Monday drew strong reactions today.

Many Japanese awoke today to see the news as the lead story on public broadcaster NHK, and it quickly became the talk of the town.

Seiko Fujii, a 33-year-old teacher, said Clinton's admission under oath that he had engaged in an improper relationship with White House intern Monica Lewinsky is irrelevant to his role as leader.

"It has nothing to do with the president's job," she said. "But having the president testify like a regular person is amazing."

In South Korea, some people expressed deep sympathy, not for Clinton, but for his wife, Hillary.

"I think he lied to his wife and everyone else, and he should be punished somehow," said Kim Ji-in, 37, a housewife in a provincial city. "It's not a national matter; it's a private matter. I just don't know how to punish him. Maybe Hillary has an idea."

Mrs. Clinton's strong support of her husband was noted by government television in Singapore. During its broadcast about Clinton's testimony, it praised her "for standing by her man."

TEXAS

TV screen. "And we're supposed to believe him? Put the football game on!"

Not all Texans were so angry. Patrons at The Grill on the Hill, a San Antonio bar and restaurant, laughed and cracked one-liners at the president's speech.

"He needs to start a war with Libya or something to get his mind off (the affair)," joked David Griffith, 31.

But he turned serious after the speech and said, "It's between him and his wife."

The owner of the establishment, David Gates, 33, suggested the president's nose was growing during the address.

"Even though I think he's lying and all, I like him. He's a damn good president," Gates said.

At Damon's, a bar at the Holiday Inn on North Central Expressway in Dallas, few said they heard anything astonishing. Like Bridges, many said they would have preferred to watch football.

"There were no surprises. He said what he probably should have done six or seven months ago," said Victor

Stone, 55, of Dallas.

"I really think he hit one nail on the head, though -- it really is his business and nobody else's. It's sad and a little bit shabby, his relationship with Miss Lewinsky, but the American people don't really care. How many presidents have we had? However many we have had, that's how many have lied to us."

Glenda Wilf of Texarkana, who said she is "50-plus," said:

"I think this has to have an effect on what he can do the remaining two years of his term. For him to say let's just get on with business, I don't think that's possible any more."

She disagreed that the president's involvement with Miss Lewinsky is a private matter.

"It is our business because it shows how poor his judgment could be. To use that kind of judgment in his personal life shows how poor his judgment could be. He's set such a poor example for our young people. There's no moral value left," Ms. Wilf said.

P.J. Greele of north Dallas, at the same table as Ms. Wilf, said Clinton came off in the television address as "just a politician and slippery."

Saturday's Cryptoquote: ONLY THOSE WHO DARE TO FAIL GREATLY CAN EVER ACHIEVE GREATLY.—ROBERT F. KENNEDY

Panel: McCartney privacy violated

LONDON (AP) - A celebrity magazine that photographed Paul McCartney and his family mourning in a Paris cathedral invaded their privacy and intruded upon their grief, a British press commission ruled.

Britain's Press Complaints Commission issued its ruling against Hello! magazine, which published photos on May 30 of McCartney and his family mourning his late wife, Linda, inside Notre Dame cathedral.

Mrs. McCartney died of breast cancer April 17. Since then, McCartney has pleaded with the press to let him grieve in private. The Aug. 13 ruling was the result of a complaint by McCartney.

One photograph showed the family inside the cathedral, with the magazine describing how the family "lit a candle for Linda and took some time to meditate in peace."

McCartney said Aug. 13 he was unaware that he and his family had been "stalked" by photographers, who had taken "highly intrusive photographs of us in our most private moments at this very difficult time in our lives."

The magazine responded that the photographs had been obtained from news agencies and apologized to the former Beatle for any distress caused.

"We were touched to see your wonderfully close relationship - which is ... what readers also felt when they saw them," the magazine said.

The complaints commission said it did not believe the public interest was served by such photographs. The commission is an independent, self-regulatory body that rules on complaints against the media by the public or competing publications.

Such rulings do not carry financial penalties.

SEAN PENN

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) - A photographer accused Sean Penn of hitting him with a rock Monday for videotaping the actor while he walked with his father.

No immediate charges were filed against Penn, whose 38th birthday was Monday. Penn's publicist, Carol Stone, had no comment.

Penn told sheriff's deputies he was walking along a rural road with his father, director Leo Penn, when Michael Sindell confronted him.

"They exchanged some words and there was a brief altercation. At this point, both sides are accusing each other of assault," Deputy Bob Killen said.

The photographer claimed Penn hit him with a rock. Penn claims the photographer lunged at him and was hit, Killen said.

"It's a he said-she said kind of thing. Our detectives will handle it."

Penn served more than half of a 60-day jail term last year for violating parole by punching an extra during filming of "Colors." He was on parole for slugging a man he accused of trying to kiss then-wife Madonna in a nightclub in 1986.

ARCHBISHOP TUTU

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Former Archbishop Desmond Tutu, who is guiding the reconciliation process in post-apartheid South Africa, will spend a year teaching at Emory University in Atlanta.

Tutu is to preside over a session of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission in Cape Town on Wednesday. He will leave that night for Atlanta, Tutu spokesman John Allen said.

Tutu is expected to return to South Africa on Oct. 28 to present President Nelson Mandela with the commission's final report.

The Anglican priest will work on a book this fall and not take on any classroom duties. He will teach two courses in the spring, with the topics to be determined later, Emory spokeswoman Elaine Justice said Monday.

SOPHIA LOREN

NEW YORK (AP) - Sophia Loren, hospitalized with an irregular heartbeat, will take a month to rest after she is released, her husband says.

Loren flew to New York from Geneva on Aug. 10 to visit a friend and grew fatigued, said her spokeswoman Beebe Kline.

Ms. Kline said she didn't know when Loren, 63, was admitted, and she refused to identify the hospital. The actress was expected to be released Monday.

"She seems in good shape. She's just been on a merry-go-round. They wanted to run some tests for the arrhythmia," Ms. Kline said. "It's so unusual for her not to feel well. She's always been a pretty healthy person."

Arrhythmia is a heart rhythm abnormality that can be fatal.

Loren's producer-husband, Carlo Ponti, told Venice Film Festival officials that she won't be able to attend their Sept. 3 ceremony to receive an award honoring her career, according to the Milan daily Corriere della Sera.

"She must take a month to rest and look after herself," Ponti said.

MATT PINFELD

NEW YORK (AP) - MTV's Matt Pinfield was a pop music guy from the start.

"My mom told me that when I was 3, I would take kiddie records I had, hide them under the refrigerator and put my older brother's Beatles, Stones or Supremes records on my little record player," he told Rolling Stone, the weekly news magazine for teen-agers.

Among the albums he can't live without: "Innervisions" by Stevie Wonder, "Revolver" by the Beatles and "The Rise & Fall of Ziggy Stardust and the Spiders From Mars" by David Bowie.

MADONNA

TROY, Mich. (AP) - Fans in Madonna's hometown made sure a tribute on her 40th birthday wasn't the same old song and dance.

Against a pulsing backdrop of "Like a Virgin," Madonna devotees and look-alikes held a Madonna Fest in this Detroit suburb Sunday. The pop star did not attend.

"Even though she turns 40, she is ageless," said Damon Percy, 26. "She is a standout in a field usually dominated by men."

Fans looked at tables filled with Madonna posters, magazines, CDs, backstage passes and T-shirts. Exhibitor Marcy Partekel, 40, of Chicago spent $4,600 for a skirt Madonna wore on a 1987 tour.

"I guess I've probably spent close to $25,000 on Madonna memorabilia," she said.

Siege mentality at embassy

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Coils of barbed wire, mounds of sandbags and sniffer dogs confront visitors to the temporary new U.S. Embassy in Kenya's capital. Tense soldiers man barricades a block away, and a sharpshooter glares down from the roof.

If a siege mentality prevails at the nine-story red brick building on a quiet side street, it's understandable. Officials are determined that what happened Aug. 7 won't happen again.

A little more than a mile away stands the badly damaged shell of the embassy attacked by a truck bomb that killed 247 people and raised immediate questions about safety at U.S. missions worldwide.

A sense of shock and emergency is evident inside, too, where embassy workers are crammed into offices of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

"The adrenaline is still pumping and you don't go back to normal overnight," Stephen Nolan, the embassy's administrative counselor, told reporters Monday.

Nolan said he feels safe at the temporary facility. More than security concerns or the disarray of the sudden move, embassy workers are still dealing with the trauma of human loss. At least 46 people, a dozen of them Americans, were killed inside the downtown embassy building.

Budget showdown between Clinton, GOP is likely

WASHINGTON (AP) - A tense pre-election budget showdown seems certain this fall between President Clinton and congressional Republicans. But many participants and analysts say a stalemate that escalates into a news-dominating government shutdown is unlikely.

The Oct. 1 start of fiscal 1999 will be just a month off when the vacationing Congress resumes work in September. The White House has issued veto threats against seven of the 13 spending bills needed to keep agencies functioning, demanding billions more for schools, environmental cleanups and other programs and opposing GOP proposals such as roads through protected federal lands.

But will the battle intensify into a replay of the late 1995 and early 1996 partial shutdowns, generating news stories about padlocked agencies, gated national parks and delayed benefit checks? With elections for control of Congress just a month later, many people involved in or watching the situation say it would be too risky for both sides.

"Republicans carried the blame for the last shutdowns, and would be asking for real trouble," said Leon Panetta, Clinton's chief of staff during the 1995 and 1996 budget wars, which the public blamed largely on the GOP.

"For Democrats, it's a little more questionable, but it would be viewed as the president trying to find diversions from the other problems he's facing," said Panetta, now a consultant at California State

Justice Department reopens Gore election law review

NEW YORK (AP) - The Justice Department once again is reviewing whether Vice President Al Gore broke federal election laws when he used White House telephones to make fund-raising calls, The Wall Street Journal reported today.

The review will help Attorney General Janet Reno decide whether to request an independent counsel to probe the 1996 presidential race. Reno, who last year elected to not have an independent counsel investigate, is under pressure from Republicans to reverse her stance.

A rarely prosecuted law prohibits soliciting campaign donations known as hard money on federal property.

Former Japanese soldiers describe WWII atrocities

LOS ANGELES (AP) - They say many of their former comrades remain in denial or simply refuse to discuss the past, but four Japanese World War II veterans spoke out and gave chilling accounts of Japan's wartime actions in China during a video teleconference.

They described attacks with biological weapons, mass executions and torture of civilian prisoners.

"We were able to kill them because we despised them," said former soldier Shiro Azuma.

The Sunday event was sponsored by the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles, a research and educational group that investigates genocide.

Doctor's citizenship stripped because of Nazi link

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - A retired obstetrician from Lithuania was stripped of his U.S. citizenship for being a member of a Nazi-sponsored police unit during World War II.

U.S. District Judge Henry Lee Adams Jr. on Monday sided with Justice Department investigators who alleged Dr. Adolph Milius, 79, was a member of the Lithuanian Security Police during the summer and fall of 1941.

About 33,000 Jews from Vilnius province were killed during that time.

During his service in the plain-clothes unit, Milius, also known as Adolfas Milinavicius, participated in Nazi-sponsored acts of persecution, including the arrest of Jews seeking to escape the ghetto, the government said.

Court: Gag order on parents of victims went too far

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - A judge's order forbidding six parents to talk publicly about the killing of their children in a West Paducah high school was unjustified, the Kentucky Court of Appeals ruled.

The three-judge panel ruled Monday that before taking the extreme step of a gag order, the trial judge was obligated to explore other ways to ensure a fair trial for 15-year-old Michael Carneal, the alleged gunman.

"Prior restraint on speech is presumptively unconstitutional," said the appellate opinion by Judge Joseph Huddleston.

Authorities skeptical of encounter claim

ANDREWS, N.C. (AP) - James "Bo" Gritz says he and his volunteer searchers are getting closer to finding abortion clinic bombing suspect Eric Rudolph.

If so, the former Green Beret colonel would have accomplished in a few days what scores of federal agents using helicopters and other high-tech devices have been unable to do for seven months.

Gritz said Monday that one of his people may have encountered the fugitive or one of his scouts twice in a matter of hours near an unoccupied vacation home in the dense forest near here.
