Smooth operator

Holguin running an 'info' center

By Don Cooper
Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Maybe Sade's "Smooth Operator" wasn't about Diana Holguin, but it could have been.

After all, it takes a smooth operator to keep everything running smoothly in the Deaf Smith County Judge's Office. Phones ringing almost incessantly and people running in and out of the office would drive many workers out of their minds, but the ringing doesn't seem to faze Holguin.

She continues her work as she answers the phone, quickly routes it to the right office and resumes her work as if nothing had happened.

"We're an information center," she said.

Holguin is administrative assistant and courts coordinator in the office of Deaf Smith County Judge Tom Simons, a job she's held since 1994.

As the county judge's administrative assistant, she also handles communications with the four county precincts.

"I think I'm the only connection between the precincts and the courthouse," Holguin said. "I handle all the letters or whatever the commissioners need - all of their mail comes here - and, of course, I take the complaints."

Diana Holguin has served as "information center" for the Deaf Smith County Judge's Office since 1994

In coordinating the probate, juvenile and misdemeanor courts, Holguin has to make sure that two court proceedings are not scheduled at the same time, something that could be a logistical nightmare.

In civil cases, she deals with the attorneys for both sides; in criminal cases, she makes sure both the district attorney's office and the defense attorneys know where they are supposed to be and when.

In addition to coordinating the schedule of the juvenile court, Holguin also sets up the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Board meetings.

"I like coordinating the courts. We have a lot of activity there, but there has been less than before. The caseload has gotten lower. I looked up '96, '97 and '98 on the computer and the DWIs are lower - and that's good," she said.

"I can't think of a downside to my job. Everything is different every day. All the activities are different, with different people. I get to talk to attorneys from all over, from Edinburg and Crystal City (in South Texas) and Dallas and Houston. ... I enjoy dealing with the different types of people," she said.

She said she has enjoyed working for the county judge, saying Simons has allowed her to do some volunteer work with the H.O.S.T.S. mentoring program at Northwest Elementary.

Although Holguin loves her job, she said she would like to go back to college and earn her bachelor's degree, perhaps in criminal justice.

Holguin earned an associate's degree in word processing/information from Amarillo College.

She worked part time in the Deaf Smith County Clerk's Office and the Public Library while going to school and before taking the position with the county judge's office.

If she is able to follow through on her plans to take classes this fall, she will take "whatever I can at Amarillo College. When I can't take any more, then I'll transfer to WT (West Texas A&M University at Canyon)."

She said she is pleased that so many courses are offered at night, which allows people to go to school without interfering with their jobs.

Holguin's parents, Valentin and Maria Hernandez, were migrant workers from South Texas who settled in Hereford in 1963. She was born and raised here, graduating from Hereford High School.

She and her husband, Pete Holguin, an employee of G&G Tractor, have one daughter, Ashley, 7, a student at St. Anthony's Catholic School.

"I can't think of a downside to my job. Everything is different every day. All the activities are different, with different people. I get to talk to attorneys from all over, from Edinburg and Crystal City (in South Texas) and Dallas and Houston. ... I enjoy dealing with the different types of people."

May 1 field small

Candidates for city or school board positions will have until Wednesday to file for spots on the May 1 elections.

Filing for spots on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District election, also May 1, will not conclude until April 1.

The Hereford Independent School District board election has drawn more candidates than either the city or the hospital district, but just slightly.

HISD
By the end of the day Friday, there was only one contested race for a spot on the school board.

Incumbent Tracy Staughan is being challenged by Lou Serrano, juvenile probation officer for Deaf Smith County, in the District 5 race.

The other candidates for the board include incumbents Dave Charest (District 1), Charlie Arrellano (District 2) and Jeri Bezner (District 7), and retired educator Carolyn Waters (District 4).

Although he is an incumbent, Charest is not the District 1 incumbent. He was elected to the District 6 seat in 1997. As a resident of District 1, Charest is seeking to complete the unexpired term of Karen Sherrod, who resigned earlier this year.

The other positions are for full terms.

Absentee voting will be April 14-27 in the Deaf Smith County Clerk's office at the courthouse, 235 E. 3rd.

Candidates can file at the HISD Administration Building, 601 N. 25 Mile Ave.

Because of spring break, the office hours next week will be 9-12 a.m. March 15-16 and 8 a.m.-5 p.m. March 17.

Hospital District

Although petitions are being circulated by potential candidates for seats on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board, none had been returned by Friday afternoon. Voters in the hospital district will choose three directors, all at large, when they go to the polls May 1.

An old toy back in style

By Dianna F. Dandridge
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Walking down the street, out on the playground or anywhere kids get the chance to just stand still, they can be seen playing with one of the oldest of toys - the yo-yo.

It's almost like a back to the future kind of thing, only in reverse. The kids themselves can't explain why this old toy has once again come into fashion. They just know they like them.

Some of the schools, like Bluebonnet, hosted a yo-yo extravaganza earlier this year, where they brought in a professional yo-yo artist to help teach the student different tricks.

The students really don't care that the yo-yo was at one time a weapon or a hunting tool. They just like playing with it.

"They're lots more fun than a video game," said Joseph Hernandez, a sixth-grade student at Bluebonnet Intermediate School. Hernandez can do several tricks, including one called a motorcycle, where his twirling toy buzzes much like a motor bike.

Ricardo Rocha, a fourth grader, sticks with the old stand-bys, like "round the world" and "walk the dog."

Rocha doesn't say much, but he did he likes watching them spin and seeing how many times he can do a particular trick.

It's not only the school-age individuals who are getting into the spin of things, some of the adults also take a walk into their past and show the students just how it's done.

Bluebonnet Principal Richard Saucedo said the school allows the students to play with the yo-yos only outside.

Sauceda is among the staff who finds the time to show the students new tricks.

"I liked playing with them when I was a kid, and I still like to," he said.

He doesn't mind the students bringing the toys to school, but they learn pretty quick if they use when they're not supposed to, it may get confiscated.

"We give them back after a few days," Saucedo said. "But if we collect them a second time, we'll keep them and give them away later."

Like the kids, Saucedo doesn't really know why the yo-yos have returned to popularity, but he says when the kids are playing with yo-yos they're not getting into mischief, so he says it's all right.

Principal Richard Saucedo shows his yo-yoing technique.

Ricardo Rocha, a fourth-grade student at Bluebonnet, loses control of his yo-yo.

Fronts create travel hazards, storms in East

The Associated Press

Heavy snow, flooding rain, and severe thunderstorms were pounding areas from northern Kansas and Missouri through southern Texas and Louisiana today.

In Texas, at least two tornadoes were sighted Friday. And in Oklahoma, at least nine people died in traffic accidents on the state's slippery highways.

In the Northeast, a weak frontal system was bringing light precipitation with snow, flurries and rain scattered from northern New York through Massachusetts.

Much of the rest of the East was expected to be under a strong storm system edging eastward from the southern Plains. Snowfall was likely to develop from southern Illinois into West Virginia through the day with accumulations up to six inches by nightfall.

Very strong to severe thunderstorms were predicted from southern Louisiana through Georgia and western Florida as a low pressure center treks along the Gulf coast. Large hail, very strong straight-line winds, and tornadoes were possible.

High pressure was expected to bring a dry day to the Great Lakes and northern Ohio Valley today, with partly cloudy skies to the north and a few more clouds to the south.

A pleasant day was in store for the Rocky Mountain, Great Basin, and desert Southwest regions today. The high pressure building in the Rockies was also keeping much of the West free of cloudiness and precipitation.

Today's temperatures were expected to range from the 20s and 30s in New England and the northern Plains to the 70s along the Gulf Coast, with readings in the 40s for the Rockies, the Northeast, the mid-Atlantic states and Ohio Valley; the 50s for the Northwest; and the 60s and 70s across the South.

The nation's hot spot Friday in the Lower 48 states was Del Rio, Texas, at 87 degrees. The coldest place was Silver Bay, Minn., with a low of 8 below zero.

Asteroid-seekers stumble upon supernova

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Astronomers canvassing the sky for asteroids that could threaten Earth stumbled upon a supernova in a galaxy 650 million light-years away, Jet Propulsion Laboratory researchers say.

The supernova was photographed by NASA's Near Earth Asteroid Tracking system on Feb. 18. The images captured the star's appearance as it looked just a few weeks after the ancient explosion occurred.

"We were fishing for salmon, and instead we caught a whale," Steven Pravdo, project manager, said Friday.

The star was unknown to astronomers before the accidental discovery.

The supernova, named 1999am, was a white dwarf star in orbit with a companion star before it exploded.

Clinton 'disturbed' by claims of misconduct by law officers

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS News roundup

TEXARKANA, Texas — President Clinton said today he is "deeply disturbed" by recent allegations of police misconduct and offered a series of federal initiatives and policy suggestions designed to bolster public confidence in law enforcement.

The president used his weekly radio address to tout the drop in crime rates nationwide since his administration began promoting community policing, but he cautioned that those advances could be undermined if public trust in the police waned.

"While each specific allegation will have to be dealt with on its own merits, it is clear that we need a renewed determination as a nation to restore those bonds of trust that have been absolutely critical to our success at lowering the crime rate," he said.

Recent questionable shootings by police that took the lives of young blacks in New York, Pittsburgh and Riverside, Calif., have revived questions about how officers handle confrontations with minorities. In New Jersey, state troopers have come under fire for conducting traffic stops based on the race of drivers — so-called racial profiling.

"Our nation's police officers every day put their lives on the line for the rest of us," Clinton said. "But I have been deeply disturbed by recent allegations of serious police misconduct and continued reports of racial profiling that have shaken some communities' faith in the police who are there to protect them."

The president taped his address at the White House before flying to Arkansas on Friday to dedicate his birthplace in Hope as a historical site and help raise money for Democrats. He was returning to Washington late tonight.

Clinton repaid Rep. Max Sandlin's loyalty during his impeachment by attending two fund-raisers expected to collect more than $500,000 for the Texas Democrat.

NATO adds 3
INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — The first new entrants into

NATO since the end of the Cold War have swelled the alliance's ranks to 19 — and Secretary of State Madeleine Albright says more may be on the way.

"NATO enlargement is not an event but a process," Albright said Friday after the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland — all members of the now-defunct Soviet-led Warsaw Pact — joined the alliance at a ceremony at the Harry S. Truman Library.

Just when new entrants will be invited is not clear. That issue will be discussed at a NATO summit next month in Washington.

Hopefuls waiting in the wings for the next round of enlargement are Slovenia, Romania, Bulgaria, Slovakia, Lithuania, Estonia and Latvia.

"It is our common purpose, over time, to do for Europe's east what NATO has already helped to do for Europe's west," Albright said. "Steadily and systematically, we will continue erasing — without replacing — the line drawn in Europe by Stalin's bloody boot."

Breast cancer claims lives

Breast cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death among women in Texas. It claimed the lives of 2,396 Texas women in 1998.

The American Cancer Society (ACS) recommends the following guidelines for breast cancer screening of women without symptoms:

1. Clinical Breast Exam by a health care professional every 3 years for women aged 20 to 39, and annually for women age 40 and over.
2. Breast Self-Exam monthly for all women age 20 or over.
3. A mammogram every year for all women age 40 or over (screening may begin earlier if clinically indicated).

Area writers urged to submit poems, fiction to magazine

Special to The Brand

DALLAS - ¡Tex! magazine is seeking submissions to its second edition to be published this fall. ¡Tex! features fiction, poetry, and art and will have a statewide circulation of 150,000. The issue will be inserted into selected Texas newspapers and will be available from Barnes & Noble bookstores.

¡Tex! is published by the Dallas-based Today Foundation and edited by the Writer's Garret, a Dallas literary center.

¡Tex! includes solicited manuscripts and selected submissions. Established or emerging authors are invited to submit poetry or "short short" fiction (150 - 1,200 words - also called "sudden fiction") for publication in the fall edition. Works will be chosen for their literary merit and ability to speak to a widely varied audience (with a PG rating).

Two selected works in each category will be chosen as "Best of Issue" through a blind, outside judging by nationally celebrated author, George Plimpton (fiction) and poet and jazz saxophonist, Joy Harjo (poetry).

First prize in each category will be $400; second prize winners will receive $200. Other published work will receive $125 for short fiction and $1.25 per line of poetry. Entrants must be a past or current residents of Texas, or worked or attended school in Texas.

Submission Guidelines

- Send 5 copies of the typed, original, unpublished manuscript; self-addressed, stamped envelope (SASE); and cover sheet with name, address, phone number, title of work, and number of pages. Names should not appear anywhere else in the manuscript. Number the pages. A $5 entry fee is required for each poem or short story. TOTAL poetry submissions may not exceed 100 single-spaced items. TOTAL fiction entries should not exceed 1,200 words (typed, double-spaced).

- Submissions must be postmarked by April 19, 1999. No submissions will be returned.

- Mail submissions and checks to: Jack Myers (poetry editor) or Billy Bob Hill (fiction editor), c/o The Writer's Garret, P.O. Box 140530, Dallas 75214-0530. Simultaneous submissions are not accepted.

The Today Foundation is a non-profit organization with interests in a variety of areas including education and literacy. The Writer's Garret is a Dallas-based literary center whose activities are wholly supported by gifts, grants, memberships, and class fees.

Concert features WTAMU students

Special to The Brand

CANYON - Six West Texas A&M University students were featured during the recent Orchestra Concerto Concert

According to Dr. Gary Garner, WTAMU director of bands and orchestra and professor of music, these students joined the orchestra and were featured soloists throughout the evening.

"Each year, the department has a competition among students," Garner said. "The most outstanding performers are chosen to perform as soloists with the orchestra."

Jason Brents, a senior music major from Crane, performed "Concertino for Xylophone" by Toshiro Mayazumi.

Brandon Cameron, a senior music performance major from Rowlett, performed "Concerto in F major, Op.75" by Carl Maria von Weber on bassoon.

Raquel Rodriguez, a senior music education major from Kermit, and Eric Gilley of Hereford, a senior music major, performed "Concerto for Trumpet" by Alexander Arturian.

Amy Elsner, clarinetist and a graduate student in music from Canyon, performed "Concerto No. 1 in F Major" by Carl Maria von Weber.

Daniel Loudenback, a sophomore music major from Brenham, performed "Concertino da Camera" by Jacques Ibert on saxophone.

"These are highly gifted students," Garner said. "They won the chance to play with the orchestra by competing against other talented students in the department."

U.S. rig count falls by 7

HOUSTON (AP) - The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the United States slipped by seven on Friday to 534, three shy of the record low.

Of the rigs running nationwide this week, 116 were exploring for oil and 418 for gas, Houston-based Baker Hughes Inc. reported. During the same week last year, 942 rigs were operating in the United States.

Baker Hughes has kept track of the count since 1944. The tally peaked at 4,530 on Dec. 28, 1981, during the height of the oil boom. It reached a record low 531 on Feb. 19, 1999 after four straight weeks of plunging counts blamed on weak oil prices.

FIRST AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

"Polls will not determine the outcome in any way. Ideas will."

Vice President Gore, Democratic front-runner

Walter R. Mears

The Associated Press

An early lead a good sign? Not always

Republicans have sent early campaign leaders to their presidential nominations more often than Democrats have, front-runner lore that points to the rewards and risks awaiting initial favorites.

For the 2000 campaign, that means Texas Gov. George W. Bush and Vice President Al Gore.

As Gore observed in discounting polls that rate both Bush and Elizabeth Dole ahead of him in a final contest for the White House, the 1999 surveys are predictions too far in advance to foretell the next election.

"Polls will not determine the outcome in any way," Gore told CNN. "Ideas will." And money. In that crucial competition, the early polls do help leaders draw donors.

There have been six open contests, without incumbents running, for Republican nominations since 1960, and in four of them, the leaders in the early polls won the nomination. In six open Democratic campaigns, the pre-season front-runner won only once.

The Pew Research Center for the People and the Press tracked the pattern.

Two early Democratic leaders chose not to run, Mario Cuomo in 1992, and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in the 1976 competition. President Clinton and former President Carter won those nominations.

Among others, in both parties, there are lessons that could apply this time.

The fall of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie in 1972, for example. He was the towering early favorite, after a winning performance in a losing campaign for vice president. Muskie reaped Democratic endorsements, campaigned in a style tailored to an obvious winner who didn't want to risk blunders, and made them as soon as the real competition began. His lead vanished and so did his chances. It was said at the time that his support had been as broad as it was shallow. Sen. George McGovern won that nomination.

Or Gov. George Romney of Michigan, the earliest leader among GOP candidates for 1968. He'd just swept to re-election by a landslide. He had gained broad support among minority voters, including 30 percent of the black vote, unmatched for a Republican in that era.

The presidential preference polls reflected it; for six months, he was rated a likely winner over President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968.

He stumbled as a national campaigner, lacking the organization and adroitness of Richard M. Nixon, who quickly displaced him as the leading entry. Romney was out of it before the first primary.

Gov. Bush has the early advantages of both. He's been endorsed for the 2000 nomination by more than half the 31 Republican governors, and by more than 80 Republicans in Congress. Party leaders have been coming to him in Austin; he's campaigning at home through the spring, saying he won't travel nationally until the Texas Legislature adjourns.

Mrs. Dole is his closest rival in the early polls, with the rest of a nine-man field trailing them.

She opened in Des Moines, Iowa, presenting herself as a nonpolitician — although she has been in government longer than the others, and campaigned nationally for her husband, Bob Dole, the 1996 GOP nominee. "I'm not a politician, and frankly, I think that's a plus today," she said. Although she did mention in passing that she's been in all 99 counties of Iowa, where the first contest of 2000 will be held.

In contrast to the crowded GOP field, there are only two Democrats running, Gore, with former Sen. Bill Bradley of New Jersey campaigning to overtake him. "My guess is it will remain a two-person race, which will be an interesting dynamic," he said.

The Pew survey notes that Gore's poll standing is not unlike that of Vice President George Bush 12 years ago, when he was rated behind the leading Democratic prospects. They faltered,

Let's hear it for importance of education

Dianna F. Dandridge

Let's hear it again for the importance of education.

In an era when education issues top every politician's platform, we are now informed that the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has been told it can no longer stipulate the eligibility of an incoming freshman athlete by setting a floor of 820 on SAT scores.

At some point after the announcement, I heard that part of the reasoning is that many kids on athletic scholarships come from economically disadvantaged families and might not have had the same learning opportunities as other students.

I have no problem with removing a double standard that says athletes must have one score to be eligible to play college sports and non-athletes a lower score just to attend

Grunts and 'Great' Men?

Elitism is alive, well in the U.S.

Don Cooper

If anyone thought there's not elitism in the United States, think again.

Last week when my copy of Newsweek arrived, the headline proclaimed the cover feature to be "Voices of the Century: Americans at War." The story covered U.S. wars during the 20th century, from World War I to Vietnam, and it featured "The Grunts and the Great Men — In Their Own Words."

Now I know there are those who will say I'm a bit hypersensitive here, but that phrase — "The Grunts and the Great Men" — flew all over me because of its elitism.

The headline implies there are two classes of people involved in these wars: Grunts and Great Men.

If we'd think about it just a minute, the Great Men are the reason the Grunts were in places like Vietnam in the first place. The Great Men sitting safely at home demonstrated their greatness and bravery by sending the faceless Grunts off to fight their wars for them.

I'm not questioning the justification of U.S. participation in World War I and World War II. Although I opposed the U.S. participation in Vietnam, I am not questioning the Great Men's rationale for involving the nation in Southeast Asia. No, what I am questioning is the attitude apparently being demonstrated by Newsweek: There are Grunts and there are Great Men. I guess in the Newsweek world lowly Grunts cannot be Great Men.

This form of elitism runs rampant in this country.

For example, take the O.J.

Newsweek cover: elitism?

Simpson case. If O.J. had been a "grunt" instead of a famous, wealthy former football hero, he would have been forced to accept a plea bargain and today would be sitting in the slammer instead of playing golf all over the country.

Look at the JonBenet Ramsey murder case, where the Boulder, Colo. police allowed the wealthy family to move the child's body, come and go as they pleased, and dictate when and how they would be questioned — or if they would be questioned at all.

What would have happened if JonBenet Ramsey's father were a construction worker and her mother were a maid? If the child of these parents were found brutally murdered in the home where there were no apparent intruder and a ransom note written on paper from the house, these parents would have been taken immediately to the police station and interrogated. Most likely, one or both of these parents would be in prison today.

In recent years, the publishing industry has become a prime example of elitism at work.

Take a look at the book deals you read about: Movie and TV stars, sports celebrities and political figures command big advances to "write" books that generally wind up in the cutouts in book stores.

What happened to former House Speaker Newt Gingrich's book? Or the one by former U.S. Rep. Susan Molinari? Or the one by Jamie Lee Curtis? What about the one by Ray ("Everybody Loves Raymond") Romano, or the one by all of the people remotely connected to the O.J. Simpson trial?

Then, of course, there is Monica Lewinsky's book, which actually was written by someone else, and for which she received big bucks to tell again what the world already knew.

Meanwhile, unknown writers out there are struggling to find someone who'll publish their work.

A former Army buddy, who now lives in San Diego, has written a very good book about post-war Vietnam. He and his wife, a native of Vietnam, made an extensive tour of the Southeast Asian nation last year.

On the tour, he took many photographs and, with his wife doing the interpreting, interviewed numerous Vietnamese, many of whom were veterans of the war, for the book.

When he tried to find a publisher for the book, he found a lack of interest, although similar books have been written by people who have "names."

His book is going to be released in April; however, he set up his own publishing company to market the book.

The elitism also is seen in the city halls across the country. In one town where I lived, an ancient storm drain collapsed, causing water to back up every time it rained, filling ditches and flooding the street and yards in the neighborhood.

There were many calls to City Hall to get something done about the problem, but nothing ever happened.

Why? It was poor, mostly minority, neighborhood.

What happened when there was a similar problem in one of the upscale neighborhoods?

The city manager mobilized all available equipment to rush out to fix the problem.

Elitism. You don't think it's rampant in the U.S.?

Think again.

Nicknames Presidents attract, endure nicknames

By Lawrence L. Knutson

A nickname, says the proverb, is "the heaviest stone the devil can throw at a man." Some wound and leave scars. Some stick like burrs. Others fall away and are forgotten.

American presidents have attracted and endured nicknames ever since George Washington was called the "Sword of the Revolution," the "Father of His Country," the "Sage of Mount Vernon" and, interestingly, "The Old Fox."

President Clinton will probably never entirely shed "Slick Willie," a nickname draped on him by an Arkansas newspaper writer years before he reached Washington.

But "the Comeback Kid," the title Clinton awarded himself after finishing a surprising second in the 1992 New Hampshire primary, is likely to be equally enduring.

It's a title Clinton retains — for his two presidential victories, his tiptoeing through the land mines of scandal and his acquittal in a Senate impeachment trial. "Clinton seemed plainly to be relishing the symbolism of the Comeback Kid coming back again," The Washington Post's John Harris observed last month as he described Clinton's post-impeachment swing through New Hampshire.

Presidential nicknames have been piling up for two centuries. Five presidents were called "accidental" or "his accident," because they gained office either by the death of the president they served as vice president or through other less than usual circumstances.

Nicknames

Many presidential nicknames were plainly sarcastic. When John Adams insisted that Congress call President Washington "His Highness," some senators, snickering behind their hands, dubbed Adams "His Rotundity."

William Henry Harrison was a "Log Cabin candidate" before Abraham Lincoln but was also widely known as "Tippecanoe," after his 1811 victory on a battlefield of the Indian Wars.

Many people thought of Martin Van Buren as sly and "foxy," "the Little Magician." But finally, to his political foes he was little Van, "the used-up man."

Andrew Jackson was "Old Hickory" for the tree so hard it resisted nails. Some Americans, trying to recycle the title, called James Polk "Young Hickory."

Zachary Taylor is still known as "Old Rough and Ready," a reputation earned during the 1848 war with Mexico.

Theodore Roosevelt will always be a "Rough Rider," even though his cavalry regiment had no horses with them when they captured San Juan Hill. The president detested "Teddy," even though he had been called "Teedy" as a boy.

Lincoln survived many nickname salvos: tyrant, dictator, destroyer of liberty, "Black Republican," "the Illinois Baboon," "the Original Gorilla."

The "railsplitter's" defenders, of course, could fire back with "Honest Abe," "Father Abraham" and "The Great Emancipator." Lincoln's secretaries had their own nicknames for the commander in chief — "The Ancient" and "The Tycoon."

In the 20th century, Americans remember the monosyllabic Calvin Coolidge as "Silent Cal," and Franklin Roosevelt, the first of the alphabet presidents, as plain old FDR. To those who could not bear to speak his name, Roosevelt was "that man in the White House."

Dwight Eisenhower was "Ike" and President Truman was "Give 'em Hell Harry." Gerald R. Ford was just "Jerry" and John F. Kennedy was "Jack" or "JFK." But Jimmy Carter became the first president to insist on using the diminutive form of his name at all times. He was "Jimmy" from back-lot barbecues to state dinners.

"Slick Willie" by the way, has a somewhat shaky precedent. One of the more obscure nicknames thrown at William McKinley, the century's first president, was "Wobbly Willie."

In more recent times, Lyndon Johnson branded himself and everything near him LBJ. He was dubbed "Landslide Lyndon" for the thin and contested margin by which he won his first Senate seat.

Richard Nixon endured "Tricky Dick" for much of his political career.

Ronald Reagan, "Dutch" to his oldest friends, fared better as "the Great Communicator."

Lawrence L. "Larry" Knutson has covered the White House, Congress and Washington history for more than 30 years.

less, just because they were poor.

Most people know I'm not a big sports fan. I realize that sporting events have a place in exercise, relieving stress, and if done correctly even in developing self-discipline. To that end, sports have their place.

I remember as a sophomore in high school watching as a huge hulk of a coach towered over a young, petite English teacher and telling her that a certain football player really needed to be able to play in an upcoming game.

He was certain the grades in her class would reflect his importance to the team.

I just knew she would give in and the athlete would get a passing grade. She went up in my estimation when the mid-term grades were released and he got what he earned, just like everyone else. He also didn't play for several weeks.

My kids know that should their grades drop below an 85 in any subject, then all extracurricular events, including sports are canceled until that grade comes up.

I hear people talk about kids who stay out until 11 p.m. or later participating in some sporting event and then are too tired to get up and go to school.

Somewhere along the road, the purpose of education has been pushed below the need to compete.

Until this priority is once again properly aligned, schools will continue to see violence erupting in the name of sports rough housing and athletic students will continue to expect extras, just because they are "on the team."

Sports are fine, in their place, but an education is much more of a sure thing than any ball that ever held air.

GOP strengthening its hand for full-blown budget battle

By Walter R. Mears

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Outdealt before at budget poker, House and Senate Republicans are trying to settle on spending, surplus and tax terms to set their hand for showdowns with President Clinton.

Their leaders gained agreement on a first-step budget plan, as an outline, details to come later in appropriations bills. Plus a tax cut short of what they had wanted.

To get this far, they are settling for a tax cut of at least $15 billion and perhaps $25 billion going into the 2000 presidential campaign year, with a promise of far more generous ones to come later.

Essentially, they are yielding points now, compromising with themselves — to the dismay of some conservatives — rather than risk the disarray that worked to Clinton's advantage last time.

For the 2000 budget, effective next Oct. 1, this is all going to have to be done within spending ceilings that will force cuts from current levels.

They managed it in 1998 on the legislative pretext that an extra $21 billion in spending, some Clinton's, some for congressional wants, was for emergencies and therefore not subject to the limits, or caps, in budget talk.

Those caps were set in the 1997 budget agreement, and to comply with them this year, spending subject to annual appropriations — a bit less than one-third of the overall budget — cannot exceed $536 billion.

The Republicans said their budget plan will stay within that limit. But they want $16 billion in defense spending increases, which would force sharp reductions in domestic programs Clinton will defend, up to and including appropriations vetoes.

According to the Republicans, the spending Clinton wants would exceed the caps by about $33 billion.

His budget proposed an array of tax measures to pay for new spending, almost all of them repeat requests for tax changes the Republican Congress has rejected before and almost certainly will again.

The GOP comeback is that Clinton proposed financing he cannot get for spending that would cut into the budget surplus and the Social Security trust fund behind it.

Under the Republican plan, surpluses generated by Social Security taxes could not be used for anything else. That is an attempt to outdo Clinton on an issue he preempted in 1998 by declaring that none of the surplus should be spent until the financing of Social Security is overhauled and guaranteed through the mid-21st century.

That gave him leverage against Republican tax cut plans because they hardly could say no. Clinton now has repeated that with more detail: He wants 62 percent of surpluses through 2014 used for Social Security, 15 percent for Medicare, and the rest for other programs, including increased defense spending.

Now the Republicans are trying to outdo him with a budget plan they say would lock up the Social Security trust fund instead of continuing to use it as a sort of bank for borrowing to cover other government spending, as both GOP and Democratic administrations have done.

The House and Senate budget committees are to act on the plan next week, and GOP leaders hope to get the budget resolution enacted within the month.

It does not go to Clinton and it is not binding; it is a blueprint to be filled in with appropriations and tax legislation. That did not get done last year, either.

With Republicans divided, Democrats resisting program cuts and Clinton vetoing spending bills short of what he demanded, the impasse worked in his favor. He blamed it on the Republicans, accused them of failing the most basic responsibility that goes with control of Congress, and held out the threat of government shutdowns unless they settled.

They had been there before, in 1995, when there were shutdowns for lack of appropriations and the whole mess backfired on Republicans.

and he won. Gore is viewed favorably by 58 percent of Americans now, a solid rating but not as good as Bush's at this point in 1987.

All those numbers add up only to a guessing game. But they also show what can happen to candidates who look like sure winners this far in advance.

"Polls are simply predictions of the future," Gore said, although pollsters call them snapshots of the present. Either way, they can change overnight when the real competition begins.

"And you know the old saying that six months is a lifetime in politics," the vice president said.

Lewinsky's tour hits small town

SALISBURY, England (AP) — She was, one local reporter estimated, the most famous American to visit Salisbury since Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during World War II.

Hundreds lined the narrow streets of this city in southwestern England on Friday to catch a glimpse of Monica Lewinsky, the former White House intern whose affair with President Clinton almost ended his presidency.

Asked to estimate the size of the crowd that had turned out to gawk during a stop on Ms. Lewinsky's book tour, Wiltshire police officer John Wishart was stumped.

"Any more than four, I'm baffled," he said. "We don't have crowds in Salisbury."

It's not as if Salisbury, a small, bustling city dominated by a towering cathedral spire, is completely unused to celebrity. Former Prime Minister Edward Heath is a resident, and rock star Sting's country estate is not too far outside town.

As some of the city's 40,000 residents noted Friday, there's famous — and then there's Monica Lewinsky.

"Really, the whole town is so excited by it," said Tom Morgan, an 18-year-old student in line at Ottakar's bookstore to get his copy of the biography "Monica's Story" signed.

The reason? "She's such a famous woman," Morgan said.

Ms. Lewinsky arrived in an elegant gray pants suit to face a crowd that fell strangely silent.

The crowd was mostly respectful, unlike stops in London, Oxford or other places, where she was greeted by placards bearing such messages as "Take her back, Bill."

"Let's face it," said 70-year-old Ruby Spokes, near the front of the signing line. "He was a very powerful man. What girl is going to turn her nose up to that?"

Ms. Lewinsky's 19-stop book tour takes her throughout England and Scotland until March 24.

WTAMU club's work getting some notice

Special to The Brand

CANYON — West Texas A&M University's Sociology-Social Work Club spends countless hours making sure people less fortunate get what they need, especially around the Christmas holidays. Their efforts have not gone unnoticed.

Because of the selfless dedication to such charitable causes as the Eveline Rivers Christmas Project and the Giving Tree, the Sociology-Social Work Club has been named the March recipient of the President's Community Service Award.

"The common denominator in this club is our interest in others," Fred Brownlee, president of the Sociology-Social Work Club, said. "Social workers are interested in the well-being of others, whether they're individuals or groups out in the community. We're concerned with helping those with needs to find the resources that they need."

In the past year, the club has collected and distributed coats for the Eveline Rivers project, donated food baskets to needy families, collected food for the High Plains Food Bank and sponsored the Giving Tree, from which people selected ornaments containing information about the holiday clothing needs of area children. Once the items were purchased, the club distributed them through CityChurch, a non-profit youth outreach organization in Amarillo.

"It's a very dynamic club," Dr. Raju Ramakrishnan, club sponsor and professor of social work, said. "What the students do is above and beyond the call of duty. Through the years, it's been a strong club. They've raised a lot of money and spent a lot of time out in the community doing everything possible to connect the University with the outside community."

Funds raised by the club not only help provide necessities for holiday food baskets, they also go toward scholarships at WTAMU. The Social Work Club established the Jane Addams Scholarship, and they also contribute to other scholarships within the program.

The President's Community Service Award was established by University President Russell C. Long to recognize the good-faith community efforts of WTAMU students, faculty and staff; offices and departments/divisions; and chartered/registered student organizations.

Eastwood to shut watering hole

CARMEL, Calif. — Clint Eastwood didn't make anyone's day with his announcement that his popular watering hole, the Hog's Breath Inn, will shut down for good April 1.

"We are closing," Eastwood confirmed Tuesday.

Eastwood, best known for the "Dirty Harry" movies, has owned the tavern for almost 30 years with his former wife, Maggie, and primary shareholder Maxie Becker.

He said Becker has been thinking about getting out of the business for some time.

"We all support her decision. We came in together. We're going out together," said Eastwood, who served a term as mayor of the seaside resort town.

Budget: questions and answers

GOP's framework is an opening gambit

By Alan Fram

The Associated Press

Congressional Republican leaders have announced the broad principles that will guide them as they write a fiscal 2000 budget and a plan for handling huge surpluses expected for the foreseeable future.

The blueprint, which they will try selling next week to rank-and-file GOP lawmakers, signals how Republicans will position themselves politically in this year's budget battle with President Clinton. But it leaves several unanswered questions.

Q: What exactly have Republican leaders agreed to?

A: A vague framework that describes their general direction but saves specific decisions for later in the process. It says Republicans will only use Social Security surpluses for the elderly, not for general tax cuts or spending; will reserve more money than Clinton for Social Security and Medicare, or debt reduction if the two programs are not overhauled; will obey spending limits from the 1997 budget-balancing law; will increase defense spending and cut taxes.

Q: If it is so vague, why is it important?

A: Because it makes several pivotal budgetary and political statements that are likely to be Republicans' marquee principles in this year's run-up to the 2000 elections. They want to be seen as a party that is protecting Social Security and Medicare and that wants to cut taxes and restrain spending. And by promising to not use Social Security funds for tax cuts, they want to immunize themselves against Democratic accusations that Republicans want to take away money from senior citizens and use it to cut rich peoples' taxes.

Q: Can they do all that?

A: That is one of the key questions. Take their promise to live within spending caps set by the 1997 budget deal. For fiscal 2000, which begins Oct. 1, that agreement would hold discretionary spending to $536 billion, nearly one-third of the overall budget. Discretionary spending covers defense and domestic programs, but excludes automatically paid benefits like Medicare and payments to federal debt holders.

That $536 billion is a lot of money, but about $25 billion less than is being spent this year. Factor out one-time 1999 emergencies and it's still about $15 billion short. And then there are the billions extra both parties want to spend on defense and education.

Q: So will they keep spending within the $536 billion limit?

A: Republican leaders insist they will find enough savings by cutting some programs, using unspent funds and even some of Clinton's proposals to reduce spending and raise some fees. Democrats — and many Republicans, usually in private — say inevitably, many programs would be cut so deeply that spending bills will either be rejected by the GOP-controlled Congress, or vetoed by Clinton.

And that could get Republicans precisely what they say they wish to avoid: A replay of last year's autumn spending showdown with Clinton, in which the president has most of the cards because a veto could cause a federal shutdown. As a result, many people from both parties think an agreement with Clinton to exceed the spending limits will be reached later in the year.

Q: Haven't Republicans successfully established themselves now as protectors of Social Security and Medicare?

Flu season worsening

ATLANTA (AP) — The nation's slow-starting flu season has gotten worse, with 43 states reporting widespread or regional flu activity, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

For the last three weeks of February, pneumonia- and influenza-related deaths were slightly higher than expected, the CDC reported.

For the week ending Feb. 27, such deaths accounted for 8.1 percent of the total deaths reported in 122 U.S. cities. The agency had expected a rate of 7.5 percent or less.

"We may have not yet seen the peak of influenza- or pneumonia-related deaths," said Dr. Carolyn Bridges of the CDC's Center for Infectious Diseases.

Arizona falls to Oklahoma

Top-seeded Wildcats lose 61-60 in final seconds

By The Associated Press
Once again, a highly seeded Arizona team was knocked out in the first round of the NCAA tournament.

Ryan Humphrey's tip-in with 21 seconds left lifted Oklahoma over the fourth-seeded Wildcats 61-60 Friday at the Midwest Regional in Milwaukee.

It was Arizona's fourth opening-round loss this decade to a big underdog. The Wildcats won the national title in 1997, but lost in the opening round as a No. 3 seed in 1992, No. 2 seed in 1993 and No. 5 seed in 1995.

"I want to make one thing clear: This group of seniors is 11-3 in the NCAA tournament," coach Lute Olson said. "They can't do anything about what happened eight years ago or four years ago."

There was confusion about the winning basket.

After Eric Martin missed a 3-pointer for 13th-seeded Oklahoma (21-10), Eduardo Najera followed with a layup attempt. While Najera says his shot was good, Humphrey admits he got a hand on it, and it was Humphrey who got credit for the basket in the official play-by-play.

ERIC MARTIN
Oklahoma University

"It was coming out and I might have had a fingertip on it," Humphrey said. "As long as we won, that's the only thing that matters."

Arizona's Jason Terry thought Humphrey touched the ball on the rim and should have been called for offensive goaltending.

"He did touch the ball, but that's just something that happens," Terry said. "It was definitely goaltending, but it wasn't called, so I guess not."

Arizona (22-7) had a final chance, but Terry missed a fallaway 10-footer with three seconds left. Richard Jefferson then missed a tip-in, got the rebound and missed another shot as he fell in the lane at the buzzer.

Michigan St. 76, Mount St. Mary's 53

A.J. Granger scored 15 points as top seed Michigan State won its 19th straight game by routing the smallest school in the NCAA tournament.

Mount St. Mary's (15-15), a school of 1,309 students in central Maryland, stayed with the Spartans (30-4) until Andre Hutson's basket and Granger's 3-pointer gave Michigan State a 38-24 half-time lead.

Mississippi 72, Villanova 70

Jason Harrison, the tiniest player on the team, made two clutch free throws, and Mississippi was able to hold off Villanova.

It was the first NCAA tournament victory for ninth-seeded Mississippi (20-13), which had lost in the first round four times. The victory, and those by Kentucky and Tennessee, completed an unprecedented 6-0 run through the first round by Southeastern Conference teams.

Marcus Hicks led the Rebels with 21 points. Malik Allen led Villanova (21-11) with 19, and Howard Brown added 17.

Kentucky 82, New Mexico St. 60

Kentucky's Heshimu Evans scored nine points during a 21-0 second-half run as the defending national champions (26-8) shook off inexperienced New Mexico State.

Evans finished with 15 points and Wayne Turner had 14 points for the Wildcats.

Local racers run course in annual Canadian sand drags

The thrill of racing super modified trucks through the sandy river terrain of Canadian River is more than a hobby for the Hastings family of Hereford.

It's a ritual. "We have a lot of fun at it, and it's something we do as a family," Gloria Hastings said. "My dad got us started in it, and now it's just a part of who we are."

The Hastings racing team, composed of Jim, Sammy, Gloria, Salina and Ray Hastings; Patricia Lopez, Lucy Hastings-Reyes and Rey Reyes of Loreland, Colorado proved themselves as formidable adversaries in the 26th Annual Canadian River Sand Drags held recently.

The local sand diggers took three first place finishes, four second place finishes and four third place finishes.

In men's competition, Ray Hastings raced an '81 Chevy in the super stock modified class to earn a second place finish.

Rey Reyes took third in the super stock modified class with his '74 Chevy.

Gloria Hastings raced a '77 Ford and placed second in experimental, second in

Lakers down Warriors

Walk off with 10th straight win

By CHRIS SHERIDAN

AP Basketball Writer

Glen Rice entered the game to a standing ovation, and the Los Angeles Lakers walked off with their 10th straight victory.

Rice scored 21 points in his Los Angeles debut as the Lakers defeated the Golden State Warriors 89-78 Friday night, keeping Kurt Rambis perfect as coach.

"When you look from the outside, you see how talented this team is and now I'm on the inside, and it's scary," Rice said. "It feels like they have a lot of confidence in me and I have to get ready to go for them."

Rambis has presided over nine straight wins since replacing Del Harris on Feb. 26, equalling the mark for best record to start a coaching career. Buddy Jeannette also won nine straight with the Baltimore Bullets in 1947.

Rice shot 8-of-21 in his first game of the season. He hadn't played since undergoing elbow surgery Jan. 22.

"That's amazing for someone to step in and hit the shots that he did and be able to even get up and down the court after having all that time off," Rambis said. "Even the shots he misses, you think they are going to go in. If he gets in a little bit better shape, those shots will go in."

In other NBA games, Utah defeated Portland 91-77, Philadelphia outlasted New Jersey 100-93 in overtime, Indiana beat Milwaukee 109-104, Minnesota downed Sacramento 101-95, San Antonio nipped Phoenix 99-97, Charlotte beat Washington 93-83, Chicago trounced New York 76-63 and Detroit beat Boston 92-83.

Shaquille O'Neal had 20 points and matched his season high with 17 rebounds and Kobe Bryant added 18 points for the Lakers.

Dennis Rodman injured his right elbow in the second quarter and didn't return after grabbing three rebounds in eight minutes. He said he has tendinitis in the elbow and asked Rambis to rest him.

Rodman offered mixed reviews on the Charlotte trade. "Everybody loved Eddie Jones and everybody wanted to get rid of Elden Campbell, so it is kind of like 50-50. In some ways we should not have, but in others we should have. So far, so good."

Jazz 91, Trail Blazers 77

Utah (16-4) reclaimed the best record in the league from Portland (15-4).

Karl Malone had 21 points and nine rebounds and Bryon Russell added 19 points and eight rebounds as the Jazz bounced back from last week's mistake-filled loss to the Blazers.

JA bison herd represents Southern Plains history-on-the hoof

Imagine, riding your pony alongside an imposing quarry--the largest terrestrial mammal in North America--and attempting to bring it down with a bow of horn and cedar arrows, or a lance.

Pretty dicey, hunting the great buffalo in the manner of the American Indians or the Mexican ciboleros.

Buffalo bulls reach a length of 10.5 to 12 feet and cows eight to ten feet. Mature bulls can weigh 1,800 to 2,010 pounds, and cows 700 to 900 pounds.

A big bull can stand six feet at the top of his hump. Their short, narrow-tipped black horns that curve upward, then inward, can span three feet, and are wicked hooking weapons.

Though huge, bison can run from 30 to 60 miles an hour, and can jump six-foot fences. With their burly shoulders and shaggy manes, they go through obstacles, rather than around.

Once they roamed the Southern High Plains of Texas by the millions...Now, a mere 57 buffalo of the great Southern Plains herd remain in Texas.

These few shaggies are a relic of history--standing in brawny defiance of the worst efforts of the Anglo-American hide hunters to exterminate them from Texas.

Thirty-one buffalo, mostly descendants of animals saved by 19th Century legend Charles Goodnight, are now at home at Caprock Canyons State Park at Quitaque, forming the official state bison herd.

A marathon project relocated these animals from the JA ranch near Claude to Caprock Canyons. A four-month undertaking was involved to corral, tranquilize, and transport these powerful beasts in order to preserve a bit of Southern Plains history.

It was a commendable--though not uncontroversial--commitment of money and manpower on the part of Texas Parks & Wildlife Department Executive Director Andrew Sansom. Nobody can say Andy doesn't have a sense of the role of these animals in Texas history.

The Sportsman's Den

By Jim Steiert

"Of all the bison alive today, the JA Ranch herd is uniquely important because they have been kept isolated where they were caught in the 1870s and not cross-bred with other bison. They are a priceless piece of our Texas heritage," says Sansom.

Many of the JA animals have been confirmed as pure wild bison through DNA testing. TP&WD is hopeful that in the next few decades it can obtain access to enough land within the bison's historical Panhandle range to allow developing a herd of several hundred animals that can be allowed to range free in a native prairie ecosystem.

My friend Wyman Meinzer of Benjamin, an internationally-known wildlife photographer, is also an authority on the history and tactics of buffalo hunters of the Southern Plains.

Wyman sees the re-located JA herd as not only a genuine state treasure, but a chance to get an up-close-and-personal look at a link with a timeless wildlife heritage.

"It's a real tribute to the Southern Plains buffalo that such a commitment of money and manpower has been made to preserve a living part of history, and a valuable gene pool. It excites your imagination to think of Southern Plains buffalo one day roaming free again across their native range in the Panhandle-Plains.

"This is something I can spiritually connect with. I can look at these animals and realize the primitive power they represent--power you just don't see in any kind of domestic livestock. Watching them, you can imagine a time when they roamed in herds of hundreds of thousands. These animals are direct descendants of those vast herds that were the mainstay of Indian tribes and the focus of military strategy in the Plains," says Wyman.

Wyman says shaggies aren't the plodding, stupid beasts portrayed in some circles.

"Buffalo are incredibly agile for their size and bulk--true athletes. Their rocking gate is deceptive--They strategize--and remember. I've seen an old bull get stirred-up over something and he would stand and paw the ground for a day and remain perturbed over it.

"It's an incredible opportunity, being able to preserve a piece of history like this. Sometimes, there comes an opportunity to step up and do the right thing, and preserving this buffalo herd is one of them...My hat's off to Andy Sansom and his decision to save this buffalo herd. It's a good step on the road toward our finally learning to quit letting money issues stand in the way of saving a species, or being kind to one another."

At Caprock Canyons, the public will be able to learn more about the historical role of the bison in Texas, and prairie conservation.

TP&WD plans a rich visitor program interpreting the ecology of the Plains bison and their relationship with the native tribes, featuring signs, exhibits, and an observation area for park visitors to see the wild bison...Sort of a history lesson on-the-hoof...

12 rebounds and blocked Washington's last-second shot.

Washington (17-12) scalped a timeout with 23.2 seconds left with a chance to set up for a potential game-winning shot. The Huskies couldn't get the ball to Donald Watts, who finished with 28 points, and Greg Clark's shot was blocked by Szczerbiak, who sank five 3-pointers for Miami (23-7).

Utah 80, Arkansas State 58
Alex Jensen had 18 points and 11 rebounds to lead second-seeded Utah to its 23rd straight victory.

Utah (28-4), which has never lost an NCAA first-round game under coach Rick Majerus, outrebounded the Indians 40-24 and wore them down in the second half. Arkansas State (18-12) shot 42 percent in the first half but missed 10 of its first 13 shots in the second half.

Kansas 95, Evansville 74
T.J. Pugh had 45 points and 10 rebounds, and sixth-seeded Kansas dominated the boards against Evansville.

Kansas (23-9) outrebounded Evansville 45-15 and shut down the Aces' high-scoring offense in the second half. Evansville hit only 37 percent from the field after halftime, including 4-of-12 from 3-point range. Marcus Wilson led Evansville (23-10) with 34 points on 13-of-19 shooting, but he didn't get much support from his teammates.

EAST

At Charlotte
Duke 99, Florida A&M 58
Duke, the prohibitive favorite to win the national championship, began its quest for the title with a rout of Florida A&M.

The Blue Devils (33-1) shot 66 percent in the first half and extended their school-record winning streak to 28. Florida A&M (12-19) was the only squad in the 64-team field with a losing record.

Tulsa 62, Charleston 53
The College of Charleston's string of 25 consecutive victories came to an end, with Tulsa building a 26-point lead, then holding on.

The Golden Hurricane (23-9) turned it over on six consecutive possessions, helping fuel a 25-1 run by Charleston that cut the Cougars' deficit to 53-51 with 3:20 left before Tulsa steadied itself. Michael Ruffin, Brandon Kurtz and Tony Heard had 11 points apiece for the Golden Hurricane. Sedric Webber had 15 points for Charleston (28-3).

Tennessee 62, Delaware 52
Tennessee overcame a miserable offensive start to win its first NCAA tournament game in 16 years and snap Delaware's 13-game winning streak.

The game was an offensive nightmare for both clubs. Neither team shot better than 33 percent and they combined for 37 turnovers. Tennessee (21-8) missed 17 of its first 20 shots, but managed to win its first NCAA tournament game since 1983 because Delaware (25-6) shot a season-low 28.3 percent.

SW Missouri St. 43, Wisconsin 32
Southwest Missouri State held Wisconsin to the lowest point total in an NCAA tournament game since the introduction of the shot clock in 1986.

Danny Moore had 12 points and 13 rebounds for the Bears, (21-10), who got their first victory ever against a Big Ten team and their first NCAA tournament victory since 1987. Wisconsin (22-10) scored only 12 points in the first half and shot 26 percent from the field for the game.

At Boston
Purdue 58, Texas 54
Low-scoring Cameron Stephens hit a jumper with 4.8 seconds remaining as Purdue overcame a strong game by 7-foot Chris Mihm, who had 21 points and 14 rebounds.

Stephens, averaging just 3.3 points, took a pass from Tony Mayfield and made just his second basket of the game.

Tenth-seeded Purdue (20-12), which had lost five of its previous six games, got 18 points from Jaraan Cornell.

Texas' Chris McColpin reaches for the ball handled by Purdue's Jaraan Cornell.

Cincinnati 72, George Mason 48

Pete Mickeal scored 18 points and Cincinnati held George Mason to its worst shooting game of the season.

Cincinnati (27-5) took control over the last 10 minutes of the first half, using a 26-6 run to take a 41-17 lead. Jason Miskiri scored 13 points for George Mason (19-11), which had its 10-game winning streak snapped.

Temple 61, Kent 54
Rasheed Brokenborough and Pepe Sanchez each scored 15 points as Temple beat Kent.

the stretch," Malone said. "But tonight, our bench kept us alive all the way, and we played like the Western Conference champions."

It was the Blazers' first home loss in 10 games this season. Portland had won eight in a row and five of six against Utah.

76ers 100, Nets 93, OT
At Philadelphia, Stephon Marbury sat on the sideline in street clothes, unable to play for New Jersey because the three-team trade that sent him to the Nets was not finalized.

Allen Iverson, after getting a reprimand from his teammates for missing practice, had five of his 28 points in overtime as the Sixers rallied for the victory.

Marbury put on a virtual one-man motivational show in the locker room after the game, getting in the faces of several of his new teammates and shouting words of encouragement.

"I want to win," said Marbury, who signed a $70.9 million contract earlier in the day. "When you win, you do what it takes. They don't look at it like I'm jumping down their throat. They know I just want to win."

Pacers 109, Bucks 104
At Indianapolis, Milwaukee coach George Karl was ejected in the third quarter after picking up two technicals, the second coming when he charged referee Derek Richardson while the Pacers were putting together a 15-5 run that put them in control.

Glenn Robinson led Milwaukee with 30 points, and Reggie Miller had 22 for Indiana. Both teams had six players in double figures, and Indiana shot a season-high 60 percent to snap Milwaukee's six-game winning streak.

Timberwolves 101, Kings 95
Kevin Garnett had 26 points and 17 rebounds as Minnesota, playing without Terrell Brandon, never trailed at Sacramento.

Anthony Peeler finished with 20 points and Bobby Jackson had 15 points and nine assists. Jason Williams scored 17 points for the Kings.

Spurs 99, Suns 97
At Phoenix, Sean Elliott hit a 21-foot jumper at the buzzer as the Spurs won their sixth straight.

Tim Duncan scored 26 points for San Antonio, which hadn't won in Phoenix since a Christmas Day victory in 1995.

Tom Gugliotta scored a season-high 33 points for the Suns, who lost for the fifth time in seven games.

Hornets 93, Wizards 83
David Wesley scored a season-high 23 points on 9-for-15 shooting, and Eddie Jones, acquired two days earlier in major trade with the Lakers, scored eight of his 14 points in the third quarter for Charlotte.

The Hornets, winning only their second road game in 10 attempts this year, rallied from a nine-point fourth-quarter deficit by ending the game with a 24-6 run.

Bulls 76, Knicks 63
New York made just 19 baskets, tying the NBA record-low set by Utah against San Antonio in 1997 and by Indiana at New York in 1985.

The Knicks had only 33 points entering the fourth quarter at Chicago, then scored 30 in garbage time.

Pistons 92, Celtics 83
Grant Hill scored 13 of his 33 points in the fourth quarter to lead Detroit past visiting Boston.

Detroit, which got 18 points from Jerry Stackhouse, led by 13 points in the third quarter and then trailed by as many as seven in the fourth before Hill took over.

Booker takes four-stroke lead in Honda Classic

CORAL SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Eric Booker figures the fans will be rooting for him in the final two rounds of the Honda Classic. After all, he's an underdog.

"If it was me and Nick Price coming down 18 on Sunday, I think they'd rather see me win this," Booker said. "Because Nick Price is a millionaire, and I'm not."

Booker is the newest name to surface atop a PGA leader board. The 35-year-old tour rookie took a 4-shot advantage into today's third round, shooting a 6-under-par 66 Friday for a two-round total of 13-under 131.

"There's going to be the question of how this Booker guy is going to play on the weekend," he said. "I'm kind of curious myself."

Odds are the winner will come not from golf's who's who, but from the list of who's he. Tied for second at 135 were three players with no better name recognition than Booker:

— Doug Dunaway, another 35-year-old tour rookie, whose 65 was the best score in the second round;

— Dicky Pride, who lost his tour card for two years and missed five consecutive cuts before this week;

— Bradley Hughes, a former Australian Rules Football player.

First-round leader Hal Sutton shot a 1-over 73 and was six shots behind at 137. Payne Stewart was also at 137 after shooting 67, and defending Masters and British Open champion Mark O'Meara shot 70-138.

Booker qualified for the tour by finishing fourth on the 1998 Nike Tour, then started this year by missing the cut in his first four tournaments.

But the TPC at Heron Bay

— a flat, open, windswept course nestled against the Everglades — has been to his liking. He opened with a 65 and continued his birdie binge in the second round, finishing before the wind picked up.

"Somebody has to win the tournament," he said. "It might as well be me."

Booker's best putt of the day was a 30-footer, downhill with a 3-foot break for a birdie on No. 7. Two holes later, he chipped from a bunker to within four inches for another birdie.

During his five years as a teaching pro, Booker traded golf lessons for karate lessons, learning from a 5-foot-6 former Olympic champion.

White House officials are denying reports first lady Hillary Clinton did not make the swing through Latin America and to Arkansas with President Clinton because of marital problems.

Discord?

White House insists Hillary has bad back; it's not spat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Was it a bad back that kept Hillary Rodham Clinton home? Or was something else bothering the first lady? Fox News reported this week that Mrs. Clinton decided not to accompany President Clinton to Central America because of a disagreement — not the officially cited reason of an aggravated back injury. The report was denied by Marsha Berry, the first lady's spokeswoman and was disparaged by Joe Lockhart, Clinton's press secretary. Clinton, chatting with a few reporters Tuesday night, said his wife, even in pain, probably would have joined him on the Central America trip to view damage from Hurricane Mitch, but she didn't want to risk "completely ruining her back for Africa." The first lady and the Clintons' daughter are scheduled to leave March 20 for a tour of Tunisia, Egypt and Morocco. "Those who deal with this sort of rumor and gossip and innuendo should go back to journalism school and do a little more work," Lockhart said. Berry called the speculation "not true." "She wanted to rest up so she could go (to Africa)," Berry said.

WTRT accepting applications for scholarships until April 12

Special to The Brand

Applications for West Texas Rural Telephone scholarships will be accepted until April 12. The scholarships will be awarded in May.

Scholarships are open only to students whose parents or guardians are WTRT members, or to students who are WTRT members themselves. Applicants must also be either high school seniors who are candidates for graduation this spring, have completed high school, or have received their GED.

The 1999 scholarships are open only to eligible, qualified applications from the Hereford, Friona, Bovina, Farwell, Lazbuddie, Dimmitt, Adrian, and Vega school districts. Scholarship monies will be disbursed in increments per semester.

An official application form, accompanied by two letters of recommendation, must be submitted. One of the letters of recommendation must be from a teacher, principal, or counselor from the high school that the applicant is currently attending, or attended.

In Hereford, applications may be picked up only at the WTRT offices on U.S. Highway 385 South.

Applications and rules may be picked up at the high school counselor's offices in Friona, Bovina, Lazbuddie, Farwell, Dimmitt, Adrian and Vega.

To be considered, applications must be fully completed, have no attachments other than the two required letters of recommendation, and must be received at the offices of WTRT, Box 1737, Hereford 79045, no later than April 12.

Applicants may be asked to attend an interview at the discretion of the WTRT board.

Mechanics of the scholarships include the following:

- WTRT scholarships may be used at any state or church-sponsored college or university, or at any accredited vocational or technical school.

- Recipients must maintain a minimum of 12 credited hours throughout each semester, or have full-time student status at vocational or trade schools.

WTAMU, other Texas schools ease process for admissions

Special to The Brand

CANYON — Applying for admission to a Texas public university has never been easier for students, thanks to a common application now being used for the Fall 1999 semester by West Texas A&M University and all of the state's other public universities.

It is hoped that the convenience of completing and submitting copies of the same application, instead of having to complete a separate application for each of the state's 35 public universities, will encourage many students to take the steps necessary to begin college or to continue work on a four-year degree.

Legislation sponsored by Sen. Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, in 1997 directed the creation of the common application. An advisory committee to the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board developed two versions, one for first-time freshman and one for transfer students. Directors of admission of public universities from across the state serve on the committee.

"WT accepts both of the common applications and the WT application for admission, but we don't require all sections of the common application to be filled out," Lise Blakenship, WTAMU enrollment management, said.

Approximately 600,000 copies of the common application have been mailed since August 1998 to high schools and community colleges throughout the state. Students may request a copy from their academic counselor at those institutions or print a copy from the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board's web site at www.thecb.state.tx.us (click on "Starting Points for Students," then click on "Common Application for Texas Students").

The common application may also be completed and submitted electronically to one or more public universities in the state. The Internet address is www.applytexas.org. The availability of an electronic version of the State of Texas Common Application adds a whole new dimension to the process of applying for university admission in Texas. Thousands of electronic applications have already been received by the state's public universities.

Development, growth are RAIN goals

By Becky Thorn
Hereford Brand Lifestyles Editor

Just like the rain that falls helps the crops to sprout and grow, the goal of RAIN is to help local businesses develop and grow.

RAIN is the Rural Assistance and Innovation Network, a micro enterprise program of the Promised Land Network.

"We are a non-profit, voluntary group of small business owners and folks interested in starting their own businesses and we are working together to help our businesses compete and prosper," Henry Reid, secretary of RAIN, said.

Other officers in the association are Alan Birkenfeld, chairperson; Mike McManigal, vice chairperson; Mike Schueler, treasurer; and Lydia Villanueva and Carolyn Kollin, public relations.

The first priority of RAIN, according to Reid, is to provide quality small business development assistance and training to individuals in Deaf Smith and adjoining counties.

This training may deal with such areas of business as insurance, market research and forecasting, business plan development, loan packaging, personnel issues, advertising and sales, marketing, book-keeping, business accounting, computer applications, legal issues, credit counseling, expansion and franchising.

The second objective of RAIN, as explained in its by-laws, is "to incorporate innovative peer lending to help participants get out of poverty through a combination of personal skills training, training to develop a business, and access to capital."

In some cases the small business may provide only a partial income for a family, not its sole livelihood. Even if the business generates only 20 percent of the total family income, this will improve the economics of the family and, ultimately, the community.

"Although most of our members become involved because of the opportunity to secure funds for their business, they soon realize that the networking opportunities, business training and caring support they receive are even more important to their long-term success," Reid said.

Help for small businesses is available through the Rural Assistance and Innovation Network (RAIN). The micro enterprise program sponsored a series of workshops recently providing information on vital business skills. Assisting with the workshops was Don Taylor, left, director of the Small Business Development Center at West Texas A&M University. Congratulating him on a successful workshop is local business woman Joyce Stevens.

Active membership in the association is open to any existing business or any person who intends to start up a new small business in the future.

Small businesses are redefined as sole proprietorships, partnerships, or family businesses with fewer than 10 employees, other than immediate family.

Associate memberships are designated as "Friends" of RAIN. These are individuals or companies that may designate representatives who desire to belong to the association but are not actively involved in a small business.

"We have already had considerable support from some of those who are 'Friends,' such as FirstBank Southwest, HCR Real Estate, Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union, Hereford Senior Citizens Center, San Jose Catholic Church and Don Taylor, and we want them to know how much this means to the success of RAIN and the development of local businesses," Reid said.

RAIN has just completed a series of workshops, in association with the WTAMU Small Business Development Center, to help local businessmen and potential businessmen learn vital business skills.

"We plan to continue to offer this kind of expert assistance to our members in the future," Reid said. "We will bring in outside sources and we will use local experts to address questions from the membership."

One objective of RAIN is to have funds available to make loans to new and existing businesses. The association by-laws provide strict guidelines for the amount that can be borrowed, the number of loans, the terms of repayment and interest rates.

The loan fund account has been established as a revolving account which will continue to provide funds for small businesses needing start-up loans or existing businesses needing expansion loans.

"In general, loan amounts are from $1,000 to $2,500 and must be repaid in 12 months," Reid said. "Most payments are required to be made monthly, but loans for agricultural production may be set up to be repaid at the end of the growing season instead of monthly."

A specified amount of training is also required before a loan application will be considered in order for the applicant to acquire the necessary skills to operate a business.

At meetings of RAIN, which are on the second Tuesday of each month, members will be able to discuss their problems with a group of their own peers and receive support, assistance and hopefully, solutions, according to Reid.

"It has taken two full years and the help of many devoted individuals and businesses to bring this association into existence," Reid said. "Associations like this one have helped small businesses thrive by providing networking, business training, loans, monitoring, and technical assistance."

"We want to collaborate and cooperate with other groups in developing this long-range approach to creating a better economic climate for ourselves and our community."

Winners selected in cultural arts contest

Deaf Smith County Family Community Education clubs held their annual Cultural Arts Contest recently at Hereford Community Center.

The county winners will proceed on with their entries to the District competition which culminates at the Borger spring FCE meeting to be held March 30.

The contestants and their placings include:

Mariette Smith, Ford FCE, 1st in Photography.
Mary Brozman, Ford FCE, 1st in Fiber Arts.
Eileen Covington, Westway FCE, 1st in Handstitchery and 2nd in Fiber Arts.

Carol Hartman, Wyche FCE, 2nd in Handstitchery.
Katherine Paschel, Ford FCE, 1st and 2nd in Wearable Arts.
Loretta Urbancayk, Ford FCE, 1st in Decorated Garment.

Judging the event were Joan Womble and Dorothea Prowell. The competition allows FCE club members to showcase their creative talents in county, district and state events during the year.

Participants sought for pageants

Registration will open Monday for those interested in competing in the Little Miss Hereford and the Miss Hereford pageants, according to a spokesperson for the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Pageants have tentatively been scheduled for early June.

Registration forms are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main.

Age divisions for the Little Miss Hereford pageant are Cutest Miss-preschool and kindergarten; Miss Petite-first, second and third graders; Little Princess-fourth, fifth and sixth graders; and Junior Miss-seventh, eighth and ninth graders. There is a $10 registration fee.

Young ladies ages 16 to 21 are eligible to compete in the Miss Hereford scholarship pageant. Contestants vie for scholarships and prizes as they compete in casual wear, formal wear, interview and talent categories.

"We hope that any girls interested in competing in either pageant will complete registration forms and turn them in as soon as possible. This will assist us in finalizing plans for the pageants," Gail Richardson, pageant co-chairman, said.

Completed forms should be returned to the chamber office. Registration deadline is April 30.

Solomon named TOPTEx sweetheart

Anna Solomon has been named the TOPTEx Square and Round Dance Association Sweetheart for 1999.

She received this honor at the TOPTEx Sweetheart dance held recently at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Solomon served as sweetheart for the Silhouettes Round Dance Club for 1998, after being chosen by the members of the club.

To earn the association sweetheart honor, Solomon had to meet a number of qualifications. After being chosen as sweetheart of her club, she earned points by attending association dances throughout the year, seeing that the association banner was displayed and encouraging members to attend dances.

Solomon

Merry Mixers Square Dance Club lessons four years ago and have held many offices in the local club. The past year they served as vice president for the TOPTEx association.

They are also members and officers of the Funtime Rounders Round Dance Club and the Silhouettes Round Dance Club in Amarillo. They have completed basic round dance lessons and a set of intermediate round dance lessons.

They assist with the Panhandle Whirlwind, the newsletter of the TOPTEx association.

Driver. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white Italian matte satin featuring a deep scooped neckline which was accented with a narrow banding of satin with pearl and crystal beading.

Narrow banding also accented the A-line, empire skirt and flowed from the empire waist to the back of the skirt, cascading down to edge the chapel train which was attached to a petite bow bustle.

The bride's multilayered headpiece of white tulle was attached to a white headband embellished with beads and lace.

She carried a hand-tied bouquet of white calla lilies and cascade of white roses with baby's breath.

Bridal attendants wore A-line, princess style periwinkle dresses with a satin bodice, spaghetti straps, Sabrina neckline and crepe skirt. They carried small, hand-tied bouquets of spring flowers.

The couple was honored with a reception at St. Anthony's School.

Assisting with the reception were Katie Huffaker, Christie Smith, Shannon Wallace and Emily Betzen. Sunceray Chamblee, cousin of the bride, was at the registration table.

Following a wedding cruise in the Virgin Islands, the couple will be at home in Canyon.

The bride graduated from West Texas A&M University with a BA in marketing. She is marketing director for Open Air MRI of Amarillo.

The bridegroom also graduated from WTAMU with a BS in agriculture business and economics. He is employed as research agronomist at Garrison and Townsend, Inc.

May wedding planned in Breckenridge, Colo.

John and Elaine De Jager of Grand Rapids, Mich., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sandra Lynn, to Brett Allen Confer of Breckenridge, Colo., son of Bill and Pat Confer of Hereford.

The couple plans to be married May 15 in Breckenridge.

The bride-elect spent 10 years in Nigeria, Africa, with her family as missionaries with the Christian Reformed Church. She graduated from South Christian High in Grand Rapids in 1990.

Her BA degree in sociology is from Calvin College in Grand Rapids. She is currently employed at Kilwins in Breckenridge.

The prospective bridegroom moved from Colorado to Hereford with his family in 1984. He is a 1990 graduate of Hereford High School and a Texas Tech graduate with a Bachelor of Architecture degree. He has worked for John Gunson and Associates for the last four years and is currently employed with Zehren and Associates in Avon., Colo.

Education Roundup

By Carolyn Waters

"Don't make me come down there." - God... from a billboard on I-35 near I-20. (One of a series of 100 to appear in the Dallas area.) Congratulations to Clayton Patton who will join 100 other Geography Bee winners on the TCU Campus in Fort Worth on April 8 and 9 for the state level of the National Geography Bee. Clayton works on the computer, studies notes, atlases and geography books to prepare for this event. Clayton is a seventh grader at HJH.

While visiting in the Denton ISD schools, I noticed the following message posted in hallways and classrooms:

Education is my opportunity,
Studying is my responsibility,
Achievement is my reward.

This message would be good for any campus in any school district. The term responsibility is one of the keys to success. When our students are not taught to be responsible for their actions, discipline problems will take precious time from education for all students.

Students and faculty will enjoy a week's vacation from school this week due to annual spring break. If we do not lose time for "snow days," the next break from the school routine will be a long weekend for Easter, which is the first weekend in April.

Parents, perhaps you could find time during the spring break to do an activity with your children that would mean so much to you, your children and everyone around you. This activity is to teach or to reinforce the importance of these words: Please and Thank You... Hearts, like doors, will open with ease... to very little keys. Always remember that two of these are "Thank you, sir" and "if you please" (and thanks to those who have already done so).

At least twenty-eight staff members of HISD have chosen to take the retirement incentive that the district has offered. There will be several others who will leave the district due to moves from the district, transfers by spouses, or other job opportunities.

"If you find a path with no obstacles, it probably does not lead anywhere."

Genealogy society to meet

The Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the game room of Hereford Community Center.

After a business meeting led by president L.J. Clark, a surprise program will be introduced by program chairman Donita Rule.

Everyone is welcome to attend and bring a friend.

New Arrivals

Tracy and Shelia Straughan are the proud parents of a son, Brady Rance, born March 8 in Baptist St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

He weighed 7 pounds, 3 ounces and was 20 inches long.

Older brothers welcoming him home are Caleb, 8 and Hunter, 2.

Grandparents are Patsy Gresham of Friona and Charles and Joyce Straughan of Lubbock.

Hernandez, Fiedler united in marriage

Angle Jowell, Chad Smith

Delinda D. Hernandez and Shane Fiedler of Lubbock exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon in St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Lubbock.

The bride is the daughter of Dolores Hernandez of Hereford and Robert Hernandez of Borger.

Parents of the bridegroom are Sandy Fiedler of Amarillo and Jimmy Fiedler of Hobbs, N.M.

Father Jim O'Connor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Lubbock officiated.

Beatriz Parr of El Paso was matron of honor. Best man was Jeff Fiedler of Amarillo, brother of the groom.

Bridesmaids were Anjelique Castro of San Antonio, cousin of the bride; Michelle Rossman of Reno, Nev., cousin of the bride; Jennifer Gilbreath of Amarillo; and Kristy Turner and Melissa Platt, both of Canyon.

Serving as groomsmen were Chett Woodul of Lubbock, Jimmy Morgan of Argyle, Brent Hoak of Rowlett, Wade Hoak of Lubbock and James Massingill of Borger.

Guests were seated by David Jordan of Lubbock; Christopher Castaneda of Fort Worth, cousin of the bride; Michael Campos of Canyon, cousin of the bride; and Matt Justice of Lubbock.

Flower girls, both cousins of the bride, were Cassie Castaneda, daughter of Mrs. Conner Rendon of Amarillo, and Bailey Ledezma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ysabel Ledezma of Midland.

Brandon Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Hall of Amarillo, was ring bearer.

Readers were Gloria Garcia of Amarillo and Gabriella

Gamez of Austin.

Music was provided by Jimmy Exline and Gary Owen of Lubbock, Michelle Carter and Walker Carter of Slaton and Danny Pallanes of Hobbs.

The bride wore a formal white satin, A-line gown with an off-the-shoulder neckline edged with multiple rows of pearl beads. The empire bodice and short sleeves were covered with pearl beaded lace. The gown featured a court length, detachable train which descended from a satin bow covered with pearl beaded lace.

Her elbow length veil of tulle was attached to a pearl beaded headband.

She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses, baby's breath and greenery.

Bridal attendants wore cranberry A-line, ankle length dresses with two keyhole openings with bows in back.

The couple was honored with a reception at the Lubbock Club following the ceremony.

Assisting with the reception were Virginia Campos and Theresa Munoz of Hereford. Brenda Vargas of Sierra Vista, Ariz., registered guests.

The three-tiered bridal cake featured a cascade of fresh flowers from top to bottom.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter from a woman whose husband beat her up on the street in front of their house. She wanted to know why no one came to her aid when she screamed for help. Well, there are two sides to every story. I have a neighbor who has been beaten up and seriously injured by the man she lives with, and I no longer call the police.

The first time I heard her screaming, I almost broke my neck getting to the phone to call for help. Then, I knocked on her door, thinking my presence might prevent the situation from escalating. After the police came, she told them she didn't want to press charges, and that was the end of it.

The second time, I heard screaming and breaking glass, and I again called the police. They arrested the man and took my neighbor to the hospital, where she had her jaw rewired and several stitches on her forehead. She refused to press charges. The next morning, her "live-in" was back in the house. That very night, he threw her down the outside concrete steps (all 15 of them), and I called the police. The woman spent several weeks in the hospital with both legs in casts. Guess what. Her live-in picked her up from the hospital and brought her home. As soon as the casts were off, he beat her up again.

Now when she screams, I turn up the TV. The police are tired of coming, and I am tired of calling them. This woman needs help, but the police aren't the answer. Several neighbors have suggested that she get some counseling, but she insists that her boyfriend loves her and has promised it's going to get better. It's been nearly five years since I moved here. They are still together, and he is still beating her up. I am minding my own business. — Gave Up in Pennsylvania

Dear Penn.: In most cases of domestic abuse, alcohol or drugs play a big part. It's difficult to help people who refuse to help themselves, but please don't give up. Intervention by neighbors can save lives. I will continue to recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: You recently printed a letter from a bride who resented the fact that several uninvited people showed up at her wedding.

According to our priest, a wedding in a church is a religious event. The church is a public building, and anyone can attend a religious service there. If the wedding were in a home or private hall, it would be different. Most people do not know that church weddings are open to the public. Only the reception is private and requires an invitation.

Please tell your readers about this. — Mrs. B. in Dallas

Dear Mrs. B.: My pastor friends agree with you. People who have good manners, however, do not show up at a wedding without an invitation, no matter where it is.

Mrs. John Wendal Horak
...nee Shanon Guy

Marriage vows recited in Lubbock ceremony

Shanon Guy and John Wendal Horak were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony March 6 in St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church in Lubbock.

The bride is the daughter of Jainie and Eugene Zinser of Hereford and Peter Guy of Phoenix, Ariz.

Parents of the bridegroom are Patricia and Lawrence Horak of Grand Prairie.

Monsignor Jim Schwertner officiated at the ceremony.

Shambryn Wilson Huie of Beville was matron of honor. Best man was Nathan Coleman of Grand Prairie.

Bridesmaids were Karen Haley and Joanna Snider, both of Lubbock.

Serving as groomsmen were Bryan Hensley of Longview and Bryan Garvin of Austin.

Guests were seated by Cheney Bowen of Grand Prairie and Josh Rigsby of Lubbock.

Gifts for mass were brought by Judy and Ralph Detten and their granddaughter Jill Detten.

Flowers were designed by Mary Zinser and Judy Detten, aunts of the bride.

The unity candle was lighted by the mothers of the bride and groom.

Organist was Diana Detten of Hereford and vocalist was Misty Dudley of Amarillo, formerly of Hereford.

Given in marriage by her father, mother and stepfather, the bride wore an ivory gown featuring an off-the-shoulder neckline with heavy pearl beaded appliques that cascaded down the skirt. The detachable train carried out the pearl beaded appliques, attaching at the waist with lily-shaped flowers.

Her waist length veil of tulle was attached to a headband of satin roses.

She carried a bouquet of red roses and greenery attached to a white Bible.

Attendants wore royal blue, floor length dresses with a satin bodice, empire waist and chiffon skirt and chiffon drape which encircled arms and shoulders. They carried long stemmed crystalline roses and greenery tied with white, ivory and pink ribbons.

The couple was honored with a reception in St. Elizabeth's Hanley Hall following the ceremony.

Assisting with the reception were Lori Snider of Lubbock; Darcy Krtnich of Golden, Colo., cousin of the bride; and Shirley Wilson of Hereford.

The table was covered with a battenburg lace cloth and decorated with various sizes of crystal bowls holding candles and intertwined with pearls and greenery.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School with honors and was listed in Who's Who. She is currently in her fourth year at Texas Tech University, majoring in elementary education. She is employed at the university.

The groom graduated from Grand Prairie High School with advanced honors and was in Who's Who for three years. He is in his fourth year at Texas Tech, majoring in restaurant, hotel and institutional management. He is employed by Silver Star Trucking in Lubbock.

Special guest was Eva Ellingsworth of Missouri, grandmother of the bride. Other out-of-state guests were from Colorado, Arizona and Missouri.

Olson, Pohlman to wed in Frio Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Olson of Hereford announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Moriah, to Scott Robert Pohlman of Norfolk, Neb., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pohlman.

The wedding date is June 12 in Frio Baptist Church.

The bride-elect graduated from Hereford High School in 1995. She is a candidate for May graduation from Texas A&M University with a degree in animal science.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Norfolk High School in 1993. He graduated from Texas Tech University in 1997 with a degree in animal science. He is currently employed by the University of Wyoming as meat science laboratory manager and meats judging team coach. He is pursuing graduate studies in meat science.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY GIRL SCOUTING

Friday was the official birthday of Girl Scouting. The first troop met on March 12, 1912. That makes us 87 years old.

The girls spent the day reacquainting themselves with Girl Scout ways and traditions, spending special time with their families, visiting and telephoning other Girl Scouts and sharing how they live by the Girl Scout Law.

Some of our traditions include:

The Girl Scout Sign--This is used whenever Scouts recite the Promise.

The Girl Scout Handshake--Used as another form of greeting which denotes friendliness and loyalty.

The Friendship Circle--Which stands for an unbroken chain of friendship with Girl Scouts and Girl Guides around the world.

The Girl Scout Slogan--"Do a good turn daily." This slogan has been in use since 1912. Today the slogan is a reminder of the many ways, both large and small, that girls can contribute to the lives of others.

The Girl Scout Motto--"Be prepared." The motto reminds girls to prepare themselves to give service to others, and to lead full, productive lives as citizens of America and the world.

Girls also ascribe to a special law, one we should all consider:

The Girl Scout Law--"I will do my best to be honest and fair, friendly and helpful, considerate and caring, courageous and strong, and responsible for what I say and do, and to respect myself and others, respect authority, use resources wisely, make the world a better place, and be a sister to every Girl Scout."

Over the past week we have offered a series of articles letting readers in the Hereford area know what we are doing, what we hope to do and who we are-- Girl Scouts.

Now we are making a plea to all adults (men and women) who share our values and ideals, who care about the future generations, and would like to be a part in making a difference to step forward and help.

We need more troop leaders in our community. Leaders meet with their troops once a week, they plan events and projects, they network with other leaders for support and ideas.

We need people who would like to volunteer occasionally to come speak to the girls about their special talents, careers and lives or teach a specific skill.

We are in desperate need of a service unit manager. This person will need to be organized and able to work with all the troop leaders to pull together and make a whole entity of our area.

If you feel a need to be part of something good, we need you.

For more information or to become a volunteer, please contact Denise Bertrand at 1-800-687-8740 or the Amarillo Council at 1-800-687-4475.

Red Cross Update

The board of directors of the Tri County Chapter will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 24 in the Red Cross office. All members are asked to attend.

March is National Red Cross month and as part of the month, the annual membership drive is underway. Volunteers and friends are asked to become members or renew their memberships. The membership fee helps support chapter activities. Call the Red Cross office for information. The phone number is 364-3761.

The chapter provides around-the-clock services to members of the military and their families. The messages we send from the chapter office help the service man or woman's commanding officer make the decision on that case. Some of the situations include a death or serious illness in the family, birth of a child or leave extensions. Call the office at 364-3761 for instructions for reaching an after-hours worker. If you have a relative in the military and would like to know more about this service, call or come by the office.

We have available a new brochure on being prepared in the event of problems on the new year, Y2K. We all need to take personal responsibility to learn more about the problems and take appropriate action.

Sally Walker, director of Hereford Food Pantry, thanks everyone for the wonderful response to the Scouts' Food Drive. The food pantry accepts food all year. The pantry is open on Monday and Friday afternoons.

Tornado season will soon be here and classes are being held for volunteers willing to help. The chapter has brochures and other information on disaster preparedness. Call the office for further information.

The Tri County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way agency.

Engagement announced

Michele Liston and Brant Lookingbill, both of Gruver, together with their parents and children, wish to announce their engagement.

The prospective bridegroom is the grandson of Eva Lookingbill of Summerfield.

The wedding will be May 15 in Summerfield Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Bradshaw

Amanda Marie Butler and Gary Bradshaw exchanged wedding vows Dec. 11 in the home of Foster and Marie Yeager, grandparents of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kindrick of Guymon, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Butler of Grapeland.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Caiden and Drucilla Simpson of Hereford.

Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Brandy Hefner and Brandi Holly served as bridal attendants. A.J. McIntosh of Guymon, was groomsmen.

At a reception following the ceremony, cake and punch were served to out-of-town guests Mrs. Eugene Kindrick and Shelly of Guymon and Hereford guests Foster and Marie Yeager, Phillis and Gabe Alvarado, Lois and Ted Richardson, Jim Beatrice, Justin and Brittany Bradshaw, Caiden and Drucilla Simpson and Mrs. Dennis Brito and Bucky.

The couple has made their home in Hereford.

YOUR EYES TAKE-TWO
Picture this scenario. You've just boarded a plane en route to London. You're about to start reading the 500-page bestseller you've been meaning to read for years. Suddenly, you jump up to get a handkerchief from the overhead and the next thing you know you've sat back down in your seat right on top of your glasses.
Nothing can spoil a vacation quite like breaking -- or losing -- a pair of glasses. Fortunately, there's a very simple solution to avoid having this happen to you. If you need glasses to see, to read or drive a car, simply take along an extra pair when you travel. If buying two pairs (or four pairs if you wear prescription sunglasses) sounds expensive, bear in mind that your backup pair need not cost as much as your main pair.
If you wear contact lenses, it's a good idea to take along a pair of emergency glasses as well.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

After Y2K: Business Trends in the New Millennium

If you believe the gloom-and-doomers, the world may end on January 1, 2000. However, there are a few of us who believe that businesses may actually survive without their faithful and trusty computers for a few hours. What then? What will the 21st century bring to American business owners after Y2K?

Let me jump start your thinking process with a few questions. Do you believe we'll see the demise of the small-business owner due to continued industry consolidation, merger mania and competitive attrition? Will all businesses move to electronic commerce? Who will be working? What will the next customer service fad be, and who will write the best book about it?

While I can't predict the future, I can tell you this: The coming 100 years will be the most interesting in your lifetime. Here are my thoughts on the future.

Pretty good bets

• We will survive the Y2K problem. Not without some glitches, but we will survive. My guess is that a few computer hardware and software companies will cash in their chips and leave the game. Others will spring up where the casualties left off.

• Entrepreneurs will set the pace. Big companies will start acting small in order to survive. "Business Week" reported in January that major corporations had reduced their workforces by 678,000 jobs in 1998. Yet the December 1998 unemployment rate hit a 28-year low at 4.3 percent. Who kept the unemployment numbers low? Entrepreneurs. Yes, small-businesses picked up the slack.

• Electronic commerce will flourish. The use of the Internet and the World Wide Web will continue to increase at significant rates. There are several reasons why. First, the information technology infrastructure is nearly in place. By some estimates, U.S. companies have poured nearly $2 trillion into information technology. Second, access, hardware, and software are becoming more affordable to U.S. consumers. Third, the biggest markets in U.S. history - the baby boomers and Generation X'ers - are driving on-line usage. Fourth, all businesses are the same size on-line. To me, these indicators point to increased Internet use, and more on-line commerce.

• Dollar bills will still be valid as spending money. A few years ago, electronic "smart-cards" were hyped as the "future of money." The only problem with the smart-card approach was that the futurists didn't factor in the resistance of two sets of players: Consumers and merchants. In addition to cash, credit cards will remain strong as a method for consumer payment. Checks will hang around a few more years, despite the nearly billion dollar loss bad check writers inflict on U.S. businesses each year.

• Service will continue to deteriorate. Don't look for miracles in this area. Most customers will expect less service and get it. A few will demand better service and pay for it. The business community will continue to promote customer service as a competitive advantage strategy. Speakers will continue to speak, writers will continue to write and business owners will take pride in their "above average" service programs. Customers will grow more sullen as service declines.

Who will write the new "service fad" book? Probably a "retired" NBA basketball coach whose team didn't make the playoffs or an American Airlines pilot home on sick leave. Both are focused on taking care of customers.

• Everyone will be working. A recent study by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) reported that 80 percent of the baby boomers surveyed planned to work after they retire. One in six plan to start a business after retirement. They may put in fewer hours and have lighter workloads, but still they will be working. And so will you and I.

Between the Covers

By Martha Russell

If you missed our annual open house, you missed a very enjoyable and informative evening. Jeni Hester took us on a tour of Columbia, South America; James and Sandy Rudd and their daughters were honored as the Family of the Year; and Helen Langley won the door prize, a Venezuelan nativity scheme. There was a good attendance, and "a good time was had by all."

'Tis the season. No, not Christmas, Time is flying fast, but not that fast. It's the season for several things, actually, not the least of which are all those scholarship and financial aid applications for college bound students. If you don't have, or have never had, a college student, you can't imagine how many forms, how many numbers, and how many phone calls it takes.

If you have become frustrated with the library's outdated scholarship books, take heart. We now have the 1999 versions of Peterson's College Money Handbook and Peterson's Scholarships, Grants, and Prizes. The College Money Handbook gives you a college-by-college run-down of expenses and available financial aid. The Scholarships, Grants, and Prizes book includes a CD which allows you to enter your specific information. Then it will search the database to find scholarships, etc. you may be eligible for.

We also have the five volume set of 1999 edition of The College Blue Book, which has a wealth of information about individual colleges, their particular degree programs, and all kinds of statistics. One of these volumes is entitled Scholarships, Fellowships, Grants, and Loans. The biggest plus for all these books is that they are the latest information available in book form.

Deaf Smith County Library also has several different study guides for the college bound student. There are all those test with initials for their names: ACT, SAT, TASP, etc. We have books to help improve scores on each of them.

It is also the season for sales. Whether you call them rummage sales, tag sales, garage sales, or yard sales, you find some really wonderful, and sometimes not-so-wonderful treasures. The Rummager's handbook: Finding, Buying, Cleaning, Fixing, Using, and Selling Secondhand Treasures by R. S. McClurg is a storehouse of practical tips and imaginative ideas for casual and compulsive rummagers.

Back when I had more time and energy for such pursuit, I found that my best strategy for getting bargains was to give my pre-schooler a dime and the article I wanted to buy. No one could resist those big blue eyes and the grubby little hand tightly clutching "all the money he had." My sons are now taller than I am. Somehow I don't think that plan will work anymore.

Bad Bet: The Inside Story of The Glamour, Glitz, and Danger of America's Gambling Industry by Timothy L. O'Brien is a comprehensive, hard-nosed investigation of America's largest entertainment business and a warning about the many dangers lurking behind its marketing glitz.

O'Brien takes us on an astounding around-the-country tour of the gambling business. An industry that thrives on the addiction of compulsive gamblers, gambling extends from the casinos, state lotteries, and sports betting, to the virtual casinos available in America's homes on the Internet.

Y2K: The Day the World Shut Down is a novel by Michael Hyatt and George Grant. When Bob Priam loses his job as Chief Information Officer of a Fortune 1000 company, he starts his own Y2K consulting firm. Soon he has more clients than he can handle and more money than he ever dreamed of.

In an effort to prepare for what his research tells him will be certain world disaster, Priam moves his family to a remote country farm house. Then his troubles really begin.

He is the only one with a possible solution to the embedded chip problem of Y2K. And somebody wants to take it from him in the worst way.

As the millennium draws to a close, markets crash, banks fold, and the world is thrown into panic. Priam retreats to his remote farmhouse in middle Tennessee, thinking his foresight has saved him and his family, only to find he hasn't prepared for the one thing he could never have anticipated.

In Dark Passage by Richard S. Wheeler, it is 1831 and Barnaby Skye, a deserter from the British Royal Navy and now a seasoned trapper in the Rocky Mountains, accompanies his Crow wife, Many Quill Woman - whom he calls Victoria - to her village on the Yellowstone. There Victoria succumbs to the entreaties of Jim Beckwourth, the much honored and wealthy war chief of the Crows, and accompanies him on a raid against the most feared of all the mountain tribes, the Blackfeet.

When Victoria is abducted by the Bloods, the deadliest band of Blackfeet, Skye trails her across the border into Canada, where he is still wanted for deserting his ship at Fort Vancouver four years ago.

Worse, Skye himself is taken prisoner by the Bloods, and in an ironic turnabout, it is Victoria who must now escape her captors to free the man she truly loves.

Crime of Silence by Patricia Carlson is the story of the kidnaping of Evan Kiley's toddler son, Robin, from their home in a small Australian city. Kiley turns on the Wintons, a well-to-do family whose small daughter was kidnaped a year or so earlier. The Wintons gave in to the demands of the kidnapers and paid the ransom without calling the police. Now the Kiley kidnaping has followed the same pattern as that of the Winton child.

Kiley says that had the Wintons contacted the police, the criminals would have been caught and Robin would have been spared. Winton feels guilty and agrees to help Kiley in his time of need. Gradually, the two men are drawn together in a plot to thwart the kidnapers and to get Robin back. But something goes wrong and a murder is committed.

American Legion celebrates 80th birthday; observance scheduled at post in Hereford

It was 80 years ago, some 439 men met in Paris, France, to set the stage and organize an "association" of veterans that would later be known as The American Legion.

The Paris Caucus was held March 15-17, 1919, while awaiting their return to the United States. These men of ability and achievement created something new in a military environment which proved them to be men of wisdom and vision.

Following the arrival of the "doughboys" in the United States, a caucus was held in St. Louis to further organize and confirm the architecture of the organization by selecting a name, adopting a constitution, electing officers and planning the first national convention, which was held Nov. 11, 1919, in Minneapolis.

The one memorable accomplishment of the Paris Caucus was a concise statement of the spirit of the new organization. "For God and country we associate ourselves together," the beginning statement of the preamble which expresses the purposes Legionaries have held dear for the past four generations.

Each year this event is remembered by the local Post and Auxiliary with a special observance. This year a dinner and program hosted by the Post and Unit will be held at the American Legion Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 16.

Special invitations have been extended to Dimmitt Post 445, Friona Post 206, Hart Post 311, Nazareth Post 528, Tulia Post 214 and Vega Post 168.

Zone commander, Jess Robinson, will preside at the business meeting.

Hereford Post and Unit will furnish the meat, dessert, bread and drink. Members are asked to bring vegetables and salads.

All Legionaries and Auxiliary members are urged to attend this 80th birthday celebration by Commander Grant Hanna and president Troyce Hanna.

There's more to the apple than commonly meets the eye

Bright-Red Delicious apples fall from consumer's grace as America's number one favorite.

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Consumers are complaining that the Red Delicious apple — the symbol of Washington's apple industry — too often is about as delicious as a wad of cotton.

Surveys initiated by the Washington Apple Commission suggest that many shoppers are not getting the crunchy, good apple they expect when they bite into a Red Delicious these days.

Many consumers say the apple's attractive, deep red color promises something tasty, but the inside disappoints. Taste and texture are inconsistent, too often on the bland and mushy side.

"This is candid feedback about our product. We can listen to it or not," said Steve Lutz, president of the commission. "The future of the Red Delicious is not over. But we better listen to what the consumers are saying." Lutz spoke at the 15th annual Washington Tree Fruit Post-harvest Conference and Trade Show, attended by more than 600 representatives of the fruit industry.

Red Delicious is still the top choice of shoppers across the country, according to the 1998 survey. Thirty-eight percent of respondents from 2,000 households said it was their favorite apple.

But it's also the variety that has experienced the biggest decline in sales. Consumers list crispness as the most important quality of a good apple.

"If they want soft, they'll buy a banana," Lutz said. Half of those surveyed said they would buy more apples if they knew they would be crisp.

The disparity between 38-percent public approval and an industry where half the crop is Red Delicious has been bad for the industry this year, said Ron Skagen, general manager of Wells and Wade Fruit Co.

"Consumers are increasingly dissatisfied with what we're delivering to them," said Skagen, who noted that returns are at their lowest in years. "Even the most successful Red Delicious growers are losing money."

While warehouses and growers have focused on putting a beautiful crimson apple on store shelves, they've lost ground on internal quality and taste. One recent study shows that some new strains have sacrificed taste to achieve the redder color, said Jim Mattheis, a USDA researcher.

The problem was obvious last year when a cool spring, a hot summer and a huge crop made it difficult to harvest the fruit and get both crispness and color. By the time most apples had turned fully red, they were overripe.

Lutz said no one in the survey even mentioned color as an important factor.

But fruit salesmen say that's not the reality they know. "Even though consumers may not mention color, color is huge," said Mike Saunders of Northwestern Fruit Co. in Yakima. Stores won't accept anything less than a fully red apple, he said.

Lutz said perhaps the time has come to promote quality over color.

"We're now spending 40 cents a box on advertising our apples," said Skagen. "It's going to be wasted money if we can't deliver the product we advertise."

Researchers offered these suggestions:

—Using hormonal sprays that can retard maturity until good color is achieved.

—Picking the crop at the right maturity for the market in which it will sell.

—Cooling the fruit as quickly as possible after harvest and keeping it cool throughout packing and storage.

—Considering controlled atmosphere storage for all apples that will be stored for more than 30 days.

California engineer develops interactive weather station

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — At first glance, Chris Peek doesn't look like he belongs in agriculture.

With a tuft of white hair protruding beneath his cap and thick glasses sitting precariously on his nose, he resembles more an absent-minded professor.

"I had no experience in agriculture. I couldn't grow grass on my lawn," Peek said, harking back to 1983, when he moved in a rented motor home from Andover, Mass., to Bakersfield.

But this 78-year-old engineer, who worked at GTE for decades, is beginning to make a name for himself in the heart of California's farm country.

In the last 16 years, Peek has been developing and marketing an interactive weather station, a long pole with an antenna and thermometer on top and a metal box and a solar panel below.

The design looks simple, but there's enough hardware inside to detect temperature, humidity, wind direction, the sun's radiation and rainfall. It stands 35 feet tall and is powered by batteries recharged by solar cells.

But it's not his weather station that sets Peek apart from others who record climate information for farmers.

Peek provides an Internet home page where growers can get real-time information on such requirements as when to irrigate or spray pesticides.

The process is interactive. Each grower puts in information as to what he grows, the size of the growing area and how many plants or trees are in each plot.

Peek's weather stations, scattered from Fresno County in central California to Ventura County in the south, gather the information. The mainframe computer in Peek's south Bakersfield office does the rest.

"It makes it easy to judge when to irrigate or spray for insects," said Cliff Trotter, a citrus grower in Arvin who has used Peek's service for eight years. "It takes much of the guesswork out of what we do."

Peek admits that it wasn't easy in the beginning to sell his idea to growers. "It took about four or five years before we could really make a living at it," Peek said.

His business has stabilized, and more are signing up, thanks to the Internet, which he started using only about three or four years ago.

Previously, farmers had to use their computers to call individual weather stations and operate the software to calculate the figures.

Now, the process is much easier.

"All they have to do is go on the Internet, and we'll do all the complicated calculations for them," Peek said. "If a farmer doesn't know how to get on the Internet, all he has to do is ask his kids."

It's the similar case with Peek. His son, David, developed the software which controls the weather stations and calculates the information.

Through the Internet, Peek gathers information from his 30 weather stations, plus about 150 stations owned and operated by the state Department of Water Resources.

Farmers rents weather stations for $29.50 per month per machine. If a farmer wants to own one, Peek will install it for $950, plus $75 a month to maintain it.

"If you have one in your own field, you can get information that's specific to your situation," he said.

Weather benefits onions

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Even though Texas sweet onions were planted late this year, the crop is rapidly growing to make up for lost time.

One of the wettest falls in history delayed the planting of spring onion, according to Joe Pena of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Uvalde.

"This delayed the planting of the onions," Pena said, "and they did not have time to grow in the fall."

Pena said the mild winter has allowed the onions to grow faster, and dry conditions have benefited onions because high humidity causes disease problems.

"Dry conditions mean less need to use fungicide," Pena said, "but it also means the crop needs to be irrigated more."

There are distinct markets in the onion industry and people know when to look for Texas onions.

Senators urge investigation of ag profits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost two dozen senators urged President Clinton to conduct a full examination into concentration within the agriculture industry, saying that America's farmers are experiencing desperate economic conditions.

"While thousands of farmers are being forced out of agriculture due to collapsed commodity prices, many of our nation's food processors are posting exceptional returns and record profits," the senators wrote.

The coalition, led by Sens. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., and Chuck Hagel, R-Neb., asked the administration to complete a "full-scale, detailed examination" within six months.

"Agricultural commodity markets, particularly in livestock, have become tilted against the producer and are failing to provide effective competitive returns," the letter said.

America's farm sectors already were reeling from last year's low prices when news came that this year won't be much better. The Agriculture Department predicted last week another year of low prices and lagging exports, lowering U.S. farm export projections to $49 billion compared to last year's $53.6 billion.

"It is important that Congress have a clear picture regarding the impacts of the rapid increase in market concentration in agriculture and what steps may need to be taken," the letter said.

The Clinton administration established an interagency panel last year to look at concentration, and several agencies within the Agriculture Department are conducting their own studies.

"We have to address the changing structure of agriculture," Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman told a forum last week as he released the price and export projections.

The problem of concentration came to prominence in November when Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, the nation's

No. 1 grain company, announced plans to buy the worldwide operations of second-ranked Continental Grain Co. The Justice Department is reviewing the proposed merger.

In the time since, both the House and Senate have held hearings. Some lawmakers have pressed for a meeting with Attorney General Janet Reno.

According to USDA figures, as of 1997, the four largest packing firms accounted for 80 percent of cattle slaughter, 54 percent of hog slaughter and 70 percent of sheep slaughter.

Beef embryos go to Kansas Beef Expo; old ideas meet new technology

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Cattle auction.

The very words conjure up images of clanging gates as cowboys drive wild-eyed cattle into the sale ring moments before the fast-talking auctioneer starts the bidding. It is a tradition as old as the American West.

But the future is gaining a foothold at the Kansas Beef Expo this week. For among the 300 consigned cattle — representing 11 beef breeds — will be 10 frozen embryos.

The Angus embryos, just seven days old, will be offered in two lots of five embryos each. Frozen in liquid nitrogen, the live embryos can be implanted in the buyer's recipient cow immediately — or 20 years from now.

"The sire is dead, so there is limited semen — hopefully that should make them more intriguing to somebody," said Galen Fink, owner of Fink Beef Genetics of Manhattan.

For years, breeders have flushed out several fertilized eggs from more expensive donor cows and transplanted them into commercial-grade cows. As many as 25 percent of Kansas purebred cattle producers use embryo transplants to some degree, Fink said.

But most such sales are usually made directly, and only more recently have embryos been showing up at production sales around the country.

"That is something new, the beef industry is changing. We are auctioning off an unborn calf, and they are selling a mating between a certain cow and a certain bull," said Todd Johnson, executive secretary of the Kansas Livestock Association.

"It is a good way to get some of the best genetics available in a short amount of time," Johnson said.

It is not the first time embryos have been sold at the Beef Expo, but they are still uncommon here. And the embryos are not the only unusual item that will hit the beef sale ring this Friday either.

Also up for bidding will be three straws of semen from a Simmental bull. Those sale proceeds will benefit the Kansas Junior Simmental Association, which is hosting the national classic show in Hutchinson in July.

"The nice thing is you don't have to buy the bull or the cow, which might be very valuable," Johnson said. "This way you can propagate these animals without the expense of purchasing the mother or father."

Generally, embryos sell for between $300 and $1,000, while a yearling calf from the same parentage can sell for between $2,000 and $10,000, Fink said. A semen straw from a prized bull can sell for as much as $1,500.

On average, half of the calf embryos are successfully implanted, Fink said.

Late frost threatens early berries

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Fruit growers in Northwest Arkansas are keeping a nervous eye on their crops because mild weather has caused some blackberries, strawberries and blueberries to bloom early.

"They're on pins and needles," said Robert Seay, an agent of the Benton County Cooperative Extension Service.

"The jury will stay out until April 15th or 20th because that's when the last frost is expected. ... If you're a commercial grower, your whole season is determined in the next few weeks."

Small plants are pretty well protected until their fruit-bud shoots begin to open, he said, and the recent warm weather has speeded the process.

Seay said the coldest temperature tolerated consistently by most small fruit plants is 26 degrees although growers usually can protect plants against one night of freezing weather.

"What it all boils down to is how far along the plant development has progressed," Seay said.

The strawberry crop in the area is most at risk, Seay said.

Choosing the Right Insecticide for Corn

There are many factors that can have an impact on corn yields in our area. Often, the most troubling factors are natural events, such as insect infestations both at the seedling and mature stages.

To avoid insect problems in seedling corn, use a soil-applied insecticide at planting. The ideal soil insecticide should:

- provide excellent control of damaging insects
- rank low in toxicity to the environment, so it's low risk to humans, birds and earthworms
- have low solubility and soil mobility for reduced leaching or groundwater contamination
- be compatible with herbicides
- be easy to handle.

At planting time, FORCE® 3G insecticide is one of the best granular products to control cutworms, white grubs, wireworms, corn rootworms, seedcorn maggots and seedcorn beetles.

As corn matures, scout for corn earworms and armyworms. The most common recommendation for controlling cutworms, chinch bugs and other foliar-feeding insects in mature corn is to use a post-emergence insecticide, such as WARRIOR® T. This unique quick-release, encapsulated formulation controls infestations of damaging insects that could lower yields and quality of field, pop, seed or sweet corn.

Warrior T controls a number of ear and foliar feeding pests, including fall armyworm, corn earworm and European corn borer. The Zeon™ technology found in Warrior T makes sure that the active ingredient is released upon field contact for a quick knockdown and long residual control that can lead to fewer applications.

For more information about Force 3G and Warrior T insecticides from Zeneca Ag Products, contact your local ag agent dealer.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:
• Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
• Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
• Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
• Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 20 cents a word for first insertion ($4.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

Times	Rate	Min
1 day per word	.20	$4.00
2 days per word	.31	$6.20
3 days per word	.42	$8.40
4 days per word	.53	$10.60
5 days per word	.64	$12.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines — those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphs, all capital letters. Rates are $5.30 per column inch.

LEGALS
Ad rates for legal notices are $5.30 per column inch.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

The Successful Family

By Matilda J. Boozer LPC, NCC, DAPA, CSAE AN AWARE CHILD IS A SAFE CHILD

There are physical signs of possible sexual abuse. Some of these are as follows: vaginal discharge, discomfort in the genital area, difficulty walking or sitting and venereal disease or pregnancy in a child under 13. Behavior changes may include sleep disturbances such as fear of going to bed, nightmares, and bed-wetting. Eating problems may develop, either refusing to eat or vomiting when eating.

There may be changes in school behavior, performance, or attendance. Unusual sexual behaviors for the child's developmental age may occur. Sudden dependency or clinging, or unexplained fear of losing a particular person may cause the child to have separation anxiety from a place where there is safety.

The following suggestions are offered to parents, teachers, and anyone close to a child who may be showing these signs of sexual abuse.

1. Listen to the child carefully. Do not judge them or interrupt them. Just listen.
2. Be sure you understand the meaning of words used by the child and he or she understands your meanings. Do not create meanings that are not there.
3. Discuss examples of "good" and "bad" touching.
4. Talk about the child's rights in regard to his or her body or touching someone else's body. Explain that "bad" touches can come from those close to us that we love or trust.
5. Teach the child to say "NO" to inappropriate touching.
6. Discuss the importance of telling someone about any incidents that confuse the child or make him or her uncomfortable. Reassure the child that telling is appropriate and that he or she will not be blamed.

Sexually abused children have learned not to trust people.

They have been hurt deeply by those they love. Help your children accept themselves and develop vocabularies to discuss feelings about their bodies. Respond to inappropriate and appropriate touching with your children. Help them make a decision about self-protection and a plan of safety. Use assertiveness with your children in saying "no" and teaching them to say "no." Give them some alternatives for finding help. Children become less vulnerable physically and psychologically when they know the issues and the methods for coping with them.

THE DRESS YOUR FAMILY FOR SUCCESS PROGRAM has a children's program that teaches the children how to help themselves and take care of themselves when parents are not around. Bring your family to the program on Thursday evenings at San Jose from 6-9. You may call 364-4357 and talk with Tili Boozer.

Hints from Heloise®

Dear Heloise: Here is a great hint for people who do crafts or sew.

I usually have boxes and bags of assorted ribbons, lace and ruffles. To keep them organized is a task, and here is the solution.

Take a piece of cardboard, about 12 x 12 inches. Cut a little piece of each ribbon or lace you have for crafts or sewing. Staple or tape each piece in color order if you wish and then you will know exactly what you have in your stored bags and boxes.

When you go shopping, bring this with you and you will never duplicate anything again.

I also have a ton of small bottles of art paints to do crafts. I have taken each color and dabbed a dot of it onto another piece of cardboard so that I know what colors I have and don't duplicate them. — Victoria Springstead, Hammond, La.

Proclamation signing—Mayor Bob Josseland signs a proclamation declaring the week of March 15-21 as Brain Awareness Week in Hereford. The observance is sponsored by the Pilot Club of Hereford, represented by, from left, Terri Johnson, Bobbie Jo King, Marilyn Culpepper and Brenda Thomas. The international campaign is sponsored by Pilot International as a way to increase community awareness of brain-related disorders.

The House of the Week

Home Has Elegant Interior

MULTIPLE DORMERS, shuttered windows and a columned front porch create a warm, country feeling in this one-and-one-half-story design.

By BRUCE A. NATHAN
AP Newsfeatures

In its 2,567 square feet of living space, plan G-82, by HomeStyles Designers Network features an inviting covered front porch that welcomes guests into an elegant interior.

Just beyond the foyer, the formal dining room is capped by a 9-foot, 6-inch stepped ceiling, and has a nearby server with a sink.

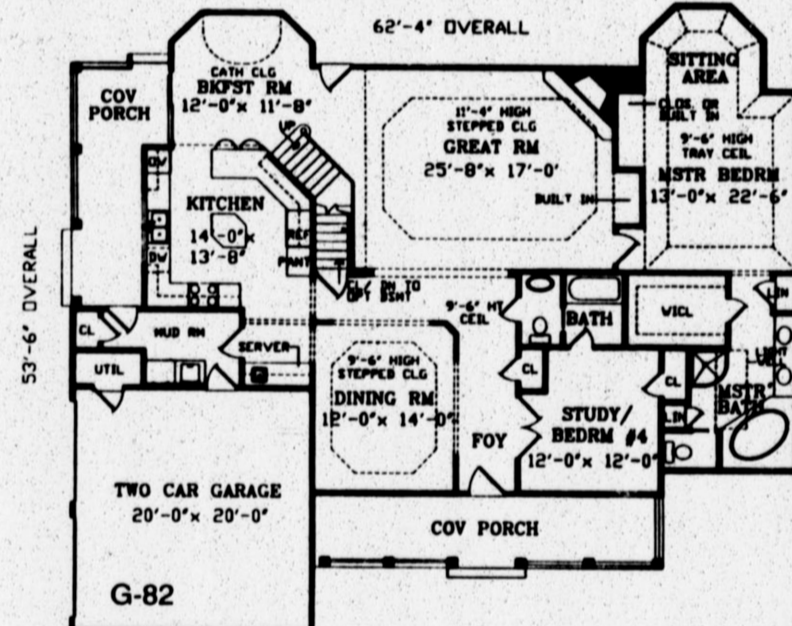

The adjoining kitchen has an island work station, a windowed sink, a pantry closet and an eating bar that serves the breakfast room. The breakfast room has a 12-foot cathedral ceiling and a bayed area of 8- and 9-foot-high windows. Sliding glass doors lead to a covered side porch.

Secluded on the main floor, the master bedroom features a 9-foot, 6-inch tray ceiling, a cozy bayed sitting area and a skylighted private bath with a whirlpool tub, a separate shower, a dual-sink vanity and a huge walk-in-closet.

Double doors introduce a study or optional bedroom, which offers private access to a compartmentalized bath.

Upstairs, two good-sized secondary bedrooms, each with an attractive dormer, share a third full bath. Generous storage space also is provided.

Brightened by a row of 8-foot-high windows and a glass door to the backyard, the spacious great room has a number of appealing features: an 11-foot, 4-inch stepped ceiling, a built-in media center and a striking corner fireplace, among them.

BEYOND THE COVERED FRONT PORCH, the foyer introduces the formal dining room to the left. Double doors close off the study or fourth bedroom to the right. Ahead is the huge great room, which flows into the breakfast room. The adjoining kitchen has access to the mudroom and the two-car garage. Across the home, the master bedroom completes the main floor. Upstairs, a hallway connects the two secondary bedrooms with a full bath, and offers access to the storage area.

G-82 STATISTICS

Design G-82 has a great room, dining room, study, kitchen, breakfast room, three bedrooms, three baths and a mudroom, totaling 2,567 square feet of living space. This plan includes a standard basement, crawlspace or slab foundation, and 2x4 exterior wall framing. The attached two-car garage adds 415 square feet, and the upper-floor storage area covers 377 square feet.

(For a more detailed, scaled plan of this house, including guides to estimating costs and financing, send $4 to House of the Week, P.O. Box 1562, New York, N.Y. 10116-1562. Be sure to include the plan number).

Discovery Channel makes history with Cleopatra's Palace

Underwater explorer Franck Goddio spends a rare moment above water in Egypt to discuss the Discovery Channel special Cleopatra's Palace: In Search of a Legend, airing Sunday in 142 countries.

By Cynthia Werthamer
©TVData Features Syndicate

An archaeological first is combined with a television first in Discovery Channel's Cleopatra's Palace: In Search of a Legend, airing Sunday, March 14.

Finding the palace of the legendary Egyptian queen who ruled more than 2,000 years ago in Alexandria has been the passion of French underwater explorer Franck Goddio. Before our eyes, Goddio's international team of divers and experts uncovers artifacts that haven't been seen by humans in nearly two millennia.

Viewers in the 142 countries where the special is airing will be able to see its awe-inspiring discoveries on the same day.

The event marks the first time in Discovery Channel's history, and perhaps the first time ever, that such a program will have a prime-time premiere around the world on the same date.

Cleopatra's Palace is the centerpiece of Discovery's "Watch With the World" initiative, which includes complementary programming airing during the week before the broadcast on the Travel, Discovery Science and Discovery Civilization channels.

"We chose this as the first worldwide broadcast because it is a big event for Discovery," says Maurice Paleau, executive producer of Cleopatra's Palace.

Narrated by Alexandria-born screen legend Omar Sharif, the program explains the state-of-the-art methods Goddio and others used to pinpoint the ancient dwellings destroyed by earthquakes and covered by tidal waves.

Their destruction meant looking for "a massive underwater jigsaw puzzle," as Sharif puts it.

Goddio spent years researching with sonic resonance and a global positioning satellite, which resulted in the creation of a map of the underwater city.

Between this high-tech research and ancient writings describing its layout, the underwater city was so well-documented that it was "hidden in plain sight" in a square-mile area of harbor, Goddio says.

Their discoveries are remarkable. Jewelry in pristine condition is recovered from a ship wrecked around the time of the great queen. One gold braided ring bearing the seal of a bird is so dazzling in the underwater gloom, it's as if we're uncovering it ourselves.

A poignant statue of a priest holding a holy vessel indicates a private chapel for the cult of the goddess Isis, whom Cleopatra worshipped. Cleopatra herself may have prayed there. It's chilling to realize those in Goddio's crew — and by extension, we viewers — are seeing these buried treasures for the first time in 1,600 years.

"The thing that's extraordinary is the state of the ruins is very, very good," says Emily Teeter, a noted Egyptologist from the University of Chicago who is featured in the documentary.

Modern society's entire idea of Cleopatra — her world, her famous conquests, both strategic and amorous — was "primarily legendary until Goddio's work," Teeter says. "We really didn't know what the topology of the city was. Now we can really begin to work with the archaeology, rather than just the legends of the city and the woman."

Environmentally conscious viewers also will be reassured to learn that the magnificent statues, once raised to the ship for examination, are returned to their underwater beds. The Egyptian government will determine their ultimate fate.

"We finally have a reconciliation of the myth and the reality of Cleopatra," Paleau says. "She is such a figure of legend, and we have found her palace. It's extraordinary."

Catherine Hicks

Q: Is Catherine Hicks (7th Heaven) married to Michael E. Knight (All My Children)? -M.E. via e-mail.

A: No, but your confusion is understandable. Knight is married to actress Catherine Hickland (One Life to Live). Hicks is married to makeup designer Kevin Yagher (Face/Off).

Q: My husband and I enjoy Jackie Chan movies. I say the lip movements of most of the actors don't match the dialogue because they are dubbed by other, English-speaking actors. My husband insists that the original actors can speak perfectly good English and the producer runs the film a little faster to achieve a "signature" kind of effect. Who is right? -Dianna K., APO address.

A: Read my lips: Chan's command of English is far better than my Chinese (which is nonexistent), but you are correct, Dianna.

Q: In what soap did Ethan Wayne once work? And in John Wayne's movie Big Jake, what part did veteran actor John Agar play? I have watched the movie 20 times and I can't recognize him. -Skip Freeman, New Bern, N.C.

A: Ethan Wayne - who played "Little Jake" in Big Jake, by the way - originated the role of Stephen "Storm" Logan Jr. in The Bold and the Beautiful in 1987 and has returned to play the role intermittently over the years.

Next time you watch Big Jake, watch for Agar as a character named Bert Ryan.

Q: I have been watching reruns of The Dukes of Hazzard. Why did two actors playing Coy and Vance suddenly replace John Schneider and Tom Wopat for a while? -W. Mayer via e-mail.

A: In the spring of 1982, Schneider and Wopat walked off the show in a contract dispute. Byron Cherry and Christopher Mayer were hired to fill in as Bo and Duke's cousins the following fall. Viewers were not pleased, and Schneider and Wopat returned in February 1983 after a settlement was reached.

Q: The guy who plays Del in Caroline in the City looks remarkably like Matt Lauer on Today. Are they brothers? I notice there is a Lauer in the cast. -D. Holland, San Francisco.

A: No. Eric Lutes, who plays Del, isn't related to Today co-host Lauer. Neither is Andy Lauer, who plays the dimwitted Charlie on the sitcom.

Q: Whatever happened to Debbie Matenopoulos of The View? I missed the show for a week or two, then she was gone. -M. Hays via e-mail.

A: The official story is that Matenopoulos wants to try other things, such as acting. The persistent rumor, however, is that producers decided that her often ditsy attitude, mercilessly lampooned on comedy shows, just didn't fit the show's mix.

Rescue 77 looks to broaden WB's audience appeal

It's no accident Rescue 77, about a team of paramedics at a Los Angeles fire station, is the latest drama from The WB Network.

The action series has a preview Monday, March 15, then moves into its regular time slot Tuesday, March 16.

The WB expects the show to attract 20-something viewers to the network, which has established a bedrock teen audience with Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Felicity and Dawson's Creek.

The regular cast includes Victor Browne as Michael Bell, Marjorie Monaghan as Kathleen Ryan and Christian Kane as Wick Lobo — the three musketeers of medical rescue work.

Richard Roundtree (Shaft) plays their supervisor, Capt. Durfee, and Terence Knox has a recurring role as an intense, quirky firefighter.

Rescue 77 mixes tried-and-true elements in a formula that seemingly can't miss. There are stories of peril to draw viewers in, relationship melodramas to keep them hooked and an attractive ensemble cast to carry it off.

Conceived by screenwriter Gregory Widen (Backdraft), the show comes to the network from Spelling Television, typically lightweight fare from the industry leader in soapy serials.

Network chief Jamie Kellner is pleased, saying the drama has "the potential to get the human stories and get the same action that's (been) driving shows like Cops for the last 10 years."

Producer Aaron Spelling, who loves to give actors a break, also loves to give audiences what they want. Few of his shows receive critical acclaim, so he hands out pats on the back himself. His indefatigable cheerleading would be infuriating if it were not so completely sincere. Of Rescue 77, he asks rhetorically, "Isn't it great to do a show that has action, but without killing people?"

Yes, and it's nice to know that if a boo-boo ever happens in Beverly Hills, 90210, the paramedics of Rescue 77 can be on their way just seconds after the cell-phone call comes in.
