And what a year it was

Cattle industry had lot to beef about in the past year

1998: A Year In Review

1 Feed bunkers are empty, and cattle sparsely speckle many of the lots, making a number of the Deaf Smith County feedlots look much like ghost lots.

At the close of 1998, many cattle feeders are continuing to see increased losses, with little hope of coming back until at least the second quarter of 1999.

"This year has been a damn disappointing year," said Bob Josserand, owner of AZTX cattle. "It's gotten worse than expected with cattle selling for $57 (in late December). Most feeders were expecting to be able to sell at $62-$63 a head by this time."

The problem is an oversupply of larger, choice quality meat-producing animals, which has created an oversupply of available beef.

After the drought of 1996 and a slight upturn in the market prices, many ranchers and cow-calf operators restocked their replacement herds. Now, they are finding themselves in the same or similar situation.

"This fiasco is probably of longer duration than the crash in '73, '74, and '75," said Josserand. "And that probably makes it worse. We haven't seen $200 loss per head as we did then. But, it still bad enough."

Bert Rutherford, an information specialist with TCFA, said three factors affecting the current supply-driven market are the supply of cattle, the supply of pork and the supply of poultry.

"Beef is still the leading meat for consumers," he said. "Feedlots have nothing to do with the retail cost of beef. That's driven pretty much by our abundant supply."

Although the cost of feed is quite good now, that situation may change with the weather and prolonged drought, he said.

The cost of feed bears watching because if a break doesn't come about soon, he said, many ranchers and feeders could see feed prices overtaking the break-even point.

Even though some of the lots are far from capacity, Rutherford said he hasn't heard of any feedlots closing.

Rutherford does not expect this year's livestock market prices to get as low as they did in 1973-74, but he expects it will be bad enough.

The drought that hammered the beef industry also wreaked havoc with grain crops.

Triple-digit temperatures and high winds managed to wipe out most dryland corn, milo and cotton by the middle of the summer. Even the producers who irrigated found their resources stretched, as the farmers had to divide the water among more than one crop. That meant acres of sorghum, corn and soybeans were abandoned to concentrate the water supplies.

$14.5M grant provides HISD an opportunity for expansion

2 For the Hereford Independent School District, a check for $14.5 million, which district administrators intend to use to fund construction of almost 200,000 square feet of new educational facilities at two HISD campuses arrived.

The $14.5 million came in the form of a grant from

BRAND/Mauri Montgomery

Rising expenses and falling prices, accompanied by a crippling drought and the collapse of Asian export markets, turned 1998 into a year most people in the cattle industry would just as soon forget.

The Texas Education Agency (TEA) and will provide funding to build 26 additional classrooms at Hereford Junior High School; a new physical education center, two vocational buildings and expansion of the Fine Arts Center at Hereford High School.

HISD was one of only 149 Texas school districts receiving monetary grants from a special two-year, $200 million TEA program funded in 1997 by the Texas Legislature.

The $14.5 million grant awarded through the TEA program is the largest for any school district in the Texas Panhandle and is among the top 10 in the state.

Local work on the application for funding resulting in the award began in September 1997 and involved participation from members of the community, teachers and administrators at all levels.

The projects include:

Hereford Junior High
• A new wing of 44,739 square feet, housing 26 standard and special classrooms, corridors and restrooms. The new construction will be adjacent to HJHS.

Hereford High School
• A physical education center of 60,450 square feet. The center will include an elevated running track, three full-size basketball courts, four physical education dressing rooms with restrooms, coaches' offices, training room, multi-use aerobic areas and mobile bleacher seating. It will be located at the northwest corner of Avenue F and Grand Avenue;

• A vocational complex building will be 29,910 square feet. It has been designed to house a meat processing lab, home economics room, cosmetology facilities, law enforcement, health services and vocational agriculture, with an extended greenhouse;

• A second vocational complex building will be 43,120 square feet. This complex will house auto shops, paint and body shops, metal shop, wood shop, building trades shop.

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' first Republican lieutenant governor — who has been a Democrat, House member, farmer, fighter pilot and Aggie yell leader — is preaching the politics of inclusiveness as he prepares to lead the state Senate.

Rick Perry, who departs as state agriculture commissioner to take the job as Senate presiding officer this month, follows two-term Democratic Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, the former comptroller who has been called the most powerful man in Texas politics.

"We are different people in the sense of I will be more in a learning mode, obviously, than Lt. Gov. Bullock would have been coming in for a third term. I think I will be substantially more inclusive when it comes to decision-making," said Perry, 48.

"I'm just a bit of a different individual. I think the governor (Bullock) was more... hands-on, holding the decision-making process closer to the chest than I historically have been. I'm not saying that's right or wrong. That's a different management style than I will use."

County spelling bee to be held in March

The 1999 Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee will be March 3-4, it was announced Friday by Mauri Montgomery, county bee director and publisher of The Hereford Brand.

The county bee has been held in conjunction with the regional and national bees with The Brand as the local sponsor since 1985.

Spelling bee information packets will be mailed soon to local schools. The contest is open to students in public, private and parochial schools. A contestant cannot be higher than the eighth grade or older than 16 by the date of the national finals, May 30.

Preparations are underway for the annual Regional Spelling Bee, with The Amarillo Globe-News and West Texas A&M University as sponsors, to be held April 10 on the WTAMU campus.

Awards will be presented to local winners in the Junior and Senior Bees, and the county champion will go to the Regional Bee. Top prize for the 1999 regional winner will be an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., to represent the area in the National Spelling Bee.

Saying goodbye to the past 100 years

BRAND/Mauri Montgomery

Taking a time-out — A large group of Hereford and area residents watch as a time capsule, buried in 1948 at the foot of the stately Deaf Smith County courthouse steps, is unearthed. Most of the capsule's contents were unrecognizable, but one — a mummified horned-toad — a reptile which today appears on the endangered species list.

Hereford remembers past, looks ahead during Centennial Celebration

4 Hereford threw a big birthday party for itself in August, as the city celebrated its 100th anniversary. Hereford wasn't always the city's name, and considering the ways some things have changed, it's just as well the city's founders didn't stick with the old name.

Back in the late 19th century, when folks began to settle in the southeastern corner of Deaf Smith County, the community that would become known as Hereford was called Blue Water.

It was called that because of the clear, deep blue water that flowed down Tierra Blanca Creek.

Blue Water was established after the Pecos & Northern Texas Railroad laid rail from Amarillo to Roswell, N.M. When the railroad built the line, it bypassed La Plata, which then was the county seat, and built a station it called "Blue Water."

With the arrival of the railroad and the establishment of the rail station, settlers began to move into the area. Finally, in November 1898, the residents of La Plata voted to relocate the county seat to Blue Water. The town's residents applied for a post office, only to learn there already was a Blue Water in Texas, and the U.S. Post Office wouldn't have two Texas post offices sharing the name.

While still trying to decide on a name, the answer was provided by G.R. "Rat" Jowell and L.R. Bradley, owners of a herd of purebred Hereford cattle. The name "Hereford" caught on with the residents, and in 1906 the City of Hereford was legally incorporated.

The city's Centennial Celebration incorporated the annual Town & Country Jubilee, featuring a concert by Emilio, the annual Greg Black Memorial 10K Fun Run, a Centennial parade, a fireworks display in Veterans Park, the Spicer Gripp Memorial Roping Competition and the opening of a time capsule, which had been buried on the grounds of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse.

The opening of the time capsule proved to be a disappointment, because the contents had been damaged by water.

Looking back

Holly Sugar ends 34-year reign as sweetest economic booster

5 Several months after announcing the shut-down of its sugarbeet processing plant in Hereford, Holly Sugar Corp. filed a lawsuit in 222nd District Court contesting the Deaf Smith County Appraisal District's assessment of the plant.

Imperial Holly Corp., parent company of Holly Sugar, announced in February it would close the beet-processing plant, which had been operating since September 1964. Although the company shut down the beet-processing facility, the plant remained open as a packaging/distribution center.

Holly Sugar's assessed value for this year is between $25 million and $26 million, according to chief appraiser Danny Jones.

"Basically, we've got them on the rolls at $25 to $26 million, and they're protesting the value," Jones said Thursday. "But we're not really sure what they're protesting. We had two ... hearings (on the valuation) and they never showed up. Their tax agent said he meant to get down here, but he's never showed up."

Holly Sugar had been the leading taxpayer in Deaf Smith County, the Deaf Smith County Hospital District, Hereford Independent School District and the High Plains Water District. Last year, Holly Sugar paid

$121,887 in taxes to the county; $49,460 to the hospital district; rolls, Hereford felt the impact of the closure, because Holly Sugar pumped an estimated $14 million into the local economy each year. Also, area sugarbeet growers had poured as much as $20 million into the area economy each year to produce the beet crop, spending money on seed, fertilizer, pesticides, irrigation, harvesting, transportation and other needs to take the crop from seed in a sack to big, finished sugarbeets delivered to the plant.

When the closure was announced, Jones had said the Holly Sugar decision would have no effect on the 1998 taxes, although it would be felt after the appraisals are completed for 1999.

At the time, Jones said the value of the plant building is about $3.6 million, with an overall value of about $24 million.

1998 marks year of change for struggling HRMC

6 It was a busy year for the Hereford Regional Medical Center — and perhaps one hospital official would just as soon forget.

In February, James T. Robinson resigned as hospital administrator, citing a conflict with the medical staff that could not be resolved. The hospital operated with interim administrators until October, when John Studrud, a former hospital administrator in North Dakota, took over the helm of a facility that was plagued by red ink for most of the year.

In June, the hospital did open a new $1.63 million medical office complex on the west side of the hospital grounds. The new facility houses the Rural Health Clinic, operated by Drs. Jesse Perales and Howard Johnson; David Back Clinic; and the physical therapy/rehabilitation clinic. The new office was funded by a bond issue.

The hospital struggled throughout FY 1998, showing net losses in both October and November 1997. After reporting surpluses in December 1997 through February 1998, the hospital's monthly balance sheets were in the red from March through July.

The red ink in October was $73,184, dropping to $18,718 in November.

After finishing in the black between December 1997 and February 1998, the bottom dropped out in March, when the hospital showed a net loss of $209,629.

The March loss was followed by red ink in April ($129,749), May ($105,326), June ($146,064) and July ($37,687) before showing a $42,165 surplus in August.

For the year, the hospital managed to finish $5,805 in the black, which was well below the $269,444 reported in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1997 and 98.2 percent below the $324,388 projected in the budget.

For the year, the hospital finished 8.2 percent below budget in revenue, bringing in $8,954,632 in operating revenue; operating expenses were $10,225,850, 3.9 percent below budget.

HMRC finance director Rodney Bailey said 82 percent of the red ink during the year was the result of the anticipated reimbursement to Medicare/Medicaid, which was part of the federal Balanced Budget Act of 1997.

There also was increased spending for indigent health care during the year. Indigent health care rose from $566,512 in FY 1997 to $1,074,486 in the year concluding Sept. 30, 1998.

Bailey noted the hospital saw a reduction in rental expenses when the new medical office complex opened in June. When the building was opened, the Johnson Clinic moved in and became part of the Rural Health Clinic.

The hospital was plagued throughout the year by declining use of the facility.

The average daily census in FY 1998 was 13.9, down nearly 2 percent from 15.6 in FY 1997.

There were 287 newborns in the hospital in FY 1998, down 17 from 304 in the previous year.

Also, the patients' stays in the hospital were shorter in 1998 than in 1997, falling to 5,064 patient days from 5,684.

The number of surgical procedures fell to 746 in the year ending Sept. 30, 1998 — a drop of 84 from the previous year. Of the procedures, the number of outpatient surgeries rose from 119 in FY 1997 to 148 in FY 1998.

One bright spot, however, was the Women's & Children's Clinic, which saw the number of visits rise by 478, from 5,073 in FY 1997 to 5,551 in FY 1998.

Average 1998 daily census drops to 13.9

Fall flood ravages San Jose, course

Treading water—A San Jose Community trailer home is surrounded by receding floodwaters following a drenching October rain

7 Feast or famine. During the summer, the area suffered through a brutal drought. But when the rain came, it was more than could be handled.

On Halloween weekend, so much rain fell that the Hereford High School football game was called off, the municipal golf course was turned into an 18-hole water hazard, and residents of the San Jose Community were forced to evacuate.

Portions of the course still remained flooded two days later, although the water had gone down considerably from when both No. 9 and No. 10 greens were completely inundated. Course superintendent Craig Nieman said several fairways — No. 12, 16 and 17 — are still partially under water.

As for the two greens, the damage wasn't as bad as first feared.

Several structures on the 18-hole layout didn't fare as well. Nieman said bridges over Tierra Blanca Creek on Nos. 5, 10, 11 and 12 while not completely washed out were rendered unusable because of damage to the bridges' ramps.

The walking bridges on Nos. 5 and 12 were completely washed out, Nieman said. Also damaged was a main sprinkler line on No. 18. The course's maintenance personnel will have to wait for the water to recede more before making a full inspection to determine the extent of the damage.

Completely restoring the course to its condition prior to the flood may take as long as five months.

Most of the damage was caused by the amount of rain that fell west of Hereford and then ran off through Tierra Blanca Creek. He estimated that the course itself saw about 6 inches of rain.

Water hazard—Pitman Municipal Golf Course

Damage was done to the field at Whiteface Stadium. The field got soaked and the scheduled Friday night game between Borger and Hereford had to be rescheduled for Saturday afternoon, although lightning forced the postponement.

The teams played in a light rain Saturday afternoon and on a water-logged field. After the game, the turf was significantly torn up on the south end of the field.

Assistant Superintendent Terry Russell said Hereford Independent School District would not do a damage estimate. Russell added the field would be overseeded as it is every spring and that no other action would probably be taken.

At Hereford City Hall, City Manager Chester Nolen said Monday night the city will not be able to assess damage until the water recedes.

At the Aquatic Center, the pond overflowed forcing the closure of the street on the west side of the Aquatic Center-YMCA complex.

However, Nolen said the flooding did not cause any major damage. He said there were three large gaps in the fence at the city farm, which required replacement of about a half-mile of fencing.

The rainfall also generated questions among some San Jose residents about how their tax dollars are being used by Deaf Smith County.

"We pay taxes out here, just like the people in town do," said Mona Hernandez, resident and water manager of San Jose. "We've asked the county commissioners for help, but our commissioner, Lupe Chavez (of Precinct 2), says that we ask for too much and there is not enough money to build an overflow 'ulvert.'"

Hernandez said a major part of the problem comes from agricultural runoff that collects in the low spot at Dayton and Boston.

Representatives from the community would make an appeal to the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court, where they received a pledge from the commissioners to install a permanent pump to help prevent a repeat of the Halloween weekend nightmare.

Hereford Bull

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says "deja moo" means you have a feeling that you've heard all that bull before.

oOo

Love may not make the world go around, but it sure makes the ride worth while.

oOo

When college students came home for Christmas, one young man was worried about a particular tough final exam. He prepared his folks for the poor grade that would arrive shortly after the holidays.

"How close do you think you were to the correct answers?" the father asked. "About three seats," replied the son.

oOo

Did you make any New Year's resolutions Friday? Since resolutions are often broken, some folks set goals instead. That way, they don't break promises, they just don't always reach their goals. Everyone should be satisfied with "wishes," so here's a list of some wishes for all our readers in the coming year:

Enough happiness to keep you sweet; enough trials to keep you strong; enough sorrow to keep you human; enough failure to keep you humble; enough hope to keep you happy, and enough success to keep you eager. Enough friends to give you comfort; enough wealth to meet your needs; enough enthusiasm to look forward; enough faith to banish depression, and enough determination to make each day a better day than yesterday.

oOo

Remember the old maxim, the best things in life are free? Or, as another writer penned: We have found wealth when we have found enjoyment in unbought pleasures.

I don't remember at what age I really discovered that the little bits of daily bliss, largely unrelated to material wealth, contribute the most to the total happiness of living. But as the years pass and experience and wisdom accumulate, you come to realize if you have a small circle of loved ones, a place to call home, a useful job to perform and a heart and mind receptive to life's little pleasures, you are as blessed as anyone on earth.

The list of happy moments stored in our memories is almost endless...the carefree days of childhood...the satisfaction of pleasing mom and dad...the excitement of school days, the thrill of that first date...sharing a laugh with your best buddy...the pride in participating on athletic teams, and the joy of high school graduation.

If you can remember the dreams as you left home for the first time...the adoration when you found your true love...the awe and wonder of becoming a father...the pride in buying your first new car...the joy when another bite is taken off the mortgage on your house...lending an occasional helping hand to someone who needs it...sniffing the aromas of home cooking...an invitation to a party -- you have a lot for which to be thankful.

The list could go on, like the simple enjoyment of sunrises and sunsets and all the beauty of nature -- like the majesty of a thunderstorm. Besides all these things, jewels, furs, mansions and power pale into insignificance.

A cartoon look at 1998

Goodbye, 1998! Some folks are glad to see you depart

The new year is finally here, and am I ever glad; 1998 was a real bugger.

It might have been a good year for the Rose's, but they're about the only ones who have called 1998 a good year.

Thanks to the cantankerous, unpredictable weather, our farmers are holding on by the skin of their teeth and some ranchers' teeth just weren't that strong.

For a year that started out with strong possibilities, it quickly went downhill.

Winter precipitation made the farmers hopeful of good crops; ranchers never expected to have the feed and watering problems that occurred through out the summer.

After the early adequate moisture came an enduring drought with high westerly winds and even higher temperatures to dry out the moisture in the fields, and kill or stunt young crops.

When the temps and the winds finally decreased, many farmers and ranchers had nothing to show but cracks in the parched ground.

Cattlemen and pork farmers felt the pinch caused by an oversupply of all meat items as well as an influx of foreign imports.

Pork prices, at least for the farmer, hit a 30-year-low. Cattlemen lost anywhere between $120 and $200 per head.

Locally we saw the closing of Holly Sugar, which employed a good number of residents all year, plus an even larger number of seasonal workers.

Arrowhead Mills was purchased by a company outside of Texas, laid off a number of workers and can't guarantee if the plant will stay open, be resold or maintain current workers.

With the ongoing loss of available irrigation water and the ever-increasing cost of production, vegetable growers chose to plant other crops, and so many of our seasonal workers went elsewhere.

Corn, wheat and cotton and other commodities all brought lower-than-expected prices.

All in all, I imagine most people in the ag industry will be awfully glad to see 1998 go the way of the wind.

In other parts of the state, people lost homes, jobs, businesses and even their families to rain-swollen rivers overflowing their banks and basins.

As a nation, we saw more and more violent acts committed by young people. Teens carrying deadly weapons to school and killing numbers of their classmates put parents, schools and law enforcement on the alert.

School officials who never thought of needing security devices, installed cameras, metal detectors and hired security officers.

Street gangs claimed an ever-increasing number of youths looking for a place to fit in. Now, drivers are warned not to flash their lights at other drivers for fear it will be a gang which kills the light flashers.

Native Americans are once again, or maybe still, losing to the white man as they lose more control of tribal reservations.

The office of the White House now endures stains of scandal, the likes of which may never be removed. The president is the butt of some really bad jokes; and even our national anthem has been faulted.

On top of all this, many people feel the return to the era of McCarthyism. The time when a mere suggestion of wrong-doing could ruin the lives of anyone.

Many people feel that a number of governmental agencies and entities now have the same power to wreak havoc in people's lives; and what's worse is they feel there is very little recourse but time itself.

This past weekend, Chinese officials welcomed in the new year with a celebration featuring a 1-year-old rabbit and a young tiger cub, signifying the change from the Year of the Rabbit to the Year of the Tiger.

The tiger is supposed to bring good luck and better times. As this new year gets under way, I hope and pray this is so.

Our farmers, producers can't stand another 1998; residents need the stability of assured jobs. Homes are still being cleaned and rebuilt; schools need to be a safe place of learning. More than 200 years of pride and dignity should not be erased by you-know-whom and everyone should be able to know that it takes more than innuendo to be convicted.

Let's hope that 1999 will be the sliver lining of the dark cloud known as 1998.

Happy New Year Hereford.

Following a meal at a local oriental restaurant recently, I threw all caution to the wind and cracked open my diminutive after-dinner dessert — fortune cookie — and had a peek at my fate.

Along with a sure-thing lottery number, the message inside the morsel heralded a prediction that the current year would bring me much happiness.

It was a good guess, now that the year was nearly over.

I silently thanked the anonymous Indonesian monks who had labored so profusely over my future as I surveyed other faces in the restaurant, wondering what the tea leaves had in store for them — wondering how many others were as fortunate as I.

No doubt, they would receive good news too.

It's pretty easy to imagine how a nice Chop Suey dinner could be ruined if fortune writers weren't so inherently optimistic.

(a) Prosperity awaits you — and at the rate you're going, it probably always will.

(b) An exciting new career opportunity will make itself known to you, which should be uplifting, especially since downsizing will end your current career opportunity.

(c) The year will bring big gains to your bottom line. And so will meals like you just ate.

Yet, the writer of my special fortune hit the mark pretty well on my 1998, even if...dare I say it...we all get the same message sooner or later if we eat enough Chop Suey.

As I sat among family and amid the fragrances of oriental noodles, fried rice and beef, I took brief stock of the year 1998 which was about to shed its skin in a renewal of new events and new opportunities.

Three hundred sixty-five days later, a few of the things that brought happiness to me were:

(1) My immediate family, beyond the usual colds, enjoyed a year of good health — always a plus, even if we often take it for granted.

I'm not sure when good health became a significant litmus test for my personal happiness. I guess health issues finally dawned on me somewhere between my 40th birthday and when I convinced myself that I liked eating Grape-Nuts and Oat-Bran for breakfast.

(2) I purchased stock in this newspaper and was named the 14th publisher in The Hereford Brand's long 97-year history. According to my math, that averages out to around seven years per publisher — hopefully my tenure will be more long-lived. The Grape-Nuts should help.

(3) It was a very good year thanks to readers and advertisers like you. Most of the time you were forgiving of our mistakes. And even to those of you who were less forgiving and demonstrated so — expletives deleted, we still are thankful we have you as a reader.

(4) Inspired by my pastor's success, Rev. Terry Cosby of the First Baptist Church, I became a member of the local witness relocation program when I purposely lost 35 pounds. Most of the weight came off my face. My

Sermons gave Dad chance to nap

My father's a regular church-goer -- a deacon, even -- but I don't think Dad's actually heard a sermon in 50 years.

You see, Dad sleeps during sermons. He's obvious about it -- he doesn't snore loudly like Ira Ponder used to do at Temperanceville, a tiny Baptist church near Nashville, Ark. -- but he still dozes off, with his chin resting on his chest.

He liked to say that his days in the Army Air Corps during World War II gave him the ability to sleep anywhere, anytime. But I think he developed that ability to sleep anywhere, anytime in the pews of a southern Baptist church before he ever began his military service.

I also know Dad's an equal-opportunity sleeper when it comes to preachers. He's slept through the real hells-fire and brimstone preachers, the ones who think they can open the Pearly Gates through sheer volume, and he's slept through the school teachers-turned-preachers, the ones who treat the congregation like a classroom and speak in a soft monotone.

But Dad also had a sixth sense. He could sense the shift in the preacher's speech patterns, and without waking up, he'd bellow "AMEN!" at the appropriate spot in the sermon.

(Dad's deaf in one ear and has poor hearing in the other, so he seldom speaks; he always bellows.)

That "AMEN!" pleased the preacher, making him think at least someone in the congregation was listening and appreciating what he had to say. It probably pleased my mother, who would think that maybe Dad wasn't really asleep, he was just resting his eyes.

When the church service ended, my father, now refreshed from his nap, would march down the aisle and out the front door, seizing the preacher's hand and shaking it vigorously.

"I really enjoyed your message, Brother Ward (or Strong or Ratliff or whichever of the hundreds of preachers he's heard over the years had just completed the sermon)," Dad would bellow.

oOo

I've always thought the wristwatch was the invention of a sore-seated southern Baptist.

The reason I came to that conclusion is because when I was a kid and going to church at Temperanceville Baptist Church, the only clock (a big oval one with a Pop-Kola logo on its face) in the building hung on the back wall, right above the door.

If you didn't have a wristwatch, the only way you could check the time was to turn around in your seat, craning your neck until you could see the clock.

Brother Roy Ward, a leather-lunged preacher who preached every other Sunday at Temperanceville, always took it as a challenge if people looked back at the clock, and managed to stretch his sermon another good five or 10 minutes. Or, if he didn't want to preach longer, sometimes he'd point out the poor brother or sister who had dared to sneak a peek at the clock.

"Brother Ferguson, you don't need to worry about the time, you'll know when I'm finished," Bro. Ward once said to an elderly man whose bottom had gotten sore on the hard wooden seats of the pew.

That's why I always thought a sore-seated Baptist invented the wristwatch. With watches on the wrists, members of the congregation could sneak peeks without having to crane their necks and look over their shoulders.

American Express Card now offers the only tangible proof of my true identity.

(5) I am happy that Hereford's Centennial Celebration is behind us. It was a grand event, but I'm glad someone else at this newspaper will get to chronicle the next one.

In hindsight though, 1998 did have some rough edges.

Whether it was drought, floods, pestilence, war, scandal or impeachment, we human beings were each given a larger dose of humility than we usually care to digest during the course of one year.

We each grew a year older, the significance of which depends on whether you're going up the hill, you're on top of the hill or you've been there, done that.

We, as a nation, state and community were often reluctant witnesses to our own human frailties, whether physical, spiritual, or moral.

Some of us learned that American voters can put any citizen in the Presidency, but we can't make him, or her, a leader -- that leadership is earned through strength of character and a seriousness for the post that suggests their tenure there really matters.

We were also painfully reminded through losses in our very midst, how precious life is, and that each of those lives made a difference in our community.

Still, we trudge on and vow to make 1999 a better year.

In my family's case, we vowed to make the new year better when we fell asleep at 10 p.m. on New Year's Eve. That may sound unconventional, but we already considered ourselves fortunate.

If our luck changed, there would always be better fortune waiting for us at the Chinese restaurant.

HEREFORD POLICE January 1, 1999 Arrests

- After receiving a report that three males were smoking marijuana at a local restaurant, police stopped the suspects' car several blocks away. An ensuing investigation led to the arrest of an 18-year-old man on charges of possession of marijuana.

- A vehicle was stopped because the passenger was not wearing his seat belt. The officer could smell a strong odor of what he thought was burned marijuana in the car. He investigated and discovered a bag of a white powdery substance and some marijuana. The driver and passenger were arrested on drug charges.

- A 46-year-old man was charged with assault in connection with the beating of his wife.

- Theft of service charges were filed against a 36-year-old man in connection with the failure to pay a rental agreement and return rented video and audio equipment.

- A 16-year-old male was arrested on charges of public intoxication.

- A 30-year-old man was arrested on driving while intoxicated charges after he was stopped by police while driving on the wrong side of the road.

- A 27-year-old man was arrested on charges of domestic violence.

- A 26-year-old man was arrested on a DWI charge after he was stopped while driving down the middle of the highway.

Incidents

- A 31-year-old man reported he was injured while a repossession company was repossessing his car. He filed a report with the police department and an investigation is under way.

- A runaway girl from Pampa was located and returned to her parents.

- Criminal trespass and criminal mischief was reported at a residence in the 400 block of Long. Damage to the house is estimated at $1,500.

- A loud party was reported at a residence in the 200 block of Avenue I. Police determined all persons in the house were minors and were consuming alcoholic beverages. Citations were issued and all alcohol was confiscated.

- A loud party was reported in the 400 block of East 3rd. Officers contacted the owner of the house and warned him. After leaving the scene, the officers received a second call to the residence. The owner was cited and the officers left again. The officers had to return to the house later, but the suspect had fled. A warrant for his arrest is expected to be issued.

- A group of people were reported fighting at a location in the 600 block of Irving.

- Criminal trespass was reported at a residence in the 100 block of East 6th.

Two homicides led to prison terms

BRAND/Mauri Montgomery

Law enforcement investigators quickly determined arson was the cause of a fire that claimed the life of 93-year-old Thelma Fields in January 1998.

Gulley ordered long terms for both Lawson, Duran

8 Defendants in two homicides from early in the year drew long prison sentences in 222nd District Court.

In November, an eight-woman, four man jury deliberated for only one hour before finding Scott Lawson guilty of murder in the stabbing death of a Hereford man.

After finding the 38-year-old Lawson guilty in the Feb. 22 death of Herman Lee Rogers, the jurors needed six hours to decide the sentence -- life in prison. Lawson will have to serve about 30 years before he is eligible for parole.

Most damaging testimony probably came when the defendant's son, Josh Lawson took the stand.

Josh, a 12-year-old living with his mother and stepfather in Little Elm, testified his father had been drinking prior to the call inviting him over to Carmen Alejandre's.

The younger Lawson said that at some time early on Feb. 22, his father sent him to wait in the truck. One of the women came out to bring Josh back in the house.

The boy also testified that during the fight between Rogers and his father, he saw Lawson take the knife from his boot top, pin Rogers face down and cut him.

He also heard his father tell Rogers he was going to cut his throat.

The only witness for the defense was the defendant. He described himself as a professional cowboy, divorced with three children, one by his first wife and two by his second.

In the second case, Linda Duran drew 60 years in prison for the January arson death of a 93-year-old Hereford woman.

Duran, 33, also known as Mary Ann Nunez, pleaded guilty Dec. 17 to first-degree felony arson in connection with a Jan. 29 blaze in which Thelma Fields died. Duran's plea was part of a plea agreement.

Under questioning by Judge Gulley, Duran acknowledged she had been a patient at two mental hospitals in Nebraska and had been diagnosed with borderline mental disorders.

She testified she used a cigarette lighter to set a bag on fire in a back room of the Fields home.

'Millenium bug' to be problem for entities to deal with in '99

9 Y2K. The so-called "millenium bug." No one at Deaf Smith County Courthouse is saying it's not a problem, but it's a problem the county commissioners don't want to rush into without knowing exactly where they're going.

After County Sheriff Joe Brown and Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine asked for authority to proceed with the upgrade of computers in their offices, the commissioners decided to take an inventory of computers, both hardware and software, in all offices to determine how many are not Y2K compliant.

Turrentine said she had received a quote of nearly $6,000

1998: A Year In Review

from Apollo Data Software, the vendor of the county computer system, to make her office computers Y2K compliant.

Brown indicated his office will need at least $30,000 to eliminate the so-called "millenium" bug in his operation. Brown said at least $15,000 of the money could be taken from the monies the sheriff's office receives for housing out-of-county inmates.

The Y2K computer glitch originated when computer programmers writing the codes to operate the machines decided to save space by using a two-digit field for the year. For example, December 15, 1998, would be represented by "981215" in computer code. The two-digit field for the year "98" is the basis for all calculation formulas within most computer systems.

Until now, the two-digit field has been sufficient; however, when the clock ticks midnight on Dec. 31, 1999, many older computers will mistakenly read the year as 1900, rather than 2000. This inability to recognize the correct date would affect all forms of financial accounting, including interest computation, due dates, pensions, personnel benefits, investments and legal commitments. It also could affect record storage, such as inventory, maintenance and file retention.

Most computer systems, especially the Windows-based software, written since 1995 are Y2K compliant.

However, older hardware and other systems, such as heating and cooling systems, could have computer chips that are not compliant.

County Clerk David Ruland said his office has a diskette that can determine if computers are Y2K compliant. He said his office has one computer that would be affected by the "millenium bug."

At Hereford Regional Medical Center, a Y2K committee met regularly to evaluate the computer problem.

South Plains Biomedical Services Inc. completed a Y2K assessment and a test of equipment throughout the hospital, finding there are several pieces of equipment that will need to be replaced. Others areas of the hospital operation are expected to require changes in order to be Y2K compliant.

HRMC finance director Rodney Bailey reported the hospital is conducting a search for a company to oversee the Y2K program. The cost generally ranges from $5,000 to $50,000.

And, at Hereford City Hall, finance director Steve Bartels reported there will be no problem with the city's computer system because of a Y2K guarantee with its computer vendor.

BRAND/Mauri Montgomery

Many entities in both the public and private sectors have until Dec. 31, 1999, to make sure chips (above) in their computers won't shut down when the year 2000 arrives.

Area residents made the news

10 Shirley L. Garrison, a Hereford agribusinessman, was among four Texas Tech University graduates recognized in November as Distinguished Alumni by the Ex-Students Association and the university.

Garrison, who was born in Detroit, Texas, is a graduate of Idalou High School. He has devoted his life to agribusiness and farming. He received a bachelor's degree in agriculture education in 1940.

In 1944, he entered the Army. He spent two years in Germany, working in a military program to help restore agriculture, which had been devastated by the fighting in World War II.

Returning to the family farm near Idalou in 1948, he has operated farms and grain elevators in Lubbock, Castro and Parmer counties.

In 1954, he purchased land in the Easter community, which was part of the Hereford Independent School District and his three children graduated from Hereford High School.

He also was among a group of Hereford area residents who helped bring major industries to Deaf Smith County, was a charter stockholder in Southwest Feedyards and started Garrison Seed Co.

In 1986, Garrison moved into finance by opening banks in Lubbock, Dimmitt, Earth and Seagraves. He served a three-year term as director of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, and was chairman of the Hereford Economic Development Corp.

In 1990, Garrison was named Distinguished Alumnus of the Tech College of Agriculture Sciences and Natural Resources.

In 1992, Garrison was named the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's Ag Man of the Year.

He also was among the community leaders who worked to establish the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. He was president of the Senior Citizens Association board during the

In September, Hereford Mayor Bob Jossierand was recognized by his peers when he received the National Golden Spur Award.

Jossierand, who as chairman of AZTX Cattle Co. runs the nation's fifth-largest cattle-feeding operation, was named recipient of the honor during the Ranching Heritage Association's annual awards banquet and prairie party program at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

The award was first presented in 1977 by the association to honor an individual's lifetime achievements in the ranching and livestock industry.

In his acceptance, Jossierand noted the award was bestowed upon him by his peers, which was important to him.

"As I look at the people who have received this award previously, I'm not sure that I am worthy of receiving any comparison to them, but I am very proud to have received it," Jossierand said.

presidential campaign: education, responsibility, integrity and values.

Bush quoted liberally from letters written to him by Hereford school children in his speech, saying he had scrapped his "standard chamber of commerce speech" in favor of a "children's forum."

In a light-hearted vein, the governor opened his talk with a question from a student named April, who asked why he chose "to come to Hereford if he had other choices ..."

He responded by comparing Hereford's traffic with that of Dallas and Houston, then in a serious note said that Texas governors "need to go to as many cities as possible, not just the big cities."

Several of the students' letters had emphasized the importance of reading, a project of first lady Laura Bush, who accompanied the governor to Hereford.

"Education is the No. 1 priority for our state," Bush said. He emphasized the importance of local control of education, noting the state government must provide as much money as it can and set the goals, but "local control is the best way for children to get the education they need." As part of his commitment to seeing that all children can read at their grade level, the governor said he will ask the next Legislature for $200 million to fund reading academies or other local programs to ensure the literacy goals are met.

Kansas. By the time Josserand graduated from high school, Josserand had built up his own cattle herd.

After working his way up to president of AZL Cattle Co., Josserand and a group of partners bought out the company, which was renamed AZTX Cattle Co. AZTX is based in Hereford.

Josserand noted the cattle industry is going through tough times, citing a $3 billion loss in equity in recent years.

The cattle industry has been hit by the Asian currency crisis, which has had an adverse effect on U.S. beef exports.

Also, Josserand said the cattle industry has felt the pinch of an oversupply of meat generated by the pork, poultry and beef producers.

Other honors Josserand has received include "Man of the Year" in Southwest agriculture, presented in 1991 by Progressive Farmer magazine; Hereford Citizen of the Year, 1995; and International Stockmen's Hall of Fame inductee, 1993.

If a man is judged by the number of his friends, Speedy Nieman is a very, very wealthy man.

Nieman, the publisher emeritus of The Hereford Brand, was honored in October at a special banquet. However, given the nature of some of the comments about him, Nieman could easily have wondered if it was such an honor.

The banquet, held in the Hereford Community Center and which drew nearly 200 people, was the culmination of a special day for the veteran West Texas journalist, who also was recognized by an official city proclamation designating Oct. 22, 1998, as "O.G. 'Speedy' Nieman Day" in Hereford.

It was fitting the banquet meal featured roast beef, because that's what the tribute was — a roast of Nieman and his wife and partner, Lavon — and featured anecdotes by his fellow West Texas newspaper publishers, civic leaders, his church pastor and Sunday school teacher, and government officials, including state Rep. John Smith, R-Amarillo, whose Texas House district includes Hereford.

Beverly Harder was named Citizen of the Year during the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet. Harder, who is the family and consumer science agent with the Deaf Smith County Extension Service, has held the position since 1986, moving here from Hemphill County.

She is a Panhandle native and earned her bachelor's and master's degrees from Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

After earning her bachelor's degree from Tech, Harder taught school until 1977, when she left teaching to work with the family agriculture business. In 1982, she began her career as an extension agent in Hemphill County.

In his presentation, Lions Club President Pete Holcombe noted Harder loves music, snow skiing and water skiing, and studies history through visits to old cemeteries.

She is an active member of First Baptist Church in Hereford, a member of several professional organizations, and recipient of several awards through the state extension service.

Also recognized at the banquet was Elvira Enriquez, Woman of the Year.

Eduardo Montoya was named valedictorian of Hereford High School's Class of '98 during the annual awards assembly. Montoya earned the top honors with a cumulative grade-point average (GPA) of 108.9020. He also was named as a National Merit Scholar.

Justin Betzen was named salutatorian with a cumulative GPA of 106.5510.

At the conclusion of the annual Cinco de Mayo Celebration, Martha Rincon, dietitian at Hereford Regional Medical Center, was named Hereford's Hispanic of the Year.

Mike Hatley caught the Hereford Economic Development Corp. directors by surprise Dec. 2 when he said he's leaving the job he's held since 1996.

Hatley notified the HEDC directors of his intention to resign as executive director of the economic development agency, but the board could take no action on the matter because it did not have a quorum.

He said his resignation will be effective Jan. 31, 1999, although he anticipates taking some time off during January to prepare for his new position — director of the Sweetwater economic development agency.

As economic development director, Hatley considered one of his best accomplishments was the decision of a Mexican company to build the $7.8 million Grupo Bimbo Cereal Foods plant near Dawn. He also has cited the $2 million project of LIA, an Oklahoma-based company, to convert an existing Hereford building for a plant, and the Moovies 6 theater complex, which opened in the old Sugarland Mall.

For the first time in decades, Bullock won't be in an office

AUSTIN (AP) — When the inaugural ceremonies conclude, Texas government will be missing someone: Bob Bullock, a sometimes gruff, always imposing figure around the Capitol for 40 years.

Bullock is retiring after a career that took him from the depths of alcoholism to the heights of the lieutenant governor's office, widely considered the most powerful in state government.

Highly controversial and highly effective, he never lost an election or the competitive fires that burned so hot for so long.

"I don't like to lose," he said more than 20 years ago. "You show me a good loser, and I'll show you a loser."

The lifelong Democrat retained the power to surprise, even when he wasn't running. In 1998, he endorsed Republican Gov. George W. Bush for re-election and for an office Bush wasn't even seeking, saying, "I would be proud to call him my president."

Bush returned the compliments.

"Texas politics have oftentimes been defined by legends. There's no question that Bob Bullock is a legend," the governor said last year.

Bush, who found Bullock on his side on a number of legislative issues, said the Democrat got things done.

"He was not only ... an incredibly capable person, but he's smart and he's tough," Bush said. "When you want somebody in the trenches, you want Bob Bullock in the trenches with you."

A native of Hillsboro, Bullock won a seat representing his hometown in the Texas House while a Baylor Law School student in 1956.

It was the opening page of a long public resume that started when no Republican held statewide office and ended when Republicans held them all.

He entered private law practice after leaving the House but returned to government in 1967 as an assistant attorney general. He organized the office's first antitrust and consumer protection division, and he won a major recovery for Texas hospitals in a price-fixing lawsuit against national pharmaceutical firms.

Bullock served as an aide to the governor from 1969 to 1971, then was secretary of state in 1971 and 1972. There, he reformed the campaign finance reporting system. In 1974, he was elected to the first of four terms as state comptroller, the state's chief tax collector.

During those 16 years, Bullock's political prowess, negotiating skills, temper and relentless work habits became legend around the Capitol, where he was at the center of hard politicking and hard living.

Bullock led the transformation of a once-sleepy post into one that vigorously collected taxes and accumulated information from every dusty corner of the government. He joined highly publicized raids on tax scofflaws, shutting down businesses until they paid up.

"Everything you do in government deals with money," he said then. "The better job I do, the better job every department in state government does, because they depend on what I raise."

Bullock developed a reputation for hiring top people. So-called "Bullock alumni" held key positions throughout state government.

In 1984, Bullock suffered a major setback — abandoning a lifelong quest for governor. After earlier pledging to make fellow Democrat Mark White a one-term governor, Bullock dropped out of the 1986 race. His announcement showed the crusty politician's sense of humor.

"Frankly, there has been no great public clamor for my services as governor. I've had about 100 expressions of support and one $5 contribution from a Mr. Lan Nelson of Walker County, which I am returning."

In 1990, Bullock was elected lieutenant governor — a powerful job in a state that sharply limits the governor's authority — presiding over the Senate, making committee appointments and controlling the flow of legislation in the Senate.

During his tenure, the state ended a long-running school funding crisis, saw a once-shaky budget balloon to a $6 billion surplus, and overhauled the civil justice system to impose limits on lawsuits.

An example of his clout came during a 1995 push to legalize casino gambling. It crashed and burned when an angry Bullock called casino lobbyists greedy and their tactics sneaky. He warned them not to hurry back, noting, "I've got a long-term memory."

In the 1997 session, the casino issue never came up.

About one-third of his right lung was removed in a 1972 operation to take out two tumors. Over the years, he suffered a heart attack, underwent bypass surgery, and had a pacemaker installed.

His health problems sparked repeated news stories, and those often angered Bullock.

Asked about it once, Bullock replied, "I'm so busy I ain't got time to die."

Electricity providers at a glance

The Public Utility Commission currently sets electric rates for the state's privately owned electric companies, including TU Electric and Houston Lighting and Power.

City-owned utilities, like Austin's, and most cooperatives, like Pedernales Electric Cooperative Inc., set their own rates.

Here are brief descriptions of the three types of electric utility providers:

Privately owned companies sell about 82 percent of the state's electricity. They include Central and South West Corp. (Central Power and Light in Corpus Christi, Southwestern Electric Power Co. and West Texas Utilities in Abilene); El Paso Electric Co., Entergy Gulf States Texas, Houston Lighting and Power, Southwestern Public Service Co. of Amarillo, Texas-New Mexico Power Co. in Fort Worth and TU Electric of Dallas.

About 75 Texas cities, including Austin, San Antonio and Kerville, own and operate municipal utilities. They sell about 10 percent of the state's electricity.

Electric cooperatives sell about 8 percent of the state's electricity, serving 3 million customers. The co-ops serve mostly rural customers who own and run the company. Texas' biggest co-op is Pedernales Electric Cooperative Inc., based in Johnson City.

Lawmakers to tackle hot utility issue again

AUSTIN (AP) — Advocates of breaking up the state's utility monopolies contend it will lower the cost of electricity by as much as 30 percent, reduce pollution and improve service. Or it could do just the opposite, said Tom "Smitty" Smith, state director of consumer group Public Citizen.

The issue is back for more debate this legislative session, and the outcome could affect consumers every time they flip a light switch or turn on the coffeemaker.

"The cost for the average customer could go up, reliability could decrease and people may start getting calls during dinner asking them to try a new provider," Smith said.

Texas currently pay an average of $1,063 a year for electricity, well above the national average of $850.

Last year, lawmakers grappled with an electric utility deregulation bill supported by Gov. George W. Bush, but it died during the last weeks of the session after losing support from the state's rural electric cooperatives.

Bush appears poised to back another attempt.

One of the most contentious aspects of the debate has been the debts of current electricity providers.

Chiropractic Q & A

Can chiropractic treat dizziness? Dizziness is a term that covers a number of symptoms. These can include vertigo, nausea, or light-headedness. All can range from mildly discomforting to totally disabling. The systems usually involved in such cases are the inner ear, eyes and free nerve endings located in certain joints, primarily in the upper neck. Many cases involving these nerve endings of the upper neck respond very favorably to chiropractic care. Chiropractic is uniquely suited to addressing these symptoms without the use of drugs or invasive procedures.

We accept assignments on Medicare & Medicaid & most insurance carriers.

Bacterial outbreak traced to Bil Mar's plant in Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A bacterial outbreak that has killed four people and sickened 38 others around the country since August has been traced to meat products made at a Sara Lee subsidiary.

Tests showed listeria contamination in four unopened packages of hot dogs from the Bil Mar Foods plant in Zeeland, 15 miles southwest of Grand Rapids, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said Thursday.

Sara Lee shut down several production lines at the plant and recalled several brands of hot dogs and cold cuts last month when the bacteria were found in an open package of hot dogs. Tests are still being performed on cold cuts.

CDC spokeswoman Sharon Hoakins said the agency tested sealed packages to make sure the bacteria were not from an outside source. She said the strain of bacteria is the same one that sickened people in the outbreak.

Since early August, 42 cases caused by a single listeria strain have been identified in 11 states: Ohio, Minnesota, New York, Tennessee, Massachusetts, Michigan, West Virginia, Connecticut, Oregon, Vermont and Georgia, the CDC reported.

Ms. Hoakins said she did not know when or where the four people died.

The New Paradigm

Making Public Education Work

First in a series The History of Education

Before our students go out into the world to make their fortunes they need their educational 'toolbox' filled with all the necessary tools of their chosen trade. Our schools are the training ground for the vast majority of their experiences. How many jobs are there in our world economy? Do our schools prepare our children for them all?

HISD's School Trustees have an eye for the future and that future is firmly based on computer technology. Hereford schools are, or soon will be, on the cutting edge of computer technology, but that is just the tip of the iceberg. Just because a student can push a few keys doesn't mean they're ready. How about the ability to use those skills they've 'learned' in the classroom. Soon, we'll have computers in every classroom in Hereford schools, but what about the teachers in those classrooms? It'll take a lot of time and training to get them up to speed in using all that computer technology.

Our schools are still based

CLIFF GOLDEN

The bottom line

on an agriculture-based calendar and economy. The same has been true for the last seventy five years. It's my opinion it's unconscionable to prepare students with a slide-rule-education to take on a technologically based economy that changes daily. We're fixing to enter the 21st century with an education based in the 1930's.

oOo

Our forefathers saw fit to equip children with the broad-based education. In the early years of our country, students learned to read by reading the Bible in church schools. Young men learned crafts and trades as apprentices to master craftsmen and professionals. Whether silversmiths, carpenters, bankers or financers, young men were trained in the traditional, time honored European way. The same was true with ciphers or mathematics, science and the arts. Only boys were trained or educated since girls were assigned the task of being the mothers of our children and didn't need to be educated.

That changed for the better during the latter parts of the 18th century as early schools were created first by churches and later opened to the public. Some young women were home schooled as their mothers taught them to read and write.

As public education became more available to the masses, apprenticeships became a thing of the past. The industrial revolution gathered speed creating generations of specialists. Specialists with the ability to produce more and more, faster and faster. We converted to a mind set of more production with less technical training. We also evolved into a purely academic education instead of efficiently continuing to marry the trades and education. Somewhere along the line, we gave up the application of education solely concentrating on academics. Once divorced from the classroom, vocational education took on a moniker of being reserved for the educationally under achievers.

Bottom Line: The severe shortage of the vocationally trained and educated has given cause for alarm in the U.S. economic and business sectors. So much so industrial leaders are contacting technical/community colleges and high schools trying to recruit students with technical aptitudes for specialized industries.

No one becomes an English or science. There is no position for a fully trained social studies. There ARE lots of jobs, however, for those who can effectively use their math, English, science and social studies skills. Students must learn how to learn for they will be learning for the rest of their lives.

Economists predicting slowdown this year

WASHINGTON (AP)— It may be a new year but the economic forecast for 1999 has an old familiar ring.

Economists predict distinctly slower growth, somewhat faster inflation, slightly higher unemployment and, at best, lackluster stock-market gains.

"I like to call 1999 a 'bumpy soft landing,'" said economist Nicholas Perna of Fleet Financial Group in Hartford, Conn. "It will be a soft landing in the sense that it's a better-than-even-money bet that we're going to avoid a recession and bumpy in the sense that in some parts of the economy, namely manufacturing, it's going to feel a lot like a recession."

Perna's scenario, widely shared by forecasters, bears a striking resemblance to their expectations a year ago for 1998. Instead, despite an as-predicted deterioration in the trade deficit, the economy's growth remained nearly as robust as it was in 1997, inflation stayed just as tame and unemployment edged lower, not higher.

What happened? The answer, paradoxically, is: the global slump that started in Asia in mid-1997, toppled the Russian economy last summer and threatened Latin America.

"The U.S. economy turned out a lot stronger than expected, mainly because the consumer actually benefited from the global crisis," said economist David Jones of Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. in New York.

As predicted, the trade deficit climbed toward a record in 1998 — probably of about $167 billion when the counting is done.

Perry

Bullock, who began his public service career more than 40 years ago as a state House member and served as state comptroller for 16 years before becoming lieutenant governor in 1991, gave Perry a vote of confidence soon after the Republican's November election victory.

"He's going to make a fine lieutenant governor. You watch him," Bullock said.

Immediately after Perry's election, Senate Republicans — who hold a majority in the chamber — opted against making major changes in the lieutenant governor's powers. Those include appointment of Senate committee heads.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, said at the time he was impressed with Perry's talk to the GOP Caucus concerning the lieutenant governor's relationship with the senators.

"I just was very optimistic about the attitude that he has, the approach he plans to take. ... He used the term 'partnership,'" Bivins said.

Like Bullock, who presided over the Senate during its transition to a Republican majority for the first time since

The new lieutenant governor also has stressed his shared vision on such issues as public education with Gov. George W. Bush, whom he would succeed if Bush decides to run for president and is elected in 2000.

For example, Perry said, his proposed reading-master program to reward expert teachers in that subject dovetails with Bush's emphasis on reading and desire to eliminate so-called social promotion.

Both also support a pilot voucher program that would allow a limited number of students to use public funds to pay private-school tuition as part of a larger focus on education.

Perry's counterpart in the Texas House, Speaker Pete Laney, opposes diverting public-school dollars to the private sector.

THE TOP 10 OF 1998

Volleyball's third straight advance to Region I-4A final named top story

The Lady Whitefaces' advance and eventual loss to District 3-4A rival Dumas in the Region I-4A volleyball final was determined to be the Hereford Brand top sports story of 1998. The loss ended Hereford's quest for a third consecutive Class 4A title.

The year provided many surprises, most of them pleasant ones. Hereford's success on the football field ranked as the biggest surprise of 1998.

The Whitefaces' win in their final district game, earning them a district co-championship with Pampa, was determined to be No. 2. The Whitefaces' subsequent loss to Plainview in a Class 4A Division I bidistrict game came in at No. 3.

Hereford's 8-3 season came after the Whitefaces had gone 5-15 in coach Craig Yenzen's first two seasons.

Other surprises were a boys basketball team that finished second in the old District 1-4A and advanced to the area round of the playoffs before falling to Sweetwater. The Whitefaces had struggled through their nondistrict schedule only to find renewal once district rolled around.

The Whitefaces gained a split with district titlist Canyon Randall and Hereford coach Randy Dean was named district coach of the year.

In what was a surprising move, Hereford Independent School District announced in the spring it would field a wrestling program for the first time in the fall of 1998. The move coincided with the sport's move to a University Interscholastic League-sanctioned event.

Weeks later, athletic director Yenzen stunned incipient fans with the news that Hereford had lured Mike Dominguez from Dumas to head the Whiteface

Williams closes out college career with 203 yards, 2 TDs

By Donne H. Freeman
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS — Ricky Williams closed out his college career by striking a Heisman pose — to match the trophy that's already his.

He rushed 30 times for 203 yards and scored two touchdowns as the No. 20 Texas Longhorns beat No. 25 Mississippi State 38-11 in the Cotton Bowl on Friday.

Williams got some running room after redshirt freshman quarterback Major Applewhite burned the blitzing Bulldogs for three touchdown passes in Texas' first Cotton Bowl victory since 1982.

Heisman winner Williams, who thrived in the foggy, rainy conditions before a sellout 72,611 fans, scored on a 37-yard touchdown run in the third quarter. Upon reaching the end zone, he froze into the famous stiff-armed pose seen atop the Heisman trophy.

"It was something the guys were trying to get me to do all year but I wanted to win the Heisman first," Williams said. "We had a big lead and I knew the penalty wouldn't hurt us."

The 15 yards for excessive celebrating hardly disturbed the Longhorns.

Williams scored again on a 2-yard third-period run against the tiring Mississippi State defense and finished with a school bowl-record rushing yardage. The Texas rushing record for a bowl game was 164 by Eddie Phillips against Notre Dame in 1971.

"State had a tough defense but we had a size advantage on them," Williams said. "The offensive line did a good job of handling the crazy blitzes and Major and Wane (McGarity) kept them honest with the passing game."

Ohio State harvests Ags

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — All No. 3 Ohio State can do now is wait on some help from Florida State — and hope its 24-14 victory Friday night in the Sugar Bowl was championship material.

The Buckeyes kept alive their slim hopes of sharing the national title by beating No. 8 Texas A&M in a game that began like it might be the rout they could have used, but had too many anxious moments in the end.

Joe Germaine threw for a touchdown, Joe Montgomery rushed for one and the special teams came up with a blocked punt return for a score — all in the first quarter. But that was all the touchdowns Ohio State (11-1) could muster.

It was the first time the Buckeyes beat Michigan and won a New Year's Day bowl game wrestling team.

THE TOP 10

1. The Hereford Lady Whitefaces may have been able to find some solace in the fact they advanced to the Region 1-4A final for the third consecutive year, but the mood was a somber one after the Demonettes ended the Lady Whitefaces' hopes of winning a third straight state championship with a 12-15, 15-9, 15-8 win Nov. 13 at Caprock Activity Center in Amarillo.

Dumas senior Julie Williams led the Demonettes to win, recording five kills in the last seven points to break an 8-all tie in the third game. "Once she came around back on the front row, we knew we couldn't continue to give Dumas free ball after free ball," Hereford coach Brenda Kitten said immediately after the match. "That's just suicide for any team. Those free balls are just going to get killed down our throat with Julie in the front row."

2. The Hereford Whitefaces won a share of the District 3-4A football title with a 24-7 win over Amarillo Caprock in their final game of the season Nov. 6 at Whiteface Stadium. Hereford shared district honors with Pampa.

The jubilation was marred, however, when senior linebacker Jeremy Lopez was injured by a hit after the final seconds of the game had ticked off.

"It was a tough situation for the kids," Yenzler said after the game. "They win a district championship and they don't even really get to enjoy it."

3. Hereford got to enjoy its 1998 football success for eight days before reality ended the Whitefaces' dream season.

The wake-up call came in the form of Plainview and senior fullback Peter Gonzales. Gonzales rushed for 174 yards and the Bulldogs dominated Hereford on their way to a 25-6 Class 4A bidistrict win at Whiteface Stadium Nov. 14.

"They just physically whipped us," Yenzler said. "They showed us a little more intensity than were able to muster. We've got a lot of learning to do still."

4. Hereford got its first-ever wrestling coach in April just weeks after announcing the school would field a wrestling team beginning in November 1998. The man chosen to start the Whiteface program was Mike Dominguez of Dumas.

Dominguez had also started the program in Dumas and during his six years heading the Demons won five Texas Interscholastic Wrestling Association regional titles.

Starting another program from scratch was the main reason Dominguez accepted the position.

"That's the intriguing part," he said. "The challenge of starting another program is really why I'm here in Hereford."

5. The Hereford Whitefaces had been picked to finish at or near the bottom of District 1-4A when the 1997-98 basketball season began. But in their 11th district game, the Whitefaces clinched second place, and along with it a playoff spot, with a 74-65 win over Canyon.

Canyon coach Dan Hamrick was quick to offer congratulations on the Whitefaces' surprising season.

"It's remarkable the job (Dean) has done with just one returning starter," Hamrick said. "I don't think any coach in this area has done the kind of job Randy's done with what he's coming back. I'm really proud of him."

Hamrick had reason to be proud. He was Dean's high school coach at Childress.

6. But the Whitefaces - after a slim victory over Snyder in the area round - found their season cut short by Sweetwater and Mustang senior Derrick Franklin in an area round game in Lubbock.

Franklin scored 23 points and grabbed 14 rebounds as Sweetwater

PHOENIX (AP) — Brett Hull scored 37 seconds into overtime as the Dallas Stars beat the Phoenix Coyotes 2-1 Friday night to extend their unbeaten streak to 14 games.

Mike Modano also scored for the Stars, who are 11-0-3 since Dec. 4. The 14-game unbeaten streak matches the longest in the NHL this season. The Coyotes had a 14-game streak from Oct. 25 to Dec. 2.

Dallas, which opened an eight-point lead over Phoenix in the Pacific Division, is 7-0-2 in its last nine road games. Roman Turek made 26 saves for the Stars.

Deron Quint scored his first goal of the season with 32.6 seconds remaining in regulation to send the game into overtime.

But Hull took a pass from a stumbling Modano just in front of the crease and slipped the puck under Nikolai Khabibulin for the game-winner.

Texas

Williams, who set 16 NCAA records during his career, had 248 all-purpose yards. He caught five passes for 45 yards and his rushing total was the third-highest in Cotton Bowl history.

"It was a lot of fun for me to watch our offense and defense play like they did," Williams said. "I was glad I came back for my senior year."

The game was dedicated to the late Doak Walker and Williams noted "my first touchdown run was his old number, No. 37. That run was for him."

The Bulldogs hounded Williams every step, but they were forced to pay for their blitzes by Applewhite, who hit two touchdown passes in the first half for a 14-3 lead.

Applewhite, noting the Bulldogs' jamming at the line of scrimmage, twice hit McGarity for touchdown passes on plays of 59 and 52 yards, victimizing cornerback Kendall Roberson both times.

McGarity capped off a 97-yard drive with his first touchdown reception in the first quarter as he slipped behind Roberson. In the second period, McGarity caught a short pass, shook off Roberson's tackle and sprinted the rest of the way for the score.

"Major did an outstanding job handling all the blitzes," said Texas coach Mack Brown. "He did throw the ball where it was supposed to be. He throws the deep ball well."

McGarity did his part. "We worked to perfection today," he said. "Major did a great job of getting some air under the ball." "Nobody has covered McGarity one-on-one this year," Brown said.

Applewhite said he knew the Bulldogs would be blitzing on almost every down.

"We thought they would bring everything they had and if we picked it up we could do what we wanted to do," Applewhite said. "Ricky was amazing as usual."

Brown said it was a typical Williams performance.

"The rumor was he was fat," said Brown, "but I don't think he was out of shape at all. He looked pretty good to me."

Williams joked "I came up here this morning hoping my pants would fit and they did."

MSU coach Jackie Sherrill said of Williams: "We knew we had to tackle well or it would be a long day. Applewhite also hurt us with some of his throws. He did a great job of throwing the deep ball."

Bulldogs linebacker Barrin Simpson said Williams lived up to his billing. "With a great back like Williams you can't make many mistakes," he said.

Mississippi State scored on a 39-yard field goal by Brian Hazelwood, who also had a 41-yard attempt blocked by Aaron Humphrey on the final play of the first half.

The Bulldogs lost their top receiver and kick returner, Kevin Prentiss, with an elbow injury in the first half and he never returned.

in the same season since 1968, which is also the last time Ohio State won a national championship.

Whether that adds up to another one depends on No. 2 Florida State beating top-ranked Tennessee in the Fiesta Bowl — and the AP voters being impressed enough with Ohio State to make them No. 1. The Fiesta winner is the automatic choice for national champion in the coaches poll.

"If it's a sloppy game and Florida State wins, you could make an argument that the Buckeyes are as good as anybody in the country," coach John Cooper said.

The Buckeyes had few problems against the Wrecking Crew defense of Texas A&M (11-3), but may have lacked the knockout punch they needed. Ohio State continually broke down once it crossed midfield, and Dan Stultz didn't help the cause by missing two field goals.

"I thought we played a real good, solid game tonight," Cooper said. "I thought we played a real good, solid team. I was a little disappointed at halftime that we didn't score a couple of more touchdowns."

The Aggies were making their first appearance in the Sugar Bowl since winning their only national championship 49 years ago.

Coach R.C. Slocum had said the Buckeyes should have a shot at sharing the national title, and he may know best as the only

Tech found way to lose game

By Stephen Hawkins
AP Sports Writer

SHREVEPORT, La. — Even with all of the odds seemingly in its favor, Texas Tech again found a way to lose a bowl game.

Mississippi had a new coach — one forced to learn the Ole Miss system rather than installing his own — a quarterback playing his first game since breaking his collarbone and was without No. 2 receiver Grant Heard, who suffered a knee injury during prebowl workouts. But when the Independence Bowl was over Thursday night, Ole Miss had beaten Texas Tech 35-18. The Red Raiders (7-5) dropped to 5-17-1 in postseason games, one of the worst records for teams with multiple bowl appearances.

"You know the sad thing about this game ... never in my life have I seen a team that I thought was more ready to play, one that had worked any harder," said Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes, who finished his 12th full season in the same game where he made his head coaching debut in 1986.

INDEPENDENCE BOWL

"The players had done anything we asked them and had really toed the line. I thought we would really play a heck of a game," said Dykes, whose 76 career victories are tied with Pete Cawthon for the most in school history.

Sophomore quarterback Romaro Miller, who broke his collarbone Nov. 21, set an Independence Bowl record with three touchdowns and Ducee McAllister scored three TDs — by run, pass and kickoff return — as the Rebels gave David Cutcliffe a winning debut.

Cutcliffe, the former offensive coordinator at top-ranked Tennessee, was hired Dec. 2 to replace Tommy Tuberville. He had a better debut than Dykes, who lost to Ole Miss 20-17 in the 1986 Independence Bowl.

Ole Miss had 355 total yards against Tech, which was ranked eighth nationally in total defense (285 yards per game).

"David didn't do anything out of the ordinary. He did exactly what he said he would do. They threw a few things in that we hadn't seen," Dykes said. "David Cutcliffe, under the circumstances, did a magnificent job."

Not only did he have less than a month to prepare his new team for a bowl game, Cutcliffe spent time in the hospital over Christmas because of an inflamed pancreas, a condition that was still causing him pain this week.

Texas Tech's only lead was 7-0 midway through the first quarter after a Miller fumble, caused by Kris Kocurek, was recovered by Ty Ardoin at the Ole Miss 25. Three plays later, Rob Peters threw a 22-yard TD to Derek Dorr.

Miller and McAllister took over after that, and Ole Miss (7-5) snapped a three-game losing streak with its first victory since Oct. 31.

Miller hit 14-of-23 passes for 216 yards and was the game's offensive MVP. McAllister had 27 carries for 79 yards, including a 4-yard TD run after an interception in the fourth quarter that extended the Ole Miss lead to 28-10.

Ole Miss led for good after McAllister turned a swing pass from Miller into a 32-yard TD and a 14-7 lead with 6:04 left in the second quarter. McAllister also had eight carries for 32 yards on the 75-yard drive.

In the final minute of the game, Texas Tech got a score when Kevin McCullar returned a fumble 14 yards for a TD. Ole Miss responded immediately on McAllister's 43-yard TD return of an onside kick.

After starting 6-0 for the first time since 1976, Texas Tech lost five of its last six games. The four regular-season losses were by a combined 14 points.

The Red Raiders have been to five bowls in the 1990s.

Michigan outscores Razorbacks, 45-31

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Anthony Thomas ran for 139 yards and three touchdowns, but defending national champion Michigan needed two TDs in the last 2 1/2 minutes to defeat No. 11 Arkansas 45-31 in the Citrus Bowl.

DiAllo Johnson's first touchdown of the season, on a 21-yard pass from Tom Brady, gave No. 15 Michigan the lead with 2:25 to play. Then James Whitley clinched the victory, returning an interception 26 yards for another TD.

Johnson's TD came on a five-play drive that started at the Arkansas 35 after the Razorbacks were forced to punt from their 4-yard line.

Michigan (10-3) let a 24-10 halftime lead get away before rallying for the victory.

Wisconsin holds off UCLA, 38-31

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Wisconsin felt right at home in the Rose Bowl — and really made UCLA wish it was somewhere else.

Ron Dayne ran for 246 yards and a record-tying four touchdowns Friday in a 38-31 victory over UCLA, which had to settle for playing in Pasadena after losing its shot at the national championship.

The sixth-ranked Bruins had hoped for a trip to Tempe, Ariz., for the Fiesta Bowl, but a loss to Miami on Dec. 5 gave them a game in their own back yard instead. With Badgers fans creating a sea of red at the Rose Bowl, however, UCLA must have felt as if it were on the road.

"We thought we were national champions a month ago," offensive tackle Kris Farris said. "I blame this on the offense. We gave them a touchdown and that's what won the game."

That touchdown came at the start of the fourth quarter with No. 9 Wisconsin ahead 31-28. Cade McNown's shotgun pass intended for DeShaun Foster was intercepted by Jamar Fletcher. He ran 46 yards down the Badgers' sideline for a touchdown and a 38-28 lead.

"Their crowd had a big part in that particular play," Bruins coach Bob Toledo said. "It did get pretty loud."

Some two-thirds of the crowd of 93,872 was clad in Wisconsin's colors, and many sported cheese heads. Wisconsin's fans also dominated the north end zone, making it nearly impossible for Foster to hear McNown's audible on the play.

"Most of the guys got it," McNown said. "When I went to toss it to the right, DeShaun was coming off a tackle. He ran the right pattern."

Dayne showed power up the middle and speed in the open field against UCLA's flimsy defense. He carried 27 times and scored on runs of 54, 7, 10 and 22 yards to lead Wisconsin to its first 11-victory season.

"It was a great football game; two teams playing very hard and a lot of guys making plays. We feel very fortunate to walk out of here with a win," Wisconsin coach Barry Alvarez said.

Dayne, a 253-pound tailback, finished 1 yard short of Charles White's Rose Bowl rushing yardage record when Badgers quarterback Mike Samuel dropped to one knee three times to run out the clock at the end. Alvarez said he wasn't aware that Dayne needed just 1 yard for the record.

UCLA joined Kansas State as a loser in a bowl game after dropping out of the running for the Fiesta Bowl on Dec. 5; Kansas State was upset by Purdue in the Alamo Bowl.

Neither Toledo nor his players would admit that the Rose Bowl was a disappointment for them, although both he and McNown have said they would prefer a playoff system to the Bowl Championship Series.

The Badgers (11-1), who until 1994 hadn't been to the Rose Bowl in 31 years and had never won the game, made it two victories in five years — both over UCLA.

Georgia Tech quashes Irish rally in Gator, 35-28

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Local product Dez White returned to Jacksonville and caught touchdown passes of 44 and 55 yards from Joe Hamilton, leading No. 12 Georgia Tech past No. 17 Notre Dame 35-28 in the Gator Bowl.

Trailing by a touchdown, the Irish got the ball twice in the final three minutes but were unable to gain a yard against Tech (10-2). Nate Stimson, who finished with 18 tackles and 2 1/2 sacks, ended the final drive by forcing a fumble that was recovered by defensive end Jesse Tarplin.

Hamilton finished with 237 yards and three TDs, ran for 19 yards and caught his first career pass, a 5-yard touchdown from running back Joe Burns. White caught four passes for 129 yards.

Autry Denson, Notre Dame's leading career rusher, had 130 yards and three touchdowns.

It was the fourth straight bowl loss for Notre Dame (9-3), which wore its green jerseys for the first time since the 1995 Fiesta Bowl.

Nittany Lions tame Couch

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Given a month to prepare, coach Joe Paterno had Penn State ready to deal with Kentucky quarterback Tim Couch.

Playing perhaps his last college game, Couch threw for 337 yards but was intercepted twice and sacked six times in the Outback Bowl as Penn State defeated Kentucky 26-14. After he threw a pair of first-quarter touchdowns passes, the nation's No. 12 defense shut him down the rest of the day.

For No. 22 Penn State (9-3), Kevin Thompson threw a 56-yard TD pass to Joe Nastasi, Chafie Fields scored on a 19-yard reverse and Travis Forney kicked an Outback Bowl-record four field goals.

St. Louis outscores Predators, 6-5

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Terry Yake scored with 44.7 seconds left, and Jamie McLennan was outstanding in relief of Grant Fuhr as the St. Louis Blues beat the Nashville Predators 6-5 Friday to snap a 10-game road winless streak. Yake got his third of the year by beating Predators goaltender Eric Fichaud from in front with a one-on-one effort. McLennan picked up his seventh win, stopping 17 of 18 shots.

Out-of-state artists continue love affair with rural small-town Texas

SAN ANGELO, Texas — They didn't have much money, but they had an old Mercury and a road map.

They wandered with an artist's sense of wonder and with a "curiosity for other times and other experiences."

Two artists — one from California, the other from the East — lived in San Angelo, Texas, in 1982. Living far from oceans or urbanity, landlocked in an endless sea of small towns, big pastures and endless roads, they began to explore farm towns in the surrounding area.

They described the beginning this way:

"It was during this time that our love affair with rural, small-town Texas began. The excursions became adventures and then turned into a bit of an obsession, which is still with us today.

"We were new to the area and the landscape. For two people who had spent most of their lives in far more urban environments, these small towns, some nearly extinguished, were fascinating and wonderful."

They started in Eden, wandering the town's streets and alleys, and "loved it."

They roamed farther, searching the state for weathered buildings, overgrown barns, places painted with a certain "patina of time."

They took photographs, pictures of a skinny little tumbleweed skittering across Sterling City's main street, an abandoned storefront in Melvin, a garden growing in a vacant lot between two buildings in Miles.

Even after they moved from San Angelo, from Texas, they kept returning to the little West Texas towns.

Sometimes, they found change: a new post office bustling where a decayed shed once stood, or a crumbling building that had been remodeled into a senior center.

Sometimes they found a scene as frozen in time as the images in their photographs.

"We stopped and photographed once in the town of Miles. One of the pictures was of two wire coat hangers dangling from a coat rack along the wall of a deserted building. Five years later we returned to Miles. We walked around the same few streets, taking a new batch of photographs. Among these was a shot of the same coat rack nailed into the same wall, with the two wire hangers still dangling from the same hook."

Those, the artists concluded, "are indeed quiet places."

What's your New Year's resolution?

As the old year ends and another year begins, we face a time of renewal and resolve to make changes in various aspects of our lives.

Thus New Year's resolutions are made once again. Alas, all too often, to be broken.

When and where did the practice of making New Year's resolutions begin? After researching this question, I still have no concrete answer, but found some observations I thought I would share with you.

In his book, "Celebrations: The Complete Book of American Holidays," Robert J. Myers writes:

"Resolutions: A Clean Slate
In order to have a clean slate on which to start the New Year, people in times past have made certain that they had no debts outstanding and that all borrowed objects had been returned. The day was begun in high spirits with the past forgotten. Those were the days, of course, before such complexities as credit buying.

The New Year's resolutions, which we are so fond of, represent other efforts to make the year brand new. In fact, we often say that in the New Year we are 'turning over a new leaf.'"

BECKY THORN

Belabored Thoughts

Maymie R. Krythe in "All About American Holidays," has some similar thoughts.

"While many Americans celebrate New Year's Eve in an hilarious fashion, others consider its arrival more seriously. Therefore, they 'take stock' of themselves, review their mistakes and failures of the past months, and following the advice of Sarah C. Woolsey, 'Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover,' resolve to do better.

Making New Year's resolutions has long been an American custom on this holiday. Even though some scoff at the idea, and few succeed in keeping all of their resolutions, we are encouraged in the attempt by the poet, Alfred Tennyson, who wrote:

I hold it truth with him who sings

To one clear harp on divers tones

That men may rise on stepping stones

Of their dead selves to higher things."

If your resolve to follow through with your New Year's resolutions tends to fade soon after Jan. 1, maybe you should be aware that, according to Chase's Calendar of Events, the entire month of January is "National Be On-Purpose Month." This is an observance to encourage us to start the new year by putting our good intentions into action, personally and professionally, and to trade confusion for clarity as we balance our lives with more meaning and purpose.

So what New Year's resolutions have you made? My only resolution is that I resolve not to make any New Year's resolutions. (Does that mean I've already broken my resolution?)

WHAT TO DO WITH FIGHTERS IN THE FAMILY

By Matilda J. Boozer
M.Ed., REC, SEC, CSAE, LPC, NCC, DAPA

The adult may ask the fighters to leave the room and develop a plan for solving their conflict. Because the fighters are disturbing the other activities in the room, the adult may ask them to reschedule their fight for another time and place. Usually the children react in shock and quietly join in the other family activities.

This works well if the children do not get the attention they are striving to get or in the case of power control issues. If they get the adult or dad and mom to lose it and start yelling or otherwise, they are in charge, not the adult. Never argue with a child or teen. You will lose and so will they. Stay in your adult mode.

Another technique is to sit three chairs in a semicircle. The adult sits between the two fighters and asks them to describe what happened. The adult repeats verbatim to Child A what Child B says, and then to B what A says. This continues until usually everyone ends up laughing. The adults limit themselves to conveying messages between A and B, refraining from making judgments or placing blame. Discussion of a plan for avoiding future conflicts may follow. This works well with teenagers.

In the case of children trying to get parents' attention, the following is suggested: The parents who have trouble with their children fighting can withdraw to the bedroom or bathroom until the fighting ceases. Precautions should be taken to prevent one child from harming the other.

Peer pressure and sibling pressure is often effective in helping fighting children change their behavior. A technique for reducing aggressiveness and rewarding cooperation can be arranged by the parent, adult care giver, or teacher. The adult can present the reward to the group and tell the reason for it. Fines for the misbehavior of a member can be levied on the group or family. The amount of the reward minus the fines is divided among group members at the end of the day.

For the child who continually misbehaves and causes the group to be fined, isolation techniques are suggested. The misbehaving child would neither receive a portion of the reward for the time spent in isolation nor be the cause of excessive fining when in isolation.

This works good in classes such as clubs, church or school. However, caution should be taken if the same child is constantly in isolation and special professional help for that child may be necessary.

Make sure the group, class, or family never scapegoats or blames any one member all the time. If this is happening, this technique needs not to be used and get help for him.

Artists

John Mattson returned to San Angelo last month for an exhibition of their photographs at the San Angelo Museum of Fine Arts.

Their exhibit, "Sojourn: Musings on Time and Place in Texas," will be on display at the museum through Jan. 17, along with another exhibit, "Wartime Sketches of Peter Hurd."

The two artists, who plan to move back to San Angelo, recently conducted an informal tour of their exhibit.

Their tour took museum visitors past pictures of a roofless building in Bronte, a domino parlor in Menard, a single Christmas decoration hanging from a lamp post in McCamey.

Some pictures — like a sign in Bronte declaring "keep out/baby rabbits," were humorous.

Some, like a brush-filled building in Talpa, seemed sad.

All had a sense of profound loneliness. Too much space. Too little time.

"We are confronted," the artists wrote in their exhibition notes, "with the overwhelming reality of lives passed on forever."

Amen. None of the small towns the artists visited are deserted ghost towns.

"Some places appear to be prospering and doing just fine," the artists wrote, "while others are mere clusters of deserted buildings. Often we encounter a combination of the two, vestiges of another time right along with the newest convenience store."

But either way, there's an undeniable difference in the rhythms of rural and urban life.

A small town's buildings reflect those rhythms.

"A grocery store or a gas station closes, a church or a school is no longer needed. One day someone walks out, closes the door for the last time and the building begins a journey toward oblivion. Perhaps in more urban areas where space is scarce the building would be remodeled for another endeavor or demolished to make way for something new. But in many small towns scattered across the wide expanse of Texas, unneeded buildings are simply left. The effects of wind, rain, heat and cold occur and, over a period of time, these places start to melt back into the earth.

"Paint peels, windows break, roofs cave in, structures crumble, trees and brush take over."

And the buildings, the empty places, are left to weather.

To time.
To artists.

"Etiquette means behaving yourself a little better than is absolutely essential." —Will Cuppy

As students return to classes tomorrow they should report to their first semester, first period class, as usual, to receive second semester schedules. There will be some class changes and this will be the easiest way to explain these changes.

Clayton Patton, our Geography Bee winner, will take the written State Qualifying Test on Wednesday. Notice should be received from the National Geographic Society by late February or early March about the scoring of the test.

TB tests for seventh graders and for those eighth graders who did not receive the testing as seventh graders will be given on Tuesday. Parents should have returned permission forms before the testing.

Wouldn't it be great if everyone made a New year's Resolution, and followed it, to always be the best that they could be? This would include, for adults as well as children, being responsible for actions, practicing a good moral code and expressing good conduct and manners. If this would happen, and it can, we would soon have no need for NSH, Saturday School, ISS and Primetime in our school system. These areas have much too high attendance and just good common behavioral practices could take care of this situation. This must be a joint effort of parents and school staff. When this happens, all students can have access to more time for quality education. We must not only "talk the talk" but we must "walk the walk." Too often "when all is said and done, there is more said than done."

Toastmasters hold meeting

Sharon Cramer presided at the regular Thursday morning meeting of Hereford Toastmasters at the Ranch House Restaurant.

Business included discussions of the installation of officers; the upcoming officers training in Amarillo; the Tall Tales contest to be held March 20 at the Ranch House Restaurant; and the Hereford Toastmasters' presentation of a January meeting of the Lions Club.

Wayne Winget served as toastmaster, Oscar Barrera III as timer and wordmaster, and Clark Andrews as AH counter and grammarian.

Winget was also topicmaster and the topic speakers were Andrews, Barrera and Margaret Del Toro.

Cramer was the lone speaker at the meeting. Her topic was "How to Birth a Song" and Del Toro served as evaluator.

One guest, Adolfo Del Toro, was in attendance.

Looking Back

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, Jan. 3, the third day of 1999. There are 362 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History:
On Jan. 3, 1777, Gen. George Washington's army routed the British in the Battle of Princeton, N.J.
On this date:
In 1833, Britain seized control of the Falkland Islands in the South Atlantic. (Almost 150 years later, Argentina seized the islands from the British, but Britain took them back after a 74-day war.)
In 1868, the Meiji Restoration re-established the authority of Japan's emperor and heralded the fall of military rulers known as "shoguns."
In 1938, the March of Dimes campaign to fight polio was organized.
In 1947, congressional proceedings were televised for the first time as viewers in Washington, Philadelphia and New York saw opening ceremonies of the 80th Congress.
In 1959, President Eisenhower signed a proclamation admitting Alaska to the Union as the 49th state.
In 1961, the United States severed diplomatic relations with Cuba.
In 1967, Jack Ruby, the man who shot accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, died in a Dallas hospital.
In 1990, ousted Panamanian leader Manuel Noriega surrendered to U.S. forces, 10 days after taking refuge in the Vatican's diplomatic mission.
In 1993, President Bush and Russian President Boris Yeltsin signed a historic nuclear missile-reduction treaty in Moscow.

Five years ago: The White House promised a government-wide effort to learn the extent of human radiation testing during the Cold War era. A deadly prison riot broke out in Maracaibo, Venezuela, claiming over a hundred lives.
One year ago: Funeral services were held in Centerville, Mass., for Michael Kennedy, the son of Robert and Ethel Kennedy who was killed New Year's Eve in a skiing accident in Aspen, Colo.
Today's Birthdays: Comedian Victor Borge is 90. Former U.S. ambassador Vernon Walters is 82. Sports-caster Hank Stram is 76. Record producer Sir George Martin is 73. Actor Robert Loggia is 69. Actor Dabney Coleman is 67. Journalist-author Betty Rollin is 63. Hockey Hall-of-Famer Bobby Hull is 60. Singer-songwriter-producer Van Dyke Parks is 56. Musician Stephen Stills is 54. Actress Victoria Principal is 49. Actor-director Mel Gibson is 43. Actress Shannon Sturges is 31. Jazz musician James Carter is 30. Actor Jason Marsden is 24. Actress Danica McKellar is 24.
Thought for Today: "I can forgive, but I cannot forget," is only another way of saying, "I will not forgive." Forgiveness ought to be like a canceled note — torn in two, and burned up, so that it never can be shown against one." — Henry Ward Beecher, American clergyman (1813-1887).

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I hope you can give me help for repeated urinary tract infections. This year alone I have had three bouts, all treated with antibiotics.
I am 85 and drink lots of water and cranberry juice. Is there anything more I can do? — M.G.
ANSWER: Urinary tract infections are the bane of women of all ages. Women's drainage channel from the bladder — the urethra — is shorter than men's, giving bacteria a ready access to the urinary tract. Furthermore, in a woman, the urethra opens in an area where there's a lush, bacterial lawn.
It's standard to separate urinary tract infections into those affecting the kidney — pyelonephritis — from those affecting the bladder — cystitis. Pyelonephritis is a more serious infection. It can damage the kidney and upset its blood-cleansing function.
With pyelonephritis, a woman knows she's sick. Back pain in the region of the kidneys dogs every waking hour. A raging fever is common, as are nausea and vomiting.
Cystitis features painful and frequent urination. Bladder infections create discomfort in the lower abdomen, just above the pelvic bones.
Urinary infections can spring up when there's a structural defect in the urinary tract, such as a fallen bladder.

If there's an anatomical flaw, surgical correction prevents repeated infections.
After menopause, the waning of estrogen alters the kinds of bacteria surrounding the urinary tract outlet. Troublemaking bacteria proliferate at the expense of law-abiding bacteria. Estrogen creams applied to the vagina reduce the number of renegade bacteria.
Repeated infections sometimes force women to take a daily low dose of antibiotics to prevent recurrences. Ask your doctor about the wisdom of this approach for you.
DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A friend of mine has a scab on his arm. He often scratches it off. It's been there for over a year. I'm concerned but he refuses to see a doctor for such a small problem. Any advice will be appreciated. — R.K.
ANSWER: Your friend might not have a "small" problem. A sore that doesn't heal can be cancer. Tell your friend that Donohue has decreed that he must show this sore to his doctor. Donohue accepts nothing less than complete obedience to his decrees.
Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

—YOUR EYES—
TWITCHY EYELIDS
You're sitting at your computer and all of a sudden, one eyelid starts fluttering like crazy. It lasts a few seconds but then comes back again a little while later and frequently over the next couple of days. You can't help but imagine something is wrong with your eyes.
Generally, this twitching or quivering is related to fatigue or stress. If it happens, take a look at what's going on in your life. Are you working too much? Are you sitting at your computer for hours and hours? You may need to give your eyes a break for a couple of days. Also, try gently massaging the affected eyelid. This can relieve the twitch.
Eye twitches are almost always harmless but can be very irritating and distracting. If it persists over time, see your doctor.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

A One-Year Countdown to 2000

By the time you read this, some of you will have already broken a few of your New Year's resolutions. Others will approach this year as you have every previous year. Ho hum, so what else is new?

What's new is that we are on the brink of a new millennium. An exciting, once-every-thousand-years experience that we will never witness again.

In early 1900, the New York Times chronicled the new century with these editorial comments: "The advance of the human race during the past one hundred years has not been equaled by the progress of man within any of the preceding ages." The Times could rewrite that editorial and apply it to this century as well. What a glorious century it has been.

As Americans read the paper that day in 1900 they never dreamed of headlines to come. No one expected World War I, the stock market crash, the ensuing depression and World War II, manned flight and space travel. Television, computers and car phones were not on their minds.

Now, as we countdown the days to 2000, we are in no better position to predict the future than were they. Global economies will rise and fall, trends will come and go and leaders will succeed and fail. Only the master timekeeper will know the course of events.

When we awaken on January 1, 2000, we will face a brand new day just as we did today. There will be problems to solve, jobs that need doing and reasons for action.

The New Century

Let's take a whimsical journey into the first century of the new millennium. As a trained engineer, your job is to find new uses for things made obsolete. For example, what to do with those hallowed halls of now empty colleges and universities. The new Laser Optic Brain Cell Information Transfer Technology (Lobcitt) patented in early 2008 allows transfer of all knowledge directly into the human mind. No professors, classrooms or textbooks are needed. For a one-time fee of $25,000 you can become a true know-it-all.

You also have the challenge of what to do with all those empty hospitals and medical centers. The new medical breakthrough, Gene Engineering matrixing (GEM) provides total wellness through gene positioning and manipulation. There is no more cancer, no more heart disease, and no more addiction.

Other of your associates' struggle with the issues created in the changing retail environment. Once the Molecular Optimizing Virtual Enhancing Imaging Technology (MOVE-IT) became popular, folks no longer go to stores to shop. They simply log into their T-boxes and transport items into their homes via the MOVE-IT system. They keep what they want and beam the others back to their manufacturers.

T-boxes replaced personal computers in 2007. These new "technology-boxes" are the size of a credit card, radio wave powered, voice activated and directed, and require no operating system or software. Bill Gates took bankruptcy in 2008. The government dismissed Microsoft's anti-trust investigation in 2010. They cited Microsoft's 2008 revenues of $519 as evidence that the company no longer held a monopoly position.

Ford Motor Company produced the last Sports Utility Vehicle (SUV) in 2011. The latest transportation rage is the Chrysler built Flying Aquatic Regional Transporter, affectionately referred to as... "the Runabout." GM and Ford are testing prototypes of their new plane/boat/car vehicles.

Harley-Davidson acquired Japan's Honda Motor Company for $1.3 trillion and free lifetime golf for all Honda directors. Harley will produce its 2012 models in the old Honda factories. City commissioners from Milwaukee, WI, annexed Sturgin, SD, in a surprise move last month.

I'd love to tell you more, but I've got to beam this column to the "Netpaper." Funny thing about columns, deadlines still apply.

Between the Covers

By MARTHA RUSSELL

Weighed down by those holiday debts? Deaf Smith County Library can't pay off your credit cards, but we can do something about your fines. This week, Jan. 4-9, has been declared Amnesty Week. What that means to you is that, if you have a fine, all you have to do is ask, and we will dismiss the fine. This doesn't include fees for lost or damaged books or Inter-Library Loan postage, but if you have a fine already on your record from overdue materials or failure to rewind a video, you may have this fine dismissed.

Do you have a book long overdue that you just hate to bring in because of the fine and the embarrassment? This is the week to do it. We promise not to make fun, and your fine will be dismissed, if you request it.

Even if you don't remember having a fine, you might check on it. There are fines on some records from years ago!

Start the New Year with a clean record on your library card. Remember, however, we are not automatically dismissing fines. You MUST ask, and it MUST be this week, Jan. 4-9.

Bibliomaniacs, bargain hunters, and bibliophiles will be happy to know that the Annual Friends of the Library Book Sale will begin Friday, Jan. 8. Friday night, the sale will be held from 5 to 9 p.m. for Friends members only. Saturday, Jan. 9, the sale will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

If you are not already a Friends member, you may remedy that at the door of the sale. Dues are only $3 for an individual and $6 per family.

You need to come see the sale, even if you don't think you want to buy anything. It's quite a sight. We have set up tables (some of them new ones given to us by the Friends group) in the Heritage Room in the basement of the library. The tables are covered with all kinds of books.

There are thousands of volumes of fiction, hundreds of nonfiction, magazines, collector's items, how-to's, children's books, encyclopedias, and you name it. The books come to us from people who are moving, cleaning, or just getting rid of extra stuff and donate their unneeded books to the library. The sale also contains books that have been withdrawn from the library shelves in the weeding process. We have been having a great time, just unloading the boxes.

Books are priced at 25¢ for hardbacks, 10¢ for paperbacks, and 5¢ for magazines. There are some sets of encyclopedias very reasonably priced. You can't pass up a deal like this.

With the holidays over, the long winter is about to set in for real. Does that sound depressing? It doesn't have to! Not by a long shot! This is the perfect time of year to catch up on your reading. Wrap up in a quilt, curl up in the recliner, and let a book carry you to distant places and times. Don't forget the hot chocolate!

New books for this week include Raveled Ends of Sky by Linda Sandifer, a Women of the West novel. Nancy Maguire, a blue blood from Boston, does not envision her future the same way her family does. Instead of marrying within her social circle and raising a family in the east, Nancy dreams of going west where her vision of owning a horse ranch can come true.

When she starts the journey west, she learns that even in the frontier women do not have the rights or equalities of men. And even more shocking is the realization that women of her traveling group don't trust her independence, and the men are threatened by it.

With integrity, stamina, and willfulness, Nancy travels across the wild frontier on her feisty mare and with a wagon full of goods. She is accompanied by Hart, a love she never expected to find, and Lottie, an irreplaceable friend. On the way they face starvation, Indian warfare, and thieves, and discover the true meaning of independence.

Another book with a western flavor is Enemy Way by Aimee and David Thurlo. Ella Clah, once an FBI agent, is now a Special Investigator with the Navajo police force. She walks a fine line between the Navajo and white worlds, fully accepted by neither but needed by both.

When the evils of the modern Anglo world make inroads on the reservation, gangs, alcoholism, and drunk driving stretch the native police to the limit. They rally to Ella's side, however, when her mother, Rose, is seriously injured in a car accident. The offending driver was falling-down drunk and a repeat offender, challenging Ella's ability to hold her temper. Rose's recovery is slow, hampered by her feeling that her time on earth is soon over. Ella and her medicine man brother work hard to keep Rose feeling connected to her family and her people.

Then Ella receives word that Lisa Aspass, the fiancée of her old friend Wilson Joe, has been murdered, apparently in a gang-related robbery. Ella is shocked to discover signs of skinwalker activity in Lisa's home. Was her friend's fiancée a Navajo witch? And what does that mean to Ella's family, who have been enemies with the witches for generations?

The Love of a Good Woman by Alice Munro is a collection of stories that explore the vagaries of love, the passion that leads down unexpected paths, the chaos hovering just under the surface of things, and the strange, often comical desires of the human heart.

Dark River Legacy by B.J. Hoff is another of the Christian fiction Daybreak Mysteries which feature the husband and wife team of Daniel and Jennifer Kaine. Each book finds the two reluctant sleuths in the thick of sinister plots and dangerous mysteries that challenge both their love and their faith.

Other new books this week are:

- The Balloon Man by Charlotte Macleod.
- Traitor's Sun by Marion Zimmer Bradley.
- Creative Rubber Stamping Techniques by Maryjo McGraw.
- All About the Second Coming by Herbert Lockyer.
- Cooking Light Annual Recipes 1999
- Type II Diabetes Sourcebook by David Ruml and Terry Zierenberg, R.N.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I recently came across this newspaper clipping from The Ledger in Lakeland, Fla., which I had saved from a few years back. I kept it to show to friends because I thought it was hilarious. I'm hoping you will agree and print it as one of your "unusual lawsuit" letters. The story originally appeared in La Stampa and La Repubblica newspapers in Italy, but you don't have to be Italian to appreciate it. — Snowbird from Ithaca, N.Y.

Dear Snowbird: Thanks for my laugh of the day. A while back, I wrote, "In America, the land of the brave and home of the free, anybody can sue anybody for anything." Well, it looks like the same can be said of some countries outside of the United States. Here's the story:

It seems a couple of car-crossed lovers are suing for damages, claiming an unplanned pregnancy resulted from an automobile accident in Naples' "love park." The lawsuit is the result of an accident involving a medium-sized Regata and a small Panda car. The accident occurred in a park that nightly attracts dozens of lovers who make love in their cars.

The young man claimed he and his girlfriend were engaged in amorous activity in their small car when the larger car hit them from behind. The impact momentarily caused them to lose control, resulting in the pregnancy. Meanwhile, dear readers, since we are on the subject of strange happenings, how do you like this one sent in by Betty of Wood River, Ill.:

A 58-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., woman was released from prison after serving one year for manslaughter. She was sentenced in 1981 to eight years in prison for fatally shooting her boyfriend. But because of a bureaucratic mix-up, no one arrived to take her away. She continued to live quietly at home and never hid from the law.

Finally, a tip led prison officials to the forgotten convict's door in May 1997, and the Florida woman began serving time. It seems the letter notifying her that she would be going to jail went to the wrong address. So, for the next 16 years, she raised her children, helped raise her grandchildren, went to church and spent many hours sitting on her front porch. Her sentence was commuted by the state clemency board after her lawyer argued successfully that she had essentially served probation at home.

Dear Ann Landers: After reading the letter from "Dog Lover in N.Y.," I had to write. "Dog Lover" was amazed that her friends had shelled out $750 to put their dogs in doggie camps. You responded with a quote from your grandmother, "Dogs should be with dogs, and people should be with people." Thankfully, the thousands who work with and benefit from pet-assisted therapy don't share your grandmother's views.

When my mother suffered a severe stroke, I put my dog, Kadie, in an airline carry-on bag and flew to my parents' home. Mom's crooked smile told me she was glad to see me, but her eyes reflected anxiety. When Kadie started to lick Mom's face, I saw hope and happiness come back into her eyes.

I then joined a local volunteer organization called Paws Across Texas. Kadie and I work as a registered therapy team, visiting nursing homes and hospitals. I witnessed a hardened street kid turn into a caring child when he gave my tired dog a drink of water out of a paper cup. I saw a handicapped person bury her face in the dog's fur and laugh with delight. And I've seen how it brightens the day of lonely seniors in a nursing home when Kadie cuddles next to them in bed. — L.A. in Euless, Texas

Dear L.A.: Get out the wet noodle. My grandmother was wrong. The beautiful, warm-hearted letters from dog lovers have convinced me that a dog can indeed be man's best friend.

Asian economic problems plague northwest producers

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Pacific Northwest farmers will continue to feel the effects of Asia's economic downturn next year, according to a panel of economists.

The region is more vulnerable than the rest of the nation to reduced exports to Asia, but should continue to benefit from high consumer spending and employment, the economists said in the 1999 Pacific Northwest Agricultural Situation and Outlook Report.

Still, economists from Washington State University, Oregon State University and the University of Idaho forecast another bad year in 1999 for some of the region's biggest crops: apples, wheat, potatoes and beef.

Neil Meyer, a University of Idaho economist, said Asia's economic problems are hurting the national and regional economies by shrinking demand for U.S. products.

Asian economic problems will continue to affect the bottom line at Northwest farms, the economists said.

Although wheat growers can expect an additional 40 cents a bushel for their crop next year, it won't be enough to thwart a third straight year of depressed prices.

World wheat and grain markets have more than adequate supplies this year, contributing to prices that are at the lowest levels this decade, Idaho economist Larry Makus said.

The 1997-1998 world wheat crop is the largest ever at 611 million metric tons. The forecast 1998-1999 crop, at nearly 586 million metric tons, would be the third-largest in history.

Farm-gate prices for white wheat, the predominant kind grown in the Northwest, are forecast at $2.60 to $2.80 per bushel, just above the low of $2.60 a bushel in 1990-91, Makus said.

Northwest farmers, who got about $2.60 per bushel in September, must pay an additional 35-50 cents per bushel to ship their crops to Portland, Ore., for overseas export.

"Market fundamentals provide little encouragement for a substantial price rally for the remainder of the 1998-99 marketing year," Makus said.

Record crops also will hurt apple growers, Washington State University economist R. Thomas Schotzko said.

The domestic apple market has been stagnant for several years, and Asia's economic woes continue to reduce potential international sales, he said.

Even though Asian sales are expected to improve somewhat, there will be stiff competition from China. Sales to Mexico should continue to be a bright spot for farmers, who produced 22 percent more apples in 1998 than in 1997, Schotzko said.

Potato growers, meanwhile, will lose money on their crop for the second consecutive year, the report said. Northwest growers could benefit from sales to Europe, where Dutch fields were wiped out by a hard frost.

And, livestock producers should see improved prices in 1999 because of the smallest production since 1951, but that may not be enough to be profitable for many cattlemen.

This year's economy, however, is proving to be stronger than most forecasters anticipated, with inflation-adjusted growth of 3.5 percent.

"Unemployment is well below 5 percent. With commodity prices falling, there is very little overall inflation," said Oregon State University economist Paul Warner.

Officials seek solution to pork producers plight

Task force tackles oversupply, lending policy

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Pork producers, struggling with their lowest prices in 40 years, are trying to find a solution to their plight.

"The pork industry is in shambles," said Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Tommy Irvin. "Prices have been falling steadily ... and everybody in the business is losing money."

An oversupply of hogs has caused pork prices to drop to less than $10 per hundred-weight in some areas of the country, down from $46.50 just a year ago.

Georgia pork producers met Monday with Irvin, Georgia Farm Bureau representatives and U.S. Department of Agriculture officials to look for ways to resolve the problem of plunging pork prices.

Roger Bernard, executive director of the Georgia Pork Producers Association, said some meat packing plants closed in the Midwest last summer, leaving the nation with more hogs than the industry can slaughter.

Bernard said some of Georgia's 400 pork producers are losing $50 to $75 per hog because of the low prices.

"That's disastrous," he said. "It's possible some of our producers may not be able to withstand the market problems."

Rodney Newton, a Jefferson pork producer and president of the state association, said he believes the prices will stay low for several months, until the supply dwindles.

"If it doesn't improve soon, there's not going to be much of the industry left," he said.

The situation is so bad that former President Jimmy Carter intervened earlier this month on behalf of the state's hog farmers.

Carter wrote to President Clinton asking for emergency low-interest loans for hog farmers battling what he termed "the most serious crisis among farmers that I have witnessed since the Great Depression."

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman also has gotten involved.

Glickman has formed a task force to find ways to help hog producers. He also is working with Congress, governors and the heads of major slaughterhouses to try to increase the number of hogs that are butchered.

And, he has announced that the USDA would temporarily stop lending money for new pork production plants.

Irvin has talked to Glickman about the crisis as well. "I told him we need the USDA to lend any assistance they could to get us through this serious situation," he said.

Scientists develop catch and release lady-bug trap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department scientists have developed a new indoor trap that uses a blacklight to lure and then capture flying bugs.

The trap doesn't harm the insects. Instead, the captured bugs are caught in a bag that has a non-stick surface. The bugs can be subsequently released or disposed of.

The department said the trap is useful in catching harmless, but sometimes annoying, ladybugs that can enter homes in large numbers during the fall.

"We urge people not to kill these lady beetles," said Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman. "They're harmless."

In tests, the trap captured nearly 100 percent of Asian multicolored lady beetles, known to scientists as Harmosia axyridis, an imported species.

ation," he said.

In Des Moines, Iowa, meanwhile, a special legislative committee was convened Monday to consider what to do about what many see as a crisis in the hog industry.

But John Lawrence, a livestock economist at Iowa State University, told the lawmakers that there is little they can do right now to turnaround pork prices.

Instead, he urged lawmakers to focus on long-term issues such as restructuring the debt of farmers who have lost equity because of tumbling hog prices.

The number of hogs slaughtered has soared past 2 million a week, straining the ability of the meatpacking industry to keep pace, Lawrence said. With supplies huge, prices tumble, he said.

One bit of good news for farmers is that this year's losses haven't wiped out profits hog producers made in 1996 and 1997, Lawrence said.

Lawrence predicted that seasonal variations will begin to reduce the number of hogs being sent to slaughter, a change that is likely to begin moving prices back up.

"I think by the first of February we're going to see prices start to inch back up," Lawrence said.

"We're in a waiting game, waiting for the numbers to decline," he said. "There's not a lot we can do in the short run."

Increased respiratory problems due to CAFO manure, odor, and dust

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — As debate intensifies over the safety of large hog confinement facilities, researchers and public health officials are looking at the health risks posed not just by manure, but also by odors.

Researchers at the University of Iowa recently found an unusually high rate of respiratory problems among people who lived near a 4,000-sow hog confinement facility, the Omaha World-Herald reported in Monday editions.

The symptoms were similar to those documented among hog confinement workers over the past two decades in some two dozen studies worldwide.

"The change has been with the emergence of these very large facilities," Kendall Thu, associate director of the university's Center for Agricultural Safety and Health, told the World-Herald. "The gases and dust that we know exist on the inside are being transferred to the exterior."

The concern adds to fears and questions about what happens if manure from large operations gets into the environment.

Researchers studying health risks posed by odor and dust have the more complex problem of trying to determine which among the 200 or so compounds produced by hog manure may be causing respiratory symptoms.

The federal government does not have outdoor standards for many of the compounds associated with odors, including the toxic gases hydrogen sulfide and ammonia. But both gases are regulated indoors under Occupational Health and Safety Administration rules intended to protect workers.

Most states do not regulate the gases in outdoor air, either. Nebraska has an outdoor air standard for hydrogen sulfide, but it is on hold pending the outcome of a lawsuit.

Until now, most research on odors has focused on finding out what makes hog manure

TCFA officials predict slightly better 1999

Cattlemen across the area may have a glimmer of hope for a slightly better year in 1999.

Jim Gill, market director for the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, told cattle feeders at the TCFA Yearend News Conference, "The outlook for 1999 is a mixed bag, with a few bright spots to provide encouragement to cattle feeders."

Leading those bright spots will be the drop in beef supplies.

Gill estimates 1999 beef production will drop 5 percent to 24.4 billion pounds — down 1.2 billion pounds.

"This will be the first year to show a decrease in beef production since 1993," Gill said.

TCFA President/CEO Richard McDonald said this year's beef production, 25.6 billion pounds, is second only to the record amount produced in 1976 — 25.7 billion pounds.

McDonald noted that in 1976, cattlemen had to feed and raise approximately 128 million head of cattle. This year's production required only 99.5 million head.

The reduction of numbers is due primarily to better quality cattle which produce more lean, useable meat than did the animals of the 1970s.

Another ray of hope for cattlemen is the expected decrease in the average carcass weight.

"Average weights are expected to be lower than the record weight of 724 pounds of 1998, dropping to a more normal 700-705 pounds," Gill said.

The extreme carcass size is an end result of cattle being pulled off pasture early, due to the 1998 drought which damaged so many pastures, and being fed for longer periods, while owners waited for better prices.

Gill expects cattle feeders to see a slightly better market for the coming year with market prices ranging from a low of $55 per cwt to $70 per cwt.

"Prices, which averaged near $76 per cwt in 1998 will likely remain steady during 1999, provided the fed cattle market moves higher next year."

Cattlemen can expect continued competition from glutted pork and poultry industries, said McDonald, which will help keep the lid on fed cattle prices.

Gill said the 1999 pork production is expected to increase by 1 percent and get close to the 19 billion pound mark.

Poultry production is also expected to increase to more than 36 billion pounds.

"Retail prices may edge higher," said Gill. "But, competition from record pork and poultry supplies will temper any price increase," predicted Gill.

smell, how to measure those odors and how to control them or on their effects on workers.

The National Pork Producers Council has two odor initiatives under way, including a $3.5 million program to test solutions to odor problems, such as those caused by hydrogen sulfide and ammonia.

Among livestock confinement workers, said Dr. Kelley Donham, director of the Iowa safety center, roughly 25 percent to 30 percent develop respiratory symptoms such as chronic bronchitis, occupational asthma, chronic sinusitis and organic dust syndrome.

The latter is an influenza-like ailment that can set in when people are exposed to higher-than-normal levels of dust.

Even the modern hog confinement facilities, with their reputations for cleanliness, can be dusty, said Donham, a former swine veterinarian who had problems working in confined barns.

The dust, fine particles that can settle into tiny air sacs deep in the lungs, come primarily from dried manure, grain and hog skin.

Emissions such as ammonia, hydrogen sulfide and methane come from the breakdown of animal waste, stored either in open, outdoor lagoons or in large pits beneath barns. The gases can be released in big doses when manure is agitated.

Some 19 people nationwide have died in accidents involving hydrogen sulfide releases in manure pits.

Outdoors, health and environmental officials are just starting to measure the gases and trying to determine whether they are affecting neighbors' health.

Studies in North Carolina, the Iowa study and research in Minnesota all have found cause for concern.

The House of the Week

Award Winning Design

By BRUCE A. NATHAN
AP Newsfeatures

A well-conceived combination of a traditional exterior and modern interior spaces makes plan G-93, by HomeStyles Designers Network, an aesthetic delight. This most unusual two-story home provides 2,696 square feet of living space.

A winner in a recent national design competition, this home has a facade that has a lot of character. The focus is on the front-entry covered porch which has decorative columns that support a curved shed roof.

The two-story foyer is an impressive setting for greeting guests. Graceful arched openings and pillars separate the foyer from the formal dining room and the central great room. Here, a fireplace and views of a backyard patio create a space that is certain to be in frequent use.

The gourmet kitchen has everything for the family chef. Among its features are an island cooktop, a walk-in pantry and a snack bar that is shared by the sunny breakfast room. A utility room is located nearby.

Across the home, double doors introduce the main-floor master suite which includes a private porch and a personal bath. A garden tub, separate shower, private toilet, dual sinks and a large walk-in closet are featured here.

Another bedroom and a compartmentalized bath round out the main floor. Two more bedrooms are located upstairs along with a third full bath and a loft reading area under a dormer. A central game room features access to a corner deck.

G-93 STATISTICS

Design G-93 has a great room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room, game room, loft, four bedrooms, three baths and a utility room, totaling 2,696 square feet of living space. This plan includes a crawlspace or slab foundation, and 2x4 exterior wall framing. The attached two-car garage and storage area adds 528 square feet to the plan.

FROM THE FOYER, the dining room unfolds to the left. Straight ahead is the great room which has access to the rear patio. The combined kitchen and breakfast room is to the left. The utility room is nearby, and provides access to the two-car garage. Across the home the master bedroom and private bath, as well as another bedroom and a full bath, complete the main floor. Upstairs, a game room is located between two more bedrooms and includes a full bath and a deck.

Fiesta Bowl marks last call for sportscasting legend

Monday, ABC sportscaster Keith Jackson steps into the broadcast booth for the last time in his 40-year broadcasting career to call the 1999 College Football Fiesta Bowl - Florida State vs. Tennessee. For 32 years, Jackson has served as the voice of ABC's college football coverage, 12 of those with colleague Bob Griese.

True to form, Keith Jackson has tried to suggest that his final game as America's voice of college football is a non-story. The legendary announcer's last call will be ABC's College Football Fiesta Bowl - Florida State vs. Tennessee on Monday, Jan. 4, the first national title collision of the controversial Bowl Championship Series.

The resounding refrain of "Whoa, Nellie!" and other familiar Jacksonisms marks an outstanding 40-year broadcast career, 32 of those years as ABC's college gridiron voice.

Jackson, teaming with former Miami Dolphins star Bob Griese for the last time in their smooth dozen-year partnership, will make the Tennessee-Florida State duel for No. 1 a significant last hurrah.

"When it's over, I'll hold the door for my wife of 46 years, Turi Ann, and say 'See you. Goodbye. It's been nice to be around college football,'" he says.

Griese says that lack of ego isn't unusual. "At our first game," he recalls, "Keith said to me, 'All right, what do you want to do?' I said, 'You're the guy who's Mr. College Football.'"

Others in the field are quick to acknowledge Jackson's place. CBS' Sean McDonough says his own brother told him he's only the second-best announcer in college football. Sports-caster Jim Nantz says he's never met Jackson, but "when that Saturday night rolled around with the big Tennessee-Mississippi State game (for the Southeastern Conference title), I watched with great reverence."

Billy Packer, CBS' veteran college basketball analyst, has known Jackson a long time and knows why he's No. 1. "Keith has tremendous passion for the game and never thought he was bigger than the game," Packer explains. "He never said, 'I am the show!' That's why he's so great. He loves what he does and calls it like he sees it. Anyone who ever heard or knows him will tell you he's a first-class guy."

Jackson is known for being direct and never masking how he feels. He'll tell you this Bowl Championship Series is not the best idea, though ABC is airing all the BCS bowls. "I've long believed there should be four teams in a championship playoff," he adds.

Developments before, during and after ABC's Dec. 5 "Championship Saturday" illustrate his point. When Tennessee staged a fourth-quarter rally to overcome Mississippi State, Miami shocked UCLA, and Texas A&M upset Kansas State, some thought Ohio State or UCLA should play Tennessee for the national title - not Florida State.

Tennessee boasts a tremendous combination in quarterback Tee Martin and receiver Peerless Price. Martin hit Price with a 41-yard scoring aerial down the left sideline to cinch the SEC prime-time climax against Mississippi State.

Jackson's take on Tennessee's title hopes: "Scoring with Tennessee playing Florida State will be like pulling a nail out of hard oak!"

ABC is dressing for the occasion in Tempe, Ariz., with John Saunders and Todd Blackledge manning the on-site Fiesta Bowl studio and Lynn Swann roaming the sidelines as usual. But Jackson is the man who'll be missed after Monday.

Timing is crucial for athletes - and announcers, it appears. "You want to go when it's time," Jackson says in that distinctive tone. "You're better off if you go a little early. It's the perfect time."

HOROSCOPES

★ ★ January 3-9 ★ ★ ★

ARIES - March 21/April 20

Don't hold a grudge against a good friend, Aries. He or she may have created a problem for you, but his or her intentions were good. Let go of your anger, and work with him or her to remedy the situation. A loved one offers romantic advice. Listen to what's being said. It really can help.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

Don't let the little things get to you this week. Take them in stride, and keep working hard. Your efforts will pay off by the weekend. That special someone takes you out for a night on the town this weekend. Enjoy yourself; you deserve it. Sagittarius plays an important role.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Things are looking up for you this week, Gemini. The stress of the past few days is gone, and you finally can relax. Take some time to catch up on the little things that you haven't been able to do -- return phone calls, read the mail, straighten your home. A close friend needs your advice about a personal problem. Be supportive.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

Calm down, Cancer. Don't get stressed out over a minor problem at work. It's not worth it. Just do what you can to improve the situation. That's all anyone expects of you. A loved one talks to you about a potentially lucrative deal. Don't jump in feetfirst. Look at all of the pros and cons.

LEO - July 23/August 23

An old friend needs your help. Do what you can -- even though the two of you haven't been very close lately. This situation can bring you together again. A co-worker wants to introduce you to his or her good friend. Don't agree to it; it only will cause you a lot of headaches. Libra plays a key role late in the week.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

Several people are depending on you to get an important project done this week, Virgo. Don't let them down. If you stay focused on your work and don't get distracted by those around you, you'll finish everything on time. A friend asks you for a favor. Don't automatically say yes, because he or she isn't telling the whole truth.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

You have a lot on your mind this week. Don't keep it all bottled up. Talk to a loved one or close friend. He or she will help you sort out your thoughts and make some crucial decisions. That special someone has a surprise for you on Friday. Enjoy!

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Even though you're a loyal friend, don't lie for someone close to you this week, Scorpio. You want to protect him or her, but you can't. This person has to accept responsibility for what he or she has done. A loved one wants your help with a family matter. Do what you can. Your efforts will be appreciated.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't let an argument with a loved one get you down, Sagittarius. Neither one of you meant the things that you said; you both just had to let off some steam. The two of you will realize this by the week's end, and things will get back to normal. An interesting acquaintance asks you out. Say yes.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't be shy when it comes to meeting a business associate early in the week. He or she really could enhance your financial situation. Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. You meet an interesting stranger while out with a friend. Don't leave without getting his or her number. This could be the one.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

When it comes to your to-do list this week, be realistic. You know how much you can handle and how much is too much. Don't be afraid to ask for help. A family friend asks for your input on a personal problem. Do what you can, and be supportive. Virgo plays a key role.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Keep your sense of humor as things get hectic this week, Pisces. There's a lot going on, and you're caught in the middle of everything. Remember to laugh at the absurd, and things will be better than you expect.

Sunday on NBC, an intensely focused criminal (Robert De Niro) meets his match when he goes up against an equally dedicated homicide detective in the 1995 cops-and-robbers drama Heat.

IN FOCUS

Melina Kanakaredes stars as Sydney, a young cosmetic surgeon who leaves the fast track of Los Angeles and returns home to a quieter life in Providence, premiering Friday, Jan. 8, on NBC.

Tired of coddling overprivileged teen-agers, Sydney heads back to her hometown after the death of her mother. As her family struggles to adjust, she shoulders the burden of caring for her veterinarian father (Mike Farrell) and her brother, sister and baby niece.

Musician Ani DiFranco narrates the four-part miniseries The Mississippi: River of Song. Part 1, "Americans Old and New," airs Wednesday, Jan. 6, on PBS (check local listings).

Traveling from an Ojibwe powwow in northern Minnesota to the bandstands of New Orleans, the documentary offers performances by a wide variety of musicians who were inspired by the mighty river.

A range of styles is presented, from traditional folk to blues, soul, jazz and rock.

The willful Bella Wilfer (Anna Friel) is courted by dust-heap heir John Harmon (Steven Mackintosh) in the PBS adaptation of Charles Dickens' Our Mutual Friend. Part 1 airs Sunday (check local listings).

Dickens' Mutual Friend spins gold from dust

By John Crook

©TVData Features Syndicate

Four seasons after presenting acclaimed adaptations of Charles Dickens' Martin Chuzzlewit and Hard Times, PBS' Masterpiece Theatre returns to the author's imposing body of work for a story of love, greed and "dust" with an adaptation of Our Mutual Friend, the last novel Dickens completed before his death.

The six-hour story unfolds in three parts, Sunday, Jan. 3, through Tuesday, Jan. 5, and demands the undivided attention of Masterpiece Theatre viewers.

While many literary critics consider this vast work to be Dickens' true masterpiece - producer Catherine Wearing calls it "his Greek tragedy" - it is probably among the author's lesser-known works in the United States.

As host Russell Baker points out, the expansive canvas of the story is dominated by two love stories. In the first, beautiful but callow Bella Wilfer (Anna Friel, The Land Girls) is tentatively courted by the mysterious John Rokesmith (Steven Mackintosh, Prime Suspect 5: Errors of Judgment), who really is - follow this carefully, now - John Harmon, the heir to an immense dust (rubbish recycling) business who mistakenly is believed dead. John takes advantage of this to make sure Bella loves him and not his fortune.

In the second love story, which grows in precedence as the plot unfolds, Lizzie Hexam (Keeley Hawes), the enchanting but poor daughter of a corpse robber, is pursued by both arrogant barrister Eugene Wrayburn (Paul McGann) and schoolmaster Bradley Headstone (David Morrissey), whose name hints at the secrets he conceals.

Wearing unblushingly calls Our Mutual Friend "the greatest novel by the greatest novelist" and reminds viewers that in his time Dickens enjoyed celebrity like today's pop stars.

"Thousands of people came to hear him read," she says. "I think of him as the equivalent of Madonna."

Well, the 19th-century author might agree with the modern pop diva that "we are living in a material world," but Dickens could spin gold from rubbish - or in this case, dust.

Keep an eye out for our newest cartoon.

Q: Where can I write to thank Lifetime for Any Day Now? I grew up in Birmingham, Ala., back in the 1950s, and these two women are just like people I knew. I worry that it may be canceled. -Mary M. Henson via e-mail.

A: "We are so thrilled and committed to Any Day Now," Lifetime executive Paul Reader says of the drama series starring Annie Potts and Lorraine Toussaint. "We are getting tons of letters from all over the country."

The series recently was hailed as the season's best new drama by Viewers for Quality Television. A second season looks almost certain, although that decision will be made in weeks to come.

Send your letter to Viewer Services, Lifetime, World Wide Plaza, 309 W. 49th St., New York, NY 10019.

Q: Has Martha Stewart Living been canceled? It has been replaced by Guiding Light here in the Los Angeles area. -F.D., Ontario, Calif.

A: Stewart's show continues to air, although other readers have reported that it has disappeared from their TV markets. Syndicated programs such as this one are purchased by the individual stations, which can drop or move shows at their discretion.

Q: I love Ryan Reynolds of Two Guys, a Girl and a Pizza Place. Please tell me about him. -Julie T. via e-mail.

A: The 22-year-old Vancouver, British Columbia, native, who plays Michael "Berg" Bergen on Pizza Place, began his acting career in the 1991 Nickelodeon series Fifteen. That was followed by a role in The Odyssey, which has aired on the Sci-Fi Channel and some PBS affiliates.

While working on the movie Ordinary Magic, Reynolds ironically failed his high-school drama class.

He has guest starred on The X-Files

Annie Potts

and The Outer Limits, and he played one of Glenn Close's sons in the Emmy-winning TV movie Serving in Silence: The Margarethe Cammermeyer Story.

Reynolds, who is single, worked on three movies during his Pizza Place hiatus last summer: Coming Soon with Mia Farrow, Dick with Michelle Williams and Big Monster on Campus.

Q: What was the last name of the doctor played by William Windom on Murder, She Wrote? -B. Seyfarth, Lombard, Ill.

A: Windom played Dr. Seth Hazlett.

Q: The character Cyril O'Reilly on HBO's Oz bears a remarkable resemblance to the little boy from Close Encounters of the Third Kind. Is it the same actor? -Leslie MacDonald, Spartanburg, S.C.

A: Scott Winters is not related to former child actor Cary Guffey. Winters is, however, the real-life brother of actor Dean Winters, who plays Cyril's big brother, Ryan, on Oz.

SOAP TALK

Michael Zaslow leaves a legacy of love

By Candace Havens
 ©TVData Features Syndicate

Actor Michael Zaslow (David Renaldi, OLTL) died Dec. 6 after losing his battle with amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's disease). But he has left a wonderful legacy.

With the participation and support of his family and friends, Zaslow formed ZazAngels, an organization that helps raise money for ALS research. In lieu of flowers, his family asks that fans send donations to ZazAngels, 40 Wall St., Suite 428, New York, NY 10005.

A public memorial service is scheduled for Jan. 25 at New York's Royale Theater on Broadway. The event is sponsored by ZazAngels and includes a reading of A.R. Gurney's Love Letters with Alec Baldwin and a celebration of Zaslow's life.

In other news: Just in time for February sweeps, Mark Derwin is joining One Life to Live in the role of Ben Davidson.

Derwin is best known for portraying A.C. on Guiding Light from 1990-1993. Since leaving GL, he has done a movie and made several guest appearances on prime-time shows.

Also of note, Walt Willey (Jack, All My Children) is celebrating a new addition to his family. Merit Aisling Willey was born on Nov. 25.

Dear Candace: Sunset Beach needs new writers desperately. Virginia (Dominique Jennings) impregnating Vanessa (Sherri Saum) with a turkey baster is ridiculous.

They need to create better material for the whole show. The stories during the earthquake were some of the best. Other than that, it's too slow. -Faye Gardner, Stoystown, Pa.

Dear Reader: It is sometimes difficult for a fledgling soap opera to get on its feet. A lot of it is trial and error. Unfortunately for Sunset Beach, the writers don't always stick with what works.

The most important thing is to create characters and story lines that draw in the viewers. The earthquake story worked because it involved the characters we care about in life-and-death situations. Mother Nature is something to which we can all relate.

The Show Off ★★ (1926) Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson. Silent. All turns out well for a working stiff who makes a general pest of himself. 1:30. January 6 10pm.

The Show Off ★★½ (1934) Spencer Tracy, Madge Evans. A lovestruck office clerk lands in hot water when he pretends to be a railroad tycoon to impress his girlfriend. 1:30. January 6 7pm.

The Show-Off ★★½ (1946) Red Skelton, Marilyn Maxwell. A man spins tall tales about his accomplishments in order to impress his girlfriend. 1:30. January 6 8:30pm.

Side Street ★★ (1950) Fairley Granger, Cathy O'Donnell. Desperate for money, a postal clerk gets in trouble with the police and the mob when he steals a blackmail payment. 1:30. January 7 1am.

The Silence of the Lambs ★★★★★ (1991) Jodie Foster, Anthony Hopkins. Five Oscars, including best picture, went to this tale of an FBI trainee's dangerous search for a brutal serial killer. 2:00. January 9 10pm.

Sin and Redemption (1994) Cynthia Gibb, Richard Grieco. A woman who previously became pregnant by her rapist discovers a shocking fact about her husband. 1:45. January 3 3:45pm.

Slaughter High ★ (1985) Caroline Munro, Simon Scuddamore. An April Fools' prank returns to haunt Dodsdsville High's alumni when they attend a reunion at their abandoned school. 2:10. January 3 2:20am.

Sleepless in Seattle ★★½ (1993) Tom Hanks, Meg Ryan. A recently engaged woman becomes obsessed with meeting the grieving widower she heard on a late night radio show. (In Stereo) (CC) 2:00. January 4 8pm.

A Slight Case of Murder ★★ (1938) Edward G. Robinson, Jane Bryan. A reformed Prohibition-era beer runner finds a corpse hidden in his country home. Based on a Damon Runyon story. 1:30. January 3 11am.

THE BUCK STARTS HERE.

Newspaper is usually the first place people go when considering a purchase. It's their primary source of advertising information.

Newspaper helps spark the local economy by putting dollars into circulation. And that's good for everyone, not just the retailer.

Because a strong local economy means lower property taxes, more jobs, tax support for community services and a better place to live.

Newspaper is more than just a smart place to advertise.

It's an integral part of our lives.

Newspaper. It delivers.
