STOLEN ART

"When I get over the disappointment of losing this piece, I'll get back to work. I'm not going to let this make me quit drawing."
Nick Celaya

HHS student's state art entry missing from mall exhibit

By Dianna F. Dandridge
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

More than a year's worth of work on a single art project is gone, and with it a young artist's hopes of showing at state art competition.

Nick Celaya, a junior at Hereford High School, was one of several local students who had competed in an art competition and was ready to move to the state level when his pen and ink, dot work of the late rapper Tupac Shakur was lost or stolen from the art display at Westgate Mall in Amarillo.

"This was the first year any of my stuff was to go to state," he said. "It was the best piece I've done so far."

"It was there for more than a week before it disappeared," said Celaya. "Losing at this date makes me almost not want to draw anymore."

Celaya said the 11-inch by 17-inch portrait was hung close to the exit, where it was less likely to be watched and would have been easy to remove from the board.

According to Celaya, his art teacher, Gayla Kimball, told him Tuesday the piece was missing, but the mall security and the art teachers who organized the showing would continue to look for it.

Celaya plans to redo the piece and hopefully will have it done in time for state competition on April 17.

"I worked on it for more than a year, and because it was done with dots, not strokes, it takes a lot longer to do," he said. "I'm going to work on it, but I don't know if I'll have time to finish it."

Celaya has been developing his art skills since junior high and had set a personal goal of going all the way to state competition.

He said he is really disappointed that mall security and the teachers who organized the event don't do more to secure all the pieces.

Nick Celaya Jr. displays some of his art

Kimball said this is an unfortunate event that sometimes happens at art shows. She will continue to do what she can to try to locate the missing art.

The Celaya family has notified local radio stations about the missing art and Channel 4 will interview Nick this evening and broadcast notices of the missing artwork.

Celaya says his art is very important to him and he hopes one day to be able to make a living with it.

His plans include a two-week trip to Dallas this summer to visit the Art Institute.

Celaya displayed several pieces at the Deaf Smith Public Library as part of a joint exhibit with his father, a sculptor. The young artist also helped do the solar system mural at Shirley Intermediate School.

"When I get over the disappointment of losing this piece, I'll get back to work," said Celaya. "I'm not going to let this make me quit drawing."

Overhaul Interest groups harden positions on Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Clinton and Republicans lay out their plans to overhaul Social Security, interest groups are hardening their positions and increasing political pressure by aiming big-money campaigns at American workplaces and living rooms.

"There's lots of activity. It's going to continue, it's going to grow," said Roger Hickey of the Institute for America's Future, who is working with a $500,000 budget to coordinate the lobbying efforts of groups opposed to major changes in the retirement system.

Among the labor, civil rights and women's groups involved, the AFL-CIO is in the midst of a 50-city tour of rallies, dropping leaflets at workplaces around the country and considering a national advertising campaign.

At the same time, workers may soon find handouts in their in-boxes or stuck on bulletin boards from chief executives involved in a competing campaign. They want to promote legislation that would divert some of the Social Security taxes now deducted from paychecks into personal retirement accounts that people could invest in the stock market.

The alliance of business and conservative groups, led by the National Association of Manufacturers, is planning to make the handouts available on the Internet. Television and radio ads are also in the works, and the business alliance's budget to reach out beyond Washington will surpass the $500,000 or so it plans to spend lobbying lawmakers directly.

Commission unsure about any solution to Medicare troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Is restructuring Medicare enough, or will more money be needed to provide adequate health care for growing numbers of elderly Americans?

A commission that is supposed to recommend Medicare changes has so far been unable to resolve that question and other serious differences delaying its report to Congress and President Clinton.

"We are not in agreement yet and it remains quite doubtful that we will be," said commission member Stuart Altman, a health policy professor at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass.

Both Republican congressional leaders and the president have said they'd prefer not to resort to tax increases to bolster Medicare. But Clinton has suggested using federal budget surpluses that are expected in coming years.

The Senate Finance Committee was scheduled to review Clinton's plan at a hearing today, but Republican leaders have so far declined to endorse it.

To help resolve the issue, lawmakers have been hoping for a solid consensus from the National Bipartisan Commission on the Future of Medicare. But the panel of private experts, former government officials and members of Congress has been equally plagued by the program's complexity and political sensitivity.

The commission missed its March 1 reporting deadline, and on Tuesday said it would not hold its final meeting this week as had been hoped. A spokeswoman for the panel's chairman, Sen. John Breaux, D-La., said informal negotiations among commission members are continuing.

"This is just a work in progress. There are a lot of moving pieces," said the spokeswoman, Bette Phelan.

Holland, France, India and Scotland came to the fifth-grade class at the Nazarene Christian Academy.

At least costumed representatives, in the form of well-researched students, arrived Tuesday to complete a series of world history studies.

Fifth-grade teacher Priscilla Power said students have been studying countries from Europe, Asia and Africa since school began in August and the event is the culmination of those studies.

"The students chose a country, did the research and presented a flag from that country," Power said. "The grand finale will be a lunch made of dishes eaten in the individual countries that the students represent."

The students did a thorough job of researching and presenting the findings on their respective countries. The studies included work on the Internet, traditional library research and classroom studies.

One girl, who actually is from India, provided her classmate with traditional Indian attire, while she dressed as a Holland maid.

Students presented various artifacts to the class, ranging from Scottish bagpipes to a Spanish matador's hat and vest.

"Part of this is a cultural experience," Power said. "Part of it is just a way to bring the dry facts to life so the kids can relate to the different cultures."

News in brief

Report: Nobody guarding planes

DALLAS (AP) — Members of Congress will be briefed on how easy it was to bypass security at U.S. airports, according to The Dallas Morning News.

In a copyright story, the newspaper reports today that because of unannounced tests by federal agents, the Federal Aviation Administration will increase scrutiny over the next six weeks at 70 of the largest airports.

The FAA has spent hundreds of millions of dollars in the last 10 years on sophisticated systems that are supposed to limit access to aircraft parking ramps and airplanes to those with security clearances.

But agents found that it was possible to sneak through open vehicle-access gates or to walk through doors behind airline employees without being challenged, according to a letter to airports obtained by the Morning News.

"Without displaying any identification, the agents roamed the air operations area, passing 229 employees, but were challenged only 53 times," wrote Retired Adm. Cathal Flynn, the FAA's associate administrator for aviation security.

Commissioners endorse jail legislation

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — County commissioners in a long-running battle with the sheriff here want to take responsibility of running the jail out of his hands through support of a legislative proposal.

The proposed bill would give the Tarrant County Commissioners Court control over the jail and the right to appoint a jail administrator. County officials said the measure has not yet been introduced in the Legislature.

But commissioners contend the action is needed to protect taxpayer dollars.

"Since we provide the money, we have to be responsible," County Judge Tom Vandergriff said. "We can best control expenses with a jail administrator."

Sheriff's department officials disapprove of the proposed legislation and officials with the Sheriff's Association of Texas claim such a law would probably be unconstitutional.

Man convicted in death of child

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors are seeking the death penalty for a man convicted of killing a toddler.

Jurors deliberated about three hours and 20 minutes Tuesday before finding Robert Salazar guilty of capital murder.

Prosecutors called Salazar a "baby killer" for the 1997 death of Adriana Gomez, the 2 1/2-year-old daughter of his girlfriend at the time.

Salazar claimed the child hit her head in the bathtub after he slapped her. Prosecutors said the beating was deliberate.

"He wanted to kill her ... How else does that explain picking up a kid by the ankles and slamming them into a wall or a bathtub?" prosecutor Rusty Ladd asked.

Republicans hash out education bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans began debate on their education bill today, and said they expect fewer holdups than in the Senate, which has wrangled over a similar measure for five days.

"It will pass today," Rep. Mike Castle, R-Del., said of the bill, which would give states more flexibility in spending federal education dollars.

Just before the house began its debate, Castle said that House Democrats had offered the same kind of amendments slowing down the Senate bill. House rules limit the number of amendments that can be offered and give the chamber just 5 hours to debate all proposals, giving the bill a likely chance of being wrapped up today.

"Every single amendment might sound good on paper," Castle said today. "And each one really has a place. It's just not here. This is a simple measure and we need to get it done today."

A success in the House could put pressure on the Senate, which remains deadlocked over Republicans' determination to block a new-teacher plan that Democrats want to attach to the bill. The amendment by Sen. Patty Murray, D-Wash., would reduce class sizes by hiring 100,000 teachers over the next seven years.

Since education's emergence as a popular polling issue, both parties have rushed to be the first to pass an education bill this session, leading to frustration on both sides.

"You have to ask whether the Democrats really want to give states autonomy," said Joe Karpinski, a spokesman for the Senate Labor Human and Resources Committee, which sent the bill to the Senate.

Sen. George Voinovich, R-Ohio, charged that Democrats are using the bipartisan education flexibility plan to push through other initiatives they want and force Republicans into an early vote against those ideas.

"I think this is all meant, personally, to get someone to make a vote against a program that could be used in a 30-second television spot," Voinovich said as his fellow Republicans failed on a second attempt Tuesday to limit the number of proposals that can be attached to the "ed-flex" bill.

Senate Democrats insisted Tuesday they are not trying to embarrass the Republicans on education. Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., said he unsuccessfully offered to limit the number of Democratic amendments and ensure the bill would be completed today.

A key focus is the class-size plan.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: This is in response to the letter from "A Sad Mother in Va.," whose son was arrested for marijuana possession. You said our laws on possession are too harsh.

You sure got it wrong. Marijuana is not the benign, innocuous drug that many believe it is. People use it to alter what's going on in the brain. It impairs one's ability to think, to move, to remember, to drive, to study and so on. Would it bother you if your doctor were a regular pot smoker? Your police officer? Your teachers?

Ask people in drug treatment if drugs should be legal. They'll tell you that if drugs were legal, they never would have been able to quit. I admit I am biased. I've been a police officer for 22 years and have seen the damage drugs do — including marijuana. Please reconsider your position on this one, Ann. — Pasadena, Calif.

Dear Pasadena: I agree that marijuana can alter one's judgment, and I do not advocate its use. However, I see no point in harsh jail sentences for users. They need help to get off the weed. It can be a tough battle. Read on for more:

From Evanston, Ill.: Thank you for your courage in taking such an unpopular stand. I was injured in a train accident three years ago and have been in constant pain ever since. Marijuana helps, but it is illegal. How sad that I am a criminal just because I am struggling to survive.

Baltimore, Md.: Your comments on the legality of marijuana are right on. Marijuana, like alcohol, should be legal, and people should be held fully responsible for their actions while under the influence.

Boulder, Colo.: I do not understand how the government can justify spending my tax dollars pursuing and arresting citizens for participating in an activity that harms no one. Alcohol, which has caused so much pain, suffering and death, is legal. Yet marijuana, which has proven medical benefits, is not.

Akron, Ohio: I'm disappointed in you, Ann. To relax the laws on drug possession would be a huge mistake. When I was in high school, I saw kids unable to sit still because they were high. Many of these same students failed classes on a regular basis. I do not want my children to grow up thinking it's OK to smoke pot.

Corvallis, Ore.: Three days after your column on marijuana appeared, the residence adviser in my dorm called the police, and I was arrested for possession of pot. My stash was confiscated, and I had to go to court and pay a small fine. The police officer who cited me was the same officer who had pulled over a drunk friend of mine earlier that week and allowed him to continue driving.

Roanoke, Va.: "Sad Mother" said her son was a good kid. Aren't they all? She said he wasn't hurting anyone but himself with his drug use. What happens when he is stoned? Is his judgment sound? I have smoked pot myself and grew up with an alcoholic father. I know what drugs can do. This "good kid" is a threat to society. Knowing pot smokers are driving cars scares me to death. I have no problem paying taxes to prosecute and incarcerate people who break the law.

Bethel, Conn.: Marijuana has not contributed to nearly as many deaths, injuries or diseases as other perfectly legal substances such as alcohol and tobacco. I realize your comments do not make you an advocate for pot, and your approach sounds reasonable to me. Thank you.

Tampa, Fla.: I am certain many Americans share your view about decriminalizing possession. It is totally senseless for our government to make this plant illegal. Marijuana may be bad for you, but 30 years of incarceration is insane. Let's not throw the baby out with the bath water.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. Furr helps solve gardening problems

Master Gardener Jan Furr helped Valeda Study Club members solve their gardening problems in her presentation during the club's recent meeting.

Members answered roll call with "What gardening problem do you have?" Furr used these responses as the basis for her program.

Her suggestions included using compost and coarse sand with our clay, alkali soil. Put sand down first then compost. Health problems call for low maintenance gardening. Do less topping and weeding. Use a fine bark mulch. To avoid deadheading have more trees, shrubs and perennials, such as victoria salvia, Joseph's coat, peonies and yarrow.

The meeting was held in the home of Della Hutto. The next meeting is scheduled with Bettie Dickson.

Members attending were Marcella Brady, Juanita

Brown, Frances, Crume, Mary Dziuk, Betty Gilbert, Theda Seiver, Norma Walden Margaret Zinser, Hutto and Dickson.

Looking Back

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, March 10, the 69th day of 1999. There are 296 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 10, 1949, Nazi wartime broadcaster Mildred E. Gillars, also known as "Axis Sally," was convicted in Washington, D.C., of treason. She served 12 years in prison.

On this date:

In 1785, Thomas Jefferson was appointed minister to France, succeeding Benjamin Franklin.

In 1848, the Senate ratified the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, ending the war with Mexico.

In 1864, Ulysses S. Grant became commander of the Union armies in the Civil War.

In 1876, the first successful voice transmission over Alexander Graham Bell's telephone took place in Boston as his assistant heard Bell say, "Mr. Watson, come here. I want you."

In 1880, the Salvation Army arrived in the United States from England.

In 1894, New York Gov. Roswell P. Flower signed the nation's first dog-licensing law. The license fee was $2, renewable annually for $1.

In 1948, the body of the anti-Communist foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, Jan Masaryk, was found in the garden of Czernin Palace in Prague.

In 1965, Neil Simon's play "The Odd Couple," starring Walter Matthau as Oscar Madison and Art Carney as Felix Unger, opened on Broadway.

In 1969, James Earl Ray pleaded guilty in Memphis, Tenn., to the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. Ray later repudiated that plea, maintaining his innocence until his death last April.

In 1985, Konstantin U. Chernenko, Soviet leader for just 13 months, died at age 73.

Ten years ago: One day after the Senate rejected the defense secretary nomination of John Tower, President Bush announced he would nominate Wyoming Rep. Dick Cheney, who was later confirmed.

Five years ago: White House officials began testifying before a federal grand jury about the Whitewater controversy.

Federal judge rules against NCAA aptitude test stipulations

Can anarchy be very far behind?

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer

A sign that the apocalypse is upon us turned up this week in Overland Park, Kan. Twice in as many days. The NCAA has been found lacking the same thing for which it has smacked many a school. It appears to have lost institutional control.

This is not the same thing as misplacing your dentures or running over a neighbor's mailbox after a heated argument. Still, the two losses combined to make the watchdog of college sports look less fearsome, yet just as vindictive as always, not exactly the image somebody in the enforcement business wants to be projecting these days.

On Monday, a federal judge in Philadelphia ruled the NCAA cannot force member schools to use a minimum score of 820 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test as the bottom-line measurement of whether incoming freshmen are eligible to play sports.

On the eve of the men's basketball tournament, its biggest moneymaker, the NCAA has a say which teams get in, but not which players those teams put on the floor. Can anarchy be far behind?

"What you have clearly, right now, is no rule," spokesman Wally Renfro said just before the NCAA asked U.S. District Judge Ronald Buckwalter to stay his order.

"That means you have no consistent, uniform across-the-board rule," Renfro added. "That means you have over 500 rules."

To shake things up further, on Tuesday the NCAA conceded defeat in a second lawsuit, agreeing to pay $54.5 million to about 2,000 Division I assistant coaches whose salaries were capped at $16,000 for a calendar year.

That litigation dragged on for nearly four years, during which the organization stubbornly refused chances to settle for considerably less. And yet, in typical NCAA could do but throw up its hands and reach for the wall. Adidas, the very powerful athlete.

That could happen again with increasing frequency.

Hereford Brand sponsors NCAA basketball contest

The Hereford Brand has joined a consortium of Texas newspapers that are carrying a basketball contest promotion tied to the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament.

The contest will feature a grand prize to the state winner of $1,000 in cash in addition to $100 provided by the Hereford Brand.

To play, contestants will try to correctly pick winners from each of the 64 games played during the tournament, beginning March 12 and ending March 29.

Point values are established for correct guesses toward a possible total of 2,000 points. The contestant statewide who tallies the most of those 2,000 points (and emerges from any needed tiebreakers) will win the grand prize of $1,000. Full rules are provided in the game entry form which appeared in Tuesday's issue of the Brand and today's issue.

Deadline for entering the NCAA contest is Thursday, March 11 by noon.

To enter, contestants should fill out the entry form with their selections, clip from the paper, and deposit Thursday at the Hereford Brand office at 313 N. Lee.

Suns slip by Mavericks, 103-91

By The Associated Press
The Phoenix Suns didn't let a victory slip away. Then again, they never do against the Dallas Mavericks.

Handing a 70-minute delay because of a slippery substance on the floor at Dallas, the Suns got their eighth consecutive victory over the Mavericks and 25th in the last 27 games, 103-91 Tuesday night. "The floor was real bad when we first went out there, but they did a good job of getting it in decent shape," said Danny Manning, one of six Suns in double figures.

"It looked like we were playing in our socks at first, but once the guys got it out of their head, they went ahead and played and didn't think about it much," coach Danny Ainge said.

Cliff Robinson scored 11 of his 18 points in the fourth period, including two 3-pointers.

"Cliff was just huge," Ainge added. "He does so many things for us."

Dallas officials were baffled how the substance got on the floor, but thought it happened while it was stored during a hockey game.

Referee Bennett Salvatore, the crew chief, said "the game was in danger of not being played. But the maintenance crew did a good job of getting the substance up."

Dallas was led by Michael Finley with 22 points.

At Los Angeles, the Clippers lost again, 103-99 to the Lakers. Shaquille O'Neal had 31 points and 12 rebounds, and Dennis Rodman had a season-high 20 rebounds as the Lakers extended the Clippers' losing to 16 games — one shy of the league record for losses at the start of a season.

The Clippers, who also lost

16 games at the beginning of the 1994-95 season, can tie the record set by Miami in 1988-89, in another game against the Lakers tonight at the Forum. The Lakers are 7-0 with Kurt Rambis as head coach and Rodman as one of his players.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was a Milwaukee 87, New York 86; Charlotte 105, Boston 87; Minnesota 85, Seattle 84; Houston 84, Denver 75; Chicago 103, New Jersey 87; Utah 88, Cleveland 75; Portland 103, Sacramento 98; and Golden State 92, Vancouver 82.

Lakers 103, Clippers 99
"I think we played our best game," said Lorenzen Wright, who had 11 points and 10 rebounds before fouling out with 5:46 left. "If we continue to play like this every night, there's no way we're going to continue to lose."

Maurice Taylor led the Clippers with 24 points, all but five in the second half. The Baltimore Orioles own the worst start ever among major sports teams, starting the 1988 baseball season with 21 losses.

"They've got to be happy with what happened, except for missing some free throws," Rambis said. "If they could have made some free throws, they could have stolen the game from us."

Lawrence Funderburke had 18 points for the Kings, and Vlade Divac had 16 points and 16 rebounds. Chris Webber had 14 points and 13 rebounds.

Bucks 87, Knicks 86
Dell Curry hit a 3-pointer with 3.4 seconds left for Milwaukee. Latrell Sprewell, who left Curry wide open for the game-winner, missed an open jumper at the buzzer that

Hornets 105, Celtics 87
J.R. Reid led seven Charlotte players in double figures with 26 points, and the Hornets made a winner of new coach Paul Silas.

Silas, appointed the team's interim head coach one day earlier following the resignation of Dave Cowens, was making his first appearance as an NBA head coach in nearly 16 years.

By chance, his Charlotte debut came against the team with which he spent much of his 16-year playing career, helping the Celtics to NBA titles in 1974 and 1976.

Trail Blazers 103, Kings 98
Isaiah Rider scored 21 points and Brian Grant had 19 points and 11 rebounds as Portland beat Sacramento for its eighth straight victory and improved the league's best record to 15-3.

Arvydas Sabonis added 19 points for the Blazers, who won for the 13th time in 14 games and improved to 9-0 at home.

Reserve Lawrence Funderburke had 18 points for the Kings, and Vlade Divac had 16 points and 16 rebounds. Chris Webber had 14 points and 13 rebounds.

Bucks 87, Knicks 86
Dell Curry hit a 3-pointer with 3.4 seconds left for Milwaukee. Latrell Sprewell, who left Curry wide open for the game-winner, missed an open jumper at the buzzer that would have won it for New York.

Patrick Ewing lasted only 29 seconds before leaving with an Achilles' tendon injury as the Knicks had their eight-game home winning streak snapped.

Ewing, who missed 56 games and the first round of the playoffs last season with a broken wrist, left the court grimacing in pain. Ewing had an MRI performed on his left Achilles' tendon, which came back negative. His status is day-to-day.

Glenn Robinson scored 27 points and Terrell Brandon led 17 for the Bucks, who extended their winning streak to five games.

Jazz 88, Cavaliers 75
Karl Malone scored 21 points, and Adam Keefe added a season-high 15 for Utah. Jazz coach Jerry Sloan returned to the sideline after missing two games recovering from knee surgery.

The Jazz won their eighth of nine home games and for the 21st time in their last 22 home contests.

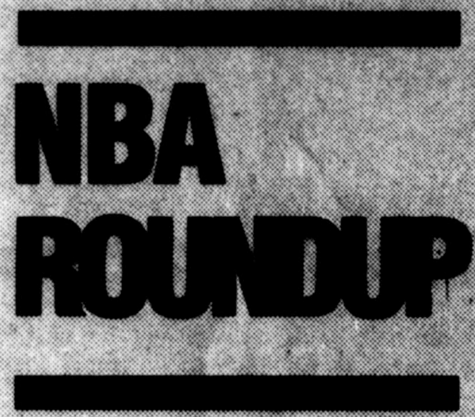

Shawn Kemp led Cleveland, now 1-5 on the road, with 16 points before fouling out with 6:22 left. Wesley Person and Danny Ferry each scored 10.

Timberwolves 85, SuperSonics 84

Kevin Garnett won it with a one-handed putback dunk with 18.3 seconds left as Minnesota handed Seattle its fourth straight loss.

Garnett had 22 points and 16 rebounds, including a season-high eight on the offensive end.

Detlef Schrempf, playing in his 1,000th game, scored 18 points as a reserve for the visiting Sonics, who hadn't lost four in a row since January 1992.

Bulls 103, Nets 87

In a matchup of tailenders, Toni Kukoc scored 28 points and Ron Harper missed just one shot in the first half on his way to a season-high 25 points. All five Chicago (5-13) starters finished in double figures in the Bulls' first 100-point game of the season.

Jayson Williams led the plummeting Nets (3-14) with 23 points and 12 rebounds. Four other players finished in double figures, including 17 from Keith Van Horn, but the Nets fell for the ninth time in 10 games and are 1-8 on the road.

Rockets 84, Nuggets 74
At Houston, the Rockets beat Denver for the eighth straight time. Hakeem Olajuwon had 20 points and Scottie Pippen scored 10 of his 17 in the fourth quarter.

Antonio McDyeas led Denver with 23 points and Danny Fortson had 15 points and 21 rebounds. The Nuggets took their fifth straight loss.

Warriors 92, Grizzlies 82
Donyell Marshall scored 20 points and Erick Dampier and Bimbo Coles had 17 apiece as Golden State won its sixth straight home game. Dampier matched a career-high with 18 rebounds and Tony Delk had a season-high 11 assists for the Warriors.

Shareef Abdur-Rahim scored 35 points, but it wasn't enough for the Grizzlies to avoid their ninth straight loss. Cherokee Parks added 12 points and 12 rebounds for Vancouver, which lost center Bryant Reeves to the stomach flu and Tony Massenburo to a sprained left wrist.

Muggsy Bogues, activated from the injured list earlier Tuesday, collided with Parks and fell to the floor holding his right knee. He limped off the court with assistance from team trainers with 8:02 remaining and did not return.

Texas town remembers Yankee's loss to farm club in 1949 exhibition game

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — Joe DiMaggio left a lasting impression on the local fans who were fortunate enough to see the Yankee Clipper play in a baseball game in Greenville on April 10, 1949.

DiMaggio, who died on Monday at the age of 84, faced the minor league Greenville Majors in an exhibition game before a paid crowd of 2,951 fans on a Sunday afternoon at Majors Stadium.

"Seeing all these comments tonight on TV about him made you proud to have seen him," said Greenville resident Paul Mathews, who watched from a box seat behind home plate.

Believe it or not, DiMaggio and the mighty New York Yankees lost 4-3 to the Majors, who had finished last the previous year in the Class B Big State League. The Yankees, managed by Casey Stengel, went on to win 97 games in 1949, plus the World Series.

DiMaggio went 1-for-2 at the plate with a single to left, scoring the first run of the game in the second inning. He later came out of the game as the Majors rallied to take the victory, thanks to a two-run single by Pepper Martin in the fourth inning and three uncharacteristic errors by the Yankees in the seventh inning. Martin scored on the winning run on a ground-out.

"It was one of the greatest sporting events ever held in Greenville," said Mathews, who was on the board of directors for the Majors.

Dallas businessman George Schepps, the owner of the Majors, lined up the exhibition with the Yankees during the annual league owners meeting in Minneapolis.

J.I. Holderness, president of the team's board of directors, also played a big part in bringing the Yankees to town, Mathews said.

The Majors had been scheduled to play the Chicago Cubs' "B" team the previous day but it had been rained out.

But the game with the Yankees went on as planned with a 3 p.m. starting time. General admission tickets sold out on a first-come, first-served basis.

Fred Roy watched from an unusual vantage point.

"I got on top of the football clubhouse to watch the game," he said.

Roy recalls that DiMaggio didn't play much in the game but looked graceful when he letic shoe and clothing manufacturer, is going one-on-one against the NCAA in yet another court for restricting the size of logos on some of its apparel. After that, next up on the organization's legal dance card is a lawsuit from a manufacturer of baseball bats.

After years of prevailing in courts at all levels, it looks like all the bullying and bad karma the NCAA has been handing out for years is suddenly coming home to roost. There is a temptation to chalk up the organization's increasing woes to an increasingly was out there.

Donald Wright recalled that DiMaggio had an injured heel, perhaps the reason that DiMaggio made an early exit.

"He had a spur on his heel and could hardly run," Wright said.

Mathews recalled seeing DiMaggio's two plate appearances.

"I don't think he hit a home run but you could tell he had that perfect swing," said Mathews.

litigious society, but it would be more accurate to think of the NCAA as a corrupt cop, arrogant and sloppy after collecting bag money for years from the schools it is supposed to be protecting.

After all, there is something unjust about an organization that makes it possible for millions to flow into university coffers, but impossible for the "student-athletes" who generate most of it to get their hands on walking-around money. And there is something unseemly about colleges banding together to come up with enough "product" to keep the networks, advertisers and endorsement people happy.

Lewinsky interview gives ABC best ratings in year

NEW YORK (AP) — Thanks to Barbara Walters and Monica Lewinsky, ABC chalked up its best week in the ratings in nearly a year.

Walters' interview with Ms. Lewinsky had an average viewership of 48.6 million last Wednesday, more than twice as many viewers as any other prime-time show last week, Nielsen Media Research said Tuesday.

ABC's 10.1 rating and 16 share for the week easily topped CBS, which had a 9.0 rating and 15 share. NBC was third with an 8.6 and 14. Fox had a 6.7 and 11.

It was ABC's best week since March 23, 1998, when it broadcast the Academy Awards, which were a big night for "Titanic." ABC hadn't won any week in the ratings since November.

"Home Improvement," ending a two-part episode in which Jill had a hysterectomy, finished a strong fifth place in the ratings.

With the sweeps period over, NBC reverted to reruns for its typically strong Thursday night lineup. That particularly hurt "ER," which slipped to ninth place.

ABC's "World News Tonight" won the evening news race with an 8.5 rating and 17 share. NBC's "Nightly News" was second at 8.4 and 17, while the "CBS Evening News" trailed with a 7.1 and 14.

A rating point represents 994,000 households, or 1 percent of the nation's estimated 99.4 million TV homes. The share is the percentage of in-use televisions tuned to a given show.

Top 10 shows

For the week of March 1-7, the top 10 shows, their networks and ratings were "20/20" ABC, 93.4; "Friends," NBC, 15.2; "Touched by an Angel," CBS, 15.1; "60 Minutes," CBS, 14.8; "Frasier," NBC, 14.3; "Home Improvement," ABC, 14.3; "Just Shoot Me" Special, NBC 13.6; "Jeopardy," NBC, 13.1; "ER," NBC, 12.2; "Draw Carey Show," ABC, 11.6.

Cher's ex-manager suing

LOS ANGELES — Cher's ex-manager wants a share of her profits.

Bill Sammeth filed a lawsuit against the entertainer on Monday, alleging that he had a deal with Cher to receive 15 percent of the profits of her hit album, "Believe."

Sammeth says he was a close friend of the star for 22 years before he was fired as her personal manager without explanation, days before she sang the national anthem at the Super Bowl.

"Cher, like many talented creative people, can be stormy," said Sammeth's lawyer, Henry Gradstein. "The only problem is that he is still entitled to be paid."

Sammeth is credited as manager and given special thanks on the album cover, according to the lawsuit.

Cher had no comment on the pending lawsuit, according to publicist Toni Howard. It seeks unspecified compensation and legal fees.

Susan Lucci
ANCHORAGE, Alaska

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS People

She's not going to win this contest, either, but that doesn't bother Susan Lucci.

Lucci, who plays Erica Kane on ABC's "All My Children" and has failed in 18 tries to win a Daytime Emmy, spent last weekend in the world of sled dogs and mushers, watching the start of the Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race.

At Saturday's ceremonial start, Lucci was an "Iditarider," zipping through downtown Anchorage while sitting in Rick Mackey's sled. Mackey won the 1,100-mile race in 1983.

"I've always read about the Iditarod in The New York Times, and I've always been curious about Alaska," said Lucci, who added that she was awed by the state's rugged terrain.

Other celebrity Iditariders included Joan Rivers, Gary

Collins and wife Mary Ann Mobley.

Beverly Sills
STAMFORD, Conn. — Beverly Sills created her own crossword puzzles when she was a little girl, rhyming words such as "Iggly Piggy" and "Plain Jane."

Years later, her passion for puzzles continues.

"I'm a nut," the opera singer said Tuesday. "Every pocket of every dress has puzzles."

Sills will present the prizes this weekend at the American Crossword Puzzle Tournament in Stamford, which bills itself as the oldest and largest continuously run crossword competition in the world.

Sills, who is the chairwoman of the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York, had a special thrill with one particular puzzle.

"I've always said you know you're famous when you find yourself in The New York Times crossword puzzle. The first time I saw myself in there, I got so excited I couldn't believe it," she said.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

New birdhouse -- A Deaf Smith County Jail inmate paints a new birdhouse, or maybe it's a bird "apartment" that will be erected at the former Campfire Lodge. City construction supervisor Don Kundert said a birdhouse at the lodge, which is undergoing renovation, was knocked down during the preparation of the new parking lot, so the inmates who are doing the work under his supervision, built a new birdhouse.

Barr's aiming at gun lawsuits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress are preparing to jump into both sides of the nascent legal battle some cities have launched against the gun industry.

Rep. Bob Barr, R-Ga., the point man in Congress for the National Rifle Association, led a bipartisan group of two dozen lawmakers who introduced legislation Tuesday to block cities and states from filing lawsuits to hold gun makers and distributors accountable for firearm violence.

"This is a national issue and it cries out for a national remedy," said Barr, arguing that the lawsuits would destroy the constitutional right to bear arms while undermining the integrity of the nation's legal and free enterprise systems.

But Sen. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., said she intends to introduce legislation to guarantee cities the right to sue gun manufacturers and distributors.

"The federal government sends billions of dollars to local communities to fight crime," she said. "If local governments believe the fight against crime is being hampered because of a mass proliferation of guns, I believe it is in the national interest to allow them to take action in court."

Dole to appeal to 'better nature'

DES MOINES, Iowa — Elizabeth Dole, taking a first, formal step toward a possible run for president, says it's high time that the nation's leaders restore voters' faith in their government — to "call America to her better nature."

That was among the themes the former U.S. labor and transportation secretary touted in a TV ad accompanying her announcement that she was forming an exploratory committee for the 2000 GOP presidential nomination.

Today's announcement at a rally here moves Mrs. Dole to the first tier of potential Republican contenders. Most polls have shown her and Texas Gov. George W. Bush far ahead of lesser-known potential Republican rivals.

In making her announcement, Mrs. Dole pointed to her experiences serving under five presidents but maintained a distance between herself and any rivals.

"I'm not a politician and, frankly, today that may be a plus," Mrs. Dole said in her television ad, which was to air in Iowa and New Hampshire. Aides said the ad would flesh out the themes of a Dole campaign.

"Politics and the politics of governing have become so negative, so paralyzed by special interests, that as a people we're beginning to lose faith in our own institutions," she said.

Clinton hails Salvadoran progress toward peace SAN SALVADOR — Wherever President Clinton ventures — amid the litter of downtown Tegucigalpa or about his tony Princess Hotel here — overcame "policia" stand watch with M-16s, Uzis and riot gear. Unperturbed civilians loiter at their side.

It is the long-incoming peace that Clinton came here to celebrate and cement in the face of potential instability after Hurricane Mitch devastated so much of the region.

Today, the third day of his tour, Clinton was addressing the Salvadoran Legislative Assembly with a tip of his hat to the transition this nation has accomplished since a 1992 peace agreement.

Sunday's democratic, presidential elections served as a fresh reminder of the progress El Salvador has made since it buried 70,000 of its people in 12 years of civil war.

A decade ago, "America was spending billions of dollars on this region because of civil wars," said Sandy Berger, Clinton's national security adviser.

Now, Berger added, the United States must invest in Central America's peaceful democracies — especially since Mitch had "thrown a body block to what they're trying to do."

News roundup

No tie between dietary fat, breast cancer?

CHICAGO — In a surprising shift from popular medical theory, researchers reported today that they found no evidence that a high-fat diet promotes breast cancer — or that low-fat foods protect against the disease.

Researchers and other experts quickly noted that a low-fat diet is still good for the heart, and heart disease kills far more Americans — women and men — than any cancer.

"We should just accept that good scientists can't tell you yet what to eat to minimize your breast-cancer risk," said Dr. John Glaspy of the University of California at Los Angeles, who was not involved in the research.

Doctors have theorized that eating lots of fat increases breast-cancer risk. They have based their thinking on animal studies, international comparisons and studies of women who developed breast cancer and women who didn't.

Some experts have suggested that the key is the type of fat consumed, not the amount; that fish oil offers some protection from breast cancer; or that contaminants stored in fat trigger breast cancer.

The new study, published in today's Journal of the American Medical Association, tracked 88,795 women in the continuing Nurses' Health Study. The women, ages 30 to 55, completed detailed questionnaires about their eating habits every four years from 1980 to 1994.

GOP questions efforts to safeguard arms labs

WASHINGTON — Republican lawmakers are questioning security at U.S. nuclear weapons laboratories and whether Clinton administration efforts to boost ties with China delayed a long-standing espionage investigation at one of the research facilities.

But Vice President Al Gore led a counterattack Tuesday, defending the administration's policies toward China and its investigation of a nuclear weapons espionage case that he said the administration inherited from the 1980s.

"Keep in mind that happened in the previous administration," Gore said in an interview on CNN's "Late Edition" program. He said "law enforcement agencies pressed it and pursued it aggressively with our full support" once the concerns were raised in 1995.

However, Gore and other administration officials left unanswered why the FBI investigation continued for nearly three years before action was taken this week.

more receive a choice of three KidFish prizes; and those who raise $50 or more will receive a choice of three prizes, plus a new Zebco KidFish rod and reel combination.

Additional prizes will be awarded to the top five fundraisers and to the child catching the longest fish in three age groups.

"KidFish is a children's fish-a-thon fund-raising event designed to introduce youngsters to the outdoors and the sport of fishing while raising funds for a variety of programs, including youth outdoor education, conservation, stocking and community fishing," KidFish President Jody Jackson said. The goal is to one day establish a community fishing program and KidFish event in every interested city in Texas.

"Year round, KidFish events will be held in over 130 cities throughout the state of Texas, including eight boat show events and the State Fair of Texas," Jackson said. The children do not have to solicit sponsorship to participate in the event.

KidFish is a project of the Parks and Wildlife Foundation of Texas and is sponsored by TPWD, Zebco and Penzoi. The local sponsor for this event is the City of Hereford.

Anyone who is interested in volunteering or who needs more information on this event, should contact Lance Benson at (915) 672-3781.

Texas Senate OK's holiday for Chavez

AUSTIN (AP) — The last day of March would be designated Cesar Chavez Day in Texas in honor of the late labor and civil rights leader under a bill approved Tuesday by the state Senate.

The bill, which goes to the House for consideration, would observe the birthday of the United Farm Workers founder with an optional holiday for state government workers.

State agency heads could authorize employees to take the day off with pay instead of any other state holiday occurring on a weekday.

THE HEREFORD BRAND PRESENTS

THE ULTIMATE HOOPS! CONTEST

WIN $1000.00

NCAA MEN'S BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

USE THESE SEED NUMBERS -- NOT SCHOOL NAMES -- TO INDICATE YOUR SELECTIONS

OFFICIAL RULES

- Object of the game is to amass as many of the 2,000 points as you can. Using seed numbers -- NOT school names -- select a winner from each of the eight first round games in each of the four regions. Then, moving across the brackets, continue proceeding winners -- using seed numbers, NOT school names -- right on through to the Final Four. Earn points as designated. Now, using SCHOOL NAME'S, select winners of the two semi final games and the Championship Game. The Contestant statewide whose correct answers garner the most of the 2,000 possible points wins $1,000.00.
- Deadline to enter contest is noon on Thursday, March 11, 1999.
- Contestants must fill in tiebreaker box -- total points scored by both teams in the Championship Game. Should this not produce a winner, first round games will be scored at one point each on ballots still held. If this fails to produce a winner, a drawing will be held among those still tied. Only one $1,000.00 prize statewide will be awarded.
- Contestants must print name, address, etc. in the space provided below.
- Contestants must be at least 18 (eight) years of age by March 11, 1999 in order to participate.
- Limit One entry statewide per person. Group entries, "systems" or other attempts to enter multiple entries will be disqualified. Filing out extra entries, then putting your friends and relatives' names on them violates this rule. Any such entries will be destroyed before grading. In this and all other matters, decisions of the judges are final.
- No purchase necessary. Facsimile game entry forms will be accepted.
- Employees of this newspaper and their immediate families are ineligible to participate.
- Neither this newspaper nor any co-sponsor will be responsible for illegible entry forms or those lost, stolen or damaged in any way.
- No points are awarded in case any game is not played for any reason.
- In addition to the state prize of $1,000.00, a local winner from each participating town will be announced as well. Local winner in this area will receive the following prize: $100.00.
