Texas' poorest shoulder much of tax burden

held at a 28-year low of 4.3 percent in January with retailers, cern in congressional testimony last month that labor shortfinancial and real estate firms and construction companies all ages would propel faster wage increases, which in turn would reporting job gains

The seasonally adjusted rate matched the level achieved in December and last April, and before that in 1970, the Labor Department said today.

Employers added 245,000 jobs to their payrolls — nearly 100,000 more than projected by economists — on top of 298,000 in December.

The report shows the U.S. economy entering the new year with considerable momentum after growing during the final three months of 1998 at the fastest rate in 21/2 years.

It could raise questions in financial markets about how "While people always talk about the fact it's the most much longer the Federal Reserve can resist raising short-term week, they decided to hold rates unchanged.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan expressed condrive up inflation.

"The traditional danger signals for the Fed, strong job growth and rising wages, are flashing, but I think the Fed is struggling because there still are no clear signs of inflation," said economist Bill Cheney of John Hancock in Boston.

Interest rates rose in U.S. credit markets after the figures were released. Yields on 30-year bonds, a barometer of longterm borrowing costs for consumers and business, climbed to 5.33 percent from 5.29 percent just before the data were released. The Dow Jones average of industrial stocks rose 41 points in the first hour of trading to 9,346.

Today's report showed the average hourly wages of nonsupervisory workers rising 6 cents in January to $13.04. It was the largest monthly increase since August.

Agriculture secretary says Y2K won't cause food shortages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman shortage: says it is unlikely the Year 2000 computer problem will cause widespread food shortages, partly because few U.S. farmers use high-tech systems that might be susceptible.

"The American public can be confident that the major domestic companies, which provide most of the key foods, will continue to operate," Glickman told a Senate committee.

Glickman warned consumers against "needless and frivolous stockpiling of supplies." Still, he added, "No matter what you do there will be some glitches."

He promised his department will work with the Federal Emergency Management Agency to distribute food in case of U.S. officials are working to ensure that trading partners are prepared for a smooth transition. They note that 40 percent of the nation's fruit, mostly bananas, is imported as well as 60 percent of seafood and about 10 percent of "The basic foods Americans expect to be in their grocery stores will be there," Glickman said.

The hearing was the first this congressional session by the Senate Committee on the Year 2000 Technology Problem, led by Robert Bennett, R-Utah. There are 329 days until Jan. 1.

The committee also was expected to hear testimony from executives with Cargill Inc. of Wayzata, Minn., the nation's largest grain exporter, and Suiza Foods Corp. of Dallas, which produces milk, fruit drinks and plastic packaging. Glickman said results from a survey being released today show that only about one-third of the nation's farmers use computer systems, mostly for record-keeping.

Many computers originally programmed to recognize only the last two digits of a year will not work properly beginning Jan. 1, 2000, when machines will assume it is 1900. The estimated cost to fix the problem is $6.4 billion.

Some computers can be reprogrammed, but many devices have embedded microchips that must be replaced.

Weevil eradication foundation seeks members

AUSTIN - Cotton producers in the Northwest Plains Boll Weevil Eradication Zone wishing to represent the five-county area on the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation's statewide board of directors have until Feb. 10, to officially place their names into nomination.

The deadline comes as cotton farmers and landowners who farmed cotton in 1998 get set to decide in a March 12 referendum whether a boll weevil eradication program should be initiated in the Northwest Plains zone.

Cotton producers who farm in the zone and have grown cotton for at least seven years are eligible for the position.

Those wishing to be placed on the ballot must fill out a nomination form along with a biographical information sheet. In addition, the nomination must be supported by the signatures of at least 10 other eligible cotton growers in the zone.

Producers can mail the form to Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin TX 78711 or fax the form to (512) 463-7593. Nominations must be postmarked by Feb. 10.

Barn fire -- Members of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department including Joe Hamby, responded to a barn fire 10 1/2 miles north on U.S. 385 Thursday. The fire was a result of paint thinner and stripper containers being sparked by a pilot light of a barn heater. The owner of the barn, Bobby Veigel, told fire officials he had been refinishing a racquetball court inside the barn and had turned off the heater but failed to turn off the pilot. The barn sustained smoke damage from the heavy black smoke.

New treatment slows elderly vision loss

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is one of the most insidious problems of aging, a type of creeping blindness that steals people's vision from the center out.

First, fine detail fades. Your crossword puzzle seems OK at of approximately 500,000 acres in Bailey, Castro, Deaf Smith, ing on just one word. People's faces start to blur. You cannot read or drive. Eventually, elderly people with the worst lar degeneration," or AMD, go > Scientist's now are experimenting with a handful of therapies that may preserve patients' eyesight, starting with a light-activated drug called Visudyne that could be available within a year.

Visudyne is not a cure, cautioned Dr. Neil Bressler of Johns Hopkins University. Nothing can restore alreadylost vision.

But for early-stage patients, 'we may be able to slow down vision loss, or reduce the chance of (AMD) costing them who heads a nationwide Visudyne study.

The National Eye Institute, worried that the graying of America means millions, more people are at risk, is pouring $25 million into research to curb the disease. Among the work:

caused vision loss.

-A government-funded study is about to enroll 350 people to see if a new type of surgery to remove a tuft of could stop the blindness.

-In March, the government starts a third study to see if removing drusen — yellow deposits on the retina that are a precusor of AMD - from people's eyes can prevent the disease from ever striking.

AMD is a budding epidemic, warns institute director Carl Kupfer. Some 1.7 million suf-any more vision," said Bressler, ferers already are legally blind, but the aging population means some 6 million more could go blind in 20 years.

> The macula is the lightsensitive layer of tissue in the center of the retina. Two types of AMD destroy it.

"Dry" AMD, which accounts -An ongoing trial of 4,800 for 90 percent of cases, slowly people is comparing whether breaks down the macula's vitamins C, E or beta aro- light-sensitive cells. There is tene or the mineral zinc can no treatment. But the damage stop the progression of AMD- occurs very slowly so victims only gradually notice a blind spot in their central vision and do not completely lose

"Wet" AMD is rarer but disease-caused blood vessels much worse. New blood vessels form behind the retina, leaking onto the macula and rapidly destroying it. First, straight lines appear wavy. Then sufferers suddenly develop a central blind spot that often progresses to blindness within two years.

So research focuses on wet AMD.

There is one treatment, a laser that cauterizes the blood vessels. But only 15 percent of patients qualify, because if the blood vessels are in the wrong spot the laser can hurt more than it helps.

Now Bressler is leading a 600-patient study of Visudyne, a light-activated drug that is injected into the arm but then migrates into the eye's abnormal blood vessels. Shine in a non-burning beam of light and the drug "switches on," eliminating those blood vessels without hurting surrounding Sixty-one percent of Visudyne patients had stable or slightly improved vision after a year, compared with 45 percent of patients given a placebo. The study is continuing another year, important because more rapid vision loss usually occurs in wet AMD's second year.

But manufacturer QLT Phototherapeutics is about to ask government permission to sell Visudyne based on the early data, approval that Bressler expects by 2000. Until then, the Visudyne trials are full - anxious patients will have to wait.

For now, people over 40 need regular eye exams, with their eyes dilated, to hunt early disease signs, like those drusen deposits. AMD sufferers and those at risk should ask an ophthalmologist about new treatments, including studies like the National Eye Institute's, Bressler advised.

A small radiology study presented last month suggests two weeks of low-dose radiation might help wet AMD, too, although Kupfer cautioned that better studies are needed for proof.

Irish consider life in the Big

And the prospect worries a lot of folks, including Notre Dame alumni and some Big 10 presidents

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — There's more at stake than just 111 years of football independence Friday when Notre Dame's trustees decide whether to go ahead with negotiations to join

The decision affects millions of dollars in bowl and TV revenues, recruiting and academics, among other things. More importantly, Notre Dame's status as the national, Catholic American university could be forever altered.

"Notre Dame's identity nationally is so linked to football that people worry if the football program were restricted from a national schedule to a regional schedule, that would have an impact on the identity," said Notre Dame professor George Sterling, who favors the move. "This is touching the nerve center of the university."

Even though the decision affects far more than the football team, how the Big Ten would affect the future of the Irish legacy, which includes 11 national championships and greats like Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy, is of utmost concern to most with ties to the school.

"The only thing we're really addressing here is the extent to which the athletic department is advanced or not by virtue of our football program changing its status," said athletic director Mike Wadsworth, who played football for the Irish in the

"Regardless of whether you're up or you're down, those bowl revenues are there," Big Ten commissioner Jim Delaney said.

"Whether you in the Rose Bowl or not, you get the money. Whether you're on ESPN or not, you get money. So, basically it's a shared risk, shared upside, shared downside."

Should the trustees, meeting in London to dedicate a new Notre Dame facility there, decide to proceed with talks to join the conference, school and Big Ten officials will still have to decide several issues. But Delaney anticipates no problems to resolve those "competitive and financial issues."

"It'll be disappointing if they're not interested in taking the next step," Delaney said. "It's somewhat implicit that when we decided to contact Notre Dame as the first institution to talk to, that we felt they would be the best fit for us."

Problem is, an overwhelming majority of Notre Dame alumni don't think the Irish are a good fit for the Big Ten, in part because the decision has academic implications as well.

Notre Dame, known for its undergraduate programs, trails far behind the Big Ten schools in research and graduate programs. Some see joining the Big Ten as a way to improve those programs because conference affiliation also includes membership in the Committee on Institutional Cooperation, the academic arm of the Big Ten that includes all 11 conference schools and the University of Chicago. It allows the schools to share resources freely.

But some also see that as a threat to Notre Dame's Catholic identity, especially in a conference of secular schools, and some Big Ten presidents have grumbled privately that Notre Dame's

"Some teams in basketball and in other sports like to build it up and tear it down, but that's not what we're trying to do," said Jazz coach Jerry Sloan, the longest tenured coach in the NBA as he begins his 14th season tonight. "We've got a bunch of quality players together, and they've played together for a long time."

Sloan's team, including Karl Malone, John Stockton and Jeff Hornacek, won't recognize many of the fellows in the Bulls uniforms when Utah plays Chicago. Only Ron Harper, Toni Kukoc, Randy Brown and Bill Wennington remain from last year's playoff roster.

The coach has changed, too, with Tim Floyd replacing Phil Jackson.

Oddsmakers made the Bulls the biggest underdogs of the night, installing Utah as a 15point favorite, and Jazz fans will come ready to mock the remnants of one of the sport's greatest teams.

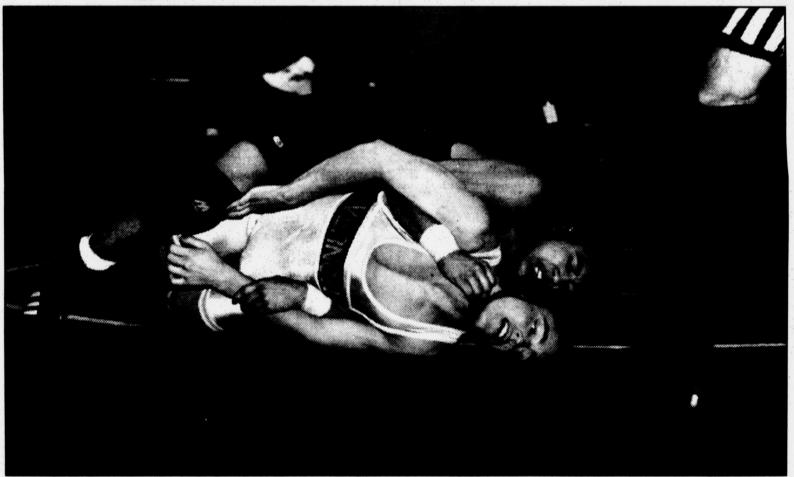

"They are going to boo us as soon as we get off the airplane," said Harper, the only remaining starter from last

They might boo them in Chicago, too, once the fans in that city fully comes to grips Taking it to the limit - Paul Estrada stretches for all he's worth to pin the shoulders of a Amarillo wrestler earlier this year.

"We took 11 and placed four, so I was pretty pleased with the way things turned out for us," Hereford wrestling coach Mike Dominguez said. "When you consider the fact we're wrestling against teams who have wrestled in 500 matches and we've wrestled in 10, I'm very pleased with the way these kids performed.

"We actually could have placed a couple of other people — the matches were real close, but we showed a little too much adrenaline and a little too much inexperience," Dominguez said. Hereford's lack of experience didn't district tournament to qualify for the regional match. Barba divided matches with Johnathan Ochoa in the 215 pound weight class and Hammarbeck split with Randall's Matt McCormick (McCormick was named the meet's outstanding wrestler) in the championship match of the heavyweight division.

"We some some of the toughest talent we'll see as region and state tournaments get underway," Dominguez said. "Texas has three main hubs of wrestling - the Dallas, Amarillo and El Paso areas. And we have two of the three in our region."

As a comparison, El Paso will have 18 schools represented in the Region I tournament.

"Our region is awfully tough and full of talented wrestlers," Dominguez said. "If you can place in region, then you've gotta figure you can compete at the state tournament because you will have seen some of the best talent the state has to offer right up here.'

In other wrestling competition, the Whiteface's Albert Chavarria and Valentin Sustaita landed third place finishes; and Joe Wilson, John Paul Gutierrez, William Shows and Paul Estrada took fourth place berths. Ruben Lancon finished with fifth place points in the 145 weight division.

The Region I tournament will be held at the Amarillo Caprock Activity Center Feb. 12-13, and will encompass schools from Amarillo, Lubbock, El Paso and Vernon-area schools. Opening ceremonies for the meet are set to begin at 9:30 a.m. Friday. Wrestling is slated to start at 10 a.m.

The Hereford High School tennis program has announced plans to host a sixweek tennis Drill Group for 6th - 8th grade stud beginning Feb. 9th.

which will introduce bas tennis fundamentals to students each Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 - 8 p.m., will be Amarillo Tennis Center professional Michael Thackerson and HHS assistant tennis coach Michael Brewer.

NCA teams run rampant over BHCS

The Nazarene Christian Academy Eagles and Lady Eagles continued to dominate area church league basketball teams Thursday as both tallied strong wins against Bible Heritage Christian School here.

In the first game of Thursday night's doubleheader, Alyssa Hill riddled the rim for a seasonhigh 22 points to lead the Lady Eagles to a 70-5 runaway win. Jenna Urbanzcyk and Brynne Huffaker also hit double-figures in the tilt. Urbanzyck added 15 and Huffaker hit 12 to add to the scoring fest.

The win advanced the Lady Eagle's season record to 14-6.

Josh Casey led the NCA boys, now 18-2 overall, to a 37-20 victory over BHCS with nine points over the evening. Esrael Silva tossed in seven.

NCA will host Faith Temple School of Portales in it's final home game of the season Tuesday.

weak graduate programs are not a good fit for the Big Ten, either.

"Our brand name is something special. We'd rather be one of one than one of 12, said Chuck Lennon, executive director of the Alumni Association. "Not that we're better than anybody. You have to do some damage control, I guess. Personing to games, casual fans ally, I don't think free tickets and autograph sessions are gonna do it. I think that's kind of phony," Grant Hill told the Detroit Free Press. "I think the best way to do it is to go out and play hard and win. I think you'll see - and the cities that win, the cities that are in the playoffs — the fans will come back. And the fest itself in the NBA, but the cities that have losing teams,

SPORTS they'll be a little lukewarm."

If there's one factor that may draw them back more than anything else, it's the heightened competition that comes with every game meaning a little bit more and every team having a little more of a chance in the post-Jordan era. "I think the true NBA fans are going to be the ones who obviously were disappointed with the lockout, but are just very, very happy that we're back to playing," Knicks coach Jeff Van Gundy said. "What they want to see is good play, hard play, competitive play."

Knicks fans have already taken a liking to the team's newest scorer, former Golden State guard Latrell Sprewell, who will be playing his first regular season game in more than 14 months when the Knicks play the Magic.

The Jazz are widely being picked as the favorite to come out of the West, but the competition will be tougher now that Scottie Pippen has joined Hakeem Olajuwon and Charles Barkley in Houston.

The '60s

Not much to dig in this miniseries

he '60s, according to "The '60s," began with JFK and ended, right on cue, with love and peace and a backyard barbecue. What a long, strange trip it isn't. It's a miniseries for the February sweeps.

Any TV drama that tries to shrink-wrap into just three hours (minus the commercials) a complex, still-argued-over era - well, such an undertaking is almost certain to prove shallow, self-conscious and, worst of all, safe. "The '60s" is all that and less. Airing Sunday and Monday from 9 to 11 p.m. EST on NBC, this is not Frazier Moore so much a drama as a survey course: The '60s for Dummies. Soundtrack album optional. A simple view of the 1960s is: bad war, social wrongs, revved kids, alarmed adults. Plus rock music, and drugs and sex to go with it. So put that in your bong and smoke

it. Which "The '60s" does. It just doesn't inhale. Safe for children, reassuring for grownups, "The '60s" is network TV at its most patronizing. (Brace yourself for this sanitized version of the '60s battle cry: "Up against the wall, mother!") Nothing we believe is challenged or enlarged upon, just reiterated. Can you dig it? "The '60s" will probably be a hit. Maybe spawn a sequel.

As noted above, "The '60s" begins its rote journey with a glimpse of 1960 presidential candidate John F. Kennedy. Then it skips to 1962, hooking up with the about-to-be-shattered Herlihy family.

In their working-class Chi-cago neighborhood, Bill (Bill Smitrovich) and Mary (Annie Corley) are scandalized when their 16-year-old daughter dances the Twist at her Catholic high school prom. Branded a libertine, Katie (Julia Stiles) will drop out and turn on in the Summer of Love.

Football hero son Brian (Jerry O'Connell) joins the Marines — "Ahhh, that's OK, Ma, we're not even at war with anybody." Then he'll return from 'Nam a husk of his former happy-go-lucky self.

And soft-hearted Michael (Josh Hamilton) eases into the civil rights cause. Then, much to his father's disgust, he embraces the anti-war movement — and, by the way, a chaste romance with Sarah (Jordana Brewster), a fellow student activist.

No less schematic is the Bstory, which centers on the Rev. Willie Taylor (Charles Dutton), an almost saintly black minister preaching non-violence in segregated Greenwood, Miss. After his church is torched, he takes his family to the Watts community of Los Angeles for a fresh start, where, of course, more trouble awaits.

'60s" is connect-the-dots history with hopscotch locales, populated by a miserly clutch of extras (which makes The Movement seem oddly smalltime) and patched together with archival footage.

Then, paving the way for that much-hyped soundtrack album, "The '60s" grooves to the music of its day.

When President Kennedy is killed, Simon & Garfunkel's "Old Friends/Bookends" telegraphs the nation's sense of loss. The 1965 Watts riot becomes a music video for Bob Dylan's "Like a Rolling Stone." Draft induction? The Moody Blues' "Tuesday Afternoon." Chicago, 1968? "Break on Through" by the Doors.

And the final destination? On a gentle afternoon in 1969, family and friends munch hot dogs and play touch football at the Herlihys', where all is forgiven. The film aims to leave us satisfied that, with the end of both the '60s and "The '60s," everyone lived happily ever after. And that whatever future bummers loomed like, say, the Kent State shootings in May 1970 - they need not concern us. That's for some other TV show.

There is no consensus, even today, on when it did. But this much is clear: What we call the '60s conforms to no calendar. And if "The '60s" had chosen to do otherwise, maybe it wouldn't be quite such a cop-out.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

 Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

 Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

 Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

· Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach

Must have dependable transportation and good handwriting. Will train. No cost or obligation. Openings in Deaf Smith, Randall and Potter Counties.

FUTURES OPTIONS

Repairing road -- Construction crews were busy Thursday sealing cracks in U.S. Highway 385 North. The snow that blanketed the Hereford area may have been good for the farmers who have been needing some moisture before spring planting, but the snow and ice wasn't good for the highway, which was left with many cracks when the snow melted.

King Hussein on life support dition of anonymity. A motorcade of more than 70 cars escorted by the king's elite security detachment drove slowly from the airport. Two ambulances, one of them carrying the king, drove at its

An official announcement had said the king would be flown by helicopter to a military hospital called the King Hussein Medical City for further treatment. It was not immediately clear why plans were changed. The hospital was closed to the public.

The 63-year-old ruler left an American hospital Thursday night after his body rejected a bone marrow transplant meant to fight off his lymphatic cancer.

New clot-busting drug helps treat strokes and other warning signs of strokes begin.

Since most victims do not get to the hospital soon enough, doctors would like to have something that gives them more breathing room. On Thursday, researchers from the Cleveland clinic Foundation presented results of the first large-scale testing of the new drug that appears to do just that.

"This will be the second major revolution in stroke treatment in this decade," predicted Dr. Randall Higashida of the University of California, San Francisco, who took part in the study

Hope in fighting elderly blindness

WASHINGTON — It is one of the most insidious problems of aging, a type of creeping blindness that steals people's vision from the center out.

First, fine detail fades. Your crossword puzzle seems OK at a glance, until you try focusing on just one word. People's faces start to blur. You cannot read or drive. Eventually, elderly people with the worst form of this "agerelated macular degeneration," or AMD, go blind.

Scientists now are experimenting with a handful of therapies that may preserve patients' eyesight, starting with a light-activated drug called Visudyne that could be available within a year.

Visudyne is not a cure, cautioned Dr. Neil Bressler of Johns Hopkins University. Nothing can restore alreadylost vision.

But for early-stage patients, we may be able to slow down vision loss, or reduce the chance of (AMD) costing them any more vision," said Bressler, who heads a nationwide Visudyne study.

Has Chelsea Clinton become fair game?

WASHINGTON - Bill Clinton gushed about the time his daughter, Chelsea, asked if unmarried girls can have babies. Hillary Rodham Clinton chimed in, laughing, about Chelsea's plea to have her ears pierced.

That was 1992, in the heat of their first run for the White House, when the Clintons invited People magazine into their backyard for a cozy family photo shoot and interview.

This is 1999, in the denouement of the crisis sparked by President Clinton's affair with Monica Lewinsky, when a similarly flattering People cover story - "Hillary & Chelsea: Grace under fire. An intimate look at the deep bond of love" - set the White House into an icy stew.

Press secretary Lockhart, peppered with questions Thursday about an unusual statement from the president and first lady prefacing the release today of the 8-page magazine feature, refused even to entertain the question about whether Chelsea is, as People managing editor Carol Wallace called her, "a valid journalistic sub-

Serbs, Albanians uncompromising

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia -Just a day before peace talks aimed at stopping the bloodshed in Kosovo, Serbs and ethnic Albanian rebels were standing firm in their opposing demands.

The Serbian government was to name its team of negotiators today after a grudging acceptance Thursday of the internationally brokered negotiations.

But harsh rhetoric in Parliament signaled that whoever was chosen would be under orders not to cede authority over Kosovo.

A Kosovo Liberation Army negotiator said the separatist rebels will push for independence at the talks in Rambouillet, France, and doubt an agreement can be reached.

Western leaders, meanwhile, were moving ahead with plans to put as many as 30,000 peacekeeping troops in Kosovo, despite Serb warnings against foreign intervention.

Impeach

She recalled with a laugh that during her first meeting with Frank Carter, the lawyer Jordan found for her to help in the Jones case, "I asked if I could sue Paula Jones."

The questioning turned personal when Bryant asked Ms. Lewinsky whether she still had "feelings for the president" a year later.

"I have mixed feelings," she replied. She answered "yes" twice when asked if she still admired the president, and she said she appreciated "what he is doing for this country as the president."

She also expressed gratitude for some of the gifts Clinton gave her, particularly a hat pin. "It was the first gift he gave me. It was a thoughtful gift. It was beautiful," she recalled.

And when Bryant asked her about "the first so-called sala-cious occasion," she interrupted him, saying, "Can you call it something else? ... I mean, this is my relationship."

Bryant said, "What would you like to call it?" Ms. Lewinsky replied, "It was my first encounter with the president, so I don't really see it as my first salacious that's not what this was." The Senate on Thursday voted not to call Ms. Lewinsky to testify in person. Instead, portions of her videotaped testimony will be used in arguments by House prosecutors Saturday, affording Americans their first opportunity to see her tell parts of her story. The trial was in recess today, so both sides could prepare for Saturday's presentations. Closing arguments will be held Monday, and then de-liberations, with a vote expected next Friday or sooner on conviction or acquittal of the president on the articles of impeachment. Republicans and Democrats agree that the 67 votes needed to convict and remove Clinton are lacking.

Thursday was a day of retreat both for the House managers and for Senate Republicans, who abandoned proposals for "findings of fact" that would have declared presidential wrongdoing without removing Clinton from office.

"I do think it's time we get to a vote and we move on" to other issues, Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., said. Lott said some language to disapprove Clinton's conduct was still under consideration by Republicans, but it was unclear whether any GOP proposal would mesh with a planned Democratic censure resolution.

In her deposition, Ms. Lewinsky stuck closely to her earlier grand jury testimony, but cast doubt on Clinton's sworn testimony that he told her she might have to turn over his gifts if they were subpoenaed in the Jones case.

"Did the president ever tell you to turn over the gifts?" Bryant, R-Tenn., asked in the Monday questioning. "Not that I remember," she answered. House prosecutors are trying to show that the president's and Jordan's efforts to find Ms. Lewinsky a job were linked to her filing a false affidavit denying her affair with the president and that the hiding of gifts he had given her was part of a scheme by Clinton to obstruct justice.

Of Jordan's efforts to help her find work, Ms. Lewinsky said, "I was a pest."
