Serbs air footage of the captured U.S. soldiers on national TV; three men appear to have abrasions on their faces

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) NATO missiles destroyed a major bridge over the Danube River in Serbia's second-largest city today, while Yugoslav television aired footage of three captured U.S. soldiers, with what appeared to be abrasions on their faces.

The Yugoslav army said the Americans were caught Wednesday in Yugoslavia, but NATO insisted the soldiers were in Macedonia, about three miles from Yugoslavia's border, when they reported being being fired at and surrounded by Yugoslav troops.

Americans increase spending; savings are down

WASHINGTON (AP) Americans' personal income increased at a robust pace in February and their spending even faster, sending the nation's savings rate into negative territory again.

Personal income increased a seasonally adjusted 0.5 percent in February following a 0.6 percent gain in January, the Commerce Department said today. Consumer spending jumped 0.7 percent after a 0.4 ercent rise the month before.

Both figures were expected by analysts and illustrate the strength of the U.S. economy during the first quarter. Economists had been expecting over-seas economic turmoil to ap-preciably slow U.S. growth but now concede it didn't come, at least to any great extent, in the quarter just ended.

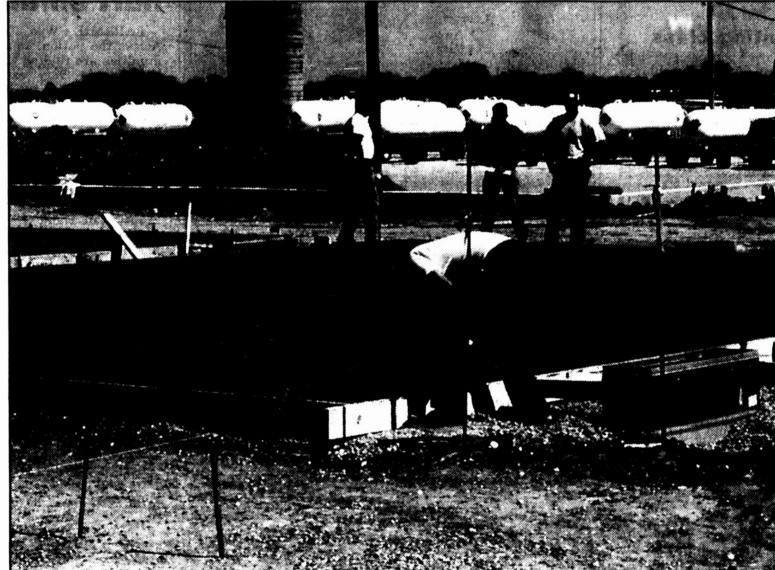

The department reported separately that construction spending jumped a much-stronger-than-expected 2.2 percent, the largest increase in eight months and the fourth in a

Income growth has been supported by rising wages, up 0.7 percent in February. Demand for labor is strong, with the nation's unemployment rate hovering near a 29-year low.

Reflecting that, the Labor Department said today that first-time claims for unemployment benefits held under 300,000 last week for the ninth consecutive week, a stretch unprecedented since 1973.

Claims fell by 6,000 to 289,000. A four-week moving average of claims, which smoothes weekly fluctuations, rose slightly, by 250, to 293,750.

Americans' spending, however, has been supported by more than job income. They're spending some of their stock market gains — the Dow Jones industrial average closed above Smoothing it out -- A construction worker smooths the freshly poured concrete slab at the site of a new convenience store and service station. The new complex is being built near the intersection of U.S. Highway 60 and South 25 Mile Avenue. A new Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant also is under construction at that location.

Red faces over 'blue moon'

After 53 years, magazine finally gets around to correcting definition

BOSTON (AP) — A 53-year-old error over the term "blue moon" has journalists red in the face.

Sky & Telescope magazine has admitted it made an error in an article which said "blue moon" referred to the second full moon within the same month.

"I hate to admit it." said Roger Sinnott, associate editor of Sky & Telescope, who blamed the goof on an amateur astronomer, James Hugh Pruett wrote a 1946 piece for the magazine after apparently misinterpreting a complex 1937 article in the Maine Farmer's Almanac which said that when a season contains four full moons, the third is called a blue moon. Pruett, according to the magazine, mistakenly thought that the almanac meant that a blue moon was the second full moon within the same The mistake went unnoticed for decades. A 1980 National Public Radio story about blue moons used the wrong definition.

Sky & Telescope, based in Cambridge, discovered the error when it was working on an article about how January and March of this year featured what would have been two blue moons.

But by the revised definition, Wednesday's much-discussed moon was blue-less. For the record, the next by-the-book blue moon will be on Feb. 59, 2000.

Although Sky & Telescope's editors think the mistake by Pruett, of Eugene, Ore., led to the modern misdefinition of "blue moon," it's unclear where the Maine Farmer's Almanac came up with the rule.

Though Pruett, who died in 1955, never lived to see his mistake corrected, the amateur astronomer's definition may endure nevertheless.

"This meaning is so entrenched now. Nothing we can do is going to put the genie back in the bottle," Sinnott said. "Our big mistake in 1946 has really caught on and there's no turning back.

Spending package gets OK of panel

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee approved a $97 billion budget for the next two fiscal years Wednesday that includes a 13.4 percent increase in spending for public education.

The budget, which was approved 25-0, represents a 9.6 percent — or $8.5 billion — overall increase in spending from the $88.5 billion allocated for 1998-1999.

The largest increase would be for public education where funding would rise from $26.7 billion during the 1998-1999 budget years to $30 billion for 2000 and 2001. That includes $3 billion for "It's a lot teacher pay raises, easier when school financing and — one of Gov. you don't have George W. cation Committee. Laney The Appropriations Committee, which had a $5.6 billion surplus to work with, left $772 million unspent and Committee Chairman Robert Junell, D-San Angelo, said $500 million of that could go toward tax cuts. A surplus can make the budget process harder in some aspects said House Speaker Pete Laney, D-Hale

"It's a lot easier when you don't have the money to decide who's going to get it than it is when you got extra," he said.

Responding to concerns about funding levels at Child Protective Services, the bill would add nearly 190 full-time employees at a cost of $2.7 million in general revenue funds and $13 million from other sources. Bush has already signed an emergency appropriations bill funding new employees through Aug. 31.

The bill also calls for $172.3 million to fund Bush's Student Success Initiative, part of his social promotion package to improve third graders' reading skills.

It's "a priority Governor Bush campaigned on and was re-elected on because it's an important initiative for children and the future of Texas," said spokeswoman Linda Edwards.

Of the $95 billion in the budget, $53.6 billion comes from the general revenue fund and the rest comes from federal matching dollars and other sources.

The bill also includes $1.8 billion in funds from the state's tobacco settlement. That money is expected to be dedicated primarily towards health-care programs.

The full House will vote on the budget plan April 13, Junell said. After leading the budget-writing committee for four terms, he said, "This is the best product that we've ever had."

Judge rejects law school bid

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite American Bar Association approval, South Texas College of Law's affiliation with Texas A&M University has hit a roadblock, with a judge ruling that the move would be unconstitutional.

Texas A&M had wanted the deal that would provide it a highly sought law school without having to build or buy a new while giving the 1,200-student law school in downtown Houston the name recognition from an established public

Police gun down shooting suspect

FORT WORTH (AP) - A 19-year-old man wanted for the massacre of four Abilene women has died in a gun battle with police officers who tried to arrest him.

Arthur Goodman, 19, was shot to death after aiming a handgun at several Fort Worth officers who had stopped him along the southbound Interstate 35 service road about 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, a police spokesman said.

At least two of the officers fired at Goodman, who was in the back seat of a white Mercury Cougar, Lt. Ric Clark said. Clark said he was uncertain if Goodman got off a shot before he was killed

The officers had followed the Cougar from a residence where Goodman was thought to have been spotted earlier, Clark said. Detectives had kept the car and the home under surveillance.

"We had been checking several locations throughout the day," Clark said.

Former drug czar joins Gov. Bush Conference centers on family values and clean living AUSTIN (AP) — Former drug czar William Bennett has joined Gov. George W. Bush in an appearance at a conference on how to teach today's youth family values, clean living, moral ethics and abstinence from sex.

In the aftermath of the scandals involving President Clinton, Americans want a mature president "whose words and actions they can trust," Bennett said Wednes-

"The Irish have a saying: The merry-hearted boys make the best men," Bennett said. "Young and male, some of us in college, some of us in high particularly happy about or proud of later, including myself. That doesn't concern the American people."

Bennett and Bush were the key speakers to a conference that drew 700 people. The governor may have made missteps during his "irresponsible youth," Bennett said.

Bush told the conference he wants to "teach young people (that) the rewards of abstinence far outweigh the risks of sex."

Teen pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases make this an important lesson, the governor said.

"Our children must know that abstinence is not just saying no to sex, but saying yes to a happier and healthier life," Bush said.

Bennett said he first met Bush in 1989, shortly after Bush's father had become president and named Bennett the head of the Office of Drug Control Policy. Bennett said George W. Bush introduced himself and noted Bennett's drug-fighting role.

"He said, 'Kick butt.' I think that was the first public articulation of what has become known as compassionate conservatism." Bennett said. Bennett told the conference that President Clinton has set a bad moral example for the nation's youth.

"You've got children here. Somebody said earlier in the first presentation, children don't think oral sex is sex. Duh. Who's telling them that?"
Bennett asked. "There have got to be some lines you just cannot cross."

An oft-repeated theme at the conference was that children stray into early sex, alcohol, tobacco and drug use, gangs and violence when their parents and other adults send conflicting signals to them about such behaviors.

High-profile trial costs hurt small communities

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) -Across the nation, small communities are finding that justice can be very expensive. Some prosecutors are deciding it's not worth it, especially for death penalty cases.

In Laramie, where Russell Henderson is on trial for the beating death of gay college student Matthew Shepard, social service agencies could lose more than $100,000 unless the county can come up with a way to pay for prosecuting and defending Henderson and co-defendant Aaron McKinney.

The first phase of jury selection in Henderson's trial concluded Wednesday with the choice of 47 prospects, who will undergo a final round of questioning Monday.

In Jasper, Texas, Judge Joe Folk said it will take county taxpayers three years to pay for prosecuting two defendants in the dragging death of a black man and three other pending capital cases.

"This can bankrupt small counties. Some county judges have said they won't prosecute some capital murder cases and will go for just murder because of the cost of a trial," Folk said.

In Okanagan, Wash., the government was financially crippled prosecuting Juan Duarte Gonzalez, accused of killing a policeman. The case is expected to cost up to $1 million, 9 percent of the county's budget.

The county responded by drastically cutting spending, including pay raises for its 350 employees. Gonzalez even has his own line in the bud-

Larry Pozner, president of the National Association of Defense Lawyers, said larger communities like Los Angeles are better able to absorb the costs of major prosecutions.

"A big case in a small community can be prohibitive," Pozner said. "But you have to make the communities responsible for prosecution. If you just gave them access to the state budget, everyone would want to do show trials."

Mid-sized communities aren't immune from the financial impact of a high-profile case either.

have read your column for more than years. Ten years ago, you first mentioned Reconciliafriend or family member.

I fought with my father for years. I read all the columns you printed begging people to reconcile with their parents. You said, after they die, it will be too late. Two years ago, I finally decided to work things out with my dad, not only because it seemed the right thing to do but because you told me to do it. He died last Christmas, and I can only imagine the hell I would be going through if I had not reconciled with him. In those two years, we became the best of friends. I miss him very much.

Clemens, Johnson ready for openers

By The Associated Press

Roger Clemens and Randy Johnson looked sharp, albeit against minor leaguers. Pete Harnisch, however, will not be ready for opening day.

A stiff back and three disheartening innings Wednesday cost Harnisch his start in the opener for Cincinnati. The Reds instead switched to Brett Tomko after a 10-4 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Harnisch was the Reds' top winner last season at 14-7 and the clear-cut choice to become the No. 1 starter when Denny Neagle was sidelined by weakness in his left shoul-

But Harnisch was pounded for eight hits and 12 runs in 2 2-3 innings against Detroit on March 16, then developed back spasms in a start March 21. Against the Phillies, nine of the 18 batters he faced reached base on a hit or a walk, and his back never loosened up.

In all, Harnisch threw 64 pitches and gave up seven hits, two walks and eight runs. "The ball doesn't have the life in the hitting area that it normally has and I don't know why that is," he said. "I'm not sure if it's mechanical or if my arm's not where I think it should be. I really can't answer that."

The plan is for Harnisch to stay behind in Florida when the team heads north and pitch in a minor league game Sunday.

"We'll push him to the back (of the rotation) and then he'll have plenty of time to get some treatment," manager Jack McKeon said. "There's no sense in rushing him."

Clemens and Johnson, though, had no trouble.

Clemens, who will start for the World Series champion New York Yankees on Monday at Oakland, worked five scoreless innings in a Triple-against Scranton, the Phillies' top farm club, he allowed one scratch hit, struck out five and walked two.

Pitching for Columbus

"I definitely wanted to get some good work in and feel strong doing it," Clemens said. "I felt pretty good and it went pretty much according to what I expected. I'm ready to get

Johnson, who will start for out of the infield. Arizona on Monday at Los Angeles, pitched six no-hit innings. He said he felt no hint of the strained right groin that had caused him to miss his previous start.

"I felt good," he said. "I'm ready to go." The 6-foot-10 left-hander had his fastball clocked at 97 mph and his slider at 83 to 86 mph. Johnson walked four, hit a batter and struck out five. Only three balls were hit

In other news, Cecil Fielder was released by the Toronto Blue Jays, a month after the 35-year-old designated hitter agreed to a minor league contract.

Track team places on honor roll

The Hereford boys' track team earned four top-10 slots in the Amarillo Globe-News weekly boys' track honor roll which appeared in the newspaper's Thursday, April 1 issue.

The placements reflect Hereford's third place team finish in the Canvon Relays held this past weekend.

The Hereford 1600-meter relay team posted this past week's third-best reported time after clocking a 3:29.3.

Hereford's Javier Bravo held a seventh-place ranking after he recorded a 10:49.7 in the 3200-meter run.

Bryan Matthews marked a 147-11 throw for eighth in the discus, and the Whiteface 400meter relay team netted a 44.5 to hold the area's 10th quickest time.

Raider Day scheduled

The Sherrod/Legate Memorial Golf Tournament and personal appearances from members of the Texas Tech University coaching staff, in-cluding head football coach Spike Dykes and Tech Athletic Director Gerald Myers, are expected to highlight this year's installment, of the annual Hereand

Dimmitt Red Raider Day which has been set Wednesday April 28.

Following a sign-in at 1 p.m., Tech coaches and boosters are scheduled to play their annual version of the Red Raider Cup Matches at the John Pitman Municipal Golf Course beginning at 1:30 p.m. The tournament will be played as a Florida scramble.

Red Raider Day will conclude with a social hour and dinner at the Hereford Country Club from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., where boosters will also receive the latest updates and previews for Texas Tech sports.

The event is open to all Texas Tech sports fans. A $45 entry fee includes green fee, cart rental, the social hour and dinner. Non-golfers are also invited to attend. The cost for only the social hour and dinner is $15.

behind to get the job done. Hereford trailed 5-1 after the second inning, but nar-rowed the gap to 5-4 in the third inning. The Whitefaces put the icing on the cake in the top of the fourth after freshman hitter Rodney Gaitan contributed to earlier doubles by Freddie Garcia and Travis Nash, and launched a homer over the left field wall to cap a six-run scoring drive on four hits.

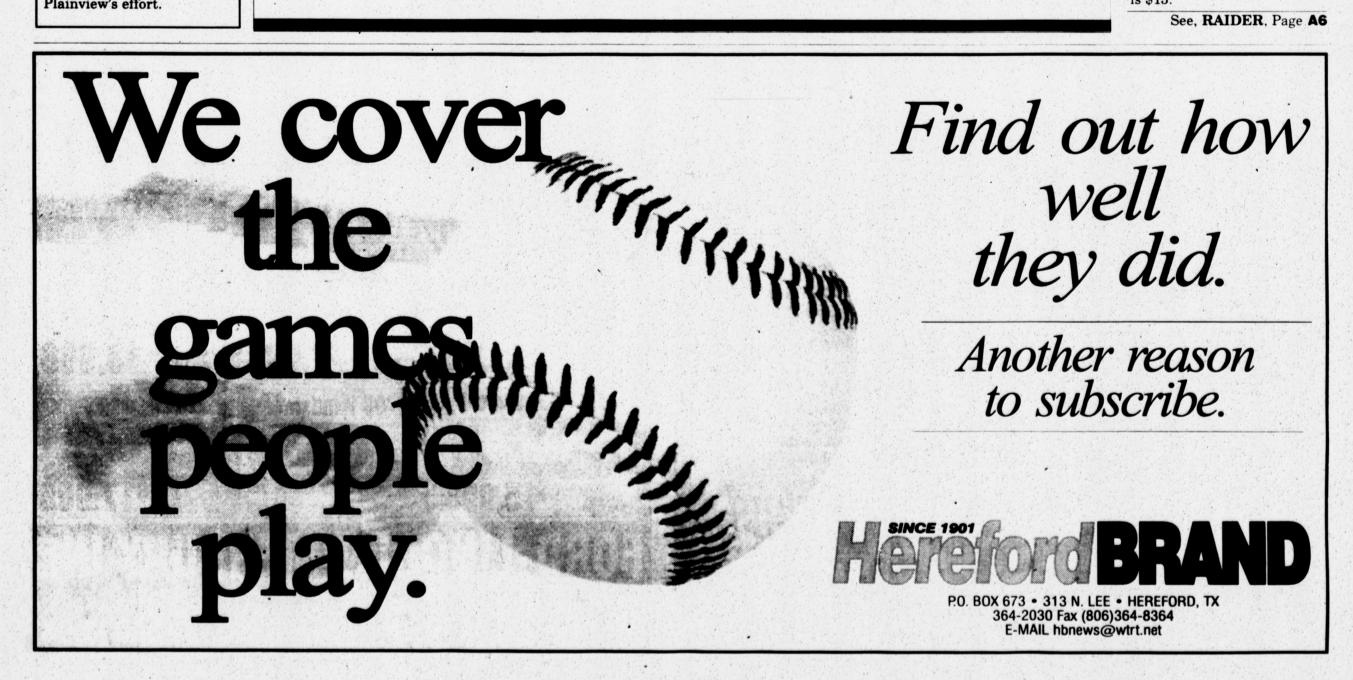

Hereford added one run in the fifth and sixth innings while Plainview took two in the fifth and two more in the sixth before the junior-freshman team of Craig Campbell and Isaac Alonzo turned a double play to finish Plainview's effort.

Jordan remains at center of speculation

By JIM LITKE

AP Sports Writer
We can only be sure about what he won't do. Play baseball. Save the planet. Drive the carpool much longer. What will Michael Jordan do?

No matter what you hear, no one knows at the moment - not even the man himself. The reason Jordan refused to shut the door on a return to the NBE is because no one is happier hearing his name So you know how much he must be loving it now.

Heading into the weekend, the scuttlebutt was that Jordan is interested only in owning the league's Charlotte franchise. On Tuesday night, it became that he might want to play for the team, too. The possibilities grow more intriguing by the day. At the breathless pace that Fox Sports News is pushing this story, mascot Hugo The Hornet's job won't be safe by end of the week,

Jordan's agent David Falk, echoing down every hallway. tried to pour cold water on that part of the story about his client coming back to play. "There's absolutely no truth to it," he said in a statement released by his Washington office.

Good buddies Charles Barkley and Scottie Pippen have to be praying right about now that Falk knew more than they did.

"I'd be very surprised if he came back and played," Barkley said when cornered

by the network late Tuesday

"That's a new one," Pippen weighed in a few minutes later. "I don't see him coming in as a player."

Unlike Falk, of course, the two Houston Rockets have their reasons for wanting Jordan as far away from a basketball court as possible. His absence is Barkley's best chance to acquire at least one championship ring. It is Pippen's only chance to get his hands on any more.

Not all their reasons are selfish ones. Barkley, like Magic Johnson, another Jordan intimate, wants to see his friend become the first black owner of a major sports franchise. Both of them, as well as Pippen, share the same concern for Jordan's legacy that Jordan expressed at a retirement news conference barely 10 weeks ago.

"I think he'd do a disservice to himself," Barkley said. "I think all athletes who come back do a disservice to themselves.

Pippen, never an original thinker, concurred. "He had a great career. He's going to leave it at that."

But will he?

Wilson has no problem paying tribute to Miles

By Charles J. Gans

The Associated Press

Cassandra Wilson has no problem with paying tribute to Miles Davis on her new album, "Traveling Miles." It's just a matter, she said, of separating Miles Davis the man from his music.

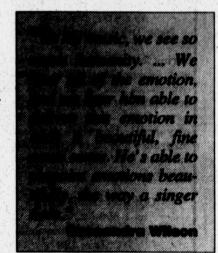

The 43-year-old Wilson who has consistently sought to expand her role as a female jazz singer to assert herself as a composer, arranger and bandleader - believes that "women bring something very special" to making jazz, hearing and constructing the music differently from men.

Her warm and spiritual approach contrasts with Davis' swaggering, macho image. The legendary trumpeter generally disdained working with female singers.

We want to be able to accept other human beings and their frailties," Wilson said. "Now Miles Davis per-haps was not an exemplary person in terms of the way that he treated women, but you have to look at the total picture of Miles Davis and this incredible amount of music that he gave us.

"In his music, we see so much humanity. ... We hear all of the emotion, and we hear him able to deliver this emotion in such a beautiful, fine acute sense. He's able to pinpoint emotions beautifully, the way a singer does." For the past two years, Wilson has immersed herself in Davis' music. She was commissioned by Jazz at Lincoln Center to give a six-night concert series interpreting Davis' music in December 1997. Wilson then spent months reworking her interpretations for the recording of "Traveling Miles," which was just released by Blue Note.

The singer has sought to reach out beyond the core jazz audience, appearing on the cover of Essence magazine and in an ad campaign for Coach leather goods.

"It's a good thing when more and more people — especially Americans — begin to realize that this music we call jazz is so much a part of the fabric of our lives," she said. "It's important to recognize and support it.

Wilson considers "Traveling Miles" to be the final part of a trilogy that began with her breakthrough 1993 album "Blue Light 'til Dawn" and continued with the Grammywinning "New Moon Daughter" in 1996. The basic building blocks linking the trilogy, she said, are "the beauty and majesty of the blues" and "jazz - the blues' favorite daugh-

On her previous albums, Wilson acknowledged some of her musical roots with an eclectic repertoire that encompassed Mississippi Delta blues (Robert Johnson and Son House), folk (Joni Mitchell and Van Morrison), country (Hank Williams) and pop (U2, Neil Young and The Monkees), as well as her own originals all sung in her husky, sensual contralto voice.

On "Traveling Miles," she goes back to her earliest and perhaps most important musical influence. As a young girl growing up in Jackson, Miss., she was exposed to Davis' music through her father, bassist and guitarist Herman Fowlkes.

"The first music that I heard as a 5- or 6-year-old was Miles Davis' 'Sketches of Spain' because my father was a real big fan of Miles," recalled Wilson.

"That's the record I remember the most because it had such an expansive feel to it. ... It was different from the rest of the jazz albums that my daddy listened to a lot."

Davis has remained Wilson's spiritual father through the years. The spare, understated arrangements on her most recent albums evoke Davis' use of space. As a bandleader, she shares Davis' knack for putting together a strong supporting cast.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

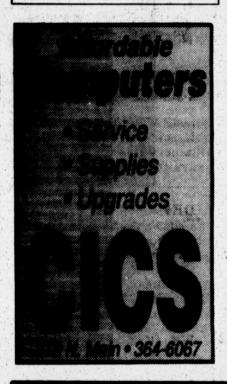

· Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

 Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

· Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

· Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write.

ILLITERACY

It's not your problem. Just because it costs North American businesses over $225 billion a year in lost productivity doesn't mean you can do anything about it. Just because thousands of students can't read a textbook doesn't mean you can do anything about it. And just because your child can't read a bedtime story with you doesn't mean you can do anything about it.

It's time we stopped letting other people solve the problem of illiteracy. Lets do something about it - now. Because illiteracy isn't your problem. It's all of ours.

Before all else, parents themselves must know how to read. Illiteracy is a vicious cycle that almost always begins in the home. Children of functionally illiterate parents often fail to develop the basic reading, writing and computing skills necessary to be functioning members of their communities.

Volunteer to become a tutor.

Read to your children at an early age. Studies show that infants whose parents read to them learn how to read more quickly themselves.

Take your children to the library. Get them their own library cards when they're old enough. The library features reading materials for all ages, not to mention special programs that promote reading in a fun way.

> Make children's books an essential part of charitable donations during the Holidays.

"We hold President (Slobodan) Milosevic responsible for the safety of these three men," British Foreign Secretary Robin Cook said.

The report showing the three U.S. soldiers was apparently aired from Kosovo's capital, Pristina, implying the captured men, based in Wuerzburg, Germany, were being held there.

NATO's aerial bombardment continued unabated in Yugoslavia, with missiles knocking out a major Danube River bridge in Novi Sad, Serbia's second-biggest city, Serbian media said. Military warehouses are located at one end of the bridge.

Serbian state television showed the remnants of the destroyed bridge, which connects two parts of the city. It said the city's water system was heavily damaged. No casualties were reported.

The government's Tanjug news agency said 10 missiles had struck around Pristina since Wednesday night.

"The ring is closing around the Yugoslav forces," NATO Secretary-General Javier Solana said today.

Air Marshal Sir John Day, director of Britain's air operations, complained that poor weather slowed the pace of Britain's Cook said today that reports of a shakeup in the high command of Yugoslavia's army may reflect dissent against some Milosevic.

The Yugoslav leader met today with Ibrahim Rugova. Kosovo's leading ethnic Albanian moderate politician, state television said. The two reportedly agreed on the need for a political solution to the crisis that led to NATO airstrikes, the report said.

Gas prices in U.S. rise by 12 cents

WASHINGTON AP - The American Automobile Association says gasoline prices jumped by nearly 12 cents per gallon in the past two weeks. the steepest increase since

The national average price of self-serve regular unleaded gasoline increased 11.8 cents since March 16 to reach $1.088 per gallon, the AAA said Wednesday.

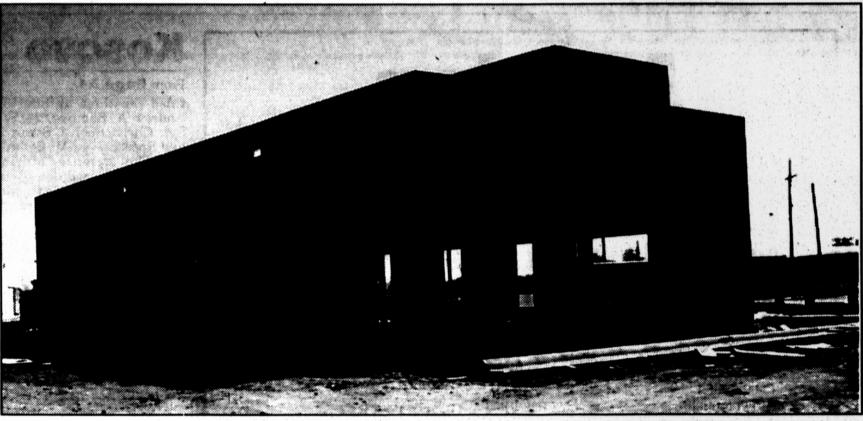

This marks the largest increase since August 1990, after Iraq invaded Kuwait, when gas prices increased 23.2 cents. the association said.

Prices for other types of gasoline had smaller increases: self-serve mid-grade unleaded gas is up 11.4 cents to $1.178. and self-serve premium is up 11.1 cents to $1.235.

Across the country, prices at the pump have soared, in part because world oil producers agreed to take an additional 2.1 million barrels daily off the market, and because of anticipated increases in demand for spring and summer driving.

Analysts have also pointed to refinery production troubles in California, one of the largest U.S. driving markets. Gas is most expensive in the West. increasing nearly 14 cents in the past two weeks to bring self-serve regular unleaded gas to $1.243 a gallon.

Gas is least expensive in the Southeast at $1.003, an increase of 10.6 cents.

Coming up -- The frame for a new Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant, under construction at the intersection of U.S. Highway 60 and South 25 Mile Avenue, is erected. CAMPAIGN MONEY

Bush, Gore amassing huge warchests

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the race for money, presidential hopefuls George Bush and Al Gore are staking out huge early leads that far surpass the early totals for the previous wide-open race for the White House. Gore has raised at least $7 million so far this year for his bid for the Democratic nomination, aides close to his campaign said. Gore tapped more than 40,000 donors, 77 percent of whom gave less than $200 each, said the aides, who expect the final figure to be slightly higher because money was still rolling in Wednesday.

The vice president's total is double the expected $3 million-plus that his lone Democratic challenger, former senator and professional basketball star Bill Bradley, expects to report for the same period, according to Bradley aides.

In Austin, Texas, Gov. Bush announced he has been raising money at a $2 million-aweek clip since he formed his presidential exploratory committee March 4 and will finish the month with more than $6 million.

The total is eye-catching because the Texas governor, unlike Gore, has not hosted a formally announced his candi- spending much of his own dacy. All of the GOP hopeful's money was raised through telephone and mail appeals, his aides said. Gore has had four fund-raising events so far.

The total is also important because Bush, if he runs, is considering forgoing federal financing provided to presidential candidates in the primaries so he can free himself from spending limits and better compete with millionaire money and has not provided his fund-raising totals. .

To forgo federal matching funds, experts predict Bush will have to raise $50 million or more, substantially more than the $30 million President Clinton raised as a popular incumbent in his primary re-election in 1996.

with $3 million or less. Both the Texas governor and Gore have raised money far faster than former President Bush did in the first quarter of 1987 when, as the vice president vying to re-place Ronald Reagan in an open race, he raised $2.4 million and was the top fundraiser in either party.

The record for the first three months of a two-year presidential election cycle still belongs to Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, who raised more than $8 million in the first quarter of 1995 for a GOP presidential bid that eventually stalled and died. Gramm would drop out after the Iowa caucus.

Impeachment no 'great badge

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton says he does not see his impeachment as "some great badge of shame" and believes historians will judge there were political motives behind Congress' action.

In an interview Wednesday with CBS News, Clinton said he felt "honored" that the impeachment gave him a chance to defend the Constitution. He said the American people saw the impeachment as an attempt by Republicans to undermine his presidency.

"Those that did not agree with what I had done and were furious that it had worked and that the country was doing well, and attempted to use what should have been a constitutional and legal process for political ends, did not prevail," Clinton said. "That's the way I saw it...

"But I do not regard this impeachment vote as some great badge of shame. I do not," Clinton said. "I do not believe it was warranted and I don't think it was right."

The interview, conducted at the White House by CBS anchor Dan Rather, elicited Clinton's most detailed assessment yet of his impeachment on charges stemming from his relationship with Monica Lewinsky. He was acquitted by the Senate in February.

The president said he never thought about resigning.

"I would never have legitimized what I believe is horribly wrong with what has occurred here over the last four or five years. So it never crossed my mind," he said. "....I just, I prayed about it."

He also said he has no consuming animosities toward those who pushed impeachment. "I don't wake up every day mad at those people," Clinton said.

"Any moment I spend full of anger and bitterness is a moment I am robbing from my wife or from my daughter or from my country or from my friends," he said. "I just think that it's past us and we need to put it behind us, and we need "We owe that to the American people, to let it go. ... All the great players here, they need to let it go," he said.

While the interview focused largely on the crisis in Kosovo, Clinton also discussed how first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton's ruminations on running for a Senate seat in New York and how his family is faring the wake of the Lewinsky scandal.

"Given what we've been through, we're doing reasonably well," he said. "We're not a large family. We do love each othe very much, and we work hard to support one another."
