Early voting for May 1 over

By Don Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Too late. Voters who wanted to cast early ballots in the May 1 municipal, school board and hospital district elections are out of time.

Early voting by personal appearance wrapped up Tuesday at the Deaf Smith County Clerk's office at the courthouse, 235 E. 3rd.

The polling place for all three elections will be the Hereford Community Center, 100 Ave. C. Polls will be open 7 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday.

Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland has indicated the turnout in the Deaf Smith County Hospital District race, where three incumbents opted against seeking re-election, has been among the heaviest ever for that body. At the end of the early voting period, 611 voters had cast early ballots in the race, which drew seven candidates.

Candidates for the three at-large seats on the hospital district board are Bobby Owen, Pat Stone, Ernest Flood, Dr. Steve Lawlis, Joe Hamby, Shelly Brock and Jesse E. Rincones.

The three seats are now held by Mal Manchee, who serves as board president; Chip Guseman and Chris Leonard. The three decided not to seek re-election.

In the race for Hereford City Commission, 59 voters cast early ballots, while the Hereford Independent School District drew 332.

Only one city commissioner's race is on the ballot. Incumbent Silvana Juarez is facing a challenge for her Place 1 seat from Joe Garza and Martha Rincon.

In the Hereford Independent School District, 513 early ballots were cast. The school board race features two contested races. In District 2, incumbent Charlie Arnold is being challenged by Raul Valdez, while incumbent Tracy Stroumiller is being opposed by Lou Serrano.

Economy U.S. factory orders rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders to factories for big-ticket durable goods from refrigerators to tanks recovered somewhat in March from an end-of-winter slump.

Orders rose 2 percent to a seasonally adjusted $197.7 billion, with improvement showing in most sectors, the Commerce Department said today.

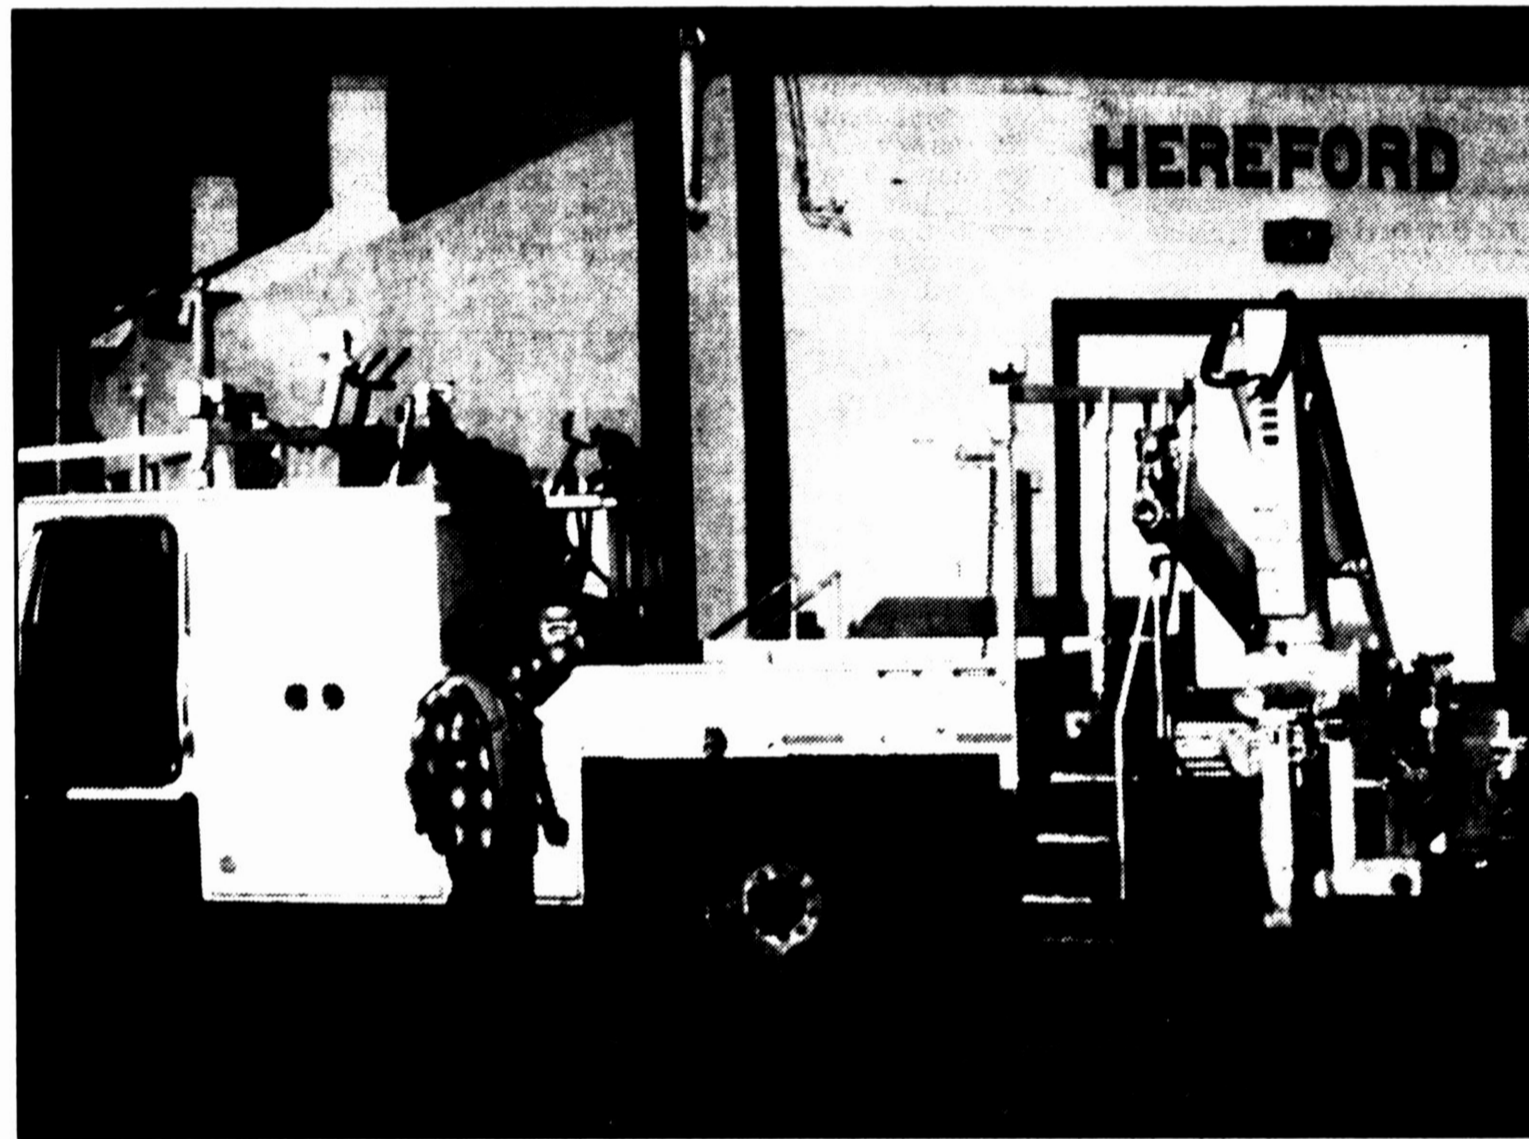

The increase followed a much bigger decline in demand for durable goods in February, although revised figures released today pegged that drop at 3.9 percent, not as bad as the 5.0 percent decline first estimated.

Economists had predicted a modest rebound in March. However, many analysts remain concerned about signs of weakness in U.S. industry.

In financial markets, Treasury bond prices already were losing ground before the durable-goods figures came out and slipped further after the report was released. Yields on 30-year Treasury bonds, a gauge of long-term borrowing costs, rose to 5.57 percent in early trading from 5.54 percent late Tuesday. Bond yields move in the opposite direction of prices.

American manufacturers have been hurt by world economic troubles that began in Asia nearly two years ago.

U.S. factories have cut hundreds of thousands of jobs over the past year. Many businesses would have been much harder hit if not for the fact that Americans, still enjoying plenty of jobs and high stock prices, continue to spend briskly.

NATO missile hits residential area

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Accused by Serb authorities of a "barbaric" attack that killed at least 20 people — many of them women and children — NATO today acknowledged one of its laser-guided missiles went astray and slammed into a residential neighborhood of southern Serbia.

The latest exodus of ethnic Albanian refugees from Kosovo, meanwhile, has left overcrowded camps "on the verge of rioting," a spokesman for the U.N. refugee agency said.

Tent cities in northern Macedonia are heavily overcrowded, facing unrest as well as disease outbreaks, said Kris Janowski of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees. "It's very, very tense and it has to be defused very, very quickly."

"If we get another trainload or two and a few busloads again today, it's really going to be a horrific situation there in terms of overcrowding," he added.

Up to 5,000 ethnic Albanians entered Macedonia on Tuesday — the highest single-day total in weeks. They were apparently the leading edge of a major exodus touched off by intensified ethnic cleansing by Serb forces south and east of Kosovo province's capital, Pristina.

"It's huge. Many more are coming," said Azem Rrahmani, who said Serb police expelled him from Urosevac, herding hundreds onto buses and trains.

Over the past 24 hours, 2,000 refugees entered Albania, where at least 350,000 of the ethnic Albanians on the run have taken refuge.

Several spoke of seeing bodies in the streets of one southern Kosovo village, Meje, after Serb forces ordered ethnic Albanian men out of their homes and rounded them up.

More than 600,000 refugees have fled Kosovo, a majority ethnic Albanian province in southern Serbia, since March. Hundreds of thousands more ethnic Albanians are homeless and displaced in Kosovo.

Local officials said 50 houses were destroyed and 600 others were damaged in NATO's errant bombing Tuesday on the Serb town of Surdulica. Hours later, dazed rescue teams were trying to retrieve body parts from the rubble.

NATO spokesman Jamie Shea said one of its precision-guided missiles veered off course from its target — a Yugoslav army barracks — landing 200-300 yards away in the residential area.

"I want to express regrets about any casualties which may have resulted," British Defense Secretary George Robertson said.

Assets being seized

SEC attorney says cash and property being collected, negotiations under way

By Don Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor

A receiver appointed by a federal district judge in Dallas is seizing assets from a former Hereford businessman and several other individuals in connection with a fraud that bilk more than 100 investors of $14 million, according to a Securities Exchange Commission attorney.

Robert A. Brunig, trial attorney for the SEC Dallas Division, said Tuesday the receiver has begun collecting assets.

"It's moving slowly," Brunig said. "The receiver has been collecting assets from a variety of sources."

The receiver has seized about $1 million in cash and securities, which has about $500,000 in Florida, Brunig said. An additional $1.2 million in Florida has been identified by the receiver as possible action.

He also said the receiver has seized cars, boats and property in the Houston area and an $800,000 residence and other property in Florida.

The receiver also is conducting negotiations with some of the victims in the case, Brunig said.

Last month, a U.S. district judge in Dallas has granted the SEC request for a permanent injunction against former Hereford businessman Gene Coulter, 62, now in prison, and the others involved in the scheme the SEC described as a "pump and dump" scheme.

The federal suit was filed in 1998, in U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas.

The litigation names several investment partnerships and individuals, including Coulter, Quinn, 50, of Dallas; Carolyn Decker, 46, of Sulphur Springs; and Robert Weaver, 46, of Blossom.

Vouchers heating up Senate debate

AUSTIN (AP) — As Texas senators prepared to take up a $2.6 billion teacher pay raise and property tax relief bill, Democrats who oppose school vouchers said there could be an attempt to add that hotly debated proposal to the funding measure.

Supporters of a proposed pilot program of publicly funded vouchers for private school tuition — including leading Republicans — haven't been able to muster the two-thirds support necessary to bring that measure up for debate on its own.

The Texas Democratic Party said in a Tuesday statement that according to "several Capitol sources," there thus could be an attempt to use the school funding legislation as a voucher vehicle.

"It would be the height of irresponsibility and arrogance to attach controversial, special interest legislation like vouchers to something as important as SB4. It's hard enough to reach a consensus on teacher pay, school finance, and tax relief without tossing vouchers, which can do great harm to public education, into the debate."

Malcolm, head of the Texas Democratic Party.

sponsoring voucher bill

Another $125 million in proposed tax relief is in a separate bill. The tax-relief package is about half the amount that has been sought by Gov. George W. Bush.

Supporters of vouchers say the program would give parents a choice and boost the caliber of public schools forced to compete for students. Opponents say vouchers would drain badly needed dollars from public schools.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, has said he wants to try a pilot voucher program to see who's right. The Republican governor and GOP Lt. Gov. Rick Perry also support a pilot program as part of a larger focus on education.

Bivins has said he wouldn't offer a voucher amendment to the finance bill, but he wouldn't promise Democrats to resist voucher amendments by others. Bivins is sponsor of both the funding and voucher bills.

Sen. Steve Ogden, R-College Station, supports trying a pilot voucher program but wouldn't say whether he planned to offer such an amendment to the funding bill.

"No comment," he said. "Loose lips sink ships."

The school funding bill is SB4.

Tickets for circus are on sale

Numerous local businesses have purchased complimentary tickets for all children age 11 and under. The tickets will be distributed through the participating businesses or schools throughout the county.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have two sons in their early 20s. The oldest one, who is married, calls me and complains incessantly about his finances. He resents the money we spend on trips when he has severe cash problems. Ann, if this son managed his income better, his financial situation would be a lot healthier. He and his wife spend like there is no tomorrow, dine out often and see several movies or plays every week. After they married, his first purchase was a new car, in spite of the fact that the old car was perfectly dependable. Now, they are considering a bigger apartment, although their current place is fine and they are not planning to have children.

Our younger son has moved back home after nearly starving to death. He made good money and could have had anything he wanted but wound up pawning everything valuable that he owned. We gave him several loans to pay off his various debts and help him get back on his feet. Did he learn anything from his experience? No. He now has a job, lives at home and has no expenses. I cook for him, do his laundry and clean his room. He runs through money as fast as he earns it and expects to borrow from us whenever he needs cash.

Where is it written that children have a right to expect such things from their parents? My husband spent 20 years in the Army and now works as a factory supervisor. We tried to teach our children the value of a dollar, the importance of saving and the dangers of credit. We love our children but wonder when, if ever, they will take responsibility for themselves and realize that we owe them nothing more. We have considered telling them they are on their own and the bank is closed. What do you think? — Had It in Kentucky

Dear Kentucky: Stop "considering," and tell them outright. It's time you stopped being enablers. Please keep reading — you have a double out there somewhere.

Dear Ann Landers: Tell me where we went wrong in raising our children. Our oldest daughter, age 34, has been married twice. Our middle son is 33 and married his fourth wife last week after a whirlwind, three-month courtship. Our youngest daughter married at age 15, had two children by the age of 17 and gave both of them up for adoption. She divorced her husband, married another man and is divorced again. Now, she is planning her third wedding, and she is only 32 years old.

Two of our children have filed for bankruptcy. They are just as irresponsible with their credit as they have been with their marriages.

When our 15-year-old was pregnant, I told her I would take care of her child if she lived at home and finished school. She wasn't interested.

My dream was for all our children to be educated and have great careers. I would have supported them in any dream they wanted — but they had no dreams.

My husband and I have been married for 37 years and have had some hard times but never once considered divorce. If we could make it work, why can't our children? I wish I knew what my husband and I did to make them so irresponsible. Where did we go wrong? — Depressed in the United States

Dear Depressed: Parents who are loving, attentive, supportive, firm and consistent with their children usually get the best results, but not all children are born with the same basic material. Genetics plays a big part in how children respond to the world around them. Let's face it, our world today is confusing, complicated and filled with dangerous choices. Stop berating yourselves. You did your best — now, let it rest. I've seen parents who were alcoholic, neglectful and irresponsible, but their children turned out extremely well. There's no perfect formula for successful parenthood — at least I don't know of it.

Is alcohol ruining your life or the life of a loved one? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" can turn things around. Five years ago: Former CIA official Aldrich Ames, who had betrayed U.S. secrets to the Soviet Union and then Russia, pleaded guilty to espionage and tax evasion, and was sentenced to life in prison without parole.

One year ago: In a breakthrough for the government's tobacco investigation, cigarette maker Liggett & Myers agreed to tell prosecutors whether the industry had hidden evidence of health damage from smoking. Common form of cancer can be most preventable

The most common form of cancer is also one of the most easily prevented. Skin cancer, in all its forms, will impact about 1 million Americans this year, and will account for half of all cancers diagnosed.

About 44,200 of those diagnosed with skin cancer will have malignant melanoma, the deadliest skin cancer. But about 80 percent of skin cancers could be prevented through limiting exposure to the sun's harmful ultraviolet (UV) rays.

By protecting yourself and your family, you can keep from getting burned by skin cancer.

The physicians of Texas Medical Association urge you to take some simple steps to protect your skin, and to educate yourself on the signs of skin cancer so you might detect any abnormalities early.

Minimize your risk and avoid becoming one of the many who will face skin cancer this year and in the future.

Everyone is at risk for skin cancer, regardless of skin color. People with fair skin that burns easily, blonde or red hair, a family history of skin cancer or a large number of moles are at greater risk, but all people need to guard themselves against skin's number one enemy - damaging UV rays.

UV rays are the same rays that cause sunburn. And most of us know that when we're out in the sun for long periods of time, we're being exposed to damaging rays. But every minute of sun exposure can add up to greater skin cancer risk - even if you're just walking from your house to your car.

"It's so important that people reduce their UV exposure as much as possible," Dr. David Madorsky, San Antonio dermatologist, said. "People don't think they need protection when in the sun for a short time. But they do - the damage is cumulative."

Minimizing UV ray exposure doesn't mean hiding indoors. It just means facing the sunshine armed with sunscreen.

Dr. Madorsky recommends daily use of sunscreen that has a sun protection factor (SPF) of 15, and not using it just on sunny days. UV rays still come through when the skies are cloudy.

And wearing sunscreen is necessary even if you'll only be outdoors for a few minutes. If you'll be swimming or otherwise active outside, use waterproof sunscreen, and reapply it frequently.

When basking in the sun for a longer period of time, sunscreen isn't enough to protect your skin. Clothing that covers your skin, such as hats and long-sleeved shirts, will afford you the greatest protection. Also, avoid the sun from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., when its rays are strongest.

Certain antibiotics, pain medications, antidepressants and other drugs can cause you to burn more easily, so be sure to ask your doctor if any medications you are taking cause sun sensitivity. If they do, it's a wise decision to stay out of the sun entirely.

It's also important to know the warning signs of skin cancer. Though most skin cancers are benign, they still need to be treated. And malignant melanoma, a less common but much more serious form of skin cancer, can be fatal if not caught early.

Look for spots on your skin or a mole that is changing in size, shape or color, or a new growth or lump. Check your entire body periodically for any changes in the skin.

Use a mirror to help you see your back, and be sure to check the soles of your feet, your palms, your elbows and the spaces between your toes.

When checking moles or birthmarks on your skin for melanoma, remember the "ABCD" rule.

"A" is for asymmetry, meaning one half of a mole or mark doesn't match the other.

"B" is for border, meaning the edges of a mole are irregular or ragged.

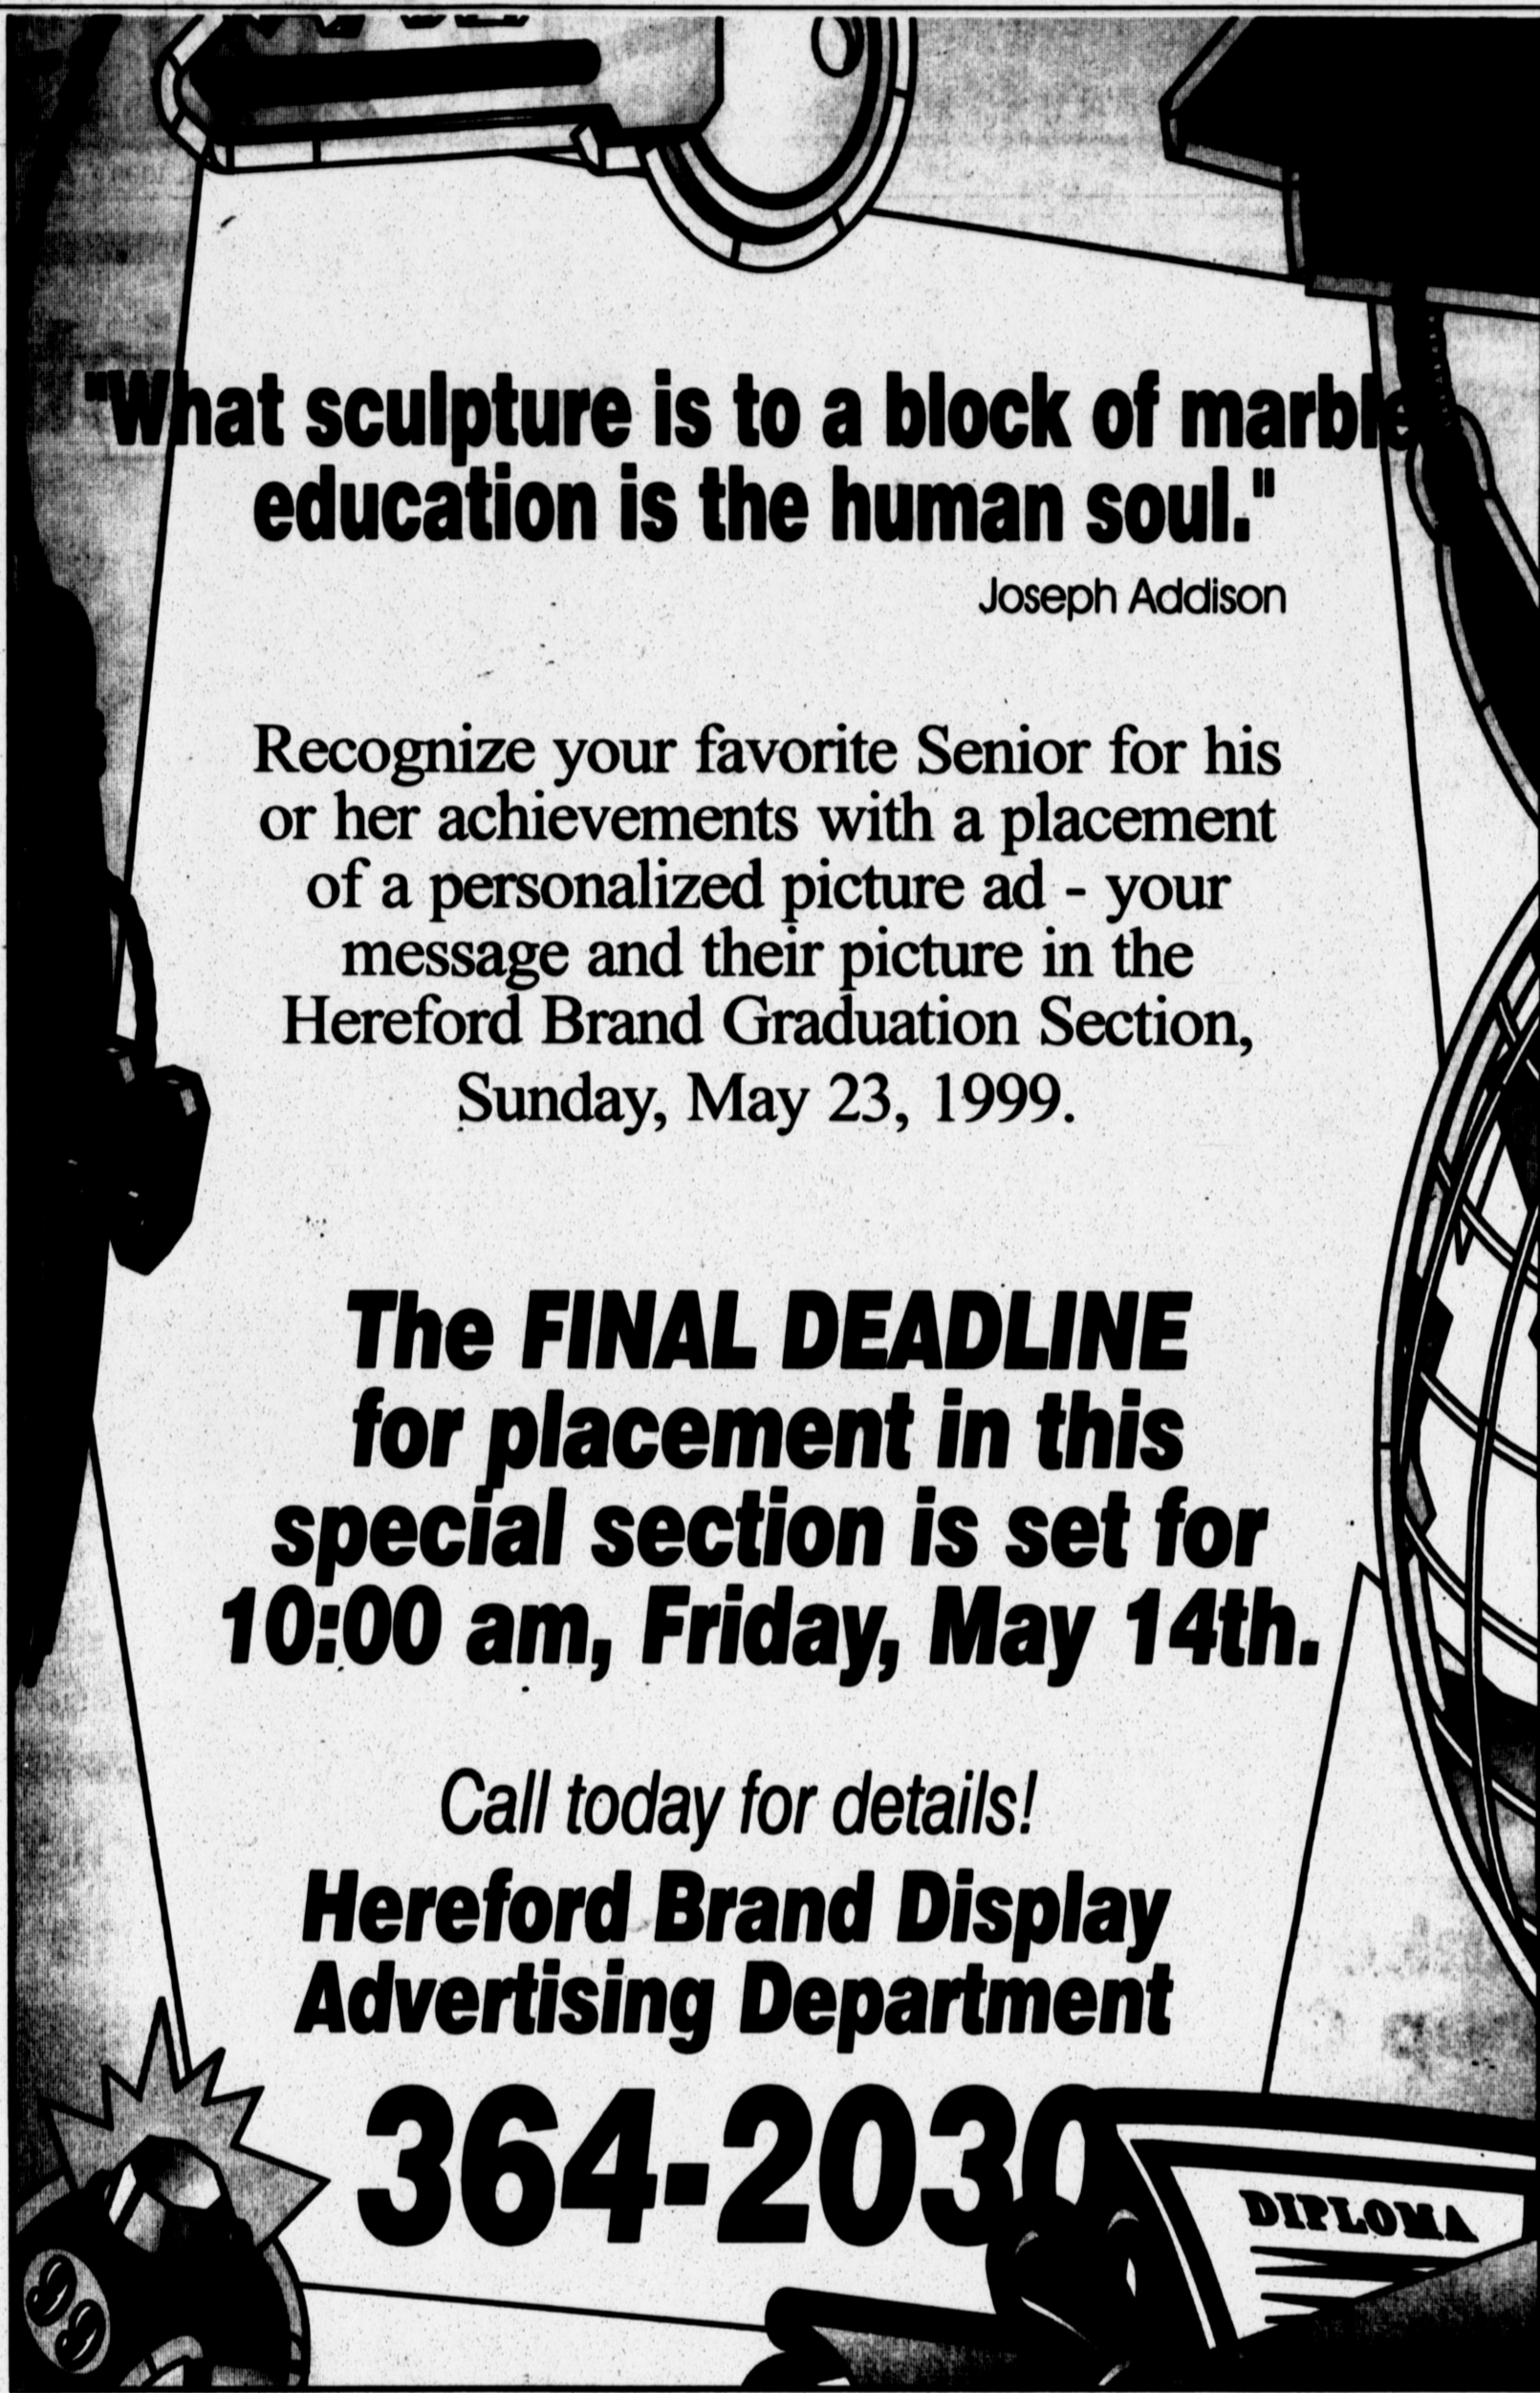

"C" is for color, meaning the color of the mark isn't the same all over and may have differing shades of brown or black or areas of red, blue or white.

"D" is for diameter, meaning the area is larger than six millimeters, about the size of a pencil eraser.

If you see these changes or notice anything unusual, report it to your doctor as soon as possible.

Of course, prevention still is the best defense against skin cancer, and even if you've been a sun worshiper who didn't use sunscreen in the past, you can still change your ways and save your skin from further damage.

"Limit your sun exposure as much as you can, and you'll limit your risk," Dr. Madorsky said. "It's never too late."

"What sculpture is to a block of marble education is the human soul."

Safe — L.J. Vallejo slides safely to third in Hereford's earlier district meeting here with the Borger Bulldogs. Hereford won that game, it's only loop win thus far, but lost in its second appearance with Borger there Tuesday.

Whitefaces suffer loss

Borger Bulldogs outlast Herd in 8-7 squeaker, as season draws to an end

From staff reports

BORGER — The opening hit by Borger here Tuesday became an omen for the rest of Hereford's day.

The Bulldogs took a home run off Whiteface hurler Eddie Lacey and scored two more to take a 3-2 lead going out of the bottom of the first en route to a slim 8-7 victory.

The loss, Hereford's fifth by two points or less, furthered the Herd's district decline at 1-8. The team now posts 4-17-3 overall heading into its final game this season against Amarillo Caprock there Saturday at 1 p.m.

Borger improved to 4-5 in loop play and to 7-15 on the season.

The Whitefaces scored once in the first inning, added two more in the Yankees rally over Texas to keep Clemens streak alive

By BEN WALKER

AP Baseball Writer

Roger Clemens had no chance. Hit hard in the first inning by the Texas Rangers, he left after the second because of a bad hamstring.

He will get another try to set the AL record for consecutive wins, however, thanks to his New York Yankees teammates.

Clemens' 17-game winning string was kept intact Tuesday night when the Yankees rallied for two runs in the ninth against John Wetteland to beat Texas 7-6.

Clemens exited with the Yankees trailing 5-0, but wound up with a no-decision. His next start is scheduled for Sunday at Kansas City, though a stiff left hamstring might put him on hold.

"The injury has been there a while, off and on, but I thought I could work through it," Clemens said. "I wanted to go out and continue, but I think I probably would have made it worse."

In other games, Baltimore beat Kansas City 8-4, Cleveland defeated Oakland 8-5, Toronto topped Anaheim 10-1, Detroit downed Seattle 5-1 and Minnesota beat Boston 6-5. Tampa Bay and Chicago were rained out at Comiskey Park, and scheduled a double-header for today.

Clemens beat the Rangers at Yankee Stadium in his previous start, and had a chance to set the record in his home state.

But with 50 family members and friends in the stands, the first five Texas batters reached base, and Todd Zeile's two-run double made it 5-0.

Clemens pitched a perfect second inning, then Hideki Irabu relieved to begin the third.

Clemens shares the AL mark of 17 straight victories with Cleveland's Johnny Allen and Baltimore's Dave McNally. Carl Hubbell holds the major league record of 24 straight victories, set in 1936-37 for the New York Giants.

Wetteland, MVP of the Yankees' 1996 World Series win, took over in the ninth with Texas ahead 6-5. Paul O'Neill hit a tying single and Chili Davis had a sacrifice fly.

"I was solely responsible for this," Wetteland said.

Orioles 8, Royals 4

Baltimore held a team meeting before the game, then improved the majors' worst record to 5-14 behind B.J. Surhoff's career-high five hits at Camden Yards.

Surhoff went 5-for-5 as the Orioles won for only the second time in 10 games. Needing a triple to complete the cycle, he doubled in the seventh inning and had an RBI single in the eighth.

Reynolds leads Houston past Arizona with pitching and hitting

SHANE REYNOLDS

By The Associated Press

Shane Reynolds beat the Arizona Diamondbacks with his arm and his bat.

Reynolds pitched no-hit ball for 6 2/3 innings and drove in three runs as Houston routed the Diamondbacks 11-0 Tuesday night at the Astrodome.

The right-hander held Arizona hitless until former teammate Luis Gonzalez lined a single to right in the seventh.

"(A no-hitter) crossed my mind. I was thinking to throw one would be nice," Reynolds said.

Reynolds (4-1) pitched eight innings, allowing five hits and striking out five. He also contributed at the plate, squeezing home a run in a six-run fourth and hitting a two-run double in the seventh.

But it was his pitching that impressed Houston manager Larry Dierker.

"I thought Shane's control was as good as it gets,"

Dierker said. "He was spotting everything exactly where he wanted."

The Astros had 14 hits and scored their most runs of the season.

"It was a breakout day for our hitters," Dierker said.

Craig Biggio homered, doubled and drove in three runs for the Astros, who lost shortstop Ricky Gutierrez with a fractured left hand. Gutierrez, injured when he was hit by a pitch in the fourth, will be out 4-6 weeks.

Philadelphia quietly pursues playoff slot

Fifth straight win pushes 76ers within two of playoff berth

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers have clinched a winning season. Next up, a playoff berth.

Allen Iverson scored 31 points to lead the 76ers to an 80-71 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers on Tuesday night. Win No. 26 in a 50-game schedule guaranteed the franchise's first winning season since 1990-91.

That was also the last season Philadelphia was in the playoffs. The 76ers' magic number to clinch a playoff berth is two.

"I don't want to start thinking about that now," said Iverson, who saw the 76ers go a combined 53-111 in his first two seasons. "That would be crazy. I would be lying to say that I'm not thinking about it. But I'm not concentrating on that, because I know we've still got to win games."

The win was the 76ers' fifth straight and moved them 11/2 games in front of idle Milwaukee for the fifth seed in the Eastern Conference.

In other games Tuesday night, it was Charlotte 108, Toronto 98; Detroit 92, Boston 85; Miami 95, New Jersey 76; Orlando 88, Indiana 87; Dallas 84, Vancouver 75; Sacramento 104, San Antonio 100 in OT; and Seattle 90, Utah 85.

Iverson moved ahead of Los Angeles' Shaquille O'Neal for the NBA scoring lead, but he passed up a chance at two points with the game decided to show his appreciation for the crowd of 17,822.

After Iverson dribbled for 15 seconds to let the clock run out, he bounced the ball high in the air near halfcourt with his right hand and raised his left hand to acknowledge the fans.

"That was for the crowd," Iverson said. "They've been there for us. It wasn't sold out tonight, but believe me, we heard them."

Derek Anderson had 17 points to lead the injury-depleted Cavaliers. Playing without Shawn Kemp, Cleveland lost its sixth straight, fell three games behind eighth-place New York and tied a season low with nine points in the fourth quarter.

"How do you see it?" Cleveland coach Mike Fratello asked someone who inquired about his team's playoff chances. "Write what you see."

Hornets 108, Raptors 96
Eddie Jones scored 28 points and Bobby Phills had 20 as the Hornets moved within one game of eighth-place New York. They also won the season series from the Raptors, the first head-to-head tiebreaker.

Tracy McGrady had a career-high 27 points for the Raptors, who have lost seven of their last eight home games.

Pistons 92, Celtics 85

Grant Hill scored 32 points and Jerome Williams had 21 points, 14 rebounds and seven steals to lead the visiting Pistons, who trailed by 10 points in the fourth quarter. Paul Pierce had 21 points for the Celtics, who were held scoreless for the first five minutes of the fourth quarter.

Heat 95, Nets 76
Jamal Mashburn had 16 points to lead Miami, which played without center Alonzo Mourning, who returned to Miami on Tuesday after being poked in the eye the night before in Cleveland. Chris Carr had all but two of his 18 points in the fourth quarter to lead the Nets, who played their first game since losing forward Keith Van Horn to a broken thumb.

Magic 88, Pacers 87
Darrell Armstrong's 17-footer with 1.6 seconds gave the Magic the road win and kept them within two games of first-place Miami in the Atlantic Division. Indiana, which was held scoreless over the final 2:04, had one last shot at victory, but Travis Best's open jumper from the corner bounced off the rim.

Nick Anderson led Orlando with 23 points and 10 rebounds, while Reggie Miller had 19 points for the Pacers. Mavericks 84, Grizzlies 75

Gary Trent had 20 points to lead Dallas to its second home win in as many nights and sixth in its last eight games at Reunion Arena. Mike Bibby had 22 points for the Grizzlies, who have lost 14 of 16.

Kings 104, Spurs 100, OT

Vlade Divac had 27 points and 15 rebounds and Jason Williams scored seven points in overtime as Sacramento moved past idle Minnesota and into the seventh playoff spot in the Western Conference. Vernon Maxwell scored 15 points and Williams had 14 points and seven assists for the Kings, who won for the sixth time in seven games, despite playing without Chris Webber for a second straight game because of a sprained lower back.

Tim Duncan led San Antonio, which had a seven-game winning streak snapped, with 32 points and 19 rebounds, while David Robinson had 17 points and 15 rebounds. Avery Johnson gave the visiting Spurs a third double-double with 15 points and 12 rebounds.

SuperSonics 90, Jazz 85
Gary Payton, who had five points in a loss to Utah on Sunday, had 30 points to lead the SuperSonics into a tie with idle Minnesota for the final Western Conference playoff spot.

Reynolds

"We need Ricky," Biggio said. "Now we're going to be without him for a while."

In other NL games, it was Philadelphia 1, Cincinnati 0 in 10 innings; Florida 8, Chicago 0; Los Angeles 3, Milwaukee 2; San Francisco 3, Montreal 2 in 10 innings; San Diego 6, New York 2; Pittsburgh 5, Atlanta 3; and St. Louis 7, Colorado 5.

Phillies 1, Reds 0, 10 innings
At Philadelphia, Curt Schilling pitched nine shutout innings and Doug Glanville won the game with an RBI single in the 10th.

Gabe White (0-2) walked Mike Lieberthal to start the inning and was relieved by Danny Graves. Desi Ralafor then pinch-ran for Lieberthal and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Dave Doster. After Kevin Jordan struck out, Glanville delivered the winning hit to right-center.

Schilling gave up five hits, struck out nine and walked one. Jeff Brantley (1-0), pitching for the first time since complaining of a stiff shoulder on April 16, went two-thirds of an inning for the win.

Marlins 8, Cubs 0

At Miami, Cliff Floyd had two singles in his 1999 debut and Alex Fernandez came off the disabled list and pitched four scoreless innings in his first start since April 11.

Floyd, returning from a spring-training knee injury, began to earn the four-year, $19 million contract he signed last winter. He singled in his first at-bat and scored on Kevin Orie's double, then singled in the sixth before departing for a pinch runner.

Pirates 5, Braves 3

At Atlanta, Jason Schmidt pitched seven solid innings against his former team as Pittsburgh snapped a four-game losing streak.

Schmidt (3-1), 1-3 with a 6.30 ERA against the Braves since they dealt him to Pittsburgh three years ago, allowed six hits and three runs.

Yankees

outpitched Kansas City's Kevin Appier (2-2). Indians 8, Athletics 5

Manny Ramirez hit a two-run homer in the first inning, sending Cleveland over Oakland.

Ramirez's sixth home run gave him 28 RBIs, seven behind the major league record for April set by Juan Gonzalez last year.

Charles Nagy (3-1) beat the Athletics after losing to them in Cleveland last week. Mike Jackson threw one pitch for his fifth save.

Twins 6, Red Sox 5

Slumping Todd Walker hit a tie-breaking, two-run single in the eighth inning and Minnesota beat Boston at the Metrodome.

Walker, who hit .316 last season, began the game in a 2-for-19 rut. He had a hit-and-run single in the fifth and singled for a 6-4 lead in the eighth.

Rick Aguilera gave up a pinch-hit homer to Reggie Jefferson in the ninth before getting his fourth save. Blue Jays 10, Angels 1

Struggling Pat Hentgen held Anaheim to three hits in seven scoreless innings and Toronto stopped its four-game losing streak.

The 1996 AL Cy Young winner missed the final three weeks of last season because of shoulder tendinitis.

But the Whitefaces never fully recovered from the first inning.

Borger took a 3-1 edge out of the opening frame and scored one run in the second, and two runs in the third before turning on the juice for two more game winning runs in the sixth.

Court likely to clarify who has a disability

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is using cases involving two nearsighted pilots, a truck driver blind in one eye and a mechanic with high blood pressure to clarify the scope of a federal law that bans discrimination against the disabled.

At issue: Does the law protect people whose conditions can be corrected with medication or a device such as eyeglasses?

Today, the court was considering whether the Americans With Disabilities Act's protections extend to two nearsighted women who unsuccessfully applied to be pilots for United Air Lines and an Oregon truck driver who is almost blind in one eye.

On Tuesday, the justices heard arguments over a Kansas man who was fired from his mechanic's job because of high blood pressure. Lower courts refused to let him sue under the disability law because his blood pressure was treatable with medication.

Rulings on all three cases are expected by July.

The ADA, enacted in 1990, is best known for requiring handicap-access ramps in public buildings. It bars employers from discriminating against a "qualified individual with a disability" because of that disability.

A qualified person is defined as one who can perform a job when given reasonable accommodation, and a disability is a condition that substantially limits a major life activity. The ADA also protects people who are "regarded as" having a disability.

The airline case was filed by twin sisters, Karen Sutton and Kimberly Hinton, who want to be pilots for United but were turned down because of nearsightedness.

They contend their poor vision should be considered a disability protected against employment bias. But lower courts ruled Sutton and Hinton were not protected by the ADA because their nearsightedness is fully correctable with glasses or contact lenses.

The second case being argued today was brought by Albertson's supermarkets, which fired truck driver Hallie Kirkingburg after he failed a test to meet Transportation Department vision standards.

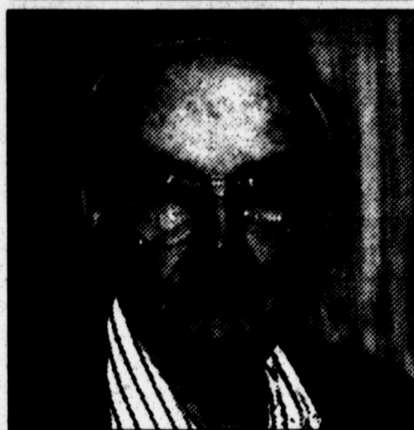

Kirkingburg performed well on a road test although he is almost blind in one eye. He sued Albertson's, saying it discriminated against him by refusing to let him go back to work after he got a waiver from the DOT standard.

Coming up -- Construction workers maneuver on scaffolding as they put siding on the new Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant at the intersection of South 25 Mile Avenue and U.S. Highway 60. The restaurant, which will be adjacent to a convenience store under construction, is expected to be open for business during the first part of June.

Derailment raising fears about speed

BOB JOSSELAND
Focus on the city

After our recent train derailment within the city limits, we have had several people express their concern about the volume of rail traffic, as well as the speed of train traffic, through the city. I thought it would be of interest to our residents if they knew what governs the safety of train traffic nationwide.

The City of Hereford does not have any legal authority to control train speeds through the city. This right is reserved to the federal government, particularly to the secretary of Transportation under the Federal Railroad Safety Authorization Act of 1994. Among other things, this law and the Code of Federal Regulations, or the specific regulations regarding rail safety, provide that the U.S. transportation secretary shall prescribe necessary regulations and orders for every railroad in the nation and for the safety of its citizens. Very specifically, the regulations have pre-empted any LOCAL speed regulations since they affect interstate commerce.

One of the unusual aspects of the Federal Railroad Safety Authorization Act and the regulations following is that railroads can establish their own train speeds, based upon rail conditions. Within this region, Region V of the Federal Railway Agency, there are five different speed types and rail conditions. We as citizens can call upon the agency to review the railroad speeds to make sure the rail conditions are in fact acceptable to the speed of the train; however, once that determination has been made by the federal government, the railroads can re-establish their speeds.

We realize that neither Hereford nor any other community should be able to restrict or hinder interstate traffic, but by the same token, we also question the federal government's desire for complete autonomy regarding this matter over the states or communities affected. We hope within a reasonable time frame to have a chance to visit with Burlington Northern Santa Fe officials about our concerns of safety within the city limits. Perhaps we can get some concessions regarding the speed of trains coming through Hereford. We at least will make every attempt to get the cooperation of BNSF.

On a different note, but one also regarding our rail traffic, several residents have expressed to our commissioners their concerns about crossing the double tracks and if an overpass or underpass might be feasible.

I would like to show encouragement for an overpass, but realistically, I'm not sure our city lends itself to that construction within the city limits. Any development of either an overpass or underpass would have to begin first with the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) through the Amarillo division.

It would be my guess that because of the highway running alongside the tracks through Hereford, the first location that an overpass would be feasible would be at the state highway which passes Garth Merrick's business on the east side of town. That location would do very little for our residents living south of the tracks as they travel north.

I certainly am not opposed to pursuing an overpass and/or underpass. I just don't see the location within the city limits that makes sense for that type of structure, given our highway location. Perhaps there is something that can be done somewhere down the line.

Regardless, let me encourage each and every resident of Hereford and Deaf Smith County to realize the volume of traffic which moves through Hereford in a 24-hour period over the BNSF lines. It is indeed a concern, or should be, to each of us that we are truly cognizant of the safety issues as we cross those double tracks.

As always, I appreciate your suggestions and comments for the betterment of Hereford.

Bob Josseland is mayor of Hereford.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!
 Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
 For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:
 • Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
 • Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
 • Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
 • Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Bush Beat Consultant grabs Internet domains

HOUSTON (AP) — There are dozens — or hundreds — of possible Internet domain combinations for the name of Gov. George W. Bush. Karl Rove, the governor's primary campaign consultant, is out to get as many as possible.

The Texas Journal of The Wall Street Journal reported today that several variations on the governor's name already have been registered as Internet domains. Some of the domain owners have already tried selling the names to Bush's not-yet-official presidential campaign.

Rove says he isn't buying, even if that means a political opponent some day getting ahead of the domain.

"They're talking $300,000, but no one site is worth a georgebushbites.com georgewbush.com BushPataki.com BushWhitman.com heck of a lot of money," Rove said. "If someone wants to put up a Web site that has a nasty theme, they will. You can't stop them."

They're talking $300,000, but no one site is worth a heck of a lot of money," Rove said. "If someone wants to put up a Web site that has a nasty theme, they will. You can't stop them."

site that has a nasty theme, they will. You can't stop them."

To cope with what is becoming a growing problem, Rove's office has compiled and registered a list of 60 politically strategic World Wide Web domain names, including georgebushbites.com, in preparation for the governor's expected presidential run.

The idea, Rove says, is to prevent Bush's opponents from laying claim to the Web sites, which could then be used to parody or otherwise embarrass the governor.

"This was our attempt to get most of the names," Rove says. In the age of Internet politics and dirty tricks, he adds, "campaigns will be doing this as a matter of routine."

In Bob Dole's 1996 presidential bid, Dole had an official campaign Web site: BobDole96.com. But political pranksters registered BobDole96.org and attracted thousands of visitors to a sarcastic tribute to Dole's imaginary prominence in the pineapple industry.

Rove has registered a score of possible "Bush" sites using the three most common Internet-site extensions — .com, .org and .net.

Type in some of the registered site names, and your browser is automatically directed to the site of Bush's official exploratory campaign, georgewbush.com.

The list of registered domain names also includes several with Bush's name in conjunction with possible running mates, including BushPataki.com, a nod to New York's Gov. George Pataki, and BushWhitman.com, for New Jersey's Gov. Christine Todd Whitman.

Other registered sites include the names of Michigan's Gov. John Engler and Tom Ridge, governor of Pennsylvania. One notable absence to the list of names is GOP rival Elizabeth Dole.

Bush backs background checks for gun buyers

Bush said Tuesday he supports instant background checks for gun buyers but that it's too late to revive a bill to require instant checks for people buying firearms from unlicensed sellers at gun shows.

"I think we need instant background checks," Bush said.

"We ought not sell guns to people for whom guns are not intended — felons and youths. We need instant background checks. We've got the technology to do so, and I think the federal government needs to expand background checks to that they can become effective and work."

But Bush said he wouldn't push for a bill that died last week in a Texas House committee that would have required the checks for gun show buyers. He has been criticized for endorsing the idea only after the bill died.

"No, it's dead," Bush said when asked if he would try to revive the measure. "It's too late in the session to revive it."

"I think the problem with gun shows is there was a question as to how the instant background checks would be implemented, and it really needs to be worked out at the federal level," Bush continued.

SEC From Page A1 Cord, 44, of Seabrook; Also, Steven C. Roberts; Raymond G. Parr; Willard Vearl Smith; Earl D. McKinney. The complaint states Cord also is known as Robert F. Schoonover Jr. According to the SEC complaint, the individuals and companies were "involved in the fraudulent sales of interests in a succession of non-existent prime bank trading programs." The SEC claims these sales involved more than $14 million from investors in Texas and 17 other states. When it filed the complaint, the SEC requested the court to freeze the defendants' assets. The request was granted, and the court also ordered all defendants to provide a full accounting for the investment funds and appointed a receiver to control the assets. The permanent injunction also continues the those orders. The companies involved in the complaint are listed as: • Funding Resource Group; • MVP Network Inc., also known as MVP Network (Trust); • FMCI Trust; • Funders Marketing Co. Inc.; • Fortune Investments Ltd.; • Winterhawk West Indies Ltd. The SEC contends the defendants "raised $14 million by telling investors that these programs were successful, that their funds were completely secured by guarantees issued by banks or insurance companies, and that the investments would generate returns between 6 percent and 18 percent per month." However, the SEC claims the trading programs didn't exist and there were no security guarantees. Also, the SEC charged "these defendants used most of the investor funds for their own benefit and the benefit of the relief defendants, Howe Financial Trust and Trede Financial Trust, and for payments to other investors." Coulter formerly was agency manager of Texas Farm Bureau in Hereford. He served in that position for about 10 years before leaving the firm in 1983 to being a private insurance venture in the central Texas area.

Paper bans advertisements for any tobacco products NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times plans to ban advertisements for cigarettes, cigars and other tobacco products in its pages effective Saturday. The Times decided on the ban, the first by a national newspaper, because of concerns about the harmful effects of smoking, New York Times Co. spokeswoman Nancy Nielsen said. "We don't want to expose our readers to advertising that may be dangerous to their health," Ms. Nielsen said. Tobacco advertising accounted for less than 1 percent of the newspaper's $1 billion in ad revenues last year. More than a dozen other U.S. newspapers refuse to publish tobacco ads.

Ex-Beatle's paintings to be on exhibit LONDON (AP) — Paul McCartney has something he can fall back on if this music thing doesn't work out: He paints. Some 70 McCartney oil paintings, featuring John Lennon, Andy Warhol, Queen Elizabeth II — "The Queen Getting a Joke" and "The Queen After Her First Cigarette." The former Beatle said he took up painting after his 40th birthday in 1982. "Until then I had this big block in my head that only people who went to art school were allowed to paint," he said. "But when I got to 40, I realized this block was madness. I wanted to paint and the only person not allowing me a canvas was me." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS People David Bowie, Charlie Watts and other friends, are included in a show opening this weekend in the small town of Siegen, Germany, near Cologne. Also included are a couple of whimsical portraits of Queen Elizabeth II — "The Sinead O'Connor DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Sinead O'Connor, who once ripped up a picture of the pope on television, could be in trouble with the Vatican again.
