here are two Frances. One is the France of Paris; the other is the France outside Paris.

And, Milton and Betty Rudder have tried to learn about both the France of Paris and the France outside the City of Lights.

During their most recent visit to France, the Rudders drove nearly 5,000 kilometers (2,700 miles) on a loop that took them through the champagne, Burgundy, Bordeaux and Beaujolais wine-producing areas and back to Paris.

In preparation for their five-week stay in France, the Rudders enrolled in the first-year French class at Amarillo College.

"We knew we wouldn't be fluent, but we would be better," Mr. Rudder said about the couple's language preparation. He said they wanted to improve their language skills because they planned to stay in the countryside of France, where many people do not speak English.

Also, on this visit to France, they didn't want to do the "usual tourist things," he said.

They arrived in France in late May, but the visit got off to a rocky start because on the second day in the country, Mr. Rudder had to go into the hospital for treatment of a back problem. His stay would last eight days. "I learned one thing," Mr.

Rudder said. "Should you ever get sick in Paris, there is the American Hospital." The hospital was given to France by the U.S. government after World War I, and many of the staff members speak English, he said.

Also, Mr. Rudder said he certainly wouldn't be relating any horror stories about hospital food because "they served gourmet meals there."

"The hospital had an arrangement with one of the chef schools, so some of the students got to try out what they had learned at the hospital," Mrs. Rudder said.

While Mr. Rudder stayed in the hospital, Mrs. Rudder stayed in a hotel near the Seine River and about

Hereford Brand Staff Writer Here's the situation:

The baby is crying, the dog is barking, the doors are locked and the keys are hanging from the ignition.

What do you do?

Make a quick call and within minutes, a yellow-and-white industrial van arrives on the scene. Jim Manning is ready to unlock that unintentionally locked door.

Manning, owner of Jim's Lock and Key, arrives with all the needed equipment to successfully unlock the door, or for that matter, almost any situation involving a lock.

Forget the wire coat hanger. Manning does things the easy way. Most of what he uses, other than the tools themselves, travel with him via computer hard drive.

Computers have revolutionized most jobs, including key-making and locksmithing.

Manning used to carry thick books which provided all the information he would need for a particular job. Often he would get called to a job and have to return to his shop, because he couldn't carry everything. Since 1989, thanks to a handy-dandy specialized computer program, Manning can get nearly any information, for nearly any job, at the touch of a couple of buttons.

Unlocking cars are only part of Manning's everyday tasks. He also replaces ignition locks, door locks, opens locked safes, and installs and services master lock systems for larger complexes.

He uses the computer system to keep track of special lock and key information, which would only make sense to a locksmith. Key blank numbers, lock information and customer data all ride around with Manning daily.

Along with his computer, Manning travels with a well-stocked selection of key blanks, which will fit most cars or door locks and special key cutters.

"Every once in a while I have to go get a blank from the shop, but with the computer, I don't ever have to guess. I know I can find what I need.'

The key cutters are as specialized as the computer programs. Manning uses the numerical coding, provided by the electronic data base, to cut nearly perfect keys nearly every time.

"The difference between my keys and the ones you can buy somewhere else is we have to buy our blanks, so we don't want to waste them. We want them right the first time," he said. "Department stores just return ruined blanks and get a new supply."

With all this technological wizardry, a person might think Manning came from a much more industrialized area, but he's a native of Hereford.

"I was born and raised here," Manning said. "My folks' folks was here. I've wandered away a time or two, but always keep coming back. There's lots of good people here and that's reason enough for me to stay."

Manning didn't start out wanting to unlock cars and reset locks. He started out as a carpenter, thinking he could make a little extra money by lock-smithing.

The two just don't work together," Manning said. "It didn't take me long to realize I could make more money with less physical effort being a locksmith.

Two people were taken to Hereford Regional Bonneville driven by Juan Castaneda Medical Center Friday afternoon for treatment of injuries received in a two-car accident. The injuries were not believed serious.

a 30- to 40-minute cab ride away. She visited the hospital, delivering fresh cut flowers that she purchased on the streets of Paris. At night, she would leave the hotel and walk to a sidewalk café for a meal. "I never once felt unsafe," she said, noting that is not a feeling that one has in a large city in the United States. "You don't have to worry so much about crime. We have never been 'pickpocketed'."

Manning enrolled in locksmith course presented by Foley-Bell Saw Institute and then completed the advanced course to become a certified locksmith.

"It's not real physical. There's a lot of reading and a lot of learning ... to keep up," he said.

The course directors will send two lessons, but before anymore can be sent they require participants pass a criminal history check.

"We carry a $10,000 bond. Just to show we're trustworthy."

Unlocking cars is probably his favorite call. "I enjoy unlocking cars. It gets people out of trouble.

When a job is completed, and Manning is on his way to the next call, he always tells the customer "May the rest of your day be better."

He said he likes to tell people that because they are frequently upset and aggravated after locking their keys in the car.

Even with the on-board computer, Manning knows a few jobs mean lots of work.

"Drilling floor safes is really tough. You do a lot of pushing and a lot of work," he said.

Regardless of the work and time involved, Manning says it's always a new challenge, always a different set of problems to unlock.

"We've never been accosted in any way," Mr. Rudder added.

"I just always felt safe in the streets," she said.

Many U.S. tourists come back from France with tales of the rudeness of the French, but the Rudders said that in two trips to France, they have "never once had a bad experience with the French.

He cited the Parisian cabdriver as an example of the courtesy extended by the French.

"We were at a loss on where to pick up our car at Charles de Gaulle Airport (northwest of Paris), but he was so patient. We finally got where we could park and he went with us to get the car and he did the talking in French with the people.

"We needed our passports, but we had left them in the cab, which was parked about a quarter-mile away. He walked back to the cab and got then, then he loaded all of our stuff in the car and led us out of the airport to where we were going," Mr. Rudder said.

"The people were just so darn nice the whole time. They gave us time to sort through our French. We even had people come out of their stores and stand in the middle of the street to give us direction," he said.

Mrs. Rudder said they had considered taking the French bullet trains on the trip, but they decided they wanted to lease a car for their travel.

You can fly into Paris and get a train anywhere you want to go and you see a lot on the train, but we like to get in a car and do our own thing," she said.

Pointing to a stack of maps, she said, "Milton does a lot of research. He picked out some really special places."

One of the special places was a little village about 18 miles south of Beaune, where they leased a house on an estate.

This provided them with a base for their trips into the French countryside.

Mr. Rudder said there is a "creeping Americanization" of France, especially in the large cities where one can see the McDonald's golden arches and signs advertising U.S. hotels/motels.

"I didn't see any appreciable changes in the small towns, but in the larger towns - maybe 20,000 and up - we saw the occasional McDonald's or Comfort Inn," he said.

"There isn't any question about changes. It's largely an agrarian society, so the bulk of people in the small communities have to commute somewhere to work. Some of the French will deny it vehemently, but you can just feel the tide of Americanization," he said.

"A little girl told us they used to study English for seven years in school," Mrs. Rudder said. "Now they start in the second grade, so they essentially study English all through school.

Tiny porcelain boxes are a major product of Limoges

"We found out in the country, many people speak English, more of the younger people than the older. In the country, if you need someone to speak English, you have to find someone younger," she said.

For example, she said the owner of the house which they leased spoke very halting English; however, the woman's maid's knowledge of the language was much better.

"(France) is such a unique place" and derives so much income from tourism, which he said also will help spread the American influence

"France gets 40 million tourists every year, and 10 million of those are Americans," he said.

One of the things he fears will be lost in a changing France is the "integrity" of the individual villages, which maintain distinct identifies even though they may be less than 10 kilometers apart.

Part of that individual flavor is seen in the variety of products associated with individual towns. Mr. Rudder pointed out that in one 75mile stretch of French wine country, there are 560 different vineyards producing their own varieties of wine.

"I felt like it was 1939 because of the architecture, the layout of the streets and the stores closing from noon until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. In the village where we stayed, nothing was open on Sunday except the restaurants and that was only for the noon trade," he said.

"Sunday is a day for families," Mrs. Rudder said. "Also, a lot of the museums close on Tuesday. I don't know why they picked Tuesday, but they're closed. Restaurants will be open from noon until about two for lunch, then they're closed until about seven or eight.'

After leaving the small village and the leased house, the Rudders traveled to Limoges, which is world-renown for its porcelain. Mrs. Rudder purchased some of the unique Limoges boxes, tiny individual porcelain creations.

They then drove through western France and on to the De Gaulle airport - the origin of their "Tour de France."

I look up at the stars for the answers that remain Forever will be silent Nothing again will ever be the same After that tragic night The tears keep falling like rain.

Why, why did it have to be you? The one who brought joy to our lives. The one who could make us smile Even though we just wanted to cry. The one who would go the distance, the mile You never knew the meaning of being blue, Why did have to be you?

As I listen to the trains go by I can hear your life; I can see your smile But I can still hear the questions of how and why They roll in my mind like thunder for a while But the memories take over, the ones deep inside The ones I thought were buried; the ones I hide The memories that bring a smile to my face The memories nothing could ever replace.

Cowboy artist's works featured

Special to The Brand CANYON - Works on paper by a cowboy artist will be featured through Aug. 22 at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

The exhibit, "Edwin Borein: The Artist's Life and Works," features 54 watercolors, etchings, and pen-and-ink sketches, all from collections of the Rockwell Museum in Corning, N.Y., include ex-amples of Borein's "Stampede" rodeo posters, depictions of Western wildlife and Hispanic missions, and his highly regarded imagery of longhorn cattle and cowboy life on the open range. Borein (1872-1945) was raised in California at a time when cattle were still driven down the main street of his home town. His sensitivity to the behavior of animals, his inclination to draw what he experienced came naturally and with less formal art training. He lived the lifestyle he chose to depict and became a proficient roper, rider and saddlemaker. Ranching and Hispanic themes characterized his work throughout his career.

TPMHA receives grant, approves the hiring of 12

Special to The Brand AMARILLO – Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority (TPMHA) Child & Adolescent Services has been awarded the Services to At-Risk Youth (STAR) grant by the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services.

The four-year grant, which is for about $617,000 annually, will serve the upper 21 counties of the Panhandle.

After receiving notice of the grant, the TMPHA directors approved the hiring of 12 new STAR staff to serve the cities of Amarillo, Canyon, Hereford, Dalhart, Borger, Pampa, Perryton and Clarendon.

The directors also appointed Heidi Rindlisbacher to administer the program, which will begin Sept. 1. The Amarillo offices will be in Wellington Square. Regional office sites will be announced at a later date.

TPMHA and the Amarillo State Center are scheduled to merge Sept. 1, 2000. These two agencies have been meeting for the past nine months planning for a smooth merger and the continuation of services for the mentally ill and mentally retarded. Ed Calahan, director of state-operated community services for the Texas Department of Mental Health Mental Retardation (TXMHMR) in Austin, reported on the transition process that has been taking place over the past three years in combining state-operated community services with the local center. The goal is to have all MHMR services under one umbrella at each designated site

Roger Speight, chief infor-mation officer of the Texas Community Solutions for the Texas Council Community MHMR Centers in Austin, discussed the PsychServ Clinical Software. This stateof-the-art software program provides for a managed care capability and will allow TPMHA to communicate electronically with a large variety of payors. The direc-tors approved the purchase..

The nine-member board provides oversight for the operations of the center. The board represents the residents of the 21 Panhandle counties the agency serves.

Board members are Dean Copeland, chairman, Pampa; Larry Campbell, vice chair-man, Amarillo; Steve Cornette, secretary/treasurer, Canyon; Willis Smith, Higgins; Liz Ladd, Amarillo; Sandy Duck, Amarillo; Jordan Mills, Dumas; and Diane Scroggins, Borger.

ix and one-third trillion dollars. That's $6,336,234.000.000!

According to the U.S. Treasury Department, that is what the national debt will be at the end of Fiscal 2003.

After nearly two decades of profligate spending that saw the national debt quadruple between 1981 and 1993, the government finished last fiscal year with a $79 billion surplus and is estimating there will be more than a trillion dollars in surpluses over the next decade. Of course, these projections are just educated guesswork which assumes the economy will continue without interruption and the White House and Congress will hold the line on spending.

With visions of a trillion-dollar surplus dancing in their heads, politicians on both sides of the aisle in Congress are fighting over how to spend the money.

The Republicans want to spend the surplus on tax cuts; the Democrats want to spend the money on education, Social Security and Medicare. Of course, the Republicans say they don't intend to spend the surplus, they're just "returning" it to the taxpayers. On the other side of the aisle, the Democrats say they don't intend to spend the surplus either, they are just "reinvesting" it.

The Turtle Posse (Annette and I) first became active not long after we were married. We were living in Lubbock and were on the road between Lubbock and Big Spring when we saw the driver of a pickup in the opposite lane swerve toward the shoulder to run over a turtle that was just about to clear the highway. That enraged us.

After all, what chance does a small turtle stand against a 2-ton pickup?

In some quarters, our anger at seeing the pickup driver deliberately run over the little shelled creature could be con-sidered proof that strict gun-control laws are necessary because if we'd had guns in the car, we might have fired off a few rounds in the pickup's direction.

You'd have to have brought him home with a snapping turtle grabbed hold of a guy over near Center Point and wouldn't let go. The guy kept waiting and waiting for the thunder, but they had a drought that summer so there wasn't any thunder. Day after day, he walked around with that turtle hanging onto his hand. The turtle finally died, but even then it wouldn't let go and they had to cut its head off."

is there a full moon out there?

If mistakes were haystacks, everyone would keep a cow.

- A Michigan farmer, 1890 -

Hello Hereford.

'm trying to remember whether this night's twilight is being provided by a full moon.

I know I'm reaching since the month is only slightly half over, but I prefer, for the sake of this column's beginning, to imagine that the moon is full.

Usually, I'm fast asleep after reading two or three measly pages in my latest book selection — long before the summer sun sets. So, I can't honestly say I've even seen Earth's companion in a while.

For centuries, the full moon has been blamed for just about every bad thing befalling mankind. But after Apollo astronauts cruised across an ocean of space to play on its best golf courses, some of the moon's mysterious unseen power and grasp on Earthlings dwindled.

A phone conversation earlier today with Jerry Tidwell, publisher of the award-winning Hood County News in Granbury, made me wonder if the moon was pulling some strings again.

We were talking about business, about it being a Monday even though it was Wednesday, and eventually our discussion turned to our lament over mistakes which had woven their way into our papers recently. "It's sort of funny," he chuckled, "how quickly you spot those mistakes just as they are coming off the press. It's like they were never there until the page gets printed."

He was probably just trying to make me feel better when he told me that he and five other staff proofreaders had missed a big glaring headline error in his paper this past week.

And if ifs and buts were candy and nuts, every day would be Christmas.

Whether it is a return to the taxpayers or a reinvestment, it is still spending money that is not yet in the treasury — and very likely will not be.

In fact, it is a phantom surplus. On paper, the surpluses are mounting up year after year for the next 15 years; however, those surpluses are the result of appropriations from the Social Security trust fund. If the money Congress appropriates from the trust fund were not included, the result would be a $4 billion deficit.

Still, both the Democratic White House and the Republican Congress deserve accolades for the 1997 budget agreement which has played a significant role in the reduction of the budget deficits, which were approaching $300 billion when President Clinton took office.

Unfortunately, it appears that with the 2000 presidential campaign well under way, both Democrats and Republicans are looking for ways to pad their way around the agreement.

In their efforts to either "return" or "reinvest" the extra trillion dollars, the politicians are ignoring some variables, such as wars, natural disasters or economic downturns - all of which will have a significant impact on any surpluses. They also are ignoring the enormous federal debt — all six and one-third trillion dollars of it.

Rather than spend the next several weeks arguing over tax cuts or reinvestment, our elected representatives could serve us best by using any surplus to pay down the national debt.

If they don't show some resolve now, the new millenium will very likely bring us another new term to learn -"quadrillion."

No, for those zoologists out there, I know that what I've called a turtle actually is not a turtle; it's a terrapin. But most everyone calls a terrapin a turtle, so "turtle" it is.

However, when we lived in Louisiana, Annette did rescue an honest-to-God turtle. An ancient loggerhead had crawled out of the swamp and gotten onto the highway. She stopped the car and went to get the turtle off the roadway and back into the muck.

The loggerhead's aggressiveness didn't deter her. She got a leather belt and dangled in front of the old guy's face. He latched on and she pulled him off the highway and back down into the water where he belonged. He did let go of the belt when he got in the water, by the way. When she got home, she told me about the rescue of the loggerhead and how he nearly clamped down on her hand.

"You're lucky he didn't get hold of your hand," I said.

Well, what happened?" she asked.

"Oh, the guy had to wait another month or two until the drought broke. There was a big thunderstorm and when it thundered the first time, the old dead turtle's mouth opened and the head fell off." "You're full of it."

I honestly don't understand what it is that would compel someone to nearly wreck a car or truck in an effort to run down and crush one of those slow-moving little creatures. It can't be because the turtle is a threat to the vehicle. It can't be because the turtle is aggressive and poses a threat to life or limb. No, the turtle is one of the most inoffensive little creatures on the planet. It just tries to go about its life in its own timid, slow way, trying its best to stay out of our way and, I'm sure, hoping we humans will just leave it alone.

So, if you're traveling and you see a turtle on the roadway, why don't you stop your car and move the little guy to safety.

was as guilty as the rest of them," he said. "I could almost swear that headline was right when I looked at it."

I was listening to him, but was mostly thinking about my problems.

There has to be a full moon out there, we newspapermen pretend — seeking superstition as a more self-serving explanation for our own fallibility.

I don't know how Tidwell was coping with his mistake, but I was leaning pretty hard on the full moon theory.

Absorbing the mistakes would be easier if we had no pride. We could better tolerate our imperfection if we didn't care that we had impugned our Castro County neighbors so, dubbing their town Dammit rather than Dimmitt in a front page story earlier this week.

I can almost see the man in the moon laughing.

If we didn't care so much about getting everything right, it probably wouldn't have bothered us much when we inadvertently deposed Wallace Hill as the Whiteface Booster Club president, and thrust the club's public relations man, Michael Power into the post.

Despite his name, Power has not been seeking a higher office. However, he did tell us he appreciated the endorsement.

Hill is a former Hereford football player, and has been an active supporter of Whiteface athletics. He was doing a good job before we canned him, so I am reinstating him as the club's president now.

I don't dare think about The Law Of Threes — the law that cautions bad things happen three times in quick succession before balance is restored.

We, and Granbury, are not alone.

The axiom that heralds misery loves company was further realized among newspapers this past week after the Amarillo Daily News published an agriculture story with a subordinate headline announcing something about people being shot in the head 13 times.

Like most readers, we're relieved the farm environment in Hereford is less violent, more user-friendly.

The list of our most-memorable mistakes, to our chagrin, goes on and on - as it does with all newspapers, magazines, books and, yes, even those other mediums.

I happened to be listening to a local radio personality once and the broadcaster mispronounced "epitome" about a half-dozen times in a story he was reading. Instead of reading the word as i-pi-te-me, he pro-nounced it ep-i-tome. Man has stumbled over lesser words.

At least his error wasn't set in the concrete of the printed page.

Newspaper errors linger. Long after the newspaper's natural evolution as a replacement liner for the household wastebasket or bird cage, the mistake is still among the lasting chronicles preserved on community

For decades, lawmakers and peace marchers have screamed for equality.

In reality, how can equality be legalized? True, people of any race, gender, nationality or religion should be free to apply for work. or educational opportunities wherever they so choose. Qualifications should allow them the same pay and benefits as their counterparts. In the same light no one should have special stipulations put on them regarding voting privileges.

Now the NAACP wants to raise havoc with the televison industry because not enough minorities are being placed in lead roles of television programs and not enough minority parts are available.

In all the flap about this issue, not once have I heard anyone ask, "Did any minorities apply for the part?" Also, where are the minority writers? By the way isn't a 'minority part' just a bit stereotyping? If the minority actors and writers aren't there, it's kind of hard to use them or their works.

Legacy fuels push for lasting achievements

By Terence Hunt The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Clinton is ignoring the calendar. With time running out on his presidency, he is reaching for new ideas rather than slowing down. He is racing around the country and the world rather than relaxing at Camp David or on the golf course.

His place in history is at stake.

Marked as only the second president ever to be impeached, Clinton is searching for a legacy based on achievements instead of scandal. The roaring economy is aiding his search, giving him the financial cushion of $5.9 trillion in expected budget surpluses over the next 15 years.

"He's a lame duck on the books, but he isn't acting like one," said James Thurber, director of American University's Center for Con-

Clinton is looking to put Social Security and Medicare on sound financial footings, subsidize prescription drug costs for seniors, tighten gun controls, build new schools. hire 100,000 new teachers, spend billions on child care and health care, bring peace to the Middle East, stabilize war-battered Kosovo and resolve the age-old conflict between Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland.

"There's no question that so positive, that he's still driving. He gets inspired when he gets down, it seems," Thurber said, referring to the impeachment ordeal that dominated the first months of the year.

With his headline-grabbing proposals on Medicare and Social Security, Clinton demonstrated anew his knack for dominating the news and shaping the agenda.

While Republicans hold slim majorities in the House and Senate, Thurber said, "I hope they remember that the president has the power of the veto, and presidents win 97 percent of the time on the the peoples' business. The chief of staff, John Podesta, said he banned the word "legacy" from White House discussions.

Clinton told CBS' Dan Rather that he was not at all sure that the word "impeachment" would show up in the first paragraph of his obituary. The president portrayed his impeachment struggle as a battle of honor rather than disgrace.

Clinton never talks publicly in terms of legacy, even as he pats his administration on the back for the strong economy and falling crime rates.

"Any president who talks about legacy is not in the business of producing one," said Brookings Institution political scholar Thomas Mann. "What he is doing is perfectly consistent with his performance throughout his presidency," Mann said. "This is an ambitious, energetic politician whose perhaps greatest strength is trying to shape the agenda, who has a knack for identifying issues and articulating positions that resonate with the citizens of this country.

"I think it would be a mistake to somehow attribute it to last-minute legacy. If it is, it's foolish," Mann said. "The only way Clinton can work the presidency is full throttle, from beginning to end."

background and some personal perspective? Or the person with real experience and a passing educational background?

Not once was the issue of race considered. It's not really important. But, if truth be known, many people today would probably stereotype each of the applicants, without knowing anything else about them.

All the laws in the world can't legalize equality.

If minorities are not getting jobs and positions maybe it's because of a difference in qualifications, not a legal issue to be taken into the courtrooms.

Under no circumstance should any opportunity be closed to a person because of race, religion, size or gender. But no company or organization should be made to hire a certain number of minorities just to fill a quota.

If a company or organization wanted to get as many brownie points as possible they would hire oversize black women, with Hispanic last names and Jewish background, who had come from the projects. I realize that if left to their own devices, some places would still blatantly refuse to hire any minorities, but who would it hurt?

In today's culture, organizations benefit from differences among its employees. The only ones harmed by failing to employ or adequately pay a minority is the organization itself.

Equality - like morality, religion, and prosperity - cannot now or ever be legalized.

lereford Brand Managing Editor Hereford's economy sagged last month, according to the Texas Comptroller's Office.

The city's sales tax relate payment for July was $75,900.23, down 9.3 percent from the $83,656.70 received in July 1998. The July rebate also was down from June's $77,323.61

For the year, Hereford has received $622,694.37, down about 2.9 percent from the $624,488.07 for the same period last year.

Deaf Smith County received a payment of $26,248.96, down 12.2 percent from the $29,892.08 rebate in July 1998.

The county's payment was also down slightly from the $26,965.23 payment for last month.

For the year, the county has received $207,135.34. down 2.9 percent from the $213,386,12 for the same period in 1998.

The comptroller's office delivered a total of $178.5 million in monthly sales tax payments to 1,097 Texas cities and 118 counties, up slightly from June.

The July rebates include local sales taxes collected by monthly filers in May and reported to the comptroller's office in June.

to Texas counties.

By law, the state collects sales taxes for Texas cities and counties that have local sales taxes. The comptroller's office then returns the portion of the taxes on a monthly basis.

The state charges a 6.25 percent sales tax and local sales taxes can be up to 2 percent above that. Around the area:

Dimmitt received a rebate

President Clinton, who is spending the weekend at Camp David in w ern Maryland, was told about the disappearance of the Kennedy plane by John Podesta, his chief of staff, shortly after 7 a.m. Saturday, the White House said. Press Secretary Joe Lockhart said the president was being kept informed of the progress of the search for the missing aircraft. Jamie Gaspar, an operations specialist at Martha's Vineyard Airport, said Kennedy's plane was supposed to arrive Friday night, but never did. "I'm a little worried, because I know him personally," Gaspar said. Eddie Martin, of Hyannisport, who described himself as a friend of the family, said he was told Kennedy was headed for Martha's Vineyard and was then to go to the wedding of a cousin, Rory, daughter of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Getting their kicks Youth Summer Soccer League getting good start in Hereford, planning for more soccer in the future

COPI AT VIA DEBOOR - GOODER MANY 13, 1939

Jamie Chavira, who turns 9 this Sunday, awaits her turn to get in the soccer game against the Blue Blazer.

Chavira, the only player on the bench, plays for the Burns. She watches patiently as her teammates run up and down the field at Langley park on a cloudy Friday afternoon. Her brown eyes concentrated on the field and shaking her legs nervously, awaiting to get in there. Her teammate, Eli Romero, had just scored a goal and the Burns take a 2-1 lead over the Blue Blazers and the first half ends. Chavira gets her call as she enters the second half. Someone else gets a break.

Despite her lack of playing time Friday, she still enjoys the game of soccer.

"I like it because it is a fun sport," she said while awaiting her shot on the field.

Chavira, who also likes volleyball, softball and basketball, is one of an estimated 150 kids who play for the Hereford Youth Summer Soccer League.

They come from all facets of life. Some even come from other parts of the area surrounding Hereford.

"We have about 16 teams playing here," said Youth Soccer director Emilio Romero, also the coach for the Under-10 Burns. "Right now we are concentrating on the youth and hope for growth in the future. Some of the kids participating in the league even play in other leagues and tournaments, just like Eufemio Garcia. Garcia plays for the Oro ("Gold" in spanish). He chatted with teammates before their 7:45 p.m. game against the Sharks. But, of course, soccer was on his mind. And you could tell by the way he held the ball, very close to his body.

"I like soccer because a bunch of people play," Garcia said of his choice for soccer.

Garcia is part of a team that has played in many Amarillo youth tournaments that have succeeded greatly. They have come out with first- and secondplace finishes.

With the momentum of the success of the recent women's World Cup, it's easy to understand why the league is such a success so far. But it takes a lot of people to make it a success.

"The parents involvement has helped a lot and the support has grown, Romero said. "Also, the kids have been very excited about it and that is why it has succeeded like it has."

The 16 teams and 150 kids is not all what the future of soccer in Hereford is going to look like. There are even bigger plans. "We play to have different soccer leagues in ages Under 14 and have adult leagues," Romero said. "We have a bunch of people in town who want to play."

But right now, the soccer league will grow with the kids. That is the concentration Romero and the league have in store right now. Get kids involved.

And why do people like to play soccer again? "I like to play with my feet," Eli Romero said.

Myabe he'll play with his feet for a while, just like Garcia and Chavira hope to do in the future.

Hereford may see the next Mia Hamm at Langley. You'll never know.

Camel-mounted adventures set for Big Bend Ranch Park golden opportunity awaits later this month and into September to saddle-up and ride the range at Big Bend Ranch State Park. There's a novel catch that's bound to attract some adventuresome folks to this park promotion...Instead of playing the role of an old cowhand from the Rio Grande, on this trip you'll be much more like a sheik from the drifting sands...Your trusty mount on this-here trail ride is going to be a camel. The Texas Parks & Wildlife Department is offering an exotic means of exploring the state's largest park with two-day camel treks set for July 24-25, July 31-August 1, August 7-8, September 18-19, and September 25-26. Doug Baum of Valley Mills, Texas will be putting his Texas Camel Corps in the field to emulate an exotic bit of state history.

For a measly $650 per person, park fees, guides, room and board included, participants can get a taste of a re-creation of a bit of Texas history dating from 1859-1860, when the U.S. Army Camel Corps, commanded by Lt. William Echols, sailed the Chihuahan Desert terrain of the Big Bend region aboard ships of the desert.

The Army Camel Corps was assigned the duty of mapping the remote Big Bend region while testing the utility of government-issue camels for use in rugged terrain in arid conditions. The Camel Corps trekked across a part of what is now the 280,000-acre Big Bend Ranch State Park in the course of its studies.

Modern-day adventurers now have an opportunity to recross some of those historic camel trails of old.

The charm of a camel corps was lost on the Army, and the idea was abandoned with the outbreak of the Civil War.

Being something of an entrepreneur, Baum figures the idea of camels, desert heat, rough terrain, and a quaint bit of history will fire-up the enthusiasm of adventuresome individuals who will jump at the chance to live such an experience. This Lawrence of Valley Mills has brought to Presidio a herd of 12-year-old single-humped dromedaries that are adapted to this sort of experience, and reasonably accustomed to people. While Baum doesn't go so far as to guarantee that his dromedaries won't bite or spit on his clients, he does say that his camels are " very gentle, endearing, awkward, and comical.'

Sounds like the makings of an epic comedy-drama-disaster movie.

Big Bend camel excursions are limited to six persons per trip. In this rough and unforgiving country excursions will cover six to eight miles a day. The camel caravans will return to the park bunkhouse at night for meals and lodging.

A winding trail led to the decision to use camels in Big Bend Ranch Park's educational program.

Last year, a trio of members of the Odyssey Exploration Society from Calgary, Alberta Canada decided to prepare for a 900-mile camel trek across Arabia's Empty Quarter by training at Big Bend Ranch Park. They contacted David Alloway, a state park ranger and naturalist, and leader of Big Bend Ranch's desert/survival program, who set up specialized training for the Canadians.

Alloway is quite the desert survivor himself. In 1996 he became the first and remains the only non-Australian to complete the Pilbara Trek through 200 kilometers of Australia's forbidding outback.

Seeking someone who could train the Canadians in how to pack and ride camels, Alloway was eventually put in touch with Baum, and Alloway and Baum teamed-up to train the Canadians, who subsequently succeeded in crossing the Empty Quarter back in March.

Having succeeded with the Canadians, Baum and Alloway decided to tap into the historical significance of the Army Camel Corps and formulate a program to educate the public in a unique way about a little-known tidbit of Texas history from the 19th century.

If you're anxious to get in on this desert adventure, you can et additional information of make reservations by calling Big Bend Ranch State Park at 915-229-3416, or e-mail Alloway at bigbendranchsp@brooksdata.net for full details. Spurs probably aren't recommended.

D-Backs fall to Rangers

Horrible relief pitching marks Arizona's downfall for the second straight game at Texas

ARLINGTON (AP) - The Texas Rangers' marketing department is doing all it can to make life at the ballpark more exciting for fans. The players are doing an even better job.

The Rangers beat the Arizona Diamondbacks on the last pitch for the second consecutive game Friday night, this time winning 9-8 when Todd Zeile drew a basesloaded walk from Dan Plesac with none out in the ninth inning.

"It says a lot about a club when you can win late," Texas' Royce Clayton said. "You have a lot of confidence when you ting singles by Rusty Greer and Juan Gonzalez off Bobby Chouinard (2-1), then loading the bases when Plesac intentionally walked Rafael Palmeiro. First base was open because of a passed ball by Kelly Stinnett on Plesac's second pitch.

Zeile had a 1-1 count, then took three straight balls none of which were close enough to be called strikes on a night when home plate umpire Durwood Merrill had a rather large strike zone.

"It was a fastball. Before that, all sliders," Plesac said of the final pitch. "The last thing you want to do is get a ball up in that situation. As Greer trotted home with the winning run, fireworks exploded high above center field. The pyrotechnics are one of several new "fan friendly" features the team has added in hopes of boosting attendance. Other stunts include T-shirts launched into the stands and having the team run onto the field to start the game through two rows of Little Leaguers. But nothing makes fans happier than winning. And this was the 12th time the Rangers have won in their last-at bat, the fifth time they've won in the bottom of the ninth or later at home.

"Any time you win a game late, it can be a momentumbuilder," Greer said.

The flip side is how devastating it is to lose late. This was the 12th time the Diamondbacks have been left stranded on the field watching the other team celebrate a last at-bat victory.

"Tying is not done," Ari-na manager Buck zona Showalter said. "You have to take the next step."

The Diamondbacks tied the game at 7 with five runs in the seventh, the last two coming while Zimmerman was on the mound. But because both were inherited runners. it didn't end his scoreless string.

The last-gasp heroics were needed again because starter Aaron Sele couldn't handle a 7-2 lead, then All-Star closer John Wetteland failed to protect an 8-7 lead.

Wetteland (3-3) came in for the ninth and gave up a leadoff single to Tony Womack and a two-out, RBI single to Matt Williams that tied it at 8. It was his fourth blown save in seven chances, and it cost unbeaten rookie All-Star Jeff Zimmerman his ninth victory.

stros tame Tigers, 2-1

HOUSTON (AP) - Doug fastballs away," Brocail said. Brocail wanted to pitch to Craig Biggio. Unfortunately for the Detroit Tigers, manager Larry Parrish let him.

And that proved to be a serious strategic error that Biggio. "I know what kind of enabled Houston to beat Detroit 2-1 as Biggio hit a gamewinning single in the bottom of the ninth inning Friday night.

Biggio came to the plate with Glen Barker on second, and Parrish went to the mound to talk with Brocail.

Parrish asked Brocail whether he wanted to pitch to Biggio or walk him intentionally. Brocail knew that Biggio was 0-for-6 against him. So the Tigers reliever wanted to pitch to the seven-time All-Star.

"We didn't have anything on the scouting reports on Russ Johnson (the next Astros hitter) and I knew Biggio struggles with sliders and Afterward, Parrish was kicking himself for allowing Brocail to pitch to Biggio.

"I've got no excuses," Parrish said of not walking hitter Biggio is. He's been a good hitter for a number of years.

Astros manager Larry Dierker agreed, although he didn't think it was necessarily a foregone conclusion.

"I'm never surprised in baseball," Dierker said. "There are so many options in certain situations. I always expect that they would do what we would do. We would have put him on."

Biggio diplomatically contended the Tigers' strategy wasn't that terrible, even in hindsight.

"Unless you're facing Jeff Bagwell, it's a roll of the dice for a manager," Biggio said. The victory is Houston's fifth straight, moving them back into first place in the NL Central. It was the team's eighth win in its last 12.

Brocail (2-3) walked Barker to lead off the ninth. Barker stole second, and after Randy Knorr struck out, Biggio got his big hit.

Jose Cabrera (2-0) pitched the ninth, allowing only a walk to pick up the win.

Houston starter Scott Elarton gave up three hits in seven innings, striking out eight and walking one.

Elarton retired 12 of the first 13 batters before Detroit tied it at 1 in the fifth on Tony Clark's homer, his ninth of the season. It was Detroit's first hit of the game.

Tigers starter Justin Thompson gave up one run on six hits in seven innings, with three strikeouts and three walks.

The Dallas bids this time included proposals for both the Cotton Bowl and Texas Stadium, the league said.

Dallas, San Antonio and Kansas City also made bids for both the Big 12 men's and women's basketball tournaments. Denver was a fourth bidder for the men's tourney.

Two Texas cities, Arlington and San Antonio, bid for the Big 12 baseball tournament. along with Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

All the bids will be evaluated over the next three months, with league staffers presenting final recommendations to the Big 12 Conference Board of Directors at an October meeting.

"We're very pleased that several cities have submitted proposals for these championships," said Big 12 Com-missioner Kevin Weiberg.

"We're looking forward to discussions with the key governance groups and with the cities that sent us their proposals before we send the final proposals to the board."

Minor Leagues vowing to keep playing ball

Minor Leagues announced they will continue playing baseball if umpires decide to strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Just like the major leagues, the minors will keep on playing if their regular umpires walk out.

The resignations of most major league umpires were received late Thursday by the American and National leagues, and minor league umpires held a conference call Friday with Richie Phillips, the lawyer for the Major League Umpires Association.

Phillips says minor league umpires have voted to form a union. But it hasn't been recognized by the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, the governing body of the minors, or the Professional Baseball Umpire Corporation, its subsidiary that hires umpires for 16 minor leagues. Pat Campbell, an assistant to Phillips, said Thursday night a minor league walkout could "happen sooner rather than later." The minor league umps have another conference call scheduled for Monday. "PBUC suspects that Phillips wants to use minor league umpires as pawns in his ongoing battles with the major leagues," the National Association said in a statement. "We can't predict what the umpires will do, but we owe it to our fans to be prepared. Minor league baseball will be played as scheduled."

The resignations of major commonly resolved, PBUC would bargain in good faith in an effort to reach an agreement."

With management's refusing to recognize a minor league union, the minor leagu-ers' next step would be to petition a regional office of the NLRB to hold an election. The NLRB would decide who is in the bargaining unit and eligible to vote, a proce-dure that could be complicated because the individual minor leagues and PBUC jointly are their legal employers.

"They can resist it if they want," Phillips said, "but these guys have 220 of the 228 votes."

While the minor leagues haven't prepared for a walkout, the organizing attempts of their umpires are sparking them to get ready. The minor league umpires have individual contracts that run through this season, and the PBUC and the minor leagues could seek an injunction to prevent a strike this year.

"Phillips' letter to us suggests that umpire-management peace will be disturbed if PBUC does not begin to bargain with him," the National Association said.

Major league umpires say they are resigning because of a lack of respect from baseball owners, who want greater control over them, and because they fear they will be locked out after their current labor agreement expires Dec. 31. The deal contains a no-strike clause, and the resignations are an attempt to get around that.

INSIDE

Hurting

Carl Everett one of many to go to injured list

HOUSTON (AP) - Carl Everett has a hurt right hamstring and Derek Bell has hurt feelings.

The Astros placed Everett on the 15-day disabled list Friday and called up Lance Berkman from Triple-A New Orleans. Bell was silent on Friday, but he complained at length Thursday about being dropped to sixth in the batting order.

"My leg is gone," Everett said. "Ill just have to let it heal. I hate the fact that I've been playing well and then get hurt. But there's no use rushing it."

Everett has been a key offensive performer with a .313 average, 98 hits and 65 RBIs.

Two other starters, shortstop Ricky Gutierrez (fractured wrist) and third baseman Ken Caminiti (calf injury) also are on the DL. The Astros moved Caminiti to the 60-day disabled list.

Ten Astros have been on the DL this season.

Bell has hit in the No. 2 slot much of his career with the Astros and also has batted fourth. Manager Larry Dierker dropped him to the No. 6 spot for Thursday night's game.

Bell is batting .247 with 10 home runs and 50 RBIs.

"I'm speaking of my feelings from the heart, how I feel," Bell said after the 8-6 win over Detroit. "The way it's been going, it hurts."

Dierker, making his managerial return after missing more than a month because of brain surgery, said he would wait for the proper moment to discuss the move with Bell.

"I'll look for an opportunity, not like calling him into the office like going to the principal's office or walking up to his locker in front of everybody," Dierker said. "When it seems comfortable, maybe at the batting cage, we'll talk. "Maybe after a couple days when he sees what it's like, it won't be so bad."

Everett was sympathetic toward his outfield mate.

"If he feels like expressing himself, it's his choice," Everett said. "Ninety-nine percent of the fans don't know the game. They shouldn't get on him. Those fans that are booing him ought to keep their mouths shut and encourage him.

"I always have concern when a teammate is hurting. We're so close, when a teammate is feeling bad we know it. I'll tell him to forget the fans. I'll tell him to forget about the first half and take off from here."

Astros general manager Gerry Hunsicker called Bell's complaints a family dispute that would not affect Bell's use.

"Derek is a big part of our club and will continue to be a big part of our club," Hunsicker said. "This is nothing unique in this business. It's a long season with a lot of ups and downs.

HRMC provides day camp

Special to the Brand

Summer - a fun time for kids. There are all kinds of activities to keep kids busy during the summer time months. Swimming, biking, roller-blading, baseball, day camps, etc.

The day camps cover all kinds of activities from sports to art to church activities. This year, Hereford Regional Medical Center is offering a new kind of day camp for kids, called Kid Konference.

Kid Konference is a day camp for children who are incoming third through sixth graders and will be held Tuesday through Friday at Hereford Community Center.

The camp will feature activities that will teach health and safety information that all children need to know. Topics to be included are bicycle safety, bicycle helmet safety, poison control, whale tales (sponsored by the Red Cross), weather safety by Doppler Dave, CPR, first aid and fire safety and other presentations during the four-day camp.

Many of the programs will include hands-on participation for the kids.

Hereford Regional Medical Center is hoping this day camp will become an annual event for the children of our community.

"Health and safety are important items for every child to know. We at HRMC feel it is essential for us to help educate our children on these important facts about health and safety. But, learning doesn't have to be boring, it can be a lot of fun, too!" Donna Kemp, special projects

Birthday reception will honor active Hereford senior citizen

By Becky Thorn

Hereford Brand Lifestyles Editor

Audine Dettmann is a member of two study clubs, a garden club, three bridge clubs, and volunteers every day at the local senior citizens center.

And she is celebrating her 90th birthday July 27.

Friends and family will gather from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on July 25 at Hereford Senior Citizens Center to help her observe the ranch, then they moved to a farm west of Hereford. They later returned to New Mexico where they operated a motel in Lordsburg for seven years.

Mr. Dettmann died in 1979. Mrs. Dettmann's list of accomplishments continues. She is a member of First Baptist Church, has been a Sunday school teacher for many years and a member of the choir.

She has been a volunteer in the senior literacy program, been a Big Sister in the Big Brothers Big Sisters program and served on the board of Hereford Day Care. And she finds time to read. "It's not a hobby. It's just one of the coordinator at HRMC, said. "With Kid Konference, we want the kids, as well as the public, to know Kids Kome First.'

Reunion is planned for Class of '89

Hereford High School graduating class of 1989 is making the final plans for its 10 year class reunion to be held during the Town and Country Jubilee, August 6-7.

If you are a member of this class but have not received any information about the reunion, contact one of the names listed below for details on the planned activities.

The deadline for registration is July 26.

For more information, call Denise Carreon, 1012 E. Third, 363-6313; Cori Foster Watts, 308 Elm, 364-8748 or Shea McGinty Burns, 337 Stadium, 656-0184; or e-mail at classof89reunion@yahoo.com.

occasion.

Mrs. Dettmann isn't what you would call the average 90-year-old retiree. As a matter of fact, it would be hard for someone much younger to keep pace with this active senior citizen.

In addition to the activities already mentioned, she volunteers one day a week at the Thrift Store operated by the Hereford Senior Citizens Association, serves as a HOSTS volunteer at West Central School and is a Red Cross volunteer.

Mrs. Dettmann was born in McLean. She attended college at Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia, Kan.

"I paid my way through college as a 'Harvey girl.' In those days when people did most of their traveling by train, there were Harvey House restaurants all around and they were used as dining rooms for the railways. It was quite prestigious to work at the Harvey House," she said.

She received her bachelor's degree from Kansas State in 1929, then she earned a master's degree from West Texas State Teachers College in Canyon and taught school for 38 years.

Fourteen of those years were spent in Hereford schools.

"I taught at the high school for ten years, mostly social studies, government and English, but I have taught every grade in my career," Mrs. Dettmann said.

She married her husband, Emil, in Wagon Mound, N.M., where they had a things I do," she said. She enjoys sharing the books she reads with others and frequently gives book reviews.

When she was asked to give a book review for La Plata Study Club, she found out she was going to have eye surgery. So she read the book prior to her surgery and gave the review after her surgery without using any notes.

Mrs. Dettmann also likes to travel. She has been to Europe, Asia, Hawaii, Alaska, South America and Australia.

"I have been to all but two countries in South America. And I found the Panama Canal quite thrilling," she said.

To say Mrs. Dettmann is an active senior citizen is obviously an understatement. To say she is an involved citizen seems inadequate.

The sentiment most often expressed about her is highly appropriate. "She's quite a lady."

The birthday reception given in her honor will be hosted by Louise Leasure, Bobbye Lee Riddle, Lavon Nieman, Bobbie Kitchens, Jan Furr, Betty Taylor, Betty Henson, Betty Sue and Ervin Robinson, Vondell and Ben R. Plummer, Jean Beene, Clora Smith, Ludie Greeson and Pat and Gaye Reily.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shirley ... celebrate golden anniversary

Anniversary observed

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shirley will be honored on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception from 2 p.m.-5 p.m. July 25 at the Friendship House, 1410 Washington St., Friona.

Mr. Shirley was born in Oklahoma and grew up in Hereford, serving in the United States Army during World War II. Stella Guggemos was born and raised in Nazareth. They were married August 7, 1949, in Hereford.

In 1951 they moved to Friona where Mr. Shirley went to work for Pioneer Natural Gas. He retired after more than 30 years of service. He was also fire chief of the Friona Volunteer Fire Department for many years and still instructs at the state's fire training school in College Station.

Mrs. Shirley was involved with home childcare for many years before going to work for the Friona school district in the food service department until she retired.

The Shirleys enjoy traveling in their recreational vehicle and visiting with friends and family. Mr. Shirley also enjoys golf and fishing.

They have three children, Jan, now deceased, and Gary and Richard, both of Houston. They have two grandchildren, three step-grandchildren and one step-great-grandchild.

She refused, saying she was going to sell the ring and buy a car, which she needed to get to her job. You were right when you said a woman is under no obligation to 'return the engagement ring after marriage. However, you were wrong to say, "An engagement ring belongs to the woman to whom it was given." In the state of Iowa, an engagement ring is a CONDI-TIONAL gift, according to our appellate courts. If the marriage does not occur, the ring is the property of the donor. I believe you will find similar laws exist in Ohio, New York, Wisconsin and New Jersey. John G. Instead of a ring, he gave me a secondhand car that was in good condition because he knew I didn't care for jewelry and needed transportation. I broke the engagement a few weeks ago when he informed me that we would have to live with his mother "indefinitely." His mother is 54 years old. Do I have to give the car back? -

Dear Ann: Here's one I'll bet you've never seen before. I was married five years ago to "Nick." It was a troubled relationship from the start. We were divorced two years later. Retro swing joins two-step in Odessa

ODESSA, Texas - Cab Calloway croons the words to his immortal "Minnie the Moocher." The easy rhythm of the song makes even the wallflowers tap their feet. Out on the dance floor, a couple does a triple step swing in time with the music.

As the song fades away, the beat picks up and Calloway is replaced by one of the new kings of swing, Big Bad Voodoo Daddy. The song is "Jump With My Baby Tonight," and that is exactly what the dancers do.

Partially inspired by the Gap commercial and the hit "Zoot Suit Riot," by the Cherry Poppin Daddies, the retro swing movement has established itself firmly in many cities across the coun-

Traditionally reserved for an older generation, the dance has been picked up by the Generation X crowd. Highenergy swing as shown in the Gap commercial danced to old hits like Louis Primas "Jump Jive and Wail" has made the old cool again.

The setting is informal, and people of all ages come to dance and to enjoy the wholesome atmosphere; said John Neute, owner of the Ground Floor.

LIFESTYLES

Now I wonder why no one has written a book on getting Straight A's in life. Maybe someone will. However, until someone does, here are a few thoughts for improving your GPA in life. I've divided these tips into two categories of "Do's and Don'ts."

DO'S

ACTION. In the game of life there are two main teams: "Doers" and "Talkers." Shakespeare said, "Action is eloquence." Much of the joy of success comes in doing, not in the talking. Find what you love to do, and do it with all your might.

ATTITUDE. You've heard it before, but it's worth repeating. Your attitude determines your altitude, latitude and longitude. In other words, how high and how far you go in this life is decided by the attitude you take with you every day.

ABILITY. Ability is not inherited, God-given or purchased. It is developed one small detail at a time. Ability begins with a desire to learn and achieve, and ends on this earth with death. In between you sharpen the tools you have while continually acquiring new tools (skills).

ADVICE. Straight-A students learn to listen to good advice. Proverbs 1:5 says, "A wise man will learn, and will increase learning ..." There are two problems with this advice. First, the advice we most often need, we choose not the heed, and second, most people would rather talk to a wise person than to listen to one.

ABSTINENCE. To abstain, means to deny oneself or to do without. I believe there are areas of life where abstinence - or at the very least moderation - can contribute greatly to our success. Here are some areas where abstinence is best: Alcohol, drugs, tobacco, promiscuous sex, negative thinking, anger, lying, stealing and cheating. I'd recommend moderation in the areas of spending, television, eating and talking.

ADVANCEMENT. Seek improvement. Acquire new skills. You can build momentum in this life by accumulating small successes. Harry Truman said, "I found that the men and women who get to the top were those who did the jobs they had in hand, with everything they had of energy and enthusiasm and hard work."

DON'TS

APATHY. Apathy is the position in life of listless indifference. One of the best ways to fail in life is to lack interest in it. To get straight A's in the school of life you must become interested and passionate about the elements of life that really matter. Your character, your contributions to your fellow man and your relationship with God are important.

ANGER. When you become angry once you'll almost always become angry again. The second anger will be at yourself for losing your temper in the first place. Ecclesiastes 7:9 says, "Anger resteth in the bosom of fools." Don't be a fool, hold your temper.

ADVERSITY. Don't let adversity steal your success. Remember the words of Charles R. Swindoll. He said, "The longer I live the more convinced I become that life is 10 percent what happens to us and 90 percent how we respond to it."

USINESS

By Rebecca Walls

Today I was handed a copy of the July 1999 issue of City and County Financial Management because it featured articles about libraries within the community.

In this publication, the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts, Carole Keeton Rylander, writes in her article, "As a former school teacher, school board president and mayor, I learned first hand that one of the most valuable resources in any community is the library and its staff.'

This is what I needed to hear after my meetings in Austin last weekend.

According to a legislative representative for the Texas Library Association, many congressmen think libraries are becoming obsolete. They feel that with the advancement of technology and the Internet, the only purpose that the library serves is to provide pleasure reading, and government dollars could be better spent elsewhere. I think Barbara Gubbin had the best reply, "Adding technological resources enhances and expands traditional library services, rather than replacing them. Seed money from private and public agencies is often critical in jump-starting such projects, while ongoing support in the regular budget is essential to maintaining and upgrad# ing these services, as well as meeting our customer's high expectations." Rylander also said that a library is only as helpful as it is up to date. She continued by saying, "If reference materials are too old, if technical manuals and periodicals are not current, and if the library has no computers or Internet access, children, adults and seniors are at a great disadvantage."

Alma Lydia Cisneros-Thompson agrees by saying everyone benefits when libraries are able to provide the most up to date information. Students can complete their best research projects, find scholarships and higher educational opportunities; businesses can obtain pertinent economic and financial information; and local officials have resources to learn how other communities are handling common problems. I agree that libraries can only be as helpful as their financial support allows them to be, and those dollars must come from the federal and state, as well as the local levels The attitudes of those in control of the dollars can only be changed by their constituents. That means you. Legislators expect librarians to be library advocates, so what we say is considered biased and then dismissed. It is up to you as library users and supporters to tell your legislators what libraries do for you and your community by becoming library advocates. Tell them the percentage of families in our community who have a computer in their homes with Internet connections. Tell them what you use the library for. Tell them the kinds of information and services your library provides.

FARM & RANCH HEREFORD BRAND - Sunday, July 18, 1999 - 37

Panhandle farmers appreciate abundant spring rainfall Producers continue to feel the pinch of depressed markets sucking up water as fast as it can fall from the sky and have a lot to smile about. "Things are looking much better this year," said Exten-

LUBBOCK (AP) - Where nothing but hardened and dried dirt blew across the cracked earth last summer, green cornstalks have sprouted on John Peterson's farm this month.

To the north, Ralph Edmondson is ecstatic because he has grapes the size of golf balls.

Tears were the only water to fall during last year's drought, but the skies have been kinder in 1999. Traveling across the plains, the results of several torrential rains are easy to see. What was once barren wasteland is now covered with green grass in many places and nearly every field has a healthy looking crop.

Farmers say that 1999 won't be remembered as a glory year, but they'll take it after a devastating drought that put so many friends and loved ones out of business.

"I've seen more rain in a short period than I've seen anytime in the last six years," Peterson said as he surveyed his land. "Amen is what I say about it. Just, amen!"

Though there are still dry patches throughout the state that have received little or no rain, especially in South Texas, most of the state was drenched last month. With the rain came hail and wind that took its toll, but farmers still expect this year's crop to be a success.

"The cotton crop, which was all but destroyed last year, will reach average levels," said Texas Agricultural Extension Service agent Carl Anderson. "We really believe that most farmers were able to make it work with cotton this year, either by planting late or replanting after hail damage."

that has kept prices low. "We're pulling even here but we need better prices," said cotton farmer Henry Murald of Big Spring. "At the current prices, we're making about half as much as in a good year. Of course, that is still better than last year." The weather is also good news for pecan pie lovers: Growers say this year's pecan crop is one of the best of the 1990s.

"We're going to have a fabu-

Melons and grapes are also looking fine in the high plains, ballooning up to gargantuan size. While the fruits are larger than normal, overall production is about average.

"At the beginning of this year we had one of the bests crop ever on record, but we had so much rain that we've had some black rot and that has taken us back down into our normal range," McEachern said. "It's not going to be a bad year. It's just not going to be as great as it could have been.'

In the upper Gulf Coast region, soybean farmers also sion soybean expert Joseph Krausz. "Both the early and the late soybean crop are doing well because the rains were so spread out." Travis Miller, Extension agronomist, said wheat pro-ducers in his area should be finished with their harvest by now, but recent rains have kept them out of the fields.

been found at dramatically higher than usual numbers. Now is the time for producers and aerial insecticide applicators to keep an eye on their fields, accord-ing to Deaf Smith County Extension Agent, Dennis Newton.

Lygus bugs are attracted to succulent growth and can retard cotton development by feeding on squares and small bolls. Their feeding results in stunted growth and malformed bolls.

Scout your fields carefully and base treatments on actual pest populations and not just on square damage," Newton said.

Lygus bug nymphs are only about the size of a period and can be extremely hard to notice as they often hide in the terminals. Newton says several species of lygus bugs attack Cotton growers in Deaf cotton. Adults are-winged, Smith, Oldham, Potter, and cotton. Adults are-winged, vary from green to brown Randall counties also need in color, and are about 1/4 to be aware Southwestern long. Lygus bugs prefer legumes to cotton and are found in large numbers in Service officials expect to area of high alfalfa production. The need for lygus bug flight of moths begins. Beet control is determined by army worm moths are actheir abundance in relation to the fruiting condition of the cotton plants.

pling dates. "It is my opinion the square losses being seen are the result of these pests and not weather related," Newton said. "There are go-ing to be exceptions, such as the earlier hail or wind damage. However, the best advise I can offer is to keep a close eye on the fields."

This year the bugs were probably hosted over the early spring by the excessive weed growth in ditches and other non-crop areas. As weeds matured ore were mowed, insects moved to the more succulent cotton plants.

Vydate, Methyl Parathion and pyrethoids can be used to kill lygus bugs. Newton says to use any insecticide only according to manufactures label.

The downside for farmers days cotton plants are making up lost tims and getting ready to is a worldwide cotton glut set bolls and begin blooming.

Warm temperatures bode well for cotton Rains contine to delay North Plains wheat harvest, prices remain low COLLEGE STATION (AP) -Some wheat producers across the state are waiting to play extra innings as their harvests are experiencing "rain delays," the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Dr. Travis Miller, Extension agronomist in College Station, said wheat producers in his area should be finished with their harvest by now, but recent rains have kept them out of the fields.

"We have had more rain than normal and cool temperatures and other conditions that are not favorable to the wheat harvest," Miller said.

He added that the area has had about 180 percent of its normal moisture for the last three months, which makes harvesting difficult.

"Wheat producers like warm, dry situations so that the grain dries," Miller said.

He said there is a window of time in which harvesting can be done. This is after the morning dew dries and before the evening dew sets in.

"As the dew comes in to the fields at night, we have to stop harvesting because it is too moist," he said. "In the Plains, they have had cool, damp conditions that only allow them to harvest a little bit during the day," Miller said.

With the poor harvesting weather, it has been a struggle for the producers to get their wheat out of the fields, he said.

"They have no idea when they'll be finished harvesting," Miller said. "The South Plains is pretty much finished right now, but the North Plains have more to do."

He added that the delay in harvesting has a higher effect on quality than on yields.

"If you get the bad weather after harvest, the straw tends to lay down and you have trouble picking it up," Miller said. "Wheat laying on moist ground tends to sprout and that lowers the quality of the wheat as far as milling and baking is concerned."

He said he has not heard any reports on sprouting, but if the wheat lays down too long, the main concern is whether it is going to be high-quality.

Miller said prices have moved up a little bit, but are still low.

"Kansas and Oklahoma are having trouble harvesting wheat as well, so prices have Lockamy, district Extension moved up a little bit," he said.

Miller added that prices are below what they were this time last year and last year's were below the previous year.

In the Rolling Plains, Galen Chandler, district Extension director in Vernon, said hot, dry and windy conditions were reported across the area this past week and most counties could use more rainfall.

"The cotton crop is processing well with warmer temperatures," he said. "Most older cotton is in the second week of squaring, but some will begin blooming next week."

Chandler said fleahoppers and boll weevils are moving into squaring cotton in some fields, bollworm activity has increased.

"All counties reporting grasshopper damage in all crops," he said, "and some spraying for control is taking place."

Chandler added that the peanut crop is doing well, although weed control is a problem.

"The earlier planted peanuts are pegging right now and irrigation is in full swing," he said.

Chandler said range and pasture conditions have been good, but they are declining with hot, dry and windy conditions.

"Overall, the conditions are good compared to this time last year," he said.

Chandler added that hay baling is in full swing across the entire area.

"All hay producers have been trying to get hay cut and baled in between frequent rain showers," he said. Cattle body conditions remain good compared to the drought situations last year, Chandler said.

"Calves are gaining well on pastures and most stockers have been shipped to feedlots."

In South Texas, Terry director in Weslaco, said most crops are at the mature stage and are suffering from too much moisture.

"Farmers are having trouble getting in the fields to harvest grain and defoliate cotton," Lockamy said.

He said there is some damage to the corn crop due to the continued rainfall, but some harvesting has begun. "Most cotton has open bolls and most sorghum has been harvested," Lockamy said.

The following specific live-stock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district extension directors:

PANHANDLE: soil moisture is short to adequate. Early corn beginning to tassel. Sorghum mostly planted; some greenbug problems. Wheat harvest almost complete. Cotton squaring; fleahoppers a problem. Onions, potatoes being harvested. Cattle doing well.

SOUTH PLAINS: soil moisture is adequate. Pastures, ranges in good condition. Wheat in good condition; harvest winding down. Cotton doing well. Boll weevil applications continue. Corn in good condition; nearing tassel. Sorghum, soybeans doing well.

ROLLING PLAINS: soil moisture is short to adequate. Cotton crop progressing well; bollworm activity has increased. Peanut crop doing well; weeds a problem. Pasture conditions good, but declining rapidly. Hay baling in full swing. Cattle in good condition.

corn borer moths continue to be caught in traps.

Agricultural Extension see a dramatic increase in the numbers as the second tive, but no infestations have been reported.

Spider mite infestations Fields should be inspected are being reported, but tend at 4-5 day intervals. Prior to be restricted to the edge to peak bloom, insecticide of soybean and cotton crops searching for food. This approach begins working immediately and eradicates the colonies in three to 10 days.

Another approach to killing fire ants is with bait products known as Insect Growth Regulators (IGRs). They cause the queen to colony and can take four to eight weeks to begin working.

A process known as "broadcast baiting" is one of the best ways to rid a community of fire ants.

Broadcast baiting is quickly growing since baits go to work immediately and treat the entire colony as opposed to contact killer products, which only affect the fire ants that are visible. Baits are used most effectively when applied in a community or neighborhoodwide effort. If your property is treated with bait but your neighbors' are not, it's likely that the fire ants from your neighbors' property will move onto your property and begin building new colonies. In fact, many communities are working together to rid their properties of fire ants by conducting "fire ant block parties," which help reduce the fire ant population across a community-wide area and lower the potential for reinfestation.

For more information on broadcast baiting, call your local County Extension Agent found in the phone book blue pages. For free materials on conducting your own community "fire ant block party" lay sterile eggs. However, IGRs do call (800) 545-9525 ext. C2195 or

* MOVIES · SOAPS · PUZZLES * Parker's detective Spenser returns in A&E mystery

Joe Mantegna (right) takes a few bullets during his daily jog across the Charles playing Robert B. Parker's private investigator Spenser in Small Vices, airing Sunday on A&E Network. Shiek Mahmud-Bey (Night Falls on Manhattan) co-stars as Spenser's invaluable street partner, Hawk.

By Jackie Cutler oTVData Features Syndicate

He walked into my life, wrapped his arms around me like a sweater a couple ably down-to-earth fellow. He's pasof sizes too small, and I knew every- sionately in love with his wife, Joan, thing would be all right. After all, he's a whom he met when they were 3, and good guy, can throw a punch - and cook they have been "honeybuns since we rice pilaf. His name is Spenser, and he's were 17," he says. a private eye for hire.

The famed detective, brainchild of best-selling writer Robert B. Parker, returns in the TV movie Small Vices, airing Sunday, July 18, on A&E Network. No, it's not current Love Boat: The Next Wave captain Robert Urich and ex-Star Trek: Deep Space Nine captain Avery Brooks reprising their popular '80s Spenser: For Hire roles. Small Vices is a literate, finely acted movie starring Joe Mantegna (The Last Don) in the title role. Shiek Mahmud-Bey (Night Falls on Manhattan) co-stars as Spenser's partner, Hawk, in the A&E adaptation. Marcia Gay Harden (Miller's Crossing) plays Spenser's longtime love, Susan Silverman.

The plot has more twists than a pretzel factory. But unlike so many whodunits, this one makes sense. As with all of Parker's books, it's set in Boston. The movie pulls in the audience with its very first scene. As Spenser jogs across a bridge, a tall man pulls out a gun and shoots. Spenser's bullet-ridden body falls into the icy waters of the Charles. The bulk of the movie is a flashback. explaining what brought Spenser to this point. He was called in on a case because an innocent man may be doing time for a rape and murder. An interesting point here is that the accused has a rap sheet for similar violent crimes. But would he kill this particular student? The con is unlikable and mean, but

Spenser is determined to find out if he is guilty as well. Racism and elitism play heavily in the carefully crafted plot. Parker, who wrote this screenplay and others, as well as 33 books - for which he has developed an international fan base of devoted readers - is a remark-

Speaking from the Cambridge, Mass., home the Parkers share with Pearl the Wonder Dog and Rosie the miniature bull terrier, the writer discusses the movie - and his screen debut.

Lowering his voice to a movie announcer baritone, he says, "Robert B. Parker is Ives," referring to his brief role as a CIA agent. Acting was tough, he says.

"First of all, I have to remember the lines, which becomes increasingly difficult as time ticks away," Parker, 66, explains. "There's a certain amount of pressure on amateurs with 40 people standing around a cold set. You'd like to do it well, and you don't want to make a bigger public fool of yourself."

Parker's ability to turn a phrase shines throughout the movie.

While interviewing an obnoxious yuppie at poolside, Spenser says, "I'd join you, but it makes my gun rust."

When a tough cop is trying to intimidate him, Spenser says, "I'll try to control my breathing."

Parker's next book, scheduled for a fall release, concerns a female private eye named Sunny Randall. He says he wrote it because Helen Hunt wants to act in such a project. That will be followed by another Spenser book, so he's back at work, writing five pages a day, five days a week.

And it's a good thing. Spenser's the kind of man you want in your life even if he has that bad habit of catching bullets with his body.

★ July 18-24

ARIES – March 21/April 20 While you don't want to have an important personal discussion with a family member, you have to early in the week. Don't beat around the bush with him or her; get straight to the point. It's the best way to handle the situation. A close friend offers you some constructive criticism. Listen to what he or she is saying.

TAURUS – April 21/May 21 Don't give up too easily when it comes to something that you really want, Taurus. You can overcome minor setbacks. Besides, you know that this is worth the effort. A loved one gets you involved in a family discussion. While you don't want to take sides, you must. Try to help everyone come to an agreement.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21 You have to be patient this week, Gemini, while waiting for a close friend to answer an important question. Don't force the issue with him or her, or you may not get the response that you're hoping for. That special someone asks a favor of you. Think about what he or she really wants you to do before saying yes.

CANCER – June 22/July 22 Try not to get upset when a business associate is in the spotlight instead of you this week. He or she really does deserve the praise. Try to realize this, and be happy for him or her. A close friend needs help with a family matter. Even though he or she wants you to get involved in the situation, don't. It's not your place to do so.

LEO – July 23/August 23 Keep your eyes and ears open at work this week, Leo. There is something strange going on. Co-workers are counting on you to find out what it is. Don't worry — it isn't anything serious. You meet an interesting person late in the week. Get to know him or her better, it will be worth the effort.

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22 You struggle with your perfectionist nature early in the week, Virgo. You want a business project to be done right. However, there's not enough time to do it perfectly. Explain this to the higher-ups, and do the best that you can. That is all anyone expects of you. Scorpio plays an important role.

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23 Don't believe everything that you hear, Libra. An acquaintance tries to pull the wool over your eyes early in the week; don't let him or her. If you really listen to what this person is saying, you'll see that it can't possibly be true.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22 A close friend confides in you this week, Scorpio. Even though he or she reveals some important information, you have to keep it to yourself. You promise that you will. Don't betray this person's trust. He or she wouldn't do that to you.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21 A co-worker gets into trouble and asks you to lie for him or her. Don't do it; it's not worth it. Besides, no one will believe you anyway. You can't lie. A loved one wants your input on a family matter. Be honest — even if you know that what you have to say won't be appreciated.

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20 Don't try to take control of a situation that you're not capable of handling early in the week, Capricorn. You know your limitations; don't ignore them. Let someone else take the lead, and try to learn something from him or her. Aquarius plays an important role on Thursday.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18 Don't make a hasty decision when it comes to your personal finances this week. Look at all of the pros and cons, and turn to those whom you trust for advice. Your welfare is too important to act without thinking. An old friend whom you haven't seen in a while calls you. It isn't a social call; try to find out what he or she really wants.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20 You have several things to do this week, Pisces, and a lot of people are counting on you to get them done. Work diligently, and don't get dis-

Moment of Impact features Pulitzer-winning photos

By Josh Greene OTVData Features Syndicate

Moment of Impact: Stories of the Pulitzer Prize Photographs features not only some of the most well-known images of the 20th century, but also the moving stories behind them. The special, hosted by Sam Waterston, airs Sunday, July 18, on TNT.

brings viewers back to the actual sites captured in six Pulitzer Prize-winning photos and talks to the photojournalists where Richard Greist attacked his own family to the Dallas parking garage where Jack Ruby shot Lee Harvey Oswald, Moment of Impact relives harrow-

The idea was to take (the photographers) back to where they took the picit was a harrowing and emotional experience. Bob Jackson (Ruby-Oswald) wrenching images are the ones that viewers can relate to, even when they don't know the subjects.

"With the (returning) POW," Rubin says, "Lt. Col. Robert Stirm's face has never been seen. The picture was taken at an angle where it was the back of his head with the family running toward him. He became the icon of all returning prisoners because there was no face to it."

When the photographers flash back, emotions take over as they realize they were merely observers in time, recording images of events most will never experience firsthand.

Just ask Tom Kelly. Out of sheer instinct, he snapped what turned out to be the biggest shot of his career.

"Anything could have happened when Greist broke loose and was running toward Kelly," Rubin says of the farmhouse photo. "(Kelly) was so shattered emotionally. To this day, he doesn't remember taking that picture.

"I hope viewers can understand both sides of the photograph - the photographer and the people (within)," Rubin says. "Photojournalists have made us cognizant of what can happen in a split second."

A: Marshall and Reiner were married from 1971 to 1979. Actress Tracy Reiner is their daughter.

Q: Everyone knows Peter Billings-ley, Darren McGavin and Melinda arred in A Christ as Sta ry, but didn't they reprise their characters in another movie in which they were on a summer vacation? -P.R. via e-mail. A: No. The Christmas trio of actors. you mention above never reprised their characters in another movie. I suspect you are thinking of Ollie Hopnoodle's Haven of Bliss, a 1989 TV movie that followed Ralphie Parker (now played by Jerry O'Connell) and his family on their annual vacation. James B. Sikking and Dorothy Lyman also starred. It Runs in the Family, a 1994 movie comedy, starred Kieran Culkin, Charles Grodin and Mary Steenburgen in the Billingsley, McGavin and Dillon roles, respectively.

Leelee Sobieski

Q: A few weeks ago someone asked whether Patricia Routledge of *Keep-*ing Up Appearances had died. She hadn't, but Mary Millar, the actress who played Rose during most of the show's run, did die a few months ago. -Ron Ludwig, Novata, Calif.

A: Thank you, Ron. I had heard of Millar's passing but didn't think to connect it to this question. It seems likely that was how this rumor got started. Q: I have loved Perry Como since I

Familiar faces find new roles on ABC soaps

By Candace Havens

OTVData Features Syndicate

This week, actress Kimberlin Brown goes from playing psychotic Sheila on The Bold and the Beautiful and The Young and the Restless to portraying a pathological psychiatrist on Port Charles.

The actress will play Dr. Locke, a woman with a strong emotional undercurrent driven by the need for control and power. She'll be butting heads with the strong-willed Lucy (Lynn Herring). Dr. Locke will be involved with several other PC residents and will unravel their secrets. Brown begins her stint on PC Friday, July 23.

Also returning to daytime on Friday is Finola Hughes (ex-Anna, General Hospital). She will play Alexandra Devane on All My Children.

Hughes left GH in 1991 and has worked on several prime-time series. including Blossom and Pacific Palisades.

Dear Candace: I noticed that the young actor who plays Billy Abbott on Y&R has the same last name as Heather Tom (Victoria, Y&R). Are they related? They do have similar looks, and he even sounds like her. Also, I'm pretty sure I've seen him on other shows. Can you tell me what else he has been on? Marissa via the Internet.

Dear Reader: David and Heather Tom are siblings. Their sister Nicole was on The Nanny. David was in Pleasantville and Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman

Dear Candace: Could you give me the address for Days of Our Lives? I've watched this soap since I was 14. It really insults the intelligence of the viewers to bring Josh Taylor, who used to play Chris, in as Roman. He acts like the biggest jerk. Since when can a cop tell prison guards what to do? The writers at Days need a reality check.

(Peter Reckell, Kristian Alfonso) thing. I don't care if they ever get back together. -N.J. Hinton, Pauls Valley, Okla.

Days c/o NBC-TV, 3000 West Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.
