CINCO DE MAYO

Festival is slated

Soccer, volleyball and softball enthusiasts will have plenty of chances to play Sunday when the 11th Annual Cinco de Mayo is held at Veterans Park.

Festivities will be noon-7 p.m. and will feature several food booths; soccer, softball and volleyball tournaments; and performances by several musicians and groups, including Presizzo, Flethca, Cagney Cantu, Brona Nortena, Eclipse, Midnight Lovers and Margarita, a Capitol/EMI artist.

The festival also will feature the presentation of the 1998 Hispanic Citizen of the Year.

Past recipients of the award include Edward Maldonado, Steve Cortez, Margaret Del Toro, Joe Soliz Jr., Fr. Daryl Birkenfeld, Artura Gonzales, Janie Nino, Deacon Jessie Guerrero and Martha Rincon.

Cinco de Mayo, a national holiday in Mexico and which also is honored in many areas of the United States, commemorates the Battle of Puebla, fought on May 5, 1862, when outnumbered and outgunned Mexican forces defeated French invaders who attacked the forts of Loreto and Guadalupe.

Although the French would manage to conquer Mexico and install Archduke Maximilian of Austria on the throne as emperor, his reign ended in 1867 when France ended its military presence. Maximilian was deposed by the armies led by Benito Juarez and executed.

'Veggie libel' law stands

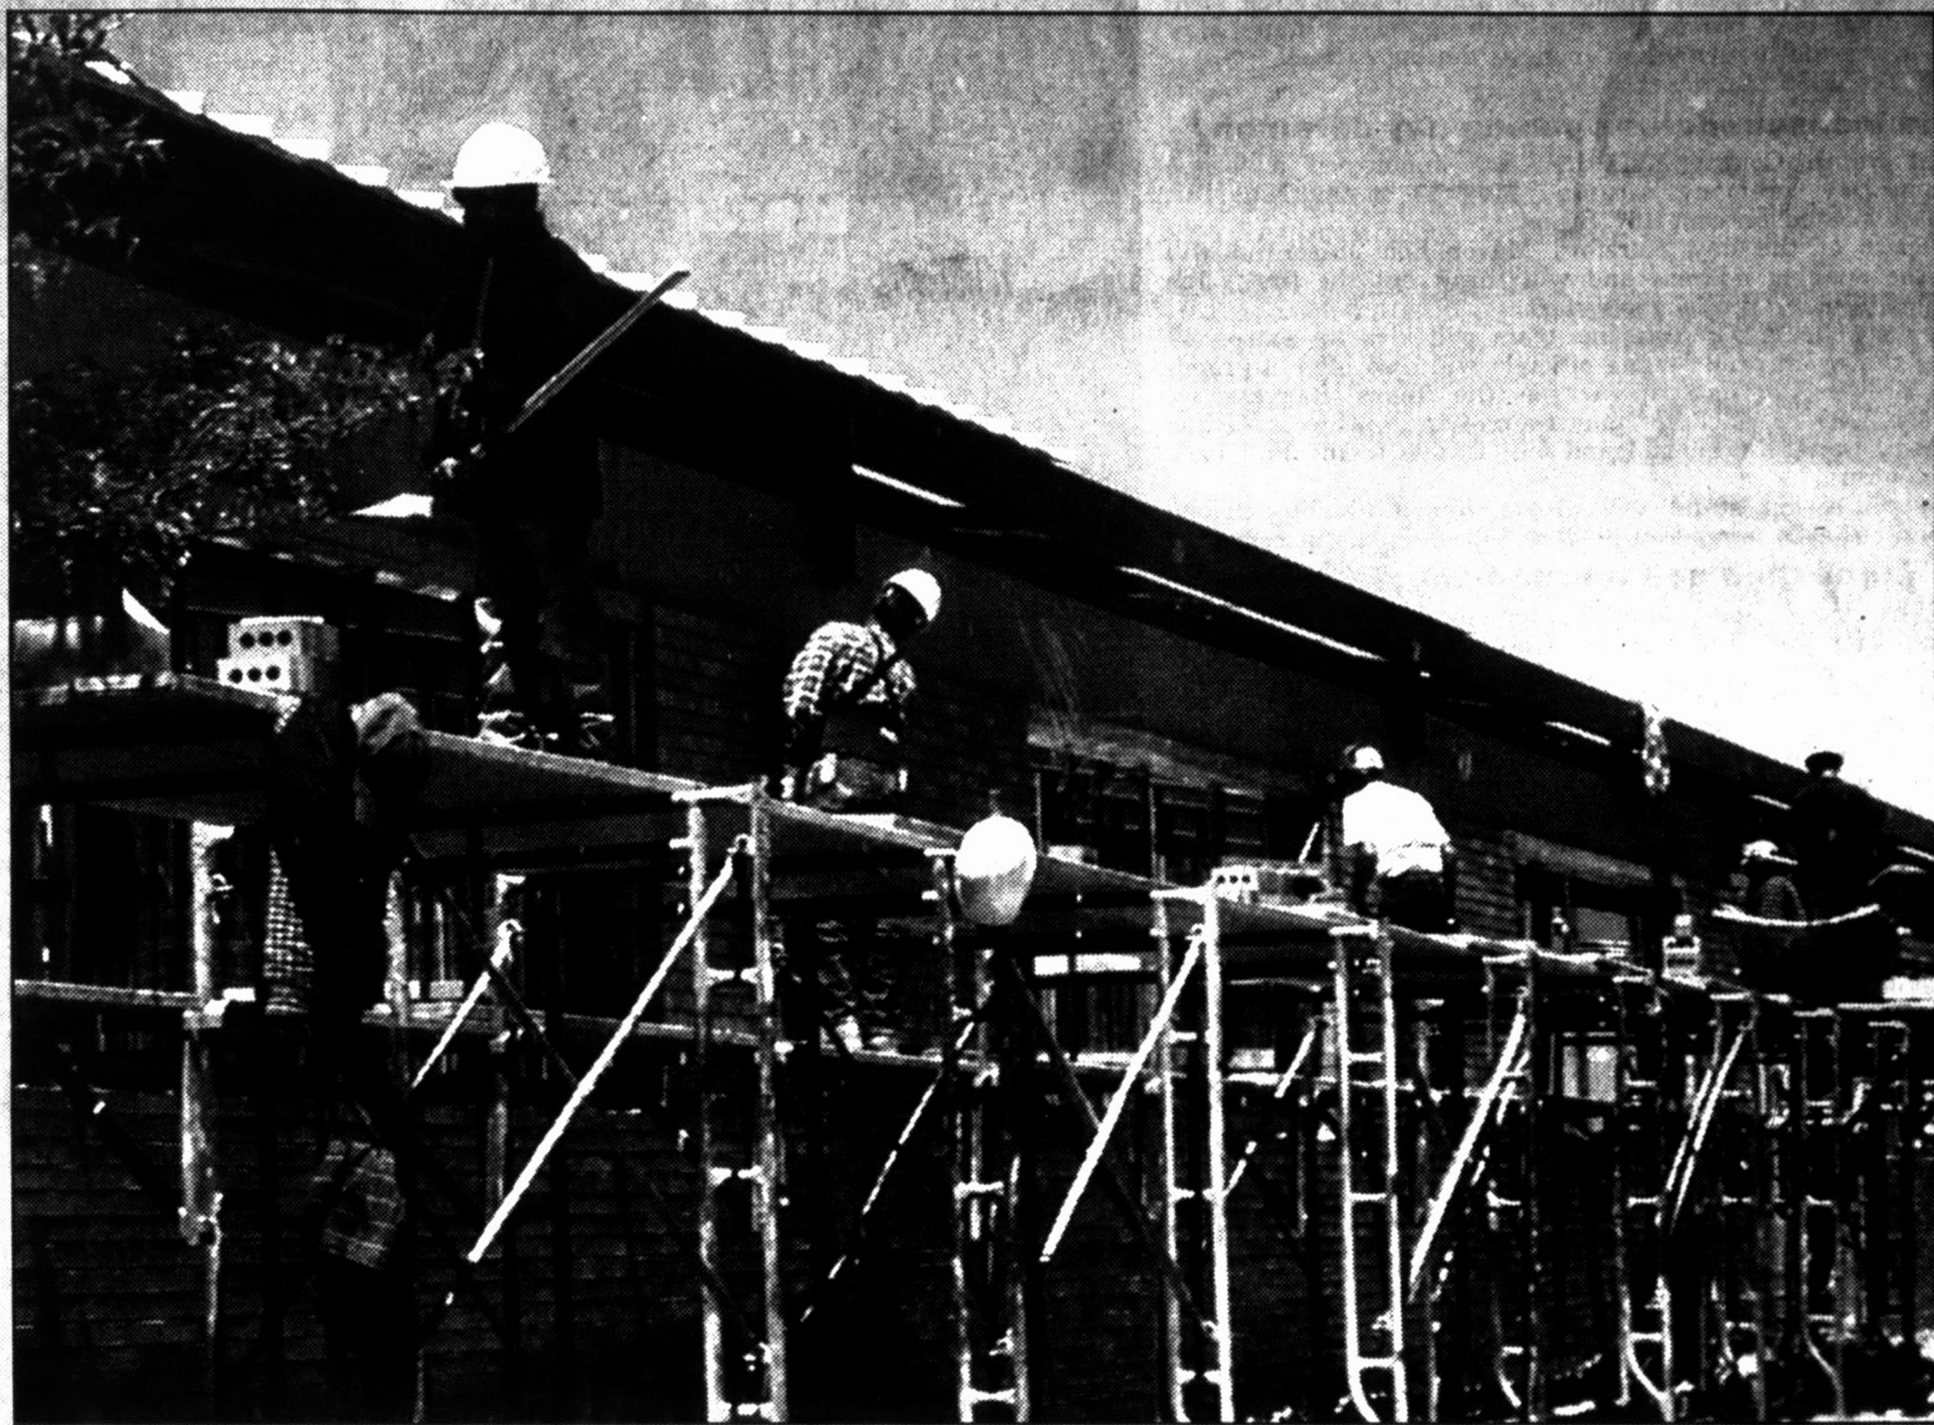

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas House on Thursday rejected an attempt to repeal the state's "veggie libel" law — the law cattlemen used to sue television talk-show host Oprah Winfrey in 1996.

The repeal bill by Rep. Ruth Jones McClendon, D-San Antonio, was voted down 57-80. Although Ms. McClendon said the current law encouraged frivolous lawsuits and discouraged free speech, opponents said the law is needed to protect agricultural industries.

Even dubbing it the "veggie libel" law trivializes a serious issue to agricultural producers, said Rep. David Swinford, R-Dumas.

HISD has a work in progress

Work is progressing on the new fine arts complex under construction on the Hereford Junior High School campus. Bricklayers on scaffolds were working Thursday on the east side of the building, while a front-end loader was moving dirt near the southside entrance.

Storm victims start over

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Carolyn Donaldson has spent the last few days sifting through rubble, one of the thousands of people scrambling for scraps of the past after this week's deadly tornadoes.

The three-bedroom Oklahoma City house she and her husband Lonnie owned for 12 years was swept away Monday evening. Instead of being overwhelmed by grief as she stood in its ruins Thursday, she was finding little miracles.

Like her late mother's diamond and ruby ring. Or her pet Dachshund, who survived a two-block flight during the storm.

"Come back in a couple of years," she told a well-wisher Thursday. "I'll fix you a meal and you'll have a place to rest."

For Donaldson, like many others, the discovery of the smallest items have helped ease the trauma of losing almost everything. The storms killed 41 people in Oklahoma and five more in Kansas, and also left hundreds of others injured. Fourteen people were still listed as missing in Oklahoma.

Hereford volunteers collect items as part of relief effort

Volunteers from First United Methodist Church of Hereford are joining others across the nation in collecting items needed for victims of the deadly tornadoes that left more than 40 people dead in Oklahoma.

Among the list of most needed items are bedding, specifically pillows, quilts, blankets, bedrolls and air mattresses; bottled water; toiletry items, such as toothbrushes, toothpaste, razors, combs and brushes, bath soap, lotion and toilet paper; jackets of all sizes; non-perishable food items; and wearable clothes.

Donations of these items can be made at FUMC Fellowship Hall through the Miles Street entrance.

For more information, contact Daleine Springer at 364-7676.

The deadly weather didn't stop — on Tuesday and Wednesday, storms killed four people in Tennessee and another person in Texas.

Instead of standing in her Del City, Okla., home Thursday, Linda Masteller was standing on it. The house was reduced to a pile of wreckage that reached up to her knees.

Her credit cards, checkbook, even her wedding ring are gone. She wore borrowed pants that were two sizes too big and shoes where her toes stopped in the middle.

"After the tornado, I didn't even have my glasses. I couldn't see a thing," Ms. Masteller said, wearing a pair of old, flowered frames that her son found in the debris.

While she lost many personal effects, she did have one thing crucial to her identity.

"I have my driver's license," she said. "For some reason, it was in my hip pocket."

Preliminary damage estimates from Oklahoma officials indicate more than 9,000 homes in the metropolitan area — Oklahoma City, Del City, Midwest City, Moore and Choctaw — were destroyed or damaged. Moore accounts for more than half that damage.

In 10 other counties, more than 1,500 residences were destroyed or damaged. In Kansas, the figure was about 8,500 buildings.

President Clinton, who will visit Oklahoma on Saturday, has authorized federal funding to cover the costs for short-term emergency work in the state.

Milosevic indicating he's ready to deal

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Slobodan Milosevic has signaled he's ready to discuss a peace deal for Kosovo after Russia and Western powers agreed to broad outlines of a settlement. But first, the Yugoslav president insists, NATO must stop the bombing.

NATO jets struck again overnight, destroying the main railway bridge connecting Yugoslavia and Romania.

NATO also hit the airport in Nis, Serbia's second-largest city, and the city's industrial zone, 120 miles southeast of Belgrade, the Beta news agency reported.

The media also reported an attack before dawn today near Sremska Mitrovica, 45 miles west of Belgrade. Explosions were also heard in the northern city of Novi Sad, Beta said.

The latest attacks came hours after foreign ministers from the Group of Eight industrialized nations — including Russia, Japan and six NATO members — reached agreement on a seven-point peace plan for Kosovo.

The plan calls for the deployment of "effective international civil and security presences" in Kosovo "capable of guaranteeing the achievement of the common objectives." It must be endorsed by the U.N. Security Council.

Many details still have to be worked out. Among other things, Russia and NATO have different views of a "security presence."

Russia also wants a halt to the bombing, while NATO is demanding that Serbs first stop attacking ethnic Albanians. The United States wants a total withdrawal of Serb forces, while Moscow and Belgrade are talking about a partial pullout.

Speaking in Moscow today, Russian Foreign Minister Igor Ivanov expressed disappointment that NATO did not end its attacks.

"Had our partners accepted our proposal to halt the airstrikes, better conditions would've been created to adopt a decision," Ivanov said.

House views teacher background bill Act tightens school security

AUSTIN (AP) — People seeking Texas teaching certificates would undergo expanded criminal history checks — including the use of fingerprinting and FBI data — under a bill approved Thursday by the Texas Senate.

The bill also would require the Texas Department of Public Safety to notify the State Board for Education Certification when a teacher whose fingerprints are on file is arrested, said Stephanie Korcheck, the board's director of policy and planning.

The new criminal history check requirements are being sought by the board in order to catch offenders who may slip through Texas' current statewide background check system, which doesn't use fingerprinting, she said.

"Texas is viewed by criminals as an easy state because we don't conduct federal based, national checks. So if there's a pedophile in Louisiana who wants to teach in Texas they can do so, and it is very likely we will not know they are a convicted pedophile. That is a real case," said Ms. Korcheck.

"There are people who have slipped through the cracks."

The bill by Sen. Eliot Shapleigh, D-El Paso, goes to the House for consideration.

It would apply to people seeking certificates after Jan. 1, 2000, or entering educator preparation programs beginning on that date. The state board currently doesn't have authority to conduct checks of those entering preparation programs, even though would-be teachers spend time with students while being trained, before seeking certification.

The bill would include not only people being certified for the first time, but current teachers who seek additional certification — such as in a second subject area — after the bill's effective date.

Ms. Korcheck said officials expect to see a reduction in out-of-state applications if the increased background check requirements become law. There are 5,000 out-of-state educators who move to Texas each year and apply for certificates, she said.

"We would expect to see a 6 to 10 percent reduction in out-of-state applicants because the fingerprint process will deter them from even seeking a certificate here," she said.

The teacher background check bill is SB1380.

UNT journalism receives $2 million endowment

DENTON, Texas (AP) — The Frank W. Mayborn Foundation has announced a $2 million endowment to the University of North Texas journalism department to help train graduate students with non-journalism backgrounds.

The Mayborn Graduate Institute of Journalism should help place the UNT professional master's program in journalism among the top few in the country, said department chairman Dick Wells.

The institute and the foundation are both named after the longtime newspaper publisher and civic leader who settled in Bell County.

The gift, to be spread over five years, will help the North Texas program become comparable to similar professional master's programs at Columbia University in New York and the University of California-Berkeley, Wells said.

"We already have great undergraduates in journalism who go on to newspapers and other media jobs, but there is a huge demand for more and a great need for dedicated, quality journalists," Wells said. "These master's grads will join with those excellent undergraduate journalism majors to fill those needs."

More than half the money is expected to go toward a maximum of 20 student scholarships per year.

Students with degrees in fields other than journalism and mass communication will be eligible for scholarships of up to $10,000 a year to pursue a master's in journalism.

Sue Mayborn, editor and publisher of the Temple Daily Telegram and Killeen Herald, said the institute will help diversify the field of journalism. Mrs. Mayborn is also the president of KCEN-TV in Central Texas.

She and her late husband, who died in 1987, have supported major programs at several universities.

Frank Mayborn, a graduate of Dallas' Oak Cliff High School and the University of Colorado, spent 64 years in the journalism field, working for papers in Dallas, San Diego and Denver. He also worked for United Press International.

Healthful margarine hits market

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans will soon be able to spread their food with two margarines that actually cut cholesterol.

Despite costing four times the price of regular margarine, market analysts suggest many health-conscious Americans will bite.

"It will be an easy sell," said Roland Rust, a marketing professor at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn. "It sounds like a winner to me, because there are a lot of people looking for a magic bullet."

Well, not quite. "It can't do magic," said Connie Diekman, a registered dietitian in St. Louis and spokeswoman for the American Dietetic Association, stressing that they won't replace a careful diet and exercise.

"But it appears these products are one more way to lower your blood cholesterol level," she said.

Take Control, made by Unilever's Lipton unit, began hitting the market last week. Benecol, made by Johnson & Johnson, is nearing approval by the Food and Drug Administration.

They're among the first major foods that are designed to act like drugs. As a result, the companies plan to market them on two levels — the traditional way through advertising, and also by convincing doctors to suggest them to patients.

Take Control sells for about $3.70 for a 10 ounce package. Benecol is expected to sell in the same range, though J&J has yet to release a price.

The companies say consumers will pay top dollar because of the growing awareness among Americans to control their cholesterol. More than one in three Americans have moderate to high cholesterol levels, a major risk factor for heart disease.

Lipton says Take Control is more expensive than regular margarine because of the high cost of extracting and processing the product's main ingredient, a natural soybean extract called plant sterols.

J&J spokesman Ron Schmid said Benecol's novel health benefits justify the higher price. Benecol's main ingredient, stanol ester, is derived from a substance found in pine trees.

Both Benecol and Take Control work by blocking the body from absorbing LDL, or bad cholesterol.

A New England Journal of Medicine article last year showed regular use of Benecol could reduce cholesterol levels by 14 percent. An article in European Journal of Clinical Nutrition earlier this year found Take Control could cut cholesterol level by 7 percent to 10 percent.

Demand for dietary supplements and herbals remedies has soared in the past few years as many Americans have looked for cheaper and safer alternatives to prescription drugs.

Americans are snapping up those supplements even without major scientific studies supporting the bold health claims of the manufacturers.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers
it. — Westminster, Md.

Dear Westminster: Thanks for sending it my way. The dog lovers in my reading audience will appreciate it. What Dogs Do for Us:

Catch Frisbees.
Keep a night alone from being truly lonely.

Get us outside on beautiful fall days, rainy days and snowy winter days.

Listen to our singing.
Treat us like celebrities when we come home.

Warm up our beds on cold nights.
Make our hearts more vigorous.

Alert us to the arrival of the mail.
Help us live a little longer. Make us smile.

Agree with everything we say.
Warm our knees with their chins.

Provide a use for old tennis balls.
Signal when a thunderstorm is coming.

Pull sleds.
Help lower our blood pressure.

Test how fast we can run.
Keep the squirrels from overtaking our yards.

Teach us the meaning of unconditional love.
Dear Ann Landers: March 1 was the second anniversary of my husband's death.

We were high school sweethearts in the early '40s, and he served in the Navy in World War II. We were three months away from our 50th anniversary when he died suddenly.

Since then, I have learned to appreciate the pain others have suffered after losing a loved one, especially a spouse.

I have been lucky to have a positive attitude because the challenges are endless — loneliness, cooking for one, dealing with everyday problems that you once shared, trying to make a life without him. Thank God for attentive children, friends and the church. Their support is getting me through these sad months.

I hope those who know widows or widowers will invite them for dinner or tea occasionally, or just offer friendship. In this busy world, it is easy to forget those in need. For elders who are lucky enough to still have their spouses — please overlook their faults, and enjoy every minute you have together. — Missing Him in Va.

Dear Missing Him: Thank you for reminding my readers of what's important. Too often we don't appreciate what we have until we lose it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been seeing a lovely woman for over a year. "Molly" is 24 years old and beautiful, but she is very sensitive about the size of her chest. Her breasts are small, and she is convinced this makes her less of a woman. Her last boyfriend apparently made a lot of negative comments about her bra size.

I have told Molly repeatedly that I think she is the most gorgeous woman I have ever known, and I mean it. Is there any way I can help her accept herself the way she is instead of trying to live up to some ridiculous standard of beauty? — Texas

Dear Texas: Keep reassuring Molly that she is beautiful and you wouldn't change a thing. The rest is up to her.

The serving table was covered with a pink tablecloth and centered with a porcelain basket of silk ivy. The gift table was decorated with a stuffed bear and pink balloons.

A three-in-one stroller, carrier and car seat was the gift from hostesses Priscilla Castillo, JoAnn Valdez, Lupe Perez, Paula Nunez, Sylvia Hamilton, Ina Tovar, Connie Vasquez, Deby Reinart, Jennifer Casarez, Georgia Smith and Bernadette Wright.

Volunteers recognized

Three Hereford residents were among volunteers recognized during the Volunteer Recognition held in Amarillo Thursday by the Texas Department of Human Services.

Recognized for contributing more than 100 hours of service were Richard Tjerina, Mamie Moton and Carmen Mancillas.

TDHA recognized more than 300 individuals and organizations that contributed time, donations and support to the various programs offered in 1998.

The volunteer recognition is sponsored by the Texas Department of Human Services Advisory Council. Various volunteer boards are established in Deaf Smith, Moore, Hutchinson and Potter/Randall counties. These organizations support the DHS staff in their vision to help move families from welfare to work.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

"Is it really true that when a person is good, God's help arrives, and when a person is not good, God's help goes away?" "Is there any value in the breaking of commandments?" These and other questions are the gist for a sermon entitled, "The Importance of Keeping and Breaking Commandments," (John 14:15-21).

Pastor Nathan L. Stone, Ph.D., will present the sermon at the 10:30 service of worship. Worshipers are always urged to bring their questions, fears, tears and hopes, as well as a good sense of humor and adventure.

Sunday festivities begin at 9:15 over refreshments and the smell of freshly brewed coffee. This is the real beginning of worship: hugs, hand shakes, and neighborly conversation.

"Forum" (an open-discussion for adults and younger people) at 9:30 will feature a 20-minute taped segment by Larry Dossey, M.D. The people will respond to his remarks entitled, "Prayer, Medicine, and Science: The New Dialogue." Dr. Dossey has authored a number of books including, Prayer is Good Medicine (1996), Healing Words: The Power of Prayer and the Practice of Medicine (1993), and Be Careful What You Pray for... You Just Might Get It (1997). He was former chief of staff at Humana Medical City, Dallas, and is currently executive director of the journal, "Alternative Therapies."

FOB sees herself as something of an alternative Christian church with no ties to any one religious entity. The church is peopled with folks from a variety of denominational backgrounds, as well as those who aren't sure what they are or where they belong, but who share in a hunger for truth and authenticity.

A supervised nursery is available at all services.

FOB is located at 245 N. Kingwood (at Moreman).

Stockton, Jazz face different season

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Basketball Writer

Nine out of 10 people probably think that Michael Jordan made the last shot of last year's NBA playoffs.

"That's probably right, yeah," said John Stockton, who remembers better than most what everyone else has forgotten.

It was Stockton, not Jordan, who took the last shot last June. And unlike Jordan's famous final attempt, Stockton's didn't go in.

"That wouldn't have won the series, but it would have given us another chance to win the championship — which is a lot better than the way it turned out," Stockton said. "I liked our chances in the next game, but that's easy to say now."

"It's over with, and it won't do much good to dwell on it. I had an opportunity to make the shot and it didn't quite go. But I'd take it again if it happened again."

Stockton and his running mate, Karl Malone, are a long way from having it happen again. It'll take 11 wins before they can reach the finals again to have another chance to capture the title that has eluded them throughout their otherwise stellar careers.

Another year older, with Stockton, Malone and Jeff Hornacek on the last years of their contracts and no longer the No. 1 seeded team in the West, the Jazz will have to work their way through a postseason that looks an awful lot different than it did last year.

The absence of Jordan, of course, is the biggest change of all.

But scattered throughout both conferences are a number of younger, quicker teams who believe their chances are as good as anyone's in this first year of the post-Jordan era. One of those teams is Utah's first-round opponent, the Sacramento Kings — the highest scoring team in the NBA this season and one of the most fun to watch.

As post-Jordan NBA playoff race unfolds

"We've got a lot of respect for that team and what they're doing out there," coach Jerry Sloan said. "They're trying to build a winner, and that's something we can understand in our organization."

The Kings and Jazz open their best-of-5 first-round series on Saturday — one of four series that begin that day. The Heat and Knicks renew their rivalry in the day's first game, and the other matchups are Phoenix-Portland and Detroit-Atlanta.

The other four series — Philadelphia-Orlando, Minnesota-San Antonio, Houston-L.A. Lakers and Milwaukee-Indiana — begin Sunday.

All around the league, players and coaches are eagerly awaiting a chance to head into the postseason knowing that Jordan and the Bulls no longer stand in the way.

"I'll miss it," said Scottie Pippen, who moved on to the Rockets in the breakup of the Bulls that commenced when the lockout ended in January. "It certainly feels different this year."

The "it" team right now is the San Antonio Spurs, whose reputation for softness melted away this season as the team brought in playoff-tested veterans Kerr, Jerome Kersey and Mario Elie.

"This team is farther along than any team I've ever been on," said David Robinson, a 10-year veteran. "So I'm excited."

San Antonio ended the season with victories in 31 of its final 36 games to win the No. 1 seed in the West and homecourt advantage throughout the postseason.

With Tim Duncan a year older and now the No. 1 option on offense, there are few teams that can stop San Antonio's front line.

The Miami Heat are the team sitting atop the East, and their first order of business will be to keep their tempers in check and maintain their overachieving ways as they play their fiercest rivals, the Knicks, in the first round.

This will be the third straight year that the Heat and Knicks have played in the postseason, and the last two series were dramatically altered by late-game fights.

"Both teams have been burned enough in the postseason — two years ago New York, and last year us — so maybe this might be the real deal," Heat coach Pat Riley said.

Only six victories separated the No. 1 team in the East from the eighth team, so there is little difference between the top and bottom.

Allen Iverson's Philadelphia 76ers, for example, manhandled the third-seeded Orlando Magic in two of their three games during the regular season and literally threw away a victory in the third game.

Iverson enters the postseason as the league's leading scorer looking to prove that he can be a playoff performer to be reckoned with.

The East features other various sideshows, the weirdest of which is where to play Games 4 and 5 of the Atlanta-Detroit series. The Palace of Auburn Hills is booked for a concert next Friday when the Pistons are scheduled to host Game 4, and the Georgia Dome is booked for a concert the following Monday — the night of Game 5.

The games might be moved to the Silverdome and Georgia Dome.

"He was such a great friend, a great teammate and a wonderful person," quarterback Troy Aikman said. "He was one of the most-liked guys who has ever played in a Cowboys uniform. He was one of those guys everybody loved."

Growing up in the town of Nanakuli, the 6-foot-5, 320-pound Tuinei threw his fists more often than blocks. He tried for a fresh start by going to UCLA, but two years and several fights later he transferred to Hawaii.

Suspended one year and injured the next, Tuinei wasn't drafted by the NFL. The best he could get was an IRVING, Texas (AP) — Mark Tuinei was headed home to Hawaii, hoping to teach youngsters the same skills that helped him become a three-time Super Bowl champion with the Dallas Cowboys.

A meeting with Kale Ane, the head football coach at Punahou School in Honolulu, was scheduled for today. Ane was going to offer Tuinei a job as an assistant coach and Tuinei had told friends he was going to take it.

But early Thursday, tragedy struck. A friend found Tuinei unconscious in a car at his home and immediately called for help. By the time paramedics arrived, it was too late. The 39-year-old Tuinei was dead.

The Collin County medical examiner said the cause of death won't be known until Monday or Tuesday at the earliest, once an autopsy and toxicology tests are finalized.

There was no word about memorial or funeral services.

Friends and former teammates remembered "Tui" (TWO-ee) as a fun-loving man who cared deeply about others. They also admired his toughness and all the adver-

Yankees come home intact, barely

By JOSH DUBOW
AP Sports Writer

A long, sloppy road trip for the New York Yankees almost ended with a serious injury to Chuck Knoblauch.

Knoblauch was helped off the field and taken to a hospital after an eighth-inning collision with Corey Koskie during the Yankees' 4-3, 10-inning win Thursday.

Fortunately for Knoblauch and the Yankees, X-rays on his leg revealed no break and no ligament damage. It was simply a badly bruised lower left leg.

"I don't know if I want to see the replay," said Knoblauch, who rejoined the team 45 minutes after the game. "I don't know if it's luck or if I'm just blessed with flexibility. I was just hoping for the best and ended up getting the best (news). The plan is to see the doctor (today) and we'll assess it then."

The play that caused Knoblauch's injury might have cost the Twins the game. Instead of a 4-3 lead, a rare interference call resulted in an inning-ending double play.

The game was tied 3-3 when David Cone walked Koskie, loading the bases with one out. Jason Grimsley (3-0) got pinch-hitter Ron Coomer to hit a slow grounder to shortstop.

Derek Jeter fielded it and threw to Knoblauch at second. Koskie plowed into Knoblauch, rolling up his leg, to try to break up the double play. Coomer would have been safe at first, allowing the go-ahead run to score, but umpire Jim Joyce called him out on Koskie's interference.

"Koskie was playing hard, but just made a bad slide," said Twins manager Tom Kelly, Knoblauch's manager for seven years in Minnesota. "It obviously was the right call by the umpire. It wasn't malicious. Just a young player trying to break up a double play that wouldn't have been a double play."

In other AL games, it was Baltimore 4, Chicago 2; Oakland 3, Toronto 2; Boston 3, Texas 2; Cleveland 8, Seattle 4; Detroit 4, Anaheim 2; and Tampa Bay 5, Kansas City 4.

The Yankees struggled to a 6-4 record on their longest trip of the season, botching plays in the field and blowing leads in the bullpen against small-market teams like Minnesota and Kansas City.

"I didn't like the way this road trip was going two days ago, but now we'll go home 6-4, so we'll take it," interim manager Don Zimmer said.

The Yankees scored the winning run in the 10th. Bernie Williams led off with a single off Rick Aguilera (3-1), stole second and advanced to third on a groundout. Ricky Ledee's RBI single to left made it 4-3.

Mariano Rivera pitched a perfect 10th for his ninth save in 10 chances.

Orioles 4, White Sox 2
At Baltimore, B.J. Surhoff hit two solo homers, including the tiebreaking shot off James Baldwin (2-3) in the sixth inning, as the Orioles completed a rare three-game sweep of Chicago.

It was the fourth straight win for the Orioles and their first three-game sweep of the White Sox since 1989.

Sidney Ponson (2-2) allowed two runs and seven hits in seven innings. Mike Timlin pitched the ninth for his fifth save.

Athletics 3, Blue Jays 2
Gil Heredia pitched 6 2-3 strong innings and Matt Stairs homered as Oakland won at Toronto, the A's fifth straight victory.

Heredia (2-2) allowed one run and six hits. Billy Taylor pitched 1 2-3 innings for his seventh save.

Toronto starter Chris Carpenter (3-2) pitched a complete game, allowing three runs and six hits.

Rheal Cormier (1-0) got the win and Tim Wakefield earned his first major league save in seven seasons.

Indians 8, Mariners 4
At Cleveland, Sandy Alomar hit a two-run homer off rookie Eric Weaver (0-1) and Wil Cordero drove in three runs.

Bartolo Colon (4-1) allowed four runs and six hits in six innings.

Ken Griffey Jr. hit his 10th homer and scored twice for Seattle.

Tigers 4, Angels 2
At Detroit, Bryce Florie won his first start of the season and rookie Gabe Kapler hit a two-run homer off Chuck Finley (1-3).

Florie (1-0) allowed one run and five hits in five innings. He had been on the disabled list since March 30 with a right shoulder strain and started in place of Brian Moehler, who is serving a 10-game suspension for scuffing the ball with sandpaper.

Todd Greene and Garret Anderson hit solo home runs for the Angels. Todd Jones pitched the ninth for his fifth save.

Devil Rays 5, Royals 4
Pinch-runner Kevin Stocker scored the go-ahead run on an eighth-inning wild pitch by Jose Santiago and Fred McGriff hit his fifth homer in five games for Tampa Bay.

Scott Aldred (2-0) retired one batter in the eighth inning. Roberto Hernandez pitched a perfect ninth for his AL-best 11th save.

Alvin Morman (1-1) took the loss for visiting Kansas City.

Rangers fall 3-2 to Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — It was a freezing cold night when Mo Vaughn signed a contract with the Anaheim Angels and said goodbye to Boston last November.

But shortstop Nomar Garciaparra hopes his former teammate will get a warm reception tonight from Boston fans when Vaughn makes his first appearance at Fenway Park since leaving the team.

"I'll tell you one thing, I hope every person stands up and cheers when he comes to the plate and they realize what the city of Boston lost and the organization lost — a great man," Garciaparra said Thursday.

Red Sox ace Pedro Martinez agreed.

"He's a good baseball player and Mo has been one of the best and off the field," Martinez said. "If I were a Boston fan, I'd be appreciative."

After declaring free agency at the end of last season, the former Red Sox slugger signed an $80 million contract for six years with the Angels.

Much as they look forward to greeting their old friend, though, Boston players do not plan on making the game easy for him. Vaughn hit .337 with 40 homers last year and nearly overtook Bernie Williams of the New York Yankees for the batting title on the final day of the regular season.

And while Martinez does not want to pitch against his friend, he said he will do his best to get Vaughn out.

"He knows this is business," Martinez said. "He has a job to do, too."

The Red Sox have struggled with injuries this season and have yet to find someone to replace Vaughn's power.

On Thursday night, they overcame the loss of Bret Saberhagen to beat the Texas Rangers 3-2.

Saberhagen, sidelined 15 months with a bad right shoulder in 1996-97, missed his last start with stiffness in his shoulder. He said he expected to go on the disabled list today.

Saberhagen pitched three scoreless innings before leaving the game with more stiffness. He allowed three hits, struck out five and didn't walk a batter in his 43-pitch outing.

Former Boston pitcher Aaron Sele gave up three runs and eight hits, walking three and striking out seven in 5 1-3 innings for the Rangers.

The Red Sox were forced to juggle the bullpen after Saberhagen's early exit and used three relievers to finish for the two-time Cy Young award winner.

invitation to Cowboys training camp in 1983, along with 84 other hopefuls.

Tuinei, who played defensive line in those days, defied the odds and made the team, even seeing action in 10 games that year. Coaches later decided his future was on offense and by 1987 he became a full-time starter.

Tuinei eventually settled in at left tackle, the most vital spot on the line because it protects the quarterback's blind side. Beginning in 1989, that quarterback was Aikman. A year later, Tuinei's duties included opening holes for running back Emmitt Smith.

With Tuinei anchoring the line in front of Aikman and Smith, the Cowboys won Super Bowls in 1993, '94 and '96. Tuinei missed only nine games from 1989-96.

Injuries eventually caught up to Tuinei, slowing him in 1997 and causing the team to release him in April 1998. He wanted to come back one more year to set the team record for longevity, but his body wouldn't allow it.

Now, Tuinei appeared ready to turn his life in a new direction by going home. "He was hoping to return to go back to school at the (University of Hawaii) and it looked like a good mix," said Ane, who in past years had worked several clinics in Hawaii with Tuinei.

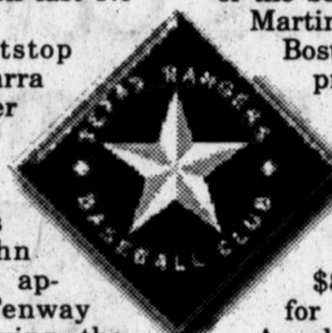

Bill Bates — who was Tuinei's teammate all 15 years in Dallas, marking the second-longest tandem in NFL history — said Tuinei would've been a great coach.

"He had great pride with me in saying he was a coach, too, now," said Bates, who became a Cowboys assistant last season. "I think he's definitely going to be up in heaven coaching."

Bates was one of several former teammates who said Tuinei was like a brother to them.

"He was one guy who lived life to the fullest," Bates said. "I've never met a person who spoke negatively of Mark Tuinei. We're all going to miss him so, so very much."

Daryl Johnston said he saw Tuinei smiling again on television Thursday afternoon.

The Lakers, of course, have been a sideshow all year — signing and releasing Dennis Rodman, firing Del Harris, trading Elden Campbell and Eddie Jones for Glen Rice, watching Kobe Bryant freelance to the detriment of O'Neal.

"It depends which Lakers team shows up. If they have their heads on straight, we'll have the toughest series of anybody," Houston's Charles Barkley said.

The Portland Trail Blazers, after contending for the best league-wide record until the final few days, must cope with their first bout of on-the-court adversity this year.

Making matters worse, Isaiah Rider has regularly been showing up tardy lately — just the latest of Rider's many behavioral episodes.

"Our biggest opponent right now is ourselves," backup point guard Greg Anthony said. "The commitment is not there. We've got too many agendas right now. If we don't address them before the playoffs, we're going to have a very short run."

Banking overhaul

Senate OKs bill to allow financial 'supermarkets'

Gramm rallied troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sweeping legislation that would let banks, securities firms and insurance companies merge to create big financial "supermarkets" has pushed through the Senate.

The mostly party-line vote Thursday was 54-44 on the bill, which faces a likely presidential veto if Congress sends it to President Clinton without changes.

The bill would lift Depression-era legal barriers separating the three industries, allowing the new companies to sell consumers everything from checking accounts to car insurance to mutual funds.

It includes a provision that would make it a federal crime for anyone to misrepresent himself to obtain someone's private financial data.

The Clinton administration supports the legislation in principle. But in a showdown with Senate Banking Committee Chairman Phil Gramm, R-Texas, it has threatened a presidential veto of the bill unless there are major changes, including the removal of provisions that Democrats view as an attack on a 1977 community-lending law that requires banks to make loans to poor and minority residents in the areas in which they operate.

"I think in the end, the president's going to have to decide, is he for a financial modernization bill," Gramm told reporters during the evening vote, which followed 21 1/2 days of debate.

Gramm said he believed it was possible to work out a

The measure is "exactly the wrong bill as, brokerage firms and insurers would increase the likelihood of future taxpayer bailouts of big institutions that fail."

compromise on the issues in contention.

Sen. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., called it "exactly the wrong bill as, brokerage firms and insurers would increase the likelihood of future taxpayer bailouts of big institutions that fail, Dorgan warned.

"This orgy of big bank mergers in our country moves now at an accelerated pace, unabated," he said. He cited recent consolidations, including those in which banking giant Citicorp merged with brokerage-insurer Travelers Group in a deal valued at $36.9 billion, NationsBank Corp. and BankAmerica Corp. combined in a $41.5 billion marriage and Banc One Corp. and First Chicago NBD Corp. united in an $18.7 billion deal.

Proponents of the financial overhaul legislation, led by Wall Street and the insurance industry, maintain it is needed to keep the U.S. financial industry competitive in global markets and it would save consumers millions by providing one-stop financial shopping.

A financial overhaul bill more to the administration's liking recently cleared the House Banking Committee and is being reviewed by the House Commerce Committee, which has given it a lukewarm reception.

Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin and the administration want to let banks get into new kinds of financial activities through subsidiaries of the banks themselves, not just through affiliated companies within the same parent holding company. That arrangement would increase the power of the Treasury's Office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan and most GOP lawmakers want to let banks diversify through a holding company structure. That would expand the independent Federal Reserve's role as a regulator. An attempt to steer the legislation more toward the Rubin's position failed Thursday, increasing the likelihood of a veto.

Also, the administration and many Democrats want to require that banks receive satisfactory community-lending ratings from the government to be allowed to expand into new financial activities. But Gramm and other opponents maintain that the law hurts small banks, especially in rural areas, by having the government tell banks to whom they should lend.

WASHINGTON (AP) — He failed in the last Congress to break down Depression-era barriers prohibiting banks, securities firms and insurance companies from delving into each other's businesses. This time, Senate Banking Committee Chairman Phil Gramm, with help from the financial industry, is having some success.

"If you want a bill," Gramm, R-Texas, told some 40 lobbyists at a meeting during a March snowstorm, "you're going to have to do some work here."

The cash-flush industries, paired with a powerful committee chairman, went to work. Nine industry groups, including the American Bankers Association and American Insurance Association, sent a letter last month to Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., and Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., urging prompt approval.

Top officers of three major securities firms — David Komansky of Merrill Lynch, Philip Purcell of Morgan Stanley Dean Witter, and Sanford Weill of Citigroup — jointly signed letters to lawmakers and opinion pieces to newspapers.

Officials at the Securities Industry Association faxed sample letters to their member firms and asked them to sign and return the papers, which were then sent to the appropriate lawmakers.

Bush fires salvo at Clinton policy

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican presidential prospect George W. Bush blasted President Clinton's decision to rule out ground troops in Yugoslavia.

"I think it said, 'We're coming to fight you with one hand,'" the early GOP front-runner said in an interview with The Associated Press.

Sitting in his office at the pink granite capitol building Thursday, the Texas governor offered what may be his most detailed and critical assessment of the crisis.

He spoke as the United States, its Western allies and Russia agreed on the outlines of a peace formula for Kosovo. Moscow endorsed deployment of an international security force to oversee the peaceful return of refugees.

The standoff with Yugoslav leader Slobodan Milosevic has become an early touchstone of the 2000 presidential race, with a large field of GOP candidates trying to stake out positions on the headline-grabbing conflict. Arizona Sen. John McCain drew attention to his campaign by being the first to criticize Clinton for ruling out ground troops. Rep. John Kasich of Ohio urged mediation.

Bush first moved cautiously to react to the crisis, but eventually said he supported the mission and questioned Clinton's decision to rule out ground troops.

Bush, son of the president who formed the Persian Gulf War coalition, said Clinton failed to clearly define the mission early on and questioned whether he has followed the exit-strategy doctrine established by President Bush and Gen. Colin Powell, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"Any commander-in-chief has got to understand the true principles of the Powell Doctrine, which are: What are the objectives? How do you achieve the objective? And how do you end?" Bush said.

Lawmakers are "frustrated and concerned" about the mission and those issues, he said, and that explains why a divided House failed to support the U.S.-led NATO mission in votes last week.

"The Congress is sending some mixed signals and I think there appears to be concerns by congressional leaders as to mission, objectives and the exit strategy," Bush said. "I happen to think it's important for Milosevic to hear one voice, and that we're serious."

Bush said he would have voted to support the mission if he had been in Congress, if only to send a signal that the United States stands united behind its troops.

"We need to have one objective in mind and that is to achieve the goals and to do so ferociously," Bush said. Like Clinton, he says the goals are to remove the Serbs from Kosovo, return the ethnic Albanians to their homes and insert a peacekeeping force.

"It's an awesome responsibility to be commander-in-chief ... but the commander-in-chief has a responsibility, once the troops are committed, to win," he said.

"Any commander-in-chief has got to understand the true principles of the Powell Doctrine, which are: What are the objectives? How do you achieve the objective? And how do you end?"

'The Mummy': It wastes its likeable leading man

By Matt Wolf

The Associated Press

A lot of people exclaim "Oh, my God" during the latest remake of "The Mummy," as the cast battles a resurrected mummy, as well as various plagues and bugs.

The on-screen exclamations, however, are nothing compared to what some moviegoers may mutter under their breath as they ponder a derivative and tepid "Indiana Jones" wannabe that conspicuously wastes its likable leading man, Brendan Fraser.

Recently seen emerging from 35 years underground in "Blast From the Past," or mowing the lawn — his muscles rippling — in "Gods and Monsters," Fraser here makes a bid to be a Harrison Ford for the millennium.

That would be fine if "The Mummy" delivered on its promised derring-do with any wit and panache. Instead, it's a formulaic retread of an often-told tale. And if you have fond memories of the 1932 Boris Karloff original, forget it. This new film boasts all too little relation to the classic horror and stylish art direction of the original.

The plot remains deliciously silly and complicated. It's the telling of it that disappoints in writer-director Stephen Sommers' saga of treasure-seekers terrorized by the newly revived and murderous Imhotep, the priest-turned-mummy of the title.

If you have fond memories of the 1932 Boris Karloff original, forget it. This new film boasts all too little relation to the classic horror and stylish art direction of the original.

In the prehistoric Theban fortification of Hamunaptra, the City of the Dead, Imhotep had an illicit liaison with Anck-Su-Namun, the mistress of the pharaoh, who was subsequently killed.

For his misdeeds, Imhotep was buried alive adjacent to some regal treasures and has spent 3,000 years nursing a vengeful desire to rise up and wreak havoc by unleashing the 10 plagues of Egypt.

Enter Fraser's treasure-seeking Rick O'Connell.

Every action hero needs a sidekick, and Rick finds one in Evelyn (Rachel Weisz), a wide-eyed English Egyptologist who gets to play prim to Rick's sometimes improper American.

While she uses words like "beastly," brother Jonathan (John Hannah) provides ever-so-English comic relief as an effete bumbler whose feyness doesn't exempt him from the gunplay that arrives right on cue.

Before long, a cabal of pretty disgusting creatures are stalking our heroes — in some truly Byzantine treasure chambers — while never quite shaking Rick's sangfroid.

"Mummies," Rick says

cooly, as if the challenge were one he faced every day. Clearly, sarcophagi are to Rick as lobsters were to Woody Allen in "Annie Hall" — a necessary evil that goes with the territory when you're trying to woo the lady.

Genre pictures aren't expected to be rich in characterization but, even by those standards, "The Mummy" is surprisingly crudely written.

Even the most chilling Hollywood executive would pale, however, next to the mummy and his legions, a savage-eyed bunch who aren't cowed by much beyond the Star of David and, yes, cats.

As for the flesh-eating bugs, they may be the biggest gross-out, judging by the numbers of audience members burying their faces in their hands (and not because of the dialogue).

It can't be easy responding to lines like, "Come with me, my Anck-Su-Namun," but Weisz proves game enough.

Fraser, in turn, is so naturally ingratiating that he wins over the audience to his side, without once letting slip the odd wince.

"The Mummy" is showing at Moovies 6, 401 N. 25 Mile Ave.

670 Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the Book of Judges, intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times.

JEPHTHAH
JEPHTHAH AND HIS FOLLOWERS LIVE BY MAKING RAIDS ON AMMONITE TOWNS, USUALLY TAKING THE INHABITANTS BY COMPLETE SURPRISE. HE IS ENGAGED IN SUCH A PROCEEDING NOW...

IT IS JEPHTHAH AND HIS MEN!

THE COMPLETENESS OF JEPHTHAH'S SURPRISE ATTACK SWEEPS ALL BEFORE HIM!

RUN FOR YOUR LIFE—THEY ARE TOO MUCH FOR US!

AND IN SHORT TIME THE LOOT AND SPOIL OF ANOTHER AMMONITE TOWN ARE JEPHTHAH'S FOR THE TAKING—AND JEPHTHAH HAS STRUCK ANOTHER BLOW FOR ISRAEL AGAINST THE OPPRESSION OF THE AMMONITES!

Next Week
DIRE NEWS!

SAVE THIS FOR YOUR SUNDAY SCHOOL SCRAPBOOK

THIS DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THESE BUSINESSES WHO ENCOURAGE ALL OF US TO ATTEND WORSHIP SERVICES.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
 For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:
 • Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
 • Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
 • Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
 • Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.
