Jubilee drawing closer

By Kitt Jennings
Hereford Brand Staff Writer
If things go as planned, Hereford won't be a place for peace and quiet during the first week of August.
The annual Town and Country Jubilee is set for Aug. 2-8.
The jubilee will kick off Monday, Aug. 2, in a community-wide celebration designed to bring together the city and rural residents.
According to Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce executive vice president Sid Shaw, there will be "all kinds of activities and events. Something will be going on almost every day of that week."
There will be a full slate of activities on Saturday, Aug. 7, beginning at 8 a.m. with the Greg Black Memorial 10K Run at Hereford YMCA.
The annual parade that follows will kick off in front of

One person's junk is ...

For the avid collector, it's accomplishment

By Kitt Jennings
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Spending $900 on toy cars would probably inspire bizarre looks from most people. Magazines and comic books stacked high enough to shade windows could seem odd to many.

Others might even call such phenomena sheer insanity. But for the industrious collector, an accumulation of what others might call junk spells one thing: accomplishment.

So just what drives collectors to stockpile their treasures? For most collectors, their hobbies began basically by chance.

"We really didn't set out to collect," comic book accumulator Cleta Bowers said. "It's one of those 'what-do-you-have-in-your-attic?' things."

Where younger collectors are concerned, their hobby is often parent-driven.

"Mom took me to Hobby Lobby and I saw some bottles for 99 cents. They looked nifty, so I bought like six of them," confessed Shane Dawson, who collects glass bottles and historical swords.

Michael Claudio's fetish began along the same basic line.

"Mother started my collection when I was young with Thundercats toys, and I picked it up from there," he said casting a satisfied glance over a tabletop cluttered with Hot Wheels and Star Wars memorabilia.

Competition was one of the deciding forces in Brian Hedrick's drive to collect Hot Wheels.

"Three or four friends of mine started collecting (Hot Wheels) in the NASCAR off-season. Now it's a challenge to go out there and find 'em and put the sets together," Hedrick said while sifting through his stash of around 900 model cars.

"I guess it's my HOBBY, Page A2

Rodriguez loves 'mechanicking'

By Dianna F. Dandridge
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Many people turn the key in their car's ignition and expect it to start. They step on the brake and expect the car to stop. They listen and know if the car gurgles, clanks, or pops. What they don't know is why.

That's when they turn to a mechanic like Beverly Rodriguez. She enjoys the challenge of discovering why a car pops, clanks or bangs.

Although today's women can and do choose any career, Rodriguez stands out in what is still a male-dominated profession - automotive mechanics.

With twinkling blue eyes and a contagious laugh, Rodriguez explains her career choice.

"I like to make things work. I like to find out why they won't," she said.

"I grew up a tomboy. I followed my dad around as he did his shade-tree mechanics. It just kind of came natural," she said. "I guess you could call me a quick study."

was in high school, than most of the boys coming out of auto shop.

"I grew up a tomboy. I followed my dad around as he did his shade-tree mechanics. It just kind of came natural," she said. "I guess you could call me a quick study."

Through the years, Rodriguez has tried her hand at other vocations, but she has always come back to her first love - a greasy car engine.

"I learned how to cook while working at a nursing home," she said. "I've done some of the in-home care. I like the people, but the challenge wasn't there."

The first engines she ever worked on were the big V-8s with massive power and no computerization, which has changed the ways cars are repaired.

"The new cars are so computerized, a technician just plugs it into a computer and the computer does all the real work of finding out what the problem is," she said. "There are lots of kids coming out of the automotive schools who can't work on some of the older cars. It's a whole different ball game."

"Without the necessary training and equipment, working on the newer engines is getting harder, but there will be some things that will always stay the same," she said.

"They may be harder, without the right stuff, but they're not nearly as challenging."

The challenge is what holds Rodriguez' attention.

"I'm moving all the time, doing something different every day. Sometimes I find problems that people didn't know were there."

There's nothing unusual for Rodriguez to install a carburetor kit one day and pull a motor or transmission the next. For her, it's all part of the giant puzzle that makes "mechanicking" her career choice.

She looks at the newer cars on the lot and says they don't even compare to some of the now classics.

BRAND/Dianna F. Dandridge

Beverly Rodriguez loves to find out why a car gurgles, clanks or pops.

"Sometimes, if I don't know what's causing a problem, I'll keep thinking about it even while I'm doing something else. Then I'll think maybe if I try this or change that, I'll come up with the answer."

Beverly Rodriguez

"They were built light for gas economy," she said. "But they just aren't made to last the way the old ones were."

Rodriguez doesn't just limit herself to the greasy world under a car's hood, but also enjoys the intricate little problems that can drive a car owner crazy.

The glitch that makes the radio cut out, or the short that keeps blowing a fuse creates the contests she so enjoys.

"Sometimes, if I don't know what's causing a problem, I'll keep thinking about it even while I'm doing something else. Then I'll think maybe if I try this or change that, I'll come up with the answer," she said. She compares some of the problems with a wonderful game of hide and seek, where she is always "it," and when she finds and corrects the problem, she's the winner.

When dripping, noisy, hidden things slow down, Rodriguez can be found applying the final coat of wax or buffing the dash of a car headed for the front line of the dealership.

"I'm probably a jack of all trades and master of none. But that's the way I like it."

For now, her work at Marcum Motors keeps her busy. She has a broken head gasket to repair and new problems arising every day.

HISD trustees set meeting

Hereford Independent School District trustees will meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of the Administration Building, 601 N. 25 Mile Ave.

Agenda items include the consideration of student athletic insurance, bids for cabling at Hereford Junior High and the fine arts building; student code of conduct, salary schedules, and district goals.

HPD warns of fraudulent checks

The Hereford Police Department is warning area merchants that fraudulent Manpower and Cargill Inc. checks have been passed in Amarillo and Dumas. The checks are in the amount of $410-$440. The bad checks are missing the water mark.

Individuals trying to cash the checks are using false Arizona identification and false alien cards. They may be driving a white Ford Van with California plates.

Merchants receiving these checks should contact the Hereford Police Department before cashing them.

High school registration slated

Hereford High School registration will be conducted 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Aug. 10-12 at the campus. Students in grades 9-12 can report to the school library on any day to register and pick up schedules.

Books will be picked up in the book room and lunch and transportation applications will be available.

Fines must be paid and shots updated before a student is allowed to register.

Students are requested to carry only clear or mesh backpacks. Clear backpacks can be purchased at Alco. Mesh backpacks will be available through the school office at a cost of $26. Financial assistance will be available.

Parents and students are encouraged to check the school dress code prior to purchasing back-to-school clothes.

HISD to begin its registration

Registration for students new to the Hereford Independent School District in grades 1-6 and all pre-kindergarten and kindergarten students will be 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday at the Administration Building, 601 N. 25 Mile Ave.

Only parents are needed at the registration. Children will not be able to meet the teachers at this time.

Children who have not had changes in address or other information between May 21 and July 26 do not need to be re-registered.

Parents should bring proof of immunization. The department of health will not be open July 26, so parents need to have children's immunizations updated before registration.

Sly fox - Manuel Porras, an employee of Hereford Grain Corp., captured a bright red fox near the elevators. Porras planned to take the frightened little animal home to show to his children then release the animal back into the wild. As beautiful and enchanting as foxes appear, veterinarians and health care experts warn people against trying to pet or capture wild animals because foxes, like skunks, raccoons and bats, are primary carriers of rabies and other diseases.

Armey hails GOP tax plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh from a GOP House victory that provides for a $792 billion tax cut, Majority Leader Dick Armey said today that huge budget surpluses should be used to give Americans a refund.

"You created the surplus. And it's only fair that you get a refund," Armey, R-Texas, said in the weekly Republican radio address.

In a nearly straight party-line vote Thursday, the House approved a measure that would cut taxes by about $792 billion over 10 years. Senate Republicans plan to pass a tax cut next week that is the same size as the House bill but differs in detail.

President Clinton has threatened to veto such a steep cut, saying it could undermine Social Security and Medicare reform and reduce spending for other critical programs. He favors a tax cut in the range of $250 billion.

Clinton continued his assault on the GOP bill in his own radio address today. "It is so large and it balloons in size so dramatically in future years that it would be impossible to invest our surplus to save Social Security, to save and strengthen Medicare with a prescription drug benefit, to pay off our national debt," he contended.

"The prosperity you created brought us the first budget surplus in 39 years. We must return that money to you so it isn't spent in Washington on more big government."

Rep. Dick Armey, R-Texas

But Armey said the Republican plan provides needed relief to Americans who are beleaguered by what he called an unfair tax system. He said the tax code now punishes those who marry and burden those who want to save money for the future, as well as families who save for their children's education.

The plan would ease taxation on interest accrued from savings and reduce the "marriage penalty," Armey said.

"The prosperity you created brought us the first budget surplus in 39 years," he said. "We must return that money to you so it isn't spent in Washington on more big government."

Armey also asserted that the goals of fiscal responsibility could be reconciled with a tax break.

"We can cut taxes and pay down the debt — and the American people expect us to do both," he said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

In response to Don Cooper's cartoon and the editorial question in the Sunday, July 11 edition of the Hereford Brand: The "hungry trial lawyers" have already chosen their next "feeding frenzy." It is the firearms manufacturers and retailers. The lawsuits filed by New Orleans, Chicago and New York are blaming manufacturers in the South for crimes in the North. Several other cities have already filed suit, with many more contemplating such action.

If gun manufacturers are held to blame for all committed with a gun, then the floodgates are opened.

I will not question (the editorial's) idea that another case could be against anyone manufacturing food products that cause people to gain weight. Did somebody say "McDonald's" or "Hershey's"?

Then there are matches, lighters and firecrackers. Are the manufacturers liable for fires?

Are manufacturers of gasoline, fertilizer and other bomb components liable for the destruction from home-made bombs and the containers used to deliver them?

Then there is the case of a man driving his Cadillac through the child day-care center playground in Costa Mesa, Calif., on May 3, killing two toddlers and injuring five people "because he wanted to execute innocent children." It was a Page 8A story and not mentioned in most news broadcasts.

Had he used a gun, it would have been all over the news networks screaming for more gun control. But will Cadillac or General Motors be held liable for those deaths and injuries?

My point is: All this gun control that has been enacted has not helped solve that problem and allowing "hungry trial lawyers" to sue manufacturers for the misuse of their products, be it tobacco or guns, will be a damnation to our free enterprise nation.

Dear Editor:

This ... is to praise our Hereford Regional Medical Center. Just recently I was taken by EMS to the emergency room and found all these beautiful, providing such a crucial service in our community. And, Dr. (Gerald) Payne remains my dear, supportive friend and physician. How very fortunate Hereford is to have such a wonderful hospital.

Elizabeth Witherspoon

Dear Editor:

I have lived in Hereford since 1945, and recently I needed surgery. I received excellent care from the people at Hereford Regional Medical Center. I would like to give special thanks to the operating room staff, recovery room nurses, anesthesiologist, Dr. Khuri, Dr. George and their office receptionist.

In the past, I have had surgery in Houston and received medical care in Amarillo. I had no idea that the care in my own hometown would be far superior to my past experiences. In Houston, I was treated as a number, but at our medical center I was referred to as Mr. Ward.

Words cannot truly express how deeply I appreciate all the kindness and care I received at our local hospital.

way to hunt," he said with a grin.

Alice Cocanougher collects antique kitchen items as a way to reminisce about childhood and "days when life moved at a slower pace." Most of her pieces have a very sentimental value, although she enjoys hunting down tools at low prices at garage sales.

She tapped an old bear-shaped snow cone syrup bottle with a wistful expression on her face. "I remember riding over the railroad tracks holding onto it for dear life. I was afraid it would break and we wouldn't get any snow cones," she said.

Bowers' collection lets her take a walk down the proverbial Memory Lane as well.

"Us kids had an allowance and we all set aside enough for our favorite comics. There were four of us, so we passed them all around," she said, picking up a tattered installment of Betty and Veronica.

Some collectors are more avid than others. William Wimberley, a farm equipment model collector, has a casual attitude toward his 32-piece collection.

"I'm just gonna collect them 'til I get a lot of neat ones," he said.

On the other hand, Hedrick has a more goal-oriented explanation for his urge to hoard.

"Maybe it's the kid in me getting new toys," he admitted. "But the adult in me says it could be a financial venture later on down the road."

Harriet Trujillo has simple motivation for amassing her wooden nesting families.

"I do it for the kids. The grandkids like them because they're so little and colorful and cute," she stated.

No matter how odd or ordinary, large or small a collection may be, those who don't share the collectors' passion will likely continue to question their motives.

"Oh, yes, people think I'm crazy," said Claudio. "They tell me 'sell it all.' It's worth quite a bit, but some of the stuff is very special to me."

Hedrick confessed to getting puzzled looks from many students whenever he agrees to hit the mall on a class trip, explaining that he heads straight for the toy stores.

Despite their resilience where questions of sanity are involved, most local collectors said they have no set goal in mind.

"As long as I find one I like, I'll pick it up," Trujillo said.

Since many collections are started by chance, people do not always have goals set, financial or otherwise.

"I'll just collect 'em and collect 'em," explained the jubilant 11-year old Wimberley.

Dawson took a similar stance. "If I happen to get a new one, cool."

Jubilee

Hereford High School before winding its way downtown.

The Jubilee Junction should consume the rest of the day with activities, food booths and live entertainment in Dameron Park. Already scheduled to perform are Hereford's Merry Mixers and a local group of swing dancers.

The Hereford Farmer's Market will open at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 4, during the Jubilee, and the Spicer Gripp Memorial Roping competition will run on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 7 & 8. Proceeds from the competition, to be held 8 miles west of Hereford at the Circle A Arena, will go to West Texas A&M University student participants.

Under the executive eye of Shannon Redwine, the Pilot Club of Hereford is organizing an arts and crafts show at the Community Center. Redwine will also be coordinating activities such as a quilt show and "other stuff like that," said Shaw.

Anyone interested in selling items at the Jubilee Junction, performing at Dameron Park or registering an entry in the parade should contact the chamber at 364-3333.

Cost for a booth registration form is $40; parade and entertainment entries are free. Anyone interested in art- or craft-oriented ventures should contact Redwine at 364-0244.

Stagnant tax base worries judge

■ Simons says county dodged bullet, but he worries about future

By Donald M. Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County has dodged the budgetary bullet this year, but unless the county's tax base expands, that might not be the case in years to come, according to County Judge Tom Simons.

As the county officials put together the budget for Fiscal 2000, Deaf Smith County is dealing with a problem that has plagued it for several years -- a tax base that has remained relatively stagnant and rising costs, particularly health insurance and juvenile justice.

Simons said the county has a fix on what the costs for housing juvenile offenders is within the county. The county can house 13-15 juveniles in its juvenile home.

"That's a set figure," Simons said. "What hurts us is when we have to put them (juveniles) in Randall County or a boot camp. It's not an option, we have to do something that costs money."

TOM SIMONS
County dealing with old problem

For the past several weeks, Simons and the county commissioners have been poring over the proposed budget for FY 2000. During the process, they have decided to postpone purchases of vehicles and other equipment, which Simons said brings the budget closer to being in balance.

Also, Simons said he believes the county commission is "closer to getting a handle on health insurance," which has been battered recently by several very large claims.

"We probably have a disproportionate share of people who are very sick," Simons said. "Unfortunately, if you use the insurance, and I wouldn't begin to tell an employee who's sick not to use the insurance, the costs go up.

"I think eventually hospitalization coverage for everybody -- governmental entities, companies and individuals -- somehow has to be addressed on a large scale. I'm not advocating socialized medicine, but someone has to figure out how to manage it," he said.

Simons said the county department heads have submitted budget requests he described as "austere."

"I believe our departments are about as well-run as can be, but if we don't have some growth, we will reach the point where we will have to cut services," he said.

While Simons voiced concern, he also said he's optimistic that the county will be able to make progress, noting the cooperative effort being expended by the county, City of Hereford and Hereford Economic Development Corp.

"It takes time and good fortune. They are doing some things out at Farmland Industries that will help," Simons said. He also cited the Bimbo Cereal Foods facility at Dawn, which he said should continue to grow.

5. Bimbo Cereal Foods, $3,600,430.

"One thing that concerns me the most is we still have capital expenditures that we have to address ... roads that need to be paved and equipment that needs to be purchased," he said.

"And, we can't keep adding to the ... tax burden. That's why it's so important to have additional tax base. I'm concerned, but we'll do it."

State designates tax holiday

Special to The Brand

As Hereford parents begin thinking about their children heading back to the classroom in a few weeks, they also anticipate those annual trips to the store for the purchase of the back-to-school clothing. However, this year the drain on the pocketbook will be a bit lighter if those purchases are made on three specific days in August.

Many back-to-school items can be purchased free of tax on these three days because of special legislation enacted by Texas lawmakers in the 1999 session.

Beginning at 12:01 a.m. Aug. 6, 1999, and continuing until midnight Aug. 8, parents will not have to pay state and local taxes on the purchase of many school clothing items.

According to Rylander, most footwear and clothing priced under $100 will be exempt from sales tax. This tax-free price is for individual items and does not include multiple purchase of items which have single item prices of less than $100.

Clothing and footwear used primarily for athletic activities or for protective wear jewelry and other accessories, are not eligible.

Tax-free items may include baby clothes, bathing suits, belts with attached buckles, boot (cowboy and hiking), bras, bridal apparel (not rental), some caps/hats, choir robes, coats and wraps, costumes, diapers and dresses.

Edward Jones Celebrates Major Milestone

Hereford is a long way from Romford, England, but the two will soon share a connection. On August 17, this London suburb will become home to an Edward Jones office -- but not just any office: Romford holds the distinction of becoming Edward Jones' 5,000th office.

Tom Edwards, the Edward Jones investment representative in Hereford, said, "When you consider how Edward Jones has grown over the past 20 years, it's simply amazing. In 1980, we had only 304 offices. Today, we're celebrating the opening of our 5,000th office!"

Edward Jones offices span three countries. In 1994, the company expanded its operation beyond U.S. borders by opening its first office in Canada. Last year, the firm opened its first office in the United Kingdom. Edward Jones Canada now has more than 200 offices, and more than 50 offices pepper England.

With more than 4,700 offices in the United States, including Hereford, Edward Jones is the largest financial-services firm in the nation in terms of office location. The company is in the midst of an aggressive growth plan designed to expand its office network to include 10,000 offices by the year 2,004.

Edward Jones is the only financial-services firm in the nation that focuses solely on meeting the financial needs of individual investors. Its investment representatives offer such investments and services as: CDs, tax-free and taxable bonds, mutual funds, individual stocks and retirement-planning tools such as IRAs.

Reading beyond the bottom line

As stewards of the taxpayers' money, the Deaf Smith County commissioners deserve praise for their efforts to hold the line on spending.

Deaf Smith Public Library's request for an increase in the budget for purchase of books and periodicals.

A fixed library budget sounds good in theory, but is not realistic. Inflation alone, an estimated 10-percent increase in costs every year, will gnaw away at the library.

The public library is one of the most widely used resources in the county, providing not only reading materials but also a place for area school children to conduct research for school projects.

So far this year, the library has recorded 80,373 circulation transactions including books, magazines, videos, etc. The library averages 154 patrons per day, maintains approximately 75,180 individual volumes of material and has hosted 9,438 children story times and library programs. It is also one of the few libraries in the state which checks out magazines and other periodicals on a regular basis.

It is estimated that 1,500 titles will be removed from DSC library shelves this year because of age, and only 500 volumes will be purchased as replacement due to budget limitations.

Hereford and Deaf Smith County are fortunate to have a public library of this quality, which far exceeds the quality of libraries serving much bigger towns and even cities. That stature is thanks in no small part to far-sighted county commissioners, many local philanthropists and volunteers who have not only contributed to its bookshelves, but who also aided in moving the library to its current location from the basement of the county courthouse, and the back room of a pioneer store prior to that.

A statement by one commissioner that the library probably could cut back on its subscriptions to periodicals shows a lack of understanding about the value of the library to our community.

We're not slapping hands, but we wonder how many times the county commissioners have actually used the library?

We know they visit the library every May to enjoy an appreciation luncheon hosted by the "Friends of the Library" — the library's premier community volunteer group.

In Hereford, the public library is the only place where some top-notch literary magazines, such as Atlantic Monthly, Smithsonian, American Heritage or the New Yorker can be found.

We believe, rather than trimming the library's budget request for books and periodicals, the county commissioners should find new avenues to continually improve and invest in this true asset that contributes to the community's intellectual health.

Donald Cooper

I was in the second grade when I got my first library card. I was visiting with my cousins who lived in town and we were walking to the Tastee Kremer for an ice cream cone when we passed the library.

On an impulse, I left my cousins and went to the library, a two-story, boxlike building that once had been the city jail. When I went in and saw all the shelves filled with books, I knew I had found something magical. I roamed through the stacks and found some books that interested me and took them to the checkout desk, only to find out that I needed a library card to take a book out of the building.

I filled in a card with my name, but I had to wait until the librarian called my mother to find out if it was OK with her to give me a library card.

My mother really was tickled that I had decided to get a library card. She loved reading and had tried to instill her love of books in me, so she saw it as a sign her efforts hadn't been wasted.

Because my card was a new card, I could check out only one book, so after some thought I decided to keep a biography of the Apache leader Geronimo.

I finished the book by the next day and couldn't wait to get back to the library to get another book.

Since then, I have spent many, many pleasant hours prowling through libraries, reading the reference books, magazines and newspapers, and taking trips to distant lands and other times through the magic of the printed word.

Over the years, I've come to associate many of the communities where I've lived with their libraries.

Perhaps because I've always seen a library as a refuge, I never enjoyed living in Texarkana. The Texarkana library is housed in a wonderful building, but it's also the only library I've been in that has "Gone With the Wind" among its new selections.

Batesville, Ark., with a population of about 10,000, had a library that was superior to many cities five times its size.

Other good libraries I've encountered were in Corpus Christi; Springfield, Mo.; Gallup, N.M.; and New Iberia, La.

And, I have to say the Lubbock public library was (and is) an excellent facility.

When I came to Hereford to interview for the managing editor's job, one of the first things I did was locate the Deaf Smith County Public Library. I was pleased to see the city has a modern facility.

Since moving to Hereford, I found the county library to be a jewel in the community. Its selections of periodicals, books and reference materials would be the envy of many much larger communities.

Because Hereford has no news stand which offers a wide variety of magazines and metropolitan newspapers, the county library becomes even more important.

Of course, you can buy a Newsweek or Time at the grocery stores in town, but there's no Atlantic Monthly or American Artist or Texas Observer sold locally — you have to go to the library to find those publications. Also, you have to go to the library to read the Dallas Morning News or USA Today — there are none of those newspapers on the racks in town.

We have a very good library in our community and, judging by the number of people who're there when I go to the library, lots of other people think the same thing.

COMMENTARY

Privacy vs. public information: Never the twain shall meet

Hospital patient lists will no longer be released as a service provided by Hereford Regional Medical Center if the HRMC board votes to formally adopt interim hospital administrator, J.O. Lewis' recent policy announcement that the service would be terminated.

A week ago, Lewis told the Hereford Brand he made an executive decision to terminate the service following several instances where the hospital inadvertently released patient names without authorization.

He said his move to cancel the long-standing service would protect the hospital's exposure to litigation arising from the breach of patient privacy.

The topic was discussed briefly in this week's hospital board meeting, but no action was taken after director Bobby Owen said he disagreed with the decision.

While we can't argue that Lewis' concern with litigation is warranted in today's litigious environment, we can argue with his interpretation of the "gray area" between the laws which protect a patient's right to privacy, and those laws that guarantee access to public records.

Attorneys representing the Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas advise that any hospital supported through tax revenue is required to provide unfettered access to the same records it cultivates as a matter of general business. For example: a hospital would not have to release a patient list if there was no patient list — either in written or digital form.

The issue at hand isn't whether the hospital specifically releases patient lists to the newspaper or the radio, or whether it posts a list in the hospital foyer as a convenience to the general public. The issue is whether the hospital, its acting administrator or its elected board can arbitrarily decide which information will be released to those taxpayers who support it.

The laws which govern the Public Information Act suggest that a tax-supported hospital can't withhold a patient list unless the information has been made confidential by constitutional law, statute or court decision. Records are considered "confidential" under Texas common-law privacy decision only if (1) the records contain highly intimate or embarrassing facts about someone's private affairs, (2) publication of such information would be highly offensive to a reasonable person of ordinary sensibilities, and (3) the matter publicized is not of legitimate public concern.

This newspaper has generally cajoled and pleaded with the hospital for many years to receive even incomplete hospital lists because of subscriber requests to provide them. When they could be obtained, the reports ran as general news items and were not contingent upon advertising sponsors.

Our concern over the hospital reports goes no further than serving our readers, and as a matter of principle in regard to public record.

We're not sure whose interests are being served with the discontinuation of the hospital reports, but we don't think its the taxpayers' or the average patient's.

Hari-kari: Just another name for the family's annual garage sale

Mauri Montgomery

Hello Hereford.

We always swear we'll never do it again, but we always renege on the promise. I wish we would stop doing that.

We lived through another garage sale this past weekend when we, like 120 other local families, turned entrepreneurs-for-a-day, opened our hefty masonite garage door for business in Hereford's 3rd annual city-wide garage sale.

We have shoveled-out our wares in two of the three city-wide sales so far — each time ignoring (our) resolve to never commit this sort of hari-kari again.

For the record, (my) resolve has never waned.

One garage sale is one too many. I'm a junk-a-haul-it, believing it is far, far better thing we do when we help BFI build new mountain ranges in Canyon and Amarillo, rather than become homeless because our junk took over.

The biggest threat to America's quality of life

I don't know why Congress keeps dwelling on problems with our health care system and social security when, clearly, the biggest threat to America's quality of life is the junk my family generates.

My wife, my mother, my mother-in-law and her sister reminded me again this year that hosting a garage sale is a noble way to redistribute our wealth in junk, and even earn cash while doing it.

They were half right. We made some money.

Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President, Sid Shaw estimated this past week that the day-long sale drew about 250-300 people from out of town.

He also said a spot poll indicated the average garage sale earned $300 during this year's city-wide effort. With that figure in tow, we can conclude that more than $30,000 in junk bonds changed hands.

You have to admit that's not too shabby for a day of recycling — stooping as you may from slipped disks and other chronic back disorders earned while serving your wives, mothers and mothers-in-law.

Our shoppers seemed to appreciate the floor plan.

"People have to be able to move around and see everything we have Mauri," my mother-in-law explained. "These tables and boxes need to be moved more that way."

As a design function, the natural contours and flowing isles allowed our shoppers more muscle room — arm-wrestling is a fine art.

The more-proficient wrestlers win more 25-cent ensembles.

Admittedly, I didn't spend much time on the sales floor during the day.

My orders were simple: to move heavy objects to awaiting pirate ships and to bellow, "We'll go no lower and that's final," to pirates who had bargained way beyond good manners and garage sale ethics.

And 99 masking-tape prices on the wall later, the pirates were still coming.

Some came with purpose

Some came with purpose, some arrived with that crazy, wild-eyed look of a rushed impulse shopper — nervously scanning the fare for a treasure missed.

They asked if we would be willing to come off the vase priced at $1, then smelling blood in a weak moment, "Would you take 25-cents?" Inevitably, when the game had grown tiresome and the price would go no lower, our customers decided they were only mildly interested in Ming Dynasty collections.

Their astute eye for real bargains was drawn instead to the 30-cent dartboard which no longer had accompanying darts.

"Don't you have the darts that go with this," the lady asked.

"No," I lied.

There's only one particular vantage point on our driveway where you can see the darts on the garage roof.

And don't think we garage sale managers didn't notice when these pariahs among our collection were picked up.

We all nodded subtly and hoped the bearer wouldn't snap out of her buying reverie long enough to realize we should be paying her to take it off our hands.

Never happened.

The huddled masses came, and they bargained and they bought.

They asked if the permanently mounted garage fixtures were for sale, and did we have anything of value in the deep freeze.

It's my name and don't mess around with it

In a job such as mine, sooner or later a name of a person or place is inevitably going to be misspelled. When that happens the poor misspeller is bound to catch "H-E-double-toothpicks" from lots of folks.

Of course the misidentified person or a town's representative will call and let us know that it HAS to be fixed.

This I can certainly understand. But then when grandparents, spouses, significant others, and near strangers start berating us it's just about more than I can take.

I know I've made more than my fair share of wrong identifications. Some were simple typos; some were because I heard the name wrong; and sometimes it's because what I think should be a relatively simple name, isn't simple at all.

Dianna F. Dandridge

Once, while in Pampa, I mixed up the chief of police and the fire chief. No matter how I apologized, they never let me forget it.

Locally, I've completely renamed a couple of prominent businessmen so often they now call to speak to me and introduce themselves by their new aliases. I really do try to get their names correct, but after something gets in my head, it pretty well sticks.

I realize that names are truly the most important thing anyone can actually call their own. For that reason I sincerely mean every apology I have ever had to make for a misnomer.

But you know, turn-about needs to be fair play. Like everyone we write about, reporters names are important, too.

I can nearly understand someone sending me something with my name misspelled if they don't really know me, have never met me, and don't know that Dianna is the correct spelling for the mythological goddess of the hunt and moon. After all most people take the easy way out and skip the second N. And, Dandridge just about boggles some peoples minds.

But, I find it nearly inexcusable for a professional organization, who has specifically asked how my name is spelled, to make that mistake.

As many functions as I go to and am asked to sign in, I would think people could get the name right. After all, if it's legibly printed it should be easy enough to copy correctly.

True, I've always been a stickler about my and my kids' names.

More than 25 years ago, a particular dentist used to try to make friends with me by calling me such idiot names as "Princess." I finally informed him, in a not-so-nice way, that my name was Dianna, and if he wanted a princess he should go to Europe or somewhere. After that, he made sure he always called me by my name.

Later in high school, coaches tried to call me Dandridge, but it didn't take long to make them understand, I don't respond to my surname.

Matter of fact, about the only one who gets away with calling me anything other than Dianna is my mother, and sometimes not even her. We won't discuss her pet name for me.

Once, when the fancy cut-out name belts were so popular, I had someone tell me I had misspelled my own name. Even after I insisted D-I-A-N-N-A was correct, the name came back D-I-A-N-A. I did not pay for it, nor did I order another one.

My ex-husband tried calling me by any number of pet names - Honey, Sweetheart or Babe were his favorites - at least while we were dating. He, too learned, I'm Dianna.

I'm just as particular about my kids names as I am my own.

My oldest daughter is Amanda. Not Mandy; not Amy; not Manda. She will always be Amanda.

Don't even try to shorten Rebecca's name. She definitely is not now, nor ever will be, Becky, Becca, or Beck.

My son, Joshua, doesn't really care if someone shortens his name, but if he sees me cringe when someone calls him Josh, he will try to correct them, at least in my hearing.

Some people seem to think just because I have duplicate initials, that gives them license to call me Double D. Think again. I'm Dianna. I'm not Di. I'm not DD. AND I certainly am NOT Di-Ann.

Some people say lighten up. It's no big deal.

If it's not a big deal, why does everyone else make such a stink about it?

Chances are their names are as important to them as mine is to me and if their name is Jim Bob, they don't want to be called James Robert. It's the same thing, people.

Hari-kari

They inquired about my lumber racks and the lumber in them. They asked if we were willing to come down on our price for the basketball goal post, and argued about the price even when I told them it wasn't for sale.

If there was ever a good time to sell the house, the garage sale would have been the perfect venue.

Board by board, we could have sold it all.

And everything would have found a new home with the exception of my parent's treadmill - you can't give those things away - and my mother-in-law's coveted Coca-Cola bottle collection.

Martha told us repeatedly that she didn't want to mark the little bottles too low, too soon. She worried needlessly since they dropped along with her expectations to the bottom of the nearest dumpster at day's end.

My parents should really start walking their schnauzer, Boudreau, on the treadmill. He's a little chunky and it doesn't appear that human feet will ever hit the conveyor belt again.

But there's still a glimmer of hope for my mother-in-law. I figure she can get back in the business of selling miniature Coke bottles with a 25-cent investment at the next city-wide garage sale.

Someone there will be watching her, nodding subtly to other privy garage merchants. They will all hold their breath, hoping she doesn't know the bottles will be free of charge if she's willing to check their dumpster at the end of the day.

politics and celebrity.

What he might have become and achieved - given a longer, forgiving life - now passes to speculation adding to the mystique of a family that reflects America's hopes and despairs.

Star Tribune of Minneapolis, on U.S. foreign aid:

Thousands of years ago, people who railed against human greed were called prophets. Today they're dismissed as whiners. Consider Brian Atwood, erstwhile director of the U.S. Agency for International Development. During his six years as the nation's foreign-aid chief, Atwood preached a gospel of strategic generosity that should have converted all who heard it. But few in Congress got his religion, and now the man himself has quit the pulpit. It's a shame to think that the last voice for sharing America's bounty with the world has left the Washington wilderness.

And it's more of a shame that Washington's leaders wouldn't heed the call. As Atwood noted in leaving his job earlier this month, America's foreign-aid budget has long been the plaything of the GOP's "conservative fringe."

If they cared, they wouldn't be crowing about Atwood's departure - and about the damage they've done to America's foreign-aid effort. In the last eight years, the staff of Atwood's agency has been cut by a third. The budget has declined from $14.1 billion to $13.7 billion over the same stretch - quite a dramatic drop when inflation is considered. And if the Senate has its way, the budget will be hacked another 6 percent next year. ...

History professor tells of 'reluctant gunfighter'

Unlike many of his contemporaries, gunman Pink Higgins did not die with his boots on, the so-called "reluctant gunfighter" of Texas died of a heart attack.

Higgins grew up in Lampasas County, then on the Texas frontier. During his 62 years, he fought Comanches, rustlers and anyone else who crossed him or his interests.

Although Higgins is believed to have participated in as many shootouts and killed as many men as did Wyatt Earp, Doc Holliday, Billy the Kid, Clay Allison and other legendary gunmen of the Old West, he was not a trigger-happy killer like John Wesley Hardin or an alcoholic hot-head like Clay Allison, Higgins raised nine children, ranched and worked as a trailer boss and range detective.

His exploits are detailed by Bill O'Neal in "The Bloody Legacy of Pink Higgins," which was published recently by Eakin Press of Austin.

Though O'Neal is a history professor at Panola College in Carthage, Texas, he has written this biography for readers and lovers of the Old West, not for the exclusive circle of college professors. Obviously well-researched, the book still manages to have the flavor of cowboys sitting around a campfire and swapping tales about Pink Higgins.

Higgins was born in 1853 in Lampasas County, where he spent most of his life. As a young man, he participated in numerous cattle drives from Texas to the railheads in Kansas and Colorado. He also led a faction in the violent Horrell-Higgins feud of Lampasas County, an event

"The Bloody Legacy of Pink Higgins," by Bill O'Neal; Eakin Press, Austin, Texas, 1-800-880-8642; paperback; 168 pages, photos, bibliography, endnotes and index; $18.95; ISBN 1-57168-304-6 that foreshadowed the famous Lincoln County War of New Mexico and which made Billy the Kid famous.

The images of the Old West show the steel-eyed gunfighter drawing his Colt .45 Peacemaker to drop an adversary. Higgins, however, preferred the Winchester, using his thumb to trip the trigger when he used the lever.

The "bloody legacy" of Pink Higgins was not buried with him when he died in 1913 in Spur, as O'Neal carried it own to tell the story of Pink's son, Cullen Higgins, an attorney who also was caught up in a blood feud that would involve the cattle baron Billy Johnson and Texas Ranger Frank Hamer.

The book includes many photographs, not only of Pink Higgins but also of his family, adversaries and the towns where he lived.

It also includes little notes about Higgins, his legend and other information about the times in which he lived.

One of these notes was entitled "A Grisly Miracle on the Range," which tells how he handled a rustler caught butchering a steer.

"Pink pulled his Winchester and drew a bead on the thief. From ninety yards he dropped the rustler with one bullet.

"Angrily Pink stuffed the rustler's corpse inside the disembowled animal, then rode into town to the sheriff's office. He told the astounded law officers where they could ride onto the range and find a miracle taking place - a cow giving birth to a man!"

"... The story may be apocryphal, but it is so persistent that it could be based on fact," O'Neal recounts.

The author has written 16 books and more than 400 articles and reviews. He also is a member of the Western Writers of America.

State official to conduct forum on state services

Special to the Brand

AMARILLO - Improving the efficiency of health and human services.

Creating a continuum of care for families and individuals in Texas.

Promoting teamwork among state health and human services agencies.

Fostering innovation in the delivery of state services at the community level.

These are just some of the wide array of topics that will be discussed at a public community forum to begin at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the United Way of Amarillo & Canyon offices, 2207 Line.

In scheduling the forums, Texas Health and Human Services Commissioner Don A. Gilbert said "citizen input is critical to the formation of any blueprint for health and human services delivery in Texas in the coming century."

Improved access to and coordination of services "is dependent on an earnest as-essment by citizens of how we are doing and how we can do better," he said.

The forum is one of 21 sessions to be held this summer across the state. The purpose is to seek public comment on unmet health and human services needs and education of local communities on agencies' initiatives and direction. Most importantly, the forums will also offer participants an opportunity to assess the responsiveness of health and human services efforts to improve the service delivery system, and the coordination of services.

The public sessions will be sponsored by the United Way of Amarillo and Canyon, the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, the Texas Health and Human Services Commission and the other 12 health and human services agencies currently charged with the responsibility of providing services to Texans.

If you require auxiliary aids, services such as sign language interpreters or materials in alternate format, contact D'Anna Stewart at (512) 424-6629, at least three working days prior to the meeting.

The Driskill House

(Jerry Ratliff)

Once upon a Day in Time while wondering through my doubt
 Once upon a Place in Time, they call The Driskill House
 Sunrise, early in the morning, the way that each day starts
 Talking, listening and learning the story of the ants
 Now we all have these stories of Pain, Suffering and Hope
 Fear and Monsters of the Mind as we each just try to cope.
 From Client's room to front office, from warrior to Roman
 From papers to computer, the face of a pretty woman
 From butter up to batter up is the game, what's it all about?
 The home run or the single, the disappointment of the Out
 Well, the Day goes on in the boredom of my mind
 I look for something else to do, just to justify my time
 Well, my prayer is answered as my fingers do the walking
 I've bagged so many doughnuts, I can swear I hear them talking!

Now the food is pretty good as I keep going back
 The chills run up my spine as the cook hollers, "Chili Mack!"
 And now it's Meeting Time; I sit in back and to the side
 A silent prayer on my lips, "Please, God, just help me hide."
 But that's not to be my fate because that's what I need
 Proof comes in a moment's notice, "Jerry, would like you like to read?"

I try to keep this light, if you read between the lines, is the story in the word or in the rhythm of the rhyme?
 I wonder when I leave will there even be a trace,
 A moment in someone's mind the weavings behind a face?
 Now I sit and watch the sunset as the fire burns inside out
 A Day, A Time, A Place in Texas
 They call the Driskill House.

My Gentle Whisper

(In Memory of Robbie D. Traylor)
(Sharon Lemoine Watson)

Hush, hush, my children, so you can hear,
 My gentle whisper in your ear.

At this time you all must know,
 How very much I loved you so.
 Remember now you have one another,
 And now you must be strong for your mother.

So, hush, hush, my children, so you can hear
 My gentle whisper in your ear.

I raised you all to know right from wrong,
 And now, my children, you must be strong.
 Be kind to each other and help each to know
 That all of you were special and I loved you so.

So, hush, hush, my children, so you can hear,
 My gentle whisper in your ear.

When the days are long and your heart feels broken,
 Just remember I'm with you and the words I've spoken,
 Remember I love you and that this is not goodbye,
 But just so long until we meet in the bye and bye.

So, hush, hush, my children, so you can hear,
 My gentle whisper in your ear.

Migrant workers aid program WTAMU takes applications

Special to the Brand
CANYON - West Texas A & M University is accepting applications from migrant and seasonal farm workers who graduated from high school recently and who are interested in obtaining federal financial assistance to enter the University for the fall semester.

The College Assistance Migrant Program (CAMP), which is being funded by the U.S. Department of Education, will enable 30 new students to enroll at WTAMU in each of the next five years.

Qualified applicants must have graduated from high school in the last two years and they or their parents must have spent a minimum of 75 documented days in migrant agriculture-related employment in the past 24 months.

Those accepted into the program will receive scholarships for the upcoming fall and spring semesters, monthly stipends, a 50-percent housing waiver, books and supplies and a variety of counseling services, including financial aid advisement and assistance with the application process.

"We're basically trying to provide migrant students with a way to pay for their entire first year of college so that they can live on campus and not have to work," Martin Lopez, University CAMP director, said. "We will try to develop their leadership as well as their academic skills."

CAMP will assist migrant students through their first year at WTAMU, then help them obtain financial aid for their subsequent college years, Lopez said. Participants will continue to receive counseling, tutoring and supplemental instruction as long as they remain at WTAMU. To request a CAMP application, contact Lopez at (806) 651-2351 or write: CAMP, WTAMU Box 60094, Canyon 79016.

George W. Bush and Bill Bradley may be feeling the heat generated by the politics of policy. After being neeled by rivals for avoiding tough stands, the two presidential candidates are delving into details.

Bush unveiled an $8 billion plan Thursday to get religious organizations involved in delivering government social service. He also released a list of his top 75 policy positions, amid taunts from President Clinton to "tell us where you stand."

"I find it amusing that the president seems to be taking time to talk about me," the Texas governor said in a telephone interview between campaign stops in Indiana. "He must be worried that I'm going to win."

After ducking questions and relying on vague generalities for the first half of the year, Bush has been fleshing out his position on many issues. He hopes to undercut rivals in both parties who say he is all style — no substance.

Bradley, a former Democratic senator from New Jersey, came under pressure as Vice President Al Gore delivered a series of policy speeches on education, crime, charities, and cancer research. Gore hopes to distinguish himself from Bush and Bradley, his only rival for the Democratic nomination.

In his second major address of the campaign, Bradley called for stronger campaign finance laws Thursday.

BILL BRADLEY
Democratic challenger

"What I thought about this campaign was, you take the first half of the year to introduce yourself to America, let them know what you believe. But in the second half of the year you become more specific," Bradley said.

Presidential candidates pour out reams of position papers and hours of issue-laden speeches to trump each other in the policy wars.

Sen. John McCain of Arizona broke out of the GOP presidential pack with fast and forceful comments on the Kosovo crisis. He broadened his agenda in May with proposals on Social Security, education and tax reform.

Elizabeth Dole, a Cabinet member for two Republican presidents, called herself a "courageous conservative" for criticizing the gun lobby. The rhetoric drew attention to her campaign when it appeared to be sagging.

Businessman Steve Forbes has made attacking Bush a centerpiece of his campaign.

Conservative activist Gary Bauer has no fewer than 20 issue papers on his Internet site on topics ranging from gambling to assisted suicide. "Politics, if it's worth anything, has to be about ideas," Bauer said in a telephone interview from his campaign bus in Iowa.

Even Bush backers concede the low-on-substance charge had merit this spring, when the governor was holed up in Austin, Texas. But he has slowly tackled tough issues, even if his prescriptions are sometimes fuzzy.

He won't impose anti-abortion "litmus tests" on judges or a running mate. He backs GOP congressional plans for Social Security. He would spend at least as much on sexual abstinence programs as teen-contraception initiatives.

And the faith-based organizations initiative he unveiled Thursday contained more details than Gore's speech on the same subject.

"I'm taking a lot of stands," Bush said. "I'm used to the process of people criticizing others. What I intend to do is wage a campaign talking about what I'm for, what's in my heart. The politics of talking about the other person is not my style."

His list of 75 "specific policy positions" includes some statements that are vague or hardly controversial. His rivals are pressing for more specifics, hoping Bush runs into trouble either by ducking issues or taking tough stands.

Tony Coelho, who is running Gore's campaign, questioned where Bush stands on Social Security, taxes and health care issues facing the GOP Congress.

Paul Begala, a former Clinton aide and fellow Texan, asked if Bush would abolish the Education Department.

"No," Bush told AP. Would he help raise the minimum wage?

"Tell Begala," Bush said with a laugh, "to keep his powder dry."

Virtuoso to perform in Amarillo

Special to The Brand

AMARILLO -- A performance by violin virtuoso Itzhak Perlman will highlight the 75th anniversary of the Amarillo Symphony.

Perlman and pianist Janet Guggenheim will perform at 8 p.m. Jan. 20, 2000, in the Amarillo Civic Center.

Tickets for the Perlman recital went on sale Thursday. Prices are $25, $50 and $75 and are available by calling the Symphony box office at 806-376-8782.

"Itzhak Perlman's recital will be the premiere event of our 75th Anniversary Season and a thank-you gift to our community," symphony music director/conductor James Setapen said. "This will be Mr. Perlman's first appearance in Amarillo. What better way to begin the year 2000 than hearing the most celebrated violinist of the century?"

Perlman enjoys superstar status rarely afforded a classical musician. Beloved for his charm and humanity as well as his talent, he has come to be recognized by audiences all over the world who respond not only to his flawless technique, but to the irrefragable joy of making music which he communicates.

In 1986, President Reagan presented Perlman with the Medal of Liberty.

Born in Israel in 1945, Mr. Perlman completed his initial training at the Academy of Music in Tel Aviv. He came to New York in 1958 and appeared on the "Ed Sullivan Show." Following his studies at the Julliard School with Ivan Galamian and Dorothy DeLay, Perlman won the prestigious Leventritt Competition in 1964, which led to a burgeoning world-wide career.

Since then, Itzhak Perlman has appeared with every major orchestra and in recitals and festivals throughout the world. This recital will be his first appearance in Amarillo. The Emmy Award-winning PBS television special "In the Fiddler's House" is the third of Mr. Perlman's specials for television to be recognized with this prestigious award. Perlman's recordings regularly appear on the best-seller charts and have won 15 Grammy Awards.

All in the Family

Former Hereford volleyball stars experiencing combination of life, family, marriage and sports

By Yuri Soto

Hereford Brand Sports Editor

It is very hard to picture sports mixing in with the sacred institution of marriage -- especially when a marriage is very young.

It is also very tough when two athletes are united in marriage and then have to be separated to complete their respective sports.

It has happened.

One marriage in particular where separation was very evident was in 1992, when Kirsten Babb-Sprague trained and competed in synchronized swimming, which earned her several gold medals at the 1992 Olympics. Her husband, Ed Sprague, was playing for the World Series-bound Toronto Blue Jays, in which he hit a key home run in Game 2 of the series against the Atlanta Braves.

One young couple is about to face that type of separation. That couple consists of former Hereford and current University of Oklahoma volleyball player Danielle Cornelius-Bookout and her husband, Casey, a first baseman for the Billings (Mont.) Mustangs, a rookie minor league affiliate of the Cincinnati Reds.

Right now, they are living together in Billings, while Casey plays for the Mustangs. But they will be separated for a few months when Cornelius-Bookout returns to Oklahoma.

"It's going to be tough for us because he's also going to an instructional league in Sarasota, Fla.," Cornelius-Bookout said. "We will see each other again in November."

Both athletes have had great success. Cornelius-Bookout had a great freshman season before suffering a knee injury, averaging 1.25 blocks per game, 10th best in the Big 12.

Bookout has had success recently with the Mustangs. In a recent 12-4 win against Medicine Hat, Bookout recorded two hits and three RBIs.

Sports may be in their lives, but they sure know how to keep it there.

"We try to keep everything that's on the sports field in the sports field," Cornelius-Bookout said. "We usually talk about something else because we are always out in the field every day."

But every now and then, the subject of sports does pop up as the subject of dinner table conversations. Especially when a family is full of great athletes.

Danielle's older sister, Shantel, played volleyball at the University of Texas and was a former Athlete of the Year and all-district volleyball player for the Lady Whitefaces. She is married to Josh Davis, who won three gold medals at the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta. Davis will leave the whole month of August to the Olympic swimming trials in Australia.

"We don't really talk about sports," Shantel Davis said. "But since both of them are from Oklahoma University and we're from Texas, it gets intense around Thanksgiving."

How do both couples, though, keep up with each other when one of the athletes goes on the road?

"I go on the road a lot with him," Cornelius-Bookout said of Casey's road trips with the Mustangs. "I am one of four wives on the team and we give each other support and give our guys support at home and on the road."

On the Davis-Cornelius side, the situation of following husband and wife on the road has changed a little bit. Shantel Davis and her husband, Josh, have two children.

Athletic Bliss — Danielle Cornelius (left, inserted) and sister Shantel (above) are two former Hereford athletes who have been united in marriage with athletic husbands.

Interleague play should be mixed up a bit

Interleague play in major league baseball has generated more interest to the game.

At least in certain ways. Of course, you have those series that mean something.

The "Subway Series" (Mets vs. Yankees), the "War of the Windy City" (Cubs vs. White Sox) and the "Battle of the Bay" (Giants vs. Athletics) are two of them.

Even less glamorous, but interesting, matchups like the "Battle of Florida" (Devil Rays vs. Marlins), the Battle of Ohio (Reds vs. Indians), the "Battle of Canada" (Blue Jays vs. Expos) the "I-70 Showdown" (Royals vs. Cardinals) and the "Southern California Showdown" (Angels vs. Dodgers).

The regional facets are what make these matchups very interesting.

Then there are the players impacts that make a series. For example, the Arizona Diamondbacks and Randy Johnson facing the Seattle Mariners, the team which traded Johnson to the Houston Astros.

Another one that pops up in my mind is the Atlanta Braves against the Boston Red Sox. Two great teams going at it. Makes these matchups worth watching on satellite cable.

But the rest of the matchups? In one reaction, ugh!!!

Some of the other matchups I am writing about: Pittsburgh vs. Kansas City? Montreal vs. Baltimore? Colorado vs. Oakland? They are about as exciting as watching reruns of "Full House."

Major league baseball needs to somehow change the rules a little bit on interleague play, like the NFL does with interconference games.

One example, this year's schedule will have the Dallas

Cowboys from the National Conference's Dallas Cowboy play a Thanksgiving Game against the American Conference's Miami Dolphins.

What makes this matchup interesting, you ask?

Dolphins Coach Jimmy Johnson.

Remember him, Poke fans? The former Cowboys coach who led them to two Super Bowl titles faces his old team at Texas Stadium.

The next year, the Cowboys might face the Pittsburgh Steelers again if the schedule changes goes as scheduled in NFL interconference play rotation.

Another big interconference matchup will pit Super Bowl favorites Minnesota Vikings at the Denver Broncos. Why can't major league baseball have this?

The reasons may be numerous, the most obvious being time, travel and money. But if the league and the teams just sacrifice a little travel money to make this happen, baseball fans sure will appreciate it. And, they will pay to see it.

In Texas, it can be assured that both the new stadium in Houston and the Ballpark in Arlington will sell out for a Rangers-Astros series. All that should separate the series is the 300-mile plus drive on Interstate Highway 45, not major league baseball.

We could see other interesting matchups from World Series past: Dodgers vs. Yankees ('77, '78, '81), Pirates vs. Orioles ('79), Royals vs. Phillies ('80), Reds vs. Athletics ('73), Mets vs. Athletics ('72), Reds vs. Yankees ('76), Reds vs. Red Sox ('76), Twins vs. Dodgers ('65) and Yankees vs. Pirates ('60).

It should also include matchups of great hitters, like Rangers (Gonzalez, Palmeiro, Rodriguez) vs. Cardinals (Tatis, McGwire, Gant).

It should also include pitchers' duels, like Diamondbacks (Johnson) vs. Red Sox (Pedro Martinez) or Yankees (Orlando Hernandez, David Cone) vs. Astros (Jose Lima,

Record numbers of breeding ducks surveyed on nesting grounds

The good word from the northern nesting grounds is that we could be looking at a record-high number of ducks migrating south this fall, thanks to an abundance of breeding birds.

The U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service estimated in its annual report on breeding duck numbers that some 43.8 million ducks were found in its survey area this year—the highest number of breeding ducks found since the survey was launched in 1955.

Breeding duck numbers are 12 percent higher than in 1998 and the breeding population is projected to be 34 percent above the long-term average.

Ducks Unlimited is projecting that this fall's flight of waterfowl will be nothing short of spectacular. The 1999 fall duck flight may be the largest in over 50 years.

Dr. Bruce Batt, chief biologist for DU, says some of the best habitat conditions ever are present across the breeding areas of many of the popular duck species, particularly in the vast expanses surveyed by the USF&WS.

Batt says a high percentage of ducks stopped to breed in areas of the best habitat, and this portends a greater nesting effort and an increase in the fall flight.

Take heart, duck hunters. The Fish & Wildlife Service reports that many duck species are at or near record levels.

Of ten duck species examined in the survey, eight are more numerous this year than last.

The bellwether of duck hunting, mallards, numbered 11.1 million birds, fifteen percent higher than in 1998 and 51 percent above the long-term average.

Surprisingly, mallards haven't been this numerous since 1958.—If conditions hold, this could be an all-time banner year for greenhead hunters.

The smorgasbord just gets better. Green-winged and blue-winged teal are at record highs with greenwings 35 percent above the 1998 level at 2.82 million and bluewings 13 percent higher than last year at 7.2 million. This portends a great early teal season if the bluewings come south rapidly in September, and plenty of those exciting greenwings to liven things up on duck hunts during the regular season.

All of the species in this year's survey are above the goals set by the North American Waterfowl Management Plan, except for scaup and pintails. In the past decade scaup and pintails have undergone worrisome declines, but both have made impressive gains this season.

Estimated scaup numbers are up 27 percent from last year, and pintails increased 21 percent over 1998. That's encouraging news, although both species still have a long way to go to reach levels hoped for in the NAWMP. The plan seeks on the order of five-and-a-half million breeding pintails, but the long-term average has been closer to four million, and the 1999 number is estimated at around three million. The goal for scaup is just over six million breeding ducks, the long-term average is above five million, and the 1999 estimate is just over four million.

Canvasbacks, another species mounting a slow recovery, posted an eight percent increase and are estimated at 743,000 breeding ducks.

Widgeon showed a four percent improvement over last year at 2.96 million breeding birds.

Gadwalls and redheads were the only species that experienced declines, and those were relatively slight.

Favorable precipitation over the nesting range of duck-species is a huge factor in the encouraging numbers that have been surveyed.

"This year's impressive duck populations are an excellent indication that the North American Waterfowl Management Plan is working," says Matthew Connolly, DU executive vice president.

There's even hope that this year's outstanding breeding duck numbers could mark a turning point for species of concern. NAWMP is a blueprint for the restoration of North America's duck, goose, and swan populations, and involves hundreds of private organizations and government agencies as partners in the effort.

The Playa Lakes Joint Venture, operating in the playa lakes region of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Colorado, is part of the successful NAWMP, and has worked to maintain and provide waterfowl habitat within the playa lakes.

Successful nesting by waterfowl isn't just confined to northern climes this year. With abundant rainfall over the High and South Plains, many local ducks have thrived in their nesting activities.

Dr. Loren M. Smith of the Department of Range and Wildlife Management at Texas Tech University says mallards, green-winged teal and redheads have hatched many broods on playas in the local region thanks to abundant rainfall that has maintained near-ideal habitat conditions.

An abundance of moist soil plants that provide high-protein food to waterfowl is also thriving in many playa basins.

All of these ducks aren't winging southward toward our decoy spreads yet, but barring a major unforeseen problem, prospects are for an exciting waterfowl season this fall and winter...Abundant moisture and excellent food and vegetative growth in the playa basins sure aren't going to hurt Panhandle pheasant hunting prospects either. We should see a major improvement over 1998.

Jim Steiert is a multiple award-winning member of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association, and recipient of TOWA's first "Outdoor Book of the Year" Award.

Astros take two from Padres

Grand Slams help Houston end five-week-old and two-hour long games

HOUSTON (AP) — A grand slam won the first game and another slam won the second.

More than five weeks later, Larry Dierker and the Houston Astros finally finished their suspended game against the San Diego Padres, winning 4-3 Friday night behind the grand slam Derek Bell hit June 13.

Mike Mieske's third career slam then broke a eighth-inning tie as Houston rallied past former-Astro Donne Wall 7-4 in the second game. Mike Hampton (13-3) pitched his third complete game of the season, allowing eight hits.

"I've been counting this win for about a month now," Dierker said after the first game.

The manager caused the suspension when he collapsed in the dugout from a seizure.

He had brain surgery two days later to repair abnormal blood vessels and returned last week after the All-Star break.

"I had this one logged as a win, although I knew anything could happen," he said.

Billy Wagner pitched the ninth for his 24th save despite allowing solo homers to Phil Nevin and Ruben Rivera. Shane Reynolds (11-7) got the victory without throwing a pitch Friday and Heath Murray got the loss without being present.

Reynolds allowed six hits in eight innings and struck out six when the game began last month.

"If anything more had happened, I might have had another seizure and Shane might have had one with me," Dierker said. "Billy went out at the beginning instead of the end. That's something he's not used to."

Murray (0-2), who allowed the grand slam, was scheduled to start for Triple-A Las Vegas on Friday.

Dierker was glad to get the suspended game over with.

"I don't say there is a sense of closure. That's too romantic," Dierker said. "But there is a finality to it. This doesn't give a different sense of accomplishment. It's just a game we were supposed to win and we won it."

Trevor Hoffman was facing Jeff Bagwell, the first hitter of the inning on June 13, when Dierker collapsed with a 1-0 count and started shaking violently in the Astros' dugout.

In the regularly scheduled game, Mieske's second homer of the season came off Wall (6-2) after Craig Biggio singled, Jeff Bagwell was intentionally walked and Richard Hidalgo reached on third baseman George Arias' fielding error. It was the third slam for the Astros this season.

San Diego starter Brian Boehringer allowed three runs and four hits in seven innings for San Diego, allowed four hits.

Quilvio Veres got three straight hits and scored on a double steal that gave the Padres a 3-2 lead in the sixth, Paul Bako's homer tied it in the seventh.

Rangers outslug Tampa

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Todd Zeile hit one of four home runs, and Danny Kolb got his first major league victory as the Rangers won their sixth straight, 11-8 over the Tampa Bay Devil Rays on Friday night.

Texas outfielder Juan Gonzalez and starting pitcher Mike Morgan are both day-to-day after being injured early in the game.

Texas, at 56-40, has its best record after 96 games. The Rangers have gone 8-1 despite homering in just three games since the All-Star break.

Lee Stevens and Ivan Rodriguez added two-run homers and Rusty Greer hit a solo shot after Texas homered twice in beating Anaheim the night before.

Gonzalez jammed his right wrist sliding into third base in the fourth inning and was taken out for precautionary X-rays, which were negative.

Morgan left after two innings with a bruised right forearm after being hit by Bubba Trammell's line drive.

Kolb (1-0), in his first appearance since being recalled from Triple-A Oklahoma City on Tuesday, replaced Morgan to start the third. The rookie right-hander worked 4 2-3 innings and allowed three runs and six hits.

Tampa Bay's Fred McGriff hit his 22nd homer — estimated at 404 feet down the right-field line — to tie the game at 1 in the second. It was McGriff's 380th career homer and second in as many days. McGriff also had a two-run double in the seventh. The Devil Rays have dropped eight of 10, and fell a season-worst 15 games under .500 at 41-56.

Tampa Bay's Wade Boggs went 1-for-5, including an RBI single in the ninth and is 13 hits shy of 3,000 in his career. Boggs, tied with Sam Rice for 22nd on the career hits list, has just two hits in his last 18 at-bats.

Zeile's homer capped a four-run fourth for the Rangers.

Stevens hit a two-run blast — his 15th — in a three-run, fifth-inning. The homer snapped a personal 20-game home run drought, Stevens' longest this season.

Rodriguez hit his 16th in a two-run sixth and Greer got his ninth in the first.

Tampa Bay, which outit Texas 17-13, scored four times in the ninth.

"She's done being an athlete," Davis said. "She's a mom, takes care of the kids, the household and I am fortunate to have her. She's the greatest thing in my life."

Things have settled down in the Davis' household. Josh will leave in August for the Olympic trials, but will come back and help with the family and work from home as he trains for the 2000 Olympics. But he does stay most of the year at their home, working, training and looking over her family.

Shantel, who coached volleyball at Austin Regents Private School, is now running things around the house and helping raise the couple's children, 22-month-old Caleb and 4-month-old Abby.

"I feel very fortunate to race for Team USA, train early in the morning, work at home and spend time with my family," Davis said.

The Bookouts are still young and have the advantage of supporting each other when one's playing. Soon it will be Danielle's turn to get the support from Casey. But they will be separated again next March when Casey reports to Cincinnati Reds spring training camp.

"It's going to be hard to get used to that separation," Cornelius-Bookout said.

Right now, the Bookouts do not have any children, which makes their chances of traveling together even higher when each plays on the road.

But if it becomes too hard to cope with marriage and their athletic demands, they can always take a lesson from the Davises.

"It will be tough for them, but they will learn to deal with it," Davis said.

Or they just can do what Shantel Davis does when Josh heads to compete in the Olympics or other swimming events.

"Go with him to the competitions or just have a high phone bill."

Babe Ruth All-Stars go 3-2 in State Tourney

From Staff Reports

After losing their opening game on Saturday, July 17, the Hereford Babe Ruth All-Star team won three straight games before being eliminated from the Babe Ruth State Tournament on Wednesday.

Hereford lost the opening game to Seminole, 5-1. Garrett Pickens scored the only run for Hereford on a triple by Josh Lucio.

Hereford came back with three straight victories, two of which came on Sunday.

Hereford defeated Floydada, 11-8.

A.J. Mungia scored the first run for Hereford in the first inning on an RBI single by Tanner Black. T.J. Caster tied the game at 2-2 on an RBI single that scored Steven Balderaz.

From there, Hereford added runs in every inning, except in the sixth. The victory included a home run by Pickens.

The shootout with Floydada was followed by Hereford's 11-1 blowout of Tulia. Each player on the roster scored a run, with Joshua Lucio, A.J. Mungia, Jacob Fuentes, Tanner Black and George Palacios scoring multiple runs.

Hereford got revenge on Seminole Tuesday as they defeated their All-Stars, 7-1. Josh Schroeter had a double and scored two runs to lead Hereford.

But Hereford was eliminated on Wednesday as they lost 5-4 to Plainview North. Hereford jumped out to a 3-0 lead thanks to a Tanner Black home run and a RBI single by Kurt Metcalf. But Plainview scored two runs in the fifth inning to walk away with the victory.

Hereford's pitching was provided by Josh Schroeter, A.J. Mungia, George Palacios and Kurt Metcalf. The All-Stars compiled a 3-2 record in the tournament.

Two-thirds of umpires to stay on the job

More umpires expected to be hired from Triple A

NEW YORK (AP) — More than two-thirds of American League umpires probably will stay on the job rather than resign. Nearly all NL umpires still plan to quit.

While four more AL umpires withdrew their resignations Friday, baseball went ahead and hired 10 more replacement umpires from the minors.

So far, 12 of 32 AL umpires have changed their mind about quitting, and 11 never quit in the first place, according to a count by The Associated Press. In the National League, 33 of 36 umpires have resigned, effective Sept. 2.

"This is not one or two. This is a big group out there now who have rescinded their resignations," said Mike Reilly, one of the AL umpires who withdrew Friday.

Following Friday's reversals, 26 of the 68 major league umpires now say they're staying, more than one-third.

The replacements, now totaling 20, are from Triple-A and will be added to the major league staff on a permanent basis starting Sept. 1.

In addition to Reilly, Rick Reed, Tim Tschida and Larry Young also withdrew their resignations Friday, according to several management officials who spoke on the condition they not be identified.

Phillips was en route to Cooperstown for this weekend's Hall of Fame induction ceremonies, which commissioner Bud Selig also will attend, but no talks were scheduled.

"The only news I heard today is that dialog could open the whole thing up, when people get off the position that they won't talk to our counsel," NL umpire Bruce Froemming said.

Meanwhile, minor league umpires will ask the National Labor Relations Board to hold an organizing election, Phillips said.

While Phillips has said 220 of 228 minor league umpires voted to form a union, it hasn't been recognized by the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, the governing body of the minors. The only way to force the association to deal with the union is to have the NLRB conduct a vote by secret ballot, a process that usually takes a month or two.

Phillips said the request for an election will be filed with the NLRB's Philadelphia office Monday.

Umpires announced mass resignations last week. Bound by a no-strike clause, they chose the tactic because they thought owners would lock them out after their labor contract expires Dec. 31.

Brisky uses ace to take lead in John Deere Classic

COAL VALLEY, Ill (AP) — A par on his next-to-last hole of the day would have been good enough to leave Mike Brisky with a 1-stroke lead after the second round of the John Deere Classic.

But the fourth hole-in-one of his career on the 161-yard par-3 helped give Brisky a 3-stroke advantage.

The shot with a 7-iron was part of an 8-under-par 62 Friday. For two rounds, he is at 12-under 128, three ahead of Brett Quigley, J.L. Lewis and Robert Damron, who shared the first-round lead with Joe Ogilvie and Kenny Perry.

Quigley shot 66, Lewis 65 and Damron 67. Quigley, Brisky and Lewis are 143rd, 151st and 155th, respectively, on the PGA money list.

Friday's round was suspended by thunder, lightning and heavy rain for 1 hour, 43 minutes, then was halted when two weather systems converged on the area late in the afternoon. Thirty-one players still on the course had to return today to complete their rounds before the cut could be made.

Among those still on the course was Brian Henninger, who birdied the seventh hole just prior to play being suspended to go to 11-under for the tournament.

David Peoples and David Frost, the 1992 and '93 champion, were at 8-under-par 132, and David Sutherland, Dickey Pride, Scott McCarron and Tom Pernice, Jr. were at 133. Defending champion Steve Jones and tour veterans Bob Tway and David Edwards were among those at 134.

"I took out a 7-iron and I hit it pretty good," Brisky said of his hole-in-one. "It started out at the pin and ended up at the pin. It never really wavered. It kind of topped a good round."

Brisky began his round on the back nine and recorded five birdies, including three in a row at Nos. 14-16. He finished with a 5-under 30 and had two birdies and a bogey on the front nine in addition to his ace on No. 8. None of the birdies came from more than 15 feet, and he had virtual tap-ins at the 11th and 15th holes.

"I felt solid all day," Brisky said. "I didn't feel real good on the range. I felt like I was getting out ahead of the ball, but I hit it good. My irons were really good. I was hitting them on the green and just had a solid round."

Brisky's hole-in-one was the first of two recorded Friday. Chris O'Connell aced the 200-yard, par-3 17th with a 6-iron. The ace did little to help O'Connell, whose 75 left him at 146.

Brisky's best finish this year was 13th in the Western Open, and it was after that Chicago-area event that he began playing with more confidence.

"After I made the hole-in-one — I could tell you, two weeks ago, if I had made it, or three weeks ago, at the Western, I would have been pretty nervous stepping up to the next tee and just hoping to get it in the fairway. But now it's like I feel very comfortable.

"I made one of my best swings on my wedge shot at the next-to-last hole, and I just feel really comfortable and really good about it.

"I'm not saying it's going to happen the same tomorrow, but mentally I feel like I'm 100 percent, and hopefully it carries into tomorrow and the week."

Quigley's round included two birdies on each nine. He two-putted for birdie at the par-5 sixth and hit a 7-iron to within 3 inches at the eighth. He got up and down from behind the green at the par-5 10th and added his final birdie at the par-4 16th.

"I can't top Brisky's 62, but I played nice," Quigley said. "I feel like I'm putting well this week. I'm starting to feel like I'm rolling the ball well. I got a putting lesson from Tony Sills Wednesday night, and it's made all the difference in the world."

Lewis' round included five birdies and an eagle against two bogeys. He knocked in birdie putts of 12, 10, 16 and 6 feet on the back nine and made a 3-footer at the par-4 second. Lewis bogeyed Nos. 3-4, but got the strokes back at the sixth hole when he made a 12-foot eagle putt.

"I started early on the back nine and had only two groups in front of me," Lewis said. "I've been driving in the fairway and I'm starting to putt good. Hopefully I can keep it going. I feel good about it, better than I have all year."

Youths claim honors

A local delegation of 15 youth and 14 parents were among 2,900 Texans who recently attended State 4-H Roundup activities at Texas A&M University, College Station, according to County Extension Agents Beverly Harder, CEA-FCS, and Mike Lloyd, CEA-AG.

The 12 4-H districts of Texas were represented by youth and volunteers who gathered for Roundup's public speaking and judging contest, leadership development programs, educational rallies and community service efforts. The Texas 4-H program, founded in 1908, is part of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The youth program currently has more than 811,000 members.

Three Deaf Smith County 4-H members earned scholarships totaling $29,000 during the opening assembly of Roundup. Texas 4-H Foundation spearheads the nation's largest private scholarship program, coordinating with 30 donors to award $985,000 to deserving youth. This year, 280 Texas 4-H members applied for 148 available scholarships. Decisions are based on academic records, leadership and community service. Deaf Smith County's 1999 state scholarship recipients are Jaime Steiert, Meredith McGowan and Robin Bell.

Steiert was awarded $15,000 from the San Antonio Livestock Exposition and $1,000 from the Texas Association for Family and community Education. A four-time state winner, Steiert presided during Roundup assemblies as first vice president of State 4-H Council. She also served this past year as president of District 1 4-H Council, as well as president of the local County Council.

McGowan was the recipient of $10,000 from the Houston Stock Show. She is the daughter of Jim and Lucy McGowan and has years of

Mr. and Mrs. William Rivas
...united in marriage

Murillo, Rivas are wed in Catholic ceremony

Rebecca Murillo and William Rivas were united in marriage July 10 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church of Hereford.

Parents of the bride are Frank and Irma Murillo of Hereford.

The groom is the son of Antonio and Reina Rivas of Hereford.

Monsignor Orville Blum officiated at the ceremony.

Matron of honor was Lisa Rincon, sister of the bride. Best man was Jaime Padilla, brother of the groom.

Bridesmaids were Heather Aragon, Nancy Bravo and Crystal Lopez.

Serving as groomsmen were Albert Torres, Gilbert Martinez and Severo Guerrero.

Bianca Murillo, daughter of Frankie and Delores Murillo, was flower girl.

Ring bearer was Adrian Rivas, son of Raul and Josie Rivas.

Vocalist was Raul Guerrero. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white satin silk with off the shoulder styling, puffed sleeves and beaded bodice. The full skirt flowed into a cathedral length train.

Her multi-layered veil of illusion was attached to a beaded headband.

She carried a bouquet of white roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Bridal attendants wore full-length sleeveless dresses in hunter green. Each carried a single white rose.

The couple was honored with a reception and dance at Soliz Civic Center.

The wedding cake featured a double top layer surrounded by six single layers adjacent to a staircase and flowing fountain.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1996. She is currently employed as an office clerk at Bar-G Feedyard.

The groom is employed as a processor at Great Plains Cattle Feeders.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am sending you a clipping from the Lafayette, La., Advertiser because I want to prove that this event actually took place and I am not making it up. I have my own ideas about this "happening," but I would like to hear yours.

It seems a little girl told her Mama that on her soon-to-be fifth birthday, she wanted a party for her friends, and something special — a wedding. She wanted to marry her dad. Her mother agreed to the party and the wedding.

A cake was ordered, bridesmaids were chosen and invitations were sent out. The child's mother made a satin wedding gown for the "bride," and the girl wore her grandmother's pearl necklace. The attendants carried bouquets of spring flowers. The bride's paternal grandfather was the "preacher." Another family member made a video of the event so it could be preserved for posterity. Unfortunately, the maternal grandparents were out of town.

When the "groom" (the child's father) placed the ring on his 5-year-old daughter's finger, all the guests oohed and aahed. The ring was an aquamarine — her birthstone — signifying that she will be his forever.

As I said, Ann, I have my own ideas about this ceremony, but I would like to hear yours. — Totally Anonymous Lafayette Reader

Dear Reader: I hope the parents of the "bride" will start now to save money for her therapy because she is going to need a lot of it in order to be able to lead a normal life. Each and every beau will be compared to this young girl's daddy, and of course, none will ever measure up. P.S.: The smartest people in the family are the maternal grandparents. They were "out of town."

Dear Ann Landers: I read the letter from "Outraged in Lexington, Va." whose 89-year-old father was allowed to renew his driver's license. I hope you will remind your readers that young drivers should also be checked when they renew their driver's licenses.

When I was 25 years old, I vividly remember driving myself home from the eye doctor when I was blind in one eye and could see very little out of the other. If my condition had been permanent, there would have been nothing but my own common sense to stop me from renewing my driver's license. Our state doesn't require people that age to take regular driving tests.

Our state also says you can drive around for up to a year with burned-out headlights, greasy brakes and cracked windows. And, if you should happen to kill somebody, it isn't your fault unless you were drunk at the time. — Scared To Death in Albany, N.Y.

Dear Albany Readers: Please tell me that what "Scared" has written isn't true. I find it hard to believe that this is what goes on in New York. I hope the readers of the Times-Union will check this out and let me know. Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: What's the proper way to eat a banana? I was taught to peel the banana, put it on a dessert plate, cut a piece at a time with a fork and then put the piece in my mouth.

This seemingly civil way of eating a banana horrified my co-worker. He insists that a banana should be peeled and then put directly in the mouth. I told him that is how a monkey eats. Who is right? — Milpitas, Calif.

Dear Milpitas: I guess I must be a monkey because I peel the banana and put it directly in my mouth. Emily Post, however, says you are right.

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: When my husband and I travel, we carry our own version of a SURVIVAL KIT.

Besides a plug-in coffee pot and instant coffee and tea, we carry two 100-watt lightbulbs (to replace the low-wattage bulbs in the "reading" lamps temporarily) and a night light (can be bought very cheaply) for the bathroom. Often when waking at night, it takes awhile to get my bearings!

When we are ready to leave, we unplug the night light, remove our bulbs and replace the hotel specials. — Helen, Sterling, Va.

This is good advice for anyone who travels. I, too, carry a night light, as well as a small travel flashlight. It sure makes a world of difference. — Heloise

LETTER DIARIES

Dear Heloise: I am thankful my mother saved all the letters I wrote to her over the years because I now have a complete diary to give our children of all the cute sayings and important family happenings which occurred as they grew up.

I'm updating this by printing all the e-mail messages our daughter-in-law sends about our grandbaby so she, too, can someday have a detailed diary of her growth. — Marge Henderson, Friendswood, Texas

Military Muster

Navy Petty Officers 3rd Class Chad M. Stephens, son of Dennis L. and Dianne Stephens of Hereford, recently conducted a port visit to Brindisi, Italy, while stationed aboard the amphibious assault ship and Amphibious Ready Group (ARG) flagship USS Kearsarge, currently on a six month deployment to the Arabian Gulf and Mediterranean Sea.

While conducting its first port visit, Stephens and fellow crewmembers had the opportunity to tour historic Rome, Naples and Pompeii. After the port visit, Kearsarge returned to the Aegan Sea to continue support of NATO operations off the coast of Yugoslavia.

The 1995 graduate of Hereford High School joined the Navy in July 1995.

Navy Seaman Recruit Roy J. Day, son of Bengy O. Kirby of Hereford, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Day completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis is also placed on physical fitness.

Day and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values - honor, courage and commitment - and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct. Day joins 55,000 men and women who will enter the Navy this year from all over the country.

He is a 1998 graduate of Canyon High School, Canyon.

U.S. Army Private Marcus N. Banner, son of Mark and Janie Banner, was recently presented a Certificate of Achievement medal for his hard work, commitment and dedication toward enabling the 31st Combat Hospital to execute a well planned and supported EFMB competition.

Pvt. Banner was one of the soldiers from B Battery, 2nd Battalion, 43rd ADA, 108th ADA Brigade who participated in the first ever training firing of a Patriot missile against a tactical ballistic missile. The firing took place at White Sands Missile

Banner

Range and the event confirmed the reliability of the patriot system under field conditions.

Prior to the live fire, the equipment used in the shoot was driven, by Banner and company, over long distances and over rough terrain in conjunction with Roving Sands.

In Roving Sands '99, Pvt. Banner and the 108th Brigade participated in MEDEVAC and convoy exercises with a number of National Guard and Reserve Units.

In October, Banner will go to Egypt for a six-weeks tour of the Patriot Missile System.

Vicki Veigel, Jeff Massey

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Veigel of Hereford announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Vicki Veigel of Austin, to Jeff Massey, also of Austin.

The prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Massey of Richmond.

The couple will be wed Sept. 25 at Lake Travis in Lakeway.

The bride-elect is employed by Austin Independent School District.

Massey is employed with GTE Wireless.

'56: Andrea Doria sinks

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, July 25, the 206th day of 1999. There are 159 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On July 25, 1956, 51 people died when the Italian liner Andrea Doria sank after colliding with the Swedish ship Stockholm off the New England coast.

On this date:
In 1969, a week after the Chappaquiddick accident that claimed the life of Mary Jo Kopechne, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

In 1978, Louise Joy Brown, the first "test tube baby," was born in Oldham, England; she had been conceived through the technique of in-vitro fertilization.

In 1984, Soviet cosmonaut Svetlana Savitskaya became the first woman to walk in space, carrying out more than three hours of experiments outside the orbiting space station Salyut 7.

Ten years ago: The pilot of the United DC-10 that crashed in Sioux City, Iowa, July 19, Alfred C. Haynes, appeared at a news conference in which he dismissed descriptions of himself as a hero after he and his crew managed to save 184 of the 296 people aboard the crippled aircraft.

Five years ago: Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Jordan's King Hussein signed a declaration at the White House ending their countries' 46-year-old formal state of war.

One year ago: Two government officials revealed that special prosecutor Kenneth Starr had subpoenaed President Clinton to testify before a federal grand jury about the Monica Lewinsky case. The U.S. Capitol was reopened, a day after a gunman killed two police officers; a wounded suspect, Russell E. Weston Junior, was charged with murder.

Across the area crop dusters spread their wares Spraying crops means early hours, precise chemical mixes

By Dianna F. Dandridge
Hereford Brand Staff Writer

An orange windsock dances in the early morning breeze and before the sun peeks over the eastern horizon, pilots and commercial chemical applicators ready their planes for the day's activities.

Owners and pilots of aerial cropdusting companies work long hours through the peak months of summer, July and August, often working from sunup till sundown.

"We fly whenever the wind doesn't blow," said Jim Campbell, owner of American Dusting Co. "Wind has to be out of the right direction and blowing 15 mph or less."

Campbell said the wind plays a big role in what fields get dusted and which chemicals can be used.

"If you've got a sensitive crop to one side of a field, we have to make sure the chemicals don't blow off the target field," he said.

Jeff Jones, part-time pilot and airplane maintenance shop owner, said they are spraying mainly for lygus bugs in cotton now, but next week he expects to be spraying area corn fields.

Jones doesn't know of any major local problems with grasshoppers, but Campbell said the pesticide being sprayed for the lygus bugs will also take care of hoppers.

For the pilots and owners alike, crop dusting is more than just dumping in the chemicals and making passes over a field. They have to have a commercial applicators license to apply pesticides or insecticides, plus they must acquire continuing education units every year to maintain their license.

Maintaining a commercial applicators license involves staying abreast of state and federal chemical regulations, knowing which chemicals can be used on and around different crops, and being able to carefully and accurately measure the chemicals.

Aerial crop dusting isn't something someone just de-relies on landmarks or guessing when it comes to spraying their fields. American Dusting planes have a Global Positioning System (GPS) that helps pilots determine the exact point at which to spray.

"The light bar shows red if they are too far to the left, green if they're too far right and amber when the pilots are on target," said Campbell.

"A pilot who knows nothing about this area could just punch in the latitude and longitude and be able to cover the right field."

More than just telling the pilots if they are in the right field the GPS helps line up the plane so overlaps and skips are kept to a minimum.

Along with providing the benefits of equal coverage GPS keep track of various field information. Not only does the GPS keep track of information but also allows operators means of retrieving information for computer printouts.

As the work day goes on, pilots return to the shop for additional or different chemicals. With each change of chemicals, the planes' chemical vats are emptied into holding tanks and thoroughly rinsed to prevent cross contamination.

Excess chemicals are held for future use, rinse water goes into a disposal tank. The planes are specially designed for crop dusting, with room only for the pilot and needed instruments.

Campbell's pilots cover the area between Farwell and Umbarger and Vega to nearly Muleshoe.

"There's a lot of acres out there," Campbell said. "It's a lot of spraying, especially this time of year."

Members of the ground crew, left, ready the plane. Filling the chemical vat and making final adjustments is all part of their early morning routine.

Bryan Matthews, above, carefully mixes chemicals that will later be applied to an area cotton field.

TAES schedules waste management workshop

The Deaf Smith County Crops and Livestock Committees and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will sponsor an animal waste management workshop 5:30 Wednesday in the Bell Room of the Hereford Community Center.

The program will address most aspects of managing, handling, and utilization of animal wastes, as well as environmental concerns such as odor management, air quality and storage pond seepage.

Presentations include the animal waste management rules and permitting for feeding operations; the role of Texas Soil and Water Conservation board and the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service in implementing management plans.

All feedyard managers, manure haulers, and agricultural producers are invited to attend.

The program is free, but participants are asked to contact the county office at 364-3573 so workshop planners can arrange for the catered meal, which will be served at 6:30.

Welcome visitors -- Managers of Hereford Grain Corp. welcomed a group of Turkish businessmen early Friday with a tour of the facilities. The eight member Turkish group are in the United States touring and visiting different cattle and grain operations in hopes of finding ways to improve the industries in their own country. Members of the group included a Turkish feedlot owner and caterer, beef processor, retailer, a head of a Turkish co-op, an owner of a Turkish slaughter facility and the Turkish Deputy Administrator for Livestock Development. Translating for the group was a member of the U.S. Department of Commerce, who lives in Turkey. The group visited farms, ranches, feedlots, elevators, and slaughter houses while in Texas as they wanted to view every aspect of the cattle producing industry. A highlight of the tour came when the group visited the Randall County Feed Yards which feeds more than 100,000 head of cattle. One member of the group is one of the largest cattle feeders in Turkey with only 3,500 head. The tour was sponsored by the American Turkish Council in Washington, D.C., Texas A&M University and the McDonalds Corporation. The group arrived in the United States on Wednesday and made a quick stop in Maryland and Virginia before coming to Texas. They were scheduled to leave for their home country Friday evening.

Summer heat benefits Midwest peach growers

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Stop complaining about those long, hot, dry days of summer. They're about to provide a big, sticky crop of sweet Southern Illinois peaches.

Orchard owners began picking early varieties of peaches last week, and by all indications, this year's yield will be bigger than last year's better-than-average crop — with perfect conditions in southernmost Illinois making up for losses in other parts of the state.

Fruit growers in Jackson and Union counties say the mild spring brought no frosts to kill off peach buds, and the warm, dry summer so far has been perfect for peach trees.

Growers expect to harvest very close to a full crop — well over last year's 7,500 tons.

"We're going to have so many peaches we're going to have to sell some to farmers' markets in St. Louis. We can't physically handle them all," said Larry Eckert, whose family owns a large pick-your-own orchard in St. Clair County.

In fact, Eckert said, this summer's crop could be the best his family has had in 20 years. Three years ago, the peach crop at Eckert's and other orchards was a complete loss. It has steadily improved since.

Larry Flamm of Flamm Orchards in Cobden said the ideal weather conditions so far this summer should mean a more constant supply of fresh peaches throughout the summer.

SENIOR SCENE

Margie's Notes

By Margie Daniels, HSCA Executive Director

Changes! Changes! Can we accept it? I feel fortunate to have a full page in our Hereford Brand and want to thank Mauri and his Staff for making this possible. This will be new and I feel we are really going to enjoy it.

Please be patient with us! The Center is a mess but will be clean, neat and pretty when our renovation project is finished!

Remember, we sponsor the Quilt Show as part of the Town & Country Jubilee. We will be at the Community Center this year. We rented the area so we could be involved with all other activities. There is no charge for people to view the quilts and our quilters have a quilt to give away at 4 p.m. on Saturday, August 7. There is a donation of $1 per ticket to be eligible for the drawing.

We want all who would share their quilts with us to bring them to the Community Center on Friday, August 6 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The show will be on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

I have had several people ask about a trip to Branson. I am working on it and will be sending out information soon.

We will have a Festival of Trees meeting on Monday, August 9 at 9 a.m. Time is flying by and we have a lot of planning and work to do between now and November 17. If anyone in our community or area would like to decorate or sponsor a tree or event, please call us. This is our major fundraiser and is very important to the funding of our programs. Thanks to all for your help!

We are updating all of our files. This is required from the Department on Aging. I feel some of you get disturbed about it and we would not do it if we didn't have to. We had information that had not been updated for several years. This applies to both Home Delivered and Congregate Meal Programs. We really need your help and cooperation to get this done.

A quote: Don't be afraid of pressure. Remember that pressure is what turns a lump of coal into a diamond.

Know this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience. But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing. James 1:3,4
See you at the Center.

Thanks to all our customers, volunteers and staff who, during the City Wide Garage Sale, made our "1/2 Price Sale" a success!

So, due to this great response, Senior Citizens Thrift Store (1306 E. Park) will be open on Saturday, July 31 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. with all items in the store at "1/2 Price." What a great time to start shopping for back to school items!!

Due to the many donations we are receiving, all donations (pick-ups and/or deliveries) need to be scheduled during regular operating hours: Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

As always, your support for the Senior Citizens Thrift Store, donations, and patience in working with our time frame for deliveries and pick-ups is greatly appreciated.

See you soon at the store...Happy Shopping!!

Nutrition Update

By Charlotte R. Clark MS RD/LD

FIRST STEP

After the evaluation of your One-Mile Walk Test which was an estimate of cardiovascular endurance, one now can put into practice some guidelines and simple steps to improve health and fitness.

In order to look and feel your best and start on the way to reducing the risk for heart disease; remember breakfast is absolutely critical to fitness and the only way to be certain one starts each day with good nutrition.

A few rules to follow:

- Eat enough calories and nutrients at breakfast to meet your needs.

- Eat a low-fat breakfast with plenty of fiber and calcium.

- Include at least three servings of whole grain foods each day.

Without breakfast, one is more likely to run short on the energy needed to accomplish both fitness plans and other important activities. A breakfast that provides enough calories and nutrients can help keep one in top form for all day long.

Remember that one's metabolism begins each day only after one has eaten the first meal of the day.

Start the day with a good nutritious breakfast early each morning!

Membership renewals due

Annual membership dues are being collected at Hereford Senior Citizens Center now and membership cards issued for the fiscal year July 1, 1999, through June 30, 2000.

Dues are $12.50 per person per year, or different levels may be paid. Members paying extra will be designated in different categories. Their names will be printed in an upcoming "Senior Scene."

Please mail your dues to Hereford Senior Citizens Center, P.O. Box 270, Hereford, Texas 79045, or bring them in to the center's office at 426 Ranger.

Richer rewards to be Spam champions at Tri-State Fair

Special to the Brand

AMARILLO—The exciting and popular National "Best Spam Recipe" Competition has added new culinary challenges and richer rewards in 1999. This year's contest, at the Amarillo Tri-State Fair, will award more prizes to recipes with fewer ingredients and less preparation time.

To emphasize Spam luncheon meat's role as one of America's first convenience foods, entries this year should include no more than seven to 10 ingredients and take no longer than 20 minutes to prepare.

Also new in 1999, the first-place prize money has been increased to $150. And for that coveted grand-prize title, Hormel Foods will feature the national champion in the new Spam Fan Club newsletter.

Recipes created with America's favorite luncheon meat will be judged on taste appeal (40 percent), appearance (30 percent) and originality (30 percent). Prizes of $150, $50 and $25, plus Spam memorabilia, will be awarded to the three best entries.

The local first-place recipes will then advance to national competition and a chance to win the grand prize — a $2,500 shopping spree at the Mall of America in Minnesota and a feature article in the Spam Fan Club newsletter.

The National "Best Spam Recipe" Competition inspires thousands of cooks each year to test, taste and tweak their culinary masterpieces.

The award-winning Taste of the Islands has all the taste of a masterpiece, minus the fuss. Brighten your next social gathering with this simple and delicious summer salad.

To enter the contest or to watch the judging, call the Amarillo Tri-State Fair entry department at 806-376-7767.

TASTE OF THE ISLAND

Spam luncheon meat, cut into strips

- 1/4 cup butter, softened
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 (7-ounce) package rice sticks or 8 ounces angel hair pasta

- 6 cups shredded cabbage or coleslaw mix
- 1/2 cup chopped green onions
- 1 large green bell pepper, cut into thin strips
- 1 cup seedless green grapes, halves

- 1 (11-ounce) can mandarin oranges, drained
- 1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds, for garnish
- 1/4 cup dried cranberries, for garnish

Prepare the rice sticks or pasta as package directs. Meanwhile, in large skillet, saute Spam over medium heat until lightly browned. In small bowl, combine the butter, brown sugar and lemon juice. Add the brown sugar mixture to the Spam. Simmer over low heat until the Spam is evenly coated with the brown sugar mixture. Keep Spam warm while assembling the salad. Place the cooked rice sticks or pasta on a large serving platter.

Combine the cabbage and green onions; sprinkle cabbage mixture over rice sticks or pasta. Arrange the green pepper strips and grapes over the cabbage. Top with the sauteed Spam and mandarin oranges. Garnish as desired with slivered almonds and dried cranberries. Serves 6-8.

Fitness standards track aging process

By Lauran Neergaard

The Associated Press

Just because you're 75, you shouldn't have trouble lifting a bag of groceries or getting up from a chair. But for millions of older Americans, those simple activities are a daily struggle.

Disabling frailty doesn't have to be part of aging. In fact, studies have found that even 90-year-olds can rebuild lost muscle with some careful exercise.

It would be better to never become so frail in the first place, and researchers have come up with a way to help: Fitness performance standards to let anyone 60 and older assess quickly if they're in good physical condition for their age, or if they're at risk of a downhill slide that could lead to a nursing home.

"Our main interest is in keeping people mobile and staying physically independent as long as possible," said Roberta Rikli, a professor at California State University, Fullerton. She led a study of 7,000 Americans ages 60 to 94 that established the standards.

If the tests signal you're at risk of becoming too frail, "we can do something to try to prevent that," she said.

The exercise tests are simple enough that many people could try them at home, and senior centers around the country are starting to use them.

Frailty is a huge risk of aging. By age 70, most people have at least 20 percent less muscle than they did at age 30.

About 70 percent of elderly women are too frail to lift just 10 pounds, and 60 percent cannot perform such household work as vacuuming. About 35 percent of men are equally frail.

Some of the muscle deterioration may be inevitable. But Rikli says at least half is due to people becoming more sedentary with age, meaning that keeping active is important if you want healthy retirement years.

Rikli and colleague C. Jessie Jones studied some 7,000 Americans over 60 who live independently. They performed such simple tests as:

- How many times in 30 seconds they could rise from a straight-backed chair without using their arms to push themselves up. That measures lower body strength.

- How many times in 30 seconds they could lift a weight — 5 pounds for women, 8 pounds for men — in a "bicep curl" that measures upper body strength.
- How many yards they could walk in six minutes, to measure aerobic fitness.
- How long it took them to rise from a chair, walk 8 feet and return to a seated position, to measure mobility.

The study, funded by a Medicare HMO provider, set standards for fitness levels that are normal, below average, or so low that people are at risk of needing a nursing home.

Say an 80-year-old woman could stand up from a chair without pushing off 10 times in 30 seconds. That's normal for that age.

But doing only 10 of these "chair stands" at age 60 is below average — and while people at that level may function OK right now, they're at big risk of losing mobility by age 75.

Rikli found that fitness declined with age on average 1 percent a year. She advised people to track whether they're declining faster than normal, or if exercise is paying off and they're improving.

Regardless of age, people who got moderate physical activity at least three times a week were the most fit.

Some doctors already use similar but experimental tests to assess elderly patients' limitations. "They're very powerful predictors" of who will wind up disabled, said Dr. Jack Guralnik of the National Institute on Aging, a pioneer of the studies.

Rikli wants such assessments to reach more older Americans. She hopes to have easy-to-read consumer brochures available by fall to illustrate the tests and show how to measure anyone's fitness level against the national standards.

"That's an excellent idea," said Guralnik. "The more people are aware of their level of functioning, the more they can tune into the fact that they need to exercise."

Already, some of the 267 senior centers that participated in Rikli's study are using the fitness assessments. She will advertise the consumer brochures in publications targeted to older Americans once they're complete. But instead of waiting, senior centers or doctors could simply check April's edition of the Journal of Aging and Physical Activity for the study results.

Lauran Neergaard covers health and medical issues for The Associated Press in Washington.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Marketing Power Principles: Tools you can use

For more than a decade, I've defined marketing as creating, satisfying and keeping customers. Great marketing will not guarantee your business success any more than having a fast stockcar will guarantee a win in the Daytona 500. There are many factors involved in any successful effort.

In business, success begins with marketing. In marketing, success begins with customers. Yes, you must have desirable products or services, fair prices, advantages and benefits, good promotion, a convenient location and good people. These elements are prerequisites to creating customers.

You will not need timely financial statements, inventory management techniques, organizational charts, personnel procedures or well-trained staff if there are no customers. Marketing - creating customers - comes first.

Marketing is not new. The basic elements of the marketing mix were around for many centuries before University professors began to expound them. The wheel never made Og a dime until he found a customer willing to pay for the convenience the wheel could bring.

I believe there are some power principles you can apply to your business that will boost sales, profits and customer satisfaction. Consider the following thoughts. Perhaps, you can make them work for you.

Power Principles

All customers are not created equal. Customers are different. Some are worth much more to you than others. The 80-20 rule is in force here. It is likely that 20 percent of your customers generate 80 percent of your profit.

So pay attention to your customers. Find answers to these questions: (1) Which customers are most valuable to us? Why? (2) Which customers have made referrals to us? How many? (3) Which customers are we pleasing the most? Why? and (4) Which customers are our largest gross profit producers.

These are basic questions, but most small-business owners don't have ready answers. So work on the answers and give those customers you identify as important to your success some high-level customer service.

Make a great offer. The marketing process picks up speed when you make a strong offer of your products and/or services.

A great offer tells your most valuable customers and potential valuable customers how you can solve their problems, satisfy their desires or increase their pleasures in life. Remember, there are only two things people buy: solutions to problems and good feelings.

Show me the money. No, that's not how it works. Show me the benefits, show me the results, show me the rewards and I'll give you're my money.

If you can't show me, you can't sell me. If I'm not sold, I'm not satisfied. Nothing grows sales (and profits) any more rapidly than showing your customers how they benefit by doing business with you. Yet, sadly, most small-business owners seldom spend much time thinking about their businesses from their customers' perspective.

Deliver real value. I often tell the audiences at my workshops and seminars that I have not desire to be the low-price leader as a professional speaker. Trying to compete on price alone is like seeing who can lean over the bridge railing the furthest without falling in the water. I'll leave price-cutting to great swimmers.

I'll take the high value road. I much prefer the high price and great value approach. My goal is to deliver great content, in a creative manner, with confidence every time I step to the front of the room as a professional speaker.

Keep your promises. An empty promise is a surefire way to runoff customers. Don't deliver to my ears, put it in my hands. Want to satisfy customers? Keep your promises. Want to win a customer for life, under promise, over deliver.

Some Books Worth Reading

Between the Covers

By Martha Russell

We've reached two milestones this week. Well, maybe not major milestones by the word's standards, but they are important to us.

First, it's all over but the prizes for the Summer Reading Club. We had 667 children enroll in the program and 211 of them have completed their first READO card and are working on their second one. A sizable number have completed the second one. They have won big red clown noses, silly giant toothbrushes, trick snakes that pop out of cans, and the wonderful whoopee cushions. There is still time to claim some of these fantastically entertaining trinkets, but after July 31, you're too late.

All in all, it's been a fun summer reading program. It may be, in some ways, one of the very best ever. The children seem to have really enjoyed it. Some of us even learned to juggle! Well, almost!

Our other landmark event is the arrival and installation of the anxiously awaited new shelves. Friends of the Deaf Smith County Library helped us to purchase some more efficient and attractive shelves for our audio book collection.

The first time they arrived (yes, you read that correctly), they were damaged, some fatally, and all were the wrong color. Ooops! So, we sent them back to the manufacturer who set out to make the shelves we ordered.

The catalog said that they were to arrive assembled. Good deal! The first wrong-colored ones came to us assembled, but were shipped lying flat and stacked, thus accounting for the damage. The second set, now the proper color, arrived in great shape, but not assembled. Why is it never simple?

Roy Fowler to the rescue. He assembled the shelves for us and set them up, saving major hunks of staff time and frustration. They look so nice, and now there is plenty of room for all of our very popular talking books. Thanks Roy!

One regular patron of the books on tape was sure that we had suddenly acquired a bunch of new titles. We really don't have a significant number of new ones, it's just that the old ones are arranged now so that you can see them. They are no longer crammed onto a small rickety shelf in a poorly lighted room. And, when you pick up or replace a book you don't have to be so careful not to knock off five more books. What a pleasure! We expect an already healthy circulation of the audio books to increase.

And, not only are the shelves great for current needs, there is enough room for growth in the collection. We try to add new titles regularly for our voracious listener/readers. We also have rotating packets of talking books come to us periodically from the Texas Panhandle Library System.

Come see our new shelves and check out a few tapes for your next trip, or your ironing day, or the next time you plan to spend some time on the tractor. What a difference these books will make in an otherwise tiresome activity. They say time flies when you're having fun.

Marian Babson's The Company of Cats sounds like fun. When gossip expert Annabel Henchby-Smythe is mistaken for an interior decorator by millionaire Arthur Arbuthnot, she is thrilled to be given the opportunity to delve into the reclusive tycoon's private life as she redecorates his dreary London flat.

What she doesn't expect is the odd and disagreeable assortment of relatives who live in his shabby mansion, each with a questionable agenda concerning Arbuthnot and his money. Sally, the cat who was rescued from the streets, alone seems to have a rightful place in the old man's affections, although she is loathed by everyone else.

When the millionaire's corpse is found, all indications point toward foul play. Then, when Arbuthnot's attorney reveals that Sally, the cat, is the main beneficiary of his will, and whoever looks after her will control his massive fortune, the relatives all scramble to win the fortunate feline's affections.

Afraid for the cat's life, Annabel spirits her away from the conspiring clan. This does not deter them, however, as multiple Sally look-alikes are adopted by the greedy family as they try and pass each off as the precious feline. Between posing as a designer, acting as a cat-refuge service, and solving a murder, Annabel has her hands full.

An Ordinary Woman, by Ceelia Holland, is the fictionalized account of the first American woman in California. Drawing from Nancy Kelsey's own accounts of her harrowing journey, as well as the writings of those who traveled with her, Holland has crafted a historical novel of action, passion, danger, and determination.

Married at the age of 15 to Ben Kelsey, Nancy was a strong and capable woman who could milk a cow, skin a deer, make her own clothes, plant a field, drive a team of oxen, and shoot a rifle. And all before breakfast (not really! I made that part up!).

When the lure of a new life on the farthest edge of the frontier beckoned to Ben, Nancy was determined to be at his side. Together they set out on an arduous odyssey across thousands of miles of uncharted wilderness, crossing the Great Plains, the Rockies, and the High Sierra to reach their promised land. Braving hunger, disaster, illness, betrayal, and death, Nancy and her family would play a crucial role in American history, becoming the first wave of a great tide that would transform a nation.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband has Milroy's disease. His legs swell and the skin splits. His mother had the disease and so does a brother. Can you please help by giving me information? — J.A.

ANSWER: Most people are unaware of the lymphatic system, a second kind of circulatory system. Lymph fluid bathes every body cell, bringing nourishment and washing away germs and foreign matter. Lymph vessels, similar to small veins, vacuum lymph fluid and return it to the circulation.

With Milroy's disease, lymph drainage is obstructed. The illness often runs in families and generally makes itself known early in life. A leg or an arm becomes grotesquely swollen.

Infection of the swollen limb is a serious matter. Germs spread rapidly through the swollen arm or leg and can cause great damage.

Elevating the leg many times during the day reduces swelling. Compressive, elastic hose drives fluid from the swollen tissues. Pneumatic compression devices can squeeze fluid back into the general circulation.

Surgery benefits a minority of Milroy's patients. The surgeon establishes drainage channels to return lymph fluid back into the general circulation.

Lymphedema is the name given to a swollen limb. Milroy's is only one condition that causes swollen limbs. The National Lymphedema Network provides patients with the latest information on lymphedema treatment, regardless of cause. The phone number is: (800) 541-3259. The Web site for the Lymphedema Network (<http://www.lymphnet.org>) contains a list of publications the network supplies.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Gout seems to be more prevalent than ever. Since being diagnosed with the condition six months ago, I have met many people with the same problem.

Once diagnosed, will this be a lifelong problem? Is there a special diet to follow? — L.V.

ANSWER: If gout is on the rise, blame better living conditions. Gout rarely raises its head in countries where food is in short supply and the population must face a daily battle to ward off starvation.

There are more than a million gout patients in the United States and Canada, making it anything but a rare disease.

Gout results when blood uric acid levels rise. Uric acid comes from the daily turnover of body cells and, to a lesser extent, from food. A gout patient either makes too much uric acid or filters too little of it into the urine.

In the bad old days, diet was the only gout treatment. Today gout patients have to limit foods rich in purine. The body metabolizes purine into uric acid. Liver, sweetbreads, kidneys, anchovies, meat extracts and gravies, sardines and herring are loaded with purine. Foregoing all of these foods is not a hardship for anyone.

Alcohol causes an overproduction and a diminished excretion of uric acid. Gout patients ought to be wary of drinking alcohol. An alcohol binge just about always leads to a painful attack in a gout patient.

Nowadays, with such effective gout control medicines, diet takes a back seat to medicines. Most often medicines are a lifelong commitment.

For a lengthier discussion of gout, readers can order the gout report by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 13, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents), No. 10 envelope and $3. Please allow 6-12 weeks for delivery.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am concerned about my exposure to blood at an accident scene. Is it possible to be tested privately and anonymously for AIDS and hepatitis? I don't want to alarm my family unnecessarily. — P.D.

ANSWER: All laboratory tests are supposed to be confidential. Unauthorized disclosure of lab tests is a serious breach of medical ethics. Unauthorized disclosure of an AIDS test is illegal and prosecutable in many states.

Your family doctor can order the tests and can request that the results be sent to him or her confidentially. No one else in the office sees the tests.

If you want to avoid the family doctor, call the county health department and ask about its testing policies. Many health departments provide the service for their residents.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

There's a place for EVERYTHING in the Classifieds.

Newspaper is usually the first place people go when considering a purchase. It's their primary source of advertising information.

Newspaper helps spark the local economy by putting dollars into circulation. And that's good for everyone, not just the retailer.

Because a strong local economy means lower property taxes, more jobs, tax support for community services and a better place to live.

Troupe performs for 20th gala at Ford's Theatre

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

At one point, the government wanted to make Ford's Theatre, site of President Abraham Lincoln's assassination, a museum. But Frankie Hewitt, a onetime speechwriter, lobbyist and consummate Washington insider, wouldn't hear of it. "It seemed like building a monument to (assassin) John Wilkes Booth," she says. "What was Lincoln doing there in the first place?" Hewitt asks. "He went to the theater more than 40 times during his administration. And so I got into a whole thing with the government."

She went to work on the powers that be, and two years after she started, the refurbished building reopened ... as a theater. Now producing artistic director of the facility, Hewitt is co-executive producer of An American Celebration at Ford's Theatre. The annual television gala filmed at the historic site celebrates its 20th anniversary Thursday, July 29, on ABC.

This year's theme is American music. The show opens with Tony Award-winning actor Nathan Lane singing "There's No Business Like Show Business." True to form, Lane gets in a few jokes, including a reference to 1861, "when Bob Dole was just a tyke."

Charlotte Church, the 13-year-old Welsh sensation, sings "Amazing Grace" in her pure soprano, sounding a lot like a young Joan Baez, and Canadian jazz singer Diana Krall also performs.

Hewitt says although Church and Krall are from other countries, they perform quintessentially American music. Country star Alan Jackson, very much an American, also does a number.

But the show really bursts into life with gospel great Queen Esther Marrow's performance. Singing a medley with her group, the Harlem Gospel Singers, she moves the audience of 700 dignitaries.

Marrow has performed at Ford's Theatre several times before in plays and in past years' galas. She says standing on that stage "is something you read about in history books at school, and to be a part of a piece of that history makes me feel really quite good."

From her home in Amityville on New York's Long Island, Marrow says she has fought to keep her traditional music alive.

"Although we have grown since the time of slavery, through all the turmoil and pain and suffering and being slaves ... we have always managed to have that strength to keep our heads above the water and survive," she explains, "and the pieces show a great deal of that."

The youngest performer at the gala is Cartier Anthony Williams, 9, who tap dances to "Yankee Doodle Dandy." A protege of tap star Savion Glover, Williams dances like his mentor, hitting the floor hard with flat, clean steps.

The most riveting part of the show comes from actress-choreographer Debbie Allen. Dressed in a simple black dress and carrying a stick, she transforms herself into abolitionist Harriet Tubman and gives a chilling monologue.

Opera diva Kathleen Battle closes the show with a stunning rendition of "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

President and Mrs. Clinton both offer brief comments in the course of the evening. During many of the performances, the camera lingers on the president, who truly appears to be enjoying the event.

"We always think about President Lincoln when we are here," Clinton tells the assembled theatergoers. "When they took his body home to Springfield, the bands along the way were all playing 'Battle Hymn of the Republic.'"

Queen Esther Marrow gives an electrifying performance with the Harlem Gospel Singers as part of An American Celebration at Ford's Theatre, airing Thursday on ABC. Diana Krall, Welsh singing sensation Charlotte Church and country music star Alan Jackson also take the stage.

HOROSCOPES

★ ★ July 25-31 ★ ★

ARIES — March 21/April 20

Don't be too aggressive when meeting someone for the first time early in the week, Aries. This person is rather shy and may be uncomfortable. You definitely don't want this, because he or she can offer you a potentially lucrative deal. Try to control yourself. Virgo plays a role.

TAURUS — April 21/May 21

While you really just want to stay home this week, that's not an option for you, Taurus. Your social calendar is booked. Go out, and try to have a good time. The outings actually will be more fun than you expect. That special someone needs your advice about a business matter. Be honest with him or her.

GEMINI — May 22/June 21

Don't let an acquaintance sway your opinion about a personal matter. Stand your ground. You know how you feel and why; this person shouldn't tell you otherwise. A loved one gets into trouble and needs your help. Do what you can for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated. Capricorn plays an important role.

CANCER — June 22/July 22

Keep your feelings to yourself when it comes to work. Don't let the higher-ups know how upset you are that they didn't consult you on a business matter. Showing your anger only will make you look bad. A friend of a friend invites you out. Say yes, because it's sure to be a good time.

LEO — July 23/August 23

Don't desert a friend in need early in the week, Leo, even if the two of you haven't seen each other in a while. He or she needs your help. Be there for him or her, and try to do what you can. A loved one has a surprise for you. Enjoy it, because you certainly deserve it. Gemini plays a key role.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't be too critical of yourself when you make a mistake at work. It was a minor error, and it didn't cause any serious problems. Don't beat yourself up over it. While out with friends, you meet an interesting person. Even though you're attracted to him or her, don't get involved. This person isn't telling you everything there is to know.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23

While you hate to be rude, that's the only way you get an acquaintance to leave you alone this week, Libra. Don't feel guilty about it, because he or she doesn't take offense at it. A loved one needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her.

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22

You have an important decision to make this week, Scorpio. Don't just think about what is best for you; consider what your decision will mean to everyone involved. Weigh your choices carefully, because a lot of people will be affected by this. Turn to loved ones for advice if you need it.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21

Control your temper when you have a run-in with an acquaintance this week. Getting upset only will make you look bad. Stand your ground, but do it calmly. Stay in control. A good friend needs your help with a financial problem. Do what you can for him or her.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't let a minor setback keep you from going after what you really want. Stay focused and determined. If you don't get distracted, you're sure to reach your goal. Loved ones turn to you for advice about a family matter. Try not to get involved in the situation. If you do, you'll be in over your head. Libra plays a key role.

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18

Everyone seems to be asking you for something this week, Aquarius. While you don't like it, there's really nothing that you can do about it. Just try to help as many people as you can. Your efforts will be appreciated. Things will calm down by the end of the week, giving you plenty of time to relax and enjoy yourself.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20

While you're normally laid-back, you become very intense this week. You see something that you want, and you go after it. Don't feel guilty. There's nothing wrong with this. Stay focused, and you're sure to get it.

IN FOCUS

Best known for her Emmy-winning role as Mary Beth Lacey in the popular and critically acclaimed series Cagney & Lacey, Tyne Daly is the focus of Intimate Portrait Sunday, July 25, on Lifetime.

Narrated by her brother, actor Tim Daly (Wings, Storm of the Century), the episode looks at her life and career, beginning with her childhood in a showbiz household as the daughter of actor James Daly.

Interviewees include Cagney & Lacey co-star Sharon Gless.

Timothy Dalton stars in Passion's Way, airing Sunday, July 25, on CBS. Dalton plays diplomat George Darrow, who, after many years of platonic friendship with the lovely Anna Leath (Sela Ward), realizes his true — and powerful — feelings for her.

The couple's journey to happiness is not an easy one. It's the early 1900s, and society frowns upon certain relationships.

Alicia Witt (Cybill) also stars in this adaptation of Edith Wharton's novel The Reef.

Reporter Robert Krulwich investigates the effects of the changing world on the human spirit in the eight-part series Nightline in Primetime: Brave New World, starting Thursday on ABC.

Nightline: Brave New World looks at direction of mankind

Anchor Ted Koppel and reporter Robert Krulwich take a thought-provoking eight-week journey into the world of science and human spirit in Nightline in Primetime: Brave New World, starting Thursday, July 29, on ABC.

From the ability to spawn creative thinking machines to cloning a human, the eight-part series sheds light on what could be the future of mankind and a vision of where life on Earth is headed.

The opening installment examines the accelerated pace of today's society. Machines help humans speed up their everyday lives, but the validity of the technology is questioned.

Another episode deals with man's relationship to machines and the growth in artificial additions to human bodies. Between artificial joints, organs and even the common contact lens, artificiality is becoming natural.

Here's a scary thought. Some machines are even beginning to "think" on their own.

For example, director Tim Burton wanted to put 1,500 missile-toting penguins in his film Batman Returns. He approached animators to create the evil fowl. The animators, in effect, let their computers do their work for them by allowing the machine to devise an army of menacing penguins marching toward Gotham City.

Sure, they fed the computer a set number of possible motions for the birds, but the machine itself came up with the individual combinations of movements for each and every one of those 1,500 penguins.

In another experiment, a drummer puts his skills on the line against a cybernetic rival. Granted, the mechanized musician doesn't play as fast or with as much rhythm as his human counterpart, but the relevant point is that it has the capacity to play as well — if not better. It just needs time.

Future segments tackle such topics as the power of human cells, the building blocks of the universe, what extraterrestrial life could tell humans and what makes a family.

Death of a Centerfold: The Dorothy Stratten Story ★★ (1981) Janis Leu Curis, Russ White. A woman's search for stardom ends in tragedy in this account of the life of Playboy's 1960 Playmate of the Year. 2:00. July 30 12:05am.

Q: Has the actress who plays Judge Hiller on The Practice ever played one of the apes in a Planet of the Apes movie? —Jeremy Elrod, Oakwood, Ga.

A: After winning an Oscar for her stunning performance in The Year of Living Dangerously, actress Linda Hunt unaccountably never felt compelled to don an ape suit. Go figure.

Q: My wife and I were flipping channels the other night and came across a sitcom on TV Land that featured an actress we thought was Sandra Bullock playing a character named Tess. Do you have any idea what we saw? —Dave Parsons, Mount Vernon, Ohio.

A: Sure. Bullock played the Melanie Griffith role of Tess McGill when the 1988 movie hit Working Girl had a brief and extremely unsuccessful run as a series on NBC in the spring of 1990. The show also featured Nana Visitor of Star Trek: Deep Space Nine and George Newbern from the Father of the Bride movies.

Q: The recent passing of DeForest Kelley from Star Trek reminded me that the show's creator, Gene Roddenberry, also had died. But I recently heard that Mark Lenard, who played Spock's father, also had died. When and how? Is Jane Wyatt, Spock's mother, still alive? —Eric W. via e-mail.

A: Lenard was 72 when he died of multiple myeloma in November of 1996. As of this writing, Wyatt, who turns 87 on Aug. 12, is still with us.

Q: Can you clarify how the various Carradines are related? John is the famous father, I think, and his son David was in Kung Fu, but how are Keith and Robert related to them, if they are related? —A.M. via e-mail.

A: John is the father of David, Keith

F
Fall-Safe ★★★ (1964) Henry Fonda, Walter Matthau. The accidental launching of Moscow-bound bombers forces Americans and Russians to work together to prevent catastrophe. 2:00. July 25 3pm.

Fashions of 1934 ★★★ (1934) Bette Davis, William Powell. A con artist conspires with a clothing designer to conquer the French fashion world. 1:30. July 29 6:30am.

Fatal Beauty ★ (1987) Whoopi Goldberg, Sam Elliot. A Los Angeles narcotics detective goes undercover to track down the source of a lethal form of cocaine. 2:15. July 30 7pm.

Field of Dreams ★★★ (1989) Kevin Costner, Amy Madigan. Despite the dismay of friends and family, a farmer obeys a spiritual request to build a ballpark in his cornfield. (CC) 2:10. July 31 8pm, 10:10pm.

Fighting Fools ★★ (1949) Beverly Hills, Lyle Talbot. The Boys swing into action to expose a gang of crooks running a boxing racket. 1:30. July 25 11am.

First Blood ★★★ (1982) Sylvester Stallone, Richard Crenna. Vietnam veteran John Rambo leads police on a dangerous wilderness hunt after escaping from a brutal sheriff. 2:00. July 31 10:30pm.

The First Texan ★★ (1956) Joel McCrea, Felicia Farr. Sam Houston resolves to stay out of Texas' fight for independence until President Jackson convinces him otherwise. 2:00. July 25 3am; 30 3am.

The First Traveling Saleslady ★★ (1956) Ginger Rogers, Barry Nelson. After her Broadway show is closed down for indecency, a turn-of-the-century girdle vendor tries her luck out west. 2:00. July 26 5pm.

Flamingo Road ★★★ (1949) Joan Crawford, Zachary Scott. A former carnival dancer seeks vengeance after her life is ruined by a small town's corrupt political machine. (CC) 2:00. July 29 3am.

Fletcher ★★ (1985) Chevy Chase, Joe Don Baker. A reporter with an array of disguises unravels a plot involving a wealthy businessman who contracts his own murder. 2:00. July 31 3pm.

TV PIPELINE

Linda Hunt

and Robert; Keith and Robert are brothers, while David is their half brother.

Q: I've been watching repeats of The Lone Ranger. I recall Clayton Moore in the title role, but lately I've seen episodes with John Hart as the masked man. What's that about? —Pamela via e-mail.

A: Moore, the most famous Ranger, played the part on TV from 1949-52. Hart played the role from 1952-54. Moore reclaimed the mask at that point and wore it until 1957, when ABC canceled the show.

Q: Can you give me info on the series of '70s TV movies based on Harry Kemelman's Rabbi mystery novels? —James Robertson, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A: Lanigan's Rabbi, the 1977 NBC series adaptation of such novels as Friday the Rabbi Slept Late, featured Art Carney as police chief Paul Lanigan and Bruce Solomon as his informal colleague, Rabbi David Small.

The Fly ★★★ (1986) Jeff Goldblum, Geena Davis. David Cronenberg's remake of the 1958 classic about a botched experiment that transmutes a man into a monstrous insect. (In Stereo) (CC) 2:00. July 30 10pm.

Flying Saucers ★★ (1976) Robert Conrad, Simon Oakland. WWII flying ace "Pappy" Boyington commands one of the most decorated and least disciplined squadrons in the Pacific. 2:00. July 25 1am.

For Me and My Gal ★★★ (1942) Judy Garland, Gene Kelly. World War I takes a bite out of a vaudeville romance in Busby Berkeley's song-and-dance spectacular. (CC) 2:00. July 27 5am.

Forget Paris ★★★ (1995) Billy Crystal, Debra Winger. A man regales his fiancée with the tale of his friends' stormy marriage, as they await guests for a celebratory dinner. 2:15. July 25 9pm; 26 1:15am.

48 HRS. ★★★ (1982) Nick Nolte, Eddie Murphy. To find the fugitives who killed his partner, a maverick police detective teams up with a temporarily released convict. 2:00. July 25 5pm.

The Freshman ★★★ (1990) Marlon Brando, Matthew Broderick. A mobster with an uncanny resemblance to "The Godfather" makes a college film student an offer he can't refuse. 2:05. July 31 11:20pm.

The Front Page ★★★ (1931) Adolphe Menjou, Pat O'Brien. The escape of a condemned prisoner gives a conniving editor a chance to get one last story from a departing reporter. 2:00. July 31 4pm.

The Fugitive ★★ (1947) Henry Fonda, Dolores del Rio. John Ford's story of a Catholic priest on the run from Central American revolutionaries. 2:00. July 27 7pm.

SOAP TALK

Daytime alumna to replace Beach regular

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

Many daytime TV actors have a certain amount of time off guaranteed by their contracts so they can work on other projects. But replacing an actor who is in the middle of a hot story line creates big headaches for the show's writers and execs.

Sunset Beach recently had the difficult task of finding someone to temporarily fill in for Susan Ward (Meg Cummings), who is leaving in August to film the feature In Crowd. The Sunset Beach execs count themselves extremely lucky that popular daytime actress Sydney Penny (ex-Julia, All My Children) has offered to play Meg. Penny and Ward have similar looks, which should make the adjustment easier for viewers.

Cast changes also are under way at General Hospital, which recently replaced the ultrapopular Tyler Christopher, who played Nikolas Cassadine.

There is a rumor that GH might try to recast the role of Lucky Spencer, played until recently by Emmy Award winner Jonathan Jackson.

Both Christopher and Jackson have gone off to pursue their careers on the big screen.

It's tricky business trying to find someone viewers will accept. The soap opera has to decide whether to bring in an unknown who looks similar or a popular actor from another soap. Whatever happens, it will be tough for GH to find someone with the talent, looks and chemistry of either Jackson or Christopher.

Dear Candace: On One Life to Live, Jessica (Erin Torpey) ran out in front of Dorian's (Robin Strasser) car. Dorian should just tell everybody what happened.

I don't see why everyone thinks Max and Blair (James DePaiva, Kassie DePaiva) are so great together. They don't have any spark. I believe Maggie (Crystal Chappell) was the woman for Max. —Sylvia Mollicone, Livermore, Fla.

Dear Reader: Chappell is busy working, and she won't be back on OLTL any time soon.
