U.S. jobless claims edged higher last week

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of Americans filing new claims for unemployment benefits rose for the second week in a row last week to its highest level in more than a month.

The Labor Department said today that 313,000 Americans filed new claims for jobless benefits for the week ending July 17 - up by 4.000 from the previous week.

It was the secince June 5 when they were at 326,000.

Bill would cut cost of insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawmakers want more farmers to protect themselves from bad weather and drops in commodity prices by purchasing federally subsidized crop insurance.

The House Agriculture risk management subcommittee on Wednesday approved legislation that would substantially lower the premiums, doubling the cost of the "Producers will insurance probillion a year.

ance because Larry Combest they felt the premiums were too high for the coverage they got. About 65 percent of eligible acreage is now covered.

Producers will have noticeable improvements to their crop insu ance in time for the coverage of the fall crop," said Rep. Larry Combest, R-Texas, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

With the agricultural economy mired in recession. Congress is searching for ways to provide farmers with a safety net without rewriting the 1996 farm law that did away with a Depression-era system of price

Farmers now pay 45 percent to 87 percent of the cost of their insurance, with the government picking up the rest. Under the House bill, the farmers' share would range from 35 percent to 65 percent, depending on the level of coverage. The legislation also would improve coverage for farmers who have had one or two major crop losses in recent years. It was approved on a voice vote by the House Agriculture risk management subcommittee.

The full Agriculture Committee is to debate the legislation next week, with a vote in the House to come in early August. The Senate has yet to take up the issue.

Clinton attacks tax cut

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Clinton is using the plight of elderly Americans who struggle to pay for prescription drugs as a weapon against a Republican push to use government surpluses for big tax

"If we don't strengthen Medicare and add the prescription drug benefit, it's not because we can't," Clinton said at a White House news conference Wednesday. "If we don't meet these clear national needs, it's because we choose not to do so.

"It will be because instead we choose to reward ourselves today by risking our prosperity tomorrow."

At a public forum scheduled today in Lansing, Mich., Clinton planned to wield a new

GOP leadership quells revolt; tax cut vote set

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Republicans, after overcoming stubborn resistance within their own ranks, are showcasing their legislative and political jewel with a vote to approve a 10-year, $792 billion tax

Expected passage today comes only after davlong negotiations Wednesday during which House Speaker Dennis Hastert, R-Ill., with his leadership at stake, succeeded in bringing rebellious GOP moderates in

His triumph could be short-lived. President Clinton, saying the tax cuts are three times larger than what he could accept, promised a veto. A Senate version approved by the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday, while adding up to the same $792 billion, takes a different approach to tax reduction.

The threatened desertion of GOP moderates who thought the tax cut was excessive was averted only after the House leadership agreed to a concession conditioning the planned 10 percent reduction in income tax rates over the next 10 years to annual progress in reducing the nation's debt.

Other elements of the legislation, including a reduction in the capital-gains tax, elimination of the estate tax and relief from the marriage penalty, were not affected by the compromise. The House bill highlights the stark differences between Republicans and the White House over how to manage a projected $2.9 trillion surplus over the next decade Clinton and the Democrats want to use most of the surplus to ensure the future of Social Security and Medicare and add a prescription drug benefit to the Medicare program. They also want to set aside part of the annual surpluses for increases in defense and education spending.

At a news conference Wednesday, Clinton said the GOP tax bill would "squander" the surplus and represented "the kind of risk-taking that got us into deficits before." He issued his strongest veto threat yet, but said he would sign "the right kind of tax cut" of roughly $250 billion.

"The president is wrong," Hastert said in a written statement. "It is not risky to give the ... people their money back.'

He said the choice is simple. "We can give some of the surplus back to the people or we can spend it here in Wash-

Commissioner expected to resign

Moses' resignation hinges on final approval of Tech position

Education Commissioner Mike Moses is expected to announce his resignation, possibly as early as Friday, to take a job at Texas Tech University, according to a published report.

His resignation apparently hinges on final approval of a Texas Tech University System, the Houston Chronicle

The Higher Education Coordinating Board is scheduled to vote on that issue Friday. If approved, Moses would become a deputy chancellor of the new system. Meanwhile, State Board of Education Chairman Chase Untermeyer of Houston and members of the governor's staff have begun interview-

Moses, according to several officials.

Although Moses has not submitted his resignation, "we have begun the process" of finding a replacement, said Bush spokeswoman Linda Edwards. She declined to release names of those being considered for appointment.

Moses applied earlier this ing possible replacements for week for the job of deputy chancellor for external systems operations at Texas Tech, which is creating the new position. The job has been posted on Texas Tech's Internet site for several weeks, but Texas Tech spokeswoman Cindy Rugeley said Moses is the only applicant.

"It's no secret that (Chancellor John) Montford would like to have him here," Rugeley said.

Montford and Moses have been good friends for many years, stemming from the time Moses was superintendent of Lubbock schools and Montford was a state senator from the same city.

Moses declined Wednesday to respond to questions about his possible departure, but spokeswoman Debbie Graves Ratcliffe said he submitted his application on Montford's request.

"Montford approached him about this new job that may be created and he's intrigued by that," Ratcliffe said. "He and his family came to love Lubbock and Texas Tech when they lived there."

Before being named education commissioner, Moses headed Lubbock schools for about six years and public schools in La Marque for about four years. He has served as head of the Texas public school system since

The new position at Texas Tech would involve overseeing development and news and information services, Rugeley said. Although the job is a new one, she said it was not created solely in hopes of getting Moses.

Auditors investigate Dallas ISD

DALLAS (AP) - Outside auditors are investigating accusations that school district employees here mailed hundreds of checks to nonexistent people and companies, according to the Dallas Morning News.

Auditors were told five months ago about allegations that there were as many as 600 "ghost employees," source who did not want to be identified told the newspaper in today's editions. There was no indication of how much money might have been involved or how the allegations originated.

So far, auditors have not been able to prove or disprove the allegations, the source told the newspaper.

The allegations are being investigated as part of a three-year fraud audit by the consulting firm of KPMG Peat Marwick, approved by Dallas school board members in De-

Several school board members said that they had heard rumors for months about payments to "ghost employees" and that they expected the audit to uncover any wrongdoing.

School board President Roxan Staff said district officials expect to receive a progress report on the entire audit in late August. She said school board members recently asked KPMG to intensify its efforts.

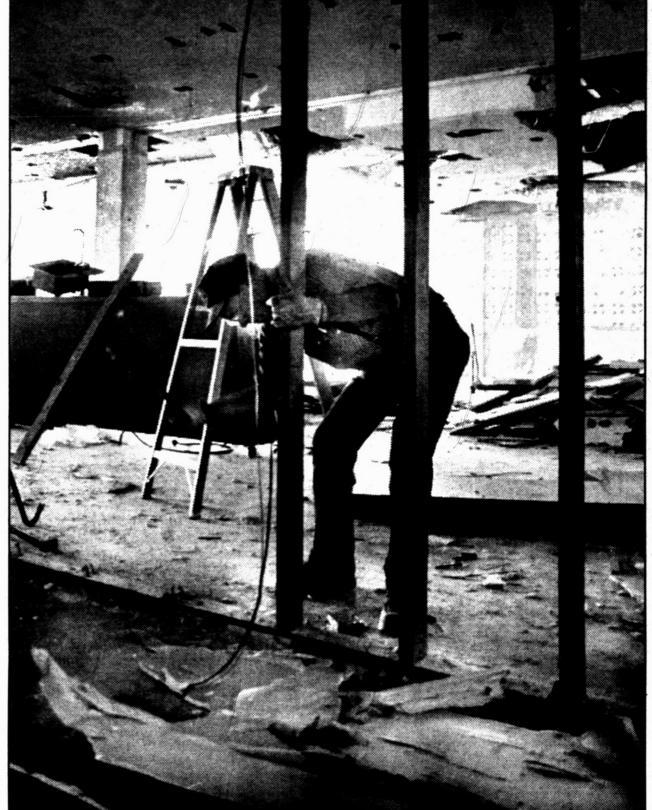

Incoming Superintendent Waldemar "Bill" Rojas asked board members to give the firm direct access to the school district's computer system and computerized files, she said. Board members agreed to add up to $200,000 to KPMG's $1.5 million contract to do so.

Extension faculty gather for conference

STATION-Beverly Harder, Deaf Smith County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences, and Dennis Newton and Mike Lloyd, Deaf Smith County Extension Agents for Agriculture were among more than 1,000 faculty members who attended the Texas Agricultural Extension Service conference in College Station.

The three-day conference was aimed at preparing faculty for a "new century of service" to the state.

"As a knowledge-based organization, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has been educating Texans for 85 years through a wide array of outreach activities," Dr. Edward A. Hiler, vice chancellor and dean for the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Texas A&M University and Extension director, said.

"The Extension service has brought the resources of a land-grant university to local communities in ways that have had a positive impact on people's lives and communities. We have always been able to respond effectively to changing needs because we continue to listen to people, hear what they say and take action."

Participants were drawn in from across the state for the first time in 11 years.

Keynote speakers included Dr. Lowell Catlett, professor agricultural economics and agricultural business at New Mexico State University, who spoke on "Getting Extension's Future in Focus;" Michael Boejhe, professor agricultural economics, and David King, head of the department of agricultural communications at Purdue University, who spoke on "Meeting the Private Sector Challenge;" and David Hutchens, a corporate consultant and author, who discussed "Out-learning the Wolves: Re-imagining Your Community as a Learning System."

Extension faculty were also able to participate in continuing education sessions on topics such as mediating conflict in communities, achieving customer service excellence. creating and nurturing collaborations and partnerships, building Extension volunteer programs, interpersonal communications, and empowering team leadership.

Other sessions included biotechnology, health and water issues in the 21st century, youth assets, trends in liability and risk issues, nature tourism, attracting and retaining top-notch employees, effective teaching on the World Wide Web and learning styles and learner-centered teaching. Some faculty were able to take advantage of first aid certification as well.

The Extension Service provides a range of researchbased information and education to people in every Texas county. Faculty include specialists and county agents with expertise in agriculture and natural resources, consumer and family sciences and 4-H youth development.

gry in Montana" about people with physical disabilities and the curiosity of "innocent" children was totally off the mark. "Montana" is right. It is NOT OK for children to ask questions about a physical disability. Just because it comes from a child's "natural curiosity" does not make it all right. It is natural for a child to want to do away with a new baby who is getting entirely too much attention, but we won't allow it. We also will not allow jumping on the bed in muddy sneakers or taking Daddy's watch apart. When my grandson displayed a bit of "natural curiosity" and attempted to disengage the brake on my car, you'd better believe I lost no time letting him know it was NOT OK. There is no reason to indulge a child's inquisitiveness just because it is "natural." Your out-of-the-blue statements that Angry in Montana has not come to terms with his disability and the suggestion that he "lighten up" were insensitive and condescending. — Disappointed in You

From Sun City, Ariz.: Your answer to "Montana" was perfect. I was disabled by polio 50 years ago and now use an electric cart. Children are fascinated by the cart and often ask for a ride. I say, "Of course," and seat them next to me. They love it, and it makes them less afraid of people with disabilities. It also helps me feel less disabled.

Lansing, Mich.: I have been confined to a wheelchair since 1957. When I first went to a restaurant back then, a child of about 4 years, old came over and asked why I was in that 'funny chair." Before I could respond, his mother snatched him away. The child looked startled and probably got the impression that whatever I had must be contagious. I realize the mother didn't want her child to be rude, but her response only made things worse. Times have changed for the better, thank the good Lord. And thanks, too, for those recently installed ramps that now make almost all buildings

Dear John L.: Chicago is a great city, and it is indeed "wheelchair friendly," thanks to Dr. Henry Betts, who for years was head of the Rehabilitation Institute here. Dr. Betts mounted an aggressive campaign to make all downtown buildings wheelchair accessible, and it is now the model for all cities around the nation.

The Square House Museum will remember the Red River War of 1874 on July 31 with a public lecture by Dr. Doug Scott about the bullets and cartridges recovered last summer by archaeologists at several Red River War battle sites.

On July 31, 1874, 125 years ago to the day, the War Department was authorized to mobilize troops to fight the Plains tribes in the Texas Panhandle.

Dr. Scott is a Team Leader at the National park Services's Midwest Archeological Center in Lincoln, Neb. He specializes in 19th century military sites archaeology and forensic archaeology.

Scott's talk will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the Hazlewood Arts and Education Building auditorium.

Before the lecture at 1 p.m., Walter Warner of Clarendon, will demonstrate and fire the same types of firearms used in the 1874 conflict behind the Conway Church.

Paintings and drawings by artists affiliated with the tribes that participated in the Red River War will be on exhibit. And Red River era buffalo rifles and military weapons will be on Admission to the museum and to the lecture is free.

Spurs' Elliott needs kidney transplant

Spurs forward still wants to come back and play

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Doctors don't rule out Sean Elliott of the NBA champion San Antonio Spurs returning to professional basketball after having a kidney transplant.

Though such a comeback would be unprecedented, it doesn't mean it can't happen, physicians say.

"It's a possibility that he could resume his career," said Dr. Francis Wright, kidney transplant director at the Texas Transplant Institute of Methodist Healthcare System, where Elliott may have the surgery.

Elliott and his doctors revealed Wednesday the kidney disease that has afflicted the 31-year-old forward for years has worsened and that he needs a transplant soon.

Family members underwent blood screening this week to see if they qualify as kidney donors. If there is no family match, Elliott will be placed on a transplant waiting list. "If I end up finding a match, I'll be lucky. I'll be fortunate,"

An estimated 42,000 people nationwide are awaiting kidney donations. Last year, there were 5,791 donors nationally, including live and deceased donors, according to the National Kidney Foundation of South Texas.

Elliott learned of his condition after about four years in the league. His disease is known as focal segmental glomerular sclerosis, one of a variety of kidney diseases that result in severe, prolonged loss of protein into the urine. The cause of his disease is not clear.

Dr. John Reineck, a kidney specialist seeing Elliott, said if it isn't treated the illness could lead to exhaustion, weakness, nausea and weight loss. However, he said, Elliott has "an excellent long-term prognosis for living a normal life."

The doctor said Elliott hopes to have the transplant before dialysis is necessary, which could be later this year. Elliott could have a transplant as soon as August if a family match is found. The main criteria for a match is a compatible blood type, doctors said.

Elliott's illness affects both his kidneys. The healthy donor kidney would be placed in Elliott's body along with the two malfunctioning kidneys, his doctor said.

It would likely be two or three months after surgery before doctors know whether a return to basketball is feasible, Reineck said. "I've had a great career, and if that's the end of it, so be it.

But I don't really think that's the end of it," Elliott said. After surgery, transplant recipients typically take six to eight weeks to gradually return to regular activities.

"As to playing basketball at the NBA level, that's clearly unprecedented. For someone as talented and dedicated as Sean Elliott, I would be the last person to tell him he couldn't play basketball," said Wright of the Texas Transplant

Zelie's, Rodriguez's hits key Texas' four-game winning streak, which hasn't included home runs

ARLINGTON (AP) — The Texas Rangers have a reputation as a free-swinging, slugging team. These days, they're winning with singles and doubles.

Ivan Rodriguez had three hits and Todd Zeile hit a tworun double in a six-run second inning as the Rangers won their fourth in a row, 9-5 over the Anaheim Angels on Wednesday night. Texas hasn't homered during the four-game winning streak and has gone without a home run in six of seven games. The Rangers are 6-1 on the current homestand. "We're not trying to hit home runs, we're just trying to put good at-bats together," Texas DH Rafael Palmeiro said. "We take the walk if it's there and try to move the runners along when they're in scoring position."

Of the Rangers' 13 hits Wednesday night, only three went for extra bases.

"Still no home runs," manager Johnny Oates said. We're happy with this offense. We're working at taking pitches and taking walks. We're still aggressive, but we're not swinging at the 59foot curveball or the fastball over our heads."

Before the season, it appeared this series might be a key showdown in the AL West race. But the last-place Angels lost their sixth in a row, matching their longest losing streak of the year, and dropped 11 1/2 games behind division-leading Texas.

But nobody in the Rangers clubhouse was dismissing the Angels.

"This is July 21," second baseman Mark McLemore said. "There are a lot of games left. Nothing is over."

Aaron Sele (9-6), given a 9-3 lead, allowed five runs and eight hits in six innings, including consecutive homers by Garret Anderson and Troy Glaus in the fourth. Jeff Zimmerman got two outs for his second save.

Rangers closer John Wetteland was not available for the second straight game due to a stiff back.

Omar Olivares (8-8) allowed eight runs and nine hits in two-plus innings, his shortest start of the season, allowing 10 of 15 batters to reach base.

"Every ball I threw was up and flat," Olivares said. "The result was a disaster for us. They had good swings and they found holes. I knew I had to keep the ball down but I couldn't do it."

Texas went ahead in the second on Palmeiro's walk, Zeile's double, Lee Stevens' RBI groundout and Ruben Mateo's run-scoring single.

Randy Velarde doubled in a run in the third, but Texas opened the bottom half with six consecutive hits, including RBI singles by Rusty Greer and Palmeiro. Zeile's two-run double chased Olivares, Scott Schoeneweis threw a run-scoring wild pim got a pair in the sixth on Orlando Palmeiro's run-scoring single and Matt Walbeck's RBI double.

Griffin, Metro Stars advance to Sweet 16

From Staff Reports

After a loss on Tuesday night, the West Texas Metro Stars bounced back and won consecutive games and have advanced to the round of 16 in the AAU National Basketball Tournament in Virginia Beach.

The Metro Stars defeated their neighboring archrival, the Oklahoma Air Apparent, 73-67. Vega's Kelly Cleavinger led the Stars with 22 points. Hereford's Sarah Griffin poured in nine and grabbed 10 rebounds.

The next victory for West Texas came against the Central Kentucky Storm, a 63-62 decision.

Griffin's three-pointer with 15 seconds left tied the game at 63. After a Storm turnover, Plainview's Chesli Welch was fouled and made one-of-two free throws with 3 second left that gave the victory to the Stars.

Griffin scored a team-high with 15 points on Tuesday, but the Metro Stars lost a 72-69 heartbreaker to the Minnesota North Tartans. The loss prevented them from advancing to their fourth straight Elite Eight round.

The Metro Stars play the Philadelphia Belles for a shot at the Elite Eight.

He sunk the shot of his career with a game-winning 3-pointer with nine seconds left in a Western Conference finals game against Portland. Balancing on its tiptoes, Elliott barely stayed in bounds as he fired the ball and made the basket.

Spurs coach Gregg Popovich, who hung his head and appeared sad during Wednesday's news conference, said his main concern is Elliott's health.

'Ragtime' star arrested by mistake

NEW YORK (AP) — "Ragtime" star Alton Fitzgerald White received an ovation from the Broadway audience and other members of the cast, five days after the black actor was mistakenly arrested on drug charges and stripsearched by police.

White, who was arrested last week in the vestibule of his apartment building in Manhattan, returned to his role as Coalhouse Walker for the musical's Wednesday matinee.

At the curtain call, the cast joined the audience in ap-

identity and have apologized to him, White said he was arrested because he is black. The incident came amid heightened concerived.

He opened the door for the officers, who said they were looking for four men in white T-shirts.

Burial at sea

Ashes of Kennedys, sette scattered

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — In a farewell at sea, a Navy destroyer carried family members today to a ceremony to scatter the ashes of John F. Kennedy Jr., his wife and sister-in-law at a site not far from where they died.

A group of about 15 family members carried the cremated remains of Kennedy, Carolyn Bessette Kennedy and Lauren Bessette onto the USS Briscoe. Their ashes were to be scattered off Martha's

Their ashes were to be scattered off Martha's Vineyard about three miles from where the bodies were recovered Wednesday.

Dressed in dark clothing, family members boarded the Coast Guard cutter Sanibel, which took them to the Briscoe, shortly before 9 a.m. at Woods Hole port. The mourners included Kennedy's sister, Caroline Kennedy, his uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, and cousins Maria Shriver and William Kennedy Smith Kennedy Smith,

The Bessette sisters' relatives also were attending, including their mother, Ann Freeman, stepfather, Dr. Richard Freeman, and Ms. Bessette's twin sister, Lisa Ann Bessette, a family source said.

Three folded American flags and three wreaths with red, yellow and white flowers had been placed on the ship.

Defense Secretary William Cohen approved a request by the senator and the Bessette and Freeman families for Navy assistance for the ceremony, the Pentagon said this morning. Two Navy chaplains and a civilian Roman Catholic priest were to officiate at the ceremony, the Pentagon said.

GOP backing census request

WASHINGTON (AP) -House Republicans are ready to provide nearly all of the $4.6 billion President Clinton wants for next year's census as part of a nearly $36 billion measure for the departments of Justice, State and Com-

A subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee planned to vote on the spending bill today. By providing only about $15 million less than Clinton sought for the census, the GOP would all but end a longrunning fight over the con-stitutionally required head count.

A Senate version of the bill, however, falls about $1.7 billion short of Clinton's request, leaving the final concials who spoke on condition billion in extra spending for of anonymity.

As part of their drive to secure House passage of spending bills by beefing them up, GOP leaders pushed the legislation's price tag to $36 billion by adding about $5 billion to it. It was unclear what savings they would claim to pay for the extra spending. Just Wednesday, House leaders decided to indefinitely delay writing a $300 billion measure financing labor, welfare, health and education programs after they could not agree on how to pay for $12 that bill.

The Commerce-Justice bill would provide a small fraction of the $1.3 billion Clinton wants to help communities hire more police officers, and less than half his $340 million request for legal services for the poor.

study finding that 75 percent of elderly Americans lack what he called "decent, dependable" private-sector coverage for prescription drugs.

The president has proposed new, universal Medicare coverage for prescription drugs — at a 10-year cost of $118 billion to taxpayers.

To pay for the new benefit buttress Medicare against the coming wave of baby boom retirements, Clinton wants to use $794 billion in federal budget surpluses expected over the next 15 years.

Republican leaders also have endorsed the idea of a Medicare drug benefit. But they are trying to earmark much of the future surplus for a $792 billion tax cut.

Clinton's Medicare drug plan is unnecessarily generous, Republicans argue, saying that about two-thirds of senior citizens already have some private drug coverage - mainly through corporate retirement packages, privately purchased insurance or HMOs.

In its new study, the administration seeks to show that such private coverage is diminishing in value and accessibility as insurance prices rise and companies cut retirement benefits. As a result, even some elderly people who have drug coverage now are in a precarious position that may leave them exposed to high costs, the study concludes.

"Clearly America needs a prescription-drug plan that is simple, universal and voluntary," Clinton said. "Anyone who says we don't, I believe, is out of date and out of touch."

dies only for the poorest beneficiaries. Others could be helped less expensively through the private sector, they say. Tax breaks for those who buy private Medigap insurance that covers drugs are among options GOP leaders are considering.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, sent letters this week to colleagues both Republicans and Democrats — asking for ideas as he develops an alternative to Clinton's plan.

"I look forward to working with you to bring changes to Medicare that are constructive, that meet the most pressing health care needs of the elderly and disabled, and that are fiscally responsible and sustainable," Roth said in his letter.

The new benefits Clinton is offering retirees along with promises of greater financial stability for Medicare would not come without sacrifice.
