'Prudent' budget approved

Hospital board gets warning about tough decisions to be made

By Donald M. Cooper
Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors received a budget described as "prudent and realistic," but they also heard a warning about hard times ahead.

The directors voted unanimously to approve the Fiscal 2000 budget, which projects a $93,100 net operating loss when the fiscal year ends Sept. 30, 2000. The loss will be covered by the district's cash reserve, which has been pegged at about $1.5 million.

J. O. Lewis, interim administrator of Hereford Regional Medical Center, told the budget is prudent and doesn't propose any major projects.

"There are no funds in this budget for physician recruitment, no specialty clinics. We did not put these in unless there is a clear board commitment," Lewis said. He said the budget represents a commitment by the hospital administration to put the district's "financial house in order."

Citing adverse effects from the federal Balanced Budget Act of 1997 and the loss of state disproportionate funds, which are expected to drop by about 43 percent, Lewis said the board will have to make some tough decisions.

"If the trend continues, the cash reserve could be depleted and within two years, the board will have to confront it," Lewis said.

There were some glitches in the budget, which were caused by the hospital's computer conversion. The conversion, which also caused a delay in the presentation of the August financial reports, occurred when some reports did not transfer properly from the old system to the new system.

There were some areas of the budget package that still need to be clarified, Lewis said. He said those line items will be reviewed before the board's Oct. 19 meeting. Also, after reviewing the full package, the board could approve some revisions, which could pull the budget into balance.

The major areas of increase are in the hospital's medical insurance package, which is continuing to rise, and support/licensing costs generated by the purchase of the new computer system. Also, indigent and charity care is expected to rise by about 16 percent during the budget year.

The budget anticipates a 6-percent gain in revenue, primarily because of the addition of a new surgeon and a new OB/GYN, which should result in more surgical procedures, as well as epidurals.

Lewis said the full budget package has been sent to Durbin & Co., the hospital district's Lubbock-based auditor, for review. The auditors could recommend ways to generate additional revenue or make some savings on the expense side.

Director Bobby Owen asked about the level of subsidy for the Hereford Emergency Medical Service. Bailey said the hospital funds about $100,000 annually, but the ambulance service appears to be approaching

Greens generate green

By Yuri Soto
Hereford Brand Sports Editor

The importance of the sport of golf can be viewed in many ways, as a past-time, or a passion.

Nationwide, the sport still tops others in both popularity and sales. Locally, it augments Hereford's economy as the city's one true tourist draw.

The sport, according to local enthusiasts, also offers children a constructive activity they can learn and continue to enjoy well into adulthood.

Since July of 1997, the John Pitman Golf Association has donated $31,000 to the Make-A-Wish Foundation in Hereford.

But that money is just donated money.

According to figures presented by Bill Brown, president of the John Pitman Golf Association, the sport and all its trimmings generates an average of $103,900 to the local economy.

"We have a lot of people from the Panhandle that come out and play here," Brown said during a speech Wednesday at the Lions Club meeting.

To illustrate golf's impact here, Brown reported both revenues and expenditures made by the association since 1966:

- An estimated $29,000 in Hereford Bucks has been awarded to winners of Golf Association sponsored tournaments.

- An estimated $14,600 has been used for the use of the Knight of Columbus Hall and food provisions in association-sponsored events and tournaments.

- An estimated $6,000 in local advertising.

- An estimated $6,300 money donated to memorials of golfers who have passed away, Kids Fish Day, and for the Christmas Lights Fund.

That brings up an estimated total of $55,900 provided by the golf association.

"We continue to promote golf in Hereford and we're going to keep promoting our golf course as one of our community's great assets," Brown said.

Even private golf tournaments have had their impact on the economy.

This past year, there were 16 private corporate tournaments that cost an estimated total of $48,000.

Brown also cited the multiplier effect created when Hereford attracts play from visiting golfers, noting that many golf

District's hoping to boost reading

Special to The Brand

When was the last time you actually heard a teen-ager ask to read a book just for fun? That's a question the Hereford High School Library hopes will be answered during Teen Read Week (Oct. 17-23) and throughout the school year.

Teen Read Week is designed to turn teens on to reading. The message is "Reading Rocks - Read for the Fun of It!"

The Hereford High School Library will join hundreds of other libraries, the American Library Association and the Young Adult Services Association in the celebration.

"Teens sometimes get so busy they forget that there's more to reading than just textbooks," says Donna Luther, Hereford High School Librarian. "Teen Read Week aims to remind teens that reading is fun; it's free and can be done anywhere, anytime. We also hope it encourages parents and teachers to promote reading."

During Teen Read Week, the Hereford High School Library will be offering a special program for students called "Caught You Reading."

Students who are "caught" reading materials other than textbooks will be given a coupon which can be redeemed at the high school library for special prizes, such as movie passes donated by Hereford Moovies 6.

Luther says there are lots of ways teens can read for the fun of it:

- Keep a book going all the time by carrying it in a backpack or read on the bus ride to school or extracurricular events;
- Spend a few minutes reading each night before going to bed;

- If you like the movie, read the book;

- Read to a younger sibling;
- Don't finish a book if it does not interest you. Pick up something else;

- Visit the library and ask a librarian to recommend great books for teens.

Free lists of books of good reads for teens are available at the high school library and online from the Young Adult Library Services Association at www.ala.org/yalsa.

U.S. rejection of pact sparking anger, fear

LONDON (AP) — Nations around the world have sharply criticized the U.S. Senate's defeat of a multinational nuclear test ban treaty, with at least one leader saying other nations will use it as an excuse not to sign.

From Russia to China, Brazil to Germany, government leaders criticized the Senate's Wednesday night decision to reject the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty, which would outlaw underground testing of nuclear weapons.

Amid widespread fears, Western powers on Thursday appealed to the Senate to think again.

U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan expressed dismay and renewed his call for all countries to sign the pact. Annan, who oversees ratification of the treaty, noted in a statement that just last week, the treaty's signatories "reaffirmed the importance of a universal ... and effectively verifiable comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty."

India hinted it may take its time before signing on to the treaty, saying "national consensus" must be built first.

Clinton pounds GOP on budget cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton is accusing congressional Republicans of planning "unconscionable" cuts in education and other programs as the two sides sharpen their positions in the ongoing budget fight.

The Senate planned to give final approval today to a $99 billion measure financing veterans, housing and science programs. On Thursday, the Senate sent Clinton a $268 billion defense bill.

But two weeks into

fiscal 2000, just five of the 13 annual spending bills have become law, and five others face veto threats. And as the White House and lawmakers focus on the remaining, most politically charged measures, both sides' rhetoric is sharpening.

Clinton used a White House news conference Thursday to say he would veto a bill financing labor, health and education programs, since it provides little of the $1.4 billion he wants to continue hiring new elementary school teachers.

"It would be unconscionable to think that America at its moment of greatest prosperity, when we got our first surplus in 30 years, is out there cutting education, and several other areas," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., rejected that, noting that overall the Senate version of the bill contains more for education than Clinton proposed. He also said Clinton has done nothing in months to help Congress complete its budget work. "Hadn't had a single call from him, not any contact, no suggestions, other than a few missiles fired over from the White House," Lott told reporters.

With an eye toward the Oct. 21 expiration of a bill that has kept federal agencies open since the Oct. 1 start of the new fiscal year, House and Senate leaders ordered the authors of the labor-education bill — which surpasses $310 billion — to try crafting a compromise that Congress could pass next week.

It seems certain that Congress will need at least one more stopgap spending bill extension while lawmakers and administration officials complete the final bills. Members of both parties said they expected Clinton would sign one, even though White House

Wholesale prices up

■ Price surge causes Wall Street to reel; Dow off 240 points

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices at the wholesale level surged 1.1 percent in September, the biggest increase in nine years, the government said today in a report that sent stocks diving on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell more than 240 points shortly after the opening bell as investors focused on the worrisome inflation news and fresh concerns voiced by Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan that investors could be underestimating the risk of a sudden sharp fall in the value of stocks and other assets.

The Labor Department said the huge runup in its Producer Price Index, which measures inflation pressures before they reach the consumer, was more than double a worrisome 0.5 percent gain in August. The increase was blamed on higher prices for energy and food.

ALAN GREENSPAN

"History tells us that sharp reversals occur abruptly, most often with little advance notice."

On Wall Street, both bond and stock prices were dragged down by the inflation report and the reaction of overseas markets to Greenspan's new worries about high asset values. The Dow lost more than 240 points in the first minutes after the opening bell but then stabilized down 165 points after an hour of trading.

Gene Sperling, director of the president's National Economic Council, stressed that despite the one-month surge in wholesale prices "we still feel the overall, basic fundamentals in the economy are quite strong."

Sperling said that economic growth was "quite solid" in the just completed July-September quarter although he said the administration would be "closely monitoring the inflation numbers in the future."

Speaking to a conference on risk management Thursday night, Greenspan said that banks "must be careful not to overlook" the threats posed by a big decline in asset values. "History tells us that sharp reversals occur abruptly, most often with little advance notice," Greenspan said.

Dispute

spokesman Joe Lockhart said, "The president has made no such commitment."

Clinton said across-the-board cuts Republicans were considering in all 13 bills "could deny tens of thousands of children Head Start opportunities, drastically reduce medical research, sacrifice military readiness, jeopardize the safety of air traffic control."

GOP leaders played down the impact of the cuts, which they said would be 1 percent or less, and insisted they would honor their pledge not to use Social Security surpluses to pay for spending.

"Rather than cut Social Security, I'd cut any program, every program across the board," Lott said.

In other developments: The Senate gave the defense bill final approval by 87-11 after it cleared the House on Wednesday. To gain leverage, Clinton was expected to delay signing the measure until Congress completed the other spending bills. The Pentagon bill would provide the military's biggest pay raise in nearly two decades, slow the Air Force's F-22 "stealth" fighter program and seek to halt a Pentagon decline in readiness. It was also home to gimmicks such as declaring $7 billion in military operations and maintenance programs an "emergency," meaning the money would not count against spending limits.

The House approved the veterans-housing bill, 406-18. Senate approval was planned today, and Clinton was expected to sign it. The measure would give Clinton even more than he requested for environmental, veterans health and space programs. It is also included hundreds of projects for members' districts, including $150,000 for a hands-on children's museum in Florence, Ala., and $2 million to buttress a building against earthquakes at California State University in San Bernardino.

House-Senate bargainers neared agreement on a $38 billion measure for the departments of Commerce, Justice and State. White House support seemed uncertain. One participant said the bill would provide $570 million for Clinton's proposal to help communities hire thousands of police officers, less than half of what he wanted.

The House approved a District of Columbia spending measure, 217-202. Clinton vetoed an earlier version because he said it intruded on local decision-making, and White House officials warned that the new bill would be vetoed too.

Treaty

with India is a new nuclear power — the military leaders who seized control after a coup Tuesday had nothing to say. But a spokesman for Pakistani opposition leader Benazir Bhutto said it is virtually certain now that neither Pakistan nor India will sign.

"Every country will use it as an excuse not to sign," opposition leader Naveed Qamar said Thursday.

The Senate rejected the treaty 51-48, making the United States the first of the world's declared nuclear powers to specifically reject it. The treaty has been signed by 154 nations, including the United States, but has been ratified by only 26 of the 44 nuclear-capable states that must approve it to put it into force.

In Vienna, the commission set up to administer the proposed global ban said it would continue work anyway and hopes the United States changes its mind. Britain and France have signed and ratified the treaty, China and Russia have signed but not ratified, and India, Pakistan and North Korea have done neither.

In Moscow, the Foreign Ministry said Russia was "disillusioned and seriously concerned," and labeled the vote part of a U.S. attempt to "destabilize the foundations of international relations."

China, more restrained than Moscow, said it would nevertheless speed up its own efforts to ratify the treaty and continue with a self-imposed moratorium on nuclear tests.

Australia stood virtually alone in showing some sympathy. "As the world's one remaining superpower, (the United States) sees itself as having a special global responsibility," Environment Minister Robert Hill said.

Opponents in the Senate argued that the treaty would not halt the nuclear ambitions of North Korea and Iran and would endanger safety of the U.S. arsenal. Clinton said Thursday he would observe the treaty.

"I have no intention of doing anything other than sticking with the obligations imposed by the treaty on the United States," he said.

the break-even point because of improved billing and collections. Owen asked if there is any financial assistance from any of the other taxing entities, with Bailey responding, "No."

Lewis said he wondered if "perhaps the hospital district should ask 'our partners' (City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County) to contribute to the ambulance service."

In other business, the directors:

- Reviewed the August financials, which showed a net gain of about $32,900. Through August, the hospital district is showing a net gain of $42,165, a marked improvement over the $554,100 loss for the same period last year;

- Learned representatives from Trinity MedCare of Nashville, Tenn., will make a presentation at the Nov. 16 board meeting. The company is interested in an agreement with the hospital to provide outpatient psychiatric care for the elderly. Lewis said the outpatient unit could mean additional revenue for the district;

- Approved payment of August bills; and

- Discussed the vacancy on the board created when Director Jeremy Grant resigned. Lewis suggested the board delay any decision on a possible replacement until all board members are present. Director Mark Collier was absent.

ers go to restaurants, stay locally in hotels, and buy gifts before they leave the community.

Even though golf is an economic and tourist booster to the town, the City of Hereford has had trouble making the course a break-even venture.

According to Steve Bartels, city finance manager, the city made an estimated $121,000 in taxable revenue during the 1999 fiscal year, which includes pro shop purchases and cart rentals.

Another $142,000 was collected in non-taxable revenue by the city of Hereford from green fees.

But the city still recorded a $75,000 deficit in 1999. It cost the city $338,000 to maintain the golf course.

Bartels said that it is usually normal for the city to lose money on the golf course, but attributed part of this past year's loss to ongoing repairs, made necessary after an October 1998 flood ravaged the Hereford links.

Despite the city's losses, Brown believes the golf course has brought many positives to the city of Hereford.

"Our course is in very good shape and this community's efforts to keep it at that level are rewarded and reflected in the amount of play we get — and those numbers don't lie," Brown said. "No one would come and play on a bad course, and golfers have never stopped coming to play in Hereford."

Child testifies he 'saw my dad shoot my mom'

FORT WORTH — An 11-year-old boy was indeed small as he was sworn in with other witnesses at the start of a murder trial in the court of state District Court Judge Robert Gill.

His hand barely peeked through his gray suit as he raised his right hand and swore to tell the truth in the trial of Jimmy Watkins, 34, his father, accused of killing his wife last December after learning she was having an affair.

His testimony Thursday was concise, his answers brief. "I saw my mom fall down and I saw my dad shoot my mom," he said as his father, sitting nearby at the defense table, bowed his head and sobbed.

Occasionally, the boy glanced at his father. As prosecutor James Cook asked about the shooting, the boy's lower lip quivered, but he did not cry.

Watkins is accused of killing his wife, Nancy, last Dec. 22 at their home near Eagle Mountain Lake, about 25 miles northwest of Fort Worth. He shot her once in the head, chased her boyfriend outside and shot him twice, then returned and shot his wife five more times as she pleaded for help in a 911 call, Cook said.

Watkins' son testified, "He came back and shot my mom." When he finished testifying, he calmly walked from the courtroom. Then he broke down and cried.

'Animal' executed for East Texas murder

HUNTSVILLE — T.J. Harrison says he knew it would be a long process before the man convicted of killing his daughter would be punished.

More than 13 years later, Jerry "Animal" McFadden quietly went to the Texas death chamber Thursday night and received lethal injection for abducting, raping, beating and strangling Harrison's 18-year-old daughter.

Suzanne Harrison was one of three friends, all from Hawkins in northeast Texas about 100 miles east of Dallas, who died in a one-night murder spree.

"I was afraid capital punishment would be taken off the docket before this time came," Harrison said after watching McFadden die. "This is justice. A life taken, a life given."

Matching funds received by Lutheran Church

Immanuel Lutheran Church in Hereford recently received $450 from Lutheran Brotherhood, a fraternal benefit society, through the society's Congregational Matching Funds program. Lutheran Brotherhood matched the amount that the congregation raised through a Mexican stack dinner, which took place in August 1999. Immanuel Lutheran will use the funds it raised and the matching funds from Lutheran Brotherhood for maintenance and repair of church property. As a member-owned not-for-profit fraternal benefit society, Lutheran Brotherhood is an organization of more than one million Lutherans joined together for financial security, volunteer service, and benevolent outreach. Lutheran Brotherhood's mission is to work together to provide financial security for members and to serve Lutherans, their congregations, institutions, and communities.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter from "Needs Help in Cape Cod," whose daughter is a compulsive spender. I hope it's not too late to respond. I sympathize with those parents, because their child sounds just like my husband. "Trent" cannot resist buying things, whether or not he needs them or can afford them. This compulsion has landed him in plenty of hot water. Last year, he leased a car, then, purchased another. He ended up making car and insurance payments for two cars when he could barely afford one. So far, we've been fortunate. We haven't lost our home, nor has anything major been repossessed, but I know it could still happen. I realize my husband is a "spend-a-holic." Another member of my family is an alcoholic, and I attend Al-Anon meetings regularly. As a result of what I have learned at those meetings, I no longer bail my husband out of his financial messes. When he asks me to sign for a loan or give him money, I politely refuse. And I have learned not to argue with him about his spending because it accomplishes nothing. Tell those parents in Cape Cod to stop bailing their daughter out. I know it's very difficult for them to see their child drowning and not try to "save" her, but the girl needs to learn responsibility. If her parents insist that she cut up her credit cards and get counseling for her spending addiction, it won't be a permanent cure. She must want it for herself. I wish her luck. — Voice of Experience in Colorado
Dear V.O.E.: Thank you for sitting in my chair today. I could not have said it better.

I hope those Cape Cod parents see your letter, and that their daughter is equal to the challenge.
Dear Ann Landers: A while back, you printed a letter from a woman whose husband, "Duke," had retired from the military. Since then, he stopped taking regular showers, hasn't had a haircut, and shows no interest in sex. You told her Duke needed to be seen by a doctor. The changes the woman noticed may be the result of readjustment problems many military men suffer when they face the challenges of returning to civilian life. Please tell your readers there are services available specifically for veterans through Veterans' Affairs (VA) medical centers and outpatient clinics. To find the nearest VA facility, readers can check the government listing in their phone book.

Thank you for your continued support of our troops, and for reminding people that many still suffer the effects of their service to our country long after they have been discharged. VA is there to help. — Dorothy Carskadon, MSW, Rockford Vet Center Outstation, Ill.
Dear Dorothy Carskadon: Thank you for providing my readers with some valuable information. I hope Duke and his wife call the nearest VA facility today.
Dear Ann Landers: How do I handle telephone callers who do not identify themselves? I do not have the ear of a Toscanini or a Solti. I have trouble recognizing the voices of people who choose not to introduce themselves. When I say, "Who are you?" it sounds rude. I end up encouraging the callers to talk endlessly about themselves until I get a hint of who they might be. This is time-consuming and annoying. Whenever I call anyone, I say, "Hello. This is Dan." What should I do about callers who refuse to help me out? — Dan in Chicago

Dear Dan: I'll tell you what I do. I say, "Sorry, I don't recognize your voice. To whom am I speaking?"

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
We take this opportunity to invite you to Bible Study and worship services. We need you to bring some of your stuff with you when you come.

First, bring your brain. We not only want you to be able to express your emotions in worship, we believe God intended us to use our minds wisely. Your honest-to-goodness questions are important. We may not have all the answers but we can enjoy fellowship as we search the scriptures for them.

Second, bring your hurts. We all have them at various times and intensities. Church folks sometimes look happy. Some are, but a lot of us are hurting. We believe that our God can help us with our hurts.

Thirdly, bring your family and friends, we need each other.

By the way, leave a few things at home, like excuses. We've all heard them. We have plenty of them already. We have entire empty rooms and parts of a few pews filled with excuses. We'd rather have them filled with your presence.

Oh, another thing you may want to leave behind is any preconceived notion of what Baptists are like. We might surprise you. We have lots of different classes for lots of different interests. It all starts at 9:45 a.m. for Bible Study and 10:50 a.m. for worship. We'd love to see you there.

Sunday School for the children is from 9:15-10:15 a.m. Immanuel also offers two Bible studies with one on Sunday morning at 9:15 a.m. and the other on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. In honor of the celebration of the Reformation, both Bible studies are watching a video on Martin Luther, a pastor in the 16th century who helped bring about many changes in the church.

We hope to have you join us at any one of our services or activities at Immanuel. If you have questions, contact Immanuel Lutheran Church at 364-1668.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS
"When the cat's away..." no, the mice did not play.

While the pastor has been in Hawaii attending to his terminally ill brother, the FOB mice have not been playing. True to its character as a people's church the people have carried on without a pastor on the scene.

Pastor Nathan L. Stone is grateful for all who have stepped forward to help: for preachers Tom Simons and Bill Devers and for teachers Larry Malamen and Dan Neal. Special thanks to administrator Margaret Formby for orchestrating it all.

Pastor Stone will return to his pastoral responsibilities this Sunday. Reflecting on Matthew 22:15-22, a sermon emerges entitled, "Honestly...Who/What Own you?" Worship (10:30) concludes no later than 11:25.

A creative and unique Sunday school experience awaits children and youth ages 3 through 14 at 9:30. Older youth and adults do a thing called "Forum." Sunday's topic will probably be, "Marriage: What is it?" The group will be looking for conventional wisdom and secrets of success.

FOB is independent, multi-denominational, non-exclusive, thought-and-graceful, fun-loving, compassionate, non-legalistic and generous.

A supervised nursery is available at all services.

The church gathers at 245 N. Kingwood (at Moreman), next door to the Hereford Care Center, for coffee, soft drinks, and homemade goodies at 9:15.

Come, eat, see, laugh, talk, learn, stretch and enjoy.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
The friendly folks of First Presbyterian Church welcome you to our fellowship and service of worship at 10:30 a.m. this Sunday. Our guest pastor will be David Watts. David and his wife Peggy are both Hereford natives who now live in Amarillo.

Our Sunday school classes meet at 9:15 a.m. There are classes for each age group. We also offer The Joy Class for adults with mental challenges but this class will not meet this week.

Enjoy a cup of coffee and conversation with friends during our fellowship time at 10:1

Natural Bom Hitter

■ Hitter Bernhardt's confidence has become weapon complimenting team

By Yuri Soto
Hereford Brand Sports Editor

Confidence is something that takes a long time to build. But few people grow confidence faster than normal.

One of those persons that grew confidence faster than Shaquille O'Neal is middle hitter Michelle Bernhardt.

Bernhardt, just a sophomore, has grown to be one of the top hitters in the area, and has established herself as a go-to girl, complimenting captain Tori Walker.

More like a secondary hitter. And no one else, except her other teammates, appreciates her situation.

"I am glad to be a part of Hereford volleyball and to get a chance to play with Tori and the rest of the girls," Bernhardt said. "I am glad I am part of the team."

So are her coaches and teammates. After a dreadful performance last Saturday against Dumas where she had more errors than kills, she had seven kills in Wednesday's 15-4, 15-4 victory over Palo Duro.

"I try to concentrate on the mistakes from the last games and try to fix those so I won't make the same mistakes in the game," Bernhardt said. "Before the game, I start focusing on what I need to do what needs to get done as a team."

"She has become very important to us, as have all of our kids," Lady Whiteface coach Brenda Kitten said. "Michelle is one of those kids I am not sure she knew how good she could be coming into the start of the season."

People didn't think how good the Lady Whitefaces would be this season. They struggled quite a bit in the beginning, but now are in the verge of a district championship.

Not bad for a team with mostly underclassmen.

"We have a bunch of freshmen and sophomores on our team," Bernhardt said. "Everybody expected Hereford wasn't going to do anything because we're young."

The Lady Whitefaces have gone into this year without winning a district championship since 1995. So, winning a district title will be very important for Bernhardt and Hereford going into the playoffs.

"I think it's important we have the undefeated season and try to get the first place," Bernhardt said. "Just to show everybody that we're young, but we're still capable of working as a team. Plus you get a bye and it helps."

Only two years ago, Bernhardt was in the small

Yanks take 2-0 lead on Bosox, win 3-2

NEW YORK (AP) — What drama, these New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox create.

Bounces and bloopers. Moves and counter-moves.

Home runs and near misses.

Only the result remains the same: greatness for New York, painful losses for Boston.

And so, as the AL championship series heads to Boston today, the Yankees lead 2 games to 0, on track for their third trip to the World Series in four seasons following Thursday night's 3-2 win, a game that can be replayed and analyzed endlessly.

"It was ridiculous. It was nerve-wracking," Tino Martinez said after watching the top of the eighth, a thriller — or tragedy, depending on your allegiance — that saw New York manager Joe Torre go through four pitchers, and Boston manager Jimmy Williams exhaust his bench by using three pinch-hitters and two pinch-runners.

"That's the stuff, you sit home and watch a game and say, 'Do this, do this, do this,'" Torre said.

With their 12th consecutive postseason victory, the World Series champions tied the record set by the Murderer's Row Yankees of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig who swept the World Series in 1927, '28 and '32.

"It is phenomenal. Obviously, you don't think about a streak that you're on. You just think about the game that you're playing and managing," Torre said. "You can't say it's hard to believe because it's happened, but it is — it's hard to believe. I can't think of anything else to say."

Tension built throughout the chilly night. Martinez hit a solo homer in the fourth off Ramon Martinez, the brother of Red Sox star pitcher Pedro Martinez, who starts Game 3 Saturday against former Boston ace Roger Clemens.

Nomar Garciaparra put the Red Sox ahead in the fifth with a two-run homer off David Cone, starting for the first time since Oct. 2. To add intrigue, first base was open at the time and Troy O'Leary, just 2-for-22 in his career against Cone at that point, was on deck.

Ramon Martinez tired in the seventh, allowing a game-tying double to Chuck Knoblauch on his 120th pitch — 22 more than he had thrown in any start since a 15-month layoff caused by reconstructive shoulder surgery.

Tom Gordon walked Derek Jeter, Knoblauch stole third and Paul O'Neill, playing with a broken rib, hit a soft, opposite-field single that drove in the go-ahead run.

"Looks great in the paper, but I didn't hit it hard," O'Neill said. "Today I felt really good. So much has been blown out of proportion on this (rib) thing."

Turns out that was just the prologue.

Mike Stanton relieved Cone to start the eighth and O'Leary doubled off the 385-foot sign in right, missing a home run by inches. Jason Varitek also had a near miss in the second on a ball closer to the right-field line.

"Those balls go out and we're up one run," said Damon Buford, who ended the game by striking out against Mariano Rivera with runners at the corners.

Then came the chess game, a fascinating display that rarely occurs during the regu-

7th Football splits with Borger

From Staff Reports

The boys 7th grade teams split their series on Thursday against Borger.

The 7th 'A' team defeated Borger 34-0. A.J. Tijerina had a 7-yard touchdown run with 5:28 left in the first half. The play was set up by an interception from Eric Roddy. Beau Harmon's catch in the end zone provided the two-point conversion.

Clay Yenser then threw a 36-yard touchdown pass to Terry

Valdez, giving Hereford junior high a 14-0 lead with 1:28 left in the first half.

Two more scores put away the game for the junior high Whitefaces. Tijerina's 6-yard run and Josh Schroeter's 32-yard interception return put Hereford up 28-0. Garrett Pickens kicked both extra points.

Vivimo Garza's 14-yard touchdown run with 3:31 left in the game sealed Borger's fate.

The 7th 'B' team wasn't as fortunate, losing 30-6.

Nathan Alaniz's 61-yard run to the end zone was the only score recorded by Hereford.

9th 'A' ties Canyon Randall

From Staff Reports

The 9th Grade 'A' team played a tough game against Canyon Randall and came out with an 8-8 tie on Thursday.

Hereford's only score was a 27-yard scoring connection between Esrael Silva and Anthony Ramirez. Silva's pass to Raymond Carillo gave Hereford their eighth point on the two-point conversion.

The 9th grade 'B' team score was unavailable at press time.

The 'A' team will host Palo Duro next week. The 'B' team will play at Frenship.

G-Men to start Graham vs. Cowboys

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — After the New York Giants won the NFC East in 1997 in Jim Fassel's first season as coach, there was an assumption by many that the days of Dallas' dynasty were over.

How else could you look at it? The Giants had a young up-and-coming team and the Cowboys and their stars, Troy Aikman, Emmitt Smith and Michael Irvin, were aging.

Like many assumptions, it was inaccurate. The Cowboys not only bounced back in 1998 to win their sixth division title in seven years, they did it by posting the first perfect division record (8-0).

Dallas (3-1) is showing no signs of letting up this year. It will take a share of the first place (Washington) in the NFC East into Giants Stadium on Monday night when it faces the struggling Giants (2-3) on national television.

"I think we are a better football team than a year ago," Aikman said. "Now it's just a matter of proving it. We started off well. Obviously losing Sunday (to Philadelphia) was a big disappointment, but that's life in the NFL when you don't play well. The important thing is to bounce back against New York."

The Cowboys will be without receiver Michael Irvin this week, and maybe forever. The 12-year veteran is considering his future in football after sustaining a neck injury and swollen spinal cord in last week's 13-10 loss at Philadelphia.

"I speak for everyone when I say there is still concern," Aikman said.

The Giants, who missed the playoffs with an 8-8 record last season, come into the game in turmoil.

The defense, which has played well enough for the team to be 4-1, is annoyed with the offense, which has struggled since the opening day of the season.

While there has been no finger pointing, yet, the locker room could get ugly if quarterback Kent Graham's return to the lineup doesn't wake up the offense, which has scored 19 points in the last two games.

Kerry Collins started last week with Graham sidelined by a concussion and he didn't do much in a 14-3 loss to Arizona.

Earlier this week, Fassel got up in front of the team and admitted the offense wasn't doing its job. The offense also took it upon itself to have a meeting.

"These guys know what they've got to do," All-Pro defensive end Michael Strahan said. "They're smart enough to figure it out."

The Giants have struggled in recent years against Dallas, especially on a Monday night. The Cowboys have beaten the Giants in all seven of their prime time games.

Last year's win came courtesy of "Prime Time." Deion Sanders scored on a 59-yard punts return, a 71-yard interception return and an 80-yard pass in the Cowboys 31-7 win.

Besides controlling Sanders, the Giants defense needs to slow down Smith. The 10-year veteran has rushed for 100 yards three times this season. He leads the NFC with 409 yards rushing.

Aikman has struggled a little, throwing for 840 yards, eight touchdowns and seven interceptions. Five of the TD passes came in the season opener.

The key for the Giants will be to get more consistent play out of the offense and for the defense to not only slow Dallas, but to chip in with a few turnovers.

In the Giants' two wins this season, they have forced eight turnovers. In three losses, they didn't force a single turnover.

"Without stating the obvious, it's a very, very, very important game for us," said Fassel, who has been criticized more in recent weeks by the media. "We're coming off a loss and it's against a team we always feel like we have to play well to beat. We need a win."

Kickoff is scheduled for around 9 p.m. EDT.

Texas A&M Aggie football wary of Kansas Jayhawks

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Aggies haven't forgotten Kansas.

Memories are too fresh from a year ago when the highly favored Aggies needed a desperate final drive to escape with a 24-21 victory over the Jayhawks in Lawrence, Kan.

Ranked No. 13 this week, the Aggies (4-1, 1-1 Big 12) plan to be ready for the Jayhawks (2-4, 0-2) Saturday at Kyle Field.

"You are never good enough to look up and say it's okay this week, but then it is going to get tough," Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum said. "It might get tough this week."

The Aggies were 11-3 last season and earned a berth against Ohio State in the Sugar Bowl and most look back on their comeback against Kansas as the defining moment of the season.

The Jayhawks were minutes from a stunning upset but couldn't stop A&M's 75-yard drive, capped by Dante Hall's winning touchdown with 3:24 left in the game.

"We had to scramble just to beat Kansas and now we had to go play Nebraska," Slocum said. "We had a very frank meeting to discuss where we were. I gave the team credit for the comeback, but I said we can't take these kinds of chances. To even have a chance, we need a more consistent effort."

The Aggies beat Nebraska 28-21 en route to the Big 12 title.

Now the Aggies (4-1, 1-1)

face the Jayhawks again and they've already had their scary game this season and they weren't able to pull that one out in a 21-19 loss to underdog Texas Tech.

"We are trying to take care of what's in front of us," A&M quarterback Randy McCown said. "We learned that at Texas Tech. We got caught up in the side stuff. Now we play everybody like they're the Super Bowl champions."

The Aggies have had to shuffle running backs because of injuries. Starters Dante Hall and Tiki Hardeman didn't practice at the beginning of the week.

Offensive coordinator Steve Kragthorpe has gone with sophomore Ja'Mar Toombs, Stacy Jones and freshman Joe Weber and Eric Bernard, who has fought back from two knee surgeries.

"Whoever gets on the bus, we ride with," Kragthorpe said.

Kansas coach Terry Allen anticipates difficulty against the Aggie runners.

Several starters didn't make the trip, including second-leading running back David Winbush and running back-kick return specialist Henri Childs, seventh nationally in punt returns.

Junior college transfer quarterback Dylon Smith thinks the team should listen.

"It's been undisciplined since the first day I've been here," Smith said. "But we do need to buckle down as far as being a team."

Sports lost a fan in Chamberlain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A familiar, imposing presence will be missing from track meets, tennis matches, volleyball games and a variety of other sports events.

Wilt Chamberlain was a sports great who was a great sports fan.

Before he died of heart failure on Tuesday, the NBA Hall of Fame center was making plans to attend the 2000 Olympics in Australia.

"No matter what it was, if there was a major sporting event, chances are you would see Wilt," said Don Franken, a track meet promoter. "I think track was one of his favorites and he came to most of our meets. Just having him at events was something special. He was always in the spotlight, but he never needed it. He was just happy to be there. It's going to seem strange, not having Wilt in the stands."

Lynda Huey, Chamberlain's friend for 30 years, often accompanied him to sports events, and also endured his channel-surfing.

"This man could watch two football games and a baseball game on different channels at the same time, and sometimes maybe a fourth game, and know exactly what was going on in all of them," Huey said. "It was amazing."

Sports was far from his only pastime, however.

Huey and Sy Goldberg, Chamberlain's lawyer for 40 years, said their friend was a rare person because of his intelligence, strong personality and varied interests.

Chamberlain, who was 63, was taking saxophone lessons, writing a screenplay and playing the stock market in recent months, Goldberg said.

"He probably was the most intelligent person I've ever been around," the attorney said. "He was the most inquisitive person I've known. Wilt would call me up in the middle of the night to have philosophical discussions. He had a great amount of knowledge on a lot of different subjects."

Chamberlain also authored two autobiographical books that contained controversial statements.

He wrote in his 1975 book, "Wilt: Just Like Any Other Seven-Foot Black Millionaire Who Lives Next Door," that he dated mostly white women because there were few black women in his socio-economic circle.

That comment drew the ire of many black women, Huey recalled.

In 1991, his second book titled "A View From Above," caused even more of a fuss when he claimed that, since age 15, he had sexual encounters with 20,000 women, averaging 1.2 a day.

A memorial service for Chamberlain will be held Saturday in Los Angeles.

lar season when the stakes are lower.

"You make the moves. Hopefully, they work out," Williams said.

Jeff Nelson hit Mike Stanley on the right wrist, with Buford coming in to pinch run. Varitek sacrificed the runners over, and Allen Watson relieved with a 1-0 count on pinch-hitter Scott Hatteberg.

Boston countered by having Merloni hit for Hatteberg, and the Yankees intentionally walked him, loading the bases.

Butch Huskey then hit for Trot Nixon. Ramiro Mendoza came in, with Donnie Sadler — the last available non-pitcher on Boston's bench — running at first for Merloni.

Huskey struck out on a 1-2 pitch and Jose Offerman lofted an easy fly to center. Huskey had been 0-for-2 against Mendoza in his career and Offerman 3-for-10.

"I was put in a great situation to succeed and I didn't succeed," Huskey said. "I chalk this one up to him. He got me this time. I'll get him next time."

Rivera, who won Wednesday's opener with two innings of one-hit relief, got two quick outs in the ninth but Garciparra singled and went to third on O'Leary's bloop single. Rivera then fanned Buford on a 2-2 pitch to end it.

"It's a tough game," Buford said. "You go up there. You try to see a ball you can hit and try to hit a ball fair. That's all you can do."

world people call junior high volleyball. It's amazing how many athletes handle the transition from being in the junior high program to going into Kitten's volleyball boot camp.

Bernhardt was put in that frontal position since her start in junior high athletics. She's always been able of being in the front.

"In seventh grade, I first played volleyball, and they said that I was going to be a hitter," she said. "I was pretty tall then, so they put me in that position."

Of the ones who made that fast transition from junior high to Camp Kitten, they love their place in it, especially Bernhardt.

"It is a privilege to play for Coach Kitten," Bernhardt said. "Coach Kitten pushes you. She never lets you take a moment off."

Thanks to that extra push Bernhardt's teammates have received, they're on the verge of a strong playoff run.

"A lot of my teammates have been pushed, too," she said. "All our coaches have helped us grow."

With the volleyball season reaching its climax, basketball is on the horizon and Bernhardt will get ready for that.

"I love both sports," she said. "I'd like volleyball if I had to choose, but I love them both."

Campaign finance debate hot

WASHINGTON (AP) — For two of the main antagonists in the campaign finance debate, a Senate bill that would overhaul fund-raising rules is either a much-needed reform of money's influence in politics or an infringement on the Constitution.

Neither side flinched as well-worn opening arguments began Thursday on the legislation, which centers on a proposed ban of "soft money" given to political parties that is unregulated by the federal government. Debate was to continue today.

"What this fight is all about is taking the $100,000 check out of American politics for good," said Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., a GOP presidential candidate and leading supporter of changing the present system.

But Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., who chairs the GOP senatorial campaign committee and is vowing to filibuster the bill, called it an "assault on freedom." Opposition to it, he said, was evidence of "a constituency for protecting constitutional freedom."

The debate has become something of an annual Senate ritual in recent years, with sponsors struggling unsuccessfully to overcome blocking tactics by Republicans who say the measure violates the free speech guarantees of the Constitution. In an effort to avoid a similar fate this year, McCain and Sen. Russ Feingold, D-Wis., decided to bring a stripped-down measure to the floor.

In addition to the ban on "soft money" in federal campaigns, the bill also would give nonunion members the ability to stop unions from using their mandatory dues money for political purposes.

President Clinton added a voice in support of the bill in a letter to Senate leaders. The president also urged adoption of amendments to bring the bill in line with recently passed House legislation that contains more sweeping restrictions on campaign fund-raising and spending.

One provision added on a 77-20 vote Thursday would require more timely reporting of fund-raising reports.

No sooner had Senate debate opened than McConnell sought to placate McCain on the defensive on an issue that the Arizonan has made a centerpiece of his bid for the GOP presidential nomination. McConnell quoted the fellow Republican as often having said that "we are all corrupted" by the current system of campaign fund raising. He referred to a Web site page that cited a link between soft money donations and wasteful "pork-barrel spending."

"If there is corruption, someone must be corrupt," he said, challenging McCain to name names among his colleagues in Congress.

Doctors group garners Nobel

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS News digest

OSLO, Norway — Doctors Without Borders won the 1999 Nobel Peace Prize today in recognition of the organization's "pioneering humanitarian work on several continents," the Norwegian Nobel Committee said.

Doctors Without Borders is a volunteer organization that treats victims of war, famine and other disasters around the world.

Medecins Sans Frontieres, the international name of the organization founded in 1971 by French doctors, has more than 2,000 medical professionals volunteering in 80 countries. They work in hospitals, refugee camps and nutrition centers.

"Since its foundation in the early 1970s, Doctors Without Borders has adhered to the fundamental principle that all disaster victims, whether the disaster is natural or human in origin, have a right to professional assistance given as quickly and as efficiently as possible," the committee said.

The five-member awards committee works in secrecy during its five or six meetings a year, and refuses to comment on or release candidates' names. This year it said only that there were 136 nominees and the winner was selected on Sept. 29.

GOP, Democrats continue to spar over test ban treaty
WASHINGTON — Senate Republicans are defending their opposition to a rejected nuclear test ban treaty against charges by President Clinton that they engaged in "reckless partisanship."

As Clinton and Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott sparred via dueling news conferences, both Democrats seeking the presidency — Vice President Al Gore and Bill Bradley — said they would resubmit the treaty if elected.

Republicans remained supportive of Wednesday's 51-48 rejection of the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty.

Clinton denounced the Senate's ruling-party Republicans on Thursday at an East Room news conference. "They brushed aside the views of the American people and betrayed the vision of Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy, who set us on the road to this treaty so many years ago."

"Members of the congressional majority have displayed a reckless partisanship," Clinton said.

Starr to quit, assistant tapped as replacement

WASHINGTON — A 39-year-old assistant to Kenneth Starr will take over the final phase of the independent counsel's controversial investigation that led to the impeachment of President Clinton, say sources familiar with Starr's plans.

Starr will formally step aside next week and be replaced by Robert Ray, an assistant U.S. attorney who worked for Independent Counsel Donald Smaltz in the probe of ex-Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy, say the sources, who are allies of Starr.

A panel of three federal appeals court judges that selects independent counsels chose Ray after interviewing a number of people.

Gore targets child hunger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying that it's "more than unpleasant" for a child to go to bed hungry night after night, Vice President Al Gore is outlining the steps he would take as president to fight hunger and help working parents feed their families.

"It would be the cruelest of ironies if, in this time of great bounty in America, we did not solve, once and for all, the moral challenge of child hunger," Gore says in remarks prepared for delivery today in recognition of World Hunger Day.

He said solving the problem would require strengthening the nutrition safety net and supporting community programs that help people who don't have enough to eat.

To that end, Gore said if elected president he would:

- Give communities resources to design innovative strategies, such as expanding the number of schools that provide free meals or making sure parents know that breakfast is available at school for their children.

- Allow working families to own a car without jeopardizing their food stamp eligibility. Under current policy, families receiving nutritional assistance cannot own a car worth more than $4,650.

- Continue to restore food stamp benefits to legal immigrants.

- Reward states that do a "good job" signing up families for food stamps.

- Support anti-hunger partnerships between local, state, national and religious groups.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Elizabeth Dole avoided traditional political venues while campaigning in Iowa on Thursday as she helped present the World Food Prize.

ELIZABETH DOLE

Recalling her experiences as Transportation Secretary and director of the American Red Cross, she urged a focus on seemingly mundane topics such as food distribution, far less flashy than scientific breakthroughs that can revolutionize food production.

"Those involved in famine and disaster relief know only too well the hardships imposed by the lack of transportation and communications systems," said Dole, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

The World Food Prize is given annually to mark the greatest achievements in finding ways to feed a fast-growing world. This year's award went to a British scientist who developed a vaccine against a deadly livestock disease.

The United Nations said the world's population hit 6 billion this week, doubling since 1950.

Dole for years has been an adviser to the group and is close to Des Moines businessman John Ruan, who underwrites the prize.

Dole said dealing with disasters taught her the need to focus on the hard realities of food production and distribution.

Miller wins Gish prize

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
People

NEW YORK — Playwright Arthur Miller has been awarded the Dorothy and Lillian Gish Prize, honoring his 50 years of serving as a moral beacon for American literature.

"I guess what I've been trying to do for half a century is to part the curtain on what we deny," Miller said Thursday during a small gathering at the Hudson Theater. "To me, that is what the theater is about — to discover what we are desperately trying to suppress."

Miller, whose work includes the Pulitzer-Prize winning "Death of a Salesman" and Tony-Award winning "The Crucible," was given a silver medal and $200,000.

The prize was established in 1994 with a bequest from the estate of actress Lillian Gish, who said she wished to recognize artists who made an "outstanding contribution to the beauty of the world."

Author E.L. Doctorow noted Miller's plays always include a point at which a character faces their own weakness. Often, a thinly veiled setting harkens to the Holocaust, seemingly asserting that everyone has "a Nazi within them," Doctorow said.

Jill Sobule

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The mayor of New York City got a musical ribbing from a songwriter in the heart of blues country.

Jill Sobule wrote and performed a song Thursday at the Associated Press Managing Editors conference, tweaking Mayor Rudolph Giuliani for his fervent opposition to the "Sensation" exhibit at The Brooklyn Museum of Art, which includes a painting of the Virgin Mary decorated with dung.

"Call Rudy" includes the lyrics: "Call Rudy if your art's a little queer, call Rudy, election year is near. Don't call the Whitney, don't call the Met, don't call MoMa, lest you forget. You can be a sensation on every news station, lines round the block to see your degradation. It's your duty, call Rudy."

Sobule performed the song during an APME panel discussion on music censorship. Giuliani, a Republican, is believed to be considering a U.S. Senate run against Hillary Rodham Clinton; neither has announced their candidacy.

Bob Barker

LOS ANGELES — A month after surgery cleared a blockage in his carotid artery, Bob Barker is heading back to "The Price is Right."

The longtime game show host says he'll resume taping the show on Oct. 25.

Barker was admitted to a Washington, D.C., hospital on Sept. 16 after complaining of fatigue and a tingling sensation in his right arm. After surgery, doctors recommended that Barker rest for several weeks.

"I am feeling fine and looking forward to taping the show again," Barker said in a statement Thursday.

David Kaczynski

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. — Unabomber Ted Kaczynski's brother has a movie deal.

The movie will focus on David Kaczynski's decision to turn his brother in to authorities in 1996, solving a series of bombings that killed three people and injured 22.

David Kaczynski and his wife, Linda Patrik, will be consultants on the film, which will be made by Avnet/Kerner Co. of Los Angeles in conjunction with Disney, but they won't be paid for the film rights, said Elizabeth Guber Stephen, executive vice president of Avnet/Kerner.

David Kaczynski, an Albany social worker, got a $1 million federal reward for turning his brother in. After using some of it to pay legal fees and taxes on the reward, he used the rest to set up a fund to distribute about $500,000 to victims of crimes committed by paranoid schizophrenics.

Ted Kaczynski denies he has schizophrenia, but expert witnesses were prepared to testify that he does. Kaczynski pleaded guilty before a trial and was sentenced to life in prison.

Vince Gill, Amy Grant

OKLAHOMA CITY — It looks like Vince Gill and Amy Grant have stepped into the "House of Love" they once crooned about.

The award-winning singers held hands and smiled at each other Wednesday during Gill's annual charity golf tournament.

It was the first public outing for the couple since last weekend, when Ms. Grant told The Tennessean newspaper in her hometown, Nashville, that Gill is her boyfriend.

Gill, a native Oklahoman and country music star, said he doesn't know what all the fuss is about.

"I'm a single man. She's a single woman," he said. "Yes, she's my girlfriend."

Writing want ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket. For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit:
Suit in Trespass to Try Title and to recover the title and possession to the following described land and premises situated in Deaf Smith County, Texas, to-wit:
TRACT 1: All of Sections 9, 19, 30, 31, and 32, Township 4 North, Range 2 East of a Capitol Syndicate Subdivision in Deaf Smith County, Texas.
TRACT 2: All of the North 320 acres of Section 28, Block, K-3, Deaf Smith County, Texas, being also described as All of the North 1/2 of Section 28, Block K-3, Deaf Smith County, Texas.

Wherein the Plaintiff pleads title in the Plaintiff by reason of the five year, ten year and twenty-five year statutes of limitations, and that the claims of the Defendants and each of them cast a cloud upon the title of the above described property, but that the claims of the Defendants and each of them are inferior to the claim of the Plaintiff to said property.
