BROTHERS 'TWO'

Flick, Paine travel long musical road together

By Donald M. Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Ike was in the White House, a movie cost a dime, and television was in "living" black and white.

It was 1959, and four college kids from Seattle, Wash., went to New York City to record an album of folk music.

Forty years later, two of those kids are still touring the world, singing the music they love.

In 1959, the Brothers Four
— Bob Flick, John Paine, Dick Foley and Mike Kirkland — had a choice: continue working for their college degrees or go to New York, cut an album and see if they could make a career playing music.

Forty years later, Flick and Paine are still touring the world, playing music.

Flick and Paine are the only original members of the Brothers Four still active with the group; Foley and Kirkland left several years ago to be replaced by Mark Pearson and Terry Lauber.

Before their appearance in the opening concert of the Hereford Community Concert Association's 1999-2000 season, Flick and Paine reflected on their 40-year career.

The music industry has changed considerably, and not just from the technical aspect,
Flick said.

When the Brothers Four started out, the performances were the most important part of landing a record deal.

"Record companies looked for acts that were willing to tour," Paine said.

"That was way before Milli Vanilli," Flick quipped, referring to the 1980s rock duo that lip-synced its way to a Grammy.

"We were lucky to be in college, playing at the clubs. So we actually had a show, about 45 minutes, worked out. So by the time Columbia (Records) signed us, we already had the show and were ready to tour,"
Flick said.

"We were in the right place

John Paine and Bob Flick (inset) have been touring with the Brothers Four for four decades. Paine and Flick, joined by "new" members Mark Pearson and Terry Lauber, performed Thursday night in the first of the Hereford Community Concert Association's 1999-2000 season.

It was a long time coming.

at the right time," Paine said.

In today's world of cable television, music videos and CDs, groups tour to promote records.
When the Brothers Four started out, the recording artists had to have a proven track record of performances before they could get a recording contract.

Also, the folk music that took the Brothers Four to the top of the charts in the early 1960s became passe, although many of the elements of the music is still popular today.

"We see a lot of young groups that do traditional-type music," Flick said. "I don't think that the acoustic music has ever gone out of style — especially with the young women."

"I think the audiences today are enjoying finding people who are performing for them," he said.

"We've seen people who turn their backs on the audience and tune their instruments and don't ever talk to the audience.
They say their music speaks for them, but you have to make but we were the first folk group to do Beatle songs like

'Norwegian Wood'."

"But when we finished they sounded like Brothers Four songs," Flick said.

"And, we put our own imprint on them," Paine said.

"We also played with the Beatles on their last appearance in the U.S.," Flick said.
"It was on the old Ed Sullivan show. We were in New York and Ed booked us on the show with the Beatles."

Paine said another way music has changed since their first recordings is the radio stations aren't so concerned about the length of a song.

"We used to consciously try to make the song come in at three minutes for the radio stations," Paine said.

"But 'American Pie' and Don McLean changed that," Flick said, referring to the balladeer's 1970 song that ran for well over seven minutes.

Although their music is considered traditional, the Brothers Four have kept up with modern technology.

"We're on the Web and people are checking us out. Some catalog companies are packaging our material and putting it out and not cheap ones, really good CDs," Flick said. "Live" and "Cross Country" are being repackaged as a collection."

When the four decided to give music a try, Paine admits he didn't expect it to become his life.

"I have to give our parents credit. When we told them that we were going to New York (to record), they were stunned."

HALLOWEEN'S COMING

It's still nearly three weeks before the witches, ghouls and goblins come out to swoop around town on their search for treats, but some of the residents of Hereford already are preparing for Halloween. The owner of a home in the 100 block of Avenue J already has set up a Halloween display under a tree in his front yard. Will it keep the little goblins away? Not likely.

Jobless rate holds steady

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate was unchanged at 4.2 percent in September, the lowest rate in nearly three decades, even though the number of payroll jobs actually fell last month as Hurricane Floyd cut into hiring.

The Labor Department reported today that September's rate matched August's rate at 4.2 percent, a 29-year low. The nation's jobless rate has been below 4.4 percent since March.

Employers cut payroll jobs in September by 8,000, the first decline since January 1996 when a winter blizzard disrupted hiring plans. The Labor Department said that while the growth in payroll jobs would have been extremely weak in September compared with the robust gains reported for most of this year, the hurricane cut growth by 50,000 jobs.

"Hurricane Floyd huffed and puffed and blew a lot of jobs away in September," said KeyCorp economist Ken Mayland.

Many analysts expected companies to add 220,000 jobs. In August, businesses added 103,000 jobs to their payrolls, less than what the government previously estimated.

"Obviously we're seeing some moderation of (jobs) growth in the economy but we also recognize that in this report there is significant impact by Hurricane Floyd," said Labor Secretary Alexis Herman.

Even with the weak job growth, wages grew in September. Average hourly earnings, a key gauge of inflation pressures, grew by 0.5 percent to $13.37 in September, much sharper than the 0.2 percent increase in August.

While strong wage growth is a good development for workers, economists and members of the Federal Reserve worry that it could be a recipe for sparking inflation. Their fear: employers foraging for qualified workers woo them with higher wages and benefits, costs likely to drive up consumer prices if not constrained by other forces.

They were Depression-era parents and they never had a chance to go to college. Before we went to New York, we promised them that if it didn't work out, we'd go back to college and get our degrees," Paine said.

"We didn't go to New York blindly. We had a guy — he later would be our manager — who helped connect us with Columbia. But we certainly didn't know it would carry us as far and to as many places as we have gone," Flick said.

News in brief

Trial nears end for officers

GALVESTON — The fate of three Brazoria County officers accused of violating an inmate's civil rights during a videotaped jail shakedown is in the hands of jurors today. They are to begin deliberations in the case that has drawn nationwide attention to the Brazoria County Sheriff's Office since 1997, when the tape surfaced.

Heavy security for singer's trial

UVALDE — Texas Rangers and Uvalde County sheriff's deputies are keeping security tight at the courthouse where country singer Johnny Rodriguez is on trial for murder.

Extra safety measures were planned anyway. But officers have been especially careful after an alleged death threat to Rodriguez by a man connected to the case, Uvalde County Sheriff Beaumont Watkins said Thursday.

Waco probe stalls in Congress

WASHINGTON — Congressional Republicans are losing their zeal for fresh hearings into the 1993 Waco siege, the initial urgency dampened by internal bickering and concerns about the GOP's credibility in another White House investigation. The Dallas Morning News quoted a now retired Army colonel in today's editions as saying he heard Davidian leader David Koresh give the order to set the fires through bug transmissions on speakers in the FBI Waco command center's monitoring room.

Officials encourage flu shots, vaccines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Too few adults get flu shots or a vital vaccination against bacterial pneumonia, say health officials who warn that both diseases kill tens of thousands of Americans annually — a growing but preventable menace if only people were immunized.

"Don't wait for your doctor to recommend vaccination — be proactive and ask for the shots," Dr. Walter Orenstein, vaccine chief for Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, advised Thursday. "It's your health and your life."

Vaccines against both flu and pneumonia are free for Medicare patients — those most at risk — yet one-third of such patients don't get regular flu shots, and 55 percent have never had a pneumonia vaccine, concluded a government study released Thursday.

But the shots also are vital for certain younger people, said Dr. Gregory Poland of the Mayo Clinic, recalling how he had to amputate the hands and legs of a young mother to save her from a pneumococcal infection that had spread into her blood.

"An epidemic of apathy and ignorance" about the need for vaccination "fuels an epidemic of disease and death," Poland said. "This is a public health emergency."

Indeed, the diseases seem to be a growing menace.

Influenza in an average year kills 20,000 Americans. The government has not yet finished analyzing last winter's cases, but preliminary data suggest the flu killed many more people last year, said CDC's Dr. Keiji Fukuda.

Of additional concern, influenza has started causing unusual outbreaks during the summer, he said. Up to 40,000 people, mostly tourists, from 47 countries were sickened by a flu outbreak in Alaska in summer 1998, and a similar outbreak occurred this year. The CDC also spotted summer outbreaks in Louisiana, Florida, Oklahoma and Texas.

Still, flu is always worse in the winter. People need a flu shot annually because different influenza virus strains circle the globe each year. The optimal vaccination time is between now and mid-November.

"There is no way to predict" how bad flu will be this winter, Fukuda stressed.

But officials estimate that one in 10 Americans could suffer needlessly if vaccination rates don't improve.

A flu shot isn't the only protection: Too many patients, and even doctors, do not know that a vaccine against pneumococcal infection is vital, too, said Surgeon General David Satcher. Unlike flu shots, most Americans need just one dose of pneumococcal vaccine for lifetime protection.

Pneumococcal bacteria cause half a million cases of pneumonia each year, plus infections in the brain, ear and other organs. Some 40,000 Americans a year die.

Poland says another reason for vaccination is that pneumococci are rapidly evolving to defy antibiotic treatment.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: The letter I'm enclosing appeared in your column almost 20 years ago, and I saved it because it made a big difference in my life. I'm sure it will help others get through a terrible time in their lives, as it helped me. Please run it again. — Healed in Toronto

Dear Toronto: Here's the letter you requested. Thanks for letting me know it helped. That's what I'm here for.

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this letter out of anxiety and frustration. I realize it is too long to print, but perhaps you can use parts of it to educate the well-meaning public.

As the wife of a terminally ill patient, I have become a prisoner in my own home. Sometimes, I think if I hear one more knock on the door, I will scream. People I don't know, "John's" co-workers, distant aunts; cousins and friends of the family drop in anywhere from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. I am expected to entertain them, serve them refreshments and be cordial, even though I may have been up most of the night and am dead on my feet.

Will you please print these guidelines for well-meaning friends and relatives? It is too late for me — I'm already a wreck — but maybe I can help somebody else.

1. Don't just drop in. Call first. This means EVERYBODY — parents included.

2. Don't ask personal questions such as: "Does John have a will?" "Where will he be buried?" "Does he have a good insurance policy?" "How much longer can he last?" This information is not your business, and being forced to respond to such questions makes me uncomfortable.

3. Don't describe your Uncle Sol's bout with cancer. It doesn't help the family to know "he had the same trouble and suffered something terrible at the end." John doesn't need any more stress, and neither do the rest of us.

4. Don't offer medical advice. We are not interested in taking John to Mexico for some rare herbal extract, or to California for some new-fangled, unproven treatment, or to a faith healer in India. We are listening to our own doctors.

5. Don't say, "Call me if there is anything I can do." I am not going to call. If you want to help, use your imagination. There are many things you can do. For example, say, "I can visit John Friday or Saturday. Which day would you like to get your hair washed or run errands?"

6. Don't bring candy, flowers or books. We have plenty. Do bring a casserole, a crock of soup or some homemade cookies.

7. Please leave the kids at home. John is too ill to appreciate Suzie's new song and Tommy's stories about his baseball activities. Even though he loves children, the commotion makes him nervous.

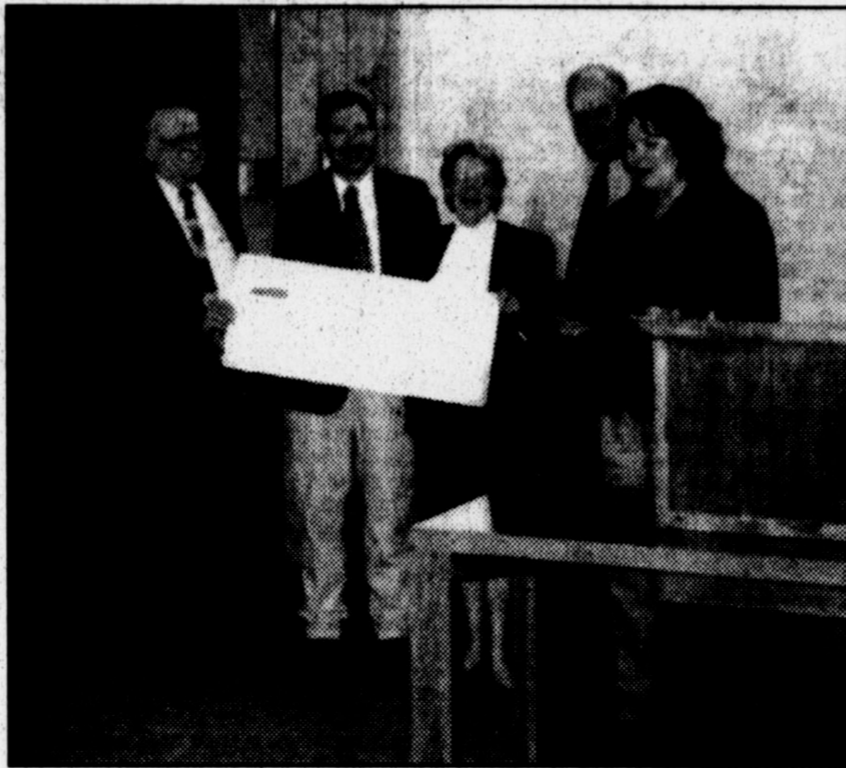

I know this letter sounds ungracious. I don't mean it to be. We love our family and friends. Company is good for John, but not a constant stream, every day, all day. No matter how close you are to us, please call before you come over, and ask if it is a good time. I know John hasn't much time left, and it would be lovely if the children and I could have a few evenings of family life — just us, no visitors.

Please, Ann, print this letter. Your millions of readers who have been fortunate enough to have missed what we are going through now will surely profit from it. — Name Withheld, No City Please Second, bring your heart. We all have them at various times and intensities. Church folks sometimes look happy. Some are, but a lot of us are hurting. We believe that our God can help us with our hurts.

Thirdly, bring your family and friends, we need each other.

By the way, leave a few things at home, like excuses. We've all heard them. We have plenty of them already. We have entire empty rooms and parts of a few pews filled with excuses. We'd rather have them filled with your presence.

Oh, another thing you may want to leave behind is any preconceived notion of what Baptists are like. We might surprise you. We have lots of different classes for lots of different interests. It all starts at 9:45 a.m. for Bible Study and 10:50 a.m. for worship. We'd love to see you there.

■ Freshman middle blocker Griffin improving play with Lady Herd, making her presence felt

By Yuri Soto
Hereford Brand Sports Editor

It is pretty common to say that high school freshmen do not reach a measure of maturity until they reach their junior year of high school.

Especially when it comes to the world of sports.

But at the moment, one that has shown a good level of maturity for being a freshman is Lady Whiteface middle blocker Sarah Griffin.

Griffin is one of three freshmen on the squad, and she has responded with some great play.

She has helped the Lady Whitefaces go through a torrid streak of victories.

"I think everyone on this team has improved a lot, and when everyone else improves, it helps me improve," Griffin said, "especially when, in practice, we improve on our hitting and improve on our blocking."

Against Caprock on Tuesday, her eight blocks, three of them block aces, helped Hereford take a 15-3, 15-5 victory against the Lady Longhorns. That victory completed the first half of District 3-4A play for the Lady Whitefaces, as they enter tomorrow afternoon unbeaten in district against the Dumas Demonettes.

Of course, Griffin had her struggles and that was evident when the season started. She had trouble in the position of middle blocker early in the year.

"There's so many things we take for granted," Hereford Coach Brenda Kitten said. "Our varsity players know and understand situations that they should know or understand, and she hasn't been presented with those situations."

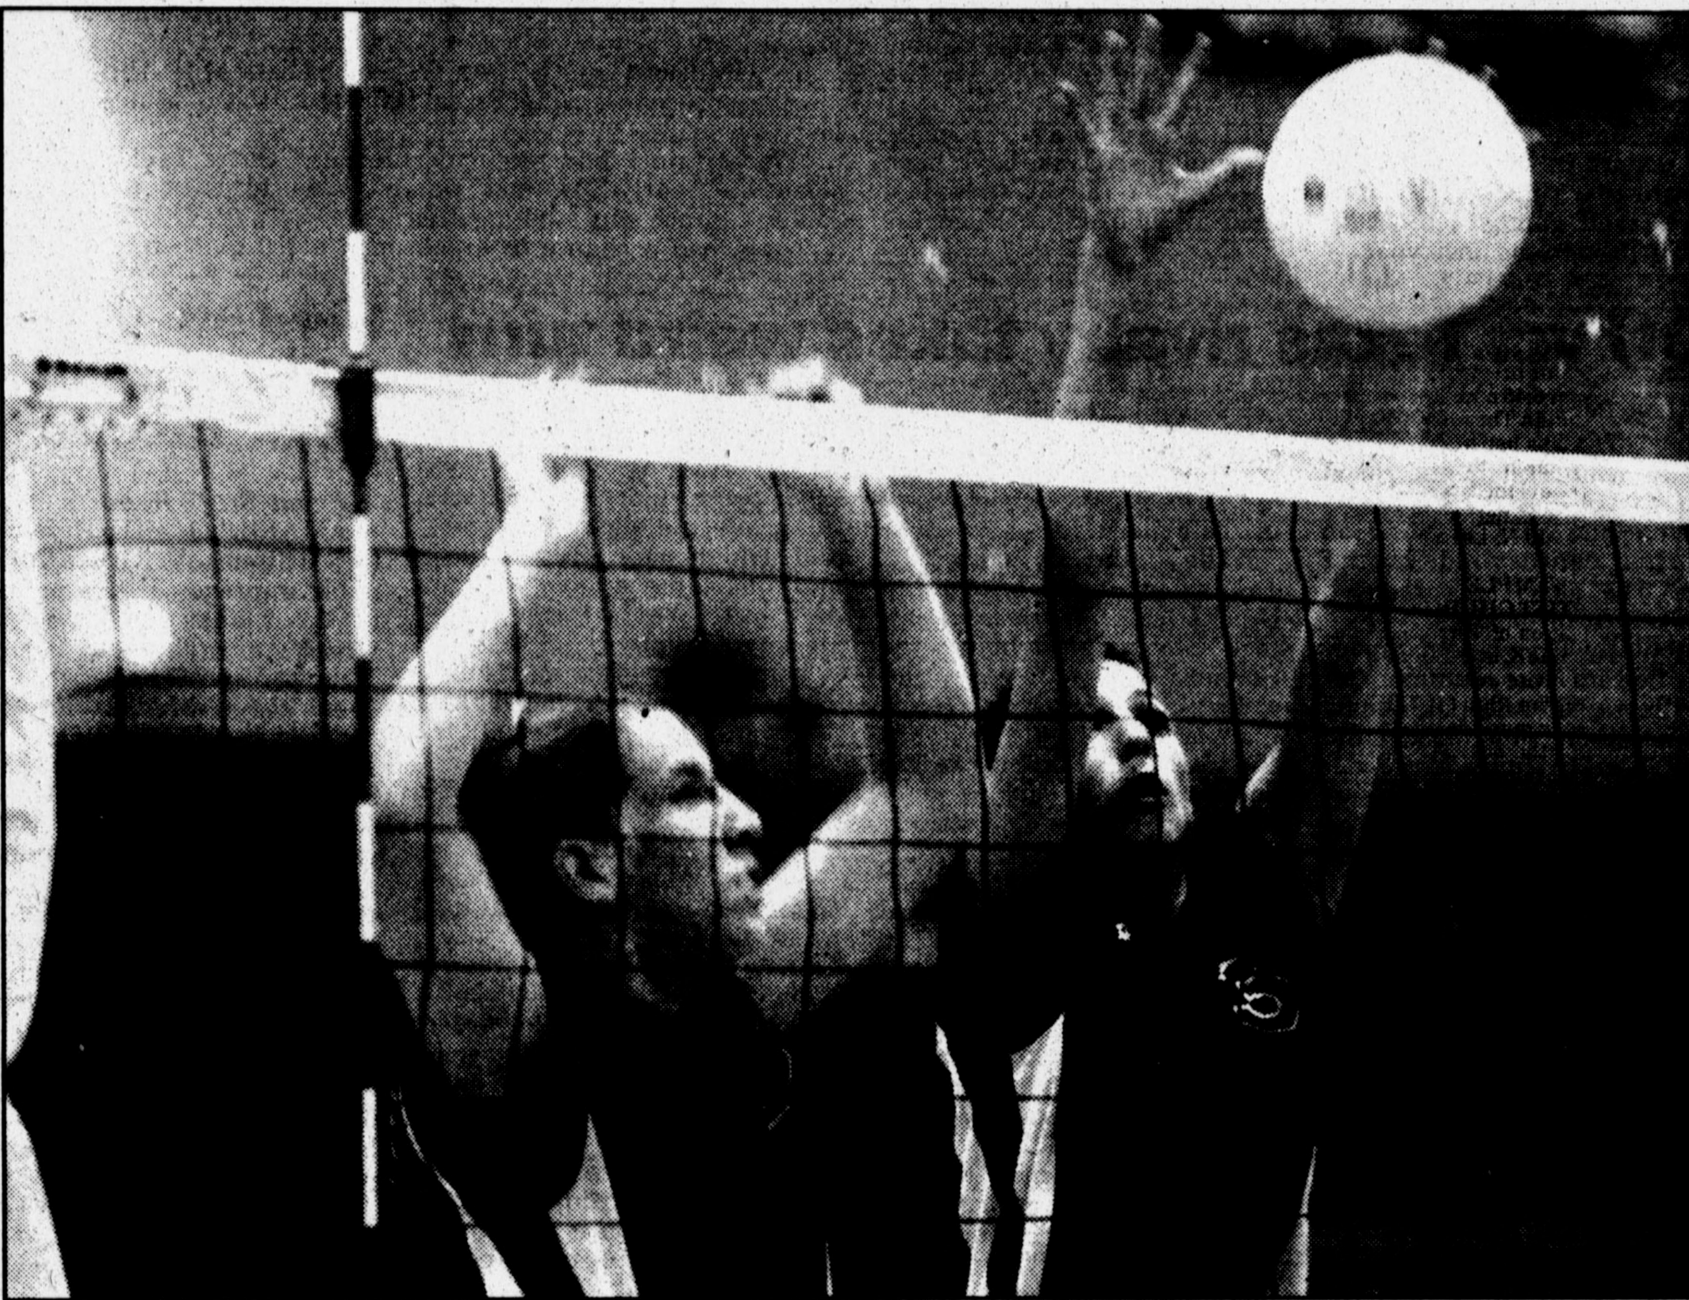

But steadily, Griffin has become an important part of the Lady Whitefaces' offensive and defensive attack.

One thing's for certain is that Griffin does not lack confidence. She's had the experience of high level competition from AAU summer basketball.

"She's competed in so many games that she understands high levels of competition," Kitten said. "She understands

Yankees take 2-0 lead over Rangers with 3-1 win

■ Texas having trouble scoring runs on Pettitte, New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The Texas Rangers needed just one key hit to put themselves in position to tie their AL playoff series.

But they were not going to get it on this night, either. Not against the New York Yankees. Not against Andy Pettitte.

Pettitte, pitching every bit up to manager Joe Torre's expectations, stopped Texas at every tight spot Thursday night in a 3-1 victory that gave the Yankees a 2-0 edge.

"I've seen Andy do it before. When you need to count on him, he doesn't disappoint," Torre said. "He makes big plays, he makes big pitches."

The Yankees won their ninth straight postseason game and sent Texas to its eighth playoff loss in a row. New York can complete a three-game sweep Saturday night at Texas when Roger Clemens starts against Esteban Loaiza.

It was Torre who helped convince owner George Steinbrenner not to send the shaky Pettitte to Philadelphia at the July 31 trading deadline. Pettitte was sharp down the stretch and rewarded his manager's confidence with another top effort in October.

"It seems like every year I struggle and they talk about trading me, and then somebody stands up for me, like Joe," Pettitte said. "I had a tough year, a lot of people doubting me."

Against Texas,

he looked every bit as focused as the pitcher who won the clinching Game 4 of last year's World Series and the crucial Game 5 of the 1996 Series against Atlanta.

After the game, Steinbrenner personally complimented Pettitte for a "courageous performance."

Juan Gonzalez homered in the fourth, ending the Rangers' postseason scoreless streak at 25 innings. But that was all they managed in 7 1/3 innings against Pettitte.

"I really put a lot of weight on the games that count the most," Torre said. "He has not backed off."

And this is the task Texas faces: In 56 best-of-5 postseason series, only four times has a team overcome an 0-2 deficit.

"We know in our heart we can play with these guys," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "But until we start doing it, there's always going to be doubts."

Oates switched his lineup, moving Royce Clayton into the leadoff spot for only the third time this year, but it didn't help. The Rangers have just two runs in their last 51 postseason innings, all against the Yankees.

Ricky Ledee's tiebreaking double in the seventh off loser Rick Helling and a bases-loaded walk to pinch-hitter Jim Leyritz in the eighth put the Yankees one win away from their second consecutive 3-0 sweep of Texas in the opening round of the playoffs.

"They got the big hit when they needed it, and Andy made the big pitch when he needed to," Helling said. "If we win, we have them right where we want them, going home tied 1-1 and the home-field advantage. Now we have to win three in a row."

Texas had its best chance in the fifth inning. Texas already led 1-0 when Roberto Kelly led off with a single and took third on Lee Stevens' double.

Pettitte fell behind in the count 3-0 on Mark McLemore, then came back to strike him out. Clayton, after taking a minute because he had trouble shaking the weighted doughnut off his bat, grounded out to third baseman Scott Brosius.

Rusty Greer ran the count full before striking out on a breaking ball in the dirt, prompting Pettitte to pump his fist and shout.

"I'm usually not very emotional, but it was a big game," Pettitte said. "I was locked in."

The left-hander gave up one run and seven hits, walking none and striking out five. Last year, he also beat Helling 3-1 in Game 2.

Pettitte received a standing ovation from the crowd of 57,485 — a stark contrast to the rude treatment the fans gave him earlier this year — when he left in the eighth, and he responded with an enthusiastic wave of the cap. "He understands the magnitude of these games," catcher Joe Girardi said.

Reliever Jeff Nelson struck out Ivan Rodriguez and Gonzalez, and Mariano Rivera pitched the ninth for a save.

Brosius, MVP of the 1998 World Series, had a tying double in the fifth for his first hit of this postseason.

New York took a 2-1 lead in the seventh after Tino Martinez walked and took third on Chili Davis' single. Ledee, a World Series hero last year but sent to the minors early this season, hit a fly-ball double to right-center that fell between Kelly and Gonzalez.

Leyritz drew his bases-loaded walk in the eighth from Mike Venafro.

After being blanked 8-0 in Game 1, the Rangers gave Gonzalez exuberant high-fives after his homer. Gonzalez hit five home runs in the 1996 playoffs against the Yankees, including two off Pettitte.

Rangers trying to find clutch hitting

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Oates finally had something positive to say about the Texas Rangers' offense in the playoffs. They scored a run and even mounted a few other threats.

One game away from elimination, the Rangers need to find a way to turn those threats into runs and runs into a win.

"We hit some balls with some authority," said Oates, the Texas manager. "We have a better chance of scoring runs the way we swung the bat tonight as opposed to the night before last."

Juan Gonzalez's fourth-inning homer broke a 25-inning scoreless streak for Texas in the postseason, but the Rangers still lost their eighth straight playoff game — all to New York — 3-1.

Time is running out on the Rangers: Only four teams have come from two games down to win a best-of-5 series, and Texas faces Roger Clemens and David Cone in the next two games.

The Rangers, who have averaged 5.8 runs while leading the majors in batting the last two regular seasons, have been held to two runs and a .144 average (22-for-153) in their last five playoff games against the Yankees, who swept them 3-0 in the first round last year.

"It gets a little mental at times," New York's Tino Martinez said. "Hopefully we can keep them down for one more game." Andy Pettitte did it Thursday, other than the homer to Gonzalez, which set off a rare moment of exuberance for the Rangers.

Gonzalez, who has scored Texas' last three postseason runs, was greeted as he returned to the dugout by a celebration unusually large for a single run in the fourth.

Then again, there hasn't been much to celebrate for the Rangers, who hadn't scored in the playoffs since the fifth inning of Game 2 last year and hadn't held a lead for 43 straight innings in the postseason.

Texas would threaten in other innings — getting seven hits — but couldn't break through against Pettitte, who pitches his toughest in the stickiest situations of the postseason.

The Rangers had no hits in five at-bats with runners in scoring position, leaving Texas 1-for-24 in those situations the last two years.

"We certainly had our opportunities," Oates said. "We got some hits early. We just weren't able to back it up. We couldn't bunch any hits together."

Texas had a chance to break open a 1-0 game in the fifth, but once again couldn't get a clutch hit.

With no outs and runners on second and third, the infield in and action in the Yankees' bullpen, Pettitte fell behind Mark McLemore 3-0 before throwing three straight strikes for the first out.

"I didn't get it done," McLemore said. "It was key. It hurt. We have to score some runs that's the bottom line."

Yankees manager Joe Torre then moved the infield back, conceding a run on a grounder up the middle. Royce Clayton, however, hit a two-hopper to Scott Brosius at third, who held the runner and threw to first for the second out.

The Rangers still had one more chance. But Rusty Greer swung at a 3-2 curveball in the dirt, ending the inning with Gonzalez on deck instead of at the plate with the bases loaded.

"We had a chance to put some runs on the board there and we didn't do it," Greer said. "He made me fish for a ball in the dirt. That's why he's a good pitcher."

Pettitte pumped his fist. Greer merely walked back to dugout and neatly put away his batting helmet.

Texas still held the lead. That would change soon enough, but the Rangers' playoff fortunes wouldn't.

OU vs. Texas rivalry takes weird turn

AUSTIN (AP) — Some rivalry. Texas coach Mack Brown sent Oklahoma coach Bob Stoops flowers.

What the heck is going on in this century-old border war? The blood feud reduced to a bunch of daisies?

Actually, Brown sent Stoops the flowers last summer for the birth of the Oklahoma coach's twin sons, Issac and Jake, born in June.

"As you get older in this business, you understand you're not fighting with the other coach," said Brown.

Easy for him to say. He beat Oklahoma 34-3 last year.

As for Stoops, he was puzzled by the flowers at first.

"I was sitting there thinking, 'I'm not supposed to like this guy,'" he said.

"So I like the man for about a week. But like the good book says, you hate nobody," Stoops said.

The niceties aren't the only things changing in this rivalry.

Saturday's matchup in Dallas features the Big 12's two best passing teams. It's a far cry from the grind-it-out running attacks the schools used in their glory days.

"They like to wing it," Texas cornerback Ahmad Brooks said of passing at attack Stoops brought to the Sooners.

Do they ever.

Oklahoma (3-1, 1-0) has the nation's third-ranked passing offense behind junior-college transfer quarterback Josh Heupel.

The Sooners average 341 yards passing and Heupel leads the Big 12 with 16 touchdown passes.

He also already has set single-game school records for passing yards (429), total offense (410), touchdown passes (five), completions (37) and pass attempts (54).

Texas, meanwhile, has its own high-flying passing attack behind quarterback Major Applewhite. The sophomore has passed for 11 touchdowns and a league-leading 1,763 yards.

Gone are the days of dominating running attacks behind backs like Texas' Earl Campbell and Ricky Williams and Oklahoma's Billy Sims and quarterback J.C. Watts. All but Watts won the Heisman Trophy.

Nationally, Texas' 141.8 yards per game rushing ranks 66th and Oklahoma's 119.5 yards per game ranks 82nd.

All this throwing will test the confidence of both the defensive secondaries.

The Longhorns have made significant improvement in its pass defense, which was Texas' weakest link last year.

Texas gave up 220.9 yards per game and 20 touchdowns last season, which ranked the Longhorns 92nd in the nation. Going into Saturday's matchup, the Longhorns have the nation's sixth-best pass defense. They have held opponents to three passing touchdowns and 157.8 yards in the air.

Herd 9th 'A' takes care of Ama. Tascosa

From Staff Reports
AMARILLO — The Hereford Whiteface 9th Grade 'A' team improves its record to 4-2 thanks to a 26-6 victory on Thursday at Tascosa High School.

All the freshmen Herd needed was scores from Tyson Yosten and Esrael Silva to defeat the Rebels.

Silva scored first on a 1-yard run in the second quarter and caught the conversion pass from Casey Valdez for a 8-0 lead.

Yosten scored next on another 1-yard run in the second for a 14-0 lead.

Then Yosten helped another teammate score. His 62-yard strike to Luis Perez made the score 20-6 in favor of Hereford.

Silva finished off Tascosa on an 11-yard pass to Raymond Castillo for the final margin.

Herd JV beats Dumas

From Staff Reports

In what could be a preview of today's game at Dumas, the Whiteface junior varsity dominated the Dumas JV and won that important contest, 27-6.

The Whitefaces took a 6-0 lead when Rafael Ramirez scored from 12 yards on a run.

The next score took on a strange twist, when Matt Rivera's pass was caught by Jeremy Gonzales, then fumbled at the 15-yard line. But Juan DeSantiago recovered the ball and scooped it to go 60 yards for a touchdown. DeSantiago's two-point conversion run puts Hereford up 14-0 lead.

Juan Salazar the scored off a 20-yard pass from Rivera and gave Hereford a 21-0 lead.

The last touchdown came in the final quarter by DeSantiago, who scampered 51 yards to the end zone for the 27-6 final.

Griffin

how to handle high levels of pressure."

That confidence and hard work during the off-season has lifted her from the eighth-grade volleyball team to the varsity in one year. Not many athletes get that honorable opportunity.

"It's a great feeling, but it's something that you need to think it's an accomplishment but not think that you're a freshman and not make excuses for mistakes," Griffin said. "You just got to look at this as not being a freshman but someone as a freshman."

She has not been alone in the guidance as a key player for Hereford. She has had the example from leaders like Audra Witkowski and Tori Walker.

"Our seniors have been great to us freshman and as far as leaders, they lead our team very well," Griffin said. "They're always encouraging us, especially since we haven't had as much experience as they've had."

Kitten said that sometimes she makes mistake, but they are not what people call "freshman mistakes."

"Every once in a while, us coaches have to sit and look back, give a break and realize her last volleyball game was in the eighth grade," Kitten said.

But she has shown signs of her being a freshman.

After the match against Caprock, she was going to be interviewed by KPAN's Tom Simons. Her reaction looked like a typical reaction of any young girl about to meet Ricky Martin.

"Whenever I was interviewed by Tom, I was kind of nervous," she said. "I have never been on the radio before, but it was a lot of fun."

That is just an example of the fun and enthusiasm Griffin brings to the game of volleyball. But she knows there's a lot of room to improve.

"There was some of our weaknesses shown against Caprock and mine was digging," Griffin said, "and I need to improve on that and work on that before Dumas and I think we're prepared to play Dumas."

It was a long time coming

Donald Cooper

Over the years, the group's star status faded as the world of music was overwhelmed by rock and pop. After a while, two of the original members, Dick Foley and Mike Kirkland, left the group to be replaced by Mike Pearson and Terry Lauber, as the Brothers Four continued to travel around the world entertaining legions of people who love folk music.

It took more than 30 years, but I finally got to see the Brothers Four perform.

"Well, I'd seen them perform many times back in the early Sixties on television, sharing the billing on shows like 'Hootenanny' with other folk artists, Pete Seeger, the Tarriers, Bud and Travis, the Dillards and the Limeliters, and I had most of the early albums. But, I'd never seen the Brothers Four perform live — on stage.

I guess I was meant to see my favorite group from the Folk Era because after bouncing around the country for so many years I wound up in Hereford — and got to see the Brothers Four on stage.

I guess stranger things have happened. Even though only John Paine and Bob Flick remain from the original group, the sound remains as fresh as it did back in 1960 when I heard 'Greenfields' on the radio and rushed down to the record store and bought the album.

But my appreciation of the music was limited to listening to the records and watching the television appearances. I never had a chance to see the Brothers Four perform on stage. The group performed at the White House for presidents, it traveled around the world to sing for loyal fans in Japan, Europe and across the U.S.

But their paths and mine never crossed. Until Thursday night. Before the concert, I had a chance to interview John and Bob. It was an absolute pleasure. During my newspaper career, I've interviewed numerous entertainers and sports celebrities, politicians and entrepreneurs. But in all those interviews, I don't think I've come across two men who were as nice, cheerful and cooperative. It was easy to understand how the Brothers Four have endured and retained the loyalty of so many fans over the years.

Oh, the concert? I loved it. I remembered the songs — "Green Leaves of Summer," "Blue Water Line," "Rock Island Line," "San Francisco Bay Blues" — and I found myself singing along.

Maybe it was more than 30 years before seeing the Brothers Four, but the wait was worth it. At one time, I had all the group's albums, but in September 1965 I lost them. In January 1965 when I was transferred from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., to the Defense Language Institute in Monterey, Calif., to study German, I took my albums, including my Brothers Four recordings, with me. Those records provided hours of pleasure and relaxation after the rigors of learning another language. In September, after graduating from the language school, I got orders sending me across country to Fort Meade, Md., where I was to go through security training before my eventual assignment with the Army Security Agency's field station in Berlin.

As I packed up to leave Monterey, I decided to mail my albums back to my parents' home in Texarkana, Ark. The box of albums never arrived.

Thirty-four years later, I wonder about that box of record albums, which I suppose is traveling like some ghostly apparition through the vastness of the U.S. Postal Service. There are even times when I expect to get a notice in the mailbox about a package. When I get to the post office, the postal clerk will turn over that box of albums.

But in this post-vinyl age, I don't have a record player.

Writing want ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket. For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the book of Exodus intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times.

MOSES AND PLAGUES OF EGYPT
IN ORDER TO REMOVE THE PLAGUES FROM EGYPT, PHARAOH HAS AGREED TO LET THE ISRAELITES GO INTO THE WILDERNESS TO WORSHIP GOD - BUT NO SOONER THAN THE PLAGUES END, PHARAOH, REFUSES TO LET THE PEOPLE GO.

PHARAOH SAYS THE PEOPLE SHALL NOT GO!

AND MOSES STANDS BEFORE PHARAOH, ONCE AGAIN...

BEHOLD THE LORD HATH SAID: ALL THE CATTLE OF EGYPT SHALL BE DESTROYED!

BUT OF THE CATTLE OF THE ISRAELITES, NONE SHALL DIE!

BEHOLD! IT IS THE WORK OF THE ISRAELITES' GOD! OUR CATTLE ARE DEAD AND THEIRS LIVE!

AND ON THE MORROW ALL OF THE EGYPTIAN CATTLE DIE - BUT THE ISRAELITES' CATTLE ARE UNHARMED!

Next Week SUFFERING EGYPT!
