Tech paper is lesson in censorship

LUBBOCK (AP) - The University Daily, the studentrun newspaper of Texas Tech University, published an issue Thursday with little more than the word "censorship" throughout its pages in protest of a U.S. Court of Appeals decision to allow Kentucky State University to withhold yearbooks from the student body.

Student editors at the paper say they are trying to draw attention to a decision that could "destroy" the freedom of student media at public universities.

The issue has the words "THIS IS CENSORSHIP" in huge bold-print letters under the banner and contains an editorial inside. In the spaces where stories would normally appear, the word "censorship" is repeatedly printed. Advertisements in the paper appear as normal.

The protest revolves around a case that began in 1994, when KSU administrators in Frankfort, Ky., confiscated nearly 2,000 yearbooks because they were of "poor quality," and because the dominant color on the cover was purple, according to court documents.

NTHERED HISD confronts financial crisis

By Dianna F. Dandridge

Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Hereford Independent School District is in deep financial trouble and apparently has been for at least three years.

And, it took a new superintendent to find the problems that developed during the administrations of Superintendents Charles Greenawalt and Jack

Patton. When preparing the budget for the 1999-2000 school year, Superintendent Beth Abernethy saw what she described as "discrepancies" and contacted the Texas Education Agency to verify her concerns discrepancies, which by today's projections 'discrepancies' indicate the district may in debt by $16 million. Speaking from a pre-written set of notes Thursday night, Abernethy outlined the problems and possible solutions to the district's financial

Among the problems, TEA verified the district had been overpaid by $854,000. Overpayments by the TEA are not unusual because the agency estimates payments based on average daily attendance

HISD has seen a steady downward trend in the ADA for a number of years. Normally when schools receive an overpayment, it is deposited in an interest-bearing account until TEA asks for a return. At that time, districts return the overpayment and keep the earned interest.

During the TEA's informal visit, it was discovered the district had spent $854,000 which was not budgeted.

Largely due to increased expenditures, a declining tax base and a falling enrollment, HISD has been operating in the red since the 1996-97 budget year. In 1996-97, the budget reflects a $480,000 deficit, following a $790,000 deficit in 1997-98

Trouble doesn't end there because HISD's expenditures outstripped revenue by more than $1 million last year.

Complicating the financial difficulties even further was the disclosure the district has maintained two partial sets of books rather than sone complete set and has several months of unreconciled bank statements.

Abernethy said the two sets of books resulted from the mid-year change from an older accounting system to the new Pentamation program.

Abernethy also attributed an $80,000 roofing bill at Northwest Elementary, $253,235 tab on the lease purchase of five new buses, and more than $3 million in technology improvements as expenditures that contributed to the situation.

All total: HISD is now facing a $16 million debt.

In a telephone interview this morning, John Hudspeth of the Texas Education Agency auditor's office said the last audit for the 1997-98 school year, showed a strong fund balance and maybe even some Danforth and the FBI agents who are the focus of his investigation could face some difficult choices.

Agents who cooperate voluntarily - a path Danforth says he would prefer - could be placing themselves in legal jeopardy by they're supplying evidence that touches on any criminality.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The FBI's grudging acknowledgment that it was less than candid about its role in the final hours of the 51-day standoff with the Branch Davidian sect near Waco, Texas, has raised new questions and prompted yet another investigation into the tragic events of April 19, 1993.

Wholesale prices surge last month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices at the wholesale level surged 0.5 percent in August, led by a huge jump in energy prices and a smaller rise in food costs, the Labor Department said

The increase in the Producer Price Index, which measures inflation pressures before they reach the consumer, followed a modest 0.2 percent rise in July. Wholesale prices had actually fallen 0.1 percent in June, only the second decline this year.

August's increase was worse than expected. Many analysts had been anticipating that prices would rise 0.3 percent in August.

Excluding the volatile energy and food categories, the so-called core rate of inflation at the wholesale level actually fell 0.1 percent in August, after being unchanged in July.

And, that was even better than many analysts had expected. They were forecasting a slight rise of 0.1 percent in the closely watched core inflation rate.

Wall Street's immediate reaction was to ignore the bad 0.5 percent overall number and focus on the good performance of the core

The bond market gained ground on the report, as traders focused on the decline in the core inflation rate. Yields on 30-year Treasury bonds fell to 6.05 percent in early trading from 6.09 percent late Thursday. "The Fed is basically concentrating on the core inflation rate, and as a result, would have to view this as a benign report," said Paul Kasriel, chief economist for Northern Trust Co. "This doesn't give the Fed any ammunition to raise rates at its Oct. 5 meet-

Kasriel and other economists said 'there's the possibility that the big advance in wholesale prices, if matched at the consumer level, could still stoke concerns somewhat at the Federal Reserve about a potential breakout of inflation.

The Federal Reserve on Aug. 24 bumped up interest rates for the second time this year, but signaled that additional rate increases this year may not be needed unless the economy shows signs of overheating or if inflation flares.

So far this year, wholesale prices have been rising at an annual rate of 2.3 percent, compared to no change for all of 1998. The pickup in this year's wholesale prices is coming from big increases in energy costs, which had been falling for much of 1998. For August, energy costs rose a sharp 3.7 percent, the biggest one-month gain since a 5.5 percent rise in April. That April spike in energy prices had put the Fed on inflation alert and on June 30 the central bank raised interest rates for the first time in two years.

The increase in energy prices in August was led by a big 9.1 percent rise in gasoline prices, following a 12.7 percent advance in July, and a 5.3 percent gain in heating oil.

Residential electric power rose 1.1 percent. the biggest gain since May 1995 when residential electric prices rose by the same amount. And residential natural gas prices went up by 1.1 percent, the biggest jump since a 2.3 percent rise in December 1998.

According to a nationwide check of gasoline stations by the Lundberg Survey, gasoline prices continued their upward trend in August. That reflected production cuts, a pickup in demand from recovering economies in Asian and Latin America and increased energy demands caused by unusually hot weather in many parts of the country, economists say.

The gasoline prices were expected to moderate, analysts say.

Food prices posted a 0.4 percent increase in August, after having fallen 0.9 percent drop in July. August's increase was led by a hefty 7.1 percent rise in pork prices.

The rise in overall food prices game despite a 0.7 percent drop in beef prices and a 5.3 percent decline in vegetable prices reflecting big decreases in the price of celery, dry onions, russet potatoes and carrots.

Fresh fruit also fell 3.2 percent in August, reflecting declining prices for nectarines, Valencia oranges, raspberries and avocados.

The price of cars fell 0.1 percent in August, while the price of light trucks fell 0.4 percent.

a trio of congressional hearings and two federal inquiries into the deaths of David Koresh and some 80 of his followers.

Here, in question-and-answer form, is a look at some of the basic issues:

Q: Why is Waco back on the national agenda?

A: Because of recent news reports showing that the FBI did, in fact, use potentially incendiary tear gas on that final day, despite six years of FBI and Justice Department claims to the contrary. In recent weeks, FBI and Justice officials have been in the awkward position of having to disavow years of erroneous statements to Congress and the public about the FBI Hostage Rescue Team's use of tear gas in the hours before the Davidians' compound erupted in flames.

Q: What are government officials saying now, compared to what they said then? A: On Aug. 25, the FBI acknowledged that a "very limited number" of military pyrotechnic CS gas canisters were fired at a concrete shelter adjacent to the Davidians' wooden compound. That stands in sharp contrast to earlier public statements. Appearing before the House Judiciary Committee less than two weeks after the standoff's end, Reno said that based on the briefings she'd been given, "It was my understanding that the tear gas produced no risk of fire." And in its voluminous October 1993 report documenting the final assault, the Justice Department made no mention of any pyrotechnic devices. In fact, the Justice report stated: "The gas delivery systems the FBI used were completely non-incendiary." Some former senior FBI officials who played key roles during the standoff, including former deputy assistant FBI director Danny Coulson and chief Waco spokesman Bob Ricks, say they were unaware until recently that potentially combustible devices were used.

Q: Cover-up or bureaucratic slip-up? A: That's THE question for several congressional committees that are investigating the FBI's belated about-face, and for Danforth. "My job is to answer the dark question or the dark questions: Was there a cover-up? That's a dark question. Did the government kill people? ... How did the fire start?" Danforth said. The Senate Judiciary Committee and the House Government Reform Committee also are investigating, in preparation for fall hearings.

Q: What roles did Reno and FBI Director Louis Freeh play?

A: The standoff was already under way when Reno took office, and she had been on the job less than five weeks when she approved the FBI's proposal to use tear gas to flush out the Davidians and break the siege. Reno, who has said she made clear to the FBI her concern that nothing be used that could ignite a fire, is coming under increasing attack on Capitol Hill. Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott on Wednesday became the highest-ranking congressional leader to call for her resignation over the escalating controversy. Freeh, who didn't take the helm of the FBI until four months after the standoff ended, has escaped much of the criticism.

Q: Why did this come to light now? A: Because of inquiries by documentary filmmakers, reporters and lawyers for surviving Branch Davidians and relatives of the dead who are going to court next month in their longstanding lawsuit that the government was responsible for the deaths. Use of the potentially incendiary tear gas was first reported by The Dallas Morning News on Aug. 24, triggering the latest controversy over Waco. Q: How did the standoff begin?

A: After the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms attempted on Feb. 28 to execute warrants for suspected firearms violations, triggering a deadly gunbattle with heavily armed Davidians who had been tipped off about the raid. Four ATF agents and at least several Davidians died in the gunfire, and more than 16 other ATF agents were wounded. The FBI quickly took control of the operation after the botched raid.

Q: How many people died on the siege's final day? A: Davidian leader David Koresh and some 80 followers died during the final day's inferno, some from gunshot wounds, others from the fire. Fire had so damaged the bodies that coroners never were able to establish an exact count of the dead. Q: Who caused the fire?

A: Reno and FBI officials say there is no evidence, even in light of the FBI's tear-gas admission, that the fire was caused by the pyrotechnic canisters. Aerial infrared tapes newly turned over by the FBI capture a radio transmission at 8:08 a.m. in which an unnamed agent says the military rounds bounced off the concrete structure, which was located 40 yards from the main wooden compound. Independent arson investigators determined that the fire, which began at 12:07 p.m., was started inside the compound in three different locations simultaneously. "That fire was set by David Koresh and the people in that building," Reno said. The surviving Davidians disagree. In their lawsuit, they contend that the blaze was ignited by the tear gas canisters.

"A fund balance of $3 million for a district the size of Hereford should be sufficient. unless there has been something happening internally to greatly increase the debt. That could include spending of the overpayment sent by TEA," Hudspeth said.

Apparently, despite the alleged $3 million fund balance and the looming financial dif-ficulties of HISD which were disclosed in the Thursday night meeting, TEA entered a facilities grant application with HISD to construct several new buildings at the high school and junior high school

In queries by the Hereford Brand earlier this year, TEA officials repeatedly substantiated its approval of the grant process and HISD's application for the funds.

key questions.
"How did the fire start? Were there shootings?" Danforth said Thursday. "The thing that really undermines the integrity of government is whether there were bad acts, whether there was a cover-up and whether the government killed people."

Reno has been under fierce criticism since revelations that the FBI, contradicting a position it had taken for six years, had used some potentially incendiary devices on the last day of the 51-day standoff. The devices, however, were fired at a bunker, not at the building where the cult members were un-

Danforth also will investiate whether there was any illegal use of the armed forces in the final assault. Delta Force commandoes were at Waco the day of the FBI assault on the compound, but the Pentagon says the military team had no operational role. "Everything I've read, everything that I've seen leads me to believe that everything" the Defense Depart-ment "did in support of the Department of Justice during this operation was both legal and in accordance with the guidance that they had been given," Army Gen. Henry H. Shelton told the Senate Armed Services Committee on Thursday.

A retired CIA official, Gene Cullen, claims he has information that members of the Delta team were actively involved in the Waco siege. Danforth refused to place a time frame on his probe. Asked if he planned to finish the inquiry by the time the Clinton administration leaves town a year and a half from now, Danforth did say, "I certainly hope so." As the former senator made a round of courtesy calls on Capitol Hill, congressional leaders said they envision Congress' own Waco investigations will be more wide-ranging than Danforth's.

"I want to know it all," House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, said.

Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said Congress should not defer to the executive branch in delving into Waco because "after all, Congress was misled by the executive branch."

could not have been portunity for criminals to cash in on fears of the un-

All that is needed, they say, is your credit card number for verification, and the bank will send a new strip to place over the magnetic strip on the back of your card. Ann, no bank would ever ask for your credit card number over the phone but a scam artist would.

Recently, bank regulators have heard about callers who promise to make your personal computer "Y2K ready." They, in fact, may be scam artists out to steal bank account information from your software or to introduce a program that will transfer your money to them later.

Consumers need to be skeptical, careful and vigilant. Bank regulators have issued an advisory that warns consumers about Y2K scams and tells them how to protect themselves from becoming fraud victims. Dear Ann Landers: This isn't one of those "how we met" letters. It's more of a "how we got married" story.

It's the story of my parents. My father was a young pastor in a small town in North Carolina. My mother sang in the choir. One evening, he walked her home after choir practice, and out of the blue, he said, "Stella, let's get married." She replied, "Sure." Although both were certain the other was joking, neither

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

Janet Duncan is a class act with a big heart. All of that is clear when she sings. Her sounds are Karen Carpenter-esque.

Ms. Duncan will present a miniconcert at FOB on this, the 16th Sunday after Pentecost. She will add such class and meaning to this very special Sunday at the Fellowship of Believers. Janet is a member of the Paramount Terrace Christian Church. Her husband, David, practices dentistry in Amarillo.

This Sunday marks the beginning of FOB's new and innovative Sunday school direction. Hallways have become more kid-friendly and the classrooms are freshly decorated. Interior design has taken place under the watchful eye and with the expertise of Mysedia Smith.

Sunday school literature is a unique. innovative curriculum designed by United Church Press. All materials are geared to promote a sensitivity to/and appreciation for cultural differences. The materials are intentionally inclusive and will follow the Revised Common Lectionary. Consequently, Sunday school and worship will have a common link.

Merle and Wendel Clark will teach the younger children. Connie Banks will teach the elementary ages. And, Carolyn Baxter (with Pat Stone) will work with the youth, ages 10-14.

This adventure into this approach to Sunday school marks a new beginning for the fellowship. We have classes for just about every interest group and if we don't have what you need ve will help you find a church that does. Monday evening from 6-9 we will host a Josh Hunt seminar. Josh Hunt is a pastor and writer focusing on discipleship through the Sunday school. He will give very practical ways to grow and develop Bible study classes and small group ministries. The cost for the seminar is $20 per person or $100 for as many as you can bring. We invite all our sister churches to attend since we are all wanting to reach more people with the gospel. If you can't bring 50, at least encourage your pastor and Sunday school leaders to come. If you don't believe you get at least $20 worth of information, we will give your money

Local and area golfers to gather for Heifers

As the summer golf season comes to a climax, golfers from Hereford and the surrounding area will be getting another shot to take the course

And, it's for a good cause. Fifty-six teams have signed up for the Heifers and Bulls Golf Tournament, which will be Saturday and Sunday at John Pitman Municipal Golf Course. The tournament will benefit the Hereford Make-A-Wish Founda-

"A lot of people come to this event," said Bill Brown, president of the Hereford Golf Association. "A lot of out-of-town people come to this, which is good."

It will be a big event not only for the golfers, but for the community itself, if you count the economic impact the tournament will have.

"We have bought about $30,000 worth of Hereford Bucks for our golf tourna-ments alone," Brown said. So far, the golf tournament has raised over $4,000 for Make-A-Wish, and that figure is expected to raise to $6,000 after Saturday night's auction and dinner.

Everything from camping equipment to $520 worth in gasoline to NASCAR Dale Earnhardt collectibles will be auctioned off at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Country Club Road. The auction is open to the public.

The tournament, however, will showcase a number of top golfers. Hereford's James Salinas will team up with Tiffi West, while Craig Nieman of Here-ford will be partnered with Robbie Madison of Amarillo.

Defending champions Jason Thornball of Oklahoma and Debbie Holzclaw of Canyon will be participating again as they will be competing in the championship flight.

"We have a tremendously flight strong championship flight this year," Brown said. "It will be a dog fight for first place on Sunday afternoon." But with 56 teams entering, it is surprising to Brown that the number of golfers is big for the time of the year. "Its an odd time of the year for the agricultural community, were the farmers are out working on the field a lot," Brown said. "In the past it has cost us some teams but looks like this year it has worked well."

Brown pointed out that Make-A-Wish will be getting a donation of an estimated $30,000, which makes the event worthwhile getting another shot at the golf course.

"It will be a good tourney and it always is," Brown said. "It looks like the weather's going to be nice."

HERTFORD, N.C. Pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the model of control in a 15year Hall of Fame career, died Thursday of Lou Gehrig's disease, which left him unable to grip a baseball at the end of his life. He was 53.

Hunter, baseball's first big money free agent, died at his home in Hertford, N.C., where he fell Aug. 8 and hit his head on some concrete steps. He was unconscious for several days in the hospital, but improved and was sent home to his Perquimans County farm on Saturday in fair condition, according to Rev. Keith Vaughan, a family spokesman.

Hertford was the same country town where Hunter grew up to become one of the game's most dominant pitchowner Charles O. Finley found Hunter, one of the first building blocks in a dynasty team that won three straight World Series from 1972-74.

Finley pinned the nickname "Catfish" on the pitcher, and Hunter went along with it. He loved a joke and when the owner decided his players should all have mustaches, Hunter was one of the first to grow one and collect the $300 bonus.

Hunter came up with the A's in 1965 and punctuated the team's move from Kansas City to Oakland with a perfect game against the Minnesota Twins on May 8, 1968. At the time, it was just the seventh perfect game in modern baseball history.

"He was a big game pitcher, a consistent pitcher who always kept you in the ball game," said Sal Bando, the third baseman on that Oak-turned each winter to enjoy land team. "He consistently trailblazer. Finley had failed pitched well in big games. He was a No. 1 starter, and you can't win without one."

Bando recalled Hunter as the ultimate team player, a guy who loved to sit around That was where Athletics othe clubhouse, spinning stories with a country drawl.

"He was very low key, a very warm person. He treated everybody the same. If you were an extra man or you were a star, it didn't matter. Just a down to earth Bando remembered how Hunter loved the outdoors and did not let baseball interfere. Typical was when the pitcher won 20 games for the first time in 1971.

"What I remember most about it is he had been up early in the morning (that day) fishing." he said. "He was a strong guy. He waw up by 4 or 5 and went fishing. He got in about noon, showered, went to the ballpark, pitched ten innings and drove in the winning run."

By 1974, when the Athletics won their third straight World Series, Hunter was ready to become a baseball to pay an annuity clause in his contract and the pitcher's grievance went to arbitration. He was declared a free agent. setting off a surreal scene in Hertford, where baseball executives trudged to recruit him for their teams.

Finally, he settled on the Yankees, agreeing to a land-mark $3.75 million five-year contract that was signed on New Year's Eve, 1974.

Yankees owner George Steinbrenner never regretted the deal.

"Catfish Hunter was the cornerstone of the Yankees' success over the last quarter century," Steinbrenner said in a statement Thursday. "We were not winning before Cat-fish arrived ... He exempli-fied class and dignity and he taught us how to win."

Hunter was the second Yankees Hall of Famer to die this year. Joe DiMaggio died March 8 at age 84.

In today's baseball economics, Hunter's contract was a small-change deal. But it made him the highest-paid player in baseball history at the time, and set the stage for full-scale free agency, which began after the 1976 season.

"I was probably the first player who broke it open for other players to be paid what they're worth," he said in 1987, shortly after he was elected to the Hall of Fame.

The contract made him baseball's highest-paid player, and he became the Yankees' workhorse the following two years, completing 51 of 75 starts and leading the team to its first pennant in 12 seasons.

"Catfish was a very unique guy," said Lou Piniella, a teammate on those Yankees clubs. "If you didn't know he was making that kind of money, you'd never guess it because he was humble, very reserved about being a star-type player. We had a lot of fun when he was in New York. There was a lot of give and take, and Catfish was in the middle of it all the time.

"He was a big game pitcher. If wanted to win a ballgame, you gave the ball to Catfish.

"He was a class guy, very humble, very reserved, almost a little bit shy. But he told great stories. He had a heck of a sense of humor. When you play with guys like that, you feel blessed.

The Yankees won three straight pennants with Hunter from 1976-78. When his contract ended, he returned to his beloved Hertford, to his farm and his outdoor life.

He had diabetes and required insulin injections three times a day. Then, in September 1998, he learned he had amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, a disease that attacks nerves in the spinal cord and brain that control muscle movement. There is no cure for ALS, commonly called Lou Gehrig's disease, after another Yankees Hall of Famer who was afflicted with the disease.

Hunter first noticed the condition in the winter of 1997-98 while hunting near his farm.

"I couldn't lift my shotgun with my right hand," Hunter said. "It was a little bit cool that day, and I thought there was something wrong with me that would go away. But it just kept getting worse."

At first, he thought it might be a tick bite, but after repeated visits to doctors in Norfolk, Va., and the Duke and Johns Hopkins medical centers, Hunter got the dreaded diagnosis.

Doctors put Hunter on a drug regimen to slow the disease but it progressed quickly, leaving the once strong-armed pitcher unable to function without help. He talked of how Helen, his high school sweetheart and wife of more than 30 years, helped him through each day, dressing him and cutting his food.

"Once in a while," he said, "we sit there and cry together."

He made a brief visit to the Yankees' training base in Tampa, Fla., last spring but was barely able to shake hands with old teammates.

Old friends were shocked when they saw him. His arms hung limp at his side. His hands seemed soft and puffy, much different from those he displayed as a powerful pitcher and farmer.

"I'm doing all right," he said at the time. "It's just my hands and arms don't work right."

Besides his wife, survivors include three children and a grandson. A funeral will be held Sunday in Cedar Wood Cemetery in Hertford, behind the field where Hunter played high school baseball.

There are player restrictions which include: 1) May play on only one Co-ed team, 2) There is no age limit and 3) Mens church league - 50 & over, must be from the same church. Depending on the number of teams entered, divisions may be combined. There is a minimum of (4) teams needed to form a division, and if combined handicapped system will be in effect for co-ed leagues.

Division clarification: Co-ed A -- Modified power rules, Co-ed B -- Recreation rules and Mens church league 50 & Over -- Recreational rules. Game days will be on Monday and Tuesday nights depending on the number of teams entered. Games will start at 7:15 p.m. and will be held at the YMCA. Let us know if you need to play on a certain day, we will try to be flexible. The sign-up deadline is September 9th.

Eight games will be played plus a double elimination tournament at the end to decide the winner. Team roster must be final by September 28th. Everyone on the roster must be a full paid participant, fee is $102.00 per team.

Cohen: U.S. isn't world's policeman

WASHINGTON (AP) -The United States should not commit troops in every international crisis that "catches our eye and emotion," Defense Secretary William Cohen said in remarks that suggested an inclination not to intervene militarily in East Timor.

In a speech prepared for delivery Thursday night to the International Institute for Strategic Studies in Coronado, Calif., Cohen made no mention of the crisis in East Timor, where violence triggered by an independence vote has forced more than 200,000 people to flee their homeland.

Focusing on lessons learned from the Kosovo conflict, Cohen said the United States and its NATO allies were right to intervene in Kosovo to end Serb repression, but the experience underscored that intervention is not the answer in every crisis.

"Among the enduring lessons of this and every conflict is that we must resist the temptation to use our forces in every dispute that catches our eye and emotion," Cohen said in his pre-pared remarks. An advance copy of his speech was made available to reporters.

Cohen said the 78-day NATO air war against Yugo-slavia showed the changing nature of warfare and political conflict, saying it highlighted a "superpower paradox": U.S. supremacy in conventional military power is prompting adversaries to develop unconventional methods of warfare.

For example, Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic used "rape, pillage and slaughter" as a military tactic, Cohen said. By expelling hundreds of thousands of ethnic Albanians from Kosovo and killing many others, Milosevic created a humanitarian crisis as a combat strategy, he said.

Cohen said Americans must answer several basic questions before deciding whether it is right to intervene militarily in an international crisis like Kosovo. Among those questions are whether the vital interests of the United States or its allies are directly threatened and whether "the wheel of conflict, if allowed to spin on its violent axis" will draw other nations into its vortex at ever greater cost.

Floyd becomes 4th hurricane

MIAMI (AP) - Tropical storm Floyd strengthened today to become the fourth Atlantic hurricane of the year, churning with top sustained winds of 80 mph and bringing rain to the Leeward Islands.

"The center is still in the formative stage, but it has intensified," said Richard Pasch, a hurricane specialist with the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "We think it could continue to strengthen and become a major hurricane in three days."

At 8 a.m., Floyd was centered about 210 miles eastnortheast of Barbuda in the northern Leeward Islands, and its outer rain bands were over the islands. It was expected to continue moving toward the west-northwest at near 12 mph.

Tropical storm force winds extended outward up to 175 miles from the storm's cen-

The hurricane was expected to pass just north of the Leeward Islands, but could threaten the northeastern Caribbean if it shifts at all to the south, forecasters said.

"During these coming three days we think it will stay north of the islands in the Caribbean," Pasch said.

CIA says Korea prepares to test ballistic missile

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

News digest

WASHINGTON - North Korea is preparing to flighttest a ballistic missile "at any time" that could be developed into an intercontinental-range weapon capable of striking U.S. territory, the CIA says.

A report released by the CIA on Thursday also said Iran probably will develop ICBMs over the next 15 years and that Iraq poses an additional — though somewhat more distant - ballistic missile threat.

The report characterized the prospect of North Korea acquiring a long-range missile by 2015 as "most likely," Iran's prospect was judged to be "probable" and Iraq was labeled a "possible" threat.

These emerging missile forces "potentially can kill tens of thousands, or even millions, of Americans," depending on their accuracy and whether they carry nuclear, chemical or biological warheads, it said.

The United States has no way to shoot down long-range ballistic missiles, although the Pentagon is spending billions of dollars to develop anti-missile missiles to shield the United States against a limited attack.

Israelis transfers control of part of West Bank

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip -In a new atmosphere of beating deadlines instead of bypassing them, Israel transferred 7 percent of the West Bank to Palestinian administrative control today, three days ahead of schedule.

The handover took effect after Palestinian and Israeli officers signed the maps delineating the 160 square miles that will come under civilian Palestinian rule.

Nabil Abourdeineh, an adviser to Yasser Arafat, said the maps were presented this morning to the Palestinian leader. "He accepted them," Abourdeineh told The Associated Press.

The handover does not require an Israeli troop redeployment. The land in question has no army bases and is sparsely populated, but helps fill in some of the gaps between areas already under Palestinian rule.

Jewish settlements in the West Bank will not be directly affected by the handover, since Israel for now retains overall control over security in the areas to be transferred today.

U.N. evacuates besieged East Timor compound

DILI, Indonesia— Fears of massacre inside the besieged U.N. compound in East Timor rose after most of the staff was evacuated to the airport, leaving little protection for refugees inside from rampaging militiamen.

Even under guard by Indonesian troops, the trucks of evacuating U.N. staff came under fire from militiamen as they passed through the streets of Dili, scattered with debris and ash from days of burning and looting, witnesses said. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

CLASSIFIEDS WORK! PLACE YOURS BY

Emmys: Do not put your money on 'The Sopranos'

By Lynn Elber

The Associated Press

What makes for an exciting Emmy Awards show? Your favorite star winning a trophy can do the trick. Or watching a deserving series set a record, as "Frasier" did when it snared its fifth consecutive best comedy Emmy last year.

Or maybe it's guessing the winners and picking up $20 in the office pool. With the goal of public service in mind (disclaimer: no gambling en-dorsement implied), Emmy expert Thomas O'Neil and I huddled over predictions.

O'Neil, author of "The Emmys," notes there are important elements to consider before making a forecast for Sunday's ceremony (airing 7 p.m. CDT on Fox).

An Emmy Award reflects a specific episode or episodes submitted for judging, not a show's or a performer's entire body of work for a season. Actors tender one episode; a series vying for best comedy or drama submits eight.

Weighing them are peer panels made up of members of the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences. Actors judge acting nominees, directors review their colleagues and so on during marathon viewing sessions in August.

That approach tends to assure that the quality of the work, rather than industry buzz, helps determine the winner, O'Neil said.

Having the most nominations or critical support also doesn't guarantee a glorious outcome. HBO's suburban mob drama "The Sopranos," with 16 nominations, is facing what O'Neil has deemed "the

It's unique to television. When comes to the Academy Awards, the film with the most bids took best picture nine out of the last 10 years. During the same period, Emmy frontrunners were tripped up six times, O'Neil

With that back story in mind, here are O'Neil's predictions in four categories, along with my take.

Best Actor (Comedy Series)

Kelsey Grammer, last year's winner, chose a "dud" with a Christmas-theme episode that failed to showcase his talent and may have put himself out of the running, O'Neil

John Lithgow of "3rd Rock From the Sun," on the other hand, is big and outrageous in a smartly performed piece of comedy, O'Neil said, naming him the likely winner. O'Neil's dark horse: Paul Reiser for the tearjerker final episode of "Mad About

My pick: Don't count out Grammer. Even when the material falls short, he is the ultimate in sitcom savor faire.

Best Actress

(Comedy series)
O'Neil is putting all his chips on Helen Hunt of "Mad About You," who submitted the sitcom's emotional hourlong finale. The victory would be her fourth in a row, tying a record set in 1988 by John Larroquette of "Night Court."

My pick: Calista Flockhart, your Emmy is ready. Yes, Emmy voters are awed by the Oscar-winning Hunt, but the "Ally McBeal" star was a state-of-the-art emotional rollercoaster in the episode in which she and former beau Billy share a kiss.

Best Actor

(Drama Series) He's stumped, O'Neil admits, willing to rule out only Jimmy Smits. The ex-"NYPD Blue" star submitted his deathbed episode, in which Smits is upstaged by co-star and fellow nominee Dennis Franz.

Because Franz rages in that 90-minute episode and then smolders quietly in the season finale he turned in. the range may sway voters, O'Neil said. He picks Dylan McDermott of "The Practice" as a deserving upset winner.

Our choice: The trophy goes to the mobster you hate to love in "The Sopranos." James Gandolfini's compelling character lacks the sympathetic edge O'Neil says Emmy voters favor, but I believe he'll muscle in on chutzpah.

Best Actress (Drama Series)

Last year's winner Christine Lahti could take the trophy again for "Chicago Hope," but the character's unlovable nature may undercut her big, explosive performance, O'Neil said. Edie Falco, the mob wife in "The Sopranos," turned in a wonderful example of her work and has a serious shot, he said.

My pick: Falco, a gutsy actress who doesn't play it safe and whose character is as close to a moral center as "The Writing want ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/ products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints: Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price. · Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

· Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Another 'blizzard' in the making? -- Back in the early 1980s,a blizzard swept through Hereford. Only the blizzard wasn't snow; it was tumbleweeds. Thanks to abundant rainfall in spring and early summer, there's big crop of soon-to-be tumbleweeds, just like these along 15th Street near Progressive Road. Is there another 'tumbleweed blizzard' in the making?

Rangers praised by Bush

DALLAS (AP) — It was the Texas Rangers who "started the flow" of information about the end of the Branch Davidian siege near Waco, Gov. George W. Bush reminded.

Bush praised the Texas agency Thursday while dodging a question about whether he felt there was a coverup or slipup in the investigation of the April 19, 1993, fiery end of the standoff.

At a brief news conference, Bush expressed confidence in the appointment Thursday of former Sen. John Danforth to investigate lingering questions about Waco and said he'd have to wait until after Danforth completes his probe before he'll know how to answer questions about a coverup.

The Texas Rangers collected tons of evidence from the charred ruins of David Koresh's Mount Carmel headquarters. A federal judge in Waco has now ordered U.S. marshals to take custody of the evidence, which researchers have said contains proof that federal agents fired potentially incendiary devices during the siege at the cult's wooden home.

Asked again about whether he had help getting into the Air National Guard during the Vietnam War, Bush repeated that neither he nor his family asked for special treatment for him. "They were looking for pilots and I fit the qualifications," he said.

Also Thursday, Bush began posting his campaign contributions on the Internet. The information is 14 days old, but Bush said he expects the process to speed up to the point that data is no more than a week old.

The information appears in one giant file which is hard to analyze statistically, critics said. Bush said there is no deliberate effort to make it hard to figure out who his contributors are.

So far, his campaign has raised about $50 million, the Republican front-runner said.

Meanwhile, the Democratic leader, Vice President Al Gore, announced Thursday that he will visit a Rhode Island school that Bush scratched Wednesday from his schedule because of bad weather.

Bush brushed off any suggestion he had been oneupped by Gore, saying, "I'm focused on my own nomination."

Bush's appearances Thursday included a formal groundbreaking for the University of North Texas' new center in southern Dallas County.

Gore to visit school snubbed by Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) - Disappointed students will get a consolation prize after George W. Bush failed to show up for a scheduled visit to their Rhode Island school: Al Gore.
