Hereford Brand Staff Writer The only thing missing at Monday's public hearing on the Deaf Smith County tax rate was the public.

The county commissioners conducted a hearing on the proposed tax rate for Fiscal 2000, but no taxpayers were present to voice their opinions about the rate, which will be 3.99 percent higher than the rate for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

The rate of 54.97 cents per $100 assessed valuation will generate about 4.3 percent more revenue than the current level of 52.86 cents.

The FY 2000 tax rate and budget will be discussed at 9 a.m. Sept. 13 at the commissioners' regular meeting, with formal adoption scheduled for Sept. 20.

In comparing the proposed FY 2000 tax rate with this year's rate, the average homestead value in the next budget year is $37,741, up from $36,368 this year.

The tax bill on the average homestead will be $207.46, up from $192.24 last year.

Farmland takes over

By Donald M. Cooper Hereford Brand Managing Edit

It's official: Frito-Lay is out; Farmland Industries is in.

Farmland Industries completed its acquisition of the 10-million bushel Frito-Lay grain center Monday by taking full occupancy of the complex.

Frito-Lay had been leasing the complex since selling its Hereford grain center to the Kansas Citybased Farmland Industries.

Farmland celebrated the completion of the acquisition with a special ribbon-cutting ceremony attended by company officers; county and city officials, and representatives of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, Hereford Economic Development Corp.

As preparation for the planned improvements at the complex, the city and county closed portions of Industrial, Commerce and Express streets and Canal and Rail avenues.

According to Farmland operations director Marvin Hachmeister, the contractor already has begun some preparations for the company's planned improvements of the com-

News in brief

Second dragging death trial begins

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — Whether the son of devout Christians became a disciple of hate is at the heart of today's trial of a suspected white supremacist, accused in the gruesome dragging death of a black man.

About 175 potential jurors will report today to the Brazos County Courthouse for Lawrence Russell Brewer's capital murder trial in the death of James Byrd Jr. Lawyers will spend two weeks whittling the group to 12. Testimony is set to begin Sept. 15 and should take three weeks.

Brewer, 32, is the second of three men accused of beating Byrd, chaining him to a pickup truck and dragging him for nearly three miles outside Jasper. His trial was moved to this county, 150 miles to the west, which is home to Texas A&M University and the George Bush Presidential Library.

Co-defendant John William King, the first to be tried, was convicted in Jasper last February and sentenced to death. Jasper County District Attorney Guy James Gray believes King led the other two men to murder. Both face death if

Closing arguments set

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors aren't seeking the death penalty for two former policemen accused of killing a woman who had won custody of a child she claimed had been stolen from her at birth.

Former Brownsville officers Robert Briseno and Randall Ledbetter are charged with killing Laura Lugo in a murder-for-hire plot admittedly hatched by Ledbetter's girlfriend, star prosecution witness Janet Ramirez.

She pleaded guilty to murder in exchange for a 20-year sentence and testified last week that she wanted Ms. Lugo dead because she saw her as competition for Ledbetter, who had been a U.S. Border Patrol agent in Arizona.

Ms. Ramirez said she made threatening phone calls to Ledbetter's wife, but Ledbetter thought Ms. Lugo was making them. As a result, he also wanted Ms. Lugo dead and gave Briseno bullets and a partial payment of $1,000, Ms. Ramirez Briseno shot Ms. Lugo in the head after he and Ms. Ramirez lured her from her apartment to a remote area under the pretense of a get-together with Ledbetter, Ms. Ramirez alleged.

Defense attorneys tried to portray Ms. Ramirez as an habitual liar who has changed her account of the killing several times. On the stand, she admitted to lying in the past, but said she was now telling the truth.

Executives pay quadruples while workers stay just ahead of inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top American corporate executives have seen their paychecks more than quadruple during the 1990s while factory workers' wage increases only slightly outpaced inflation, says a study by liberal advocacy groups.

The study compared Labor Department statistics tracking wages of nonsupervisory workers in the manufacturing industry during the 1990s with trends in compensation packages for corporate executives as reported by Business Week magazine and other private sources.

"There's a big fairness problem here. While the headlines are saying the economy is doing so wonderfully, the benefits of that are not being spread around equitably," said Sarah Anderson, one of the report's authors.

Cape Cod

Dear Cape Cod: You are right, and I thank you for saying it so well. A great many readers were outraged by the uncle's failure to insist that the boy be given his seat back, and his violent threat to "stomp a mud hole" in the boy's back was totally un-called for. That kind of intimidating tactic is inexcusable and reprehensible.

Dear Ann Landers: "Patrick" and I have been married for seven years. At first, things were wonderful, but after the birth of our second child five years ago, Patrick began having violent fits of rage.

Patrick never hits us, but he becomes extremely angry over trivial things, such as the children going to bed 15 minutes late. When he loses it, he yells at the top of his lungs and swears a blue streak. These "moods" can last anywhere from one day to a week. When he snaps out of it, he apologizes and says he knows he needs help, but he never does anything about it.

I love Patrick and would never consider divorce. He is a wonderful father when his mood is normal. I don't know anvone with this problem, and I need some help. — Unable to Cope in Indiana

Service unit makes yearly plans

The Hereford Girl Scout Service Unit recently held its first planning meeting of the year. The service unit is comprised of adult volunteers who participate in the Girl Scout organization. The purpose of the service unit is to plan and organize events for all levels of Girl Scout troops.

Susan Daniel, service unit director, opened the meeting with a poem about being a Girl Scout leader and set the agenda for the meeting. Announcements were made about Gold Star troops, Girl Scout cookie trainings, and leader trainings to be offered in Hereford and at Camp Kiwanis.

Marie Carra, unit registrar, discussed the registration drive and emphasized that girls and adults can join the Girl Scout program at any time during the year. The registration fee is $7 per girl

Plans were made for the following fall events: the Girl Scout Investiture and Rededication Ceremony, a campout at Camp Kiwanis, a song workshop, and a Christmas caroling activity. The members also voted to have their troops make decorations for the Girl Scout tree for the "Festival of Trees" event in November.

The group discussed dates and ideas for the following spring events: the Girl Scout Cookie Kick-Off and Sale in January, the Valentines for Vets service project, a bridging workshop, the phone book recycling project, activities for Girl Scout Week in March, the Girl Scout Carnival, a campout at Camp Kiwanis, and the Court of Awards cer-Returning volunteers that were present were Lisa Blakely, Lynn Dawson, Melissa Galvan, Lorna Haws, Daniel and Carra. New volunteers were Sally Rhyne and Melissa Wilhelm.

Back to their Old Ways

■ Hereford Volleyball takes first place at Justin Northwest Tourney, beats on Dumas

From Staff Reports

JUSTIN — It may have taken almost two weeks, but it looks like the Here-ford Lady Whiteface volleyball team finally got that familiar spark back that made them two-time state champions.

They got that spark back as they took first place in the Justin Northwest Volleyball Tournament on August 27-28.

Hereford showed their old dominating ways in the first round of the Red bracket against Granbury. The Lady Whitefaces took an easy 15-3, 15-6 victory in one of three matches they would play Friday.

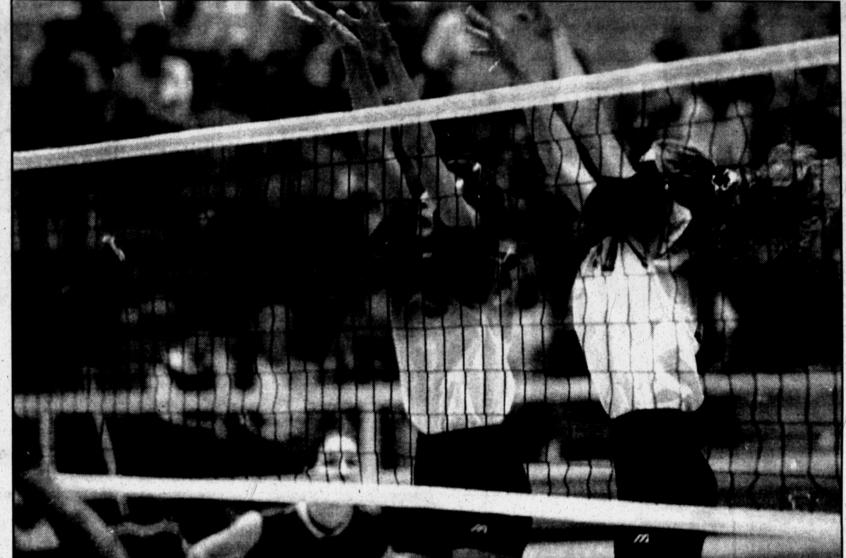

Tori Walker led Hereford with 6 kills, 6 digs and 2 blocks. Ashley Gonzalez was a defensive monster for Hereford, recording 6 digs. Michelle Bernhardt had 5

Hereford only committed 15 errors.

The victory against Granbury sent the Lady Whitefaces into a second round match against Coppell. Hereford came away with a 15-10, 15-8 victory.

Tori Walker scored 10 kills, as well as adding 2 blocks and 18 digs. Sarah Griffin added 18 blocks and 8 digs. Valerie Guzman scored three aces in the Again, Tori Walker led the Herd with 9 kills, 5 digs and a block.

Once they got to the championship bracket, Hereford faced tougher challenges, but responded well.

In the quarterfinals, Dallas Highland Park was a minor irritant to the Herd as they won a three-set match 5-15, 15-11, 15-4.

Tori Walker continued to dominate the competition as she recorded 11 kills, 3 blocks 9 digs. McKenzie Tabor also had 9 digs. Sarah Griffin had 3 kills and 8 digs and Toni Eicke added 7 kills.

Windthorst was the next victim for Hereford, as they took another three-set match 15-13, 9-15, 15-6 in the tournament semifinals.

Walker gained 11 kills, 5 blocks and 18 digs to lead the Herd. Michelle Bernhardt and Toni Eicke each contributed with 6 kills. Valerie Guzman had 9

Then it was time for the championship game against district rival Dumas.

The Lady Whitefaces got a little measure of revenge on the Demonettes for their regional final loss in '98 with a 12-15, 15-11, 15-12 marathon in the tournament final.

From Staff Reports
AMARILLO — The Hereford Tennis team had its share of success over the weekend as they won 37 matches against four teams over the weekend at the Amarillo Tournament.

On Friday, the Whitefaces faced the team they had matched against two weeks earlier at Hereford High School, the Canyon Randall Raiders.

Again, Hereford got the best of Randall and defeated them 10 matches to seven.

In women's singles, every Hereford representative captured a victory. Kimberly Scott defeated Jolene Settle, 7-5, 6-2; Kylee Auckerman defeated Chasity Edwards 6-1, 6-2; Lindsee Goforth defeated Lynse Cates, 6-0, 6-1 and Danae Brinkman defeated Allison Wallace 6-0, 6-1.

Women's doubles saw the duo of Goforth and Fry defeat Cates and Edwards 6-3, 6-0.

Mixed doubles had a lot of success as Kylee Auckerman and Clay Cosby defeated Allison Wallace and Kyle Watson, 6-2, 6-3.

Men's singles provided three victories for the Whitefaces against the Raiders. Nelson Beville defeated Armando Salcido, 6-2, 6-2; Riley Hall jumped all over Phil Slaton, 6-1, 6-3 and Ian Isaacson won his match against T.J. Taylor, 6-3, Friday also saw the Herd play matches against the Eagles of El Paso Andress.

Andress and Hereford played close matches, but the Eagles took a 10-8 match victory against the Herd.

In women's singles, Ivory Isaacson took care of Alma Davila, 6-1, 6-4; Lindsee Goforth defeated Ashley Biever, 6-1, 6-0 and Danae

The Rangers, who had at least 10 hits in all of their last nine games, were limited to two singles from Mark McLemore and another from Royce Clayton.

"I seem to pitch better against teams that have veteran guys and guys everybody knows about," Moehler said. "It's always a challenge to pitch against those guys."

Moehler's biggest inning was the fourth, when an error and a walk put two on with two out. He got Rafael Palmeiro, batting .625 against him coming in, to fly out.

"It was his game tonight," Tigers manager Larry Parrish said. "He just commanded the ball tremendously."

He had to, because Rang-ers starter Esteban Loaiza was shutting down the Tigers just as well until Kapler started the seventh with a drive that just cleared the left-field wall over Greer's

Earlier Monday, Kapler was at Moehler's house for a Lamaze class with their expectant wives. "From 10:30 to 2:30," Moehler said. "Who would've thought we'd do that and then he'd hit a home run to win a game for me?"

memorable game for Edgardo Alfonzo.

"It was an unbelievable game. Everything that happened to me was good," Alfonzo said after going 6for-6 with three homers as the New York Mets handed the Houston Astros the most lopsided home loss in franchise history, 17-1 on Monday night.

Alfonzo scored a major league-tying record six times and drove in five runs. He hit a solo homer in the first, singled and scored a run in the second, hit a two-run homer in the fourth and added a solo shot in the sixth.

"I was hitting the ball hard and getting good pitches to hit," Alfonzo said. "I just started having a good time and enjoying the game."

"The guys on the bench really didn't know how to react, but everybody was watching," New York manager Bobby Valentine said. "He just smiled a little bit, that was the only reaction that I saw from him. He knows he's good, he just doesn't know how good."

Mike Piazza enjoyed watching his teammate's performance.

"That was very impressive. He can do a lot of things well," Piazza said. "I think he is underrated. He has tremendous power and he's get-ting better all the time. You have to mention him with the better second basemen in

"I've never seen a four home run performance and I don't think I've ever seen six hits in a major league game," Valentine said. "This is the best one-game offensive performance I've ever seen."

Houston manager Larry Dierker agreed.

"This is the best I can remember," Dierker said. "I saw Joe Morgan get six hits at Milwaukee when the Braves were playing there but that was in an extra-inning game. Alfonzo hit everything

Darryl Hamilton was 4-for-5 with a homer and three RBIs and Mike Piazza also homered for New York. Every Mets starter except for pitcher Masato Yoshii had at least one hit.

Yoshii (9-8) pitched six shutout innings and allowed only two singles. He walked one and struck out eight. In his last three starts, the Mets right-hander is 2-0 and has allowed two runs in 22 1-3 innings.

"Yoshii was aces. Everything he threw was a quality pitch," Valentine said. The Mets rocked Shane Reynolds (14-11) for seven runs in the first two innings.

"This was one of those games I want to forget as soon as possible," Reynolds in the eighth and got his said. "It was terrible."

Alfonzo gave the Mets a 1-0 lead with one out in the first when he drove a 0-1 pitch from Reynolds into the left-field seats.

Hamilton led off the second with his seventh homer. Roger Cedeno followed with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice. Cedeno stole third and scored on Rickey Henderson's single off the leftfield wall.

"Tonight I was getting good sitches to hit," Alfonzo said. "I feel I can go out every day and try to be positive and hit the ball hard. Home runs I don't think about, I just try to have good at bats."
The Mets extended their lead to 9-0 in the fourth when Alfonzo homered to left. His third homer of the game and 23rd of the season made the score 11-0 in the sixth.

"It was only one loss and we didn't use up our whole team to get it. All you can do is forget it and move on to tomorrow," Dierker said.

The Astros avoided the shutout when rookie Lance Berkman hit Jeff Tam's first pitch for his fourth homer of the year with two outs in the seventh.

Reynolds pitched three innings, allowing seven runs on seven hits. He walked two and struck out three. The right-hander is 0-4 in his last five starts and has not won since he shut out the Dodgers on Aug. 5.

"I just fell behind on the count and had to come in with strikes. They hit it real hard. It seemed like they were right on everything,' Reynolds lamented.

Study: 80 percent of college athletes are hazed

WASHINGTON (AP) - From binge drinking to beatings, freshman initiation to college sports isn't much different from the old fraternity rites. A study released Monday reported that 80 percent of college athletes are hazed, a finding that startled officials and left them looking for answers.

"I find the results of our study on hazing to be hoed with cooperation of the NCAA, found widespread hazing from Division I to Division III and in a wide variety of sports. Examples ranged from criminal or dangerous acts, such as kidnappings and destruction of property, to questionable acts such as yelling and cursing at freshmen or forcing them to wear embarrassing clothing.

Sixty percent of the athletes who responded said they took part in criminal, dangerous and-or alcohol-related haz-

Other than the sheer size of the problem, the most surprising result for the researchers was that hazing was not the most prevalent among big-money, scholarship sports at Division I schools.

"That was a really astonishing thing to us," said Nadine Hoover, the study's principal investigator, "because we expected to find places where this was much more prevalent. There is no significant difference between divisions or levels of teams."

The one exception, said Hoover, was that Division I scholarship athletes were more likely to be subject to alcohol-related hazing.

The study also found that men were more at risk than women, and that the sports with the most hazing are swimming and diving, lacrosse, soccer, football and ice hockey. Hazing was also more likely in the East or South, and on rural or residential campuses

Sports with significantly fewer reports of hazing were track, fencing and golf.

Coll said he asked for the study after criminal charges were filed last year against four Alfred football players following a party at which freshmen were allegedly tied together and forced to drink alcohol or water until they vomited.

As a result, Coll said his university has taken a zerotolerance policy toward hazing in athletics and called on other schools to do the same. He said coaches specifically need to stop ignoring the problem.

"I think the coaches turn a blind eye toward it because many of them don't think supervising their student-athletes outside their practice or game-day procedures is a part of their responsibility," Coll said. "I think this is an issue we need to address to let coaches know that we do expect some accountability."

"The coaches have a specific role to fulfill here, whether they like it or not," he said.

Ron Stratten, the NCAA's vice president for educational services, also called for coaches to be more aware of their teams' initiation rites. He said the NCAA has planned no specific legislation in response to the study, but will address the issue with the colleges.

"We're going to raise the bar with regard to our knowledge of his issue," Stratten said. "It's appalling what's going

The study defined hazing as "any activity expected of someone joining a group that humiliates, degrades, abuses or endangers, regardless of the person's willingness to participate. This does not include activities such as rookies carrying the balls, team parties with community games, or going out with your teammates, unless an atmosphere of humiliation, degradation, abuse or danger arises."

Under this definition, only 12 percent of athletes said they had been hazed. However, when asked about specific activities, the figure rose to 79 percent.

The study also explored ways for schools to stop hazing. Recommended solutions include written antihezing policies, more coach involvement and the development of positive, team-sponsored initiation events that could take the place of private ones.

The study did not address the causes of hazing, but Coll said the answer lies in tradition.

"Hazing exists because it was done before," he said. "That's the only logical explanation I've ever had for Greek (fraternity) hazing. The sophomores and juniors do it because it was done to them when they were freshmen."

Schedule should give Giants edge over rivals

By Bill Barnard

The Associated Press

The NFC East championship could be determined by whom the contenders play, not just how well they play.

The New York Giants, 6-10 in 1996, took advantage of a last-place schedule to win the division at 10-5-1 the following season, then fell to 8-8 but with a fast finish - last year. With a third-place schedule in 1999, they could win 10 games again without real improvement on the field.

The Dallas Cowboys, after successive division titles from 1992-96, nose-dived to 6-10 in 1997, then rebounded to win another NFC East crown last season. The Giants have the 25th toughest schedule this season, while the Cowboys have the 12th toughest, and the resurgent Arizona Cardinals the fourth toughest.

But the up-and-down performances can be deceiving. The Cowboys went 8-0 in the division and 2-6 against supposedly easier outside opponents in 1998.

Nevertheless, a New York, Dallas, Arizona finish could be the final tally.

All three teams have tough closing schedules, highlighted by the Giants in Dallas on the final Sunday. Arizona ends the regular season at Green Bay.

The Giants, 30th, 27th and 29th in total offense the last downfield passing attack with staple: a speedy defense. receivers Ike Hilliard, Amani Toomer and Joe Jurevicius.

Kent Graham, who led the Giants to four straight victories to end last season, is the starter, but many believe he will eventually be replaced by offseason signee Kerry Collins. Graham has excelled in the preseason. On defense, star cornerback Jason Sehorn missed all of 1998 with a knee injury and was hampered by hamstring problems throughout training camp. If he recovers, New York will have a solid cornerback trio with Sehorn, Phillippi Sparks and nickel back Conrad Hamilton.

End Michael Strahan has developed into one of the NFL's top defenders, and he has the contract to match. But his effectiveness will partly depend on former firstround pick Cedric Jones, the starter at the other end with the departure of Chad Bratzke.

Jessie Armstead, who says he's recovered from nagging ankle problems, anchors a solid linebacker corps.

While the Giants surged too late in '98 to catch up, the Cowboys folded too late to lose the division, then fell by 13 points to Arizona in the playoffs.

Stars Troy Aikman, Emmitt Smith, Deion Sanders and Michael Irvin always seem to be the keys to the team's success. But in reality the Cowboys depend just as much three years, will feature a on an old Jimmy Johnson

Peppi Zellner add more of the same to a unit that was already small and quick. The defensive scheme will be more effective if cornerback Sanders is around to cut off his half of the field, and the coaches hope his injured big toe will be ready before the Arizona game on Oct. 3. The switch of speedy linebacker Randall Godfrey from the outside to the middle further spotlighted Dallas' emphasis on speed.

Irvin had 74 receptions for more than 1,000 yards last year, but his one touchdown tarnished his reputation as a point-maker. Rocket Ismail was signed to take some of the heat off Irvin, and Ernie Mills is back from injury.

The Cardinals are a popular choice to win the division last year's groundbreaking playoff win, the franchise's first in 51

But after facing just one opponent last year with a winning record the previous season, Arizona meets eight playoff teams in 1999. Outside the division, the Cardinals play host to Buffalo and San Francisco and have road games at Atlanta, Green Bay, the New York Jets and Miami.

They also lost Lomas Brown, Larry Centers, Eric Metcalf, Chris Gedney and Jamir Miller from last year's team. Their most important addition, rookie receiver Draft picks Ebenezer David Boston, joins a position Ekuban, Dat Nguyen and where the Cardinals are already strong with Frank Sanders and Rob Moore.

Quarterback Jake. Plummer will have to be at his big-play best to keep the team moving forward.

Washington and Philadelphia, who used to make the NFC East one of the best divisions, combine to make it one of the worst.

Both teams are starting over with new quarterbacks, with the Redskins acquiring Brad Johnson and letting Gus Frerotte and Trent Green

The receiving group is a mixture of the old, young and disappointing: Irving Fryar, who retired from the Eagles and was persuaded to return; Albert Connell (28 receptions); and Michael Westbrook (44 receptions for 736 yards).

Johnson could be very good, but he's also a health risk behind a line that was revamped after allowing 61 sacks to more mobile quarterbacks than Johnson.

On defense, tackles Dana Stubblefield and Dan Wilkinson never came close to justifying their huge salaries, and the departure of linebacker Marvcus Patton leaves a hole. On the bright side, rookie Champ Bailey teams at cornerback with seemingly ageless speedster Darrell Green.

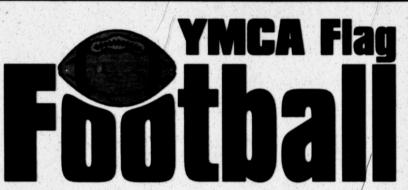

Doug Pederson is the ultimate stopgap quarterback for the Eagles, a 30-year-old veteran of seven years in the NFL who hasn't started a game. Waiting for his chance is No. 2 overall pick Donovan McNabb of Syracuse, who was booed by Philadelphia fans when he was drafted.

On defense, statistics again proved they can lie. The pass defense was No. 1 in the NFL, but the Eagles were 27th against the run, and with an inept offense (last in the NFL), teams had little reason to throw against them.

Here are the order of predicted final records in the NFC East: New York Giants 9-7; Dallas Cowboys 9-7; Arizona Cardinals 8-8; Washington Redskins 7-9; Philadelphia Eagles 3-13.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints: · Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

· Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

· Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbrevia-

 Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

The Beatles

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) -Back in 1965, the Beatles spent a night holed up at the top of the eight-story Cabana Hotel.

After two sold-out shows in nearby Daly City, the moptopped British rockers deserved rest. Outside, hundreds of fans, most of them girls in various stages

THE BEATLES of swoon, gathered to scream to their idols high above. The band left the hotel in a delivery truck. The sheets they slept on were cut up and sold. The room service dishes and cutlery disappeared. Now the hotel, newly renovated after closing in 1992, is bringing back the Beatles. The Crowne Plaza Cabana Palo Alto officially opened the Beatles Room, No. 810, Saturday night. Reproductions of Beatles memorabilia are on display in the room.

David Young, the Crowne Plaza's sales director, says he has been surprised by the lasting impression the Beatles' short stay made.

"I was at a Hewlett-Packard golf tournament recently, and everybody who was in a certain age group came by and said they had tried to dress up like the press with a suit and camera to try to sneak in to the Beatles," he said.

Jack Ford

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Ford is leaving NBC to be a host and correspondent on ABC's "20/20," where he will be a leading candidate to replace Charles Gibson on "Good Morning America."

Ford has been the chief legal correspondent at NBC and co-anchor of the "Today" show weekend editions.

He will report legal and other stories and anchor one night a week for "20/20," a newsmagazine.

Checking progress -- Wayne Mitchell, project manager for Bank Design Corp. of Boerne, looks at the steel frames erected inside the former Energas office at the corner of Third and North Lee streets. The office is being converted into the home of the soon-to-be First National Bank of Hereford. Mitchell said the bank should be ready for occupancy sometime in October.

Latest research on sugarbeets to be presented

BUSHLAND - In conjunction with Wednesday's Panhandle Ag Day, the sugar beet grower research committee will tour experimental field plots immediately following field day events.

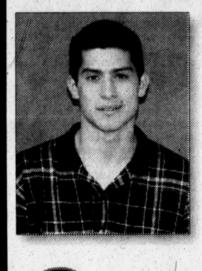

Producers are encouraged to meet Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists at the south section to hear progress reports on the new cultivars identified with potential for this area.

Growers and scientists have joined together in supporting this work for many years. The need for this collaboration has become especially important since the downsizing of the Holly Sugar facility at Hereford. Their goal is to return the crop's viability for Texas agriculture, and producers in the Panhandle.

In other activities, winter wheat and grain sorghum are ideal crops for the southern Great Plains, according to Paul Unger, soil scientist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service at the Conservation and Production Research Laboratory here. His research results will be highlighted as part of the Panhandle Ag Day on Sept. 1. These crops adapt well and can be grown under irrigated or dryland conditions. Unger used a 3-year production scheme and rotated the two crops, with a 10- to 11-month fallow period between each planting. This system offers a mechanism for better weed control with tillage or herbicides because the crops are grown in different seasons (winter and summer). According to the soil scientist, it may help control insects and plant diseases, but these were not major problems during this study.
