Fuhrman, contamination of evidence led to verdict

Jurors say racist comments one reason they voted to acquit Simpson of murder

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - It ended much as it began: a football legend on the move, zipping down the freeway in a white vehicle, news helicopters in hot pursuit, nobody really sure what was going to happen next.

In the O.J. Simpson trial, the surreal had become the real, the sensational had become the conventional. So much hyperbole had been expended for so long that it almost seemed inadequate to refer to the verdict as stunning, shocking, dramatic.

But it was Orenthal James Simpson, who earned fame for running, will now go down in history for walking. A jury of 10 women and two men, after deliberations shorter than most of Simpson's football games, acquitted him of murder.

The prosecution's mountain of evidence crumbled in the jury room in less than four hours, and the first hints suggested at least one juror was heavily influenced by defense claims that Detective Mark Fuhrman's testimony was not to be trusted because of his racist views.

The daughter of Juror No. 3, Anise Aschenbach, a 61-year-old retiree, described in an interview with ABC-TV a telephone conversation she had with her mother shortly after the verdict.

"She said, 'I think he probably did do it, Denise,'" said the daughter, who was identified only by her first name. "I said something like, 'Gosh, you're kidding me.' And she said, 'No,' and she's crying. So I said: 'Why? What happened?'"

"She said it was because there wasn't enough evidence. And I said, 'Why?' She said, 'Because of Mark Fuhrman.'" It was Fuhrman who found the bloody glove that prosecutors said was crucial evidence linking Simpson to the killings.

Lionel "Lon" Cryer told the Los Angeles Times that he and other jurors kept finding holes in the prosecution case, and concluded there were many opportunities for contamination of evidence.

"It was garbage in, garbage out," he said. "There was a problem with what was being presented to prosecutors for testing from LAPD."

Cryer said jurors found noted forensic pathologist Dr. Henry Lee, a defense witness who detailed problems with the prosecution's evidence, "the most credible witness" of all.

Most of the jurors seemed in no rush to explain their decision as they returned home from the $180-a-night hotel rooms where they were confined for nearly nine months.

"I'm so glad to be back. I feel free," said juror Brenda Moran, a computer technician from South Central Los Angeles. "I think we did the right thing - matter of fact, I know we did."

When the court clerk read the verdict, emotions electrified the courtroom. Simpson's family gasped. The victims' families cried.

Only Simpson appeared oddly calm, smiling a crooked grin, waving, hugging an attorney. He mouthed "thank you" to his jurors.

"He kept repeating, 'I'm going home, I'm going home.' We went back and prayed together and then he was gone in like five minutes," defense lawyer Johnnie Cochran Jr. said on NBC's "Dateline."

After the brief court session, a white van drove Simpson home to Rockingham Avenue in Brentwood with the media in tow. The bizarre scene recalled images of the slowed Bronco pursuit that served as the metaphor for his bizarre legal journey - a journey that still hasn't ended.

Gas meter work

Mike Villanueva of Friona, an employee with the Levelland-based Currington Plumbing and Ditching, paints service lines on a gas meter in the alley between Aspen and Beach streets on Tuesday. The company is a contractor for Energas and was dispatched to the area to repair a natural gas leak in a service line. After replacing the lines, Villanueva painted the lines to match the rest of the meter.

Orders to factories increase

By JAMES H. RUBIN

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government's main forecasting gauge of future economic activity rebounded in August, rising a modest 0.2 percent to wipe out an identical loss the previous month.

The Commerce Department said today its Index of Leading Economic Indicators climbed for only the second time this year.

The index update is one of the last the government will issue. In a cost-cutting move, it will turn over control of the report in December or January to the New York-based Conference Board, a private research group.

The barometer's advance in August, after a 0.2 percent retreat in July, was expected by analysts. They said the economy is headed for moderate expansion after nearly stalling out in the spring.

That view was bolstered by the Commerce Department's report today that factory orders jumped 2.6 percent in August for the largest increase in nine months.

"The economy is poised to resume growth, but at a moderate level of around 2.5 percent," said Chris Varvares of Laurence H. Meyer & Associates, a forecasting firm in St. Louis.

The stock market continued its decline, with the Dow Jones industrial average off about 8 points by late morning. The benchmark 30-year Treasury bond was yielding 6.46 percent as its price fell slightly.

Gross domestic product grew 1.3 percent in the second quarter this year. The Index of Leading Economic Indicators had fallen four straight months and contributed to fears of a recession before recovering in June.

Eight of the 11 components of the index contributed to the August gain.

Leading index rebounds to wipe out August drop

By JAMES H. RUBIN

WASHINGTON (AP) - Boosted by automobile production, factory orders jumped 2.6 percent in August for the largest increase in nine months.

The Commerce Department said today that the expected advance was the first in three months and came after a 1 percent decline in July. The government previously estimated orders fell 1.3 percent in July.

While car and truck production led the way, other durable goods such as industrial machinery and metals also surged. Analysts said the increase is a sign that manufacturing is recovering moderately after tepid growth earlier this year.

Excluding transportation goods, orders rose 1 percent in August after remaining unchanged the previous two months.

Transportation output is considered particularly volatile, with auto production picking up in August after plants were shut down the previous month to retool for new car models.

The last time all factory orders rose more rapidly was in November, when they soared 2.8 percent. Orders are running 7.7 percent higher than the first eight months last year.

There was other evidence of improving economic strength today as the Commerce Department said its Index of Leading Economic Indicators rose 0.2 percent in August, wiping out an identical loss the previous month.

Orders for all durable goods, big-ticket items expected to last at least three years, advanced 4.8 percent. That figure was revised downward slightly from an earlier estimate of 4.9 percent.

Bucking the trend, electronic equipment fell 5.5 percent after surging 7.6 percent in July.

Nondurable goods orders rose 0.2 percent for the fifth straight increase.

All factory orders in August totaled a seasonally adjusted $301.6 billion, up from $293.9 billion in July.

Shipments increased 3 percent to $302.3 billion after falling 1.8 percent in July.

The backlog of unfilled orders slipped 0.2 percent to $459.7 billion after a 0.1 percent gain. The orders backlog is often seen as a measure of whether current facilities and manpower are able to keep up with demand.

Inventories in August, which had risen for 10 straight months, were unchanged in August at $412.5 billion.

The inventories-to-shipment ratio jumped to 1.36, down from 1.41, meaning it would take 1.36 months to exhaust stockpiles at the August shipment pace.

Orders for non-defense capital goods excluding aircraft rose 2.3 percent in August after plummeting 8.1 percent the previous month. Analysts consider an increase in this category a signal to manufacturers for reduced production.

"We are as close as I think we are ever going to get to a soft landing, and it will persist this year and next year," said David Jones, chief economist at Aubrey G. Lanston & Co., a government securities dealer in New York City.

The central bank, after doubling the rate banks charge each other for overnight loans over a one-year span, lowered the rate in July for the first time in nearly three years.

The Index of Leading Economic Indicators is aimed at predicting activity six to nine months down the road. Three straight moves in one direction are considered a good indicator of where the economy is headed.

In today's report, the components that made positive contributions, listed according to their impact, were factory orders for consumer goods, initial weekly claims for state unemployment insurance, money supply, average work week, new business orders for plant and equipment, building permits, stock prices and manufacturers' unfilled orders for durable goods.

The only components pulling the barometer down were falling prices of raw materials, more rapid business delivery times that signal declining demand and slipping consumer confidence.

Bush tabs fellow Republicans to fill vacancies on Texas Supreme Court

Dallas judge Baker takes place of Gammage, Abbott of Houston replacement for Hightower

By DEAN STEPHENS
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. George W. Bush has appointed two fellow Republicans to the Texas Supreme Court, giving the party a 7-2 majority on the state's highest civil court.

Appellate Judge James A. Baker of Dallas was sworn in immediately Tuesday to fill the vacancy left by the Sept. 1 resignation of Justice Bob Gammage. State District Judge Greg Abbott of Houston will replace Justice Jack Hightower beginning Jan. 1, 1996.

Gammage and Hightower are both Democrats.

"This is an historic day for our state. Rarely does a governor get to appoint anybody to the Supreme Court, and I get to appoint two fine Texans," said Bush.

Baker has served on the 5th District Court of Appeals in Dallas for nine years and has earned consistently high marks in the Dallas Bar Association poll.

"This position offers opportunity, it entails responsibility and it presents a challenge," Baker, 64, said. "I accept the opportunity. I accept the responsibility. And I accept the challenge."

Abbott presides over the 129th District Court in Houston and has topped the list of outstanding state judges compiled by the Houston Bar Association every year since his election in 1992.

The timing of Hightower's resignation works for Abbott, 37, who is wheelchair-bound after a paralyzing jogging accident, because he will not be eligible to serve on the Supreme Court until Nov. 8. Judges must serve for 10 years before being eligible for the high court.

In June, Hightower announced his intention to quit at the end of the year.

"It's a position of tremendous responsibility to be on the Texas Supreme Court," said Abbott.

"I accept the appointment from Gov. Bush with full understanding of the role of the Supreme Court and the role that it plays in our lives and lives of all Texans."

The judges "bring experience and innovation, legal scholarship, trial expertise, fair judgment and sound temperament" to the Supreme Court, and they share "my conservative philosophy about the judiciary," Bush said.

"Judges should interpret the laws as passed by the Legislature, not make laws from the courtroom," he said.

They should also campaign for their seats on the bench, the governor said. His experience appointing Baker and Abbott did not change his mind about Texas' system of judicial selection.

Both men must run for election next year to keep their seats on the court.

"I think it's good for Texas if they ask for the vote," Bush said.

Gammage and other supporters of reforming the current system of partisan elections for the judiciary said the appointments would focus attention on judicial selection.

Lawmakers debated a proposal during the 1995 Legislature to change the system of partisan elections for judges into a system by which judges would be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Texas Senate. But the measure failed.

"I think the present system is what we need in Texas. That's the way I came in," Baker said. "It's beneficial to me, so why knock it?"

Boy saves bus after driver suffers stroke

ST. LOUIS (AP) - A quick-thinking 10-year-old boy grabbed the wheel of a runaway school bus and stopped the vehicle after the driver collapsed from a stroke.

Classmates cheered Larry Champagne III at Belleview School, where he attends fifth grade, chanting "Larry saved our lives" to principal Ken Russell.

The bus was carrying about 20 students down a highway en route to the suburban school Tuesday when Larry saw the driver slump and fall into the stairwell, authorities said.

He ran to the front of the bus, grabbed the wheel and hit the brake. The bus hit two guardrails and collided with a pickup truck before Larry got it under control. Police didn't know if the truck's driver was injured.

Five children suffered minor injuries. The driver, Ernestine Blackman, apparently suffered a stroke and was hospitalized in serious condition today.

Students told Russell the bus driver had in the past told them what to do in an emergency. And Larry said his grandfather had given him some driving tips.

"I'm proud our students were able to remain calm and take care of one another," Russell said. "I'm also proud that they listened to the instructions that the driver gave them and remembered those."

Local Roundup

Correction

A headline on the front page of Tuesday's Hereford Brand incorrectly said that Gov. George Bush will visit Hereford on Thursday. The body of the story correctly stated he will be in town on Friday. The Brand regrets the error.

Cloudy, cool and windy

Brisk winds, 15-25 mph Wednesday night and 25-35 mph Thursday, top the weather menu. Low overnight is expected to be in the middle 40s, under mostly clear skies, but increasing cloudiness is forecast for Thursday with a high in the middle 60s. A wind advisory may be issued for Thursday. High temperature in Hereford Tuesday was a mild 73 degrees while the low Wednesday morning was 51 degrees.

Gramm director here Friday

U.S. Senator Phil Gramm's proposal to require recipients to work for their benefits will be outlined by Ed Hodges, the senator's state director, during a visit Friday to the Texas Employment Commission office in Hereford. The public meeting will take place at 9:30 a.m. at the TEC office, 403 W. 7th St.

Memorial fund established

A fund in memory of Kristina Kerr Burch has been established to benefit her 6-month-old daughter, Kaitlin Burch. Mrs. Burch died last week. She is daughter of Norman and Sheri Kerr of Hereford. The fund is at Hereford State Bank. Proceeds will be used to benefit needs of the child in the future.

Police, Emergency Reports

Emergency services reports for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. Wednesday contained the following information.

HEREFORD POLICE

A 22-year-old male was arrested for DWI and possession of marijuana under 2 ounces.

A 32-year-old female was arrested on DPS warrants.

Criminal attempt was reported in the 300 block of Lake, where a screen was removed from a window; and in the 100 block of Beach, where a storm window was pried off and broken.

SPS to honor four workers

Four employees of Southwestern Public Service Company from Hereford will be among almost 400 employees honored for their service at banquets throughout the SPS service area this month.

About 100 employees will be given five-year awards, while two employees will receive awards for working at the company for 40 years.

Being honored from Hereford are Charlie Nokes and Ryland Phelps, five years; Savas Celaya, 25 years; and Mike Moulder, 30 years.

SPS serves 103 communities and provides wholesale power to 17 rural electric cooperatives in the Panhandle and South Plains, as well as eastern and southeastern New Mexico, the Oklahoma Panhandle and southwestern Kansas.

he vindicated?
 "I can only hope that someday, despite every prejudicial thing that has been said about me publicly, both in and out of the courtroom, people will come to understand and believe that I would not, could not and did not kill anyone," he said in a statement read by his older son Jason.
 Simpson's mother and sisters said their prayers were answered. "I just feel like standing on top of this table and dancing a jig," said his sister Shirley Baker.
 Black activists cheered as if a message was sent to corrupt, racist cops everywhere.
 "Certainly, there's a great deal of joy in this community," said John Mack, president of the Los Angeles Urban League. "This demonstrates that there is a chance for the system to work."

Theft of a electronic keyboard was reported.

The days of Hertz commercials and NBC football commentary might be gone for Simpson. Reasonable doubt about his innocence will probably dog him forever.

Among other unfinished business: The lawsuits filed by the families of victims Ronald Goldman and Nicole Brown Simpson. The families said Simpson should pay the price for murder in cash.

Goldman's father, Fred Goldman, cried as he told a news conference that he won't give up.

"Last June 13, '94, was the worst nightmare of my life," Goldman said. "This is the second."

"This prosecution team didn't lose today," he said, surrounded by the glum prosecutors who worked on the case. "I deeply believe this country lost today. Justice was not served."

Opal takes dead aim on Florida coast

Hurricane packing heavy rain, wind gusts up to 185 mph

By BILL KACZOR
 Associated Press Writer
 PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - Hurricane Opal's winds gusted up to 185 mph this morning as the biggest storm in three years headed toward the Florida Panhandle, a region still bruised from Hurricane Erin two months ago.

"I think this one is going to clean our clock," said Tom Beliech, who was taking his family to ride out the storm in New Orleans. "Erin gave us a deep respect for knowing when to leave."

The National Hurricane Center in Miami predicted the storm would hit this afternoon and posted hurricane warnings from the mouth of the Mississippi River to Anclote Key on Florida's west coast, north of Tampa. Opal is the third hurricane this summer to bear down on the region.

"All preparations to protect life and property should be rushed to completion," the center said, warning that the storm is "capable of causing extreme damage."

Residents of Georgia and Alabama also fled to shelters or fortified their homes and belongings. Alabama Gov. Fob James issued a mandatory evacuation order and put all 67 counties under a state of emergency.

As tens of thousands began evacuating the Gulf Coast, major highways became crowded, almost bumper to bumper in places, and long lines formed at gas station pumps.

The storm, its sustained winds just 120 mph before dawn today, was upgraded to a Category 4 hurricane within hours. By mid-morning, its sustained winds had reached 150 mph, approaching Category 5 status, which is marked by 155 mph winds.

Some in the Panhandle boarded up their homes with plywood and planned to ride it out.

"I'm just going to shut down all my appliances, shut all my windows and pray," said Jackie Williams of Panama City. "Yeah, I'm scared. It's very still and the skies are getting dark."

Forecasters said Pensacola was the most likely target for Opal's eye, but that the worst damage likely would be east of the center.

"Our major preparations will begin at daylight," Teresa Hires, night audit manager at the Marriott Bay Point Resort in Panama City Beach, said early today. "We'll submerge our pool furniture, board up windows."

County officials ordered Pensacola Beach, Perdido Key and low-lying areas of Pensacola evacuated Tuesday night. Other neighboring counties either asked for voluntary evacuation or planned to order residents to leave today. State offices were closed in coastal areas, and Escambia County schools were closed today.

Forecasters at the hurricane center feared intensive coverage of the O.J. Simpson verdict in Los Angeles had deflected attention from the hurricane.

"We don't even have a reporter here covering this tonight," said James Lewis Free, a research assistant. "And this storm is an imminent threat."

Hurricane specialist Miles Lawrence was concerned about those who may be observing Yom Kippur, the Jewish holiday that ends at sundown today.

"Your orthodox Jewish neighbors in the warned area observing Yom Kippur may not be listening to radios or watching TV, and may not be aware of the hurricane situation," he said.

At least 10 people died and 20 were missing in Mexico after Opal passed over the Yucatan Peninsula, causing flooding that drove more than 20,000 people in Campeche state from their homes.

Opal has already caused coastal flooding in southern Texas. As gusty thunderstorms moved in, workers were evacuated from offshore drilling rigs near Alabama's Dauphin Island and elsewhere along the coast.

Residents of low-lying areas of far southern Louisiana also headed to higher ground.

Lisa Rosen and her 7-year-old daughter went to a hotel in Pensacola when Erin blew ashore and ripped the roof off her seaside home in Pensacola Beach.

"The house is livable but it leaks like mad," said Rosen, who planned to flee to Atlanta but was making last-minute preparations to salvage what's left of her home. "It can't take another beating, and I sure don't want to be around to witness it."

"Of course, we've had two hurricanes in the Panhandle already this year, but this one is certainly the biggest of them all," Harold Joyner of the state Emergency Operations Center said this morning. "So if people thought they had problems in those storms, multiply that two or three times."

Two months ago today, Hurricane Erin lashed Pensacola, followed weeks later by Tropical Storm Jerry. The first of this busy season's hurricanes, Allison, doused the area in June.

"By far, (Opal) is the biggest storm this year for Florida," Joe Myers, state director of the Division of Emergency Management, said late Tuesday. "It's the biggest storm for Florida since Hurricane Andrew."

Andrew, also a Category 4, struck with sustained wind of almost 150 mph and gusts to 200 mph on Aug. 24, 1992. It killed 55 people in Florida and elsewhere.

Opal was expected to produce storm surge tides of up to 20 feet above normal with dangerous battering surf far to the east of its center.

At 11 a.m. EDT, Opal's center was about 175 miles south-southwest of Pensacola, moving north-northeast at about 23 mph.

The ninth hurricane of the Atlantic Ocean tropical storm season, Opal threatened to upset plans to send space shuttle Columbia on a long science mission. NASA's forecasters expect only a 20 percent chance of favorable conditions for the 9:40 a.m. Thursday launch because of rain and clouds associated with the hurricane.

Residents already weary of the busy hurricane season embarked on what has become the routine practice of boarding up their homes.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Patricia Gonzales.

Pope's visit viewed as effort to address issues of Catholics

By ARTHUR ALLEN

Associated Press Writer

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - Gazing up at the cathedral on a hill above his drug-plagued neighborhood, Carlos Zhaghay of Ecuador thought about the last time he saw the pope, in 1985, just before he headed north in pursuit of his American dream.

"Something very beautiful entered into me then that I haven't felt here at all," Zhaghay said.

John Paul II left Rome late this morning, heading for Newark, the start of a five-day U.S. visit that will include services at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, Central Park and the Aqueduct Racetrack in New York, and at Camden Yards in Baltimore. He is to address the United Nations on Thursday.

"He'll be preaching for peace, for the homeless and the poor," said Frances Downing, who lives in Zhaghay's neighborhood. "These are his people."

After an address at the airport, the pope will travel to Newark's Sacred Heart church, a magnificent Gothic cathedral that stands taller than Notre Dame in Paris and is larger than St. Patrick's in New York. The cathedral's refurbishment over the past two years has been a symbol of the city's efforts at rebirth.

The Newark Archdiocese, with 1.3 million Catholics, is among the most diverse in the country, with Mass celebrated in 14 languages at parishes both wealthy and indigent. Filipinos, Poles, Indians, Colombians, Chinese and Haitians are among recent immigrants who have moved into the city.

Newark, the state's largest city with 275,000 residents, has many of the worst symptoms of moral decay that the pope has addressed in his 17 years as leader of the Roman Catholic church.

Among the problems: extreme poverty, drug abuse, high crime rates and political corruption.

Officials are on a mission to remake Newark's image into that of a "Renaissance City," with plans for a $150 million performing arts center, a multimillion-dollar science park, a $500 million mass transit link with Newark International Airport and a $3.2 million roller rink. The city also reduced auto theft by 35 percent in the first six months of last year.

Severe problems remain. The state is moving to take over the city's school district because an investigation determined it was politically corrupt, rundown and failing to educate its 48,000 students. And a scandal involving overbilling and kickbacks in the city's sanitation division resulted in 12 guilty pleas from city officials and mobsters.

At home in Quito, Ecuador,

Zhaghay, 28, was poor but lived in the bosom of his family and church, he said. Here, he's richer but more alone and afraid, and rarely thinks about God.

"I'm still struggling to make something, save some money, start a business, the belief in that golden miracle of the U.S.A. that we all heard about back home," said Zhaghay, a cook in the Quality Inn near the airport.

Zhaghay, who lives a few blocks from the cathedral, said when he looks out his window, "I see people sticking needles in their arms."

"I see 8-year-olds with cigarettes in their mouths. It's an ugly, frightening thing," he said.

Zhaghay and his friend Antonio Delgado, from Puerto Rico, leaned on a metal police barrier Tuesday night in the shadow of the spotlighted limestone spires of Sacred Heart.

Inside, a children's choir tuned up for vespers with the pope and President Clinton scheduled for this evening.

Zhaghay and Delgado were not among the 1,800 guests invited to the service. They are members of the larger, often strayed flock that the pontiff has tried to reach in his visits to 107 countries since his election in October 1978.

The pope has been criticized by many U.S. Catholics who say his strict doctrinal readings have driven away many members of the faith and caused clergy to shrivel to the point that some churches no longer have pastors.

A majority of U.S. Catholics disagree with the church's position on abortion, birth control and the ordination of married priests.

Such fine points were far from the minds of Zhaghay and Delgado, who simply wished for the pope's blessing.

"I hope he brings us some peace and tranquility," Zhaghay said.

Added Delgado, "I hope the father gives a message for the youth in our barrio here in Newark, because we need it."

New Arrivals

Cindy and Audie Freeman are the proud parents of a daughter, Holly Ann, born Sept. 20 in Animas, N.M. She weighed 6 pounds, 12 ounces. She was welcomed home by a sister, Courtney, and three brothers, Jason, Aaron and Jeremy. Grandparents are Ncoma and Chuck Stokesberry of Hereford, Jean Stuck of Vega and Mary and Kelly Freeman of Animas, N.M.

Corps reunion to be slated

The eighth annual Texas State Civilian Conservation Corps reunion will be held at Lake Brownwood State Park on Oct. 28-29.

"Fun, fellowship, and entertainment will be enjoyed by all," said Curtis Greer Jr., secretary for the reunion committee. "We'll talk about our CCC days, visit old friends and make new ones, so bring your old pictures and memorabilia."

Jim Steely of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will be the keynote speaker on Sunday. He is the author of several publications about the CCC.

A pot luck dinner will be on the menu for Saturday and a catered meal will be served Sunday.

For further information regarding lodging, registration and dinner reservations contact Bill or Beth McDonald, 1817 Richwood Dr., Austin, Tex. 78757-7816, phone 512-453-1291.

Library holds enrollment

The annual membership campaign for the Friends of the Library is now underway. Support of the organization provides funds to supplement the operation of the Deaf Smith County Library, board members report.

The yearly membership, Oct. 1 to Sept. 30, is $3 for individuals, $6 for families, $10 for clubs and businesses, and $100 for lifetime dues.

The Friends sponsor activities such as a free family film each month, an open house and recognition of the Family of the Year, and a variety of special children's activities.

The Friends also assist with the purchase of special equipment, such as a video projector purchased during 1993. The projector is used by the library, civic clubs, businesses and churches on almost a daily basis.

The organization has scheduled its annual Book Sale at the library on Oct. 20-21--from 5 to 9 p.m. on Friday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing this from jail. Your column is the first thing I read every morning. I noticed at the end of one column a mention of your booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." It started with these words, "Drugs are everywhere, they're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on."

Those words certainly have the ring of truth, but most people don't know how hooked they can get. I know because I got hooked on crack cocaine the first time I smoked it. I lost my job, I lost my new truck and I lost the respect of many people who loved me. The most painful loss was my fiancée.

More than once, I promised myself I would quit the craziness, and I DID quit -- for 24 hours. But I couldn't stay away from the stuff. Last January, I was arrested for selling cocaine. I've been in jail since then, and I haven't been sentenced yet. My lawyer says, "The courts are backed up with guys like you."

Will this nightmare ever end? Please let me tell your readers that crack kills. If you are thinking about trying it for kicks, DON'T. If you are using it, get some help. -- Finally Woke Up in Bloomington, Ind.

DEAR BLOOMINGTON: Your letter did more good than you will ever know. No one could have told your story more effectively.

For those who don't know where to go for help, please contact Narcotics Anonymous, World Service Office Inc., P.O. Box 9999, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to respond to the letter from the 15-year-old boy whose drum playing was giving his mother headaches. You suggested that he switch to the piccolo. Sorry, Ann, that wasn't such a cool idea.

I'm a 17-year-old girl who plays the flute, piccolo and oboe in the school band. I practice all three instruments regularly. My parents have made it plain that they don't mind listening to me practice the flute or oboe, but the piccolo gives them headaches. It is not the noise but the high pitch of the instrument that gets on their nerves.

I hope the young man who wrote to you will take up the oboe. He will always be in demand because there is always a shortage of oboe players. If, however, he would like to have every dog in town at this front door, the piccolo is his instrument. -- Clovis, Calif., Band

DEAR CLOVIS: Thanks for the last word from an authority. My twin and I played the violin, and I've often thought that our teacher, Leo Kucinski, should have received a medal for his saintly patience. If he's still around, I'd like to thank him.

And now, here's yet another letter (I received hundreds) from a piccolo player:

DEAR ANN: Where did you get the idea that the piccolo is a "nice, quiet instrument"? WRONG! It is loud and shrill. When played by a beginner, it can drown out an entire orchestra.

Also, your statement that piccolo players are in short supply is incorrect. A piccolo is simply a flute in a higher register. The fingering and keys are identical. Most flutists can switch to the piccolo with ease. My advice would be switch from the more common alto sax to a tenor, soprano, baritone or bass sax. -- Port Huron, Mich.

DEAR P.H.: Many who wrote suggested the same. Meanwhile, I really got a music lesson today.

Sweet empire owner is featured on stamp

By HEIDI RUSSELL
Associated Press Writer

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) - Every afternoon at 3:30 during World War II, the 1937 blue Plymouth lumbered from the chocolate factory to a nearby school football field, where orphaned "Hershey's boys" trained for their next game.

Milton S. Hershey, a small-statured, soft-spoken owner of an empire of sweets, never missed a football practice - or a chance to offer kind words to youngsters without families.

"He'd say to his secretary at 3:30, 'I gotta watch my boys practice.' ... He was a pretty busy man, but he always found time to talk to us," said Raymond Garber, 68.

Garber, a 1945 alumnus of the Milton S. Hershey School, led a seven-year campaign to see Hershey featured on a U.S. postal stamp for his philanthropic deeds. The postal service recently agreed to issue the stamp after Garber and other alumni described how Hershey rescued them from bleak childhoods.

On Sept. 13, Hershey's birthday, U.S. Postmaster General Marvin Runyon and Pennsylvania Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker unveiled the new stamp as part of the U.S. Postal Service's Great Americans stamp series. Attending the event were 8,000 people, including school alumni, children from nearby school districts and Hershey townspeople.

Hershey joins Thomas Jefferson, Jack London, Margaret Mitchell, Buffalo Bill Cody and Sitting Bull among those honored in the Great American stamp series.

"To millions, he's known as a maker of chocolate bars. But to the thousands he has touched and continues to touch, he's known first and foremost as a hero," Schweiker said.

Hershey and his wife Catherine, who were childless, founded the school for orphaned boys in 1909. Girls were admitted in 1976.

Born in 1857, Hershey had only completed the fourth grade because he went to work as a printer's apprentice. He did not have happy childhood memories and wanted to provide for others like himself.

"Let them learn to earn their own livings," he said at the time. "Some will want to be farmers, and they ought to be taught the best methods of farm management. But there will be others who want to be electricians, carpenters, typesetters or plumbers. We'll give them a chance to learn all these things."

Hershey died in 1945 at age 88. Today, the school has more than 7,000 alumni worldwide and 1,100 disadvantaged children who receive a no-cost education. Through a trust established by Hershey, the school owns a controlling interest in Hershey Foods Corp. and owns Hershey Entertainment & Resort Co. The endowment is worth an estimated $2.9 billion.

The school's original students came from families who couldn't afford to keep them - or didn't want them. Garber's mother made $18 a week as a seamstress and paid $13 monthly rent for her brood of seven children. She sent him to the school when he was 11.

"They (the Hersheys) gave you the life you needed. They were our parents, really. Our real parents visited once a month," Garber said.

The school instilled a strong work ethic by requiring farm chores. In the early years, each boy had chores starting at 6 a.m., and at the end of the day, the students could putter in a carpenter shop, where they made wooden beds and clothes chests. Teachers drilled the children on manners - especially on how to dress, Garber said.

"On movie night, we had to press our pants and shine our shoes. People ask me why I'm all dressed up, and I say it's because Mr. Hershey taught me how," he said.

Alumni add that they share a bond, because they all came to the school without much.

"I thought I was lucky," said Dennis Burnhisel, 46. He was orphaned at age 10 and lived at the school from 1961 to 1969 after being shuttled among eight or nine foster homes.

Current students say Hershey's ideals still form a major part of the school's mission. Spokeswoman Linda Miller said the school continues to seek students who have little or no family support.

Parents becoming more creative when finding reliable baby sitters

By MIA B. MOODY
Waco Tribune-Herald
WACO, Texas - Sitters have become more difficult to find in today's age when grandparents often live thousands of miles away and many people don't know their neighbors.

Phyllis Hubbard, who trains about 90 baby sitters a year in the Camp Fire "I'm Taking Care" program. Parents have to be creative when it comes to finding reliable baby sitters, Hubbard said. Teens between the ages of 13 and 15 are usually the best candidates because they can't get other types of jobs.

Hubbard doesn't give out names of "I'm Taking Care" graduates to inquiring parents. However, she does give parents' names to graduates, who in turn call the couple if they want to baby-sit for them.

Interview most important when looking for sitter

By MIA B. MOODY
Waco Tribune-Herald
WACO, Texas - Parents in search of a sitter should remember the interview is the most important part of the selection process. The person you have in mind may be better suited for a paper route.

Phyllis Hubbard, who teaches Camp Fire's baby-sitting course, "I'm Taking Care," said parents should spend time with prospective sitters to observe their interactions and mannerisms.

"If she arrives in a Sunday dress, she is probably not there to get on the floor and play with the kids," she said. "Not every teen likes to baby-sit."

Hubbard offers these tips on how to select a baby sitter:

- Make sure the person has training. It can be with siblings or through a formal training course such as "I'm Taking Care."
- Keep in mind that sitters are human, Hubbard said. Don't expect them to be able to do more than a normal person their age. For example, don't ask a 14-year-old to sit with your kids all night.

- Make sure the sitter has stayed alone before. If not, start off using him or her for just a few hours during the day, then make the transition to night-time sitting.
- Don't hire a stranger. Make sure either you or somebody you know is familiar with the sitter.
- Be aware of the sitter's schedule. If you need a sitter on a school night and he or she has to be in bed by 9 p.m., then don't ask that person to baby-sit until midnight.
- Ask for references and follow up with calls.
- "How much should I pay?" is always the big question for parents. Allison Barnett, 12, a Lake Air middle school student, said teen-age girls usually charge about $2.50 an hour. Older women who baby-sit usually charge minimum wage, Hubbard said.
- But there is not a set amount. Parents should discuss rates with sitters ahead of time.

Hubbard said churches are a good place to start. If your children go to church nurseries or parents' day out programs, observe how well some of the workers work with them. If you find some your child really likes, ask them if they would like to baby-sit.

Parents may also want to organize a baby-sitting co-op made up of neighborhood families or friends from day care who want to trade care-giving chores.

"This makes it fun for the children involved because it seems more like a play date than baby-sitting," Hubbard said.

Fliers and campus bulletin boards may be another good source. That's how Midway Junior High student Lauren McLeod, 12, was matched with Doug and Misti Eudy's two children, Carmen and Katelyn.

Eudy said she usually finds sitters by word of mouth, but when she moved to Waco in June from North Carolina, she didn't have many resources. She hired Lauren after getting a flier in her mailbox and she plans to hold on to her.

"My husband and I wanted someone who is responsible and patient with our children and that's what we got with Lauren," she said.

McLeod, a graduate of Camp Fire's baby-sitting course, said parents should make sure sitters know basic first aid and rescue breathing techniques and common sense items such as the importance of locking the doors right after parents leave.

Senior citizens also make good baby sitters, said Ellen Swift, project director of the the American Association of Retired Persons Senior Employment Services. They are older and wiser and many have already raised children of their own.

Swift said the center gives referrals to parents in search of sitters. The parents interview candidates, hire them and set the rates for long-term or short-term arrangements.

Story time at the library

Children from the First United Methodist Church Mother's Day Out program listen to a story at the Deaf Smith County Library. The library offers story times -- sometimes including films, videos, puppets or drawings -- for eight different groups, averaging 30 each month. Public Story Hour, open to area preschoolers, is at 10 a.m. on Thursdays.

Long will be inaugurated during ceremonies at West Texas A&M

The inauguration ceremony for Dr. Russell C. Long, ninth president of West Texas A&M University, will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday in Mary Moody Northern Hall on the WTAMU campus in Canyon.

The president will be presented by Mary Nan West, chair of The Texas A&M University System board of Regents, followed by the investiture by Thompson, Long's predecessor and long-time friend and a response from WTAMU's newly inaugurated ninth president.

Long joined WTAMU's administrative team June 15, 1992, as provost and vice president for academic affairs. Since his arrival, Long has handled the day-to-day operations for the University and is credited with establishing a number of new academic programs that address such environmental science, and fire safety and protection.

He is also involved in several cooperative academic ventures and was instrumental in decisions to offer master's level courses in social work (University of Texas at Arlington) and library science (Texas Woman's University) on the WTAMU campus.

A native of Van Horn, Long, 52, received his baccalaureate degree from Sul Ross State University in 1965, a master's degree from New Mexico State University in 1967 and a doctoral degree from Texas A&M University in 1977.

Long was appointed interim president of West Texas A&M University August 1, 1994, shortly after Dr. Barry B. Thompson, chancellor for the Texas A&M University System, announced his resignation from the University.

Following a nationwide search, The System Board cast a unanimous vote and named Long the University's ninth president on April 18, 1995.

Long is married to Natrelle Hedrick Long and has one son, Mark.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Family values are growing on Capitol Hill. Reps. Susan Molinari and Bill Paxon, the only married couple serving in Congress, are expecting their first child in May.

"This is just another sign that the Republican Party is continuing to grow in numbers," the New York lawmakers said Tuesday.

Rep. Enid Green Waldholtz, R-Utah, recently became the second sitting congresswoman to have a baby. Molinari would be the third. Twenty years ago, then-Rep. Yvonne Braithwaite Burke, D-Calif., became the first.

Lady Whitefaces make quick work of Caprock

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor
The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team completed the first round of District 1-4A play on top of the district after beating Caprock 15-3, 15-0 Tuesday in Amarillo. Hereford easily improved to 6-0 in district and 19-3 overall. Caprock fell to 1-5 and 7-13. The Herd had little trouble against the Lady Longhorns. "We sputtered a little at the beginning," coach Brenda Reeh said. "We had a few defensive errors where we missed assignments. The pace of the match was pretty slow. Early on, we struggled not to fall into the slow tempo, but by the end of the first game and throughout the second game we were much more aggressive."

Hereford finished off the second game quickly, needing only five rotations (turns at serving) to win.

HERD STATS

Kills: Tarabeth Holmes, 8; Danielle Cornelius, 8; Julie Rampley, 3; Heather Hodges, 2; Catie Betzen, 2.
Assists: Kari Barrett, 11; Brittney Binder, 8; Julie Cole, 2.
Stuffs: Holmes, 2; Cornelius, 2.
Aces: Barrett, 4; Hodges, 1.
Digs: Barrett, 6; Betzen, 4; Holmes, 4; Aimee Alley, 3; Rampley, 3; Cassie Abney, 2; Cornelius, 2; Shonda Sossaman, 1; Hodges, 1.

The Hereford junior varsity also beat the Caprock JV, 15-9, 15-8. Kate Denison served for eight points, including four aces; Kendra Wright served for five points, including two aces.

The Hereford JV improved its record to 17-6.

Touchdown catch

Nathan Horrell of the Hereford Junior High seventh grade A football team got behind the Valleyview defense and hauled in this touchdown pass from Chayse Rives late in the team's 18-0 victory Tuesday at the HJH field.

HJH gridders shut out Valleyview

Hereford Junior High football teams won three of its four games against Valleyview Tuesday, including a shutout-sweep of two games played in Hereford.

The seventh grade A team beat Valleyview 18-0 in Hereford, and the B team followed that up with a 6-0 victory. The A team's touchdowns included passes from Cody Hodges to Slade Hodges and from Chayse Rives to Nathan Horrell, but no other details of the seventh grade games were reported.

The eighth grade teams split their games at Valleyview.

The B team got Hereford's third shutout of the day with a 28-0 win.

Matt Lusk ran 10 yards for one score and threw 15 yards to Colby Phommyvong for another, coach Grant Davis said.

Chris Diller ran 50 yards for a TD, and Eddie Dominguez added a five-yard TD run. Hereford also made a pair of two-point conversions: Daniel Carnahan ran for one and George Castillo passed to Johnny Zamarripa for another.

The A team lost, 20-7, with Greg Ewing scoring all of Hereford's points on a 30-yard run and the extra-point kick.

Leon/Marsh golf tourney set this week

The Max Leon/Virgil Marsh Memorial Golf Tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. Format for the tourney will be a double-couple scramble--two men and two women on each team. Golfers will tee off in the first round of the scramble at 1 p.m. Saturday. Proceeds from the tourney will benefit the American Cancer Society, in memory of Leon, and the 4-H Endowment Scholarship Fund, in memory of Marsh.

Herd JV to host Randall Thursday

The Hereford junior varsity football team will host the Randall JV for a game at 7 p.m. Thursday in Whiteface Stadium.

The sophomore teams from the two schools also will play Thursday in Hereford, starting at 5 p.m. The freshmen teams will meet at 5 p.m. at Randall.

NCA gridders fall

The Nazarene Christian Academy flag football team lost to Trinity Fellowship 18-6 Tuesday.

NCA's lone score was a pass from Tyler Keeling to Jacob Power. NCA will host San Jacinto Academy at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Cowboys to take on Packers without Aikman

By MARK BABINECK
Associated Press Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Two battles, one facing the Dallas Cowboys in the courtroom and another on the field, are keeping owner Jerry Jones and coach Barry Switzer busy in their respective roles.

The coach and his staff Tuesday were trying to determine a way to crack Green Bay's staunch defensive front without star quarterback Troy Aikman, who suffered a strained right calf in Sunday's 27-23 loss at Washington.

Jones left later in the day for a meeting with NFL officials at an undisclosed place and time to continue discussions concerning the league's $300 million lawsuit against the club.

Jones said the league got its first glimpse at the actual deals he has fashioned between Texas Stadium and sponsors such as Nike, Pepsi-Cola and Dr Pepper after meetings last week.

The team owner has maintained communications with other owners and the NFL throughout the weekend.

But Jones said the federal lawsuit has not impeded negotiations between him and other potential sponsors, such as American Express.

"I think there's some potential for positive results (from the meeting) as opposed to going full bore into heavy countersuits and heavy litigation," Jones said as his Nike logo lapel pin glistened in the camera lights.

"I think there's enough to be gained to make me spend the energy and travel time to have the meeting," he said.

Jones said the four-hour session involving him and a group of owners last week was "constructive," but nothing positive came of it.

He also said he believes the $35 million contract of cornerback Deion Sanders, who is recovering from ankle surgery, will be approved by the league without any alterations.

Switzer and his staff, meanwhile, must draw up his game plan for Sunday's matchup against the Packers without Sanders or Aikman against the league's No. 1 defensive unit.

"It's scary to look at them and see how physical and strong and talented they are," he said. "To have dominated them the way we did in the playoff game (35-9) and to look at what they've accomplished this year, statistically it's not the same football team, but it is. It's the same players."

Green Bay is yielding just 230 yards per game, including 84.5 on the ground. The Cowboys will counter with NFL rushing leader Emmitt Smith and his 127.6 yards-per-game average.

"Statistics mean something now," Switzer of the defensive-minded Packers, who will come off of a bye week, said. "We've got a great challenge ahead of us."

Veteran Wade Wilson will start in place of Aikman, who hopes to be ready the following Sunday at San Diego. Backing up Wilson will be Jason Garrett, who started the Cowboys' 42-31 victory over Packers last Thanksgiving.

"You still have to deal with Michael Irvin, their offensive line, Jay Novacek and of course Emmitt Smith. You're playing the same crew all the time," said Green Bay coach Mike Holmgren.

NFL hits Cowher with $7,500 fine

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Bill Cowher has no problem with addition, so the NFL is making him practice his subtraction.

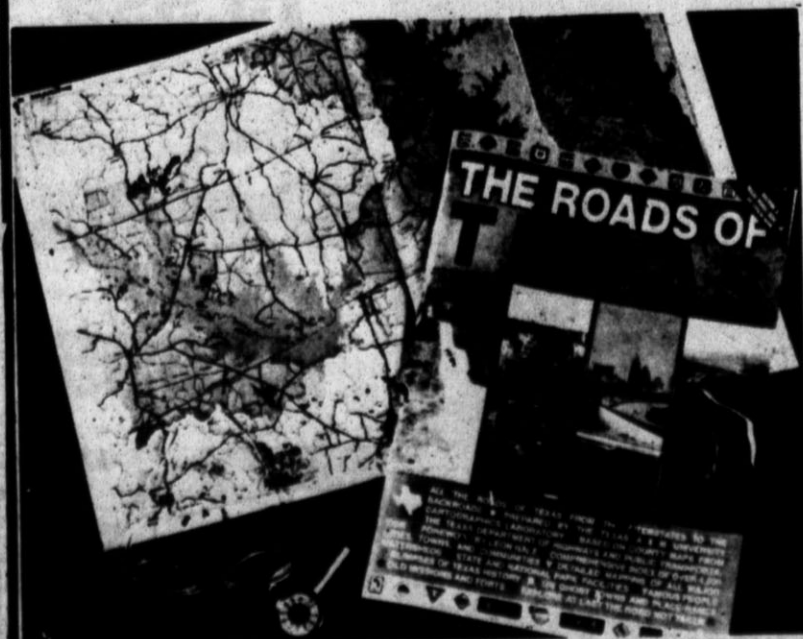

Cowher, the Pittsburgh Steelers coach who angrily reacted to an incorrect too-many-men penalty by stuffing a photo into a referee's shirt, must subtract $7,500 from his next paycheck for a fine.

The NFL also fined the two officials involved in a miscalculation that cost Pittsburgh three points in a 44-24 loss to Minnesota on Sept. 24.

Ben Montgomery, the line judge who incorrectly counted 12 Steelers, and referee Gordon McCarter, who upheld the call, were fined the equivalent of one game's paycheck. That will cost McCarter $4,009, and Montgomery is out $2,826.

"Our officiating crews perform at the very highest levels of skill, and basic procedural errors of this type are not acceptable and will not be tolerated," NFL director of officiating Jerry Seeman said.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographers Laboratory staff members produced the maps based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Pena's homer lifts Tribe in 13th

By CHUCK MELVIN
AP Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) - At exactly 2:08 a.m. local time today, Tony Pena hit one of those home runs that should have been heard 'round the world. And even if most of the country was sound asleep at the time, Pena will cherish it forever.

"You never know when you'll have a moment like that," Pena said after his home run with two outs in the 13th inning ended the longest game in postseason history, giving the Cleveland Indians a 5-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

It was an incredible finish to the Indians' first postseason game in 41 years, a game that summed up all the drama they'd offered their fans with 27 victories in their last at-bat this year.

Pena, who had entered the game in the 11th inning, raised his arms in triumph when he realized his hit off Zane Smith had cleared the railing of the bleachers in left. He was mobbed by his teammates after he crossed the plate.

"They haven't hugged me like that the whole year," said Pena, a former Boston catcher (1990-93) who homered only five times this season. "Tonight was my time."

The game lasted five hours and one minute, not counting two rain delays that extended it by about an hour. The Mets and Astros played a 16-inning game in the 1986 playoffs, but it didn't take them as long.

The Red Sox added some intrigue by having Albert Belle's bat confiscated after he homered in the 11th inning. Belle, who was suspended for seven games last year for using a corked bat in Chicago, was cleared this time by American League officials who cut his bat in half and found it to be clean.

"We had some suspicions," Boston manager Kevin Kennedy said. "We had some information given to us. It was our right to check it, and we did."

Belle led the majors with 50 home runs this year, and he didn't take the accusation kindly. He pointed to his biceps muscle, indicating that he's plenty strong enough to hit home runs, and shouted angrily toward the Boston dugout.

"It's just a desperate effort to throw a monkey wrench in our season," he said later. "You hit 50 home runs and they think you use a corked bat. I don't need to use corked bats. I take pride in how strong I am, how much power I generate."

All four of Boston's runs came on home runs. John Valentin hit a two-run shot off Dennis Martinez in the third inning, and Luis Alicea led off the eighth with a home run off Julian Tavarez, sending the game to extra innings tied at 3.

Tim Lincecum then homered off Jim Poole in the 11th, giving Boston a 4-3 lead that Belle erased with his leadoff blast off Rick Aguilera in the bottom half. Aguilera left the game because of a pulled muscle later in the 11th.

Boston left runners in scoring position in the ninth, 10th, 12th and 13th innings. Cleveland stranded runners in scoring position in the 10th, 11th and 12th.

In the 13th, Smith retired the first two batters before falling behind Pena 3-0.

"When I got behind in the count to Tony, I didn't want to walk him," Smith said. "So I came in with one. In most cases guys will be taking, but give him credit. He was aggressive and hit it out."

Boston starter Roger Clemens was sharp at first, blanking the Indians on two hits until Belle hit a two-run double in the sixth. Eddie Murray drove in Belle with a single.

Clemens lasted seven innings, allowing three runs and five hits. Martinez went six innings, giving up two runs and five hits.

Ken Hill, the last of Cleveland's seven pitchers, got the win. Boston also used seven.

Braves get two HRs from Jones, win 5-4

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) - The Colorado Rockies, in the first postseason game of their three-year existence, fared well against Greg Maddux, then broke a basic rule: Don't run out of players.

Chipper Jones beat the Rockies with his bat and glove, hitting a pair of solo homers - including the tiebreaker in the ninth - and making a key defensive stop to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 5-4 victory Tuesday night.

Game 2 is scheduled tonight, with Tom Glavine going against Lance Painter.

Painter got a premature taste of playoff action Tuesday night when he made a pinch-hitting appearance when the Rockies ran out of position players. With the bases loaded and two outs in the ninth, Painter struck out against the Braves' hard-throwing closer, Mark Wohlers.

Rockies manager Don Baylor, in his third year as manager, said it was the first time he was forced to resort to using a pitcher in such a situation.

"Painter is a fairly decent hitter," Baylor said. "But I know when I pinch-hit for my catcher (in the seventh), I'm asking for trouble later. That wasn't the ballgame, though. Having chances in the seventh, eighth and ninth and not doing it - that was the game."

Atlanta manager Bobby Cox said he has been in similar situations himself.

"It happens," he said. "You try to do everything you can to win, and that's what Don did. If you run out of players, you run out. I've run out. It's better to throw it out there if you have a chance to win."

Baylor got in trouble in the seventh, using a pinch-runner and two pinch-hitters in an effort to create a big inning. Instead, with the bases loaded and one out, Maddux got John Vander Wal, who set a major-league record this season with 28 pinch hits, to hit a double-play grounder back to the mound.

Maddux, 19-2 with a 1.63 ERA this season, wasn't at his best. The three-time Cy Young award winner allowed nine hits and three runs in seven innings.

But he was artful in escaping predicaments, thanks to 14 groundouts, including four double plays.

Jones' second solo homer - a two-out shot off Curtis Leskanen - won it for Atlanta. In the eighth, with runners on first and third, Jones made a diving stop of Andres Galarraga's shot down the third-base line and threw out a runner at second. Instead of a big inning, the Rockies managed only one run.

"The play Jones made down the line was probably the game-winner for them," Baylor said. "That's a two-run double if he doesn't make the play. Then he hits the game-winning home run."

Jones said his stop was "just a reaction play. Andres has a tendency to hit some balls down the third-base line for doubles."

Yankees outslug Mariners, Griffey

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - The crowd came ready to cheer, and Don Mattingly, David Cone and the New York Yankees had them letting loose all night long.

In the first year of baseball's expanded playoffs, the Yankees became the first wild-card team to win. They offset two home runs by Ken Griffey Jr. with big hits by Mattingly, Bernie Williams, Wade Boggs and Ruben Sierra, beating the Seattle Mariners 9-6 Tuesday night in their AL playoff opener.

The crowd of 57,178 was the largest at Yankee Stadium since it was remodeled for the 1976 season. Standing and stomping for most every batter, the fans welcomed postseason play back to the ballpark for the first time since 1981.

"I can honestly say it was the most amazing crowd I've ever seen," Cone, the winning pitcher, said. "They were chanting on every pitch. It was very similar to my experience at Shea in 1988. But, that's New York.

"The crowd was cheering from the opening bell when Mattingly first took the field. They never let up," he said.

Mattingly made it memorable evening, hitting an RBI single and a double in his first postseason game in a 14-year career. Before the game, Griffey and several other Mariners made a point to shake hands with Mattingly.

"It was everything I had supposed it would be," Mattingly said. "It was wild. It was a great place to be tonight. I'm sure some people might not agree, but I can't think of any place I'd rather be."

Baseball attendance may have been down all across the majors this season - the Yankees averaged only 24,361 per game - but it was hard to tell anything was missing on this night. The ovations began before the first pitch and did not let up until John Weteland stopped the Mariners' two-run ninth inning by striking out Mike Blowers with two runners on base.

"I thought there was such a passion and energy," said Yankees manager Buck Showalter, who displayed rare emotion by pumping his fist during pregame introductions.

"I've talked with Willie Randolph and Reggie Jackson about what it's like to play a playoff game here, and tonight I really got a feel for it," he said. "There was such an electricity in the air."

Mariners manager Lou Piniella remembered how it used to be. He played for the Yankees when they World Series champions and later managed them.

"I told Buck that it was the loudest I've heard it in sometime here," he said. "It's been a while."

Griffey made most of the noise for the Mariners in their first postseason appearance, going 3-for-5, driving in three runs and scoring three times. Seattle lost after arriving in New York around 4 a.m. EDT, the result of a cross-country plane flight following Monday's playoff win at the Kingdome over California for the AL West title.

"We were ready to play, but these guys (Yankees) have so much adrenaline with Donnie playing the way he is," Griffey said.

"It's just one game," he said. "I've got to do something to help the ballclub tomorrow."

Rookie Andy Pettitte will pitch for the Yankees against Andy Benes in Game 2 tonight in New York.

Griffey hit a solo homer off the facing of the upper deck in the fourth, then tied it at 4 with a two-run drive in the seventh. He also singled during the ninth.

Boggs, playing for the first time since leaving Wednesday's game with a sore left hamstring, put the Yankees ahead with a two-run homer in the third. Mattingly and Mike Stanley hit RBI singles in the sixth for a 4-2 lead.

After the Mariners tied it again in the seventh, Williams put New York ahead in its half with a double that turned around Griffey in center field, and Sierra hit a two-run homer. Williams singled home another run in the eighth for 9-4 lead.

Reds' Schourek shuts down Dodgers

By JOHN NADEL
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Pete Schourek, a castoff on one of baseball's worst teams less than two years ago, is now the ace on one of its best.

It's not a path too many young pitchers travel.

"There was no way I could see pitching this game after being waived by the Mets two years ago," Schourek said Tuesday after earning the win in Cincinnati's 7-2 triumph over Los Angeles in Game 1 of their NL playoff series.

"The only thing they could base it on was what I was doing for them," Schourek said. "They had no reason to keep me around."

The Reds sure do.

Schourek, a 26-year-old left-hander, limited the Dodgers to five hits and two runs in seven innings.

Two years ago, Schourek was 5-12 with a 5.96 ERA for the Mets, who lost 103 games. He was claimed on waivers by the Reds on April 7, 1994. This year, his career took off as he went 18-7 with a 3.22 ERA.

Tuesday's game was his first ever in the postseason, and the Reds made things easier by scoring four runs in the top of the first off Ramon Martinez. That was all the offense Schourek and two relievers needed.

"I had some butterflies," Schourek said. "The four-run first kind of helped. (But) it's never easy to pitch with any amount of lead. That

The Reds scored their four first-inning runs after two were out on a two-run double by Hal Morris and a two-run homer by Benito Santiago.

They scored three more times in the fifth to make it 7-0 and kept a crowd of 44,199 - over 10,000 short of capacity - pretty quiet the rest of the way.

Barry Larkin and Ron Gant hit one-out singles in the first before Reggie Sanders fouled out. Morris then sliced a 1-2 pitch to the left-center field gap, and Santiago followed by hitting a 2-1 pitch into the left-field seats.

"It's always important to jump on them early," Reds manager Davey Johnson said. "Martinez has pitched great against us in the past."

He sure didn't this time, being lifted after allowing 10 hits and all seven Cincinnati runs in 4 1-3 innings.

"Today was a big game," Johnson said. "Tomorrow is also a big game. We don't want a split here now."

Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said Martinez, who won 10 of his last 11 regular-season decisions, simply wasn't at his best.

"It was just one of those nights," Lasorda said. "What I told him in the clubhouse was, 'Don't hang your head, it's a best-of-5.' We've got to come out tomorrow night and get a win."

The Reds struggled in the season's final month, losing their final 10 games on grass and 18 of 31 overall. Of course, they were never in jeopardy in the NL Central.

"We basically had the division won early in September," said Morris, who had three hits. "We weren't playing with a sense of urgency."

They seemed to against the Dodgers.

"Everything we had to do tonight, we did," Larkin said. "We were able to put some pressure on them early. It's tough to come back from that."

The Reds put more pressure on in the fifth. Sanders opened the inning with a double, took third on a single by Morris and scored on Santiago's sacrifice fly. Bret Boone then doubled to knock out Martinez, and Jeff Branson greeted reliever John Cummings with a two-run double.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — State Democratic leaders met in Austin last week and drafted a letter demanding the immediate resignation of party chairman Bob Slagle, who had announced in May he would not seek re-election.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, Attorney General Dan Morales, Comptroller John Sharp, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro and Treasurer Martha Whitehead signed the letter, which was hand-delivered to Slagle by Mauro.

Slagle, who has served as "top donkey" for 15 years, refused to comply. In a written reply, Slagle said party consensus on the next chairman "cannot be imposed from Austin."

Slagle told the Houston Chronicle he would not leave office until he was satisfied that a new chairman would have the support of party activists.

The leaders, at the Austin meeting, also agreed to recommend that the State Executive Committee elect Bill White of Houston as Slagle's replacement.

The Chronicle reported that the Democratic officials were anxious about possible Republicans in the 1996 elections.

Bullock said, "All one has to do is look at the gains that have been made in our state by what appears today to be the majority party in the state, the Republican Party."

White, a former member of the Clinton administration, said he was surprised by the call for Slagle to resign, and that he was not involved in the decision.

Bullock said White had the support of statewide officeholders and that he had been effective at raising political funds.

Still there will be an open race for party chairman at the Democratic state convention in 1996.

Victims to Witness Executions
Texas prison officials last week said they will move quickly to implement an attorney general's opinion that allows families of crime victims to witness executions in the Huntsville death chamber.

Texas Board of Criminal Justice chairman Allan B. Polunsky of San Antonio said the board "welcomes this authority as a due and just right for those close relatives who have lost loved ones in violent crimes."

The nine-member Criminal Justice board in September voiced support for permitting victims' families to view executions and asked for the Texas Attorney General's clearance as a guard against any possible legal challenge to a future execution.

Attorney General Dan Morales' opinion pointed out that the board must go through the legal formalities of proposing and adopting rules permitting the viewing. Polunsky said those legal mechanics could be accomplished at the board's meetings in November and January and the system could be implemented in February.

Polunsky said the prison agency is working with victims groups to develop rules for viewing executions.

Perot Eyes Third Party
Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot told the nation last week he wanted a viable third party as an alternative to the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates in 1996.

Bill Walker, state director of United We Stand America, said he will get the 44,000 signatures to establish Perot's Independent Party in Texas, the Houston Chronicle reported.

Ann McGeehan, elections administrator for the Texas Secretary of State said Perot's supporters must first meet the Jan. 1 deadline for the filing of party rules, and furthermore, that to get on the November 1996 ballot, the Independent Party must:

■ Hold precinct conventions on primary day, March 12; and

■ By mid-May, collect 43,962 signatures from people who did not vote in either the Democratic or Republican primaries.

Other Highlights
■ Former Gov. Ann Richards was released from an Austin hospital last week after surgery to repair broken bones in her left hand. Richards, 62, broke the bones when she fell while walking on an Austin hiking trail.

■ In the first major reorganization in the agency's 104-year history, the Texas Railroad Commission approved plans to create an external affairs division, a policy and research branch and a Natural Gas Services Division that will work to expand markets for gas produced in Texas.

■ The Texas Lottery Commission reports that Texas has sold more lottery tickets than any other state for the second year in a row. Since the lotto debuted in May 1992, it has deposited an estimated $2.8 billion into the General Revenue Fund, said Nora Linares, executive director of the commission.

■ U.S. Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs, announced he would not seek re-election in 1996. He won his 1st Congressional District seat in a 1995 special election. Chapman said he would announce in the near future whether he will join the field of candidates challenging incumbent Republican U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, who is running for president.

■ The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals last week rejected Henry Lee Lucas' latest appeal challenging his 1984 conviction for the murder of an unidentified woman hitchhiker 30 miles north of Austin and his resulting death sentence. Lucas still has appeals to pursue in federal court, his lawyer said.

Judge ends experiment; orders youths to prison

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — A judge sentenced two Indian teen-agers to prison for an attack on a pizza delivery driver, cutting short an experiment in justice in which the youths were banished to remote Alaskan islands.

Snohomish County Judge John Allendoerfer said Tuesday he was ending the yearlong judicial rehabilitation experiment because of "flaws which unfortunately threaten its credibility and integrity."

The judge said he saw dramatic changes for the good in Simon Roberts and Adrian Guthrie, but there were too many problems with banishment - including reports of unauthorized travel and infighting among Alaska tribal judges.

"It is time to end this experiment while it can still be ended on a positive note," Allendoerfer said.

The experiment was to have run for another six months, but the judge had reserved the right to recall the 18-year-olds at any time.

Allendoerfer sentenced Roberts to four years and seven months in prison, and Guthrie to two years and seven months. Both were credited with about a year they spent in jail before being banished to separate islands in southeast Alaska to undergo traditional Tlingit rehabilitation.

The judge also ordered them to jointly pay about $36,000 restitution to Tim Whittlesey, the driver they robbed and severely beat in August 1993. Whittlesey has said he suffers dizziness, headaches, hearing loss and balance problems from the beating.

Roberts and Guthrie were 16 at the time of the robbery. Roberts got the longer term because he wielded the bat.

"I think the judge made a good decision," a somber Roberts said after the hearing, adding that he had always expected to serve prison time.

Guthrie declined comment. Prior to Allendoerfer's decision, both teens said they had benefited from their banishment.

Roberts told the judge that at first he thought the banishment would be "like a camping trip." But as time went on and he learned to fend for himself in the wilderness, he said he grew up "mentally, emotionally, spiritually and physically."

Guthrie likewise thanked Allendoerfer. He said the experiment gave him a chance "to become that which I need to be - a man."

Whittlesey, the victim, told the judge he supported continuing the experiment. He said later he hoped to visit the youths in prison.

While addressing the judge, Roberts turned to Whittlesey and said, "I'm very, very sorry, Timothy, for what I did."

In giving them sentences at the low end of the state's standard range, the judge said he took into consideration the teens' improvement in attitude. Prosecutors had recommended prison terms of about 5-1/2 years for Roberts and about 3-1/2 years for Guthrie.

By DEAN WILLIAMSON
 Abilene Reporter-News
ABILENE, Texas - Forrest Gump summed up life as being like a box of chocolates.

But Thomas Stein hasn't found life to be that sweet. He is more inclined to compare life to a bee sting.

"You never know what it's going to be like until you've been stung," he said. "People can tell you that a bee sting hurts, but they can't explain what it really feels like. You have to go through the experience yourself."

Sharing experiences is what the 24-year-old hopes to someday rely on when he achieves his goal of becoming an MH/MR counselor.

"Counseling is still in its infancy," Stein said. "People are used to counseling that involves talking about problems, but talking is just 10 percent of the solution. Nothing happens until life is experienced."

His desire to become a counselor is based on the convictions he gained as a consumer of the Abilene Regional MH/MR Center.

"I'm a success because I don't sit around saying that I'm sick and that people should give me things. I work for what I have. I've followed the rules and stuck with the program and I'm still working to get where I can have more of what I want," he said. "But most importantly I care about people and want to help others make their own success stories."

For 19 years MH/MR programs have helped him learn to cope with severe depression and chemical imbalances.

"Becoming a counselor would let me put back into the program," he said. "I will have the experience of having been on both sides of the fence. I meet new counselors whose only experience is from mock therapy sessions. I've been in a real therapy group and know what it is really like."

The goal of MH/MR programs is to provide tools and skills the consumers can use in life.

"I'm like everyone else," he said. "You wouldn't know that I'm an MH/MR consumer unless I told you, but I've fought a battle to get where I am now. It has taken me years to understand what is going on in my body."

MH/MR staffers have supported him through the years of facing challenges, he said. Its programs have made an impact on his life and have caused him to see things differently than before.

"I've learned that if you don't care, no one else is going to care about you," he said. "I've been involved with the program long enough to have seen both the good and the bad and because the staff cares, there's been a lot more successes than failures."

The programs help him with the job skills and training he needs for performing the tasks at the two maintenance jobs he holds. He credits the MH/MR with helping him live independently - earning a paycheck, living in his own house, and paying his bills.

"They are constantly pushing us to get a taste of real life," he said.

"The programs help us learn what it's like and what it's all about. They help us with the problems we encounter, but they do it in a way that lets you keep your dignity."

September is designated as Destination Dignity Month and accompanying events are focused on stamping out the stigma associated with mental health patients and instilling a sense of dignity in their lives.

"We just want to be like everyone else," he said.

FLUORIDE LFE SWEEPSTAKES RULES
NO PURCHASE NECESSARY

1. HOW TO ENTER: Complete the official entry form found in this ad, or on a 3" x 5" card print your name, address and telephone number and the name, address and telephone number of the registered LFE school you would like to award the prize to, and mail to: Campbell's Labels For Education Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 3112, St. Cloud, MN 56397. Entries must be received by 10/31/95. Entries are not valid until verified by judges. Enter as often as you wish, but each entry must be on the official entry form (or a 3" x 5" card) and must be mailed separately. No facsimiles, mechanically reproduced, illegible or incomplete entries will be accepted. All entries become the property of Campbell Soup Company ("Sponsor") and none will be returned.

2. PRIZE DRAWING: Winners will be selected from all eligible entries in a random drawing on or about 11/15/95 by Fulfillment Systems Inc., an independent judging agency, whose decisions are final and binding. Odds of winning depend on the number of eligible entries received. Winners will be notified by mail on or about 12/1/95 and will be given an address of telephone number for the purpose of accepting their prize. If prizes cannot be awarded after initial drawing, supplemental drawing(s) will be held.

3. PRIZES: One First Prize: A Labels For Education Certificate worth 1,000,000 labels. One Second Prize: A Labels For Education Certificate worth 500,000 labels. Five Third Prizes: Labels For Education Certificates worth 100,000 labels each. By entering this sweepstakes, winners understand and agree that Sponsor will award prize to the registered LFE school named on the winner's entry. No substitutions will be permitted except by Sponsor due to unavailability of prize. Prizes must be claimed by 12/15/95. Sponsor, its officers, directors, subsidiaries or affiliates and their agencies and employees shall not be liable for any injuries, losses or damages resulting from this promotion or acceptance or use of the prize.

4. ELIGIBILITY: This sweepstakes is open to legal residents, 18 or older, of the United States, its territories and APO/FPO addresses, EXCEPT MONTANA, MAINE, VERMONT, NEW HAMPSHIRE, CONNECTICUT, MASSACHUSETTS AND PUERTO RICO. The following persons are ineligible: employees of Sponsor, its subsidiaries or affiliates, agents, independent contractors engaged in the development or production of materials for this sweepstakes, participating retailers and judges and the immediate families of the foregoing. Proof of eligibility and compliance with these rules will be required. By entering this sweepstakes, entrants accept and agree to be bound by these rules and consent to the use of their names and/or photographs for advertising purposes without additional compensation, unless prohibited by law. Prize winners will be required to complete and return an affidavit of eligibility and a liability release within 15 days of notification. Failure by a prize winner to timely return affidavit and release will void that entry and another winner will be selected. All entries must be submitted in the name of an individual person and prizes can only be awarded to the school whose name is listed on the winner's entry. Subject to all applicable federal, state and local laws and regulations. Void wherever taxed, restricted or prohibited by law. Only one winner allowed per household or address per school.

5. UNREGULATED: Sponsor is not responsible for lost, late, stolen or misdirected mail or correspondence. Any prize claim that is illegible, mutilated or not obtained legitimately, is void.

6. WINNERS' LIST: For a list of major prize winners, available after 12/15/95, send a separate self-addressed, stamped #10 envelope to: Campbell's LFE Sweepstakes Winners List, PO Box 3984, St. Cloud, MN 56397. All requests for names must be received by 1/15/96.
