County retirement plan detailed

By Julie L. Carlson

Hereford Brand Staff Writer

George Arroyos of the Texas County and District Retirement System on Monday provided the Deaf Smith County Commissioners with information about two new ADCR (Annually Determined Contribution) option plans for Deaf Smith County to adopt for county employee retirement funds. He also explained the updates to the county's current plans.

Deaf Smith's current ADCR plan for employee retirement fund deposit rate is 7 percent (this percentage remains the same under any plan). The county's current matching ratio is $1.75 per every employee's $1. Under ADCR

Plan 1, the county would have the option to match $2 per employee's $1 or under ADCR Plan 2 the county would match $1.50 per every employee's $1. The year 2000 calculated employer contribution rate will be 9.42 percent, up from last year's 9.36 percent. Under the new plans it would increase to 11.08 percent (ADCR Plan 1) or 8.47 percent (ADCR Plan 2).

Rules for county employees to receive retirement benefits have also changed. The two rules, for county employee retirement eligibility, are the employee must have eight years of service by age 60 to engage in the retirement system or the "Rule of 75" applies. The "Rule of 75" says that if any combination of an employee's age added with the number of years the employee has worked equal up to 75, they are eligible for the retirement fund. The catch is an employee, for example, at age 72 can not have three years of service for the county and obtain retirement. By Jan. 2000, all employees must have at least eight years of service toward the "Rule of 75." However, a grandfather clause will come into effect for those employees who are currently working under the former "Rule of 75," these employees must have four years of service.

Arroyos also discussed death benefits for county employees who qualify for retirement after servicing the county for four years. These employees must specify who their beneficiary is and set up a payment option saying when the beneficiary will receive the retirement fund if the employee dies, either in a lump sum, monthly, annually, etc.

No action was taken by the commissioners on these plans. The presentation was merely a recommendation for the county and to inform the commissioners of the county's current plans which have recently been updated.

The commissioners also discussed transportation of juvenile offenders, but took no action.

Other business included:

• A public hearing on the FY 2000 budget was conducted; no comments were made. Approval of FY 2000 budget is scheduled for Sept. 20;

• The line item adjustment presented by County Treasurer Nan Rogers for 1998-1999 were approved. Money in a few of Precinct 4's funds was too low to pay for its expenses, therefore the money was transferred from other funds within Precinct 4 to pay for the expenses;

• Approved payment of monthly bills.

Panel told of gas use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sifting through thousands of pages of documents provided four years ago to a congressional panel investigating the 1993 Waco tragedy, a House Democrat has turned up evidence that the Justice Department did notify Congress about the FBI's use of potentially incendiary tear gas.

That evidence, Rep. Henry Waxman charged Monday, was overlooked by Rep. Dan Burton, the House Republican who is leading a new inquiry into the government's deadly standoff with the Branch Davidians — and who has accused Attorney General Janet Reno and the Justice Department of possibly concealing the truth from Congress and the public.

"There is no indication that Chairman Burton or his staff thought to review these documents before accusing the attorney general of a cover-up," Waxman, D-Calif., wrote in a letter to the special counsel investigating the recently revived Waco controversy.

"Contrary to the allegations of cover-up, substantial evidence of the use of military tear gas rounds was, in fact, provided to Congress in 1995," said Waxman, who is top Democrat on the House Government Reform Committee.

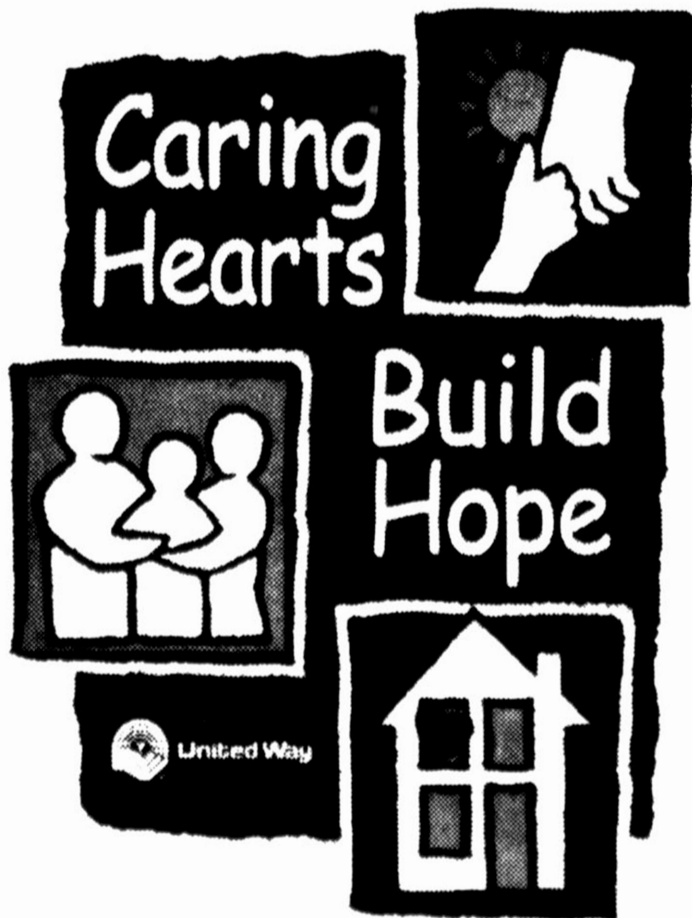

Burton, who chairs the committee, said the Justice Department buried the panel in an avalanche of documents shortly before the 1995 hearings began, and congressional investigators depended on a Justice summary to guide them.

Taking shape — The lot on which the new Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union office will open is taking shape. The structure is built, including the facade with the credit union's logo, and concrete is being poured for the curbs and gutters.

UW to kick off

United Way of Deaf Smith County will kick off its annual campaign at noon Wednesday in the Banquet Room of Hereford Community Center.

Campaign co-chairmen for this year's campaign, which has the theme "Caring Hearts Build Hope," will be Chester Nolen and Ben Urbanczyk.

The annual fund-raiser which benefits the United Way will continue until Oct. 31. Volunteers will work the pledge cards while members of the board will make employee presentations in companies of 10 or more.

A locally produced video will be shown at the kick-off luncheon and will be available for viewing during company presentations.

In addition to the video, activities at the luncheon will include door prizes, a skit and a meal catered by K-Bob's at $6 per person.

The goal for the current campaign remains the same that it has been for several years, $132,000. According to the local United Way executive director Jamie Campbell, 99 cents of every dollar stays in our community to provide services to those in need.

Local agencies who receive funding from the United Way are American Red Cross, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Boy Scouts, Children's Rehabilitation, Girl Scouts, High Plains Epilepsy, San Jose Community Center, Kid's Inc., Salvation Army, Senior Citizens Home Delivered Meals, Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority, Women and Children's Crisis Center and YMCA.

The luncheon is open to all area residents, but reservations need to be made in advance by calling 364-5220.

2 speak on city's tax rate

Two Hereford residents took advantage of a public hearing to present their concerns about the proposed Fiscal 2000 tax rate.

Nell Norvell and Gene Walker had comments on the proposed tax rate, but their remarks primarily addressed the appraisal of their property. The appraisal of city property, on which the ad valorem tax is based, showed the city's tax base increasing in value for the new fiscal year.

The proposed tax rate for the next budget year is 41 cents per $100 assessed valuation, which is the same as last year. However, the increased valuation means the 41-cent rate will generate 2.47 percent more revenue than in the current fiscal year.

In other business, the commissioners awarded the bid for group health insurance to Blue Cross/Blue Shield. The bid represents a 10.9 percent increase over the current year's coverage.

In recommending the city accept the Blue Cross/Blue Shield bid, City Manager Chester Nolen noted the national average for health care insurance increase is about 18 percent annually. The total cost to the city for employee coverage will be $202,197.

The plan will increase the co-insurance stop loss to $2,000 in network and $4,000 out of network; increased the office visit co-pay to $25; and increased the drug card co-pay to $15 for name brand and $10 for generic.

U.S. trade deficit hits new mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. trade deficit soared to a record $84.7 billion in the spring as a small increase in American export sales abroad was swamped by a huge rise in imports, including a big increase in the nation's foreign oil bill.

The Commerce Department reported that the deficit in the nation's current account climbed 17.5 percent in the April-June quarter, above the first quarter imbalance of $68.7 billion, which had also been a record.

The current account is the broadest measure of trade because it includes not only goods and services, which are tracked in monthly government reports.

Through the first half of this year, the current account was running at an annual rate of $299 billion, far surpassing the imbalance for all of 1998 of $220.6 billion.

News in brief

Second day of testimony begins

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors said they will introduce crime scene evidence today in the second Jasper dragging death capital murder trial and tie defendant Lawrence Russell Brewer's racist words and beliefs to actions that left an East Texas black man shredded to pieces along a country road last year. The prosecution briefly introduced the crime scene to the jury Monday, but spent the rest of the day putting Brewer's white supremacist beliefs on display. Brewer, the second of three white men charged with killing James Byrd Jr. by dragging him over three miles of country road after chaining him to the bumper of a pickup truck, entered an innocent plea to the capital murder charge. "I would suspect most people think of Brewer as a follower, and not as an equal mind in this," Jasper County District Attorney Guy James Gray said after the end of testimony Monday. "The purpose of today was to set him out not as a follower, not as a bystander, but as a man who truly believed and wanted to hurt black people." Brewer, along with John William King and Shawn Allen Berry, both 24 and from Jasper, are accused of abducting Byrd, 49, and killing him the early morning of June 7, 1998, after they offered him a ride in Berry's pickup truck.

Klansman's trial to begin today

AUSTIN (AP) — The trial of a white supremacist accused of trying to kill two police officers is scheduled to open today. Jimmy Ray Shelton, 40, is a self-described Imperial Wizard of the Confederate Ghost Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The North Carolina resident is accused of hurtling from Taylor to McDade faster than 100 mph with squad cars in hot pursuit. While Shelton drove, 24-year-old Eddie Melvin Bradley opened fire out of the pickup truck window, authorities said. Bradley — also a suspected Klansman — fired 14 bullets, shattering the windshields of two police cars and slicing a patrol officer's chin, police said. The duo didn't stop until police shot out the wheels of the truck. "I'm just a plain old country preacher," Shelton told the Austin American-Statesman in April. "I'm not a criminal. I thought maybe I could bring some goodness into this part of the country."

Newcomers lead protest

JUNCTION, Texas (AP) — Weirich Brothers Co. has been mining sand and gravel from the beds of the North Llano and South Llano rivers for more than 30 years, and no one gave it a second thought until recently. A brouhaha broke out when the company applied for an air discharge permit to operate a portable asphalt plant on the riverbank. Terry Weirich and his sister, Sandra Danz, say producing asphalt-coated gravel for a few months each year is no big deal, that they must produce a small amount of asphalt to meet new requirements by the Texas Department of Transportation, which buys their gravel.

Piled high and ready to go

Free to travel -- Area residents have complained long and loud about trashy, cluttered alleys, but keeping the alleys clean isn't up to just the city. Property owners and renters are expected to keep the area around their dumpsters clean and neat and free of debris. The owner of this property on Blevins has done his part by loading piles of building litter into a trailer for carting. Residents are allowed to haul loads to the city landfill at no charge as long as they have a copy of their recent water bill. All loads must be covered and tied down before entering.

Old book offers new advice

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The Old Farmer's Almanac is 208 years old, but it's up to date on advice for the next millennium, including how to perform the Heimlich maneuver on your choking cat and how to program your old VCR for Y2K. And, of course, there are the old standbys: planting, fishing and tide tables, astrological calculations and weather predictions that caution Dec. 31 revelers in New York's Times Square to bring umbrellas. It's a folksy mix of fun and factual reading in the nation's oldest continuously published periodical, which hits the newsstands today. (It's not to be confused with a newer Farmer's Almanac published in Maine.) "We tried to think of it that 100 years from now people would read the 2000 edition and get a pretty good idea of what American culture was like at the turn of the century," editor Judson Hale said. For believers, the Almanac predicts generally favorable weather across the country for 2000. But there will be record heat and cold, drought, floods, tornadoes and a couple of major hurricanes. Summer will have below-average rain, while winter will have below-average snowfall in most regions of the country except New England, the Great Lakes, the Appalachians, the Rockies and the Pacific Northwest. Millennium partygoers can look for light snow across much of New England and light rain from New York City to Washington and westward to St. Louis. The rest of the East can expect dry, relatively mild temperatures, and much of the West will be cold. The Almanac boasts 80 percent accuracy, Hale said. "Anyone who claims anything in terms of a percent (in weather) claims 80 percent," he said. "You never hear 81 percent or 79 percent." But he backs it up. There was little rain for the five months from April through August, and "we predicted less precipitation than normal for four of them; that's 80 percent," he said. While the weather predictions probably get the most attention, this special millennium edition also features many important facts to keep a reader's attention throughout the 272 pages, including a few about the book itself. The 2000 edition is the first since 1888 without a "9" in the title, and the 21st century is the fourth century the Almanac has existed. For this issue, the editors have compiled predictions for millennium trends in fashion (casual luxury for women, rural hardiness for men) and food (spicy, exotic).

Formby family member featured in magazine

By Julie L. Carlson

Hereford Brand Staff Writer

One of Hereford's Formby family members is featured in the September 1999 issue of Town and Country Magazine.

The article by Stephen Henderson, rightly titled "The Fashionable Formbys", profiles Scott Formby, youngest of Clint and Margaret Formby's four children, and his wife Kathy, in their fashionable Manhattan town house. Scott is senior vice-president of J. Crew, and Kathy is head of design for Tanner Krolle, an elite British leather-goods company.

Scott and Kathy met in 1987 while working for Polo/Ralph Lauren and were married in 1992.

The story features their love for fashion design and the way their town house expresses it through their personal interior decorating with colors in tones of khaki, slate, and bone. With a passion for uniqueness, they have decorated their home with articles from Mexico, England, Paris, Italy, Africa and of course Texas. Another interest they share is in antiques. They have traveled around the world searching the most famous antique districts to add just a little more accent to their modern home.

According to the fashionable couple, their town house is a piece of art that will never be completed.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Three or four times a year, my wife and I get together with my daughter, her friend and the friend's two teenagers. It is too much work to prepare a dinner for six, so we take them to a nice restaurant. My daughter's friend and her children always order the most expensive items on the menu, sometimes, two beverages apiece, and invariably, a rich dessert. They pick at everything but the dessert, and what is left over, they take home.

My daughter does not do this. She takes her cue from what WE order, as she was taught to do when she is an invited guest. I am not cheap, nor am I hard up for money, but I don't want to be taken advantage of. My daughter's friend is an educated businesswoman, who I'm sure has an expense account and is old enough (42) to know better. She works with my daughter, so I don't want to embarrass her and create a problem. Any suggestions? — A Midwestern Dilemma

Dear Midwestern: If you don't want to be taken advantage of, TAKE CONTROL. When you treat your daughter's friend and her teenagers to dinner, order for the table — giving the guests a choice (YOUR choice) of two or three items. Also, ask what beverage (singular) they would prefer. By now, you know the young guests have not been taught manners, so, you shouldn't be surprised when they behave like slob.

Dear Ann Landers: "Second Banana in Oklahoma" told you that for four years, she has been seeing a 39-year-old man who takes care of his mother. "Banana" felt slighted. You suggested Mama's apron strings might be too tight.

This man is not a mama's boy. He is making sacrifices to ensure that the woman who gave him life is properly cared for. I know this from personal experience because I spent the past five years doing the same for my mother. She passed away last November. I will never do another job (and yes, it IS a job) as stressful and demanding as caring for her was. Yet, I don't regret a second I spent with my mother, because she needed me.

Taking care of an elderly person full time can be debilitating. Mental health counseling can be a godsend. There are times when you just don't believe you can make it through another day. And those days become more frequent and more draining as your loved one's health deteriorates.

Tell your readers if they know someone who is taking care of an aging or sick relative, to offer a hand, or an ear, or a hug — and a word of appreciation and praise. It can mean more than you will ever know. — Beaver Falls, Pa.

Dear Beaver Falls: The only people who can understand what it is like to take care of an aging or ill relative are those who have been there and done that. Obviously, you qualify. There are no medals for you heroic individuals, just the satisfaction of knowing you did the decent thing when the situation demanded it — and that should be reward enough. You won't regret it. Trust me.

Here's a letter from a reader whose curiosity got the best of her:

Dear Ann: You recently printed a letter signed "Second Banana." I would like to know where she got that name. My name is Banana Hannon. I was named after my grandmother, a famous dancer. I love my name because it is so different. Also, it has a rich family history. Please print this to help me connect with some of my long-lost relatives. — Banana Hannon Anderson, Charlottesville, Va.

Dear Banana: Here's your letter. Please let me know if you hear from the rest of the bunch. (Sorry, I couldn't resist it.)

Hereford volleyball takes fifth in Amarillo Tourney

From Staff Reports
AMARILLO — The Hereford Lady Whiteface volleyball team's tough preseason schedule continued on Friday and Saturday as they took fifth place in the always tough Amarillo Prep Volleyball Tournament at the Tascosa High School Recreational Center.

In the opening game of the tournament, Hereford started off in the right track, defeating Perryton 15-5, 15-4 on Friday.

Michelle Bernhardt led the Lady Whitefaces with 9 kills.

Tori Walker contributed with 7 kills and 2 blocks. Toni Eicke added 5 kills, while Sarah Griffin nailed 4 and Pam Klein added 3 kills.

The victory over Perryton set up a match between the Lady Whitefaces and perennial Panhandle powerhouse Amarillo Tascosa.

These two team faced each other on Aug. 31 and the result was no different this time.

Tascosa, who would eventually win the tournament in a tough match against Amarillo

High, defeated Hereford in the second round, 12-15, 7-15.

Tori Walker led the Lady Whitefaces with 9 kills and 7 digs. Valerie Guzman added 6 digs. Pam Klein added 3 kills and Michelle Bernhardt contributed with 2 kills.

Hereford

was hampered by 30 dig errors that allowed Tascosa to pull away in the game.

Hereford then dropped to the silver bracket of the tournament and faced the Lady Cats from San Angelo Central.

Hereford cut down their errors from the Tascosa match and improved their game, defeating Central 15-8, 15-3.

Toni Eicke and Tori Walker each had 10 kills to lead the Lady Herd.

Ashley Fangman added 3 kill, and Valerie Guzman contributed with 5 digs.

The victory against San Angelo central set up another tournament match between Hereford and district rival Dumas.

Hereford had beaten the Demonettes in the championship game of the Justin Northwest Tournament on Aug. 28.

Hereford's success against Dumas was no different this time around as they bedeviled the Demonettes 9-15, 15-13, 15-8.

Tori Walker had yet another monster game against Dumas, recording 16 kills 7 digs.

Michelle Bernhardt added 10 kills while Toni Eicke recorded seven.

Herd tennis dominates Palo Duro

Whitefaces take 16 matches for most dominating victory

From Staff Reports

But the Whiteface tennis team came back on Saturday and regained that early-season momentum and defeated Amarillo Palo Duro, 16 matches to 3 at the Hereford High School tennis courts.

The Hereford boys were near perfect in their matches, only losing one match to the Dons.

Girls singles saw the Goforth-Fry duo outlast Makkhavane-Chantharaj, 6-0, 6-2 and the Brinkman-Brianna finley duo defeated Phouththana-Loan duo from Palo Duro, 7-5, 7-5.

Mixed doubles saw KyleeAuckerman and Clay Cosby defeated Chris Vongkaysone and It Thongxay, 6-1, 6-1.

Salinas-West duo wins Heifers and Bulls Golf

From Staff Reports
 For the first time in a while, the Heifers and Bulls Tournament title stays in Hereford.

James Salinas, who teamed up with Tiffi West, had to battle off the team of Craig Nieman and Robin Madison in a one-hole playoff to take the victory in the championship flight on Sunday.

West and Salinas shot 59 the first day and 65 the second day, which combined their score to 124. The same score Nieman and Madison ended up with by the end of the tournament.

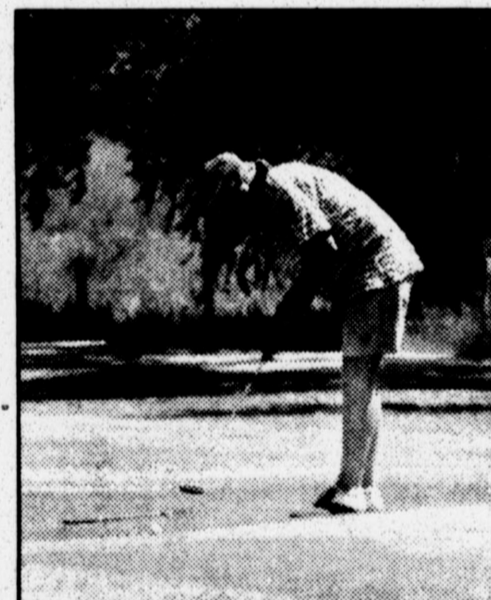

Nieman and Madison scored 62 and 62 on both days of the tournament.

West and Salinas were recipient of $475 in Hereford

Bucks. Nieman and Madison received $275.

Coming up in third place was the duo of Jerry and Linda Stevens. They finished with a score of 125 and collected $200 in Hereford Bucks.

QB Club meets Mondays

From Staff Reports
 The first meeting of the Quarterback Club luncheon met at K-Bob's on Monday at Noon.

The Quarterback Club, sponsored by the Whiteface Booster Club, presented highlights of the Andrews' game film by Whiteface head football coach Craig Yenser.

This is the first meeting of the season since last year, when the club met the week after the bidistrict game against Plain view.

Monday's meeting was attended by 21 people. Last year's average attendance was between seven and 12 persons.

"I am pleased with the attendance," said Whiteface Booster Club President Wallace Hill. "This reflects the top football team we have here in town and their season."

Hill also said that anybody in the Hereford community is welcomed to attend the club meeting, which will be held every Monday at Noon at K-Bob's Restaurant.

"I think this is a good deal," Hill said. "I hope we can keep it up and get a bigger crowd."

Writing want ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

There's a place for EVERYTHING in the Classifieds.

Newspaper is usually the first place people go when considering a purchase. It's their primary source of advertising information.

Newspaper helps spark the local economy by putting dollars into circulation. And that's good for everyone, not just the retailer.

Because a strong local economy means lower property taxes, more jobs, tax support for community services and a better place to live.

Newspaper is more than just a smart place to advertise. It's an integral part of our lives.

GOP abandons tax-cutting goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Republicans all but writing off their premier goal of cutting taxes this year, the GOP will now compete with President Clinton for political supremacy on protecting Social Security, controlling spending and reducing the national debt.

But even some Republicans say it will be tough for them to salvage much of a budget victory if they end 1999 by losing their tax cut to a Clinton veto and giving him some of the extra spending he wants. GOP leaders plan to ship their 10-year, $792 billion tax cut to Clinton on Wednesday for his promised veto.

"Pretty bleak," said Sen. Chuck Hagel, R-Neb., of GOP prospects for claiming a win this year.

Congress will focus the bulk of its energy in this session's waning weeks on completing the 11 remaining spending bills for fiscal 2000, which begins Oct. 1. The GOP goal is to contain Clinton's demands for more than $25 billion in spending beyond what Republicans want, and to accuse him of wanting to pay for the excess by raising Social Security surpluses.

"What does that extra spending crowd out? Does it come out of Social Security?" said Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., in a brief interview.

In contrast, Republicans say they will pass all the spending bills without using any Social Security funds. They are hunting furiously for ways to do that.

Many critics — including Hagel — say they won't succeed without resorting to budget gimmicks, like declaring the 2000 census an "emergency" so the surplus can be used to pay for it. Nonetheless, the GOP intent is to write bills that make a statement.

"Social Security is where we're staking our ground," said John Feehery, spokesman for House Speaker Dennis Hastert, R-Ill.

But to prevail, Republicans will have to battle the perception of the public, which polls have long shown trusts Democrats more than Republicans to protect the massive pension program for the elderly and disabled.

Clinton and his aides would pay for the extra spending by raising the tax on cigarettes and boosting fees on shippers and others. Such proposals have little congressional support, but could shield the White House from GOP accusations of looting Social Security funds.

"Compared to cuts (in spending), compared to using the Social Security surplus, the framework we've put forward is the right way to go," said Jacob Lew, the White House budget director.

In the end, a bipartisan agreement may well involve spending several billion dollars in Social Security surpluses if the two sides can agree to no other sources of money. In that case, the two sides would be left accusing each other of forcing those Social Security dollars to be spent.

Republicans also hope to limit Clinton's spending demands, and thus claim credit for reining the president's effort to make government ever-larger. But that won't be easy either for the GOP.

Many lawmakers of both parties favor many of Clinton's spending proposals.

E. coli outbreak now spreads to 281 people

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — What did you eat? Where did you sit? Did you wash your hands? Did you wade in the pond? Who was with you?

Health investigators have been interviewing hundreds of people who attended a Sept. 4 concert and cook-out, hoping some pattern will emerge to explain an E. coli outbreak that has now sickened at least 281 people.

While they work the phones, other health workers were performing lab tests or gathering samples.

All they know for sure is that the people who fell ill were among the 1,800 people at the event in a cow pasture near Petersburg. Twenty were sick enough that they had to be hospitalized.

Maybe the E. coli bacteria lurked in the beef served at the event. Maybe bacteria was in the water, or on the hands of a food server, or hiding someplace else entirely.

"We're no different from detectives on a crime scene.

We kind of tear apart everything we can to come up with the clues that may give us an answer," Thomas Schafer, spokesman for the Illinois Department of Public Health, said Monday. "We still are going to have to be a little lucky."

E. coli is a bacteria usually found in the intestines or manure of cattle. People who ingest it can suffer severe cramps, bloody diarrhea and, in extreme cases, kidney failure.

The biggest job for investigators is interviewing people who attended the concert, dubbed Cornstock '99.

Schafer said investigators have the names of about 900 partygoers and have spoken to 551 — asking what they ate and drank, where they sat, whether they washed their hands, what they did.

All the answers — from sick people and healthy alike — are fed into a computer that will search for patterns.

Hurricane Floyd sweeps into Bahamas

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

News digest

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Panicked residents of the Bahamas sought refuge in boarded-up homes as Hurricane Floyd, stretching across nearly 600 miles, rocked moving cars and whipped up surf on the vulnerable, low-lying archipelago.

Floyd dwarfed the small islands, pounding the central Bahamas with hurricane force winds that reached up to 155-mph and extended 125 miles from the storm's center. Tropical storm force winds extended an addition 165 miles.

"There's fruit flying all over the place, and it's already uprooted small trees in my garden," Geoff Pearce of Eleuthera said before phone lines there went silent.

The storm was moving west at 14 mph, but was expected to turn slightly northward later, cutting across the Bahamas and then arcing along the Florida peninsula beginning Wednesday. The massive storm could deliver Florida its hardest storm strike in years.

U.N. pulls out staff from Dili compound

DILI, Indonesia (AP) — To the echo of sporadic gunfire in the distance, the United Nations closed its besieged compound in East Timor today, flying out 110 staffers and 1,300 civilians who had become hostage to marauding militia and troops.

A dozen U.N. personnel led by a Bangladeshi brigadier general stayed behind, holed up in the Australian consulate. They are to prepare the way for an intervention by international peacekeepers sent to halt violence that has forced thousands of East Timorese to flee their homes.

Within hours of the evacuation, U.N. staff members still in Dili reported that a black plume of smoke was rising from the direction of the abandoned compound, said Fernando del Mundo, of the U.N. High Commission for Refugees in Jakarta.

They feared the headquarters had been attacked and set on fire by militiamen, who are backed by the Indonesian military and who had laid siege to the compound for days, he said.

Chaos still gripped the territorial capital and it was impossible to verify the report.

Withered brain cells reportedly restored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Withered cells in the brains of old monkeys were restored to youthful health in a gene therapy experiment that researchers hope to test soon in Alzheimer's disease patients.

In a study appearing today in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, researchers at the University of California, San Diego, said originally it was hoped the gene therapy experiment would show a way of slowing the brain's decline with age.

But the effort was much more successful than expected, said Dr. Mark H.

Tuszynski, senior author of the study.

"To our surprise, this technique nearly completely reversed" the effects of aging on key brain cells in elderly Rhesus monkeys, he said.

The studies reinforce a new understanding of how the brain ages and suggest that neurons in the older brain don't die, but go into shrunken atrophy, he said.

Clinton team presses on Starr accusations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a new setback in court, President Clinton's defenders say they won't give up their attempt to show that prosecutor Kenneth Starr leaked grand jury secrets to reporters in the Monica Lewinsky investigation.

Clinton's team was dealt a blow Monday when a federal appeals court overturned a previously secret lower court ruling that the independent counsel's office be prosecuted by the Justice Department for illegally leaking grand jury information to the news media.

Clinton's lawyer said he would seek an appeal.
