

Navy Chief To Review Refusal Of Commission

Thomas Promises 'Justice' For Cadet

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas promised today to review personally the Navy's refusal to grant a reserve commission to Eugene Landy, 21, on the ground his mother is a former Communist.

Thomas told reporters he learned of the case only today by reading the newspapers.

He said Landy, who was graduated as second highest ranking student yesterday from the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N. Y., will get "justice."

But as to what Thomas' decision will be, he said:

"I have reached the age where I never make a decision until I have heard both sides."

The young midshipman today appealed the decision to the Bureau of Navy Personnel in Washington, D. C. He said in a signed telegram: "It is respectfully requested that reconsideration be given Midshipman Eugene W. Landy's application for commission, ensign, USNR."

"If there is any additional information about Mr. Landy or his background needed, please be advised that he is ready and willing to cooperate in any way the Navy determines best."

Landy, clad in his white cadet uniform, received his bachelor of science degree along with his 95 classmates.

But he was not permitted to join in the next day's ceremonies. He stood in line with his arms at his sides while his fellow graduates raised their right hands to take a mass oath of allegiance as reserve ensigns.

Nor did he join them in sealing his cap into the air.

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-N.Y.) has called the Navy ruling on Landy "unjust" and has asked for a full report.

Landy received a telegram from the office of Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) advising the Navy would be glad to reconsider his application for a commission.

He expressed gratitude for "the help of Sen. Smith, the 100 per cent support from the newspapers, the cadets, and the people in town who have given their wholehearted cooperation."

Secretary Thomas, whose talk with newsmen came later, said he intends to review the case regardless of whether Landy appeals the rejection of the commission.

Landy, who intends to sail tomorrow as a seaman on a Texas-bound oil tanker, expressed confidence the Navy would reconsider his case.

An academy spokesman described Landy as "one of the brightest students we ever had" and said "there has never been any question of Landy's loyalty here."

But a Navy spokesman, while not questioning Landy's loyalty, said the young man was "extremely close to his mother and she has been a Communist."

Landy described himself as a "quite conservative" politically. He said he had taken "several loyalty oaths" since entering the academy.

His mother, Mrs. Deborah Landy, 54, of Bradley Beach, N. J., a garment worker, attended the graduation ceremony. The son smilingly kissed her afterward.

She said she had been a Communist from about 1937 to 1947 when she quit the party at her son's urging. He would have been about 13 or 14 years old at the time.

"He reformed me and yet he is suffering for it," she said. Her husband died when Landy was a baby.

Young Landy intends to enter Yale University on a scholarship this fall to study admiralty law. At his graduation yesterday he won an award from the Daughters of the American Revolution for his achievements in naval science and a medal for proficiency in naval architecture. He played on the academy football and tennis teams.

Airmen Begin Placing First Telephone Calls

The 11 U.S. fliers freed by Red China from 32 months imprisonment today began placing their first transpacific telephone calls to loved ones over free circuits provided by the Red Cross.

Last night they had a party. Today they will hold their first newspaper, radio and television conference. It is set for 1 a. m. Sunday, EST.

Some plan to go this morning to worship services.

But most of all, the 11 are looking forward to departure by plane either late Tuesday or Wednesday for a joyous reunion with relatives and loved ones at Travis Air Force Base, north of San Francisco.

One such reunion will be under strange circumstances. Mrs. Una Schmidt-Fine said she will be on hand to greet Airman 2 C. Daniel C. Schmit, 22, of Redding, Calif., and talk over their "problem." The problem is that she has a 2 1/2-year-old son by Schmidt. And she also has another husband, Alford Fine, a California logger.

From the time she was in the bellied Schmidt was dead.

Last night's party was one reuniting the fliers with old Air Force and other friends in the Tokyo area.

The Air Force yesterday started them through rigorous medical and dental examinations, a process expected to require three days.

Despite long months of captivity they were described as "all completely okay physically" by an Air Force medical source.

"All are in amazing condition, although one appears shaken mentally," he added.

"They are a happy bunch of guys," he added.

There will be time to bring the men into Tokyo before their departure. Some want to buy gifts for their families.

The airmen also have conferred with intelligence officials on their long captivity inside Red China.

When they were released last Thursday at Hong Kong, the airmen swiftly denied Red China's charges that they were shot down in a B29 over Manchuria Jan. 12, 1953 while "spying." They said they were over North Korea and were dropping leaflets.

Eugene Vaadi, Clayton, N. Y.; Maj. William Baumer, Lewisburg, Pa.; and Airman 1-C Steven Kiba, Akron, Ohio; Front row—Sgt. Howard W. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.; Airman John W. Thompson III, Orange, Va.; Airman 2-C Daniel C. Schmidt, Redding, Calif.; and Airman 2-C Harry M. Benjamin Jr., Worthington, Minn.

Storm Veers Away From Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said late tonight Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands no longer are in danger from hurricane Connie. The threat passed these U.S. islands an hour before midnight, the official report said.

The bureau bulletin said the eye of the hurricane, roaring across the open Atlantic north of here, had passed about 100 miles north of San Juan.

"Its movement is taking the center of the storm away from the islands," it said.

Hurricane warnings in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands were ordered lowered at midnight local time—11 p. m. EST. The bureau added the likelihood of dangerous winds had passed.

As the hurricane fringes passed San Juan, winds were mostly about 35 miles an hour, but there were a few squalls of 55 miles an hour.

No injuries or property damage were reported tonight.

The Weather Bureau said the only danger here might be flood conditions in the next 12 hours. As the storm passed, the bureau said, five inches of rain deluged this capital.

Puerto Rico had taken all the hurricane precautions and the Weather Bureau had posted warnings.

2-Husband Woman Wants To Be Alone

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Una Schmidt-Fine asked today that she be left alone with the man she says she married after her first husband was shot down over Korea "in order that our private lives may become private again."

The 20-year-old woman says she married Alford B. Fine, a 21-year-old logger, last September in the belief that Airman 1-C. Daniel C. Schmidt, the father of her 2 1/2-year-old son, had been killed. Schmidt is one of 11 fliers coming home next week from China.

Mrs. Schmidt-Fine, in an interview at Nevada City, Calif., said she and Fine have retained a Nevada City lawyer, Harold A. Berliner.

Mrs. Schmidt-Fine, talking to Alvin S. Trivelpiece of the Sacramento Bee, declined to discuss her receipts of Air Force allotment checks, saying only, "I have discussed the matter with Mr. Berliner. I am certain I have done nothing improper or illegal."

"The affairs of Al and Una Fine concern only themselves. It is no one's business but their own."

"That bright glare of publicity can do no possible good and can seriously damage the lives of all of them."

Trivelpiece said the couple talked to him yesterday in Nevada City on his promise not to reveal where they are staying.

Una and Fine said they still planned to meet Schmidt, when the former war prisoner arrives at Travis Air Force Base next week. They will bring with them Schmidt's son, Danny, whom he has never seen.

They said they would arrange their own transportation and have not discussed with the Air Force its offer to provide it.

Fine and the young woman refused to say when or where they were married, except that it was last September.

"The point of the problem," said Fine, "is he (the boy) calls me Daddy, and I am the only one he has known."

Fine said he has no intention of giving up Una without a fight. "When you love a woman," he declared, "you stick to her."

The couple, who left their house trailer at Cisco Grove last Wednesday and moved to a new hideaway, said they left because newsmen had been questioning them for two days.

Japs Mark A-Bomb Date

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—Hiroshima marked the 10th anniversary of its atomic destruction today with an appeal to the world "never to repeat the tragedy."

The day dawned hot, with a few clouds dotting the sky, just like Aug. 6, 1945 when the war's first nuclear bombing occurred.

Survivors of A-bomb victims arose before dawn to secure places close to the center of Nakashima Peace Park, site of the anniversary ceremony.

They burned incense and strewed flowers at the foot of the cenotaph, a stone arch bearing the inscription "Rest ye in peace, for we (humanity) shall never repeat the mistake."

By 8 a. m., the crowd had grown to 50,000. All was still.

The instant of 8:15 brought not the blinding flash and death of 1945 but the tolling of bells and sounding of whistles.

The throng knelt in prayer for the dead and for peace.

Noted Detective's Son Charged In Slaying Of Family

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—A quiet-spoken schoolmaster, son of the late chief of Scotland Yard's crack murder squad, was charged today with slaying his wife and baby daughter to death. Police said he admitted the double killing.

The accused man is Frederick James Chapman, 32. His father, Chief Detective Supt. William Chapman, bossed all Britain's biggest murder hunts until his death two weeks ago.

Chandler Holds Slight Vote Lead

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6 (AP)—Former baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, waging a political comeback fight, clung to a slight lead late tonight in his battle for Kentucky's Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Returns from 979 of the state's 4,063 precincts gave Chandler 76,629 votes to 72,287 for Bert T. Combs, a young mountaineer judge in his first statewide race.

MENTION OF MARX Threat To Peace Of Russ Visit Ends

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6 (AP)—Tranquility of Vladimir Matkevich's Texas trip was threatened at a luncheon in Waco today when Karl Marx's name was bandied about.

Frank Wilcox, president of the Waco Farm and Ranch Club, pointed out in a speech of welcome that all capitalists aren't on Wall Street.

"You can find 'em behind every bush in Texas," Wilcox said. "You can't have 200 acres, two cars and television unless you are a capitalist," he added.

"If Marx could have come to Texas, he would have torn up 'Das Kapital' and written about the fine system of economy that exists in the Southwest."

The acting minister of agriculture, when called on later, explained there wasn't time to delve into the sociological and philosophical fields.

But, he mentioned Marx too.

There seems to be no trouble between the two countries if Karl

Daughter Helps Red Abduction

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—An East German police major who fled to the West has been spirited back to the Reds by kidnapers who got help from his own daughter, West Berlin authorities said today.

Victim of the plot, ascribed to the East German Security Police (SSD), was Sylvester Murau, 48, who had held high rank in the Communist people's police.

5,000 Fans See Rodeo Closing Night

The 22nd annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo bumped, bounced and rocked to a colorful climax Saturday night with probably more than 5,000 cheering fans in the big bowl.

Fittingly, Bill Price of Lovington, N. M., saved his 13.3 catch and tie in the calf roping event for the last night to capture the title for the show. His Saturday time was the fastest of the show, lowering the 14.9 set Friday night by Elmer Carter. However, there were two times Saturday faster than that.

Billy McBride, San Angelo, scalded home in 17.7 seconds to gain a show tie in the barrel race with Peggy Sanders, also of San Angelo. Other show winners announced were:

Freckles Brown, Lawton, Okla., bareback bronc riding; Whit Keeney, Stephenville, the only dual winner of the rodeo, steer wrestling and wildcow milking; Martin Fryar, Howard County, calf roping; Sherman Richards, bull riding.

Poco Maria, the classy C. C. Pollen cowpony from Shreveport, La., outpointed the field for the show title in the cutting horse contest.

Toots Mansfield, Big Spring, lost his chance to cut into the show money when his loop caught one leg of the calf and he finished up with 28 seconds. His 16 seconds the opening night had put him in the thick of the fight, although there had been faster individual times.

Saturday night Doyle Riley, Ballinger, did a 14.5 wrap up on his calf and Scotty Howard of Big Spring had a 14.6. That placed them second and third in the second go around.

Accused Officer Concealed Past, Say AF Officials

WACO, Aug. 6 (AP)—1st Lt. Albert Charles Balas Jr., charged with a series of rapes, received his commission under fraudulent conditions, Air Force officials said today.

Posse Cuts Down Accused Robber

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP)—An accused bank robber was cut down by bullets from a West Texas posse today as he fled across a pasture.

The man was James Troy Braswell, about 25, who escaped from the Brownwood jail July 5 by overpowering a jailer.

Today's gunfire wounded him in the shoulder, leg and side but his condition was not critical.

Rhee Promises To Avoid 'Incidents'

SEOUL, Sunday, Aug. 7 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee again has promised the United Nations Command that his South Korean soldiers will avoid any incidents which might provoke a rekindling of the flames of war in Korea.

"I did not mean to use force when I said (last Monday) we would take over places the Communists held south of the 38th Parallel," Rhee said in an interview today.

Weather Follows Familiar Pattern - Warm And Wet

The Associated Press

Texas weather followed a now-familiar pattern Saturday—moderate sleet with scattered thunder-showers.

In late afternoon, the Weather Bureau reported showers in or near Alice, Victoria and El Paso, and along the Gulf coast.

Forecast for Sunday was for little change in temperatures and widely scattered showers again.

The Weather Bureau said it was much to early to determine whether Hurricane Connie, plowing through the ocean near San Juan, Puerto Rico, would affect Texas' weather pattern.

Present indications were that it would go inland too far to the east to affect Texas, but it might change course at any time.

6 PROPOSALS $990,000 Bond Issue Election Set Tuesday

Election for six municipal bond issues totaling $990,000 will be held Tuesday at the City Hall fire station. The poll opens at 8 a. m. and closes at 7 p. m.

Proposed issues include $300,000 for re-amping the water system, $200,000 for a police and jail building, $175,000 for two new fire stations and equipment, $150,000 for fire improvements, $50,000 for park construction, and $15,000 for remodeling the City Hall.

All six of the proposals will be presented to the voters on one ballot, and each issue can be approved or disapproved without affecting the outcome of the others.

Only Big Spring residents who own property which has been rendered for taxation can vote. Individuals must show their poll tax or exemption certificates to election judges Lawrence Robinson and W. H. Yates, or assistants George Melear and Mrs. Lay House.

Some $800,000 of the proposed issues will be in general tax obligation bonds, while $200,000 will be in general water revenue bonds. If the issues are passed, they possibly will push the tax rate up 12 cents and increase the water bills by 25 cents monthly.

The tax hike will enable the city to pay off the proposed $690,000 in general obligation bonds within a period of 17 years. The increase in water bills will allow retirement of the $300,000 in water revenue bonds in 20 years.

Both the tax hike and water bill increase figures are tentative, being based on interest rates of three per cent for tax bonds and 3.25 per cent for revenue bonds. Lower interest rates are expected.

The 12-cent hike would push Big Spring's tax rate up from $1.85 to $1.97 per $100 assessed valuation. The water bill increase would place the minimum charge at $2.75 instead of $2.50.

The $300,000 water revenue bond issue proposal is, of course, for the improvement of the city's water distribution system. The funds would be used for installing new water mains, for constructing a sedimentation basin at the filter plant, and for building a new million-gallon water reservoir.

These improvements are needed, according to engineering surveys,

Hot Workers Want Cooler Conditions

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Employees of a firm that makes air-conditioning equipment are off the job. It's too hot.

The weekly crop and insect report from Lubbock states that cotton has made good progress the last few days. Aphids are causing honeydew on some cotton plants, and fleahoppers are increasing on late cotton north of here.

separate in different pastures. By using the winter pasture and an irrigated wheat pasture, he has been able to rest his rangeland and get the grass started back.

County Agent Jimmy Taylor says bollworms are all over Howard County and in almost every field he has examined. He says some farmers are not finding too many, but they may be overlooking them.

He has leased part of the Quinn Ranch west of Big Spring and will pasture some of his lambs on it. Stone says he had rather buy calves than lambs, but they are always more difficult to find.

Taylor says cabbage loopers are widespread in the county but are not doing enough damage yet to warrant poisoning. They are mostly foliage feeders and are ragging up the leaves a little, but that is about all.

That was when mama interfered. With much hand-waving and loud talk, she argued it out, while little Pancho sat back down and began pulling the cotton leaves again.

Crops are in fine condition around the old Green Valley school northwest of Coahoma. Alton Lewis who farms there says he has prospects for making 100 bales of cotton on his 120-acre allotment. Some of it looks like bale-to-the-acre cotton now, but he has some skips and ridges where it is not quite so good.

Finally I drove on, with a grateful feeling toward mama. Because of her, justice had been done.

There was a mistake in the story printed last Wednesday about V. F. Cook and his early school teaching days. The Moore school house which burned down was not a two room house, as stated, but a four room building and gymnasium. This was brought to my attention in a conversation with Mr. Cook and Walker Bailey down at Poncho Hall's newsstand a few days ago.

Somehow my sympathy was with mama and Pancho. I too was once a small lad, and I still remember that terrible, all-gone feeling when the sun was burning down and a big field of weedy cotton seemed to stretch miles ahead of me.

Skillful Piloting Saves Airliner

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (AP)—Skillful piloting was credited with saving the lives of 68 persons in a Northwest Airlines plane accident late Friday.

The pilot, Capt. George A. Stone of Minneapolis, landed his big four-engine Stratocruiser on Midway Airport's northwest runway and noticed suddenly his propellers would not reverse to help slow the speed.

He worked the brakes frantically, but their power was insufficient to halt the big plane.

"When I saw the rigid arrow markers, landing lights and gasoline stations at the corner of the field," Stone told a reporter, "I applied full left rudder."

The big plane veered from the runway, drove through a steel wire fence which served to partially stop it and rolled into the middle of Central Avenue, narrowly missing a car.

The 62 passengers and crew of six were evacuated quickly, some through emergency chutes extending from the plane. There was no fire, but the props threw great chunks of the fence in all directions, one piercing the left side of the plane just behind the cockpit.

Copilot Ralph Gray of Minneapolis credited Stone's actions with averting a possible major tragedy.

"He used up all the runway he could afford," Graves said, "and then turned us away from real trouble."

Lomax Farmer Stretches Two Small Wells Over 37 Acres

By JESS BLAIR
When the water was poured into the underground sands of the South Plains in some forgotten age, the bucket almost ran dry before it reached Howard County. Farmers in this area take what water they can find, and are lucky to get any at all.
This is the way Tommy Newman of the Lomax community feels about it. He has two small irrigation wells with each one pumping about 150 gallons per minute, yet he is watering 37 acres of cotton with their output.
"It's not much compared to those 1,000 gallons wells in other places," he said, "but it looks like all the cotton we make will be with these little wells."
Newman is using only one well now, as the second one has sanded down. But he hopes to have it pumping again in a short time; otherwise the big, green cotton stalks may start suffering for water.
Newman has 10-horsepower electric motors on the wells and uses a four-inch outlet pipe. Since the second well is not pumping, he keeps the other one going 24 hours a day, and changes pipe every eight hours.
He has two good helpers to do this for him — for a price, of course. They are his own 13-year-old son, Tommy Jr., and Roger Long, 14-year-old husky who lives near the Lomax gin. The boys change pipe in about 30 minutes time at 8:00 a. m., and then again at 4:00 in the afternoon. Since Newman has two sets of pipes, he makes the midnight change by just opening a valve, and switching the water from one set of pipes to the other one.
Newman's wells are only about 60 feet deep, which cuts down on pumping costs. His electric bill averages $2.00 per day for each pump, which is considered very cheap fuel.
With the one well, he puts on about three inches of water at a setting and can irrigate two acres a day. This means almost three weeks in getting over the field; and unless a rain helps him out, the cotton may suffer a little for moisture. However, he hopes to have the second well pumping before that happens.

All the crop has been made with irrigation water, because the rains skipped Lomax until a couple of weeks ago. At present, the cotton is fruited out heavily and looks to have a bale to the acre on it now. He has already poisoned twice and expects to go over it another two or three times.
"One thing about irrigated cotton," Newman said, "is that it sure attracts the insects. But with cotton loaded as much as this, we can't take a chance on losing it to the worms, no matter how many times we have to poison."
Newman did not fertilize this time, but says he may try some next year. "This is my first experience with irrigation," he said, "and I can't learn it all in just one year." Some farmers in other places make two bales to the acre but half that much will satisfy me this time. Maybe next year we can do better."

He is only one of several farmers irrigating in the Lomax community. With the exception of some good water on the Dr. Hall place, most of it is found in a strip east of the gin. These wells make from 100 to 300 gallons per minute; however, Lawrence Atkins recently got a 500 gallon well a mile or so south of the others.
Newman doesn't think the little wells would be used so much if the community ever gets some normal rainfall years.
"Even during the good years, though, we always have a dry period or two," he said, "and the wells can be used in making up for a rain we miss."

Northeast Heat May Be Just In Warmup Stage

By The Associated Press
Despite a welcome break in some areas this weekend, the heat wave which has dehydrated the nation's northeast quarter may be just in the warmup stage.
The U. S. Weather Bureau has predicted a "warmer than usual" August in most of the northern two-thirds of the country, with sub-normal rainfall in the northeast quarter and the northern and central plains.
Temperatures in the high 90s and 100-plus have frayed nerves, parched crops and put communities on short water rations from the Rockies eastward for more than a month.

Telephone operators walked out of exchanges in Gary, Ind., and Cicero, Ill., last week simply because they found it too hot. It took assurances of more fans and ice tubs to get them back on the job in Cicero.
There have been sporadic heat walkouts in some industrial shops, too, notably in Detroit where auto workers walked out in hopes of cooling off. Many business offices and plants were closed temporarily on torrid days.
Midwest farmers are worrying about their ripening corn and soybean crops, but the situation is not serious yet. Prices of future contracts on the two crops have been edging up in the grain markets, but estimates on the corn and soybean harvests have been holding up fairly well.
But hot weather and drought in the east and northeast have done extensive damage to corn and truck crops. And this is the area of most severe water shortages for city dwellers.

East Church Cool To Plea For Union

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The afternoon newspaper Vradyni said today leading ecclesiastical circles in Greece view Pope Pius' appeal yesterday for a reunion of the Rites with the Roman Catholic Church as "devoid of any significance."
The paper said the appeal was a repetition of similar attempts undertaken in the past and is an expression of "secret dreams of Rome since the Crusades to suppress the Byzantine Church."

TEC Has Openings In Auditor Posts

Several auditor positions with the Texas Employment Commission will soon be available, announced Leon Kinney manager of the local office.
Applications for scheduled examinations may be obtained at the local TEC office, Kinney said.
Duties of these positions will include conducting payroll and other audits, obtaining delinquent reports, and investigation of employers seeing that they are complying with laws and regulations of the Employers Compensation Act.
Applicants must have been graduated from an accredited four-year college with courses in business administration and accounting or a year of full-time experience in accounting and auditing.
Candidates for the scheduled examinations must have been residents of Texas for the past five years. Most of the eligibles selected for these positions will be required to have a car available for official travel.

Educators, Critics Row On Reading Methods

Editor's Note—Across the country parents are becoming increasingly concerned about the reading ability of their children. The nation's schools, under attack from all sides, are today's children read better and understand more than their parents did. Here's a report on a survey of the controversy and what's being done about it.

By ARTHUR EDSON
The Associated Press

This fall another tremendous crop of youngsters—some 3,500,000—will be planted in the nation's first grade.

Some will approach school fearfully, some self-assuredly, some reluctantly, some tearfully, some doubtfully, some importantly. But each of the 3,500,000—and most of their parents—have this in common:

In no time at all, they are sure, they will be able to read.

But all over the country there are critics who insist they won't. They say that modern reading theories are on the wrong track, that other basic studies have been neglected and that the high school graduate of today is far behind the graduate of, say, 30 years ago.

A few samples of criticism. "My nephew's a smart boy, a high school graduate with two years in the Coast Guard. I wish you could have seen the letter he wrote me. Good lord, he's illiterate!"

An electronics supervisor: "We had a skyrocket here. I mean, he was one of the best. But on writing reports he couldn't spell the simplest words. Take 'electronic engineer,' which is what he is. I suppose it's too much to expect him to spell 'electronic,' but wouldn't you think a college man could spell 'engineer'?"

Mostly today's criticism seems to center about the way reading is, or isn't, taught.

A one parent puts it: "Show my child a strange word, and even though it's a simple one, she has no idea how to pronounce it. 'We haven't had that word yet,' she says."

This year more than 10 billion dollars will be spent on elementary and high school education in this country.

Are we getting our money's worth? Are our children learning to read, write, spell, figure and think at least moderately well? Or is this a pedagogical swindle in which we are alarmingly short-changed?

To get some answers to these questions, Associated Press reporters have interviewed college presidents, psychologists, grade school teachers, parents, remedial reading instructors and assorted experts from coast to coast.

Their opinions on today's schools vary from "terrible" to "splendid." But the majority—from such cities as Chicago, Atlanta, Denver, Louisville, Seattle and a dozen others—insists that today's youngsters read better, and understand much more, than their parents did.

To get an idea of the schools' viewpoint, let's take the case of Susan, a going-on-6-year-old resident of Fairfax County, Va.

Susan has merry blue eyes, a pony tail and two missing front teeth. She can hang by her knees, sing all the verses of "Davy Crockett" and print her name either s-a-a-s or n-a-a-s. "Sometimes I print it backwards," she explains, "because I like it better that way."

Fairfax is a part rural, part metropolitan county across the river from Washington. It appears to have a typical school system with all the current problems: overcrowding, difficulty in finding top-flight teachers and a constantly shifting population. Like most schools today, it tries to steer a course somewhere between the progressive and fundamental styles of instruction.

What's in store for bright-eyed Susan? How quickly she starts to read will depend on what educators call "reading readiness." They compare this with learning to walk. Some learn to walk at 11 months and others at 20 months, but the early walker won't necessarily be the better one. It's the same with reading.

E. M. Day, for 29 years a teacher and elementary school principal in Fairfax, insists that hurrying a child in his reading can be a major blunder.

"Time after time," he says, "we find that a youngster has been forced to read too soon. He gets off on the wrong foot and becomes discouraged. I'd say it is one of the main reasons for failure."

It will take a series of tests to show when Susan is ready to read. Is she ready physically? Has she seen, heard and done things that will give her a better understanding of the words she is given? Can she follow directions? If the answer to these and similar questions is yes, she soon should have a reading vocabulary of 50 or more words, words she can see and recognize.

By this time she should have caught on to the fact that letters and sounds often go together, that "Susan" and "she" both begin with an "s."

In all textbooks—is total wrong and flies in the face of all logic and common sense."

To this the educators, almost to a man, not only cry, "Not guilty!" but accuse Fleesch of misrepresenting the facts.

Far from ignoring phonics, teachers say they are an essential part of every school reading program right now.

If Susan had gone to school more than 100 years ago, she undoubtedly would have begun with her ABC's.

About a century ago a shift was made in teaching reading. Children were given phonograms, or combinations of letters like "ch," "ck," "sh," "th," "oa," "da" to sound out. Often, many weeks would be spent in drilling on these unrelated phonograms before any serious attempt was made to teach reading.

But once the reading began, it was thought, the child would go more rapidly. If he hit a strange word, all he had to do was sound it out.

Almost everyone in this country who is more than 35 years old was trained under this system.

In the 1920s it was decided sounding out words made slow readers, often readers who did not comprehend what they read.

So educators began turning to sight reading, or, if you prefer Fleesch's viewpoint, "word guessing."

Here the children were introduced gradually to 50 or 100 basic words, to be recognized on sight, before any training in phonics was given.

Under this system, it was believed a youngster would read faster, and would more readily pick up a strange word from its context in the sentence.

Some schoolmen say it may be that sight reading was carried too far, with too little attention paid to phonics. But now, they say, the pendulum has swung back, and nearly all schools use a blend of phonics and sight reading.

But why not stress phonics? Suppose the youngsters do read more slowly, wouldn't they be more sure of themselves? And wouldn't they spell better?

Most educators say no. And high on their list of reasons is the distinctly English language itself.

Its words are a glorious hodge-podge of Teutonic, Latin, Greek and heaven knows what origin.

Anyone trying to walk the straight phonetic line soon runs into words pronounced alike and spelled differently: "there" and "their," "use" and "wee," "to," "two" and "too."

In the major school systems checked by The Associated Press, all schools use the same ingredients, phonics and sight reading. The difference is in how much of each ingredient to put in—and when.

The Los Angeles recipe, as given by Ellis Jarvis, deputy superintendent: "Reading is taught by a sight-phonetic method. However, we feel that phonics is merely a tool in the teaching of reading. The sight method receives the emphasis, although both are used."

"Boston," says its superintendent, Dennis C. Haley, "basically follows the phonetic system, with some sight thrown in when it is felt it can be used. Certain words can be grasped by sight, but the fundamental method is the traditional phonetic."

"So we went to work on her. She has been getting along fine. Just fine. It's wonderful to watch a child like that, like a flower, unfold and grow."

A husband and wife team of psychologists, Antonia and William Morgan, often have youngsters referred to them for help.

One such youngster was Eddie, all-round son of all-around parents.

Mrs. Morgan, a native of England, began the story: "His parents, we found, were frightfully interested in sports."

"They belonged to the country club," Dr. Morgan said, "and took an active part in community activities. Lovely, extroverted parents."

"The family wasn't much on books, you know," Mrs. Morgan said. "Oh, they took magazines. You know, one looks at the pictures."

"They're perfectly healthy," Morgan said genially. "They may not be intellectuals, but when they don't want to be. They may be afraid they'd be investigated."

The result: Eddie saw some point in learning to be a good swimmer or a fine tennis player, but why should anyone want to know how to read?

The solution: Eddie was kept in his class, and his mother began working with him each day on his reading.

"It has worked," Mrs. Morgan said. "I wouldn't say he is a good reader, but he is getting along all right."

Which brings us to a curious fact: Far more boys than girls have trouble reading, and no one knows exactly why.

Nearly every expert, and almost every teacher, stresses the part the home plays in helping, or hindering, a child in learning to read.

Mrs. Morgan says children who are read to regularly, in homes where reading is a part of daily living, rarely have trouble. But she doesn't think it fair to blame "poor home training," and let it go at that. Learning to read is a complex business, she says, and the reasons for failure are often complex too.

It may be a drawback in the home, privately financed hydroelectric project in the Hells Canyon Dam area. He accused the administration of deceiving Congress in handling this case.

Kefauver heads a task force of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee which has been making a study of the Dixon-Yates power contract.

But he said he did not know whether this group would be able to make the Bonneville and Hells Canyon investigations, or whether any other committee would do so.

Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) is chairman of the subcommittee and also of its parent group, the Judiciary Committee. He has been conducting hearings on alleged monopolistic tendencies in various industries, but so far has not got into the electric power field.

The Bonneville Power Administration markets electricity from several big federal dams in the Pacific Northwest.

Some Democratic legislators and public power advocates from the region have complained that the Eisenhower administration's Bonneville policies have been too favorable to private utilities. Officials reply that their policies are in the national interest.

Kefauver Urges New Power Probe

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said today he believes congressional investigators should take a look at the Eisenhower administration's policies in connection with the Bonneville Power Administration.

Critics have accused the administration of favoring private companies in disposing of Bonneville power. Administration officials say their policies are fair to all.

Kefauver told a reporter another fertile field for investigation would be Thursday's decision by the Federal Power Commission approving a privately financed hydroelectric project in the Hells Canyon Dam area.

He accused the administration of deceiving Congress in handling this case. Kefauver heads a task force of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee which has been making a study of the Dixon-Yates power contract.

But he said he did not know whether this group would be able to make the Bonneville and Hells Canyon investigations, or whether any other committee would do so.

The Bonneville Power Administration markets electricity from several big federal dams in the Pacific Northwest. Some Democratic legislators and public power advocates from the region have complained that the Eisenhower administration's Bonneville policies have been too favorable to private utilities.

Officials reply that their policies are in the national interest. The Hells Canyon decision, which came two days after Congress adjourned, produced an explosion of criticism from Democratic senators who said they would try to make it a national issue.

Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) for example said it was "a complete sell-out of God-given resources to the private power lobby."

Under the decision, the Idaho Power Co. was authorized to build three power dams which would flood the site of a proposed federal dam project on the Snake River, between Idaho and Oregon. Public power advocates contend the three small, privately built dams would not make full use of the potential.

The power commission ruled, however, that the private project would be more economical. Kefauver said in a statement that the handling of this decision was "another flagrant example of this administration's policy of deception."

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Guy Nelson Thomas, 30, was under a bigamy charge today because of $32 in long distance phone bills to a Lubbock, Tex., number.

Mrs. Vera Jean Thomas, 27, who said she married Thomas last May 13, said she left her July 4 and that she had to pay the $32 phone bill.

She called the Lubbock number, she said yesterday, and got Mrs. Alma Fay Thomas, who said she married Thomas five years ago and had only gone back to him July 7 after a separation.

The Mrs. Thomas from Lubbock came to Houston and the two women took their mutual complaint to the district attorney's office.

'Life' Staffer Threatens Court Action

GALVESTON, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP)—A hotel hassle between a Galveston club owner and a Life Magazine writer today appeared headed for the courts.

The magazine said Henry Suydam would file charges against Anthony Ferritta, owner of the Turf Athletic Club, Monday.

Ferritta and Mayor George Clough brushed the one (or two) punch affair off as being "greatly exaggerated."

Suydam and the magazine said it was more than that: A clean knockdown.

The two versions in brief: Suydam: He and Life photographer Joe Scherschel were taking pictures for a story about "Sin City" Galveston inside the Turf Club about 3 a.m. yesterday.

Ferritta and others came out, the Life men became alarmed, and drove to the Galvez Hotel.

There, Scherschel took the film upstairs; Suydam waited in the lobby. Ferritta came in and flattened him.

Ferritta: A couple of suspicious men, who "looked like bums," were reported outside his club. He went out to investigate, didn't know whether the men were thieves, followed them to the hotel. When Suydam wouldn't give sensible answers to Ferritta's questions about what he had been doing outside the club, Ferritta "barely tapped" Suydam.

Andrew Heiskell, publisher of Life, wired Clough, District Atty. Marceus Johnson, City Atty. Jim Phipps and Gov. Allan Shivers demanding action about the interference with "freedom of the press."

After a conference with Ferritta and two hotel officials, Clough said of the affair: "I think it was greatly exaggerated. He (Ferritta) just slapped the man."

Today, the magazine said Suydam was going back to Galveston Monday to file the assault charges. It asked Clough to make sure he got "police protection."

The two men were here in this island resort for a picture story on Galveston the magazine terms the nation's "last surviving Sin City."

Clough this year was elected on a platform to continue free and easy entertainment he said tourists wanted. But his advocacy of a regulated red light district to control prostitution ran into strong opposition from ministers and others.

Eighteen bawdy houses were recently closed because of protests. At the time, Clough said he figured it was going to be a "hell of a job" keeping them closed.

Pat McCormick Catching Breather

Pat McCormick, the talented "Lady Bullfighter" from Big Spring, is catching a breather after a busy season but for Pat a breather means hard work.

In a letter written from Aguas Calientes, Mexico, she told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McCormick, she was pointing for La Ventilla, San Luis Potosi. Her manager, Francisco Gomez-Zangano, had indicated eight cows and a bull had been promised for her practice fights.

Her plans call for getting in as many cows and bulls as possible on the haciendas during the novillero season. In September she will return to the ring, though the time and place have not been fixed.

Pat's itinerary calls for a visit to Guadalupe, possibly on a tonta, although she has a fight booked there later.

Her present thinking is that she will not attempt to book a corrida in Mexico City until next year. She and El Zangano want to get in many fights and tentas in order that she will be on fine edge for her Mexico City debut.

Previously, Pat has indicated she would like to take her alternativa in the famous Mexico ring. The bullfighters union has informed her she is ready for the alternative any time she wishes to take it.

Since her return to the ring this spring after a near fatal goring in Villa Acuna on Labor Day 1954, Pat has been fighting at every opportunity. She has had corridas at Reynosa, Tijuana, Juarez, Nuevo Laredo and Monterrey. There were two appearances at Reynosa and Acuna.

At Aguas Calientes she was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Hernandez Duque, the surgeon who treated Pat when she suffered a severe thigh wound in her first goring July 19, 1953. Dr. and Mrs. Duque have set aside a wing of their home, which they call "Pat's wing" and insist this is her home when she is in that part of Mexico.

It is possible she will return here for a brief time between seasons in October. While convalescing here a last autumn work was finished on her book, "The Lady Bullfighter," which was published around the first of the year. Still weak from her wounds, she made a personal appearance tour in connection with the release of the book.

Harriman Won't Take Second Spot

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman has closed the door to suggestions that he might accept second place on the Democratic national ticket next year.

Harriman, generally regarded as a potential candidate for the Presidential nomination, said at a news conference yesterday that he was "not interested" in running for Vice President.

He said he would meet in Illinois next week with Adlai Stevenson, the Democrats' 1952 standard bearer.

Harriman reaffirmed support of Stevenson for 1956 but declined to say whether he thought the former Illinois Governor would run again.

A Boy's Farewell To His Dog

Rod Wilson, 11, holds back his tears as he shipped his black mongrel puppy, Smokey, off to a new home from Burbank, Calif. The boy had claimed the dog from an animal shelter last June. It had belonged to a man who died. Recently the dead man's mother, at Southern Pines, N.C., asked that the dog be sent to her. Rod gave up Smokey and sent him flying off to North Carolina.

San Francisco To London In Only 2 Hours

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 6 (AP)—All aboard for London, please.

The year is 1950. The place, San Francisco.

You board the craft. Settle down in your seat. Begin reading your newspaper.

"London, London. Watch your step getting off, please."

You fold your paper, put on your coat and step off.

The trip has taken just about two hours.

A dream?

Not at all, say some of the scientists who attended the week-long sixth annual congress of the International Astronautical Federation which ended today.

Said one scientist: "In 30 or 40 years a businessman will be able to eat breakfast in San Francisco, arrive in Europe, have lunch, complete his affairs and return to San Francisco in time for dinner."

"Transportation will be in rocket ships traveling at 100,000 feet at speeds from 3,000 to 4,000 miles an hour."

"A ticket may be pretty expensive though, because rocket ships will be costly items. So if the businessman wants to save some money he might take a ram-jet plane. That will get him to Europe an hour or so later."

For shorter trips — say from New York to Chicago — there will be all kinds of slowpoke craft, probably jet helicopters.

A British scientist summed things up with typical reserve: "Oh, there'll be landings on the moon and high altitude travel and all that. [But everything won't change in our lifetime.]"

Ever dream of direct TV from Europe? Well it'll be better than that in 25 or 30 years.

"By then," said an engineer, "we will have TV relay stations set up on satellites whirling around the earth. That will mean we can transmit a TV program from any point in the world and beam it up to the satellite, which will relay it straight down. There will be virtually simultaneous reception anywhere in the world."

Will the satellites be manned? "Not necessarily," the engineer said. "But don't forget the human being is the cheapest instrument we now have to do a multitude of jobs."

Weather forecasting should be more accurate by that time. "You see," explained another scientist, "either through instruments or human beings on the satellites we will be able to observe weather conditions at all points of the earth. At the same time we will be able to watch the trends, not just from one or two places on earth, but everywhere."

"This way we may finally conquer the weather. I mean things like bringing rain to arid areas such as Aden on the Persian Gulf. Lots of rain clouds form be-

Engineer Calls For Sharing Of Wealth Found On The Moon

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 6 (AP)—A Dutch aeronautical engineer said Friday the nations of the world should agree to share the wealth of the moon—if it has any.

Simon van Munster of the Aviolande Aircraft Factory, Papendrecht, the Netherlands, said the combined research efforts of all nations would be needed to get the first space ship to the moon. There-fore, he said, anything of value found there should be divided "among the world's people."

Van Munster said cooperation on research and a share-the-wealth plan conceivably could be worked out through the U. N. Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization.

He said the IAF already has made contact with UNESCO concerning a program of world cooperation on research.

Saying it might be possible to reach the moon by 1950, the engineer added: "If we are to go outside the earth, we must realize we must all work together to solve the problems of space flight. No one nation can solve these problems of getting out into space and of living there. There must be cooperation in research by all nations."

He said arrangements should be worked out beforehand so the pioneer moon explorers would turn over to UNESCO, for worldwide distribution, anything of value found there.

"There might be some material on the moon that would differ, say, from either the coal or the iron found on the earth, but which might have value," he said.

Kraft Ehrlicke, an aeronautical engineer for the Convair Aircraft Co., San Diego, Calif., said "it appears reasonable" to land a manned vehicle on the moon some time "during the 1950's."

He said the flight conceivably could be made with present-day chemical rocket propellants but there is a need for working out "new types of propulsion systems," especially for any ventures beyond the moon.

Ehrlicke said that among theoretical concepts suggested as alternatives for chemical propulsion are: 1. An "electrical rocket" in which a radioactive material would give off electrically charged atoms, or ions. These would be accelerated inside the core of the rocket by a device utilizing some of the principles of a cyclotron until they attained energies sufficient to give a thrust to the rocket.

2. A type of propulsion in which a mirror would focus the rays of the sun on some solid material, heating it to the point where it would be converted to hot gases. The latter would be expelled providing propulsion.

But before there's any trip to the moon, Ehrlicke said, it will first be necessary to establish a manned satellite in the outer fringes of the earth's atmosphere — as a take-off point for the "lunar special."

U. S. Considering Korea Withdrawal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Top United States policymakers are expected to take a new look soon at the possibility of withdrawing American forces from South Korea. If this is decided upon, they would be pulled back to Japan and other forward bases in the Pacific.

Several recent developments have combined to strengthen speculation within the Defense and State departments that withdrawal may prove possible in the months ahead. But the issue is controversial and is sure to be fully debated in the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the National Security Council when it is actively raised.

The developments bearing on the situation are these: 1. Increasing evidence — including the current American-Red Chinese talks at Geneva — that Red China is cooperating with Russia's policy of easing East-West tensions.

2. The introduction of a new personality into the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, reportedly a vigorous advocate of redeployment of U. S. forces in the Korea-Japan area, replaced Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway recently. The idea of getting his troops out of Korea has long appealed to the Army command, though the Navy and Air Force have tended to favor retention of the bases forward of Japan.

On the one hand the existence of the strong Korean divisions can be said to provide South Korea with a high degree of security against future Communist attacks.

On the other hand some officials argue that it places a powerful weapon in the hands of South Korean President Syngman Rhee, whose basic conviction seems to be that he will never succeed in uniting his country except by force. The presence of American military units in South Korea is regarded by some well-informed officials here as a restraining and stabilizing influence.

3. The growing strength and effectiveness of the Republic of Korea army. ROK forces total 20 divisions, with a 10-division reserve. This is a force of about 600,000 men and one of the four or five largest military forces in the world.

By contrast United States Army strength in Korea is said to be now under 100,000. Stationed there are the 7th and 24th Army divisions in under-strength condition. Marine and Air Force units are also assigned to the area.

The United States has been training and supplying the Allied South Korean force since the end of the Korean War two years ago. The present state of its development actually may be used as an argument both for and against the withdrawal of American forces.

hind Aden, but the rain never falls. We can't do anything about it because we can't tell when the rain clouds will come over Aden. But with the satellite, we will be able to have that information in advance.

"So when we know rain clouds are going to form, say over Aden, we will be in a position to seed the clouds and bring rain. Who knows, we may make Aden self-sustaining, where now it has to import 90 per cent of its food."

Satellite Just First Step Toward Space

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mankind is about to poke an inquiring finger into the mysteries of space. His technique: a tiny object high in the heavens, from which instruments might automatically record information now hidden beyond the curtain of haze which enshrouds the earth.

The White House announced plans July 29 to shoot a basketball-size missile 200 to 300 miles into space, in hopes it might orbit there at 18,000 miles an hour. A man-made but unmanned satellite of the earth, it would encircle the globe once every 90 minutes.

The United States hopes to do this sometime during the International Geophysical Year, which starts July 1, 1957. Russian scientists reported they too are working on a space satellite and hope to have one revolving moonlike around the earth perhaps 18 months from now. England and France also are working on high-altitude rocket projects.

All agree that the ventures have a scientific—and peaceful—purpose, to advance man's knowledge of the universe. But there are military applications too.

The first nation to launch a satellite will have traveled such of the way toward intercontinental ballistic missile, sometimes called the ultimate weapon. Some scientists believe that no defense will be possible against a barrage of bulletlike missiles, fired accurately from a distant continent.

The satellite program is itself a by-product of continuing attempts to develop a global ballistic missile. The Navy fired a Viking rocket to a height of 153.4 miles in May 1954. A two-stage Army rocket, composed of a German V-2 and an American Wac Corporal, climbed to more than 250 miles in 1949.

The nearest approach to an intercontinental missile which the Defense Department has yet disclosed is the Atlas, now being built by Convair Division of General Dynamics at San Diego, Calif.

Actually, say Pentagon scientists it will be easier to build a satellite such as is now proposed than to build an intercontinental missile. The satellite designers need not concern themselves with two major problems of the long-range missile—its guidance, and preventing its disintegration when it reenters the atmosphere.

Scientists attending the International Astronautical Congress in Copenhagen early this month called the satellite project a prelude to interplanetary research, and "the greatest project ever taken up by man."

Norman V. Peterson, an engineer for Sperry Gyroscope Co., Great Neck, N. Y., told the group that within 20 years an unmanned space ship may be landed on the moon, and that a piloted ship may reach there by the end of the century.

The moon is 240,000 miles away. After that? The planets, say some scientists — the strange worlds which, like earth, revolve counterclockwise in orbits around the sun. Venus and Mars are the closest, 26 million and 48 million miles away.

J. Gordon Vaeth, a specialist with the Office of Naval Research, says that the greatest of all adventures, escape from the earth, has now become an inevitable engineering and aeromedical fact.

The National Academy of Sciences and the National Science Foundation announced that they will provide technical advice, on the basis of lengthy research on the upper atmosphere, and also the equipment for launching the satellite.

The scientists who initially outlined the project made it plain that they were confident of its success. But the details of how the satellite would be made and sent spinning around the earth are vague.

Here are some of the questions asked and the answers received:

Q. What material would be used? A. This has not been worked out yet.

Q. What would be the construction of this object? A. It isn't completely blueprinted at this time.

Q. What will it look like? Will it be made of metal or plastic or be like a ball? A. It will look like a basketball, something of that sort.

Q. Of metal, solid? A. Whether it is solid or not, that is still a question. Suppose one puts instruments in it. Clearly, it is not solid. If the primary objective is one experiment rather than another, it might be better to have it hollow and light, less density. It might be a good idea to have a light large object which would be slowed up fairly rapidly by this thin air. But if we wanted it to stay up for a long time, then there is some advantage in having it a small dense object.

Q. What about the size and construction of the missile to propel it? A. We just don't know.

Q. If this is to be propelled by some rocket mechanism, wouldn't some of the mechanism itself also remain up there? A. Not necessarily.

Q. Are you thinking in terms of three or four six-stage rockets? A. We don't know how many stages. We just aren't at that point.

Q. How will we get this thing up there? Shoot it up? A. Yes, the only way we know to get it up is by rocket.

Q. Where will you launch it from? A. That has not been decided yet.

Johnson Says Congress Has Found Foreign Affairs Unity

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said today Congress has attained national unity on foreign affairs, with "the voices of discord" cut to a whisper in the session ending earlier in the week.

Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader, said the legislators' accomplishments "put to rest the fears of those who had so little confidence in the American system they thought it would not work unless both the Congress and the executive were controlled by the same political party."

Still hospitalized after a heart attack, the Texas senator said in a statement that during the session "rancor and bitterness were reduced to a minimum and efforts were concentrated on resolving issues in the light of the national interest."

This provided something of an official answer to the charge by Joseph L. Rauh Jr., national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, that Democratic leaders had waved the banners of "teamwork" and "bipartisanship" in accepting what he called "hopelessly inadequate" proposals by President Eisenhower on domestic issues.

Previously, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said of the ADA charges that "it is unthoughtful and unjust to make any such blanket indictment of the congressional leaders and of President Eisenhower."

Johnson conceded Congress did not complete its program. He mentioned as major issues for the next session final action on the Upper Colorado project, highways, social security expansion, federal aid for school construction and a farm price support bill.

Sens. Murray (D-Mont.) and Anderson (D-NM.) said in a separate statement they intend to drive for congressional approval in the next session of five major water and power projects.

They listed these as the Upper Colorado, Ventura in California, the Hells Canyon dam in Idaho-Oregon, the Washita in Oklahoma and the Frying Pan-Arkansas in Colorado.

Giving credit to Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Johnson said that the "crowning achievement" of the session which just ended "was to unite the nation behind a policy designed to protect our freedoms and preserve peace."

Only Pontiac DELIVERS ALL THESE CLEAR-CUT ADVANTAGES!

THERE'S NO POWER LIKE STRATO-STREAK POWER!

Here is the heart of Pontiac's terrific performance—the all-new, ultramodern Strato-Streak V-8! This masterpiece of engine design will deliver up to 200 horsepower with Pontiac's 4-barrel carburetor, an extra-valve option. Come on in, put yourself behind the wheel and see what Strato-Streak really means!

SUPERIOR BEAUTY—Here's one advantage you can spot as far as you can see! Pontiac's smartly distinctive combination of long, clean lines, Twin-Streaked hood and Vogue Two-Toning is generally acknowledged to be the major style advance of the year.

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE—The Strato-Streak V-8, too, sets this car apart from any other in the world. It is the industry's most modern engine—filled with "firsts" that pay off in blazing 200-horsepower action and the greatest thrift in Pontiac history.

SUPERIOR SIZE—There's 124 or 122 inches of road-leveling wheelbase under Pontiac's spacious Body by Fisher. And that means a solid sense of security not surpassed by any car.

SUPERIOR HANDLING EASE—There's extra security, too, in the lightning response of Pontiac's oversize brakes, recirculating ball steering and flashing acceleration. Even parking is a pleasure with action like this.

SUPERIOR COMFORT—What's your idea on this score? Big, soft seats? Ample shoulder and leg room? A cushioned ride? Regal luxury? That's Pontiac comfort and it won't be topped by anything on the road.

Yet a Pontiac fits any new-car budget! Come in and learn how little cash it takes to join the big swing to Pontiac.

With 4-barrel carburetor, an extra-valve option.

Lack Of Health Card Brings Fine

A Big Spring cafe owner paid a total of $19.50 in Justice Court last week as a result of employing a waitress without a health card.

New Farm Credit Program Announced

Details of a one-package credit program tailored to meet the needs of farmers and ranchers in the Great Plains area have been announced by Fred T. Ross, county supervisor for the Farm Home Administration.

Bill Tucker are to be in charge of preparing the beans and son-of-a-gun. Jack Wilcox will head up the committee for handling the serving.

According to custom, old timers will also bring basket lunches, bearing in mind the meat, beans and stew will be furnished.

Several already have made donations, Allen said. Included are Sam Childress, Noel Lester, and Jack Wilcox, $10; L. C. Mathies and Homer McKinley, $5; Rufus Davidson and Jackie McKinney, $2.

City Worker To College Post

Miss Jan Dunagan, employe of the City of Big Spring for the past six and a half years, has accepted position at Howard County Junior College as secretary to the registrar.

She will assume her new duties Wednesday, continuing in her present post through Tuesday. She is now assistant to City Secretary C. R. McKinstry.

Women employes of the city honored Miss Dunagan with a Thursday evening going away party at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant.

PTG Command Changes Hands

Pilot Training Group At Webb Gets New Chief

Col. John L. Weber took over command of the Pilot Training Group from Lt. Col. Gerald Rooney at Webb AFB Friday night during an informal party staged by the group. The Pilot Training Group is the mission group at Webb charged with training jet fighter pilots for the USAF and NATO. Col. Weber came to Webb from the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va. Prior to that assignment he served with the Far Eastern Air Force in Korea. He is due for a citation which will be presented Aug. 18th during a Wing Review at Webb. He will receive the Commendation Ribbon for meritorious service as programing officer and training at Hq. FEAF during the Korean conflict. The citation stated Weber effected major economies in personnel, material, and facility resources. His direct approach and sound analytical methods were prime factors in the successful accomplishment of the FEAF mission and the United Nations operations in Korea, according to the citation.

Col. Weber graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1943. He served as a fighter and bomber pilot during World War II, and holds the ratings of fighter pilot, instructor, and bomber pilot. Combat decorations held by the colonel include the Distinguished Flying Cross with two Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Air Medal with six Oak Leaf Clusters. During the party staged by the group, outgoing commander Col. Rooney, was presented with gifts from the group, and a poem authored by Maj. Robert Woda, executive officer. Rooney will leave Monday for the Command and Staff School at Maxwell, Alabama. He has been stationed at Webb for the past three years, having been promoted into increasingly important positions.

WTCC Directors To Pick Officer

Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in the 10-county area comprising District No. 6 will meet Thursday in Midland. Principal item of business is the election of a vice president for the district. The group also will consider recommendations of the organization's program of work committee, to be presented by Fred H. Husbands, executive vice president and general manager of WTCC. Ray Grisham, Abilene, president, will preside at the meeting in the Scharbauer Hotel. Directors from Big Spring are G. H. Hayward and Champ Rainwater.

Dawson Boys Will Attend Encampment

LAMESA — Either 16 or 18 boys are expected to attend the district 4-H encampment in Lubbock Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. County Agent Leroy Colgan has indicated. The boys will take part in a program of swimming, baseball, picnicking and other recreation along with some demonstrations and educational movies. Colgan and Byron Pierce, assistant agent, will accompany the group, and they are urging as many fathers as can go with their sons.

Teacher Reception Planned At Lamesa

LAMESA — Details of the traditional reception for teachers will be planned at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce education committee at 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Chamber offices. Stansell Clement, chairman, will be in charge of the meeting. There are approximately 25 new staff members, who will be special honorees, but the entire faculty and staff of administrators will be guests of the community at the reception in the high school cafeteria. Date for the affair has not been set.

Lamesa Schools To Open Sept. 1

LAMESA — School will start in Lamesa on Sept. 1, according to an announcement from C. W. Tarter, superintendent. Tarter said Saturday faculty vacancies had been reduced to four. Places still in need of filling are two at sixth grade level, high school science and high school English-English.

The superintendent has convoked a general faculty meeting for Aug. 30 at 10:30 a.m. in the high school auditorium.

The board of trustees will meet Monday, but mostly routine business is on tap. There may be some discussion, but likely no action, on results of the survey conducted through questionnaires on the matter of desegregation. Transportation matters also will be considered.

Revival Meeting Slated At Forsan

FORSAN — A revival meeting is to start Friday evening at the First Methodist Church here.

The pastor, the Rev. Allen Forsan, is to do the preaching, but the song leader has not yet been announced. Services will be held daily at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. through Aug. 21.

Bobby Nobles On Air Team Competing In Rocket Meet

Airman First Class Bobby J. Nobles has been named as a member of the 13th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron team from Selfridge Air Force Base, Michigan, to represent the 90th Air Division (Defense) in the Eastern Air Defense Force Rocketry meet to be held at Yuma Air Force Base, Ariz., Aug. 14-23.

Pressure, Patrols Promised Against Desegregation

COLQUITT, Ga. (AP)—Miller County commissioners have resolved to cut off school funds immediately in any suit is filed to force integration of the races and to set white deputies to patrolling the school grounds.

The resolution also urged all white farmers and businessmen in this south Georgia county to "emphasize to the members of the colored race the detrimental effect that any attempt at integration of the races could bring to them economically or otherwise."

In the resolution, adopted unanimously yesterday, the commissioners noted that "we have no precedent to follow from any other board of commissioners in Georgia to our knowledge, but we believe we are following the wishes of our people."

A NEW GIANT IN TEXAS INSURANCE

Texas Corporation Buys Illinois Insurance Companies

On July 27, the American Atlas Corporation officially acquired 93% of the stock of the LaSalle Casualty and the LaSalle Life Insurance Companies of Chicago. The purchase of the Chicago companies further strengthens the position of the American Atlas Corporation by increasing its annual income by approximately $2,000,000 through the annual premiums of the LaSalle companies. The LaSalle companies, whose home office building is located on Michigan Avenue in Chicago, or what is currently referred to as "Million Dollar Row," is operating in 14 states. Prior to the purchase of the LaSalle companies, the American Atlas Corporation acquired affiliation with or stock in some twenty Texas insurance firms. The purpose of this financing is to allow for a more rapid growth through the acquisition of additional liquid funds, permitting further expansion through the purchase of and merger with existing and healthy insurance companies. This expansion plan will be continued until American Atlas can take its place among the foremost insurance companies of the nation.

Deep Test Started in Central Howard

Materials were being moved in this weekend at Phillips Petroleum Company's No. 1 Satterwhite well project about six miles northeast of Big Spring.

Goldston No. 1 Ooley, wildcat offset to the Luther Southeast field, reportedly was being plugged and abandoned. Other Howard County ventures were drilling ahead.

Phillips No. 1 Satterwhite was announced as an explorer Friday. It will go down to 10,000 feet for a test of the Ellenburger formation. Location is C NW NE, 12-32-1n, T&P survey. Roads have been built and operations are to start immediately.

Goldston's No. 1 Ooley reached total depth of 9,992 feet before being abandoned. A drillstem test from 5,942 to 9,992 feet, open two hours, recovered black sulphur water. Site was C SW NW, 24-32-2n, T&P survey, about a mile east of the Luther Southeast (Siluro-Devonian) field.

In the Varel field, Shell No. 1-B Gular Trust had bit turning at 2,840 feet. It is eight miles northwest of Big Spring, site being 1,993 from north and 660 from west lines, 24-A-Bauer and Cockrell survey.

Only Friday, two new completions were reported in the Varel field. B. L. McFarland finished his No. 1-22 Gular for 75,48 barrels and his No. 2-22 Gular for 78 barrels.

Eastland Oil Company's No. 3-A O'Daniel was digging below 2,540 feet in time this weekend in the Snyder field. Location is 10 miles south of Coahoma, 330 from south and 990 from west lines, 34-30-1s, T&P survey.

Greer No. 1 Sussie Snyder, venture in the same field about nine miles southeast of Coahoma, drilled to 2,681 feet Saturday. Site is 330 from north and west lines, 38-30-1s, T&P survey.

In the Howard-Glasscock field, Continental No. 3-B Settles has depth of 1,804 feet and is going deeper. Site is about four miles southwest of Forsan, being 330 from north and 2,360 from east lines, 160-29-W&NW survey.

Blue Danube No. 1 Douthitt, also in the Howard-Glasscock field, reached 2,633 feet. Site is 330 from north and west lines, southwest quarter, 116-29-W&NW survey, about 12 miles southeast of Coahoma.

Cosden Petroleum Corporation No. 1-21 Simpson, Modesta field project three miles west of Vealmoor, got down to 2,915 feet Saturday. The venture is a west offset to the discovery well in the field. Site is 467 from north and east lines, 21-33-T&P survey.

Andrews Embar Field Adds Two Deep Producers

Completions have been logged in the Block A-34 and the Embar (Devonian) fields of Andrews County. Coring operations are under way on a deep test in the Andrews field.

Trust Oil Company No. 1 W. J. Underwood and others a new Ellenburger well in the multiphase Block A-34 field of Northwest Andrews County.

It was finished for a daily flow of 113.8 barrels of 44.2-gravity oil through 20-64-inch choke and perforations from 13,270 to 13,290 feet after 10,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 431, and tubing pressure was 100 pounds.

Site is 330 feet from east and 990 feet from north lines of section 17, block A-34, pal survey, 11 miles northwest of Andrews.

Phillips Petroleum Company completed its No. 4-B Embar as the second producer in the Embar (Devonian) field of South Andrews County.

The project reported a calculated 24-hour potential of 868 barrels of 44.8 gravity oil, flowing through a one-half inch choke. Gas-oil ratio was 84-1.

The production is from three sets of perforations in the lower Devonian. They are at 9,088-9,140 feet; 9,216-9,272 feet and 9,424-9,424 feet. Those intervals had been treated with a total of 4,500 gallons of acid. Tubing pressure was 370 pounds.

The potential was based on an actual 12-hour flow of 434 barrels.

The well is located on the east side of the same concern's No. 3-B Embar, Devonian discovery in the Embar area. It is 16 miles south-west of Andrews and 660 feet from south and 1,977 feet from east lines of section 5, block 44, T-2-N, T&P survey.

MISSISSIPPIAN WILDCAT STAKED IN MITCHELL CO.

Two new wildcat prospectors have been spotted in Mitchell County. Fisher and Reeves counties drew one new try each.

Texas Crude Oil Company of Fort Worth staked its No. 1 Pitzer as a 7,200-foot Mississippian wildcat about four miles northeast of Loraine in Northeast Mitchell. Site will be 660 feet from south and west lines, 20-24-T&P survey.

The other explorer will be T. J. Sivley of Midland No. 1 Brennan, which will go down to 3,400 feet for a Clear Fork sample. It is 10 miles northwest of Westbrook, site being 330 feet from south and east lines, 4-25-1n, T&P survey.

In Fisher County, Miami Operating Company, Inc. No. 1-A J. C. Stripling will be drilled about three miles north of the Claytonville 5,200-foot Pennsylvanian field. It is eight miles southwest of Roby.

This explorer is slated for depth of 6,800 feet in the Ellenburger. Site is C SW SE, 13-E1 Paso CSL 307.

Sun Oil Company will drill the No. 2 Balmorhea Ranches as a prospector 19 miles east of Balmorhea in the southeast part of Reeves County. It will be 1,980 from north and 660 from west lines, 146-1-H&TC survey. Slated depth is 5,700 feet.

Scurry Prospector Flows Oil On Test

Trice Production Company No. 1 Birdwell, wildcat in Scurry County about a mile and a half southeast of the Diamond M (Canyon) field, has flowed oil from the Canyon sand.

The project flowed at the estimated rate of 15 to 20 barrels of oil hourly on a drillstem test from 6,700 to 6,727 feet. Top of the Canyon is 6,710 feet, and datum minus is 4,388.

The test was for 30 minutes. Gas surfaced at once and oil came to the top in 21 minutes. Mud rose in 30. Flow to the pits in nine minutes gave the estimate. The production was through a five-eighths inch choke.

When the drill pipe was pulled, oil without water was unloaded. Recovery below the circulating sub was 60 feet of oil and five feet of mud. Flowing pressure was from 525 to 900 pounds. The 15-minute shutin pressure was 2,500 pounds. Gravity of oil measured 44.5 degrees.

Operator set the 5 1/2-inch casing at bottom, here perforations will be made for completion.

Sun No. 1 Flournoy, West Scurry wildcat, is drilling below 8,645 feet in dolomite and chert of the Ellenburger. An Ellenburger test from 8,414 to 8,522 had recovery of 35 feet of very slightly gas-cut drilling mud. Location is C NE NE, 328-97-H&TC survey. It is a mile and a half northwest of Sun No. 1-D Shannon, recent Arch (Ellenburger) field discovery.

Sun Oil Company has spotted its No. 1 Hugh Taylor as a location in the Arch (Ellenburger) field about 11 miles northwest of Snyder. It is one location southwest of the field discovery. Site is 467 from north and east lines, 303-97-H&TC survey.

Flemming Holds Key To Import Controls

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—With Congress in adjournment, the oil industry turned its watch on Washington to possible action by the administration to reduce the flow of oil imports.

Twenty-seven senators — 14 Republicans and 13 Democrats — joined in a letter this week to Defense Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming asking if he plans any action, under authority of a new amendment to the Trade Agreements Act, to limit imports.

The amendment authorizes the President to take such action as he deems necessary to adjust imports of any commodity if such imports endanger the national security. Flemming presumably would initiate any recommendation for such action.

The letter said, "It is not an overstatement to point out that importation of foreign oil at the rates which have prevailed during the first half of 1955 constitute a threat to our security."

For the first six months of 1955, it said, the ratio of petroleum imports to domestic production was "substantially above that of 1954, the level recommended by the President's cabinet committee on energy supplies and resources policy."

Flemming served as chairman of that committee.

"As senators interested in national security and expanding production of domestic natural resources, we have observed with growing concern the increasing rates of imports of petroleum from foreign sources with relation to domestic production," the letter continued.

Among those signing the letter were Sen. Daniel of Texas, Sen. Chavez and Anderson of New Mexico, Sen. Kerr of Oklahoma, Sen. Long of Louisiana.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan.) in a separate letter, urged Flemming to make every effort to obtain full cooperation from importing companies so that "we may not be required to write restrictive legislation in the next session of Congress on oil imports."

Independents Seek Best Way Under Gas Law

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—Texas oil and gas independents will meet in Corpus Christi next Friday to study how they can operate best under Federal Power Commission utility controls.

A. P. King Jr., president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn., said the study is necessary because of congressional failure to pass a bill exempting independent gas producers from FPC regulations. The House passed such a measure, but the Senate did not act.

King said TIPRO's executive committee will have a luncheon and afternoon business session Friday, preceding a directors' dinner that night.

He said the committee will consider recommendations that the association petition the FPC for immediate action to abolish pipeline company discrimination in prices paid smaller producers and royalty owners.

"We will also map our campaign to show consumers why federal regulations of independent gas producers is not the answer to their price problems, but instead will add to the cost of gas at the consumption level," King said.

"It may be we will want to press for an interim study by the House Commerce Committee and perhaps the FPC of the reason New York City consumers pay $2.43 per 1,000 cubic feet for gas which pipeline companies pay Texas producers only 8 cents."

Completions Are Lagging

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—Completion of wildcat oil wells continued to lag in Texas this week.

Of 226 new oil wells, only 3 resulted from wildcatting efforts, the Railroad Commission said in its weekly drilling report.

The year's total of oil well completions reached 8,910, compared with 7,223 a year ago.

Operators brought in 20 new gas wells. The total of 652 for the year compared with 759 at this date last year.

Plugs went in 174 dry holes, three gas wells and 33 oil wells. There were five wildcat gas wells and 85 wildcat dry holes.

The average calendar day crude oil allowable dropped to 2,936,045 barrels as of today, 117,923 barrels per day below the week-ago figure as the August allowable went into effect.

Grayburg Discovery Finals In Central Lea County, NM

Cactus Drilling Company No. 1-X Western State has been completed as a Grayburg discovery in Central Lea County, New Mexico, and preparations are being made to complete Warren Petroleum Corporation's No. 1 J. E. Simmons-Federal as a Devonian discovery.

Operator of the No. 1-X Western State reported a 24-hour flowing potential of 133 barrels of 34-gravity oil, from pay between 4,571 and 4,581 feet. Site is C SE NE, 4-17-33e, 17 miles northwest of Pearl. Warren No. 1, Simmons-Federal was having casing set prior to making producing tests.

Salt water was found in zone from 11,656-681 feet, but previous production was 100 barrels of oil in four hours from 11,600 to 11,656.

During the first hour of flowing to tanks the section made 19 barrels of oil and in the next 50 minutes it flowed 11 barrels. An additional 70 barrels of oil was reversed out of the drill pipe after the tester was closed.

The section at 11,656-681 feet was tested for four hours. Recovery was 8,000 feet of salt water and the 2,000-foot water blanket. There was less than one half of one barrel of oil in the recovered fluid.

This strike is 25 miles northeast of Tatum, eight miles east of the nearest Devonian production in the multiphase Crossroads field and 1,890 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 7-9e-38e.

Top of the Devonian is at 11,601 feet, which is 7,614 feet below sea level.

Kent Venture To Hunt Reef

Location of a new Kent County wildcat was announced this week-end shortly after the logging of an Atkins sand discovery.

The new explorer will be General Crude No. 164-1 D. R. Coleman, which is slated for a test of the Pennsylvanian formation about nine miles northwest of Clairmont. It is 660 feet from north and west lines, southeast quarter, 164-G-W&NW survey.

The discovery is Stanolind Oil and Gas Company No. 1 Monterey Gravel, about 19 miles northwest of Clairmont and a half mile north of the EMS (Canyon) field.

The strike finished for a daily pumping potential of 118 barrels of oil, no water, through perforations from 6,122 to 6,170 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 3,420 feet from west lines of section 1, block B, PSL survey.

Sooner Completions Drop During Week

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A survey by research oil reports shows that oil well completions in Oklahoma this week decreased 18 from the 197 total posted for the previous period.

Oilers decreased from 124 to 109 but dry holes increased six over the previous week to 59. The survey showed eight gassers, compared to 13 and three service wells, a decrease of four. Locations numbered 133, a decrease of 41.

AMENDMENTS CAN CRIPPLE Lines Drawn By Producers And Consumers On Gas Control Bill

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Past history would indicate opponents of the controversial natural gas bill now before Congress are hoping Senate amendments will force another vote in the House.

A second House vote nearly killed a similar bill that President Truman vetoed in 1950.

The vetoed Kerr Bill received initial House approval, 183-131, but edged through by only two votes when a Senate amendment brought it back for final passage eight months later.

Last week the 1955 version of the bill squeezed through the House, 169-200. A similar bill has been approved by the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee but Congress recessed this week without floor action.

Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex.) predicted, however, final passage and approval by President Eisenhower will be accomplished by Feb. 15. He also predicted at least 50 senators will vote for the bill.

The House approved the Kerr Bill, like the old Kerr Bill, would exempt from federal control natural gas producers and gatherers who sell gas wholesale to interstate transmission companies.

The bill is the industry's answer to last year's Supreme Court decision which held that the Federal Power Commission has authority to regulate gas prices in the field.

Industry sources say many producers with large uncommitted gas reserves are refusing to sign sales contracts until the question of federal control is settled.

As was the case with the 1949-50 fight over the Kerr Bill, the Harris Bill has been tagged as a fight between consumer and producer areas.

The sharp decline in House support for the Kerr Bill was attributed to vigorous opposition from consumer area spokesmen just before final passage.

The Kerr Bill passed the Senate, 44-28, on March 29, 1950. An amendment that would have required the Federal Power Commission to keep Congress advised on gas prices in the field sent the bill back to the House.

No attempt to override was made after President Truman's veto.

Last week's 200-200 House vote included several surprises.

Supporters of the Harris Bill, backed by a block of votes from producer states, held their own pretty well in all consumer areas except the Middle Atlantic states. Southern states with no gas production split their votes, 34-34.

Five states—Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma—holding about 190 trillion of the nation's 211 trillion cubic feet of gas reserves supported the bill, 45-0.

Representatives from seven other major gas states voted 29-19 for approval. However, Kentucky's seven votes and four of the six from West Virginia were against the bill. Both are major coal producing states.

The total vote from the 12 major

Atomic Device May Lead To New And More Potent Fuel

PHILADELPHIA — The Atlantic Refining Co. has unveiled a petroleum processing device which the company hopes will pave the way to production of more powerful fuels, including those needed for space rocket experiments.

Put on display yesterday the instrument, the Atomic Particle Accelerator, acts as an electron gun which hurries atomic particles through magnetic coils at speeds up to 600 million miles an hour as they are shot into petroleum hydrocarbons.

H. W. Field, vice president for research and development said "with atomic energy we hope to neatly snip gasoline molecules into the exact pieces we want without wasted fragments."

DEVONIAN COMING UP

South Texas Well Makes Good Flow

HOUSTON (AP)—The No. 1 Cliff Tevis wildcat well has produced a flow of 30 gravity oil at the rate of 198 barrels on a 15-hour test. The Texas Co. announced yesterday.

The announcement said the production was from perforations in the Yegua Sand Zone at 8,570-8,593 and 8,603-8,610 feet. The well, located on the east flank of the South Liberty Dome in Liberty County, has a total depth of 9,500 feet.

Judge Promoted

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—County Judge Paul McCollum of Odessa yesterday was appointed judge of the 70th Judicial District by Gov. Allan Shivers, effective Sept. 1. He succeeds Judge William Deaderick, who resigned.

Sterling Pair Cements Pipe

One venture in the Parochial Bade field of Sterling County was drilling ahead this weekend while two others were waiting on cement after setting casing.

Cosden Petroleum Corporation's No. 4-23 Foster is the project making hole. It had reached 2,015 feet Saturday afternoon.

Site of the Cosden try is 1,660 from west lines, 23-22-H&TC survey, some 10 miles southwest of Sterling City. It will be drilled by rotary to 2,400 feet.

Another Cosden venture, the No. 5-23 Foster, was waiting on cement for 8 1/2-inch casing set at 353 feet. Total depth is 357 feet, and 175 sacks of cement were used. Site is 1,000 feet from south and 3,040 from west lines, 23-22-H&TC survey.

Boykin Brothers and Roche No. 7 Bade is the other project waiting for cement to dry. The 10 1/2-inch casing was set at 235 feet. Operator will drill plug and go on to the Queen formation with rotary.

Site of the No. 7 Bade is 330 feet from south and 2,331 from west lines, 23-22-H&TC survey. It is on a 200-acre lease about 10 miles west of Sterling City. Elevation is 2,529 feet, and projected drilling depth is 1,500 feet.

National Drilling Is Off Slightly

DALLAS, Aug. 6 (AP)—A total of 2,899 rigs were active in oilfields of the United States and Canada for the week of Aug. 1, 1955, according to a report to American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors by Hughes Tool Company.

This compares with 2,910 reported a week ago, 2,937 a month ago, and with 2,618 in the comparable week of 1954. A comparison by principal areas for the past two weeks includes West Texas-New Mexico 520 on Aug. 1, an increase of five for the week.

Dividend Declared

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of the Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) today declared a dividend of $1.25 a share on the capital stock, payable Sept. 10 to stock of record Aug. 15. Jersey Standard paid dividends of $1.25 each in the two preceding quarters.

Last year $1 was paid in the first quarter, $1.15 each in the second and third periods and a final dividend of $1.25 in December.

EMORY RAINEY

OF THE COSDEN FAMILY...

This is the eighth in a new series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

Yardman, pipefitter, gauger, pumper and treater—this is the profession of Emory Rainey with Cosden Petroleum Corporation since he joined its employ on Feb. 16, 1940. He likes his present situation as a treater first class on the unisol unit the best of any he has had.

Rainey is a native of Henderson County. When he was a small lad, his family moved to Louisiana and subsequently came to Howard County in 1923. They settled near Coahoma on a farm, and Rainey helped his father, M. A. Rainey, with the operation. He attended school in Louisiana and finished at R-Bar School northwest of Coahoma. He worked for four years on the Read ranch before moving to Big Spring in 1933 to work for J. J. Stephens in a service station. Various other jobs followed but in 1940 he entered Cosden employ as a yardman under Jack Banks. Later he transferred to the pumphouse as a helper, became a stockgauger and pumper. Then he was shifted to the treating department as a helper and more recently became a treater first class in the unit where mecaptans are extracted to sweeten the product.

On Dec. 22, 1928, he was married to Lily Hollis and they have two sons, Gorman Rainey, 25, and Ross Rainey, 16. As great a delight are two grandchildren.

Rainey is a deacon in the East Fourth Street Baptist Church and has long been a leader in the choir work there. He was, until shift work prevented taking a regular situation, for many years teacher of a class of small boys in Sunday School.

For pastime, he likes hunting and fishing—especially fishing. Whenever he has a chance, he takes off for Lake Colorado City, and if there is enough time he heads for Bend on the Colorado near San Saba. When it comes to baseball, football or sports in general, Rainey qualifies as a red-hot fan.

An outstanding opportunity for a real producer! We are currently running twenty-one ads of two full pages in the principal cities of Texas announcing the purchase of two insurance firms in Illinois, together with generous publicity. We believe this is the largest advertising and publicity campaign of its kind ever held in Texas. Our firm is probably the most talked of and highly publicized in the state. We have added millions to our yearly income and are in process of acquiring other assets that will further enhance our position. On or about the middle of this month there will be another stock split. If you think you have what it takes and you like to make BIG money, write, wire or call

THE SAME OLD LINE

By Bob Smith

Texas hunting and fishing licenses for the year starting Sept. 1 will be distributed to some 1,700 license deputies by the last week of this month.

Chief license clerk E. W. Kinney of the Texas Game and Fish Commission said about 410,000 fishing licenses and 380,000 hunting licenses were sold last year.

Individual resident fishing licenses cost $1.65 and hunting licenses $2.15.

A pilot crash-landed his aircraft on a small private lake northeast of Cincinnati. What amazed him most was the way fishermen on the lake shore kept right on casting and reeling as if airplanes plummeted into the lake every hour.

Accurate statistical data on Texas hunters and fishermen—what they harvest, where and the cost—is about to be obtained by the Game and Fish Commission.

It is contemplating a contract with a national surveying concern to make a statewide study similar to ones conducted elsewhere which have proved to be within 10 per cent of perfection.

The information is needed, according to Howard Dodgen, executive secretary of the commission, to augment wildlife restoration techniques and to determine the cost factor to the person who fishes and hunts.

"This proposed survey," he added, "is a part of the modern game management pattern which eliminates as much of the guesswork as possible and which necessarily is hinged on accurate information. Handling our natural resources has become a definite science, and that means deemphasizing conjecture as a matter of sound policy."

L. Dodgen said the poll would show definitely what section of the state produces the most wildlife and what section provides the greatest number of hunters.

"We have a general idea about this," he explained, "but modern techniques call for more accurate details. We want to know where the hunting pressure comes from and where it occurs.

"It is desirable also to be better informed about the economy of the sport of hunting and fishing. Therefore, we need to know what percentage of the sportsman's dollar is spent in the county where he lives and what percentage is spent in the county where he fishes and hunts. The outcome of this survey thus will enable us to better manage our wildlife resources."

Insurance Firm Buying Others, To Split Stock

Announcement of a new acquisition to further strengthen the American Atlas Life Insurance Company of Dallas has been made in Dallas by Joe A. Irwin, president.

He said that American Atlas Corporation, which owns all of the insurance company, has purchased 93 per cent of the stock of the LaSalle Casualty and the LaSalle Life Insurance Companies of Chicago, and the transaction will increase the income of American Atlas by $2,000,000 annually. As a result of the purchase, Irwin announced, American Atlas directors have authorized a stock split to take place this month. It will double the number of shares held by each stockholder.

Irwin said also he expects to announce mergers or the purchase of two additional Texas insurance companies within a short time. American Atlas has completed mergers with, or bought into, six other insurance companies.

Through affiliated companies, American Atlas is operating in 15 states. In Texas alone, it has about 150 employees in over 50 cities. The company, just two years old, has over $6,500,000 in insurance on its books, and is writing policies, Irwin said, at the rate of $1,000,000 monthly.

The company was started Aug. 13, 1953, and its two years of outstanding growth will be celebrated with an open house at the Dallas offices on Aug. 13-14. American Atlas has purchased and remodeled a structure at Elm Street and Good-Latimer Expressway in Dallas as a home office.

Scout Executive

Joe T. Bohannon has assumed his duties as executive for the Lone Buffalo District (Scurry, Mitchell, Borden Counties) of the Buffalo Trail Council, according to P. V. Thorson, council executive. Bohannon has been in the Cootaw council at McAlester, Okla., for the past five years and before that was in the Last Frontier council in Oklahoma City. He and Mrs. Bohannon have a 14-year-old son. He is a rotarian, active member of the Jaycees and a deacon in the Baptist Church.

Local Children In Dallas Hospital

Brenda Sztar, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sztar; and Delia Rubio, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Rubio, both of Big Spring have been admitted to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in Dallas. The Scottish Rite Hospital has accepted almost 100,000 children for treatment since 1925. An expert staff, plus unique physical facilities and dedication to the welfare of the child, make it an outstanding treatment center which serves the entire state. It is supported by public contributions and bequests.

Credit Firm Opens Offices In City

New firm in Big Spring to handle credit investigative, rating and reporting work is the Central Bureau of Investigation. The office here, being opened in the Elmo Wasson building, is under direction of Robert Mask.

Mask, just recently out of military service, comes here from Sweetwater. He and his wife and month old son are looking for a place to live.

Central Bureau of Investigation has headquarters in Oklahoma City. It recently has opened offices in several West Texas points.

Hospital Patients Guests At Rodeo

Approximately 60 patients from the local Veterans Administration Hospital were treated to a night at the rodeo Thursday night.

The patients attended through the courtesy of the Big Spring Rodeo Association. Jaycees gave everyone programs and the American Business Club donated pillows.

A Midland American Legion bus was used to transport the patients to the rodeo and several VA Hospital attendants went and carried some patients to their cars.

Schiaparelli HATS

SWISH-SWOOSH—goes the air around this teeter-totter as Becky Kirklen and Wayne York, above, really get going. From the effort they expend in starting, it would seem to be more work than entertainment, but maybe it depends upon which side of the age ledger your name is on. They are the two-year-olds of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Kirklen, 1302 Barnes, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. York, 1512 Sunset.

A WOMAN'S MIND—must be made up even when it comes to the important decision of whether or not to turn loose and go down the slide. Waiting patiently, (more or less), on Cecilia Cooper (above) to decide are Rusty Shannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Shannon, left, and Johnny Board, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Board. Cecilia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper.

Play Time

A QUIET(?) TIME—can be spent with a few crayons and a color book until there is a disagreement about who is to use what color at a certain time. Joyce Walker, center, above, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Walker, and Douglass Burnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Z. Burnett, right, don't appear too impressed by the fine points of painting as explained by Kenneth Hogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hogg Jr.

A LADYLIKE PASTIME—for a hot summer afternoon is a tea party with a friend or two. But who wants to be ladylike when there are so many more things to do! Two-year-old Vicki Sue Hammond, at left, in photo above, Nikki Thomas, five, center, and Judy Harms, two years old, pause for a bit of refreshment, but don't let that calm atmosphere fool you! They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Watson Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. James Harms.

AN ALMOST LOST ART—mudpie-making, is enjoyed by Nancy Mathis at right as a summer pastime. Plenty of sand is available, and, with a bit of water, the most fascinating "play-like" cakes and pies can be turned out! Nancy, five years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Mathis, 103 Mt. Vernon. (Photos by Keith McMillin)

Contacting New Friends

AIC William R. Jones is ready to call some of the Big Springers they have met since they have been here as Mrs. Jones looks up the numbers in the phone directory. They reside at 203 E. 8th.

Kentucky Natives Are New Big Springers

The newcomers for this week are a young couple from Kentucky originally, but who have traveled around quite a bit. A.I.C. and Mrs. William R. Jones, who moved here July 10, live at 203 E. 8th. He is stationed at Webb Air Force Base. A.I.C. Jones has just returned from a 31 months visit to Germany which was sponsored by Uncle Sam. While there, Jones was with the GCA Maintenance in the operation of radar. During his time off, he toured Holland, Switzerland, Belgium, Denmark and Austria, but was unable to bring many souvenirs back, just lots of visual memories. Mrs. Jones came here from Dayton, Ohio, where she was living with relatives and working. When Jones went overseas, they were engaged and they repeated the vows

LAMESA WOMAN GIVES COFFEE FOR NEWCOMERS

LAMESA — Mrs. A. G. Barnard is trying something new for newcomers. Friday morning she was host for the first of a series of coffee which will honor new residents of Lamesa. Honorees for the first affair were Mrs. J. D. Spires, formerly of Odessa, Mr. Joe Law and Mrs. B. J. Smith, formerly of Seminole, and Mrs. John Christensen, formerly of Edinburg. Approximately 50 guests called to welcome the newcomers to their new home.

Alabama Visitors Expected In Forsan

FORSAN — Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Dunn and Betty of Gadsden, Ala., are expected here next week for a visit in the home of her sister, Mrs. John Kubecka, and Mr. Kubecka, with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dunn, and with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Moore. Margulita Willis is visiting in Corpus Christi. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chanslor of Amarillo have been visiting friends here. They are former residents of Forsan.

Four Local Rebekahs Attend Knott Meeting

KNOTT — Visitors Thursday night to assist in the installation of officers of the Knott Rebekah Lodge were Mrs. J. E. Pond, Mrs. Albert Gilliland, Edegelee Patterson and Mrs. Gordon Gross of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge 284. Recent guests in the W. A. Jackson home were Mr. and Mrs. Reed Clanton and Mrs. Chris of Corpus Christi. Mrs. Gene Haston underwent minor surgery in a Big Spring hospital Friday. Gerald Wilborn is reported to be recovering satisfactorily in a Big Spring hospital following knee surgery. He was injured in a fall while at work.

when he came home on a 30-day furlough 10 months ago on Feb. 2, 1954. When asked about their interests and hobbies, the Joneses could not pin down any certain thing. "The Air Force keeps me pretty busy," explained Airman Jones. Jones will receive his discharge in 72 more days; he has it down to the very number. From there he is not sure. "I may reenlist," he said, "just don't know for sure yet."

Ex-Resident Is Wed To Mr. Cornick

Announcement has been received her of the wedding of a former resident, Joan Snowden, and Harold James Cornick of Hollywood, Calif., on July 30, in Del Rio. Mrs. Cornick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Snowden, who now live in Del Rio, and is the niece of Mrs. John W. Ray, Mrs. P. O. Van Pelt and Mrs. I. G. Hudson, all of Big Spring. Vows were exchanged in the home of the Methodist minister, the Rev. Paul A. Weiss, with the bride's father giving her in marriage. She was attired in a gown of white net over satin and carried white carnations. Her Juliet cap was sequin-trimmed. Dorece Laender of O'Donnell was maid of honor, and her dress was of turquoise taffeta. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Ethel Ruth Snowden, sister of the bride, was her junior bridesmaid. She was dressed in white pique with net trim, and her flowers were pink rosebuds. Mrs. Snowden served as best man; Bobby Kats of Alpine was groomsmen. Following a reception, held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Patterson, the couple left for Alpine, where they are attending Sul Ross. Both will receive their degrees at the end of this month and will teach in the Fort Davis school. Mrs. Snowden attended Howard County Junior College in 1950 and was employed by Anthony's.

Jim Shoultses Feted With Bridal Shower

FORSAN — Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Shoultses were honored with a wedding shower Thursday night in the music room of the school house. Hostesses were Mrs. C. D. Fowler, Mrs. R. A. Fullen, Mrs. C. L. Draper, Mrs. E. E. Blankenship, J. R. Pike, Mrs. Jeff Pike, Mrs. Loyd Hayhurst, Mrs. Harold Pitcock, Mrs. L. B. McElrath, Mrs. John Anderson, and Mrs. Jim Craig. The bride was presented with a white corsage by the hostesses. The centerpiece on the refreshment table was a miniature bride and groom placed under an arch of greenery and flowers on a white satin platform. Patsy Shoultses registered about 15 guests.

Interior Decorating Is New Summer Trend

By JOYCE CONNAWAY
During these summer months, when it is logical that people would be thinking about outdoor living and vacations, much to the contrary, they are redecorating their homes. This has been the trend for June and July that the local decorators have discovered through the steady sale of drapery materials, carpeting and paint. Seems like this summer many have the urge to change the face of a certain room or an entire house.

will be playing "leaping leas" from one room to the other. Before you begin redecorating, consider many things that will help you in your household adventure. First, know your own way of living. Study the situation of whether you live alone or with a family, because furniture and space will be different. If your home is temporary, you will want to get along with a minimum of furnishings and inexpensive draperies. Take inventory of your favorite activities and try to provide well-arranged space, proper equipment and lighting for them, whether it be viewing television, listening to records, reading, sewing, studying, carpentry or painting. Let your own taste be your guide for decorating your home. You can develop a feeling for good design, balance and proportion by studying pictures of furnished rooms in magazines, books and newspapers. Take time to solve individual room problems. If a room seems too long, place corner cupboards or bookshelves at either end of the room. Place a sofa with one end to the side wall and divide the room into two groupings of furniture. See the difference it makes! For that cramped-looking room, where you think you are a sardine instead of a surviving human being, create a feeling of spaciousness by using a wallpaper with perspective or depth in design on one of the outside walls. Then paint the other three in a solid, harmonizing color taken from the wallpaper design. A mirror reflecting an attractive side of the room or the view from the window can make the room seem larger. Do you live in the family estate and the ceilings are rising to the sky? Paint the ceiling and walls the same color or use a dark or contrasting color for the ceiling and paint down about twelve inches onto the side walls. Add a molding, and you forget that you need a giant on a stepladder to touch the ceiling. On the other hand, do you feel like ducking when you enter the room because the ceilings are too low. Try hanging draperies as high as possible and extend them to the floor. If your windows are high and narrow, hang the curtains partly outside the frames. Treat a group of windows as one with a valance or cornice, which can do a wonderful camouflage job. Remember, you can make a little money go a long way if you put time and personal effort into planning, painting, refinishing, and experimenting with arrangements.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Frances Walker

Dear Jayhawkers,
It seems the travel bug has been biting a lot of Jayhawkers lately. I received a card from Lela Fletcher this week. She's on vacation and reports that she had lunch with Myrna Sprout while in Anthony, Kan.
Barbara Abbott left last Tuesday to spend a week in Graham. Last weekend Mr. and Mrs. Orland Johnson and Lt. and Mrs. Bill Walker journeyed to Dallas to see the musical production of "Carousel."
Bob Patterson spent last weekend visiting Jimmie Castleberry in Meadow.
Mary Forehand and Sue Neal of Levelland returned to Big Spring for a brief visit Saturday and Sunday.
Dr. and Mrs. Hunt left Friday evening for a week vacation in Colorado. Frank's job prevented him from making the trip with them.
Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vail who were married yesterday evening. Mrs. Vail is the former Angie Carnahan of Irving. She will join her husband on the teaching staff at HCJC this fall. Both will be in the Business Department.
Other new instructors who will be at HCJC in September are Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Box and Mr. Leslie Lewis. Mr. and Mrs. Box taught here several years ago, and we're pleased to have them back with us. He will teach Industrial Education while she will be in the Business Department. Mr. Lewis will be a Math instructor.
With the exception of Miss Mildred Willig, all of the 1954-5 faculty members will return for the fall semester.

Best wishes to Nancy Milford and Delbert Davidson who are now engaged. No date for the wedding has been set but it will probably take place in the early part of next year.
The Community Choir met for the last summer session Thursday evening. An executive committee was selected to make plans for the fall meetings.
Mike Potts and Tom Pasquale will soon leave for Wilmette, Ill., where on Aug. 20, Mike will marry Bobbie Aherm. Tom is to serve as best man.
Mr. W. R. Thompson, who was formerly with the English Department of HCJC, had an article published in the June issue of "Modern Language Notes." It was titled "Aminadab in Hawthorne's 'The Birthmark'." Mr. Thompson is now working toward his Doctorate Degree at Texas Tech.
A number of tired Jayhawkers rejoiced at the end of summer school yesterday, while still others were looking forward to the opening of the fall term.
One of the latter is Neldon Miltstead, last year's senior favorite at Klondike, who will soon enter HCJC as a freshman. Neldon is 5' 10" and has brown hair and blue eyes. His major interests are agriculture and music.
I'd like to remind all you girls that the Lass-O slumber party is just around the corner. Be making plans to attend and also let us have the names and addresses of

Mrs. Smith Honored With Pastel Shower

KNOTT — Mrs. Leonard Earl Smith was honored with a pink and blue shower Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Johnny Shortes.
Cohostesses were Mrs. Gene Long, Mrs. W. A. Burchell Jr., Mrs. J. E. Feugh, Mrs. Larry Shaw, Mrs. Gene Haston, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. T. M. Robinson, Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins and Mrs. J. C. Spalding.
Refreshments of cake and punch were served to 25 guests.

any future, past, or present Lass-o's that you think might be interested in attending.
See you next week.

Miss Carnahan Is Wed To Mr. Vail Saturday

The First Christian Church in Irving was the scene of the marriage of Angie Carnahan and Harold Vail Saturday at 6 p.m.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carnahan, of Irving, and Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Vail, Alvarado.

Blue and white flowers and greenery decorated the altar. Leonard Manser, pastor of the church, performed the informal double ring ceremony.

Mary Frances Jalufka of Robstown, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Y. J. Sharp of Irving, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "You'll Never Walk Alone."
The bride wore a white nylon full box pleated skirt and high neck with a mandarin collar. She carried white rosebuds on a white Bible.

Sister of the bride, Sue Jo Carnahan, was maid of honor. Gerald Brenholtz of Big Spring was best man and Marshall Box, also of Big Spring, was an usher.

At the reception, held in the First Christian Church, the decorations were blue and white flowers. Refreshments of wedding cake and fruit punch were served by Pat Darden, and Virginia Brenholtz, Mrs. Dean Box was at the guest register.

For a traveling costume, the bride chose a brown and white cotton suit with white accessories and white corsage.

The bride received her bachelor and masters degrees in business education at North Texas State College and will teach at Howard County Junior College this fall. Mr. Vail, who has the same two degrees from North Texas State College also, is head of the business department at Howard County Junior College.

The couple will make their home at 1506 Sunset Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. James Monros (Bobo) Hardy and Heather have returned to Big Spring from Ocean-side, Calif., where he was stationed with the Marines. Hardy, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Hardy, will be connected with the YMCA.

Versatile Fish Fancier

Charles Neefe not only is a successful breeder of tropical fish, but he is quite adept at making an aquarium in which to keep them. Here, he surveys the "community tank" he made and in which, he has guppies, black mollies, swordtail fish, an angel fish, zebrafish and a neon fish. The latter is well-named, since due to reflected light from the prismatic cut of its fins, there is a glowing streak in the body much like a neon light.

Need A Baby Sitter? Pop Betta Qualifies

By ANNE LEFEVER

If you were a fish and needed a baby-sitter, you couldn't do better than to get a betta, and I didn't intend that for a fun!

According to Charles Neefe, 1404 Sycamore, who is quite successful in raising bettas, the male takes charge of the young even in the egg stage, and will fight the mother away.

At the beginning of the breeding season, the male blows a nest of tiny bubbles into which he places an egg, which rests on the bottom of the tank or aquarium. The nest, usually about four inches in diameter, floats to the surface of the water and Papa Betta patrols it to see that no harm comes to the eggs.

As often happens, a bubble sometimes bursts and the egg again sinks to the bottom of the tank. Immediately, daddy goes after it and replaces it in the "nest." Should an egg remain too long on the floor, the egg will die, and then it becomes food for the male. In some ways, he can tell when the eggs are not in the best condition to turn out good specimens.

After the young fish are hatched, they are lined up on a leaf, with Pop still doing the work, and are kept there for about three days. During this time, like all youngsters, the babies try to get out on their own; they can't control their swimming at this time, though, and if left alone, will sink to the tank bottom. There, they will die for lack of oxygen, unless the male betta restores them to the nest.

He works like crazy keeping all the children safe at this time, neither eating nor sleeping, and a light must be kept burning constantly so that he can see them. One of the funniest things, to me, is that Papa can count! The minute one of the eggs is missing, he knows it, and he knows exactly how many babies should be lined up on that leaf! If one is missing, he hunts until he finds it and then replaces it.

At the end of three days, the baby bettas should be strong enough to get out and swim well enough to take care of themselves. The male tries them out, and if any can't swim and get away from him, he eats them. He realizes that they are not strong enough to carry on the family name, I suppose. It is rather unusual for bettas to breed in small tanks, Mr. Neefe said, because conditions must be just right. The temperature of the water should be kept at about 85 degrees; it must have the right amount of hardness, and the acid-alkaline content must be suitable.

The female betta lays from four to 12 eggs each time until she has laid about 200. Of this amount approximately 100 will hatch, and from this, perhaps 25 will live. They spawn about every 45 weeks, and a fish will live around 18 months or two years.

Another reason for the rarity in breeding is that quite a bit of space is necessary for keeping the fish separated. Although Mr. Neefe has successfully kept his fish in two and five gallon tanks, it ordinarily requires a 10 or 20 gallon container.

When the young are born, they are so tiny and light in color that they can hardly be seen. When full grown, the fish is about two inches long, with a tall and fins longer than the body. Their favorite foods are meat and fish, and the bettas at the Neefe house usually dine on guppies raised especially for them.

Siam is the original home of bettas, which are available in brilliant hues of red, green and blue, with contrasting markings. Here, in the wild state they are brown and have small fins. They are bred in that country for fighters, as they are naturally fierce and warlike. The Siamese use them for betting, very much as we in the country bet on horse racing.

Two male fish will be put into a tank and will be allowed to fight until one tires and gives up. They never fight to the death, because one finally runs away—or, should it be, swim away. The fish really seem to enjoy the fight themselves, it is said.

The males are the trouble-makers; the females are very peaceful and calm. The latter can be kept with several together in an aquarium with no trouble, but the males will not only fight each other, but also the females. Oddly enough, they will mix with other fish all right with no fighting.

Lamesa Girl To Wed Friday Morning

LAMESA—Mr. and Mrs. Lex Woodul are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Lixeen, to John Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Weaver, Lamesa.

Vows will be exchanged Friday morning at the First Baptist Church. Miss Woodul is a May graduate of Lamesa High School where she was secretary of the student council. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of the school here and a junior petroleum engineering student at Texas Tech. Following the marriage, the two will be at home at Lubbock where they will pursue studies at Texas Tech.

Miss Texas Is Guest At Big Spring Rodeo

"Miss Texas" was a guest at the Big Spring rodeo Friday night, and was no stranger to the goings-on. In fact, June Prichard, the Baylor County girl who won the title a week ago that sends her to Atlantic City in September to compete in the Miss America contest, is a real cowgirl. In the talent division of the Miss America pageant, June will show color films to demonstrate her ability as a rodeo artist. She demonstrated her skill as a rider in the quadrille (square dancing on

ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

MR. AND MRS. TOM ROSSON and MAXINE left early Friday for FALLSMOUTH, MASS. where they will visit with their daughter, MRS. ANDY ARCAND, CAPT. ARCAND and their children. Since the Arcands left Houston they have been stationed in Buffalo, N. Y. and have been at the Massachusetts base for several months. Before returning here the Rossons plan to visit with Capt. Arcand's parents in Middletown, Conn.

Also visiting in this section of the country will be MRS. LENA BRENNER who at present is with her daughter, MRS. W. H. CURRY, and her family in MILLEDGEVILLE, GA. Before she returns here Mrs. Brenner plans to go to MONTROSE, N. Y. where she will be the guest of her friends, MR. AND MRS. HARRY FRANKS who are former residents of Big Spring. Mrs. Brenner will also visit with relatives in New York City and Danbury, Conn.

MRS. O. E. HEADLON and her children have returned to their home in Fort Worth after visiting with friends and relatives here. The RAY MCMAHANS took them back to their home and plan to have a short visit there. Back from a week's stay in LAS VEGAS, NEV., are MR. AND MRS. PAT BLALACK.

LEO BROOKS is spending a week in ARLINGTON with his cousin and her family and next week will accompany them to CARLSBAD, N.M., where they will go through the caverns and also make a trip into the mountains.

MRS. JOE BLUHM who now makes her home in LUBBOCK is planning to go to ANCHORAGE, ALASKA, where she will visit with her son and his family, MR. AND MRS. BOB BLUHM.

MRS. ROSS BARTLETT and sons, TOMMY and BUB, are in DALLAS to spend some time with her parents.

MRS. MYRTLE LEE had an interesting vacation trip to what she calls the same old stomping grounds, NEW ORLEANS, LA., and GULFPORT, MISS. In Gulfport she was the guest of her sister, MRS. JAMES CROSLAND and Mr. Crosland. Mrs. Lee visited with a portrait painter in New Orleans on Pirates' Alley and also the House of Artists in Biloxi, Miss. She took a boat trip to Ship Island and saw the Ship Island Light House and old Fort Massachusetts where Mr. Crosland's grandfather was held prisoner during the Civil War.

MRS. AUDA STAMFORD has returned from her vacation trip to PUEBLO, COLO. where she joined her two brothers for a fishing trip.

MR. AND MRS. GILBERT GIBBS and their two children have returned from RED RIVER, N. M. where they spent two weeks. Former residents, BETTY AND CHUCK HIX and ALLAN were also vacationing there and caught so many tasty trout they sent back by the Gibbises to her mother, MRS. JOE FLOCK, and MR. FLOCK.

MRS. L. M. OERLINE and children of AMARILLO have recently returned to their home after visiting here with her parents, MR. AND MRS. D. C. DUNCAN.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES SWEENEY and their four children plan to leave tomorrow looking for a cool spot somewhere in NEW MEXICO. Expected home today after spending a week in RUIDOSO N.M. with MRS. ROBERT STRIPPLING are MRS. ROY REEDER, MRS. CLYD ANGEL. Their husbands drove up for the weekend.

The two children of MR. AND MRS. ORBIN DAILEY have been doing some "swap-visiting" with their relatives in FORT WORTH, WICHITA FALLS AND IRVING. BARBARA has recently visited with her aunt, MRS. W. M. RICHARDSON, in Wichita Falls while BOB was in Fort Worth with his grandparents, MR. AND MRS. B. E. EASTON. When Barbara came to Fort Worth, Bob went to Irving to stay with Mrs. Dailey's sister, and her family, MR. AND MRS. EARL DAVIS. MRS. HASTON plans to accompany the children here this weekend for a visit.

The FELTON JOHNSONS have entertained a number of relatives this week including MR. AND MRS. ELMO BURCH OF DALLAS and their son and his family, MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR BURCH and their sons, LEE AND BRYAN OF TYLER. MR. AND MRS. STEVE WOOD AND STEPHEN OF FORT WORTH have also been their guests. With them now is their daughter, MRS. M. E. HOERNER and JOEL who live in SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

Well pleased but worn out from a three weeks automobile trip through the Northwest is the CURTIS DRIVER FAMILY. The elder son, CHARLES, has been in CAMP SILVER SPRUCE IN DURANGO, COLO. The family planned their trip to coincide with the end of camp and picked Charles up for the trip through IDAHO and WYOMING, where they toured Yellowstone Park; UTAH, where they went swimming in the great SALT horseback) and as a goat-herd. June has appeared in rodeos all over Texas, has been one of the performers with Everett Colborn's shows, and accompanied his troupe to Madison Square Garden last year. In fact, she's going up to Manhattan again this year with Colborn, producer of the Big Spring show, to appear there and get some public attention prior to her Atlantic City appearances.

Miss Prichard, who has been working in Midland, was entered in the "Miss Texas" contest at Tyler as a representative of the Odessa Jay-Cees, but her home is on a stock farm near Seymour.

In talking to press people Friday night, she made it evident that rodeo-ing is one of her prime interests. However, she's a talented girl in many respects and makes most of her own clothes, including her dresses, rodeo shirts and the handsome formal in which she appeared at Tyler. She has been a school teacher, too, and has worked as a secretary. She is a graduate of TCU.

June has given up her Midland office job until after the Atlantic City Pageant. She plans to spend some time in Dallas, getting some additional training in a modeling school and in microphone technique. She figures a little more

It is obvious that things would not be as they are now had it not been for discoveries made in the past. Smallpox, for example, was the first disease for which immunization was available. However, ignorance and prejudice often prevented health authorities from giving mass immunizations during the early years. Fortunately, this is no longer a problem under our present enlightened system of health care.

CLEVER TRIM

Step-In Dress Designed Just For 'Little Woman'

Varden Petite is one of the good fashion houses who have made a cause celebre of the little woman whose measurements are small—but still in proportion. These women, whose style sense is as keen as their long-legged sisters, have found that Varden Petite knows how to design clothes that are figure flattering and newsworthy.

Case in point, this princess model. A step-in dress it has clever pockets set at the hipbone and a tabbed button closing at the neckline which can be trimmed with a contrasting fabric. Make this dress in cotton, linen, shantung, silk, wool crepe and use velvet, linen, pique, faille or satin for the collar edging. This pattern is cut to DESIGNER MEASUREMENTS, not Standard Pattern Measurements. Size 12 bust 35, waist 26, hips 36 inches; size 14 bust 36½, waist 27½, hips 37½ inches; size 16 bust 38, waist 29, hips 39 inches; size 18 bust 40, waist 31, hips 41 inches; size 20 bust 42, waist 33, hips 43 inches. Size 12 requires 4½ yards of 36-inch material for dress and ¾ yard of 36-inch material for contrasting fabric with nap. To order Pattern No. 1228, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P. O. Box 535, G. P. O., Dept. B-5, New York 1, N. Y. State size.

HI-TALK

By Mary Sue Hale

As the month of August speeds merrily on its way, and the expectations of crispier early mornings mark the beginning of fall, many of our BSHS Spring graduates are confronted with the enticing problem of college. Whether the choice is HCJC right here at home or Gulf Park Mississippi way down South by New Orleans, a tremendous challenge is offered the entrant.

Quite a few of our graduates are planning to further their education locally in HCJC. Included in these are Anna Belle Lane, Pat Dunn, Marjelen Harrison, Betty Earley, Belva Wren, Patty Gregory, Sharon Lewis, and Bill Bradley.

Sammie Sue McComb, Val Jean LaCroix, Clara Freeman, Lu Ann White and Sue Boykin, five of our seven cheerleaders, are "all set" to attend the SMU cheerleading school which will be held in Dallas Aug. 21-25. They will be accommodated in college dorms while there.

While we are on the subject of cheerleaders, I want to put in just this word. Few people realize the headaches and responsibility that automatically accompany the honor of being elected cheerleader. Many hours practice and sweat are behind those smooth yells that we so often take for granted at pep rallies, football games and basketball games.

A sigh of relief was breathed Monday as Summer School was dismissed. Seven of this number left the halls of BSHS as students for the last time, as they received their diplomas at the end of this summer course. They are Twila Lemmings, Charles Mangum, Bobo Crabtree, Raymond Swindie, Ray Weathers, Roy Johnson and John David Sallee.

Clara Freeman was one of the Big Spring football fans who were present for the all-star football game in which Frosty Robinson played. The game was in San Antonio Friday. Clara will go on to Corpus Christi and other places along the Coast before returning to Big Spring.

China Carroll has recently returned here from Santa Fe, N.M., where she spent several days shopping and sight seeing. Kay Keltner, a visitor in the Malcolm Patterson home, plans to remain here for the rest of the summer, then return to Crane, where she will be a Junior in the high school there. Kay, an enthusiastic horseback riding fan, plans to choose the profession of a psychiatrist as a vocation.

About 200 teenagers attended the dance at the Settles Hotel Saturday evening honoring Sandra and Donna Belew. The occasion was their birthdays. Donna's actually isn't until August 14, and Sandra's was July 14, but the girls agreed to a joint party.

If you are on Janet Hogan's Homecoming Assembly committee it is very important that you attend a meeting in her home, 509 Westover Road, Wednesday, morning at 10 o'clock. Be sure to bring all homecoming material on which you have been working, as it will be turned in to Janet at this time.

Marilyn Morris is now in Nashville, Tenn., going there from Atlanta, Ga., where she visited a friend whom she knew in Japan. She will return to Big Spring in about two weeks.

Sandra Flowers is visiting relatives in Los Angeles, Calif., and she is expected to return to Big Spring the last of August.

Julie Rainwater honored Joyce Horne with a birthday-dinner party in her home Wednesday. Helping Joyce celebrate her 17th birthday were Sandra Webb, Maxine Rossen, Frances Reagan, and Janelle Neel.

Jacqueline Cox returned to Big Spring Monday from Seminole just in time to make final preparations for a trip to New Orleans. She left Saturday and expects to return in about a week. While in New Orleans, she plans to swim, sight-see, and just have a good time.

Elaine Russell left Friday to vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Russell, in California for about two weeks. Patsy Reaves is expected to return Thursday from Ohio, where she has been visiting for about 12 days.

Maxine Stocks and Anna Belle Lane are planning a vacation of sightseeing and traveling in Denver, Colo., and other parts of that state. They will begin the two-week trip Tuesday morning. Joe Daves spent part of the week traveling in parts of Oklahoma and Wichita Falls before returning home yesterday.

Judy Douglass Robison was the honoree at a bridal shower given in the home of Joyce Edwards. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Savoy Kay, Mrs. Don Stevens, and Margie Keston. About 20 attended.

Perhaps no extra knowledge was gained, but Jacqueline Smith spent several days this week recuperating from the extraction of a wisdom tooth.

The 90 hours of work done by 72 BSHS girls during the summer, following the 12 classroom hours in their homes with their mothers serving as supervisors, came to a close yesterday. Final summer project reports are to be turned in to Mrs. John Annen and Edna McGregor by Aug. 10.

Upon completion of the work, they will receive an extra half credit in homemaking having chosen work on clothing construction, interior decoration, preparing meals, purchasing groceries, budgeting in food buying, and various phases of cookery.

May this serve as a reminder to Senior girls. Time is swiftly running out concerning next year's school pictures which are to be made at Barr Photocenter. If you haven't phoned for your appointment, it should be done this week at the latest.

The "Cane Raisers," "Radioactive Rascals," "Master Mind Millionaires," and "Sagebrush Caesars" were the four groups of students representing Texas towns in the recent Student Council Workshop held at Alpine for numerous stages of competition. Other highlights were a tour of the famous McDonald Observatory and a barbecue in a mountain lodge. The workshop closed with Stunt Night Thursday in which each group tried to perform the most ridiculous act. Our threesome, composed of Gary Tidwell, Bettie Anderson and Bennis Compton, accompanied by Roy Worley, returned to Big Spring Friday afternoon.

Style Show Date Set By Golf Association

Date of the style show to be sponsored by the Ladies Golf Association of the Country Club was announced for Sept. 17 Friday when the group met for luncheon at the club.

Mrs. E. H. Boullouin and Mrs. Roy Townsend will be in charge of decorations, with Mrs. Speedy Nugent as head of the ticket sales committee. The event will be open to the public, with the admission price $1.50 per person. Refreshments will be served.

The date for the golf tournament was announced as Sept. 3, 4 and 5. Mrs. Bill French will head the concession committee and Mrs. E. L. Powell will be in charge of the entertainment for the out-of-town women.

Members were reminded of the Family Night Supper to be served at the club on Aug. 18. Reservations must be made by Aug. 17.

Mrs. Elmo Wasson, chairman of the house committee, announced that the club will buy the supplies and utensils needed for the kitchen, which will allow the association to use its funds for lines and other extras.

Mrs. Ova Mae Edwards told members that the furniture bought by the group has been paid for, and it was decided to furnish the terrace. The house committee, composed of Mrs. Wasson, Mrs. French, Mrs. H. W. Wright and Mrs. R. R. McEwen will make the selection.

Date for a "copper coffee" to be held at the club, was set for sometime in November. Members were asked to save pennies and bring them to the coffee. These will be put into the "glamour fund" of the association.

The luncheon was served buffet from a table laid with a brown linen cloth and decorated with an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums and Peruvian lilies. Wood-

KNOW HIM ?

Juvenile delinquency was just a term until they sent the boy down the street to what they politely termed a "training school." Then it became real, because this boy wasn't just a statistic but a kid who had played with your kids. Why, only last Sunday you had gone fishing with his father.

So now . . . you wondered why. The boy came from a good home—or did he? There was money enough, luxury enough, but it's true that his parents sometimes left him pretty much to his own devices. There were his mother's clubs and his father's business, and they led an active social life.

You asked yourself why . . . and in your heart you knew the answer. It lay in those gaps that had been left in his upbringing—great chinks, that should have been filled with faith, spiritual guidance, and solid enduring values. Thinking about it, you made up your mind to start taking your own kids to church on Sundays without fail—no matter how good the weather was for fishing.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cook - Grossett Vows Said In Westbrook

In a formal double ring ceremony Friday at 8 p.m. Sue Cook and Donald Grossett repeated wedding vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cook of Westbrook and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Grossett, also of Westbrook are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. David Crow, a Fort Sumner, N. M., Baptist pastor, officiated for the ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Westbrook. The altar was decorated with two candelabra and three baskets of gladoli.

Mrs. J. M. Watson of Colorado City, accompanied LaRue Clawson of Corpus Christi, as she sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her brother, Earl Cook Jr., the bride wore a white taffeta ballerina length dress. The long torso bodice featured a Peter Pan collar trimmed in rhinestones and seed pearls, long sleeves that pointed over the hands. She carried a white Bible topped with white camellias.

Sister of the bride, Faye Cook, maid of honor, selected a dress similar to the bride's, except of pink taffeta, sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. She carried a nosegay of deep rose carnations. PEGGY Ashford, maid of honor, chose a light green taffeta dress fashioned after Miss Cook's. Her flowers were pale pink carnations.

Best man was Weldon Dawson of Midland and cousin of the groom, Bobby Hudson, also of Midland, served as groomsman.

Ushers were Joe Morren of Westbrook and L. M. Dawson of Fluvanna.

Delza Kay Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oran Moore, was flower girl, Ronnie Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Walker, was ring bearer. Neil Dorn and Hanley Maberry lighted the candles.

Baskets of gladoli decorated Fellowship Hall of the church where the reception was held. The three-tiered wedding cake and pink punch were served by Mrs. S. A. Walker, Mrs. Rex McKenney and Ruby Matlock. Bobby Parrish was in charge of the register.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride wore a pink linen suit trimmed with rhinestones and pearls. Her accessories were white.

A graduate of Westbrook High School, the bride attended Hardin-Simmons University. Mr. Grossett

Cowgirl Contestants Add To Western Show Events

By JOYCE CONNAWAY

When you think of a rodeo, the first flash that crosses your mind is a picture of cowboys and the many events of calf-roping, bronc-riding, steer-wrestling, horse-cutting, wild cow-milking and brahma bull-riding that they participate in.

This stereotyped picture of a rodeo may have been true in the "old days," but the present Wild West show also features cowgirls who enter an event of their own, the barrel race. And when those girls get to turning those horses around the barrels in a cloverleaf pattern it is no "sisy" game.

Three Big Spring girls who entered in the 22nd Annual Rodeo are Mary Lane Edwards, Rosemary Mickler and Jan Burns.

This rodeo drew female riders from all parts of the state and the Southwest. The other 21 contestants are Jo Decker, Clayton, Okla.; Rosemary Tompkins, Dublin; Nancy Roberts, Midland; Charlene Calvin Beal, Tulsa, Okla.; Sylvia Shepherd, Tucson, Ariz.; Paty Hawley, Beaumont; Peggy Sanders, San Angelo; Becky Jo Smith, Lovington, N. M.; June Mitchell, Midland; Theora Calverley, Garden City; Becky Summerlin.

Others include D'Aun Young, Lovington, N. M.; Nelda Porter, Seminole; Carol Yater, Lubbock; June Williams, San Angelo; Florence Youre, Addington, Okla.; Wanda Harper, Merzon; Etha Lee Riggs; Janelle McGilvary; Amy Lockridge and Betty Dusek.

All of these cowgirls are trained for their part in the rodeo and make some quick time as they exhibit their skill and their steed's ability to round the barrels in a few seconds.

Singer Gives Beauty Advice

Popular singer Kitty Kallen, soon to be seen in Universal-International's "The Second Greatest Sex," tells Lydia Lane about her complexion routine.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY
Kitty Kallen Stresses Care Of Hair And Skin

By LYDIA LANE

LAS VEGAS — The Clover Room in the fabulous new Riviera Hotel was packed with Kitty Kallen fans. I was happy to catch Kitty here since I had missed her in Hollywood when she was at Universal making "The Second Greatest Sex."

Kitty was wearing an exquisite short white lace evening gown. When I told her how lovely she looked, she thanked me with great warmth.

Over a light supper, Kitty recalled with amusement that she once was considered the ugly duckling in her large and beautiful family.

"I remember sitting in our garden, close to a high hedge, and hearing our neighbor discussing me 'What a pity,' she said. 'The other five are so handsome and the little ugly one has the talent.'"

"After that I used to stare at myself in the mirror, wondering what I could do to improve myself. In a fit of childish despair I even tried sleeping with a clothes pin on my nose to make it look smaller."

"I don't see how a face with as much charm as yours could ever have made you unhappy," I remarked.

"As I grew older, my face developed better proportions, and altering my hairline was a tremendous help," Kitty explained.

I asked her if she had employed electrolysis.

"Yes, and wax," she told me. "I like wax because it diminishes the growth of hair. I have hardly any superfluous hair left and with the cold-type wax, it's easy to do. I'm always shocked when I see a smartly dressed woman with an unsightly growth of hair showing through her stockings. I'm as systematic about waxing my legs as I am about manicures and shampoos," she said.

"Are you completely over your ugly duckling complex?" I asked. "I think so. It helps a lot when we can appreciate our good points."

"What really snapped me out of it was an engagement I played at the Copacabana in Florida. I shared a dressing room with a group of chorus girls, one more beautiful than the other. After being with them for a few weeks, I realized how shallow mere physical beauty can be when it isn't accompanied by deeper qualities."

Kitty wears her hair quite long now, although she admits to having tried short hair when it first became fashionable.

"When my young son saw me in my short haircut, he cried, 'Mommy looks like a boy.' That did it. I'm very conscious of fashion."

Kitty continued, "but I've learned to adapt it to my individual needs. Years of travelling around with bands made it necessary for me to have non-crushable dresses of nylon or lace."

"I try to listen to criticism from people whose judgement I value. Once I bought a black velvet sheath which I thought was very sophisticated. When I wore it I was told that I looked like a little girl playing lady."

Kitty's eyes are her best feature. They are a blue-green, fringed with long and thick dark lashes.

"I use a wax-type mascara. It looks like a black candle and you melt it and while the wax is warm you brush it lightly on your lashes. You have to work quickly because it dries very fast but once it's dry it won't run like cake mascara does, and it looks more natural," she said.

It was almost time for Kitty's second show but I couldn't leave without asking her the secret of her clear and radiant skin.

"It always pleases me to receive a compliment on my complexion," she said, "because I'm sure I spend less money on beauty preparations than most women. I'm a great advocate of skin care but everything ed down her skin care routine to me along with three simple rules. 'Keep your skin clean. Keep it well lubricated. The foundation for a good complexion comes from within.' And these rules have served me well," Kitty said in parting.

A Bible Thought For Today

When my soul fainted within me I remembered the LORD: and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple. (Jonah 2:7)

Editorial

Let It Mature And Bear Fruit

There have been recurrent reports to the effect that petitions have been circulated in some areas asking the Commissioners Court to abolish the County Unit plan of road administration. We staunchly defend the right of any and all to petition on any subject, but we certainly are not obliged to agree with any or all petitioners.

For the first time since the voters of Howard County adopted the unit plan a real effort is now being made to put one into operation. The Commissioners Court has, on the whole, been generous in its attitude toward the development of a unified program, both in matters of policy and the supplying of equipment.

India's Mennon As Spokesman For Peace

GENEVA — Of the actors who move across the international stage with such extraordinary speed, none is more controversial today than India's V. K. Krishna Mennon. His tall, almost emaciated, figure can be seen hovering on the periphery of the great events that seem in this remarkable summer to be reshaping the world.

They indicated it would be possible to hold such a meeting. Mennon passed this word on to Nehru who was then in London at the conclusion of his visit to Russia and the satellite states.

Business Almost Too Good For Its Own Good?

WASHINGTON — Each of us, from President Eisenhower down, is in the grip of the business boom. It seems silly to say so, but business is almost too good for its own good. It's forcing the President and his economic advisers to unleash restraint.

The Administration's design, as noted here ever so often, is to stretch out prosperity, to make it last into November, 1956. That would be good for the Republican presidential candidate, whoever he is. It would be good for the American people, wherever they are. Far better, a prolonged prosperity plateau than a boom-bust pyramid.

Reserve Board would have to step in and support it. A split discount rate leaves open the possibility that the Cleveland bank might reconsider—and pull its rate down to 2 per cent. That helps the bond market. But the prospect that the other Reserve Banks might go to 2 1/2 per cent serves to check both lenders and borrowers.

Museums Show What Made America Great

One of the fabulous things that has been done with a portion of one of America's great fortunes has been the construction, equipping and filling the Henry Ford Museum and the famed Greenfield Village in Detroit.

They constitute one of the great tourist attractions in the Detroit area, and one of the highlights, I suppose of any study that would be made of early Americans.

By BILL BAKER
Please forgive me if I get excited telling you about the new chaise lounge I've just designed—but I think it is so sensational that it deserves all of the good words I can muster.
Quite frankly, there has never been another chaise to equal the new modern one I want you to hear about. You'll find features here that can't be found in other pieces of furniture.
And best of all, perhaps, is the fact that you'll be building this the seat gracefully joins at the back with arms that sweep forward again. The continuing line of arm and seat give the chaise a truly "new look."

But it isn't all eye appeal—comfort is also ready. Contour body lines have been used, making the chaise especially comfortable.
Unlike many lounges you've seen in the past, this one doesn't need an expensive pad. The rounded slats support your body perfectly.
And here's another feature: this chaise is the first "indoor" or "outdoor" model available. By leaving off the wheels that make it portable in your garden, the chaise becomes the ideal bedroom, playroom or living room chair. The bulky look that restricts most chaise lounges to the yard is missing here.
Ideally, of course, outdoor summer weather and this modern chaise were made for each other. You'll probably elect to make several out of redwood, and place them in your patio, on your porch or in that special garden spot.
But salt the pattern away and this winter when you have more time to give to your hobby, build another one from the same pattern. But this time, instead of using redwood, build the chaise in clear pine or hardwood. You'll have a perfect "indoor" model then. My brand new pattern package number 145 will be your investment for real pleasure. Easy-to-read instructions, exact-size pattern pieces (just tack, trace and cut), a full material list and detailed drawings of assembling procedure are included.

If you've been looking for a sensational chaise lounge, you can stop looking. You've found it here. When your chaise is finished you'll see why I get excited about it. You'll get excited too.

Here's how you can get the brand-new modern chaise lounge pattern: Just send your name and address (clearly printed), together with only one dollar ($1) in check, cash or money order, to Bill Baker, Big Spring Herald, P. O. Box 111, Los Angeles 53, California. Be sure to ask for pattern number 145.

How is my new modern chaise lounge different from other units? Well, first of all it has an unusual modern design that sets it apart from all others. The long slope of

Space Flight Like Changing Trains

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Traveling through space 50 years from now will be easy — "just like changing trains at Times Square."
A scientist at the International Astronautical Congress made that prediction today and explained how it will be done:
"First, we establish manned space stations above the earth. That will be easy. Then rocket ships designed to push through the earth's atmosphere land on the space station which is traveling around the earth at 15,625 miles an hour.

"The rocket ship, besides carrying passengers in specially designed suits, will carry prefabricated space ship parts and the space station is assembled near the space station.
The passengers get off the rocket ship and into the assembled space ship, which will take off at the same speed as the whirling space station. It will be the same thing coming back."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Among the parakeet letters which have come to me is one from Mary Donovan, which runs in part:
"I most enjoy the letters about parakeets which you have printed in your column. I have one myself, and he started to talk a little less than two months after we got him.
"He says a number of things, such as 'Where's a Billy?' and 'Where's a Mary?' (Billy is my brother.) He says 'Look out for the bird' when he is on the floor.
"He loves himself immensely, and will say, 'Mamma's good, good boy, mamma's pretty boy.' When my mother is brushing her teeth, he loves to get where he can peek into her mouth."
This reader also spoke of her pet's favorite foods being "toast, coffee, mashed potatoes and turkey." Another letter, from Betty Bishop, tells of her pet, Parkey, who likes to eat "toast, corn, the white of an egg and biscuits." She adds:

"Parkey loves to play with a napkin. He will pull it along on the floor, run around with it in circles, and roll up in it. He will turn the pages of a small magazine on the floor and will look at each page. I sometimes think that he can read!
"He can sing and whistle 'Little Brown Jug,' and also sings, 'Parkey is a parakeet.'
"He has learned some things from the radio. He says, 'Tomorrow—same time, same station.'
Those letters, and others, have left me with the feeling that parakeets are very clever. They are little birds, but some of them have big vocabularies.
If a parakeet can speak dozens of words, it must have a good memory. Often the words or sentences fit in very neatly with the general conversation. Some owners think that their birds know the meaning of words. Others are doubtful about this point, but all seem to agree that parakeets make interesting pets.

Marilyn Monroe, Tom Ewell Star In Ritz Comedy Feature

One of Hollywood's most humorously sophisticated comedies will make its Big Spring "premier showing" at the Ritz today. Starring Marilyn Monroe, Tom Ewell, Sonny Tufts, and Evelyn Keyes, "The Seven Year Itch" begins a four day run.

The story is built around a "summer bachelor" (Tom Ewell) who considers himself more than a dilettante with the opposite sex. After putting his wife (Evelyn Keyes) and son on a train bound for a summer resort, Richard Sherman (Marguerite Chapman) can no longer live without his love.

Next he dreams that a chance acquaintance (Roganne) entices him to a beach and makes love to him like in the film "From Here To Eternity." His daydreams are interrupted, however, and he begins to entertain The Girl. She notices his wedding ring and Sherman admits he is married and has a son. The Girl remarks that she feels safe with a married man, because others are always making passes.

Later, The Girl gets her toe stuck in a water faucet while she is taking a bath. The plumber (Victor Moore) helps her loose but he becomes the gossip, spreading stories about an affair between Sherman and The Girl.

Then a telephone call from his wife plants the seeds of jealousy in Sherman. She tells him that she is going on a hay-ride with an old friend (Sonny Tufts). Sherman then begins to imagine all sorts of things, even divorce. A friendly psychiatrist, (Oscar Homolka) points out that every husband gets the yen to stray after seven years of marriage, but this information does little to help Sherman's conscience.

Tom Ewell as Richard Sherman is one of the most humorous film characters since "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." This picture should find him an even more permanent place in the Hollywood firmament.

Marilyn Monroe's part, as a TV model for Dazzled Tooth Paste, has received much publicity because of one scene where she stands on a subway grating and her skirts blow over her head. Gossip has it that this scene was one reason for her divorce from Joe DiMaggio.

The film will play through Wednesday.

self improvement. However, The Girl (Marilyn Monroe) who has the apartment above him drops a tomato plant, almost hitting Sherman, which starts a chain of hilarious incidents. He invites her down for a drink and under her influence, imagines himself a Casanova, desired by all beautiful women. He dreams his nurse (Carolyn Jones) begs him to steal an ambulance and flee with her to another life. Then he imagines his secretary (Marguerite Chapman) can no longer live without his love.

Next he dreams that a chance

'The Seven Year Itch'

The girl at loose ends is Marilyn Monroe and that's Tom Ewell with the helping hand in this scene from "The Seven Year Itch." The Cinemascope and color film starts today at the Ritz.

'Jupiter's Darling' Will Get First Local Screening At Jet

"Jupiter's Darling" will show for the first time in Big Spring at the Jet Drive-in, Thursday and Friday. Filmed in Cinemascope and Technicolor, the premier feature stars Esther Williams, Howard Keel, Marge and Gower Champion, and George Sanders.

The musical features is set in Rome about the time that Hannibal was laying siege to the city with his elephants. George Sanders plays the emperor Fabius and Esther Williams is his fiancée, Amytis. Howard Keel is the invincible conqueror Hannibal.

Amytis, full of curiosity, approaches the invader's camp to get a look at the warrior Hannibal and his magnificent elephants. She is captured and pleads with Hannibal to spare Rome. Her arguments prove to be futile against the invader's intentions, but his head is soon turned by her beauty.

But the story is not nearly as good as the singing and dancing. The Champions are at their usual best as dancing slaves. Esther Williams, of course, has numerous scenes of expert swimming with beautiful underwater photography.

The elephants not only "hog" the show, but make the musical even better, although none of them sing or dance. Their acting indicates careful rehearsal and expert training.

As a spectacle, the picture offers 600 actors, 150 vehicles, a herd of elephants, and miles and miles of breath-taking scenery.

Joel McCrea In 'Wichita'

Vera Miles, Keith Larsen, and Joel McCrea head the cast of "Wichita" at the Ritz beginning Thursday. The Cinemascope and Technicolor picture tells how Wyatt Earp tamed the wild town of Wichita in the early days of the West.

Wyatt Earp Brings Justice To Frontier In 'Wichita'

"Wichita" is among the better group of western films being produced in Hollywood. The picture stars Joel McCrea as Wyatt Earp and Keith Larsen as Bat Masterson. It plays this week at the Ritz.

Both Masterson and Earp were considered the fastest "gun-slingers" of their time. This picture of how they cleaned up the western town of Wichita is filmed in Cinemascope and Technicolor.

Similar to another better than average western, "High Noon," "Wichita" has a stirring melody played throughout the picture. Like the song "High Noon," the song "Wichita" is sung by his better.

Wyatt Earp, against his better judgment, accepts the job of law enforcement officer in regard to pleas from the town elders. The town of Wichita is little more than a wild frontier settlement. Earp takes the job seriously and jails a trail crew for "harrasing" through the town after a cattle drive.

The town fathers think this is carrying law enforcement too far and ask Earp to relax his strict rules. He refuses and the townsfolk who begged Earp to take the job, now plot to have him killed. Masterson and Earp's two younger brothers move into assist Earp as he needs it.

Earp orders one of the toughest men out of town and he returns with two hired killers. A roaring gun battle then begins to bring a stirring climax to the picture.

Lloyd Bridges, who set the pace for a villain in western films in "High Noon," also stars in "Wichita."

Marooned On A Desert Island With Three Men

Joan Collins is marooned on a desert island with George Cole, Robertson Hare, and Kenneth More in the State offering, "Adventures of Sadie." The picture plays Thursday and Friday.

Joan plays a sulky young girl traveling with her parents aboard an ocean liner. She is disgusted with her parents because they refuse to allow her flirtations. One night, however, the showover, the ship is rammed by a freighter and Joan finds herself riding in a life-boat with Cole, Hare, and More.

When the four shipwrecks land on an island, Hare suggests that the three men agree to be perfect gentlemen where Joan is concerned. The pact is quickly broken by all three men and feuds break out to the degree that none of them trust the other.

After spending a year on the island, the group is rescued and Joan insists that she marry More. But just as he refuses, a crash is heard and the picture closes as each of the group is marooned again in separate places.

'Dr Jekyll And Mr. Hyde' Returns To Terrace Screen

One of the classic horror films will play at the Terrace Saturday night. It is "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" with an all star cast. Spencer Tracy plays the dual role of Jekyll and Hyde and other famous names include Lana Turner, Ingrid Bergman, Donald Crisp and Ian Hunter.

This picture, based on a novel by Robert Louis Stevenson, was filmed before the mentioned stars

Alan Ladd Stars In Western Drama

The exciting western drama "Drum Beat" makes a return engagement to Big Spring Tuesday at the Terrace Drive-In. Starring Alan Ladd and Robert Keith, the film is in Technicolor and CinemaScope.

Ladd plays an Indian scout assigned by the President of the United States to negotiate a peace settlement with the war-like Modoc Indians. He successfully completes the mission but has many narrow escapes and is once saved from death by an Indian maiden who shields him with her own body.

This is an exciting picture and has several beautiful scenic shots of the California mountains, where the film was made.

were very well known. All of them look quite a bit different in current pictures. But this does not detract from the enjoyment of the picture.

The story is strangely better than such old pictures as "Frankenstein" or "Dracula" and far superior to modern films like "The Thing" or "It Came From Beneath the Sea." This picture has more dramatic quality and much better acting than the general run of horror pictures.

Jekyll is a doctor who tries to separate the good from the evil by scientific experiment in men's souls. His determination to succeed is heightened by the death of his friend whose horrible death was a result of insanity. The experiments of awry, however, and Jekyll produces a monster within himself.

If you didn't see this one, you missed a truly good picture. See it this time around.

Body Recovered

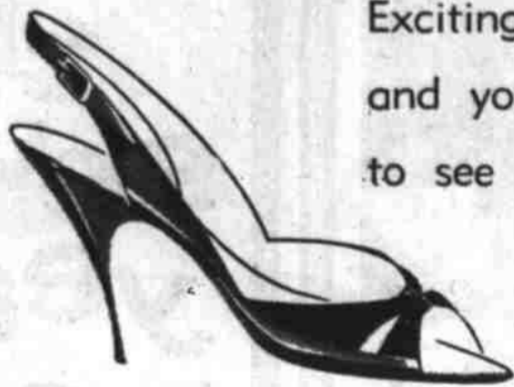

HOUSTON (U)—Searchers yesterday recovered the body of Loy Wong, 18, Houston grocery clerk, from the waters of Lake Houston. He drowned while on an outing with friends.

Randolph Scott Starred

"Rage At Dawn" is the Technicolor western picture at the Jet Drive-In tonight and Monday. The film stars Randolph Scott, Mala Powers, J. Corral Nash, and Forrest Tucker. The film is the story of the first train robbers in the West and the man who caught up with them.

what makes Progress?

BEGIN WITH A NEED... THEN ANSWER IT?

Begin with a need . . . then answer it.

The story of the development of America's department stores and the cities which made them are one and the same.

Take a pot-bellied stove, a few bolts of cloth, some barrels of flour, a keg or two of nails, a heart full of courage and a vision of tomorrow's horizons. There you have the general store that followed the pioneers as they unfolded the vastness of America.

Our store here in Big Spring can trace it's development in a similar way. From the old L. Swartz & Co. of 1900 in San Angelo, to Baker-Hemphill Co., 1909, to Hemphill-Price Co., of 1923 in Lubbock, to the present Hemphill-Wells Co. stores in Lubbock, San Angelo and Big Spring.

January first, 1956, will mark 10 years since we took over the Albert M. Fisher Co., which was an outgrowth of the old Fisher Bros. general mercantile. Here was a general store that definitely was a pioneer in the development of Big Spring.

We hope we have fostered and developed some of the courage and vision that made the old Fisher Bros. store a great institution and Big Spring a bigger and better town.

Begin with a need . . . then answer it.

That is the story of the progress and development of west Texas cities.

Take a logical transportation center with churches, schools, some business enterprises and a community of people with a heart full of courage and a vision of tomorrow's horizons . . . there you have a young city such as ours.

In 10 years we have seen Big Spring's population double.

In 10 years we have seen our business double.

In 10 years we have seen our floor space double.

Is there any reason to believe that in the next 10 we will not see the same?

Begin with a need . . . then answer it.

Our City Commission has seen the need . . . and our hats are off to them . . . for their endeavor to answer it.

Is there any question of the need . . . for the municipal development as outlined in the proposed City Bond Issue?

Do our streets need improving?

Do we need to keep our water system up to our city's growth?

Do we need additional fire protection, especially in the east part of town?

Do we need additional city parks for our children?

Do we need a decent, modern City Jail?

Do we need a larger and more efficient City Hall and Auditorium?

We believe you know the answer . . . which comes up at the Polls August 9th.

How a "Childless" Mother Filled the Void

WHEN MY CHILDREN grew up, I found that I missed the chatter and companionship they had given me when they were small. While speaking to a teacher in our local school one day, I discovered a way to fill this void in my life. She mentioned that many children in their first and second year of school needed extra attention with their reading and arithmetic, so I volunteered several afternoons a week to help these slower children keep up with their classmates.

I have been doing this regularly now and derive a deep satisfaction from helping these youngsters; and they, in turn, reward me with their confidence and presence. Nothing can take the place of a small child looking up at you so trustingly.—Mrs. H. D., Point Pleasant, N. J.

The Teacher: A Woman of Many Virtues

Most of us take our teachers for granted, but do you realize what a teacher puts up with in a day? She's Courage with Kleenex in her pocket, Sympathy struggling with a snowsuit, and Patience with papers to grade.

A teacher puts up with sniffles, squirmings, stomach aches, spills, rudeness, and sauciness. And she doesn't disintegrate before tears, trifles, fights, futility, excuses, parents who spout, little boys who shout, and little girls who pout. But most of all, a teacher is someone who trains other people's children all day and still has strength left to go to a PTA meeting at night.

Thank heaven for our teachers.—G. M., Clarksville, Iowa.

How to Enjoy Sunday Morning

Sunday is the only morning that our family of four adults can sleep later than usual. It used to be a mad dash to get up at the last minute, grab a makeshift breakfast, and be off to church. Now we have adopted a plan which solves this problem.

Each Sunday morning in turn, one of us gets up an hour earlier than the rest. It is his or her duty to set the table and prepare breakfast for the others. The sleeping members are awakened when everything is ready and waiting. This little trick has made Sunday morning the morning of the week for us, and we all look forward to the pleasant surprises that the competition evokes.—Mrs. Malvina Burns, West Townsend, Mass.

A Teen-Ager Looks at Juvenile Delinquency

I am a boy of 16 years and I would like to comment on juvenile delinquency. It seems to me that all the teen-agers in the country are getting a bad name because of a small percentage that is doing the wrong. I am not a "straight A" student, but I do not break the law. Many other kids my age are doing very well in school and in community activities, but they do not receive proper recognition for their efforts. Someday they will be the outstanding men and women of the country, so why give them all a bad name because of the highly publicized wrongs of a few?—Jack Warner, Ogden, Utah.

How to Grow Plants Painlessly

When we moved into a new neighborhood, I wanted to plant verbena in the area between the curb and the sidewalk. A neighbor woman heard what I was planning and said, "You'll never do it!

These little devils around here will pull it up or stamp it down. None of us in the neighborhood has been able to grow anything!"

So one day when my two little boys were playing with some of their new acquaintances, I called the whole group. "Hey, you fellows, all of you. Come here. I need help." They came over to me, and I handed each one a sprig of verbena and told them my plans for beautifying the strip. "Now we'll all plant these sprigs, keep them watered, and watch them grow. Each of you keep a sharp lookout on how yours grows."

That was the loveliest verbena bed anywhere, and many's the time I've heard those kids warn others: "That's my plant there. Keep off or I'll bash you!"—Mrs. Kathleen Saums, Fort Myers, Fla.

I was just thinking..

... I LIKE strange things. Do you? I keep an elephant bell on my dressing table. It's not merely ornamental. I ring it sometimes and send a sudden chill of faraway dreams along my spine.

I like looking at people on the street. I saw an old man yesterday with yellowed curls touching his shoulders and a painter's canvas half-finished in his face.

I like to watch my fingers in water. By some means scientific which I'll never understand, I can twist my wrist to a certain angle and change the length of my hand. It fascinates me.

I like to feel the peculiar quiver of excitement sometimes when I'm eating my morning toast and failing to satisfy my hunger for a special day ahead.

I like to wait for the day when the sky is the deepest blue and the trees are the deepest green and my eyes ache with watching.

I like to drink a demitasse of coffee after dinner in the evening and wash it down with the bittersweet of chocolate mints. I like the touch of new clothing on my skin, especially if there is lace or ruffles or silk against me. I like getting into bed at night and feeling the satin softness of a comforter under my chin.

I like to watch the sun blur through the stained-glass window of the boy Jesus in church on Sunday. It's like the clean feel of tooth paste.

I like the deep throb music makes inside me and I like to sit at my window and let a trail of old memories rise around me like smoke from a pipe. I like hats which are ridiculously extreme and slim white-kid gloves, because they caress my fingers, and I love to laugh until the tears run down my nose and my stomach aches.

They're none of them really strange things, I guess. Everybody likes the strange things which are dear and familiar because they are beloved.

Do you?

The wistful-looking youngster on today's cover is a Hopi Indian from northern Arizona. We can't really blame him for appearing to daydream because that is the privilege of children, and the sultry, muggy days of midsummer are especially conducive to it. Perhaps he is dreaming of the adventurous life of his rugged forebears, or maybe he's just thinking how much he'd enjoy a big ice-cream cone.

You don't have to be a genius to come up with an idea for a practical gadget or device that may be a real money-maker. A simple, inexpensive thing that serves an everyday need often is the most profitable. Pictured on this page are a number of common items which paid off handsomely. The inventor working at his drawing board is A. P. Brown, New York City. At far left he shows a new-type oar.

Cash in on your

That new gadget you dreamed up may be worth a fortune if you know how to develop and market it.

A contributor to a number of national magazines, Ray Josephs was a long-time foreign correspondent in Latin America and is the author of "Argentine Dairy" and other books dealing with that area. His article on this page is based on his book, "How to Make Money from Your Ideas," published by Doubleday & Co. Readers who would like further information about how to develop a money-making idea are invited to write Mr. Josephs in care of Family Weekly, 179 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago 1, Ill.

WHILE DRESSING one morning, you suddenly get a terrific idea. It ought to be worth plenty, you figure, and excitedly you tell the family. Even they agree—maybe you've really got something there.

All day you make mental notes regarding the idea, perhaps you even dream a little about what you'll do when the money starts rolling in. Between your everyday tasks, you start working out the details. In the days that follow, your idea shapes itself up nicely.

But then—as in 99 cases out of 100—you're snagged by the most difficult problem in developing anything new: the practical steps necessary to transform the idea into a successful reality. Developing money-making ideas can be far easier than you imagine if you deliberately seek solutions to common problems. But as I discovered in checking hundreds of cases for my book, "How to Make Money from Your Ideas," making your brain children pay off is often an involved, frustrating task that leads nowhere—unless you follow five key steps for turning hot ideas into cold cash.

Leo Peters developed the idea of a quick, easy way to color margarine. Following the five key steps enabled him to sell the idea and earn fabulous royalties.

Russell Hagen's idea was to put washable plastic shields around electric switches to keep the walls from being smudged. By taking the same five steps, Hagen sold millions of these simple protectors.

Each year some $300 million is earned by ideas that have been patented. No one knows how many non-patented ideas also are turned into money-makers. But none of the ideas starts the money rolling in all by itself. What you do with your brain child is just as important as the idea itself. These are the five basic steps towards cashing in on your ideas:

1. Learn how to get good ideas.
2. Decide who wants or needs your idea.
3. See what the competition is doing.
4. Test your sales potential.
5. Determine your best marketing method.

Outside the field of heavy industry, there seem to be three categories in which you are most likely to develop worthwhile ideas: household devices, toys and novelties, food and service. Let's discuss each one in relation to the five steps listed above.

Household devices

1. More good amateur ideas are developed for household gadgets than any other category. So search through your home, looking for trouble. Your solution for the trouble may turn out to be a best seller.

2. Don't rely entirely on your feeling or judgment. We all get enthusiastic about our own ideas. Particularly consider devices to save work in the kitchen, conserve space in the bathroom, or heighten recreation in the living room. Ask yourself if the ideas that come to you will make living easier (the paint roller) or more pleasant (the deodorized paper garbage-can liner).

3. Hardware and home-furnishing stores are the places to start seeing how novel your idea actually is. Compare advantages and disadvantages, prices and proposed packaging. Get leads from the National Housewares Directory listing some 6,000 manufacturers and 1,500 product ranges. Presenting yourself as a customer, write firms in similar fields and check the data they send against your own. You may find how to improve yours. A search to discover if something similar to your idea has been patented will take months and cost money, but even or McRae's Blue Book Annual at your library. The Chamber of Commerce, Veterans' Center, "Y," State or Federal Department of Commerce field office may be of help.

If yours is a handicraft product, contact the American Craftsmen's Educational Council at 32 East 52 Street in New York City, a non-profit organization which helps handicrafters. Remember that most manufacturers won't even discuss your idea until you sign a legal release in which they agree to be sole judge of your idea. Legitimate concerns deal fairly. Patents are limited to devices—you can't patent an idea, a campaign slogan, methods of service, or other intangibles.

Toys and novelties

1. To foster ideas for new toys, try to discover why the children you know love certain of their playthings. Concentrate on pleasing one age group—no toy is good for both toddlers and teen-agers. Try adapting everyday adult items for use by children. Search old toys for new variations. Toys enjoy regular cycles of popularity when they are well launched.

2. See if your toy answers one of these child needs: desire for recreation, ability to aid group participation, ability to increase learning. Children most enjoy those toys which enable them to imagine they're fire chiefs, cowboys, or policemen. New toy needs have developed as more Americans travel (youngsters need to keep busy while riding) and as children get smarter (the mental age of toys is constantly rising.) Your primary appeal may be to grandparents and relatives who do much of the spending for toys.

3. Check leading toy stores to find if an idea like yours already is on the market. Also check trade publications like Playthings, 71 W. 23 Street; Toy Publications, IDEAS!

by Ray Josephs

if you get a patent, there must be a profitable market to make it worthwhile.

4. Make up at least ten samples to gauge how well your ideas would sell. Have people you know and trust test the samples and tell you what's wrong with them, not right. Make their comments a challenge to improve, simplify, and cut the cost of your item. Bear in mind that the biggest-selling household devices sell for under a dollar, cost about a quarter to make, and yield perhaps a nickel profit. Get your local store to let you demonstrate your product, or try a local mail-order campaign. For 25 cents, the Government Printing Office sells a booklet called "How to Run a Mail-Order Campaign."

5. Many gadgets are produced and sold by their creators; just as many are sold or leased to manufacturers. For prospects, consult Thomas' Register of American Manufacturers 200 Fifth Avenue; Toy Guidance Council Year Book, 1124 Broadway, all New York City, or Toys & Novelties, 307 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago. Competing items may suggest ways in which you can make yours more marketable, lighter, stronger, easier to clean, store or display.

4. If you've neither time nor money for professional sales advice, call on store buyers in their least busy moments. Be conservative and businesslike. Determine best-selling price ranges, remembering your idea can't yield profit if it costs more than half its suggested retail price. Timing is vital—Christmas toys must be ready a year ahead.

5. Money-making toys need distribution through regular outlets and usually live through only two or three seasons. To make your idea a reality, sell it outright to a reputable firm specializing in that type of you never worry about odor !

More than a feeling, it's a fact: with Dial you never worry about odor. You see, normal perspiration has no odor until skin bacteria attack it. Ordinary soaps can't remove bacteria effectively. But Dial does! It's the one leading soap with AT-7 (Hexachlorophene). There's nothing else as good. And it clings to your skin, so it protects you all day — and for several days if need be. That's why Dial stops odor before it starts.

plaything. Rarely is an idea accepted as is, so don't give up if one firm says no. Leasing your idea to the manufacturer for a royalty of two to four percent of the wholesale price may work out nicely. Or you may want to concentrate on sales promotion while you sub-contract the actual manufacture. You may even want to tackle the whole job yourself. Only you can determine the best method in your own case.

Food and service

1. If you're a housewife, you cook three meals a day, sew, garden, clean house, and do a hundred other chores. If you're a husband, you may pitch in at a variety of jobs in addition to the one which pays the rent. Ask yourself: "Wouldn't some people like this done for them and how much would they pay?" For other ideas, look in the big-city classified telephone directories for services which might be money-makers if adapted to your own community.

2. In measuring the potential market for your food or service idea, ask first if it already is available in your community. Are there few, or many, places where it can be obtained? If your idea is for food, does it have some special flavor, a quality not obtainable in most commercial products? As for services, it might be planning menus, darning socks, repairing bric-a-brac, establishing a barter center — in short, helping people to avoid what they dislike having to do.

3. Shop a number of competing places as a customer. See if you can discover personalized qualities that make some successful, some just passable. Remember, newcomers have to overcome both good and bad reputation. For ten cents you may procure from the Government Printing Office booklet No. 41 telling how to start a small service business.

4. To test the salability of your service, make up a brief description of what it will offer. Call on a cross-section of 25 to 50 persons with your proposed price list and see how many orders you could write. Enlist friends as house-to-house canvassers, remembering that many solid money-making ideas have begun on the doorstep level. If food is your field, ask the Department of Agriculture's Marketing and Production Administration for a list of available material. For information on regulations, contact your municipal or county departments of health and agriculture.

5. Food ideas sometimes can be sold to large firms. But most successful ones have been launched with their own small businesses, sold locally in neighborhood food stores and via mail-order ads in national publications. You may get some valuable suggestions by contacting the Federation of Women's Exchanges, 28 Sherwood Place, Greenwich, Conn.

You can follow these same five basic steps whatever your pet notion may be. The road to success always is wide open for a truly unique, worthwhile idea. So put on that thinking cap, and the best of luck to you!

There's a lightness and rightness about cheese soufflé that makes it a reliable tempter of languid Summer appetites.

Cheese Soufflé

BASE RECIPE

Set out a 2-qt. casserole; do not grease.

½ lb. sharp Cheddar cheese (about 2 cups, grated)

Melt in a saucepan over low heat

6 tablespoons butter or margarine

Blend in

6 tablespoons flour

¼ teaspoon dry mustard

¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate*

½ teaspoon white pepper

Heat until mixture bubbles. Remove from heat. Add gradually, while stirring constantly

1½ cups milk

Return to heat and bring rapidly to boiling, stirring constantly; cook 1 to 2 min. longer. Cool sauce slightly and add the grated cheese all at one time. Stir sauce rapidly until cheese is melted.

Beat until thick and lemon-colored

Slowly spoon sauce into egg yolks while beating vigorously. Continue beating until mixture is well blended.

Beat until rounded peaks are formed

6 egg whites

Gently spread the sauce over beaten egg whites. To carefully fold mixture together, use flexible spatula or rubber scraper and slip it down side of bowl to bottom. Turn bowl quarter turn. Lift spatula through mixture along side of bowl with blade parallel to surface. Turn spatula over to fold lifted mixture across material on surface. Cut down and under; turn bowl and repeat process until all ingredients are just blended. With every fourth stroke, bring spatula up through center. Do not stir. Turn mixture into casserole. Insert the tip of a spoon 1 in. deep in mixture, 1 to 1½ in. from edge; run a line around mixture. (Inner part of the mixture will form a "hat" when baked.)

Bake at 300°F 1 to 1¼ hrs., or until a silver knife comes out clean when inserted halfway between center and edge of soufflé. Serve at once.

8 to 10 servings

Cheese-Bacon Soufflé

Follow Base Recipe. Cut 5 slices bacon into small pieces. Put into a cold skillet; cook slowly, frequently moving and turning bacon pieces with a spoon or fork. Pour off and reserve fat as it collects. When bacon is crisped and browned, remove from skillet and set aside on absorbent paper to drain thoroughly. Substitute 3 tablespoons of the reserved bacon fat for 3 tablespoons of the butter or margarine. After spreading the sauce over the beaten egg whites, add the drained bacon pieces and carefully fold together until just blended. Proceed as in Base Recipe.

Chilled Tomato Soup

BASE RECIPE

Set in refrigerator to chill

1 No. 2 can (3 cups) tomato juice

Prepare and set aside to cool

1 cup quick meat broth (dissolve 2 beef bouillon cubes in 1 cup hot water)

While broth is cooling, prepare

1 cup finely chopped celery

½ cup minced green pepper

1 teaspoon grated onion

Cut into halves

1 clove garlic (thin, papery skin removed)

Combine the chilled tomato juice and meat broth in a large bowl. Add the celery, green pepper, onion, and garlic. Add and mix thoroughly

2 to 3 tablespoons lemon juice

½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Few grains pepper

Cover and set in refrigerator to chill.

When ready to serve, remove and discard the garlic.

Pour the chilled soup into individual serving bowls. Serve topped with

Sour cream

Chopped chives

8 to 10 servings

Chilled Tomato Soup with "Croutons"

Follow Base Recipe; omit sour cream and chives. Serve soup with Cheese "Croutons" afloat.

Cheese "Croutons"

Melt over low heat in a medium-size skillet

3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Add

1½ cups bite-size shredded wheat biscuits

½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

1½ cups "croutons"

SOARS

Let's face it!

Summer days can be unbearable.

When the mercury

who feels like cooking? Or eating?

Here is a folio of taste-tempting recipes devised for dealing with just that situation.

Fresh Peach Ice Cream

Wash, scald, and drain the cover, container, and dasher of a 4-qt. ice-cream freezer. Chill thoroughly before using.

ripe peaches

Gently slip off skins; cut into halves and remove pits. Force peaches through sieve or food mill into a large bowl. Stir into peaches

2 1/4 cups sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Let peach mixture stand 15 to 20 min.

Blend together

1 1/2 qts. chilled cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon almond extract
1/4 teaspoon salt

Blend into the peach mixture.

Fill freezer container two-thirds full with ice-cream mixture. Cover tightly. Place in freezer tub. (For electric freezer, follow manufacturer's directions.) Fill tub with alternate layers of crushed ice and rock salt, using

1 part rock salt

Turn freezer handle slowly 5 min. Turn rapidly until handle becomes difficult to turn (about 15 min.). Add ice and salt as necessary.

Carefully wipe and remove cover; remove dasher. Pack down ice cream and cover with waxed paper, aluminum foil, or moisture-vapor-proof material. Replace cover and fill opening for dasher with cork. Carefully pour water out of freezer tub. Repack freezer in ice, using alternate layers of

1 part rock salt

Cover with heavy paper or cloth. Let ripen 2 to 3 hrs.

About 3 qts. ice cream

Coffee Butter Cookies

A doubly-good coffee treat—rich coffee-flavored cookies served with iced coffee!

Sift together into a medium-size bowl

1 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon concentrated soluble coffee
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream together until butter or margarine is softened

1 cup butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract

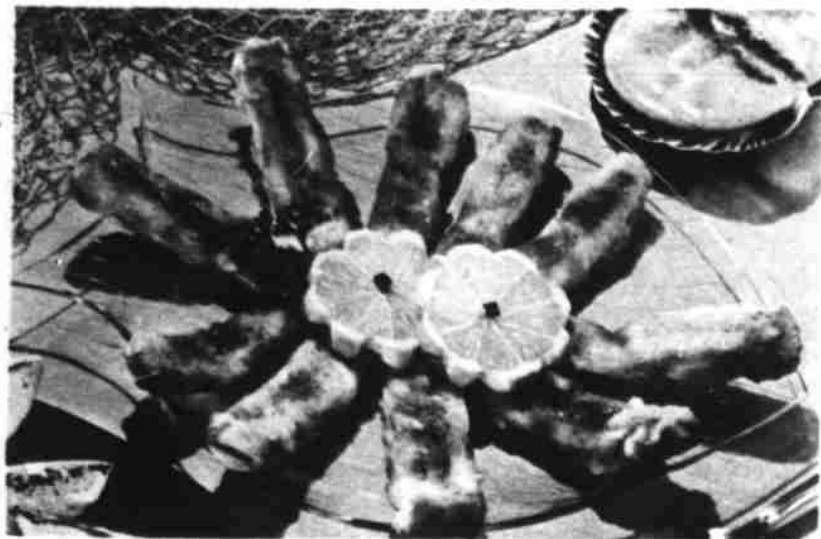

Blend the dry ingredients into the creamed mixture. Set dough in refrigerator to chill about 1 hr.

Shape dough into balls about 1 in. in diameter. Place on the cookie sheets about 1 1/2 in. apart. With a lightly floured fork, slightly flatten cookies by forming a criss-cross pattern.

Bake at 300°F 20 to 25 min.

Set cookie sheets on cooling rack about 10 min. Carefully remove cookies to cooling racks to cool completely.

About 2 1/2 doz. cookies

A terrific lemon sauce lends flair to this easy fish dinner made without fuss.

Jiffy Fish Sticks

For a dinner on-the-double for one of these hot August evenings when family appetites are jaded, what could be more appealing than these easy-to-prepare frozen fish sticks served piping hot with a delightfully tangy sauce?

Arrange on a baking sheet contents of 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen fish sticks

Grated Parmesan cheese or few grains ground nutmeg

Heat according to directions on package.

A $10 PRIZE-WINNING PREPARED-MIX RECIPE

from a FAMILY WEEKLY reader

Yvonne M. Homsey

10 Orchard Street, New Haven, Connecticut

Strawberry-Vanilla Supreme

This prize-winning pie has a vanilla filling and is all dressed up with an exciting taste of strawberries. It's easy to prepare and serve!

Pastry—Prepare and bake according to directions on package of prepared pie crust mix

1 9-in. pastry shell
Set aside to cool.

For Filling—While pastry is baking and cooling, chop and set aside
1/2 cup (2 oz.) pecans

Prepare, according to directions on package, contents of

and pie-filling mix

Remove from heat and blend in chopped pecans. Pour into a bowl. Chop the filling over ice and water, stirring frequently.

When the filling mixture is completely chilled, turn into the cooled pastry shell and set in refrigerator.

For Strawberry Glaze—Sort, rinse, hull, and drain

3 cups fresh, ripe strawberries
Crush enough drained berries to yield 1/2 cup crushed strawberries (1 to 1 1/4 cups whole berries). Set the remaining whole berries aside.

Mix in a saucepan

1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Bring the crushed berries and set over medium heat. Stirring constantly; bring rapidly to boiling and cook for 3 min., or until mixture is thickened.

Remove from heat; cool.

Chill the glaze over ice and water, stirring frequently. Spoon the glaze over the chilled pie filling and spread evenly. Arrange the reserved whole berries over the glaze. (If necessary, cut large whole berries into halves.) Set in refrigerator to chill about 30 min. before serving.

One 9-in. pie

Lemon-Cucumber Sauce

A delightful sauce that takes honors when served with baked ham slices, ready-to-serve meats, or fish.

Pare and finely chop enough cucumber to yield

1/2 cup finely chopped cucumber

Put into a bowl

1 1/2 cups mayonnaise

1/4 cup lemon juice

2 tablespoons prepared

horseradish

2 tablespoons chili sauce

1 teaspoon finely chopped chives

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon curry powder

Add cucumber and mix thoroughly. Cover and chill in refrigerator before serving.

Serve in a chilled bowl, garnished with Paprika

About 2 cups sauce

Blue-Cheese Eggplant En Casserole

Grease a 1-qt. casserole.

Rinse, remove stem end, pare, and dice

1 large (about 1 1/2 lbs.) eggplant

Combine in a saucepan with

1/2 cup (about 1 large) chopped onion

Cook covered in a small amount of boiling salted water 10 to 12 min., or until tender when pierced with a fork. Drain eggplant thoroughly.

Crumble enough Blue cheese to yield

1/2 cup (about 2 1/2 oz.) crumbled Blue cheese

Set out

1 cup (about 3 slices) fine, dry bread crumbs

Toss together the vegetables, 1/4 cup of the bread crumbs, cheese, and

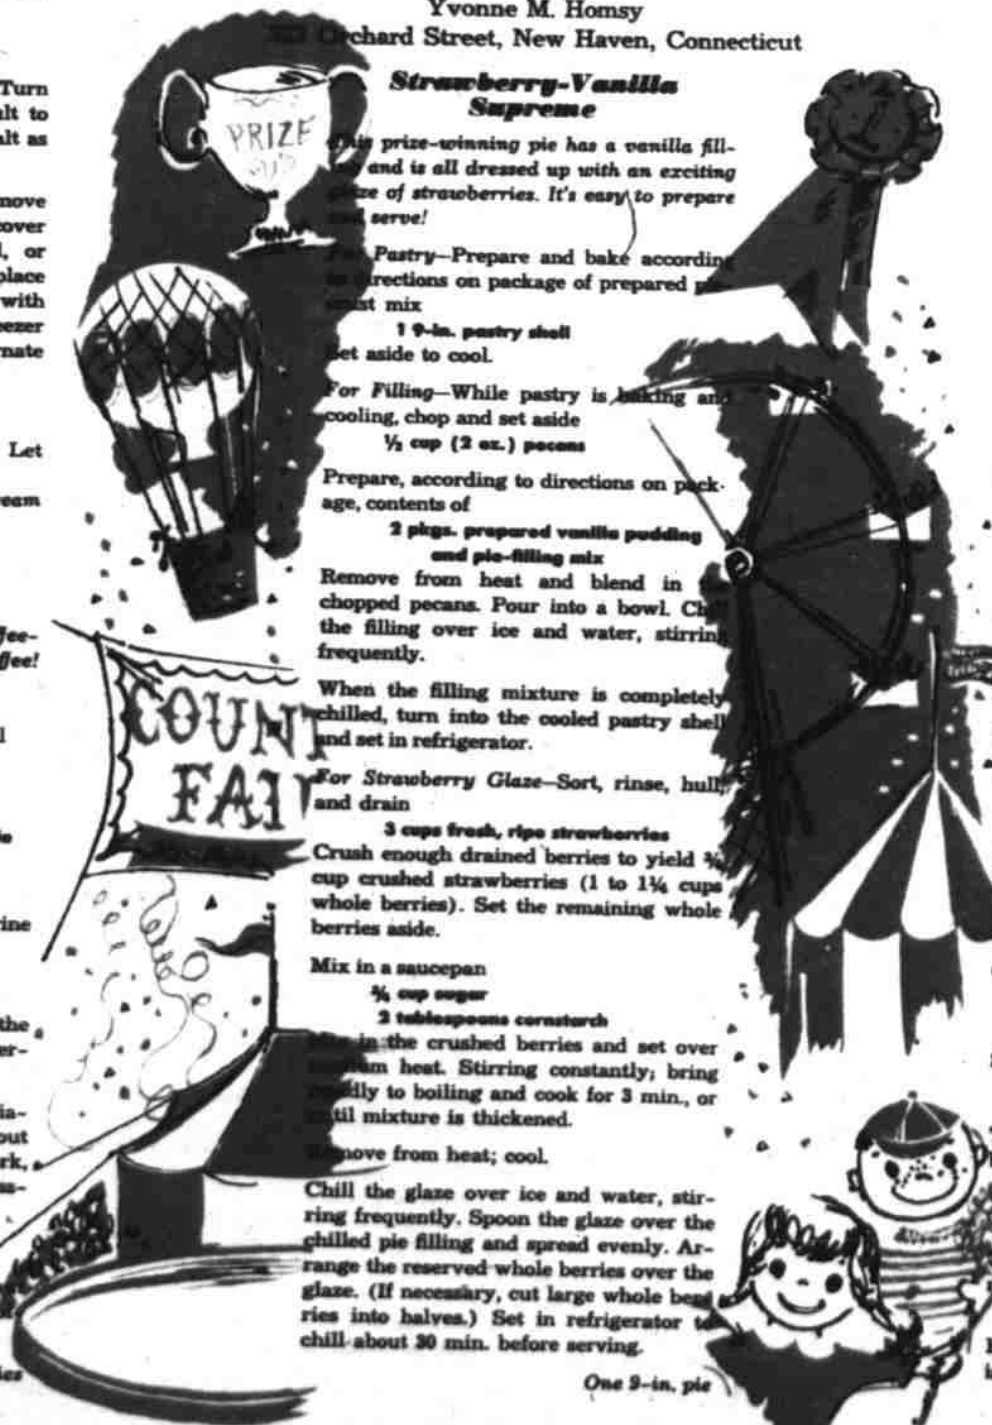

1 egg, well beaten (until thick and pilled softy)

1/2 teaspoon marjoram

Stir into the casserole. Top with the remaining bread crumbs and dot with 3 tablespoons butter

Bake at 350°F 30 to 35 min., or until top is slightly crusty.

SANDWICH LOAF

A party sandwich loaf—a delicious variety of sandwich fillings combined with whole-wheat bread. It lends elegance to entertaining and is sure to delight both hostess and guest.

Prepare, cool, peel, and set aside
2 hard-cooked eggs

Set out to soften at room temperature $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine

For Cheese Filling—Blend together in a small bowl

3 oz. (1 pkg.) cream cheese
2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
1 tablespoon cream
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon onion juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
5 or 6 drops tabasco sauce

Cover and place in refrigerator until ready to use.

For Ham-Chicken Filling—Put through fine blade of a food chopper enough cooked chicken and ham to yield

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup ground cooked chicken
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup ground cooked ham

Chop enough celery and pecans to yield
2 tablespoons chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped pecans

Mix together in a small bowl the chicken, ham, celery, and pecans. Add and mix thoroughly

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup chutney
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon monosodium glutamate*

Cover and place in refrigerator until ready to use.

For Egg-Parsley Filling—Finely chop the hard-cooked eggs and put into a small bowl with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped parsley

Blend in a mixture of
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon curry powder

Even though your boy may be destined for fame and fortune, train him to be a helpmate as well as breadwinner for his future wife.

AS THE LAST GUEST walked down the front steps, John Anderson leaned over to kiss his wife, Mary. "Some party!" he said. Then he started up the stairs for bed.

Mary glanced angrily at the dirty glasses, the dishes stacked high in the kitchen.

"It's always the same," she blazed, "When there are dishes to be washed, you're tired! When there's grass to be cut, you have an important meeting! When the faucet leaks, you plead ignorant! What kind of a husband did your mother raise anyhow?"

A spoiled one? A lazy and inconsiderate and incompetent one? Sure! And what can Mary, his wife, do about it? Probably nothing except to grin and bear it. After all, John is his mother's boy, and few wives can change patterns that were formed 20 or 25 years earlier.

But there is something Mary can do now—she can start with her own sons, raising good husbands for the women they will marry.

She can, that is, if she's willing to adopt modern attitudes about male children. Ever since Moses, mothers (and fathers, too) have been bowing to the boys. Universities were built for men; careers were planned for them; governments were run by them. And the result was that girl children were left behind to raise the progeny, rinse the pots, and mind the range. One old farmer summed up the division between the sexes very neatly when asked how many children he had.

"Why, five," he answered.

"Any of them girls?"

"Well, wait now," he said, scratching his head, "if you count them, too, I got 12."

There's a new outlook

In the 20th century, we began "to count them, too." Moreover, raised in humility, they rose to the challenge and proved that they can couple careers and cleaning, can go to war, vote, matriculate, and still do justice to being a wife.

Yet, despite the fact that females have come into their own, few mothers raised daughters to be anything but wives and mothers. For the male child is reserved the phrase, "Tommy's cut out for something bigger." Bigger than what? Bigger than being a good husband? A cooperative partner in a democratic family? Bigger than becoming an adequate human being, confident that he can meet a problem as it comes, even if the problem happens to be cooking a meal when his wife is ill? But how often have you heard a mother say that some task isn't "man's work" or that "boys are young only once, so let them be boys"?

Every American mother knows that her boy can some day be president. And a good many still raise their sons to be "Rev." or "Dr." or "lawyer" Jones—anything, that is, except plain "Mr." Jones. And the chances are better than even that the freckled four-year-old out in your yard will wind up as plain "Mr." father of three kids, husband to a tired wife, and possessor of an old house.

Then why not train him for his role? That doesn't mean you make him your choreboy, your substitute scrubwoman. There's nothing sissyish about training men to be helpful—men who can take care of themselves as well as their families. Even if "Billy Boy" can't bake a cherry pie, he ought to know how to make a bed, cook a simple meal, and run modern appliances.

What price masculinity?

As the mother of a son, you are the first person to give your child a feeling about women. From you he picks up the attitudes which may later make or break a marriage. If from you he gets the feeling that chores are a family affair and that home is a democratic place, later on he will be able to help with the wash or work in the garden without feeling that his masculinity is threatened. Real men can diaper a baby; insecure ones are worried that the neighbors will scoff or brand them sissies.

Boys and girls get their real feelings about being men and women from feeling loved and needed for what they are, not for what they do. And all human beings like to know that when emergencies come, they are trained and able to meet the test. Teaching a son to man a house is like teaching a daughter to operate a typewriter. In both cases, you are helping them acquire important, practical skills that will last a lifetime.

Putting Johnny on a domestic pedestal is unfair to you as well as to Johnny. After all, why should a strapping son be excused from household chores because one day he may blossom into a Jonas Salk or an Oliver Wendell Holmes? When you cut the grass or put up the screens or do the dishes for him, you are simply excusing him from reality. And even the Salks and Holmeses of our planet must live and work with other people.

Someday one of those "other people" will be his wife. And the first time Johnny's bride discovers that you failed to prepare your boy to be a real helpmate, you'll become an out-lawed in-law—the doting but damned parent of a spoiled son.

Many a daughter-in-law blames her husband's mother for errors of omission as well as errors of commission. In a "do-it-yourself" era in which few families can afford maids or plumbers or gardeners, your future daughter-in-law has every right to expect you to train your boy to know how to fry the bacon as well as bring it home.

One of the nicest compliments any mother-in-law ever received came from a young wife who told her friend, "Golly, Harry's mother did a bang-up job with her sons. They can do anything. If I do half as good a job with Harry, Jr., I'll be well on the way toward raising a fine husband for someone else, a good son for myself, and a human being who feels genuinely secure in himself."

That's a big order for any mother! But every parent wants to raise a secure and friendly son. If you can make him competent and cooperative as well, that's little enough to do for the woman who someday will be his wife.

Rome points the way to

by Caroline K. Bernd

Down in Floyd County, Georgia, members of the Audubon Society are rallying recruits to the cause of preserving our natural resources.

"WHAT ARE YOU doing here?" the officer asked, as the police car pulled alongside a parked sedan in which sat a mild-looking, middle-aged man.

"I'm waiting for my wife," replied the gentleman, who had been parked so long that residents had reported him as a suspicious character.

"Where is she?" asked the policeman.

The man pointed across the street to Rome Junior High School. "She's up there on the roof, counting birds."

The gentleman's wife was on the high-school roof and she was counting birds—along with other citizens of Rome, Ga.

They were all members of the Floyd County Audubon Society, and they were banding chimney swifts they had trapped inside the school chimney. The small metal band they attached to each bird's leg carried identifying data so that the bird's flights could be traced and recorded.

On that particular day, the group banded a record-breaking 6,963 chimney swifts. In addition, they trapped 21 birds which had been banded in other places.

The Floyd County Audubon Society, the only Georgia branch of the National Audubon Society, was organized in March, 1952, by 35-year-old Gordon Lee Hight, Jr. The original membership has grown from 12 to 65, and 6,000 Floyd County school children are enrolled in Junior Audubon Clubs.

Although the Audubon Society, named for John James Audubon, is usually thought of as a bird club, its prime objective is to teach people to appreciate and conserve our natural resources, and to make them aware of the interdependence of man and nature.

Members receive the Audubon Magazine; hear speakers and see specially prepared screen tours; and get the advice and cooperation of the national organization in individual club projects.

Hight considers the Junior Audubon Clubs the organization's most important work. "The greatest thing happening in the country today is this education of our children to the importance of our natural resources," he says. "It will save us in the years to come. We cannot go on exploiting our resources and expect to live."

In addition to its work with the Junior Clubs, its bird-banding operations, and its monthly meetings, the Floyd County Audubon Society makes frequent field trips to observe and study birds and other forms of nature. At the request of the Society, a 300-acre tract, historic site of old Fort Jackson, has been designated as a nature park and wildlife sanctuary.

"I'm not a civic leader or a hustler for my community," says Hight, who writes a weekly column, "Nature Notes," for the Rome News-Tribune, "but this is a cause I believe in so strongly that I put all my efforts into it. My influence doesn't go beyond my own county, but I am trying to make it a better one in which to live."

And the citizens of Floyd County believe he is succeeding.

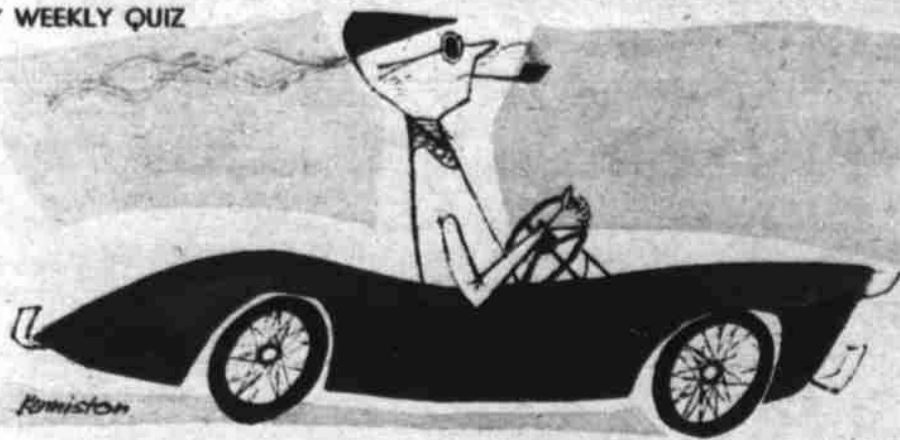

The night before their record-breaking banding operation, the Floyd County Audubon Society had to erect scaffolding hurriedly when they discovered that the Rome, Ga., fire department had no ladder which would reach the chimney top. Quickly trapped, the birds were lowered in cages for banding.

Club members attached to each bird's leg a small metal band carrying identifying information so the bird's flights could be traced and recorded.

Are You a Snob?

SNOBBERY, which is as undemocratic as a royal throne, crops up in many forms and many places. For instance, the man of action who looks down on the man of words, or the citizen whose greatest sport is mocking college professors—both are snobs. How much of a snob are you? Take this quiz, then compare your answers with the correct ones below. If you agree on more than two, you'd better change your attitude—fast!

Dear Miss Barrows:

I have two pet hamsters. They are about six inches long and live in a cage in our kitchen. They are always washing themselves. No special diet is needed for their health. They will eat anything a human will eat. They love sunshine, and fresh air. Hamsters love to eat clover. They're fine pets!

Sincerely,

no one else lived around the woods, but she went to look.

In the excitement Rose forgot her basket. She left it on the table by the fireplace. Her mother went into the woods with her but they heard no sound at all. So Rose went back to get her basket and returned to the woods to pick daffodils. She heard the bell again. It scared her but she thought she would first put the daffodils in the basket and then go home to tell her father.

When she opened the basket, she saw a bell! On the bell was a note. It said, "A good trick, eh? Your brother, Sid."

Dear Miss Barrows:

I made up this story:

Once upon a time in a deep woods lived a girl named Rose. She lived with her brother, Sid, and her father and mother. One Spring morning she decided to pick daffodils in the woods for her aunt Celia, who was sick in bed. She picked up her basket and went into the woods.

She kept hearing a bell ringing. She ran back to tell her mother. Her mother said that was impossible, because

"It" Ball

This is a game of tag played with a soft rubber ball.

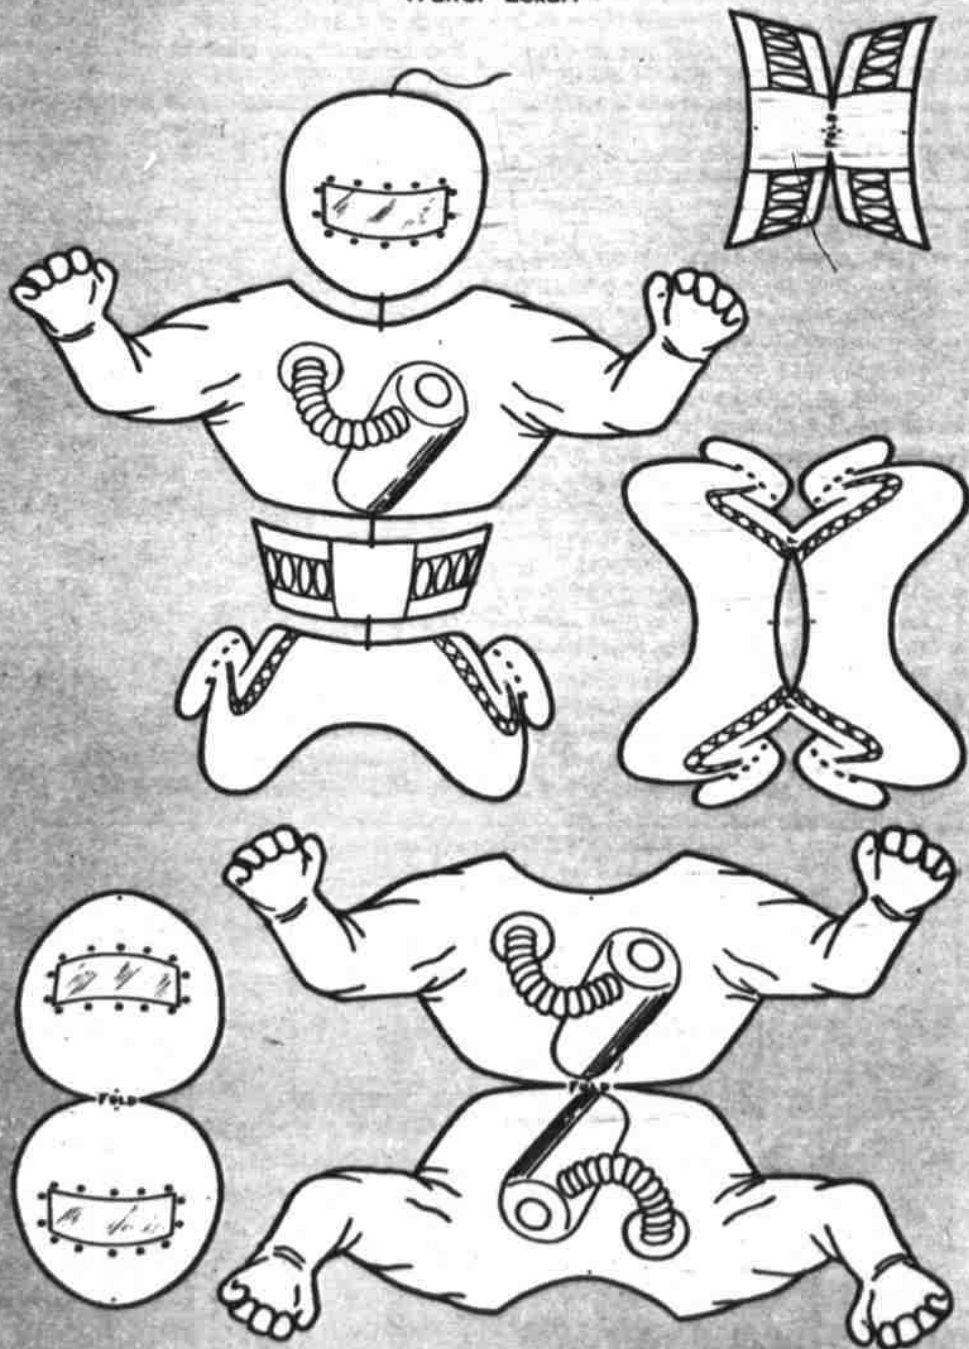

The one who is "it" chases the other players and tries to tag one of them by tossing the ball at him.

He cannot tag a player with the ball in his hand. If he misses, he must go and pick up the ball and try again. The player who is "tagged" with the ball then becomes "it." It's not as easy as it sounds.

Try it!

A SPACEMAN MOBILE

Walter Eckart

Here is a spaceman you can make and hang in your room. He will appear to be floating in space, and he is always moving.

Trace drawings and mount the paper patterns on heavy paper or very thin cardboard and cut out on the heavy outlines. Fold in half on the fold lines and paste together. Then run a piece of thread through the black dots and tie together, as shown in the picture. Tie a long thread at the top of his helmet and hang him up. The slightest air current will make him move!

A floor of unglazed tiles and single rows of black tile, and a table top in blue glazed tile feature this living-dining room.

CLAY TILE-- Colorful and Practical

by Ruth W. Lee, Home-Furnishings Consultant

THE NEED of minimizing daily cleaning and the increased use of color in home decoration have combined to create a new trend which uses clay tile surfaces in every room. Clay tile colors may be selected to complement, harmonize, or contrast with room color themes. The neutral colors of terra cotta, jade green, beige, or gray are most suitable for floors. Brighter colors of Delft blue, reddish brown, or leaf green might be used for sun-room or terrace. Colors for work counters in kitchens or bathrooms depend upon the owner's preference for gay or muted tones. Clay tiles are colorfast and permanent, easily cleaned, waterproof, and highly practical. Whether you're building or remodeling, they answer the need for easy maintenance.

The clay-tile floor, tiled wall, and unglazed tile counter-top in this kitchen can be cleaned with a damp cloth.
