TEA brings review team to Hereford High

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Input from parents was the focus of a public hearing Monday night that was conducted by a team of officials in town to look at Hereford High School in the wake of that campus' designation as a low-performing school.

The six-member team -- headed by Hugh Clayton, Director of Accreditation for the Texas Education Agency -- will be here through Thursday, meeting with teachers, administrators and parents.

According to a TEA letter to the district received in August, the peer review team will "evaluate the extent to which campus and district staff are working together to develop and implement an effective plan for addressing performance deficiencies."

Monday's public hearing was the fourth step in a process that began when TEA informed the district that it was being labeled low-performing because of high absentee and dropout rates and because of low passing rates on the TAAS math test among certain students.

School trustees conducted a public hearing last month to notify the public about the low-performing rating and to seek public comment on what is being done to improve the deficient areas.

In addition, the high school Building Leadership Team has revised its Campus Action Plan to specifically address what it plans to do to lower absentee and dropout rates and to raise TAAS scores.

That plan was reviewed by trustees and approved by them last month and forwarded to the TEA Division of Accreditation for its approval.

Monday's hearing, Clayton said, was held to hear parental comment on the school.

"This is the portion of our process when our parents and patrons give input," he said. "We're more interested in your comments to us."

Several dozen people attended the meeting in the HHS library, although many were high school employees.

Joining Clayton on the team are: Thomas Fogleman, principal in the Snyder ISD; Sandra Valdez, from the TEA Division of Accreditation; Brenda Massey, principal of Denver City Intermediate School; Carolyn Franklin, teacher and counselor at Slidell High School in Slidell; and Alan Dinsmore, superintendent of the Miami ISD.

Comment at the one-hour meeting began slowly, but Clayton directed the discussion, asking questions of the parents present.

Leading off was Shelly Diller, parent of two students and the parent representative on the high school BLT.

"These people have really worked hard to accommodate a lot of the problems," she said.

Martha Rincon, mother of a HHS sophomore, praised the school district and noted that one reason the school is low-performing has to do with cultural factors.

"This is just my opinion. I am speaking within my culture. I feel that some of our children who fail do not get a good start" in their early years in school.

"It is the parents' responsibility to get them started," she said, but "in the culture, some of the parents are not prepared for this."

Some parents, she said, do a good job of this, "then we have some that fall down on the work."

Mrs. Rincon also noted that a way to help the school was to give teachers the equipment they need to do their jobs.

Parent Donna Brooks addressed a question Clayton posed about coordination from one campus to the next by saying the high school invited eighth-graders over for tours and orientation each year, while sixth-graders get the same treatment at the junior high.

Several people spoke to a question from Clayton about the community's work in education.

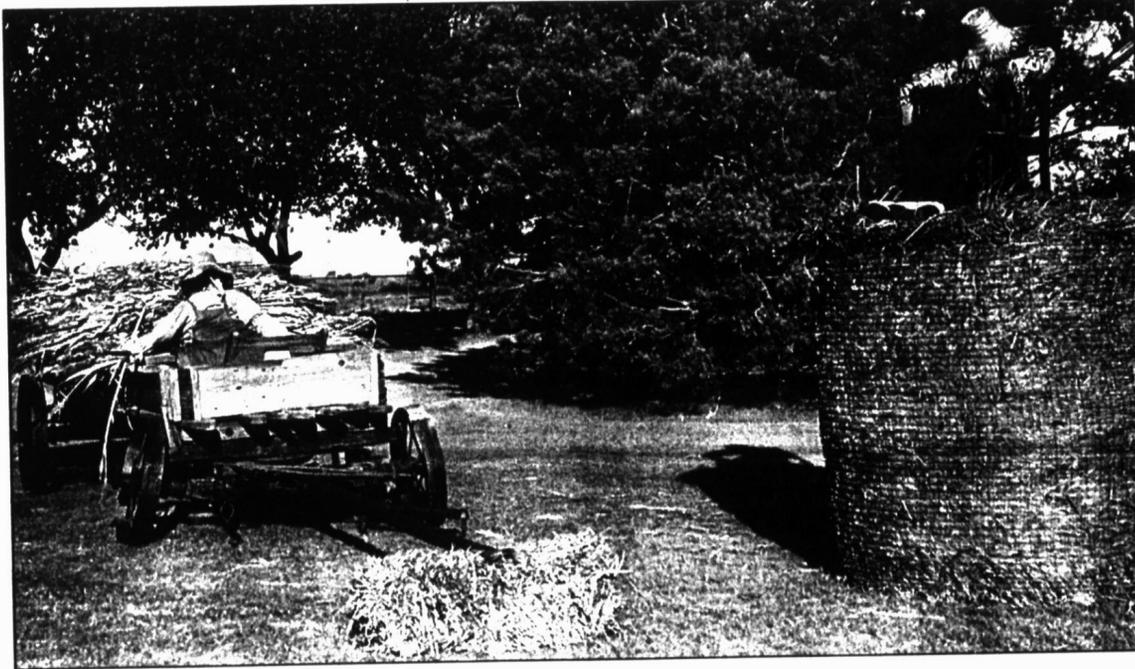

Monty Smith, who teaches automotive technology, said the community has been very supportive of his program.

Local mechanics shops, he said, provide service manuals, help with parts and employee second year students for internships to help students decide career goals in auto mechanics.

Mike McManigal, faculty advisor to the Key Club, said his group does quite a bit of work in the community.

Among the work projects he said they do is waiting tables for various

Harvest time

These scarecrows on the Ruth Hager farm east of Hereford seem to be relaxing after a long day cutting milo and baling hay. Hay baling and milo harvest are sure signs that fall is upon the area. Mrs. Hager's son, Richard, still cuts milo by hand and hand ties it for horse feed. The horse drawn wagon pictured was used by Mrs. Hager's husband.

Commission OKs mutual aid pacts with area towns

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A commitment to assist in fire service or other emergency in Canyon, Dimmitt and Friona was made Monday evening by the City of Hereford.

The City Commission approved a Mutual Assistance Agreement with each of the three cities, in compliance with state statutes.

In other business, the commission also approved a request from Arrowhead Mills for designation as an enterprise zone project and accepted bids for a new garbage truck.

Ordinances related to service credits of city employees were adopted.

Explaining the mutual assistance documents, Hereford Fire Marshal Jay Spain explained that recent state law enables cities to participate in such agreements.

"We've been doing it informally for years . . . this gets it written down," he observed. He pointed out that assistance will be rendered on request for one of the cities.

Asked about a similar agreement with Vega, Spain said fire service in Vega, Wildorado and Adrian is handled by Oldham County. "We'd have to talk to the county there," he said.

Pete Holcombe, chief operating officer of Arrowhead Mills, spoke on behalf of the company's request for designation as an enterprise zone project.

"This will be very helpful as we spend several million over the next few years," he told the commission.

With the enterprise zone project designation, the company will be entitled to recover state sales taxes spent in the expansion program.

The company is located within the enterprise zone previously approved by the City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County. County Commissioners' Court also will be asked to approve the designation.

Arrowhead Mills plans in the near future to expand with a million-dollar facility of approximately 40,000 square feet.

On recommendation from City Manager Chester Nolen, the commission accepted bids from

Army Major orders soldiers, civilian employees to show respect for flag

By DEB RIECHMANN
Associated Press Writer

FREDERICK, Md. (AP) - Some soldiers and civilians at the Army base here duck into buildings to avoid saluting Old Glory.

Others have shouted obscenities at those who stop to observe the flag-lowering ceremony. Some even claim not to know what's required of them.

Sgt. Maj. David Faiello, in charge of enlisted personnel at Fort Detrick, views it all as an affront to those men and women who fought under the red-white-and-blue. And he's cracking down.

Faiello has ordered military police to warn any of the base's 4,700 soldiers and civilian base employees who disregard Army policy during the solemn flag-lowering ceremony, held every day at twilight.

Faiello took the action after his call for respect was largely ignored - his articles on the topic appeared in the base's newspaper.

"He was upset by it," base spokesman Norm Covert said. "He served and others served in uniform fighting for that flag and it deserves our respect. People do it at baseball games."

At 5 p.m. every day, a cannon is fired on the first note of "To the Colors!" and the flag is slowly lowered during a ceremony that lasts about a minute. As the music starts, Covert said, civilians and soldiers are required to stop and turn toward the flag. Soldiers are required to salute, civilians to hold their hand over their heart.

Cars should also stop and their occupants should get out and observe the ceremony, he said.

Faiello has ordered that four officers be posted at intersections around the base to stop cars during the ceremony, and that they should take note of the license plates of those who don't stop.

He also has instructed military police to issue verbal warnings to violators and educate those who claim not to know about the policy.

"We had an incident recently when a military driver stopped his car and got out to salute and several drivers behind him got very angry and shouted obscenities at him," Faiello said in a recent base newspaper article. "There is just no excuse for this."

Officers have not begun issuing written citations, which would require violators to receive counseling from their supervisors, Covert said, but that could start if infractions continue.

"I don't think some people are ignoring it as much as they don't know what's going on," Covert said. "Then, there are always those in a hurry to go pick up their child at day care."

Spc. LaShawn Brown, who is on the flag detail, said a few more people have been showing respect for the flag, and some have gone to extremes to get around it.

"A lot of people try to hide. They duck back in the buildings," Ms. Brown said.

Pvt. Les Castillo added that people "just don't feel like doing it."

Compliance, however, appeared strong on Monday evening.

A man kept walking past the flag at the start of the ceremony, but turned toward it when he reached his car.

Army spokesman Capt. Joseph Piek said he wasn't aware that disrespect for the flag was a widespread problem at the nation's bases. He said how strictly regulations are enforced is up to individual commanders.

Two injured when car hits cattle

Probe continues into Saturday fatal wreck

An investigation by Department of Public Safety troopers is continuing into a one-vehicle accident early Saturday that claimed the lives of two Hereford residents.

According to DPS reports, Leticia Roman Salas, 27, and Blas Guadalupe Andrade, 27, died when their 1990 Pontiac Grand Am went out of control and crashed 9.1 miles west of Hereford on U.S. 60 at about 3:45 a.m. Saturday.

Preliminary reports said the pair was traveling west on U.S. 60 when the car drifted off the right-hand side of the road and into the north bar ditch.

The driver attempted to return to the roadway, but over-corrected and went into a broadside skid in the center median of the highway.

The car flipped one time, throwing both victims from the vehicle, and came to a stop right-side up on the south side of the highway.

Salas was pinned beneath the vehicle, which then caught fire.

Both victims were pronounced dead at the scene.

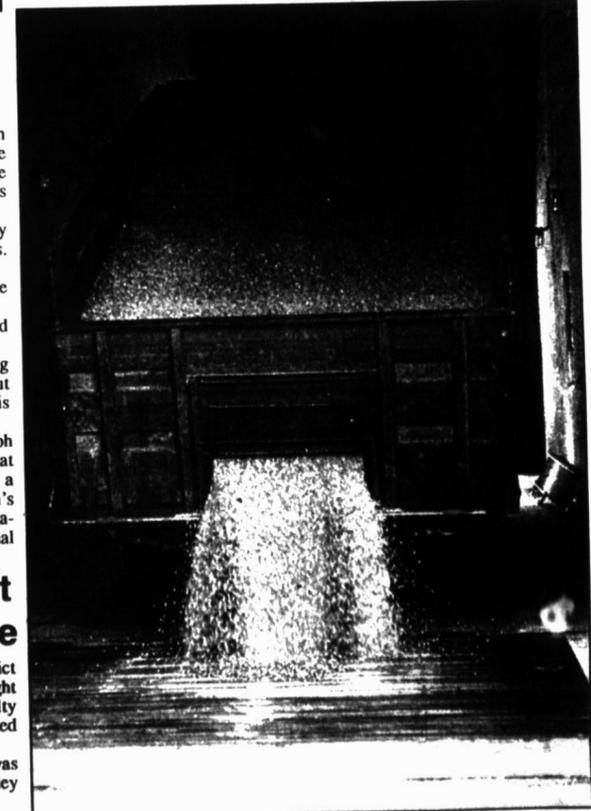

In an unrelated incident, a Hereford couple was injured early Tuesday morning when their car struck a herd of cattle on U.S. 60 west of town.

Noe Puente, 24, and his wife, Manuella Puente, 24, were traveling east on U.S. 60 about 1.2 miles west of town at 1:10 a.m. when their 1982 Chevrolet Caprice Classic station wagon struck several dark-colored cattle that were walking in the middle of the highway.

According to preliminary DPS reports, five cattle, which were owned by Ron Crist, died at the scene.

Hereford police reported other cattle were seen running loose in the western part of town during the night.

Puente and his wife were transported to Hereford Regional Medical Center where they were treated and released.

Storing corn

Although corn harvest started late this year, producers are busy cutting corn to sell at area elevators. The cold spell and wet weather the area received in May contributed to later planting and emergence of the crop. The usual starting time of corn harvest is approximately September 15. The hot dry summer months didn't help the production. It is estimated that harvest should continue for another two weeks.

WTAMU official visits Hereford

Guest speaker for the Hereford Rotary Club Monday was Ed Harris, left, who recently assumed the position of athletic director at West Texas A&M University. With him here are, from his left, Gene King, Rotary program chairman for the day; Dennis Hicks, club president, and M. Keith Brown, coordinator of external activities for the WTAMU athletic department.

WTAMU athletic director speaks for Hereford Rotary Club lunch

Ed Harris, athletic director at West Texas A&M University, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club's noon luncheon meeting here Monday in Hereford Community Center.

Harris, who took over as AD on June 30 of this year, discussed his role in directing athletic programs and listed strengths as he sees them at WTAMU. The strong points included Dr. Russell Long, new university president; the coaching staff, the performance of all the teams in 10 sports, and the potential for area support.

With about 15 years experience as an athletic director, Harris said the AD's role has changed drastically, with a major job now related to fund raising for athletic scholarships. Harris was a coach and athletic director at University of North Carolina at Asheville, then an AD at Missouri Western State College before coming to West Texas A&M.

Harris said corporate sponsorships are increasing since the Buffs started the football program again. The Buffs have only 25 scholarships this year, compared to a limit of 36 for other Lone Star Conference schools.

WT's allotment increases each year. He reported approximately 1,000 people attended "Midnight Madness," the start of basketball practice Saturday night. He also mentioned the successes of the volleyball, basketball, soccer and tennis teams. Harris was introduced by Gene King, program chairman.

Harris held a drawing for Buff football tickets, with Dan Warrick and Dennis Hicks each winning a pair of tickets. Accompanying Harris was Keith Brown, coordinator of external activities for WTAMU.

She was a member of Avenue Baptist Church and was secretary-treasurer of both Hereford Cemetery Association and Hereford Satellite Center. She married H.H. "Jim" Blakey in Hereford in 1967.

Survivors are her husband; a daughter, Janie Schumacher of Hereford; four sons, Jake Northcutt of Hereford, Tim Northcutt of Austin, Johnny Northcutt of Benjamin and James Blakey of Tulsa, Okla.; three sisters, Janell Davison of Hereford, Leola Stovall of Terre Haute, Ind., and R.I. ### Cheerleader presentation

Paul Hamilton of the Hereford Elks Lodge presents a check to Hereford High School cheerleader Amy Andrews, representing the National Cheerleaders Association, to help sponsor local cheerleaders travel to the Aloha Bowl in Hawaii on Christmas Day. ## Lions conduct annual Coat, Shoe Fund drive

The 26th annual Coat and Shoe Fund Project to benefit Girlstown USA is under way throughout the Texas Panhandle.

Conducted by the Lions Clubs of District 2-T1, the project was begun in 1969 to provide each deserving girl a coat and a pair of shoes.

This year, about 90 girls will go to Amarillo for a shopping trip on Nov. 10-11. Each girl will have a credit limit within which she may buy a coat, shoes and other much-needed clothing.

Many of the girls have never before purchased so many new articles of clothing.

They will be assisted in their shopping by Lions Club members, their families and friends.

Among the youths from Girlstown USA will be about 20 girls from Cal Farley's Family Program in Borger. This program, now in its second year of operation, provides homes and opportunities to children of elementary school age. The Lions have included these girls in its annual fund-raising effort.

The chairman of the Coat and Shoe Fund is Keith Christie of Dumas, who is in his 10th year with the program.

Along with promoting the fund drive with area Lions Clubs, Christie coordinates the shopping trip and the amount of money each girl may spend.

Every penny the Lions receive for the Coat and Shoe Fund is used to buy the girls' clothing.

Since 1987, Girlstown, located near Whiteface, has been affiliated with Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Youths often come from broken homes or dysfunctional family situations, and are in need of firm guidance, educational and social development.

"The Coat and Shoe Fund is conducted by people who care a great deal about helping young people," said Christie. "The Lions are very much involved in the lives of these kids and we are fortunate to have friends who contribute and make possible this happiness each November."

As with the Christmas Suit Fund for all of the Ranch's boys, the clothes for Girlstown's youth serve as a year-round reminder of the generosity of others.

Contributions to the Girlstown Coat and Shoe Fund may be mailed to Christie, HC 2, Box 4, Dumas, Texas 79029-9606, or to Girlstown USA, P.O. Box 1890, Amarillo, Texas 79174-0001.

Taiwanese raise issue over China for Clinton

By DEAN STEPHENS

Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - One group showed up in force amid the smattering of protesters outside President Clinton's speech here - the Taiwanese.

"One Taiwan! One China!" and "Let Taiwan be Taiwan!" were the chants of about 60 protesters making the most noise outside the University of Texas at Austin's Frank Erwin Center.

Clinton spoke Monday about race relations in the United States on the day of Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan's rally of black men in Washington.

But the Taiwanese weren't interested in the subject. They wanted to send Clinton a message about national sovereignty. Taiwan should be recognized as its own nation, not part of China, they said.

Clinton is scheduled to meet with China's president Oct. 24.

Meng-Jung Tsai, who helped organize the Taiwanese UT graduate students, said she hoped Clinton would "improve relationships between the U.S. and China, but never at the expense of 20 million people in Taiwan."

"Taiwan is an independent country and should be allowed to join the United Nations," she said. "Taiwan's future should be determined by its citizens, not by Clinton and the Chinese."

Also littered outside the center were small groups of socialists, liberals, environmentalists and supporters of Clinton's would-be presidential adversaries, none of whom seemed enamored by the president or his party.

Keith Hutchinson, who was distributing fliers and newspapers for the University International Socialist Organization, said Clinton's policies do not effectively address race relations in the United States.

"Clinton's policies are hard to distinguish from the Republicans," he said, suggesting the United States needs to move away from political parties grounded in capitalism.

Bob Brister, organizer of a new group called the Austin Greens, said that neither Clinton nor the current two-party system was addressing America's problems.

"We're here today to call attention to what we feel are the inadequacies of the Clinton administration," Brister said.

Judging by their fliers, they believe the inadequacies are copious.

They oppose his support of trade agreements, his support of the "don't ask, don't tell" military policy regarding gays and lesbians, his support of the war on drugs, his policies on immigration and his continuation of the Cuba embargo, to name a few.

The Greens were joined by the environmental group Earth First! in opposing Clinton's handling of the federal Endangered Species Act. Carrying cardboard cutouts of human spines, they said the president should have vetoed the current moratorium on new additions to the list.

Members of UT's College Republicans held signs for Sens. Bob Dole and Phil Gramm and conservative columnist Pat Buchanan. Austinite Rick Forsberg, who said he thought Clinton was "one of the worst presidents of the 20th century," was out on his own to support retired Gen. Colin Powell.

Forsberg and others questioned why Clinton came to Austin to discuss race relations instead of remaining in Washington for Farrakhan's march.

The protests continued inside when a group of 10 young people stood up in the balcony and turned their backs on the president to show a message written on their T-shirts. They demanded an end to French nuclear testing.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 17-year-old daughter is driving me crazy. "Eloise" is chronically late for everything. It has gotten so bad that she failed two subjects last term because of her tardiness.

Her teacher called me numerous times to let me know that Eloise was on very thin ice. She invariably waits until the last minute to hand in work. School isn't her only problem. She cannot seem to get to her after-school job on time. Her social life is also at risk. Her friends become angry when they are forced to wait for her time and time again. It's amazing she has any friends left.

I've tried making time charts for her, but it hasn't worked. Her counselor at school has experimented with different methods without success. Getting her up 15 minutes early isn't effective. She always manages to dawdle away the extra time. Reminding her every 10 minutes to hurry up makes her angry and actually slows her down.

Eloise's behavior is affecting everyone around her. She had to go to summer school, which meant the family vacation had to be postponed.

Ann, I love my daughter, but I am aware that she needs to change her behavior. If she doesn't, it will affect her all through life. She does not like hearing this. Can you give me any suggestions that will help all of us? - Procrastinator's Mom

DEAR MOM: Your daughter is unwittingly setting herself up to fail, and you've become an enabler. Try letting her take her lumps. She should reap what she sows. If this doesn't work, I suggest professional help. DEAR ANN LANDERS: I enjoyed the letters in your column from people with unusual names, such as Rose Rose and all those Folks named Mason Dixon. Can you find room for one more?

On Christmas Eve a few years ago, I was watch commander of an outlying station of the Los Angeles Police Department and about to authorize an arrest of a rowdy inebriate. The arrest report seemed in order until I noticed the defendant's name. It was, so help me, Christ Christ.

I wasn't about to become trapped in what I was certain was an April Fool's joke on Christmas Eve. The arresting officer assured me, however, that the name was correct and the arrestee had a lengthy record. I called Central Records and was informed that the name was indeed Christ Christ and the defendant's birthplace was Bethlehem, Pa.

I then began to make a hobby of collecting odd names from all over the country. Here is an abbreviated list: Robbin Droppings, Dan Druff, Kit Ann Kaboodle, Cheri Pitts, Tab Collar, Rock Pile, Billy Klubb, Polly Glott, Doris Closed, Rhoda Bike, Gay Libb, Pat Fanny, Penny Hooker and Isabelle Ringing.

This list is for real, Ann. Every one of those names belongs to a living person. -- Sgt. J.D. (Retired), Costa Mesa, Calif.

DEAR SGT.: Many readers wrote about odd and off-beat names, but your list could have been compiled only by a person with a great sense of humor. Thanks for writing. And let's hear from you again.

Gem of the Day: A golfer, lost in the rough, asked his caddie, "Why do you keep looking at your watch?"

"It isn't a watch," replied the caddie. "It's a compass." Have trouble sleeping at night and don't want to get involved in a novel? ## Herd netters slip by Pampa, clinch regional tourney spot

The Hereford tennis team clinched a spot in the Region I-4A Tennis Tournament with a narrow win over Pampa Saturday in Pampa.

Both teams won nine matches out of the 12 singles matches and six doubles matches played. Hereford won the team match because it won the most games: 207 to 172.

It was the closest call yet for Hereford in District 1-4A play, but Hereford is 5-0 with only Dumas left to play (at noon Saturday in Hereford). The worst Hereford can do is finish 5-1, tied for first in district, but the Herd still would advance to regionals as the district's No. 1 team.

Hubbard, Leverett, Yates win tourney

Paul Hubbard, Jeff Yates and Don Leverett teamed up to win a three-person scramble sponsored by T&G Service Company. It was played Saturday and Sunday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The trio combined to shoot 64 on Saturday, then blistered the course for a 58 Sunday and a two-day total of 122.

The team of Guerrero, Balarde and Tenorio was second at 64-61-125. In third place were Craig Nieman, Glen Short and Lana Banks at 62-65-127.

The second flight was won by Bill Brown, Debbie Holtzclaw and Larry Brackett, who combined for a 64-69-133.

John Elliott, Ron Wilfong and Tommy Holt took second at 70-64-134. In third were Meredith Ireland, Brenda Elliott and Rhea Scott at 69-70-139.

Canyon (4-1) and Borger (3-2) play Saturday, and that match will determine the district's second regional berth. Only a Hereford loss and a Canyon win would keep Hereford from an outright district championship.

Hereford coach Ed Coplen knew Pampa was a good team, but he was still disappointed in how close it was.

"It was a combination of coaching, practicing, playing, Homecoming and sickness, rolled all together," Coplen said. Some doubles team didn't practice all week, because of various illnesses on the team, Coplen said, although no one missed the match on Saturday.

"As a team, we performed poorly," he said, but pointed out a few individuals who played very well: Paige Robbins, Andrew Carr and Rachel Bezner.

Bezner's singles match was a key to the team match. In one of the last matches played, Pampa's Valerie Lee and Bezner split the first two sets, then Bezner got down 4-1 in the third set. A Hereford loss in that match would have given Pampa a 10-8 win, but Bezner fought back to win the third set, 6-4.

1995 cross country captains

The captains for the Hereford High School cross country team are (left to right) Jamie Harrison, Bethany Townsend, Inez Lopez and Miguel Carrillo. The Hereford girls' team won the Sundown Cross Country Meet Saturday, getting exceptional leadership from the captains: Harrison won the race, while Townsend was third.

CC girls win Sundown meet

The Hereford girls' cross country team captured the championship of the Sundown Cross Country Meet held Saturday in Sundown.

Jamie Harrison led the team with the best individual time of the whole field: 13:04 on the two-mile course. Teammate Bethany Townsend finished third in 13:22.

The Hereford boys finished fourth in their competition.

The fields included some different teams from the ones Hereford is used to seeing. The Sundown meet included no Class 5A team and few 4A teams, but there were several of the top 3A, 2A and A teams in the state.

The Herd girls totaled 39 points and won easily over second-place Brownfield, with 105. Following Brownfield were Shallowater, 143; Idalou, 144; Sundown, 165; Frenship, 167; and 15 others.

The boys were fourth in the field of 20. Hereford's 122 points trailed only Brownfield with 44; Sundown with 61 and Hobbs, N.M., with 63.

"There were quite a few small schools at this meet, but there was good competition and we ran very well - girls and boys," Hereford coach Martha Emerson said, adding that both Sundown teams, the Shallowater girls, Idalou girls and Brownfield boys are ranked highly in the state.

"It's always great to win a meet and have an individual champion," she said. "(Also) the top five varsity girls, the top two varsity boys and four junior varsity boys won medals.

That is always a positive and a confidence builder."

Following Harrison and Townsend for the Hereford girls were: Kitt Wimberly, 10th in 14:00; Erica Delgado, 12th in 14:04; Teresa Lopez, 17th in 14:10; and Jessica Mejia, 26th in 14:27.

The Hereford boys were led by Joel Garza, who finished 10th in 18:28 (three miles). He was followed by: Inez Lopez, 20th in 18:44; Rafael Del Hoyo, 25th in 19:04; Miguel Huerta, 41st in 19:40; and Pedro Del Hoyo, 45th in 19:43.

Hereford's junior varsity boys took fourth in their competition. The individuals were: Flavio Cardenas, fourth in 19:36; Jason Stark, ninth in 19:56; Justin Criner, 13th in 20:02; Chris Casarez, 19th in 20:24; Marselino Ruiz, 40th in 22:42; Ray Lopez, 44th in 23:17; and Nacho Garcia, 53rd in 24:02.

The JV girls were 11th. The individuals were: Jessica Harrison, 52nd in 15:53; Anna Delgado, 55th in 15:59; Sarah Chavez, 66th in 16:07; Amy Perrin, 68th in 16:09; and Christina Kuper, 157th in 18:05.

Herd spikers blast Borger, 15-9, 15-0

The Lady Whiteface volleyball team got over a few passing problems in a 15-9 first-game win Saturday at Borger and skunked the Lady Bulldogs 15-0 in the second game.

The win in the match pushed Hereford's record to 9-0 in District 1-4A and 22-3 overall, while Borger fell to 1-7 and 6-15.

Hereford has no match scheduled today because of the open spot in the district schedule.

Hereford had a few problems in the first game Saturday, but nothing that couldn't be fixed.

"We corrected our passing errors in the second game, and that was the primary area we didn't execute in the first game," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "Several poor passes combined with four hitting errors from four different hitters - we didn't get our setter in front of the 10-foot line, and as a result, our hitters had to take swings that weren't very good and resulted in bad hits."

The second game took only six rotations (serving turns) to be completed, and the first game wasn't all that long at nine rotations.

Kalka captures football contest

Both Keith Kalka and Jill Harrison missed only three games in this week's Hereford Brand Football Contest, but Kalka won out on the tiebreaker.

Both picked Hereford to beat Dumas, but Kalka's prediction totaled 42 points to Harrison's 31. The actual score of Hereford's win was 42-14, a total score of 56.

Kalka will pick up $35 in Hereford Bucks, and Harrison will receive $25 for second place.

Erma Murphy and Tracy Butler both missed four games, but Murphy's tiebreaker prediction totaled $2 to Butler's $8. Murphy will receive $10 in Hereford Bucks.

Two others, Kim Potts and Nolan Grady, missed five games. Potts nailed the tiebreaker score exactly, correctly predicting Hereford's 42-14 win.

Broncos explode on Raiders, 27-0

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) - It took six years for Mike Shanahan to get even.
Fired as head coach of the Los Angeles Raiders in 1989, Shanahan led his new team, the Denver Broncos, to a 27-0 romp over the Oakland Raiders on Monday night.
The game had all the appearances of a no-hoper for the Broncos, who had lost to the Raiders 11 of the previous 12 meetings, including six straight. Besides, the Raiders were the NFL's highest-scoring team, their 129 points in their previous three games setting a league record.
The last time the Raiders visited Mile High Stadium, most fans left by halftime. Those that remained threw trash at coach Wade Phillips following the dismal 48-16 drubbing.
Not this time. All they threw were accolades as the Broncos (4-3) stayed alive in the AFC West behind Oakland (5-2).
John Elway threw touchdown passes of 33 and 36 yards to Anthony Miller, and the Denver defense held the Raiders to 169 total yards - more than 200 yards below their average.
"To hold them to zero points and less than 200 yards, boy, is that great," defensive end Simon Fletcher said.
"To be honest with you," Shanahan said, "this was a little special considering my situation there. But this was not me against (Raider owner) Al Davis. This was our team against theirs, and this is one of my best wins because of the great effort."

"On defense, we tried to be the aggressor. On offense, we moved the football, although we didn't put it in the end zone as much as we would have liked."
Elway, who came into the game with a 6-15 career record against the Raiders, completed 23 of 46 passes for 324 yards. Miller caught seven passes for 149 yards, and Jason Elam kicked four field goals.
"This gets us right back in the hunt," Elway said. "It was a big one for Mike. Our defense just played awesome. These are always physical games against the Raiders, but we didn't back down."
The Broncos presented the game ball to Shanahan after the win.
The Raiders, averaging 30.5 points, had seven straight futile possessions from the second quarter until early in the fourth, managing only two first downs - one by penalty. In the third quarter, while Denver was building its lead, the Raiders had only three total yards on three possessions.
"Denver took advantage of our mistakes and our poor plays," Raiders coach Mike White said. "Another disappointment is that we had several players injured tonight. We not only lost the game, but they beat up on us as well."
"Elway is one of the best in the league, and Miller made some spectacular plays. I don't know who could have stopped him tonight."

49ers lose Young to shoulder injury

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) - With Steve Young, the San Francisco 49ers were an offensive powerhouse. For the next month, they'll find out if they can win without him.
"It's a huge impact to lose Steve Young," tackle Harris Barton said Monday after learning Young would miss four weeks because of a damaged throwing shoulder.
"We all managed to get a Super Bowl ring out of him last year," Barton added. "Our defense responds to the way he plays. The offense certainly responds to the way he plays, and by losing him and having him standing on the sideline, it could really hurt this team. Everybody has to pick up the pieces. Everybody has to reach down deep and help make up for that missing link."
Young, a four-time passing champion and last season's Super Bowl MVP, used San Francisco's bye week to recover from a bruised left shoulder, but no sooner had he gotten better, he reinjured it.
Under constant pressure in Sunday's 18-17 loss at Indianapolis,

Young was roughed up for six sacks and took two more serious hits on his already tender left shoulder, causing a sprain and a deep bone bruise, according to team physician Dr. Michael Dillingham.
Coach George Seifert said Dillingham told him not to expect Young to return for a month, and backup quarterback Elvis Grbac said he expects to start the next four games, including the Nov. 12 game at Dallas pairing the winners of the last three Super Bowls.
Young, who spent time in an oxygen chamber Monday as part of an effort to try to speed the healing process, said he hopes to beat the prognosis and return sooner than the Nov. 20 game at Miami. But he admitted his shoulder is still very sore, and he didn't sound confident about being able to return ahead of schedule.
"It's my throwing arm, so I have to be patient with it, but I'll push it as hard as I can," Young said.

SPIKERS

"I didn't ever feel like we were losing control of the match," Reeh said. "To Borger's credit, they played much better than the first time we played them (a 15-1, 15-1 win for Hereford). We didn't get hardly anything but free balls the first time we played them. They had some good swings in the first game (Saturday)."

Makesha Rives served for eight points with four aces.
The JV goes to Plainview today to take on the new Plainview team, starting at 6:30 p.m.
Plainview is starting a volleyball program, and they didn't field a varsity team. The team the Herd JV will face will be Plainview's best.

The Hereford Junior High teams hosted Dumas Monday, but Dumas won three of the four matches played.
The seventh grade B team got Hereford its one victory. Dumas won the first game, 15-9, but Hereford came back to win the next two games, 15-12 and 15-10. Marivel Sanchez served for seven points in the match, including six in the deciding third game.
The eighth grade A team lost 15-2, 15-1, and the B team fell 15-3, 15-0. The seventh A team lost 15-6, 15-11 despite five service points from Amanda Schumacher.

The Hereford junior varsity team beat up on Borger, 15-5, 15-7 Saturday in Borger.

M's send Johnson against Tribe

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
SEATTLE (AP) - He has pitched so often, Randy Johnson was joking a few days ago, that his left arm seems to be getting longer.
All the better, maybe, for him to again carry the Seattle Mariners.
Tonight, for the fourth time in 16 days, Johnson will be asked to save the season for Seattle. He'll start Game 6 of the AL playoffs with Cleveland leading 3-2.
"Everybody relishes the opportunity to be out on the mound in a big game, as I do," Johnson said. "But I don't think anybody relishes the idea that if we lose this game, the season is over for us."
"I've done it three times this year where I've had to rise to the occasion," he said. "I don't sense any pressure. I'll go out there and do the best I can, as I have, and just try to pitch these guys a little bit better than I did a couple of days ago."
This will be the fifth time this month that the Mariners have played a game in which a loss meant the end of the season. The previous four games were all at their noisy Kingdome and, obviously, they won every one.
"He's tough, no doubt," Carlos Baerga said Monday during Cleveland's workout. "He's got to be tired. He may not the 98 mph fastball pitcher he always is, but he'll be difficult."
The Mariners are 30-3 when their Cy Young candidate pitches. His overall record is 20-2, including two wins in the postseason. He got a no-decision Friday night in Game 3, lasting eight innings in a game Seattle won in the 11th.

"Everybody knows that I'm a power pitcher, but I pitched pretty well last time not having a really good fastball," Johnson said. "To me, it really doesn't matter how I get an out as long as I get an out."
"I don't have to pitch any way. I'm still throwing 98 miles an hour," he said. "I'm pitching now, not overpowering people, because you can't do that at this time of the year. They've seen me two or three times and they speed up their bats a little. I'm pitching by desire, and that's the way I'll be getting them out."
Johnson, who set a major league record this year for most strikeouts per nine innings (12.35), fanned only one of the last 11 batters he faced Friday night.
Mariners manager Lou Piniella planned to save Johnson for a possible Game 7 had they won Sunday night in Cleveland. Instead, after a 3-2 loss, Piniella decided to bring back his ace on three days' rest, and said he would use either rookie Bob Wolcott or Tim Belcher if there is a Game 7.

"Our backs have primarily been against the wall since the season started," Johnson said. "I don't think anybody projected us to be where we are right now."
Johnson began his string of success in all-or-nothing games on Oct. 2 when he beat California with a three-hitter in a one-game playoff for the AL West title.
The following Friday night, he won again with the Mariners trailing New York 2-0 in the best-of-5 first round of the playoffs. Two days later, he won the decisive Game 5 with three innings of relief.

Now, it's his turn again. Dennis Martinez, moved back an extra day for more rest, will start for the Indians against the most overpowering pitcher in the majors.
"Personally, I don't think it affects me in any way," said Martinez, the loser in Game 1 at the Kingdome. "As a pitcher, sometimes when you face a tough pitcher you concentrate better. You focus because you know it's not going to be a long, high-scoring game."

SPORTS TRIVIA

Question: Who was the only manager to win a pennant in both the American and National Leagues?

Answer: Joe McCarthy, who won his first pennant in 1929 managing the Chicago Cubs of the National League. He is best known for managing the Yankees who won eight pennants under him from 1931-1946.

La Madre Mia Club views antiques at Sorrell home

Members of La Madre Mia Study Club met recently in the home of Kay Hall.

During a short business meeting, conducted by president Hall, members agreed to participate in a pen pal exchange with students from Aikman school.

Committee reports were announced and members then adjourned to the Elton Sorrell home west of Hereford to view antique clocks, player pianos and other antique furniture and unique items.

Refreshments were served by hostess Tricia Sims.

The club's next meeting will be a Halloween costume part to be held in the Hereford State Bank on Oct. 26 at 7 p.m.

Members in attendance were Ruth Black, Francine Bromlow, Cindy Cassels, Merle Clark, Linda Cumpston, Mary Herring, Susan Hicks, Betty Lady, Barbara Manning, Glenda Marcum, Jan Metcalf, Bettye Owen, June Owens, Nancy Paetzold, Lucy Rogers, Mysedia Smith, Georgia Sparks, Betty Taylor, Marline Watson, Nicky Walser, Judy Williams, Gladys Merritt, Hall and Sims.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Are there any problems that could arise from the use of antibiotics? If so, what are some of the precautions one should take? — Mrs. K.C.S.

ANSWER: Problems from antibiotics usually pale in comparison to the infections the drugs wipe out. So you seldom think in terms of risk. When you have a bad bacterial infection, you want to get rid of it, so you call on antibiotics, even in the face of any risks.

Most risks involve unintended consequences, specifically that the drug will inadvertently wipe out normal and necessary bacteria along with the troublemaker organisms. In the colon, that might leave diarrhea in its wake.

Women on antibiotics might develop a vaginal yeast infection. It's a matter of extended anti-bacteria warfare permitting opportunistic explosion of otherwise normal vaginal yeast.

Some antibiotics can cause hearing problems, some kidney disturbance and some liver damage. Physicians know potential side effects and how to evaluate complaints, and they can discuss such matters with patients who wish to be informed.

A broad underlying threat surrounds any tendency toward indiscriminate use of any medication. For example, a patient might demand antibiotics for an upper respiratory infection, which is most likely not bacterial but viral in nature, and against which the best antibiotic is helpless. And we've seen pharmacological results, familiar bacteria altering themselves to resist antibiotics against which they once were easy prey.

Many readers remember days — before antibiotics — when pneumonia, blood poisoning and certain other bacterial infections struck fear and spelled great hardship, if not death.

Remember, take a prescribed antibiotic for its full course, whether symptoms have subsided or not. I want to emphasize that most of the side effects I mentioned are exceptional, and most disappear promptly when the drug is withdrawn.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My friend says you discussed Wilson's once.

My daughter seems to have it. She has had tests, but nothing shows up on her monitor, which she wore for 24 hours. She's seeing a cardiologist. Can you explain again briefly what Wilson's is? — A.R.

ANSWER: Wilson's disease is inherited and rare, occurring in about 30 per million of the population. So it is not a disease commonly suspected. I'm confused. Why do you suspect Wilson's?

The liver is the disease's target organ. Does your daughter have liver problems? Or does she have unexplained tremors or muscle rigidity, other signs of the disease?

Wilson's symptoms occur from an accumulation of copper — in the liver, brain and other organs.

If there is a chance your daughter has Wilson's disease, her doctor can test for the level of a blood protein called ceruloplasmin. It's low in a Wilson's patient.

The disease is treated with penicillamine, which grabs onto copper and escorts it from the body. Patients also are advised to avoid foods high in copper, such as shellfish, liver, mushrooms, chocolate and nuts.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Why are doctors reluctant to prescribe pessaries to hold up a dropped bladder? — Mrs. B.K.

ANSWER: They don't work well. A pessary is a ringlike device inserted around the cervix to gird above structures. Among disadvantages are inconvenience, irritation and infection potential. The patient needs to have good perineal musculature.

Don't get me wrong. Pessaries are used — when support surgery is out of the question, for example. And some women flat out prefer them, and they write me if I knock them.

For detailed information on "When a Woman's Bladder Leaks," send $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents) No. 10 envelope to Dr. Donohue — SR105, P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

Names in the News

LONDON (AP) - Cofin Powell: Best-selling author and blue blood?

His family tree sprawls from Britain's royal family to several former U.S. presidents, including George Bush, some British genealogical records show.

Burke's Peerage, which publishes books about royal families, said Powell is descended from the Coote family of Irish military baronets. Powell, whose Jamaican-born parents emigrated to America, wrote of relatives named Coote in his autobiography "My American Journey."

Through that line, the former chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff is a direct descendant of England's King Edward I and Caroline Stanhope, which means his lineage can be traced to William the Conqueror. Through the Stanhope line, Powell can claim kinship with presidents George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Bush.

In Washington, Powell spokesman Bill Smullen said he "wouldn't put much stock" in the reports.

Citizens elect officers

Toastmasters hold session

The Hereford Regional Medical Center dining room was the site of the Toastmasters speechcraft session.

Rick Jackson served as toastmaster; Rita Chamberlain, timer; Tili Boozer, AH counter; and Rita Boozer, grammarian.

Topicmaster was Jigger Rowland. He introduced the topic speakers and their topics. They were Chamberlain - "Why would you stay in Hereford when you can make more money in Dallas?"; Helen Posey - "If you were to change professions, what would you choose?"; and Dianna Kimmel - "Happiness is...in accordance to Dianna."

Speakers for the session were Jackson, who spoke on "Raising Children in the 20th Century," and Rowland who spoke on "Real Estate Today." The group evaluated both speeches.

Tilli Boozer told the joke and Pat Varner served as general evaluator. Chamberlain and Posey were guests at the meeting.

SS class holds annual auction

Wall served as auctioneer for the annual auction.

The club planned upcoming programs with the theme "Learning to be on your own."

At the end of the program, popcorn and caramel apples were served to members in attendance.

Club hears book review

The home of Mary Sue Hull was the site of a recent Calliopean Club meeting with Louise Leasure and Dorothy Ott serving as co-hostesses.

Kathryn Ruga, president, presided over the brief business meeting then turned the program over to Audine Dettman who presented a review of the book Savage Son by Oren Arnold.

The story was about the true experiences of an Apache boy who was captured by the Pima Indians during a raid on his village.

Following the program, refreshments of apple pie, ice cream and candies were served to Wilma Nobles, Jan Walser, Mary Fraser, Jan Furr, Jane Gulley, Kathlee Palmer, Audine Dettman, Leasure, Ott and Ruga.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features, too numerous to list.

World's oldest person counts 120 years-plus

PARIS (AP) - Jeanne Calment has been on the planet for precisely 120 years and 238 days. When you're the world's oldest living human on record, you keep track of these things.

Hard of hearing, nearly blind and forced to give up cigarettes, Mrs. Calment was immortalized in the Guinness Book of Records today as the oldest known person whose date of birth can be reliably authenticated. Bracing for a media crush, she joked last weekend that she was "waiting for death and the journalists."

Mrs. Calment, who lives in a nursing home in Arles in southern France, surpassed Shigechiyo Izumi of Japan, who died in 1986 after living 120 years and 237 days.

"Madame Calment's record is arguably the most important of all the 15,000 records included in the Guinness Book," said Norris McWhirter, the book's founding editor.

"After all, staying alive is the most competitive of all records. All 5.2 billion of us are at it."

There have been many reports from various countries of people claiming to have lived up to twice as long, but with little or no proof of their birth dates. Mrs. Calment's birthday is based on numerous civil and religious records.

Since 1985, Mrs. Calment has been living at a nursing home that has been renamed after her. She has used a wheelchair since fracturing her leg and elbow in a fall in 1990.

She has been forced to give up her two cigarettes a day and her single glass of port before meals, but she still nibbles on chocolate, her one vice.

Through it all, she's kept a keen sense of humor. Asked at her 120th birthday bash Feb. 21 to describe her vision of the future, she replied mischievously: "Very brief."

She's been the oldest living person since 1991, when former record-holder Carry White of the United States died at 116.

"She's in perfect health," said her physician, Dr. Victor Lebre. "She's much better than she was this past summer, when she suffered a lot from the heat. But her memory is always excellent."

What a memory. Mrs. Calment vividly recalls traveling to Paris when the Eiffel Tower was still under construction, and selling colored pencils to Vincent Van Gogh when he lived in Arles, "still had his ear" and frequented her father's shop.

She was a young girl of 14 and the painter, she recalls, was "ugly as sin - ill-tempered, a grumbler and smelling of alcohol."

Mrs. Calment was born in Arles on Feb. 21, 1875, just four years after France lost the Franco-Prussian War and a year before Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone.

Her father died at 94 and her mother at 86. She outlasted her husband, brother, a daughter who died of pleurisy and a grandson who died in a car crash, so she has no direct descendants.

She never had a profession, but dabbled in painting and piano.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Everyone, including myself, is disgusted with the junk mail received in our mailboxes each day. It was not until I gave a speech to a college class that I realized the impact of this junk mail on the environment.

Americans receive almost two million tons of junk mail daily and less than 50 percent is ever opened. This really struck a chord with me and I am making a concentrated effort to stop my junk mail.

I would like to share some ideas I find that work.

- There are organizations that provide the service of removing your name from mailing lists.

- When I order anything or open any new account of any type, I present a written request not to be added to any mailing list except for specific billing purposes related to my account and to refrain from giving or selling my name to any other mailing list(s) now or in the future.

- When I receive junk mail that has a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I send my written request to be removed from the mailing list and not to be added to any other lists.

- To clean up old catalogs and other junk mail I do not want, I have written a form letter on my computer and just fill in the new address and date and drop it in the mail.

- It is a good idea to keep a running list of companies to whom you have sent stop requests.—Judie Songer, Rogersville, Mo.

Thanks for your hints! One good organization that can help get your name off national mailing lists is the Direct Marketing Association (DMA), PO Box 9008, Farmingdale NY 11735. When writing, be sure to include your name and any variations, as well as your current address.—Heloise

BEDSIDE POCKET
 Dear Heloise: We don't have much room in our bedroom and a bedside table is out of the question. For small items like the remote, eyeglasses and such, we use the pockets that you buy in the automotive section for your vehicle and attach them to the side of our bed. We love them and they are so convenient.—Betty Miller, Glenwood, Iowa

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams & Ed Sterling
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock spoke in favor of stronger DWI laws before a state Senate committee, drawing from a well of personal experience.

Bullock, a recovering alcoholic who began drinking at age 16, recounted his own battle with alcoholism, and urged the Senate Interim Committee on Juvenile Driving While Intoxicated to pass more stringent laws.

Drivers under age 21 in Texas can lose their license if they are stopped with a blood-alcohol level of 0.07. The legal intoxication level for adults is 0.10.

Twenty-seven other states and the District of Columbia have set a zero-tolerance blood-alcohol standard of 0.02 for drivers under age 21, said R. Gary Taylor of the National Highway Safety Administration.

Illustrating the effectiveness of zero-tolerance laws, Taylor said a 1993 study of 12 states with lower blood-alcohol limits had a 16 percent decrease in single-vehicle nighttime fatal accidents for drivers targeted by the laws.

Bullock suggested that the committee take a good look at what other states are doing to reduce alcohol-related traffic deaths.

"If just one child, one person, is injured or maimed by a person who is intoxicated driving an automobile, that is a severe loss to our state," he told the panel.

Citing figures compiled by the Century Council — a group that works to reduce alcohol abuse — Associated Press reported 358 people under age 21 died in alcohol-related accidents in Texas in 1994. Of those, 256 were killed in crashes in which the driver had a blood-alcohol reading of more than 0.10.

Democratic Chair to Resign
Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle said last week he has decided to step down in December.

Slagle, who has served 15 years as party chairman, said Democrats are spending more time "plotting with and against each other" over his replacement than preparing ways to defeat Republicans.

In a letter to Democratic Party leaders, Slagle suggested that the 62-member State Democratic Executive Committee hear from all candidates for party chairman next month. It would then pick a successor at its Dec. 9 meeting.

Slagle said as many as 13 people had expressed interest in the post, but he believes the field will shrink to two or three by the time of the vote.

Among those considering the party's top job are Houston lawyer and Democratic fund-raiser Bill White, former Attorney General Jim Mattox and former state Sen. Hector Uribe of Brownsville.

Slagle declined to endorse anyone for the non-paying post.

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who will head President Clinton's re-election campaign in Texas, said Slagle's early departure should ease the transition to a new state party chairman.

Bush Warned Against Cuts

Gov. George W. Bush spoke out after being warned by education groups that U.S. House-sponsored funding cuts of federal education programs, such as Head Start, would be to the detriment of Texas children.

"If there is a program (cut) which hurts good Texas programs, I will stand up and fight for Texas," Bush said, adding that he will work with U.S. Sens. Kay Bailey Hutchison and Phil Gramm as the Senate hashes out its budget proposal, and try to protect funding of Head Start and other education programs that benefit Texans.

The cuts would total $2.5 billion over the next six years, said Richard Kouri, president of the Texas State Teachers Association. But Texas Education Commissioner Mike Moses said Kouri's figures, though accurate, "represent a worst-case scenario."

Bush said he wants to know whether the figures are in current spending or anticipated growth.

Education groups say the House proposal would cut off 12,512 Texas children from access to Head Start programs, deny Pell grants for college costs to 23,400 students and cut funding for safety and drug-free programs.

Bush reiterated his belief that Texas can do a better job of running its programs than the federal government, but expressed concern that Texas not absorb an inordinate share of any federal funding cuts.

Bush Urges Fingerprinting

Gov. Bush sent a request to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services in Washington for waivers from federal rules on Aid to Families With Dependent Children.

The waivers are necessary to bring Texas' new welfare law into effect, but would not be necessary if welfare legislation now being considered by Congress becomes law.

Bush also asked permission to begin a pilot program that would require fingerprinting of welfare recipients in Dallas and Tarrant counties. The program, which has bipartisan support, is intended to reduce welfare fraud.

Other Highlights

■ Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, announced that he won't be a candidate for Congress in the 1st District to replace U.S. Rep. Jim Chapman, D-Sulphur Springs. Chapman is not seeking re-election and is considering a challenge to Republican U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm.

■ District Judge David Brooks, a Dallas Republican, said he was abandoning his race for the Texas Supreme Court because Gov. Bush had appointed two other Republicans to vacancies on the bench.

Hot off the presses

"We have tremendous support from the community," McManigal said, acknowledging a donation made this week of $200 from Hereford State Bank so the Key Club can produce an anti-drug brochure for elementary school students.

Dinsmore asked the parents "what the plus of the high school is and what you feel could be improved on?"

Ruben Gutierrez, parent of one student in each of the high school and junior high, praised both schools for "the open door policy they have," noting he has been able to go to both high school principal Terry Russell and junior high principal Marilyn Leasure and talk to them when needed.

In addressing the attendance issue, Mrs. Rincon noted that, in the past, when one of her children would miss school, she wouldn't know about it.

Now, she said, the school has an automatic telephone device that calls her at 7 p.m. -- after she gets home from work -- and reports absences.

After exactly one hour of comments, Clayton closed the hearing and thanked those in attendance for their comments.

Today, the team was to be at the administration building in the morning to meet with staff there, then was scheduled to spend all afternoon and all day Wednesday at the high school, meeting with teachers, administrators, BLT members and some students.

They will meet with high school staff members at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday for a campus exit session.

The team will meet Thursday morning with central office staff for a district exit session.

COMMISSION

Western Ford and Davis Truck and Equipment for a new garbage truck.

Western Ford submitted a bid of $51,364 for the truck. The refuse body bid from Davis was $40,775. The total price will be $92,746, on a three-year payout agreement.

A bid from Southwestern Equipment Company totaling $92,444 was turned down. Although the company's price for the truck was lower, $51,364, the body was higher, $41,080.

Nolen said Southwestern declined to split the bid to allow the city to buy the lower-priced body. Only other bid submitted was from Volvo & GMC Trucks of Dallas, $52,109 for the truck, with no refuse body bid.

Mayor Pro Tem Roger Eades presided in the absence of Mayor Bob Jossierand. Commissioners present were Scott Hall, Wayne Winget, Nancy Griego and Carey Black. Silvana Juarez was absent.
