Miami relatives refuse to assist INS in returning Elian to father

MIAMI (AP) - A day after daring the government to take him by force, Elian Gonzalez's Miami relatives vowed today to keep waiting until federal agents come to them - something that won't happen until an 11th-hour injunction is resolved in appellate court.

An attorney for Lazaro Gonzalez, Elian's great-uncle, said this morning that the Miami relatives refuse to "be the deportation officers" for the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"If the INS wants to deport him, they will have to do it themselves," attorney Spencer Eig said on NBC's "Today." "They are free to come to the house. He will unlock his doors and he will not resist and he will stand by tear-

A remarkable flurry of events Thursday ended with Elian's relatives winning a temporary court reprieve that keeps the 6-year-old boy in the United States for at least a few more days. The government, though, reiterated its plans to act - when it's legally free to do so.

"We'll take action in a way that's appropriate to the situation when we're ready," INS Commissioner Doris Meissner said on "Today." "The family is not in compliance

TRASH FOR CASH

City boosts payments for April's cleanup

City officials hope some added cash will encourage residents to help clean up city alleyways, backyards and Since last fall, the city has offered residents the chance to claim vouchers when they bring in whole loads of trash or building materials and a $1 per item for junk appliances, furniture or bedding. This weekend, the city will increase the voucher amount up to $4 per cubic yard or junk appliance.

The increased voucher amounts are only offered for Saturday-Sunday and must be redeemed Monday.

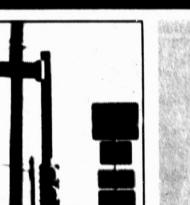

As an added incentive, the city dump will be open extended hours on weekends through the fall.

Weekend hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sundays.

Officials ask that household trash not be brought to the dump, but only large items, which would normally not be allowed in the dumpsters. Residents can bring car batteries, tires, building supplies, and furniture.

City dump rules remain in effect during extended hours. All loads must be covered or tied down and residents need to bring a copy of their water bill or drivers license as proof of residency.

Officials hope this temporary change in policy will encourage residents to get rid of some of the unsightly piles of refuse which builds up.

Solis to represent Deaf Smith County in regional contest

Deaf Smith County will be represented Saturday by Jolee Solis at Bee Day 2000 on the campus of West Texas A&M University in Canyon.

Solis qualified for the honor by winning the Senior Division of the Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee held on March 9.

Day Bee 2000 is the regional competition and the first-place winner will be the area's representative in the Scripps Howard National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C., beginning on May 28. Bee Day begins with a luncheon for all county junior winners and all county senior winners. John Warren has received an invi-

Poll: Public has doubts about security of e-filing

WASHINGTON (AP) - More than one-fourth of tax a third of the American public has doubts about the security of filing tax returns electronically, despite government encouragement of this growing practice, an Associated Press

The doubters range from people like 71-year-old Jack Hurst of Los Angeles who says he doesn't know anything about the Internet to 48year-old Gerhardt Kasper of south Florida who says he knows too much.

The poll, conducted for The AP by ICR of Media, Pa., found 57 percent say they wouldn't worry about the privacy of their financial information when filing online, while 36 percent say they would worry.

"I like to put it down on paper," said Hurst, who is semi-retired and does not own a computer. "I don't like to have it floating around in the Kasper, manager of a service company who lives in Delray Beach, Fla., said he isn't convinced that the Internet "is a secure platform." While he feels the technology isn't fully developed for secure transmission, he's more worried about human er-

"There are usually two idiots, one at either end of the line - the sender and the receiver," Kasper

Nevertheless, the number of people filing taxes electronically is increasing. The Internal Revenue Service says about 30 million, or returns, were filed online last year, and they expect that to grow by close to 4 million this year, said Steve Holden, an IRS official who handles electronic tax administration.

In the AP poll, almost one-third of respondents said they expected to file their tax returns electronically this year, slightly higher than IRS projections. "There are still some lingering concerns that are deeply seated, Holden said. "Not just about e-filing taxes. The concerns will go down as taxpayers and consumers get more comfortable with e-commerce.'

A 1998 IRS reform law set a goal of 80 percent filing electronically by 2007, but IRS projections earlier this year said that only about half of all returns will be filed electronically by that year.

With the tax deadline approaching Monday, the IRS emphasized that people who file online have the advantage of getting their refund in half the time of paper filers and that tax software catches many errors, making the error rate in online returns far lower.

A third of the people in the AP poll said they would be more likely to file returns electronically if it meant they could get tax refunds

Young adults seemed less concerned about the security issue. With 65 percent of those ages 18 to 34 said they would not worry about their tax information online, compared with 46 percent of those 65 and older. One in six of the older Americans said they simply did not know whether to be worried or not.

A small but growing number of people are not only filing their taxes online, but are preparing them through the Internet rather than on software installed in their desktop

It's extremely safe to prepare taxes on desktop software and then file them electronically, said Robert Sterling, an online analyst who specializes in financial services.

By contrast, it's more of a risk to prepare those tax returns online, he said, because "your file is on an Internet-exposed server, 24 hours a day, seven days a week for weeks or months."

ECONOMY: Energy prices fuel surge in inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer inflation jumped 0.7 percent in March, the biggest gain in almost a year, led by sharp increases in gasoline and other energy prices.

The big advance reported today in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index, the most closely watched inflation gauge, was worse than the 0.5 percent rise many analysts were anticipating. The surge stemmed from a 4.9 percent increase in energy prices, the largest since last April.

Outside the volatile energy and food categories, the "core" rate of inflation rose 0.4 percent, the strongest increase in five years. The government said rising prices for housing, transportation and household furnishings accounted for most of the increase. On Wall Street, stock prices plunged on the news. The Dow Jones blue-chip average lost 150 points in the first five minutes of trading; the Nasdaq index fell 85. Bond prices fell as yields on the bellwether 30year Treasurys climbed to 5.80 percent in early trading today from 5.79 percent late Thursday.

In February, consumer prices rose 0.5 percent, reflecting sharply higher energy costs, while the core inflation rate went up by a mild 0.2 percent.

The Federal Reserve has boosted interest rates five times since June 30 to slow the supercharged economy and keep inflation under control.

Given the outlook for strong continuing growth, many analysts believe the central bank will nudge up rates again on May 16.

The Federal Reserve said industrial production at the nation's factories, utilities and mines rose 0.3 percent in March, as expected, a fresh sign that the manufacturing sector is on solid footing. Operating capacity, meanwhile, edged down to 81.4 percent, well below levels associated with a pickup in inflation.

Today's CPI report comes one day after the government said inflation at the wholesale level in March shot up by 1 percent, but the spike was limited to higher energy prices.

The 0.7 percent rise in the March CPI was the largest since last April, when consumer prices also rose by 0.7 percent. So far this year, consumer prices have been rising at an annual rate of 5.8 percent, compared with 2.7 percent for all of 1999.

Jury seated for Resendiz trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A rail-riding drifter accused of being a notorious serial killer was one step closer to his day in court after a jury was seated for his capital murder trial.

Opening statements in Angel Maturino Resendiz's first
Texas case are expected to begin May 2 and last about three weeks, according to the Houston Chronicle.

Maturino Resendiz is charged with the death of Dr. Claudia Benton, 39, who was slain in her Houston home in December Maturino Resendiz, 40, is Hispanic. But no Hispanics were selected to the six-man, seven-woman jury, which includes one alternate. Two of the jurors are black and the others are white.

The jury, which took 14 days to empanel, includes a veteran astronaut, a retired airline pilot, a high school science teacher, two people in retail sales, a business owner, an installer of industrial equipment, a paralegal working as an office manager and an executive in a family food business.
State District Judge William Harmon earlier denied the defendant's requests regarding jury selection.

His court-appointed lawyer, Allen Tanner, said Maturino Resendiz preferred that the first 12 people be selected from the jury pool. His client disliked the requirement that potential jurors must indicate a willingness to vote for the death penalty in his case.

Big Bend body identified

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A severely decomposed body found two weeks ago in Big Bend National Park is now identified as the remains of a Central Texas student.

Foul play is suspected in the death of Shannon Roberts, a 43-year-old medical student at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio.

"The nature of the find being partially buried in a remote area of the park is suspicious," Big Bend Park Ranger Mark Flippo told the San Antonio Express-News in today's editions.

FBI agents used information that Roberts was reported missing to the San Antonio Police Department earlier this year to help identify the body.

An investigation by the FBI, the National Park Service and Texas Department of Public Safety is ongoing.

Roberts was in his fourth year of medical school, health science center spokeswoman Myonc Covert said. Dr. Leonard Lawrence, dean of students at the medical school, announced Roberts' death to students Thursday.

He said health science center officials would issue a formal statement today. Fellow students remembered being told of Roberts' disappearance about a month ago.

But the tests, which vary, grant teachers credentials based on a range of measures from basic skills to knowledge of a specific subject to teaching performance.

The union studied teacher preparation programs for two years and prepared this report, calling for an "urgent national commitment" to raise these standards.

The report comes as lawmakers and educators are struggling with ways to improve teacher quality as U.S. students lag behind other nations in key subjects like math. The Clinton administration has called for the hiring of 2 million new teachers over the decade to address what it calls an imminent teacher shortage due to mass retirements and early departures of teachers with less than three years' experience.

Earlier this year, Education
Secretary Richard Riley called on states to "professionalize" teaching by offering yearround contracts and higher salaries. On average, teachers work under contract for 186 school days; the typical salary for a public school teacher was $40,582 for 1998-99.

Education Department research also showed that four out of five teachers felt unprepared to teach children with special needs or who speak a language other than English. U.S. teachers also say they are not properly trained to use classroom technology.

WTAMU's speech team duo wins first-ever national title

Special to The Brand

Brandon Stow, a sophomore speech communication major from Hereford attending West Texas A&M University, and Jake Simmons, a junior speech communication major from Amarillo, have a way with words.

Together they swept the field and took first place in Duo Interpretation, earning the na-tional championship at the American Forensics Association National Individual Events Tournament in Lincoln, Neb.

"This is the first national championship for WT speech," Dr. Russell Lowery-Hart, coach of the Speech Team and assistant professor of speech, said. "This is an amazing accomplishment."

Stow described the win as an incredible experience.

"We compete against every-one, Division I and Division II schools," Stow said. "We were able to win against schools like Bradley, the University of Texas and Arizona State."

They performed a section based on the script, Twin Falls, Idaho, based on an independent film by Mark and Michael Polish.

Stow and Simmons tightened the script into a 10minute synopsis for the interpretative performance. They qualified for nationals based on their performance throughout the season and then performed the script six times along the way to the national championship.

"In the final round, four of the five judges selected them to win it all," Lowery-Hart said.

Bill Steffensmeir from the University of Nebraska-Omaha said this could be the best duo he had ever seen.

This duo is what makes nationals a great experience when you see something magi-cal like this," Jen Ostema from Grand Canyon University, said. Stow and Simmons each received a silver platter with the national championship designation.

Overall, the team finished 24th among 183 teams compet-

George Pacheco, a sophomore speech communication major from Hereford, and Raul Rodarte, a junior theatre ma-jor from Amarillo, contributed to the team by finishing 13th in Duo. Andee Clark, a fresh-man speech communication and theatre major from Canyon, and Simmons placed 25th

"We have a young team that has experienced top-level com-petition and won," Lowery-Hart said. "I'm proud of them and expect them to do really well next year."

I am an estate planner. Over the last several years, I have seen many clients change their wills, bypassing children and grandchildren, and leave their money to friends, charities and people they once worked with who were kind and helpful.

There are many reasons for changing a will, but the two most common are disrespect and isolation. In some fami-lies, the only time the old folks see the grandchildren is when their parents need a favor — usually, it's money. So, the message the old folks wish 'a convey is as follows:

"You didn't make time for me when I was lonely and would have enjoyed your company, so why should I leave you the money I worked for all my life?"

Wake up out there. An in-heritance isn't something that is owed to you. It is a gift of love. When there is no love, there should be no gift. —

Manasota, Fla.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to pass on a message to your readers who have always been interested in a college education, but never managed to get one.

I have taught freshmen at Ohio State University-Newark for the past 10 years. Some of my best students are return-ing adults. They bring life experience, humor, organizational skills and wisdom to the classroom. They inspire younger students, and introduce them to the adult world. Non-traditional students are dependable, prepared for class, ready to learn, and are in school because they WANT to be there. We love having them. I have taught people from age 16 to 60. I have even taught the parents of some of my students. It encouraged their kids to do better to do better.

Every state has community colleges, evening classes, GED centers and counselors who will help people map out an educational plan. It is never too late to go back to school. Lifelong learning is now a necessity — and a pleasure. — Lucretia S. Pollard, Ph.D.,

Worthington, Ohio

Dear Dr. Pollard: Thanks for giving the extra shove some older folks need to go back to school. I'm sure you've changed some lives today.

Dear Ann Landers: I enjoy reading your "how we met" stories, and I hope you will print mine. Here it is:

When I was growing up, Grandpa George often told me how he met Grandma Mabel. He said he saw her at a party, and the next day, he called her up and said, "Mabel, will you marry me?" She said, "Yes. Who is this?"

They were married for 56 happy years. — J.F. in Janesville, Wis.

Dear Janesville: I've always believed a sense of hu-mor is hereditary. I'll bet you got yours from Grandpa George. Thanks for writing.

Dear Readers: Tomorrow is Income Tax Day. Chew on this Gem of the Day (Credit Alfred Neuman): It takes more brains and effort to make out the income-tax form than it does to make the income.

Caprock's big first inning halts Whitefaces

■ DePriest says the team still controls their own destiny

By Jeff Blackmon

Hereford Brand Sports Editor

As they traveled home from Amarillo last night, I am sure only one thing was on the Whiteface varsity baseball team's minds.

The Caprock High Longhorns won only one inning of Thursday's game.

With an inning that featured 18 Caprock base runners and 14 orange jerseys crossing home plate, the Longhorns were able to beat the Hereford High School baseball team 14-6.

The game turned out to be a strange sight for the fans of both teams Thursday. The Herd stampeded out to an early four run lead in the top of the first off three hits and two Caprock errors. Even on the first play of the game Caprock High's starting short stop stepped on a ground ball and rolled his ankle causing him to leave the game. After RBIs by first baseman Brady Daniel and catcher Ramiro Zambrano the Whitefaces jumped to a comfortable 4-0 lead heading into the bottom Junior Hurler Eddie Lacey (1-4) took the mound in the first and struggled to find the strike zone. It seemed as if Lacey was just a little off and Caprock took advantage. After allowing one run on a throwing error to first, Lacey loaded the bases and was pulled from the game for sophomore Michael Rhyne. Rhyne looked sharp getting the first out of the inning and going ahead of Caprock catcher Jeffery Ornales. On a 1-1 pitch to Ornales, Rhyne hung a pitch that Ornales scorched over the left field fence for the grand slam. Ornales was the thorn in Hereford's side all afternoon as he went on to go 2-4 with both hits leaving the field.

Ornales had a total of seven

RBIs for the game.

After the grand slam, Rhyne also started having control problems. Rhyne was replaced by the catcher, Zambrano, as Toby Torres took over catching duty. Zambrano got the Herd out of the inning but not until the damage was done. The Whitefaces had allowed eight hits and 14 runs and watched their early lead disappage.

Head varsity baseball coach David DePriest said he told his team that they still had a chance to come from behind.

"We have the capability of scoring a lot of runs," DePriest said. "We just kept going and coming at them."

In the top of the second inning, Hereford came back to score their last two runs of the game. After a base hit by Andrew Villarreal, J.P. Holman came up and batted him in cutting the lead to 14-5. Daniel then drove in his second run of the game with a single to right making it 14-6.

The other amazing part of the game was the pitching performance by senior George Castillo. Castillo started the third inning and made the Caprock hitters look like they had never held a bat. Castillo struck out nine hitters and no-hit the Longhorns over five innings.

"George has struggled the last couple of games," DePriest said. "I told him to get back in there and that he could do it, and he did the job."

Castillo only allowed two Longhorns to reach base and those runners reached on walks. Castillo said he was glad he could keep the team close with his pitching.

"It means a whole lot to keep the game close," Castillo said. "My last two starts weren't too good, and coach told me to show him what I was made of."

Hereford's next game is tomorrow at 1 p.m. at home against the Dumas Demons. Dumas comes into the game with a 3-2 district record and an 11-10 overall record.

To be in playoff contention, DePriest said the team must play well in the last half of district play.

"We are still in control,"

Laying down the bunt—Number 21 Kyle Artho attempts to lay down the bunt during Thursday's 14-6 loss at Caprock in Amarillo. The Whitefaces fell behind early but kept the team close with clutch pitching from senior George Castillo. The Whitefaces will take on the second place team in district Saturday when they host Dumas. The Demons are 3-2 in district and 11-10 overall. The Hereford team has fallen to 1-4 in district play and 9-11 overall.

DePriest said. "We probably have to win out but we can do

DePriest said he has always felt his team can play with and beat any team in district

"We probably have to win the next five games, but we can play with anybody in our district," DePriest said.

As far as pitching is concerned, DePriest said he would like to work on control before Saturday's game. The head coach also had no explanation for the team's poor first inning pitching performance.

"During that first inning we gave up eight hits and six walks and after that they didn't have a hit," DePriest said. "Its just one of those things in baseball I guess."

NFL Draft takes place tomorrow

Cleveland eyeing Courtney Brown for first pick

CLEVELAND (AP) Courtney Brown could be on the verge of becoming a Cleveland Brown.

Penn State's dominant defensive end has emerged as the likely No. 1 pick in Saturday's NFL draft by the Browns, who opened contract negotiations Thursday with Brown's agent.

A Browns spokesman confirmed that Lal Heneghan, Cleveland's salary-cap guru and chief contract negotiator, met in New York with Marvin Demoff, Brown's representa-tive. Heneghan was also scheduled to meet with Carl Poston, one of linebacker LaVar Arrington's agents.

Demoff did not return a phone message left at his Manhattan hotel by The Associated Press.

The Browns are favoring Brown, and if they can work out a deal before Saturday, they will make him the first defensive lineman taken No. 1 overall since Dan Wilkinson went to Cincinnati in 1994.

"I would say that there is a strong lean toward Courtney Brown in the building," Browns president Carmen Policy told WTAM radio. "When I say strong, I'd say 65 percent."

In the past two weeks, the Browns narrowed their choice to either Brown or Arrington, his Nittany Lions teammate. Now the club is trying to find out which of them they can sign by noon Saturday.

Pre-draft negotiating is nothing new to the Browns, who used the same tactic last year with quarterbacks Tim Couch and Akili Smith. The team prefers to have some kind of contract agreement reached before the draft to eliminate the chance of their top pick holding out in training camp.

However, by sticking with that policy, the Browns are in effect allowing the players to decide where they want to play. If either refuses to nego-tiate with Cleveland, then they could steer their way to the Washington Redskins, who own the second and third picks.

It's no surprise the Browns are maintaining a closed camp as the clock ticks closer toward when they have to hand commissioner Paul Tagliabue a card holding the name of the top pick.

They did announce that Couch will be part of the travel party flying to New York on Saturday morning to welcome the team's top pick. Couch's addition all but rules out the possibility of the Browns trading their pick. There was some speculation the New York Jets, who own an unprecedented four firstround choices — they moved up from No. 16 to No. 12 Thursday in a deal with San Francisco that send the 16th and 48th overall selections to the 49ers - might offer a package of picks.

The Jets, who obtained two more first-round picks when they traded wideout Keyshawn Johnson to Tampa Bay, are at 12, 13, 18 and 27. They have the ammunition to make an offer the Browns probably couldn't resist.

"The great likelihood is that we will stick with the No. 1 pick and it will be a defensive player," Policy said in his radio interview with the Browns' flagship station.

It is believed the Browns are set to offer Brown a contract structurally similar to the one they gave Couch last year. Couch's seven-year deal included a hefty bonus and "buy back" years that will require Cleveland to give him a second bonus.

Arrington, like everyone else, has given up trying to guess what the Browns will

"I think they're blowing smoke at everybody, including the players," he said on Fox.

Dallas serious about hosting 2012 games

Metroplex officials trying to pass transportation proposal to bolster Olympic bid

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)
- To boost Dallas' bid to land the 2012 Olympics, the North Central Texas Council of Governments is considering a $1 billion transportation plan that would cut travel time from the Cotton Bowl to any venue to 45 minutes or less.

That's the standard the U.S. Olympic Committee set for Dallas and the seven other cities vying for the games.

The North Central Texas Council of Governments said Thursday it is considering put-ting $1 billion toward light rail, carpool lanes and other transportation projects, hoping to make Dallas' Olympic bid the most attractive of the eight cities competing to be the host. The Dallas 2012 bid will be submitted in December. Other bids are expected to come from Cincinnati, Houston, Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco, Tampa-Orlando, Fla., and Washington D.C.-Baltimore.

"We are going to submit an application. We're going to be getting these Olympics, and this is going to be the best transportation an Olympics has ever had," said Michael Morris, transportation director for the NCTCOG.

Morris presented the pro-posal Thursday to the Regional Transportation Council, which oversees distribution of federal transportation money throughout North Texas.

The focus of the plan is on Fair Park, a front-runner on the Dallas 2012 list to be the Olympic Village. Officials have devised a plan in which almost every event venue would be within the 45-minute travel time the U.S. Olympic Committee wants.

Planned venues are not permanently set, but many are in Dallas. Others are in Arlington, Carrollton, Denton, Euless, Fort Worth and North Richland Hills.

The plan proposes $300 million for rail projects, $225 million for freeway projects, $150 million for HOV lanes, $150 million for parking lot con-struction, $100 million for thoroughfare, intersection and sig-nal projects, $50 million for a regional traffic control center to better monitor traffic pat-terns, and $25 million for truck route projects.

The council of governments would seek $4 million from the Olympics to install air conditioners in school buses, a need that was not anticipated in 1996 when the Olympics were in Atlanta.

Other ideas for the $1 billion include converting some freight rail systems to passenger service, building passenger rail lines through the Fort Worth Transportation Authority and Dallas Area Rapid Transit, and creating a freeway management system funded by the Regional Transportation Council.

Today's softball game has been delayed one hour to 5:30 p.m.

D.C. police wage battle of wits with protesters

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

News digest

WASHINGTON - Washington police are waging a battle of wits with protesters who vow to disrupt meetings of world finance ministers Sunday and Monday.

Symbols of the psychological battle were laid out on a Washington street corner Thursday when Police Chief Charles Ramsey plunked down on the sidewalk metal and plastic tubes, chains and chicken wire.
Some 300 tubes and other equipment were seized from two protester vehicles Wednesday night after they were driven from the Maryland suburbs to the District of Columbia. Ramsey readily admitted that his officers knew from intelligence operations that the devices were coming.

From the protester side, the tubes — dubbed "lock boxes" or "sleeping dragons" — represent a new way to keep police from easily breaking human chain blockades.

Used in protests last December against the World Trade Organization in Seattle, one demonstrator inserts an arm on each side and uses a clip to keep the hand inside. The tube is then wrapped in chicken wire, covered with tar and overlaid with duct tape. The tape is designed to hide the material underneath, which in turn is designed to the tube.

Protest organizers were happy to show reporters the plain tubes, but wouldn't describe the covering material. Ramsey and his top deputies were only too happy to de-scribe the finished device, which the chief said was "very effective." But Ramsey had yet another surprise.

The department has formed a special unit that includes officers who are volunteer firefighters. The unit will use equipment that extricates victims from car wrecks, but police wouldn't be more spe-

Fujimori confident going into runoff

LIMA, Peru - Sitting under a portrait of a 19th century Peruvian navy admiral who died rather than surrender his ship, President Alberto Fujimori shows the same determination to see the course through to victory.

In his first interview since Sunday's election, which sent him into a second-round showdown against Alejandro Toledo, Fujimori exuded confidence, saying he had no doubt he would defeat his upstart rival.

At ease and self-assured, Fujimori seemed not to hear the unflattering chants of protesters who were demonstrating Thursday night outside the National Palace in the Plaza de Armas.

"You will always find me calm and tranquil," he said. "I have not gone out and made triumphant declarations."

He said he was pleased with the results of the first round.

"I'm satisfied with the final tally, which gave me 49.9 per-cent after 10 years governing problems," he said.

The president fell just shy of the majority he needed to avoid a runoff. But a threeday delay by election officials in producing the final returns raised suspicions of vote fraud and set off massive street protests by Toledo supporters.

Migrants' dangerous

trek ends in death

PALENQUE, Mexico — For a month, dreams of work, food, homes and happiness drove 250 Central American migrants on a grueling journey north toward the United States. They stumbled through the rugged mountains of their native lands and southern Mexico, shivering with hunger, cold, fear and fatigue.

When they ran out of money, they got jobs on ranches that paid $2.50 a day — enough to buy a few tortillas so they would have the strength to continue their jour-

Shortly after climbing into an open train car in a Mexican town near the Guatemalan border, the car door slammed shut, trapping the immigrants for more than five hours in temperatures that immigration officials estimate at. more than 122 degrees.

Seven died of suffocation and dozens were hospitalized.

"We were all on the edge of death," said Ana Deisy Marquez, a 30-year-old El Salvadoran mother of four who attempted the trip north with her husband, Angel Bustillo.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same intem/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then remember these hints:

· Give the price. A newpaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respnd to an ad with no price.

• Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

. Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out

· Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach with the law." The relatives defied the government's order to make Elian available Thursday for a flight to Washington and a reunion with his father. In a lastminute plea for their cause, they distributed a home video that shows Elian telling his father he does not want to return to Cuba.

The moves were expected to provoke a showdown. A federal appeals court in Atlanta temporarily blocked anyone from taking Elian out of the country until it decides whether to hear the relatives' claims. The government responded to the order today with a 61-page brief and 35 more pages of supporting documents, a court clerk

The Justice Department informally agreed not to transfer custody of Elian to his father for three or four days.

"Our miracle happened!" shouted Mercedes Franco, 59, one of the protesters.

Dear Members,

We invite you to attend our 2000 Annual Meeting of Membership. This will be our 63rd Annual Meeting and we are pleased and excited to be a part of it.

Wayne Amstutz The Pilot Club will cater the meal and there will be drawings for $1,000.00 in door prizes. We will say good bye to outgoing director Wayne Amstutz.
