• Hereford weather •

Thursday's high, 82; low, 61; no precipitation.

The forecast for Saturday shows the remnants of Tropical Storm Helene moving northward into the Carolinas, spreading showers and thunderstorms from northern South Carolina to southeastern Pennsylvania. Showers and thunderstorms are expected from eastern Kansas to southern Michigan. It will be unseasonably cool in the Upper Midwest and northern Plains.

• Strong cold front approaching Texas

A strong cold front bearing down on Texas promises to bring showers, storms and dramatically cooler temperatures as the state enjoys its first official weekend of fall.

Pre-dawn conditions today were mostly cloudy across the state, with some showers and storms reported over southeastern parts of Texas. Temperatures were in the mid-60s in the Panhandle, the mid-70s over North Texas, and the lower 80s in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Skies will be partly to mostly cloudy Friday night over North Texas, and lows will be in the 70s. There's a slight chance of afternoon thunderstorms on Saturday. Highs will top out in the 90s.

It will be partly cloudy and cooler behind the frontal system in West Texas with lows in the 50s and 60s. Showers and thunderstorms are forecast Saturday and it will be much cooler, with highs only expected to reach the mid-60s and 70s.

POLL: More than one-third of Texans don't know what rights First Amendment guarantees

AUSTIN (AP) — More than one-third of Texans cannot name a right guaranteed by the First Amendment and for those who did, only slightly more than half named freedom of speech, according to a poll released Thursday.

The Scripps Howard Texas Poll surveyed 1,000 people during the summer about the First Amendment. The poll, done in conjunction with the Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas, has a margin of error of 3 percentage points.

Fifty-three percent of the respondents named speech when asked to name any freedoms guaranteed under the First Amendment. Three percent said freedom of press and 2 percent said freedom of religion.

Rob Wiley, president of the Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas, said those results were "disturbing."

"The greatest ally of oppression is ignorance and when people don't know what their rights are, it is much easier to take their rights away from them," Wiley said at a news conference Thursday.

The poll also questioned people about the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles. Fifty percent said they believe the board should be required to hold public hearings when considering clemency petitions of death row inmates. Forty percent said they should not.

Texans were more divided on whether board members should be required to vote in public when they decide on clemency petitions, with 46 percent saying votes should be in public and 45 percent saying votes should not.

The 18-member panel has come under increased scrutiny because of a number of high-profile executions in Texas. The board typically votes by fax, and rarely grants a stay of execution.

The poll mostly touched on First Amendment issues, asking people questions such as whether the public has enough access to government documents or whether they believed the press has too much freedom.

Forty-seven percent said they believed they

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

■ FIRST AMENDMENT, U.S. Constitution

have too little access to government proceedings in Texas, with 38 percent saying the public has the right amount of information.

According to the poll, another 44 percent said there is too little access to government documents in Texas, with 33 percent saying the public has the right amount of access.

The poll found much the same resentment toward the media that has been demonstrated in a recent national polling, with 45 percent of those questioned saying the media has too much freedom and 46 saying the media has the right amount.

There was stronger support for journalists being allowed to keep a news source confidential, with 64 percent saying they agree and 21 percent saying they disagree.

"This seems to me to suggest that people understand that without being able to promise confidentiality to news sources, many times there would be no news sources," Wiley said.

Senators loading down anti-poverty bill with projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — A glut of senators' amendments is threatening House-passed legislation to revive inner cities and impoverished rural areas, but sponsors say some version of the bill remains likely to be signed into law.

"In this process, you just have to be patient. It can be very frustrating," said Rep. J.C. Watts, R-Okla., one of the key authors of the bill.

From molasses tariffs to protect Louisiana sugar growers to tax credits East Coast senators want for Amtrak, senators are clamoring to attach at least 73 amendments to a "community renewal" bill put together by President Clinton and House Speaker Dennis Hastert, R-Ill.

"It has become a vehicle everyone knows is going to get signed into law," said Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. "It's going to have a deluge of amendments in the Senate."

The estimated 10-year cost of the bill had swelled from $17 billion when it passed the House this summer to $28.7 billion by Tuesday, when Senate Finance Committee Chairman William Roth, R-Del., released a version with new tax credits for Amtrak and companies providing high-speed Internet access in rural areas.

By Thursday, Roth was ready to propose a measure costing about $37 billion with others items sought by individual senators. But a Finance Committee session Thursday to vote on it was canceled because of fights over how the pie is to be divided, leaving the entire effort in limbo.

"We want to finalize it before the end of the year," said Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D. "But we all have to give and take to reach this goal."

The House-passed bill includes a package of provisions to spur capital investment in low-income areas, including Clinton's "New Markets" initiative creating 10 venture capital firms to invest in small businesses in poor neighborhoods and an expansion of "empowerment zones" where tax breaks and regulatory relief apply. It would also expand the low-income housing credit and magnify tax breaks for reclamation of "brownfield" industrial sites.

One reason for the logjam, senators and their aides say, is frustration from both Democrats and Republicans who face a dwindling number of legislative days in this Congress and few ways of getting their priority projects through the process.

For example, Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, said he persuaded Roth to include a number of farm-related tax items in the bill, some of them vetoed by Clinton earlier this year, as part of a bill that would have repealed federal inheritance taxes.

These include tax-deductible savings accounts for up to 20 percent of a farmer's income, expanding bonds for state-sponsored loans to beginning farmers and modifying a tax credit for biomass energy to include wood chips and untreated construction debris.

"Biomass facilities are making a valuable contribution to a cleaner environment, but we have left them in a financially precarious position without favorable tax treatment," Grassley said.

Mascot retired — A "Scat" costume has found its place in Hereford history. The costume worn by a series of Hereford High School mascots at sporting events has been placed in the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum. The mascot is named after Scat Russell, a long-time Hereford High School principal. A new "Scat" will be on the sidelines tonight when the Herd visits Frenship in a battle of two highly ranked Class 4A squads.

Hospital board sets hearing on tax rate

By Donald Cooper
Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Area residents who want to comment on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District's proposed Fiscal 2001 tax rate will get a chance to air their opinions.

The hospital district directors will conduct a public hearing at noon Monday in the board room of Hereford Regional Medical Center, 801 E. 3rd, to allow the public to express their opinion about the rate.

The hospital district is proposing a tax rate of 23.1 cents per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 1.98 cents.

The effective is 20.57 cents, while the rollback rate is 23.12 cents. The effective tax rate is the rate required to generate the same amount of revenue as the current level. If the rollback rate is exceeded, the taxpayers could petition for an election to decide if the level is allowed to stand.

The hospital district must conduct the public hearing because the proposed tax rate is more than 3 percent above the notice and hearing limit of 21.18 cents.

The average taxable value of a residence within the hospital district has been pegged at $46,902, up from $46,013 this year. If the 23.1-cent rate goes into effect, the tax bill for the average residential property would be $108.34, up from $97.18 this year.

The proposed rate would generate $1,339,186, and increase of $114,776 over the current year.

The tax rate actually provides revenue for two areas — 20.83 cents provides maintenance/operations funding, while 2.27 cents is for debt service.

The maintenance/operations levy will generate $1,207,587, while the debt service levy will provide $133,600.

The board will adopt the tax rate Sept. 28.

Veterans seminar scheduled

AUSTIN — Texas Land Commissioner David Dewhurst, Chairman of the Texas Veterans Land Board (TVLB), urges veterans to attend a seminar next week on improved state benefits that many are eligible to receive. One of the most exciting changes to be discussed is the new low-interest, $150,000 maximum TVLB home loan, which Dewhurst proposed to the Legislature and Gov. George W. Bush recently signed into law.

The free seminar will begin at 6 p.m. Tuesday at Texas A&M Research & Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West. It will cover TVLB home, land and home improvement loans for Texas veterans. After the presentation, a question-and-answer period is scheduled and the seminar will end with one-on-one discussions.

"Now, with our low-interest loans our brave Texas veterans can buy good homes and enjoy affordable monthly payments," Dewhurst said. "And this program doesn't cost the state of Texas one dime, but saves our veterans lots of money. I'd say that's a definite win-win for everyone."

Dewhurst said the higher maximum loans — more than triple the old limit — make the program highly attractive, especially when combined with low interest rates. A new program conceived by Dewhurst offers the TVLB's lowest interest rates on home loans to veterans who agree to become or remain teachers.

• Houston firefighter unable to work •

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston firefighter who got his job back this week will not be allowed to work as an emergency medical technician until the Texas Department of Health finishes an investigation of his role in the death of a 12-year-old boy.

Sergio Lopez, a 20-year veteran of the Houston Fire Department, was fired for neglect of duty after a 12-year-old boy died of an aneurysm.

If Lopez is cleared by the state, he will be reinstated as an EMT, Assistant Fire Chief Rick Flanagan told the Houston Chronicle.

The health department is investigating the Lopez case because EMS is governed by state law. The state can issue warnings, levy fines against ambulance companies and take away the certificate that allows a paramedic or EMT to practice.

In the meantime, Lopez has been assigned to office duty at the firefighters training academy where he will take inventory and coordinate cadets, Flanagan said.

"The fire chief is not a man without common sense," said Wayne Morris, regional emergency medical services director for the health department.

"He is not going to put (Lopez) under patient contact while he is under a high-profile investigation. If he should, there would be other remedies. We could issue an emergency suspension almost immediately."

Burned grasslands threaten feed

Fires consume scarce winter forage; dry conditions remain

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Wildfires that have blackened pastures across Oklahoma have added another worry for ranchers trying to figure out how to feed their livestock over the winter.

Many ranchers already were concerned after this summer's drought dried ponds, reduced the size of the hay crop and forced ranchers to begin feeding hay to their livestock earlier than normal.

The Oklahoma Farm Bureau estimates farmers and ranchers will suffer more than $600 million in damages because of the drought. The estimate includes fall-harvested crops, hay, forage and beef cattle. The loss of fall wheat pasture is estimated at $150 million alone.

The Farm Bureau is trying to put together a listing service that would bring together fire victims with local farmers and ranchers who can offer help.

"Our listing service will allow people impacted by the fires — who have lost their hay crop, lost their winter grazing, may have lost stables for their horses — to be able to get in contact with people with facilities, hay or grass on a temporary or long-term basis," said Scott Bulling, commodity director for the Oklahoma Farm Bureau. "Hopefully, this will help some of the producers affected by the fires."

Bulling is no stranger to wildfire. He farms in the Orlando-Mulhall area and is a recent arson victim.

"We've lost some of our hay crop ... two different times in the last month," he said. "It was set on fire. We lost a couple hundred round bales of hay."

The bureau is modeling the listing service after a successful fall wheat pasture listing service begun last year, he said.

Experts said fires are an additional burden to agricultural producers.

"The biggest loss is simply loss of forage needed for cattle, horses and sheep," said David Williams, agriculture extension agent with the Logan County Extension Office.

"We've lost some of our hay crop ... two different times in the last month," he said. "It was set on fire. We lost a couple hundred round bales of hay."

"Pastures are burned up. There's not much for animals to eat and what's there is dry."

Jack Carson, spokesman for the state Department of Agriculture, said the department doesn't know how many cattle or livestock are displaced by the fires.

"Some of these folks are probably going to need to lease pasture all winter long, if that's the case this certainly might be a better deal for them," he said about the Farm Bureau's listing service.

Report criticizes Texas justice

State poor fare badly in courts

DALLAS (AP) — A report that calls the way Texas provides legal representation to the poor "a national embarrassment" is set to be approved Friday by the State Bar of Texas board members.

The report, "Muting Gideon's Trumpet: The Crisis in Indigent Criminal Defense in Texas," faults the state for a lack of standards and oversight and calls for an overhaul of the system.

It was based on a five-year study and commissioned by a bar association committee and is scheduled to be considered by the state bar's full board Friday during a meeting in Laredo.

Some members of the committee, including report co-author Michael Moore, said some judges and others might push to have it "accepted" but not "approved" by the bar's board.

"I was stunned," Moore, a political science professor and assistant vice president for academic affairs at the University of Texas at Arlington, said in Friday's editions of The Dallas Morning News. "Literally, at the 11th hour, this was shocking to me."

The report is based on surveys of about 3,000 defense attorneys, prosecutors and judges. It found that the system of court-appointed lawyers is often politicized and ineffective.

Judge Marilyn Abousie of the state's Third District Court of Appeals said some have expressed concern about how the report is worded, but there was no organized effort by judges to not approve it.

"I think this report stands on its own," said committee member Vince Perini, a Dallas lawyer who has pushed for reform of the state's indigent defense system. "This was an honest effort to come forward with a carefully balanced statement, but a strong statement, about problems that exist in Texas."

Report co-author Allen Butcher, a county magistrate in Fort Worth, said it was an important piece of work that will take time to digest.

"I think it will be approved if not this meeting, next meeting or the one after that," he said.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers
Dear Ann Landers: I am enclosing a copy of an article that appeared in the Raleigh, N.C., News & Observer on March 28, 1969. I saved it back then and came across it recently. Keep in mind, this was 31 years ago. I thought you might get a kick out of it and want to share it with your readers. — M.R., Raleigh, N.C.

Dear Raleigh: I did — and I shall. Thank you. Here it is:

"After 13 years of marriage, London housewife Doreen Baker said she couldn't go on living with a man who did all the cooking, cleaning and shopping. She tried to get a divorce from 58-year-old Frederick Baker, charging him with refusing to allow her 'the status of a normal housewife.' That was cruelty, she claimed. Her lawyer told Judge Stanley Rees that Mrs. Baker, 41, was allowed only once in her married life to go shopping on her own. When she returned home, her husband examined all her purchases and found three things he did not approve of:

1. She had bought a shopping bag for 4 cents, although there was a good one at home she could have used.

2. She had bought a brand of flour that cost 5 cents more than the kind Baker always bought when he did the shopping.

3. She had gone to the butcher's shop on the wrong day and bought unsatisfactory meat.

What probably made it more difficult for her to bear, the judge said, was that Baker was correct on all three points.

The judge turned down Mrs. Baker's request for a divorce, ruling that although her husband may have been 'irritating and tactless,' he was never cruel. The judge added that Baker had written to his wife, telling her if she came home, he would share the housework with her."

Dear Readers: This is Ann talking. Times certainly have changed.

Dear Ann Landers: This is not a major problem, but it has been bothering me for 25 years. My mother-in-law has a great deal of respect for you, Ann, so I hope you can help me out. She won't listen to anyone else. Believe me, I've tried.

No one in my husband's family refrigerates their jars of mayonnaise — even after the jars are opened. The mayonnaise is kept in the pantry until it is finished. Please be aware that we live in an area where the temperature outside can reach 107 degrees. What I can't understand is why none of them ever get sick. Can it be that they are just lucky? My mother-in-law says her mother used to do it, so maybe the whole family has built up some kind of immunity.

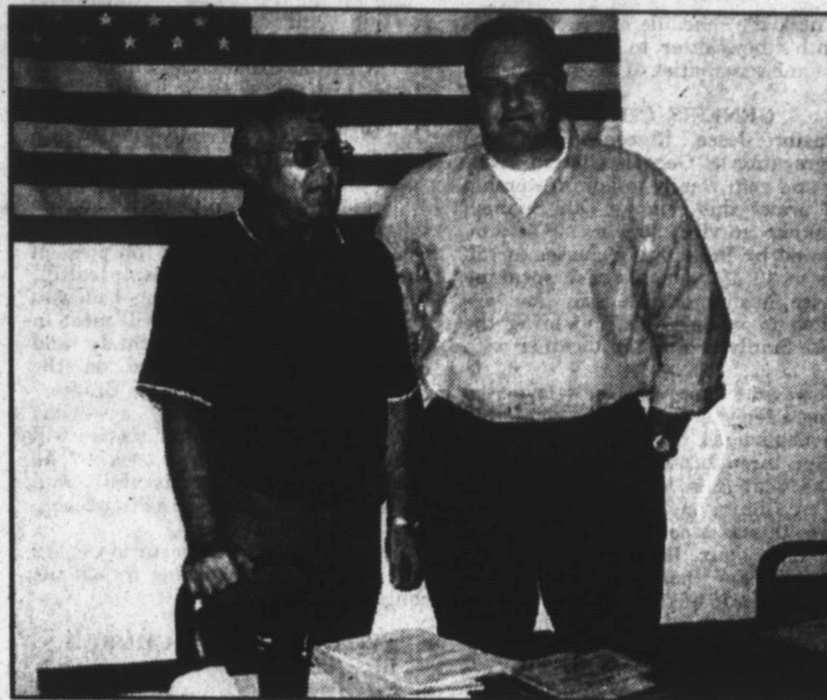

Do you have any idea why this is so? — Baffled in Bakersfield, Calif.

Dear Bakersfield: Your question intrigued me, so my office contacted the Association for Dressing and Sauces in Atlanta. Believe it or not, we were told commercial mayonnaise CAN be stored at room temperature (although temperatures of 107 degrees would be too hot). The eggs are pasteurized, and the acidity content is high enough to kill most bacteria. Refrigeration is recommended, however, to retain the container's original flavor. Kraft Foods strongly recommends refrigerating mayonnaise after opening the jar to ensure good quality and to minimize the risk of contamination.

So, if you're mother-in-law insists on leaving her mayo in the pantry, she probably won't get sick from it. I, however, will keep my mayo in the fridge, just to be safe.

Christian country music star set to perform in Amarillo

Mike Manuel, the Christian Country Music Association's 1999 Male Vocalist of the Year, will be in concert Sept. 30 at the Tascosa High School Auditorium in Amarillo at 7 p.m.

The concert is sponsored by Woody Wiggins Promotions, KTUE 1260 AM in cooperation with KJRT, KRGV, KIJN, and KNNK.

Local artists Janice Geerdes of KRGV and Rick Sanchez of KIJN will join Manuel on stage during the concert. There is no admission, but a love offering will be taken.

Manuel describes his music as "country music with Christian words." His song "Right's What's Wrong with Me" was the number five song for 1999. "He's A Friend," another of Manuel's songs, has been number five on the Christian Country Music Charts this year.

Listening to the sounds and learning the songs of Marty Robbins, Elvis Presley, George Jones and other artists in the early '70s were some of the first musical influences Manuel received.

Singing was a family tradition passed down from his father, Gerald Manuel. Mike learned to play the guitar in his early teens and he and his brothers traveled for several years as the Manuel Family Band.

Along the way, Manuel founded a church, served as pastor of a congregation, involved himself in humanitarian projects and raised three daughters and a son with Elaine, his wife of 22 years.

Manuel relocated his family to Nashville, Tenn., in 1996 and entered a full-time solo career with a progressive Christian country sound and emphasis.

What followed was a succession of six number one radio singles and more than 16 awards from various music organizations, including the Country Gospel Music Association 1998 National Entertainer of the Year and 1998 National Songwriter of the Year.

Total Youth Ministry mini-courses are Wednesday from 7-8:30 p.m.

Liturgical and charismatic prayer meeting is at 7 p.m. Thursday.

The Sacrament of Reconciliation is offered every day by appointment or Saturdays at 4:30 p.m.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

On this, the 15th Sunday after Pentecost, Pastor Nathan L. Stone will explore the Gospel text (John 15:1, 4-5) and emerge with a sermon entitled "Celebrating Your Place at the Table of God."

The service of gathered worship (10:30-11:25) will include the ritual of baptism. Katrina Brock will present her sons, Troy and Robert, to be baptized. Bill and Shelly Riggall and Jennifer Brock have also requested this rite of water - this celebration of their place at the table of God.

Somewhere among his savings Pastor Stone found the following doctrinal statement. And, while, FOB adheres to no creed (FOB believes in deeds not creeds!), this statement comes close to much of what the Fellowship believes: "Love is the doctrine of our church; the quest of truth is its sacrament, and service is its prayer. To dwell together in peace, to seek knowledge in freedom, and to serve humanity in fellowship, to the end that all shall grow in harmony with the divine."

In "Forum" (9:30-10:15) - FOB's version of adult Sunday school - the group will dialogue and discuss the Supreme Court ruling in Jupe that outlawed school-sponsored prayer at high school football games. And what about that "No Pray! No Play!" movement? This should make for a lively discussion.

A unique Sunday school for children also meets at 9:30. FOB teachers, Merle and Wendell Clark, Connie Banks, and Carolyn Baxter will be there to greet the church's best and first-class citizens - the children.

FOB serves great homemade goodies, hot coffee, and soft drinks at 9:15.

A supervised nursery is available at all services.

FOB - the building - is located at 245 N. Kingwood (at Moreman). FOB - the people - are here, there, and everywhere doing their best to live an honest, authentic, and non-duplicious faith.

Big 12 faces inferior foes

More than half of the Big 12 teams compete in final non-conference games of the year

DALLAS (AP) — This is the last weekend before the games really count in the Big 12.

The non-conference part of the Big 12 schedule wraps up Saturday with just more than half of the league's teams in action. Seven teams get their final tuneup before the games count in the standings, while the other five take the weekend off.

And of the teams in action, it seems that only Oklahoma State faces a legitimate challenge, while Baylor has to try to rebound from the loss of injured quarterback Greg Cicero.

Oklahoma State (2-0) is home against No. 22 Southern Mississippi (1-1), which is coming off a 21-0 victory at Alabama after a season-opening 19-16 loss at Tennessee. The Cowboys and Golden Eagles have never met.

In other games Saturday involving Big 12 teams, top-ranked Nebraska plays Iowa; fourth-ranked Kansas State entertains North Texas; No. 17 Oklahoma is home against Rice; No. 15 Texas is home against Houston; and Kansas plays Southern Illinois.

Colorado, Iowa State, Missouri, Texas A&M and Texas Tech all have an open date before a full slate of Big 12 games the following weekend.

While Oklahoma State is also coming off a shutout victory, Southwest Texas State certainly isn't on the same level as Southern Miss. The Golden Eagles may be 0-9 against Big 12 teams, but last year went to wire at Nebraska before losing 20-13.

Oklahoma State didn't have any offensive problems against Tulsa and Southwest Texas, averaging 402 total yards per game. But Cowboys coach Bob Simmons knows those stats don't mean much considering how much tougher the competition will be Saturday.

"I like our skill on offense but our execution has got to be flawless," Simmons said. "The mistakes we've made the last couple of games we cannot make in this kind of ball game."

Baylor (1-1) tries to recover from the loss of Cicero, who was lost for the season when he broke his collarbone in last weekend's 34-9 loss to Minnesota. The Bears play South Florida (2-1) for the first time. After a week off, Nebraska (2-0) plays Iowa (0-3), this time with Eric Crouch as the starting quarterback. Last year as the backup quarterback, Crouch rushed for three touchdowns in a 42-7 victory over the Hawkeyes.

Kansas State (3-0) tries to extend its 24-game home winning streak against North Texas (0-3). The Eagles are coached by Darrell Dickey, who was the four-year starter at quarterback for Kansas State from 1979-82 and led the Wildcats to their first postseason bowl game as a senior.

Oklahoma (2-0), which has scored 100 points in its first two games, renews a series with Rice (1-2) that has been dormant since 1979. The Sooners have won all six previous games, including 63-21 in the last one. Texas (1-1) tries to rebound from its loss at Stanford when it plays in-state rival Houston (1-2) for the first time since 1995, when the Longhorns had 614 total yards in a 52-20 victory.

For the first time since 1987, Kansas (1-1) plays Southern Illinois (1-2), which has bolstered its lineup with eight Division I-A transfers, six of them from the University of Florida.

NCA wins fifth

The Nazarene Christian Academy won their third straight volleyball match taming the San Jacinto Lady Patriots 15-16, 15-9, 15-9.

The Lady Eagles were led by Haley McColluch who had 22 service points in the Lady Eagles' victory.

The Lady Eagles (5-1, 4-0) are undefeated in district play winning all four of their district games.

Other leaders in Thursday's win included Trinity Power who had 11 service points followed by Lacy Tolbert who had six successful serves.

The next match for the Lady Eagles is on Monday, Sept. 25, against American Home School.

Astros hand champs loss

■ Benes struggles in first start back from knee injury

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A day after the St. Louis Cardinals clinched the NL Central, Andy Benes struggled in his personal drive for the postseason. Benes, coming off a knee injury and making his first start since Aug. 14, struggled as the Houston Astros beat the Cardinals 7-5 Thursday. He'll get two more starts to prepare for the playoffs. He allowed five runs and five hits in five innings and threw 94 pitches. "It's almost like a spring training game where you're just trying to get back in the swing of things," Benes said. "Right now I don't really have the luxury of that because we're trying to win more games than anybody in the league. Hopefully, next time I'll be able to throw more innings and give up less runs." Cardinals manager Tony La Russa didn't start Jim Edmonds and three other regulars after a night of celebrating, and he also let outfielder Eric Davis decide the lineup. Davis, 38, joked after not giving himself a start. "He's an older guy, and when I got here I was talking to some of the guys about who I was going to decide to play and we had a real extensive celebration," Davis said. "So it was probably the best move that I kept him out of the ballgame." The Astros' Jeff Bagwell missed only his fourth start of the year. "This game seemed anticlimactic," manager Larry Dierker said. "It happened so early in the day, so soon after the clincher, it seemed to lack a little something I'm sure more for them than for us." Mark McGwire flied out against Marc Valdes as a pinch hitter with two on in the eighth and is 3-for-9 with two homers since returning from the disabled list. Benes is 0-5 in his last seven starts after winning six straight decisions from June 6-July 13. Cartilage damage in his right knee began to affect his delivery and he'll have arthroscopic surgery after the season. Benes said he's not worried whether he'll be part of the postseason rotation. "I'm going to do what I can do and I'll find out where I fit in the picture and go from there," Benes said. "But that's not going to be a source of any irritation or aggravation." The Benes brothers, Andy and Alan, pitched in the same game for only the second time in their careers, the first time back-to-back. Both pitched July 23 at Houston, but with two relievers in between. Alan Benes, who's struggled in a relief role after missing more than two seasons with shoulder woes, worked the sixth and seventh and allowed one run and four hits in two innings. Rookie Tony McKnight (3-1), making his fifth career start and first against the Cardinals, gave up six hits. Octavio Dotel worked the ninth for his 15th save in 20 chances, allowing an RBI single to Will Clark. Richard Hidalgo homered in the ninth off Gene Stechschulte, his 42nd of the year and ninth off St. Louis this season, his most against any team. Hidalgo hit only 15 homers in an injury-plagued 1999 and his goal for this year was 30.

Giants clinch west

■ San Francisco edges out Diamondbacks 8-7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Instead of heading into San Francisco's busy nightlife to celebrate their division title, the Giants stayed home. Champagne corks popped late Thursday night in a downstairs restaurant at Pacific Bell Park. Hours earlier, the Giants christened their beautiful new ballpark with an 8-7 victory over the Arizona Diamondbacks that clinched San Francisco's second NL West championship in four years. "It was a sweet celebration tonight," manager Dusty Baker said. "We took a big step toward where we want to be. We're going to let this soak in a little bit, and then we'll concentrate on what happens in October." San Francisco's fans also celebrated in style. The Giants' 77th sellout crowd of the season furiously waved towels and let loose with deafening cheers as Calvin Murray squeezed Jay Bell's long fly ball to center for the final out. Catcher Bobby Estalella grabbed closer Robb Nen in a hug, and the Giants spilled out of the dugout to form a pile near the first-base line. Fireworks and water cannons exploded in right field.

Dallas vs. 49ers lacks appeal

■ Both teams a shadow of former selves

IRVING, Texas (AP) — How the mighty have fallen. The memories stirred up when Dallas and San Francisco play are of six NFC championship games, including Dwight Clark's leaping catch in January 1982 that sent the 49ers to their first Super Bowl. Five of those games preceded Super Bowl titles for the two teams, three for the Cowboys and two for San Francisco. The Cowboys and 49ers — who play Sunday for the first time in three years — have played in a combined 13 Super Bowls. San Francisco has won an NFL-record 16 division titles, just one more than Dallas' 15. In the reality of a new decade, however, the 49ers (0-3) are far removed from their championship glory in the age of free agency and the salary cap. Dallas (1-2) could be headed down the same road. The Cowboys have an aging roster and millions of dollars tied up in salaries for guys not even around — about $11.2 million of this year's $62.3 million salary cap is going to 64 retired, injured or otherwise absent players. "I came into the league with a team that was worst in the NFL, and to be a part of rebuilding something, only to see the system take it away from you was a little frustrating," Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman said. "It's going to be a long time before you see the likes of the teams that we had in the '90s, or the Niners in the '80s or the Steelers in the '70s. It's just a different time." Aikman, who missed the last two games because of his ninth concussion, sustained in the Sept. 3 season opener, returns as the Dallas starter Sunday, when the Cowboys and 49ers play six years after their last of their great postseason battles. Dallas was 1-15 in 1989, Aikman's rookie season and a year when San Francisco won its second straight Super Bowl during a stretch of nine straight postseason appearances.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

HER NAME HAS BECOME PART OF OUR LANGUAGE—JEZEBEL!

IT HAS BEEN A CUSTOM, IN MODERN TIMES, WHEN A WOMAN ATTRACTS AND SEEMS TO EXERT UNDUPLICATE INFLUENCE OVER A MAN, OR MANY MEN, FOR PEOPLE TO CALL HER A JEZEBEL. HOWEVER, NO MODERN COUNTERPART COULD EVER COMPETE WITH THE ORIGINAL JEZEBEL FOR DOWNRIGHT EVIL AND MURDEROUS ACTS! BORN A PHOENICIAN PRINCESS, DAUGHTER OF KING ETHBAAL, SHE MARRIED KING AHAAS OF ISRAEL (CIRCA 865 B.C.) AND, IN SHORT ORDER, COMPLETELY DOMINATED THIS WEAK-WILLED RULER. ONCE AHAAS WAS UNDER HER CONTROL, JEZEBEL IMMEDIATELY SET ABOUT DESTROYING ISRAEL'S RELIGION AND REPLACING IT WITH THE WORSHIP OF BAAL AND ASTARTE, PHOENICIAN DIETIES OF HER HOMETOWN....

...SHE INSTALLED, IN THE PALACE, AND SUPPORTED, NINE HUNDRED PRIESTS OF THIS HEATHEN RELIGION AND, IN TURN, HUNTED DOWN THE PRIESTS OF ISRAEL AND SLAUGHTERED THEM WHERE EVER SHE COULD! LOUNGING IN ORIENTAL LUXURY IN THE PALACE, SHE DIRECTED THE POLICIES OF THE KINGDOM, WHILE AHAAS SAT MEEKLY BY HER SIDE, NEVER DARING TO DISPUTE HER. HER SCHEMINGS, HER CRUELITIES, AND HER PASSION FOR BLOOD-SPILLING ARE RECORDED IN THE BOOK OF 1 KINGS. ONLY ELIJAH, THE GREAT PROPHET, STOOD UP AGAINST THIS WICKED QUEEN AND FOUGHT HER EVIL INFLUENCE AT EVERY TURN. HER OWN DEATH AND DESTRUCTION WAS PREDICTED BY THE PROPHET AND TOOK PLACE EXACTLY AS HE PROPHESED IT WOULD! (1 KINGS 9:30-37)

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."
Then remember these hints:
• Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of
• Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
• Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
• Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

OIL POLITICS: Gore reaping the benefits of inside information, influence

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton says he needs to assess the "lay of the land." Al Gore's top three West Wing advisers are there to focus the president's view. "Do it," Gore urges from the campaign trail. The Treasury secretary makes a backflip.

Republicans claim collusion and opportunism.

This week's debate over whether Clinton should tap the government's emergency petroleum reserve to try to drive down oil prices illustrates how Gore — Democratic presidential candidate first, vice president second — reaps the political benefit of inside information and influence.

Clinton and Gore consulted by telephone before Gore began on Wednesday to roll out his pronouncement that the president should use some of the government's 571 million-barrel stockpile to nudge oil prices.

It was one day after Clinton suggested he was on the brink of a decision and the same day that The Wall Street Journal got hold of a week-old memo in which Treasury Secretary Larry Summers argued that such a use of the emergency oil reserve "would be a major policy mistake."

On Thursday, as Gore held forth the opposite view at a Maryland oil distributorship, Summers telephoned a campaign reporter to explain.

Gore's proposal, in fact, "could be appropriate in current circumstances," Summers said.

An administration official further clarified that Summers' memo had specifically been directed against a Department of Energy proposal to sell 60 million barrels of oil, about one-tenth of the reserve, and not a more limited proposal like Gore's.

Gore has not specified how many constitutes the "several" 5-million-barrel releases he would authorize.

Republican presidential candidate George W. Bush used a Cleveland campaign appearance on Social Security to accuse Gore of pursuing "short-term political gain at the cost of long-term national security."

GOP spokesman Mark Pfeifle said, "One does not have to have invented the Internet to see this is obvious coordination between Al Gore and Bill Clinton to make up for eight years of failed energy policies."

Energy Secretary Bill Richardson countered that it was the Republican-led Congress that failed to pass administration initiatives, chiefly the creation of a Northeast heating oil reserve.

"You can't blame us for not having a policy ... when a lot of it has not passed," Richardson told the House Government Reform Committee Thursday.

Vice presidential chief of staff Charles Burson, national security adviser Leon Feurth and domestic policy adviser David Beier have been "active participants," Burson said, in White House meetings on Clinton's next step.

White House spokesman Jake Siewert said conspiracy theorists "should wait for our decision."

"We'll make our decision on the merits," he said, adding that Gore's proposal is just "one of the options President Clinton has on the table."

Bush's running mate hammering Gore

CHESTERFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Dick Cheney is wrapping up a week of campaigning in battleground states punctuated by a steady stream of attacks on Al Gore.

The GOP vice presidential candidate will visit a senior center in Iowa on Friday to talk up George W. Bush's plan to help elderly Americans pay for their prescriptions. He also plans to stop in Omaha before flying to Washington, where he'll spend part of next week preparing for an Oct. 5 debate with Democratic Sen. Joe Lieberman of Connecticut.

Cheney kept up a steady stream of attacks on Gore during a campaign tour that took him through states that Republicans and Democrats consider up for grabs.

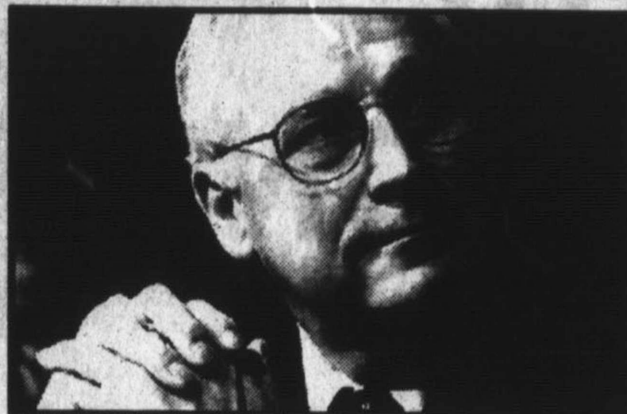

Tuesday in California he criticized what he said was Gore's hypocrisy on Hollywood. Wednesday in New Mexico he said the vice president and his boss have "damaged the military. Thursday in Missouri was the day to blame Gore's energy policy for higher fuel prices.

It's a bit of a new twist for Cheney, initially viewed as the man who would help George W. Bush shore up the Republican base by shadowing the Texas governor through tossup states and highlighting Bush's proposals for tax cuts, strengthening the military and overhauling Medicare.

Certainly Cheney is doing that. But now that Gore has erased a double-digit deficit in national polls by pulling even or slightly ahead of Bush in the polls, Cheney is increasingly taking on the more traditional role of a running mate, albeit in a statesmanlike manner.

Where Bush will shout — "They have not led! We will!" — Cheney is more likely to say he's "disappointed" by Gore's rhetoric or call his proposals "unfortunate" or deliver the following type of somber criticism with hands folded in front of him: "I think what we find difficult is to engage in the debate when the vice president clearly is prepared to, in effect, make things up from whole cloth in terms of coming up with examples to demonstrate his point of view," he said Wednesday. Gore's tale about the difference in price for the same arthritis medicine for his mother-in-law and aging dog. Meanwhile, with polls showing a tight presidential race in Florida, Joseph Lieberman was, for a second day, making a campaign drive in the Sunshine State, this time with a pitch that he and Gore offer more for families with small children.

"A lot of parents in the country, I'm afraid, leave their kids at a child care program and when they go off to work, they worry about the quality of the care that their kids are going to get," Lieberman told parents and children at the Boynton Headstart Center.

"So Al Gore and I feel very strongly that one of the best things that we can do ... is to help working families afford to pay for better child care," he said.

Lieberman, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, told the small group that he and Gore hoped to increase funding for Head Start and help states offer universal preschool — at a cost of $50 billion over 10 years — expand the existing tax credit for child care expenses to 50 percent from 30 percent and provide poor families with $2,400 to help pay for child care.

Melissa Bell, a 24-year-old single mom raising three children while working as a customer service representative for a catalogue company, said she was grateful for the Head Start program. She relies on relatives to care for her two children who are in kindergarten and second grade.

Planners give OK to controversial WW II memorial

WASHINGTON — Ground will be broken on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, for a controversial World War II memorial on the National Mall that critics fear will spoil the majestic views of the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS News digest

With decorated war veterans such as Sen. Daniel Inouye, R-Kan., and former Republican presidential candidate Bob Dole speaking in favor of the monument, the National Capital Planning Commission approved the design 7-5 on Thursday night. The commission left open the question of a central statue bearing a "Light of Freedom," to be placed in the middle of the Rainbow Pool, until a design is submitted.

Gunmen free hostages in southern Russia

LAZAREVSKOYE, Russia — Gunmen holding several people in a southern Russian town released all their hostages on Friday and surrendered to police, a regional official said. At least three gunmen had been holding as many as four people hostage in a small hotel in the town of Lazarevskoye, about 36 miles west of the Black Sea resort of Sochi. The gunmen seized the hostages on Thursday morning and demanded $30 million or the release of all Chechens held in Russian jails.

Observers on Ethiopia-Eritrea border

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — The first 15 U.N. military observers were deployed Friday to the Ethiopian-Eritrean border, where they will prepare the ground for a 4,200-strong peacekeeping mission. Three five-man teams of unarmed observers, along with armored cars and equipment, flew in an Ilyushin-76 transport aircraft to the border area where the two Horn of Africa neighbors had fought since May 1996. Both countries signed a cessation of hostilities agreement on June 18 and agreed to the deployment of peacekeepers.

Romanians sweep gymnastics

SYDNEY, Australia — Andreea Raducan became the first Romanian since Nadia Comaneci to win the women's all-around gold in gymnastics. But her victory was almost overshadowed Thursday by a misadjusted vault apparatus that threw other competitors off their routines.
