CLASS OF 2000:

By Dianna F. Dandridge

Hereford Brand Staff Writer The day in the limelight for the Class of 2000 has been a long time coming and now that it is here, this class of future leaders looks forward to meeting the expectations of this milestone class.

Future leaders from Hereford High School see things a little differently than do their predecessors.

Medicine, marine biology, the ministry, engineering, nursing are just the direction the wind has blown some of the students who will walk across the stage in just two short

"There's nothing leaderlike about it - it's just medicine,' Darren Sliney said. However, many of his predecessors believe there is actually quite a bit of leadership in "just medicine."

"Adventurally, I want to go into the ministry," said Seth Pietsk, who is probably better known for his football achievements than for his religious calling.

Peitsk's inclinations sway him towards the administrative end of the ministry.

"I'd rather build on a strong foundation, rather than have to set that foundation. I'll let someone else who has a heart for the youth go that direction," Pietsk said.

Leading the way with humor and academic achievements is Tan Nguyen, the presumptive valedictorian for the Class of 2000.

"I didn't even realize I would be considered the Class of 2000, until I was in like the seventh grade. Then something just kind of hit me.

Even with late dawning of understanding, Nguyen has his own plans of being an engineer — and he

The representative group

"We've all been better prepared to take the role as leaders," Tori Walker, a future marine biologist, said. "We've been branded as the Class of 2000 since kindergarten.'

She continued to say she has a picture of herself graduating from kindergarten, with a sign which says "Congratulations, Class of

Drought hammers ag values

"The crop year we're looking

DANNY JONES, Deaf Smith County Appraisal District

By Donald M. Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor Two years of drought during the latter part of the 1990s had an adverse effect on the tax base in Deaf Smith County.

County chief appraiser Danny Jones said the value of agricultural land within the county fell by about $6 million last year. Within the Here-ford Independent School District, the value of agricultural land fell by about $7 million.

Jones said the estimated valuation of the land for 2000 may change after the Deaf Smith County Appraisal Review Board (ARB) hears protests from property owners; however, he said the value of farmland still will be lower than in 1999.

In determining the value of agricultural land, the appraisal district includes a five-year average of crop

"The crop year we're looking at now was a drought year, so ... the numbers drop. I hate to lower (the value) because next year we'll have to raise it," Jones said.

He said the crop yields (and value) were down in 1997 and 1998 because of drought, but when the appraisers begin work on the 2001 valuations, the 1999 crop year will be the base — and "In 1999, some farmers made money. The yields were better than in '98 and '97."

"But the bottom line is, we lost $6-$7 million in value," he said. Tax abatements also cost the

Dimmitt sets city garage sale

DIMMITT — The 13th Annual Citywide Garage Sale, sponsored by the Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce, will begin at 8 a.m. June 3.

The annual event usually has more than 100 families participating, and Dimmitt merchants will feature sidewalk sales and garage sale specials. Also, vendors will set up on the courthouse square to offer a variety of merchandise.

On the morning of the sale, shoppers are invited to pick up directories and maps at the stoplight at the intersection of U.S. Highway 385 and State Highway 86, at the northwest corner of the Castro County Courthouse. Maps also are available in several Dimmitt businesses.

For more information or to reserve a downtown booth, contact Bill Sava at the Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce, 647-2524.

HISD bands to perform

The sixth-, seventh- and eighth-grade bands of Hereford Independent School District will perform an outdoor concert at 5:30 p.m. May 22 in front of Hereford Junior High School, 704 LaPlata Drive.

The concert will feature the individual bands for each grade level as well as one song that combines all 300 students.

In addition to this, the seventh grade band will be giving the "World Premier" of a musical piece that they wrote during the current school year.

Entitled "Outdoor Fantasy," the number is unique in that one measure of music was written by each participating student and these were edited together for the entire group.

HISD to offer credit by exam

Hereford Independent School District will offer Credit by Examination for students in grades one through 12 on six dates this summer, including June 19, 20 and 21 and July 19, 20 and 21.

Registration forms to request this examination process are available at each campus of the school district in the counselor's

Registration deadline for these tests is May 26. Additional information may be obtained by calling Kelli Moulton at 363-7600.

GED testing dates added

Additional testing dates for the GED credit will be May 24 and 25 at the Hereford Independent School District Central Administration Building, 601 N. 25 Mile Ave.

There will be no GED testing during June and July. Testing will resume in August. For additional information, contact Samantha Guerrero at Educator to honor

One of the most prominent figures in American education will visit Hereford Independent School District next week.

Dr. William Glasser, founder of the William Glasser Institute, will be in town Wednesday to recognize Aikman Primary School, which earned a national reputation when the campus became one of only eight schools in the United States to earn designation as a Glasser Quality School. Dr. Glasser will visit the Aikman in the morning and personally give his approval to the campus staff and students. He will spend the afternoon meeting with administrators from throughout the district, followed by a 4 p.m. meeting which is open to the public. The public meeting will be at the HISD administration building, 601 N. 25 Mile Ave.

The honor has been recognized by educators from throughout Texas and Principal Charles Lyles has received numerous e-mail letters of congratulations.

"You have a great school with great people," wrote Dr. Michael P Stevens of West Texas A&M University in Canyon. "My congratulations to you on you continued and untiring efforts on the part of the children served by Aikman Elementary. . . I continue to state publicly to anyone that will listen that Aikman is the best elementary school I have ever visited."

"Congratulations, I am very pleased for you and your staff," wrote Dr. Arlin V. Peterson of Texas Tech University in Lubbock. "I know you have worked hard to achieve Quality School status. Good luck." From Dr. Jim Whitefield of the Uni-versity of Texas Austin Center for Reality Therapy and Quality School came these words: "I couldn't be happier for you and your staff there at Aikman. Let me know if I can do anything to help you (in the fucation Agency's Exemplary rating and has earned Exemplary rating for the 1999-2000 school year. Lyles said he, the students and staff, have toward the goal of being at the top of the educational spectrum for the past nine years and with the Glasser designation and Exemplary ratings those years of hard work has paid off in a big way.

"This has been a long and intense effort to earn this recognition," Lyles said, "but it is well worth the effort and tells the kind of people we have working on our campus. We are extremely pleased with this honor and look forward to Dr. Glasser's visit."

Aikman Primary School is the only school in this area of the United States to earn Declared Quality School status from the Glasser Insti-tute. Other schools are in Clearwater, Fla., Montgomery, Ala., Boulder, Colo., Wyoming, Mich., Lexington Mass., Middleville, Mich., and Newport, Wash. Only three of those are traditional public schools.

Glasser's lectures teach that all the problems people struggle with in school are "relationship problems." He stresses that the success of any teacher is directly proportional to how well that teacher gets along with his or her students, especially with students and even parents who are hard to get along with. "We are all aware of the great technical progress that is the hallmark of this century,"

Dr. Glasser says. "However, few of us are aware that we have made no corresponding human progress, if human progress is measured by getting along better with each other.

"Students are no easier to deal with this year than they were 10 years ago. We can put men on the moon, but we have yet to come close to teaching our students what they need to succeed in a society where education is now almost the only road to success."

He says it isn't that teachers don't try to get along with students, they work hard at this, but they are like 99.0 percent of the people in the world who follow an ancient common-sense psychology that makes it almost impossible to get along with people who don't treat you the way you want to be treated.

Glasser calls this a destructive psychology of External Control Theory and most people will realize how much better off they would be if this was replaced with Choice Theory.

The Glasser Institute is an international organization consisting of more than 47,000 people from throughout the world who have received training in choice theory, reality therapy, quality education and choice theory management.

Focus on your city

Bob Josserand Hereford mayor

Commission moving on two major issues

t has been quite a while since we have done a "Focus on Your City." As you have probably noticed in the Brand or heard over KPAN, your city has been moving forward on two fronts: one a new solid waste (trash) disposal area at the city farm and, second, a wastewater disposal area, also at the city farm.

The purpose of this column is to discuss briefly the wastewater treatment ideas because your commissioners will be voting on the issue Monday. We have had several planning meetings regarding wastewater disposal and I think it is safe to say that the commission has come down to consideration of only two options. Either of the options being considered by the commission involves taking all of the waste water to the city farm and that point treating the wastewater either in an aerated lagoon or a faculta-

Both of these options have advantages and disadvantages. The aerated approach is probably a little more efficient, but also requires some aerators and electricity. The facultative approach to the wastewater treatment is all handled without any mechanical equipment, but is probably a little less efficient. Regardless, either of these systems as approved by the Texas Natural Resource and Conservation Commission will provide an opportunity to eliminate the odor that is presently on the east side of town and will put us within the requirements by the state for wastewater treatment. In our discussion over wastewater treatment, considerable interest was expressed by the commission in utilizing our wastewater flow for application to city parks and/or our golf course. After considerable investigation and discussion, it was determined that additional $1 million cost over and above other treatments probably made it unfeasible at this time. Certainly, there is nothing that would prevent us from going back and establishing a packaged treatment plant for water for our city parks and/or golf course in the future. It's simply a matter of cost at this time.

Regardless of which treatment facility your city commissioners decide upon, your city will act as its own general contractor in building the facility, bidding out those construction items that we are not equipped to handle and using our personnel wherever possible. This provides the opportunity for us to reduce costs regarding construction and to make sure that wherever possible, we can utilize local folks.

As I think most of you know, all of our wastewater currently is being utilized at our city farm and that will be the use of our water from either of the treatment plants presently under discussion. With the new plant, we will be able to eliminate the odor which greets our visitors to Hereford and that to me is quite important.

I would encourage any of you with questions or thoughts about our wastewater treatment lacinties attend the commission meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in City Hall because we will be making a decision then on our future treatment plant.

As always, I welcome your suggestions for improvement of the city. Bob Josserand is mayor of Hereford.

Wastewater on top of agenda

By Donald M. Cooper Hereford Brand Managing Editor

Hereford city commissioners are expected to decide Monday on a plan to bring the city's wastewater treatment plant into compliance with state regulations. At a workshop session May 2, the city commissioners agreed to make a decision May 15 on which option --facultative or aerated lagoons will be best for the city. Although the commissioners did not reach a consensus, City Manager Chester Nolen said last week he believes a majority of the commissioners are leaning toward the aerated lagoon system. Nolen said the aerated lagoon system is more efficient, but more expensive to operate. The facultative system is less expensive to operate, but it also is less efficient and requires more land area. However, either plan is capable of dealing with 1.2-1.5 million gallons of effluent generated each day by the wastewater system's customers.

Under the facultative system, the wastewater goes into the lagoon, where it stays at a constant level. Wave action from the wind aerates the wastewater and bacteria dissolve the solids.

For the facultative system, the city would need three lagoons, each 10-12 feet deep covering an area of about 68

The aerated lagoon method would require about 34 acres of land. There would be three aerators in each lagoon that would treat the effluent.

This system would require the installation of pumps and motors, as well as electricity. While much more efficient than the facultative system, the aerated method also is considerably more expensive.

Following the formal adoption of the plan, Oller Engineering Inc. will be directed to begin drafting plans for the plant.

The decision on the wastewater treatment plant is just one item on the commissioners' agenda when they meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the commissioners chamber at Hereford City Hall.

The commissioners also will recognize outgoing Commissioner Carey Black, who decided not to see re-election to the at-large seat he has held for four terms.

Newly elected commissioners Roger Eades, Michael Kitten and Wayne Winget also will be sworn in at the meeting. Eades and Winget were re-elected without opposition; Kitten drew no opposition in his first bid for public office.

In other business, the commissioners will:

 Elect a mayor pro-tem; Consider Randall and Carol Moore's request for extension of water service; and · Receive a report from the Hereford Economic Development Corp.

Now's time to file SS claim

Special to The Brand AMARILLO - Individuals who became or will become 65 this year and who have not filed a claim for Social Security benefits because they are still working may need to do so to avoid losing benefits, according to the office man-ager of the Social Security Administration.

Peter Gilbert said the new law that eliminated the Social Security "retirement" or "earnings" test for people 65 and older makes working people eligible for benefits beginning with the month they are 65 or even before the month they are 65, depending upon their earnings up to that point.

For example, in the year an individual turns age 65, anyone who will not earn more than $17,000 during the months he or she becomes 65, can get a Social Security payment beginning with the month the claim is filed. So, a person earning $3,000 a month who will be 65 in June is eligible for a Social Security payment as early as April (the month the law changed), even though the individual will earn $36,000 this year.

There also are income tax considerations. Up to 85 percent of Social Security benefits can be subject to income tax, de-

Gilbert recommends people with questions to call Social Security's toll-free number -800-722-1213. He said retirement benefits cannot be paid retroactively for months before a claim is filed unless the claimant is already 65 and then retroactivity is limited to six months.

So, for some individuals it will be important to file right away or some benefits could be lost. Generally, people who already have filed a claim for benefits don't need to take any action to get benefits because of the new law.

Pride can be contagious

Pride in a community is up to the individual. And, it is encouraging to see more individuals who are taking enough pride in Hereford that they are working to make it a more attractive place to live.

This was demonstrated last month with the citywide cleanup, where individuals and groups picked up trash in the city's alleyways and around their own dumpsters and hauled the refuse to the city land-

Although there was an increased financial incentive, we believe that the money was not the only reason individual Hereford residents decided to clean up their own little areas. We believe there is a new sense of pride in the community.

Perhaps the continuing efforts of the Hereford Beautification Alliance had something to do with the cleanup.

Since its inception 10 years ago, the alliance has worked to make the city more attractive and build up a sense of pride within the community. The organization has held contests and giveaways to make trees available to individuals willing to plant them, helped wouldbe gardeners learn how to care for lawns, shrubs, flowerbeds and gar-

It has taken a long time, but maybe seeds planted by the HBA are finally beginning to blossom. Maybe pride is contagious.

Still like old time rock 'n' roll

Just take those old records off the shelf I'll sit and listen to 'em by myself Today's music ain 't got the same soul I like that old time rock 'n' roll ...

- "Old' Time Rock 'n' Roll," Bob Seger an, did Bob Seger have it right when he penned "Old Time Rock 'n'

When you're feeling blue, nothing can pick you up faster than a dose of old time rock. Forget Mozart, Bach or any of the other classics. Take Chuck Berry's advice and roll over, Beethoven, 'cause old-time rock 'n' roll is what makes me feel better.

Last Sunday was one of those days when everything seemed to be closing in on us, when we felt like we'd been down so long it looked like it was up. Nothing seemed to break us out of our blue funk — until Annette said, "Let's listen to some classics."

Now, when we are talking about classics, we don't mean Mozart, Dvorak, Bach or Handel, nor do we mean jazz, even though Coltrane, Miles, Brubeck and Krall are fabulous. We don't mean country because that nasal, twangy whine can make our moods shift from blue to downright suicidal, and we certainly won't mean the limp imitations that radio stations and record companies are passing off as rock 'n' roll these days.

No, we wanted the old time rock 'n' roll, the classics.

We wanted to hear Little Richard, Chuck Berry, Jerry Lee Lewis, the Beatles — not the "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band" version, but the Beatles who exploded out of the record players with "Long Tall Sally," "Twist and Shout," "Kansas City" and "Youngblood."

We wanted to hear the Fabulous Thunderbirds, because they were "Tuff Enuff" to beat back the doldrums. We wanted to hear George Thorogood & the Delaware Destroyers' "Bad to the Bone" and "I Drink Alone" blasting out of the speakers.

Still like that old time rock 'n' roll That kind of music just soothes the soul I reminisce about the days of old With that old time rock 'n' roll Won't go to hear them play a tango I'd rather hear some blues or funky old soul

Donald Cooper

There's only sure way to get me to go Start playing old time rock 'n' roll Call me a relic, call me what you will Say I'm old-fashioned, say I'm over the hill Today' music ain't got the same soul I like that old time rock 'n' roll

So, that's just what we did. We took the tape player out to the garage and cranked it up full volume and just let the old time rock 'n' roll lift our spirits. We, or rather, Annette, even did the camel walk much to the amusement of Ernie the yellow

No new stuff, just the old time rock 'n' roll that guarantees a splendid time for all. We ran through most of our rock albums, from Little Richard to James Brown to the Rolling

But of all the great bands we listened to, I guess the absolute best of all was Creedence Clearwater Revival. I can't think of a bad cut on any of CCR's albums, not something I can say even about the Beatles. I can remember skipping over some of George Harrison's mystic Indian songs; I never enjoyed John Lennon's avant-garde pieces; and Paul McCartney managed to wax a bit too sentimental now and then.

But, Creedence?

Every cut on every album was pure energy, pure rock 'n' roll joy. I still think that every album the band released could have been called a "greatest hits" album.

Long after the sun went down, we finally turned off the tape player; we were rejuvenated; our spirits were lifted by the music that we have loved for so many years

Still like that old time rock' n' roll That kind of music just soothes the soul I reminisce about the days of old With that old time rock 'n' roll.

Oh, how we love you, dear moms

Mauri Montgomery

Hello, Hereford.

ratitude classes started around our house again this week with the emergence of another Mother's Day. The prerequisite for enrollment is showing atonement for 358 days of past oversight to the resident mom. We're going to be busy, we still have two grandmas to appease before week's end, too.

"I love you my sweet wife and mother of my children!

It had the ring of sincereity. I could teach Hallmark a thing, or two, I figure.

She offers a knowing grin. "I don't think you do. Everyone in this house takes me for granted. You still haven't learned that your dirty white clothes go in the washer and the colors go in the hamper — unless the colors are in the washer, which would leave the hamper free for whites."

"Oh, my!" I say, and play along with the game that any moron should be able to grasp her laundry scheme. "Lydia, you know that's why I chose journalism as a career, I just don't have the aptitude for it."

"And you don't know anything about changing vacuum cleaner bags either. Nobody loves me," she waxes theatrically. "And, DO NOT forget we are going to your son's special church program Wednesday and that you're supposed to take your daughter's pickup for new tires this afternoon."

Having a perfect role model for it, my son seizes his opportunity to run the brown-nosing gauntlet. "I love you mom," he says affection-

"I don't think you do. If you did, I wouldn't have to remind you to brush your teeth and to stop walking through the house with those filthy tennis shoes. His is a worthy effort, I judge.

And just when a pinch hitter is most needed for complete victory, the third batter in the Montgomery lineup steps up to the plate and leaves us stranded.

"Okay already, mom! Get over it. Gawh! You don't have to gripe-out everyone for telling you they love you," my senior daughter chides.

My son and I roll our eyes.

"Get ready to run," I whisper to him. While we slink out of the kitchen, my daughter's noble effort to defend us is quickly noted for the first draft of her epitaph. We'll miss her, brave warrior.

Good mothers everywhere may never receive proper acclaim for the many hats they have to wear, nor for the beauty and goodness they shower upon the world.

These quartermasters maneuver their families through each week while shoveling loads of laundry, cooking, hauling and stacking groceries, mending and buying children's clothing, and cleaning up after the messy armies they tend — more and more these days, after earning a second income for the unit.

Mothers are, for the most part, where the rubber meets the road in a family's day-to-day

With great compassion, they inflate the selfesteem of those they embrace. They right the world's wrongs, or at least make the wrongs bearable.

And if they have any time left, they try to teach a daughter like ours some of the maternal instincts we so often take for granted — if only because those instincts are born with such natural ease.

Mother's Day, dad?" my son asks. "Taking off those filthy tennis shoes before you get in the house might be a good place to start," I reply.

"What are we going to do for mom on

He smiles and says, "Yeah, probably, but she'd probably like it more if we took her on a vacation somewhere.'

I study the little face that always becomes an open pallet to his transparent thinking.
"Maybe she'd like to go camping, or maybe to a real cool place like Cancun, Mexico where you can go snorkeling and stuff," he says. "And maybe she'd like for us to show our love and appreciation by lessening her load," I add. "Dad, what in the world are you talking about?" he asks. "If we try to take those filthy tennis shoes off and learn how to sort whites from the colors in the laundry room," I say, "then maybe we're giving her that vacation. "That's pretty weak, dad!" "I know son. But it's the same sacrifice millions of other families are making this weekend when their moms figuratively march to The Mall at Washington, D.C. His face screws into a frown, "What's that about? Why are moms marching all the way to the Capitol to go to a mall?" "I think it's because they knew they weren't getting anything all that special for Mother's Day, either, and they are tired of being taken for granted."

"Is mom marching with the others?" "She might after she gets finished with your sister."

COMMENT

The Associated Press

Here are excerpts from editorials in newspapers in the United States and abroad:

The Buffalo (N.Y.) News, on the Clinton legacy: President Clinton, they say, is tenaciously fishing for a legacy that doesn't include the words "Ken Starr," but if an unscientific check of newspaper archives is any guide, he may already have one. In the seven-plus years that Clinton has been in office, gay rights has moved from somewhere in the wings of American consciousness to center stage. As his second term nears its end, the issue has become as mainstream as taxes.

A lot of this had to do with homosexuals... Clinton moved it along dramatically, though not in the way he intended. He took office in 1993, and immediately set about making good on his campaign promise to end the prohibition against gays in the military. He flubbed it.
... That fight put the issue of gay rights squarely on the front pages of American newspapers and on the evening news. With Clinton in office, gay rights has become an everyday issue. He hasn't been perfect from a gay perspective, but with the impact of the military fight, his appointment of more than 150 openly gay Americans to various posts and other measurements, he's the best there's ever been.

Whatever happens on specific issues regarding gay rights, the argument itself is now public. That's a good thing, and Clinton gets much of the credit.

Star Tribune of Minneapolis, on Patients' Bill of Rights:

Last year, with consumers in full revolt against managed-care medicine, both houses of Congress passed legislation to establish a "patients' bill of rights." GOP leaders were cool to the movement, and they sent the bills to a House-Senate conference committee that seems to be a designated graveyard. This week President Clinton plans to summon top lawmakers to the White House to ask when Congress might actually produce this useful legislation. He deserves an answer, and so do voters.

Without subverting the legitimate goal of medical cost-containment, the House and Senate bills establish some good basic patient safeguards. Both require health plans to pay for emergency-room visits under reasonable circumstances; both give the consumer easy access to certain medical specialists; both require managed-care companies to have appeals procedures for frustrated patients. ...

It's not easy for Congress to strike a balance between a patient's right to quality health care and the nation's need to control spiraling medical costs. Letting reasonable patients rights legislation languish in conference committee is a cowardly and counterproductive solution.

National Post, Toronto, on the U.N. mission in Africa:

More than 300 U.N. peacekeepers have been captured by Sierra Leone's Revolutionary United Front rebels: another 226 U.N. troops from Zambia, dispatched to protect still other troops, have gone missing. The U.N. fears they've been seized, too; the rebels, who relieved the Zambians of 13 armored vehicles, claim that the soldiers simply ran away. ...

It's not the first time that a U.N. mission in Africa has turned into a fiasco.

Sierra Leone won't be the last fiasco either: The U.N. plans to send 5,500 troops into Congo, where the country is little more than a battlefield between Uganda and Rwandan troops. ...

There may well be situations where Canadian troops can provide a stabilizing force. The U.N. now has an ugly track record of thrusting under-equipped or unprepared soldiers into the maw of war, and that is in no nation's interest, especially our own. Canada must live up to its international responsibilities, but the U.N. must first prove it can do so too.

Report suggests ways to curb school violence

AUSTIN — Figures by the Texas Education Agency show decreases in the number of incidents of campus violence and firearms and other weapons confiscated.

School-violence figures from the 1998-99 school year showed there were nearly 51,000 incidents of assaults against students in Texas schools. There were nearly 3,800 cases of assaults against teachers or staff members, and about 500 guns were confiscated from students statewide.

Meanwhile, awareness of violence on Texas school campuses is on the increase, spurred in part by the shootings at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colo., on April 20, 1999.

Last week, Texas Attorney General John Cornyn and Education Commissioner Jim Nelson hailed the release of a new report suggesting ways to curb violence in Texas schools.

Based on a year-long study by Cornyn's 22-member School Violence Prevention Task Force, the report contains recom-mendations such as:

 A way for students to anonymously report threats of violence;

Ed Sterling
Texas Press Association

Implementation of conflict resolution techniques;
Zero tolerance of bullying;

· Zero tolerance for actions

motivated by prejudice;
• Increased use of student uniforms and dress codes; and Increased efforts to stop

Cornyn and Nelson joined in saying school districts should coordinate anti-violence efforts with local law enforcement and fire and emergency management to be able to respond to gunfire or explosive devices on campus.

"Sadly, we know that we are not immune here in Texas from school violence," Cornyn said. "We know there are far too many assaults against students and teachers, and far too many weapons seized in places of learning, no less." Enrollment deadline rent enrollment period for Texas Tomorrow Fund, the state's pre-paid college tuition program, ends June 5.

The fund, administered by the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts, works like an investment plan allowing parents to lock in tomorrow's tuition at today's prices.

A Texas Tomorrow Fund account started for a newborn child today would require a monthly installment of $26 to pay for one year's tuition and fees at a public university when the child comes of age to attend.

Texas college tuition and fees have risen 460 percent since 1985.

"If current cost trends continue, and you are not enrolled in the Texas Tomorrow Fund, if your child is in kindergarten right now, his or her college tuition and required fees for four years at a state university will cost $36,391, compared to $13,472 today," Rylander said.

"If you have a newborn, you should plan on paying $52,244 for four years of tuition and required fees at a state university by the time your child goes to college in 2018."

• Randall Riley, director of the Texas Department of Economic Development's Smart Jobs program, said lawmakers forced him to resign after he told them about problems in the program. The state auditor's office found evidence of gross fiscal mismanagement in the program and the Texas

Sunset Commission has recommended the program be transferred to the Texas Workforce Commission.

• Fortis Benefits Insurance Co. of Kansas City, Mo., has filed suit against Elton Bomer, former Texas Insurance Commissioner and present Secretary of State. The suit accuses Bomer, while insurance commissioner in 1998, of improperly intervening in a policy coverage dispute between Fortis and Charles Terrell, a former Texas prison board member. Terrell is namesake of the state's new deathrow report released last week by the state comptroller's office estimates that Texas spent $4.7 billion on health care for uninsured people in 1998, or about $1,000 per uninsured person. The report said the federal government paid about $200 million of the sum.

• The University of Texas System Board of Regents last week considered increasing the cost of staff health insurance premiums. Costs could go up from 20 to 30 percent next fall.

Chamber singers appreciate support

Door Editor

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your support and encouragement these last few months while we were reorganizing. We have always been proud to be a part of this area and are happy to be sharing our talents with you once again

Many, many thanks go to the Hereford Brand, KPAN Radio and KNNK Radio for publicizing our concert so willingly and effectively. A special thanks goes to First Baptist Church and St. Thomas Episcopal Church for providing their facilities without charge for our rehearsals and concert

To those who came to listen to our presentation, we love you and are extremely grateful for your presence and support. It was a thrill to harmonize and make beautiful music once again for those of you who enjoy good choral music.

Our reorganization would not have been possible if David Cox had not agreed to become our leader. He is a wonderful musician, a superbleader and we are deeply grateful to him for saying "yes." We cannot forget to show appreciation to our ever faithful, talented and enthusiastic Linda Gilbert for sharing her abilities as our accompanist.

Our wish is that we will be spreading "Human Relations Through Music" in and around Hereford for many years to come.

PALO DURO CANYON — Changes are in store for the 35th anniversary season of the outdoor musical drama

The performances of the 2000 season will be 8:30 p.m. June 7-Aug. 19 in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

Capital improvements for the anniversary season total more than $792,000. Improvements include new side stages and sets, covered seating for the barbecue area, a new handicapped accessible restroom and a new amplification system. Funds for these improvements were generated in part by the Amarillo Globe-News "Celebrate 2000" project and by a new cast member, Cattle Call. Other contributions were made to the improvement project in honor of Jo Stewart Randel, to whom the season is dedicated.

Since 1966, "TEXAS" has entertained a world-wide audience with the history of the Texas Panhandle told through song, dance and drama. Guests from more than 100 countries travel across the Texas plains each year to Palo Duro Canyon State Park to experience the colorful production. The 3 millionth visitor will be welcomed with tickets from "TEXAS" sponsor Southwest

Airlines. The professional cast of singers, actors, dancers, musicians and technicians bring life to an 1880's story written by Pulitzer Prize laureate Paul Green. Fictional characters "Uncle Henry" and "Calvin Armstrong" carry the story. "Uncle Henry," a prominent rancher, is disturbed by new settlers to the area, like "Calvin Armstrong," a young farmer with visions of helping the region advance. T

The sound and lighting for the performances was designed specifically for the Palo Duro Canyon setting. Professional consultants from across the United States have designed special effects, including a rainstorm scene that sends thunder echoing down the canyon. A lightning bolt that flashes down the canyon wall and splits a tree is so realistic that even repeat audience members are startled by the Props add another element of realism to the show. Cowboys and Indians ride the backstage terrain on horses. The American Quarter Horse Association joined the "TEXAS" team this year to promote the important roles horses played in the settling of the West.

Guests are greeted with Texas hospitality upon arrival at the Pioneer Amphitheatre. A barbecue dinner is served from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. for an additional charge. Western music on the patio prepares visitors for the evening ahead.

Tickets to "TEXAS" range from $8 to $21 with price discounts for children.

Keeping and Executional Lawmaker influenced Congress' debate on the Internet here is no Rep. Tony Schnell. He is a fig-ment of the Internet. Nonetheless, the name has had an impact in the debate about Internet taxes and fees.

Things that aren't happening are part of the congressional argument about the Internet.

The House has just passed bill to extend until 2006 an Internet tax moratorium that shelves until later any effort to deal with the major issue involved in the new way of doing business, sales taxes on electronic commerce.

The moratorium is in effect for the next 16 months anyhow, but voting for an extension favored by the dot-com industry and Internet users is good politics in an election year.

"We are voting on a press release today instead of legislation that would take some responsibility for the future of the Internet," said Rep. Jerrold Nadler, a New York Democrat. He voted for it anyhow, saying he would work for a better bill after the Senate acts on its version of the measure.

Despite the bill, states can still enact Internet sales taxes. But in most cases, they have no way to collect them from sellers outside their boundaries because of a 1992 Supreme Court decision.

The current moratorium was to last three years. A commission tried to figure out what to do about the sales tax problem, complex because of the differing levies imposed by cities and states, but could not come up with an answer.

President Clinton favored a two-year extension but the House narrowly rejected that before voting 352-75 on Wednesday to keep the moratorium in effect until Oct. 1,

Clinton's spokesman, Joe Lockhart, said the administration is concerned that with a five-year window, Congress and the states will keep finding ways to put off the hard decisions on sales taxes.

That's where the money is. Rep. William Delahunt, D-Mass., said states and local governments lost an estimated 525 million in sales taxes on Internet purchases in 1999, and with the growth of that business, the lost revenue will be $20 billion in 2003.

So state and local officials. 39 governors among them, oppose the five-year extension. So do traditional retailers, whose stores are subject to the sales taxes and who fear Internet sellers will get an unfair advantage.

Dot-com donors are lucrative friends in a campaign year, and besides, candidates do not want to stir up Internet

That happened in the case of the imaginary Congressman Schnell, who supposedly was sponsoring a bill to let the government impose a 5-cent fee on every e-mail message sent, with the proceeds to go to the Postal Service.

When that rumor made the Internet rounds more than a year ago, the Postal Service dismissed it as fiction and said it would not support such legsolutely false. "No such legislation exists," he said. "In fact, no Congressman Tony Schnell exists.'

Then a variation made the Internet circuits, saying that the Federal Communications Commission sought to impose per-minute charges on users, which the FCC denied. That persisted, too.

So the House Commerce Committee has now approved a bill sponsored by Rep. Fred Upton, R-Mich., to block any such charges.

The moratorium bill is to prevent states from taxing the fees paid to Internet providers, and to bar new taxes on online activity. It is part of a Republican "E-Contract 2000" promoted by House GOP leaders in a show of election-year support for the high tech industry.

Rep. John Linder, R-Ga., acknowledged that "there has been some confusion" about the impact of the moratorium bill because people think it would affect taxes on Internet sales and it would not. Democrats complained that the bill was being rushed through to make a political point. Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., said Republican leaders were "desperate to create the appearance of a serious hightech agenda."

"Our Republican colleagues have found it necessary to bring up measures to try to drive a wedge between the new economy and the Demo-cratic Party," said Rep. Lloyd Doggett, D-Texas.

House Democrats were not going to be wedged out of support for the high tech industry. They voted for the moratorium, 142-65. Congressman Schnell, being imaginary, did not get to vote.

Texas closer reaches 300

Rangers beat Anaheim 13-11 in 11 innings

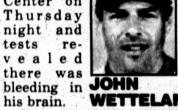

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) -On a night of firsts for Royce Clayton and Doug Davis, John Wetteland reached No. 300.

Wetteland became the 12th reliever to get 300 saves, Clayton hit his first grand slam, and rookie Doug Davis got his first major league win as the Texas Rangers outslugged the Anaheim Angels 13-11 on Friday night.

Wetteland, 33 years, eight months and 21 days old, matched Lee Smith to the day as the youngest pitcher ever to reach the plateau.

The Angels, meanwhile, were reeling from the news that pitcher Kent Mercker, who left the previous night's game because of a headache and dizziness, was in intensive care.

He entered UC-Irvine Medical Center on Thursday night and tests revealed there was his brain.

WETTELAND

However, the Angels' physician, Dr. Lewis Yocum, said after visiting Mercker early Friday evening that the pitcher was alert, completely coherent and feeling better.

Wetteland's milestone save wasn't easy for the Rangers' closer, who was the 1996 World Series MVP with the New York Yankees.

Earning his fourth save of the season, Wetteland gave up three runs in the ninth. including a solo homer to Mo Vaughn and a two-run shot to Garret Anderson, before finally striking out Scott Spiezio to end it with a runner on base. "I was very fortunate," said Wetteland, who gave up five hits in 1 1-3 innings. "I've worked this hard for a save lots of times; there are 300 of them in my career, so you're going to have a lot of these even more than I care to remember."

Wetteland reached the plateau in the second-fewest appearances, 553. Dennis Eckersley earned his 300th save in 499 appearances.

Davis (1-1), who made his first major league start just last Sunday, a loss to Oakland, was flattered to be part of Wetteland's bit of history.

"I'm honored to be on the same team with John," said Davis, who allowed five runs on seven hits in six innings. "He's a guy I've always looked up to since I was a kid."

Davis, 24, grinned and added, "Don't tell him that because he'll probably feel old."

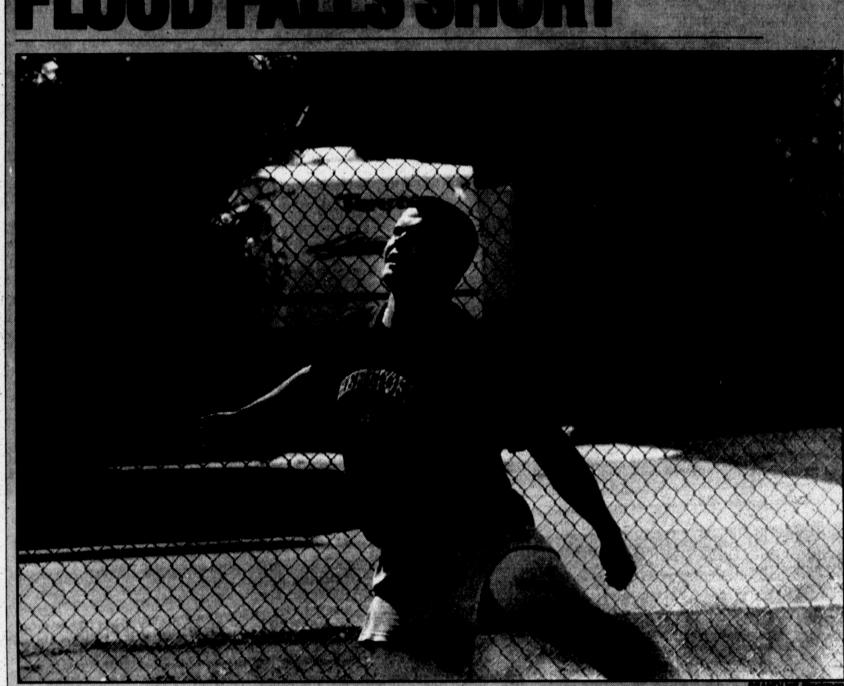

In a game that featured four homers by Texas and five by Anaheim, Mike Lamb hit a two-run shot and Ruben Mateo added a solo homer as Texas pounded Scott Schoeneweis for nine runs and nine hits over six innings.

The Rangers' Ivan Rodriguez added his 13th homer, a solo shot off Mike Fyhrie in the seventh, and two triples. His second one drove in Luis Alicea to make it 12-8 in the ninth, and Rafael Palmeiro's sacrifice fly scored Rodriguez.

Davis (1-1), making his fourth major league appearance, gave up three homers, walked three and struck out

Clayton drove a 3-2 fastball from Schoeneweis (4-2) deep over the left-center field wall in the sixth to give the Rangers a 9-4 pad.

The one-out homer was Clayton's sixth of the season and the grand slam was the

in the big leagues.

The Angels' Bengie Molina hit a pair of solo homers off Davis, his first of the year, and Tim Salmon had a tworun homer in the opening inning. Molina also doubled home a run in the eighth and first allowed by Schoeneweis had a career-high four hits in four at-bats.

Despite the loss, Anaheim manager Mike Scioscia was relieved after he spoke with the team doctor and pitcher Sciosica said. Kent Bottenfield, a longtime friend of Mercker, after they visited him in the hospital.

"Kent came back and gave us a nice report about 'Merk, that he seems to have stabilized and is good humor. That's very reassuring,

Lakers take 3-0

■ Shaquille O'Neal has 37 point night while Kobe Bryant contirbutes 25

PHOENIX (AP) — Another close call for Shaq & Co., and another victory. Now the Lakers are one win away from a four-game sweep of the Phoenix Suns in the Western Conference semifinals.

Shaquille O'Neal scored 11 of his 37 points in the fourth quarter and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Lakers won their first road game of the playoffs 105-99 Friday night for a 3-0 lead over the Suns in the bestof-seven series.

Los Angeles, which won Game 2 Thursday 97-96 on Kobe Bryant's tough 15-footer with 2.6 seconds to go, can complete its first playoff sweep since 1991 and first sweep of a seven-game series since 1989 with a victory on Sunday.

Penny Hardaway scored 31 for the Suns on 11-for-15 shooting, but missed a 3-pointer with 46 seconds to go and the Suns down 100-97. Cliff Robinson scored 23, but only two after leaving to have his sprained right ankle taped late in the third quarter.

Jason Kidd had 12 assi but was only 1-for-9 from the field for four points.

The Lakers outscored the Suns 11-4 over the last 2:33, including 9-for-12 on free throws. Bryant scored 25 and Robert Horry had 15 off the bench.

O'Neal's stuff, the Lakers' last field goal, put Los Angeles up for good 96-95 with 2:33 to go. Bryant's two free throws with 1:34 remaining made it 98-95, but Ha daway made two free thre s vith 1:15 remaining to cut it to 98-97.

On the Lakers' next possession, Rice broke free to the

from the line in the fourth quarter. O'Neal was 9-for-15 from the foul line, 8-for-11 in the first half.

Rodney Rogers scored 15, but still had trouble from long range and was only 5-for-12 from the field.

The 6-foot-7 Rogers even guarded O'Neal for a stretch in the second half and held his own. But that matchup helped lead to Rogers' fouling out in the game's final minutes.

Down 52-50 at the half, the Suns used an 11-0 run to go up 61-54 on Robinson's 3-pointer with 8:09 left in the period.

Luc Longley, who scored 12, sandwiched a tip-in between two 18-footers as the Suns built a 67-59 lead with 5:51 to go. But Longley drew his fourth foul 14 seconds later and went to the bench.

O'Neal had a stuff and Kobe Bryant sank a 17-footer in a 7-0 Lakers spurt that tied it at 72 with 2:18 to go in the third, and the Suns held a 76-75 lead going into the final quarter.

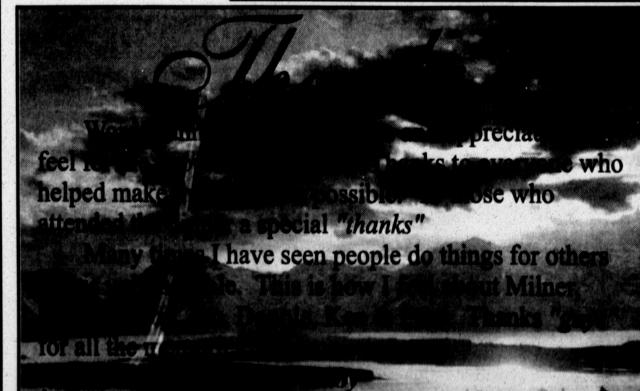

The teams battled back and forth through most of the fourth, with the Suns taking their last lead 95-94 on Shawn Marion's 14-foot baseline jumper with 2:48 to play.

The Suns shot out to a 19-7 lead, but the Lakers scored 34 points in the second quarter, including two 3-pointers apiece by Horry and Rick Fox, to lead 52-50 at the half.

Digging up "hidden treasure" beneath the garden mulch

s a kid, one of the events that heightened the anticipation of a fishing trip was digging the earthworms that would be used as bait. This activity might be likened to a hunt for buried treasure. My brother, younger sister, and myself often reacted as if we had unearthed treasure when we dug for bait and turned over a good shovelful loaded with wiggly promise. Our hands darted into the rich, moist soil to claim squirming prizes that were destined to be offered as temptations to

The best places to dig were sometimes odd--such as a spot where an old "dead-man" corner had been buried to stabilize a fence.

The late Perry Van Vliet, an icon of fishing talent who used to ply the waters of Buffalo Lake at Umbarger for catfish and carp with great success, taught me that poking around the perimeters of some of the concrete elevators at Farmers Grain Company at Hart was often worthwhile.

Veritable herds of earthworms made their home beneath the residue from the chaff and particles of grain thereabouts. They found a lush feeding ground in the shady areas next to the elevators. If there had been enough moisture the earthworms were sizable and usually near the surface, and with shouts of delight, you could gather up a good gob of them in a coffee can in

I got to thinking back on some of this well-mined adventure last weekend when I was poking around in the dirt for some bait for members of the Trailblazers 4-H Club to use on an outing to the Aquatic Park pond in their final club meeting of the year. We explored varied aspects of fish and wildlife at our meetings and figured that going fishing was about as good a

Beau, my black Lab, has long thought digging-up my neglected gardening spot is a good idea.—He has gotten in trouble for it more than once. On this occasion though, he had diplomatic immunity as a participant in this very worthwhile and entertaining adventure. He took part with characteristic enthusiasm, poking his nose into the cool ground and dividing turned-over clumps with his monstrous front paws. He was really "helping" me as I spaded-up earth with a garden fork. Beau even relished chomping on the freshly-turned, soil a This group dog, will get anything.—He provided freshly-turned soil.—This goofy dog will eat anything.—He provided particularly commendable "assistance" by periodically smearing my arms and shirt with great mud slicks from his nose and slobbery mouth as he shared affectionate moments by frequently attempting to "wash my face" whenever I dropped to my knees to check what I had turned up.

With this kind of help, it was a wonder I found anything, but we struck a mother lode of fishing worms.

We were at work in the earthworm habitat enhancement zone of the garden where last fall's leaves had been piled high to hoard moisture and gradually make things in the soil structure better through the wonders of compound organic matter decomposition. Though a bit of litter remained atop the ground, it was amazing how those leaves had melted away since last

The tines of the garden fork easily probed the well-mulched mid-garden. Crumbling moist clods through my hands, I freed a treasure trove of earthworms that came up with the fork-pried clumps, gathered some of them in squirming clusters, and placed them in a can amidst layers of good

Fortunately, your basic fishing technology hasn't changed excessively over the years, it has just gone more to the dogs.

A pair of mourning doves were sitting on the sidewalk next to a flower bed when I drove into the driveway the other day. I was surprised they didn't fly immediately when I drove up. A close look revealed a fledgling the adults

A couple more fledglings were hunched-up next to a bush near the front porch just a few days earlier. Adults were close-by. The partially-feathered young didn't move, even when approached closely.

Texas Parks & Wildlife personnel say that every spring well-meaning individuals in the outdoors doom what they consider "abandoned" young of birds and animals to virtually certain death when they "rescue" them.

This is a period of the year when young birds are often out of their nests, but can't fly. If these birds' eyes are open, they have feathers, and are hopping around, they're likely fine, just resting between sessions of getting the hang of flying, something they generally accomplish within a few days.

Deer fawning season is also underway this time of year. Does often hide their fawns from predators and move away from them for extended time periods to drink and forage. Humans who find these "abandoned" fawns often just can't resist the urge to pick up what they consider orphaned fawns. What's intended as a kindly act more than likely will only endanger the fawn they're trying to help.

Placing human scent on the fawn means the doe likely won't accept the fawn upon returning. Hauling the young critter home is potentially a sentence to a prolonged death, or will result in the raising of a fawn that's not properly imprinted for life in the wild.

If you come across a fawn, likely the best thing to do is to leave it where it is. The doe knows where she left her baby, and she'll come back to it. Wild animals have their best chance when left in the wild.

Should a wild animal be found to be sick, injured, or abandoned, the TP&WD wildlife information line can be contacted for a referral to a licensed wildlife rehabilitator. That number is (512) 389-4505. After hours the TP&WD dispatch line can provide names of rehabilitators at (512)389-defense was so good, the winning shot came from behind the backboard.

Legal or not — and Jeff Van Gundy might not let that debate die any time soon -Miami reserve guard Anthony Carter's off-balance miracle made it through the net with 2.2 seconds left in overtime. It settled a game in which the Knicks and Heat applied typical staunch defense.

Carter not only gave Miami a 77-76 victory at Madison Square Garden on Friday night and a 2-1 lead in the best-ofseven Eastern Conference semifinal series, he provided perhaps the most unbelievable ending in a rivalry that's had its share of big shots and bizarre brawls.

"It went down to a crazy overtime and we ended up getting the bounce, a big-time bounce," Miami coach Pat Riley said.

Both teams are extremely knowledgeable about each other's offenses, that is what it comes down to. If you want high-flying, high-scoring games, I don't think this is the series to come to watch."

There certainly has been no shortage of stingy defense or hard fouls as the teams played 20 playoff games the well, have become so adept at forcing the other to go to second, third and fourth choices on offense, that neither seems to have a sense of how to put the ball in the basket consistently. Carter's shot was about as unorthodox as they come.

The rookie, who played the final 22 minutes for a hobbled Tim Hardaway (0-for-5 from the field, two assists), drove along the baseline until he was cut off by Charlie Ward and Patrick Ewing. Facing a seemingly impossible angle, Carter tossed a shot that went over the top corner of the backboard, bounced high off the front rim, and - somehow - went in.

The basket was initially waved off by referee Danny Crawford, who thought Alonzo Mourning touched the ball while it was on the rim.

"The only thing going through my head," Carter said, "was, 'Please don't take my basket away. Please."

The other officials told Crawford the call was wrong, and it was reversed.

"The ball was shot from behind the backboard, which should result in an out-of-bounds on the side," Knicks coach Van Gundy said. "Clear as day on the replay."

"It's very disappointing. We were right there. We just fell short," said New York center Patrick Ewing, who had nine points and missed a free throw with 13.7 seconds left in overtime that would have given New York a two-point lead. "They made a tough shot."

Just about every shot was tough Friday.

The teams combined to miss their first 12 shots of the second quarter, and the Heat went 0-for-7 down the stretch in regulation. Overall, New York shot 36.5 percent from the field, Miami 40.6.

Mourning led Miami with 23 points, Jamal Mashburn had 16, and P.J. Brown provided a spark with 14 points and a game-high 12 rebounds. Carter finished with 10 points, eight assists, seven rebounds and just one turnover.

"It's not going to be easy to score for them or us," said Latrell Sprewell, who scored 23 for New York. "They know what they're doing. We're making it difficult for them, they're making it difficult for

Ewing forced overtime with his only basket of the fourth quarter, an 18-foot jumper with 2.6 seconds remaining that tied the score at 68. Mashburn had a chance to win the game in regulation on a buzzer-beater, but missed from 20 feet. If he'd made it, the teams would have combined for 138 points and broken the NBA record for lowest-scoring playoff game (142, set by Atlanta and Detroit in 1995, and tied by Phoenix and San Antonio in Game 1 of their first-round series.

GIGGLES, GRINS & SMILES

(James B. Waits)

Funny little smiles and grins light up faces, then they send great big smiles that do not sound, helping those that wear a frown.

Eyes will twinkle, laugh and shine, reddened cheeks our giggles find. Funny how our smiles can start contagious laughter in our hearts. Spreading like wildfire in a breeze joyous sounds are made like these.

A smile can take away some pain, deposit sunshine in the rain. It has no language that's been found, just a look that's worn by clowns. Giggles, grins, smiles on faces bring together all the races. Matters not what others do. we can smile if we so choose And when we do, the world I fear will end up grinning ear to ear.

Lord, in Thy mercy grant us rain

Rain has been reluctant to fall in the Panhandle when we have needed it this year. As the year began we were totally without rain, then we had rain -- more than normal -- for a couple of weeks.

The following article was brought to me just before we received that rain and I held off on running it because I thought maybe we weren't going to need to pray for rain.

But it now appears we once again need to offer this prayer (or one of our own) in an appeal for that blessed water from heaven.

The descriptions given by the author in this prayer remind me of what it was like when, as a child, we had those summer showers that sent us scurrying to get clothes off the line.

(Editor's Note: William Allen White wrote this prayer during the great drought of 1935. He was the editor-publisher of the Emporia Gazette, a small newspaper in Emporia, Kan. He gained national prominence when he wrote a piece labeled "What's Wrong With Kansas?" that gained him national stature. Presidents Wilson and Hoover took note and sent him on official business abroad.

Becky Thorn

The great drought of 1935 is said to have dispatched many Oklahoma and Texas citizens to California - in search of a more prosperous area.)

O Lord, in Thy mercy grant us rain, and by that we don't mean a shower: We want to go out and watch the lightening rip across the Southwestern sky in flat blue forks as the fat clouds roll in on us. We want to hurry home to close the house with the flurry of fat drops the size of marbles, on a suddenly rising wind, chasing us and plunking on the cat head: We want to scramble all over the house just as the first sheets descend, frantically slamming down the windows.

O Lord of Hosts, we want to look out the windows and watch the regiments of close-packed

We want to hear the gurgle of the gutters under the eaves, and then the spatter of the downspout.

God of Israel, Isaac and Jacob, let it come down so hard, let the drops dance so high that the streets and sidewalks seem covered with a six-inch fog of spatter-drops. Then let it just keep up for a while, and then begin to taper off, and then turn around and get a lot worse, swishing, pounding, splattering, pouring, drenching, the thunder coming crackity, BAM! and the lightning flashing so fast and furious you can't tell which flash goes with which peal of thunder.

So that all the women will get scared and climb on top of the beds and scream at you not to get too close to that window.

And then, O Jealous God, repeat the whole act about three times, and in the middle of the second time we will climb the attic stairs and put a wash pan under that tiny leak in the roof which usually you can't even notice in an ordinary rain. And after a couple of hours, taper it down, O Lord, to a good steady rain - not a drizzle, but a businesslike one that keeps up until just before dawn and then spits a few drops occasionally during the morning from a gray

Kansas is indeed the Promised Land, O Lord, and if it gets a break it will flow with milk and honey. But we can't live much longer on promises. So in Thine own way and in Thine own time make up Thy mind, O Lord, and we will bow before Thy judgment and praise Thine everlasting Name!

John in print Mother's Day. hope you think so, too.

Connecticut

Dear John: Thank you for being such a thoughtful friend. The piece you sent is indeed perfect for Mother's Day, and here it is:

Mom and Dad were watching TV when Mom said, "I'm tired, and it's getting late. I think I'll go to bed."

She went to the kitchen to make sandwiches for the next day's lunches, rinsed the popcorn bowls, took meat out of the freezer for supper the following evening, checked the cereal box levels, filled the sugar container, put spoons and bowls on the table, and set up the coffee pot for brewing the next morning. She then put some wet clothes into the dryer, sewed on a loose button, picked up the newspapers strewn on the floor and the game pieces left on the table, and put the telephone book back into the drawer. She watered the plants, emptied a wastebasket, hung up a towel to dry, wrote a note to the teacher, and counted out some cash for the kids' field trip. She signed a birthday card for a friend, addressed and stamped the envelope, and wrote a quick reminder for the grocery store. She put some water into the dog's dish, put the cat outside, and then made sure the doors were locked.

Mom washed her face, put on moisturizer, and brushed and flossed her teeth. Her husband called, "I thought you were going to bed." "I'm on my way," she replied. She looked in on each of the chil-dren, turned off a bedside lamp, hung up a shirt, threw some dirty socks in the hamper, and had a brief conversation with the older one, who was up doing homework. In her own room, she set the alarm, laid out clothes for the next day, straightened up the shoe rack, and added three

Dear Ann chores to her list of things to

About that time, her husband turned off the TV, and announced to no one in particular, "I'm going to bed," and he did.

Dear Readers: This is Ann talking. I'm sure the mother described in the letter you just read doesn't view herself as anyone special, but I can tell you, she is. I can also tell you there are millions more like her, and they are the glue that hold families together. God bless them all.

Dear Ann Landers: Since it is Mother's Day, I hope you will print my letter so my mother can see it. I'm sorry to say, I have never told her how much I appreciate the sacrifices she has made for me over the years, and how ashamed I am that I have never let her know what she means to me.

My mother is the finest person I know. She has been much more than a mother to me. She has been a friend and a confidante. She has seen me through all my trials and tribulations, and has always stood by me, in spite of the mean things I have said to her in anger. She is the shoulder I cry on when my world is falling apart, and the friend with whom I share ice cream when I need a lift.

I love her dearly, and have neglected to tell her how much her support has meant to me. I am a better person for having known her. There is no gift beautiful or worthy enough to give to this wonderful woman. The best gift I can think of is to write a letter to her about my feelings, and hope that you will print it on Mother's Day. Thank you, Ann.

The Dangers

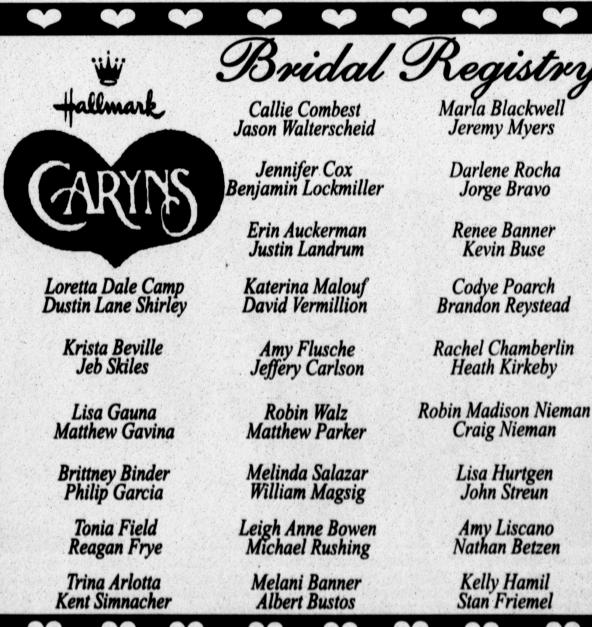

Sometimes aqueous humor-the fluid continuously produced within the eyedoes not drain properly. This causes increased pressure within the eye. This condition is called glaucoma. The pressure pushes on the retina at the back of the eye. This reduces the blood supply to the nerves of the retina causing them to die. As the optic nerve deteriorates, so does vision. Without treatment, glaucoma can eventually cause blindness.

Almost 80,000 Americans are blind from glaucoma, and another million are at risk for vision loss because they don't know they have it. In fact, glaucoma is one of the leading causes of preventable blindness in the U.S. and the most common cause of blindness among African-Americans. Because most people with glaucoma experience no noticeable symptoms, and eye examination is the single most important tool in preventing vision loss from the disease.

More Common than Sense: Business Nonsense

ommon sense is the ability to look at the situations we find ourselves in and still do what ought to be done. Unfortunately, common sense isn't as common as it ought to Business nonsense is the absence of common sense. It is either becoming more common or I'm becoming more aware of it. Either way, I believe it's worth drawing your attention to.

Business nonsense can become accepted practice if enough businesses buy into it. Anatole France said, "If fifty million people say a foolish thing it is still a foolish thing." However, all too often common beliefs and common practice are substituted for what ought to be done.

Some Nonsense Examples

A few months ago, I wrote about a problem we were having getting the computer we ordered shipped to our office in an expedient manner. The company shipped the wrong computer and the exchange process wasn't easy.

The first problem involving the lack of common sense occurred when the company was shocked that we had broken the security seal on a computer box that wasn't ours. Common sense would tell you--unless you are telepathic--that you must open the box to see if what's in it is what you ordered. When the box is addressed to your firm, you assume it is yours.

The second instance that demonstrated complete lack of common sense was when the computer company sent us an invoice for 18 cents for a poster that was missing when we returned the misshipped computer. That's right, they spent 33 cents on postage to send out an 18-cent invoice. Factor in the time, materials, and opportunity cost of creating and sending the "18 cent invoice" and you've just validated a complete lack of common sense.

Here's another example. An extra value breakfast meal at my favorite fast-food stop includes a small coffee. But, if you win a free value meal in an annual promotion game and want to move the drink up to a large soft drink, you must pay full price for the soft drink. Where did the 59-cent coffee value go? It's nonsense.

Another bit of business idiocy is the procedure at some wholesale clubs. First, you stand in long lines for a long time to check out. Then, 10 feet from where you just checked out, another employee takes your receipt and checks it against the actual items in your cart. More nonsense.

Some Quick Fixes

Look for "we've always done it this way" problems. If you don't have a good reason for any business activity other than it is the standard routine, don't continue to do it. All "standard practices" should be evaluated frequently and changed when a better way is found. Look hard for better ways.

Ask the question, "Does this really make sense?" If employees are involved, ask them. If venders or suppliers are involved, ask them. If customers are involved, ask them.

Don't let it happen again. Often, the only difference between the wise and the foolish is "when." What the fools are still doing at the end is what the wise were doing in the beginning. When the wise see their folly they stop and don't repeat the foolishness.

There may be more than one "common sense" option. Seldom is there only one way to fix what isn't working. More often than not, you will find several solutions. Don't develop tunnel vision and assume that there is only one way to succeed.

Emerson wrote, "Nothing astonishes men so much as common sense and plain dealing." That might be a pretty good recipe for eliminating business nonsense as well.

SOME BOOKS WORTH READING

Between the Covers

Martha Russell Deaf Smith County Library

This week Rebecca and I will begin our annual trek through Hereford's elementary schools, encouraging young readers to keep up their skills over the summer by participating in the Summer Reading Club. It's an exhausting project, but it's so much fun. We always come back to the library from these visits with funny stories to tell.

Last year one of the prizes was a "whoopee cushion," and, of course, we had to try it out at the schools. At one school, a very dainty and proper little girl was chosen to demonstrate this magnificent invention. We blew it up just a little bit (you get much better sound that way) and asked her to sit on it. She was so tiny that the cushion held her up instead of giving the desired effect. We learned that someone with a little more heft was needed.

We try to involve the audience in our presentations and occasionally use teachers as well as the students. You have to love and respect a principal who is a good sport and willing to go along with the joke if it will benefit his kids. Richard Sauceda of Bluebonnet School is just one of those. He cheerfully agreed to be the "guinea pig" for the whoopee cushion. Of course, the kids loved it when Mr. Sauceda was very successful in using the cushion to its full potential. He was great! We wondered if the full realization of what he had done hit him later. The theme for this year's summer program is "Invent the Future: Read!" While we have the option of interpreting the theme however we wish, the materials available to us through the Texas State Library are geared toward space. So, fasten your seat belts, we're about to blast off for new frontiers. Some exciting displays straight from NASA will help set the mood for our young readers.

Since it has met with such a positive response, we will play our READO game again this year. It works like bingo. A READO card will be given to each child who chooses to participate in the game. There are 25 squares on a card, each with a particular reading requirement, behavioral requirement or trivia question. As each requirement is met and a parent initials it, prizes will be awarded. Four corners, five-in-a-row, Texas T and blackout will all win nifty prizes.

Children who have completed K-4 through sixth grade are encouraged to pre-register the week of May 30. The first program day will be June 6. Registration will continue throughout the program.

Who do you think killed
JonBenet Ramsey? The newspapers, magazines and scandal rags all claim to have the inside scoop. This week on our new book shelf we have a look from both the parents and the investigators. You read them and decide for yourself.

The Death of Innocence by John and Patsy Ramsey promises to reveal new details about the case from the Ramsey's viewpoint as they tell their side of the story. They answer their accusers, contradict rumors and falsehoods surrounding the case, share what authorities have withheld from the public, and provide a profile of the murderer and potential evidence that may point investigators to the killerleads that have yet to be examined.

Then you can balance your understanding of the case with JonBenet: Inside the Ramsey Murder Investigation by Steve Thomas. Thomas, a former Boulder detective who was at the center of the investigation takes the reader on a step-by-step investigator's journey and reveals facts and information known only by the cops closest to the case. He tells how someone got away with murder.

His inside story answers a wide range of important questions: Why were the Ramseys handled with kid gloves and never asked by law enforcement to take lie detector tests? Why were certain search warrants not authorized and why was some evidence ignored? Why were detectives told to stay away from some witnesses? Why was an undercover operation canceled for political reasons?

Described as "the detective who knew this case better than anyone," Thomas resigned after exposing the blunders that crippled the investigation and helped force the governor to launch a grand jury. Finally, Thomas tells how the prosecutors kept the detectives who knew the evidence best away from the grand jury, which issued neither an indictment nor a report.

If you desire lighter reading with a "feel good" ending, you might try Hawke's Cove by Susan Wilson. After the death of her first child, Evangeline Worth returns to her beloved grandmother's farm in Hawke's Cove. Once the enchanting place of her youth, this small coastal town is now a sanctuary for her solitude. With her husband, John, across the Atlantic on the World War II front, Vangie does the best she can to put her life, and heart, back together. All of that changes one day when a man appears on her doorstep searching for work.

Joe Green looks able enough, and though she wonders why he isn't in the service, Vangie takes him in on instinct. As a rich friendship develops between them the Army informs Vangie that John is MIA. At the same time, rumors in town circulate about a downed Hellcat plane and its missing pilot. Smoothing away each other's loneliness, Vangie and Joe feel their relationship deepening into a forbidden passion. Then John is suddenly found alive, and the lovers separate, but cannot bear to sever their bond.

In 1993, Vangie's son Charlie lands a plum reporting assignment: to unlock the puzzle of the recently dredged-up Hellcat in Hawke's Cove. To investigate the 50-year-old mystery, he heads to Hawke's Cove, where he meets respected local Joe Green and his daughter, Maggie. As a romantic relationship blossoms between Charlie and Maggie, Vangie and Joe realize that they must open up the past and the secrets they'd buried along with

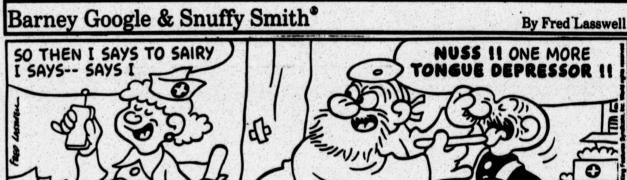

Now don't assume you can figure this one out. You might be Unusual display - With two toddler boys at home, Edelia Flores is a busy lady, but not too busy to pursue her passion for jigsaw puzzles. Having worked regular puzzles all her life, she was also intrigued with 3-D puzzles, but the cost was prohibitive. A sale at Westgate Mall changed all that. After the kids are in bed at night, Edelia creates three dimensional figures ranging from the Taj Mahal and the White House to a miniature grandfather clock. Her creations are on display this month at the Deaf Smith County Library.

Multi-billion dollar conservation bill goes to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Supporters of a landmark bill to hand the states billions of dollars for conservation are hoping the lopsided vote by which it cleared the House will send a message to the Senate, where it faces stiff opposition.

The legislation, passed 315-102 Thursday after two days of debate, would create a $45 billion, 15-year conservation fund to buy parks and open spaces, pay for wildlife protection and restore environmentally damaged coastal areas. The money would come from federal revenue collected from oil and gas drilling leases — about $4 billion to $5 billion a year. Most of that money now goes into the general trea-

The outcome in the House was never really in doubt. Nearly two dozen amendments were beaten back by wide margins as the bill's sponsors worried that major changes in the legislation would destroy the "delicate balance" of sup-

While Republicans were di- itself a shock to many convided, voting 118-93 for the bill, supporters of the measure characterized the vote as an example of bipartisanship. Among Democrats, the vote was 196-8 with two independents splitting on the issue.

"The Senate is going to be hard-pressed not to pass this legislation," Rep. Don Young, R-Alaska, beamed to reporters after Thursday's vote. Young had ignored opposition from property rights groups, and along with Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., led the charge for the bill's passage.

That the two lawmakers would show such unity was gressional observers. Young, a vocal foe of environmentalists. and Miller, a favorite of green groups, over the years have clashed repeatedly over envi-ronmental legislation.

Not this time. Some critics called the House-passed bill green pork because it calls for distributing $3 billion a year — at least $8.9 million for each state for a broad range of conservation measures, from buying private parcels trapped within federal land to rebuilding eroded beaches and setting aside parts of suburbia for bike trails and soccer fields.

Alaska, California, Texas and

Louisiana would be the big winners, getting about a third of the $3 billion a year. No wonder, say the critics. Rep. Billy Tauzin, R-La., a staunch defender of property rights, became one of the bill's leading cheerleaders. Louisiana stands to get $311 million a year and Alaska $163 million.

The bill is the most ambitious environmental legislation before the Congress this year.

"This is the single most significant commitment our nation has ever made to investments in wildlife and wild places. The benefits will be felt in every state for genera-tions to come," Mark Van Putten, president of the Na-tional Wildlife Federation, said Thursday.

Its prospects in the Senate are uncertain.

Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, chairman of the Energy and Natural Resources Committee, said he wants to "use the momentum of this House success" and plans to take up the bill next month. But he warned that even within his committee he expected stiff opposition from a number of senators worried about a government rush to buy private

"There must be safeguards against unbridled government acquisitions," said Sen. Conrad Burns, R-Mont., who is on the committee.

Young and Miller believe the strong House vote will sway senators. So will the tens of millions of dollars annually that will go to states, counties and towns for land purchases and other conservation measures.

The property rights issue is not expected to go away.
Young argued that the bill provides new protections against the federal government taking land. It also will pour millions of federal dollars into conservation easements, which can be used to help ranchers and farmers keep their land away from developers.

At the heart of the legislation is a requirement that the 36-year-old Land and Water Conservation Fund be completely spent at $900 million a year, tripling money for federal and state land purchases. Created in 1964, the fund was supposed to be used exclusively for conservation, but for years has been raided by Congress to pay for other federal

County water well levels rise, minimally

Deaf Smith County ground water levels rose an average 0.03 of a foot in 1999 in 89 privately-owned wells in the observation netwrok maintained by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 in its 566,400 acre service area within the county. This represents an increase of 2,549acre-feet of water in storage in the Ogallala Aquifer last year in Deaf Smith County.

Ground water levels within the county declined an average 1.02 feet annually during the 10-year period from 1990 to 2000. An average annual decline of .93 of a foot was recorded during the five year period from 1995 to 2000.

Ground water levels in the Ogallala Aquifer within the 6.8 million acre Water District service area declined an average of .68 of a foot from January 1999 to January 2000. The Cross Section.

This decline is 1.47 feet less than the 2.15 feet decline recorded in 1998.

A network of 1,214 privatelyowned observation water wells is used to determine the annual change in the quantity of water in the Ogallala Aquifer within the High Plains Water District. The depth-to-water measurements are taken in January and February each year to allow water levels to stabilize from pumping during the previous growing season. Three counties within the Water District recorded water level increases of less than one foot last year. Five counties showed average annual water level declines of less than one foot.

Maps showing the location and well number of observation wells in each county or portion of a county were published in the April issue of

"Under the current budget, forget it," Rep. Charles Stenholm of Texas said Friday. "We'll have to work with what we've got."

Agriculture Chairman Larry
Combest, R-Texas, led a delegation of nine lawmakers, including Idaho Republicans Helen Chenoweth-Hage and Mike Simpson, at the ninth of 10 field hearings on federal farm policies. The hearings started in Lubbock, Texas, in March and were scheduled to conclude Saturday in Peoria, Twenty farmers, ranchers and representatives of producer groups from Idaho, Washing-ton, Oregon, Montana and Wyoming testified on Friday before the panel, which also included one non-committee member, Rep. Doc Hastings, R-Wash.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Market Access Program, established in 1990 with $200 million in spending authority, has steadily been pared back to its current $90 million-a-year level. Representatives of such commodity groups as the National Potato Council called for substantially expanding the program.

But while lawmakers were sympathetic, no one disagreed with Stenholm's gloomy assessment of the chances.

The meeting's dominant theme was leveling the playing field for trade, from normalizing relations with China in a vote later this month to coping with unfavorable exchange rates and combating subsidies their governments provide to European, Canadian and Mexican producers who undercut American commodity prices.

"Can the government get out of farming? Unfortunately, no. The world free market is somewhat like trying to de-fine the family farm. It may look good on paper, but very seldom works in reality," said Klaren Pete Koompin, a potato, wheat and canola farmer from American Falls.

Stenholm said that was a

> But he also praised an admission from Dick Wittman, a Culdesac farmer and director of the Pacific Northwest Direct Seed Association, that U.S. producers must first and foremost be accountable for their own success or failure.

> One of the best things Congress can do for agriculture is to send the message that farmers must take individual responsibility for developing proficiencies in basic management function beyond producing as a basic criteria for being allowed to farm. No other small business in America is exempt from this responsibility," Wittman said in prepared testimony.

> "That's the answer," Stenholm enthusiastically agreed. "We have to start living in the real world."

> As Congress begins considering what to include in the 2002 Farm Bill, witnesses also called for relief from environmental and other regulatory restrictions, reform of the federal crop insurance program, expanded agricultural research efforts and — Chenoweth-Hage's personal crusade — nation-of-origin labeling of imported meat.

Canadian imports were a particular source of frustra-tion, especially for potato and sugar producers.

Perry Meuleman of Rupert, president of the Idaho Sugarbeet Growers Associa-tion, said the federal govern-ment should help prop up prices by buying at least 370,000 tons of sugar this year for nonfood use or to ship abroad.

Meuleman blamed Mexican imports and a "quota circum-vention scheme" that brings a product called "stuffed molas-ses" into the United States from Canada. The blend of the middle of another long dry spell might not be the best introduction to the Texas Panhandle, but these are exactly the conditions which interest Dr. William A. Payne who is a crop stress expert. He fills a new position as associate professor of agronomy with the Texas Ag-ricultural Experiment Station.

Payne's research in crop physiology will be focused on University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, with facilities in Amarillo, and two adjunct sites near Bushland and Etter.

He held a similar post at Oregon State University's Columbia Basin Agricultural Re-search Center at Pendleton.

The agronomist studies soilplant-water relationships for small grains crops, such as wheat that are grown under dryland and limited irrigation conditions. Driving much of his work are the genetic and molecular control mechanisms that impact plant stress resis-tance. For the past three years, Payne's primary responsibilities have dealt with drought tolerance, water-use efficiency, sustainability, and introduction of new crops in Canyon wheat-based cropping systems.

Earlier, Payne was the principal crop physiologist in the agronomy division of the International Crops Research Institute for Semi-Arid Tropics (ICRISAT), with headquarters in India. At ICRISAT, he coordinated research efforts for West and Central Africa for six years. He also served as the team leader of the integrated systems project for Africa and Asia.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same intem/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."

Then rememeber these hints: · Give the price. A newpaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respnd to an ad with no price.

• Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

 Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

. Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach BRADFORD TRUCKING

The House of the Week-

A Striking Facade

and impressive corner quoins combine to create a striking facade. ELEGANT TRANSOM W

By BRUCE A. NATHAN AP Newsfeatures

Plan G-52, by HomeStyles Designers Network, offers 1,869 square feet of living space. Its inviting facade and well-designed floor plan combine to create a haven both for relaxing and entertaining.

From the foyer, double doors open to a den or study. With an optional wet bar, this cozy space is just the spot for reading, unwinding or surfing the Internet.

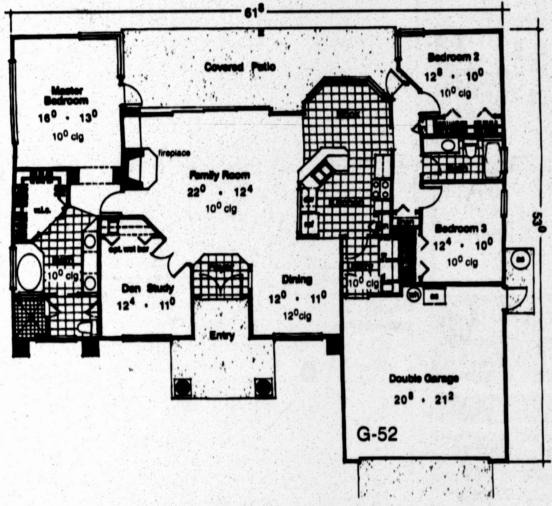

Featuring a stunning fireplace, the huge central family room will handle large gatherings with room to spare. Sliding glass doors open to a covered patio that provides a view of the backyard and, in warm weather, can become an extension of the family room.

The formal dining room, which has a 12-foot ceiling, is ideal for elegant dinner parties.

One will get a welcome wake-up call in the bright, bayed breakfast nook, and the efficient kitchen simplifies meal preparation.

Two secondary bedrooms and a full bath are across the hall from the kitchen and breakfast nook.

On the opposite side of the home and secluded from the other sleeping quarters is the master bedroom which has a private entrance to the back patio. The bath features a large walk-in closet, a separate tub and shower and a dual-sink vanity.

A COLUMNED FRONT ENTRY introduces the foyer, which looks straight into the large family room. Flanking the foyer are a den/study on the left and the formal dining room on the right. The kitchen, directly accessible from the dining room, shares a snack counter with the bayed breakfast nook. A utility room nearby leads to the two-car garage. Two secondary bedrooms on this side of the home share a full bath and a hallway that provides access to the rear covered patio. On the other side of the home, the master suite includes a large bedroom. a walk-in closet and a compartmentalized bath.

G-52 STATISTICS

esign G-52 has a family room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast nook, den/study, three bedrooms, two full baths and a utility room, totaling 1,869 square feet of living space. This plan includes a slab foundation and 2x4 exterior wall framing. The two-car garage covers 470 square feet of space.

Entertainment Entertainment Guide Movies · Soaps · Puzzles And Much More!! Lansbury's back on the case in new Murder, She Wrote

Author, lecturer and amateur sleuth Jessica Fletcher (Angela Lansbury) is reunited with an old friend and colleague (Richard Crenna) at a writers conference disrupted by a homicide in Murder, She Wrote: A Story to Die For, a CBS movie premiering Thursday.

By John Crook

©TVData Features Syndicate

Everyone's favorite amateur sleuth is back on the trail of a killer in Myrder. She Wrote: A Story to Die For, a CBS movie premiering Thursday, May 18, on CBS.

Angela Lansbury reprises her role as Jessica Fletcher from the long-running CBS series, although this time she has an A-list co-star in Richard Crenna. It's also a family affair with her son, Anthony Shaw, directing.

"This movie has been one of the swiftest jobs ever done for television, I think," a somewhat breathless Lansbury says during a recent break in filming. "We made it in a terrific hurry because CBS is so anxious to have it for the 18th of May. Usually it takes much, much longer than this to put a show like this together, but I don't think it will suffer for being rushed."

The movie finds Jessica scheduled to lecture at a writers conference, where she runs into Warren Pierce (Crenna), an old friend and fellow author still grieving after the death of his journaliet son

Their reunion is disrupted, however, by the startling murder of Yuri Malenkovich (Duncan Regehr), a Russian dissident scheduled to talk about his recent book exposing the inner workings of the KGB. Warren turns to Jessica for help after his young protegee (Kathryn Morris) is arrested and charged with the murder. Jessica agrees to assist in the investigation but cautions Warren that she will ferret out the truth, whatever it may be.

"I think the story line in this one is a bit more thought-provoking and more of substance here than a simple murder story, which enhances it in my mind," Lansbury says of Jessica's latest adventure. "I think it presents Jessica in a far more human and real way, which we didn't often have a chance to do in an hour. Here we have an opportunity to show her absolutely at her most interesting and compelling. I think."

That's a tantalizing prospect for the millions of fans who turned Murder, She Wrote into one of the most phenomenal TV hits of the late 1980s and early 1990s. Lansbury's Jessica Fletcher was one of the tube's few leading characters of "a certain age" on regular display, and the character's warm appeal crossed generations.

Reruns of the series are seen twice aday on A&E Network, and fans still approach the actress as if she were Jessica herself, Lansbury says.

"Unquestionably, people come up to me feeling as if they know me, that I'm a friend," she says and laughs. "They've had me in their living rooms for years. They know her parameters, so to speak, and they trust her. They assume that Angela Lansbury is that person, while in fact, Angela Lansbury has had to tailor herself to a certain degree (to live up to that image).

"I don't mean to suggest that I'm a hypocrite. I'm not, because I love all the good qualities of Jessica and I hope to God I have a few of them myself. But I don't presume to be Jessica Fletcher in any way, shape or form other than visually, obviously."

While more than two years have passed since Lansbury's last Murder outing, she says it's very easy to slip back into this character.

"She is very deeply rooted in my psyche, so I don't have any trouble," she explains. "Occasionally, if there is a new person writing Jessica, I will have to ... shape and change certain attitudes or syntax of lines to get back to what I know Jessica would be and sound like. In this case, happily, the writer had worked on the show and knew Jessica and me very well."

TV PIPELINE

Cloris Leachman is a former Lassie mom

By Taylor Michaels

cTVData Features Syndicate

Q: Who was the actor who played Gramps on the original TV show Lassie? Jan Clayton was the mother and Tommy Rettig was Jeff. Also who were the adoptive parents for Timmy (Jon Provost) before June Lockhart and the other actor I can't remember? -Alan Verbitski, Dumont, N.J.

A: An actor named George Cleveland played the grandfather of Jeff Miller (Tommy Rettig) when Lassie premiered in 1954. After Rettig outgrew his role, the producers entrusted their star canine to an orphan named Timmy Martin, with multiple Emmy winner Cloris Leachman as his adoptive mom, Ruth Martin, and Jon Shepodd as her husband, Paul.

The roles were recast after one season with Lockhart and Hugh Reilly.

Q: You recently wrote of Mike Minor of Petticoat Junction as if he were still with us. I am a necrologist, and I am forwarding information I found in my files reporting that Michael Minor died of AIDS in 1987 at age 46.—Helen Mosbrook, Lake Havasu City, Ariz.

A: None of the sources I checked included news of Minor's death, but the supplementary career facts included in the death notice you sent match the other information I reported. Thanks so much for providing this information, although fans will be saddened.

Q: I recently enjoyed What Ever Happened to Baby Jane? on American Movie Classics, Did either Bette Davis or Joan Crawford win an Oscar for their work in this movie? -Pat Mallon, Lake Worth, Fla.

A: Only Davis was nominated for her performance in that brilliant black comedy. She lost to Anne Bancroft, who won for The Miracle Worker.

Q: Who was the actor who died in an airplane accident while filming

Cloris Leachman

Twilight Zone: The Movie? -W.J.D. in Chicago.

A: Vic Morrow, the former star of Combat! died along with two young costars when special effects pyrotechnics sent a helicopter out of control during a scene for the movie you mention.

Q: A few years ago, Melissa Gilbert played a lawyer in a series in which she went into practice with an African-American woman. What was that show, and who was the other actress?—Mindy Gunns, Erie, Pa.

A: Gilbert starred with multiple Emmy winner Cicely Tyson in Sweet Justice, a short-lived 1994-95 NBC drama.

Q: You recently stated in your column that James Mitchell danced in Laurey's dream sequence in Oklahoma! I have always thought James Mason was the dancer. Am I right? -C. Saylor, Meyersville, Pa.

A: No, but that's a very funny mental picture. Thanks!

SOAP TALK

Lucci's not nominated, but she is center stage

By Candace Havens

oTVData Features Syndicate

She may not be nominated, but Susan Lucci (Erica, All My Children) will make her presence known as host of The 27th Annual Daytime Emmy Awards Friday, May 19, on ABC.

The most interesting Emmy race this year is in the outstanding lead actress category. With Lucci out of the running, the door is left wide open for veteran nominee Kim Zimmer (Reva, Guiding Light).

The other nominees in the category are Finola Hughes (Alex. AMC). Susan Flannery (Stephanie. The Bold and the Beautiful). Hillary B. Smith (Nora, One Life to Live). Jeanne Cooper (Katherine, The Young and the Restless) and Jess Walton (Jill. Y&R). Any one of these actresses could take home the trophy.

No actors on As the World Turns were nominated. Port Charles. Sunset Beach and Passions were also shut out. In contrast, Y&R has multiple actors nominated in every category.

The following is a list of nominees in a few of the top categories:

Outstanding lead actor: David Canary (Adam/Stuart, AMC). Anthony Geary (Luke, General Hospital). Robert S. Woods (Bo, OLTL), Peter Bergman (Jack, Y&R) and Eric Braeden (Victor, Y&R).

Outstanding supporting actor: Steve Burton (Jason, GH). Timothy Gibbs (Kevin, OLTL), Christian LeBlanc (Michael, Y&R). Shemar Moore (Malcolm, Y&R) and Kristoff St. John (Neil, Outstanding supporting actress: Patrika Darbo (Nancy, Days of Our Lives), Sarah Brown (Carly, GH), Nancy Grahn (Alexis, GH), Sharon Case (Sharon, Y&R) and Tonya Lee Williams (Olivia, Y&R).

Outstanding young actress: Adrienne Frantz (Amber, B&B), Erin Torpey (Jessica, OLTL). Ashley Jones (Megan, Y&R). Heather Tom (Victoria Y&R) and Camryn Grimes (Cassie, Y&R). Outstanding daytime drama: AMC.

GH. OLTL and Y&R.
