Time is doing to victors of World War II what enemy armies couldn't

Time is doing something the Third Reich and Japanese Empire couldn't do: defeat American GIs.

The young men who defeated the military might of Hitler's Germany and Tojo's Japan more than a half-century ago are succumbing to age, and the dwindling members of Hereford's American Legion Post No. 192 are placing U.S. flags on more of their comrades' graves each Memorial Day.

The members of the post have been putting flags on veterans' graves for more than 40 years. On Friday, they placed 1,032 flags on graves at three cemeteries.

"Every couple of years we have to replace the flags," Post Adjutant Marvin Kearns said. "We put them out on Friday and pick them up on Monday evening."

Three veterans — Kearns, Grant Hanna and Earl Lance — said the post membership has dropped to 104 from a peak of more than 200, and nearly all of the members are World War II veterans.

"The Korean boys aren't coming in, but they should," Hanna said, referring to the veterans of the Korean War, which began 50 years ago next month.

"Many of the younger ones didn't feel welcome (in the post). They'd rather do other things," Kearns said, referring to the veterans of Vietnam and the Persian Gulf.

"We don't have any special jobs for anybody, so I don't know why they don't want to come. After all, Hanna and Earl do most of the work and the ladies (American Legion Auxiliary) do the rest of it," Kearns joked.

'Killer resumé' spreads via e-mail

WASHINGTON (AP) - The computer e-mail viruses that swept the world earlier this month claimed to be looking for love, but now a new threat has arrived looking for a job.

A new and dangerous computer virus dubbed "Killer Resume" is spreading through e-mail systems using the Microsoft Outlook program, the FBI said.

Computer security companies reported that several corporate e-mail systems had already been infected. and some shut down as a result, the FBI's National Infrastructure Protection Center said Friday night.

The virus is known as the "Killer Resume" because it arrives pretending to be a resume from a potential job applicant, the anti-virus com-pany Network Associates said on their Web site. The virus is carried in a file attached to an e-mail with the subject "Resume - Janet Simons.'

Another computer security company, Symantec Corp. of Cupertino, Calif., had received nine reports early Saturday of infected computers, including two from U.S. corporations, spokeswoman Yunsun Wee said. She wouldn't name the companies affected.

Wee said the virus appeared to be fairly well contained because most companies had shut down for the Memorial Day weekend. She added her company didn't expect the virus to spread far because corporations and computer users would be able to update their antivirus programs over the weekend.

"If this was a regular work week and the virus hit earlier in the day

BRAND/Don Cooper

we could have potentially seen more infections and damage," Wee said. However, the FBI's warning said the extended weekend could give the virus an opportunity to spread with a surge in activity as business open overseas on Monday and in the United States on Tuesday. The Killer Resume virus is similar to the "Melissa" virus that clogged e-mail system around the world in March 1999 because both spread using an attached Microsoft Word file. The document used by Killer Resume is called "EXPLORER.DOC" or "RESUME.DOC," the Santa Clara, Calif.-based Network Associates said.

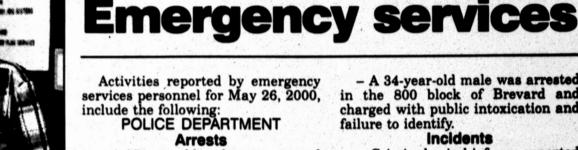

When someone opens the Word file, the virus first spreads itself by sending an e-mail to everyone in the user's Microsoft Outlook address book. It then makes that person's computer inoperable by deleting important files.

While only Outlook users can spread the virus, any person with a computer running the Windows operating system who opens the infected Word document can have their files erased.

The FBI advised computer users not to open any e-mail with the "Resume - Janet Simons" subject line, to deactivate the executive summary feature in Outlook, and then delete the e-mail without opening it.

Both Symantec and Network Associates had posted updates to their anti-virus software to stop Killer Resume on their Web sites Friday.

Computer users can also protect themselves by disabling the "macro" feature of their Word programs, Wee said.

Kearns had a display of Nazi memorabilia in a wood case. The post adjutant fought in France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Czechoslovakia. In 1945, while on reconnaissance with the mechanized cavalry, he was wounded.

"We were advancing through a little town and artillery opened up on us," Kearns said. He was hit in the left leg. Some shrapnel was removed from his leg in a field hospital, but the rest stayed in his leg until it was removed four years later in a civilian hospital.

Lance, who enlisted in the Marine Corps several months before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor thrust the United States into the War, earned a Bronze Star for his service in the Pacific Theater.

Between 1942 and 1945, Lance participated in six landings of Japaneseheld islands, from Guadalcanal to Iwo Jima, which is made famous by the photograph of Marines raising the U.S. flag atop Mt. Surabachi.

Hanna spent the war as a mess sergeant in field hospitals in England and Germany.

Although the men are veterans of World War II, they are working with the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to put a plaque containing the names of the Korean War veterans.

As they prepared the flags for the graves of other veterans, the three men considered Memorial Day.

"Some places really celebrate, but I don't think that there'll be anything here," Lance said.

"We don't do anything here," Hanna agreed.

"We ought to," Kearns commented.

Hanna said when he was a youngster, he would go out with the World War I veterans to their rifle range and pick up shell casings after their shooting.

"Back then, it was really something," he said.

Model student accused in the killing of teacher

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) -Nathaniel Brazill was a seventhgrader on the honor roll, a model student with perfect attendance.

The 13-year-old flute player also had been picked to be a student mediator at Lake Worth Community Middle School next fall.

School officials, friends and family today were struggling to understand how the skinny kid who loved to joke around could be responsible for fatally shooting Barry Gunrow, a beloved English teacher, on the last day of the school year. "If you asked me to pick one kid out of a 1,000 to do something like this, he wouldn't be the one," said Palm Beach County Schools Superintendent H. Benjamin Marlin.

Brazill earned A's and B's, accord-ing to Nat Harrington, a spokesman for the school board. He had no problems of any kind, prior to this."

The youngster had been sent home by an assistant principal Friday around 1 p.m. for throwing water balloons in class. According to police, he rode his bicycle back to school a couple hours later with a .25-caliber semi-automatic pistol.

The weapon — a compact, 5-inch model — was loaded with four bul-lets he had stolen from his grandfather's dresser drawer a week before, Police Chief William Smith said.

Gore once welcomed third-party challenger, but now he's facing one

By Will Lester

Associated Press Writer Al Gore was once seen as the clear beneficiary of a thirdparty candidate entering the presidential race, but not any more.

The picture is considerably murkier now that Gore faces a challenge from the left.

Pat Buchanan, who bolted the Republican Party last year, has yet to demonstrate he will seriously hamper George W. Bush's presidential chances. And there's scattered evidence that Ralph Nader, the veteran consumer advocate, could be troublesome for Gore, especially in Western states the Democrat will need to put together a winning electoral map.

Recent poll numbers suggest Nader getting as much support as Buchanan nationally, and slightly better in some Western states.

"We're not taking anybody's vote for granted, but we're not quaking in our boots at the prospects of Ralph Nader's candidacy," said Gore spokes-man Doug Hattaway.

Some environmentalists say they have embraced the Green Party candidate as a protest against the Clinton-Gore administration for being too quick to compromise on environmental issues. And some of the biggest environmental groups like the Sierra Club and the League of Conservation Voters, though leaning toward Gore, haven't officially declared. Democratic-leaning critics of the China trade deal also have mentioned Nader as an alternative.

our respect to the veterans who still stand tall in our community.

Each generation of veterans has faced unique challenges.

From the Revolutionary War soldiers who forged a nation to the men and women who carried this nation's flag in the Persian Gulf, each generation has made its own contribution to this nation's security.

This Memorial Day, we can honor all veterans best - both living and dead, and those now serving as peacekeepers in the Balkans - by pressing our national leaders for their assurance that military force is imperative and clearly defined before American blood is spilled.

No American life is less precious than the next, no generation has failed to produce a legion of heroes willing to make the ultimate sacrifice, and no war has ever been lost on the strength of an American soldier's convictions.

he long-awaited Little League baseball season finally arrived last week when hundreds of area ball players gathered for the first game of the season.

Organizers must have been purring in de-light as the day dawned with perfect baseball weather — high temperatures, light breezes and plenty of sunshine. The day was made for the game and players and fans turned out to celebrate the opening in grand style.

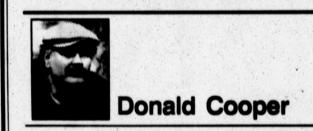

Players in red, green, yellow, blue and purple assembled in true sportsman-like fashion, to take their turns at bat, catch that all important pop fly and hopefully cross home plate to hear the umpire announce "SAFE."

The players slid, jumped, hopped and point-edly stepped on the plate, each with an indi-vidual reaction to the call of the umpire.

When the rains didn't come n the spring of 1955, the rains didn't come to southwestern Arkansas and the old men who gathered on Saturday afternoons in front of the seed store on Nashville's Main Street didn't swap yarns or argue about politics.

When they sat on the old church pew beside the door to the store, the old men's conversation was about the drought and how it wreaked havoc with their lives.

During the years they spent farming, they had endured a series of droughts during the 1930s and a collapse of the cotton market a decade earlier; they endured a variety of insects and diseases; fought off foreclosures when prices dropped precipitously; rebuilt after fires and floods.

Years later, they would laugh about those struggles and swear it made them tougher, better farmers. But when they turned their eyes toward the cloudless skies, their brows furrowed and hey murmured silent prayers.

When it me to drought, the old men didn't try to top the others' tales of walking through fields where the soil had turned into powder, where an unrelenting sun beat down on whatever plant had the temerity to poke its shoots above the ground

Ira Ponder tried to lighten the mood on Saturday afternoon in June.

"It's so dry the Baptists are sprinkling, the Methodists are spitting and the Catholics are giving our rain checks," he joked.

But no one laughed; the old men, including my grandfather who, with an older brother, had operated a small farm just off the Center Point Highway, just nodded.

"Matthew said one of the ponds has already dry," Granddad said, referring to his son, my Uncle Bo, who took over operations of the dairy farm after coming back from World War

The other old men just nodded.

Nearly every day during that summer, my uncle would go back over the hill behind the farm house that he and his wife, Marie, and their two daughters shared with my grandparents to the main stock pond. Most days I'd walk along with him and watch as he checked the receding water.

My uncle, normally a cheerful, optimistic man, was serious these days, and he began to shift the dairy herd into another pasture, one which had a small spring, to cut down on use

That was the summer of the dirty cars because no one would waste water on something as frivolous as washing the family car. Even Dr. Edwin Dildy's shiny Cadillac was now covered with a thick layer of dust.

As the summer dragged on, the people in town quit watering their lawns and flower beds, letting the yards turn yellow, then brown, and the flowers wilted and died, as they put their own water conservation plans into place. That was the summer of the dirty cars because no one would waste water on something as frivolous as washing the family car. Even Dr. Edwin Dildy's shiny Cadillac was now covered with a thick layer of dust.

Then, as now, events proved the futility of listening to the weather forecasters. Several times during that long, hot, dry summer, the radio weatherman would get our hopes up by forecasting the rains that would end the drought.

The rains never came.

When the drought ended, it caught the weather forecasters, who using the sophisticated equipment of that day, off guard.

My mother, grandmother and grandfather were sitting on the front porch of my grandparents' house. My grandmother was shelling some of the few purple hull peas that had survived the drought, when my grandfather said, "We're going to be getting some rain." My mother sniffed.

"Daddy, there's not a cloud in the sky," she said.

"I don't care, we're going to get some rain," he said. "I got a twinge in my shoulder."

My mother sniffed again. Although she was his favorite child, the two bickered constantly. If Granddad said the sun rose in the east, my mother would swear it rose in the west; if he said hello, she said goodbye.

But it seemed like just moments later, dark clouds gathered, there was a clap of thunder and huge raindrops began to fall, slowly at first, then faster and faster.

While sat on the porch, watching the beauti-ful rain soaking the parched ground, my grand-father said, "Well, would you look at that!"

It was my Uncle Bo, standing on the seat of his Farmall which he had pulled over the side of the lane that lead to the house, his head thrown back, joyously letting himself be drenched.

And while most of you have proven your academic aptitude exceeds the average, there is still a better than average probability that your education in real life-skills has just begun.

You'll suddenly develop profound appreciation of your mothers and the Hereford home you left behind:

· When you realize the underwear you are putting on one morning must have come from the dryer next to yours in the laundry mat.

 When, through trial and error, you learn that dirty clothes don't become more clean when you double the amount of laundry detergent.

 When you gradually learn that the personal space and privacy you coveted and felt so lacking at home will be further infringed on in a standard-issue dorm room — essentially an upgraded version of the conventional prison cubicle, shared with a roommate who might very well be the Antichrist.

When you revel in the privacy offered by the community dorm bathroom, where you will also share the mores of personal hygiene presented by 60 other students on your dorm floor.

 When you enjoy complete freedom to study landfill strategies within your dorm room, or launch, your very own unsupervised study of mold cultures outside the science classroom.

 When no one reminds you 10 times that the cafeteria is serving, and serving only those who show on time for the three square meals offered for the day.

· When no one wakes you up for those 7:30-9:00 a.m. classes - often taught by graduate assistants who are more interested in their personal agendas than your understanding of course material.

In summary, very few people at college, or in the workforce, will care if you stayed out too late, took your medicine, turned in an assignment, studied or simply fell off the face of the earth.

And providing you pass these and other personal, religious and academic challenges presented by higher education, you will then be handed the next test. It's the one you'll spend the rest of your life trying to master — chiefly, whether or not you will finally become a productive, responsible and contributing member of society after the huge investment of time, money and love showered upon you.

At that juncture, I hope you will have learned that (1) no one owes you anything; (2) that you and only you will determine whether you succeed or fail in life; and most importantly, (3) your parents cared more than anyone else if your life among the rest of the mammals was happy and fulfilling.

You may have missed it while you were being honored during Friday's commencement ceremony.

The occasion saluted your vast achievements, but also marked a significant moment in your passage between youth and adulthood namely, that your education has just begun and the tests that will follow are lifelong.

Congratulations to each of you — especially to you, my pretty daughter — and good luck.

Home insurance program helps 411 underserved areas

AUSTIN - Texans who are having trouble finding insurance coverage on residential property or tenant coverage on personal property may find solutions under new rules adopted by the Texas Department of Insurance.

The rules implement 1999 legislation allowing certain homeowners to file residential property insurance applications directly with the Texas Department of Insurance without having to go through agents.

The change improves a three-year-old residential Market Assistance Program (MAP) that targets 411 ZIP codes deemed "underserved" for residential insurance.

The ZIP codes include inner-city neighborhoods, rural communities and other areas where home insurance may be hard to buy. "Home ownership is part of the American dream, but it's difficult for certain Texans to achieve if they can't find residential property insurance in the standard market," Insurance Commissioner Jose Montemayor said in adopting the new rules.

"The homeowners MAP improves the chances of fulfilling that dream, and now it's easier than ever for consumers to use this program."

Jobless rate drops

Unemployment in Texas dropped to a seasonally ad-justed rate of 4.5 percent in April, down from 4.6 percent in March, the Texas Workforce Commission announced last week.

"This is our lowest April rate since 1979," said TWC Chairwoman Diane Rath.

Texas employers added 14,800 nonagricultural jobs last month and more than 250,000 over the year, she said. Gains include 6,500 construction jobs in April and 32,900 over the year.

The lowest unemployment rate in the Metropolitan Statistical Areas was 1.4 percent in Bryan-College Station, fol-lowed by Austin-San Marcos at 1.9 percent, Lubbock at 2.3 percent, Waco at 2.8 percent and Dallas at 2.9 percent. The highest unemployment rate was 13 percent in the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission MSA, fol-lowed by Brownsville-Harlingen-San Benito at 8.7 percent, El Paso at 8.3 percent, Beaumont-Port Arthur at 7.8 percent and Laredo at 7.1 Betterments' accord GEICO was not sued because the company quickly agreed to change its practices and refund money to its policyholders, Attorney General John Cornyn said.

GEICO will refund any depreciation or betterment deducted, plus interest, to Texas GEICO policyholders who made auto repair claims against GEICO from Jan. 1, 1996, to the present. The average refund amount, including inter-est, is estimated to be about $150. Veterans' homes Texas Land Commissioner David Dewhurst will dedicate the first Texas State Veterans Home on Memorial Day, May 29, in Temple. The Temple long-term nursing care facility for veterans is the first of four that will open in the state this year. Each has been built with revenue bonds and federal matching funds at no extra cost to Texas taxpayers.

Other homes will be located in Floresville, Big Spring and Bonham. The Temple facility has been named the William R. Courtney Texas State Veterans Home in honor of a World War II veteran.

• On May 23, Austin Bergstrom International Airport celebrated its first birthday. The nation's newest airport has served nearly 7 million passengers since it opened.

• On May 24, Texas Land Commissioner Dewhurst an-nounced the licensing of Nedra Jo Foster of Silsbee as a state land surveyor. Foster is the first woman to have been granted the enhanced qualification by the Texas General Land Office. Texas began licensing surveyors of state land by examination in 1919.

Torching of Los Alamos

By Marty McElhaney

Special to The Brand The torching of Los Alamos by the U.S. Park Service was an act of unbelievable stupidity. Park Service officials set the "controlled burn" in spite of warnings from the National Weather Service that conditions were ripe for wildfires. As a result, 20,000 people were driven from their homes by the government arsonists and many will return to find their dreams in ashes and their only possessions, memories.

Coincidentally, on the very day of this avoidable tragedy, the U.S. House of Representatives approved H.R. 701, legislation that would create an entitlement handing govern-ment agencies $900 million a year to purchase more land to At one time, national forests boasted signs at their entrance welcoming all to en-joy the beauty of the forests, calling them "lands of many uses." Now, sadly, at the urging of non-government organizations who claim that any legitimate activity causes irreparable harm to forest environments, the logging companies can no longer harvest logs for people's homes, the mining companies can no longer extract minerals for beneficial human uses, the ranchers can no longer graze their cattle and sheep.

Instead, the forests are burned to control the growth of brush and dry grasses and the trees wither from disease and crowded conditions, eventually falling victim to the Park Rangers' flames. Who knows how many forest creatures have lost their homes and their lives to these manmade holocausts, creatures the environmentalists claim are endangered to the point of extinction.

The money which Congress is so eager to control is from the Off Shore Oil Reserves and totals $3 billion to $4 billion a year. It has previinto the fund where it is used to shore up the Social Security Trust Fund and pay down the deficit, among other uses. CARA, by making those bil-

A report by The Heritage Foundation calls CARA "fiscally irresponsible and a threat to local land use decisions."

Government acquisition of more land will inevitably call for increased funding to maintain the land and compensate states and local governments for the loss of economic development through "payment in lieu of taxes." The federal government already owns 30 per cent of America, more than 650 million acres, and can't properly maintain what it has. The Senate will soon be considering S. 25, H.R. 701's companion bill, and it is hoped the senators will carefully consider the serious ramifications of empowering federal bureaucracies and special interest groups by giving them the means to control American communities. on the multiple fields of Kids Inc., the real sport took place in the stands and on the sidelines as parents, friends and neighbors cheered on their favorite teams. Onlookers were reasonably well behaved, clapping when the favorite team made a hit or scored a run; cringing when a young player missed a play. Onlookers would occasionally make comments regarding the umpire's call, but no one became truly unruly.

Questions arose as parents commented on calls based on forgotten rules of the game. That third foul ball - left live and unattended - allows the batter to run to first. Runners coming into home must be tagged to be considered out. All obscure little rules, which fans and sometimes even players, have forgotten made for some interesting fan commentary.

In the stands and behind the fence lines, parents encouraged not only their children, but also all the players on one team or another.

"Come on, guys, talk to the batter. Hey, batter, batter, batter, swing" and "Don't let 'em bring another one home, guys" were among the common sideline chants encouraging the outfielders to distract the infielders.

"Wait for your ball; watch your strike zone" and "That's OK" were meant to let the players know mistakes and scores have to be expected. After all, it's only a game.

Parents set up the video cameras to record the opening game in full. Others decided to catch only a special moment, walking from one vantage point to another, using the point and shoots or the classic 35mm camera to forever capture a special event.

Home runs, outs, window-cracking foul balls alike were met with groans, cheers and applause - all depending on which team the fans cheered.

The final inning, the final strike, the final out lead only to the inevitable - half the teams had high scores, half the teams had low scores - all the players went home winners as they accepted the outcome and high-fived the opposing team.

Players dusted off their britches, wiped the sweat from heated brows and collected cold drinks as parents and coaches highlighted special plays. There's always another game and another team.

It's now official. Baseball season is in full swing and I've become what I never thought I'd be - an umpires' worst nightmare - a sideline-sports mom.

As I tried to console my son after the loss of his first game, I expected a bit more dejection. But, it wasn't the lack of points that made him wear the frown of the defeated.

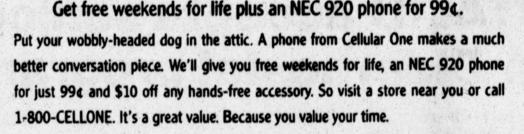

Mom," he said, "I don't mind you cheering for us or giving us sideline coaching tips, but do you think you can quit calling me 'Baby' when I'm on the field?"

Like I said, I've become a sideline-sports mom. And, he will always be my baby.

Pickens' water plan bad for area

This is a in response to a recent article in the Amarillo Daily News by Mr. T. Boone Pickens in his attempt to justify his position in proposing to produce, transport and sell water from the Texas Panhandle to other regions of Texas through Mesa Water Inc.

The entire idea is ludicrous, especially coming from a man who made his fortune from depletion of natural resources (oil and gas) in the Texas Panhandle.

The Texas Panhandle is a semi-arid area. Explorers in the early 1900s declared the Llano Estacado a "great desert," unfit for human occupancy. The lifeblood of the Panhandle is water from the Ogallala aquifer. This aquifer has been depleted on average of 2-3 feet per year for the past 50 years through use by cities, industry, irrigation, etc.

Oil and gas are not necessary to support human life. Sure, the economy would suf-fer, but the human being cannot survive without water. Now Mr. Pickens wants to deplete this priceless resource by pro-ducing and selling it to other localities in Texas. In normal years, these locations receive 2-3 times the precipitation of that's received in the Panhandle.

I spent 47 years in the development and production of top half of the Ogallala has been depleted. If Mr. Pickens' desire is to make money, he should transport his water to Deaf Smith, Parmer, Bailey, Castro, Hale, Randall, Swisher and other irrigated counties to recharge the Ogallala through recharge wells. We might consider paying him for this. In conclusion, Mr. Pickens' water proposal has to be the most preposterous idea I ever heard. For the long-term good of the Panhandle, I hope most other area residents agree. Mr. Pickens needs to sit on his Roberts County ranch and watch his windmills pump water, because if he sells his water, they "ain't gonna be pumpin' in 50 years." R. Paul Coneway

Positive attitudes of Hereford are being eroded

In 1964, I moved to Hereford. The progressive, visionary leaders with whom I came into contact made lasting impressions on me. To name a few, let's start with Mr. Sears, Mr. Witherspoon, Mr. McWhorter, Mr. Seamonds, Mr. Pitman and my boss, Mr. Dudley Bayne. The town was not controlled by any cliques with self-interest. The attitude was invest (risk) for the good of the community.

It was fun and exciting to be part of the aggressive, fastmoving atmosphere. Obviously, my view was that of a young man following his own dream. This nostalgic retreat is a reminder that there has been an erosion of positive attitudes and approaches to events which affect our community.

Issues back in the "good old days" were being addressed to better the community with a vision of where Hereford would be in 30 years. The issue most talked about was water. In the Year 2000, water is still the important issue of the day. If Hereford has any conception or anticipation of attracting a corporate partner, water will be the focal point.

Obviously, corporations look that affect the quality of life of their employees. An adequate water supply is necessary if attractive swimming pools, manicured parks and properly landscaped golf courses will be used as assets to sell pros-pects on the though of relocation.

I am assuming the decision made by the city commission recently was an economic de-cision. They properly identified the problem, but in my opinion, lacked the bold vision of saying, "Let's do it correctly now, even if it costs more." Normally, if a job is done right the first time, the original cost is less than updating at some point down the road.

Mr. R. Paul Coneway is an engineer who lives in Hereford and understands the importance of water conservation. Mr. Coneway believes, as I do, that there is a more effective use of effluent water than pumping it down the (Tierra Blanca) creek.

If the city manager is in-sensitive to local knowledge and refuses to utilize hometown talent, that's his prerogative. It would be my suggestion that Hereford deserves the advice of an expert hysuch important issues.

With research, it's possible that grants from federal or state funds might be available for innovative water treatment solutions. Every avenue to conserve our most important natural resource should be investigated.

groundwater throughout the Southwest, including Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico and

gists need to study their recommendations much closer. A. recent (news) article stated that Mesa Water would deplete the Ogallala only 50 percent in 60 years. The problem with this reasoning is that the top 50 percent of the Ogallala acquifer is by far the most productive. Witness the irrigated areas of the Panhandle where 50 years ago wells produced 1,000 gallons per minute (GPM), but today produce 400 GPM because the Mesa Water Inc. is in the planning stages of buying Panhandle water and selling it down state. This story alone should alert everyone to the importance of our water supply. Basic math calculations using the cost of water in the City of Hereford indicate the use of effluent water on Veterans Park and the golf course would pay for itself in a short time frame.

Visualize Veterans Park under irrigation from effluent water. Surely more families and visitors would be attracted to the area for their outdoor activities (quality of life factor).

The city could also encourage RVs to stop and enjoy our area in a nicely landscaped park. This asset could be a building block to more-productive industries. John Pitman Golf Course should also be treated as an courses in all areas of the United States. Developers pay up to $1 million to obtain the effluent water, especially in arid regions that understand water conservation.

Look no futher than Amarillo to find effective use of effluent water on a golf course. Arrow Head Golf Course is solid grass and the turf has not suffered any damage from effluent water - in fact, it has flourished.

Surely city management would not allow corn to be grown on the city farm if the effluent water was hazardous to the corn plant. Since 1964, the water table has probably dropped 40 percent. We must start being more progressive so that future families will be able to enjoy Hereford for the next 30 years. As the Brand's (April 15) commentary said: "Dying communities give loyalty to people rather than issues" and the good ol' boy cliques prevail right up to the end.

WTAMU accepts seniors for Elderhostel program

Special to The Brand

CANYON - About 20 senior adults already have signed up to visit the West Texas A&M University campus June 11-16 to attend Elderhostel.

Elderhostel is an international program providing education and entertainment for adults 55 and older. WTAMU's Elderhostel program is directed by the Continuing Education Center, and plenty of room remains for local seniors wishing to participate in the program.

"We've had as many as 50 or 60 attend Elderhostel here in the past, so we've got room for a lot more," Chris Boyette, assistant director of the Continuing Education Center, said. "We'll be accepting registrations through June 5." The cost is $360 for participants planning to stay in campus residence halls and $295 for commuters. The price in either case includes meals, instruction and field trips.

Program selections scheduled for the daytime include: • "Bones, Buggies and Bon-nets: A Modern Museum Up Close and Behind the Scenes" - Participants will experience the daily operation of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and learn how museum professionals acquire, catalog, preserve, conserve and exhibit artifacts;

• "Southwestern Art: Paints Pastels and People" — The course focuses on Southwestern art history, including origi-nal masterpieces by famous Taos and Santa Fe artists in the PPHM collection;

· "Investments for Today: Analysis and Recommendations" - Dr. Jerry Miller, retired dean of the T. Boone Pickens College of Business, will lead the course, which will examine the present financial outlook and review current conditions in the stock and bond markets.

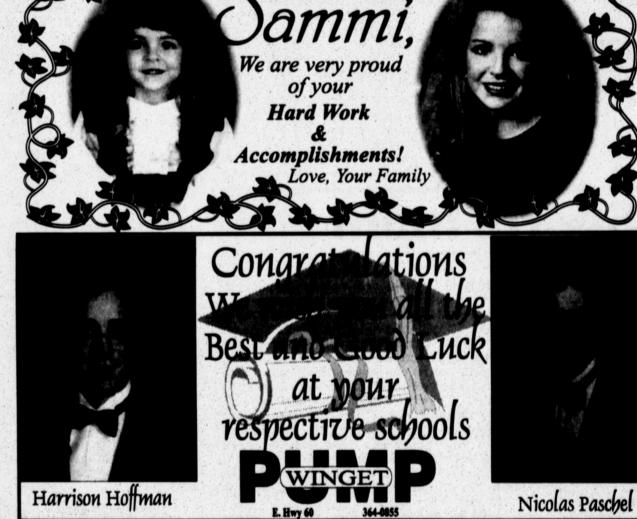

"Some of the people com-ing to Elderhostel have attended several times before just to take Dr. Miller's in-vestment class," Boyett said. "Unfortunately, this is the last year he's doing it. We hope our area seniors take advantage of this excellent opportunity." Participants also will dine Miller's home in Canyon. Some meals will be served in the WTAMU Dining Hall, while others will be catered at the Buffalo Room in the WTAMU Alumni Banquet Facility.

The Elderhostel group also will attend the June 14 per-formance of the outdoor musical drama "TEXAS," which is staged in Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

File early for the SS benefits

Special to The Brand AMARILLO — Individuals who became or will become 65 this year and who have not filed a claim for Social Security benefits because they are still working may need to do so to avoid losing benefits, according to the office man-ager of the Social Security Administration.

INSIDE

Peter Gilbert said the new law that eliminated the Social Security "retirement" or "earnings" test for people 65 and older makes working people eligible for benefits beginning with the month they are 65 or even before the month they are 65, depending upon their earnings up to that point.

For example, in the year an individual turns age 65, anyone who will not earn more than $17,000 during the months he or she becomes 65, can get a Social Security payment beginning with the month the claim is filed. So, a person earning $3,000 a month who will be 65 in June is eligible for a Social Security payment as early as April (the month the law changed), even though the individual will earn $36,000 this year. While the benefit amount is reduced slightly if full monthly benefits are paid for months before age 65, benefits paid can put a person ahead for many years.

On the other hand, benefits for people who elect to claim them after the month they reach full retirement age (65 this year) will increase by a half-percent per month or 6 percent for each full year of "delayed" retirement. There also are income tax consider-ations. Up to 85 percent of Social Security benefits can be subject to income tax, depending upon an individual's or couple's income.

Gilbert recommends people with questions to call Social Security's toll-free number -800-722-1213.

Historic blueprints on exhibit until November

Special to The Brand

CANYON — "Renovating Yesterday; Building Tomorrow" will be on display through Nov. 16 in the Alexander Gallery at Panhandle-Plains His-torical Museum.

The exhibit features historical blueprints of the museum from the past and proposed renovations for the future, which are scheduled to begin this spring and be complete by May 30, 2001. The exhibition shows actual historical blueprints of each addition to the museum and documents chronologically each renovation/annexation in the life of the largest history museum in Texas.

A narration is included in the exhibit of the progression of the museum from the original "brick drive" in the early 1940s to the opening of the Harrington Petroleum Wing in the 1980s, with all of the other changes in between. The presentation will chronicle the growth of the museum from the less than $500,000 initial investment to the more than $6.3 million in proposed renovations.

A historic view of the 20th century is the highlight of the exhibit and offers a new perspective to the vital growth and enormous change representative of the Texas Panhandle as illustrated in the development of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Spring training brings optimism to head coach

Head football coach Craig Yenzer says he is happy about team's performance

By Jeff Blackmon Hereford Brand Sports Editor

If there is one man who will be wearing a smile for the entire summer it is Hereford High School head football coach Craig Yenzer.

For the first time in his 14 years of coaching at Hereford High, Yenzer can go into the summer break with a good idea of what his team is made of because his team just completed the first spring training the Whitefaces have ever had. Yenzer said even though the time of year is difficult the training has meant a lot. "It has been valuable to us," Yenzer said. "This is a tough time of year. The kids have done a tremendous job of keeping the intensity." Yenzer also said the spring practices are a good change from the usual routine. He said the team does lose one week at the beginning of August, but he gladly exchanged that week for more workouts.

"If you look at the logistics of it you give up one week in August for 18 workouts in 30 days in May," Yenzer said. Yenzer said the time in May should help the team be more prepared to get going when they return in August. He said the team will report on August 14, but he should not have to worry about rushing things.

We usually come in at the first week of August and have to get back into shape," Yenzer said. "Then we throw them right into pads and that is our week. We also only have six days to decide who is on varsity, first team or second team, and that is tough." Yenzer said the practices have already given the coaches an idea of who will be on varsity and to him that is a relief.

"We already have a good grasp on who will be our var-sity kids," Yenzer said. "The workouts really helped in that respect."

Yenzer said getting a look at what his players can do has helped him decide what team to put players on, but it also has shown the coaches where their week points are. He said as the team went through their workouts he and his coaches could see some spots that may need work.

"We know where are defi-ciencies are," Yenzer said. "We know that maybe we will need to make some changes or beef up certain parts of our team."

Yenzer said there are several reasons why having these practices turned out to be important. First of all, Yenzer said in previous years the coaches have not been able to spend much time with young players because of varsity concerns. He said this spring they have been able to work more with everyone.

"It has been valuable to our young kids," Yenzer said. "I have been able to spend time with our young quarterbacks and receivers. During the season you tend to concentrate only on varsity for obvious reasons, and you don't get to work with the young kids."

Yenzer said one advantage of being able to work with these young kids helps the staff address their needs at certain positions. Yenzer said filling holes left by graduating seniors has become the sec-ond reason why spring practice has been so helpful. Yenzer said the workouts have given him an early look at who they will use to replace starters like running back L.J. Vallejo, nose guard Daniel Fangman, cornerback Andrew Ramirez or rover Vernon Adams.

"I've been very pleased," Yenzer said. "We have been able to replace some of our front line kids.'

Yenzer said the team had six critical positions to fill on defense coming into spring training. These places included two cornerbacks, one line-backer and three in the middle.

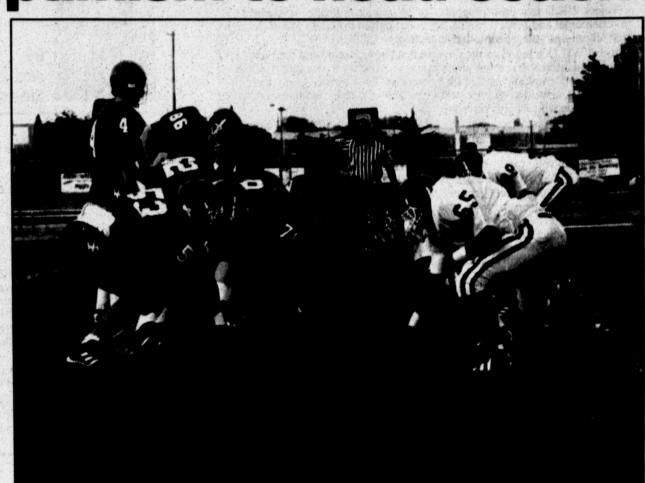

On the offensive side, Yenzer said the team has eight returning players, but players are stepping up to fill the holes of graduating players like guard Kurtis Flood.

"We are real excited about what the guys have done and what the back-ups have done," Yenzer said. "There have been a lot of positive things."

Another thing Yenzer said he has been able to do is develop some good back ups to their starting squad.

Coach Yenzer is quick to note that the season has not even begun, but his team is showing the intensity and motivation that it takes to be a winner.

Spring scrimmage—The Hereford Whitefaces concluded their spring practices on Thursday night by competing in a team scrimmage at Whiteface Stadium. The team had been practicing since the last Friday in April, and they will not practice until August 14. The scrimmage only lasted three quarters after being cancelled by threatening clouds and lightning. The maroon team won the shortened game 12-0 winning the first ever spring scrimmage by the Whitefaces.

Spiers hits game winner to give Houston win over the league's best team

HOUSTON (AP) - Billy Wagner is still struggling and Jose Lima hasn't won since April 5. At least the Houston Astros' string of one-run losses is over.

Bill Spiers singled home the winning run in the 10th in-ning Friday night and gave the Astros a 5-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves, their first win in 13 one-run games this season.

"We were bound to get one sometime," said Wagner, who blew his sixth save in 10 chances by yielding an RBI single to Trenidad Hubbard in the ninth inning to force the extra inning.

"I don't really look at one-run wins any different, but every team goes through something like that."

Houston had lost 14 straight one-run contests since beating St. Louis 4-3 on Sept. 19.

"We've been on the other end all year with these onerun games," Spiers said. "This is a good feeling. I hope it jump-starts us. This has been unreal and unusual. We finally won a one-run game. I've feen stunned. I've never been through anything in my career like this."

Moises Alou led off the 10th inning with a walk off Rudy Seanez (2-2). One out later, pinch-hitter Daryle Ward hit a bloop single. With two outs, Spiers lined a single to center to the win game.

Lessons learned from playing "Oh Deer" ifth graders from Shirley Intermediate finished their school year with a flurry of special activities last week. Thanks to a call from fifth grade instructor Brandi Massey, I got to work with upwards of 90 of these energetic kids last Tuesday in a couple of Project WILD games that provided some fun, and maybe even taught them a little about wildlife.

Project WILD is a great program. It's an interdisciplinary, supplementary environmental and conservation education program for kindergarten through high school-age young people that emphasizes wildlife.

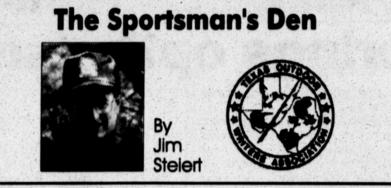

Project WILD is based on the premise that young people and their teachers have a vital interest in learning about the earth as home for people and wildlife. The program emphasizes wildlife because of its intrinsic, ecological, and other values, as well as its importance as a basis for understanding the fragile grounds upon which all life rests.

The program is utilized effectively by volunteers interested in delivering educational programs for young people. The Texas Parks & Wildlife Department is an associate state sponsor of the program, and in some cases has helped to train volunteer instructors.

During last week's activities with the Shirley Intermediate kids, we discussed and learned about predator/prey relationships with the game "Quick Frozen Critters." In this game, participants were divided into cottontails and coyotes. The cottontails left their dens and scurried to sheltered habitat or froze motionless as they attempted to evade a gauntlet of predators and make their way to a food source. Prey and predators felt the impact of changes in their habitat. Through repetitions of the game, students were able to see that prey animals rely on habitat in close proximity to food sources, and that survival is no easy thing for prey or predator species, particularly as their sources of food and habitat dwindle.

We explored food, water and shelter as three essential components of habitat in the popular game, "Oh Deer." Participants acted-out the roles of deer and habitat. They witnessed fluctuations in numbers that showed how wildlife populations are seldom static, but constantly changing in tune with the quality of their surroundings.

While "Oh Deer" is concerned primarily with changing habitat and deer populations, we threw in some interesting twists for our game, adding predators, hunting pressure, urban sprawl and land development to alter the impacts on wildlife.

Our model environment-in-the-park revealed that a moderate number of predators seemed to keep deer numbers in tune with their habitat, but predators don't always succeed in capturing prey. Drought, floods, and habitat destruction devastated the deer population. Loss of habitat to development limited the number of deer that could survive in the setting. A decline in prey animals soon led to a decline in predators as well. In one instance, when habitat declined, the entire deer population was wiped-out.

In playing the role of predators, who did we see have the greatest impact on the deer population?

That's easy. Our afternoon class contained the most proficient predators. The deadly duo of fifth grade instructors Brandi Massey and Shannon Stewart were no sit-on-the-sidelines observers. They jumped into the game and decimated nearly the entire population of their "deer" fifth graders with their aggressive hunting style. These end-of-school-motivated teachers proved they could run on the WILD side. They were the baddest beasts in the woods.

No surprise there... Teachers know it's a jungle out there.

This weekend kicks-off the boating season for many Texans. Boaters will find greatly-lowered water levels in many lakes, due to drought, and are advised to exercise caution. Boaters should be familiar with the lakes they're on, avoid operating at night, and watch for submerged objects like tree stumps, rocks, islands, and sandbars.

Some Texas lakes are 15 to 30 feet below normal level. Water skiers, wakeboarders, and persons towed in innertubes should be very careful on lakes with low water levels. Tube riders should be especially careful, since they can't maneuver to avoid submerged objects.

Boaters should avoid alcohol. Always were a life jacket. Be especially careful on personal watercraft. Maintain a proper lookout at all times. Maintain a safe speed as weather, water, boat congestion, and traffic conditions dictate.

Persons born after September 1, 1984 are required to have completed an approved boater education course before operating boats of 10 horsepower or more or sailboats over 14 feet in length.

Texas game wardens will strictly enforce the alcohol aspect of water safety law this summer.

Boating-while-intoxicated legislation went into effect last September 1. It lowered the minimum blood alcohol content for automobile drivers and boaters to 0.08 percent.

Any boat operator who appears to be under the influence of, or who has a blood alcohol content of 0.08 or greater may be arrested. Boating-whileintoxicated violations now carry penalties similar to driving-whileintoxicated violations. The first offense is a Class B misdemeanor and may result in a jail sentence of 180 days, a $2,000 fine, or both.

Half of all Texas boating accidents are alcohol-related.

The effects of alcohol may be increased while boating. Sun, wind, and the pounding of water against the boat add stress.

Alcohol impairs the boat operator's ability. Passengers who imbibe may lose their balance and fall overboard, resulting in injury. Alcohol-impaired people who fall overboard may be disoriented and actually swim away from help in crucial first few seconds.

Texas game wardens made 167 boating while intoxicated arrests in 1999. They'll be watching for BWI suspects this summer.

Witness says Lewis kicked man on street

ATLANTA (AP) — Four days into a murder trial, jurors finally heard a witness testify football star Ray Lewis was involved in a fight that led to two stabbing deaths.

Chester Anderson testified Friday that he saw Lewis kick a small man who was lying on an Atlanta street as nightclubs started to close the morning after the Super Bowl.

Anderson, who admitted to using about 30 different names and stealing the identification of about seven people, was using former pro football player Bam Morris' NFL identification to get into Super Bowl parties free

ATLANTA (AP) — Four leniency in his pending legal ys into a murder trial, jurs finally heard a witness denied.

> "Would you know the truth if you bumped into it?" Garland asked.

> Anderson said he waited several weeks to come forward because of a promise he made to friends he was with on the night of Jan. 31.

> "When we left the scene, we had a mutual agreement not to say anything," Anderson said.

The prosecution called Bruno DiSiena, a Cleveland restaurant owner, to corroborate Anderson's story. DiSiena spent the told the jury he weekend hanging out with Anderson, who he thought was a Kansas City Chiefs football player named Byron. DiSiena said Anderson told him he saw Lewis kicking someone as they walked past the scene of the killings. Fulton County District Attorney Paul Howard said he planned to call other witnesses to buttress Anderson's statement when the trial resumes Tuesday. "We've got some other witnesses who (Anderson) also told about this incident, and I think once the jurors hear that, I think you'll see that what he says is believable." Howard said.

"I'm real pleased with our mental approach to our practices this spring," Yenzer said. "I have high expectations for them."

At Thursday's scrimmage, Yenzer said the team was fired up to be competing against each other and so were the coaches. Yenzer said it was good to see his team have a great time competing.

"The great thing about this bunch is they have fun when they play," Yenzer said. "There are some things that aren't as fun to do like sprints or lifting, but it is neat to see them have fun on the field. They generate a lot of excitement."

He said he was also pleased with the scrimmage and the leadership his team is demonstrating. were productive and successful, Yenzer said he and his team are looking forward to a good break away from football this summer. He said he told his kids to take it easy and be ready to come back August 14. Yenzer said the time away will also give him and his coaches some time to relax and be ready when they come back.

"I told the kids that I want them to get away, because we are tired and need to recharge our batteries mentally," Yenzer said. "I'm ready to fish a little bit myself."

He said he was walking with friends from another bar when he came upon the fight. Lewis, the leading tackler in the NFL last season, is charged with murder along with friends Reginald Oakley and Joseph Sweeting in the deaths of Jacinth Baker and Richard Lollar. Even if he didn't stab the victims, Lewis could be convicted of murder if he was involved in the fight that led to their deaths.

Lewis' lawyer Ed Garland attacked Anderson's credibility, pointing out that he has a long criminal record and a federal indictment for fraud pending in Arkansas. Garland also suggested Anderson was testifying in hopes of winning "The last two years our seniors have led by their commitment and focus," Yenzer said. "These guys are already doing the same thing."

Yenzer said the elected captains this year were elected this week by the entire 130 member team. This year's leadership team consists of Cody Hodges, Slade Hodges, Gilbert Hernandez, Michael Barba and Hagen Henderson.

"It is fun to see who they will pick, but we will have a good group of captains next year," Yenzer said.

Ewing questionable after foot injury

Hurt foot may cause New York center to miss Game Three

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -Two years ago, Patrick Ewing made an unexpected return from a shattered wrist in a Game 2 at Indiana. In a Game 2 a year later, also on the road, his season ended when he tore his Achilles' tendon.

Another Game 2 in Indiana came and went Thursday night, and another injury to Ewing threatens to change everything.

After straining a tendon in his right foot in the first quarter, Ewing did not return as Indiana beat New York 88-84 to take a 2-0 lead in the Eastern Conference finals. The injury was described today as acute tendinitis after Ewing underwent an MRI.

Ewing's availability for Game 3 will be a game-time decision.

"They played against us last year without Patrick, and they beat us," Indiana coach Larry Bird said. "We can't let up."

The Knicks didn't let down after losing their center. In fact, they played pretty well right up until the end.

But out of timeouts, the Knicks didn't line up any big men under the basket as Dale Davis went to the foul line with 5.8 seconds left. He missed both, but was able to outjump Charlie Ward for the rebound and pass to Jalen Rose for a game-clinching dunk with 2.4 seconds left.

The Knicks were livid at themselves for letting an opportunity slip away, especially while coming so close to tying the series despite dealing with the uncertainty of not knowing whether Ewing is out for the rest of the playoffs.

"I'm going to try to come back Saturday and help my team win," Ewing said. Rose led the Pacers with 24 points, Reggie Miller had 19 for the second straight game and Rik Smits scored 10 of his 12 in the fourth quarter — long after Ewing was gone. Davis grabbed 16 rebounds for the Pacers, who trailed for much of the game, but scored the final six points to win it. Larry Johnson (25 points, seven rebounds) and Kurt Thomas (10 points, eight rebounds) had strong games in Ewing's absence, but New York couldn't make the plays it needed down the stretch.

Thomas helped keep New York ahead despite playing with five fouls, scoring on consecutive possessions and grabbing several big rebounds on both ends. Indiana tied it, though, with 3:01 left when Smits picked up a loose ball, dunked and was fouled for a three-point play that made it 80-80.

Houston hit a jumper, Miller made a layup, and Thomas and Rose exchanged jumpers to make it 84-84 with 55 seconds left.

Houston missed a bank shot and Miller was fouled with 28 seconds left, making both for an 86-84 lead. The Knicks then isolated Sprewell and managed to get him matched one-on-one against the 6-foot Travis Best, but his turnaround jumper was long.

"We got what we wanted. The play worked perfectly — everything but the shot," Sprewell said.

Ewing injured his foot with just under six minutes remaining in the first quarter after going against Davis in the low post. He sat with his foot wrapped in ice for a few minutes before walking to the locker room with two team doctors.

The news came quickly and was not good. Ewing had what the team called a sprained peroneal tendon in his right foot and would not return.

"When Patrick went out, my first thought was 'Here we go again,'" Rose said. "When he went out, it gave them a dose of enthusiasm, and they played well without him."

Not well enough, though. And not smart enough at the end.

With a chance to lock up the victory, Davis missed two free throws with 5.8 seconds left. Charging in from the foul line — the Knicks claimed he left too early — he used his 11-inch height advantage over Ward to get the rebound.

Knicks coach Jeff Van Gundy lined his guards up to get the rebound so they could throw an outlet pass for the tying or winning shot. Johnson, who broke Johnson, who broke downcourt, blamed himself for not checking Davis.

"Those were about the two biggest misses I think I ever have had," Davis said. "I saw I had an opportunity — they had two little guys down there. I had a chance to grab the long rebound, I took a shot at it and got it.'

After Rose's dunk clinched it, Sprewell slammed the ball off the court in frustration to run out the clock.

Now, the Knicks have a 2-0 deficit - and Ewing's injury - to deal with heading into Game 3 Saturday.

Game 4 is Monday.

Ewing's latest injury was not related to a problem he had in Game 1 on Tuesday night, Knicks spokeswoman Lori Hamamoto said. Ewing had plantar fasciatis, an inflammation of tissue in the sole of the foot. "It's ironic because it's Game 2 I got hurt in last year," Ewing said. "Hopefully it won't be the case I'll have to sit out the whole series." Needing someone to fill the void, the Knicks got it from

Johnson in the second quarter. Often guarded by Austin Croshere, Johnson repeatedly got the better of the matchup and scored eight points in the period. Chris Childs added seven points to help New York to a 43-42 halftime lead.

Miller scored eight points in the third quarter to keep it close, but New York ended the quarter with an 8-2 run for a 66-61 lead entering the fourth.

Ann Landers Ann, readers relate last of monkey tales

Dear Ann Landers: I am the priest who wrote to you about the monkey that was dressed in a tuxedo and top hat and attended a wedding reception. The mail I received after your column appeared has been truly amazing. I have heard from people I had lost track of many years ago. I have received letters and phone calls from California, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, South Carolina and Florida. I even heard from one of my seminary professors in Rochester, N.Y., whom I have not seen in 40 years. I thought he was deceased, but he is very much alive, and living happily in retirement. He says he reads your column every day, which might ac-count for his longevity as he approaches 90 years.

I enjoy reading your col-umn daily, and now realize that a great many others do, too. With personal regards and best wishes, I am sincerely — Father Vincent J. Sheehy, Pastor, Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, Venice, Fla.

Dear Father Sheehy: Thank you for your good let-ter. I received mail from every state in the union about the tuxedo-clad monkey. All who wrote said, "That priest must have a wonderful sense of humor," and I agree. And now, I know I will receive many requests from readers who wish they had clipped that column and want me to run Fr. Sheehy's letter again - so, here it is:

"Dear Ann: The wedding ceremony went fine. It was the reception in the parish hall that was unusual. Seated at the table with the bride's parents was a monkey dressed in a tuxedo, with a black bow tie, wearing a top hat. The bride's mother asked, 'What do you think of my little boy?" I felt like saying, 'Lady, he looks just like you.' Instead, I bit my tongue and said, 'Cute.'

"Actually, Ann, the monkey and use my name.' Meanwhile, Dear Readers, have you had enough monkey tales? Well, I have one more out of my own life, which was something of a nightmare at the time, but in retrospect, is pretty darned funny. When my husband, Jules Lederer, and I lived in Eau Claire, Wis. (long before I became Ann Landers), my twin sister and her husband, Mort Phillips, also lived there. They had a friend whose home base was Sao Paulo, Brazil. When that friend visited Eau Claire, he learned my sister was very fond of monkeys. She had several stuffed monkeys around her home, hanging from the chandeliers, and so on. When this friend returned to South America, he decided to send my sister two REAL monkeys.

The monkeys were Indian Ringtails, very cute, and very smart. She named them David and Bathsheba. Within three days, the monkeys figured out how to unlock their cage, and escaped through the kitchen window. The neighbors were soon phoning my sister — "Mrs. Phillips, one of your monkeys is on the roof of our garage." Need I say, my sister had to call the animal control people to capture the monkeys and take them to the zoo "where they belonged."

End of monkey story - and, I must say, a relief for one and all. Now, here's the final word on our primate friends:

Dear Ann: The letter about the monkey in formal attire was amusing, but I do hope it will not encourage people to make house pets out of monkeys. They do not belong in homes. They are wild animals, and are better suited for the jungle or a zoo.

Also, Ann, monkeys have very sharp teeth - and they bite. A monkey's bite can be painful and serious. Warn your readers. - James L., Buffalo, N.Y.

Dear James: You warned them, and I thank you.

Margie's Notes

By Margie Daniels HSCA Executive Director

The months are going by so fast! Can you believe how much we missed in 1999 waiting and preparing for Year 2000 and here it is almost half over! We still get to face the same political fights each day, all promising the perfect way of life yet I would not want to live in any other country. Our good ole U.S.A. is still the best. Al and I went to Virginia for a

Al and I went to virginia for a week and stayed at a cabin in the hills without electricity, indoor bath facilities or natural gas. A bear came to visit us, I took a shower from water running from a pipe on the side of the cabin, and it came from the creek somehow. Boy, was it cold. We had to have four-wheel drive to get there. We set on the deck and listened to the thunder and watched the rain. We also got bit by bugs and saw a snake! It was wonderful but we were glad to get back home.

By the time this paper is published, our pancake supper and the Pioneer Reunion will be over. I will miss the Class of '49 reunion Friday night but will get to go to Hooker, Okla., for an allschool reunion on Saturday.

Remember the Quilt Show we are sponsoring at the Center during the Town and Country Jubilee. Please bring your quilts to the Center on Friday, June 9 between 1-5 p.m. We will accept them earlier.

During the Quilt Show on Saturday, we will be serving sandwiches, fruit pie a la mode and soft drinks. We hope to have a big-big show. Come on out, enjoy the beautiful quilts, eat with us and get out of the heat!

Watch the schedule for June. We have several extra activities including a session with West Texas Legal Services. Watch for more about our 25th year celebration July 15. This will be a fun day! You will want to be a part of it. Lunch will be served. Remember our Thrift Store. If Remember our Thrift Store. If you have donations, please call the Center and if at all possible we will help you get it to the store. We are in need of good, usable furniture.

Summer is starting out with a blast! Please don't get too hot. It is very dangerous. Also, let us know if your air conditioning is not working. We will try to get you help with it.

Sorrow looks back. Worry looks around, Faith looks up.

Oil Painting Class

Herford Senior Citizens Center is home to several activities, among them, ceramic painting class, quilting, doll making class, and line dancing. But one class has tenure at the Center and that class is the oil painting class. The class has been meeting since the mid-1970's at the old Senior Center building. Once a week, on Thursday mornings, the Center's oil painters hold class from 9-11. Currently there are six members in the class but all are welcome to come with their supplies needed. For more information about the class, call the Senior Citizens Center at 364-5681.

Nutrition Update

By Charlotte Clark

MS RD/LD In the May 2000 Journal of The American Dietetic Association the Association has presented a position statement and zinc are essential for wound healing; research is still needed to determine what increase in these nutrients before and after surgery can result in faster recovery of skin integrity and strength. (6) Vitamin K is essential in bone health and is an ongoing research subject. (7) Energy needs decline with age because of lean body mass; however, when overall energy intake is low, dietary quality is difficult to ensure. The role of diet in promoting health and reducing chronic dis-ease for such conditions as cardiovascular disease, type 1 or type 2 diabetes mellitus and selected cancers has been well established. The Food Guide Pyramid was developed to assist older adults in making wise food choices. A unique feature of this pyramid is that the base rests on water to emphasize the critical importance of fluid intake and the prevention of dehydration. (8) Dehydration is a major problem in older adults and is responsible for 6.7 percent of hospitalizations. Dehydration is associated with swallowing im-pairment and feeding depen-dency in hospitalized elders.

decreased renin activity, changes in functional status, delirium and dementia, medication side effects, and mobility disorders. Fear of incontinence and increased arthritic pain resulting which supports both the provision of comprehensive food and nutrition services and the continuation and expansion of research to identify the most effective food and nutrition interventions for older adults over the continuum of care.

One segment of this presentation is entitled "Food, Nutri-ent and Supplement Needs of Older Adults." This month's Update is a review of this article.

Physiologic and functional changes during aging result in changes in nutrient needs. Specific dietary recommendations for several essential nutrients and food components, such as dietary fiber, have not yet been delineated for the older adult. The 1989 Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDAs) did not provide separate recommendations for people older than 51 years because of a lack of sufficient data. Research has shown that older adults do have specialized requirements for a variety of nutrients because of aging effects on absorption, utilization and excretion.

The nutrients and topics selected for discussion were those for which new evidence of their role in disease prevention has been reported since 1996.

(1) Increase intake of folic acid, vitamin B-6 and B-12 to prevent decline in cognitive function associated with aging and to reduce risk of coronary artery disease.

(2 Protein requirements for older adults should be at least 1.0 to 1.25 grams per kilogram of individual's weight.

(3) The Dietary Reference In-take (DRIs) are replacing the previous RDAs for healthy people.

These new references consist of four levels of intake values:

a. Estimated Average Requirements

b. RDAs

c. Adequate Intake d. Tolerable Upper Intake Limits

The DRIs divide the adult population older than 50 years into two life-stage groups: 51-70 years and older than 70.

(4) The new reference values for calcium, folate and vitamin B-12 are higher; the use of vitamin E amounts are still under study.

(5) Ascorbic acid, vitamin A

Dehydration risks increase because of the kidney's de-creased ability to concentrate urine-blunted thirst sensation, from numerous trips to the toilet may also interfere with consumption of adequate fluid intake. In the elders, dehydration can result in constipation, fecal impaction, cognitive impairment, functional decline and death.

Consuming a wide variety of foods is considered the best way to ensure balance of nutrients and consumption of appro-priate amounts of healthful food components. When dietary se-lection is limited, nutrient supplementation with low-dose multivitamin-mineral supplements can be useful for meeting Recommended Dietary Intakes. Vitamin D can significantly impact bone mineral, frac-ture risk and muscle strength.

The best sources of vitamin D include fatty fish, fluid milk, and fortified breakfast cereals. Older adults who limit intake of fluid milk and sunlight exposure may not be receiving suffi-cient vitamin D; for these individuals a low-dose supplement of vitamin D may be advised. A table of nutrient values for these newly revised requirements is forthcoming from the Nutrition Council.

Food for Thought if You're Thinking About Food ail Borden was the son of an American frontiersman. He was born in New York in 1801 and began his working career as a school teacher in Mississippi.

Borden worked his way across the south and eventually landed in Texas. He worked in politics, and is credited with assisting in the writing of the Texas State constitution.

While it was not what his name is best known for, Borden was also a newspaper reporter. He was the first to use the phrase "Remember the Alamo." His words would later become the battle cry of freedom for the Texans' heroic struggle to gain independence.

However, Gail Borden didn't make history with his early work. What Borden is best known for is milk. Specifically, condensed sweet milk that included additional sugar to prevent spoilage. His story is one of both failure and success. Like many entrepreneurs', fame and fortune did not run up and jump into Borden's lap. He hungered to get ahead in the food industry, but financial success eluded him in the beginning.

Borden's first food product -- a dehydrated meat biscuit--won an international award for excellence in Europe. It was healthy and nutritious, but failed to sell well with the general public because of its taste.

Borden was nearly broke and traveling by boat in steerage class with poor European immigrants when inspiration struck. He watched many of the babies die on the trip because of infected milk. Haunted by what he had seen, Borden decided to learn how to prevent future disaster.

Borden spent months with the Shakers--a religious sect -- to learn how they used vacuum cooking to preserve food. It was there he learned to remove water from milk to condense and preserve it. When he was 55, he received his first patent for sweetened, condensed milk.

The Civil War brought Borden's product to the attention of a nation. During and after the war, condensed milk and canned foods helped millions avoid starvation. Borden's milk became a staple, an infant formula, and substitute for sugar in recipes.

The Borden Company also milked other innovations on its way to becoming an American food institution. They were the first company to sell fresh milk in bottles. They were first to homogenize milk in 1927 and also the first to add vitamin D. The company's research led to the first U.S. standards on pasteurization.

Don't Give Up

Gail Borden, like many of today's entrepreneurs, was a failure before he became successful. It was only through his continuing efforts that he ultimately achieved success.

Many food products were discovered by accident. Legend tells us that somewhere in the desert an Arabian trader discovered cheese when he attached a container of milk to his camel's hump during a long journey. Between the burning desert sun and the camel's jogging, the milk curdled. Cheese was born.

In 1890, a caring doctor in St. Louis wanted to provide an easily digestible source of protein for his aging patients. He selected peanuts as the source and began to grind them into pulp. He added a little salt and created peanut butter.

Harlan Sanders was broke and drawing Social Security when he decided to sell his "fried chicken" formula. Plagued by early failure, he went on to build one of the best-known and successful fast-food franchises in America: Kentucky Fried Chicken.

So, if you're thinking about food, keep thinking. More Americans eat than use the Internet. The next food innovation, healthy food franchise, or great tasting treat just might be yours. At least it's food for thought.

inty wheat acres decline

By Dianna F. Dandridge Hereford Brand staff writer

Dry conditions, greenbugs and more dry conditions have left Deaf Smith County wheat producers with few expectations of this year's crop.

The Farm Service Agency personnel reports wheat acres planted, for both irrigated and dryland crops declined heavily this year, with many produc-ers just grazing out their crops with no intention of taking it all the way to harvest.

FSA reports dryland planting is down by nearly 50,000 acres and irrigated land has lost nearly as many acres.

"Some of our customers weren't planning on carrying the crop to harvest because of low commodity prices," said Jason Andrews of Cavin Crop Insurance.

County producers in the Sims area are about the only ones which may bring in a fair crop, said Joe Artho, manager at Hereford Grain.

"We'll have to wait about 10 days for the first loads to come in, but it'll be all burned up," Artho said.

Brian Reinart, a local farmer and member of the Hereford Grain Producers board said "Ours is poor, at best. We've lost 50 percent to greenbugs and drought and what's left isn't much. Dryland might be 10 bushel wheat. Irrigated might be 40 bushel wheat. Not much for the water we have in it."

Westway producer, Eldred Brown said they planted about 3,000 acres, but probably only have a section or so left. "We've plowed up the biggest part of what we planted. Several others are doing the same thing. There's no point in harvesting something that's not there.

He continued to say some of it out in the western parts of the county still looks good, "But, its sad that so much just dried up too early."

"We had some good rains last year, at the right time, so it worked. This year we just didn't get the rain," Brown said. "Hopefully we'll get a good rain and plant some-thing else." pushing cotton and milo. Most producers say

Farmers blame the low commodity prices primarily for the lower number of acres planted, but they say there is nothing they can do about the hot, dry conditions that kill the crops they did plant.

Reinart says he used to try to keep some wheat on each of his farms, but with commodity prices and persistent dry conditions he is now just Most producers say the showers their crops received earlier this week were too late and not enough to save the wheat crop, but it might be enough to get cotton in the ground and get it started.

"It's just one of those things if it don't rain on it then it can't come up," Brown said. "It's one of the chances we take when we put a crop in the ground."

Common sights -- Bales of wheat, drying in the summer air is a common occurence this year as many wheat producers have already cut their wheat field with plans of using it for animal feed, rather than count on harvesting it and selling for a low price.

time, too for a feast on the tender green leaves piercing through crusted topsoil. This early infestation proved unstoppable even with rapid response pesticide treatment. Many fields were completely lost. Fortunately, some area grow-ers had planted the TAM 110 variety, developed by a team of wheat breeders with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Right now, this is the only US variety resistant to current greenbug biotypes, according to Mark Lazar, a wheat breeder working in laboratories and field nurseries at Bushland.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same intem/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."

Then remember these hints:

· Give the price. A newpaper consultant says 70 percent of · Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

· Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

· Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach Greg, Joel and Colleen (from left) are three of 16 contestants vying for $1 million in Survivor, a new series that premieres Wednesday on CBS. Over 13 episodes, the eight men and eight women live off the land on a remote island in the South China Sea, gradually banishing their fellow contestants from the island until only one "survivor" remains.

By Jacqueline Cutler oTVData Features Syndicate

It sounds like Lord of the Flies for adults. Only in the case of the ballyhooed CBS show Survivor, the folks marooned on a South Pacific island chose to be there.

The 13-episode adventure log premieres Wednesday, May 31. It chronicles what happens to 16 adult Americans who opt to leave civilization to live on a tropical island in the South China Sea. Each week, the group has a "tribal meeting" and expels someone. The remaining person, the survivor, will be rewarded with $1 million.

Why people would sacrifice hot showers, cool sheets and their families to live among strangers who want them to fail is beyond the scope of those who genuinely enjoy microwaves, telephones and ice cream. The eight men and eight women – whose identities are being guarded because CBS wants the premiere to be a surprise – include Rudy, who at 72 is the oldest contestant and a retired Navy SEAL officer from Virginia Beach, Va. Another hopeful, Susan, 38, a Wisconsin truck driver, says, "Thank goodness I'm getting out of the cold."

Indeed, the temperature on the island is usually around 80 degrees, which also suits the world's most venomous snake, the 6-foot Asian monster lizard, wild pigs and long-tailed macaque monkeys.

Some 6,000 applications flooded CBS at the announcement of the series. Among those who made the first cut – but not the final one – was Henry Roland, 24. A Kansas City, Mo., native now living in North Hollywood, the strapping Roland says, "It looks like a lot of fun. You go through everyday life, and there's so much monotony." The political science major at Los Angeles Valley College says he could easily walk away from his life for seven weeks.

Lauren Krause, 30, a triathlete and a news anchor in San Diego, explains what drew her. "I'm getting tired of fires, floods and murders," she says. "I need some excitement in my life. I'm an adrenaline junkie. And I think it will be damned good TV."

That, of course, is what the network's banking on. So far, this show has generated far more buzz than most programs before they air.

Executive producer Mike Burnett, whose credits include producing Eco-Challenge on the Discovery Channel, says, "This is a much bigger risk. It's not about survival on the island. It's about group dynamics. The biggest fear in everybody's life is if one is not liked."

The participants are left on the island off the coast of Borneo with "the clothes on their back and basic supplies" and one "luxury" item, Burnett says. "If you are not popular and capable, you won't win. If you are capable and a (jerk), you'll be kicked off."

Should anyone fall ill, a doctor is available on another part of the island, he says. Contestants are videotaped 24 hours a day. Each three days of life are edited down to make a single one-hour episode of TV.

Jeff Probst, host of VH1's Rock & Roll Jeopardy, hosts the show and moderates the weekly meeting. He isn't roughing it with the contestants; like the crew, he has quarters on another section of the island.

As he glances over the hopefuls, Burnett says, "We are looking for a Gilligan's Island mix."

Let's just hope little buddy doesn't get into too many zany adventures and there's a professor among them.

Was Haley Joel Osment Murphy's son?

By Taylor Michaels OTVData Features Syndicate

Q: I was told that Haley Joel Osment (The Sixth Sense) played Murphy Brown's baby, Avery. True? -S. Reid, Phoenix, Ariz.

A: Define "baby." At age 9, Osment played Avery only during the final sea-son of Murphy Brown (1997-98).

Q: Who is that wonderful actress who plays Frasier's agent, Bebe Glaz-er? Have I seen her in anything else? -H.R.W. via e-mail.

A: Texas-born and Juilliard-trained, Harriet Sansom Harris has an extensive theater background, but her career took a seismic shift after she played all the fe-male characters in Paul Rudnick's stage comedy Jeffrey.

When most of that show's original cast members reprised their roles in a Los Angeles production, the producers of Frasier took note and cast her as Bebe Glazer, the barracuda who walks among us. By the way, her Jeffrey co-stars Edward Hibbert and Richard Poe have ap peared on Frasier as food critic Gil Chesterton and traffic reporter Choppen Dave, respectively. Harris also starred in the 1994-95 CBS sitcom The Five Mrs. Buchanans and the 1997-98 NBC flop Union Square.

She also had a recurring role this past season on Stark Raving Mad.

Other guest credits include The X-Files, Family Law, Ally McBeal, line in the City, Ellen, Chicago Hope and Millennium.

and Millennium. Q: I enjoy watching the 1950s game show The Name's the Same on the Game Show Network. Can you tell me who panelist Joan Alexander is? She is introduced as the star of radio and television, but I can't find anything on her. -Harold J. Campbell, Fairiawn, N.I. N.J.

A: Alexander is best known for pro-viding the voice of Lois Lane in a series of 1940s animated Superman cartoons.

Haley Joel Osment

Her Man of Steel was none other than future game show host Bud Collyer (To Tell the Truth).

Q: I saw Alicia Witt on an episode of The Sopranos this season. What has she done previously? She looks so fa-miliar. -Eleanor Peterson, Largo, Fla.

A: The 24-year-old actress is best known as Zoe Woodbine, the headstrong daughter of Cybill Shepherd's title char-acter on the CBS sitcom Cybill.

She also appeared in Urban Legend and Mr. Holland's Opus and has a feature role in the new John Waters comedy Cecil B. Demented.

Q: Who was the actor who played the title character in a series called The Wizard? -Jan Viator, West Jefferson, Ohio.

A: port played 4-foot-tall genius Simon McKay in that unsuccessful 1986-87 CBS series.

Despondent over the lack of roles for an actor of his small stature, Rappaport committed suicide in 1990. He was 38.

Passion puts the P in

'popular' for Wilson

By Candace Havens

OTVData Features Syndicate

One of Marie Wilson's early passions was dancing. From the time she was 5 until she was 15, Wilson immersed herself in ballet, tap and jazz. The discipline would come in handy after high school when she pursued a new passion: to become an international model.

Wilson's current passion, acting, land-ed her the popular role of Dr. Karen Wexler on ABC's Port Charles. The actress took over the role a year ago and was dropped into the middle of a major story line with co-star David Gail (Dr. Joe Scanlon).

"It was a real challenge at first because you want to bring your own qual-ities to it," Wilson says. "It was important to all of us to make it a smooth transition so we didn't jolt the audience.

"I remember watching soaps when I was young, and it always made me mad when they brought in someone new. I wanted to make it easier for our viewers.

Over the past few months, Wilson has had an opportunity to prove she has what it takes to make the role hers. She has become as popular with fans as the original Karen, almost making them forget there ever was anyone else in the role

"The writers should really get the credit," Wilson says. "They've given me a lot of twists and turns and added some vices. Karen's problem with drugs gives me more levels to play and sends her on even more of a roller-coaster ride.

"She might seem like a bit of a goody-two-shoes on the surface, but Karen has been through so much. She's lived a col-orful life. There have always been pres-sures on her, so she's always tried to be as close to perfect as she can. She had to grow up fast and hasn't always learned to cope."

Away from the soap opera set, Wilson spends time with her husband, producer Michael Wilson. Acting isn't her only passion. "There are so many things I want to do in this life. I hate limiting myself to one hobby or career. I'd love to get back to dancing, design a house, learn archery or how to scuba dive. learn archery or how to scuba dive.

"Whatever I do, I make sure it is something I enjoy, otherwise it isn't worth it," Wilson says. "My motto is: You've got to be happy in your life."
