MISTAKES?

■ Interior secretary states the obvious, New Mexicans say

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Sitting in a dimly lit bar, watching federal officials explain the mistakes that led to a devastating wildfire, Danne DeBacker had one response: Mistakes? No kidding.

"They're just saying, 'Here's what happened.' We already know what happened — the damned forest burned down," said DeBacker, whose home in the northwest part of Los Alamos was destroyed.

"I'm sad, not just for my house, but for the forest," he said. "Before these little black sticks were standing around here, we had a really pristine forest."

A preliminary report released Thursday by Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt concluded that National Park Service officials who started the fire May 4 to clear brush did not follow proper procedures and did not have enough fire crews on hand to keep it under control.

"It's clear there were large mistakes of agency oversight," Babbitt said.

"The causal chain of this fire is quite complex. I would liken it to what happens on a mountainside when a rock is dislodged," he said. That one rock can create a "cascading series of events."

Set at the nearby Bandelier National Monument, the blaze was driven out of control by wind gusting to more than 50 mph. It forced 25,000 people to flee, scorched more than 47,000 acres, left 405 families homeless and damaged the storied Los Alamos nuclear weapons laboratory. The fire was 70 percent contained Thursday.

Hereford student is winner again in PBS station's annual contest

MEREDITH HAYS
Second-grade student's story, "The Pillow Fight," was a first-place entry in the annual Reading Rainbow Young Writers contest.

AMARILLO — KACV, the local public television affiliate, announced the winners of the Reading Rainbow Young Writers and Illustrators Contest Tuesday. First-place awards were presented to the top entry in each grade:

Kindergarten: "Fish, Fish in the Sea," by Shane Smith of Pampa;

First Grade: "The Pillow Fight," by Meredith Hays of Hereford;

Second Grade: "Little Cheeta's Rock Band," by Adam Prado of Amarillo; and Third Grade: "Neo and the Pirates," by Tyler Noblett of Canyon.

Stories awarded second place include:

Kindergarten: "Give Love to Each Other," by Iris Lugo of Amarillo;

First Grade: "The Fish Who Had A Problem," by Rachel McGill of Amarillo;

Second Grade: "Catherine's New

Pony," by Catherine Musser of Amarillo; and Third Grade: "The Peanut and the Rabbit," by O'Quinn Blount of Amarillo.

"The Reading Rainbow Young Writers and Illustrators Contest encourages area kids to express themselves creatively, and to enjoy doing it," said Tina Maloney, KACV outreach coordinator. "Over 300 kids entered stories in this year's contest, up 30 percent from last year. In addition, two of this year's first-place winners, Meredith Hays and Adam Prado, entered stories that won second place last year. So, not only are more kids writing stories for the contest, they're doing so year after year, and their stories keep getting better and better."

The four first-place winners read their stories on videotape at the KACV-TV studio, to be broadcast area-wide on the public television station, and can also be read on the station's web site, www.kacvtv.org. The first-place stories will now advance to the national level of the contest, where they will compete against other children's stories. National Grand Prize Winners will be announced in June.

Over 800 prizes were awarded to children participating in the contest, including: educational reading software from Mattel Interactive, Hastings gift certificates, Reading Rainbow T-shirts, Reading Rainbow backpacks and stories on VHS.

The Reading Rainbow Young Writers and Illustrators Contest was sponsored at the local level by John Chandler Ford, and was implemented by KACV's Outreach Department.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Four recipients are repeat winners

Special to The Brand

Five college students — four of whom are repeat winners — and five candidates for May graduation from local high schools have been named recipients of $1,000 academic scholarships from West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative.

Among repeat collegiate winners are Cindy M. Seward, a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School and an elementary education major at West Texas A&M University, and 1999 Hereford High School graduates Kitt Jennings, a mass communications major at WTAMU; Krista Warren, an agriculture development major at Texas A&M University; and Kristin Fangman, an elementary education major at WTAMU.

The fifth collegiate scholarship recipient is Amy Bradley, a 1994 graduate of Hereford High School and a business administration/computer information services major at WTAMU.

Hereford High School seniors named scholarship recipients are Daniel Carnahan, son of Eric and Janette Fowler; and Nathan Parson, son of Ellis and Mildred Parson. Fowler plans to attend Texas A&M University and major in engineering. Parson plans to attend Westwood College of Technology and will study visual communications.

Leticia Merino, daughter of Lorenzo and Hermila Merino of Oklahoma Lane, is a scholarship recipient from Farwell High School. Miss Merino plans to attend Clovis Community College and later Eastern New Mexico University. She will major in business administration.

Charee Lewellen, daughter of Jody and Detrica Lewellen, and Jamie Slagle, daughter of Dennis and Connie Slagle, are recipients from Friona High School.

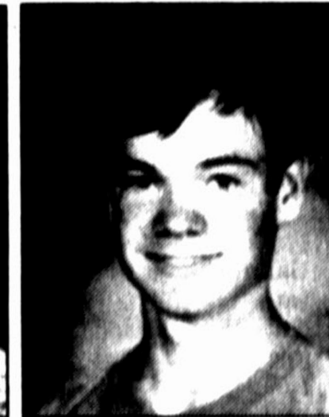

Miss Lewellen plans to attend Lubbock Christian University to begin preparing for a career in criminal law.

Miss Slagle will attend Abilene Christian University and plans to study medicine.

U.S. trade deficit at new high

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's trade deficit widened to an all-time high of $30.2 billion in March as a record foreign oil bill overwhelmed a rebound in American exports of farm products and autos. The deficit with China narrowed slightly but the trade gap with Japan rose to its highest level this year.

The Commerce Department reported today that the overall deficit increased by 5.1 percent from a revised February figure of $28.7 billion. The trade deficit continued to be the one glaring exception to the nation's current economic prosperity.

Stocks tumbled on Wall Street early today, with the Dow Jones industrial average dropping 120 points and the Nasdaq losing 95. Yields on the 10-year Treasury note slipped to 6.52 percent from 6.53 percent late Thursday.

For March, U.S. exports, which have been lagging because of the lingering effects of the global financial crisis, showed a sharp rebound, rising by 2.9 percent to $87.3 billion, the highest level on record. The advance was powered by big gains in sales of autos and auto parts, computer chips, telecommunications equipment and industrial machinery.

That increase was overwhelmed by a 3.5 percent rise in imports, which also set a record at $117.4 billion, with large gains in imported oil, foreign autos and aircraft.

The widening trade deficit is cited often by President Clinton's opponents, who are fighting his effort to normalize trade relations with China. That vote is expected to be close when the House votes next week.

For March, the deficit with China narrowed to $5.1 billion, down 9.3 percent from February. However, for the first three months of this year, the deficit with China is running a sizable 22.8 percent above the same period in 1999, something opponents are sure to point to in the debate over whether to grant China permanent normal trade relations with the United States.

The Clinton administration argues that it is in America's interest to end the annual congressional review of China's trade status in exchange for a package of trade concessions that will lower China's high barriers to American exports. Just today, China reached a market-opening trade deal with the European Union.

Nastier 'Love Bug' on rampage

NEW YORK (AP) — A new virus is eating its way through computers, and this one is smarter and more destructive than the worldwide "Love Bug" plague that inspired it, experts say.

While the "Love Bug" was given away by the "ILOVEYOU" subject line of the e-mails that carried it, the new virus changes subject lines every time it is sent. It also destroys most of the files on the computers it infects.

"Each time the virus spreads, it mutates itself to evade detection," according to Symantec Corp., an anti-virus software maker in Cupertino, Calif.

The virus was detected at several large companies late Thursday, said Dave Perry, spokesman for another anti-virus software maker, Trend Micro Inc. in Cupertino. At one company, 5,000 computers were infected, said Perry, who would not identify any of the companies affected.

The subject line of an infected e-mail starts with "FW:" and includes the name of a randomly chosen attachment from a previous e-mail on an infected computer. The e-mail will have an attachment with the same name, but ending in ".vbs."

Clicking on the attachment will activate the virus. Like "Love Bug," it will send itself to everyone in the user's address book. It will then overwrite most files on the hard drive, rendering the computer useless until the operating system is reinstalled.

So far, Microsoft's Outlook is the only e-mail program the virus is attacking, said Anita Chen, a spokeswoman for Trend Micro. Microsoft has said it will next week make available a modification to Outlook that will warn users about suspect e-mail attachments.

The size of the virus's attachments are more likely to crash e-mail servers, experts said. The "Love Bug" had a small attachment, but crashed e-mail servers all over the world when it sent millions of copies of itself through the systems at once.

The "Love Bug" spread like an avalanche to millions of computers two weeks ago. Estimates of the damages caused range up to $10 billion.

The relatively simple "Love Bug" virus was followed some hours later by slightly modified variants, posing as jokes or confirmations on Mother's Day gifts.

Resendiz faces death sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — To win the death penalty for the Texas Railroad Killer, prosecutors are putting on six mini-trials for eight other slayings to which he has admitted.

They are trying to stack up evidence that Angel Maturino Resendiz, convicted Thursday in the slaying of a Houston-area researcher, is the man who terrorized North America last spring by leaving a bloody trail across three states.

"What we have here is a career burglar who developed a taste for murder and rape," Harris County prosecutor Devon Anderson said.

To make matters easier for the state in a courthouse where killers are routinely sent to death row, the 41-year-old Mexican citizen has made good on a months-long promise and told the court he was surrendering because he wanted to die by lethal injection.

Packing a lunch

Lunch-time surprises -- Students in Mrs. Graves fifth grade class checked out the contents of sack lunches which were either brought from home or supplied by the school. Monique Padilla found some yogurt and other goodies. Shilow Rodriguez didn't really care what was in the bottom of his bag. He was just read to get on the road for the class end of year party to the Canyon museum and the Discovery Center in Amarillo.

Texas Tomorrow funding reviewed

HOUSTON (AP) — Contract purchases for a government fund allowing Texans to lock in future college tuition for children and grandchildren have fallen almost 90 percent since the program's debut four years ago, prompting the state comptroller's office to begin reviewing its performance.

The Texas Tomorrow Fund, a state program that lets parents pay monthly installments to cover the eventual costs of tuition and fees at a Texas university, has sold about 91,000 tuition contracts since 1996. About 3,000 young people already are attending college on some of the loans.

However, most contracts were sold during the program's first two years, and the number has been rapidly declining ever since. Only 4,448 tuition contracts have been purchased since the current enrollment period opened on Nov. 1, according to the Houston Chronicle, with little improvement expected before the sign-up period ends on June 5.

The fund has had to compete with attractive stock market investments that are a long-term option for many parents. Also, novelty of a new program, which then-Comptroller John Sharp avidly promoted, also has worn off.

The Tomorrow Fund's advertising budget hasn't increased since the first year, despite population growth and rising advertising costs. This year's ad campaign for the first time didn't include television.

Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander told the newspaper that the program, which has a fund balance of $534 million, is financially sound and a good investment against rising college costs.

Rylander said she recently enrolled her 5-year-old granddaughter, who will start college in 2013.

"It's a great program," Rylander said Thursday. "It's safe. It's affordable. It's flexible, and you can give a little bit a month."

New lodges raise concern for state parks

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials hope to hire a private company to build lodges in selected state parks as a way to cut development costs yet receive a cut of revenues the much-needed lodges are expected to bring in.

Meanwhile, the cash-strapped agency said work from volunteers and prisoners has saved taxpayers $5.6 million in labor costs, the Austin American-Statesman reported in Thursday's editions.

Currently only two state parks have lodges — Balmorhea and Davis Mountains, both in West Texas. A third lodge is scheduled to open this fall at Ray Roberts Lake near Denton. Ten parks have a total of 83 cabins, the newspaper reported.

Using a private-sector company to build and maintain lodges would relieve the agency of financial burdens it can't afford but would allow it to take in a portion of room revenue, gift sales and other income, said Robert Cook, the agency's deputy executive director.

So far only one company, Nature Lodges of San Antonio, has submitted a bid.

Lodges would help attract more visitors to state parks, agency officials say.

"I'm one of those who is not going to go out and buy a pop-up camper, much less a tent and a sleeping bag," said Carol Dinkins, vice chairman of the Parks and Wildlife Commission, which sets policy for the department.

Many states use private builders for state park lodges, including Florida, Arkansas and California.

But the idea is not welcome in Texas by everyone.

"Putting hotels in critical wildlife habitats evidences a leadership profoundly unclear on the concept of conservation. This is an irresponsible plan to 'Disneyfy' the few remaining patches of Texas wild land," said Dean Keddy-Hector, a former Parks and Wildlife Department zoologist who is now a staff scientist with Texas Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility, a nonprofit group.

The newspaper also reported the agency is relying on the work of volunteers in areas where there are staffing shortages.

"Our volunteers are not a supplement to the staff. They are the staff," said Tim Hufstедler, manager at Kerrville-Schreiner along the Guadalupe River.

Volunteers spent 487,000 hours working in state parks last year, the agency said. If they were being paid $7 an hour, they would have cost the state $3.4 million.

Inmates or people doing community service have worked 319,000 hours, worth $2.2 million, the agency said.

"If we didn't have the inmate crew, this wouldn't be possible," said David Bischofhausen, who oversees three state parks in West Texas. Inmates at Davis Mountains State Park shoveled gravel into waist-deep erosion gullies in a four-mile trail. Prisoners also positioned logs to divert runoff, built stone steps and edge a path with rock and cacti, he said.

The help is needed at the limping agency, which has said it will have a backlog of repairs totaling $36.5 million at the end of next year after spending $60 million appropriated by the Legislature.

A 10-month review of the agency by the Statesman found inadequate funding, low staffing, pork-barrel politics and minimal expansion of the Texas state park system.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Some time ago, you mentioned a booklet on helping children cope with divorce, published by The American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers. I am pleased to let you know that we have another free booklet available, called "Making Marriage Last." While it may seem strange that divorce lawyers want to tell people how to make their marriages work, we want the marriages of our families, friends and clients to be saved, if possible. We also have some real expertise to share regarding what goes wrong.

A survey of our membership found a number of common reasons why marriages fail, including poor communication, financial problems, a lack of commitment and infidelity. Our booklet lists some communication DOs and DON'Ts, such as: don't start arguments based on things that happened long ago, and don't criticize your spouse in front of others. It also has a list of tips for improving your marriage, and a resource section for further reading.

Dear Miriam Mason: I am pleased to tell my readers about your booklet, which is sure to help couples have healthier and happier marriages. I predict you are going to be inundated with requests. Batten down the hatches, and prepare to be swamped.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting married in June, and my best friend wants to throw a bridal shower for me. I am appreciative of her kindness, but I have a problem with her arrangements. She wants to have the shower at a restaurant, and have the guests pay for their own meals.

My mother always taught me that guests never pay, especially if they are not involved in the planning, and are expected to bring a gift, as well. I believe my friend should give whatever party she can afford to host. I suggested the shower be at my home (or hers), and that we serve finger foods, cake and coffee. My friend says I am being old-fashioned. Am I? — R.B. in

Dear Iowa: I suggest that you respectfully reject your best friend's offer to have a bridal shower for you in a restaurant in which the "guests" pay for their own food. Since the guests are bringing gifts, the hostess should be a hostess in every sense of the word, and treat them to the meal.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been divorced for 10 years, and have two teenage daughters. When my ex-husband remarried, our older daughter decided to live with him, and the younger girl stayed with me. We live near each other, and have done a good job of co-parenting.

Here is the problem. The man I have been dating has been offered an excellent job opportunity in another country. "Jim" has asked me to marry him, and has also arranged for me to have a job where he is working. I love Jim and want to be with him, but I don't want to leave my children. I am concerned they may feel I am abandoning them. My heart is torn. Please help me make the right decision. — Cheryl in Nevada

THE HEREFORD RELAY FOR LIFE LUMINARIA LIGHTING SERVICE

Help support the goals of the American Cancer Society and remember or honor a loved one by purchasing a luminaria candle. The votive candles, nestled in sand bags and lit for a soft effect, are being sold now. The candles will be lit in a special ceremony during the RELAY FOR LIFE, a 24-hour team event held at Whiteface Stadium, June 2-3.

For a $5 donation per candle, you can dedicate the glowing tribute to someone who has or has had cancer. Those who purchase candles are invited to attend this special event to see their donation come to life. Proceeds from luminaria sales will benefit the Deaf Smith Unit of the American Cancer Society, which is dedicated to cancer research, patient services and education. For more information on the luminaria ceremony or the RELAY FOR LIFE, contact Bryan McGaw at 806-364-1166 or 806-364-0572.

To purchase a luminaria and help light the way to cure, please complete this form and send it to the address indicated. Thank you!

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

FOB loves, values and respects her children's Sunday school teachers. We love them so much that we want them rested and re-energized for Sunday school in the fall. FOB also recognizes the reality of summer schedules and vacations.

Therefore, this Sunday (in morning worship), we will honor our children and their teachers with awards, celebrating, and a general pat-on-the-back. Our usual children's Sunday school classes will vacation until Sept. 10. Throughout the summer months FOB will provide a unique activity-time for all children on Sundays from 9:30-10:30.

This Sixth Sunday of Easter will also be devoted to honoring our graduating high school seniors. In addition to a monogrammed Bible and a gift book, each graduate will be presented with a FOB scholarship to be applied to future studies.

"Forum" (at 9:30) continues her dialogue of Gerald Jamplosky's "Love is Letting Go of Fear." As we sit in a circle we will continue to explore the two basic emotions of life: love and fear. Jamplosky's concepts are designed to help us re-think our life and behavior and, with the help of the Spirit, to choose love.

FOB is a gathering of Christian searchers/pilgrims eager to explore life and faith together. A gathering of people more interested in living the Jesus-way than espousing a standard doctrinal line.

FOB is located at 245 N. Kingwood (at Moreman).

A supervised nursery is available at all services.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

It is the vision of First Baptist Church of Hereford to be a community of worshippers who will proclaim the gospel by demonstrating the transforming value of Christ for individuals, families, our culture and our world. With this as our vision, Pastor Terry Cosby and the family at First Baptist Church welcome you to take part in the many opportunities to worship this week.

Sunday morning Bible study begins at 9:45 with classes for every age group. The Book of the Bible Class is beginning a study of the book of Luke. You are invited to join a class this Sunday morning.

Worship is at 10:50 a.m. This Sunday has been designated as Senior Recognition Sunday. Extended Session is available for pre-school children through age three during the worship time.

During the Sunday evening service the regular business meeting will be held. Immediately following, a reception honoring Darliss Peabody, the church secretary for many years, will be held. The Peabodys are moving from Hereford.

Youth Choir will meet Sunday at 5 p.m. Youth care groups will meet on Sunday evening. Youth Camp is May 28-June 3.

Wednesday Hang Time will be at the regular times. The study for this week is "By Faith" Part 3.

Wednesday night Prayer Meeting is at 5:45 in the home of Roger and Alice Eades, 402 N. Douglas.

First Baptist Church has opportunities for you to be involved in the Franklin Graham Crusade Aug. 18-20 in Amarillo. Call the church office to find out how you can participate.

The FBC Mission Trip this year is to City Church and is open to anyone 12 years old or older. Call Lee Price at the church office if you would like to be part of this ministry.

FBC Kindergarten graduation is at 7 p.m. tonight in Fellowship Hall.

First Baptist Church Prayer Ministry is available to members of the community. If you need to place a prayer request in our Prayer Room, contact 363-ABBA (2222). If you need to place a prayer request on the Prayer Chain, call 364-0896. We will pray for your request.

There is a place of worship and service awaiting you at First Baptist Church.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

First United Methodist Church extends a warm welcome and invitation to attend Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. and Sunday morning worship at 10:45 a.m.

Dr. Tom Fuller's message will be "Everybody Needs a Home" from John 14:1-6. The anthem "There Stands the Cross" will be sung by the sanctuary choir while the prelude and offertory music will be piano selections by Lisa Conaway and Flint Dollar.

The church's music department will end its season Sunday evening with a West Texas Jubilee at 5:30 in Fellowship Hall. A celebration of Texas music, folklore, trivia contest and humor, the Jubilee will be presented by the FUMC music department, friends and special guests. Everyone is welcome to attend in their finest western attire.

A summer arts program for a variety of ages will begin May 31. Classes will include beginning handbell, summer band, biblical dramas, summer concerts and more.

Margaret Williams is leading a Bible study at 6 p.m. each Sunday evening in Ward Parlor. A series of "Focus on the Family" videos and study guides will be studied.

Housing is needed for Spirit Wind choir members when the group comes here to perform June 10. If you can help, call the church office 364-0770. Vicki Higgins 364-1239 or Alice Langenhennig 363-9090.

A community-wide time of intercessory prayer will be observed each Wednesday in the month of May at noon in the church sanctuary.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Immanuel Pastor Erik Stadler invites you to come worship with us Sunday at 10:30 a.m. We are located at the corner of Avenue B and Park.

Pastor Stadler's sermon theme this Sunday is "Love is not just a noun but also a verb" based on 1 John 3:18-24. Pastor Stadler will preach on how Christ provides us the strength not to just talk about love but to put that love into action in our families, marriages and other relationships.

Sunday school for the children is from 9:15-10:15 a.m. Immanuel offers a Bible study on Sunday at 9:15 a.m. which is a video documentary on the travels of Paul. Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. we offer a Bible study on the book of Acts.

We hope to have you join us at any one of our services or activities at Immanuel. If you have questions, contact Immanuel Lutheran Church at 364-1668.

HEREFORD CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

You are invited to join us this Sunday at 10:30 a.m. as we honor the Class of 2000 from Hereford High. The Youth Praise Band will help lead us in Praise and Worship. Pastor Ted's message especially for graduates will be "Living Black and White in a Gray World."

Big Mac shoots ahead of Mickey Mantle

■ McGwire hits number 539

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mark McGwire made a few changes that paid off in record-breaking fashion.

McGwire broke ties with Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays, homering three times and setting a career high with seven RBIs Thursday night in the St. Louis Cardinals' 7-2 win over the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I made a couple adjustments in the cage, but it's nothing new," he said. "I make adjustments all the time."

McGwire is eighth on the career list with 539 homers, three ahead of Mantle. McGwire's 64th multihomer game broke a tie with Mays for the second-most ever. Babe Ruth had 72.

"It's absolutely unbelievable, phenomenal to hear my name mentioned with those guys," McGwire said. "It means a lot to me, but I have to worry about playing a game tomorrow. It's not like my career is over. I think about those guys a lot, but until I retire, it's not going to hit me."

McGwire, who took over the major league home run lead with 17, broke a tie with Mantle in the first inning when he hit No. 537, a three-run drive off Curt Schilling (1-2).

McGwire hit a two-run homer in the second inning — only the 54th player to reach the left-field upper deck at Veterans Stadium — to make it 5-0. He added a two-run shot in the eighth off Wayne Gomes for No. 539.

"When you see greatness, whether it's athletics or entertainment, it never gets old," St. Louis manager Tony La Russa said.

McGwire struck out three times Wednesday night, forcing him to work on his swing. "He's made big improvements since his first few years," said La Russa, who coached McGwire when he came up in Oakland. "He adjusts. He knows his swing. He'll figure out what he did wrong and learn from it."

Just 17,137 — the smallest crowd to watch McGwire this season — paid to see the game at Veterans Stadium, and the actual attendance looked even smaller.

With the fifth three-homer game of his career, McGwire became the only NL player with a pair of three-homer games in Philadelphia; he also did it on May 19, 1998.

MARK MCGWIRE

McGwire is 4-for-18 in his career against Schilling, with all four hits being homers, including one on April 30. He was 0-for-6 with four strikeouts in the three-game series against the Phillies.

"When you face a guy like Schilling, who has owned me my whole career, I see the best of the best," McGwire said. "If he throws 93-94 to someone else, he throws 97-98 to me, with movement. I was lucky."

"I don't look at things as locked in, hitting the ball real well. I look at it like constant adjustments. Last night I couldn't hit a ball with a wet newspaper. Tonight, I centered some balls."

Next up for McGwire on the career home run list is former Phillies star Mike Schmidt at 548. McGwire received a standing ovation after his second homer and fans booed loudly when he was intentionally walked in the fourth.

St. Louis has homered in 36 of 40 games and are on pace to hit 344, shattering the record of 264 set by the 1997 Seattle Mariners.

Schilling, making his fourth start since offseason shoulder surgery, allowed five runs and nine hits in six innings, walked five and struck out five. With his second subpar outing in less than a week, his ERA rose from 3.15 to 4.15.

"I pitched poorly; no excuses," Schilling said. "I threw balls in spots I didn't want and he did what he does with those pitches. He's done it over 500 times."

Garrett Stephenson (6-0) allowed two runs and nine hits in 5 2-3 innings. The Cardinals are averaging 9.3 runs in his seven starts.

Notes: Philadelphia made it 5-1 on a two-out double by Mickey Morandini in the second, and Desi Relaford singled in a run the sixth. ... The loudest cheers of the night came when the Philadelphia Flyers scored in their 4-2 playoff win over the New Jersey Devils. Twice after the fans erupted following a Flyers goal, St. Louis catcher Mike Matheny called time and walked to the mound.

Helling improves to 6-1 after allowing seven runs

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — David Segui has been nursing a strained right hip for the last two weeks and missed a game on Wednesday with the flu.

According to the numbers, however, the Texas first baseman-DH has been the picture of health.

Segui hit a three-run homer that capped a six-run sixth inning Thursday night as the Rangers rallied to beat the Baltimore Orioles 8-7.

"You're going to feel bad," Segui said. "Either you're in here (the clubhouse) or you're out there (on the field). You might as well be out there."

Segui has reached base in 22 of his last 23 games and 36 of 39 contests this season and is 28-for-76 in his last 20 games to raise his average to .351.

Yet, Segui said he still hasn't hit his stride.

"I haven't felt good all year," Segui said. "I'm hitting good and my numbers are good, but I haven't been locked in."

Mike Lamb had three doubles and Frank Catalanotto had three hits for the Rangers, who have won four straight and seven of nine, putting themselves over .500 at 21-20 for the first time since April 15, when they were 6-5.

Texas started the night first in the league in hits, slugging and on-base percentage and second in runs, total bases and RBIs. With their 13 hits, the Rangers' team batting average improved to .306.

"We've got a lot of guys getting on base, and that's the key to scoring runs," Rangers manager Johnny Oates said. "It's a nice win to come back from that many runs down."

Baltimore, which has lost 13 of 15, took a 7-2 lead into the sixth before going on to squander another lead. The blown save was the 11th for the Orioles this season.

"I don't think I've ever seen anything like this in all my years," Orioles manager Mike Hargrove said. "It will turn around. You keep confidence in people. We pitched our way into it and we've got to pitch our way out of it."

Catalanotto, who had three hits in the game, extended his streak of consecutive at-bats with hits to a team-record 10 with a third-inning single, then grounded out in the fourth. He had a two-run single off starter Sidney Ponson in the sixth, and Rafael Palmeiro had an RBI single off B.J. Ryan (1-3) that made it 7-5.

Then Segui hit Ryan's first pitch into the left-center field bullpen for an 8-7 lead. Ryan was unable to get away with a fastball over the plate to Segui.

"When you're going good, you make a bad pitch and you get a pop-up," Ryan said. "When you're going bad, you make a bad pitch and it ends up 10 rows deep."

Rick Helling (6-1) won his fourth straight decision despite allowing seven runs, 10 hits and four walks in six innings.

"I didn't think I pitched that badly," Helling said. "It's a good night when you give up seven runs and your teammates battle back for you to win."

John Wetteland pitched a perfect ninth for his eighth save in 11 chances and tied Jeff Montgomery for ninth place on the career list at 304.

Ponson allowed six runs and 10 hits in 5 2-3 innings.

Albert Belle's RBI groundout and Harold Baines' run-scoring double gave Baltimore a 2-0 lead in the first, and the Orioles made it 4-0 in the second on Brady Anderson's RBI single and Delino DeShields' sacrifice fly.

Texas got a run in the second on Royce Clayton's RBI single and another in the third on Chad Curtis' run-scoring double.

Greg Myers hit his first homer of the season in the fourth, then drew a bases-loaded walk in the fifth for a 6-2 lead. Anderson homered in the sixth, making it 7-2.

Notes: With a first-inning single, Catalanotto set a Rangers record with his ninth consecutive hit. Three Rangers

Cook makes cut for third time in last 13 tournaments

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Keith Clearwater's good play this year went virtually unnoticed until the first round of the Colonial.

Clearwater birdied his last three holes to take the early lead Thursday, only to be overtaken by John Cook and caught by seven other players.

Cook, who has struggled all season, holed a 9-iron shot from 127 yards for an eagle-2 on his 15th hole, the 393-yard 6th, to take sole possession of the lead. He held on for a 4-under 66 after getting up-and-down for par from off the fringe on the final hole.

A stroke behind is that group of eight that includes Clearwater, the 1987 Colonial winner who is trying to regain his PGA Tour playing privilege via the Buy.com Tour.

Clearwater has the second-best scoring average and is 14th on the Buy.com Tour money list through seven events. He is only playing this week because the Colonial invites all of its past champions.

"I don't have any doubt that playing a full year on the Buy.com Tour, I'll regain my card and that's the No. 1 goal," Clearwater said. "I also don't think it would be a stretch to come here and play well for four days and have a chance to win." After having three earlier birdies negated by a double-bogey and a bogey, Clearwater took advantage of a suddenly calm conditions near the end of his round to finish with three straight birdies.

Clearwater's 6-iron tee shot on the 188-yard 16th stopped 4 feet from the hole. Clearwater then ended with two more challenging birdies, holing a 12-foot putt on the 383-yard 17th and a 15-footer on the 427-yard finishing hole.

"This is not a shock. It's only because I've not been out here regularly that you haven't seen my face, but I've been playing good golf and make a lot of progress," Clearwater said. "This is an arena where it can be evidenced a little bit greater."

Phil Mickelson, Davis Love III, David Toms, Len Mattiace, David Frost, Mike Weir and Greg Kraft also shot 67s. In all, 25 players broke par and were within four strokes of the lead.

Toms, who has made 10 straight cuts, had birdies on the 470-yard 5th hole and the 457-yard 14th, two of the three longest par 4s on the 7,080-yard course. Frost had three birdies in a four-hole stretch on the back nine, Mattiace was 6-for-5 in sand saves and Love had five birdies.

Cook has made the cut in just three of 13 tournaments this year. The 66 matched his best round of the year, which came in the first round of the Sony Open in January en route to a 22nd-place finish.

"If anybody has some answers for me why this year has been so bad, I'd be happy to listen," said Cook, who got the last of his 10 PGA Tour victories in the 1998 GTE Byron Nelson Classic. "I've worked harder this year than I ever have and gotten zero."

On a windy day at Colonial Country Club, Cook made a 15-foot par putt on his opening hole, the 404-yard 10th, that he said settled him into his round. After that, he went for the center of most greens.

SPORTS PARADE MONDAY

Parade to honor Hereford school's outstanding year in sports

The "Season of the Century" Parade of Champions honoring Hereford High School athletes and coaches will begin at 5:30 p.m. May 22 at the High School. The parade will finish at Whiteface Stadium, where awards, including the HHS all-sports honors, will be presented. A hamburger cookout and friendly competition with student-athletes and coaches will follow the formal program.

The parade will feature the athletes who advanced beyond district-level competition during the 1999-2000 athletic seasons. The parade will be led by a group of local motorcycle riders who helped escort the boys' basketball team to the playoffs. The Mighty Maroon Band also will participate in the march.

The events are sponsored by the Whiteface Booster Club and Hereford High School. All Herd fans are invited to line the parade route, then move to the stadium for the activities and hamburger cookout.

Golf Loves Texas

Texas is a popular place for professional golfers, playing host to seven pro tournaments, including four PGA stops, a LPGA tournament and two Senior PGA tour events. In addition to generating tourism dollars, these tournaments raise money for charity.

Lehrer, PBS looking forward to the political conventions

Frazier Moore
Associated Press

Call him old-fashioned, but Jim Lehrer is looking forward to covering the Republican and Democratic national conventions this summer. That makes him something of a dying breed in television.

Lehrer will anchor three hours of convention coverage each night for PBS, easily the most extensive reporting available to any television viewer without cable or a satellite dish.

"I think it's a public service as well as a journalistic responsibility," the "NewsHour" anchor said.

While ABC, CBS and NBC haven't nailed down their plans yet, the bad memories of 1996's disastrous ratings and scripted, sanitized conventions are still fresh. This may be the year conventions virtually disappear from prime-time for the big networks.

Republicans are meeting to nominate George W. Bush for president in Philadelphia from July 31 to Aug. 3. Democrats nominate Al Gore for the presidency in Los Angeles from Aug. 14-17.

Conventions were high-profile, starmaking events for network news teams in television's infancy. Not only were they occasionally suspenseful, they were among the few big events that broadcasters were able to plan for well in advance, said broadcast consultant Andrew Tyndall.

It's been decades since nominations were decided at the conventions, and party leaders now work to minimize any signs of conflict so the gatherings don't look bad on TV.

"They are no longer news events," Tyndall said. "They're propaganda events."

By the 1996 conventions, networks had already cut back on airtime. With some variations, ABC, CBS and NBC carried one hour each of coverage on the conventions' first three nights, and more on the last night when the nominees gave their acceptance speeches.

Even the limited time left viewers cold: Ratings were down 26 percent from 1992 for the Republicans and 18 percent for the Democrats, according to Nielsen Media Research. The biggest media story four years ago was Ted Koppel and his ABC "Nightline" crew abandoning the GOP event, saying nothing newsworthy was happening.

During primary season this year, the broadcast networks essentially ceded extended political coverage to CNN, Fox News Channel and MSNBC. Expect more of the same for the conventions.

"At this point, I think it's fair to say we've committed only to showing the acceptance speeches of the nominees," said NBC News vice president Bill Wheatley.

ABC is tentatively planning an hour each on the Tuesdays and Wednesdays of each week, more on the night of the nominees' speeches, said Marc Burstein, executive producer. CBS said it hasn't decided how much time the story will get in prime-time.

"There is very little news that comes out of the conventions anymore and consequently what you end up getting is a lot like an infomercial," said CBS spokeswoman Sandra Genelius. "We're not in the infomercial business."

Each network stresses that it has the flexibility to respond to breaking stories. NBC can easily replace a "Dateline NBC" episode with a convention special if it is needed.

Lehrer said PBS will strive for a middle ground between the gavel-to-gavel coverage on C-SPAN and the more limited approach of the networks. After two years of working in partnership with NBC News, PBS is going it alone this time; NBC's news team now has MSNBC as an outlet.

Conventions serve as the kick-off to the general election campaign and it's where most Americans first focus on the choice ahead of them, Lehrer said.

People who argue that the conventions are like infomercials forget that many news events are also scripted, he said.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket. For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach

FARM POLLUTION

Report says Texas regulators fail to do job of protecting air, water from manure

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas environmental regulators are not protecting the state's air and water from 220 billion pounds of animal waste created each year by industrial livestock farms, says a new report.

"Our public officials have been negligent in their duty to keep factory farm waste out of Texas' air and waterways," said Reggie James, director of the local chapter of Consumers Union.

On Thursday, the Lone Star Chapter of the Sierra Club and the Southwest Regional Office of Consumers Union released their report on health threats created by industrial animal farms. In it the groups call for better enforcement of current regulations and for Texas to join other states in adopting new, stricter rules for controlling manure pollution.

Livestock production in Texas, once primarily small family beef ranches, now includes industrial operations where dairy cattle, chickens and hogs are raised in close confinement.

The manure from the operations has polluted 388 miles of streams and more than 23,000 acres of lakes, according to the report.

As a result, stretches of Wright Patman Lake and Lake of the Pines in East Texas and the Upper North Bosque River in North Central Texas no longer support aquatic life, according to the report.

Neighbors have said the odors and dust from the factory farms drove them to sell their homes and move away.

John Hofmann, top aide to Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commissioner John Baker, said state environmental regulators could do a better job watching the operations.

"I think definitely, in some parts of the state, we need to do more," Hofmann said. "In other parts of the state we have a tremendous regulatory presence." He said the resource commission does annual monitoring of the dairy farms in the Bosque River Valley, thanks to a special appropriation from the Legislature.

In other parts of the state, livestock farms are reviewed less often because inspectors spend their time on industries that present a greater threat to the public, like oil refineries or chemical plants.

Hofmann said most complaints about feed lots are about odors and quality of life issues, not the direct threats to public and environmental health the agency typically handles.

FBI director's memo hints at pressure

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS News digest

WASHINGTON — Hinting at political pressure in the earliest days of the Democratic fund-raising scandal, FBI Director Louis Freeh wrote a memo suggesting a top prosecutor was being urged not to proceed with the investigation in order to protect Attorney General Janet Reno's job.

The memo, turned over belatedly to Senate investigators this week, also discloses that Freeh wanted Reno and Justice Department public integrity chief Lee Radek to step aside from the investigation as early as December 1996 because of purported comments made by Radek.

The memo was described to The Associated Press on Thursday by several government officials who have seen it since the FBI turned it over to be produced to the Senate and House Judiciary committees investigating the fund-raising matter.

In the Dec. 9, 1996, memo to Deputy FBI Director William J. Esposito, Freeh recounted, thirdhand, comments Radek allegedly made to Esposito suggesting he was being pressured in connection with the investigation into Democratic fund-raising improprieties during President Clinton's 1996 re-election.

"I also advised the attorney general of Lee Radek's comment to you that there was a lot of 'pressure' on him" and the department's public integrity section "regarding this case because the attorney general's job might hang in the balance (or words to that effect)," Freeh wrote Esposito three days after meeting with Reno.

The memo, portions of which were read to the AP by the sources, does not state where the pressure was coming from.

Radek, whose public integrity section investigates allegations against government officials and handled the early stages of the fund-raising probe, said late Thursday the memo's description of the conversation has "no basis in fact."

NRA opens session in the cross-hairs

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — The National Rifle Association opens its 129th annual convention in the crossfire of a superheated national debate about guns, constitutional rights and public safety.

The NRA says the issues have helped boost membership to a record 3.6 million, with a gain of 200,000 new members and $10 million in donations within the last six weeks.

And with the White House and both houses of Congress up for grabs, leaders say the stakes have never been higher.

"I think this is the most important election in the history of firearms ownership in the country," NRA Executive Vice President Wayne LaPierre said.

"We're either going to go down the road of registering every firearm owner with the federal government, licensing every firearm owner, federal tests," he said in today's Charlotte Observer. "Or we're going to be much better off with someone who will respect the freedom, but also be much tougher on people who abuse the freedom" to have a gun.

The meeting opens today, on the heels of last weekend's Million Mom March in Washington, D.C., where tens of thousands of protesters called for stricter gun controls and targeted the NRA as a leading barrier to their objectives.

Peru presidential runoff to go ahead

LIMA, Peru — Peru's government says a presidential runoff election will go forward on May 28, despite candidate Alejandro Toledo's decision not to participate and a warning from the Organization of American States that it will not endorse the vote.

After the National Election Board rejected Toledo's demand to push back the second-round vote until June 18, he called on supporters to stage massive street protests this evening in Peru's major cities to force a postponement.

"The dictatorship has taken the cruel decision to remain in power," Toledo shouted to a crowd of thousands of banner-waving supporters at a street rally in Lima's working-class neighborhood of La Victoria on Thursday night.

His followers roared their agreement.

President Alberto Fujimori scorned Toledo's demand, accusing him of quitting because he knew he was going to lose the election. Polls show the two tied in voter preferences.

Allies part ways with United States — again

WASHINGTON — Some of America's best friends split away to approve $232 million in World Bank loans to Iran, despite intensive lobbying by Secretary of State Madeleine Albright.

She made three arguments against the loans: That Iran sponsors terrorism, has not adopted sound economic principles and should not be rewarded while it conducts a "show trial" of 13 Jews on charges of spying for Israel.

The allies, including best-friend Britain and Germany, were not swayed, and joined the majority of the 24-member bank executive board Thursday in approving the loans.

The United States has gone it alone, or nearly alone, many times.

Currently, President Clinton is discovering that the allies are not eager to embrace the idea that North Korea, Iran and other so-called rogue states pose a potential long-range missile threat and that a missile shield may be the solution even if it punches holes in a 28-year-old arms control treaty.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

WHEN THE PROPHET JONAH PREACHED TO THE PEOPLE OF NINEVEH AND TOLD THEM GOD WOULD DESTROY THEIR GREAT CITY AND ALL OF THEM BECAUSE OF THEIR SINFUL WAYS, THE PEOPLE, FROM THE KING DOWN TO THE LOWEST BEGGAR, REPENTED OF THEIR SINS AND GOD FORGAVE THEM AND DID NOT DESTROY NINEVEH!

BUT JONAH WAS ANGRY THAT NINEVEH WASN'T DESTROYED AS HE HAD PROPHECIED AND HE URGED GOD TO CARRY OUT HIS WORD, CAMPING OUTSIDE THE CITY TO SEE IF GOD WOULD DESTROY IT!

ONLY AFTER GOD DESTROYED A VINE THAT SHADED JONAH FROM THE SUN, DID THE PROPHET COME TO REALIZE THAT GOD WAS TRYING TO SHOW HIM THAT MERCY WAS FAR GREATER THAN SELF-RIGHTEOUSNESS!

NEXT WEEK: A KINGDOM LOST BECAUSE OF A KING'S LAZINESS!
