FAREWELL TO GANGS Senate passes $1.51 trillion 1995 budget by 57-40 count

No more gangs
Brenden Galan, 18, once belonged to the Crips, one of Amarillo's most notorious gangs. Today Brenden works for his mother, Janie Galan of Hereford, who owns an upholstery business. A high school dropout who was expelled from Hereford High School, Brenden plans to get his G.E.D. and go on to college as a music major.

Local resident, mother recall time he spent as gang member

At first glance, you would think any parent would be proud to have a kid like Brenden Galan. The 18-year-old is tall, handsome, with a proud look in his eye -- the look of an eagle. But a closer examination of Brenden, who lives in Hereford with his mother, Janie Galan, reveals something in his past that isn't attractive. Brenden is an ex-gang member. He once belonged to the Crips, a gang of tough youths who are based in Amarillo. According to Janie Galan, Brenden was anything but a wimp. With her son sitting at her side and nodding in assent, Janie described a night two years ago when she and Brenden got into the kind of fight most parents hate to think about. "I had found out about his gang membership and his colors," she said. "He's my son. I took his bandannas, his Malcolm X and his gang tapes, and his music. "He wanted to kill me. We fist-fought all through the house, with Brenden screaming, 'I'll die for my colors... I'll kill for my colors!' With Brenden bleeding from his nose and his eye turning black, Janie called the Hereford Police. Officers told her he was a juvenile and they could do nothing. Said Janie, "I'm a single parent. I needed help and the police were sending him back home." Stubbornly, she went to the Hereford High School counselor to see what could be done to save her son. The way Janie Galan explains it, the counselor tried to help, but the school administration didn't. Although he was making A's and B's and was an above-average athlete, Brenden was expelled twice by the Hereford High School administration. The second time it stuck. It happened because a still defiant Brenden had argued with his mother and ran away from home, spending

WASHINGTON (AP) - House and Senate bargainers will have to decide how to handle a $26 billion bite the Senate has taken out of President Clinton's long-term spending plans. Senators approved a Democratic $1.51 trillion budget for 1995 Friday on a near party-line 57-40 vote. The measure tamps down next year's federal deficit to a six-year low of $173.5 billion, shrinks military spending and pumps up financing for education, public works and scores of other programs. But thanks to a coalition of Republicans and a few Democrats, the plan would also slash unspecified programs by $26 billion over the next five years, a cut strongly opposed by the White House and Democratic leaders. The budget the House approved two weeks ago did not make the extra reductions. When House-Senate negotiators meet next month to write a compromise spending plan, Democrats are likely to try to roll the cuts back. "If the House is adamant in their position, which I anticipate they will be, you end up usually compromising these matters," said Senate Budget Committee Chairman Jim Sasser, D-Tenn. "We passed a good budget resolution, and I'm a strong supporter of what we did," said Rep. Martin Sabo, D-Minn., chairman of the House Budget Committee. The budget sets broad spending limits for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1, but only makes recommendations about financing levels for specific programs. Lawmakers will make

Youths to plant trees

A total of 261 children will be planting trees April 4-9 in the Re-Leaf promotion being sponsored by Hereford Beautification Alliance, the Soil Conservation Service, and Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District. Pat Reilly, SCS official and vice president of HBA, had announced a registration period to sign up the first 200 youngsters who wanted to participate, and he had to call a halt to the signup after 261 had registered. The Re-Leaf promotion launches a city cleanup program which HBA has planned for the entire month of April. The Re-Leaf schedule is now confirmed by Reilly, with 18 group leaders leading the 261 youngsters in planning windbreak designs and planting approximately 550 tree seedlings. Church groups, Camp Fire, 4-H and other youth groups are participating in the project. The children, as well as adult leaders, will receive "Re-Leaf pins" for being involved in the program. Each child will also receive a free white pine seedling to plant at home. The City of Hereford has donated trees, drip irrigation system, site preparation and maintenance of trees planted on city property. Christ Fellowship Church, St. Anthony's School, and Community Christian School have committed to maintenance of trees planted on their property. Deaf Smith County has committed to provide site preparation, a drip irrigation system and maintenance of trees planted at the Kid's Inc., baseball complex. KPAN Radio will sponsor a "Conservation and Tree Trivia Contest" during the week of April 4-9 to help promote the Re-Leaf project.

Local center employees receive contractor visit

Workers at the Amarillo State Center Industries-Hereford received a special treat on Friday when representatives of one of their contractors called to visit. A contingent of people from Gearn Industries and Owens-Corning in Amarillo stopped by the center -- formerly the Hereford Satellite Center -- as part of a continuing project to visit contractors and suppliers. The Hereford center employs several mentally retarded people, training them for eventual employment in the city. Among the contracts the center has is one with Gearn Industries to sand small wooden parts that are supplied to Owens Corning for their work in Amarillo. Workers carefully smooth the edges of "hold-off arms" and "big blades," as well as smooth out the tracks and edges of "guide eyes" for the company. Sherri Blackburn of Owens Corning said the careful sanding is needed because the fiberglass strands they use snag easily on rough spots, holding factory production. "These people make all the difference in the world," she said of the center's employees. Raul Valdez, assistant director of the center, said his workers have been working on the Gearn project for a little over a year. The workers took some time off their labors to visit with the delegation, which included Kenay Gearn, Johnny Hernandez and Paige Arnold from Gearn Industries and Blackburn and Jan Edwards from Owens Corning. They were presented with hot pink Owens Corning caps bearing the image of the Pink Panther, the company's spokes-animal. Edwards said the informal visit was to "let them know they play an important part in our processes in Amarillo."

Bootleg VFD seeks funds for repairs

The Bootleg Volunteer Fire Department recently lost two of its fire trucks to major mechanical failures that will cost the department some $9,000, money they say they don't have. As a result, the department has issued a plea for financial assistance from the community to help cover the repair costs. Ernest Brown said one truck was recently returned to service after the drive shaft and transmission were torn up while en route to a fire. Repairs to that vehicle cost some $3,000. Then, he said, the department's largest truck was returning to the station after fighting a fire 10 miles from Hereford when the engine blew up. That one will be towed into town for a new engine. Donations may be made to the Bootleg Volunteer Fire Department, Route 4, Hereford, Texas 79045.

those decisions in separate bills later this year. Republicans spent most of the weeklong debate mocking the blueprint because it lacks new cuts in the deficit beyond the tax increases and spending slashes imposed last year. They offered several plans containing deeper spending cuts and tax cuts, but each was defeated. They also noted that the red ink is expected to resume swelling uncontrollably again at the end of the decade. And they said that despite Clinton's insistence otherwise, his plan to reshape the health-care system will not reduce spending for Medicare (See SENATE, Page 2A)

Education bill passes Senate

By DIANE DUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate voted 63-22 early Saturday to approve an educational reform bill, staying past midnight to cut off a filibuster over school prayer and to save $105 million for states and school districts. The bill, which passed the House 306-121 and now goes to President Clinton for his signature, authorizes $647 million for this year, including $400 million in grants to states and local school agencies. The $105 million would have been lost from this year's funding if the Senate had not voted before its two-week Easter recess. The bill also writes into law the education Goals 2000 agreed to in 1989 by then-President Bush and the nation's governors. New goals were added: encouraging parental involvement and professional development for teachers. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., began the filibuster Wednesday. By Senate rules, it could not be stopped until after midnight Friday. Helms didn't like the way his language on school prayer had been weakened in the compromise version. His provision would have denied federal funds to schools that barred voluntary, constitutionally protected prayer. The compromise approved by the Senate said merely that federal funds could not be used help school districts adopt policies preventing voluntary prayer and meditation. This could allow schools already restricting prayer or using their own money to restrict prayer to go forth.

Hard at work
Karen Shore, seated, an employee of Amarillo State Center Industries-Hereford, formerly the Hereford Satellite Center, carefully sands a piece of equipment destined for use in the Owens Corning plant in Amarillo while representatives of Owens Corning and Gearn Industries -- which contracts with the center to sand the parts -- watch during a visit here Friday. Watching her work are, from left, Johnny Hernandez, Gearn Industries; Jan Edwards and Sherri Blackburn, Owens Corning; Paige Arnold, Gearn; and center assistant director Raul Valdez.

1993 income tax filing

Vocabulary makes filing taxes difficult

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - It's difficult to hear or read a reference to the federal income tax that doesn't include such words as confusing, complicated and complex.

True, you can't file even the simplest tax form - 1040EZ - without encountering such terms as adjusted gross income, taxable income and standard deduction and wondering whether you've claimed every exemption and deduction you're entitled to.

Perhaps the system will never be simple. But keeping in mind that the vast majority of taxpayers need never worry about such things as net operating losses, amortization and the alternative minimum tax, here is a primer on how the income tax works:

Some definitions:

- Gross income is everything you made last year unless specifically exempted from tax, such as interest on municipal bonds.

- Adjusted gross income, or AGI, is what is left after subtracting such adjustments as Individual Retirement Account contributions, alimony paid and penalties for early withdrawal of savings.

- Taxable income is the figure actually subject to tax. It is derived by subtracting deductions and personal exemptions from AGI.

- Marginal tax rate is what the government takes from the last dollar of taxable income you earned. Most people pay only one rate: 15 percent; most middle-income families pay 15 percent on the biggest portion of their income and 28 percent on the rest. There are three other rates applying to those with more income: 31 percent, 36 percent and 39.6 percent.

- You won't find the term on your tax return, but effective tax rate is your total income tax divided by AGI. This is simply a way to measure your tax burden. If AGI is $40,000 and your tax is $5,600, your effective rate is 14 percent.

Here's an example, assuming a married couple with two children, income of $67,000 and itemized deductions of $10,800:

Subtracting $3,600 of alimony the husband paid his former wife results in AGI of $63,400. Subtract the itemized deductions and personal exemptions (four worth $2,350 apiece) to get taxable income of $43,200.

Because this couple's taxable income is under $100,000, they don't have to calculate their tax liability. Instead, they simply use the tax tables in their Form 1040 instructions. Their bottom line: $7,306.

Because that figure is rounded off to keep the tax tables simple, it overstates the couple's liability by $7.

Here is how the liability is calculated using the tax rate schedules (which anyone with taxable of $100,000 or more must use): The first $36,900 of taxable income is taxed at 15 percent ($5,535). The remaining $6,300 faces a 28 percent rate ($1,764). The total is $7,299, for an effective rate of 11.5 percent.

Now, consider a single person with $75,000 income, $3,600 of alimony payments, no dependents and itemized deductions of $10,800:

The alimony is subtracted, leaving AGI of $71,400. Subtracting the itemized deductions and one $2,350 personal exemption results in taxable income of $58,250. The tax tables show a liability of $13,587.

Under the tax-rate schedules, the first $22,100 would be taxed at 15 percent ($3,315); the next $31,400 at 28 percent ($8,792), and the remaining $4,750 at 31 percent ($1,472.50). That totals $13,579.50.

This single taxpayer in the 31 percent bracket has an effective rate of 19 percent.

Assume this person won $75,000 in the state lottery, boosting total income to $150,000. AGI is $146,400. Then it gets complicated.

Higher-income taxpayers lose some or all their personal exemptions and a portion of some itemized deductions - including state and local taxes - as earnings rise.

In this example, with $146,400 AGI, the exemption drops to $1,598, a figure calculated on the worksheet on Page 25 of the Form 1040 instructions. Assuming that $2,000 of the $10,800 of deductions was for medical expenses and investment interest, the worksheet on Page A-5 of the instructions results in allowable deductions of $9,661.50.

Subtracting the $1,598 exemption and the $9,661.50 allowable deductions from AGI results in taxable income of $135,140.50.

The first $22,100 is taxed at 15 percent ($3,315); the next $31,400 at 28 percent ($8,792); the next $61,500 at 31 percent ($19,065), and the remaining $20,140.50 at 36 percent ($7,250.58). That is a total tax of $38,422.58, and an effective rate of 26.2 percent.

Taxpayers hit by calamity may receive some tax relief

WASHINGTON (AP) - Taxpayers who were hit by floods, hurricanes, fires and other major disasters may get some relief from a new tax provision.

Under the tax law, if you lose your home in such a casualty, that is considered an "involuntary conversion." You could realize a taxable gain if the reimbursement from your insurance company exceeds the adjusted basis of the home.

The adjusted basis is what you paid for the home and any improvements, such as adding a room or replacing the heating system.

Ordinarily, you could defer tax on any gain by, within two years, buying another home costing at least as much as the reimbursement from the loss of the old home. That is the same rule that applies when a principal home is routinely sold.

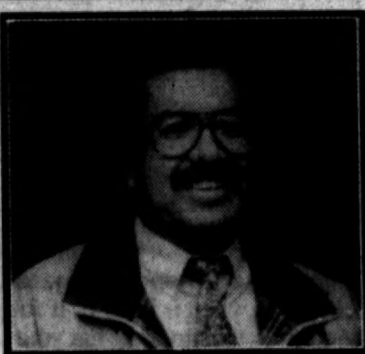

However, the new law extends that replacement period to four years. But special treatment is available only for losses suffered in areas designated disaster areas by the president on or after Sept. 1, 1991.

The same restriction applies to a second new tax break. It allows you to avoid tax on an insurance reimbursement for unscheduled personal property, such as clothing and furniture, lost in a disaster.

In general, a loss in a declared disaster area may be deducted on the return filed for the year the loss occurred or the prior year. Thus, a person whose home was destroyed in last year's Midwest floods could have filed an amended 1992 return - to get a quick refund - or could record the loss on the 1993 return that will be filed this year.

Use Form 4684 to determine how much of your loss is deductible.

Historic hotel returns to life as museum

By TONIE MILLER-UZZEL
Midland Reporter-Telegram
LAMESA, Texas - The Dal Paso Hotel, somewhere halfway between Dallas and El Paso, saw many honeymooners and travelers come and go in West Texas.

Now, as the Dal Paso Museum, it is recounting the history of Lamesa and Dawson County, going back to the first pioneer settlers of the 1870s.

Some visitors to the museum are those long-ago honeymooners, some married now for 50 years. Others are tourists who tell stories of visiting the hotel during its heyday and noting their relief that "the walls couldn't talk."

Old folks tell about playing poker in a corner room with a lookout at the top of the stairs to warn the gamblers about approaching law enforcement or angry wives. The corner room was chosen because a fire escape was a quick route out.

All of this and more is told by Wayne Smith, museum curator and county historian.

He not only knows the county's history, but he had lived through a portion of it. He was born 15 miles outside town and learned to love the local history from hearing stories from his grandparents who arrived in the county in 1914.

"The Dal Paso Museum used to be the Dal Paso Hotel. It was named the Dal Paso because it was supposedly a halfway mark between Dallas and El Paso," Smith said.

"The Dal Paso Hotel was built in 1924 and operated until 1971. From then it was used as a barber shop and drug store until 1981. After that it was used off and on for various functions, but never caught on," Smith said.

The county had a museum in an old house on the west side of town, but Smith said it was hard to maintain. In 1988, the old Dal Paso Hotel was reopened as the new museum.

Smith said the idea of renovating the hotel and creating a new museum was toyed with by a group of local residents. Their thought was to renovate the building and use part of the building as the office for the Chamber of Commerce, which was located in another part of town at the time.

Smith said he didn't know if anyone would be interested in spending the money to fix the hotel up until the local newspaper editor, Walter Buckel, wrote a number of articles about the proposed project - then citizens began sending in donations.

Later the Mabce Foundation in Midland matched contributions, adding $50,000. In total, $150,000 was raised to redo the hotel, Smith said.

"The building started out a mess with a leaking roof ... plaster ripped up," Smith said. He added the project was a major undertaking. But to look at the results now, it is a beautiful piece of West Texas history.

"This is strictly a West Texas museum ... we wanted something to preserve our culture," Smith explained.

The museum has artifacts and memorabilia dating back to the developmental stages of Dawson County. Smith said the first land sale was in 1875. He said the displays carry through the big growth of the community in the 1930s and even has more current displays because "history doesn't become static, it's ongoing."

But, for the most part, it's a pioneer museum.

The lobby serves as a comfortable welcome to the old hotel with a parlor off to the side, which is rented for parties and gatherings. A feel of nostalgia hangs in the air as visitors walk into the lobby with a feel for how honeymooners and cattle barons felt as they stepped in to get a room for the night.

An authentic chair lift attached to rails along the wooden staircase assists handicapped people get up the stairs to where the displays are located on the second floor.

Each of the hotel's rooms, which still have numbers of the doors, hold a variety of displays with each room matching a theme of just one small portion of Dawson County history. Each item on display was a personal belonging of a Dawson County family, Smith said.

Religious history, which played a big part in the lives of the pioneers, is the first room visitors encounter at the top of the stairs.

Smith said the early settlers started their own churches and would even start their own schools.

"They were more than just a place of worship - they were the center of activity," Smith said about the small community churches.

Another large part of the settlers' lives was the family life and ranching.

On display in the ranching heritage room are a number of what were items used daily including side saddles, ice hooks, animal traps and leather kneepads used for picking cotton.

"Kids don't realize branding irons were used on a daily basis by the frontiers ... they were a functional part of life," Smith said. "We wanted to create a living museum to show youngsters what their ancestors endured."

"The first people who came out here were pretty tough folks," Smith said.

He noted some of the intolerable conditions of the frontier, including lack of supplies and the fact they had to travel almost 50 miles to see a doctor.

He said Dawson County didn't have a hospital for a while and settlers had to travel to Big Spring for medical care.

Smith also said the county didn't start keeping records until 1905 so the pioneers had to travel to Howard County to get married or for any legal matters.

Other rooms display city history including clippings and photos relating to a glider base north of town which was operated during World War II.

Industry, banks and merchants' items all played a role in the formation of Lamesa as well and have displays dedicated to their part.

"The banks were more than just a place people went to get money. They got financial advice and, for a number of years, kept this country running," Smith said.

In the veterans' room are displays of uniforms, photographs and memorabilia of Dawson County veterans from World War I to Operation Desert Storm.

The room dedicated to the legal profession has the original judge's bench and witness stand from the county courthouse along with a number of law books dating back to the late 19th century.

Every room has displays to make even the most amateur antiquer salivate from handmade quilts and dolls to family heirlooms.

Several of those heirlooms are displayed in the school room of the old hotel. Among the desks and books are handmade graduation dresses used by Dawson County women as early as the 1920s.

Other major influences on the county to have their own displays include cotton ginning, sports and athletics, the community newspaper, and medical resources.

A room on natural history includes a mammoth tusk and tooth found in the county as well as a number of fossils turned up by archaeologists and local residents.

To antique enthusiasts, the rooms which were designed to appear as they would during the hotel's boom, will be the most interesting. The furnishings are from the period they depict and belonged to Dawson County pioneers.

A hotel room designed to coincide with circa 1926 awaits visitors as well as a typical sitting room, dining room and kitchen.

In the sitting room, an old Victrola sits in one corner and a pump organ is just opposite of it with a piano on the other end of the room. A matching loveseat and chair round out the ensemble.

"You have to remember it was rough frontier country out here. There were rattlesnakes in the front yard ... and bringing a piano was a real hassle, especially if moving by wagon," Smith said.

But, he added the Dawson County frontiers had to be unique to want to bring "culture" out to the country.

In the period dining room, a dinner table is set with china and matching glassware - which belonged to the county's first judge.

But, one of the most unusual exhibits in the museum is displayed in what appears to have been a storage closet at the hotel. In it is a large glass-enclosed case with blueprints and drawings.

The case was built to hold the designs of the hotel's architect, Harvey Allen, who was known statewide for his designs of theaters and schools. Before his death 10 years ago, he called the hotel and asked them to keep his work.

Every design he created is within the display case. Smith said the museum still gets calls from people across the state to look and see the original designs of their buildings.

The museum is open a few afternoons a week during the winter, but in keeping with West Texas hospitality a phone call might be all it takes to get a special tour.

During winter hours the museum is open from 2-5 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. From May to September it is open 2-5 p.m. daily except Monday.

Special tours are available upon request. The museum is operated by the Dawson County Museum Association's 12-member board of directors.

Lamesa is about 60 miles north of Midland on Texas 349. The Dal Paso Museum is located off the downtown square.

Educators eyeing building multi-university college

HOUSTON (AP) - In what they hope will be a wise use of shrinking resources, state educators are planning a college campus for a Houston-area community where students could get a degree from any of six Texas universities.

North Harris Montgomery Community College will propose the "university center" next month for The Woodlands. Under the proposal, the University of Houston, Texas Southern, Rice, Sam Houston State, Texas A&M and Prairie View universities would offer classes in a building at the junior college.

"This is the cheapest way for the state to provide educational services without building new campuses," Commissioner of Higher Education Kenneth Ashworth said. "It is also the way least likely to result in the creation of a separate, freestanding university."

The center, modeled on a partnership at a suburban Detroit junior college and similar to one now being built in Dallas, would open in fall 1996.

Nancy Atlas, chairwoman of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, said this proposal is a cost-effective way to offer educational opportunities. The community college district, not the state, will build and maintain the center.

Some have criticized the idea as another example of locating educational programs and facilities in predominantly white communities.

"We agree that students need access to higher education," said Al Kauffman of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund. "However, it seems inconsistent of the state to support a new institution in an area that already has many fine institutions."

MALDEF's 1987 lawsuit alleged Texas discriminated against students in the border region.

THREE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

- Q. What is an assumable mortgage?
- A. An assumable mortgage is a debt already on the property and can be taken over by the next owner. Old FHA or VA loans are assumable to any buyer, but newer assumables require the next purchaser to prove financial qualification to the lender.
- Q. I co-signed for a mortgage and I would like to get out of it. Who do I talk to about this?
- A. Only the lending institution can release you from the mortgage. With many loans you can be released, if the co-borrower proves their financial ability to repay the loan.
- Q. We are selling our home at a loss. Can we claim this loss as a capital loss on our taxes?
- A. No. You cannot claim a capital loss on the sale of your home.

This ad is directed to those of you who spend 364 days each year trying to forget about JUST ONE!

Oops HERE IT IS!

It's just around the corner, but with some advance planning, you might be able to save yourself some misery at tax time as you save for the future with a First National Bank of Hereford IRA.

If you want your money to work for you, instead of against you, then you're a very good candidate for an Individual Retirement Account. An IRA is a government-approved savings plan that may qualify as a tax deduction on your 1993 return. And this savings plan is made even better when you consider that all earnings on the account are tax-deferred until they are withdrawn at retirement.

Call The First National Bank of Hereford and ask about opening an IRA account. You'll feel better knowing your investment dollars are working for you instead of against you, and that might just brighten your outlook on at least one significant day in April.

*Substantial interest penalty may be required for early withdrawal.
Consult your tax advisor about your qualifications for IRA deductions.

Herd tennis team in hunt for tournament title

The Hereford tennis team was in good shape after the first day of the Beef Capital of the World Tennis Tournament Friday in Hereford.

All 12 singles flights were played Friday, and the tourney was to conclude with the doubles flights on Saturday.

Three Hereford girls won their eight woman flights: Brooke Weishaar, Natalie McWhorter and Kara Sandoval. Gabriel Gamez and Paige Robbins followed with second-place finishes for a strong showing for the girls, despite an ankle injury to Bri Reinauer which forced her to default all matches in the No. 1 flight.

The top performance by a Hereford boy was a second place by Jason Cole. B.J. Lockmiller and Tyler Merrick both finished third in their flights, and Pete Vargas picked up a fourth place.

Gators dump UConn in OT; BC sends Hoosiers home

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Florida's Craig Brown made the "biggest shot of my career" after Connecticut's Donyell Marshall failed to, so the Gators play Boston College on Sunday for the NCAA East Regional title and a berth in the Final Four.

Marshall, an All-American, missed two free throws with the score tied and 3.4 seconds left in regulation. Given the reprieve, the Gators eliminated the Huskies 69-60. Brown hit the biggest basket, a 3-pointer with 1:17 left in overtime.

Earlier, Boston College defeated Indiana 77-68.

In the Midwest Regional, Arkansas routed Tulsa 103-84 and Michigan stopped Maryland 78-71.

In Saturday's regional finals, Duke was to play Purdue in the Southeast and Arizona was to face Missouri in the West.

Marshall, a 76 percent shooter at the line, squandered a chance to win the game by bouncing both shots off the rim at the end of regulation.

"I was praying that he'd miss it and give us a chance, and he did," said Florida's Dan Cross said. "It was probably the biggest free throws of his life."

Marshall's second miss came after Florida called timeout.

"I felt very confident," Marshall said. "It hit the back rim, went down and rolled out. There's nothing you can do about that."

Brown and Cross each scored 17 points for Florida.

Marshall had 16 points, nine below his average, and 13 rebounds. Doron Sheffer added 18 points for the Huskies.

Florida held the second-seeded Huskies (29-5) without a field goal for 9 1/2 minutes and held Connecticut to its lowest point total of the season - even with the extra five minutes of play. It's the first time Florida (28-7) has reached a regional final.

Boston College 77, Indiana 68
Howard Eislely and Gerrod Abram hurt Indiana with their outside shooting and held Damon Bailey, Indiana's leading scorer, to 10 points in Boston College's third consecutive surprising victory.

"We didn't come down here to just win one game," said Bill Curley, the leader of a senior class that was 1-15 in the Big East Conference as freshmen. "We want to go somewhere else. We have another game to go before it's time to celebrate."

Eislely hit four 3-pointers and finished with 18 points, including a clutch basket that helped Boston College pull away after Curley hit two foul shots for a 70-68 lead with 1:46 to go.

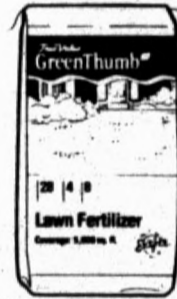

Abram and Malcolm Huckaby each added 15 and Curley had 11 points and 13 rebounds for Boston College (23-10), which beat eighth-seeded Washington State in the first round and then upset top-seeded North Carolina.

"It's been a hell of a week for us," said BC coach Jim O'Brien.

Indiana (21-9) rallied from a 14-point first-half deficit to lead 64-59 before Boston College finished with an 18-4 surge in the final seven minutes.

— YOUR EYES —

ABOUT DIABETES AND THE EYES

Most of us think diabetes as a sugar/insulin imbalance, an illness to be managed with diet and drugs where needed. What few people realize is that the diabetes affects the entire body, and in particular, the eyes.

A diabetic needs to take extra care of eyesight. Most basically, of course, blood sugar levels must be checked regularly and general diabetic diet and drug regimens followed. Eyes should be examined on a set schedule, every three months to every year, depending on need.

The optometrist will pay special attention to the diabetic's special eye concerns. Because there is a possibility of retinal changes to occur that will permanently affect vision, the eye doctor will check the retina often, even if the patient does not report vision changes.

Blurred vision may be a problem for diabetics, usually caused by a temporary blood sugar imbalance. This generally clears when blood sugar levels return to normal, if treatment is given promptly.

Hastings, defense dominate Lobos in 10-0 win

Ray Hastings pitched a shutout Friday against Levelland, and the Hereford bats came alive in the fifth inning to turn a scoreless duel into a 10-0 rout at Whiteface Field.

The game sped along without anyone scoring until the fifth inning, when Hereford loaded the bases on singles by Stacey Sanders and Ronald Torres and a walk by Chris Vallejo. Herd coach J.J. Villarreal called for the squeeze, and Tanner Murphey laid down a perfect bunt, scoring Sanders, and Murphey reached on the pitcher's error.

"I was just trying to get something going," Villarreal said, alluding to a lack of offense Hereford had shown in several games. "We hit-and-run five times today, to get it going."

He also called several delayed double steals, which at first glance look simply like a runner getting caught leading off too far. Those, plus six hits in the final two innings, caused an avalanche of Levelland mistakes in the final two innings.

After Murphey's squeeze, Jacob Lopez cracked a ground-rule double, bringing home Torres and Vallejo. Murphey scored on a groundout by Russ Watts, putting Hereford up 4-0.

In the sixth, Andrew Tijerina scored on an error forced by a delayed double steal, and Sanders scored on a wild pitch. With two outs, Vallejo and Murphey walked, and Lopez singled Vallejo home. Watts walked, and Scott Ahola's double against the left field fence brought home Lopez and Watts, ending the game by the 10-run rule.

Hastings went all six innings, giving up seven hits. He didn't walk a batter, but did hit one. He got excellent defense behind him; the Herd's one error on the day was his,

a meaningless errant pickoff throw. "This game felt different than all the other games I pitched," Hastings said. "My arm didn't start hurting right off the bat; it felt good all the way through."

The Herd (6-8) starts District 1-4A play at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in Dumas.

Friday's win was a good way to go into district, Hastings said.

"If we play like we did today...if we have the same defense, we have a real good chance in district," Hastings said. "As long as everybody clicks together, we have a good chance to do real good in district."

Dominique gets his revenge

By The Associated Press

In his first game in Atlanta in the uniform of the Los Angeles Clippers, Dominique Wilkins played very much like he used to in a Hawks jersey.

Wilkins, with 36 points Friday night, knocked his former teammates out of first place in the Eastern Conference with just their fifth loss in 34 home games, 97-94.

"I miss being here, but my focus now is the Clippers," Wilkins said. "We're aiming for the playoffs next year. I'm trying to score some points, be a leader and make everyone around me better."

Wilkins succeeded on all three counts as Ron Harper scored 25 points and the entire starting front line, including Wilkins, grabbed 10 or more rebounds.

Wilkins got the better of Danny Manning, who switched places with him in the Feb. 24 trade between the Clippers and Hawks. Manning had just six points on 3-for-10 shooting for Atlanta.

The sellout crowd of 16,368 gave Wilkins an emotional 1-minute, 40-second standing ovation when he was the last of the Clippers starters introduced.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was New Jersey 110, Chicago 87; Cleveland 105, Philadelphia 88; New York 85, Indiana 82; Charlotte 106, Detroit 92; Utah 103, Milwaukee 96; Phoenix 99, Dallas 94; and Portland 100, Sacramento 91.

Suns 99, Mavericks 94
Kevin Johnson scored 14 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter, rallying Phoenix past Dallas, which lost its 13th consecutive game.

Johnson twice rallied the Suns from six-point deficits in the last period, and Charles Barkley blocked a shot by Jim Jackson in the final seconds.

Johnson, who hit four free throws in the final 27 seconds, made two with 10 seconds to go after Doug Smith's basket for the Mavericks made it 97-94.

Hastings hurls shutout

Hereford pitcher Ray Hastings reaches back for something extra during his shutout performance, as Hereford beat Levelland 10-0 Friday at Whiteface Field.

NCAA

Pat Graham led the Hoosiers with 16 points.

Arkansas 103, Tulsa 84

Tulsa's dream of reaching the Final Four evaporated in Dallas under a barrage of shots by red-hot Arkansas. The top-seeded Razorbacks (28-3) shot a season-best 66 percent to move within one game of the Final Four.

"Our team played an exceptional game tonight," Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson said. "The kids took the game plan and their practices straight to the floor."

Scotty Thurman and Cortiss Williamson scored 21 each and Clint McDaniel tied a career high with 19 points for the Razorbacks, who last reached the Final Four in 1990. They still have to get past Michigan on Sunday to gain a berth in Charlotte, N.C.

Arkansas was able to pound the ball inside to Williamson or pop it back outside to McDaniel and Thurman if Tulsa double-teamed Williamson. On defense, Richardson used a zone most of the time and Tulsa wound up shooting 35 percent.

"Everybody's waiting for our 40 minutes of pressure-pressure-pressure, but our matchup zone is pretty good," Richardson said. "We can go to a halfcourt game and play. We can do a lot of things people don't expect us to do."

Tulsa got 35 points from Gary Collier and 19 from Shea Seals.

All the games in the 1993 World Series between Toronto and Philadelphia were played at night.

Michigan 78, Maryland 71

With Juwan Howard producing when he was needed most, Michigan withstood a late rally and moved only one game away from a third consecutive Final Four appearance.

"The team knows what I can do and they do a great job of getting me the ball in places where I can be successful," said Howard, who hit his last eight shots and all seven he took in the second half, finishing with 24 points and 11 rebounds.

Michigan (24-7) has lost the championship game the last two years.

Michigan led by 21 points with 8:47 to play, but Maryland cut the lead to 73-64 with 3:29 to go. Howard halted the Maryland spurt by scoring before he fouled out with 2:49 left.

Maryland missed shots on two straight late possessions when it had a chance to cut the lead to three.

Jalen Rose scored 16 points for the Wolverines, while Maryland (18-12) was paced by Keith Booth with 17 points and Duane Simpkins with 11.

Trainer Ben Jones saddled six winners of the Kentucky Derby, a record.

Between The Covers

By REBECCA WALLS

The Texas Panhandle Library system will be sponsoring another literacy workshop on Saturday April 23, 1994. This workshop will be presented by Pamela McBride and Margaret Johnson of Volunteers in Training for adult Literacy (VITAL). The morning session is for tutors working with literacy students. Some of the topics to be covered will be; how to overcome barriers to regular attendance, how to manage the students expectations of progress and literacy activities in the home, such as a family message center or rules for children home alone. The afternoon session will be for literacy program administrators and other interested persons, who wish to discuss strategies for increased volunteer and student commitment and working with other organizations in the community. If you are interested in attending either of these workshop sessions please contact Rebecca Walls at 364-1206.

Now is the time of year when the spring fever hits and people are ready to start cleaning their yards, houses and garages in preparation for the summer. Or maybe they are ready to just kick back and relax with a good book before spring cleaning starts. Me, I vote for the good book, a sun warmed bench in the back yard, a calm, low breeze and time to relax with no interruptions. You know the typical Saturday afternoon. HA

Well whether you read in long relaxing periods or short moments snatched here and there we have a wide selection of books to choose from here at the county Library. This week the new book selection includes mysteries, science fiction, romance and suspense. Praying For Sleep by Jeffery Deaver is a brilliant work of terror. Michael Hrubek, a dangerous paranoid schizophrenic, has escaped the mental hospital for the criminally insane and is now searching for the person responsible for his previous capture. Lis Atcheson identified Michael as the gruesome Indian Leap State Park murder, and is now living in a remote New England house trying to put her life back together after a time of terrible turmoil. Michaels psychiatrist Richard Kohler, and Trenton Heck, a professional dog tracker with uncanny skill, race to catch Michael before he can locate Lis. Owen Atcheson, a man of uncommon intelligence and determination is also forced to hunt Michael down before he has a chance to destroy his wife. Michael's genius proves to be a far greater adversary than any of those looking for him anticipated.

The Prizzis are back in Richard Condon's Prizzi's Money. Julia Asbury isn't terribly concerned when her husband, Henry George Ashbury, "Advisor to Presidents", is reported missing. The world is stunned by the apparent kidnapping, but Julia is under the impression that she and he had planned the whole thing. $75 million in ransom plus millions to be looted from 134 Asbury companies would be a nice nest egg for the two of them. Later Julia discovers she has been double-crossed and the Prizzi crime family was made the new partner. After further investigation Julia discovers Henry has been a "cat's paw" in the Prizzi family for years. Julia isn't about to take this laying down, and soon she begins to out smart them at their own game.

Illusions by Katherine Stone is set in the "land of make believe", Los Angeles Thirty years earlier a woman gives her twin sons to a childless couple who cruelly separate the boys until fate brings them together years later. Chase has lived a hard life when all he ever wanted was to be loved. When Chase discovers he has a twin, and that twin might have been murdered by his wife, Chase goes to Los Angeles to create an illusion of the most daring kind. When Julian first married Victory Carlton they were blissfully happy, but they never became more than intimate strangers. When Victor was reported dead in a sailing accident, Julian didn't know just what to do. Now Victor is back, somehow changed and Julian finds herself falling passionately in love. Can this man who claims he can't remember the past be the same Victor? Detective Jack Shannon is determined to discover the truth about his friend's disappearance no matter who it may destroy.

Other titles of interest are: Blood ties by Jonathan Kellerman - When 5 year old Woody Swope is kidnapped from the hospital, Alex Delaware, child psychologist, and Detective Milo Strugis struggle to find the ill child before it is to late.
One-Eyed Cowboy Wild by John D. Nesbitt
Fires of Heaven by Robert Jordan - Book five of the Wheel of Time

Get a load off your feet

If you're like most Americans, you probably know being overweight is no good for your heart, but you've probably never thought about what all that weight could be doing to your feet.

Fortunately, there are steps you can take to improve your weight and feet.

First of all, see your doctor. He or she can determine just how overweight you are - if you are - and what's the best way to go about improving things.

Next, see a podiatrist. This medical specialist can tell you what shape your feet are in and how to keep their health up while you're slimming down.

Many doctors recommend a diet that limits alcohol and foods such as fatty meat, thick sauces, sweets, butter and cream.

Your doctors may also suggest you exercise at least three times a week for 20 minutes or more at a time. choose a level of activity high enough to make you breathless, but not so violent that you get dizzy. Walking is considered an excellent exercise for your feet as well as the rest of you. Your podiatrist can help you determine what shoes are best for your exercise regimen. Just bear in mind your feet have to bear the brunt of most exercises and treat them tenderly. RUNNING puts a force of three to four times your body weight one each foot with every step.

You can obtain further information on foot problems by telephoning 1-800-FOOT-CARE (366-8227).

To save time, stack see-through boxes on your closet shelves.

Extension News

By BEVERLY HARDER
County Extension Agent

Excess weight is known to be a serious health problem—especially for American women. Why is this so? Because it increases their risk of developing coronary artery disease, stroke, diabetes, cancer and high blood pressure.

Underweight is also a problem as it is linked to lowered resistance to infections, chronic fatigue, anemia, depression and other illnesses.

So what's the solution? Healthful food choices that provide sufficient calories and are recommended by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Guide Pyramid and inclusion of daily activities or exercise habits can help prevent these illnesses. Managing your weight plays a vital role in achieving and maintaining good health while enhancing the quality of your life. The real key is to achieve and maintain your personal "healthy" weight through proper food choices and exercise habits. So by making changes in your habits—including eating and physical activity—long term weight management can be achieved.

In the final analysis, the desire for food commitment to weight loss to help prevent diseases must come from you. People who lose and maintain this weight loss successfully take for their own desires. They decide the best way to achieve them. Your friends and family can be an important source of support but the motivation must come from within.

The Deaf Smith County Extension Office Extension Office can provide copies of the USDA brochure "The Food Guide Pyramid...Beyond the Basic 4." These may be picked up in room 402 of the Court House.

Report given on Rebekah Assembly

Rosalie Northcutt gave a short report on her recent trip to the Rebekah Assembly of Texas at Abilene when members of the Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 met Tuesday evening.

Northcutt was accompanied by Wilma Wise of Friona Rebekah Lodge #308.

It was announced that a salad supper is planned at 7 p.m. Tuesday. During the business meeting with Grand Noble Peggy Lemons presiding, 13 visits to the sick were recorded and 45 cheer cards had been sent.

Susie Curtsinger served as hostess to Lemons, Northcutt, Ben Conklin, Anna Conklin, Dorothy Collier, Mary Lou Weatherford, Ursalee Jacobsen, Faye Brownlow and Irene Merritt.

Reception planned for couple

The children of R.E. (Gene) and Charlene Earp Brownlow invite their friends to a reception in celebration of the couple's golden wedding anniversary. The event will be held from 5-7 p.m. Saturday, April 2, in Wesley United Methodist Church, 410 Irving. Hosting the dinner and reception will be the honorees' children: Charles Brownlow, Barbara Myers, Vicki McMorries, Dale Brownlow and Patsy Howard.

Mike Harris named best local Toastmasters speaker

Mike Harris was selected as the best Hereford Toastmasters Club speaker during the organization's breakfast meeting Thursday at the Ranch House.

Dee Hamilton was named best evaluator. Dan Hall led the pledge to the flag and Charles Minchew gave the invocation.

Rick Jackson presided over the business session. Toastmaster was Nancy Griego; timer, Crystal Backus; "ah" counter, Ricky Backus; grammarian, Wayne Winget; wordmaster, Teresa Buske; and curmudgeon, the chosen word.

Mike Harris spoke on "Metamorphosis," evaluated by Dee Hamilton; Joe Weaver, "How to be a Toastmaster"; Margaret Del Toro,

About 1,600 Cuban exiles launched the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba April 17, 1961, in an attempt to overthrow the government of Fidel Castro. The invasion failed, and most of the survivors were captured.

"Table Topics"; and Rick Jackson, "Quality is in Your Hands." Clark Andrews told the joke and Jigger Rowland served as general evaluator. Adolfo Del Toro was welcomed as a guest.

Breast screenings are scheduled

The Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and High Plains Baptist Hospital Mobile Mammography Unit will be in Hereford from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Friday, April 1, at South Plains Health Care Providers, Inc., 603 E. Park.

The screening program in Hereford is co-sponsored by Hereford Regional Medical Center. Exams are done by appointment only. For information or to schedule an appointment call 1-800-377-HOPE.

The total cost of the screening is $70. This includes the x-ray, physical breast exam and the radiology fee for reading the mammogram. Funding has been provided by the Texas Department of Health to allow for free breast screenings for women who qualify.

The major goal of the clinic is the early detection of breast cancer. The clinic provides low cost screening which includes a breast exam by a registered nurse trained in breast cancer detection, teaching of breast self-examination and a mammogram.

Currently, the most effective method known to win the battle against breast cancer is early detection. Early detection is best done by following the guidelines recommended by the American Cancer Society for breast cancer screening for women who have no signs or symptoms of breast cancer. The guidelines are:

1. Learn and perform breast self examinations every month.

2. Have a physical examination every year.
3. Have a mammogram according to recommendations by age:

AGE

40--one baseline mammogram
40-49--a mammogram every 1-2 years
50 and over--yearly mammograms

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Hell hath frozen over for the Eagles.

Don Henley, lead singer of the 1970s rock group, used to say the band would reunite when "hell freezes over." So on Wednesday, he announced the Eagles' reunion tour with a news release headlined, "Extra!!! Hell Freezes Over."

The tour will start May 27 in Irvine and include stops in North America, Europe, Japan and Mexico.

Reed, Cornelius wed Saturday afternoon

Rebecca Anne Reed of Santa Barbara, Calif. and former Hereford resident, John Ernest Cornelius of Los Angeles, Calif., were united in marriage early Saturday afternoon in Trinity Church in Lubbock. Officiating was the Rev. Paul Jantzen.

The bride is the daughter of Patricia and Fred L. Reed III of Carrollton and the bridegroom is the son of Donnie and Darlene Cornelius of 202 Fir.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father, Fred L. Reed III.

Kristine Caldwell was maid of honor and Chad Schroeder was best man.

Serving as bridesmaids were Aimee Reese, Teresa Johnson, Shantel Cornelius, Danielle Cornelius, Jenny Kaspareit and Kristine Caldwell.

Groomsman were Russell Backus, Leighton Lockett, Wesley Dawson, Fred L. Reed IV, Jim Eric Andrews and Chad Schroeder.

The bridesmaids and groomsman descended spiral staircases on either side of the church altar to meet and stand as couples facing the audience during the ceremony as did the bride and groom. The bridal couple faced the audience after the bride walked down the aisle on the white lace aisle runner.

The couple shared in Holy Communion and the lighting of the unity candle. A prayer was offered by the father of the bride.

Emily Williams, daughter of Randy and Rachel Williams, was flower girl. Hayden Cornelius, son of Steven and Paula Cornelius, was ring bearer.

Jim Jordan played the wedding music. For the recessional, the Hallelujah Chorus performed and the prelude included "There Is Love" along with a selection of classical and praise songs, "I Will Be Here" and "Go There With You."

The bride was attired in a white satin designer's gown heavily embellished with floral appliques, miniature seed pearls and pearl drops. The fitted bodice featured a wedding ring collar, long, tapered puffed sleeves and a full skirt which swept into a flowing chapel-length train.

The tiered bridal illusion veil, which featured pencil edging, formed a large pouf at the back of a headband created by delicate miniature white flowers and pearl sprays.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of two dozen peach colored roses and stephanotis entwined with ivy. Her jewelry consisted of pearl drop earrings and her mother's aquamarine ring. Each bridesmaid wore an iridescent emerald green taffeta dress in a style of her choosing and carried a single peach rose complemented by bear grass and satin streamers.

The bride's cousin, Susan Reed, invited guests to register at the reception held in the Sheraton Inn Ballroom.

Jennifer Turner and Julie Vogelbaugh served the bride's cake, and Darla Graham poured punch. The groom's cake was served by Latona Servantez and Ange Billups.

The bride's five-spiral-tiered Italian creme cake with filigree icing was adorned with fresh roses and stephanotis and was topped by replicas of a bride and bridegroom that matched the couple's coloring and attire.

The groom's cake was a two-layer chocolate buttercream creation featuring chocolate shavings.

The tables were covered with white linens and appointed with China. The centerpieces consisted of peach and white rose wreaths encircling a peach candle placed in a hurricane lamp. Forever floral bookmarks personalized with I Corinthians 13 and the couple's names and wedding date were placed at each table as keepsake gifts for the guests.

Leaving for a wedding trip to California, the bride wore a red double breasted suit of shantung silk accented by gold buttons and worn with a spun gold silk shell.

The couple will make their home in Ventura, Calif.

The bride is currently pursuing a masters degree from Brooks Institute of Photography in Santa Barbara, Calif. She finished cum laud from Texas Tech University where she majored in photo-communications. She is a member of the National Association of Female Executives and Sigma Phi Lambda. She has been the sole proprietor of Master Image Photography for over three years.

The groom is a senior architecture major specializing in computer design at the University of Southern California. He is a member of the American Institute of Architecture Students and the Knights of Architecture. He is employed as a computer consultant at U.S.C.

Out of town guests represented Amarillo, Dallas, Oklahoma, Austin and Hereford.

Van Scoyoc, Victor vows exchanged March 12

During a candlelight wedding ceremony, Shannon Renee Van Scoyoc of Austell, Ga. became the bride of former Hereford resident, Jared Lane Victor, also of Austell. The ceremony, which was officiated by the Rev. Ted Taylor, was held Saturday afternoon, March 12, in the Church of the Nazarene.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Van Scoyoc of Mountain Home, Ark. and the bridegroom is the son of Nancy Victor of Pampa and Gary Victor of Indianapolis, Ind., both former Hereford residents.

The church was decorated with black and white with red accents. Three candelabra holding white tapers were entwined with greenery, red roses and carnations. Pews for the parents and grandparents were marked with red and black bows. The unity candle with tapers was arranged in the center of the candelabra. It was lit by the bride and groom's mothers before they were seated. The couple then lit the unity candle from the tapers lit by their mothers. During the lighting, the groom's grandfather, N.E. Tyler, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was presented in marriage by her father. The groom's twin sister, Jamie Victor of Douglasville, Ga., served as maid of honor and Kyle Andrews of Amarillo was best man.

Guests were escorted by the groom's cousin, Jim Tyler of Amarillo, and the bride's cousin, Jason Allen of Poteau, Okla.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Cary Vanlandingham, Sunny and Justin Vanlandingham, served as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Lighting candles were Kim and Adam Tyler, both of Amarillo.

Cynthia Streun accompanied N.E. Tyler as he sang "The Lord's Prayer." Also, played during the ceremony was George Strait's taped recording of "I Cross My Heart."

The bride's white formal-length satin designer's gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, lace wedding ring collar, pouf sleeves of satin and lace which fell fitted to her wrists, and a full skirt. Lace scallops and lace applique cut-outs adorned the entire gown including the cathedral-length train which was edged with deep delicate lace scallops.

The tiered waist-length bridal illusion veil with pencil edging was attached to an elegant headpiece created by sprays of delicate white flowers which framed one side of the bride's face. She carried a bouquet of red roses, white lilies and baby's breath accented with red and white ribbon streamers.

In keeping with bridal tradition, the bride also wore her a blue garter.

Association to assemble

The Amarillo Inventors Association meets Tuesday at 7p.m. in the Presidents Room, in the basement of Amarillo's First National Bank 8th and Tyler Streets.

the speaker is Mary Blendenman, Product Development for Southwestern Public Service Company. A video will follow by Nordic Trac. Also, a video on licensing will be shown.

For further information, please call Worth Hefley at 376-8726.

NEW YORK (AP) - If they don't already know it, readers of Mouth 2 Mouth magazine will get it straight from the source: Amy Fisher was a fool for love.

"At 16, I thought I knew it all, but how very wrong I was," Fisher writes in the first issue of the teen magazine. "I prostituted myself, lied to my parents and friends, shot a woman and gave up what could have been the best years of my life - all in the name of love."

The groom carried a Tyler family heirloom, a gold engraved watch that was brought from Norway to the United States in 1903 by his great-grandmother, Gundla Tyler. The watch was given to his great-great-grandmother, Serine Larsen, by her husband, Larse Haluorsen, on their wedding day in 1880. The watch was also worn by the groom's mother, Nancy Victor, and his grandmother, Mrs. N.E. Tyler, during their wedding ceremonies.

The maid of honor was attired in a black satin dress fashioned with a white bodice and puff sleeves. The graduating hemline was tea-length in front. To complete her ensemble, she wore black satin shoes.

The groom's cousin, Cassie Tyler of Amarillo, invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

Cake was served by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Jerry Tyler of Amarillo, and punch and coffee were poured by Mrs. Cary Vanlandingham and the groom's aunt, Mrs. Kelly Tyler of Amarillo.

Other members of the houseparty were Mmes. N.E. Tyler, Elmo Hall, Scott Hall, Bob Mathews, Lewis Womble, Bill Cole, Bill Glidewell, Vel Simpson, Ken Rogers and Justin McBride.

The bride's tiered cake, placed on a pedestal, was iced in white and trimmed in black. It was topped with doves and wedding bells. Also, arranged on the bride's table, which was covered with a Battenburg cloth, were a silver coffee urn, punch bowl and crystal candleholders holding black tapers. A strawberry cake, fresh fruit and finger sandwiches were served from the groom's table.

The gift table was centered with a spring bouquet of tulips arranged in a large clear red glass vase. Red and white ribbon bows decorated the wall. Individual tables were covered with white cloths and centered with tulip bouquets in crystal vases.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Aspen, Colo., the bride wore a red, two-piece phyle suit and black patent shoes. The couple will reside in Austell, Ga.

The bride graduated in 1988 from Attica High School in Attica, Kan. She attended Bethel College of Kansas for three years and is currently attending Kennesaw State University in Kennesaw, Ga. She is employed with Magnum Communications in Atlanta, Ga., while applying for radiology school.

The groom graduated from Hereford High School in 1989. He attended West Texas A&M University and is currently employed with Bosch of Atlanta, Ga.

The rehearsal supper was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Victor, Mrs. Jimmy Victor, Mr. and Mrs. Cary Vanlandingham and Mrs. Sue Mackey at the home of Mrs. Jimmy Victor, the groom's grandmother.

Among the special wedding guests present were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Brown of Attica, Kan.; the groom's grandparents, Mrs. Jimmy Victor and Mr. and Mrs. N.E. Tyler, all of Hereford; and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Tom Hall of Hereford.

Other towns represented included Amarillo, Lubbock, Wildorado, Mountain Home, Ark., Clay Center, Kan., Attica, Kan., Poteau, Okla., New Lisbon, Wis., Pampa, Indianapolis, Ind., Douglasville, Ga., Dallas, Clovis, N.M., Portales, N.M. and Dimmitt.

Computer news, notes

Here are some surprising facts about computers and clocks which you should note:

-The real time clock in your computer, as well as its back up memory, are powered by a battery. This back-up memory is called CMOS memory.

-The battery commonly known as the computer clock battery will last only a few years. When it goes dead, your PC won't run, causing project delays, lost work time, emergency repair expenses and major inconveniences.

-To avoid these problems, you should replace your computer clock battery every few years as part of a preventative maintenance program.

-One computer clock battery reported to offer longer service life than existing lithium batteries most often found in PC computers is the Rayovac 844. This brand is the battery of choice of over 50 desktop computer manufacturers.

-There is a national network of independent computer service companies called "Official Rayovac Preventative Maintenance Centers" that sell and set up routine replacement schedules to help avoid the experience of CMOS failure.

Sorority chapters attend salad supper, dinner

"A Night at the Movies" was the theme of a recent party attended by two local Beta Sigma Phi Sorority chapters. Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter hosted the salad supper and costume party as members from Alpha Iota Mu Chapter attended as guests.

Held in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room, members each dressed up like a movie and others had to guess their identity. Some of the movies represented by XEA members included "Dirty Dancing" by Ruby Lee; "Witness" by Gaye Reily; "Revenge of the Nerds" by Peggy Hyer and Connie Matthews; "A Fist Full of Dollars" by Brenda Ramey; "Ruthless People" by Melinda Henson; "Jumping Jack Flash" by Kay Williams; "The Three Musketeers" by Linda Arellano; and "A League of Their Own" by Charla Edwards.

AIM members portrayed such movies as "Home Alone" by Janice Betzen; "She's Having a Baby" by Danell Culp; "Down and Out in Beverly Hills" by Carmen Gonzales; "Woman in Red" by Marrie Leverett; "Coming to America" by Janie Meiwes; and "City Slickers" by Cheryl Welch.

Also, attending were XEA members, Holly Bixler, Susan Shaw and Deann Harris, and AIM members, Wanda Huseman, Jamie Brorman, Pattie Urbanczyk and Glenna Calaway.

After tallying up the guesses, an "Academy Awards" ceremony recognized the high score, low score and other categories. Refreshments of turtle cheesecake, tea and coffee were then served.

MELINDA REINART, MIKE SULLIVAN

Wedding planned

Melinda Renee Reinart and John Michael Sullivan Jr. plan to wed May 28 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reinart and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Michael Sullivan Sr. of Rochester, Mich.

Miss Reinart received her bachelor of science degree in nursing from the University of Texas at Arlington. She is a member of the Neonatal-Pediatric Transport Team and the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit staff at Medical City Dallas.

Sullivan graduated from Texas A&M University with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism. He is currently serving as vice president of David Hadelor and Associates Advertising in Dallas.

90th birthday celebration to honor Winnie Wiseman

Former Hereford resident, Winnie Kerr Wiseman of Amarillo, will be honored on her 90th birthday during a special celebration planned from 2-4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 2, in the party room of Amarillo's River Falls Apartments, 6040 Bellprece.

Mrs. Wiseman, who resided in Hereford for more than 20 years, was married to M.H. (Hap) Wiseman. She was a member of several local clubs and was active in the community.

The birthday celebration will be hosted by her son and his wife, Bob and Theresa Malone, and her sister, Lorene Howard.

For those who cannot attend the reception, the family requests that birthday cards be sent to the following address: 6040 Bellprece, River Falls Apartments #308, Amarillo, Texas 79109.

WINNIE WISEMAN

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I am desperate to find the right size bra. At one time, you explained the proper way to measure the bust to get the right size. — R. G. Enhaut, Steelton, Pa.

It's easy for you to do. Using a tape measure, simply measure directly under your bust around the rib cage to get your base measurement. Add 3 if the measurement is greater than 33 inches, or add 5 if it is less than 33 inches. This is your base plus number. If this is an odd number, round up to the next number and that is your band size.

With your bra on, measure across the fullest part of the breast to get your cup size. If the measurement is 1 inch more than the base plus (not the base plus rounded), you'd wear an A cup; 2 inches, B cup; 3 inches,

C cup, and so on. This is a rough guideline to use to help get a good fit. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: Plain warm water mixed with a very tiny bit of salad oil makes smooth leaves stay shiny for a long time! Just dip a sponge in the mixture and wipe them down.

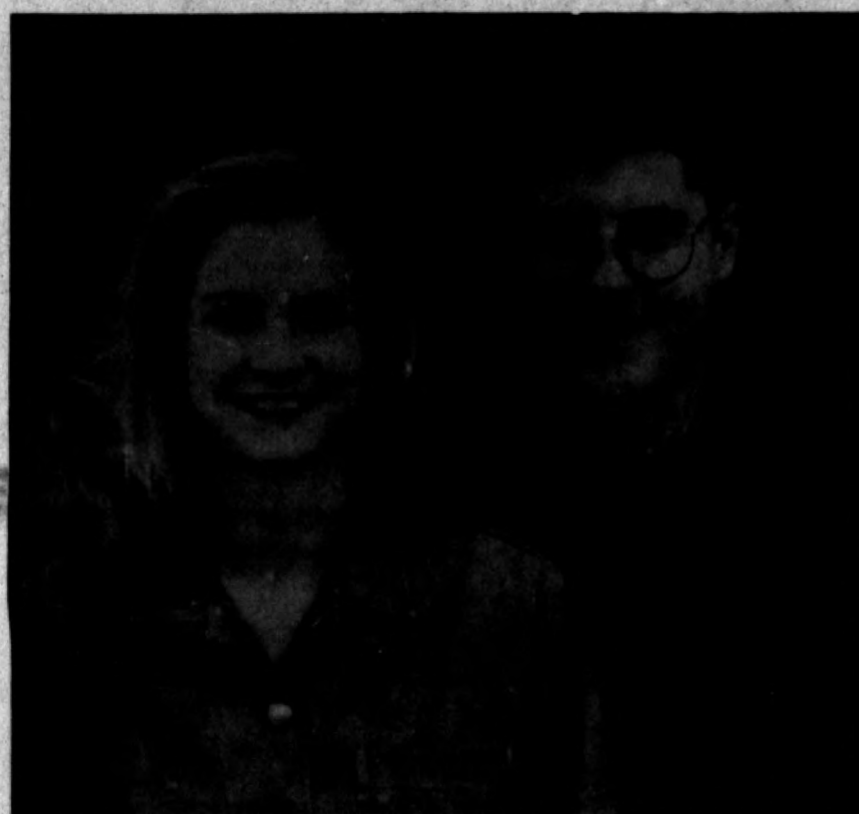

Be careful not use too much oil; it attracts dust, and it's a grand mess! — Ruth Boyd, The Netherlands
The Society of American Florists agrees with you. — Heloise

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 796000, San Antonio TX 78279-6000 or fax it to 210-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

FOOD LOVERS DIET

To introduce a new approach to dieting, free samples were given to 50 people. With The Omicron Diet, one man lost 14 pounds in 5 days and one woman lost 18 pounds in 10 days. The average weight loss was over a pound a day for women and over 2 pounds a day for men. The Omicron Diet is a revolutionary new concept for unbelievably fast weight loss developed and clinically proven by National Dietary Research of Washington, D.C. This significant breakthrough in metabolic weight control was made possible by the utilization of biological information over-looked by other diet programs. With a formulation of natural enzymes along with real food, you shed unwanted pounds extremely rapidly and safely. Now available:

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

AN ATTITUDE ADJUSTMENT

If you think you are beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not, you don't
If you like to win, but you think you can't,
It is almost certain you won't.
If you think you'll lose, you're lost
For out of the world we find,
Success begins with a fellow's will.
It's all in the state of mind.

In the last six years, I have worked with hundreds of troubled businesses. Some owners are able to weather the adversity and return to profitability, while others fail. One key difference I've observed is their attitudes.

When the attitude is positive, there is hope. However, when the owner's attitude becomes negative, the end is near. Without an attitude adjustment, the business will fail.

By definition, attitude is the state of mind with which we approach a given situation. Our attitude dictates how we feel, how we look and what we do. In business, our attitude establishes the way we deal with our customers, fellow workers and even affects the tasks we attempt to accomplish.

Success Over Adversity

Doug Johnson, manager of the Office Furniture Outlet store in Amarillo, Texas, knows the value of keeping a good attitude. When a national discount store moved in less than a block away, Johnson could have been discouraged. Instead, he looked on the bright side. "They'll make us run a better store," he said of his new competitor. He added, "We'll have to work harder to please our customers." Johnson has worked harder, and the business is doing well. Attitude makes the difference.

Stan Greil agrees. Greil is the city manager in Yukon, Oklahoma. He has observed the attitudes of entrepreneurs in several cities. "I deal with business and community leaders every day," says Greil. "Without a doubt, the ones with the most enthusiasm and the best attitudes are the most successful. A great attitude will take you to the top."

Attitude is A Habit

Developing a positive attitude is not a one-time enlightenment. Attitude is a habit of thought. You can develop a positive attitude by focusing on the results you want. Then, your attitude will change to meet your expectations.

Good habits require time to develop. For example, establishing proper work habits may take several weeks. Begin by arriving at work on time and doing the most important tasks first. Take pride in everything you do. Even if no one else notices, you will receive great personal satisfaction from a job well done. Your attitude will change.

Respect and consideration for others also plays a key role in your on-the-job attitude. Make sure others get credit for their work. Pitch in and help whenever you can. What goes around comes around, and you may need help the next time.

Be enthusiastic, because enthusiasm fuels progress. It also fuels your attitude. Since attitude is a habit of thought, have enthusiastic thoughts. Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Nothing great was ever accomplished without enthusiasm."

It also takes a good attitude to overcome adversity. Dr. Robert Schuller said, "Tough times never last, but tough people do." Schuller was talking about an attitude adjustment when he made this world-famous statement. His words later became the title and topic of a best-selling book.

If you concentrate on developing the habit of positive thinking, then what Schuller says will work for you. When tough times come, you will have a reserve of willingness to tackle the problem and the faith to conquer the adversity. Your good attitude will carry through.

Proverbs 23:7 says, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Begin not to develop the right attitude, and you will find life more meaningful, business more rewarding and the future more exciting.

You may write to Don Taylor in care of "Minding Your Own Business," Box 67, Amarillo, Texas 79105.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm an emergency 911 dispatcher. Please help your readers to help themselves. They need to know the following:

Emergency 911 is a central dispatch system for police, fire, disaster and rescue vehicles. It is to be used to report in-progress crimes, fires, floods, life-threatening situations and major hazards. It is NOT to be used for reporting barking dogs, loud music, parking complaints, fireworks on July 4 or other minor annoyances. And please don't call 911 to ask for directions, phone numbers or the weather report.

Talk to us. If you are having a crisis, we want to get the proper help to you as soon as possible. To do that, we must know the problem. Sending a police car when you need a fire truck or a paramedic does not help you.

Know your address. When someone calls 911, the address of the caller appears automatically on a monitor. However, there is a chance that the address will not show up, and sometimes, the location of the problem is not the location of the caller. We cannot help you if we cannot find you.

Please don't hang up the phone. We need you to help us by giving as much information as possible. Incomplete calls or "change of mind" hang-up calls require us to dial back for additional information. Precious time should not be wasted when a few seconds can mean the difference between life and death. Even if you no longer need our services, stay on the line and let us know that everything is OK. We will be glad to hear it.

Speak clearly and calmly. The sooner we understand the nature of the emergency, the sooner we can get help on the way.

Remember, this is YOUR system, designed to serve you and save lives. If you use it effectively, we can make a big difference.--Nicki in Warren, Mich.

DEAR NICKI: Thank you for a letter that will help millions of people look at 911 in a way they never viewed it before. Those dispatchers are heroic in my book.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I like women, but one thing that particularly irritates me is to be in line behind a woman when she approaches a cashier.

It doesn't matter if it's the checkout at the supermarket, the post office, the movie theater, the ball park, the department store or the fast-food restaurant. Women always seem surprised when they reach the end of the line and have to pay.

Only then do they open their purses and begin to search for the money. Sometimes the search requires that they turn the purse upside down and shake the contents out on the counter because they believe there is a hidden penny somewhere. All the while, the line behind them is fidgeting and straining to see what is taking so long.

Men, on the other hand, almost always have their wallets out and money in hand. The man-hours lost while women search their purses for the correct change would pay the national debt. Ann, if you will correct this major flaw in women, you will be performing a vital humanitarian service.--St. Petersburg, Fla.

DEAR ST. PETE: I may be considered a traitor to my sex, but I won't attempt to defend my sisters, because I believe your complaint is valid. Women, if you see yourselves--shape up.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please go on advising, urging and begging adopted children to let well enough alone and not seek out their birth parents. It could tear up several lives and do irreparable harm.

I've seen some TV programs that have portrayed ecstatically happy reunions of parents and children. It is suddenly stylish to "search for your roots." Reality can be very different. It can re-open old wounds, shatter relationships and split families -- all for the sake of satisfying some child's curiosity and "completing the puzzle."

Your real parents are the ones who got you through the measles and mumps, accidents and disappointments -- the ones who sacrificed to give you a good education and provide the best home possible. Be grateful for all you received and don't try to hunt down the unfortunate woman who was doing her best to give you a break in life by allowing some loving couple to adopt you.

Don't be fooled by the romantic notion that you are going to forge a wonderful lifelong relationship with someone who really does not want to be found. Actually, you have no right to disrupt a person's life like that.

I know this letter is too poorly written to make your column, Ann, but if it will save just one person the pain and heartache that ruined my life, it will have been well worth the attempt. For obvious reasons, please, no name or city.--Mrs. X

In 1862, Union volunteers led by James J. Andrews stole a Confederate train near Marietta, Ga., but were caught later. This episode inspired the Buster Keaton movie "The General."

Handcraft an Easter bunny

Here's a terrific new idea for a hands-on activity you and your school-age kids will enjoy in preparation for Easter.

Make simple fabric bunnies using the shape of your hands as the pattern. You'll love creating these charming bunnies in all sizes to adorn your Easter table.

Here's how: Place your hand on a sheet of plain paper, fingers together and thumb outstretched. Outline your hand with a pencil. Remove your hand and draw the same outline 1/2 inch larger than the original outline, doubling the size of your thumb on the pattern. This portion will be the bunny's ears.

Now, draw a small "V" into the curve of the thumb shape to give the illusion of two ears. The entire pattern should now look like a bunny. Cut out the pattern using the outside outline as your guide.

Pin the pattern to a double layer of lightweight fabric and cut out. A spring print is charming, or, for an elegant look, use a damask napkin or even a fancy kitchen towel for your fabric.

With right sides together, an adult may sew around the shape 1/2 inch from the edge of the fabric, leaving a 2-inch opening at the bottom of the bunny. Trim the seam, turn right side out and press with a warm iron.

With markers or fabric paints, draw features for a face. Sew buttons for the eyes and stitch or glue a pom-pom or cotton ball for a tail.

Stuff the body until firm with polyester fiberfill stuffing or with potpourri. Slip-stitch the opening closed. Tie a ribbon around the neck.

Set the bunnies in Easter baskets or at each place setting the table.

NOTE: Due to small parts, the bunny is not a safe toy for a child under three. Younger children will enjoy decorating the paper pattern with paints and crayons.

President Abraham Lincoln died at 7:22 a.m., April 15, 1865, several hours after he was shot by John Wilkes Booth. Andrew Johnson was sworn in as the nation's 17th president.

SYMMETRICAL SOUTHERN COLONIAL DESIGN SUPERLATIVE

Functional Floor Plan Arrangement Speaks for Itself

© BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D.

Envelop yourself in the luxury of old south comfort, a benefit that should take you back to the days of a luxurious lifestyle. The two story open foyer greets you with a curved open stair and the spacious formal living and dining rooms flank this area.

The visual expanse of the family room is aesthetically unparalleled and the precise orchestration of this room with the large kitchen, bayed breakfast room with adjacent laundry and the master bedroom suite that eloquently speak for themselves.

The master bedroom suite banishes the word compromise as it features a sloped ceiling, excellent closet space and a luxury bath.

There are three bedrooms and two full baths on the second floor, accessible by the central hall that merges with an ornate open end curved stair rail.

The plan is drawn for a basement, the stair to which is beneath the stair to the second floor.

The southern colonial exterior includes a precise orchestration of the traditional tall columns, gable roof design, picturesque window treatment and elegant entrance door.

The plan is Number 3110. It includes 3,192 square feet of heated area. All W. D. Farmer plans are furnished with special construction details for energy efficiency. For further information write W. D. Farmer Residence Designer, Inc., P. O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 31145.

Questions/Answers

By POPULAR MECHANICS For AP Special Features

Q: I will soon need new shingles on the roof of my house. The problem is that I have solar panels for my hot water heater - three panels each about 3x6 feet - mounted side by side in the center of the roof. They are held 6 inches off the surface by brackets bolted through the roof. Roofing contractors claim that since they can't get under the panels, they can't guarantee a watertight roof.

I've thought of two ways to solve the problem but both have disadvantages.

The first is to remove the panels while the roofing is being done. This involves unbolting the brackets, draining the antifreeze solution from the system and unsoldering the copper pipes that carry the fluid in and out. Then the system would have to be recharged by a professional since it must be done under pressure. The second method would be to box in the panels and effectively close off that part of the roof. I want to avoid this because a great deal of heat is generated under the panels and I've read of roof fires caused by wood drying and igniting. I haven't been able to figure out an easy way to do this job. Do you have any suggestions?

A: Unfortunately, there's no easy way to solve your problem. Apparently, your solar panels were installed without considering the eventual need for reroofing. This is a problem of great concern to the roofing industry, and should also concern any homeowner contemplating the installation of solar panels. Panels should be mounted on brackets that provide sufficient clearance on the underside, and between the panels, to enable a roofer to install a new roof.

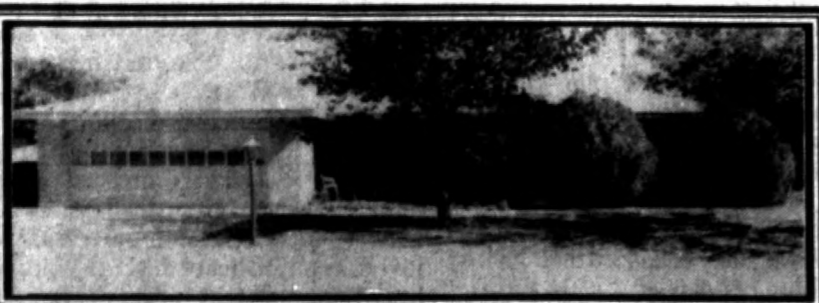

Either of your solutions will solve the problem. If you remove the panels, however, be sure to mount them on brackets that provide adequate strength as well as clearance. Solar panels are subjected to uplifting forces by wind striking the undersides. A panel array should be built to withstand wind gusts of at least 100 mph. These gusts result in an average wind load of 25 pounds per square foot on a sloped surface.

If you decide to box in the panels, strip the existing roof shingles down to the deck so the boxroof joint can be flashed in the conventional manner. Installing louvered vents on the sides will prevent excessive heat buildup under the panels.

Q: The severe weather this past winter in upstate New York, created ice dams and subsequent roof leaking in our home. I've been told that installing electrically heated cables could prevent this problem. Is this true?

A: Electrical heating cables is one of several solutions that may work in your case. These cables are installed along the roof edge and in gutters to prevent leaks caused by ice dams. For maximum effectiveness, the heating cables should be turned on when a snow or ice buildup is anticipated, rather than after an ice dam has developed. This prevents damage to shingles, and subsequent leaks when the ice begins to melt. Tied into an exterior electrical box, one cable can be run as a single circuit for both gutter and roof edge. For longer distances, two separate circuits can be used to melt snow and ice. De-icing cables are available at local electrical supply stores.

Senior Scene

Margie's Notes

BY MARGIE DANIELS
Executive Director

All of us at HSCA want to wish Loretta Kindsfather the best as she joins the ranks of our Senior RV'ers and other retirees. Of course, she retired from the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission several years ago and has worked at the Center as secretary/bookkeeper for the past four years. We will really miss you, Loretta!

We have a new employee, Mary Jean Lowance. She is our assistant director. I know all of you will really like her. She comes from The Colony, TX., with a degree in physical ed, health and recreation. She has special training in computers. She is an asset to our staff of HSCA.

I have the tour to Branson, scheduled June 14-18, almost completed. We will see six shows and visit some other sights while there. If you are interested, call or come by the Center and I will have the schedule and price for you.

If you know someone who needs our help, please let us know.

I can't believe it's spring again! I am looking forward to the pretty lawn and flowers in our flower beds. We have some good volunteers working on them. They do this for our enjoyment and so we will have a well-kept and pretty place in the community. Thanks to the volunteers!

President's Corner

BY SHIRLEY GARRISON
HSCA President

We would like to welcome all new members of HSCA. We have never had a membership drive, so we want you to know we appreciate your paying the $12.50 annual dues and becoming a member.

HSCA is a private non-profit organization and is incorporated with a nine-member board of directors and the membership. As a member, you are helping support the association and work of the Center and have some privileges you would not otherwise have. In other words, as a member it is your organization. We have some in our membership who are charter members of the association. HSCA was chartered in 1975. Next year we will celebrate our 20th birthday.

We would like to stress, however, that you do not have to be a member of HSCA to participate in the program of the Center.

New members for Jan. 1, to March 15, 1994, are:

Emma Trevizo, Gladys Cavness, Ludie Greeson, Homer Lowe, Billie F. Parten, Roy O. Parten, George Paetzold, Joe and Teresa Artho, Richard and Charlene Hunter, Ruth Loerwald, H.H. and Avis Blakey, Katie Lupton, and George and Johnnie Turrentine.

New toll-free line available

Manor HealthCare Corp. has installed a new toll-free line for family members who are currently providing care at home for loved ones with Alzheimer's Disease and are looking for care alternatives.

By calling the special toll-free number, 800-979-CARE, caregivers will receive a free brochure which describes how to evaluate and select a specialized Dementia/Alzheimer's Disease program in their area.

Approximately 10 days later, caregivers will receive a phone call from a Manor HealthCare representative to discuss care options and how to best use the brochure.

"Most family members who are struggling to cope with Alzheimer's Disease want to care for their loved ones at home, but we know it isn't always possible," explains Joyce Simard-Taggart, M.S.W., National Director of Alzheimer's Services for Manor HealthCare.

Many older adults need help with daily tasks

Doris Merritt has survived the Depression, the recent California earthquake and everything in between. What she didn't expect was for old age to destroy her life.

Like millions of senior citizens, Mrs. Merritt thought she would always be able to live on her own.

"I'm lonely, frustrated and tired," cries Mrs. Merritt, who is 85. "I just wish my body would work so I could go to the grocery store, cook in my kitchen and take a long hot shower."

Millions of people like Mrs. Merritt are not seriously ill, and do not need a nurse. But they do need help with basic daily tasks such as bathing, eating, dressing, cooking, shopping and paying bills. Over the next decade, 17 million Americans will be age 75 or older and will likely need some type of assistance.

"Many people haven't planned for long-term care, so they and their families now must confront innumerable decisions about how their older relative will live the rest of his or her life," says Lynda Collins, manager of Social Services at the Methodist Hospital in Houston.

Because she cannot take care of herself, Mrs. Merritt winds up in the hospital at least once a month. She and her relatives are looking for a new place for her to live. Like so many other families in similar situations, they didn't know where to begin.

Collins says the first step is to find out what's available in the older person's community. "United Way agencies, hospital social work departments, geriatric care managers are a good place to start, or look in the Yellow Pages under senior citizen organizations," she says. "They have a wealth of information which can help decipher your choices."

When choosing between retirement homes, assisted living homes or personal care homes, the precise amount of care needed must be determined before moving a senior. For example, is 24-hour care and supervision needed? Or perhaps just help with the basic needs such as bathing, eating, or socializing?

Make an appointment with the home to see what it has to offer. Collins also suggest dropping in for an unexpected visit. "We tell people to stop by anytime during the day to observe their daily operations."

When possible, elders should lead the decision process. "Everyone needs to know they have choices," explains Collins. "Involving them in these crucial decisions will help him or her feel more comfortable with the final outcome.

Once a senior moves into a new living environment, try making it as comfortable as possible. Family pictures, knickknacks, a familiar pillow, or if there is room, a small piece of furniture can help make the adjustment easier.

"Any decision to uproot an elder relative from their home is difficult and takes time," Collins says. "Resources in the community are designed to identify alternative for families who must make the best choices for everyone involved."

News for senior citizens

The average American has an 86 percent chance of being in an auto accident involving injuries at some point in his or her lifetime.

Here are some suggestions to help you stay out of such statistics:

-Be aware that as people age, their risk of injury or death in an auto accident increases. That's because older bodies are less able to withstand the trauma of an accident. A 65-year-old crash victim is three times more likely to die than a 20-year-old who sustains injuries of the same severity.

-When car shopping, consider this: air bags are the kind of inflation you can live with. Combined with safety belts, they provide the best possible protection in a crash. They inflate in about 1/20th of a second, faster than the blink of an eye and deflate immediately. They won't interfere with your hearing or vision.

-Anti-lock brakes help you maintain control of you car. They automatically pump up to 15 times a second, far faster than what's humanly possible. All you do is keep firm pressure on the brake pedals. The system does the work for you, preventing the wheels of the car from locking in a panic stop, especially on wet or icy roads.

Health care reform system has problems

One central fact sometimes ignored in the debate over health care reform is this: That Americans receive the finest medical care in the world. We are not facing a "crisis" in any real sense of the word. The "reformers" in Washington must not lose sight of this.

The system has problems. But compared to the federal bureaucracy, the practice of medicine is the model of efficiency.

The health care Rx President Clinton has proposed would create several layers of new bureaucracy and thousands of pages of new regulations. High medical costs would be combatted with price controls, a method that consistently has failed wherever and whenever it's been tried. Our choices would be limited. Sure, we would get "Heath Security" cards, but have you ever seen a plastic card perform a hip replacement? Maybe that's the new White House definition of plastic surgery.

Another plan, drafted by Tennessee Rep. Jim Cooper, has been dubbed "Clinton Lite" because it would establish the framework for nationalized health care, but leave us with more options initially. By taxing the health benefits now provided by most companies, however, the Cooper plan would add billions of dollars to the cost of doing business, forcing many companies to dump their employees into the lowest-cost "managed care" plan available in their area.

The Heritage Foundation, a prominent think tank, has proposed a better idea: Cut the link between medical insurance and the workplace and let people buy their own health plans, which they would keep when they change jobs.

This would not mean the end of reasonably priced group insurance. To the contrary, all sorts of church, civic, labor, professional and fraternal organizations--even health charities--could offer health plans under the Heritage proposal. This would produce far larger groups than you find in the typical workplace. The purchasing power of these groups and the competition among them for customers, would hold costs down. You would choose the plan best for you and your family. It's known as the free market.

The Heritage Foundation plan would help us pay for our health benefits by changing the tax code. Currently, workers who receive on-the-job health benefits from their employees get those benefits tax free. Under the consumer choice plan, we would all get tax breaks, regardless of where we get our insurance.

SOCIAL SECURITY

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q: I have heard that people who are born on the first or second day of the month can collect an extra month of Social Security benefits when they retire? Is that true?

A: It's possible. According to the Social Security law, the earliest that you can be eligible for a retirement check is the first full month you are 62. The law also says you "attain" you age the day before your birthday. So, if you were born June 2, for example, you legally attain your age on June 1 and you would be eligible for benefits for June because you're considered 62 for the entire month. Of course, if you were born on June 1, you also would receive benefits for June because you are age 62 the entire month.

Q: Can I use my TDD (Telecommunications Device for the Deaf) to call Social Security on the national Social Security toll-free voice line?

A: TDD use is limited to the special toll-free TDD service line. Voice calls should not be made to the TDD toll-free number and TDD calls should not be made to other Social Security numbers established for voice callers. The Social Security national TDD toll-free number is 1-800-325-0778, the Social Security toll-free number established for voice callers is 800-772-1213.

Q: If I work after I start receiving Social Security retirement benefits, will I have to pay FICA taxes?

A: Yes, and your extra earnings may increase your benefits. For additional information, call the Amarillo Social Security office at 376-2241 or Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213.

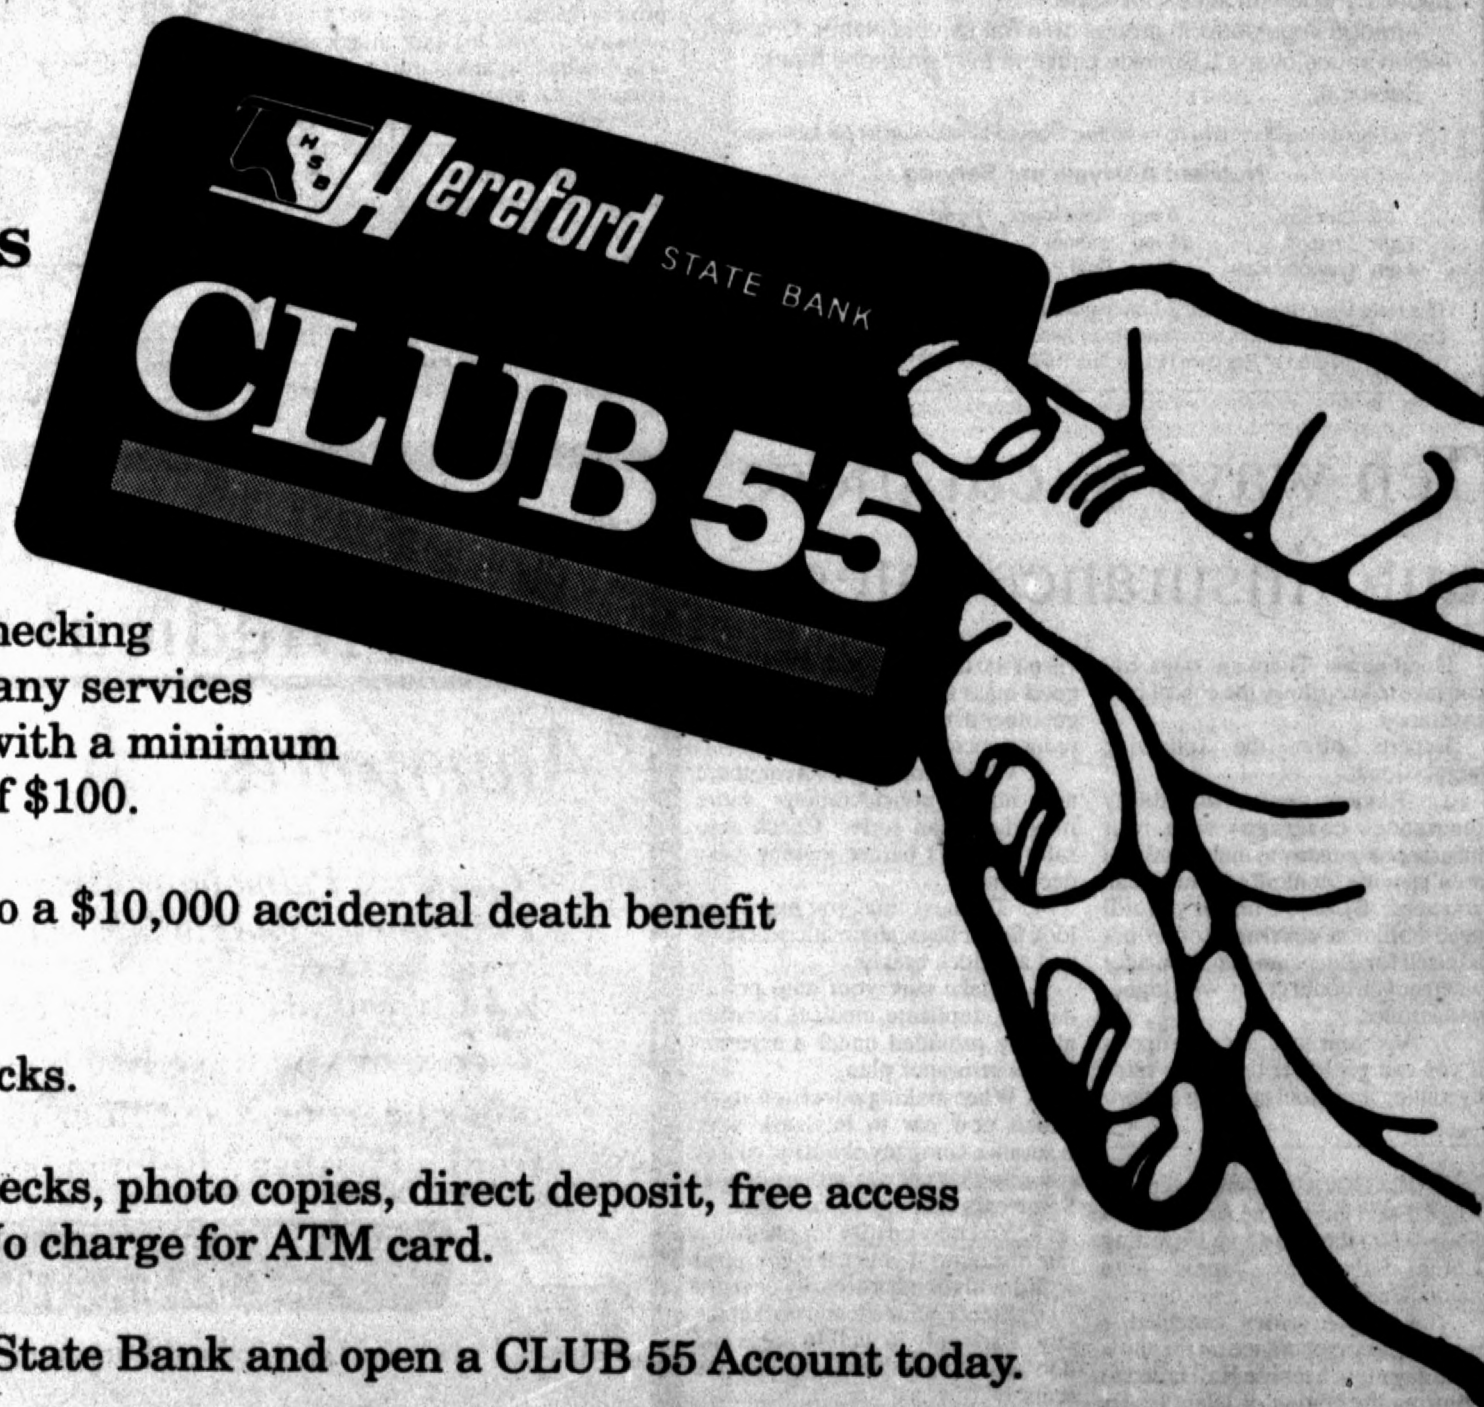

Q: I found some old medical bills that I forgot to submit to Medicare for payment under my medical insurance. Can I still submit them or is there a time limit on when claims must be submitted?

A: You have at least 15 months from the date on which you receive the bill to submit it for payment under your medical insurance.

If you wish to have your questions answered in this column, please write to Jim Talbot, district Manager, Senior Scene, Social Security Administration, 3501 W. 45th, Suite E., Amarillo, Texas 79106.

HELP YOUR HEART RECIPES

This recipe is intended to be part of an overall healthful eating plan. Total fat intake should be less than 30 percent of your total calories for a day — not for each food or recipe.

Vegetables with Lemon Sauce

- | | |
|---|-------------------------------------|
| 1 pound broccoli | 2 tablespoons acceptable margarine* |
| 1 small head cauliflower | 1/4 teaspoon paprika |
| 1 9-ounce package frozen artichoke hearts | 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice |
| 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion | 1 pimienta, diced |

Cut florets from broccoli and cauliflower and set aside. Cut stems into 1 1/2-inch pieces. Steam florets, stems and artichoke hearts in a vegetable steamer until tender-crisp. Set aside.

In a skillet or saucepan over medium-high heat, sauté onion in margarine for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in paprika and lemon juice. Set aside.

Arrange vegetables in groups on a hot serving platter. Drizzle lemon sauce over all. Sprinkle pimienta over artichoke hearts. Serves 8.

Medical Milestones

BY ROGER J. BULGER, M.D.
President of the Association of Academic Health Centers

With an oink oink here and an oink oink there, farms in Cambridge, England and Ohio are raising unusual pigs indeed.

Using genetic engineering, scientists are raising pigs that produce a specific human protein. This protein may allow these pigs' organs to be used for heart, lung, kidney and liver transplants with a reduced possibility of rejection. If successful, this could save the lives of thousands of patients each year who die waiting for a human organ suitable for transplant.

A group of protective proteins constantly patrol throughout the human body charged with an important mission to attack and destroy foreign invaders, such as bacteria, that could cause illness.

These so-called "complement proteins" are responsible for the most immediate and vicious attack on transplanted organs. Ordinarily, the complement system does not attack its own body's tissues because of the presence of specific proteins that tag the surface of human cells. If the proteins are present, the complement system lies dormant. But if the protein tags are absent, the complement system is activated and an attack is mounted.

Over the past several years, Dr. John P. Atkinson at the Washington University School of Medicine and other researchers have identified some of these protein tags. Moreover, they isolated the human genes that are responsible for producing these tag proteins. Recently, Dr. Atkinson's group and Dr. Jeffrey Platt's group at Duke University took the next logical step—they transferred these genes into the eggs of sows. Some of the eggs incorporated the human genes into their own genes and the piglets, which were eventually born after these eggs were reimplanted, produced the human tags on the surfaces of their cells.

Early trials with pigs, and similar experiments with mice, have demonstrated that the presence of these human tag proteins can protect the transplanted organs from attack by human complement proteins. The next step will be to transplant an organ from these transgenic pigs into baboons, which have an organ-rejection system similar to humans.

It has been estimated that although 12,000 Americans yearly could benefit from a heart transplant, only 1,500 hearts actually become available. If these experiments are successful, transgenic pig organs could alleviate the severe shortage of human organs available for transplant and could be matched to the size necessary for children or adults. If so, the image of the pig farmer may soon be due a radical makeover.

King John of England signed the Magna Carta June 15, 1215. The most important document in English constitutional history was originally designed to ensure feudal rights and guarantee that the king could not tamper with baronial privileges. When King John later repudiated the charter, he was released from its observance by the pope, and civil war broke out in England.

Ten ways to cut those auto insurance rates

Good news: There are steps you can take to keep down the cost of care insurance.

Experts offer the following suggestions:

1. Review your own liability insurance coverage with our insurance company to make sure you aren't paying for more coverage than you need. Discuss whether you still need collision coverage (often not advised for older cars), and consider whether you could get by with higher deductibles.
2. Ask your insurance company if you can get lower insurance rates by joining a car pool or going to work

CHICAGO (AP) - Gene Siskel and Roger Ebert gave "The Arsenio Hall Show" two thumbs down for letting Louis Farrakhan "spew hate unchallenged."

The movie critics canceled a post-Oscars appearance on the show Tuesday night because Hall failed to confront the Nation of Islam leader on his Feb. 25 show or reject Farrakhan's anti-Semitic remarks, Siskel said.

"He hugged Minister Farrakhan when he walked onstage and he never distanced himself from anything Farrakhan said afterward," Siskel wrote in his Chicago Tribune column Monday.

Hall's publicists in Los Angeles didn't immediately return a call for comment Tuesday.

via public transportation. Supporting good mass transit systems can help get other drivers off the road and so reduce accidents.

3. When shopping for a car, there are many considerations more important than style. Check auto safety ratings before making your decision.
4. The next time you buy a car, look for air bags, automatic seat belts and anti-lock brakes.
5. Make sure your auto policy doesn't duplicate medical benefits already provided under a separate health insurance plan.
6. When making a decision about which new car to buy, ask your insurance company about the cost of insuring each car you're considering. Some cars cost more than others.
7. You may qualify for insurance rate discounts if your car is equipped with alarms or other security devices. Always lock your car and pocket the key. Park only in well lit areas and don't leave valuables in sight on the seats.
8. Observe posted speed limits. Your insurance rates can be increased if you're charged with a traffic violation. Let your legislators know you're opposed to increased speed limits.
9. Don't drink and drive. Support strict drink driving laws and their enforcement.
10. Support good no-fault laws. America's excessive lawsuits drive up the cost of insurance.

A New Vision For Health Care

Exempt earnings rising for retirees still in work force

Old enough to retire but still in the work force? Social Security may hold a surprise for you. You may be eligible for several months of Social Security benefits even if you continue to work.

Social Security has an earning limitation which tests whether an applicant for benefits has actually retired by looking at current earnings. If an insured worker, dependent spouse, or widow(er) has little or no earnings, Social Security benefits are payable every month of the year. In 1994, eligible individuals aged 65 through 69 are considered fully retired - and eligible for 12 months of benefits - if annual earnings do not exceed $11,160.

Over the $11,160 exempt amount, $1 in benefits is offset for every $3 of additional earnings - much better than the $1 for $2 offset which applies to persons under age 65 for whom the 1994 earnings limitation is only $8,040.

But over or under 65, Social Security can tell you if you are eligible for some benefits. Or you can quite easily determine the answer for yourself. Here's how:

Call Social Security at 1-800-722-1213 and ask how much you are eligible to receive in monthly Social Security benefits. It's best to call early in the year so as to maximize benefits for the year. Persons over age 65 can backdate an application up to three months, but for persons under age 65, benefits cannot begin before the month the application is filed. Multiply your monthly benefit amount by the remaining months in the year to learn how much you can receive in Social Security benefits in 1994. For example, if the application is filed in January, multiply the benefit amount by 12. Then estimate your 1994 earnings. If you are over age 65 but less than 70, subtract from your earnings the $11,160 exempt amount to determine the excess. Divide your excess earnings by three (because the offset is only one-third) and subtract the answer from your full year's Social Security benefits. The difference is what you are eligible to receive for the year even if you do not retire.

For example, suppose your annual earnings will be $26,000 and your benefits are $700 a month or $8,400 for the year. You would subtract $11,160 from $26,000. The answer, 414,840 annual benefits and you learn that you are entitled to $3,454 for the year, almost five months of Social Security, in spite of earnings well over the exempt amount. Using this example of earnings and benefits, Social Security could pay a partial check for August and full benefits for the rest of the year. Let Social Security know if your estimate of annual earnings changes. That way you will not be overpaid or underpaid for the year.

Next January, if you tell Social Security you intend to continue working, your benefits will stop. Checks will start again in the appropriate month depending on next year's exempt amount and your estimated 195 earnings. Naturally, if you stop working completely, benefits are payable for every month.

Similarly, though all benefits can be offset much faster due to the $1 for $2 offset, persons under age 65 (and who will not reach age 65 during the year) can still be entitled to some month sof benefits in spite of earnings over the $8,040 limitation.

Beginning with the month age 70 is reached, there is no longer any earnings test. Benefits are payable every month without regard to earnings.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Lawmakers are putting the squeeze on the people who hired Rush Limbaugh as the pitchman for Florida orange juice.

A state Senate committee on Tuesday showed its displeasure with the conservative commentator's $1 million contract by holding up the confirmation of three appointees to the Florida Citrus Commission.

"We're looking for people who will present the best possible image for Florida citrus - not people who will engender hate, disregard for minorities, or represent any political philosophy," Sen. Peter Weinstein said.

In the past, the citrus commission has had Burt Reynolds and Anita Bryant push Florida oranges and grapefruit.

"I just wonder what prompted them to hire someone so unbelievably controversial, rather than a spokesperson who more accurately reflects the mainstream thinking in this country," Weinstein said.

Senate Agriculture Chairman Mark Foley defended the choice as good business.

Nutrition Notes

By CHARLOTTE R. CLARK
MS RD/LD
FACTS ABOUT FAT
SUBSTITUTES

One of today's biggest nutritional challenges is limiting the amount of fat we eat. The link between eating excess fat and the risk of obesity, heart disease, cancer and diabetes is the basis for nutritional guidelines from leading health experts. These experts recommend Americans get no more than 30% of calories from fat. The average dietary intake is approximately 37%.

What is the role of fat in the diet? We all know that fat gives foods flavor and texture and satisfies hunger. It also has several other functions.

1. Fat provides essential fatty acids and carries fat-soluble vitamins A, D, E and K. The amount of fat needed to supply enough vitamins and essential fatty acids is far less than a teaspoon a day, which is much less than the recommended 30%.

2. Fat is a concentrated source of energy. It provides nine calories per gram, or more than twice as many calories as carbohydrate and protein.

What is a fat substitute?

When fat is removed from a food, many characteristics change that often make the reduced-fat food less appealing, such as the ability of cheese to melt. For this reason, fat substitutes are often used to give reduced-fat foods the texture, appearance and taste of full-fat products. There are two types of fat substitutes: carbohydrate-based and protein-based.

Carbohydrate-based fat substitutes such as modified starches, dextrin, cellulose and gums work by combining with water to provide a thicker texture and appearance, as in fat-free salad dressing. Protein-based fat substitutes, made of skim milk protein, provide the sensation of creaminess as well as improving appearance and texture. Low-fat cheese made with a protein-based substitute has an appearance and texture close to full-fat cheese. Both types of fat substitutes contribute some calories, although less than that contributed by fat. Often a combination of ingredients are used to create higher quality reduced-fat products.

What types of foods use fat substitutes? Many foods that are commonly high in fat such as margarines, salad dressings, mayonnaise, cheese, sour cream, and frozen desserts have used fat substitutes with varying degrees of success. For example, some low fat ice creams use either a protein-based fat substitute of starches and gums. Many baked goods and some candies are also made using fat substitutes to help reduce their fat content. As the food industry learns more about using fat substitutes in different foods, we can expect to see more good-tasting, reduced-fat products.

How do fat substitutes fit into a healthful diet? Eating a wide variety of foods that are low in fat, together with regular physical activity, is the way to a healthier lifestyle. However, many Americans may not want to give up favorite high-fat foods and snacks because they feel they will miss out on taste. Foods that are modified in fat, often by fat substitutes, can offer much of the taste, texture, and appearance of traditional high-fat foods. These foods are not only lower in fat, but usually lower in saturated fat, cholesterol and calories as well.

Worry? Not them.

And why should you when you can protect your life savings with Long Term Care insurance?

Regrettably, many people do have to worry about the cost of long term care. Two in five older adults require nursing home care¹ and costs average about $30,000 per year.² This can be a catastrophic expense draining you of the assets and savings you've worked so hard to build.

It doesn't have to be this way.

Worry-free coverage is available. To receive more information from a long term care representative on the options available to you, call or write today.

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) - Tevin Campbell's people weren't ready for the crowd of nearly 1,000 fans who showed up at a store to get the singer's autograph. At least two people were hurt when hundreds rushed the entrance.

The rhythm-and-blues star had to take refuge in a storeroom with his bodyguards and store employees. Police struggled for more than an hour to control the crowd.

"It was like they were diving for a touchdown," said Lewis Lane Jr. 30. "I feared for the police officers because you had some very volatile kids."

Child safety tips for grandparents

Many of America's grandparents may be pleased to learn much more is being done these days to protect children in cars than when they themselves were children or young parents. Here are a few do's and don'ts from experts at the AARP Auto and Homeowners Insurance Program, provided by ITT Hartford, on how to protect your precious cargo:

Don't let a child ride in the arms or on the lap of another passenger, even if that passenger wears a seat belt. Crash forces will tear the child out of the grasp of even the strongest adult or cause the child to be crushed between the adult and dashboard.

Don't let children ride unrestrained even for a very short time. They should be strapped in whenever they ride.

Do be sure to secure a child safety seat into the vehicle with the vehicle safety belts. A safety seat that's not secure is totally ineffective.

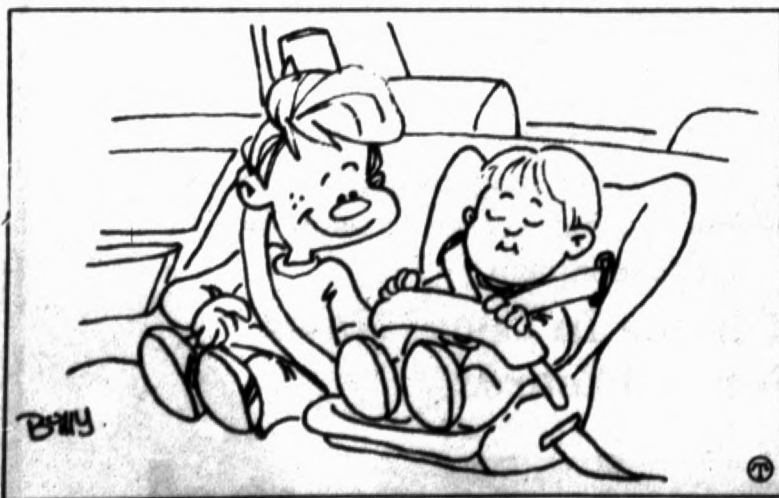

Don't forget to properly fasten the safety seat's harness or shoulder straps.

Do make sure infants ride facing backwards in their safety seats. Rear-facing child safety seats should always go in the rear seat in cars equipped with passenger-side air bags.

Do follow instructions provided by the safety seat manufacturer and the vehicle owners manual for proper installation and use of safety seats.

Do have older children who have outgrown booster seats use regular safety belts every time they ride in the car.

Don't let two children share one safety belt. They would be thrown against each other, hitting their heads in the event of an accident. In an emergency, three children in the rear can share two belts if the distance between the belt anchor points is at least as wide as the largest child's hips. Place the largest child in the center and criss-cross the belts.

Always make sure youngsters are properly buckled up in child safety seats or, when those are outgrown, in seat belts.

'Winnetka Road' hopes to lead viewers to new places

BY TED KUSIO

The realm of melodramatic heartaches and perpetually unresolved plots takes another stab at prime time with "Winnetka Road," airing Saturdays on NBC. The Aaron Spelling production features an ensemble cast who thinks this show isn't telling the same old story.

"It's like relationships in the '90s," actress Meg Tilly says, "where you're trying to make things work, and yet, it's like, you don't know what you're supposed to do or what roles you're supposed to be in. It's not like in the '50s, where a man does this and a woman does that."

Tilly plays the most intriguing character on the show: George Grace, an artistic photographer married to a much older man. George has an interest in Zen philosophy and an unusual demeanor.

One of the things that attracted Tilly to the show was the script "was about relationships, but it wasn't selling you whitewashed relationships, where everything's hunky-dory. It was like relationships I have."

"Everything's all mixed up and it's kind of confusing," she says. "And I like that, and I like the idea that you keep on going and you keep developing."

One of the other aspects of the show that appeals to Tilly is that the characters do not all interact directly with each other. This leaves plenty of room for growth and change.

"It's like you don't want to do everything at once," she says.

She compares this to a buffet dinner, saying that most people don't merely take a single large pile of food. "You just go up gradually and you work your way, and you take a long time. That's what it's like, it's like you don't have to gorge."

Josh Brolin, who plays police officer

Jack Passion, says "Winnetka Road" executive producer and creator John Byrum is the reason behind his involvement.

"It was Byrum," Brolin says. "That's the whole reason for doing it. One hundred percent."

"I think his take on characters is a little off-kilter. It's not as off-kilter as, say, David Lynch in 'Twin Peaks' or something, but I think (Byrum) takes contemporary issues of interior characters ... and he tries to externalize that in a different kind of twist."

He thinks that Byrum's approach doesn't just lead to an interesting show, but it reflects aspects of society.

"I think we're at a point right now in the '90s where we're not too sure what life is all about. And I think (the show) perfectly mirrors that."

Catherine Hicks also gives Byrum praise. She plays Jeannie Barker, a newly divorced mother who is on the verge of striking out on her own.

She thinks that through his characters Byrum "is still fighting for the '60s dream, meaning that at that time there was hope that we would not go the way of American big business. People would bake bread and feel happy. It's cliché now, but at the time it was an amazing, joyful realization. And there was so much hope for maybe everyone finding more happiness in their lives."

"If you saw the shows, you would see there is a vision, and it's John Byrum's vision, and again it's what attracted us."

Whether "Winnetka Road" will lead to new territories is still unknown; so far it's been pretty basic and familiar. But even a fascinating journey often starts from a familiar driveway. And if behind the wheel sit the ideals and abilities that the show's stars describe, it could be a good trip.

Logging slime time at Nick Studios; Summers cleans up for new job at Lifetime

A lot of green slime has gone over the dam since Nickelodeon Studios opened in Orlando, Fla., in June 1990. The self-styled First Network for Kids has now taped its watershed 1,000th episode there - an installment of "Weinerville." Over the years Nick Studios productions have featured some 7,138 actors, guests and contestants, including the first wheelchair-bound contestant in the 40-year history of game shows. As their reward, more than 6,300 kids and adults (including VIP visitor Steven Spielberg) have been slimed.

Marc Summers

Former goomeister Marc Summers of Nick's "Super Sloppy Double Dare" will serve as host of "Our Home," an afternoon magazine series debuting Monday, June 6, on Lifetime. Also debuting that day is "The Marriage Counselor," an issue-oriented soap opera scheduled for an initial run of 26 weeks. "Girls Night Out," a weekly stand-up comedy series, debuts Saturday, April 2. It's all part of Lifetime's renewed commitment to original programming for its core audience - women. Despite financial success, "The network has always had a little internal flux as to what serving women means," according to cable company executive Patrick Mellon in a February interview with trade publication Multichannel News. "We're not sure whether our female subscribers necessarily identify with Lifetime the way children identify with Nickelodeon," he added. Maybe that's where Summers comes in. What's this? Arnold Schwarzenegger and Emma Thompson doing a movie together? And it's not "Tarzan"? Believe it. "Junior," with Danny DeVito, is now before the cameras. This one is producer-director Ivan Reitman's baby. Older women ask the darndest questions. Here's an advance warning for August, when PBS airs "Dr. Joyce Brothers Asks, 'How's Your Love Life?'" In the tradition of any good Cosmopolitan magazine article, there'll be a quiz, then advice from Brothers on keeping love alive in a long-term relationship.

TV FOR KIDS

'Money Made Easy' fast-paced, humorous

BY SUZANNE GILL

"Money Made Easy: The ABC Kids' Guide to Dollars and Sense" should appeal to youngsters in the early allowance years. It airs over two Saturdays, April 2 and 9, and provides a quick course in money itself -- what it is, how it got started, who makes it and how it's managed in banks. Chris Castile, a bespectacled boy with good diction, is the host.

The first half-hour concentrates on the 6,000-year history of coins and paper money and, before that, commerce without cash. An animated couple is seen in various historical settings discussing topics from barter through banking. Grown-ups talk about early forms of exchange, the value of precious metals and the like. The show is fast-paced and humorous, but it's clear that accuracy has been sacrificed for entertainment as soon as the cave man leaves his valuables with a dinosaur: Any 5-year-old knows the big lizards were gone before early man made the scene.

The second show is a field trip to a bank: How does the vault close? How does an account open? How does the automatic teller machine work? Then it's on to the U. S. mint, where they really know how to make money -- and prevent counterfeiting. The best segments, however, are the round tables with kids, who discuss the future of banking and the important things that money just can't buy.

SOAP WORLD

Gregory makes 'em laugh and cry

BY CANDACE HAVENS

By day Cynthia Jordan portrays an abused wife, April, on "The Young and the Restless." But you won't find Jordan crying at her nighttime gig -- doing stand-up comedy at some of Los Angeles' hottest comedy clubs.

On the day of a recent interview, the actress looked scary. She was getting ready to film a scene that takes place after a fight with the abusive husband. She had a bloody nose, bruises, and her clothes were torn. "What a great day for you to meet me," she said.

The actress enjoys both her comedy work and her role on "Y&R." "Some days are really tough, because I have these emotional scenes and I get home and I don't really feel like going out to the club that night," Jordan says. "But I am really committed to doing comedy, and I make myself go, and it is wonderful."

The actress says working on "Y&R" is much different for her than it was 10 years ago. "It's funny because I have changed so much since I was on the show before, and my character has, too. But we could not be more different. I am much more light-hearted than April. Comedy and laughter are a huge part of my life," Jordan says.

"But you know, I'm not sure I could say I would not end up in the same kind of situation she is in. I don't think anyone willingly enters into an abusive relationship. It just sort of happens."

The actress says she enjoys working with her co-star Doug Davidson (Paul). She's excited Davidson signed on to do the prime-time version of "The Price Is Right." "Doug is so witty, and people are going to get to see a side of him that they rarely get to see," Jordan says.

Jordan comes from an off-beat background, and she says that really helps with her comedy routines. "My mom is an astrologer. When I was a kid she would come in and say, 'Don't bother getting up, you're accident prone today.' If Mercury was in retrograde I wouldn't get up for a week," Jordan laughs.
