Inflationary Farm Refinancing Bill Defeated In House

Demo Leadership Is Victorious In Vote Of 235-142

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The $3,000,000,000 farm debt refinancing bill, on which was based the biggest "new money" drive of the session, was crushed yesterday under a landslide vote in the house.

The 235 to 142 record ballot that killed the bill and sent lusty yells climaxed one of the most hotly contested battles of the 74th congress, and represented a victory for the house leadership.

Amendments Overruled
Sponsors of the legislation, sent down to defeat after five years of hard work to bring the measure to a vote, tried vainly to swing the tide in its favor by offering amendments after amendment designed to lure more votes. Some were accepted but did not change the final result.

One of these would have permitted loans up to no more than 80 per cent of the fair value of farms, whereas the bill originally had called for 100 per cent. Some backers of the legislation, which would allow the issuance of $3,000,000,000 of new money, had predicted that this would bring in 40 more votes.

Charges of inflation, "printing press money," and "greenback legislation" were hurled at the measure throughout the day's uproarious session. Supporters of the bill snapped back assertions that it would save the homes of millions of farmers.

Green Letter
Speaker Byrns left the speaker's rostrum at one point to read a letter from President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, announcing that the organization's executive council had gone on record against the bill "largely because of its inflationary nature."

With tempers frayed and party lines smashed, the skirmishing became so bitter that Byrns was rebuked openly by Representative Biederup (R-Neb) for reading the communication because, he said, it aided "in a damnable poison being spread out in the nation."

Green also was assailed by Representative Rankin (D-Miss) for having the "impudence to come here and tell the congress of the United States how to vote for the farmers of the United States."

Brought to the floor after administration chiefs were unsuccessful in keeping it pigeonholed in the rules committee, the bill would authorize issuance of bonds, secured by farm mortgages and drawing 1 1/2 per cent interest, to refinance farm debts over 47 years. Farmers would pay 1 1/2 per cent interest on loans.

Insurance On Crops Talked

Government Sponsored System Proposed By Idaho Senator

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Promises of at least partial support for the principles of a new federal crop insurance plan came from some republicans as well as democrats today, immediately following instruction of a bill to this end by Senator Pope, (D-Idaho).

Broadly, it would create a federal crop insurance corporation from which the owner or operator of a farm could purchase insurance against all natural damages to any growing agricultural commodity. Premium charges would be based on actual cost and any profits to the corporation would be used to reduce premiums on subsequent policies.

George Peek, former farm administrator who has been active for a number of years in both the republican and democratic parties in behalf of farm legislation, said the principles of crop insurance were "well worthy of consideration" by congress and the national political conventions.

"I would keep the government out of it as far as possible, however," he said. "There is no reason private agencies could not provide adequate crop insurance with limited government support."

Kidnaper In Pen To Start Serving Term

ATLANTA, May 14 (AP)—Federal guards brought Thomas H. Robinson, Jr. here today by train from Louisville to serve a life sentence for the $50,000 kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Still.

Robinson, 29, who pleaded guilty and was sentenced by Federal Judge Edward Hamilton last night, was hustled to the federal penitentiary here in less than 60 hours after his arrest in Glendale, Calif.

At Louisville, the former inmate of a Tennessee insane asylum stolidly heard Judge Hamilton pronounce sentence immediately that he had replied in an almost inaudible voice, "Guilty, your honor."

Robinson, slugged Mrs. Alice Speed Still, young Louisville society matron, with a lead pipe and snatched her from her home here Oct. 10, 1934. For more than 19 months he eluded the federal agents.

All seats in the large federal court room were filled as the kidnaper was brought in after a long wait for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., of Nashville, to arrive and confer with him and his counsel, E. B. Gabbard and Clem Higgins. The kidnaper's wife, who started divorce proceedings after she and the elder Robinson were acquitted last November of complicity in the kidnaping, was not present. Nor was the kidnaper's five-year-old son, Jimmy, who has been told his father is dead.

Advance tickets are available at bargain rates. Books bearing five general admissions and admissions to five shows on the Centennial grounds and having a value of $4, are offered at $2.50. Any and all tickets are transferable and interchangeable.

The sale will continue here until June 5. The following day, June 6, is set as the opening date of the big show in Dallas.

School Board Votes To Buy Land Tract

Survey Underway To Determine Acreage In Birdwell Property

Survey was underway Thursday to ascertain the exact acreage in a tract to be purchased by the Big Spring Independent School district from Miss Annabelle Birdwell. The school board, in a called meeting Tuesday night, approved the purchase, sanctioning, without a dissenting vote, payment of $100 per acre for a tract from East Eighth on Golind to Highland park. The plot is estimated at around 18 acres.

Action of the board will result in the cancellation of all existing fire insurance policies and the re-issuance of a special coverage policy for the entire system in the amount of $279,000, of which $23,500 is on contents. The total represents 80 per cent of the value of the property. Under terms of the special policy, all local agencies will be given their pro rata share of the insurance and would share losses on the same basis.

Supervisor Of Survey
Board members authorized W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, to accept appointment by Nick Holland, Breckenridge, director of the statewide WPA educational survey, as supervisor for this 13 county WPA district. The work will start during the summer and will continue for several months.

Material gathered in the survey will be compiled in comprehensive form and district supervisors, together with Holland, will make concrete recommendations to the state board and legislature for the formation of a future educational administration policy in the state.

The appointment carries with it a modest salary which will about care for expenses. However, Blankenship said that any money he received on the work would be turned over to the school board to use as they saw fit.

To Fix Date On Pool Opening

Dates for formal opening of the municipal swimming pool, held in abeyance for several weeks pending acceptance by Governor James V. Allred of an invitation to appear on the program, will be set by the chamber of commerce soon, it was announced today after the governor wired his regrets.

In a message to City Manager E. V. Spence, Governor Allred said he had been "trying to work out a schedule so I could come, and I regret that it is impossible for me to do so at this time."

"I just have too many other things to attend to the balance of this month and the early part of June on account of the Centennial opening. I trust you will understand and appreciate my position and be assured of my appreciation of your invitation."

It is probable that the formal opening will be held the latter part of next week when the Big Spring representative for the Billy Rose frontier follies will be chosen. The contestants will be measured at the pool May 22.

New Corporate Tax System Studied By Senate Committee

Sharp Revision In House Proposal Is Foreseen

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The senate finance committee, apparently bent upon wide revision of the house tax bill, today received treasury schedules through which $623,000,000 could be raised by imposing a flat tax on corporate income with a graduated levy superimposed on the basis of undistributed profits.

The plan, submitted by Chairman Harrison of the committee, would impose a flat tax of 15 per cent on all corporate income, with a surtax ranging from five to 45 per cent on undistributed earnings above 30 per cent of the net income.

Morgenthau Heard
Senator Byrd was authorized by the committee to disclose that Secretary Morgenthau reported 600 corporations reported net incomes of $1,000,000 or more in 1934 and that 283 of them would have had their taxes cut at least 50 per cent under the house bill. He said the 283 included 138 which would have paid nothing.

Morgenthau was not asked to submit figures on how many corporations would have had comparable increases, but treasury experts estimate off hand there would have been at least as many. They promised more detailed data on this later.

"Proves Contentment"
Byrd said Morgenthau's figures proved his contention "that many prosperous companies will evade taxes" under the house proposal.

Recommendations by Secretary Wallace for the imposition of $200,000,000 in new processing taxes meanwhile drew forth a statement from Representative McCormack of Massachusetts, who said that if the processing taxes were added to the bill he would fight them.

"It is about time that Secretary Wallace realized that the people in the cities suffer the most in a depression, and that the consumers in the cities have been bearing the burden of all farm relief to date," he said.

Wildcat Test At 2890 Feet

Southern Corp. No. 1 Edwards in Saturated Lime
Southern Oil Corp., No. 1 Edwards, wildcat test in section 23 block 20, T-1-S, TP survey and on a trend between the East Howard and Chalk pools, was drilling Thursday at 2890 feet in saturated lime.

Past the level where a slightly better show was obtained in the abandoned Moore No. 1 Snyder in section 28, the Edwards test had encountered no free oil.

After rigging up with rotary, the Bruce Frazier, et al, No. 1 Patterson, in the northwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 188, block 29, W&NW survey was at 410 feet in redbeds Thursday morning.

The test will try for shallow sand production found in levels at 1,200, 1,300 and 1,400 feet and is slightly south of five Continental sand producers.

Another shallow test, the M. E. Stanton No. 1 Edwards in section 11, block 34, T-1-S, TP survey, was experiencing more trouble. Continued caving resulted in loss of hole from 680 to 735 feet where it was bottomed the forepart of the week in redbeds. Operators are seeking sand production past the 900-foot horizon.

Drilling three feet into the pay, the Magnolia No. 5 Edwards in the Waddell-Edwards pool of Crane county was showing 5,500 barrels flowing Thursday. It is located 990 feet from the south and west lines of section 2, block B25 PSI, and is on land owned by W. P. Edwards, Big Spring cattle and oil man.

Airport Election Is Spurring Renditions

Interest Developing In Vote Of War-rants Monday
City Attorney Tom J. Coffey's ruling that the Monday airport purchase election must render their property this year has had an inflationary effect on renditions this week.

Thursday noon approximately 500 persons had rendered their property, most of which had been on previous rolls.

While there was very little open campaigning on the issue, Thursday there was a mounting undercurrent of interest in the airport proposal. Both camps confidently predicted the election would go their way.

Leading proponents of municipal ownership were checking names on petitions asking the city commission to purchase, making an effort to have qualified voters to render real or personal property. In those challenged at the polls Monday for non-rendition of property this year will be given an opportunity to do so in order to cast a ballot, city officials indicated.

QUADRUPLETS ARE MAKING MONEY

PASSAIC, N. J., May 14 (UP)—The Kasper quadruplets were well on their way to financial success today—four days after their birth. Already their income was twice that of their father's, Emil Kasper, 320-a-week machinist's helper and if Mayor Benjamin F. Turner has his way it will be a lot more soon.

Under the mayor's business management Mr. and Mrs. Kasper signed a contract yesterday with a New York newspaper for exclusive rights to pictures and interviews of the babies. In addition to a down payment of $750 the contract calls for $40 a week for the first year and a $10 raise on their first birthday.

Guards Still Held Captive By Convicts

McALESTER, Okla., May 14 (AP)—Under Sheriff W. O. Merrill said two convicts fleeing McAlester with two wounded guards abducted William Doaks of near Pittsburg today after forcing Mrs. Doaks to prepare breakfast.

The convicts, Merrill said, were those who killed Charles D. Powell, prominent brickyard foreman during the prison break yesterday. Merrill said Mike Isabel, Pittsburg merchant, told him after getting their breakfast, the convicts placed Doaks in an automobile and drove away.

Into Two Groups
Fred Daugherty, secretary of the prison said that soon afterward the fugitives—with Doaks and the two guards, still held as hostages—seized a sedan bearing a Texas license plate and split into two parties east of Blanco.

Powell was slain ruthlessly and his body tossed from a speeding car as the convicts rioted and made a bloody dash for freedom yesterday.

Bob Gossett, prison guard, shot four times in the first burst of taken to a hospital critically wounded. The five fugitives seized his car at the penitentiary.

Ten Held by Gunfire
Ten convicts, including Ray Terrill, notorious Southwest outlaw and one-time associate of the Matt Kimes bank robber gang, were mowed down by gunfire from guards on the prison walls as they attempted to escape on foot.

Six other fugitives were captured four miles from the brickyard, shortly after the break. A seventh convict, who commandeered a prison ice truck, was reported surrounded in heavily-wooded country fourteen miles northwest of here.

The five who tossed Powell's body out on the street were reported to be armed with two rifles and two pistols taken from guards. The guards were Tuck Cope and Victor Conn, both seized when the convicts rioted as they were being lined up to be led back into the prison.

Had Dirks
Warden Roy Kenny, who gave the first description of the desperadoes, said the rioting prison.

HEARS FATHER IN LAST LECTURES AT COLLEGE AT BELTON

Bruce Frazier has returned from Belton where he went to hear the last addresses of his father, Dr. J. M. Frazier, veteran physician and director of the biology department at Mary Hardin-Baylor college.

Dr. Frazier, associated with the college as patron and professor for more than forty years, resigned his post on nearing his eightieth birthday in order that he could give more time to his travels and writing.

At the present time he is writing on a book, "Tallow Candle to Television," largely biographical. On May 26 he is to lecture before the Texas Medical association in Houston on "Evolution in Study and Practice of Medicine in Sixty Years," a chapter from his forthcoming book.

TUGWELL WARNS HIS AGENCY NEEDS FUNDS

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Warning that the Resettlement administration will have to be terminated unless additional funds are provided by congress or the president by July 1 was given the senate appropriations subcommittee today by Rexford Tugwell, administrator.

He said his agency had $102,000,000 on April 15, and that all will be spent or obligated by July 1.

School Library Expanded Through Work Of Women Employed By WPA

More than three thousand books have been made available for use in Big Spring school libraries through the work of six women employed on the local Works Progress Administration project, District Director R. H. McNew stated today.

Now on the shelves of Big Spring libraries are 2,000 reconditioned volumes, 1,082 indexed and catalogued new books, and a large assortment of bound newspapers and periodicals as a result of the project which was initiated November 8, 1935.

Work of these WPA employes has developed and extended school library facilities to keep pace with a growing student body, school officials reported.

Remodeling Work Completed At United Dry Goods Store

Public Asked To Call, View Improvements

Modernized Establishment To Be Open For Inspection Friday Night

A new forward step in the history of the Big Spring unit of the United Dry Goods Stores, Inc., is taken this week-end with the formal presentation to the public of a remodeled, redecorated and modernized store.

The establishment, at 217 West Third street, has undergone extensive renovation and the "dressed-up" store will be open for public inspection Friday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. There will be no sales during that period and residents of Big Spring and the surrounding area are invited by David Merkin, manager, to merely view the improvements. Favors will be given.

Opening of the renovated store will be marked by a special sales event on Saturday.

New Front

Workmen have been busy for the past several days completing the extensive remodeling work, both on the exterior and interior of the building. A complete new front, modernistic in design, has been constructed.

Display windows have been altered and improved with installation of additional lights and mirrors. Modernistic fixtures and individual trims are new features.

The interior of the store has been renovated and redecorated, with changes made in displays to add to the appearance. Many new fixtures and equipment pieces also have been installed.

Interior Decorations
Ceiling of the interior has been repainted in light color, the walls tinted in seafoam green and the columns and pillars finished in silver. A new hardwood oak floor has been installed throughout. Additional tables for merchandise are placed, and these equipped with glass dividers to keep stocks in order. In the shoe department, leather and chromium chairs have been installed, and new mirrors added in the millinery department. Stocks have been rearranged to add to the store's appearance and to be of more convenience to shoppers.

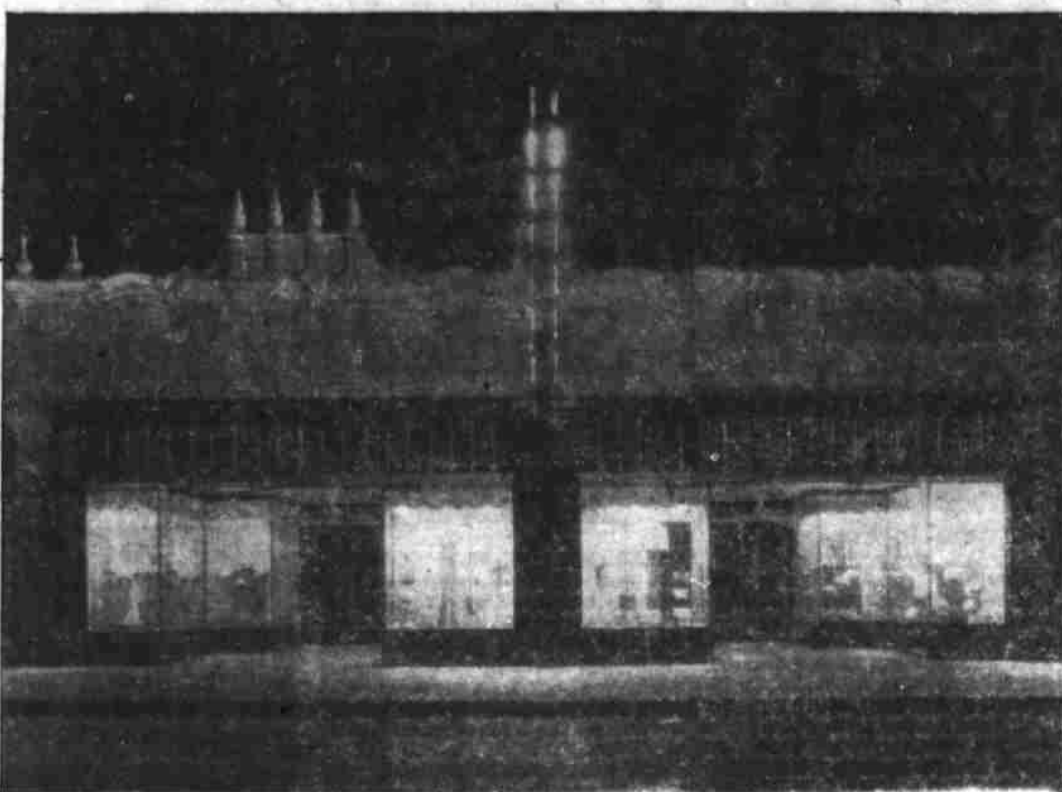

A new lighting system, with silver fixtures featured, tops off the interior renovation.

Along with the store remodeling, Merkin announces that the United is adding new lines of higher quality merchandise, expanding stocks to accommodate all classes of buyers.

Here Eight Years

The improvements mark new progress for the United store which has served Big Spring and this area for eight years. Opened here that long ago, the United Store has always been in its present location. It is a unit in a system of 15 dry goods stores in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. Four located in West Texas are under supervision of Merkin, who, in addition to serving as local manager, is district manager for

Claims Tampering With GOP's Mail

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—Someone has been censoring the republican national committee's campaign publication "Uncensored," Chairman Henry P. Fletcher complained today in a letter to Postmaster General James A. Farley.

He enclosed a copy of the publication showing a page had been "mutilated" and asked Farley to make an investigation and give "the necessary orders to end such tactics."

"If letters transmitted through the mails are to be seized or scrutinized as telegrams were seized and scrutinized by the Black lobby committee, the American people may well believe that censorship and interference with individual liberties and public services on a national scale for political purposes is much nearer than we have realized," Fletcher said.

Fletcher said mail addressed by the committee had been tampered with and many complaints received of the committee's mails had been "opened or deliberately delayed by postal workers."

7,000-MILE TRIP OF NEWLYWEDS COVERS DESERT

SYDNEY, N. S. W. (UP)—A 7,000-mile honeymoon caravan tour of Australia has ended—eight months after the bride and bridegroom set out.

The honeymooners were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Birtles, of Sydney, and in the course of their trip they traveled up the Australian east coast, across the north and down the center, through tropical jungle and sandy desert.

Their caravan was fitted with a refrigerator, wireless, a sink with running water, water tanks and a portable bath. It was as heat and fly proof as it was possible to make it.

Eight months' supplies of groceries were taken by the couple when they started from Sydney. With rod and gun they kept themselves supplied with fish and meat.

The bride had to prepare most of her cosmetics herself. She invented a face cream which also proved useful for polishing the car which hauled the caravan.

William Webster, 20-year-old Chicago youth, escaped seven times in four years from the state reformatory at St. Charles, Ill.

Many Issues Developing In Campaign

Active Battle For Votes Seen In All Parts Of The Country

By BYRON FIMCE (Chief of AP Bureau, Washington)

As convention-time approaches it becomes increasingly clear that the coming conflict will be no "narrow" campaign—either in the geographical sense or with respect to the range of the discussion.

Often the earlier months of election year see some main battleground selected, and the issues sorted over so that one or two come sharply to the fore. This time the process has been reversed.

A year ago it appeared that the democrats were preparing to make no more than a perfunctory campaign in the east, but would concentrate on an effort to find a winning combination in west and south. In consequence, the republicans were expected to regard the east as safe, and go west. Now it appears that both east and west, and perhaps parts of the south, will be in the zone of active struggle.

Similarly, many politicians have forecast a straight-out conservative-liberal contest, with the republicans keeping well over to the political right, and the democrats swinging definitely to the left. Now some of the more experienced doubt seriously whether any such thing will develop.

Democrats Invade East

One of the chief geographical surprises has been the increasing volume of democratic claims in the vastly important eastern states of New York and Pennsylvania. Outwardly, these claims cite the large aggregate majority rolled up last fall by democratic candidates for the New York assembly, and the marked increase of democratic registration in parts of Pennsylvania which formerly were solidly republican.

Under the surface, the democratic talk is based also on the fact that carefully-organized democratic shock troops already are actively mobilizing as far east as Massachusetts. The republicans dispute that any of this territory is doubtful, but it certainly would not be safe to regard even New England as entirely outside the 1946 battle zone.

That the republicans will not do so, but will campaign actively down to the North Atlantic coast is, consequently, assured. Nor is it unlikely that the Republican managers will devote some of their attention to the states usually numbered in the democratic solid south. In 1932 Mr. Hoover carried several of those states. Now there are evidences of southern democratic revolt against some of the Roosevelt policies. Assured of a campaign fund, the republicans may be counted on to make war in every state where they see the slightest chance of victory.

Broad Issues

With respect to issues, too, the tendency on both sides is toward taking in a great deal of territory.

Talk of narrowing the campaign to a constitutional issue has virtually disappeared. The Liberty League has played that tune to every possible variation, and many republicans are unwilling to put the party in the attitude of echoing the league. Besides, the widely-forecast democratic advocacy of a constitutional amendment now shows no prospect of materializing.

Relief, taxes, power, inflation, budget management, farm policy, labor legislation—the long procession of subjects with which the Roosevelt administration has dealt marches into the campaign in solid ranks, and it is a wise politician who can tell which may swing the greater number of votes in the end.

Basically, the democrats may tend to liberalism, but will they go so far as to risk the solid opposition of business, against which no president ever has been elected? Fundamentally, the republicans may incline to conservatism, but will they be so unbending as to chance the loss of the thousands of liberal votes cast for Senator Borah in the primaries?

These are questions the party managers are certain to examine carefully before they leap.

BUILDING LABORERS IN DENVER ON STRIKE

DENVER, Colo., May 14 (UP)—A city-wide strike of hodcarriers and laborers, affiliated with the building trades, continued today to slow up work on all major building projects in Denver.

More than 1,600 men were on strike. Pickets had been assigned to the various construction projects, including the building of a new wing on the federal customs house and an addition to the U. S. mint. No attempt had been made at arbitration but the labor committee

The strikers demand that the contractors meet the terms of an agreement ordered by the state industrial commission which calls for 62 1-2 cents an hour for laborers and 90 cents an hour for hodcarriers, and a seven hour day, five day week.

Contractors have been paying 40 to 50 cents an hour for laborers and 75 cents an hour for hodcarriers, Carl Mikelson, member of the strike committee, told the United Press.

Contractors were not attempting to hire strike breakers.

New Piggly-Wiggly Stores Open To Public Fri.-Sat.

Are Designed For Shoppers' Convenience

Efficiency, Service Stressed; Event To Be Marked By Special Sales

Formal opening of the new deluxe Big Spring Piggly Wiggly stores, newest and among the most attractive of local food merchandising establishments, will be observed Friday and Saturday.

The new units—Store No. 1 at 419 Main street and Store No. 2 at 205 Main—incorporate all the most recent ideas in food merchandising and arrangements of the buildings follow modern developments in construction and layout as applied to food stores.

Remodeled, Modernized
Designed and operated under the nationally known Piggly Wiggly merchandising plan, the local stores are owned and operated by Olen Stewart and A. G. Tusha, newcomers to Big Spring who recently purchased the business. Both units have been completely remodeled and re-arranged, stocks enlarged and service facilities modernized and expanded.

The two-day formal opening will be marked by a special sales event, and the buying public of Big Spring and its territory is invited to inspect the stores. Coffee will be served to visitors and there will be gifts of groceries. Candy will be given to children.

The local Piggly Wiggly stores are in the hands of experienced grocery men. Stewart, who will serve as buyer and will be in charge of the No. 1 store, comes here from Lubbock, where he had been in business for many years. He started with the Piggly Wiggly organization eleven years ago, serving with the concern until February of this year. At Lubbock, he had been manager and buyer for one of the largest wholesale and retail units in this section. Tusha, who has been in the grocery business for several years, moved to Big Spring from Dallas, where he operated a modern establishment. Previously, he had been in business at Lubbock and Amarillo. He will be in charge of the No. 2 store.

Self-Service
The self service system, in which the Piggly Wiggly organization pioneered, is featured at both the stores, which have been renovated and redecorated. The layouts follow the standard Piggly Wiggly plan, designed on a scientific basis for the convenience of customers. Only standard lines of foods are carried, and nationally-advertised brands are displayed for the shopper's selection.

Complete stocks of such lines of foods have been assembled in the expansion of the two stores.

The units are decorated in standard Piggly Wiggly colors. The No. 1 store is finished in oak and jade green, No. 2 store in black and silver. Interiors of both buildings have been painted white, this clean background adding to the attractiveness of the new fixtures. New trim in the Piggly-Wiggly colors has been installed, and fixtures have been rearranged, and remodeled to fit into the new decoration scheme. A silver and green awning 32 1-2 feet long, across the front of the building, adds to the exterior appearance of the No. 1 store.

Cleanliness, modern display and customer convenience have been

Giant System Serves Large Buying Group

Over 3,000 Piggly-Wiggly Stores In U. S. Are Enumerated

More than 3000 grocery firms throughout the United States today serve the nation's numberless-food-purchasing public with the same type of service and economy that inspired the foundation of the first store of this type at Memphis, Tennessee in September of 1918.

The system of stores extends even beyond the boundaries of the United States and includes Canada, Cuba, Alaska and other countries.

Piggly Wiggly is the "Help Yourself" store. The customer enters at a turnstile, picks up a basket, moves up and down the aisles lined with shelves containing the goods offered for sale and marked with a swinging price tag, makes his own selection, reaches the checking counter, where the goods are wrapped up and the amount due paid, and passes out through another turnstile. By this system the number of clerks required to handle business is lessened, delivery costs and credit costs are eliminated and these savings are passed on to the patrons.

Piggly Wiggly stores all carry the same standard equipment, and the arrangement of merchandise is the same in every store. The cooperation has patented several parts of its equipment; the lighting system, the self-serving feature, swinging price tags, checking desk and special type adding machine.

The policy of Piggly Wiggly stores calls for advertising in the local papers, cleanliness, and courtesy.

Piggly Wiggly stores have succeeded because of the low operating cost which is obtained by customers helping themselves, thus eliminating the added cost of employees.

One hundred persons can help themselves in a Piggly Wiggly store in the same time ten persons can be say. "Each item is priced by a swinging tag. Our self-service eliminates the necessity of clerks, who would be idle except during rush hours. We have no delivery expense and no credit costs.

"Customers are free to go behind Piggly Wiggly counters and wait on themselves. They pay for what they buy and take it home. Low prices are not made by accident at Piggly Wiggly. Neither are they placed on a few commodities and regained on other items."

OWNERS AND MANAGERS

Colorful Arrangement Provides The Background For Display Of Foods

Self Service Designed To Aid Shopper

Piggly Wiggly System Is Simple, Convenient And Economical

The simple system of self service as featured in Piggly Wiggly stores appeals to all types of grocery customers.

Food shoppers in this city and section will be given an opportunity to test this service method during the formal opening of the Piggly Wiggly stores in Big Spring Friday and Saturday. Special bargains will be offered during the event and the public is being invited to attend the opening and see the displays of merchandise.

A Piggly Wiggly store was designed for every type of customer, for the pedestrian housewife and for those who ride to market in big cars, for the woman who prepares her own meals and the woman who instructs her cook what to buy and prepare.

You walk through a turnstile of a Piggly Wiggly store and take one of the baskets. You want soup, and there it is. You choose your favorite brand and put the desired number of cans into your basket. You need sugar, and find it ready in convenient size packages, ready wrapped and sealed. You want flour, so you select the size desired. Jams, jellies and marmalades, rolled oats, corn meal, catsup or soap, starch or canned tomatoes, sardines or celery salt—whatever you need, there it is. You simply reach out and take. There is no need to stand and wait while Mrs. Smith argues the price of a can of corn.

Questions are all answered in advance. They are in plain figures and on well known labels. There waited on in an ordinary store. Piggly Wiggly stores have been successful because of volume of business by reason of the patented fixtures, and labor-saving devices. The large volume, the faster turnover, provide the profits.

Worthy of any large city in the nation, the new Piggly Wiggly stores—No. 1 located at 419 Main, with its oak and jade green trim with white walls and ceiling and silver and green awning of modern design; and No. 2, located at 205 Main street with its black and silver trim fixtures and white clean walls—bring to Big Spring the last word in background for a food store of the modern era.

Entrance to the shopping area is made by means of a turnstile decorated in Piggly Wiggly colors, and exit is made by a similar turnstile placed beside it. These are marked "in" and "out" in colors.

Besides the cans, boxes, jars, bags and cartons of foods on the shelves, there are two departments where foods may be secured.

Across the back of the store a tempting variety of fresh meats and dairy products is displayed in refrigerated cases. At the front of the store, leafy vegetables—carrots, beets, celery and others—are arranged on counters fitted with pipes from which a thin veil of mist emerges. The spray keeps the vegetables moist and fresh.

Every effort has been made to see that the customer receives Piggly Wiggly products in the best condition possible.

is no guesswork in shopping. You may choose the size and kind of fruits and vegetables you want.

At a Piggly Wiggly store a child can shop as well as the most experienced housewife. Only nationally known products are on the shelves and there is only one price on each. The stores are clean and food packages are weighed and sealed.

Under the Piggly Wiggly system the customers become a part of the machinery of service and delivery, and thus they save the cost of service they render themselves. And they buy what they want.

In a very short time you may have filled your basket with items you needed. You have picked out the particular brands you want without suggestion or persuasion from anyone. Then you go to the checker's desk. Your purchases are added up on a checking register, especially designed for Piggly Wiggly. You are handed the slip; your purchases are placed in a paper sack; you get your change and you are on your way with a minimum of delay and a maximum of shopping ease and profit.

REMEMBERING

Aunt Clemmie

GREAT-AUNT CLEMMIE was brought up to the Spartan life. She enjoyed (she always said) getting up at five on a Saturday morning, hanging her market basket over her arm, and going downtown to do the marketing for the week-end. She said "If you get there first—you'll get the best!"

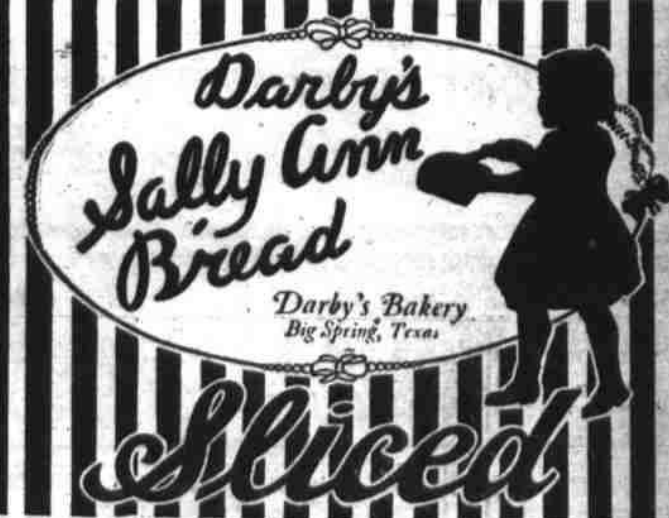

Aunt Clemmie is a fine reminder of her time. Nowadays one needn't rise with the birds to be sure of a full market basket. It's so much simpler and more efficient to spend a few minutes with the advertisements. Marshalled before you, in your newspaper, is all the news that is necessary for your good living. There, in the advertisements, are facts—sound, solid facts—about prices and quality. Advertised, trade-marked merchandise must be honest merchandise. Or it wouldn't be advertised.

Fresh Foods Now In Cans

History Of Preservation And Sanitary Methods Recorded

When France was in the throes of her first revolution in 1795, her soldiers and sailors suffered frequently from lack of fresh foods. The government's solution was to offer a large prize for anyone who should find a way to preserve food-stuffs for transportation.

From that time on, scientists have been working and trying one plan after another with the result that now a housewife can go into a store and obtain in a can practically any food she wants with all its freshness preserved.

The story between the offering of the prize and the modern wife's ease of getting fresh food might well be taken as the story of the peaceful progress of the world.

Cans come in all sizes, one suited to a family of three, one to a family of five, and so on. The can and the food in it have been sterilized twice—once while open and once while sealed. Government inspectors see to it that only the best sanitary methods are used in the canning factory. But what the housewife likes is the economy of canned goods. There are no wastes to pare off and throw away. Every part of the contents of the can is edible and still retains its taste.

The food is brought into the factory in small crates of boxes so the contents will not be bruised. Then the raw material is graded, and in the case of fruits, the skin is taken off, the core removed and the remainder is packed by hand to avoid crushing. Vegetables are placed in the can to a certain weight and then water is added. The next process is a bath of steam or hot water to drive out air and then a sealing machine solders the seams. Finally the cans are cooled, packed and shipped.

Life In The White House, So They Say, Doesn't Excite Wives Of G.O.P. Hopefuls

Six talented women, wives of possible republican presidential nominees, who share the bright light with their husbands as the June convention nears, are pictured above. Any of the six might become the nation's first lady. Left to right, top row: Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs. William E. Borah, Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, Mrs. Frank Knox. Bottom (left) Mrs. Alf Landon; (right) Mrs. L. J. Dickinson.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Days lengthen toward June and the Cleveland convention brings more talk each 24 hours of the "First Lady" chances of six republican women.

They are, alphabetically, the Messames Borah, Dickinson, Hoover, Knox, Landon, and Vandenberg, not one of whom has yet said for publication "wouldn't it be wonderful if my husband were president?"

On the contrary, several have stressed the strain of White House living, and the gold-fish-bowl quality of the place. Yet veteran Mrs. Borah whose husband is "dean" of the senate, hit an important note when she said of the whole Washington scene:

"It's an adventurous life! There's not an hour in the day that is not taken by demands!"

And the six have varied talents with which they might, if so fated, meet the mounting demands of the First Lady role.

Mrs. Borah Knows Politics

Mrs. William E. Borah is small, blonde of hair, brown of eye, sprightly. She's called "Little Borah." Her social conversation is amusing—light banter, said with a school-girlish stress of several words in each sentence.

But don't let that fool you. Under her light talk lies great political wisdom.

She has made a fine record here as a volunteer worker in a neuro-psychiatric ward in which she became interested after the World War.

The Dickinson pancakes probably would become as famous as the Roosevelt scrambled eggs if white-haired, blue-eyed Mrs. L. J. Dickinson, of both domestic and literary tastes, went to the White House. She doesn't trust her husband's favorite dish of Iowa flap-jacks to any amateur.

She's one of a pair of twins born to the comfort and plenty of a prominent family of the tall corn state. Her twin brother is Roscoe Call, Iowa insurance man. In the capital she has taken an alert, intelligent role, writing to home papers her keen observations on events as they unfolded. She's devoted to her four grandchildren, one here, three in Des Moines.

This country already knows Lou Henry Hoover in the First Lady role. She was the gracious hostess to more guests, while her husband was president, than ever had been entertained previously in any four White House years. Her parties were perfectly appointed. Yet her closest friends knew she got her keenest enjoyment from mountains and trees and flowers.

The Knox cohorts laud Mrs. Frank Knox as a budget-balancer—she's said to have saved $500 in three years on her husband's early income of $12 and $22 a week. She was Annie Reid of Alma, Mich., and met her husband while she was in college.

Years of a throat affliction have caused pretty Mrs. Knox, whose eyes are amazingly blue, to retire to a New Hampshire garden, which she frankly prefers to public life. Slender, dark-haired, dimpled Theo Cobb Landon, of Kansas, would bring to the White House two lively small children, Nancy Jo, 3 1/2 and John Cobb, 2, a youthful step-daughter, Peggy Ann, 18—and a whole string of bobbies, harp as well as piano in music, collecting early American glass, and other antiques, horseback riding.

Doesn't Want Job

By the time of her eighteenth wedding anniversary, next June 14, Hazel Vandenberg will know if her "dark horse" husband will make the race. She insists she hopes their future will hold simplicity instead—the chance to just get off together "and have the best time."

She's a smooth-haired, dark-eyed, straight-seeing person, a former school teacher, newspaper reporter, social service worker and advertising woman. Right after she was married, she went back to her desk at the Chicago Tribune, took a look at a clothes hamper full of true love stories, but wouldn't sell her own, which was worth the daily prize of $5.

She met Arthur Vandenberg in college. He was engaged. Fifteen years later, when he was a widower, they met again, and were wed.

Sees Use Of Helium Gas To Relieve Asthma, Points To Need Of Supply

KANSAS CITY, May 14 (UP)—The United States government is holding back relief for thousands of sufferers from asthma through its monopolistic control of helium gas, Dr. Alvan L. Barach, of New York, told the American Medical association in convention here.

Dr. Barach perfected a technique that, he says, relieves asthma through the administration of helium gas which is used as a non-inflammable substitute for hydrogen gas in both rigid and non-rigid dirigibles. Not until the government releases a part of its hoard to hospitals and physicians at near cost of production, can this treatment be given to sufferers of average means, he said.

When the United States embarked on a lighter than air military program with the acquisition of the dirigibles Shenandoah and Los Angeles, it established a near monopoly on the extraction of helium gas. Its chl. extraction plant is at Amarillo, Texas. Because of the federal monopolistic control, Dr. Barach said, helium gas costs $36 a tank whereas it could be sold at a little more than cost of production, or $5 a tank, he said.

Dr. Barach, a research worker, described his asthma technique. He mixes helium with oxygen, making an "air" in which helium is substituted for the heavier nitrogen occurring in the ordinary atmosphere. This lighter mixture is easier for labored lungs to breathe while either nature or the physician effects a cure.

The treatment also was found effective in relieving other forms of obstructed breathing such as that resulting from infections of the larynx or trachea or obstruction of a foreign nature. In some cases, he was able to relieve patients whose condition prevented operations for the removal of tumors or other obstructions and strengthen them to the point where operations could be performed without danger.

In March of this year, 70,123 passengers and 835,541 pounds of express were carried, and 4,834,699 miles, 31,615,386 passenger miles and 230,688,857 express pound miles were flown by the companies making reports.

Keep Cut Flowers Fresh With Simple Care

If one must economize and still desires flowers in the house every day, their cost can be cut in two by proper care to make them last as long as possible.

When flowers are cut from the plant, their life is prolonged rather than shortened. In the florist's refrigerator they are held at a temperature which slows up the changes which are natural to all plants; and when they are removed to a vase or bowl in the house it is still possible to maintain their freshness and beauty for days.

A continuous supply of fresh water is their first need. This means changing the water once a day, and where the container is not large, oftener. Flowers should be submerged in water to one-third the length of the stem. In cases where shallow bowls are used, more frequent changes of water, and submersion of over one-half of the stem at night are necessary. Milk bottles or other deep containers will serve for this overnight refreshment. It also helps to cut off a bit of the stem each day, using a slanting cut with a sharp knife.

There is a temptation to let water remain more than a day in the vase where it means disturbing an elaborate arrangement. This can be avoided by procuring a length of small hose, with which you can siphon off the old water and pour in fresh without touching a bloom. Drafts, during both warm and cold weather, are much more dangerous to cut flowers than to humans. Place your vases in a part of the room to avoid them, and the flowers will last longer. Discard the stories you hear about aspirin, salt or sugar reviving fading blooms. Exhaustive scientific tests have shown them to be of no value whatever. The most beneficial treatment for wilting flowers is to take them one by one and cut off an inch or more of lifeless stems under water. A slanting cut with a sharp knife is best. This sends a flow of moisture into them which often works wonders.

The problem of keeping the water sweet at all times may be difficult where the container is shallow, and a small quantity of water only can be used. In such cases, fresh changes must be made frequently, although a small piece of charcoal, or a drop of formalin to a quart of water will be helpful.

Keep an eye on them on hot summer days, when the water is likely to evaporate more quickly, or direct rays of the sun will them.

Members of the Idle Art bridge club were charmingly entertained Wednesday evening by Mrs. Harold Lytle at her home.

Mrs. John Ross Williamson, visitor, made the highest score. A novelty salad plate was passed to Mrs. Williamson and the following members: Misses Evelyn Merrill, Veda Robinson, Imogene Run-

EUROPE'S SWEEP OF AFRICA ENDS WITH CONQUEST OF ETHIOPIA BY FASCIST FORCES

Italian conquest of Ethiopia ends a lengthy chapter of African history which has seen the entire continent with the exception of tiny Liberia, a republic fostered by the United States, pass into the control of European powers. The map above tells the story.

The Phoenicians founded Carthage about 800 B. C., and 200 years later Greece founded Cyrene. Three hundred years later, Alexander the Great marched to the Nile and left his name to a new city, Alexandria. Rome capped these European excursions into Africa by consolidating the northern part of the continent after the fall of Carthage in 146 B. C.

Arabs, in the seventh century, swept the Romans out of control. Nine hundred years later the Turks supplanted the Arabs, but land-hungry Europeans would not be denied. Vasco da Gama, the Portuguese, led the vanguard of European explorers and traders, when he sailed around southern Africa in 1488. He was followed closely by English, Spaniards, Dutch, French and Danes.

Rival powers soon began seizing territory. European holdings at the outbreak of the World war ranked as follows: British, French, German, Belgian, Portuguese, Turkish, Italian, Spanish. Independent territory, including Ethiopia and Liberia, comprised less than one-twentieth of the continent. Germany's colonies went to the Allies as the result of the World war.

The outbreak of the Ethiopian war found Africa divided as follows: Britain, 4,334,000 square miles; France, 4,200,000; Belgium, 930,000; Portugal, 788,000; Italy, 680,000; Ethiopia (independent), 350,000; Spain, 140,000; Liberia (independent), 40,000.

DEATH VERDICT IN RANCH MURDER CASE UPHHELD BY COURT

AUSTIN, May 14. (UP)—The death verdict against Antonio Carrasco, convicted in Hudspeth county of the ranch murder of Mrs. Riley Smith in Culberson county, was affirmed today by the court of criminal appeals here.

Both Mrs. Smith and her husband were killed. Carrasco was tried for her death. Testimony about the ranchman's death was also given at the trial but the court decided the two deaths were one transaction and so mingled that the testimony was proper.

Carrasco, a ranch hand, reported at Van Horn on June 2, 1934 that he had found the ranch house burned upon his return from an errand. The bodies were in the ruins.

In his appeal Carrasco had complained that there were no Mexicans on the grand jury. The court ment chief C. A. Paxton and Liquor Administrator Charles Miller.

New Orders Are Issued By WPA Chief

Workers Who Organize Not To Be Black-Listed, Hopkins Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 14. (UP)—Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins issued a double-barreled order to all state WPA directors instructing them that they must not employ armed guards and cannot blacklist needy workers who organize.

His action came the day following a conference with Victor F. Ridder, New York City WPA administrator, who employed a detachment of guards to protect his office against anti-WPA demonstrators.

Other state WPA directors have been accused of discriminating against workers who sought to form their own unions.

Hopkins also said that state WPA directors could not employ their own investigators to "spy" on WPA workers.

The order, he said, was issued "in the interest of good labor relations" in the $4,000,000,000 work-relief program. His order read:

"1. Maintenance of order is the function of local and state governments, and if protection is necessary in connection with WPA activities it should be secured from the regular police force of the locality. WPA funds shall not be used for the employment of armed guards.

"2. Where investigations are required, such matters will be handled by the division of investigation of the federal works progress administration. This investigation service will not be used to spy on workers nor concern itself with legitimate organizational activities of WPA workers. No investigation will be made or investigators employed directly by state or district offices of the works progress administration.

"3. The use of the 'blacklist' or any other list that may serve to discriminate against individual workers or groups is prohibited. The administration will not permit any discriminatory practices that may operate to work hardship on unemployed persons because of their beliefs, organizational activities, or affiliations."

CLEVELAND GETS MANY MEETINGS FOR CENTENNIAL

CLEVELAND, May 14. (UP)—The two factors that contribute more than any others to Cleveland's greatness are its citizens, according to Munson Havens, executive-secretary of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

Havens is one of the civic leaders who helped arrange hundreds of conventions for the city in 1936 its centennial. Among the organizations that will meet here are the Republican party, the Socialist party and the American Legion and auxiliaries.

"People at a distance" said Havens, "might think of Cleveland as an iron and steel town, and that is correct, but this is no one-industry town.

"Cleveland has been a center of industrial and commercial wealth for many decades and the prosperity of its citizens is reflected in its cultural development—the splendid buildings of its art museum and music hall, its symphony orchestra, nationally known universities, medical centers, hundreds of fine churches and thousands of beautiful homes.

"Cleveland was the originator of the community fund, adopted by cities throughout the country, and in 17 years has contributed $71,000,000 to welfare work through this medium.

"The many visitors who will come to Cleveland this summer will see a city conscious of its greatness and displaying its industry, beauty and civic spirit by means of the Great Lakes Exposition, held to celebrate the centennial of its incorporation as a city."

Tramp, 94 Sent to Jail

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (UP)—Believed to be the oldest tramp in Canada, if not on the continent, Patrick Barry, 94, was recently sentenced to a ten-day jail term on a drunk charge. The old man, who claims to have roamed the world, is well known in this district.

found they had not been excluded.

A complaint that the deputy sheriff summoning a venire had not been sworn was found unsupported by the record of exceptions. The decision also held that jurors who expressed an opinion that Mrs. Smith's body was in the ruins were eligible to serve as they had formed no opinion about Carrasco's guilt or innocence.

THEY TELL ME IT'S THE CLEAN SPRING WATER THAT GIVES COORS ITS FINE FLAVOR.

Yes, it is the water—plussed by finest grains, perfect brewing technique and patient double aging

It is significant that the finest beer in America and the premium brew of Continental Europe should each draw their brew waters from the glacial snows of mountain peaks. The rugged Rockies, like the towering Alps, supplies the Coors plant with gushing springs of pure, sparkling water, ideal in its mineral content and biological purity for beer brewing. This is one important reason for that taste-tempting flavor of Coors Export Lager and its dominant popularity.

increased the circulation of books in both libraries.

Books worn until they were useless for library purposes have been reconditioned and replaced on library shelves. Additional books supplied by the project sponsor have been catalogued and classified. Workers complete volumes from which pages have been torn by copying the missing sections from similar books. Newspapers and other periodicals have been indexed, catalogued, bound, and made available for student and faculty reference and research work.

Saving of replacements by the reconditioning of old books has made it possible for school authorities to purchase new books, thus broadening the scope of library accommodations.

Big Spring WPA officials disclosed similar work being performed in other cities and counties of this area. Appreciation for the library work being done in Lamesa was expressed by V. Z. Rogers, superintendent of Lamesa schools. Praising the work of these WPA employees, Mr. Rogers wrote Mrs. Mary Delbridge, district supervisor of women's work, as follows:

"The library project in the local schools has been of more worth to this system, pupils, and the work than I can estimate in full. The care of books, the help rendered in seeking subject matter, the orderly habits of procedure established and enforced, the repair of books, and the lifting of periodicals and magazines, and proper use of newspapers have all made for improvements in the local situation.

"The workers have become more and more proficient and have been loyal in every respect."

oners had armed themselves with prison-made dirks.

As they were being lined up shortly before noon, the plotters overpowered Cops.

Dragging him to a tower at the gate, the convicts threatened to kill him unless guards on the tower handed down their guns.

Kenny said the guards complied, surrendering two rifles and two pistols.

Armed, the convicts seized Powell and Gossett, rushed with them outside the brickyard gate and commandeered Gossett's automobile.

Guards on the tower opened fire on the fleeing automobile and mowed down the ten convicts attempting to escape on foot. Kenny said Gossett might have been wounded in the exchange of shots as the convicts returned the fire.

Others Orderly

In the brickyard with the 22 prisoners were nearly 100 others who made no attempt to escape, Kenny said.

Kenny said 11 convicts piled in to the guard's automobile with the two guards. Apparently, he said, six of the prisoners were forced to get off, for they were picked up along the road as nine carloads of guards set out in pursuit.

The sixth prisoner at large commandeered a prison ice truck, which was found abandoned at a roadside. Bloodhounds from the prison were sent into the brush after him.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

The Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass a pint a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with acidity amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

Italian Empire Bill Ratified By Duce's Deputies

ROME, May 14 (UP)—The chamber of deputies clamorously and unanimously ratified a bill creating the Italian empire in the presence of Premier Mussolini and his government today. Demobilization of the Italian army was continued despite strained relations with the league of nations.

Meanwhile, well informed fascists predicted Italy's quarrel with the league may become a fundamental dispute involving all Europe.

The thought in high Italian circles was put into words by Virgilio Gayda, the authoritative writer, in this fashion:

"A quarrel created between fiction and reality; between Geneva and Thessalon, active entity of Italy, can become a fundamental, open quarrel in the midst of Europe."

"Italy will not have provoked it. It will not be Italy who will feel the possible consequences.

Neither diplomatic sources nor government officials would answer the question whether Italy would definitely quit the league at its June session.

FD's Letters Not Court Evidence, Is Judge's Ruling

WASHINGTON, May 14 (UP)—President Roosevelt's personal correspondence—letters written to outline administration policies—cannot be used as court evidence, District Supreme Court Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat ruled today.

His decision blocked an important phase of the case of five utility companies seeking to have the new deal's $200,000,000 municipal power program declared unconstitutional.

Their two attorneys, Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, and Dean Acheson, ex-assistant treasury secretary, had sought to force the government to produce a letter Mr. Roosevelt wrote PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes Sept. 10, 1934, outlining the government's power policy.

The two one-time cabinet members asserted the letter would prove their contention that the new deal "was using hundreds of millions of taxpayers' dollars in a campaign to 'get' private utility companies."

President Roosevelt himself entered the case. He sent word to the courtroom, through Jerome Frank, PWA attorney, that he did not consider his letters privileged matter.

Prize Novel, 'Honey In The Horn,' Not The Sweet Tale Title Implies

Harold L. Davis, who won the Pulitzer prize with his novel, "Honey in the Horn," demonstrates he can sail a boat as well as ride a horse.

Ralph Bellamy And Fay Wray Starred In Ritz Picture

NEW YORK, May 14 (UP)—A "first novel" which brought the Pulitzer prize to a former Oregon cowboy is a hell-roaring, gun-totin' story of homesteading days in the Pacific northwest.

Sinclair Lewis called it "One of those uncommon books that really express a land and an age."

H. L. Mencken said therein "the noble old quality of gusto returns to the American novel at high voltage."

These are not publisher's blurbs for the jacket. Harold L. Davis' "Honey in the Horn," despite its sweet title, is all of that—a story of 30 years ago in the Oregon country.

Restless Pioneers

Clay Clavert, hero of the book, is a sullen, phlegmatic youth who never really seems to come alive. Mentally, he is a child, as is Luce, his wife.

HUGE CABLES HOLD NEW BRIDGE

the girl, who moves with him through the novel's nebulous plot. Most of the characters are morose. Occasionally they seem to be mad.

The characters tell a story of the shifting, shiftless thousands who settled America and earned for themselves the name of pioneers.

They are not the thrifty folk who settled in towns and laid the foundation for urban society, but the restless whites, half-breed Indians, Chinese, Mexicans, hard-drinking godless souls who bickered and fought and murdered and stole on the nation's frontiers and in the end left the land free for settlement by the substantial element which moved in their wake.

Davis wrote the novel in Mexico where he had gone on an award from the Guggenheim foundation. It gives the impression he wrote it because he could not help it, because it was "something he had to get off his chest."

It is filled with recollections of his childhood—tall tales of hard-bitten frontiersmen, and of incidents supposed to have occurred in 1908.

"Honey in the Horn" was published in the late summer after it had won the $7,500 Harper's prize novel award. Davis, with his wife, who had been seriously ill during Tenn., when notified he had also annexed the $1,000 Pulitzer award.

Subsidy Payments Of $2100 Made To Glasscock Growers

Thirty-six subsidy payments brought $1,200 to Glasscock county cotton producers Thursday. The payment, representing approximately half due the farmers of that county, was in the nature of adjustments between the market price and 12 cents per pound.

With one more day to go, it was estimated at the county agent's office that about 90 per cent of the producers of this county have filed work sheets for the new federal soil conservation program. The work sheets are required for participation in the federal farm program.

GULF FIGURING ON RODESSA ACREAGE

HOUSTON, May 14 (UP)—Walter Byron, head of the Houston office of Gulf Oil corporation said today his company was negotiating with Standard Oil company of Louisiana on a deal involving a large spread of acreage in the Rodessa oil field.

"We haven't closed the trade yet and until we do, we do not want to discuss details," Byron said.

If the deal goes through, it will be the third large transaction on the Louisiana-Texas field's producing properties within a month.

Two other trades involved properties valued at approximately $10,000,000.

Gulf has laid a pipeline into the Rodessa field and is one of the largest producers of crude in the oil pool which was discovered last year and already has more than 125 producers.

Slow Start In Spring Will Aid Game

By LAWSON LITTLE CHICAGO, May 14—Now that the winter in the northern part of the United States seems to have subsided, it looks like the time has arrived for those who have been snowbound to get ready to exchange their clubs from the family closet and begin to give golf some serious consideration.

During the winter these snow-bound golfers have not been able to avail themselves of the opportunity of playing outdoor golf.

Other Sports Little Aid to Golf

The reason for this is that they develop muscles that are not used in golf.

The golfer should not worry too much about his early-season rounds, because everyone in the Sunday morning foursome will have the same trouble unless some member spent a little time in a southern climate.

After a winter layoff practically all of us get a strong urge to get out on the course, and begin just where we left off in the fall.

OLYMPIC EVENTS TO BE FEATURE

By JOHN F. FRANISH United Press Staff Correspondent PHILADELPHIA, May 14. (UP)—Eastern college teams will dominate the 60th annual track and field championships of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, to be held at Pennsylvania's Franklin field, May 29 and 30.

Pacific Coast universities, which have carried off scoring honors for many years, will not enter the meet this year, leaving a wide-open bid for the title by the eastern group.

Manhattan, New York university, Harvard, Yale, Cornell and several others will battle for the team championship which in recent years has been monopolized by Southern California, Stanford and California.

Two Olympic tryout events have been added to the I. C. 4-A program this year and will attract many amateurs not in the college group.

The 10,000-meter run, open to college athletes and members of clubs and other organizations, and the 3,000-meter steeplechase, which had been a feature of the annual Pennsylvania Relay carnival until this year, are the added events.

The withdrawal of the Far West's brilliant sprinters, hurdlers and field event men will bring a great change in individual standings as well as the team championships, which will be left undefended this year by the Southern California Trojans.

Pacific Coast athletes won seven of the 15 individual events on the I. C. 4-A program at Harvard stadium in Cambridge, Mass., last year.

Nevertheless, William Allen, manager of this year's meet, announced that the meet will be held at the University of Pennsylvania.

GARDEN TIFFS OVER LEWIS; SECOND BEST FIGHT LOOMS

By DAVIS J. WALSH NEW YORK, May 14.—Suddenly and, in fact, without benefit of previous announcement, the second best fight of the year, after Schmeling and Louis next month, loomed up today while nobody was noticing.

It will take place Aug. 1 when Madison Square Garden attempts to name John Henry Lewis, the negro who holds the title in the class immediately below, as the opponent of James J. Braddock for the world's heavyweight championship.

This, as I understand it, is the garden's present intention with John Henry. It is also threatening action in the courts in an attempt to make its case stand up, whereas the boxing commission will go even further.

"Perfect Case" It will tell Braddock that, unless the garden produces the Schmeling-Louis winner as his opponent by the stipulated deadline in August, he, Braddock, can consider himself free to sign for the match with the rival promoter, Mike Jacobs, as far as John Henry.

"No chance," said Commissioner Bill Brown, with his unflinching vigor. "The first challenger is, and will be, the Schmeling-Louis winner. If Schmeling won and returned to Germany, then who do you think would be next in line? Why, Louis of course. There's no chance of a light heavyweight champion getting in there."

"Plenty of chance," said James J. Johnston, of Madison Square Garden. "If we want to use John Henry Lewis, we have a perfect case against Braddock."

"Lewis kicked Braddock in one fight and the only reason he didn't repeat last year is that they called three rounds against him for low punches. On his records, alone, that puts him as an adequate challenger, and, by September, he'll weigh 185 pounds, so he'll be a heavyweight."

Court Prospects "We'll go to the courts. We really will this time and they'll have to sustain us. The Braddock contract calls for the best available challenger, acceptable to both the garden and the champion, and Louis and Schmeling have nobody to blame but themselves if, as the two leaping challengers, they have made themselves unavailable by signing with a promoter who hasn't got the champion."

"We've got the law on our side, especially with a challenger who has beaten the champion—and we're going to use it."

Quite so, quite so; only the law in this state just about happens to be the boxing commission. So it may be good while it lasts, but it remains only the second big fight of the year. The third, I'm now pretty well convinced, will probably be between Joe Louis and James J. Braddock for and by Promoter Jacobs in September.

Yale Varsity Crew Is Training For Olympics

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14. (UP)—Confronted by a dearth of first rate material and a host of ineligible, Coach Ed Leader of the Yale varsity crew has turned his hand to one of the hardest problems which he has faced in 13 years of coaching the Yale navy—the problem of creating a boat worthy to contend for Olympic honors.

A small but hard schedule faces the varsity, and every man on the squad knows that Yale will have to be one of the best crews in the country to stand a chance in the Olympic tryouts in July. They have determined to do this, all hands realize the magnitude of the task, and nothing has been left to chance which can be accomplished through intelligent work.

A powerful unit has been developed surprisingly smooth in coarsmanship, despite the continual shift of several men on the starboard side. The blade work has suffered in comparison with the oarsmanship of the Yale crews of recent years, but power and a full strong catch are easily discernible as the varsity boat rows the Henley distance on the Housatonic in daily practice. In the padding and the higher rowing there is a good run on the boat with no semblance of a serious check.

BELL WEAKENS FROG'S STAFF

FORT WORTH, May 14. (UP)—It may be that TCU won't forget soon that Madison Bell, head football coach at Southern Methodist, gave whole-hearted recommendation of Raymond (Bear) Wolf, TCU football line coach, to the University of North Carolina, and icipates the largest entry list in many years. The fact that many college athletes are eager to win a berth on the United States Olympic team which will go to Berlin in August is expected to attract a larger field.

Preliminary entry blanks have been mailed to more than 40 members of the intercollegiate association in preparation for the meet which is expected to present some of the nation's finest Olympic prospects.

SETTLES TIED FOR 2ND PLACE

The Cosden Oilers continued their burning pace in the Munny softball league by defeating Shell last night on the park diamond, 14 to 0. Cosden is the only undefeated team in the league, having won three straight games.

The Oilers managed to tally in every inning except the fifth. Martin cracked out a home run in the first frame, and Smith homered in the second with Moxley on base. Martin scored again in the third for the Cosdenites' only mark in that inning, but they broke loose on a scoring spurge in the fourth. Morgan tallied the first Cosden run in the fourth, and Martin, Townsend, Harris, Baker, Smith and Reed all went across in the same inning.

Cosden collected twelve hits, Shell three.

The line-ups: Cosden—Morgan, 2b; Martin, lf; Townsend, ss; Harris, cf; Baker, c; Whittington, rf; Moxley, 2b; West, u; Smith, 1b; Reed, p; Shell—Maxwell, c; Paeck, ss; H. White, ss; Greaves, 2b; Burkart, p; J. White, cf; Smith, 1b; Scuddy, lf; Featherington, 3b; Ramsay, rf; Smith, 1b.

Settles Roadrunners kept on the winning side by defeating Continental, 17 to 11. The victory put Settles in a tie with Cosden Lab for second place in the standings.

The Roadrunners took a safe lead in the fourth by chalking up nine runs. McMahan was the sparkplug in the Settles attack. He got three hits in his five appearances at the plate, and scored three runs.

MacFAYDEN HAS WINNING TALLY

(By The Associated Press) Around the big leagues: Baxter Jordan's tenth-inning single, the first blow in six innings off Relief Hurler Waite Hoyt, sent Danny MacFayden home with the run that gave the Boston Bees a 4 to 3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday.

The Phillies came from behind to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 9 to 7, in a battle of extra base hits, including five doubles, six triples and three homes. Handley, Grace and Lombardi hit the homers.

Bill Werber's home run in the fourth inning with Jimmy Foss and Eric McNair on the bases gave the Boston Red Sox a 2-1 win over the Detroit Tigers.

Monte Pearson held the St. Louis Browns to six scattered hits as the New York Yankees defeated the American league cellar occupants, 4 to 1.

DEVELOPING THE AIRPORT BENEFITS

Someone suggested the other day that, in studying the local airport question, Big Spring citizens should pause to consider what this city's position would be if it had no airport facilities whatsoever.

The answer is, The Herald thinks, that Big Spring is too forward-looking a city ever to permit such a state of affairs to come about; and yet, if some action toward municipal ownership—the plan argued as the best for maintenance of an acceptable landing field—is not taken soon, this city will be threatened with loss of those benefits accruing from aviation facilities.

Let's take a look at the money side of the question. The port itself represents an original investment of something more than $72,000. The Herald is advised that properties and equipment of the department of commerce weather bureau, including its range station, is worth some $70,000. That particular bureau, incidentally, was located here because of Big Spring's being a strategic aviation point, and could conceivably be moved if aviation facilities were not maintained here.

The department of commerce and American Airlines together have regularly employed here nine men. The combined annual payroll, it is reliably reported, is approximately $17,000. Such an investment and such a payroll, while not the largest in the city, are no items to be ignored altogether. On the contrary, they are to be welcomed and encouraged for development. No single contributing item toward a city's business and commercial life should be neglected.

The city has the opportunity, if the voters so decree in a referendum Monday, to assume the port properties at $36,000. Provision is made for $6,000 for improvement, on the assumption that government aid will be forthcoming for the project.

If the airport deal is not consummated at this time, there is serious question as to when forward steps could ever be taken with it. The longer it goes without development, the less chance Big Spring has of enhancing—or even retaining—her position of importance in the West Texas aviation picture.

With the possibility of government aid, with the price at which the property is available and with the aviation outlook considered, The Herald believes that the city at this time has the opportunity of assuming the airport control and operation on the most economical basis.

If this opportunity passes, Big Spring may see herself lose what she fought for years to achieve.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Mussolini's secret war plans call for training a new Ethiopian army, 300,000 strong, made up from the followers of Emperor Haile Selassie.

According to reports cabled by American military attaches abroad, Mussolini was impressed by the military prowess of his adversaries, thinking that if reinforced with poison gas and airplanes they would be the equal of a European army.

The plan is to make each Ethiopian ras (prince) a division commander, thus playing upon his vanity and welding him closer to Fascism. Field Marshal Badoglio will return to command Italy's European forces, while General Graziani, long experienced as commander of colonial tribesmen, will head Italy's new black army.

At this rate the next war may see French, Senegalese, Italian Ethiopians and British Sikhs doing all the fighting, while white men direct operations from the rear.

Senate Poet: Here is another poem which Jesse H. Metcalf, millionaire Senator from Rhode Island, has sent to The Sheboygan Weekly, "World's Smallest Newspaper":

"I thank my God the sun and the moon Are both stuck up so high, That no presumptuous hand can stretch And pluck them from the sky."

If they were not, I do believe That some reforming ass Would recommend to take them down And light the world with gas."

Hot Potatoes: The business advisory council is a committee of big business executives organized by Secretary Dan Roper early in the new deal. Its announced purpose is to act as an unofficial liaison agency between business and the government.

Roper takes the council very seriously. The White House does not, and the following recent incidents explain its indifference:

After the supreme court's decision in the Sugar Institute case, in which the court for the first time specifically defined a number of illegal trade practices, Lincoln Filene, Boston department store magnate, proposed his colleagues on the advisory council that they take the lead in eliminating unfair trade practices from business.

He submitted a tentative list of such practices; argued that by voluntary outlawing them, business men would show the country they were capable of the self-government they are constantly demanding.

Filene's proposal hit the council like a bombshell. His fellow business magnate reacted with snarl and fury. In the heated debate, charges were made that some members were hostile to the plan only because they were guilty of the very practices condemned by the supreme court.

In the end, Filene's proposal was buried under an avalanche of noise.

Another Try: Echoes of this row had barely subsided, when the council's committee on trade practices brought in a report that renewed the battle all over again.

The committee recommended that the council adopt a set of rules of fair trade practices and circulate it among the business men of the country together with a formal pledge, under which the business men would bind themselves to abide by the regulations.

The proposal was met with a mild character, copied from similar rules in NRA and federal trade commission codes. But again the council balked.

It refused to approve the committee's rules or its plan. Instead, a "compromise" proposal was adopted. The committee could, if it wished, send out a list of fair trade practices—but only as its suggestions.

While turning thumbs down on these two proposals, the council sent a private letter to business leaders throughout the country urging a concerted drive on congress to eliminate the capital surplus tax.

Wild and Woolly: Frederic A. Delano, the president's uncle and new head of the Richmond, Va., Federal Reserve bank, met an old friend whom he had not seen for a long time.

"Well, George," he said, "tell me—what side of the fence are you on these days?"

"Fred, I'm on the left bank and getting left all the time. In fact, I'm getting so leftist I'm becoming afraid of myself."

Delano laughed heartily, replied: "You have nothing on me, George. I'm the same way. Look at me show you." He pulled out a small leather-bound notebook. "I jotted down some biographical notes the other day," he continued. "Here they are: 'Graduated from Harvard—conservative.'"

CENTENNIAL TRAIN TRIP EAST WORTH MILLIONS TO TEXAS

DALLAS, May 14—The Texas Centennial special train was worth $100,000,000 in ultimate benefits to Texas in its triumphant tour through the east and middle west, eminent economists estimated as it elapsing between the trip from Dallas to New York and return. Governors of all states and mayors of all cities participated in receptions for the cowboy-hatted Texans.

Home Styles Found Changing NEW YORK (UP)—The tricked-up entrance hall, basement game room, dining alcove off the kitchen and many another fancy fixing considered necessary to the small house of the 1920s, are just as out-of-date now as the iron stag, the gingerbread porch and the cozy corners of the '30s, a survey by the Architectural Forum indicates.

Oregon's Vote Friday To Test Townsend Men

Interest Centers In Poll For Age Pension Plan; Borah Unopposed

SALEM, Ore., May 14 (UP)—There will be no doubt about Oregon's presidential preferences in the primary election tomorrow. President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner are unopposed on the democratic ticket. Candidates for the 10 seats as delegates to the party's national convention in Philadelphia are pledged to the administration.

Sen. William E. Borah and William S. Bennett, New York attorney, are unopposed for president and vice president on the republican ballot, and the state's 10 delegates to the convention in Cleveland will go instructed to vote for them on at least the first ballot.

After that, the delegation is expected to switch to Sen. Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, the convention's keynote speaker, and support him if he shows any strength as a dark-horse candidate.

Williams May Be Deposed: Ralph E. Williams, dean of the republican national committee, who sponsored Steiwer as keynote, faces a fight for re-election against a younger republican and a Townsend organizer.

Five of the 12 republican congressional candidates and four of the 12 democrats openly espouse the plan. Only one opposes it outright, and even he lists old age pension legislation as one of his aims.

Sen. Charles L. McNary, minority leader, with a record of 20 years continuous service, faces his first real battle for renomination. Sam H. Brown, farmer, and Theodore G. Nelson, realtor, both of McNary's own home county, oppose him for the republican nomination. Both men are Townsendites. Brown is a former state senator and unsuccessful candidate for governor. Nelson has never before figured in Oregon politics.

Chapter 37
MORGAN'S SHARE
 Morgan's voice, deep, beautiful, a little roughened, came over the wire like a remembrance of everything peaceful and safe and lost.
 "Well, Iris, my dear, how's everything?"
 "To begin with, you were right and I was wrong. I wasn't wise enough for the game I was playing. Morgan—is it a private wire?"
 "Safe as churches."
 "Morgan—Phina and my mother. It seems we immigrated girls from Ireland. Don't misunderstand. I'm prouder of Mother than if she'd been a queen, making good as she did. I'm proud of Phina, too; but she made up a crazy story about being a Southerner with an aristocratic Civil War background. I'd never lived with anybody who made up things for their own advantage. I can see now I was dumber than twenty rabbits."
 There was a little affectionate laugh at the other end of the wire.
 "I was singing in a concert that was all tied up with social stuff and getting into the Junior League and one of the girls made things seem so that I'd been lying right through."
 "You poor baby. Want me to come over and kill her?"
 "I want you to come over and tell Mrs. Morgan that I honestly didn't know anything about Mother and Phina."
 There was a long silence at the other end of the telephone. Then:
 "Tell whom, did you say?"
 "Mrs. Morgan—Mrs. James O'Gden Morgan. She's been so good to me, and I like her so. Come to the Community House here—"
 Iris's voice grew sharp with terror, "for if you don't, before seven tonight—"
 "I know, I understand. You're asking a good deal more of me than you can tell, Iris. But I won't fail you. Good-bye." He hung up.
 Camilla touched her. "Come, you can't stay here, Iris. Shall I drive you home?"
 "No, no—I couldn't go home. I don't want to see Aunt Phina or anybody till it's over. And Allan might go there to find me. Let time in a good many years—"

 "Are you the man named Black Iris Lanning sent for?" Then she reverted to the more pressing thing.
 "They found a body—with an envelope addressed to you inside the bill-fold pocket—"
 "Good heavens! What a coward you must have thought me. Wait, I remember... a poor devil who begged me for money to save him from suicide. I thought he was laying it on thick. I gave him some, and the telephone number of the Yale Club on the back of an envelope... Well, evidently it didn't save him."
 His grandmother, who had both arms around him as if he might melt away from her, said practically: "But didn't you see anything in the papers? And what about your bank account?"
 "I'd drawn it in cash. I have it in the Perste bank. I didn't want anything I owned except just that. No, I didn't see any papers, and I didn't want to. I'd seen enough papers."
 "I know, darling." The sharp clear voice was gentle and understanding. "We thought you'd given away every cent, and then..."
 She stopped and put him back, to look at him. "Oh, darling, how well and strong you look. How glad your mother would have been. Darling, you must come back now, and stay. We've rented Woodlands—Allan and I—to the Ross woman for a year. But you'll come back, you'll stay here with me till the case is up."
 He shook his head. "I'm not far off, dear, and perhaps you might lay with me part of the time. But I've found my niche. I'm practicing law at a Pennsylvania county seat—doing it damn well, if you ask me. Living with the old Lannings, Iris's aunt and uncle—the inest people, except my Granny, he Lord ever made. In partnership with Uncle Will Lanning."
 He was talking on enthusiastically. He nodded shamefacedly. "I'd have come, not very long from now, anyhow. I didn't want to—yet—don't ask me to go into it. But—I'm not very lucky about girls, I guess. I—wanted Iris." (Copyright, 1935-36, Margaret Widdemer)
 Triumph, tomorrow, is a little hollow for Iris.

This Associated Press chart makes an interesting comparison between the old Roman Empire at its greatest extent, and Italian possessions today. All of Italy's colonies in Africa have been purchased or taken since 1900.

Life Span Set by Bay Span
SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—John H. P. Gedde, 49 gold hunter and already 93 years old, has vowed he will live to cross the two new bridges which are being erected across San Francisco Bay and the Golden Gate. They are to be completed next year. Gedde was born in Tasmania in 1843.

TALKS SELF TO BENCH
DENVER, May 14 (AP)—Talking one's self out of the ball game is an unusual experience for a high school baseball player. It happened to Ken McLeod, East High catcher, who expressed such disgust over a decision at the plate in a game with North that Umpire T. Mitchell Burns waved him to the bench.

STRUCK BY DISCUS
PHILLIPSBURG, Kan., May 14 (AP)—Two high school girls were knocked unconscious when struck by a discus at a county high school track meet here. A wild throw sent the plate spinning into the crowd. Both girls were struck on the head and both were hit by the flat surface of the discus rather than by the edge.

Buttonhole Bouquets Are Back

British King Revives Old-time Custom Of Gay Nineties

Edward VIII, whose example in dress influences fashions for men over most of the civilized world, wears a maroon carnation on the lapel of his evening clothes.
 This has definitely set a fashion which is reviving generally one of the pleasant customs of the gay nineties, when no member of the male sex with pretensions to good form considered himself properly apparelled for any social function without a flower in his buttonhole.
 A flower worn by a man gives an indefinable touch to his costume. It immediately sets the wearer off as one who has carefully prepared himself for whatever he may be doing. If worn by a salesman, it compliments his prospects. The sailor who calls on his lady fair, not only bringing her flowers, but wearing one himself, appears in the best possible light as being thoughtful of others, and respecting himself.
 "I have always followed the practice of wearing a flower in my lapel," said a veteran business man, who made his start in the nineties. "My clothes have not always been new, but I have always felt well dressed. My friends and customers have that impression of me, and they tell me that the flower which I wear helped them form a favorable impression of me at our first meeting, and made them remember me."
 Carnations rank first in favor with men for their own wear, no doubt because of size and form, which make them suitable for a boutonniere. Maroon or dark red carnations are worn at present with evening attire, but for street and business wear, the flower should match the tie.
 The blue bachelor's button, otherwise known as the cornflower, is very popular with many men and

Costs Of War Seen By Italy As Investment

Ethiopia May Supply The Romans With Many Raw Materials

ROME, May 14 (AP)—Italy's military success in Ethiopia has brought her to the second phase of the African venture, making it pay.
 Published appropriations for the war to date total 10,000,000,000 lire, equivalent to about a billion dollars.
 The war costs were raised in four ways: by taxes, by conversion of Italy's 5.1-2 per cent bonds, by requisitioning of foreign credits and securities held by Italians, and by gifts of gold and jewelry.
 For this price, leaving aside "up-keep," Italy expects to have obtained not only 350,000 square miles of territory but a life-giving supply of raw materials upon which to base her future fight for economic independence.

 Ethiopia can provide many, if not all, the raw materials that Italy lacks—coal, cereals, vegetables, cotton, wool, rubber, iron and other metals, sugar, timber and, perhaps, oil. All these products have been found in Ethiopia, even though in small quantities in some instances.
 Mussolini expects to develop them. He reasons that Ethiopia's potential wealth should not be measured by what the Ethiopians have made it.
 Whether Italy can raise the capital to develop that wealth remains to be seen. To fascist economists, comparing the conquered country with the United States' acquisitions and their subsequent yields, it seems a reasonable investment.
 When the United States bought Alaska from Russia, for example, it appeared less valuable than does Ethiopia, but it has brought the United States annual products ranging recently from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.
 From the Philippine Islands, with less than a third as much territory as Ethiopia, the United States has reaped an annual trade of from $130,000,000 to $200,000,000.

West and Civilization Clash
BRIDGE, Ore. (UP)—When civilization and the West clash there is bound to be trouble, telephone company trouble-shooters here agree. A farmer tamed a cougar on a telephone pole and in shooting the animal down had shot through long distance telephone wires.

me stay here."
 "No. Get hold of yourself." Camilla put a heavy coat around her.
 "I'll drive you back to my place; there's nobody there but the servants. Mother's away, you know."
 She put her arm through Iris's and drew her out through a basement door and to her own runabout.
 "Camilla, be honest with me. What did people think?"
 "Everybody always knew Phina was climbing. Of course, Owen could go anywhere—a twitch of pain came over Camilla's face—"but he never would. It has all seemed like a game of paper dolls to me. And then, when you made good with Mrs. Morgan and Allan began rushing you, people began to take you seriously, and Georgia, being what she is, had to strike. Not that it matters, I think it will all pull straight."
 "Camilla, you're being so splendid to me!"
 Camilla spoke through the rushing twilight, not turning her face from the road, harshly:
 "Oh, I had my ax to grind, too, at first. You were Owen's sister. Owen's nothing to do with it now; you've been splendid to me—I love you. Iris, you have to tell me the truth. Is what Georgia said about Owen caring for the Silverwheel girl—true?"
 "It's true that Owen did love Sigrid Swenson, but it's broken off, and she's gone abroad. Oh, you're so splendid, Camilla, Owen must love you."
 Camilla made no answer to that. After a silence, she said: "Did you ever hear of my father, old Johnny Wendell? They said he was made of iron. I've always hated being like him—Mother always used it as a reproach. But I'm beginning to think it's not bad. I'm not breaking stuff, I find—and I'm rather glad. I wish I remembered him."
 Presently they had arrived, and Camilla left Iris in a distant, silent bedroom. Her own room was next door. Iris thought she heard Camilla sobbing. For herself, she lay on her back on the bed and tried not to follow the hours. Morgan was at West Philadelphia. . . . He was near Penn Station.
 About that time she turned over and began to cry into Mrs. Wendell's deep soft pillows; tears that, though she did not know it, kept her from breaking down. She cried and she prayed.
 At seven a maid brought a tray of food. She sat up and made herself eat something. By the time she was dressed and made up again, Camilla's knock sounded at the door. She would be on around eight—perhaps eight-thirty, amateur things were always late.
 Morgan would be in New York by now. She must stop thinking of Morgan. It was like Sheridan's Ride. She made herself laugh shakily, and went out and met tall, steady Camilla.

Morgan Black, having been told at the Community House by a terrified maid that Mrs. Morgan was resting at her own home, drove there. He compressed his lips, then walked straight through the garden and in at a half-hidden side door, and up the stairs to the half-shut door of a book-lined room. Mrs. Morgan was sitting, as he had thought she would be, behind the old-fashioned ornate walnut knee-hole desk.
 "Grandmother," he said. He was shocked to see her throw up her head, turn white and half collapse in her chair. He ran over and put his arms around her.
 "Dear, what is it? Why are you so upset? I ought to have explained, but I thought it was easier to come—"
 "Jim. We thought you were dead. You pretended you were dead—"
 "Granny, I'm terribly sorry. I never pretended to be dead. I wrote you I was going abroad for a couple of years, and that I wouldn't write again for a long time. By an impulse I landed in Persia, a little place near Philadelphia, and stayed there because I was happy there, for the first
