Bush stumps for votes during stop here

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN

Editor-Publisher

An upbeat George W. Bush, campaigning with all the zest of a traveling evangelist, visited Hereford Thursday afternoon and night and proclaimed that Texas is straying from its roots and "people are not happy with the status quo."

Bush, the Republican nominee for governor, will face incumbent Democrat Ann Richards in the Nov. 8 general election. Frank Barrett, county campaign chairman, introduced Bush at the events.

After greeting supporters and interested citizens at the Hereford Municipal Airport at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, Bush made a stop at Hereford Feedyard, talked to more local residents at Rivera Produce, then concluded the day with a fundraising event at the Carroll and Ruth Newsome home. Fran Toohey, county Republican chairman, was present at the reception hosted by Fred and Josie Rivera.

Earlier Thursday, Bush spoke at the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Dallas. Today he is scheduled to appear in Pampa, Borger and Dumas.

"I am feeling very confident and upbeat about this race," Bush said a couple of times yesterday. "I'm going to win; I can see it in the faces of the people...they can see that Texas is straying from its roots and beginning to look like California or New York."

Bush said he "loved to campaign in rural communities...talk to people on a one-on-one basis--and tell people who still believe in family values that I won't forget them."

Calling for a change in state government, he said spending has increased dramatically and that, with some 26,000 new state employees, Texas now has more people working directly for the state than does New York. Bush, son of former President George H. Walker Bush, called for reform in education, criminal justice and general government operations.

Bush said it is time to make both government and the individual citizens of the state accountable for their actions. And, he stressed that point again while talking about the juvenile justice system and welfare reform. His audiences here apparently liked the message as they interrupted his talk several times with applause.

He said it's time for people receiving welfare and other government assistance to become accountable themselves. "My welfare reform plan will empower people on welfare to change their lives and liberate them from dependence on government."

He proposes limiting benefits to two years, limiting benefits for mothers have additional children while on welfare, and requiring able-bodied recipients to work, learn or train.

"We have an obligation to take care of those who cannot take care of themselves, but the system diminishes the motivation to work."

Bush also proposed that people who fail to pay court-ordered child support should have their licenses--from driver's license to hunting licenses--revoked.

He said centralized administration of all education programs in Texas is choking the efforts of local school districts to educate children. "I want one standard in the classroom and that excellence, he said, adding that it should be judged on how well a student performs in four basic areas--reading, writing, arithmetic and science.

He also said that schools, at the choice of local voters, should have the right to become independent of the Texas Education Association as long as they meet testing standards.

Stating that the state's criminal justice system is not working, Bush said the punishment risks of crime no longer outweigh the financial rewards. He said he wants to challenge the court case that forced massive and costly reforms in the Texas prison system.

"If tents and temporary barracks are good enough for military people, they ought to be good enough for the criminals of Texas," he proclaimed.

He said he is opposed to a personal income tax and said that tort reform is needed. "We must get rid of frivolous and junk lawsuits that are clogging our courts."

Accountability, he said, must also extend to the governor. "All public policy must be open and honest." And, he noted that one of the most direct ways a governor can be effective is in appointing quality individuals to the numerous government boards and commissions.

Proudly proclaiming, "I'm a capitalist," the general partner of the Texas Ranger baseball organization said government should not be creating jobs itself but helping businesses develop capital to create jobs in the private sector.

Bush asked for the support of the groups here both financially and personally. "I want you to look your friends in the eye and tell them that George W. Bush is going to be the next governor of Texas."

He concluded his talk at the fundraiser with a resounding, "God bless Texas!"

Interview dispute disrupts flow of testimony in murder trial here

By GEORGIA TYLER

Staff Writer

A dispute over admissibility of a recorded interview with Donna Gudgell, charged with murder in the death of her husband, was resolved Friday morning after attorneys questioned the investigator without the jury in the 22nd District Courtroom.

Judge David Wesley Guley recessed during the legal wrangle to allow Selden Hale, defense attorney, and Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul to provide him with case law on the subject.

Hale argued that the tape was not a voluntary statement of the defendant and not admissible. He also objected to the tape because the entire interview was not on the tapes offered in evidence.

Gene Gerringer, investigator, testified that the first 15 to 20 minutes were not recorded satisfactorily. He switched to another recording instrument for the remainder of the interview.

At issue, also, was the waiver of rights signed by the defendant partway through the interview.

Gerringer said he stopped the interview and advised Gudgell of her rights because "she made statements I thought were incriminating to her."

Judge Guley ruled the tapes could be admitted but a transcript could be used only for clarification.

When Gerringer was called to testify about the statement he took on Sept. 30, Hale objected. The judge sent the jury out of the room for approximately 45 minutes, then recessed for another 25 minutes to give him time to read case law.

On return to the courtroom, he ruled that the jury could hear the tape and jurors were brought back to the room.

Just before noon, the prosecution began playing the tapes from the interview.

In the conversation with Gerringer, Donna Gudgell insisted that reports that she talked about her husband "not being around any longer" were made in reference to "his having Huntington's disease."

The defendant said she and Chris Don Barron, also charged in the murder, talked about it on two or three occasions.

"But I never dreamed of him being murdered and Chris doing it," she declared in the taped interview.

Donna Gudgell, 48, and Chris Don Barron, 24, are charged with murder in the death of Bill Gudgell.

He was shot at the Gudgell home in northwest Deaf Smith County about 11:15 p.m. on Sept. 11, and died a few hours later in an Amarillo hospital.

Criminal District Attorney Saul rested the state's case against Donna Gudgell at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, but re-opened Friday morning to present Geringer's evidence and the tapes.

Before adjournment Thursday, the jury heard Barron's mother, Debbie Catherall of Amarillo, describe a conversation with Gudgell prior to the murder.

Catherall, under questioning by Saul, said she and her husband, Robert Catherall, were with Gudgell and Barron at an Amarillo bar when the defendant talked about her life.

"She said she had to get home because Bill always expected her to be there when he got home," said Catherall.

The witness quoted Gudgell as saying, "Sometimes I wish he (Bill Gudgell) was dead. But it would have to look like an accident."

Asked when the conversation occurred, Catherall said, "About a year before the shooting."

During cross examination by Hale, the witness said she didn't know how many beers the group had consumed while in the bar.

Hale asked her if she talked to her son after the Gudgell slaying and what Barron told her about the incident.

"I asked if they knew who did it and he said no," she replied.

The prosecution called Donna Gudgell's son, Greg Gudgell, to testify Thursday afternoon, questioning him about the terms of his father's will.

"You are executor, aren't you?" Saul asked Gudgell.

After the witness confirmed his position, Saul asked about the worth of real estate and other miscellaneous property.

Greg Gudgell said the value of real and personal property was approximately $223,000.

Asked about insurance, Gudgell reported his father had policies worth $194,000.

"This was payable to Donna Gudgell at the time of his death?" Saul asked.

"Yes, but each of us kids got one quarter," Greg Gudgell answered.

"Your mother disclaimed interest in anything after she was indicated, is that right?"

The witness replied affirmatively.

In cross examination by Hale, Greg Gudgell described the relationship between his father and Chris Don Barron, saying "they didn't get along."

"Did Chris ever make threats about your father?" Hale asked.

"Yes, he said something about whipping Bill, one time."

"But no one believed him. Is that right?"

"That's right."

Final witness for the state Thursday afternoon was Barron's aunt, Maggie Maloney, 27, of Amarillo.

She told about conversations she and Barron had during the week before the Sept. 11 murder of Bill

Neighbors step in to aid hurt farmer

By GARRY WESNER

Harry Vogler was, his wife said, always willing to help a neighbor in need.

Now that kindness has been returned to the Easter Community farmer, who last week was seriously injured in a farm accident.

On Thursday, more than a dozen neighbors turned out at Vogler's farm to harvest his wheat -- the crop Vogler had been preparing to harvest when he was injured on June 16.

The men brought with them four combines and enough trucks to haul Vogler's crop for him and got the job done in about two hours.

Vogler's wife, Suzanne, said her husband had not been able to start harvesting their 60 acres of wheat before the accident that might cost him his left foot.

So, she said, several neighbors told her they would give their time -- during the period when they, too, have wheat that needs to be harvested -- to bring in his crop.

Mrs. Vogler praised the volunteers for their concern for the needs of her and her family.

Mrs. Vogler said she wanted the volunteers to get credit for their concern, to show the world that there are people around who care for those in need.

Vogler was hurt when he was pulled into the mechanism of his combine while he and an assistant were preparing the equipment for harvest.

Fire Marshal: fireworks are illegal in Hereford

Fireworks go on sale today at stands outside the Hereford city limits. Fire Marshal Jay Spain wants to remind everyone that inside the city limits, fireworks are illegal to sell, use or possess.

"Inside the city limits, fireworks are prohibited, period," Spain said. "Myself or the police will seize all fireworks we find in the city limits, and we will write tickets for illegally possessing fireworks."

Spain and police will be patrolling in unmarked vehicles watching for anyone using fireworks or bringing fireworks into the city.

"Myself or the police will seize all fireworks we find in the city limits..."

Jay Spain,
Fire Marshal

Using fireworks can cost you, and it can cost everyone around you.

"Right now, as dry as everything is, our fire hazard is extremely high," Spain said. He paints a picture of disaster. "One of those bottle rockets goes up in the air, burning paper falls on the ground..."

Last year, the fire department responded to 17 fires which were related to fireworks: 15 grass fires, one vehicle which was destroyed and one house which was heavily damaged.

Spain warned that anyone who starts a fire with fireworks could be financially responsible in a civil suit.

Spain recommends you just enjoy the public fireworks display planned for July Fourth at Veterans Park. But if you must use fireworks, here are some tips to help you and others remain safe:

--Buy fireworks only from a licensed vendor.

--Always read and follow label directions. All fireworks sold in Texas must be clearly labeled that they conform to the standards of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and U.S. Department of Transportation. Fireworks that aren't labeled are illegal and probably dangerous.

--Don't let children handle fireworks.

--Ignite outdoors, never indoors or from a motor vehicle. Stay away from grass, crops, houses, cars or anything else that may burn.

--Have water handy. When finished, pour on the remains of used fireworks. Also, pour water on any fireworks that fizzled. Never try to relight a firework that malfunctioned; don't even try to pick it up.

--Never experiment or attempt to make your own fireworks.

--Light one at a time.

--Never throw fireworks at another person.

--Never carry fireworks in your pockets.

--Never shoot them in metal or glass containers.

--If you have any doubt about fireworks laws, call the fire department, sheriff's office or police department.

--You must have the landowner's permission before you go on any land. If you don't, it's trespassing.

--Finally, pick up all fireworks scraps after they've been doused with water. If you don't, it's littering.

WASHINGTON - U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm says he wouldn't mind making some health care reforms in Congress, but he wants voters to decide whether a larger overhaul is needed. If there aren't enough votes in Congress to pass either a Republican or Democratic reform package, lawmakers should adopt the elements the plans have in common, then leave other issues up to voters, the Texas Republican said Thursday.

UNDATED - Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Richard Fisher says he "hasn't changed his stripes" about the kinds of political donations he will accept. A spokesman for U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas, says it appears that Fisher is engaging in a "sham" over the contributions he'll take.

BALDWIN, Colo. - Sheets of camouflaged cloth or black plastic cover some of the windows of the log house occupied by an advance party of surviving Branch Davidians looking for a new home. "We wanted to be able to look out without being seen. Some of the people killed at Mount Carmel (near Waco, Texas) were shot through windows," said Wally Kennett.

WACO - A judge has delayed cleanup of the destroyed former home of the Branch Davidians to allow an attorney representing cult members to test for cyanide in the ruins about 10 miles east of Waco.

SAN ANTONIO - Texas Attorney General Dan Morales is proposing stiffening juvenile sentencing laws and using abandoned hospitals for youth detention centers.

WASHINGTON - The United States and Russia are further cementing their collaboration on the international space station, just days before the $30 billion program faces its annual funding fight in the House.

EL PASO - El Paso Electric Co.'s struggle to emerge from bankruptcy protection is moving into the state regulatory arena now that the City Council has rejected the utility's requested rate hike.

HOUSTON - Twenty-four hours after the NBA champion Rockets gave Houston its first major sports title, Houston gave them a raucous, red-and-gold victory party they won't soon forget.

LOS ANGELES - District Attorney Gil Garcetti slammed the press door on the O.J. Simpson case a day after frantic 911 calls from the football legend's ex-wife were broadcast worldwide.

GOMA, Zaire - A crack French military team rolled into the western part of Rwanda determined to stop the ethnic slaughter despite a hostile reception from Tutsi rebels who warned they would treat the French as enemies.

WASHINGTON - A scientific panel says it can find no single answer to the riddle of sick Persian Gulf War veterans, dealing another setback to the many who are awaiting treatment for their maladies. The Defense and Veterans Affairs departments tempered the bad news with assurances that all veterans will have access to medical care.

WASHINGTON - In its most ambitious effort to assure diverse ownership of the public airways, federal regulators plan to earmark about half of the licenses for the next generation of mobile telephone service to women, minorities and small businesses.

tally stood on the combine's belt, then asked his helper to start the machine. The belt began moving suddenly and threw Vogler down.

"The belt got his left leg and tangled him up in the pulleys," said Mrs. Vogler.

Mrs. Vogler said Richard Drager, who had been helping Vogler, was the hero of the story when he ran to the house and called for help, asked Mrs. Vogler to call 911 again to give better instructions to rescue units, then instructed her to help her remove the victim from the machinery.

"By the time I got there, little Richard had cut that belt with a hack saw, got Harry out of the combine and laid him in the back of the pickup," Mrs. Vogler said. "Within minutes the Hereford ambulance was here," accompanied by the Fire Department, which was alerted to the possible need for the Jaws of Life.

EMS officials evaluated Mrs. Vogler's husband at the scene, she related, then called for a helicopter to fly him to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Vogler's foot, his wife said, was so badly mangled by the machinery -- equipment that possibly had traces of agricultural chemicals -- that doctors are not sure they will be able to save the foot.

She said doctors are watching his foot for infection before beginning formal treatment of it.

Vogler has already undergone several surgeries on his badly injured left leg, including one procedure to add six inches of bone to the leg.

Mrs. Vogler said there is a possibility that her husband will be transferred to a Houston hospital for further treatment.

Whatever happens, she said, her husband plans to keep farming.

"Even if he doesn't keep his foot he wants to farm," she said.

Vogler is in good spirits, she said. "He has a very positive attitude."

If the good Lord sees fit for him to keep his foot, fine," she said. If not, "fine, we'll call him 'Peg Leg'" and work out a way for him to keep working.

"The doctor said six months before he can even think about (farming)," Mrs. Vogler said. "Harry says they told him by Christmas he should be able to drive around" and start working some.

Bush at local fundraiser

George W. Bush, Republican nominee for governor, addressed supporters at a fundraiser here Thursday night. Among the visitors at the event were county campaign chairman Frank Barrett's daughter-in-law, Cindy Barrett (left) and his daughter, Nancy Purcell (right). About 80 supporters attended the event.

Amistad, N.M., shooting leaves 1 dead, 2 wounded

AMISTAD, N.M. (AP) - A town called Friendship was the scene of a shooting that left one man dead and two wounded amid overtones of racism, although authorities say more investigation is needed to determine the motive.

The shooting occurred early Thursday at an old boarded-up mercantile in Amistad, which means

Gudgell:

"He was staying with me in Amarillo for a few days and said he didn't want to go back to the Gudgells' house," she testified.

Maloney said Barron talked about staying in Amarillo and getting a job and starting a new life even though a neighbor expected him to drive a tractor.

"I told him he had to go back, to be mature and accept the responsibility," she continued.

"But he did go back, didn't he?" said Saul.

"Yes, because I made him," Maloney replied haltingly as her voice broke and tears rolled down her face.

She said she talked with Barron by telephone late in the afternoon of the murder.

"He called and I asked him what he wanted," she explained. "Chris didn't like to talk on the phone unless he needed to."

"He said he was taking a lunch break, but his voice sounded real shaky."

The conversation broke off when he said "Donna says we have work to do," Maloney quoted.

Testifying about her observations

Friendship in Spanish. Store owner Michael Leak was arrested and charged with an open count of murder in the death of Alfonso I. Cruz, 30, of Clayton, Deputy District Attorney Donald Gallegos said.

Chris Cruz, 24, of Clayton and Danny Farwell, 23, of Borger, Texas, were wounded, officials said.

Leak's daughter, Marty Leak, 18, of Clayton told authorities she and the Cruzes and Farwell drove to her father's home 40 miles south of Clayton to pick up some clothing and talk to her father.

The Cruzes, who apparently are half-brothers or stepbrothers, entered the store with Ms. Leak, Gallegos said.

"Ms. Leak stated that when (her father) noticed her friends, he reached under a pillow, retrieved a gun, and when he pointed the gun at them, she placed herself between her father and Chris Cruz, then her father fired a shot which went past her head and struck Chris Cruz," said a statement of probable cause filed in Union County Magistrate Court.

Ms. Leak and her friends fled the store and ran to their van, the statement says.

She said her father followed, reminding her that he had told her if she brought Hispanics home "he would kill them," the statement says.

"He then fired two more shots from the porch area and that was when Alfonso Cruz was hit and a Danny Farwell, who was asleep in the back seat of the van, was also hit," the statement says.

Ms. Leak said the shootings were unprovoked.

Gallegos said it was too early to say if racism was the motive.

"We need to talk to some more people and follow some more leads before we can get a better idea" of a motive, he said.

Chris Cruz received a superficial wound to his head, and Farwell received a gunshot wound to the neck, authorities said.

Neighbors helping out

Combines dump harvested wheat into waiting trucks as several area residents watch the work being done on the crop of Harry Vogler, who was seriously injured in a farm accident last week.

More than a dozen fellow farmers turned out at Vogler's farm south of Hereford to bring in his 60 acres of wheat, taking time from their own harvests to aid a neighbor in need.

Morales calls for tougher juvenile laws

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Texas Attorney General Dan Morales is proposing stiffening juvenile sentencing laws and using abandoned hospitals for youth detention centers.

Morales unveiled the proposals Thursday as part of a package of juvenile justice system changes he advocates.

Gang problems and juvenile crime are chief concerns among civic leaders across the state and account for 25 percent of all the Texas crime, he said.

"These criminals are getting younger and younger and they are getting bolder and bolder," Morales said.

Approximately 120,000 juveniles were arrested in Texas last year, but the state has only about 2,200 juvenile prison beds, he said.

Morales is proposing that the state acquire an estimated 3,500 beds available in closed hospitals across the state and turn them into youth corrections centers. The hospitals are owned by a variety of public and private interests.

Morales recommends hiring displaced military personnel to work in new detention centers as teachers, cooks and guards. He noted that next year nearly 500,000 military men and women will be looking for work.

The attorney general provided no cost estimate for the wide-ranging plan, unveiled during a meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General.

Morales also is proposing that state law be changed to reduce from 15 to 13 the age at which a youth offender can be sentenced under the Determinate Sentencing Act.

During the Sunday morning service, Pastor Lonny Pooe will be preaching a sermon entitled "How To Be Angry But Not Sinful." It is taken from Ephesians 4:26-27. Sunday evening, we will continue in our study through the books of Acts.

This Saturday is our monthly men's breakfast. We will be meeting at 7 a.m. in the fellowship hall. Jerry Stewart, pastor of First Baptist Church of Stratford, will be giving our devotional. Children ages two through those just finishing grade six are invited to our Vacation Bible School June 27 through July 1. The school will be held from 5:30-8:30 p.m. each evening. Commencement will be held Sunday evening, July 3.

Sunday morning, July 3, Evangelist Homer Martinez will be preaching. Homer is going to be preaching a city-wide crusade sponsored by the Hereford Ministerial Alliance Oct. 9-12.

SUMMERFIELD BAPTIST CHURCH

The public is invited to attend all of the church services. Sunday school is held at 10 a.m. and the Sunday worship services are held at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. The Wednesday service is held at 7 p.m.

For more information, call 357-2535.

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH

Pastor H. Wyatt Bartlett and the congregation of the Temple Baptist Church, Ave. K. and Forrest St., invite everyone to come join with them in worship Sunday. Sunday school and Bible study begin at 9:45 a.m. and the pastor will preach at the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. worship services.

The mid-week prayer meeting is planned for 7 p.m. Wednesday.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Interim Pastor Don Shepherd's sermon for the 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service is titled "The Baptized." The scripture lesson is Mark 1:4-11, Acts 10:17.

Sunday school for all ages begins at 9:30 a.m.

Fellowship time meets in the large fellowship hall from 10:10-10:30 a.m. between Sunday school and worship. Come and enjoy a bit of refreshments and conversation.

Prayer group meets at the church at 6 p.m. each Monday.

Anyone wishing to donate flowers for the sanctuary during the Sunday worship service in memory or honor of someone, please contact church office or a member of the worship committee.

SAN JOSE CATHOLIC CHURCH

This Sunday will be the Junefest Jamaica. This Jamaica will be a very important one. It will allow us to make the final payment on our church and increase the building fund amount that will be a down payment on our new education/recreation building.

The Jamaica is a great opportunity for our parish to work together and make a beautiful offering that builds up the Body of Christ. Invite your relatives and friends to the Jamaica. It will be an enjoyable afternoon of food, fun and socializing. Don't forget to buy your tickets for the Mitsubishi pickup truck we are raffling at the event. Tickets are priced at $25 each or four for $75.

Relief organization assists single mothers with loans

Plying their trade along the dusty roads of El Khatar, Egypt, are the village loan sharks - unscrupulous lenders willing to virtually enslave delinquent borrowers, with no collateral to secure credit from commercial banks, it is to these moneylenders and their exorbitant interest rates that the poor must turn.

Sa'ida Mohamed Mubarak, a 40-year-old mother of six, faced this bleak option after an accident left her husband disabled five years ago.

"He was the policeman of our small village," Sa'ida said, brushing dark hair away from her sunweathered face. "One day his foot slipped as he was climbing a palm tree to pick dates. He fell and broke his spine."

With her family's chief breadwinner unable to work, Sa'ida's situation was desperate. For money, her oldest son quit school to become a laborer; her oldest daughter peddled snacks on the street. The other children, too young to pitch in, often went hungry.

To eat, we were borrowing bread, oil, even tea from the neighbors," Sa'ida. "Some days we were unable to get anything at all." She was ashamed to accept charity, but didn't want to fall into the clutches of a loan shark. Not knowing where to turn, she prayed each day for relief.

Her prayers were answered in 1992 when a field worker from CARE, the world's largest private relief and development organization, came to her door. The young woman offered Sa'ida a chance to participate in a small-business loan program, and Sa'ida borrowed $90 to start a grocery stand at the back of her tiny one-room house.

Now, more than a year later, profits from the shop are putting food on her table and paying for her husband's medical treatments. Sa'ida, meanwhile, has paid back the $90 loan in full.

It was a small amount of money, but Sa'ida needed only a little seed capital to make a big difference in her life. According to Sue Waterfield, co-director of CARE's small-business support programs, Sa'ida's story is typical.

McNeil advances at Wimbledon

Carlsen withdraws with illness after upsetting Edberg

By DAVID CRARY
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Lori McNeil, whose upset of Steffi Graf has been a highlight at this year's Wimbledon, continued her advance with another victory today.

McNeil defeated Kristie Boogert of the Netherlands 6-2, 6-4 and moved into the fourth round.

But another giantkiller, Kenneth Carlsen, fell ill and withdrew a day after upsetting Stefan Edberg.

Carlsen, a Dane ranked 113th in the world, began vomiting during his third-round match with Jonas Bjorkman of Sweden and withdrew while trailing 6-4, 6-4, 1-0. Carlsen stunned Edberg, a two-time champion, in five sets Thursday.

In other matches today, No. 10 seed Michael Chang defeated Grant Connell of Canada 7-6 (7-4), 6-4, 6-2, and South African Wayne Ferreira beat Chris Wilkinson, one of two Britons who were still left in the tournament, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

McNeil was joined in the fourth round by another American, Lindsay Davenport, the No. 9 seed who turned 18 this month. Playing in only her second Wimbledon, Davenport beat Barbara Rittner of Germany 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

An American playing her 14th Wimbledon, 32-year-old Pam Shriver, ran out of steam in her match, losing to Argentina's Florencia Labat 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Labat will play McNeil in the fourth round.

Larisa Neiland of Latvia defeated No. 6 seed Kimiko Date of Japan 6-3, 6-2, but it was scarcely an upset. Neiland has reached the fourth round here once before, in 1988, while Date is weak on grass, losing by the second round in her four previous Wimbledons.

No. 14 seed Amanda Coetzer of South Africa won 6-0, 6-3 over American Ginger Helgeson. And Kristina Radford of Australia reached her first Grand Slam fourth round the easy way when Argentina's Ines Gorrochategui pulled out of their third-round match because of injury.

The battle for the women's title was thrown wide open with the first-round ouster of Graf, the top seed and defending champion.

No. 2 seed Arantxa Sanchez Vicario was installed as the oddsmakers' favorite, but prospects also brightened for Martina

A's Witt loses perfect game to umpire's call

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Bobby Witt couldn't remember the last time he threw a baseball so well.

Witt's unlikely to forget his performance Thursday, when he came within a controversial call of tossing the majors' first perfect game since the Expos' Dennis Martinez did it in 1991.

Witt tied a career-high with 14 strikeouts and allowed just one hit - a disputed bunt single to Greg Gagne in the sixth inning - as the Oakland Athletics beat the Kansas City Royals 4-0.

In the only other AL game

Thursday, Chicago defeated Seattle 13-2.

"I've struck out 14 before, but I lost the game," said Witt. "I was always walking guys. Even when you go back to college, I was walking guys. But to have this control of my pitches, to basically do what I wanted, that's what it was all about."

He wouldn't get an argument from the Royals, either.

"There was nothing we could do today," said Royals manager Hal McRae. "He was on. He had great stuff. He could have beaten any club that showed up."

"His control was exceptional," said the Royals' Gary Gaetti. "He was throwing the hard breaking ball for strikes and his fastball was fantastic. He was spotting the ball exceptionally well."

"That's as good as I've seen anyone pitch in a long time," said A's manager Tony La Russa. "He had above average stuff and above average location. He never made a mediocre pitch."

That included the pitch that went for a bunt single. Gagne bunted the ball up the first base line. A's first baseman Troy Neel fielded the ball and tossed to Witt covering the bag. Umpire Gary Cederstrom ruled Gagne safe, though replays clearly showed Witt beat Gagne to the base.

Umpire crew chief Drew Coble refused media access to Cederstrom, but did release a statement.

"He called it the way he saw it, and we have no further comment," said Coble.

"I didn't see the call or the replay," said Gagne. "I thought I was safe. I wasn't thinking about breaking up a perfect game. All I wanted to do was get on base."

White Sox 13, Mariners 2

At Seattle, Ozzie Guillen hit his first home run since last July and tied a career high with four RBIs, and Lance Johnson drove in five runs for the White Sox.

Julio Franco homered, drove in three runs and scored three times for the White Sox.

Jay Buhner hit his 14th home run for the Mariners.

Guillen had a three-run homer - only the 15th in his 10 years in the majors and his first since July 24 after Greg Hibbard (1-5) walked Ron Karkovice in the sixth.

Jose DeLeon (2-2), Chicago's third pitcher, got the victory.

Reds sweep struggling San Francisco

CINCINNATI (AP) - The San Francisco Giants have become pathetically predictable.

They get a well-pitched game - and lose. They hit four homers - and lose. They get a chance to avoid a sweep with their best pitcher on the mound - and lose the pitcher and the game.

No matter what they do, the Giants can't find the spark that carried them to 103 wins last season. The Cincinnati Reds overcame four Giants homers Thursday for a 7-5 win and three-game sweep that dropped San Francisco to its lowest point of the season.

In the only other NL game, it was:

Chicago 9, Florida 3.

"It's like somebody's got a carrot out there and we're chasing it," said Steve Scarsone, whose two-run homer in the ninth only made things more disappointing. "We're going to get it. We're going to eat a whole bushel of carrots later."

The Reds swept the series while getting out-homered 7-2. They played errorless baseball, got three strong starts from their rotation, and got clutch hits against the Giants' best. On Thursday, they scored four runs off Bill Swift - who beat them four times last season - to take control early.

"When you're facing Swift, it's always good to get on the board early," starter John Smiley said. "Unlike last year, when we only took up mediocre pitching, we're getting to the big guys now, guys like (Greg) Maddux and Swift. We've been pounding the ball against them."

They didn't really pound Swift (8-5) until he got hurt.

Reggie Sanders had an RBI single in the first and Eddie Taubensee hit his fourth homer for a 2-0 lead in the second. Taubensee singled in the fourth and Smiley tried to sacrifice, but bunted the ball back to the mound.

Swift tried to get Taubensee at second, but his throw was wild for an error. On the play, Swift reinjured muscles in his right side - the same injury that disabled him from May 18 to June 5. The Giants don't know how serious it is this time.

Smiley (6-8) made his second strong start since getting a cortisone shot in his sore pitching shoulder. The left-hander gave up five hits over six innings, including a solo homer by Matt Williams, and struck out seven.

There was a lapse in the eighth, when it started raining, and Johnny Ruffin let the lead start slipping away. Barry Bonds and Williams hit consecutive homers - Bonds' 17th and Williams' NL-leading 26th. Chuck McElroy relieved and finished the inning around a 41-minute rain delay.

Cubs 9, Marlins 3

At Miami, Mike Morgan came off the disabled list - he was treated for emotional stress - and pitched six strong innings for the Cubs.

Morgan (1-7), who has already served two stints on the disabled list, gave up two runs and seven hits for his first win since Sept. 20, 1993. Morgan had lost nine straight.

Not only did the Cubs beat the Marlins' best starter, David Weathers (7-6), but they also overcame a pregame scare when announcer Harry Caray fell near the bullpen steps. Caray was taken to a hospital for tests, which were normal, and was expected to accompany the team back to Chicago after the game.

Italy wins World Cup match shorthanded

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer
Italy played shorthanded. Cameron decided to just play.

The Italians, in a must-win situation, did precisely that at the World Cup on Thursday. And they did it with grit and guile and with backup goalkeeper. Oh yeah, the world's best player also was sitting on the bench, put there by coach Arrigo Sacchi in a strange strategic move that worked.

The Cameroon team, meanwhile, dropped talk of boycotting today's game against Brazil. The players haven't been paid for months and they want their money. But they opted to show up at Stanford Stadium anyway.

Italy beat Norway 1-0 on a goal by Dino Baggio in the 69th minute. The Italians played the final 78 minutes with 10 men after goalie Gianluca Pagliuca was ejected for a hand save outside the penalty area.

"I realized I was out of the penalty area, but I had no choice," said Pagliuca, who made the Italian squad despite a bad automobile accident in May 1993. "It was important to avoid Norway scoring. I could not think if it was better to avoid the goal or ejection. I thought of stopping the ball."

Oyvind Leonhardsen was coming in alone just outside the penalty area in one of the few offensive forays by Norway. Even when the Norwegians were up a man, they rarely attacked.

"I am incredibly disappointed," said Norwegian goalkeeper Erik Thorstvedt. "This was a unique chance. We should have at least had a draw. It was almost embarrassing to lose a game like this. So we just have to calm down and look at what we did."

What No. 2 goalie Luca Marchegiani did prove he can handle the most dire circumstances.

"I entered the field in the worst situation, on a free kick from the penalty area edge," Marchegiani said. "It was an enormous, sudden emotion, because I was watching the game as a spectator and I was not ready psychologically to become a protagonist in a few seconds time."

Sacchi opted to pull Roberto Baggio, the 1993 player of the year, when Pagliuca was ejected. That shocked his star player, who has been bothered by a sore Achilles tendon.

"I could not believe it when I was called out," Roberto Baggio said. "I thought they had given the wrong numbers. I had never been substituted in such circumstances."

"I could not jump for joy for being substituted, but I'm happy for the team victory, which gives us a lot of morale."

The first scoreless game of the tournament came at Foxboro Stadium on Thursday night, when South Korea and Bolivia tied. The Bolivians had another player receive a red card -

Luis Cristaldo was ejected. Striker Marco Echeverry missed the game as he began a two-match suspension for getting a red card in the opener against Germany.

Italy now has three points in Group E, the most difficult division. A win over Mexico on Tuesday would assure the "Azzurri" of a trip to the second round.

Norway also has three points and plays Ireland in its next game. The Irish and Mexicans played today at Washington, D.C.

The other games today had Sweden against Russia at the Pontiac Silverdome and, of course, Brazil-Cameroon.

The Cameroonian had threatened to strike if they didn't receive their money. But they met with the federation and then decided to play, realizing that FIFA would place heavy sanctions on them if they didn't show up.

Carlesimo faces challenge coaching adults

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - In Portland, everyone is already calling him simply "P.J."

Peter John Carlesimo, an East Coast guy all his life, has come to Portland to coach this city's only big-time sports team.

With a quick wit and an admission that he'll have to change some to adjust to the pro game, Carlesimo had no trouble convincing the local media and the Trail Blazers' front office that he is the right man for the job.

Convincing the Trail Blazer players might not be so easy.

At a news conference Thursday announcing his hiring, the man who was head coach for the last 12 seasons at Seton Hall repeatedly emphasized his respect for the aging veterans who make up the nucleus of the Trail Blazers.

"What we're trying to do is build on what already is a successful franchise," he said. "I don't think this is a rebuilding situation. We're trying to continue the excellent tradition that is here and hopefully have a 1977 happen again."

He was referring to that season 17 years ago when the Blazers won their only title. Portland has been in the playoffs 11 years in a row, and made it to the NBA Finals in 1990 and 1992.

But another championship has eluded them, and coach Rick Adelman was fired after the Blazers were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs the last two years.

Carlesimo knows what the expectations are.

"We want to win an NBA championship. That's the mission. That was made very clear," he said.

He repeatedly said how happy he was to be given the job, where he reportedly will be paid $1.5 million per year in a five-year contract, making him one of the NBA's highest paid coaches.

Carlesimo acknowledged he might have to temper his intense style for the pro game.

"The biggest difference is I'm dealing with men now," he said. "They're professional athletes. They understand what's expected of them."

Ga. Tech's Varitek honored

HOUSTON (AP) - If catcher Jason Varitek keeps improving at the pace he's been on the last few years, expect the major leagues to be in his near future.

Varitek's success was honored Thursday night with the 1994 R.E. "Bob" Smith Award, presented annually to the college baseball player of the year.

Varitek was a 23rd round pick by the Houston Astros coming out of high school. He instead chose to attend Georgia Tech and stayed there for a senior season even after the Minnesota Twins took him in the first round last year.

The decision paid off as Varitek shattered school batting records, led the Yellow Jackets to the College World Series for the first time in school history and again was a first-round pick, this time by the Seattle Mariners.

As a senior, Varitek hit .426 with 17 home runs and 86 RBIs. He also made only nine errors with 600 chances.

He left the Yellow Jackets as the school's career leader in home runs, RBIs, total bases, at-bats, runs scored, hits, games played and doubles.

Rockets won't change much

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Now that Rudy Tomjanovich and the Houston Rockets have reached the top by winning the NBA championship, Bob Weinrauer is being very careful - he doesn't want to fix something that's not broken.

The Rockets' vice president for basketball operations is plotting the Rockets' future with a gentle hand.

"I don't think there's any reason to change for the sake of change," Weinrauer said. "Rudy has strong ideas of the type of player he wants on the team and we have quite a few of those now."

"We may make one or two subtle changes at this time. It may be to our advantage to not make any changes and wait and see what happens with the free agent market after July 1. Sometimes, changes are made just prior to training camp."

The Rockets do not have a first-round selection in Wednesday's NBA draft. They lost it in 1990 in a trade that sent John Lucas and Tim McCormick to Atlanta for Kenny Smith.

Unless they trade up, the Rockets won't pick until the 53rd - next to last - selection of the second round.

"It would be foolish to think about breaking up that nucleus just to get up and get an unproven player," Weinrauer said. "If you got up into the lottery section and could get a top pick, you'd have to consider it."

Weinrauer spent this season as an assistant coach with the Minnesota Timberwolves before making the transition last month from one of the league's worst teams to the best.

He's not rushing to put his mark on the team.

"You don't want to come in and think you have to be a magician and pull off something special," Weinrauer said. "They don't need my fingerprint on this team."

"I've been in basketball over 30 years and I recognize you build a solid team like this over a period of time. The best thing we can do is make solid intelligent moves that are in the best interest of this club."

"When you win 58 games in a season and have the second-best record in the NBA, you still have to look for ways to improve."

The Rockets improved themselves before the start of their championship season by obtaining Mario Elie from Portland. He provided solid bench strength.

Tomjanovich has performed well on draft day. His two selections as head coach - Robert Horry in 1992

and Sam Cassell in 1993 - were key factors in winning the championship.

The Rockets would like to sign a backup big man to lighten the burden on Olajuwon and power forward Otis Thorpe, although Carl Herrera improved in that role this season.

Weinrauer isn't biting on any trade rumors.

"We always have to be careful about our experts," he said. "There are a number of people in the media that try to determine moves that will be made. Just to think about any one player without a knowledge of the salary cap, it's too early to talk about."

WIMBLEDON

Navratilova. She arrived here a jumble of emotions, hoping to avoid embarrassment at her last Wimbledon, and suddenly seems an island of serenity as chaos swirls around her.

Navratilova is feeling at home again amid an astonishing series of first-week upsets which knocked out Graf, the defending women's champion, and three of the top five seeded men. No longer is she shrinking from talk about winning a 10th title at age 37.

"I'm starting to relax and enjoy myself," she said after an easy second-round win Thursday over Sandra Cecchini. "I'm rising to the occasion rather than wilting from it."

She sounded almost as concerned about Graf as her own prospects.

"I had really mixed feelings about Steffi losing," Navratilova said. "My dream really was to play her in the finals. ... We practiced together before the tournament, and so that's what I really wanted."

"I slept badly after she lost. I kept empathizing so much with what she must be going through because I certainly went through it a few times earlier this year."

Graf was ousted Tuesday in her first-round match. In the men's singles, second-seeded Michael Stich followed her out of the tournament on Wednesday, and No. 3 Stefan Edberg and No. 5 Jim Courier tumbled in second-round matches Thursday. Only nine of the 16 seeded men were still in the field when third-round play began today.

In statistical terms, Courier's defeat was the biggest upset in the history of men's tennis. He is ranked seventh in the world and lost a five-set battle to Frenchman Guy Forget, ranked only 1,130th after being idled for a year with knee problems.

Forget's last regular tour victory before this week was in May 1993, but he surprised even himself by outlasting the heavily favored Courier 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 - his first victory against the American in six tries.

Among the top five seeded men, only No. 1 Pete Sampras and No. 4 Goran Ivanisevic are left.

Sandwiches taste better in summer

By TERESA S. JOHNSON
Waco Tribune-Herald

WACO, Texas - While I eat sandwiches all during the year, they are especially appealing to me during the summer.

Perhaps it's because I spent my childhood in a house without central air conditioning. With the Texas sun heating up the house without any help from the oven, my mom often called a moratorium on hot meals from late June through August.

We made do with sandwiches, salads and fresh fruits and vegetables from my grandmother's garden.

While today the central air makes it easier to keep my house cool, the convenience and casualness of sandwiches still make them great summer fare.

While I largely rely on sliced ham or turkey, tuna salad and, of course, the old standby of peanut butter and jelly, it pays to be on the lookout for new sandwich ideas. Here's an interesting recipe from Rainbo Bread.

CHINESE CHICKEN SALAD SANDWICHES

2 c. cooked boneless chicken chunks
3/4 c. bean sprouts
1/3 c. thinly sliced celery
1/4 c. sliced water chestnuts
1/8 c. chopped peanuts
Oriental Dressing (recipe follows)
10 slices bread
Romaine lettuce leaves or bok choy for garnish

Mix together the chicken, bean sprouts, celery, water chestnuts and peanuts with the Oriental Dressing. Divide salad mixture onto five slices of bread. Garnish with lettuce or bok choy. Top with remaining bread slices.

Makes 5 sandwiches, each with approximately 292 calories, 19 grams protein, 29 grams carbohydrates, 14 grams fat, 32 milligrams cholesterol, 408 milligrams sodium.

Oriental Dressing: Put in a jar 3 tablespoons rice vinegar, 1/4 cup oil, 1/4 teaspoon minced garlic, 1 teaspoon minced fresh ginger and 1 tablespoon soy sauce. Shake until well mixed.

Speaking of sandwiches, have you ever noticed how some kids, and for that matter some adults, will only eat sandwiches if they are sliced a certain way.

According to a survey of elementary school children by Ziploc sandwich bags, 40 percent prefer their sandwiches cut diagonally, 25 percent like sandwiches sliced down the middle, 17 percent prefer their sandwiches whole and 6 percent like them sliced into quarters.

When children request their sandwich be cut a certain way, they are not giving you any bologna - they mean business. Something as simple as how a sandwich is sliced can mean a great deal to a child, according to Dr. Antoinette Saunders, clinical director of the Chicago-based Capable Kid Counseling Centers.

"When a child asks for a sandwich sliced in a particular manner, it's simply so they can identify with something familiar - their parents, home or a good feeling in general," Saunders said.

One more sandwich related item. Louis Rich is offering a free bookmark that gives consumers calorie and fat information for more than 40 sandwich ingredients.

The sandwich ingredients on one side of the laminated bookmark are divided into those that have 1 gram of fat or less - including fat-free turkey breast, light bread, yellow mustard and alfalfa sprouts; and those with 5 grams of fat or less, including reduced fat cheeses, flour tortilla and reduced fat mayonnaise.

On the other side are ideas for sandwich combinations that are easy and low in fat. For example, the California Pita: Stuff a pita bread half with 4 slices fat-free, oven-roasted, deli-thin turkey breast, 2 tablespoons alfalfa sprouts, 2 tomato slices and 3 cucumber slices. Drizzle with 1 tablespoon ranch-style non-fat dressing. It has 150 calories and 1 gram of fat.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm getting married soon to a wonderful guy. My entire family adores him. My sister, "Kristen," is my maid of honor. Unfortunately, she and my mother had a fight and haven't spoken for several months.

Kristen has threatened to drop out of the wedding party because it would mean having contact with Mom. My mother has been terribly depressed ever since the rift with Kristen. She is also still grieving over her own mother's death. Every time I talk to her, it seems she's a little worse.

I'm trying to have a nice wedding, but it's hard with a stubborn sister and a depressed mother. Kristen refuses to see a counselor with Mom, but maybe if you print this, she'll get a different perspective. --Sad Sister in Southern Missouri

DEAR SOUTHERN MO.: Tell Kristen she's welcome to attend your wedding as a guest, but she's out as maid of honor. Her refusal to try for a peace settlement with her grieving mother, even though she knows it's lousing up your great day, is despicable.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My daughter and I recently co-hosted a baby shower. Invitations were mailed to 25 women. This was not a family affair. No husbands or children were invited, yet several children, age 1 to 12, were brought by their mothers.

These mothers also insisted that their children be allowed to participate in the shower games--two of which had to be scrapped because they were not suitable for youngsters. The prizes we selected were for adults--candles, potholders, cosmetic cases, jewelry, etc. To make matters worse, one 10-year-old walked off with three prizes.

Unless children are specifically invited, I feel that they do not belong at an adult party. Their presence not only put a wet blanket on the conversation, but the kids took up seating room while adults stood. They were also the first at the buffet table.

True, our invitations did not specify "no children" but they didn't say "no husbands," either, and no woman brought hers. Am I ungenerous? Petty? Out of line? Out of date? Please comment. --Peved in Portland

DEAR PORTLAND: I cannot imagine women bringing their children to a baby shower, but since this seems to be a distinct possibility in your social circle, the best defense is a good offense.

On all invitations in the future, it should be specified "no children, please." That should leave no room for doubt.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My friend "Mac" is smart, successful and urbane, but she is unable to accept a compliment.

If I say, "That's a stunning hat," she'll reply, "Oh, I just put it on at the last minute because my hair looked so awful." If I admire a blouse, she'll say,

"It's as old as the hills. Actually, I took it from an old suit."

Why is she like this? --Greensburg, Pa.

DEAR GREENSBURG: Some people can handle an insult better than a compliment. This stems from false modesty.

Individuals who are ill at ease with praise should practice saying, "Thank you," and leave it at that.

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 6061-0562.

THE LAND OF REPHIDIM!

REPHIDIM WAS A CAMPING GROUND OF THE ISRAELITES IN THE WILDERNESS. (EX.17:1)
IT WAS LOCATED BETWEEN THE WILDERNESS OF SIN AND MOUNT SINAI. THERE WAS NO WATER OBTAINABLE UNTIL MOSES SMOTE A ROCK, FROM WHICH WATER FLOWED, BY DIVINE COMMAND! THE WATER TRAVELED DOWN THE BED OF A WADI TO THE CAMP
OF THE ISRAELITES, SUPPLYING THEM ALL DURING THEIR STAY AT MOUNT SINAI.
REPHIDIM ALSO WAS THE SCENE OF THE BATTLE WITH THE AMALEKITES AND THE FIRST TIME JOSHUA WAS PICKED BY MOSES TO LEAD THE ISRAELITES IN COMBAT!
THE SITE OF THE BATTLE CANNOT BE EXACTLY DETERMINED, BUT PROBABLY IS LOCATED ON WADI REPHIDIM, WHICH IS NORTHWEST OF JEBEL MUSA AND TO THIS DAY, STILL HAS A STREAM OF COLD WATER WHICH RUNS DOWN TO JOIN WADI REPHIDIM AND SUPPLIES AN OASIS AT THE FOOT OF JEBEL REPHIDIM.

...AND SLOWLY THE FLOW OF BATTLE SWINGS WITH THE ISRAELITES! STEP BY STEP,
THE AMALEKITES ARE DRIVEN
BACK BY THE SLASHING SWORD WORK OF JOSHUA AND HIS MEN, BACK AND BACK, UNTIL,
NOW, THEY ARE FORCED UP
THE HILLSIDE FROM WHENCE
THEY HAD SO FIERCELY RUSHED!

When Less Is More

Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled.

Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
