Hospital board hears positive information on HRMC finances

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Except for a slow start in seeking a new administrator, directors of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District heard mostly good news in a regular monthly session Tuesday night. The financial report showed another income gain in operations, with a net profit of $26,209 in May reducing the year-to-date loss to $172,745. This compares to a loss of $843,076 at this time last year. With tax dollars and other non-operating revenue added to the bottom line, the excess of revenue over expenses totalled $1,104,251--which is slightly more than the tax revenue total of $1,020,465. In other action during the fruitful 2 1/2-hour session last night, the board: --approved board committee appointments;

--heard a report from Brown, Graham & Co. as a follow-up to a management letter presented to directors; --passed a resolution re-naming Hereford State Bank as the official depository; --approved an amended agreement with Dr. Glen Alford, who was recruited by the hospital and will practice at Family Medical Clinic with Drs. Gerald Payne and Duffy McBrayer; --passed a resolution in support of the Deaf Smith Health Care Foundation; --approved a report on Hereford Health Clinic, where Claudia Smith resigned as director and the board appointed Paul Fowler as interim director; --heard other regular reports, including an update from Mike Maloy, interim administrator.

The board also initiated a new practice of personally reviewing and approving accounts payable and bad debt write-offs. Donna West, CPA with Brown, Graham & Co., reported that "the hospital administration has worked very diligently in changing or correcting problem areas" which the firm had recommended in a management letter. Sylvia Khuri, the volunteer executive director of the Health Care Foundation, outlined the organization's goals and progress. Maloy told directors that "the community is very fortunate to have people like Doctor and Mrs. Khuri working in the organization. Most communities this size do not have such a foundation."

Reporting on personnel, Maloy said while the total of 204 persons on the payroll seemed high, the hospital has many programs which are not present in hospitals of similar size. He said the hospital's fulltime employee total of 136 compares favorably. He added, however, that the hospital will use attrition to trim the staff further. The operations report, by Maloy, showed year-to-date totals and comparisons with last year on professional performances at the hospital. A total of 1,224 patients have been admitted this year, compared to 1,113 last year. The daily census of patients stood at 28, compared to 31 last year. However, the number of out-patient visits totalled 6,050, a big increase over the 4,447 recorded last year. Also on the rise were radiology procedures, respiratory therapy treatments, ambulance runs and home health visits. Committee appointments announced by Mal Manchee, board president, included: executive committee--Manchee, Scott Turner, Larry Watts; Rural Health--Manchee, Jo Beth Shackelford, Watts; Credentialing--Boyd Foster, Steve Cortez, Watts; Quality Assurance--Cortez; Budget and Finance--Dean Crofford, Shackelford, Foster; and Turner was named to the Tax Abatement Board. At the close of the session, directors discussed their attendance at a Board Orientation Workshop, hosted in Lubbock last weekend by Methodist Hospital. Manchee said it was "one of the best and most informative workshops I've ever attended." Other board members also expressed appreciation. Watts said it was "very educational and we learned of the many services provided free by Methodist, some of which we have not been using."

Daughter of victim takes stand at trial

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

The daughter of a shooting victim testified Wednesday that she learned after her father's death that her mother had been involved sexually with a young man who is accused of murder in the case. Gwenna Dawn Gudgell was called as a witness for the prosecution in the trial of her mother, Donna Gudgell, 48, in connection with the shooting death of Bill Gudgell, 50, last September.

Gudgell died in an Amarillo hospital of a head wound in the early hours of Sept. 12. He was shot while sitting at the kitchen table of his home in northwest Deaf Smith County. Gwenna Gudgell testified that she had an affair with Chris Don Barron, 24, also charged with murder, and did not know at the time that her mother, Donna Gudgell, had been sexually involved with the same man. The daughter said her affair took place prior to her divorce early this year from Troy Rodgers.

Donna Gudgell told her she had been involved with Barron, the witness testified, just before an interview with an investigator. "She told me bits and pieces (about the night Gudgell died) and she 'knew' it was Chris," Gwenna Gudgell related. "She'd already told me about the affair, but not how long or when it started." Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul questioned Gwenna Gudgell about why her mother "lied" for Barron. "She was trying to protect a son," she responded.

"Who?" asked Saul. "Chris," the witness answered. Saul also asked Gwenna Gudgell about her relationship with Barron. "You had a relationship with Chris?" "Yes." "Describe it." "When Chris wanted something, he'd make me feel like the most beautiful person in the world," said Gwenna Gudgell. "Was it a sexual relationship?" "Yes, it started in January 1993." Saul asked how long the affair continued and she said it ended the first weekend in August that year. The prosecutor asked the witness about Barron's remarks about her father, and whether she would cry if her father died. "Yes, I would because I love my daddy," the witness said she told Barron. She described the events that led to Barron moving into the Gudgell home while he was a student at Adrian High School.

She said Barron became interested in her younger sister, then about 12 years old, but her father warned him to have nothing to do with the girl. "Daddy didn't approve," she said. Gwenna Gudgell said her mother learned about the daughter's relationship with Gudgell. "How did she find out?" "She caught us," she answered the prosecutor's question. Gwenna Gudgell told about the family arriving at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo after her father was transported by helicopter from his home with a head wound. "Chris was being real loud and Mama was crying," she said about the trip to Amarillo from Adrian. The witness, under questioning, said her mother had mentioned that she might divorce her husband after the youngest child finished high school. "She said she'd start a new life," said Gwenna Gudgell. Tuesday afternoon, Saul led a series of witnesses through the investigation of the death. First law enforcement officer to reach the Gudgell home was Deaf Smith Sheriff's Deputy Willie Jagers who described the scene in the kitchen where Bill Gudgell was sitting when he was shot. Jagers testified that after a helicopter arrived at the northwest Deaf Smith County home, Gudgell was taken to an Amarillo hospital. The deputy said he and another deputy, Robin Ruland, then searched to house to determine if anyone might be hiding.

It was during the search, Jagers said, that he observed that the bathtub did not appear to have been used. Donna Gudgell had told officers that she was in the tub-shower when she heard a shot and thought her husband was "shooting a coyote from the back porch." When he looked at the tub, Jagers said in his testimony, he saw no evidence that it had been used -- no wet towels and dampness in the tub. He also said he observed the hole in the kitchen window and screen behind the chair Bill Gudgell was sitting in when he was shot. On cross-examination by the defendant's attorney, Selden Hale of Amarillo, Jagers said it was about 12:40 a.m. Sept. 12, about 1 1/2 hours after the first emergency call from Donna Gudgell was received that he and Ruland searched the house. After Hale's cross-examination, Saul asked Jagers, "Did you think there should be water in the tub?" The deputy replied, "I thought there should be some." He also said (See DAUGHTER, Page 2)

HISD trustees meeting about '94-95 priorities

Hereford school trustees met for the first of a two-day meeting on Tuesday that is designed to give administrators direction for the coming year. In explaining the two-day workshop session, Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt said that, "Right now I feel extremely frustrated" because "I need some direction from the board." The session began at 5 p.m. Tuesday and is scheduled to resume at 5 p.m. Thursday. Assistant superintendents Nena Veazey and Corky Lockmiller are acting as moderators for the sessions. Lockmiller explained the ground rules for the sessions to trustees on Tuesday, telling them to be active participants, pay attention and listen, but that "It's OK to have fun." "It's a team-building process," Greenawalt said. Community activist Davis Ford attended the start of Tuesday's session. He was told by Greenawalt that "this is the board's participation" and that no comments from the public would be allowed. In stressing the need for openness in discussions, Lockmiller noted that every comment made is valid, while Greenawalt said that comments made in the session would stay in the room. The goal of the workshop, the moderators said, is to "develop a set of board goals and priorities" for the 1994-95 school year. All seven trustees were at the Tuesday opening session. They are: Steve Wright, president; Jim Marsh, vice president; Mike Veazey, secretary; Ron Weishaar, Joe Flood, Randy Tooley and Raul Valdez.

Five arrested here as part of raid by area drug unit

Hereford police joined law enforcement officials from throughout the Panhandle Tuesday in a massive sweep of suspected drug dealers. Although the Hereford Police Department is not a member of the Panhandle Regional Narcotics Task Force, Chief David Wagner said, "we do assist them quite heavily." According to the Amarillo Daily News, the task force -- which is made up of law enforcement agencies from throughout the Panhandle -- began at about 4 p.m. serving warrants on dozens of people. Authorities took part, the newspaper reported, in Hereford, Memphis, Borger, Amarillo, Dimmitt and related counties. In Hereford, police arrested three people on warrants from the task force's investigations.

Sgt. Esrael Silva, who has been working with the task force, said the arrests are the culmination of the task force's continuing work. It involved all 27 counties of the Panhandle. Arrested here were: an 18-year-old female on warrants alleging two counts of delivery of drugs; a 47-year-old male on warrants alleging two counts of delivery of drugs; and a 24-year-old male on warrants for delivery of a controlled substance. In addition, a 30-year-old female was arrested on warrants from three counties that were not related to the task force investigation, but she was at the location of a task force arrest. Also, the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department made one arrest in connection with the investigation, a 17-year-old male who was charged with possession of marijuana.

Greenspan upbeat regarding economy

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan sought to calm unsettled financial markets today by offering an upbeat assessment of the economy's prospects. "Despite ... the always present future uncertainties, the outlook for the U.S. economy is as bright as it has been in decades," he told the House Budget Committee. "Economic activity has strengthened, unemployment is down, and price trends have remained subdued." And Greenspan assured currency traders that he and Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen "have been following developments very closely because we cannot be indifferent to major movements in our currency." At the White House, Clinton also spoke reassuringly about the economy and minimized Tuesday's plunge in the value of the dollar. "Let me just emphasize that the dollar ... is traded in big multilateral markets with other currencies and they go up and down," Clinton said in an Oval Office photo session. "But the fundamental economic realities in this country are very strong." He said the economy is growing, inflation is low and unemployment has dropped dramatically. "I think we just have to keep working on our fundamentals and in the end the markets will have to respond to economic realities of the American economy," the president said. On Capitol Hill, the chairman of the Budget Committee, Rep. Martin Olav Sabo, D-Minn., said lawmakers were very interested in questioning Greenspan about the market turmoil, but Greenspan said he did not intend to address the matter in his prepared testimony. Greenspan refrained from even hinting on U.S. officials' plans. But, even before he spoke, stock and bond prices rose in early trading and the value of the dollar firmed. The greenback had plunged to a post-World War II low against the Japanese yen on Tuesday. Many economists believe the Treasury Department and Fed may again intervene to prop up the dollar.

Bush scheduled to visit feedyard

Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush will bring his campaign to Hereford Thursday, making appearances at the municipal airport at 4:30 p.m., touring a feedyard, then going to Rivera Produce about 5:15 or 5:30, according to Frank Barrett, local Bush supporter. Barrett said interested citizens are invited to meet Bush and hear brief remarks at Rivera's, located at 1410 W. Hwy. 60. A fundraiser for supporters is also scheduled Thursday night. Bush, 47, is a general partner of the Texas Ranger baseball organization. He and his wife live in Dallas with their 12-year-old twin daughters. He serves as chairman of the board of Hearts and Hammers, a housing rehabilitation group, and as a board member of the Kent Waldrep National Paralysis Foundation. He and his family are active in Highland Park United Methodist Church. Last week, Bush announced a comprehensive plan to prevent frivolous and junk lawsuits, claiming that "long term economic development in Texas will be stimulated by GEORGE W. BUSH a civil justice system that is fair and reasonable." And, last week, the Law Enforcement Alliance of America (LEAA) endorsed Bush for the governorship of Texas. LEAA president Brenda Maples cited Bush's plan to reform Texas' juvenile justice system and his plan to abolish mandatory supervision as just two reasons why the alliance is supporting Bush.

Cigarette company misled investigators about development

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
 Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal investigators say a major cigarette maker misled them about its secret development of tobacco containing double the usual nicotine.

The Food and Drug Administration's accusation Tuesday came as the tobacco industry also fired a new volley in the escalating smoking wars.

Advertisements by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. say some politicians want to ban cigarettes, and picture alcohol, caffeine and fast-food hamburgers as the next targets. "Today it's cigarettes. Tomorrow?" the ads ask.

The industry "is trying to mask the facts with its current multimillion-dollar misinformation campaign," Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders responded in a letter to newspapers running the ads.

Alcohol, caffeine and food already are regulated, FDA Commissioner David Kessler told Congress on Tuesday. Now he's trying to decide whether his agency can legally regulate nicotine as a drug, a move that could lead him to ban most nicotine-containing products.

To do so, Kessler must prove that tobacco companies manipulate nicotine levels. On Tuesday, he accused Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. of doing just that - by developing a super-potent tobacco leaf called Y-1 and pumping it into "light" cigarettes last year.

Tobacco companies also boost nicotine by adding ammonia to cigarettes, Kessler added. Industry documents call the chemical an "impact booster" that frees nicotine from tobacco so more gets into a smoker's bloodstream, he told the House Energy and Commerce health subcommittee.

"These findings lay to rest any notion that there is no manipulation and control of nicotine undertaken in the tobacco industry," he said.

B&W tried to hide the Y-1 tobacco plant from FDA, Kessler contended. He stopped short of using the word

"lie" but said company officials denied breeding any such tobacco until Friday, when it learned FDA had discovered the plant.

"That sounds like a pretty deceptive way or misleading way of answering the question," said Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., the subcommittee chairman. The panel is considering requiring FDA to regulate tobacco without banning it.

"Tobacco companies are nothing but drug pushers," said Dr. Randolph Smoak Jr. of the American Medical Association, which considered the allegations so startling it broke its silence on Waxman's hearings.

B&W spokesman Tom Fitzgerald said Kessler has "blown the issue completely out of proportion."

He insisted the Louisville, Ky., company never hid Y-1 but said he couldn't explain why FDA records show B&W told the agency in May that higher-nicotine tobacco breeding was not "feasible."

And R.J. Reynolds insisted ammonia merely adds flavor to cigarettes by reacting to sugars in tobacco.

In April, the chiefs of seven tobacco companies testified before the subcommittee that they do not manipulate nicotine.

"This raises the serious question of whether tobacco executives deliberately and intentionally misled the Congress," said Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore.

"We cannot depend on the tobacco industry to tell the truth," said Rep. Mike Kresler, D-Wash.

B&W grew the genetically altered Y-1 plant and patented it in Brazil, Kessler said. It contains 6.2 percent nicotine, well over the 2.5 percent to 3 percent found naturally in flue-cured tobacco, he said.

Last year the company used the new leaf in five U.S. cigarette brands, including three "light" cigarettes implied to be healthier: Viceroy King Size, Viceroy Lights King Size, Richland King Size, Richland Lights King Size and Raleigh Lights King Size.

DAUGHTER

that he mentioned his observation to Ruland.

Jagers said, "I thought it was curious. Everything was curious."

Deputy Jerry Hodges, who arrived at the Gudgell home soon after Jagers, testified that he and a reserve deputy, Travis Shields, prepared the landing spot for the helicopter when it arrived to transport Gudgell to Amarillo.

He said when he entered the kitchen he talked with Donna Gudgell, describing her as "very calm."

Saul asked him if he saw the wound in Gudgell's head. Hodges said the victim's head "basically was split open."

A former Deaf Smith deputy, now a Hereford police department officer, Robin Ruland, testified about finding a .223 Ruger rifle near the back porch.

A photograph of the position of a cinder block outside the kitchen window and the location of the rifle was identified by Ruland.

He said because only bullet fragments were found in the body and in the metal cabinet inside the kitchen, no ballistics tests could be conducted.

"You were not able to verify the weapon?" asked Saul.

"That's correct," replied Ruland. Taking the witness stand Tuesday, also, were Texas Ranger Alvin Schmidt, who serves a wide area of the Panhandle, and Daniel Montano, a member of the Amarillo special crimes unit.

They were invited by the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office to assist in the investigation.

Montano reported he took part in an interview with Donna Gudgell and other members of the family. He also said he was present when Chris Don Barron gave a statement to investigators.

Neighbors of the Gudgells, John Perrin and Gene Koetting, who went to the house after receiving calls from Donna Gudgell, explained their roles in administering first aid to Bill Gudgell.

Personality disorder prompted discharge of shooter at base

By MARK JEWELL
 Associated Press Writer
SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) - A 20-year-old man who went on a shooting rampage at his former Air Force base couldn't get along with co-workers and was forced out of the military because of a "personality disorder," authorities say.

Dean A. Mellberg's first targets at Fairchild Air Force Base's hospital were the psychiatrist and psychologist who recommended his discharge, base commander Col. William Brooks said Tuesday.

"He was discharged because of a personality disorder that interfered with his ability to get along with others and an inability to do his work," Brooks said.

When Monday afternoon's five-minute attack was over, Mellberg had shot and killed four people and wounded 23.

"Why this individual did what he did I don't know," Brooks said.

Mellberg, who had stuffed an assault rifle in a gym bag and taken a cab to the base, was shot and killed by a military police officer who sped to the scene on a bicycle.

Authorities found 19 rounds left in the drum-style, 75-round magazine on Mellberg's gun, Spokane County Sheriff Larry Erickson said.

"It was just insanity the whole time. I was scared. So scared," said Neal Cox, 18, who was shot on his first day on a new job selling espresso from a stand inside the hospital. "I can't believe it really happened. It keeps replaying in my head. I've been having headaches because I can't forget about it."

Brooks said Mellberg, formerly of Lansing, Mich., arrived at Fairchild in April 1993 as an aircraft maintenance worker. He received an honorable discharge in May 1994 after undergoing a psychiatric evaluation at a Lackland Air Force Base medical center at San Antonio, Texas, then transferring to Cannon AFB in New Mexico, where he was processed for discharge.

Mellberg had conflicts with co-workers in Fairchild's airplane maintenance department as well as with his dormitory roommate, Brooks said.

A newspaper reported the dispute started last year when the roommate started rumors that Mellberg was homosexual.

"They put out rumors he was gay... They stole chairs from inside his room... They flattened the tires on his bike," Mellberg's mother, Lois, of Lansing, told The Seattle Times.

Authorities declined to comment on that account.

Mellberg was seen on June 3 at Lackland's Wilford Hall Medical Center by a psychiatrist he felt comfortable with and had a long talk with him, said Bob MacNaughton, a Lackland spokesman.

The psychiatrist quoted Mellberg as saying he was going to Alaska to start a new life, MacNaughton told the San Antonio Express-News.

Mariene Anderson, manager of the north Spokane motel where Mellberg stayed for five days, told The Associated Press his parents called her to complain about his treatment at the Air Force base.

"She says if you could only know the horrible horrendous things that Spokane did to that boy," Anderson quoted Mrs. Mellberg as saying. "So something really bad happened to him here, but she didn't elaborate, she didn't tell me."

Mellberg apparently went to the hospital annex seeking the mental-health experts who had recommended his discharge.

Maj. Thomas Brigham, 31, a psychiatrist, and Capt. Alan London, 40, a psychologist, were shot and killed in their office. Brooks said both therapists had treated Mellberg and both signed the discharge recommendation. Brigham was killed first, then London.

Authorities say Mellberg later walked through a hallway in the hospital annex, firing as he went. He briefly entered the main hospital and shot up the cafeteria before going outside.

In addition to Brigham and London, the dead included Christine McCaren, 8, of Spokane, and Anita Linder, 62. Linder, a patient, was shot in the hospital parking lot as she tried to flee, Brooks said.

Mellberg had gone to a retail sporting goods store to learn how to operate the semiautomatic MAK-90 assault weapon used in the attack, Erickson said.

He had purchased the weapon June 15 from a federally licensed dealer who sells guns from his Spokane home. Authorities were unsure where Mellberg had purchased the 75-round magazine.

Michael Carroll, the dealer who sold the rifle, said Mellberg fulfilled all the legal requirements to buy the rifle. Carroll said Mellberg told him he planned to use the weapon for target practice or possibly hunting.

Carroll said he refused to sell an extra-large magazine to Mellberg and instead sold him three five-round clips.

"He seemed like he was knowledgeable about guns," Carroll said. "Nothing seemed unusual. He gave me no idea that he might be a psycho."

No background checks or waiting periods are required to purchase rifles under state or federal laws.

Fairchild, 10 miles west of Spokane, was a bomber base since World War II. But in May, the last of its B-52s moved elsewhere as the base began conversion to an air refueling base.

Brooks said flags at Fairchild would be flown at half-staff through July 1.

Flags at the Air Force's other Air Combat Command bases will fly at half-staff Thursday and Friday, Tech Sgt. Deborah Gonzales said.

Diane Wilhelm feted with bridal shower

Diane Amy Wilhelm, June 25 bride-elect of Colton Eric Collier, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday morning, June 18, in the home of Leona Schilling.

Greeting guests with the honoree were her mother, Anita Wilhelm; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Linda Collier; and his grandmother, Estelline Collier.

Carol Berryman invited guests to register.

Gwene Betzen and Lisa Wilhelm served refreshments of zucchini bread, cinnamon rolls, sugar cookies, almond punch and assorted fruits. The table was centered by a floral arrangement in the bride-elect's chosen colors of peacock blue and peach and was appointed with crystal.

A micro-wave oven was presented to the honoree by the hostesses: Christie Euler, Leona Schilling, Jamie Morgan, Carol Berryman, Stacy Lea, Alice Hund, Janie Banner, Viola Wagner, Crystal Cole, Oleta Diller, Nadine Berend, Patty Frerich, Oleta Hoffman, Tammie Wilks, Anissa Sellers, Marilyn Kahlich and Louise Witkowski.

Bride-elect is honored

A bridal shower was held for Diane Wilhelm Saturday morning, June 18, in the home of Leona Schilling. The honoree and Colton Collier plan to wed Saturday, June 25. Greeting guests were, from left, Anita Wilhelm, the honoree's mother; Diane Wilhelm, the honoree; Linda Collier, the prospective bridegroom's mother; and Estelline Collier, his grandmother.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I so enjoyed those letters from folks who couldn't part with their beloved cars. Can you stand one more?

In 1950, my father bought a new Deluxe Chevrolet sedan. We had some wonderful times in that car. When Dad died in 1962, my mother said he wanted me to have it. I drove our Deluxe Chevy until 1971—more than 126,000 miles. I had my last ride in it behind a tow truck when it finally gave up.

A person with common sense would say, "Junk it," but I couldn't. So the old Chevy is still in my garage, taking up space needed for other things.

I love to sit in it and shift the old standard gears. Memories come flooding back, and for a few moments the family is all together—on our way for a vacation or perhaps just a day's outing in the sweet spring or glorious fall. That Chevy was part of our family.

I've turned down several attractive offers from people interested in restoring antique cars. It's ancient and dilapidated now, like me, but it will stay where it is as long as I live in this house.—Daddy's Girl in New Jersey

DEAR GIRL: How lovely. Here's another heartwarmer.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my wife became very ill, I knew she would never drive again, so I sold my pickup truck and kept her Oldsmobile. I kept checking out the new trucks and told "Lena" that when the Oldsmobile got too old, I wanted to know what was available. As long as she lived, I was not going to sell her Olds or trade it in.

After Lena died, I looked for anew truck, but I just couldn't bear the thought of getting rid of her Olds. Then, I saw a Chevy pickup with all the extras. I was never one to spend money on extras, but I could hear Lena saying, "For heaven's sake, Lou, if you like it, get it!" So I bought the truck. It has a tape deck in it, and every day, I play a recording of the homily from Lena's funeral mass. So for a short while every day, we are still together in that great little truck. I feel that she picked it out for me.—Lou in Lyndhurst, N.J.

DEAR LOU: You found the silver lining. Lena would be awfully pleased. Thanks for sharing some intensely personal feelings. Letters such as yours make my readers feel like family.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Having followed your mini-debate over old cars treasured by husbands, I cannot believe that no one has picked up on the real reason some of the wives identify with the old clunkers.

Surely women are aware that many of the same qualities at work here are also those that keep their marriages secure. To name a few—appreciation for loyal service, love lavished and returned and the emotional attachment that transcends years of familiarity, multiple dents and occasional blowouts.

The "trophy car" however, is not very different from the "trophy wife." Both reflect the attitude that the past is history and what counts is the prosperous facade.—Car Buff in Topicks (married 25 years)

DEAR BUFF: You present an interesting concept. People should keep in mind that the quality of the ride depends on what's under the hood.

Gem of the Day: A new car doesn't mean you have money. It means you HAD money.

Ann Landers' latest booklet, "Nuggets and Doozies," has everything from the outrageously funny to the poignantly insightful. ## Germans upset at Wimbledon

By DAVID CRARY
Associated Press Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - In another stunning upset at Wimbledon, 120th-ranked Bryan Shelton routed No. 2 seed and 1991 champion Michael Stich 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 today.

Stich joined fellow German Steffi Graf, the women's top seed and defending champion, as a first-round loser.

Shelton and Lori McNeil, who beat Graf, both are Americans.

The No. 1 men's seed, defending champion Pete Sampras, preserved some sense of order with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 second-round victory over fellow American Richey Reneberg.

Shelton, who had to win three qualifying matches to make the field, has never advanced past the third round of any Grand Slam. But he totally outplayed Stich, who let his frustrations show and was targeted by boos when he exited Court Two.

"It's one of the top matches of my career so far," Shelton said.

"Nothing seemed to bother me from

Equal Rockets, Knicks clash in Game 7 tonight

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Perhaps not in the history of the league have two teams so physically equal played in the NBA Finals.

Patrick Ewing and Hakeem Olajuwon are dominant, powerful centers. Neither New York nor Houston has a traditional, finesse small forward, instead relying on the size and strength of Anthony Mason, Charles Smith, Robert Horry and Carl Herrera.

Both teams have quiet, efficient power forwards in Charles Oakley and Otis Thorpe, and defensive-minded, streak-shooting guards like Derek Harper, John Starks, Vernon Maxwell and Kenny Smith.

The first six games reflected that physical equality, with every game decided by less than 10 points.

So when it comes down to Game 7 tonight, both teams will seek to draw on what mental reserves they have left.

"It's been a long, long year," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said Tuesday. "Usually by this time, I'd be locked up with tapes of college players, getting ready for the draft. This has been a tough, physical series in which every game could have gone either way."

"I think for the physical part of the game, everybody's going to be ready. But things like turnovers are usually mental. The things you have to think about. Those may be the key."

Olajuwon, whose 27-point average in the series is more than twice that of any of his Houston teammates, agreed that the key is not trying to do too much physically, because a player can wear himself out.

"I have to play smart, with confidence and keep everything in perspective," Olajuwon said. "It's a game. It's basketball. Just enjoy the competition. But it takes mental preparation, not just physical. Everyone must work together as a team, play your role and encourage one another."

Pat Riley, in his eighth NBA Finals as a coach, said he doesn't believe that the seventh game of the finals is any different from seventh games in other rounds.

"Either way, it's one and out," Riley said. "It comes down to the players performing."

But Riley said that if a player doesn't "get that hole down in his gut, then he's not ready for the game. I think that is natural and a good feeling. I think what usually happens in this situation is that one or two guys play the best game of their lives."

The Rockets are trying to win the city of Houston's first major professional title. The Oilers won the American Football League in 1961 when it was considered secondary to the NFL, and the Aeros won the World Hockey Association in 1974 shortly before it folded and its top teams were absorbed into the NHL.

The home team has won 19 consecutive seventh games in the NBA playoffs, a fact the players and coaches talk about only when asked about it by the media.

"We don't want to think about it too much," Tomjanovich said. "It means you probably have an advantage, but you worry about the law of averages finally catching up with you."

"We're not talking about 19-0, just this one game and what we have to do," Thorpe said. "Our 15-0 start this season means more to us because it made us believe we could win any game we play."

"From a statistical, odds-making point of view, it doesn't look very good for us," Riley said. "But nothing has looked very good for us throughout the playoffs."

Olajuwon, who twice went to the NCAA finals and is making his second appearance in the NBA Finals, but has never won a championship, said he isn't concerned that his place in basketball history depends on winning a title.

"If you win a championship, they say you can't win two," Olajuwon said. "If you win two, you can't win three. They'll compare you with Bill Russell (who won 11 NBA titles). So you can never please people. I want to win for my own satisfaction, knowing that we have worked hard. I don't know any other way to play than to play to win."

Ewing, Olajuwon's counterpart on the Knicks, has had more team success in his past, with an NCAA title at Georgetown and two Olympic gold medals.

"This is the one missing thing," Ewing said. "I've won on every level, and this is the last step."

New York has had a decided advantage in backcourt play in the series as Riley has turned almost all the minutes over to Starks and Harper.

Harper is averaging 38 minutes per game against Houston, up from 30 minutes per game in earlier rounds of the playoffs and 24 minutes in the regular season, when he split time evenly with Greg Anthony. Starks, meanwhile, is averaging nearly 42 minutes in the finals.

"John and I have to make the proper decisions and the proper plays," Harper said. "That doesn't mean just shooting the ball. Making the play could mean just making a pass. Defensively, we have to be ready because I know the Houston backcourt wants to step up in Game 7." Rockets guards Maxwell, Smith and Cassell are averaging a combined 26.3 points in the finals, compared to 34.7 for Starks and Harper.

"The game boils down to the will to win," Harper said. "I think every individual is going to try to step up in some way. I have to keep them (Houston's guards) down while I have them down. But it's going to be extremely tough."

"I won't be satisfied until I'm crowned the champion. There is no satisfaction, once you've come this far, in finishing second."

Nigeria routs Bulgaria in World Cup play

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

No fear. Fun.

The World Cup party is on and Nigeria is having a ball. The Super Eagles made a stunning debut in the world soccer championship Tuesday, routing Bulgaria 3-0.

"I told my boys they want entertainment in the USA - good football with action," Nigeria coach Clemens Westerhof said. "We are not afraid. We came from far away to show that Nigeria can play football."

Can it ever! Led by striker Rashidi Yekini, who got the opening goal and set up another, the Super Eagles dominated the more experienced Bulgarians. And there apparently is more to come.

"We have not yet seen the real Rashidi Yekini," Westerhof said. "It's coming."

Daniel Amokachi scored off a brilliant run late in the first half, and Emmanuel Amonike added a third goal on a diving header in the 55th minute. Peter Rufat also made several sensational saves in Nigeria's goal.

The fans at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas ate it all up.

"It was our first time in the World Cup and everybody loved us," Yekini said. "That's why we had more confidence."

Argentina didn't lack confidence, either, in its 1994 debut. With rising star Gabriel Batistuta scoring three times and supposedly faded legend Diego Maradona connecting on a superb individual effort, the Argentines romped past Greece 4-0.

"He is magic," Greek coach Alkis Panagoulis said of Maradona. "He is the source of their inspiration."

Maradona, who has had drug abuse and legal problems since leading Argentina into the 1990 final - he took his nation to the championship in 1986 - got his inspiration from his children. And his detractors.

"This is for my two daughters and for the entire Argentine people," he said a few minutes after the game.

Then, he added, "I also dedicate this goal and this victory to all my critics. Now I'm waiting to hear what they thought of me."

The Greeks thought so much of Maradona that they constantly fouled him. But by shadowing him, they left wide areas for Batistuta, who connected in the second, 14th and 90th minute, the final goal on a penalty kick.

"I think the Greek players came to take pictures of the Argentinians, because they loved them so much. After the game, they were still happy, because they had played Maradona," Panagoulis said.

In the other game Tuesday, defending champion Germany rallied to tie Spain 1-1.

Tonight, the United States played Colombia at the Rose Bowl, while the afternoon game had Romania against Switzerland at the Pontiac Silverdome.

The U.S. team almost certainly will be without Claudio Reyna again.

A hamstring problem has made him doubtful.

Forward Eric Wynalda, who had the Americans' goal in a 1-1 tie with Switzerland in their opener, is bothered by a rash, but is expected to start.

At Chicago, Juergen Klinsmann saved the Germans, scoring in the 48th minute to offset Juan Antonio Goikoetxea's goal in the 14th minute. Then Klinsmann nearly won it with a sharp right-footed shot that barely missed the corner of the net with three minutes to go.

"The bad news was that I didn't score the second goal," he said. "There are days when you just try everything ..."

Such as sending a pass toward the net to see what happens - and seeing it go in. That's how Goikoetxea scored, with a twisting ball from the right wing that hit the far goalpost and went in.

"I intended a cross, but it worked the way it did," Goikoetxea said.

Carlesimo considers Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - P.J. Carlesimo, who transformed Seton Hall from a dormat to a Big East basketball power, could be headed to the NBA.

Carlesimo is talking to the Portland Trail Blazers about taking over as coach of the NBA club, a close familiar with the negotiations told The Associated Press.

Although the source said some "fairly serious things" needed to be worked out before an agreement could be reached, at least two newspapers - The Oregonian and the Daily Record of Morristown, N.J. - reported today that Carlesimo had been offered the job.

Carlesimo has avoided comment on persistent reports that he has been approached by the Trail Blazers. But the source said there had been more than one contact, including in-person talks during the recent NBA rookie camp in Chicago.

Brad Greenberg, the Blazers' vice president for player personnel, has consistently refused to name any prospective candidates throughout the search.

Carlesimo would receive $1.5 million per year in a five-year deal with the Blazers, according to several published and broadcast reports.

Seton Hall athletic director Larry Keating said Tuesday night that Carlesimo's leaving has "always been a possibility. Every year it seems someone's coming after him. (But) I wouldn't comment on it even if it was happening."

Team owner Paul Allen, co-founder of Microsoft and one of the wealthiest men in professional sports, is in Japan but is expected to be back in Portland before the June 29 draft.

Stich, though ranked No. 2 in the world after Pete Sampras, has struggled badly in recent Grand Slams. He lost in the first round of the 1993 U.S. Open and in the Australian Open this year, and was ousted in the second round of the recent French Open.

"I didn't play great, I didn't play bad," Stich said. "He was just too good today... He could have closed his eyes and hit it wherever he wanted."

In other matches Wednesday, 20-year-old Russian Yevgeny Kafelnikov outlasted Dutchman Laurence Tieleman in the completion of a marathon suspended match 7-5, 6-7 (7-5), 7-5, 6-7 (7-4), 10-8.

Another Russian, Alexander Volkov, won 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 over Jeff Tarango, the sixth straight time the American has lost here in the first round - the longest Wimbledon losing streak in the field.

France's Guy Forget, who missed the past five Grand Slams because of injuries, beat Doug Flach, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. But another veteran Frenchman, crowd-favorite Henri Leconte, withdrew with back problems five games into the fifth set of a battle with Spain's Alex Corretja.

Whitaker's grand slam ends Tribe's win streak

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

The day after he almost extended Detroit's home-run streak, Lou Whitaker started a new one for the Tigers.

Whitaker hit a grand slam in the bottom of the ninth inning, capping a six-run rally Tuesday night that sent Detroit past Cleveland 7-5 and stopped the Indians' 10-game winning string.

"That was great," Whitaker said. "They are riding high right now and they thought they had us beat, but they just couldn't put us away."

Detroit's homer string ended at 25 games, tying the major league record, in a loss Monday night to Cleveland. Whitaker twice came close to connecting, hitting a fly ball to the warning track in center field and lofting a foul fly into the upper deck in right. Not since the first two games of the season had the Tigers gone two straight games without a home run, and Whitaker made sure it didn't happen again. Whitaker hit a drive into the upper deck in right at Tiger Stadium for his 10th homer of the year and fourth career slam.

The Tigers rallied after Cleveland manager Mike Hargrove pulled Jason Grimsley. In eight innings, Grimsley gave up just one unearned run and four hits.

Rookie Paul Shuey relieved with a 5-1 lead, but gave up two walks and an RBI single to Alan Trammell. Derek Lilliquist (1-3) was no better, giving up a pinch-single to Juan Samuel and a bases-loaded walk to Tony Phillips before Whitaker homered.

Joe Boever (6-0) pitched the ninth and gave up a run, and still wound up with the win.

White Sox 5, Rangers 4
Ozzie Guillen's single in the 10th inning won a homer-filled game at Comiskey Park.

Frank Thomas hit two solo home runs, giving him 27. Tim Lincecum also connected for Chicago, tying the game in the ninth with a solo drive with one out.

Jose Canseco hit his 21st homer and Rusty Greer put Texas ahead with a leadoff home run in the ninth.

With one out in the 10th, Darrin Jackson and Lance Johnson singled against Kris Carpenter (2-4). Rick Honeycutt relieved with two outs and gave up Guillen's sharp single.

Red Sox 13, Blue Jays 1

Mo Vaughn doubled twice and drove in three runs as Boston scored 10 times in the first inning at Toronto.

Brad Cornett (0-2) gave up six runs and got only one out in his second major league start. Reliever Scott Brow allowed six runs in one inning, and left in the second with the score 12-0.

Aaron Sele (6-3) won for the first time since May 18.

Royals 2, Athletics 0

Four pitchers held Oakland to one hit, and Felix Jose hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning for visiting Kansas City.

Jose connected against Ron Darling (4-9) for his fourth homer.

Royals starter Kevin Appier left after 2-3 innings because of a strained right hamstring that might cost him a start. Mike Magnante gave up a single in the fifth to Terry Steinbach.

Stan Belinda (2-2) pitched two innings and Rusty Meacham worked the ninth for his fourth save.

Yankees 6, Twins 4

Jimmy Key won his career-best 10th straight decision and became the first 11-game winner in the majors, leading New York over visiting Minnesota.

Key (11-1) gave up four runs in 6 1-3 innings.

The Yankees rallied for five runs in the sixth inning for a 6-3 lead. Pinch-hitter Paul O'Neill hit a two-run single and Bernie Williams hit a three-run double off Bret Merriman (0-1).

Orioles 6, Brewers 1

Harold Baines hit his 11th homer and drove in a season-high four runs as Baltimore beat visiting Milwaukee.

Mike Mussina (10-4) struck out a season-high eight in seven innings.

Bob Scanlan (0-4) is winless in 27 appearances since Sept. 10.

Angels 7, Mariners 2

J.T. Snow hit his first home run of the year as California beat visiting Seattle.

Tim Salmon hit his 15th home run for the Angels. Reggie Jefferson homered twice for the Mariners.

Mets resembling last year's team

By HANK KURZ Jr.
Associated Press Writer

John Franco was venting, frustrated after his New York Mets teammates helped him botch what could have been a record-setting save.

He sounded so much like Bret Saberhagen one couldn't help but figure the Mets will be huddling behind closed doors sometime soon.

Earlier, Saberhagen claimed the Mets treat him like a fifth starter. The two-time Cy Young Award-winner, 7-3 with a 3.59 ERA this season, also said he's unhappy with the direction the team is going.

"Mets management has said it would be happy with a .500 club. But I want a winning club now, not three years down the line when my contract is up," he said. "I'd really like to see something happen to improve this club."

That was before his teammates blew another game they should have won, allowing two runs with two outs in the ninth inning as the Atlanta Braves rallied for a 4-3 victory.

Afterwards, it was Franco's turn.

"You can't give the good teams opportunities," Franco said. "We gave them an extra out and you see what happens. It's getting real ugly again. We started out good but then fell back into bad habits."

Ah, the extra out. It's becoming a Mets' specialty.

On Monday, outfielder Jim Lindeman dropped a fly ball. On Tuesday night, third baseman Bobby Bonilla tried to barchand a slow roller and came up empty.

With two outs and a runner on first, Franco (1-3) got Jeff Blauser to hit a slow roller to third. "Bobby fields the ball and it's over," Franco said.

He didn't.

"And they scored it a hit. That's a joke," Franco said.

Elsewhere Tuesday night, it was Cincinnati 2, San Francisco 1; San Diego 4, Los Angeles 3 in 13 innings; Colorado 8, Houston 0; Pittsburgh 7, Philadelphia 2; Chicago 7, Florida 2; and St. Louis 5, Montreal 4.

Rockies 8, Astros 0

At Denver, David Nied pitched a four-hitter for his first career shutout - and the Rockies' first at home in their history.

Nied (6-4) did not allow a hit after the third inning until the ninth, when Andy Stankiewicz singled. The right-hander struck out four and walked one.

Colorado, which did not have a shutout last season, has four this season, and Nied has been the starter in three of them. Darryl Kile (5-3) lost.

Avoid cubicle crisis

It's your cubicle crisis. Your eyeballs feel like they're going to pop out of your head. A sharpened sword seems to be where your spine was. Your hands and wrists have had too much, too fast on the keyboard.

Call the boss and demand some of that "ergonomically correct" office furniture and those computer aids you've read about.

Not necessarily, says Dr. Paula Bohr. There's little hard proof that many office products marketed as problem solvers really work.

Bohr, associate professor of occupational therapy at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City, says the facts are just not there in many cases. "While companies market items in good faith, the information that's available to the consumer and even the company isn't always accurate. In some cases, the devices can potentially worsen a problem."

There's no evidence that back belts decrease stress on the lower back, Bohr says, and wrist splints and computer devices aimed at preventing or alleviating carpal tunnel syndrome actually worsen it because the wrist is placed in a bent position instead of one that's neutral.

Another occupational therapist, Dana Bechtold of St. Louis University Health Sciences Center's Spine-Hand-Rehabilitation Center, says there are simple ways to improve your work station without spending a lot of money on equipment and furniture.

"We encourage people to follow what we call the rule of the 90s," Bechtold says. "As you sit at your desk your elbows should be at a 90-degree angle. Your hips, knees, and ankles also should be near 90-degree angles. If you're leaning over too far or reaching too much, you may be putting unnecessary strain on your muscles."

Some tips from both specialists: CHAIRS. Your chair should be high enough to let you rest your elbows on your desk without making you lean forward or hunch your shoulders. Your feet should rest comfortably on the floor with ankles at a 90-degree angle. Most office chairs are adjustable, but Bechtold points out that many people fail to make the adjustments. Look for chairs with wheels or rollers that let you move around in your workspace without straining leg and low back muscles.

If your feet don't rest comfortably on the floor, use a foot rest, block, brick or phone book for support. A lumbar or sacral cushion that can be attached to the chair will give low back support.

KEYBOARDS. Average table or desk height is not usually the right height for a keyboard. If the desk is too high, put the keyboard on an open drawer or in your lap. Or cushion the chair to raise your position relative to the keyboard.

The best position for the computer user is to sit with arms hanging relaxed from the shoulders; the arms should be bent at right angles at the elbow, keeping the hands in a straight line and forearms and elbows held near the torso. The head should be in line with the body, with the chin facing forward. The middle of the torso should line up with the "B" and "N" keys. Be sure your keyboard is not off to one side; that can twist the body.

Avoid hitting or resting your wrist against a sharp desk edge. Use a padded, rounded wrist rest (or a rolled towel), but be sure it doesn't elevate your wrist to a higher or lower level than the keyboard. Don't rest your wrist continuously as you type; use the pad for occasional breaks.

SCREENS. The top of the screen (and any copy) should be at eye level or lower, to avoid having to tilt your head or strain your back muscles. If it's too low, prop it up with phone books or blocks. If you wear bifocals, adjust the height to avoid hunching down or stretching up to see.

"Many people work in offices with fluorescent lights which are too bright," Bohr says. "To compensate, they turn up the brightness on the computer screen, which causes glare and more strain for the eyes, especially for contact lens wearers."

Changing the brightness through the day is best, she says. "Of course, most people aren't willing to do this, but it can be a literal eye saver."

Glare screens are helpful, but they attract dust - on both sides of the glass. Just be sure to periodically clean both sides, she says.

BREAKS. Both Bohr and Bechtold recommend periodic breaks from repetitive chores. Stretching or exercising releases muscle tension.

People who don't use computers at work but have them at home for personal work or games might not understand that improper positioning of the equipment is causing their mysterious pains, observes Bohr.

"It's important to solve these problems ahead of time, because while the onset of repetitive motion injuries is slow, the long-term effects can severely limit an individual's activities," Bohr says.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am considering having my stomach stapled shut. I stand 5 feet, 5 inches high and weigh 260 pounds. I have been overweight most of my life and have tried diets, but I become discouraged quite easily. I feel terrible about the way I look, and am serious about the surgery. Please let me have your professional opinion. — T.S.

ANSWER: Some patients have weight problems that defy the best of programs and the best of motives. Their metabolic machinery simply fails to burn calories the way it does for the rest of us.

For them, chronic obesity might in time become a health threat. For this tiny segment of the overweight population, surgery becomes a reasonable option.

You are sensible to seek professional opinion. Mine would urge caution and alternative approaches to weight loss. I would ask you to consult a nutritionist for a personalized diet-and-exercise program with attainable goals.

If that fails, then you might consider surgical answers. You would want to select a surgeon with lots of experience in such procedures, one who could decide which is best for you.

Most surgical options, including the stapling approach, involve reducing stomach size to the point where it is not much more than a small food receptacle. The idea is to permit easier hunger satisfaction from smaller meals.

Those who undergo such procedures lose weight, lots of it. That means they need expert dietary guidance to satisfy basic nutritional needs. For such patients, nutrition becomes a whole new ballgame.

Do you have a family doctor? If so, begin there. Ask about a local nutritionist and about surgical options.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: When "renal failure" is mentioned as a cause of death, I am confused. Could you please explain this? What contributes to the problem? — R.M.B.

ANSWER: The kidneys clean blood of waste products that body cells produce daily. Without this cleanup work, the entire body chemistry goes awry. Nerves misfire, the heart beats erratically, lungs fail, and on and on.

If you can't bring kidney function back or find some alternative, death ensues.

If the sudden kidney failure is only transient, as from a drug overdose, shock, bleeding or overwhelming infection, then the kidney function usually can be restored. The ending is usually a happy one.

With the more insidious kidney failure, the kind that goes on silently over some time, things are less likely to be brought back under control. You'd resort to other means of blood cleansing, such as kidney dialysis or organ transplant.

Uncontrolled high blood pressure is one of the problems that can lead to such irreversible kidney failure and death.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What illnesses are marked by zinc deficiencies? My dad has low zinc, and they are now doing tests to pin down the cause. They think it might be that he is a heavy drinker. But we doubt that. — D.L.

ANSWER: Zinc deficiency can be associated with alcoholism. But it can also be involved in many other conditions. Any malabsorption problem can contribute, as can kidney failure.

The most common cause, though, is dietary lack, a major consequence of alcoholism.

Meat, fruits and vegetables are zinc sources, as are oysters. Meat zinc is more easily absorbed than zinc in other foods.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know what causes herpangina. How is it transmitted from person to person? What are the symptoms and how long do they last? My friend has this and we'd both like to know more. — N.W.

ANSWER: Herpangina is a virus infection marked by little blisters in the mouth and throat. It has nothing at all to do with the herpes virus, despite the name. In fact, a coxsackievirus is involved.

The salient symptom is a very sore throat. The patient might run a fever at first, then feel nauseated, even to the point of vomiting.

Herpangina usually lasts about a week, or until the inflammation has subsided totally.

The herpangina virus is passed on from person to person by way of finger contamination or in virus-laden droplets from a cough.

There is no medicine to slow the infection. You just try to make things comfortable for the person.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Are men who get vasectomies more likely to get prostate cancer? — B.B.

ANSWER: I have seen inconclusive studies suggesting a small increased risk, but there has never been any confirmed direct vasectomy-prostate cancer link. So experts tend to discount the reports, and only further studies will settle the issue to everyone's satisfaction.

Meanwhile, men 50 or older, vasectomized or not, should continue with their routine periodic prostate examinations. The individual's doctor can discuss any perceived risks from vasectomies.

For further discussion of prostate problems, see the booklet I'm sending you. Others can order the booklet by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 26, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Would you please comment on the significance of taking the drug Proscar before having the PSA test done? I have done this, and my urologist tells me I should not have. If this is true, should not your readers know about it? — D.A.

ANSWER: Proscar — finasteride — is a drug used to shrink an enlarged prostate gland. It can cause a drop in the prostate-specific antigen, the level of which is part of prostate cancer detection.

The experts don't agree on how significant the PSA drop is in the overall detection of prostate cancer. Doctors can adjust for it.

Other tests, such as ultrasound or a manual exam, are very much a part of detection. Your doctor does have a point. The medicine you mention does throw a curve to the examining doctor if he is not aware that the patient is using it. It's a good idea, when seeing a new doctor, to note what medications you are taking.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I would like to warn your readers that soft drinks go bad and they don't have an expiration date.

We bought a lot of diet drinks when they were on sale and stacked them in the garage, moving them to the refrigerator as needed. One day they started tasting really bad.

I called the bottling company and asked what the shelf life was. I was surprised that for diet drinks it was only 90 days and for regular drinks it was six months. The difference was the aspartame. I had never heard this. The company said they were beginning to put on expiration dates as they should have done long ago. We were caught with six cases of diet drinks we couldn't use.

They wouldn't make us sick, but they tasted terrible. — Norene Walls, San Antonio, Texas

Thanks for the words of wisdom. Before throwing all those cans away, call the manufacturer and tell them about the problem. It's good to let them know.

We checked with two major manufacturers of soft drinks and they are beginning to put "best used by" dates on the boxes, bottles or cans, though not all companies are doing this yet. They recommend using the regular soft drinks within six months, diet drinks within three to four months, and soft drinks in plastic bottles within two to three months.

Consumers, keep this in mind next time you see a great sale on soft drinks. Make sure they will be consumed within the suggested time period for the best taste. This way you won't throw away your money. — Heloise

RECYCLED COTTON
Dear Heloise: I use the cotton found in the tops of pill bottles to remove fingernail polish. It's a good way to recycle cotton. — Avis Rolston, Milanville, Pa.

BOOKMARK
Dear Heloise: I read mostly paperback books. I was always losing my bookmarks, but I finally solved the problem.

I use clear tape to stick a length of ribbon to the inside of the back cover. Then it is always attached to the book and available to mark my place.

Now if I can just keep from losing my book! — Lillie Mayo, Farmington, Ark.

DECORATIVE ASHTRAY
Dear Heloise: When cigarettes became a no-no, I was left with many beautiful ashtrays. During holidays or special occasions, I put a votive candle in the center of them.

The effect is most attractive and luxurious. — Virginia Donaldson, Sarasota, Fla.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISPOSAL PERMIT AMENDMENT

CIRCLE THREE FEEDYARDS, INC., P.O. Box 830, Hereford, Texas 79045 has applied to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (Commission) for an amendment to Permit No. 01831 to authorize an increase in the capacity of the feedlot from 13,500 head to 30,000 head. The proposed amendment would also include additional improvements completed after the permit was originally approved. Stormwater is retained in one (1) storage pond. Wastewater from the pond is to be disposed of by evaporation and/or irrigation on 425 acres of agricultural land. Manure/solids will be removed from site by a contract manure hauler. No discharge of pollutants into the waters of the State is authorized by this permit. The feedlot is on the west side of County Road "I" approximately one and a half miles south of the intersection of Highway 60 and County Road "I." This intersection is four (4) miles southwest of Hereford on Highway 60 in Castro County, Texas. This location is in the drainage area of the Upper Prairie Dog Town Fork Red River in Segment No. 0229 of the Red River Basin. The Executive Director of the Commission has prepared a draft permit based on the application submitted by the applicant and other information presently available.

Legal Authority: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code and 30 TAC Chapter 305 of the Rules of the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission.

This application is subject to a Commission resolution adopted August 18, 1993, which directs the Commission's Executive Director to act on behalf of the Commission and issue final approval of certain permit matters. The Executive Director will issue this permit unless one or more persons file written protests and/or a request for a hearing within 30 days after publication of this notice.

If you wish to request a public hearing, you must submit your request in writing. You must state (1) your name, mailing address and daytime phone number; (2) the permit number or other recognizable reference to this application; (3) the statement "I/we request a public hearing;" (4) a brief description of how you, or the persons you represent, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application; (5) a description of the location of your property relative to the applicant's operations; and (6) your proposed adjustment to the application/permit which would satisfy your concerns and cause you to withdraw your request for hearing. If one or more protests and/or requests for hearing are filed, the Executive Director will not issue the permit and will forward the application to the Office of Hearings Examiners where a hearing may be held. Commission hearings are evidentiary legal proceedings similar to civil court non-jury trials. Although general comments from the public may be submitted either in writing prior to the hearing, or orally at the start of the hearing, the law requires that the Commission's decision about whether to approve or deny the application be based on evidence and testimony submitted during the public hearing, presented under oath and subject to cross-examination by the other parties. Public comments are not evidence and cannot be the basis for the Commission's ultimate decision. In the event a hearing is held, the Office of Hearings Examiners will submit a recommendation to the Commission for final decision. If no protests or requests for hearing are filed, the Executive Director will sign the permit 30 days after publication of this notice or thereafter. If you wish to appeal a permit issued by the Executive Director, you may do so by filing a written Motion for Reconsideration with the Chief Clerk of the Commission no later than 20 days after the date the Executive Director signs the permit. Requests for a public hearing on this application should be submitted in writing to Chief Clerk's Office, Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission, P.O. Box 13067, Austin,

Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 463-7908. Information regarding hearing procedures may be obtained by contacting Kerry D. Sullivan, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner at the same address or by telephone at (512)463-7875. Information concerning any technical aspect of this application can be obtained by writing Desiderio Mora, R.S., Wastewater Permits Section, at the same address or by telephone at (512) 463-8201.

Issued this 9th day of June, 1994.
Gloria A. Vasquez,
Chief Clerk
Texas Natural Resource
Conservation Commission

President Theodore Roosevelt, an active hunter and sportsman, was once depicted in a cartoon with a bear cub. Soon, toymakers were producing stuffed animals that are still known as "teddy bears."

Legal experts speculate on O.J.'s defense on charges

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Was O.J. Simpson insane?

Simpson's lawyer has refused to rule out an insanity defense, even though the football hero has insisted that he didn't murder his ex-wife and her friend.

Legal experts said Tuesday that if Simpson pleads innocent by reason of insanity, a jury would have to be persuaded that he was mentally ill and that his illness robbed him of the ability to distinguish between right and wrong.

If jurors agree, Simpson would be sent to a mental institution for treatment, with a chance to be released later with no criminal record if doctors deem him cured.

"It would give Mr. Simpson the opportunity of getting back into the community and getting on with his life," said Peter Arenella, a law professor at University of California, Los Angeles.

Simpson, 46, pleaded innocent Monday to first-degree murder charges in the knife slayings of Nicole Brown Simpson, 35, and Ronald Goldman, 25. Prosecutors have not yet decided whether to seek the death penalty.

Simpson's attorney, Robert Shapiro, has said Simpson was at his home two miles away at the time of the killings. But he also said he would consider an insanity plea.

"Every possible defense has to be considered by a trial lawyer, and I certainly would reserve all possibilities," Shapiro said Monday.

District Attorney Gil Garcetti has said he would not be surprised by an insanity defense.

Another strategy defense attorneys could pursue would be to show that Simpson lacked the criminal intent required to be guilty of murder, Arenella said.

"That he was so emotionally upset, confused and depressed over the failure to get back together with his ex-wife that he snapped and that he may not have been conscious at the time of the crime," he said.

That would be similar to the diminished capacity defense - which Dan White used to win acquittal in the 1978 shooting deaths of San Francisco Supervisor Harvey Milk and Mayor George Moscone. White claimed that Twinkies and other junk food blurred his judgment.

Angry voters abolished the diminished capacity defense 12 years ago in the wake of White's acquittal. But "it still surfaces in a covert form in California courtrooms," Arenella said.

Defense attorneys are allowed to present evidence that a defendant lacks the mental ability to form criminal intent, he said.

Simpson's lawyers also could claim that the killings were committed in the heat of passion, but that would only lower the conviction to second-degree murder or voluntary manslaughter. The maximum sentence for second-degree murder is 15 years to life; voluntary manslaughter is punishable by up to 11 years.

To prove the killings were committed in the heat of passion, the defense would have to show that Simpson lashed out because he was provoked by the victims.

"It's not enough that O.J. got provoked, it also has to be that a reasonable person in the same situation would react this way," said Laurie Levenson, a Loyola School of Law professor.

Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark, assigned to prosecute the case, dismissed any notion that the killings were an act of passion.

"It was premeditated murder," Clark said. "It was done with deliberation and premeditation. That is precisely what he is charged with because that is what we will prove."

Killer showed 'no mercy' in Nicole Simpson's death

By MICHAEL FLEEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Nicole Simpson's neck was slashed down to her spine and Ronald Goldman's ear was nearly cut off, according to a source in the coroner's office who said the killer showed "no mercy."

Goldman was probably attacked first, from behind, because lacerations move from the right side of his body to his back, the unidentified source told KABC-TV on Tuesday.

Goldman had a deep cut on the back of his head, slash wounds on his neck and more than 20 other knife wounds, indicating a fierce struggle, the source said.

O.J. Simpson has pleaded innocent to murdering his ex-wife and her friend. He was expected to appear in Municipal Court today when his lawyer, Robert Shapiro, seeks access to all evidence investigators have gathered.

Simpson, under a suicide watch, was visited in jail by his 24-year-old son by his first marriage, Jason, and Robert Kardashian, a friend and lawyer.

"Obviously, every day he's getting a little stronger, but he still looks very bad, very depressed," Kardashian said.

Mrs. Simpson also had a large gash on her head and had been stabbed several times in the chest, the source told KABC.

"This was a brutal, savage, messy killing. It was a crime of anger and passion and one that showed no mercy. It was ugly," the source said.

The murder weapon, believed to be a 15-inch serrated knife, has not been found.

Police plan to search storage lockers at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago, the Chicago Sun-Times reported today, citing unidentified sources. Police searched for the knife Monday in a field near a Chicago hotel where Simpson briefly stayed the night the bodies were found.

A witness told Los Angeles authorities that Simpson bought a large serrated knife two to three weeks before the killings, the Sun-Times reported. The paper did not elaborate.

Finding a weapon is not essential to a murder prosecution as long as other evidence identifies the killer, said Robert H. Philibosian, a former Los Angeles County district attorney.

"It's not unusual not to have a weapon," he said.

Amarillo collector says baskets can be used for almost anything

By ROY R. REYNOLDS
Amarillo Globe-News

AMARILLO, Texas - Jan McCreary owns enough baskets to gather anything.

Including more baskets. Mrs. McCreary, who moved to Amarillo a couple of years ago from Tulsa, Okla., owns a collection of more than 100 baskets, which decorate her house and organize her silverware, books, video tapes, etc.

"In West Texas, I probably have the largest collection," she said. "But in the Mideast and Midwest, some people have 400 to 500."

The first visible basket at Mrs. McCreary's home hangs outside the front door to collect mail. Other baskets spend their time inside the house holding a remote control, Legos or laundry soap.

Even Mrs. McCreary's silverware resides in a basket.

"My husband (Tony) thought I was crazy when I dumped out a drawer and put the silverware on the table," she said, displaying a basket on the kitchen table that contains knives, forks, spoons and napkins within dividers. "Now, he tells me never to get rid of (the basket)."

Baskets can have many uses, from storage to decoration.

"You can do almost anything you want to with them," said Patty Brady, floral designer for Michael's Arts and Crafts in Amarillo. Many different types, colors and brands of baskets are available.

Mrs. McCreary collects Longaberger baskets exclusively. The baskets feature hardwood construction, handweaving and a price tag of $20 to $100.

"It's definitely the Rolls Royce of baskets," she said.

After moving to Amarillo, Mrs. McCreary had a hard time finding the baskets of her passion, which are sold only through private representatives.

So she found her own solution. "I started out as a customer," Mrs. McCreary said. "Now, I sell them."

The company, which is based in Dresden, Ohio, issues a special basket for each month throughout the year, including an annual Easter basket.

Easter brings a higher demand for baskets, but many people don't wait for the holiday.

"We sell them year-round - constantly," Ms. Brady said. "We've just got our aisles filled up."

The holiday doesn't really change basket buying habits, either.

"We do have Easter baskets, but people are buying our regular baskets, too," Ms. Brady said.

Ms. Brady will arrange anything from flowers to toy ducks in baskets upon request.

"We do a lot of arrangements in baskets," she said.

Most of the Longaberger baskets are available only through private salesmen, but one basket is only available in Ohio.

"It's only in a shop in Dresden," Mrs. McCreary said. "One of my friends bought it for me when she went to Dresden."

Mrs. McCreary has yet to visit the town of 1,500 people. "My dream is to go to Dresden," she said.

Mrs. McCreary's family are far from apathetic. They seem to use the baskets, too.

"(My husband) thought they were expensive at first," Mrs. McCreary said. "But after he saw how much we use them, he has slowly fallen in love with them."

Her three sons not only use the baskets to store video games and other odds and ends, but gave Mrs. McCreary her reason for collecting.

"The baskets were something I could give them," she said. "Longaberger's slogan is 'Handmade to be Handed Down.'"

And luckily, she said, the baskets are tough enough to withstand three boys.

"I just fell in love with them over their durability," Mrs. McCreary said. The durability also leads to usefulness. "I have very few that I do not use," she said.

"It's not just collect them and let them sit around."

Education forum set

AMARILLO-- A proposal for the Educator Excellence Indicator System, a tool to evaluate training programs for educators, will be discussed at a public forum in the Region XVI Education Services Center on Thursday.

The forum will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in Room ABC of the center, located at 1600 S. Cleveland.

All people interested in improving the quality of preparation and training for teachers and administrators are invited to attend.

The Educator Excellence Indicator System plan was developed by the Texas Commission on Standards for the Teaching Profession, a group of higher education and public school administrators and faculty. Deans at colleges of education and staff at the Texas Education Agency also cooperated in the design.

The purpose of the EEIS is to assess whether educator preparation programs are able to produce effective educators and to use resources wisely.

The plan envisions a shared database of statistical and qualitative information, which will include data from public schools, colleges and universities, test results and other sources.

Results will be made available to the public.

Statistical measures are proposed so that quality standards are fairly applied to all programs which train educators for their professional roles.
