Hospital board eyes CEO qualifications

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Directors of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District Board, in a special meeting Tuesday night, approved the general selection process in searching for and employing a new administrator.

The board spent almost three hours in discussing the search process and outlining the job description for the chief executive officer at Hereford Regional Medical Center. Ron Rives resigned as CEO on May 9.

Mal Manchee, chairman of the hospital board, emphasized that the process would include input from the medical staff and other key employees at the hospital. He said that local physicians had requested to be involved in the administrator search.

In the only other business Tuesday night, directors approved a board training session, which will be hosted by Lubbock Methodist Hospital on June 17-18. The board had agreed, early in the meeting, that the hospital should retain its affiliation with Methodist.

Jim Wurts, Methodist assistant vice president for regional services, led the board through a discussion on search criteria, pointing out that "the selection of the new CEO is very important...one that would affect the destiny of the hospital." Wurts is a former administrator.

The selection process approved by the board includes the following general outline: Methodist will screen and provide a list of candidates; the board (including chief of medical staff) will narrow the list to about two or three finalists; the finalists will be invited to a "walk-through" of the hospital and community, providing time for input from the medical staff and key hospital employees before the board makes the final selection.

The search criteria approved by the board included: The candidate should possess at least a bachelor's degree in business or a health-related area, with a master's degree in health care administration preferred; he/she should have at least three years experience as a CEO in a smaller hospital, or assistant administrator of a larger hospital; a rural background or experience in residing in a rural West Texas community would be preferred; the candidate's background should show community and professional involvement; personal traits should be identified--including character, stability, dependability, initiative, ability to communicate and motivate; the person's "track record" in recent positions will be studied; and the candidate should stand through a stringent reference check.

Manchee reported that board appointments to special committees would be announced at the next regular board meeting.

Attending the meeting were directors Manchee, Scott Turner, Boyd Foster, Dean Crofford, Steve Cortez and Larry Watts. Absent was Jo Beth Shackelford.

Also attending were interim administrator Mike Maloy, Wurts, Peggie Fox, administrative secretary; Nancy Griego, quality management coordinator; Speedy Nieman, Hereford Brand; and doctors Nadir Khuri, Jerry Payne, Duffy McBrayer, Jesse Perales, Howard Johnson, Kent Walker, and Howard Haysom.

Another hearing on for state school finance law

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court is being asked for a fourth time to throw out a school funding law that relies on state aid and local property tax money.

The court this morning heard arguments against the law, which is being challenged by property-poor school districts that first sued over education funding almost 10 years ago; property-rich and mid-wealth school districts; and parents who want to be able to use tax money to pay private school tuition.

The measure that's drawn all the ire caps school districts' local property wealth and requires those over the limit to share with the rest of the system.

It follows three Texas Supreme Court decisions against previous laws, beginning in 1989, when the court first ordered lawmakers to even out the funding available to school districts of varying property wealth.

Two subsequent reform laws then were declared unconstitutional by the court: once on a challenge by poor districts, and once after objections by rich districts.

All the laws have continued to depend mainly on a combination of state funds and local property wealth, along with some federal money.

Opponents of the latest measure lost a round last year, when state District Judge F. Scott McCown of Austin upheld the law. But McCown also said lawmakers have yet to address school construction needs and said they must find an equitable way to do so by Sept. 1, 1995.

The state is appealing that part of McCown's order. School districts and parents are appealing his decision to uphold the rest of the law.

Poor districts say the current system doesn't divide the money as equitably as it could, and it will leave a minimum $600 per-student gap in funding between rich and poor districts. They also have complained about the lack of funding for facilities.

Rich districts, among other arguments, say the law amounts to an unconstitutional statewide property tax.

Many school districts with various degrees of property wealth say the state simply relies too heavily on local property taxes to fund public education.

Supporters of school vouchers also have entered the fight, seeking the ability to use state money at any private or public school they choose. McCown dismissed their claims, but they say they deserve a trial.

While challenging the current law, poor school districts have said progress has been made since they began their lawsuit.

For example, at the time of the first trial, the wealthiest school district had about $14.7 million per student in property wealth. The poorest had about $20,000.

Under the latest law, the local property wealth cap is set at $280,000 per student - phased in over several years - while the poorest district has $10,000.

There also is more money in the school system: a total of about $15.6 billion in state and local funding, compared with $8.7 billion in 1984-85. According to the Texas Association of School Boards, however, the state share has dropped from about 52 percent to about 45 percent.

consecutive month, climbing 0.6 percent. Orders for transportation equipment declined for the third straight month, slipping 1.6 percent, as decreases in railroad equipment and cars and trucks more than offset an increase in aircraft orders.

Orders for durable goods, long-lasting items such as cars, computers and appliances, are a key measure of the strength of manufacturing. The latest figures could point to slower economic growth during the current second quarter of the year.

Many economists had predicted durable goods orders would increase in April by about 1 percent.

Durable goods orders rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - Orders to U.S. factories for durable goods rose 0.1 percent in April, a meager increase but still the eighth in the last nine months, the government said today.

The Commerce Department reported that the advance followed a 0.7 percent rise in March, revised from an earlier 0.4 percent estimate.

The April increase, the smallest since orders dipped 1.8 percent during an exceptionally wintry February, was far less than most economists predicted and reflected weakness in orders for metals and transportation equipment.

The non-transportation component of the index was up for the 11th

Rostenkowski set to plead, resign seat in Congress

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Dan Rostenkowski would plead guilty to a felony and probably resign from Congress under an agreement being negotiated with prosecutors, legal sources say. But disagreement over the description of the lawmaker's conduct is holding up the deal.

The sources, speaking Tuesday on condition of anonymity, said there's a "50-50" chance of an agreement before U.S. Attorney Eric H. Holder Jr. obtains an indictment. No charges have been filed. Rostenkowski, D-Ill., has repeatedly denied any wrongdoing.

Negotiations are likely to resume today on the fate of the House Ways and Means Committee chairman.

"In the event of a plea agreement, it is inconceivable that Congressman Rostenkowski could remain as chairman of the committee and his continued representation in Congress is most unlikely," said one source.

The U.S. attorney's office has been investigating Rostenkowski's use of office and campaign accounts, including the possibility that he improperly received money from the House Post Office, hired ghost employees, made sweetheart deals on government-purchased cars and made improper furniture and gift purchases from his official funds.

Rostenkowski, a Chicago Democrat first elected in 1958, showed the strain Tuesday. He was brusque as he chaired a committee meeting on health care reform and ordered a policeman to stop a television cameraman following him through a congressional tunnel.

Legal sources said a plea bargain would likely include:

- A guilty plea to at least one felony.
- Recommended prison time, probably less than a year.
- Resignation from Congress.

Sources said negotiations stuck over the wording of "how the alleged wrongdoing is described."

While there has been much speculation on Capitol Hill about a Rostenkowski resignation, prosecutors generally consider such an outcome secondary to obtaining a felony plea from a public official.

Special 'tickets' given out

Several Hereford residents are being pulled over by police this week, not for violations of traffic laws, but because they haven't done anything wrong.

And, they are being given tickets -- not fines assessed in Municipal Court, but coupons that can be redeemed at local fast-food restaurants for soft drinks and other treats.

It is all part of the department's celebration of national "Buckle Up America" week, which is being noted through Tuesday May 31.

According to Police Chief David Wagner, Hereford drivers have an approximate 60 percent compliance with the seat belt law.

However, in the past year, three very serious accidents have resulted in near-fatal injuries to several Hereford children and teens, and adults have been injured in other accidents -- all of which could have been prevented with the proper use of seat belts.

To recognize those complying with the seat belt and other traffic laws, the police department -- in conjunction with Kentucky Fried Chicken, Sonic Drive In, McDonalds and Long John Silvers -- will give food coupons at random throughout the week.

Det. Ronnie Lyons, who is coordinating the program for the department, said the first day on Tuesday went very well.

"I haven't gotten any negative feedback," Lyons said, adding that at least one officer gave out about half of his allotment of coupons the first day.

"It is our intention to recognize the drivers/riders who comply with the law, by stopping and rewarding them with a food coupon," said Wagner. "Hopefully, by rewarding the drivers/riders at an early stage in their life, it will set a precedent for their continued compliance and for their own personal safety."

Coupons are given out at random, with the giveaways to continue through the end of the special week.

Quake shakes LA area

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A moderate earthquake rattled the Los Angeles area this morning, another aftershock to the devastating Northridge earthquake in January. There were no immediate reports of injury or damage.

The earthquake had a preliminary magnitude of 4.5 and was centered three miles northeast of San Fernando, about 20 miles northwest of Los Angeles, said Heather Lovasz of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Residents felt a sharp jolt just before 6 a.m. The quake lasted about 15 seconds, causing chandeliers to sway in Hollywood, Pasadena and Van Nuys.

The Northridge earthquake killed 61 people, injured more than 9,000 and inflicted an estimated $20 billion in damage when it struck Jan. 17. It had a magnitude of 6.7.

There have been more than 8,000 aftershocks since the quake, including seven above magnitude 5.0.

Chemical weapon evidence disclosed

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Strong evidence exists that Iraq attacked U.S. troops with chemical weapons during the Gulf War, spreading contaminants that have sickened thousands of Americans, according to a congressional report.

The 160-page report, released today by Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., lists more than a dozen incidents where American troops appear to have been exposed to chemical agents, mainly from rocket attacks.

It disputes Pentagon contentions that there is no evidence of Iraqi chemical attacks during the 1991 war, and criticizes the Defense Department for its inability to confirm whether troops were exposed to biological agents.

The report also says that, contrary to Pentagon claims that nerve agent levels detected by the Czechs and other allies during the war were not harmful, monitoring equipment only picks up nerve agents when levels are 1,000 times higher than deemed hazardous.

Pentagon and intelligence officials will have an opportunity to respond to the report at a hearing today of the Senate Banking Committee, which Riegle chairs.

Riegle's committee has jurisdiction over the Export Administration Act, under which the government polices shipments of sensitive materials. The report includes testimony from 30 Gulf War veterans who say that after apparent Iraqi missile attacks, chemical agent detectors sounded, the air filled with fumes and they felt a burning sensation on their skin.

Almost all are suffer from the debilitating symptoms of what has come to be known as Persian Gulf syndrome.

Riegle said his yearlong investigation included interviews with 600 American troops.

In addition to direct attacks, there appear to be three other primary sources of exposure, the report said: -Fallout from coalition bombing of Iraqi chemical and biological warfare plants.

-The administration of nerve agent vaccines to troops, some which act in a manner similar to the actual agent.

-Contact with Iraqi prisoners of war.

The Pentagon and the Veterans Affairs Department have launched programs to register sick veterans, study symptoms and search for treatment. While they acknowledge the illnesses are real, they say there is no evidence of a single cause.

Convicted bombers shown no mercy by federal judge

By TOM HAYS and LARRY NEUMEISTER
Associated Press Writers

NEW YORK (AP) - Four Muslim fundamentalists convicted in the World Trade Center bombing drew 240 years behind bars from a merciless judge who arrived at the sentence by adding up the victims' lost years of life.

U.S. District Judge Kevin Duffy angrily rejected the defendants' defiant claims of innocence, saying they robbed a nation of its sense of security.

"Prior to February 26th, 1993, this country was a much freer place," Duffy told Mohammad Salameh, Nidal Ayyad, Mahmud Abouhalima and Ahmad Ajaj Tuesday. "Now we have guards. Now we have an identification card mentality. It's not quite as free."

The explosion at the 110-story twin towers - the world's second-tallest buildings - killed six people, injured more than 1,000 and caused $500 million in damage.

The judge said he arrived at the sentences by calculating how much life was lost by the six killed - a combined 180 years - and adding 30 years each on two other charges. There is no parole in the federal system.

Duffy also fined the men $250,000 each and told them that if they ever sold their story, the money would go to the victims. But, he added in sentencing Ayyad, "I can't imagine anyone wanting to give you anything."

Duffy handed down the sentences after Ed Smith, whose pregnant wife, Monica, died in the blast, asked the judge to "remember this bombing was an act of multiple murder."

"We lost all this because the four men you are to sentence today wanted to terrorize the people of the United States," Smith said, bringing tears to the eyes of victims' relatives in the front row of the courtroom.

The defendants did not go quietly or quickly. All four read defiant statements in their native Arabic that lasted a total of more than seven hours.

Abouhalima complained that jurors slept through testimony, and Salameh likened himself to a falsely accused Nazi war criminal.

"I wonder how long I will remain in prison until the government reveals I was innocent," said Salameh, a Palestinian immigrant. "Two years? Seven? Ten? Twenty? God only knows."

Duffy responded with icy disgust, calling Salameh a "sneak and a coward" and Abouhalima a coward "four times over."

When his turn came to speak, Ayyad said he would not "stand here and cry and ask for mercy."

"I'm telling you you're wrong because you don't know Muslims as they really are," he said.

Duffy responded by calling him "the most hypocritical person in the world."

Coming last was Ajaj, who spoke for nearly three hours, calling his conviction a farce and wearing out one translator with an exhaustive history of alleged terrorism by the U.S. government and Israel.

"You have a lot of nerve," said Duffy, finally cutting off Ajaj. "You lecture this country about terrorism. ... If it weren't for you there would be no bombing. The others were low. You were lower."

Duffy chastised the defendants for using Islam to defend themselves.

"You talk about the Koran," he told Ayyad. "You have shamed it. ... You violated the laws not only of man, but God."

In a related case, 14 others are charged with plotting to blow up the United Nations, the Manhattan federal building housing the FBI and the Holland and Lincoln tunnels connecting New York and New Jersey. The trade center bombing allegedly was part of that conspiracy; the trial is set for this fall.

Remember a loved one

Memorial Day is a time for remembrance. It can also be a time to turn losses into victories.

By making an American Cancer Society Memorial donation, you will be helping fund the Society's fight against cancer. Your contribution will help fund a balanced program of research, education and patient services.

"We call them Living Memorials," said Mack Ray Hernandez, Texas Division income development chairman. "A gift today can help spare others tomorrow."

Contributions to the American Cancer Society fund programs and materials used in your community.

"The American Cancer Society is the community-based, voluntary organization dedicated to controlling cancer through research, education and service," Hernandez said. "Our programs and materials are managed by local volunteers. That's important for people to know when they contributed to this important cause."

Contributions should include the name of the deceased in whose name the memorial is being made, along with the name and address of the person who should receive acknowledgement of the contribution.

To make a Memorial contribution, contact your local American Cancer Society office, or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

Houston's Olajuwon garners MVP trophy

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Hakeem Olajuwon tirelessly repeats the team concept of NBA basketball, but his Houston Rockets teammates know where they'd be without their MVP center.

"He's the focal point of our offense, what we do feeds off him," Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "The 3-point baskets we get? The reason we get them is because of Hakeem."

Olajuwon, after 10 years in the league, finally was rewarded on Tuesday with his first Most Valuable Player honor, after leading the Rockets to a franchise record (58-24) and the Western Conference final.

"There are a few great players who can go on the floor and make the other guys better," guard Kenny Smith said. "Hakeem is one of those."

Rookie Sam Cassell quickly learned the value of having Olajuwon as a protective force on defense.

"You can take chances, gamble because you know he is back there to slap it away," Cassell said.

Olajuwon beat out David Robinson of San Antonio and Scottie Pippen of Chicago for the award after finishing second to Phoenix's Charles Barkley last year.

Although honored to receive the award, Olajuwon insists on mentioning his teammates.

"As far as I'm concerned, my teammates are the MVP," Olajuwon said.

Tomjanovich sees a movie here.

"It's a wonderful story," Tomjanovich said. "Here's a guy who comes to this country and hadn't played much organized basketball and he becomes the MVP."

"You love to have a guy with that work ethic. It makes it so much easier for a coach to have a star player who likes to work. He's right up there with the best, (Bill) Russell, (Kareem) Abdul-Jabbar. He's there."

Olajuwon, a native of Lagos, Nigeria, played at Houston and led the Cougars to the Final Four. He is the first foreign-born player to win the MVP.

He received 889 points, including 66 first-place votes, from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters, who each voted for five candidates with points awarded on a 10-7-5-3-1 basis.

Robinson received 730 points and 24 first-place votes, while Pippen had 390 points and seven first-place votes. Shaquille O'Neal of Orlando received 289 points and Patrick Ewing of New York was next with 255. Olajuwon was the only player named on all 101 ballots.

Olajuwon ranked third in the league this year in scoring, fourth in rebounding and second in blocks. He was the only NBA player to rank among the top five in all three categories. Olajuwon also shot .528 percent from the field, 10th best in the NBA.

Olajuwon is averaging 30.6 points in the playoffs while leading the Rockets to the Western Conference final against Utah. He scored 31 points Monday as Houston beat the Jazz 100-88 in the opening game of their best-of-7 series.

He moved into third place on the NBA's career list for blocked shots, raising his total to 2,741. He trails only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (3,189) and Mark Eaton (3,064).

Seventeen players received at least one point in the MVP balloting, but only the top five finishers got first-place votes.

The MVP receives the Maurice Podoloff Trophy, named for the league's first commissioner.

Knicks dump Pacers in Game 1

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Knicks and the Indiana Pacers were supposed to be teams with similar styles, and that certainly proved true in the opener of the Eastern Conference finals.

Both centers, Patrick Ewing and Rik Smits, had big performances, and shooting guards Reggie Miller and John Starks had subpar offensive games.

What separated the two teams in the Knicks' 100-89 victory Tuesday night was the support Ewing received inside from Charles Oakley and outside from Hubert Davis and Greg Anthony.

"I thought that Oakley was the difference," Pacers coach Larry Brown said. "When you get down to late in the game, you can't give up those offensive rebounds. We had a chance when we were down just 85-83, but Oakley made some great plays."

Ewing finished with 28 points, 11 rebounds and six blocks, but that was offset by Smits' 27 points and 10 rebounds in just 27 minutes.

"I felt good out there, but we didn't win and that's the bottom line," Smits said.

us for 31 points a game last year in the playoffs."

Miller, however, blamed himself for the loss.

"I have to step up, be more aggressive," he said.

"We got 27 points on 17 shots from Rik, but the Knicks did a tremendous job of defending our other scorers," Brown said.

In their first game since dethroning the Chicago Bulls, the Knicks held Indiana to six points in the final four minutes after the Pacers closed to 85-83. Davis' second 3-pointer of the quarter and a tip-in by Oakley put the Knicks back in control.

"These two teams have two great centers, and when you can hit a couple of perimeter shots, it opens things up for them," Anthony said.

New York was coming off its most significant victory since winning the NBA title in 1973, an 87-77 decision in the seventh game of the conference semifinals against the Bulls.

The Pacers, who took a 7-2 playoff record into the opener, won Game 1 of their previous two series against Orlando and Atlanta on the road.

Indiana didn't get its only 3-pointer until the final minute.

Jazz needs new strategy to defend Rockets' front

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - When the Utah Jazz needed to stop David Robinson, they told Karl Malone to guard the San Antonio center.

Tonight, the Jazz need to stop Hakeem Olajuwon.

Does that mean Malone might take over the defensive assignment from Utah center Felton Spencer?

"Whatever my assignment is, if the coach tells me to do it, I'll do it," Malone said.

But coach Jerry Sloan said he wouldn't change the strategy of having Spencer and someone else focus on guarding Olajuwon. If fact, he got testy when the question of using Malone on Olajuwon was posed.

"People have told me not to do it, that it wouldn't work," Sloan said Tuesday as the Jazz practiced for Game 2 of the Western Conference final.

"If Malone guards Hakeem, who guards (Robert) Horry?"

"It was different against Robinson because Spencer could guard (Dennis) Rodman, who doesn't look to score points. This is a totally different situation."

Maybe so, but Utah had to come up with some sort of strategy to prevent a repeat of Monday night's 100-88 Houston victory. In Game 1, Olajuwon scored 31 points despite facing double coverage much of the time.

"You can't say you'll stop him, all you can do is try to wear him down and get him tired," Spencer said.

When Olajuwon found himself triple-teamed or too far from the basket, he passed the ball out. The Rockets passed it around the perimeter and found the open man, and the open man was usually all alone behind the 3-point line. Houston made 10 3-point shots. Kenny Smith had six of them and Vernon Maxwell three.

Cards strand 16 runners in loss to Phillies

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
Manager Joe Torre could tell his St. Louis Cardinals were stranding a lot of runners just by the constant clack in the dugout.

"You see those guys at the end of the inning, they're throwing their helmets in, you count the helmets. That's a lot of people," Torre said after a frustrating 4-0 loss Tuesday night to the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Cardinals set a major league record by leaving 16 runners on base without scoring.

The previous mark for left on base in a shutout loss was 15, most recently by Kansas City against Detroit in 1975. The NL record was 14, last by Philadelphia against Montreal in 1971.

"I didn't know we left that many guys on," Cardinals cleanup hitter Todd Zeile said.

The Cardinals loaded the bases in the fourth inning, but pitcher Vicente Palacios flied out. Then in the fifth, Bernard Gilkey grounded into an inning-ending double play with the bases loaded. In the sixth, St. Louis again loaded the bases, but Ray Lankford struck out and Ozzie Smith grounded out.

The game was scoreless into the ninth. Jim Eisenreich opened with his third hit of the game and scored on Ricky Jordan's double off Mike Perez (1-1). Pinch-hitter Pete Incaviglia hit a three-run homer later in the inning. Phillies starter David West pitched four innings and Bobby Munoz and Heathcliff Slocumb (2-0) followed with two scoreless innings apiece.

Doug Jones relieved to start the ninth and worked around leadoff hits by Gregg Jefferies and Zeile.

Astros 8, Braves 0
Doug Drabek outpitched Tom Glavine and nearly outthrew Atlanta all by himself as Houston won on the road.

Drabek (7-1) pitched a three-hitter and won his seventh straight decision, matching the longest winning streak of his career. It was his second shutout of the season.

Glavine (5-4) gave up 10 hits in 6 1-3 innings as the Braves' three-game winning streak ended.

Cubs 2, Dodgers 0
Willie Banks pitched a four-hitter for his first shutout in the majors as Chicago won at Dodger Stadium for its eighth straight victory.

Orel Hershiser (3-1) gave up both runs in the fourth inning on an RBI grounder by Derrick May and a double by Sammy Sosa.

Padres 6, Giants 3
Joey Hamilton won in his major league debut as San Diego sent visiting San Francisco to its sixth straight loss.

Phil Clark hit a three-run homer in the first inning off Bryan Hickerson (2-4). He was pitching on two days rest, and was moved up after Bill Swift was bothered by tightness in a muscle under his right arm.

Expos 11, Marlins 1
Darrin Fletcher drove in five runs and Wil Cordero hit a two-run homer as Montreal won at Florida.

Fletcher had two of the Marlins' four sacrifice flies, tying an NL record. All four run-scoring fly balls came in the first three innings off Charlie Hough (4-3).

Butch Henry (2-0) gave up two hits in 6 2-3 scoreless innings. Carl Everett homered off reliever Mel Rojas for the Marlins' other hit.

starter Erik Hanson (3-4) was the loser.

Mets 4, Pirates 2
Ryan Thompson hit a solo homer with one out in the ninth to tie it and Jose Vizcaino and Joe Orsulak had RBI singles later in the inning as New York rallied at Pittsburgh.

Rick White (1-2) got one out in the ninth before the Mets came back.

Bobby Jones (5-4) pitched eight innings for the win and John Franco worked the ninth for his ninth save.

Ripken's 300th homer lifts Orioles

By The Associated Press
Cal Ripken has other milestones besides The Streak - like his 300th career homer.

"I've tried to put it out of my mind, but I've been well aware that I've been close to 300," Ripken said after driving in six runs Tuesday night and leading the Baltimore Orioles past the Milwaukee Brewers 13-5.

Ripken, pursuing Lou Gehrig's record for consecutive games, got No. 300, a three-run homer in the third inning off Ted Higuera, and a three-run double in the fourth off reliever Jeff Bronkey.

Milwaukee lost its 13th consecutive game, a club record.

"I've had my experience in frustrations - 0-and-21 will give you some perspective," said Ripken, recalling Baltimore's record losing streak to start the 1988 season.

"If this isn't rock bottom, I don't want to see it," Milwaukee manager Phil Garner said.

Higuera (1-4) blew a 5-0 second-inning lead, surrendering home runs to Ripken and Jack Voigt in the third and to Chris Hoiles in the fourth. Leo Gomez later hit a pair of solo homers.

Mark Eichhorn (1-1) scattered four hits in 4 1-3 shutout innings, and Alan Mills pitched three innings for his first save.

Rangers 2, Royals 0
Kenny Rogers, despite hurting himself in a hotel mishap, pitched a six-hitter for his first career shutout as Texas stopped a four-game losing streak.

Rogers (5-3) took five stitches in his left knee when he slipped on an escalator at the Westin Crown Center in Kansas City on Monday night. Originally scratched from the lineup, he changed his mind at the last minute and blanked the Royals after his team had given up a club-record 40 runs the three previous games.

Mark Gubicza (2-4) allowed both runs and six hits in 7 1-3 innings.

Athletics 10, Mariners 1
Brent Gates went 4-for-5 and tied a team record with eight straight hits, and Mike Bordick doubled twice and tripled.

Greg Hibbard (1-3) allowed a club-record 15 hits and seven earned runs for visiting Seattle. Miguel Jimenez (1-2) won for the first time in five starts this season, allowing one run and three hits in 7 1-3 innings.

Yankees 6, Blue Jays 1
Terry Mulholland pitched a five-hitter for his first complete game this season, and Wade Boggs and Jim Leyritz homered at Yankee Stadium.

Mulholland (5-3) struck out five and walked one, leading the Yankees to their 13th victory in 16 games.

Dave Stewart (3-4) failed to reach the sixth inning for the fourth straight time, allowing six runs and six hits in five innings with six strikeouts and four walks.

Angels 8, Tigers 5
Chuck Finley (4-3) won his fourth straight start, and Bo Jackson, Tim Salmon and Rex Hudler homered for visiting California.

Finley allowed five runs - three earned - and seven hits in six innings, struck out five and walked four. Joe Grahe pitched the ninth for his seventh save.

Bill Gullickson (2-4) lost his third straight decision, allowing five runs and eight hits in five innings.

White Sox 5, Twins 3
Joey Cora hit a go-ahead, two-run triple with two outs in the seventh inning at Comiskey Park.

Warren Newson's first home run of the year led off the seventh and tied the score 3-3. Larry Casian (1-3) relieved Pat Mahomes, Lance Johnson singled, Mike LaValliere sacrificed and Tim Raines walked with two outs.

Dennis Cook (2-0) got the final out in the seventh. Roberto Hernandez pitched the ninth for his fourth save.

Graf escapes upset in France

PARIS (AP) - Top-seeded Steffi Graf battled from behind in each set today to reach the third round of the French Open, reversing a trend of upsets that had claimed nine favorites.

Graf, seeking her fifth consecutive Grand Slam title, was broken early in each set by 67th-ranked Stephanie Rottier of the Netherlands, but came back to win 7-5, 6-3.

The men's No. 4 seed, Andrei Medvedev of Ukraine, also advanced, beating Nicklas Kulti of Sweden 6-4, 7-6 (7-4), 4-6, 7-5.

By the time the first-round matches were completed this morning, three of the 16 seeded men and six of the women - including four of the top eight - were out of the tournament.

The disarray in the women's ranks has boosted the chances of lower seeds like No. 9 Lindsay Davenport and No. 12 Mary Pierce, both second-round winners Wednesday.

Davenport overcame fellow American Chanda Rubin in the completion of a suspended match 6-7 (7-2), 6-4, 6-2.

Pierce, raised in Florida but playing for France, crushed 17-year-old Maria-Francesca Bentivoglio of Italy, 6-0, 6-1. She is the only seed left in her quarter of the draw and could make the semifinals - probably against Graf - without facing a highly ranked player en route.

"I try not to think about it and just concentrate on my game," Pierce said. "I hope I can get as far as the semifinals so I can play against Steffi. That would definitely be a very exciting match."

The men's top seed, Pete Sampras, played today against 18-year-old Marcelo Rios, ranked 283rd and the youngest player in the men's field.

Rios squeaked into his first Grand Slam by winning three qualifying matches. He beat another little-known qualifier, Australia's Joshua Eagle, on Monday, earning the right to a second-round match with Sampras.

Third-seeded Stefan Edberg, winner of six Grand Slams but never the French, should be so lucky.

"It's never easy to lose the first round," he said after a 4-hour, five-set loss to fellow Swede Henrik Holm.

At 28, Edberg doubts he will ever win this clay-court tournament, an immense challenge to his serve-and-volley style.

"It doesn't look good now," he said. "Age is not on my side."

Lendl, 34, may not be back at all. After his three-set loss Tuesday to France's Arnaud Boetsch, he pulled out of Wimbledon and said back problems may cut short his career.

"Some days I feel good. Some days I don't feel that good," said Lendl, a three-time French Open champion.

The women's field was in disarray. Tuesday's losers included No. 5 Jana Novotna, No. 6 Kimiko Date and No. 8 Gabriela Sabatini. They joined fourth-seeded Martina Navratilova, who lost Monday.

"It is very disappointing," said Sabatini, who hasn't won a title in more than two years.

Novotna, although complaining of sore biceps, was similarly stunned. "I'm devastated," she said.

The upsets increase the likelihood that top-seeded Steffi Graf and second-seeded Arantxa Sanchez Vicario will meet in the finals.

Coalition wants less bowls on Jan. 1

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Fewer bowl games on New Year's Day would help generate more interest in college football, according to Atlantic Coast Conference commissioner Gene Corrigan.

Corrigan, also on the committee discussing an NCAA Division I-A playoff system, said he would favor limiting the number of bowls on Jan. 1 in a new bowl coalition. Such a plan would eliminate bowls competing against each other, he said.

The coalition's three-year run under its two-tiered format ends after this year's bowl games. Corrigan met Monday in a closed-door meeting in Atlanta with heads of the Big East, Southeastern and Big 12 (formerly Big 8) conferences to discuss a pared-down version of the bowl coalition beyond 1995. Bowl officials and television executives also attended.

"The NCAA Final Four in basketball gets a 20-plus (TV) rating," Corrigan said Tuesday. "There hasn't been a bowl game with a 20-plus rating in 10-12 years. There hasn't been a bowl game that was unopposed in those years - not a single one."

"The fact of the matter is that football has done pretty well, but we haven't sold it the right way," he said. "We have the bowls piled on top of each other and then end the day by having the Sugar and Orange bowls compete against each other. That is insane."

Under one proposal, only four bowl games would be played on New Year's Day, compared to the current eight. The four conference champions and two at-large teams would play in the three bowl coalition games designated for New Year's Day.

Balloon release

Gayle Love, left of center, releases a bundle of helium-filled balloons from the parking lot of Golden Plains Care Center on Tuesday, as residents, guests and employees watch. The balloons carried tags with residents' names and addresses on them in hopes that they would be found and returned to show how far the balloons travelled. While many of the balloons caught the wind and flew majestically over the Hereford High School baseball diamond and Whiteface Stadium, this bundle was tracked easily -- the balloon ribbons tangled and the entire bundle got hung up in electric lines across the street from the nursing home.

Lucy's hometown honors her

By DAVID GERMAIN

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP) - People 'round these parts still love Lucy - and Ricky and Ethel and Fred, too.

The exploits of Lucy and Ricky Ricardo and Fred and Ethel Mertz live on in reruns of the 1951-57 show, and organizers of the LucyFest - its formal name is the Lucille Ball Festival of New Comedy - try to keep Ball's spirit alive by showcasing fresh talent.

is an auction of 112 items donated by Ball's estate to raise money for a comedy museum honoring Ball and her late ex-husband and "I Love Lucy" co-star Desi Arnaz.

To prove that, the hometown of Lucille Ball this week stages the fourth annual LucyFest, a living laugh memorial to the flaky redhead who defined TV situation comedy in the 1950s.

On Saturday, street performers cavort through downtown and there's a film contest featuring half a dozen short comedy movies. Four little-known comedy acts also perform.

Though Ball moved away from Jamestown in the 1930s she always maintained ties with the town where she was born in 1911.

"I still watch 'I Love Lucy' on reruns at night," said Susan Ewing, who coordinates the festival in Jamestown, 60 miles south of Buffalo. "It's way better than anything new on TV."

Until her death in 1989, she continued to order Swedish rye bread from Jones Bakery here. "A lot of people think Lucy forgot us, but I don't think Lucy ever forgot Jamestown," bakery owner Candy Schupp said.

Ball's television shows often included references to Jamestown.

Low cattle prices translated to cheaper meat for consumer

HOUSTON (AP) - Bargain barbecue will be hitting the spits this summer.

The traditional slide in summer-time cattle prices, combined with an oversupply of slaughter stock in the nation's feedlots, is translating into cheaper brisket and burgers at the supermarket.

The buildup of cattle in feedlots has pushed the cash price of live steers down to about 68.4 cents per pound, compared with 80.8 cents at this time last year.

Futures prices for steers and heifers are at their lowest points in years.

Consumers are already seeing bargain prices on less choice beef cuts, such as 99 cents a pound for brisket. A Houston meat wholesaler who asked to remain anonymous told the Houston Chronicle that more price cuts will be made when retailers are convinced the downturn is real.

"We are over the hump and into cheap cattle," the wholesaler said.

Beef prices had been drifting slowly downward - not unusual for this time of year - until three weeks ago. That's when prices began to plunge.

"I think the (retail) price will be moving down fairly quickly," said

Gary Huddleston, a local Kroger spokesman. "You will see it first in features, like our 99 cents per pound brisket."

Huddleston said round steak and chuck are also in that feature category.

As for prices on regular cuts, the retail industry is "still kind of watching it," said supermarket meat buyer Wayne Swift.

The Texas Cattle Feeders Association said the average U.S. retail price of beef last week was 10 cents per pound higher than a year ago, despite the lower slaughter prices.

The Wizard of Id By Brant Parker and Johnny Hart

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son has been married for two years and lives nearby. Before he married, he and his fiancée, "Dotty," spent weekends at my mountain retreat and in my city apartment. Each time they were in one of my residences, I found personal items missing. I spoke to my son about it, but he refused to believe that Dotty would take anything that didn't belong to her.

After they married, I no longer stored my off-season clothes at the mountain retreat because I didn't trust her. About that time, I became aware that several pieces of jewelry, which I kept in my city apartment, disappeared after my son and Dotty visited. Some of the items that were taken were family heirlooms and had sentimental value. I finally bought a chest with a lock on it for the remaining pieces of jewelry, but I felt angry and violated.

Since my son has children and I am very close to them as well as to him, I would never consider severing my relationship with Dotty. She has been a guest in the homes of other family members, but I wouldn't dare inquire of them if they ever found that items were missing after her visits.

I realize my daughter-in-law has an insatiable appetite for nocturnal female companionship and often had women visit his headquarters—a place, it was said, that "no gentleman cared to go and no lady COULD go."

After the war, many Union veterans traveled to the Colorado gold and silver mines to seek their fortunes. It was not surprising that damsels who had an eye for commerce followed. These enterprising females were soon called "hookers."

If you think I'm making this up, check your Civil War history books. No signature, please. Just call me—A Buff in Fort Dodge

DEAR TROUBLED: Obviously, there are certain things they don't teach in school. Thanks for the off-beat history lesson.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column, you referred to a "lady of the evening" as a hooker. I wonder if you know how that name came about. Here's the background, which may interest your readers, Ann.

"Fighting Joe" Hooker, a Union general during the Civil War, had an insatiable appetite for nocturnal female companionship and often had women visit his headquarters—a place, it was said, that "no gentleman cared to go and no lady COULD go."

After the war, many Union veterans traveled to the Colorado gold and silver mines to seek their fortunes. It was not surprising that damsels who had an eye for commerce followed. These enterprising females were soon called "hookers."

Gem of the Day: Nothing brings two women closer together than their mutual animosity toward a third.

irises, yellow tulips, pink petunias and ivy. Further enhancing the table decor were a China coffee service and crystal appointments.

The hostesses served an assortment of party cookies, lemon apricots, sherbet punch and coffee.

The honoree was presented a microwave oven by the hostesses: Jo Lee, Linda Minchew, Carolyn Fry, Betty Wilcox, Joyce Ward, Cindy Sublett and Shirley Wilson.

Hints from Heloise

Q. I remember reading about a solution for cleaning pennies. My son has a large collection that he would like to shine, and because none of them are of any significant value I don't see any harm in it.

A. You are right to first check through the pennies to make sure none of them are of any value, because cleaning valuable coins will decrease their worth.

It's easy to make a cleaning solution by putting some vinegar in a large bowl and adding a teaspoon of baking soda. It will begin fizzing and foaming. Then add the pennies and stir, letting them soak if necessary.

All you have to do is remove the pennies, rinse and rub them with a paper towel and they should shine again. — Heloise

- Use larger pieces to make colorful dinner napkins.
- Make into bottle sacks to hold gifts of wine, etc.

LICENSE-PLATE NUMBER
Dear Heloise: I thought that I would share with your readers a precaution that I have been practicing for several years.

Nowadays we find it necessary to remember or be able to provide all kinds of information at a moment's notice. Sometimes the information is not immediately available. So to hedge and not go completely blank in case one of my cars is stolen, I type the auto tag numbers on the insurance cards that are provided with the insurance policy. I keep them in my wallet and with this information available I will be able to provide it to the police on request.

It is the small precautions that we take that prevent major problems. — Olan Phillips, San Antonio, Texas

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) - Tony Bennett isn't getting older. He's getting smarter.

Bennett, who's 67, says he has finally learned how to sing. He said he figured it out by listening to Luciano Pavarotti.

"It's just a technical thing, but I tried it and it was something I was searching for in my own voice," Bennett says in the May 28 edition of TV Guide. "It reminds me of Leonardo da Vinci, who supposedly said on his deathbed, 'It's too bad I'm going to die - I'm just learning how to paint.'"

Bennett recently completed an "MTV Unplugged" performance that includes duets with k.d. lang and Elvis Costello. The program airs June 1.

But he won't change his music to suit the MTV generation, even though record executives have been urging him to update his style.

"They want you to do some big novelty song - some piece of junk you're going to regret the rest of your whole life," Bennett said. "If you deal with mediocrity, you're going to have to stay there."

When Less Is More

Each year, every American uses about 190 pounds of plastic. Of that, about 60 pounds is packaging that gets thrown away after opening purchases. In fact, plastic used for packaging consumes some 33 percent of the limited space available in landfills. Reducing this waste starts in the store. Look for packages that offer more contents, and LESS waste. Buy potatoes, carrots and other vegetables loose, whenever you can. Besides cutting waste, you'll help send manufacturers the message that smart shoppers know less is more!

Shopping? Bring Along a Bag

American shoppers use billions of bags annually. But, if we all use just one less a month, we'll cut that use by hundreds of millions a year. That adds up to a BIG BONUS, because one 20-year old tree makes only 700 or so brown grocery bags. If your purchase is small, think twice about taking a bag. Or, bring a bag from home to use one more time before it's recycled. Washable canvas shopping bags are inexpensive and last for years.

Sign of the Times

Concerned manufacturers and retailers now label products and shelves to help consumers choose products that are GOOD for the environment. Look for symbols or copy advising which boxes and bags are made from "recycled" paper. Other packages may say "recyclable". These use new raw materials, but at least they are suitable for recycling. So-called "biodegradable" plastics never really break down to more than smaller plastic bits under the ideal conditions. Other bags and bottles may use plastics reclaimed through recycling, consuming no new petroleum products.
