Back to the harvest

County farmer Gene Volkman climbs aboard his combine Thursday afternoon following a short break in his work of harvesting corn on land north of Road 13 on FM 1057. Volkman was cutting some 320 acres of corn and said he lost about half a day of work when rain fell across the area earlier this week. Corn, milo and sugar beets are currently being harvested through the Deaf Smith County area.

Congress divided on withdrawal of troops

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - A divided Congress says American troops should leave Haiti as soon as possible but is stopping short of imposing a deadline for President Clinton to end the mission.

Both the Senate and the House approved non-binding resolutions on Haiti on Thursday that also criticized Clinton for not seeking congressional approval before committing U.S. troops. The resolutions also required a statement from the president within seven days on his national security objectives in Haiti.

They directed the secretary of state to report by Jan. 1 on human rights violations by both the Aristide government and the military-led regime that overthrew him in 1991.

The votes followed hours of debate in both chambers marked by Republican sniping at Clinton's Haiti policy and Democratic warnings that legislating a deadline for the mission posed a danger to American soldiers in the field.

In Norfolk, Va., on Thursday, Clinton told troops just back from the Caribbean that things were going well.

"Thanks to your efforts, the Haitian people are moving from fear to freedom," Clinton told about 1,500 sailors and officers who gave him a polite reception. "Much has been asked of you and you have delivered."

The Senate resolution, passed 91-8, was a compromise worked out by Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, and Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., following a strong appeal from the White House and the Pentagon not to handcuff an ongoing operation by setting a specific withdrawal date.

The House settled on the same language in a bill championed by Armed Services Committee Chairman Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., after rejecting two other resolutions that put tighter restrictions on the mission. The lawmakers approved the Dellums version 258-167, then reaffirmed it in a 236-182 vote for final passage of the bill.

The Republican-supported proposal, defeated 225-205, sought an immediate, orderly withdrawal and said Congress would vote no later than Jan. 21, 1995, on requiring the president to remove all troops within 30 days. House Foreign Affairs Chairman Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., and Rep. Robert Torricelli, D-N.J., sponsored language authorizing the Haiti mission until March 1, and providing for a vote after Feb. 1 on extending that authorization. It was defeated 398-27.

Hamilton chided Congress for accepting the watered-down resolution rather than going on record as authorizing the mission.

"It's a classical congressional dodge," he said. "We leave no fingerprints by passing that amendment. What we have done is protect our political flanks, what we have not done is exercise our constitutional responsibility."

But the debate boiled down to partisan wrangling over the administration's Haiti policy.

"We have to get on the record our belief that the administration's Haitian policy made no sense two months ago, makes no sense now and cannot conceivably make any sense in the near future," said House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., sponsor of the Republican plan.

But House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said that never before had Congress renounced a military operation already under way.

"For first time in our history it would say to our courageous young troops, when your safety is on the line, when you are laying the foundations for peace and democracy in our backyard, we're going to pull the rug out from under you," he said.

Murder suspect, father of victim battle in jail cell

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A murder suspect was beaten after Lubbock County jailers inadvertently put him in the same cell with the father of the man he is accused of killing.

"The odds on this happening are one in 10 million," Sheriff D.L. Keesee said Thursday. "But it happened."

Raymond Medellin, 17, of Lubbock, was treated and released for cuts and bruises at University Medical Center and was returned to jail.

Keesee said Medellin was booked into the jail about 11 p.m. Wednesday after he was charged in the Sept. 29 fatal shooting of Jesus S. Garcia, a 20-year-old Odessa man.

Medellin was placed in a holding cell with Jesus' father, 39-year-old Jesus A. Garcia, who had been arrested Wednesday after his parole was revoked, the sheriff said.

Keesee said the two men, the cell's only occupants, apparently went to sleep and spent the night without incident.

At about 6 a.m., jailers woke the cellmates up for breakfast and began talking, Keesee said.

"That's when the 39-year-old discovered that the 17-year-old is the one" accused of killing his son, the sheriff said.

A fight began, and three jailers had to enter the cell to break it up.

Jesus A. Garcia was convicted of aggravated robbery in December 1987 in Lubbock County and sentenced to 15 years in the Texas Department of Corrections, according to records at the Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney's Office. The reason for his parole revocation was unavailable.

Garcia had gone to his son's funeral in Odessa on Tuesday, family members said. Jesus S. Garcia died after he was shot in the head at his father's home in Lubbock.

Attorneys allege samples delayed

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Rebuffed again in their efforts to keep evidence from jurors, O.J. Simpson's lawyers accused prosecutors of failing to provide crucial DNA test information and waging "trial by forensic ambush."

Delays in performing tests and turning over data on test methods and safeguards gives Simpson's team too little time to detect mistakes, said Barry Scheck, the defense legal expert in DNA blood analysis.

"It's tactical," Scheck said at Thursday's hearing. "They want a forensic avalanche at the last minute."

Deputy District Attorney Lisa Kahn, the prosecution's DNA expert, denied any wrongdoing. Superior Court Judge Lance Ito said she had addressed five of the defense's 11 complaints; the other six were to be taken up Tuesday.

Bullock drops campaign trips to recuperate

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Democratic Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said Thursday he is taking his campaign and going home.

After Republican challenger Tex Lezar raised questions about Bullock's health, the 65-year-old lieutenant governor, who is recovering from heart bypass surgery, responded by cancelling all campaign events and vowing to ignore Lezar through the November election.

"I am hereby officially ignoring my opponent for the rest of the campaign. No joint appearances, no debates, no nothing," said Bullock, who underwent voluntary heart bypass surgery on Sept. 16.

"I am also cancelling all campaign events between now and November. I will follow my doctors' orders and rest so that I fully recuperate."

Lezar responded, "Bob Bullock must be seriously ill for him to refuse to face the voters of Texas. The people of Texas have a right to know if he is physically incapacitated. I urge (the release of) ... his full medical records so the public will know his true physical condition."

Bullock's campaign said no medical records will be released.

The furor between the two candidates began Wednesday after The Associated Press reported that Bullock was planning to have state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, stand in for him in a debate with Lezar that was scheduled to be taped by KERA-TV in Dallas on Oct. 17.

Lezar said the substitution raised questions about Bullock's ability to serve and called on him to turn over his health records.

"If he is physically unable to debate, then he must be physically unable to do any campaigning or to perform the job as lieutenant governor," Lezar said. "The Bullock campaign has not been forthcoming with his medical records. Why? Are they hiding the severity of his incapacitation?"

Bullock, who has now canceled that debate as well as a few meetings with newspaper editorial boards and a couple of fund-raising appearances, said Lezar's comments are "a total lie" and "terribly irresponsible." "I hope the public recognizes his remarks as an act of desperation on the part of a failing, under-funded candidate who is 40 points behind," Bullock said.

A recent poll by The Houston Post showed Bullock leading Lezar 46.4 percent to 6.5 percent.

Doctors say Bullock underwent three hours of heart bypass surgery last month following routine tests, not because of a heart attack or some other emergency.

"Bob Bullock has had an excellent recovery since his heart surgery less than three weeks ago," said Dr. Kent Beasley, Bullock's personal physician. "He is healthy, fit, and on the road to a full and complete recovery. But ... I have instructed Governor Bullock to stay at home for the rest of the month."

Bullock has a history of health problems. He was hospitalized in 1972 for a kidney disorder. Tests later revealed two non-malignant tumors in a lung. They were removed along with more than one-third of the lung.

In 1981, Bullock announced that he was voluntarily undergoing treatment for alcoholism.

On Thursday, Bullock said he had made his doctors angry by doing too much too soon and by not resting enough. He said he had been conducting business in his campaign office and has "talked extensively on the telephone and gone around town shopping."

"I am naturally restless, and ... I also wanted to show my family, friends and supporters that I was able to keep up my normal work load," Bullock said. "But frankly, there is no reason for me to try to maintain my normal pace. By all accounts, my campaign for a second term as lieutenant governor is in excellent shape."

Building permits issued

Two building permits were issued this week for work on retail sites on North Gate Plaza. The permits were issued on Tuesday to plaza owner C.W. Crouch of Amarillo and Omni Capital Corp. The sites are a small retail pad located between Homeland and the future Dollar General store and a 2,275-square-foot location next to the future Dollar General store on the south side of the center. According to the permit applications, both locations will be occupied by GM Lending Corp., with west side location to be used for furniture storage and retail space and the south part for warehouse and displays. A third permit was issued at the same time in the amount of $1,500 for a suspended ceiling to be put on the location next to Dollar General. Total cost of the two large permits was $40,000, with each job listed as finishing out the existing structure's retail space. The work is expected to be completed by Nov. 4.

Some of the tv commercials by candidates seeking state offices make us wonder just how dumb they think we are. The problem with being wise is knowing when not to overdose others with advice. Reminds us of the story about a 17th century nun who penned the following prayer:

"Lord, though knowest better than I know myself that I am growing older and will someday be old.

"Keep me from the fatal habit of thinking that I must say something on every subject and on every occasion. Release me from craving to straighten out everybody's affairs.

"Make me thoughtful but not moody, helpful but not bossy. With my vast store of wisdom, it seems a pity not to use it all, but Thou knowest, Lord, that I want a few friends at the end."

Dads have a pretty fundamental place in the hearts of their children. We ran across a gift book, "To Dad," which contains short statements written by children. It was edited and published by Richard and Helen Exley for fathers everywhere.

However busy they are, however preoccupied with work, money and supporting their family, dads still find time for play, for a lesson in life, for a tickle. The love kids have for their Dad comes across loud and clear in the book.

A few examples:
*A father's shoulder is something to sit on when there is a crowd and you can't see.--Jacqueline.

*A father is a man mother but unlike a mother he is not always on the telephone.--Clare.

*A dad is someone who watches TV while he's sleeping.--Myrna, 8.
*When my father comes home at night. After dinner he sits down and watches football, football, football. If you were to say the house was on fire while he was watching TV he would say "That's nice."--Guy, 12.

*A dad is a person that thinks he knows everything but doesn't even understand simple new math.--Melissa, 10.
*Dad helps me through my doubts and fears.--Ruth, 11.

*Every week Dad gives me too little money. How am I supposed to live with inflation?--Kelly.
*Some dads give children everything except love, some give them nothing but love.

*My dad reminds me of an oak tree. He's big, solid, old, untidy and absolutely grand.--David.

Sentences imposed on trio

Sentences were pronounced Thursday for three defendants who entered guilty pleas in 222nd District Court.

A fourth defendant, Gary Olivas, 32, who was convicted of sexual assault on Sept. 15, was sentenced formally by Judge David Wesley Gulley.

Olivas was found guilty by a jury that also set punishment at 12 years in Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division. He also must pay a $1,200 fine.

Sentencing was delayed until a pre-sentencing report was turned in by the probation department.

Charged with burglary of a motor vehicle, Eugene Dominguez, 21, was given a five-year probated sentence, on his plea of guilty.

Also charged with burglary of a motor vehicle, Augustin Ramirez, 22, entered a guilty plea and received a five-year probated sentence.

Johnny Ortiz, 16, certified as an adult to face charges of aggravated sexual assault of a child, was sentenced to 10 years' probation after pleading guilty to the charge.

Coming in Sunday's Brand

With technology becoming more and more a part of our society, the need to train people in that technology is becoming more and more important.

At the same time, saving money and maximizing performance also needs to be considered.

In the Hereford Independent School District, both concerns were addressed last summer when trustees approved purchase of a Xerox DocuTech model 135, a high-tech printing system that not only handles all district printing -- freeing teachers to educate kids rather than hovering over the copier all day -- but also trains students for a future career in printing.

On Sunday, see how DocuTech works and how it is impacting the entire district.

Candidates continue lottery dispute

Bush claims Texans thought profits would go to schools

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - It's a sure bet Ann Richards and George W. Bush don't agree about the lottery.

In a new television commercial airing statewide, Republican Bush repeats his criticism that Texans were misled into thinking that lottery profits would be set aside for public schools.

"Most of us thought the lottery money was dedicated to our schools. But it wasn't," says his advertisement that hit the airwaves Thursday. The Democratic governor's aides deny misleading anyone and insist that Bush knows better.

"George W. Bush's public record shows a trail of half-truths and public deceptions," said Richards spokesman Rafe Greenlee. "He knows Ann Richards didn't favor dedicating the lottery to education, yet he continues to mislead people about it."

Texans voted overwhelmingly to legalize the lottery in a November 1991 referendum.

Through Sept. 15, 1994, the lottery has pumped $1.68 billion into the state's main bank account, the General Revenue Fund. Greenlee said about half the lottery money does go to schools.

The state spends nearly $15 billion on school aid every two years. During the legislative debate, opponents of tying schools to lottery profits argued that the game's proceeds fluctuate and aren't a dependable source of school revenue.

Richards' campaign distributed copies of a July 15 interview in which Bush said he didn't personally believe lottery money would be dedicated to schools when he voted to legalize the game.

Asked whether he had thought that, Bush replied, "No. I was slightly confused, but ... not really, not necessarily so."

Karen Hughes, a Bush spokeswoman, said that's not the point. Many Texas did believe the lottery and school funding were to be linked, she said.

Bush's staff pointed to a speech Richards gave on Aug. 4, 1991, when she discussed state budget problems and spending cuts.

"Some of the budget cuts are going to be painful and we are still going to need new money if we want Texas to have good schools. The choice is simple, I think. Either we have a huge tax bill or we approve a lottery. That's what it comes down to," Richards said.

"We know she's not for it (dedicating lottery money). But she misled the people into believing that it would be," Ms. Hughes argued. She noted that one recent poll found more than 60 percent of respondents saying they thought lottery revenue was to go to education.

Greenlee said the governor never proposed dedicating lottery profits during the Legislature's budget and school finance battles.

"At that point, we were talking about making sure the schools didn't close. The lottery does bring in revenue, which goes to the General Revenue Fund, which then helps pay for education," Greenlee said.

"But you don't make public education dependent on a game of chance. That's an idiotic prescription," he said.

While Bush knows lottery profits are too meager to fund all of public education, Ms. Hughes said he supports giving all lottery profits to schools now "because the people thought that's where it would go."

Competition changes railroads' image

By DAN BLAKE
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - After years of improving their reliability and cutting costs, railroads have turned themselves from relics of the past into successful modern-day competitors.

Big railroads like Union Pacific Corp. and Burlington Northern Inc. are elbowing each other in a merger frenzy aimed at stitching together ever larger and more efficient networks to take advantage of the boom times.

Union Pacific made one of the most dramatic moves in the industry's consolidation Wednesday with a hostile bid for Santa Fe Pacific Corp., which had already agreed to a buyout from Burlington Northern. On Thursday, Santa Fe and Burlington's boards said they would stick with their original plan.

Mergers announced this year would consolidate the 10 largest U.S. freight railroads to seven.

Burlington Northern said in a statement it thought Union Pacific's proposal would give it further dominance in western markets and won't pass muster with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Later in the day, Santa Fe's board said it believed the merger with Burlington Northern was better for shareholders despite the lower price, as well as being more likely to receive federal approval. Union Pacific said it was disappointed with the Santa Fe board's decision.

Union Pacific had earlier filed suit trying to force Santa Fe to open negotiations over the bid.

At Thursday's trading prices, Union Pacific's stock-swap offer worked out to about $3.2 billion. Burlington Northern's three-month-old bid valued Santa Fe at about $2.5 billion.

Growing demand for railroads to haul more goods farther has allowed the industry to raise prices and improve their profitability outlook. To meet the growing demand and make more money, railroads are looking to buy each other.

Freight railroad traffic has gained an average of 3.6 percent each year since 1987. So far this year, traffic is up 8 percent from the first nine months of 1993.

The possibility that merged railroads could gain a competitive edge forces others to look at linkups. The plan for Burlington Northern to buy Santa Fe would create the country's largest rail network, which would stretch from Canada to Mexico.

The companies said the North American Free Trade Agreement and the prospect of more shipments between the United States, Canada and Mexico made the deal more attractive.

Aside from the fight over Santa Fe,

Union Pacific is in the midst of buying the Chicago and North Western Railroad, and Kansas City Southern and Illinois Central have agreed to a deal.

Canadian Pacific Rail is trying to buy Canadian National's rail system in eastern Canada. Norfolk Southern was talking to Conrail about a buyout until Conrail backed away last week.

Tractor-trailers and airplanes were supposed to leave railroads as little more than a quaint example of the way things used to be. For years, the industry was living that expectation.

But railroads in recent years turned around a reputation for high costs and late deliveries. The biggest growth area for the industry has been carrying trucks full of cargo "piggyback" on their trains.

It is important because we all need to be involved in the church and its ministry. Without every member doing what they can or what they are called to do, we cannot have a vital ministry, not in the world, or in our community or even within this congregation. Hereford junior varsity downs Demons, 60-0

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford junior varsity football team had seven different players score touchdowns Thursday in a 60-0 pasting of Dumas in Whiteface Stadium.

John Emerson and Anthony Cervantez each scored two touchdowns for Hereford as many different players got turns at carrying the ball. A stout defensive effort and hard-playing second- and third-string players combined to let the Herd pile up the points without meaning to run up the score.

"I'm so proud of these young men," coach Craig Yenzer said.

"We've had a lot of adversity the last three weeks, but they stayed with us and kept working hard in practice. I can't say enough about every one of them. We've got a classy bunch of kids."

plunge. T.J. Robbins scored on a 25-yard run set up by Ricenbaw's 40-yard punt return. Emerson scored again on a two-yard run set up by his own 35-yard dash. The kick made it 60-0.

quarter—though Brian Thomas blocked the extra point.

Neither team scored in the second half. Late in the game, Frenship made a defensive stand, stopping a Hereford drive inside the 30-yard line.

Freshmen: The freshman teams played at Dumas. Hereford lost the A game 10-8 but won the B game 6-0. Fernando Ontiveros scored the lone touchdown of the B game on a 53-yard run. Henry Hernandez scored for the A team on a seven-yard run, and Tate Head ran for the two-point conversion.

Sophomores: The Hereford sophomore team played Frenship in the early game Thursday in Whiteface Stadium, but Frenship won 13-7.

Hereford's Stephen Cloud caught a 64-yard touchdown pass from Jace West in the first quarter, and Adan Tarin kicked the extra point. That made the score 7-7, but Frenship added a touchdown in the second

Break on through

Tarpley finally returns to Mavericks

DALLAS (AP) - Roy Tarpley has returned to Dallas and Mavericks owner Donald Carter is thrilled to welcome back his wayward star, even if there was a time the 7-footer didn't want to be here.

"I had no idea I'd come back to the Mavericks again. I really didn't," Tarpley said Thursday after signing a six-year contract with the team that stuck by him through the drug problems that led to his banishment in 1991.

"I thought I might come back and start anew somewhere else. But this is my home and, like Mr. Carter said, this is my team. I'm happy and I'm excited to be back here."

Dumas never came close to scoring. The Herd defense could have relaxed with such a big lead, but it didn't.

"The defense played real well, and they played a complete game for once," coach Ron Young said. "They didn't make any mistakes, and they played hard. I don't believe they ever crossed our 50-yard line."

Quarterback Joseph Artho started the scoring with a 12-yard scramble for a touchdown. A pass for two points failed. Amazingly, that was the only score in the first quarter.

Artho hit Tripp Robison with a six-yard scoring pass early in the second quarter, then hit Kip Smith for the two-point conversion.

Joe Ricenbaw ran five yards for the next TD, which was set up by his 30-yard run and a 25-yard pass reception by C.J. Kubacak. John Marty Galan kicked the extra point—the first of four for him in six tries.

Cervantez took a nicely set-up screen pass 44 yards for another touchdown, and the kick made it 28-0 at the half.

Dwayne Thomas started the second half with a 55-yard run to the two-yard line, and he ran the rest of the way for the score on the next play.

Cervantez then turned in the play of the night, breaking several tackles and dragging several Demons on a 25-yard TD run. The kick made the score 41-0.

Emerson scored on a one-yard

NCA spikers win

The Nazarene Christian Academy volleyball team beat Bible Heritage of Amarillo Thursday, winning two games 15-3 and 15-4.

Amanda Robbins served for five points in the first game, and Lyndi Carlile and Christine Chavez both served for four points in the second game. Christy Schumacher recorded three kills.

Colony-Grapevine tops prep schedule

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP)—The numbers for The Colony are impressive: a 5-0 record, 200 points scored, 15 points allowed.

That's the type of all-around team effort every coach strives for and it's exactly what Tommy Briggs' club will need tonight against No. 7 Grapevine.

Grapevine and The Colony are the only two undefeated teams in District 5-5A, which last year produced Class 5A's Division II champion Lewisville. The Farmers have struggled this season and are one of four 1-1 teams in 5-5A play.

"We know this is not the game that ends all games, but it gives the winner a good inside track at winning the district title and getting a playoff spot," Grapevine coach Mike Sneed said.

"The other part of it is that one of us is going to lose, so after three weeks, only one team will be 3-0 and every other team will have at least one loss."

Their game is one of the best matchups this weekend as teams begin positioning themselves for the stretch drive to the postseason.

Briggs expected his Colony team to be good this year, but he sounds a little surprised at just how good they've been.

"The first five games, things have fallen into place for us," Briggs said. "Every once in a while, you get a nice mix of players and coaches and it all clicks together."

Briggs credited a 32-member senior class for bringing leadership to the team, which is only in its third season of 5A.

The first two years The Colony was in 5A, it played Grapevine in non-district games. Now that they're district rivals, things should get even more interesting following Grapevine's 13-7 and 21-14 victories in the first two meetings.

"We're both pretty evenly matched, so it should be another good matchup," Sneed said.

Around the state, no ranked teams are facing each other, although another really good matchup is No. 5 Aldine MacArthur against Spring Westfield.

In the second weekend of the season, MacArthur was No. 1 and Westfield was No. 2. Westfield lost to Humble two weeks ago, then Humble tied MacArthur last week. MacArthur's tie allowed Abilene Cooper to take over 5A's top spot for the first time since 1979. The Cougars will celebrate the rise by taking the weekend off.

Second-ranked Austin Westlake plays Austin Travis, No. 3 Deer Park takes on Pasadena Rayburn, No. 4 Plano East faces Carrollton Turner, No. 6 Houston Cypress Creek plays Houston Cypress-Fairbanks and No. 8 Arlington Lamar will be at Mansfield.

Newly ranked No. 9 North Mesquite takes on North Garland, which is coming off a 601-yard rushing game, and A&M Consolidated returns to the poll at No. 10 and travels to Conroe McCullough.

Class 4A's top-ranked Stephenville plays Granbury and No. 2 Waxahachie comes off an idle week to try rattling a good defense in Everman.

La Marque coach Alan Weddell goes against his alma mater as the No. 3 Cougars travel to Brazosport.

Fourth-ranked Sulphur Springs will be at Mount Pleasant, No. 5 Gregory-Portland plays Beeville Jones, No. 6 Sherman takes on Wichita Falls and No. 7 Austin Reagan faces Austin Lanier.

Eighth-ranked Bay City should no problem with Victoria Stroman, who last weekend lost 61-6 to Class 3A's top-ranked Cuero; new No. 9 Denison plays Burkburnett and No. 10 Corpus Christi Calallen takes on Corpus Christi King.

Patriots, Raiders to challenge limits of Foxboro scoreboard

By The Associated Press
 Get out the calculator, the abacus and anything else to help you count. It should be bombs away in Foxboro on Sunday.

The New England Patriots, averaging 28 points and nearly 420 yards a game, play the Los Angeles Raiders, who have the most impressive set of speed receivers in the NFL. This one could be like a tennis match, with nearly as many balls flying through the air and almost as many points.

"We're still a vertical team" that throws deep, Raiders coach Art Shell said. "You look at the Patriots. They're trying to throw deep. You have to try to stretch the defense."

Both teams can do just that. The Patriots (3-2), long a doormat, are rising in the second year of Bill Parcells' coaching regime. They are not doing it with powerful running and a stingy defense, always trademarks for Parcells.

They are doing it with Drew Bledsoe, who has four 300-yard passing games and leads the NFL in yards (1,751) and is second in touchdowns (11). Tight end Ben Coates leads the AFC with 35 catches and five TD receptions. His 528 yards are second in conference.

Wide receivers Vincent Brisby and Michael Timpson have combined for 47 catches, 689 yards and five TDs.

"This guy is the best quarterback we've seen all year," said Shell, whose team already has played against Steve Young, John Elway, Rick Mirer and AFC passing leader Stan Humphries. "This guy sees the open receiver and gets it to him in a hurry."

The Raiders can get down the field in a hurry, although they've generally been on a treadmill in a 1-3 start. They've done almost all of their moving through the air, but the fleet unit of Tim Brown, James Jett, Alexander Wright and Rocket Ismail hasn't been outstanding.

Wright, who starts, has just two catches. Jett has caught only five balls, Ismail 13 and Brown 22. Ismail has averaged 15.1 yards per catch, the same as Coates, who is much slower.

"We're just not playing with a lot of intensity on game day," Brown said. "We always wait until we get down or in an adverse situation and then we decide we want to play."

With AFC West frontrunners San Diego and Kansas City playing each other, a loss for the Raiders would be especially damaging, dropping them way behind either the Chargers or Chiefs. For New England, a victory could catapult it into a tie for the AFC East lead - if Miami loses at Buffalo.

Also Sunday, it will be Indianapolis at the New York Jets; the Los Angeles Rams at Green Bay; New Orleans at Chicago; San Francisco at Detroit; Tampa Bay at Atlanta; Arizona at Dallas; Denver at Seattle; and Washington at Philadelphia. Idol this weekend are Cincinnati, Cleveland, Houston and Pittsburgh.

On Monday night, Minnesota is at the New York Giants.

The Chargers have lost every regular-season meeting with the Chiefs in the 1990s. But San Diego did win the most crucial game, in the 1992 playoffs.

Six of the last eight regular-season games have been decided by four points or less.

"We managed to make a play or two in each of those games, with the exception of (the playoff game), that enabled us to prevail," Chiefs coach Marty Schottenheimer said.

Host San Diego, the league's only unbeaten club, already is 3-0 in the division. Oddly, the Chiefs have played only NFC West teams, going 3-1.

The Dolphins could take a stranglehold on the AFC East race if things work out right. But coach Don Shula, fresh from an historic victory over his son Dave and the Cincinnati Bengals, isn't thinking so far ahead.

"They're still the team to beat until someone beats them," Shula said of the Bills.

Sweet potato is nutritious

How sweet it is—the sweet potato that is, for folks concerned about good nutrition, good taste and low fat.

—Also called a yam, the sweet potato may indeed be sweet-tasting, thanks to a special enzyme that converts starches into sugars, but it is high on the list of low fat foods.

—Three and a half ounces of sweet potato contain less than one gram of fat, about two grams of protein and 24 grams of carbohydrate and some fiber. The sweet potato is also rich in Vitamin A, Vitamin C and beta carotene.

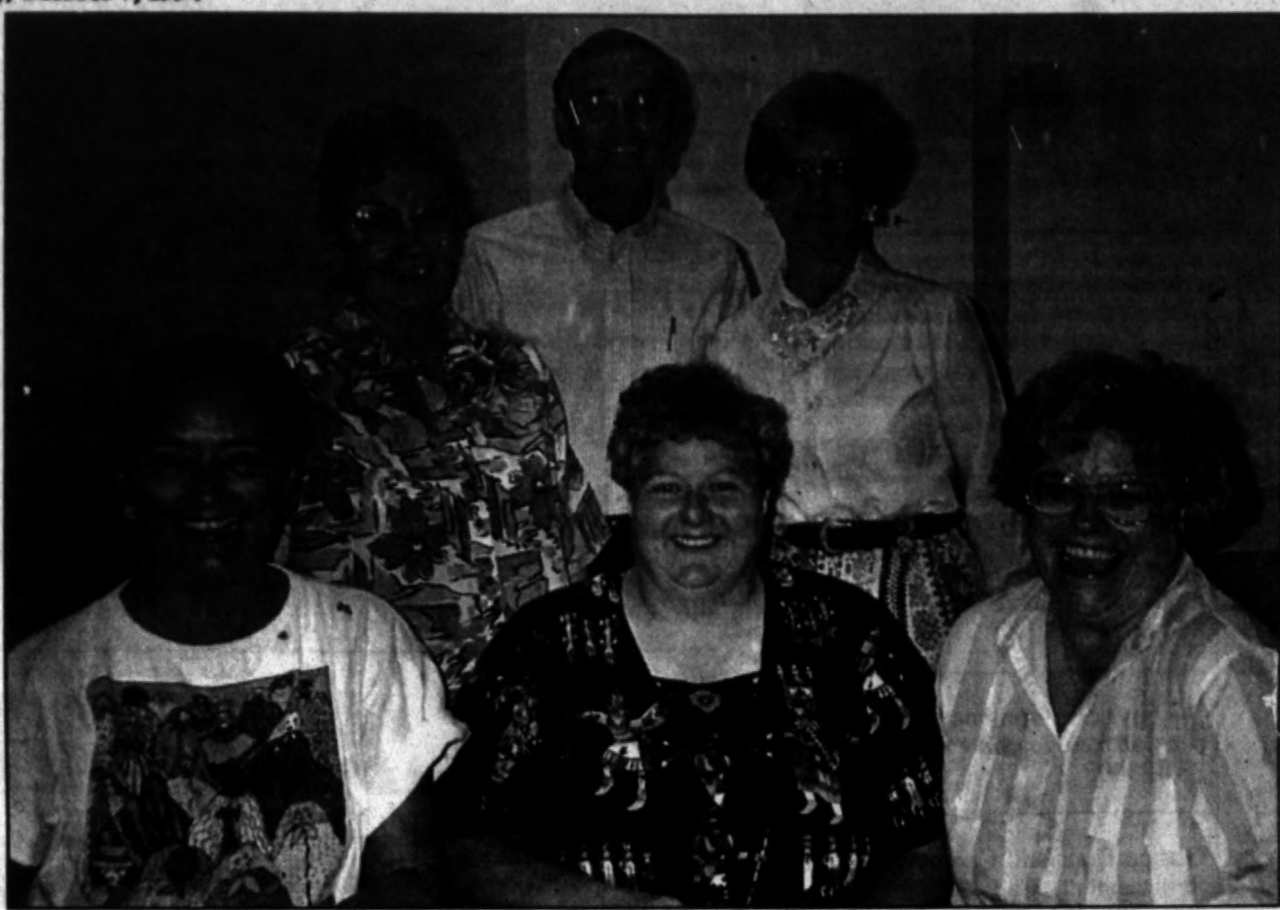

—You can serve sweet potatoes baked, broiled or even in muffins and bread.

—Look for sweet potatoes that are firm and free of blemishes. Never refrigerate them before cooking.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It looks like hell has warmed back up again.

The Eagles cancelled their "Hell Freezes Over" tour - their first in 14 years - because guitarist Glenn Frey needs immediate surgery for a "chronic gastro-intestinal disorder," publicist Larry Solters said Monday.

Solters' statement didn't elaborate on Frey's illness. The Eagles had 17 tour dates remaining in the United States and Canada, plus concerts in Australia and Japan. The band plans to reschedule the concerts for early next year.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a message for "B.A. in Mid-America," the woman who wrote and asked if she should marry "Rod." She was having second thoughts because the guy was judgmental and opinionated and he had no friends.

I, too, had a "Rod" in my life, but unfortunately, I went a bit further than she did. I married the man and had his child.

Three years was all I could stand. I finally picked myself up (from the doormat position) and moved on. Now I'm just another one of the people he runs down, insults and bad-mouths.

The reason the Rods in this world have no social life is quite simple. No one wants to be around them. The day you have to apologize for a man and explain to people that YOU are not like him, that is the day you should hand him his hat.

Men like Rod are like bass drums—they make a lot of noise, but they're empty inside.—happy Now in Osterville, Mass.

around. Here's another letter on the same subject:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for "B.A. in Mid-America" who wanted to know if she should marry "Rod," the opinionated, judgmental, offensive jerk who had no friends but treated her wonderfully.

Tell B.A. as soon as she is married to this man, he will pick her family to pieces, and then he will go after her—belittling and criticizing her every word and deed. She will never be able to please him no matter how hard she tries—even if she abandons her family and cuts herself off from old friends.

No matter how good he is to her now, or how much love he professes, he will think he owns her. This man is dangerously jealous and intensely insecure. Tell her to drop the guy like a hot brick and run for her freedom while she can.—Stuck in Boston

DEAR STUCK: Well said. Thanks for the reinforcement.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've told your readers how to get rid of warts. Now will you please tell them what they can do to get the itch out of mosquito bites? The secret is to rub the bite as soon as possible with a freshly cut onion. This takes the swelling right down, and believe me, it works.—Itches in Ohio

DEAR OHIO: It's been so cold in Chicago, there haven't been any mosquitoes, but I hope some of my Southern readers will try it and let me know if it works.

Hints from Heloise

CALENDAR CLIP

Dear Heloise: Here is a solution for the problem of large (or small) calendars that won't hang because of frailty of the paper.

Simply put a large-size paper clip over the holes. The clip, not the holes, will bear the weight of the calendar. I have my calendars hanging on a large straight pin. — B. Marshall, Clinton, Md.

PEN PROTECTOR

Dear Heloise: Gone are the days when I hunt through my purse for a pen or pencil. A plastic toothbrush holder like the ones used for traveling now holds my writing utensils very neatly. It's easy to locate and eliminates messy pen marks in my purse. — Bobbe Dannenbrink
